

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

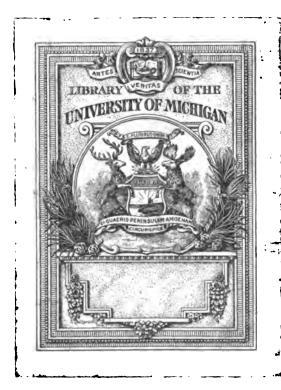

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

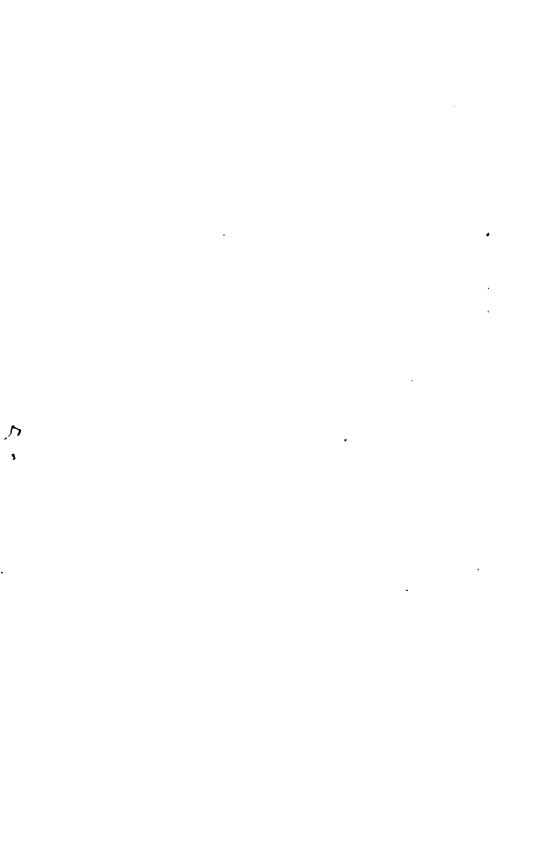

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at http://books.google.com/

A CONCORDANCE

99518

THE POETICAL WORKS

OF

WILLIAM COWPER

ВY

JOHN

"Nulla dies sine linea." TULLY.

LONDON

SAMPSON LOW, MARSTON, SEARLE, & RIVINGTON

St. Bunstan's Fouse

FETTER LANE, FLEET STREET, E.C.

1887

[All rights reserved]

828 C8760 N 52

LONDON:
PRINTED BY GILBERT AND EIVINGTON, LIMITED,
BT. JOHN'S HOUSE, CLERKENWELL ROAD.

DEDICATED

TO MY DAUGHTERS.

PREFACE.

THIS CONCORDANCE is compiled from the Poetical Works of William Cowper in the Aldine Edition of the British Poets. It does not include translations, except the more important ones from Vincent Bourne, and only a few of the Minor Poems, including "To Mary" and "The Castaway."

EXPLANATION OF ABBREVIATIONS.

······

A.C.	Report of an Adjudged Case.	M.D.	The Morning Dream.
A.S.	Alexander Selkirk.	M.F.	Mutual Forbearance.
A.T.	Anti-Thelypthora.	Miss —	Lines to Miss —
A.T. ii	On Martin Madan's Answer to same.	M.P.	On receipt of My Mother's Picture.
A.T. iii	Impromptuon same.	Mor.	The Moralizer corrected.
A.T. iv	On a review of same.	Mrs. M.	On Mrs. Montagn's Feather Hangings.
В.	Boadices.	N.	To the Rev. Mr. Newton.
B.B.	Biograph Britannica.	N.A.	The Needless Alarm.
Beau	On a spaniel—called Beau.	N.C.	The Negro's Complaint.
B.R.	Beau's reply.	N.G.	The Nightingale and Glowworm.
c.	Catharina.	N.Y.G.	The Poet's New Year's Gift.
Cast.	The Castaway.	0. i	Ode to Apollo.
Ch.	Charity.	0. ii	,, to Peace.
Comp. i	A Comparison.	P.	The Poet, the Oyster, and Sensitive
Comp. i	i Comparison addressed to a Young Lady.	·	Plant.
Con.	Conversation.	P.A.	Pity for Poor Africans.
C. G .	The Cock Fighter's Garland.	Pat.	The Modern Patriot.
Dr.	Dr. Darwin—Lines to.	P.B.	The Pine Apple and the Bee.
D.W.	The Dog and the Water Lily.	P.E.	Progress of Error.
E . i	Epistle to Lady Austen.	P.F.	The Poplar Field.
E. ii	" to a Protestant Lady.	P.T.	Pairing Time Anticipated.
$m{E}$. iii	" to Joseph Hill.	Q.V.	On the Queen's Visit to London.
E. iv	,, to Robert Lloyd.	R.	Retirement.
E_{P} . i	Epitaph on Hamilton.	R.C.	The Retired Cat.
Ep. ii	., on a Hare.	R.G.	On the Loss of the Royal George.
Ep. iii	" on Dr. Johnson.	R.H.	Reflection on Horace, Book ii., Ode x.
Ex.	Expostulation.	8.	The Shrubbery.
F.	Friendship.	8. i	Sonnet to Henry Cowper.
F.A.	The Four Ages.	S. ii	" a Young Lady.
F.B.	The Faithful Bird.	St. i	Stanzas for 1787.
F.M.	The Flatting Mill.	St. ii	,, ,, 1788.
G.	On a Goldfinch starved to death in his cage.	St. iii	,, ,, 1789.
Gr.	Gratitude.	St. iv	,, ,, 1 790 .
H .	Hope.	St. v	,, ,, 1792.
Her.	Heroism.	St. vi	,, ,, 1798.
H.F.	Human Frailty.	T. T. i	Truth.
J.G.	John Gilpin.	T. ii	Task, Book i. The Sofa.
J. P.	Judgment of the Poets.		,, ,, ii. The Time-piece.
J.T. L.R.	In Memory of John Thornton.	T. iii	,, ,, iii. The Garden.
L.W.	The Lily and the Rose.		" " iv. The Winter Evening.
L.W. M.	Love of the World reproved.	T. v T. vi	,, ,, v. The Winter Morning Walk.
м. М. i	To Mary.	T. V1	on the death of Mrs. Thrown extents B-11
м . ii	On the burning of Lord Mansfield's Library.	1.5.	On the death of Mrs. Throgmorton's Bullfinch.
.ж. п М.В.	On the same. On a Mischievous Bull.	Th.	On Promotion of Lord Thurlow.
DE .D.	On a misonievous Buil.	176.	on Fromotion of Lord Intriow.

Tir. Tirocinium; or, Review of Schools.	v.	To the Rev. W. C. Unwin.
Trans. i The Glowworm.	V.	The Valediction.
Trans. ii The Jackdaw.	W.N.	The Winter Nosegay.
Trans. iii The Cricket.	Y.D	The Yearly Distress.
Trans. iv The Parrot.	Y.O.	Yardley Oak.
Trans. H. Horace, Book ii., Ode x.	1789.	Annus Memorabilis 1789.
T.T. Table Talk.	į.

CONCORDANCE.

ABANDON.

And forced to a. what she bravely sought T. v 368
ABANDONED.

Cruel, a., glorying in her shame! T. iii 68
A. as unworthy of our love T. iii 731
A. and, which still I more regret T. iv 692

ABANDONING.

Lost by a. her own relief R. 758

ABASED.

I shrink a., and yet aspire to thee R. 94

ABATE.

Still there is room for pity to a. Ch. 198 In part a., that happiness were small Na. 112 But difficulties soon a. Tran. iv 40 In human bosoms, quench it, or a. T. iv 747

ABATED.

That fire a. which impels rash youth Con. 641

ABBÉ.

Ere long some bowing, smirking, smart a. P.E. 385
ABBEY.

Where mouldering a. walls o'erhang the glade H. 351

ABDICATE.
But Christ as soon would a. his own T. 77

ABDICATED.

And hoped to seize his a. helm Es. 577

ABDOMINOUS.

Gorgonius sits, a. and wan P.E. 217

ABEL.

Since A. worshipped, or the world began H. 644

ABHOR.

Through fear, not love; and Heaven a. the fee Ch. 46
A. constraint, and dares not feign a zeal Con. 713
Hast thou (a sacrilege his soul a.) Ew. 346
His soul a. a mercenary thought H. 332
And him as deeply who a. it not H. 333
A. the craft he boasted of before H. 522
You would a. to do me wrong N.G. 17
A. each other. Mountains interposed T. ii 17
And all that I a. thou freckled fair T. iii 839
And he a. the jest by which he shines T. v 617

ABHORRED.

The lie that flatters I a. the most T.T. 88

Perish, hopeless and a. B. 15 A. the sacrifice, and cursed the priest P.E. 340 Perish the virtue, as it ought, a. T. 503 Few transient years, won from the abyss a. T. i 286 The most remote from his a. resort T. vi 398

ABHORRENCE.

And spits a. in the Christian's face H. 662 Heaven turns from with a. and disdain T. 72 Her own a., and as much your soorn T. 510 With just a. of so mean a part Tir. 455

ARIDE

No Friendship will a. the test F. 37 Thee we reject, unable to a. T. v 879 Nor heed what guests there enter and a. Tir. 888

ABILITY.

And wiser men's a, pretence Con. 628 They had indeed a, to smooth T. v 692

ABJECT.

At thought of her forlorn and a. state T. i 659 It is the a. property of most T. v 246

ABJURE.

Shall I a. thee not to court thy shame? Ex. 655

ABLE.

'Tis clear that they were always $a.\ P.T.\ 3$ With gazing, when they see an $a.\ man\ T.\ v\ 256$

ARLER

Should turn to writers of an a. sort R. 716 Is Christ the a. teacher, or the schools? T. ii 534 Of a. votaries to cleanse the stain T.T. 635

ABLUTION.

A Jordan for the a. of our woes Con. 566

ABODE.

Has made the new-born creature her a. Con. 754
And marks the bounds of our a. E. i 38
No traveller ever reached that blest a. E. ii 11
To fill with fragrance his a. above H. 122
The world, no longer thy a., not thee J.T. 10
Following, that led me to my own a. Na. 128
Within her master's snug a. R.C. 34
Where, in his own oracular a. T. 389
My visit still, but never mine a. T. i 251
And clammy, of his dark a. have bred T. i 439
Down falls the venerable pile, the a. T. iii 767
And harmless pleasures in the thronged a. T. iv 782
Ye horrid towers, the a. of broken hearts T. v 384
Precipitate the loathed a. of man T. vi 376
Who, when she formed, designed theem an a. T. vi 580
Wheresoe'er be thine a. Tran. iii 3

ABOUND.

Nor even shrubs a. A Tale 2
Where covert guile and artifice a. Ch. 285
Streams neverflow in vain; where streams a. Comp. i 9
Happy the nation where such men a. Ex. 653
Earn if you want; if you a., impart P.E. 253
Poisoning the waters where their swarms a. P.E. 481

The path to bliss a. with many a snare T. 301 That life holds out to all, should most a. T. i 752 Therefore in towns and cities they a. Tir. 519 Are such men rare? perhaps they would a. Tir. 700 Where most nectareous sweets a. 1789, 20

ABOUNDED.

The dead in whom that good a, most J. T. 4

ABOUNDING.

Than she supplies from her a. store Ch. 102

ABRAHAM.

For whom God heard his A. plead in vain T. iii 848
ABRIDGE.

A. him of his just and native rights T. v 436Tyranny sends the chain that must a. T.T. 474

ABROAD.

He walked a., o'ertaken in the rain Con. 277 Lest he should trespass, begged to go a. E. iii 23 To sound his horn, and publish it a. H. 311 Now let the bright reverse be known a. H. 710 The trumpet sounds, your legions swarm a. Her. 53 And when he next doth ride a. J. G. 251 And fanged with brass the demons are a. Na. 182 Obsequious when a., though proud at home R. 440 That field of promise, how it flings a. T. 453 We have no slaves at home :—then why a. T. ii 37 Pours she not all her choicest fruits a. T. ii 85 Pure, from so foul a pool, to shine a. T. ii 798 Dressed to his taste, inviting him a. T. iii 358 And drenched conservatory breathes a. T. iii 498 Each opening blossom, freely breathes a. T. iii 622 A., and desolating public life T. iii 683 Raging a., and the rough wind, endear T. iv 309 Now goes the nightly thief prowling a. T. iv 432 And drop the night-bolt !-ruffians are a. T. iv 568 The great proficiency he made a. T. iv 654 When man was multiplied and spread a. T. v 221 He looks a. into the varied field T. v 738 That calls the unwonted villager a. T. vi 300 And Æthiopia spreads a. the hand T. vi 812 Snuffs up the wind and flings himself a. T.T. 669 Though a. they are frozen and dead W.N. 8

ABROGATE.

And a., as roundly as she may T. i 742

ABRUPT.

A. and horrid as the tempest roars R. 533

ABSENCE.

A. of occupation is not rest R. 623 That such short a. may endear it more T. i 517 Against unkindness, a., and neglect T. vi 627 Of love by a. chilled into respect Tir. 576

ABSENT.

Shall mourn her a. lord, for he is gone A.T. 104 An a. friend's fidelity and love Con. 308 Tender idolater of a. charms R. 220 Or charged with amorous sighs of a. swain T. iv 20 Graced with the name of a long a. friend V. 40

ABSOLUTE.

Sits a. on his unshaken throne H. 474
Should be a despot a., and boast T. v 311
Vast was his empire, a. his power T. vi 357
The hallowed bench from a. contempt Tir. 431
From total night, and a. disgrace T. T. 665

ABSOLUTION.

His worthless a. all the prize Ex. 525

ABSORBED.

A. in that immensity I see R. 93Were tasked to his full strength, a. and lost T. iv 301

ABSORBS.

And dark oblivion zoon a. them all B.R. 8 Whate'er this world produces, it a. Ch. 564 And vanity a. at length E. i 81

ABSTAIN.

Good Mussulman, a. from pork L.W. 2 Cry in his startled ear, "a. from sin!" P.E. 38 He that a., and he alone, does right P.E. 585

ABSTINENCE.

Hollow-eyed a., and lean Despair H. 58 The precept that enjoins him a. P.E. 236 His works, his a., his zeal allowed T. 91 Than a., and beggary, and lice T. 124

ABSURD.

Quite as a., though not so light, as he Con. 296 And half the night? fanatic and a. Con. 578 As once a. in all discerning eyes Con. 806 Of all that was a., profane, impure Con. 888 Their learning legendary, false, a. Ex. 127 When some hypothesis a. and vain P.E. 444 Less impious than a., and owing more T. vi 656

ABSURDEST.

'Tis grave Philosophy's a. dream H. 65

ABSURDITY.

By sparks a. strikes out of Pride Con. 148

ABSURDLY.

A., not his office, but himself T. ii 548

ABUNDANCE.

Begets its likeness. Rank a. breeds T. i 686 Laughs with a.; and the land, once lean T. vi 766 ABUNDANT.

That good diffused may more a. grow Con. 443 The a. harvest, recompense divine H. 770 After long drought, when rains a. fall N.A. 59 It thrives in misery, and a. grows T. 125 Traps to catch youth are most a. too Tir. 522

ABUSE.

Ranks its a. among the foulest deeds Ch. 209
To teach good manners, and to curb a. Con. 161
They dare not wait the riotous a. Con. 261
The fruitful parent of a. and wrong Con. 461
That thankless waste and wild a. destroy Ex. 679
Time wasted, violated laws, a. F.A. 14
Man may improve the crisis, or a. P.E. 26
There stand, and justify the foul a. P.E. 144
Still hurtful in the a., or by the excess P.E. 228
But if to wrong the judgment and a. P.E. 304
If clemency revolted by a. P.E. 596
With what superior skill we can a. T. i. 637
Will reckon with us roundly for the a. T. vi 606
Where fashion shall not sanctify a. T. vi 852
Would deem it no a., or waste of pains Tir. 627
The a. of her sacred charge, the press T.T. 633
If Acrimony, Slander, and A. T.T. 762

ABUSED.

The insidious witch that had his wits a. A.T. 176
But Grace a. brings forth the foulest deeds Ex. 213
And life a., and not to be suborned H. 224
By all whom sentiment has not a. Tir. 538
See wealth a., and dignities misplaced Tir. 815

ABUSERS.

And profligate a. of a world T. iii 695

ABYSS.

Deep in the a. of Silver-end E. i 42
On steady wing sails through the immense a. H. 163
Fast anchored in the deep a. of space R. 84
Few transient years, won from the a. abhorred T. i 286
Of elevation down into the a. T. ii 93
That seems half quenched in the immense a. T. iii 216
Profounder, in the fathomless a. T. v 594
That show like beacons in the blue a. T. v 839

ACADEMIC.

With a. dignity devout H. 106 Or a. tutors, teaching youths N.A. 79 Of a. fame (howe'er deserved) T. iii 15

ACADEMIES.

And small a. win all the praise? Tir. 504

ACADEMUS.

Of A. is this false or true? T. ii 533

ACCENT.

Hear the sweet a. of his tuneful voice R. 771 And colleges, untaught; sells a., tone T. ii 359 ACCEPT.

A. the tribute of a stranger's pen Ch. 291
A. it only, and the boon is yours H. 327
Forgive their evil, and a. their good T. 582
Adore him? Will he hear, a. and bless? T. ii 515

ACCEPTANCE.

No works shall find a., in that day Ch. 557

ACCESS.

lts destined goal of difficult a. T. vi. 277

ACCESSIBLE.

A., and prayer prevail, she will T.T. 407

ACCOMMODATE.

To furnish and a. a world Ch. 124 Than when employed to a. the fair T. i 73

ACCOMPANIED.

Stillness, a. with sounds so soft T. vi 83

ACCOMPLISHED.

And when a. in her wayward school Con. 465 In chains of error our a. minds H. 484 With all the charms of an a. taste R. 510 And luxury the a. sofs lost T. i 88 A more a. world's chief glory now T. i 724 He sighs, departs, and leaves the a. plan T. iii 785 And tongue a. in the fulsome cant T. vi 289 Scenes of a. bliss! which who can see T. vi 760 Thus, half a. ere he yet began Tir. 234

ACCOMPLISHING.

The sun a. his early march N.A. 29

ACCOMPLISHMENTS.

Though all a., all knowledge meet Ch. 601 A. have taken virtue's place P.E. 417 Say, what a. at school acquired Tir. 577

ACCORD.

The wrangler, rather than a. with you Con. 111 Thus harmony and family a. T. vi 379

ACCOSTED.

And thus a, him J, G, 164

ACCOUNT.

A. them implements of mischief still Ch. 556 But all shall give a. of every wrong Con. 25 Are all upon your own a. P. 48

You think him humble—God a. him proud T. 92 She half an angel in her own a. T. 149
The good he scorned, all carried to a. T. 546
Dissolve in pity, and a. the learn'd T. iii 183
That, while it gives us worth in God's a. T. iii 283
When He shall call his debtors to a. T. iii 365
O happy! and, in my a., denied T. iv 357
Then most deserving in their own a. T. v 261
A. it music; that it summons some T. v 409
Thee I a. still happy, and the chief T. v 460
And just in his a., why bird and beast T. vi 389
A. him an encumbrance on the state T. vi 958
A. him no just mark for idle wit Tir. 726
The world a. an honourable man Tir. 738
That we a. most durable below! Y.O. 71

ACCOUNTABLE.

A., and God, some future day T. vi 605

ACCOUTRED.

One was a. when the cry began A.T. 135

ACCRUE.

Know, your arrears with every hour a. Con. 491

ACCURSED.

This does Profusion, and the a. cause T. ii 697

ACCUSE.

'Tis senseless arrogance to a. F. 52

ACCUSTOMED.

Ears long a. to the pleasing lute Ex. 68
And held a. conference with my heart F.A. 9
The man to solitude a. long N.A. 55
None, a. to the sound St. iv 7
From his a. perch. Hard-faring race! T. i 564
He from the stack carves out the a. load T. v 33

ACHE.

My heart of thoughts that made it a. Ep. ii 35 His head and his heart are both likely to a. F.M. 15 Shall make your scribbling fingers a. J.P. 39 With present ills his heart must a. N. 11 [Tir. 801 Whose hearts will a., once told what ills may reach 'Tis not, as heads that never a. suppose R. 323

ACHIEVE

Yet time at length (what will not time a.?) Her. 29 Has business; feels himself engaged to a. T. iii 377 Trivial, and worthy of disdain, a. T. v 699

ACHIEVED.

This process a., it is doomed to sustain F.M. 9 A. a labour which had, far and wide Y.O. 108

ACHIEVEMENT.

The a. of Art may amuse C. 37 Beyond the a. of successful flight T. i 692 Of old a., and despair of new T. ii 254 Or what a. of immortal fame T. vi 933 In little bosoms such a. strike Tir. 232.

ACHING.

With a. heart, and discontented looks R. 471 And many an a. wish, your beamy fires T. v 838 His crimes and follies with an a. eye Tir. 62

ACKNOWLEDGE.

Till none but beasts a. him a man Con. 426 The grand effect; a. with joy T. iii. 227 Unless thy conscious heart a. none Tir. 580

ACKNOWLEDGED.

From worn-out follies, now a. such F.A. 3 Must stand a., while the world shall stand T. ii 334 A., others may admire it too T. iii 704 To earth's a. Sovereign, finds at once T. v 803

ACQUAINT.

A. thyself with God, if thou wouldst taste T. v 779

ACQUAINTANCE.

The new a. soon became a guest Con. 531

ACQUAINTED.

A. with the woes that fear or shame Con. 495 Too well a. with their smiles, slides off T. i 511

ACQUIESCED.

I heard and a.; then to and fro F.A. 18

ACQUIESCENCE.

He seeks, and a. of his soul T. v 597

ACQUIRE.

There form connections, but a. no friend T. ii 634
They may a. that confident address Tir. 349
Heroic song from thy free touch a. T.T. 292

ACQUIRED.

Add to such erudition, thus a. T. ii 765
With wholesome learning, yet a. with ease Tw. 118
Protend to all that parts have e'er a. V. 15
Say, what accomplishments, at school a. Tw. 577

ACQUISITION.

An a. rather rare F. 31

ACQUITTED.

Here see, a. of all vain pretence Ch. 412

ACRES.

Those naked a. to a sheltering grove T. iii 773 His hungry a. stinks, and is no use T. iv. 503

[A.T. 53]

Their a, temper turns, as soon as stirred Ch. 503 With a, salts, his very heart athirst T. i 448

ACRIMONY.

If A., Slander, and Abuse T.T. 762

Some a. upon this prudent plan F. 181

ACT.

Could a. extortion, and the worst of crimes Ex. 148

A. but an honest and a faithful part Ex. 556

And promised they should a. the wild-goose part A. without aim, think little, and feel less H. 8
And though in a. unwearied, secret still J.T. 37
But reveries (for human minds will a.) R. 637
Must move and a. for him alone R.C. 114
One a., that from a thankful heart proceeds T. 223
Put so much of his heart into his a. T. ii 249
Then a. in Nature's office, brings to pass T. iii 542
The stress of a continual a., the pain T. vi 208
To give such a. and utterance as they may T. vi 339
Vicious in a., in temper savage—fierce T. vi 487
A necessary a. incurs no blame T. vi 573
And righteous limitation of its a. T. vi 596
To show the world how Garrick did not a. T. vi 677
A. with a force, and kindles with a zeal T.T. 482

ACTION.

Some a. by the delicate mind The Rose 14

Unpurified by an authentic a. Y.O. 12

Brings every thought, word, a. to the test P.E. 34
And grace his a. ere the curtain fall R. 34
By ceaseless a. all that is subsists T. i 367
Of a. and reaction. He has found T. ii 193
Whose a. say that they respect themselves T. ii 377
His every nerve in a. and at stretch T. iii 90

His every a., and imbrutes the man T. iv 461 His speech, his form, his a. full of grace T.T. 346

ACTIVE.

The rest, alert and a., as became A.T. 133
We feel thy force still a. at this hour Ch. 272
Tis always a. on the side of Truth Con. 602
Sordid as a., ignorant as loud R. 22
Post away swiftly to more a. scenes R. 273
His a. years with indolent repose R. 618
Not such the alert and a. Measure life T. i 396

Let a. Laws apply the needful curb T.T. 314

ACTIVITY.

Supplies with warm a. and force T.T. 220 ACTOR.

Outscolds the ranting a. on the stage T. iv 45 The self-complacent a., when he views T. iv 200 Though the chief a. died upon the stage T.T. 341 Next, busy a. on a meaner stage V. 27

ACUTE.
Our sensibilities are so a. Con. 351

Save that his scent is less a than theirs P.E. 85 Some, more a., and more industrious still T. iii 155

ADAGIO.

The a. and andante it demands T. ii 361

ADAM.
Slept in A.? and in those from him F.A. 24
Is that A.'s offspring may be saved T. 183

Of thickest shades like A. after taste Y.O. 15

ADAMANTINE.

Turns to the stroke his a. scales T. ii 324

ADD.

And graced with all Philosophy can a. Ch. 342 Can Nature a. a charm, or Art confer Ex. 5 [H. 430 And a. Right Reverend to Smug's honoured name A. nothing now to the degraded dead H. 269

A. joy to duty, makes me glad to pay M.P. 70
And a. a smile to what was sweet before R. 10
Or bind them faster on, and a. still more? T. 18

Or bind them faster on, and a. still more? T. 1%; A. to such erudition, thus acquired T. ii 765 [T.344 Prayer would a. faith, and faith would fix them there

And a. two-thirds of the remaining half T. iii 131 I shall not a. myself to such a chase T. iv. 786 And a. his rapture to the general praise T. v. 890 A. tenfold bitterness to death by pangs T. vi 395

A. tenroid bitterness to death by pangs T. vi 395 Works magic wonders, a. a brighter hue Tir. 23 A., as he can, his tributary mite T.T. 112 [585] A. too, that, thus estranged, thou canst obtain Tir. And if he a., a blessing shared by few V. 89

ADDED.

The comfort of a few poor, a. days H. 729
The baby seems to smile with a. charms P.E. 519
Compensating his loss with a. hours T. iv. 134
Come then, and, a. to thy many crowns T. vi 902:

ADDICTED [T. vi 555]

ADDICTED.

Was much a. to inquire R.C. 3

ADDISON. In front of these came A. In him T.T. 642

ADDLED. Themselves were chilled, their eggs were a. P.T. 55

ADDRESS.

Hearing a lawyer, grave in his a. Con. 69

When called to a. myself to you E. i 28

That I presume to a. the Muse E. iv 12

For men of their appearance and a. P.E. 388

How shall I speak thee, or thy power a. P.E. 460 Refines his speech and fashions his a. R. 240 Genteel in figure, easy in a. T. 203
With such a. from themes of sad import T. ii 300
And tender in a., as well becomes T. ii 406
Pathetic exhortation; and to a. T. ii 469
A. himself who will to the pursuit T. iv 784
From nature's bounty—that humane a. T. v 469
To manage with a., to seize with power T.T. 358
And the tear that is wiped with a little a. Rose 19
They may acquire that confident a. Tir. 349
He had not made his own with more a. Tir. 582
And his a., if not quite French in ease, Tir. 670

ADDRESSED.

Nor he alone a. the wayward fair A.T. 34
With verse a. to me? B.R. 28
The lady thus a. her spouse M.F. 1
A ram, the ewes and wethers, sad, a. N.A. 82
But, "Thus far and no farther," when a. P.E. 600
The turtle thus a. her mate The Doves 7
Ye knew at least, by constant proofs a. Tir. 273
Your smooth eulogium, to our crown a. T.T. 91

ADEPT.

And beaus, a. in everything profound H. 347 Made just the a. that you designed your son Tir. 237

ADEQUATE.

Is more than a. to all I seek Tir. 386

ADHERING.

By congregated loads a. close T. iv. 344

ADIEU

Entreated "Help!" or cried—"A." Cast. 42
"A., dear Sir! lest you should lose it now" Con. 282
"1." Vinosa cries, ere yet he sips H. 357
"1. to all morality, if Grace H. 359
A long, long sigh, and wept a last a.! M.P. 31
A. and farewells are a sound unknown M.P. 33
Earth, seas, and sun a.! St. iii 10

ADJOINING.

A. close to Kilwick's echoing wood N.A. 3

I bid you both a long and last a. V. 5

ADJUBATIONS.

With a. every word impress Con. 70

ADJUST.

And periwig nicely a. Gr. 24 To a. the fragrant charge of a short tube T. \vee 55

ADJUSTED.

Ice upon ice, the well a. parts T. v 146

ADMINISTER.

To a., to guard, to adorn the state T. v 342

ADMINISTERED.

"Whate'er is best a. is best" Tir. 508

ADMIRABLY.

With hesitation a. slow Con. 123

ADMIRAL.

When a., extolled for standing still T.T. 192 of some flagged a.; and tortuous arms Y.O. 96

ADMIRATION.

While A., feeding at the eye T. i 157 And be our a. and our praise "T. v 259

ADMIRE.

Such often, like the tube they so a. Con. 249 He soon replied,—"I do a." J.G. 17

"Did you a. my lamp," quoth he N.G. 15
A. his learning, and almost adore P.E. 507
A. the work, but slips the lesson by R. 214
But Nature's works far lovelier. I a. T. i 421
None more a., the painter's magic skill T. i 422
Dote not too much, nor spoil what ye a. T. ii 493
What we a. we praise, and when we praise T. iii 702
Acknowledged, others may a. it too T. iii 704
Much that I love, and more that I a. T. iii 838
Man views it and a., but rests content T. v 791
How would the world a.! but speaks it less T. vi 128
The deeds that men a. as half divine T.T. 3
A wish to copy what he must a. Tir. 649

ADMIRED.

Needs only to be seen to be a. Ex. 493
For its beauty a. and its use Gr. 26
Your Hope shall stand unblamed, perhaps a. H. 616
See the sage hermit, by mankind a. T. 87
If more a. than she L.R. 2 [T. ii 434
Though learned with labour, and though much a.
Less worthy of applause, though more a. T. v 127
Priests have invented, and the world a. Tir. 185
Be great, be feared, be envied, be a. V. 16

ADMIRER

With smiles alluring her a., man H. 40 A., and be destined to divide T. iii 726

ADMIRING

Then each might show, to his a. friends Con. 199 With fierce and envious yet a. eyes Ex. 204 Have risen at length on your a. eyes H. 492 A., terrified, the novel strain N.A. 49 Her slighted works to your a. view R. 543 Engaged my wonder, and a. still T. iv 715 And still a., with regret supposed T. iv 716

ADMIT.

A. it true, the consequence is clear Con. 165
The Southern sash a. too strong a light Con. 331
And all the world a. them F. 162
This only spares no lust, a. no plea H. 645
The grave a. no cure for guilt or sin St. ii 30
A. me to a share; the guiltless eye T. i 333
May claim this merit still—that she a. T. iii 102
Dire disappointment that a. no cure T. iii 557
The heart's insanity a. no cure T. vi 523
Its squeezed contents, and more than it a. T. vi 671
And the world cheerfully a. the claim T.T. 715

ADMITTED.

Pleasure a. in undue degree P.E. 269 A. freely, may afford their aid T. iii 425 His works. A. once to his embrace T. v 780 And, if a. at thy board he sit Tir. 725

ADMONISH

Alike a. not to roam S. 22 Must prompt him, and a. how to catch T. iii 507

ADMONISHED.

A., scorn the caution and the friend E. ii 17 But thus a., we can walk erect T. ii 593

ADMONITION.

A thousand awful a. scorned St. ii 27 Which a. can alone disperse Tir. 600

ADO

I marry without more a. P.T. 36

ADOLESCENCE.

Of a., or a firmer age Con. 46

ADOLESCENT.

Detain their a. charge too long Tir. 219

ADOPT.

Once more I would a. the graver style Ch. 489 A. his own, 'tis equally in vain Con. 109 To a. the chymist's golden dream F. 143 [785] With all that bigotry a., inspired T. 88 Too proud to a. the thoughts of one unknown Tir. Because that world a. it. If it bear T. vi 982

ADOPTED.

Friends, not a. with a schoolboy's haste R. 725

ADOPTING. A. their mistake, profoundly thinks T. v 270

ADORATION.

In language soft as A. breathes! T. ii 495

ADORE. "This triple realm a. thee; thou art come" Ch. 270 Admire his learning, and almost a. P.E. 507 A. a creature, and devout in vain R. 227
A. him? Will he hear, accept. and bless Will he hear, accept, and bless? T. ii 515 With truth from heaven, created thing a. Y.O. 7

ADORED Thy parliaments a., on bended knees Ex. 538 Ye devotees to your a. employ P.E. 75 A, and praised in all that thou hast wrought R. 92 Deserves to be beloved, but not a. R. 272Thou art not known where Pleasure is a. T. iii 51 A. through fear, strong only to destroy T. v 445

ADORING. Thy name a., and then preach thee man! T. vi 887

ADORN. All consecrated to adorn the fair A.T. 16 When scarlet fruits the russet hedge a. A.T. 72 And unless you a, it, a nausea follows F.M. 24 One Georgian star a. the skies Q.V. 75 A. his intellects as well as shelves T. 423

To a, the sofa with eulogium due T, iii 12 To administer, to guard, to a. the state T. v 342 Not so. The virtue still a, our age T.T. 340 A. the polished periods as they fall T.T. 766 A., though differing in its kind U. 15

ADORNED. Two nymphs a. with every grace D.W. 7 With helmet heads, and dragon-scales a. R. 69 Not sumptuously a, nor needing aid T. iv 251 Her head, a. with lappets pinned aloft T. iv 540 And prop the pile they but a, before T, v 116 'Tis not the wreath that once a. thy brow T.T. 370

ADORNING. "A. May, that peevish maid" J.P. 35

ADRIFT. If self-exalting claims be turned a. H. 530

Turn him a. upon a rolling sea Tir. 868

So language in the mouths of the a. Con. 15

ADULTERY. A., neighing at his neighbour's door Ex. 39

ADULTRESS.

Than to release the a, from her bond T, iii 63 The a.! what a theme for angry verse! T. iii 64

ADUST.

A. with stripes told out for every crime T. 83

ADVANCE.

'Tis hard if all is false that I a. Con. 95 Proud to a. it all they can Mrs. M. 14 Exert their influence, and a. their cause P.E. 463 Where it a. far into the deep T. i 619 A. it into notice, that its worth T. iii 703 That may a., but cannot hinder, thine T. vi 955 And, felt alike by each, a. both Tir. 485

ADVANCED. On all the wings of chivalry a. A.T. 149That flight in circles urged a, them nought N.A. 52 Will stand a. a step above the rest R. 722 His predecessor's coat a. to wear T. 145

The globe and its concerns, I seem a. T. iv 95 ADVANCEMENT

Forbids the a, of the soul he binds R, 236 And, as thou wouldst the a. of thine heir Tir. 708

ADVANCING.

A. Fashion to the post of Truth T. i 744 In Honour's field a, his firm foot T.T. 16

Placed with a. at his listening ear A.T. 181 Honesty shines with great a. there H. 402 No mean a. from a kindred cause T. i 387 It may enjoy the a, of the worth T, iii 771Receives a. from his noiseless hours T. vi 944

ADVENT.

The dawn of thy last a., long desired T. vi 866 ADVENTURES.

With all the a, of his early life Tir, 325

ADVENTUROUS. And after poising her a. wings R. 671

Escaped with pain from that a. flight T, i 4 The expedience of a less a, course Tir. 804

ADVERSE. Let nothing a., nothing unforeseen Ch. 131 Is a. Providence, when pondered well Ex. 310 Providence a. in events like these? Ex. 313 Just then, by a. fate impressed T.B. 43 Of a. fortune's power Trans. H. 3

ADVERTISE.

To a. in verse a public pest T. iv 501 An art contrived to a. a joke T.T. 539 And though I would not a. them yet Tir. 915 ADVERTISED.

Then a., and auctioneered away T. iii 756 ADVICE.

Though sage a. of friends the most sincere R. 249 Could give a., could censure or commend R. 291

ADVISE. But whom do I a,? the fashion-led Tir. 779

ADVISER.

Than to neglect a good a. P.T. 61

ADVOCATE.

Well spoken, a. of sin and shame Con. 587

ÆSOP.

Æ., and Phædrus, and the rest? Why not Tir. 540 ÆTHEREAL.

E. journeys, submarine exploits T. iv 85

ÆTHIOPIA.

And E, spreads abroad the hand T, vi 812

ÆTNA'S.

There was a time when Æ.'s silent fire Her. 1 Behold in A.'s emblematic fires Her. 45 But A. of the suffering world ye sway? Her. 78

AFFABLE.

A., humble, diffident, and mild P.E. 537 Gentle, and a., and full of grace T. vi 500

AFFAIRS

Who makes no bustle with his soul's a. Con. 580 With proof, that we, and our a. E. i 57 By which Heaven rules the mixed a. of man H. 16 Assembled on a. of love P.T. 14 An aspect stern on man's a. P.T. 48 But ask the noble drudge in state a. R. 407 The smooth and equal course of his a. T. ii 173

AFFECT.

If neither horse nor groom a. the squire Con. 419 Nor can he much a. the neighbouring peer R. 441 Though many boast thy favours, and a. T. iii 294 Or nymphs responsive, equally a. T. iv 21

AFFECTATION.

Of idle mirth and a. coy S. ii 10 All a. 'Tis my perfect scorn T. ii 417

AFFECTION.

That guides and governs our a. E. i 35 Enfeeble his a. F. 156 Skins may differ, but a. N.C. 15. A. lights a brighter flame U. 27 Farewell, false hearts! whose best a. fail V. 1 Proof of an old a. still alive V. 24

AFFECTIONATE.

A., a mother lost so long M.P. 14
May feel it too; a. in look T. ii 405
Patient, a., of high command Tir. 602

AFFECTS.

A. indeed a most humane concern Ch. 495 Done to the nobler part a. it long Tir. 491

AFFIRMANCE.

They swear it, till a. breeds a doubt Con. 66

AFFLICTION.

Gives even a. a grace A.S. 55
What their a. was, and begged a share Con. 524
That scorns a. mercifully meant B. 760
To bid A.'s eye no longer stream S. ii 12
Galled by a.'s heavy chain St. v 11

AFFLUENT.

And dint of genius, to an a. lot T.T. 677

AFFORD.

A. them place of rest? A Tale 26 Or all that this earth can a. A.S. 28 Some succour yet they could a. Cast. 25 A. a plea allowable, or just Con. 47 And with it every joy it can a. H. 679 Or spendthrift's prodigal excess a. J.T. 16 For the sweets your cane a. N.C. 24 The richest earthly boon his hands a. R. 271 That could a. retirement, or could not? R. 488 Can British Paradise no scenes a. P.E. 257 Dearly obtains the refuge it a. T. i 238 Where the hazels a. him a screen from the heat By its true worth, the comforts it a. T. i 397 May feed excesses she can ill a, T, ii 650 With pleasure more than even their fruits a. T. iii 410 Admitted freely, may a. their aid T. iii 425 Friendly to vital motion, may a. T. iii 509 A. the smaller minstrels no supply T. v 84And they that can a. the expense of more Tir. 694

AFFORDING.

Thus war a. field for the display T. v 238

AFFRIGHT.

One falls—the rest, wide scattered with a. St. ii 23

AFFRONT.

Will not a. me, and no other can Con. 194
Yet please not, but a. you to your face Con. 228
That air of insolence a. your God Con. 487
That, while it courts, a. and does you wrong R. 550
Retorts the a. against the Crown of Pride T. 502
To quell the faction that a. the throne T.T. 67
Courage, ungraced by these, a. the skies T.T. 378

AFFRONTED.

Not more a. by avowed neglect T. 73

AFLOAT.

I dreamed that on ocean a. M.D. 5Sweet moralist! a. on life's rough sea R.H. 3

AFRAID.

Were not a. to plough the brine A Tale 71 So man, the moth, is not a., it seems T. vi 211

AFRICA.

For A.'s once loved, benighted shore Ch. 241
From A.'s sorrowful shore M.D. 32
A.'s coast I left forlorn N.C. 2
A.'s sons should undergo N.C. 37
By our blood in A. wasted N.C. 41
In A.'s torrid clime, or India's fiercest heat T.T. 297

AFTER-GAMES.

To him that wears it. What can a. T. ii 762

Sad waste! for which no a. atones St. ii 29

AGE.

Might learn from the wisdom of a. A.S. 23 They court the notice of a future a. B.B. 4 That tells his name, his worth, his a. Cast. 51 Nor a. nor infancy could find thee there Ch. 48 Of adolescence, or a firmer a. Con. 46 [Ch. 171 The beasts are chartered—neither a. nor force But when the breath of a. commits the fault Con. 49 Credulous infancy, or a. as weak Con. 225 Well-what are a., and the lapse of time Con. 547 Vigorous in a. as in the flush of youth Con. 601 Could fetch from records of an earlier a. Con. 615 Yet a., by long experience well informed Con. 639 No-shame upon a self-disgracing a. Con. 735 The praise of names for a. obsolete Con. 828 And call up evidence from every a. Ex. 162 The fruits of a., less fair, are yet more sound Con. But a., in spite of weakness and of pain Ex. 251For a. safe beneath his sheltering hand Ex. 563Their names, alas! in vain reproach an a. Ex. 660 By repetition palled, by a. obtuse H. 22 Would a, in thee resign his wintry reign H. 33 That only future a. can restore Her. 40 As youth or a, persuades, and neither true H. 70 But down to latest a., from earliest youth H. 232 And bore the pelting scorn of half an a. H. 557 The scoff of withered a. and beardless youth H. 743 Two nymphs, both nearly of an a. J.P. 1 [i 132 Some youthful grace that a. would gladly keep T. But a. yet to come shall mourn M. i 11 Proof against sickness and old a. M.F. 50And still to be so to my latest a. M.P. 69 Could I believe, that winds for a. pent N.A. 85 From thoughtless youth to ruminating a. P.E. 24 Lay his old a, upon the lap of ease R, 12 And at the root of a. St. i 24 Than those of a., thy forchead wrapped in clouds To a, in a world of pain St. v 9 To a., where he goes St. v 10 Conscious of $a_{\cdot,\cdot}$ she recollects her youth $T_{\cdot,\cdot}$ 153 He, praised perhaps for a. yet to come T. 333

Those barbarous a, past, succeeded next T, i 16 Even a. itself seems privileged in them T. i 403 For second childhood; and devote old a. T. ii 637 In wintry a. to feel no chill M. 42 Was quenched in rheums of a., his voice unstrung In Christian charity (good-natured a.!) T. iii 95 To Moses, was mistaken in its a. T. iii 154 Impaired by a., his unrelenting hand T. iii 416 That toiling a. have but just matured T. iii 450 Are wedded thus, like beauty to old a. T. iii 660 Improvement too, the idol of the a. T. iii 764 And lilies for the brows of faded a. T. iv 80 To a., if he might St. v 8E'en misses, at whose a, their mothers were T, iv Grant it :—I still must envy them an a. T. iv 529 I marvelled much that at so ripe an a. T. iv 713 That monarchs have supplied, from a. to a. $T. \vee 386$ But the a, of virtuous politics is past T. v 493 A distant a. asks where the fabric stood T. v 535 1. of hopeless misery. Future death T. v. 607That reared us. At a thoughtless a., allured T. vi 38 A. after a., than to arrest his course? T. vi 131 Slow circling a. are as transient days T. vi 227 That a. or injury has hollowed deep T. vi 311 [790 Holds its due course, nor fears the frosts of a. T. vi Exclaimed, "that me, the lullables of a." T. vi 506 Or can, the more than Homer of his a. ? T. vi 647 More golden than that a. of fabled gold T. vi 996 While Alfred's name the father of his a. T.T. 105 Not so. The virtue still adorns our a. T.T. 340 A. elapsed ere Homer's lamp appeared T.T. 556 And a. ere the Mantuan Swan was heard T.T. 557 To give a Milton birth, asked a. more T.T. 559 Was lumber in an a. so void of taste T.T. 619 Of rank obscenity, debauched their a. T.T. 631 With all the skill of a. Th. 8 Which heaven has heard for a., have an end T. vi Shall obeer our latest a. The Doves 12 With truths poured down from every distant a. A book (to please us at a tender a. Tir. 121 Their childhood pleased them at a riper a. Tir. 148 And such an a. as ours balks no expense Tir. 257 We feel it e'en in a., and at our latest day Tir. 317 As, hid from a. past, God now displays Tir. 638 Health's last farewell, a staff to thine old a. Tir. 878 That would reclaim a vicious a. U. 6 Amusement-monger of a trifling a. V. 28 Relics of a.! Could a mind, imbued Y.O. 6 When tempests could not. At thy firmest a. Y.O. 93 But since, although well qualified by a. Y.O. 137

"Princess!" if our a. eyes B. 9 He, still more a_i , feels the shocks Ep_i ii 41 Muse, hang this harp upon you a. beech Ex. 718 One comfort yet shall cheer thine a. heart Tir. 897 Lives not, a. though he be Tran. iii 31

AGENCY. An a. divine, to make him know T. vi 130

AGENTS.

A. of his will to use? N.C. 32

 ${f AGGLOMERATED}.$

The a. pile, his frame may front T. iii 472 AGGRIEVED.

From your a. Bow-wow B.R. 24

AGHAST.

E'en Leeuwenhoek himself would stand a. P.E. 485

AGILE. And lightly, shaking it with a. hand T. iii 478

AGITATE.

Began to a. the matter P.T. 16

Winds from all quarters a, the air T, i 373 The wisest heads might a. in vain Tir. 130 The force that a. not unimpaired Y.O. 83

AGITATION.

Delight in a., yet sustain Y.O. 82

Not oft so well a.) Dr. 2

AGOG.

Six precious souls, and all a. J.G. 39

AGONIES.

Whom now despairing a, destroy H. 172 A fever's $a_{\cdot \cdot}$, and fed on drugs $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ i 448 And a, of human and of brute T, ii 105 With eloquence that a. inspire T. iii 330

AGONIZED. Bled, grosned, and a., and died in vain P.E. 624

AGREE.

First, for a thought—since all a. E. iv 35 Each man of common sense a.) E. iv 68 Your faith and mine substantially a. H. 398 And all, impatient of dry land, a. R. 523 And heart that cannot rest a.! S. 4

Give saintship, then all Europe must a. T. 111

Where parties are a., retired the scene A.T. 89 A. But would you sell or slay your horse T.T. 301 AGRIPPA.

As bold as, in A.'s presence, Paul Ex. 445 AGUISH.

And a. east, till time shall have tranformed T. iii 772

When, snatched from all effectual a. Cast. 63 This genial intercourse, and mutual a. Ch. 93 Let supposition lend her a. once more Ch. 383 And He that gives conception a. the birth Con. 134 A beam that a., but never grieves the sight Con. GO In a. of our defective sight E. i 62 To listen is to lend him a. F. 101

And in her eye, and by her a. Mrs. M. 49 In a. of her design Q.V. 34 Emblems of health and heavenly a. Q.V. 47 And hold the world indebted to your a. R. 665

Yet never ask his a.! St. vi 20

That grave and learned clerks should need such a. His prayer preferred to saints that cannot a. T. & Benevolence, and peace, and mutual a. T. ii 48 Its bergamot, or a. the indebted eye T. ii 452 Admitted freely, may afford their a. T. iii 425 Must lend its a. to illustrate all their charms T.iii 591 Uninjured, but expect the upholding a. T. iii 658 Not sumptuously adorned, nor needing a. T. iv 251

In a. of our defects. In some are found T. vi 611

Kind Providence attends with gracious a. T.T. 249 AIDED.

Of distribution; liberal of their a. T. iv 413 Need no such a. as Superstition lends T. vi 510

For a. both by ear and scent T.B. 49 AIDING.

A. a dubious and deficient sight Ch. 329 And she the works of Phœbus a. Mrs. M. 55 In a. helpless indigence, in works T. vi 964 Where, stillness a. study, and his mind Tir. 773

AILING.

Touch but his nature in its a. part Tir. 161

AILS. [272 What a. thee, restless as the waves that roar E_{-} .

ATM.

(Charity chosen as my theme and a.) Ch. 295 Pure in her a., and in her temper mild Ch. 422 Such as our motive is our a. must be Ch. 567 The mark at which my juster a. I take Con. 105 Transformed to blessings, miss their cruel a. E. ii 38 Candid and just, with no false a. in view Ex. 648 Act without a., think little, and feel less H. 8 His happiness, her dear, her only a. H. 64 So void of all utility or a. H. 88 The inquirer's a., that remedy, is Hope H. 114 His a. was mischief, and his zeal pretence H. 564 Glory your a., but justice your pretence Her. 44 When, exercise and air my only a. N.A. 31Who studiously make peace their a. N.G. 36 Whose hand is feeble, or his a. untrue P.E. 571 Calls him away from selfish ends and a. R. 19 Or shoot the careless with a surer a. R. 218 Her smile his a., all higher a. farewell! R. 246 Sick of a thousand disappointed a.) R. 366 Your useful labours, and important a. R. 664 Me poetry (or rather notes that a.) R. 801 And the foe's unerring a. St. iv 12 Pants for it, a. at it, enters it, and dies T. 6 Are his sole a., and all his glory now T. iv 658 And figure of the man, his secret a. T. vi 618 And a them at the shield of truth again T. vi 875 They take perhaps a well directed a. T.T. 206 Prompt his endeavour, and engage his a. T.T. 747 At first he a. at what he hears Tran. iv 19

AIMED.

But yet successful, being a. at him Con. 540 [591 Which, a. at him, have pierced the offended skies H.

AIMING.

For ever a. at the world's esteem Con. 367

AIR.

Soft a. and gentle heavings of the wave Ch. 127 Snuffs up the morning a., forgets the rein Ch. 175 As ever dressed a bank, or scented summer a.Ch. 259 He hides behind a magisterial a. Ch. 493 Bowed at the close with all his graceful a. Con. 78 That a. of insolence affronts your God Con. 487 And asked them, with a kind, engaging a. Con. 523 Divest the rougher sex of female a. Con. 843 The noon was shady, and soft a. D.W. 1That cleaves the yielding a. unheard E. i 88 U balmy gales of soul-reviving a. E. ii 27 Yet He was gentle as soft summer a, Ex, 133 Enjoyed the open a. F.B. 3 Time was when I was free as a. G. 1 The screaming nations, hovering in mid a. H. 353 Soft a. and genial moisture feed and cheer H. 489 To storm the citadels they build in a. H. 626 Long as I draw ethereal a. Miss - 67 The sober cordial of sweet a. Mor. 10 To range the fields and treat their lungs with a. T. When, exercise and a. my only aim N.A. 31 Upborne into the viewless a. O. i 13 ∫iii 539 From flower to flower, and even the breathing a. T. Hark! how it floats upon the dewy a.! P.E. 63A simpering countenance, and a trifling a. P.E. 208 Or whether clearer skies and softer a. P.E. 409 Up-spouted by a whale in a. Q.V. 19 [T. i 589 And breathing wholesome a., and wandering much Once prone on earth, now buoyant upon a. R. 66 Frowning in storms, or breathing gentle a. R. 194 The suitor's a, indeed he soon improves R. 237 Soft a., nocturnal vigils, and day dreams R. 260 And sends the patient into purer a. R. 282

The breathings of the lightest a, that blows R. 530 Where neither cold might come, nor a. R.C. 81Would give a barbarous a, to British song T, 102 And sails with lappet head and mincing a. T. 139 Fearless of humid a. and gathering rains T. 212 And so two citizens who take the a. T. i 79 Respiring freely the fresh a., that makes T. i 138 Winds from all quarters agitate the a. T. i 378 The a. salubrious of her lofty hills T. i 428 In catching smoke and feeding upon a. R. 38 Receive our a., that moment they are free T. ii 41 And mortal nuisance into all the a. T. ii 98 Then, with an a, most gracefully performed T, ii 447 As move derision, or by foppish a. T. ii 562 And sheltered sofa, while the nitrous a. T. iii 32 I cannot analyze the a., nor catch T. iii 214 As the sun peeps, and vernal a. breathe mild T. iii At measured distances, that a. and sun T. iii 424 If fanned by balmy and nutritious a. T. iii 524 The maid who views with pensive a. P.B. 23 But are not wholesome a., though unperfumed T. iii Sermons, and city feasts, and favourite a. T. iv 84 Of the infirm, is wholesome a, to thee T, iv 365 He steps right onward, martial in his a. T. iv 640 Prove it. A breath of unadulterate a. T. iv 750 While a impregnated with incense play M.P. 94 Streams far behind him, scenting all the a. T. v 57 With melting a., or martial, brisk, or grave T. vi 3 And guiltless of offence, they range the a. T. vi 575 If all we find possessing earth, see, a. Tir. 91 [687 The mulberry-tree was hymn'd with dulcet a. T. vi But how? resides such virtue in that a. Tir. 373 The pedagogue, with self-complacent a. Tir. 527 And not at last evaporate in a. Tir. 772 Place me where winter breathes his keenest a. T.T. Must find a colder soil and bleaker a. Tir. 851 Perhaps some bonny Caledonian a. T.T. 534 With artless a. and concerts of her own T.T. 697 In praise harmonious the first a, he drew Y.O. 155 And strangers to the a. of courts 1789, 62

AIRY.

Who long had marked her a. lodge A Fable 25 A. del Castro was as bold a knight A.T. 1 They sport like wanton doves in a. rings A.T. 32 Proves after all a wind-gun's a. charge Con. 274 As erst with a. self-conceit R.C. 100 They bound, and a., o'er the sunny glade St. ii 22 How a. and how light the graceful arch T. i 341 From reveries so a., from the toil T. iii 188 Thither he wings his a. flight Tran. ii 14 [iv 525 Vain wish! those days were never; a. dreams T.

AKIN

A. to rapture, when the bauble finds T. vi 276 Formed as if a. to thee Tran. iii 18

ALACRITY.

We never feel the a. and joy T.T. 242.

A-LA-MORT.

What makes some sick, and others à. Con. 292

ALARM.

A simpering countenance, and a trifling a. P.E. 206
Or whether clearer skies and softer a. P.E. 409
Up-spouted by a whale in a. Q.V. 19

[T. i589
And breathing wholesome a., and wandering much tonce prone on earth, now buoyant upon a. R. 66
Frowning in storms, or breathing gentle a. R. 194
The suitor's a. indeed he soon improves R. 237
Soft a., nocturnal vigils, and day dreams R. 260
And sends the patient into purer a. R. 282
Breathes clouds of dust, and callsit country a. R. 486
Contingence might a. him, and disturb T. ii 172

Grieves, but a. me not. I mourn the pride T. iv 102 Of sounding an a. assaults these doors T. iv 146 With all the prettiness of feign'd a. T. vi 319

No braver chief could A. boast Cast. 7 Nor ever ship left A.'s coast Cast. 9 Thou, as a gallant bark from A.'s coast M.P. 88

In A.'s happy isle. The lumber stood T. i 58 The sons of A.; fearing each to lose T. iii 599 [v 517 O Queen of A., queen of isles! 1789, 56 And hewed them link from link. Then A.'s sons T.

ALCOVE.

This china that decks the a. Gr. 33 Look where he comes; in this embowered a. R. 283 The summit gained, behold the proud a. T. i 278 Sacred to neatness and repose, the a. T. vi 571

ALDERMAN.

An A. of Cripplegate contrived T. i 61 ALDERS.

Those a. quivering to the breeze S. 6

ALERT. The rest, a. and active, as became A.T. 133

Not such the a. and active. Measure life T. i 396 Grow on the gamester's elbows, and the a. T. iii 761 Let magistrates a. perform their parts T.T. 311

ALEXIS.

Thyrsis, A., or whatever name R. 247 ALFRED.

On such a stool immortal A. sat T. i 22

While A.'s name, the father of his age T.T. 105

ALGEBRA. The scales are false, or a. a lie Con. 22

ALIENATED.

Thou well deservest an a. son Tir. 579

ALIGHT.

The clumsy swains a. Y.D. 22 ALIGHTING.

My Lord, a. at his usual place R. 585 A. in far distant fields, finds out T. ii 109

A., turns the key in her own door T. ii 653 Softly a. upon all below T. iv 328

To make a blaze—that's roasting him a. Con. 334 Far more a, than other men E, i 10 Of critics now a, or long since dead H, 426 To strip them off, 'tis being flayed a. P.E. 583 Men that if now a., would sit content T. ii 541 Man praises man. The rabble, all a. T. vi 694

And keeps a, his fierce but noble fires T.T. 223 Proof of an old affection still a. V. 24 Finds thee not less a. to her sweet force Y.O. 133

No voice divine the storm a. Cast. 61

ALL-BESTOWING.

ALLAYED.

Had not his Maker's a, hand Con. 429

ALL-CONQUERING.

Then the proud eagles of a. Rome Ex. 209

ALL-CREATING.

Why did a. Nature? N.C. 17 Of a. energy and might T. v 554

ALL-DEVOURING.

In a. flame M. 22

ALLEGIANCE.

Had they maintained a, firm and sure Ez. 207

ALLEY.

This moss-grown a. musing, slow S. 18 Or tinkle in 'Change A., to amuse T.T. 186

ALLIANCE.

Of close a, to the Eternal Mind J.T. 44

ALLIED

Might feel themselves a. to all the race Ch. 22 ALLOT.

Hour after hour delightfully a. R. 373

ALLOTMENT.

It is the a, of the skies E, i 33

ALLOTTED.

Nature, employed in her a. place H. 145

ALLOW. And, such as storms a. Cast. 26

All men of common sense a. E. iv 69

ALLOWABLE.

Affords a plea a., or just Con. 47

ALLOWANCE.

Where vice has such a., that her shifts T. iii 106

ALLOWED. Though common sense, a. a casting voice Con. 663 I could be well content, a. the use F.A. 1

But yet was not a. J.G. 31 His works, his abstinence, his zeal a. T. 91

She yet a. herself that boy behind T. 142 A. short time for play, and none for sloth Tir. 484

ALL-PURIFYING. Cleansed in thine own a, blood T. 581

ALL-QUICKENING.

The soul, whose sight a. grace renews Ch. 395

And hide past folly from a. eyes? Ex. 405

The scrutiny of those a. eyes T. 271
Proofs of the wisdom of the a. mind Tir. 94

Or one whom blood a. Beau. 14 Who labour hard to a, and draw E, i 23

ALLURED.

A. by my report: but sure no less T. iii 699 That reared us. At a thoughtless age, a. T. vi 38 ALLUREMENTS.

Hourly a. on his passions press P.E. 61

ALLURING.

With smiles a. her admirer, man H. 40

Her natural a. Miss - 90

ALMIGHTY.

Ought at the view of an A. power Con. 658 So rich an interest in A. love? Ex. 166 Themselves secured beneath the A. wing Ex. 189

Insensible of truth's a. charms H. 655 "Die then, if power A. save you not P.E. 589 And though the A. Maker has throughout T. iv 731

That form, the labour of A. skill Tir. 7

'Tis power a. bids him shine Tran. i 23

ALMS.

To lull the painful malady with a. Ch. 448
No charity but a. aught values she Ch. 459
My prayers and a., imperfect and defiled T. 577
They live, and live without extorted a. T. iv 403

ALOFT.

Within that cavity a. A Tale 37 Pleased she beheld a. portrayed Q.V. 45 Her head, adorned with lappets pinned a. T. iv 540 Repays their labour more; and perched a. T. v 91 As if an eagle flew a., and then T.T. 552

ALONE.

Tis Providence a. secures A Fable 30 I must finish my journey a. A.S. 10 Nor he a. addressed the wayward fair A.T. 34 If John marries Mary, and Mary a. A.T. iii 1 'Tis Nature a. that we love C. 36 Catharina a. can rejoice C. 42 A. could rescue them Cast. 34 [208 We perished, each a. Cast. 64 He from whose hands a. all power proceeds Ch. But Charity not feigned intends a. Ch. 449 The founder of that name a. inspires Ch. 600 "Sir!" I believe it on that ground a. Con. 233 Save from the subjects of that work a. Con. 740 That great defect would cost him, not a. Con. 763 The path of sorrow, and that path a. E. ii 9 By letting poetry a. E. iv 10 The scenes to which not youth a. resorts Ex. 24 Or, waking at the call of lust a. Ex. 101 'Twas theirs a. to dive into the plan Ex. 235 The busy trifler dreams himself a. Ex. 322 And while he ruled thee by the sword a. Ex. 490 Held by the tenure of his will a. Ex. 673 And truth a., where'er my life be cast Ex. 732 An architect requires a. F. 164 You must not live a. F.B. 27 But still the imputed tints are those a. H. 73 Seems, as it is, the fountain whence a. H. 708 Not kindred minds a. are called to employ H. 738 That Hope which can a. exclude despair H. 751 But ours a. can ne'er prevail H.F. 21 The loss was his a. M. i 10 I will obey, not willingly a. M.P. 15 The Heaven that thou a. canst make? O. ii 14 If the matter depended a. upon me P.A. 37 Nor these a., whose pleasures less refined P.E. 57 'Tis not a. the grape's enticing juice P.E. 271 And toil to polish its rough coat a. P.E. 420 He that abstains, and he a. does right P.E. 585 Choose not a. a proper mate P.T. 64 By right of worth, not blood a. Q.V. 3 Save love of George a. Q.V. 64 And calls a creature formed for God a. R. 17 Nor these a. prefer a life recluse R. 169 Such as its symptoms can a. express R. 288 A sacred art! to which a. life owes R. 749 Tis love like his that can a, defeat R. 781 Must move and act for him a. R.C. 114 Thou art not voice a., but hast beside S. i 9 These a., so often heard St. iv 30 He lives who lives to God, a., St. vi 1 And worships Chance a.! St. vi 28 [201 The livelong night: nor these a., whose notes T. Such lunacy is ignorance a. T. 450 Brings not a. the more conspicuous part T. 561 And well-tried virtues, could a. inspire T. i 148 Nor rural sights a., but rural sounds T. i 181 Nor does the chisel occupy a. T. i 705 That can a. make sweet the bitter draught T. i 751 Of his own works, his dreadful part a. T. ii 82

Knots of worthy solution, which a. T. ii 520 or taste a., and well-contrived display T. iii 603 My charmer is not mine a.; my sweets T. iii 719 Blown in its native bed; 'tis there a. T. iv 660 Tis Liberty a. that gives the flower T. v 446 Is work for him that made him. He a. T. v 697 The death he had deserved, and died a. T. vi 556 Thou who a. art worthy! It was thine T. vi 857 When flowers a. I knew would little please T. vi 1010 Though want of due restraint a. have bred Tir. 533 Unenvied there, he may sustain a. Tir. 535 Which admonition can a. disperse Tir. 600 Wise for himself and his few friends a. Tir. 675 He deems it hard to vegetate a. Tir. 724 His head a. remained to tell T.B. 65 I fear lest thee a. they seize The Doves 23 By silent magnanimity a. T.T. 68 Though discontent a. can find out where T.T. 197 Subserviency his praise, and that a. T.T. 361 One man a., the father of us all Y.O. 144 By sufferers like herself a. 1789, 49

ALOOF.

God stood not, though he seemed to stand a. Ch. 59 Bid nations leagued against thee stand a. Ex. 565 Fancy may stand a. from the design H. 672

ALOUD.

And snorts a. to cast the mist aside A.T. 164
He reads wise lectures, and describes a. Ch. 389
Some whispered softly, and some twanged a. Ch. 518
And many a tomb, like Hamilton's a. Ep. i 9
Cry a., thou that sittest in the dust Ex. 267
Publishing to all a. St. iv 14
And perks his ears, and stamps, and cries a. T. vi
They cry a. in every careless ear T.T. 434
And calls a. for sack Tran. iv 15
But soon articulates a. Tran. iv 22

ALPHABETS.

As a. in ivory employ Con. 11

ALPINE.

Some a. mountain, wrapped in snow Miss - 33

ALPS.

The cloud-surmounting a., the fruitful vales R. 79

ALTAR.

Thine a., sacred Liberty, should stand Ch. 256
To build our a., confident and bold Con. 849
And serves the a., in my soul I loathe T. ii 416
On Fortune's velvet a. offering up T. ii 657
Shall have its a.; and the world shall go T. vi 668

ALTER.

Much less could he a. her mind Gr. 48 To check, or a. from its course Miss — 59

ALTERED.

His a. gait and stateliness retrenched T. v 76 Your a. heart—and so, my Lord, farewell! V. 26

ALTERNATE.

And then a., with a sickly hope T. v 428 Calm and a. storm, moisture and drought Y.O. 77

ALTERNATELY.

A. the nations learn and teach Ch. 120 Beating a., in measured time, T.T. 528

ALTERNATIVE.

(Awful a.! believed, beloved Ex. 688

ALTHÆA.

A. with the purple eye; the broom T. vi 170

ALTITUDES.

Leaves saints to enjoy those a. they teach Con. 585

John coming back a. J.G. 222

AMARANTHINE.

And laid her soft in a. flowers A.T. 8 Plucks a. joys from bowers of bliss H. 164 The only a. flower on earth T. iii 268

AMASSES.

For her, a. an unbounded store Tir. 15

AMAZE.

His road, deriding much the blank a. T. vi 536

AMAZED.

A. that shadows should obscure the sight H. 534 The calender, a. to see J.G. 161 Tremble and be a. at thine escape T. ii 159

AMBASSADOR.

As God's a., the grand concerns T. ii 464 AMBIGUITIES.

His a. his total sum Con. 143

A. in a boy supplied Th. 7

AMBIGUOUS.

Inquisitive, the less a. past Y.O. 44

Speaks a divine a., and a zeal Ch. 307

AMBITION.

From avarice and a. free O. ii 8 Here various motives his a. raise P.E. 53 A., avarice, and the lust of fame P.E. 273 Of pride, a., or impure desires R. 110 'Twas his a. to be seen of men T. 53 To fill the a. of a private man T. ii 236 The a. of one meaner far, whose powers T. iii 458 A., Avarice, Penury incurred T. iii 811 That tempts A. On the summit see T. iv 58 Tend downward; his a. is to sink T. v 592

Of all a. man may entertain Con. 221 From mean self-interest and a. clear Ex. 439

AMBITIOUS.

The wretch, to naught but his a. true T.T. 30

By low a, and the thirst of praise T.T. 591

A., not to shine or to excel Con. 623 A. of brushing the sky Gr. 4 The mischiefs your a, pride inspires! Her. 46 A. of a shelter there Mrs. M— 44 That courts display before a. eyes R. 178 And yet a. not to sing in vain T. ii 312 A. of preferment for its gold T. ii 387 And vain enough to be \tilde{a} , still T. v 338

AMBLING.

To cross his a. pony day by day R. 467 A. and prattling scandal as he goes T. ii 382

AMBROSIAL.

A. gardens, in which Art supplies Ex. 11

And answer all-"A.!" St. i 36 Hail, Sternhold then, and Hopkins hail! A. T.T. 760

AMENABLE. Say to what bar a. were man? P.E. 28

AMENDS.

In honourable bumps his rich a. Con. 200 Not unemployed, and finding rich a. T. iv 729 AMISS.

In characters uncouth, and spelt a. T. i 283 May exercise a, his proper powers T, v 339 The few that pray at all pray oft a. T. vi 54 And yet his judgment was not framed a. T.T. 390

Of argument, employed too oft a. Y.O. 31

On terms of a. complete F. 116 To live on terms of a, with vice T, v 658

AMNESTY.

Of a., the meed of blood divine Y.O. 13

AMOMUM.

The a. there with intermingling flowers T. iii 576

AMOROUS.

He called her Posy, with an a. art A.T. 21 To watch you a. couple in their play T. 136 Or charged with a. sighs of absent swains T. iv 20

AMOUNT.

AMPLE.

Shall find them rated at their full a. T. 545 Your feelings in their full a. P. 47 Which a to possession time out of mind A.C. 12

Loose fly his forelock and his a. mane Ch. 176 Thy soul as a. as thy bounds are small Ex. 696 To whom an atom is an a, field R, 62Deception innocent—give a. space T. i 353
To all the nations. A. was the boon T. v 199 And folly in as a, measure meet T. v 309

Its a, area 'gan explore T.B. 38 For her, the Memory fills her a. page Tir. 13 That grazed it stood beneath that a. cope 1.0.54

Provides the faculties an a. range Ch. 334 And transplantation in an a. space T. iii 533

Resplendent less, but of an a. round T. iv 258 And more aspiring, and with a. spread T. vi 145 The achievements of Art may a. C. 37

A trifle if it move but to a. P.F. 303 Servile employ; but such as may a. T. iii 406 While fields of pleasantry a. us there T. iv 76 Or tinkle in 'Change Alley, to a. T.T. 186

AMUSED.

While thoughtful man is plausibly a. T. iii 186 The wish to shine, the thirst to be a. T. iii 829 Nor less a., have I quiescent watched T. iv 291 Some have a. the dull, sad years of life T. v 180 A. spectators of this bustling stage T. v 878

AMUSEMENT.

Business or vain a., care or mirth R. 647 A, and true knowledge hand in hand R. 702 Their least a. where he found the most T. ii 310 But is a. all? Studious of song T. ii 311 Made vocal for the a. of the rest T. iv 159 To such a, as ingenious wee T. v 416 Much to the a. of the crowd Tran. iv 23

AMUSEMENT-MONGER.

A. of a trifling age V. 28

ANACREON.

A., Horace, played in Greece and Rome T.T. 608

ANALYSE.

I cannot a. the air, nor catch T. iii 214

ANARCHY.

Spread a. and terror all around? T.T. 303

ANCESTRY.

Long lines of a., renowned of old Tir. 817 Our a., a gallant Christian race T.T. 872

ANCHOR.

Has dropped her a., and her canvas furled Ch. 443 Hope, as an a. firm and sure, holds fast H. 167

ANCHORED.

Of life, long since has a. by thy side M.P. 99 Fast a. in the deep abyss of space R. 84

ANCHORITE.

"Past all dispute, you a.," say you T. 106
ANCIENT.

"The blood of a. worthies in his veins" A.T. 116 Oh! could their a. Incas rise again Ch. 65 While Conscience, happier than in a. years Ch. 274 Where stands that monument of a. power Ch. 549 The heathen lawgivers of a. days Con. 35 [167] Where dwell they now? Where dwelt in a. day Ex. ('Twas therefore much the same in a. days) E. iii 7 Mere shadows now, their a. pomp forgot Ex. 262 Babbler of a. fables, leaves a doubt Ex. 503 A hollow scooped, I judge, in a. time N.A. 17 Nor a., will be so, preserved with care P.E. 400 So, a. poets say, serene Q.V. 69 And cultivate a taste for a. song R. 375 The estate his sires had owned in a. years R. 579 You a. prude, whose withered features show T. 131 And such in a. halls and mansions drear T. i 24 Of a. growth, make music not unlike T. i 185 Invites us. Monument of a. taste T. i 253 Their a. barriers, deluging the dry? T. ii 56 A prince with half his people! A. towers T. ii 121 In colleges and halls, in a. days T. ii 699 So once were ranged the sons of a. Rome T. iii 596 To reverence what is a., and can plead T. v 300 An a., not a legendary tale T. vi 479 By a. covenant ere Nature's birth T. vi 858 Renowned in a. song; not vexed with care T. vi 997 Caught from the deeds of a. fame Tir. 645 Feats of renown, though wrought in a. days T.T. 22 Now, from the dust of a. days, bring forth T.T. 376 Nineveh, Babylon, and a. Rome T.T. 432 Embowelled now, and of thy a. self Y.O. 110 Much a. chronicle, and long 1789, 2

ANDANTE.

The adagio and a, it demands T, ii 361

ANGEL.

'Tis e'en as if an a. shook his wings Ch. 438
Where 'tis an a.'s happiness to stray) Con. 472
Like a. in the service of their Lord Ex. 674
Mysteries are food for a.; they digest F.A. 55
Nor all an a.'s eloquence explain H. 128
So may your guiding a. give Miss — 95
She, half an a. in her own account T. 149
As a. use, the Gospel whispers peace T. ii 342
And a. choirs attended. Wondering stood T. vi 352
A devil's purpose with an a.'s face T.T. 130
Let me, the charge of some good a., find V. 77

ANGEL-HEADS.

Like a. in stone with pigeon wings! Con. 576
ANGELIC.

The dews condensed into a. food Ex. 182
"True," answered an a. guide Mor. 39
A. gratulations rend the skies T. 587
Milton, whose genius had a. wings T. iii 255

ANGER.

His a. who can waste thee with a word Ex. 341

And a. insignificantly fierce T. vi 320 Is that which a. hourly for surprise Con. 223

ANGRY.

Frowns in the storm with a. brow A Fable 38
And if perhaps made a., soon appeased Ch. 429
The a. Muse thus sings thee forth M.B. 23
But a., coarse, and harsh expression M.F. 59
Or bury me in ocean's a. tide! T. 270
[212
And perilous lightnings from the a. clouds T. iii
A. and sad, and his last crust consumed T. i 216
The adultress! what a theme for a. verse! T. iii64
So soon succeeding such an a. night T. vi 259
Or growl'd defiance in such a. sort T. vi 377

ANGUISH.

Dimness and a., all thy beams obscured Er. 393 With eyes of a., execuate their lot T. ii 665

ANIMAL.

Not a. alone, but shrubs and trees N.A. 57 The fiercest a. with magic charms) R. 254 With sight of a. enjoying life T. vi 325 Each a., of every name, conceived T. vi 373 The flesh of a. in fee, and claim T. vi 452 The blameless a., without rebuke T. vi 469 May stand between an a. and woe T. vi 727 In all that live, plant, a., and man Y.O. 79

ANIMATE.

Nor a. the soul to Christian deeds H. 300 His soul exults, Hope a. his lays R. 777 Becomes the soul that a. them all T. v 275 That were a theme might a, the dead T.T. 202

ANIMATED.

Discourse may want an a.—No Con. 101 But a. Nature sweeter still T. 198 So I with a. hopes behold T. v 837

ANIMATING.

Her a. smile withdrawn S. 15

ANKLE-DEEP.

Hence, a. in moss and flowery thyme T. i 270

ANNA

Dear A.—between friend and friend E. i 1 Say, A., had you never known E. i 67 Which Mary to A. conveyed The Rose 2

ANNALS.

What nation will you find, whose a. prove Ex. 165

ANNEX'D.

Have each their record, with a curse a. T. vi 441

ANNIHILATE.

We persecute, a. the tribes T. iii 309

ANNOUNCE.

A. to the world his own and theirs T. ii 357 The simple clerk, but loyal, did a. T. vi 661

ANNOY.

Pernicious weed. Whose scent the fair a. Con. 251 The flinty soil indeed their feet a. E. ii 31 So numerous are the follies that a. Tir. 597

ANNOYANCE.

No rough a. rankling in his mind R. 428

ANNUAL.

And by Philomel's a. note C. 47 No longer prey upon our a. rents Ch. 616 This a. tribute Death requires St. i 11 By public exigence, till a. food T. v 458

ANNUL.

Of holy writ, she has presumed to a. T. i 741

ANSON.

Is wet with A.'s tear Cast. 52

ANSWER. Prose a. every common end E. i 2 In a, to the fiat of his word Ex. 154 [536 Shall a.—"Hope, sweet Hope, has set me free" H. His only a. was a blameless life H. 577 Makes a. quite beside the mark M.F. 10 Ah, that maternal smile! it a.—"Yes" M.P. 27 Hark! he a. -Wild tornadoes N.C. 33 Where his whirlwinds a .- "No" N.C. 40 On purpose to a, you, out of my mint P.A. 19 Their a. to the call is—"Not at home" P.E. 168 Wins in return an a, of disdain R. 228 Vast as it is, it a., as it flows R. 529 And a. all-" Amen!" St. i 36

ANSWERED.

That question has its a.—What is man? T. 382 A Deity could solve. Their a., vague T. ii 521 He purposes, and he shall a.—"None" T. vi 934

Devised by self to a. selfish ends T. 110

Bid fair enough to a. in the proof Tir. 564

Deserves an a. similar, or none Tir. 904

"True," a. an angelic guide Mor. 39 Him a, then his loving mate and true N.A. 105 The happiness of a. prayers 1789, 64 [P.A. 23 He was shocked, sir, like you, and a .- "Oh no!"

ANTARCTIC.

Towards the A. Even the favoured isles T. i 620

ANTHEMS

Re-echoing pious a.! while beneath T. i 343

ANTICIPATE.

Toils to a. in vain E. i 66 A. a day it never sees Ep. i 8 Watches your eye, a. command T. 214 Would oft a. his glad return T, i 543 A. perforce some dire event T. v 524To soar, and to a, the skies T, v 723

ANTICIPATED.

He snuffs far off the a. joy P.E. 219 A. rents, and bills unpaid R. 559

ANTIPATHIES.

A. are none. No foe to man T. vi 777

ANTIQUARIAN.

Craze a. brains with endless doubt P.E. 394

ANTIQUATED.

Are such an a. scene M.F. 7

ANTIQUITY.

Him blind a. profaned, not served T. vi 231

ANVIL.

Of lust, and on the a. of despair T. v 665

ANXIETY.

Where, all his long a. forgot R. 7 He feels the a. of life, denied T. ii 302 Careless of all the a. he feels T.T. 145

ANXIOUS.

To every pang that racks an a. mind Ex. 571 With a. meaning, Heavenward turn his eye! St. ii 8 Then a, to be longer spared St, v 25 [140

A, in vain to find the distant floor T, i 48 And a. mainly that the flock he feeds T. ii 404 If a, only that their boys may learn Tir. 513 Nor ceased till, ever a. to redress T.T. 632

APACE.

So Self starts nothing but what tends a. Ch. 565

APE.

And would degrade her votary to an a. Con. 460 God's work may serve an a. upon a stage Con. 736 Profusion a. the noble part F. 4 With lean performance a. the work of Love T. vi Their whole attention, and a. all his tricks Tir. 225

APOCALYPSE.

See Mercy's grand a, displayed! H, 448

APOLLO.

 $A_{\cdot,\cdot}$ hast thou stolen away $O_{\cdot,\cdot}$ i 11

APOLOGISTS.

Of all that grave a, may write Ex, 383

APOSTATE.

But transformation of a man T. v 695 The young a. sickens at the view Tir. 167

APOSTLE.

Such was the portrait an a. drew Ch. 432 From such a., O ye mitred heads T. ii 392

APOSTOLIC.

His a. charity the same H. 583 If a. gravity be free P.E. 146

APPAREL.

Conspicuous, and in bright a. clad T. v 25

APPARELLED.

A. in exactest sort R.C. 19

APPARENT.

Blown on the summit of the a. fruit T. iii 536

APPEAL.

To Justice she may make her bold a. T. 498

APPEALED.

A. to many a poet's page L.R. 11

APPEAR.

"In behalf of the Nose, it will quickly a. A.C. 9 Tis called a satire, and the world a. Ch. 515 As frequent as the want of it a. Ch. 605 [A.C. 21 "On the whole it a., and my argument shows" And savage in its principle a. Con. 171 Where 'tis a shame to be ashamed to a. Con. 376 The pillar of the eternal plan a. Con. 558

And Virtue with peculiar charms a. Con. 637 A brighter scene beyond that vale a. Con. 882 No shepherds' tents within thy view a. E. ii 54 Why weeps the Muse for England? What a. Er.1 Then wherefore weep for England? What a. Er.30

Say Wrath is coming, and the storm a. Ex. 270 Those rights that millions envy thee a. Ex. 681 That man, when smoothest he a. F. 23

May I myself at last a. F. 214

Thus tortured and squeezed, at last it a. F.M. 5

This cap, that so stately a. Gr. 1The sun, obedient, at her call a. H. 43 The rose or lily a. blue or green H. 72

The monarch most that seldom will a. H. 502 Could those few pleasant days again a. M.P. 80

Of happier times a. N. 22

I could be much composed, nor should a. N.A. 89 From a. thoughts how wealth may be increased R. Sounds are but sounds, and till the cause a. N.A. 119

Grey dawn a.; the sportsman and his train P.E. 82 Tis granted, and no plainer truth a. P.E. 353 Eternity's unknown expanse a. R. 149 That so much death a.? St. i 8 Though not a grace a. on strictest search T. 151 Channel her cheeks, a Niobe a. T. 174 Fair fields a. below, such as he left T. i 452 For such unmeasurable woe a. T. i 459 That softly swelled and gaily dressed a. T. iii 629 The omnipotent magician, Brown, a. T. iii 766 The rest a. a wilderness of strange T. iv 78 Noiseless, a. a moving hill of snow T. iv 346 A. a spot upon a vestal's robe T. iv 554 But here and there an ugly smutch a. T. iv 608 The glory of thy work, which yet a. T. v 866 That scarce a leaf a.; mezereon too T. vi 167 Fulfil the purpose, and a. design'd Tir. 93 Each dreams that each is just what he a. Tir. 448 He speaks, and they a.; to him they owe T.T. 356 The promise of delicious fruit a. V. 52 650 And long before the day a. G.D. 11Such knowledge, gained betimes, and which a. Tir.

APPEARANCE.

Till thy a. chased the gloom, forlorn J.T. 21 For men of their a. and address P.E. 388 The dark a. will not last Trans. H. 26

APPEARED.

Or smiled when a Sabbath a. A.S. 32
Sent to do more than he a. to have done Con. 518
A. two lovely foes L.R. 6
Wherever her glory a. M.D. 20
Though not a hound from whom it burst a. N.A. 46
Nor ever frowned, or sad a. St. iii 23
Ages elapsed ere Homer's lamp a. T.T. 556

APPEAREST.

Ah, treat them kindly! rude as thou a. T. iv 370

APPEARING.

She smiles, a., as in truth she is T. iii 49

APPEASED.

And if perhaps made angry, soon a. Ch. 429

APPETITE.

May rove at will, where a. shall lead A.T. 60 Occasion prompt, and a. so keen A.T. 90 What health and sober a. demand H. 158 If A., or what divines call lust H. 385 To take the bend his a. ordain H. 603 Like thine, her a. is keen P.B. 27 What then !- are a. and lusts laid down P.E. 102 Receives from her both a, and treat P.E, 210 First A. enlists him Truth's sworn foe P.E. 542 That a. can ask, or wealth provide R. 744 Sighs if perhaps your a. should fail T. 215 Guiltless of pampered a. obscene T. i 104 Hard fare! but such as boyish a. T. i 123 To bind the roving a., and lead T. ii 525 Though A. raise outcries at the cost? T. ii 621 Of critic a., no sordid fare T. iii 461 By traitor A., and armed with darts T. iii 685 Takes part with A., and pleads the cause T. v 630 "Hath God indeed given a. to man" T. v 635 As must create an a. for prayer? Tir. 374

APPLAUSE.

Its sordid nourishment from man's a. Con. 672 And gave misplaced a. J.P. 20 I should deserve to forfeit all a.) P.E. 511 Or plead its silence as its best a. R. 414 Speaks with reserve, and listens with a. R. 448 U Popular A.! what heart of man T. ii 481 And thus gives Virtue indirect a. T. iii 104 Less worthy of a., though more admired T. v 127 When most extravagant in his a. T. v 262 Deserves at least a. for her attempt T. v 369 Such mischiefs after it, with much a. Tir. 494 But that they catch at popular a. T.T. 144 Levied a tax of wonder and a. T.T. 650

APPLE

But a. we want, and a. we'll have P.A. 30
If not, you shall have neither a. nor pear "P.A. 32
Opposite in the a. tree P.T. 31
If a. might hang till they dropped from the tree
An a. tree, or lofty pear R.C. 12

APPLICATION

On a, to its noblest end J.T. 28 Who pant with a, misapplied T. vi 273

APPLIED.

He spoke indignant, and his spurs a. A.T. 191 A bold remark, but which, if well a. Ch. 535 May furnish illustration, well a. Con. 206 You laugh—'tis well—the tale a. L.W. 23 Like Isaac, with a mind a. Mor. 11 Whose fires to sacred Truth a. Mrs. M— 32 To every pane his trunk a. P.B. 8 In praise a. to the same part—his head P.E. 533 To hourly use a. St. iii 20 By medicine well a., but without grace T. vi 522 With all thy faculties elsewhere a. Tir. 659 And never meant the rule should be a. T.T. 11 My busy search, I next a. 1789, 12

APPLY.

The warder at the door his key a. H. 720 Turn eastward now, and fancy shall a. T. 97 And catechise it well; a. thy glass T. iii 203 Let active Laws a. the needful curb T.T. 314

APPOINTED.

While they passed through to their a. land Ex. 186 But guests that sought it in the a. one H. 307 Stars countless, each in his a. place R. 83 Wafts the rich prize to its a. use T. iii 540 A. sage preceptor to the Will Tir. 32 In him thy well a. proxy see Tir. 676

APPREHENSION.

Nor in her own fond a. R.C. 101

APPREHENSIVE.

Such teachable and a. parts T. vi 612

APPRISED.

There, undisturbed by Folly. and a. T. iii 34 (A. that he is such) a careless boy Tir. 906

APPROACH.

My quick a., and soon he dropped D.W. 35
Starts at her first a., and sounds To arms! H. 656
Ere long a. life's evening shades Mor. 35
A step if fair, and if a shower a. R. 491
With the a. of Death St. v 28
She quakes at his a. Her hollow womb T. ii 88
None but his steel a. them. What is weak T. iii 414
Take step for step; and, as I near a. T. v 18
Is made familiar, watches his a. T. v 423 [iv 295
Though still deceived, some stranger's near a. T.
His long love-ditty for my near a. T. vi 309
"Where is the promise of your Lord's a.?" T. vi 871

APPROACHING.

Each some a. good divines A Tale 63 But most before a. showers Ep. ii 27 On good that seems a. F. 81 She now presaged a. doom R.C. 74

APPROBATION.

And warbling out his a. N.G. 24 Attested, glad, his a. P.T. 40 Whose a. - prosper even mine T. vi 1021

APPROPRIATES.

A. nature as his Father's work T. v 761

APPROVE.

Man to maintain, and such as God a. Con. 538 I grant it dangerous, and a. your fear Con. 653 And free from bias, must a. the choice Con. 664 And you, fond maid, a. Miss - 94 Warns him or prompts, a. him or restrains P.E. 35 Not that I mean to a., or would enforce R. 117 For once I can a, the patriot's voice R. 387 Thus Heaven a., as honest and sincere T. 225 Were he on earth, would hear, a., and own T. ii 396 With such a zeal to be what they a. T. ii 791 And what they will not taste must yet a. T. iii 701 Condemns, a., and with a faithful voice Tir. 33

APPROVED.

Which hue she most a., she chose them all T. vi 161 Or stained with guilt, beneficent, a. T. vi 998 That are of chief and most a. report Tir. 459 A. their method in all other things T.T. 95

APPROVING.

The polish'd counter, and a. none T. vi 281 The man a, what had charm'd the boy Tir. 149

APRIL.

'Twas A., as the bumpkins say A Fable 8 On rippling waters in an A. day A.T. 24 Himself as bountiful as A. rains H. 304 Then A. with her sister May N. 17

APRON.

The livelong night. A tattered a. hides T. i 549

APT.

A. emblem of a virtuous maid Comp. ii 2 Poets, are sometimes a. to maul the thing Con. 290 This simile were a. enough E. iv 47 Humility is gentle, a. to learn Ex. 454 Attend;—an a. similitude shall show T. 236 [661] Thus Fancy paints thee, and though a, to err T, i Or vicious, and not therefore a. to teach T. ii 550 Wit, undistinguishing, is a. to strike T.T. 101 Too a. to play the wanton with her powers T.T. 301

AQUILINE.

Terribly arched and a. his nose T. iii 192

ARBITER.

The a, of this terraqueous swamp T. v 281 Quick-sighted a. of good and ill Tir. 31

ARBITRARY.

Such hard and a. measure here E. iii 55 Thy moverchs a., fierce, unjust Ex. 528 Dare step across his a. views H. 193 A Briton's scorn of a. chains? T.T. 201

ARBITRATES.

Who waits to dress us, a. their date T. ii 600

ARBITRATION.

And a. wise of the Supreme T. ii 165

ARBITRESS.

Fell Discord, a. of such debate T. iv 482

ARBOUR.

An a. near at hand of thickest yew A.T. 81

ARBUTHNOT.

Her serious mirth, to A. and Swift T.T. 657

ARCADIAN.

And nowhere, but in feigned A. scenes H. 9 And those A. scenes that Maro sings T. iv 515 'Tis a bower of A. sweets W.N. 9

ARCH.

For the close-woven a. of limes C. 29 [N.A. 30 His lamp now planted on Heaven's topmost a. Here is the spacious a., the shapely spire Ch. 105 "Can this be true?"—an a. observer cries Con. 231 As if, like a, built with skilful hand Ex. 286

It stands, like the cerulean a. we see T. 26 You have two servants – Tom, an a. sly rogue T. 201 How airy and how light the graceful a. T. i 341

Our a. of empire, steadfast but for you T. i 773

ARCHBISHOP.

Let Comus rise A. of the land P.E. 184

ARCHED.

The cock his a, tail's azure show Mrs. M-7 Her eye-brows a., her eyes both gone astray T. 135 Terribly a. and aquiline his nose T. iii 192

ARCHER.

Shot by an a. strong I.G. 154
Been hurt by the a. In his side He bore T. iii 113

ARCHITECT.

Built by that A. who built the skies Con. 560 An a. requires alone F. 164

ARCTIC.

Hard task indeed o'er a. seas to roam! H. 548

More a. as the disk emerges more T. v 4 To press with energy your a. thought V. 10

ARDENTLY.

What a. I wished, I long believed M.P. 38

ARDOUR.

Of that which called his a. forth Mor. 44 Catching its a. as I mused along R. 376 And a, in the Christian race 8t, vi 23 The country, with what a. he contrives T. iv 778

ARDUOUS.

But in his a. enterprise to close R. 617 And not soon spent, though in an a. task T. i 401 Aware of nothing a. in a task T. ii 307 That not to attempt it, a. as he deems T. vi 757 The labour, were a task more a. still T. vi 758

AREA.

Its ample a. 'gan explore T.B. 38

ARGUE.

Could a. once, could jest, or join the song R. 290 And could discriminate and a. well T. v 289

ARGUED.

So Tongue was the lawyer, and a. the cause A.C. 5

ARGUMENT.

"On the whole it appears, and my a. shows A.C. 21 But what were his a. few people know A.C. 27 The tender a. of kindred blood Ch. 32 What will not a. sometimes suppose?) Ch. 380

The ciash of a, and jar of words Con. 85
Your thread of a. is snapped again Con. 110
An a. of cogence, we may say Con. 293
(I hate long a. verbosely spun) E. iii 44
Needs no expense of a. F. 140
From stuccoed walls smart a. rebound H. 346
With senseless noise, his a. the sword H. 660
Your scruples and a. bring to my mind P.A. 17
Shall prove (what a. could never yot) T. 431
The method clear, and a. exact? T. iii 279
"We find sound a., we read the heart" T. v 654
Will need no stress of a. to enforce Tir. 803
Of a., employed too oft amiss Y.O. 31

ARISE.

"Will none a., no knight who still retains A.T. 115 Other Romans shall a. B. 21 And Faith, the root whence only can a. Ex. 111 When God a., with an awful frown Ex. 249 A Man a., a man whom God has taught H. 623 And from their prison-house below a. N.A. 87 Ere another such grove shall a. in its stead P.F. 16 When piping winds shall soon a. T.B. 17 Or bids the rocks in ruder pomp a. Tir. 28

ARISTÆUS.

In such a palace A, found T, v 135

ARK.

To Gaul, to Greece, and into Noah's a. R. 694 Presume to lay their hand upon the a. T. ii 231

ARM

Called for his a., and for his princely steed A.T. 124 Sounds not a. shall win the prize B. 23 Walks a. in a. with Nature all his way Ch. 314 Spreads wide her a. of universal love Ch. 596 For thou wast born amid the din of a. Ex. 472 To waste thy life in a., or lay it down Ex. 536 Tis thus, extending his tempestuous a. Ex. 584 A world is up in a., and thou, a spot Ex. 694 Were all collected in thy single a. Ex. 704Though, clasped and cradled in his nurse's a. H. 179 If a, engage him, he devotes to sport H. 207 Starte at her first approach, and sounds to a.! H. 656 His eyes are sunk, a. folded, head reclined H. 689 There Beauty woos him with expanded a. P.E. 55 Go, fool; and a. in a. with Clodio, plead P.E. 197 Committed once into the public a. P.E. 518 The recompense that arts or a. can yield R. 101 A. hanging idly down, hands clasped below R. 286 Carries her Bible tucked beneath his a. T. 147 The self-restoring a. of human power T. 402 l never trusted in an a. but thine T. 575 And holds them dangling at a.'s length in scorn T. Whose a. this twentieth winter I perceive T. i 145 And ash far-stretching his umbrageous a. T. i 311 Frowning as if in his unconscious a. T. i 381 Each in his field of glory; one in a. T. ii 211 ()f heavenly temper, furnishes with a. T. ii 346 Fall back into our seat, extend an a. T. ii 448 A palsy struck his a., his sparkling eye T. ii 727 So when the Jewish leader stretched his a. T. ii 825 Thou art the nurse of Virtue. In thine a. T. iii 48 And wandering eyes, still leaning on the a. T. iii 53 (But that the basket dangling on her a. T. iv 547 The rich, and they that have an a. to check T. iv 587 Perhaps timidity restrains his a. T. iv 599 See that your polished a, be primed with care T, iv A., through the vanity and brainless rage T. iv 619 ls Liberty: a flight into his a. T. v 577 Not seldom, his avenging a., to smite T. vi 464Man praises man. Desert in arts or a. T. vi 632 Courage in a., and ever prompt to show T.T. 276

Nature in a., her elements at strife T.T. 448 [125 Thine a.have left thee! Windshave rent them off Y.O. Of some flagged admiral; and tortuous a. Y.O. 96 Of chiefs whose single a. could boast 1789, 5

ARMED.

A. at all points, with terror in his brow A.T. 140 Truth a. it with a point so keen, so just A.T. 145 A. with thunder, clad with wings B. 27 Their leader a. with meekness, zeal, and love Ex. 187 Gone thither a. and hungry, returned full Ex. 368 But Winter, a. with terrors here unknown H. 473 Like Pallas springing a. from Jove Mrs. M— 26 And a. himself in panoply complete T. ii 345 With such artillery a. Vice parries wide T. ii 810 By traitor Appetite, and a. with darts T. iii 685 A. for a work too difficult for thee Tiv. 677 [497 And a. with strength surpassing human powers T.T.

ARMOUR.

What though in scaly a. dressed Miss - 41

ARMOURY.

The a. of Winter; where his troops T. v 139

ARMY.

"Come ten, come twenty, should an a. call A.T. 185 Proud of thy fleets and a., stolen the gem Ex. 348 Shall raise no feuds for a. to suppress T.T. 317 They trust in a., and their courage dies T.T. 468 Church, a., physic, law Tras. ii 27

AROMATIC.

Her sweetest flowers, her a. gums T. ii 86

AROSE.

Between Nose and Eyes a strange contest a. A.C. 1 Much controversy straight a. L.W. 15

ARRAIGNED.

Of the robed pedagogue! Else let the a. T. ii 823

ARRAIGNS.

A. him, charges him with every wrong T. 262

ARRANGEMENT.

Yet just a., rarely brought to pass T. iii 588

ARRANT.

[301

(Oh cast them from thee!) are weeds, a. weeds H.

ARRAY.

To gaze at Nature in her green a. T. i 449 Misdeems it, dazzled by its bright a. T. iv 685 The lilac, various in a., now white T. vi 157

ARRAYED.

But above all, in her own light a. H. 447 With eager step, and carelessly a. R. 187 Fit for the power in which he stands a. Tir. 98

ARREAR.

Know, your a. with every hour accrue Con. 491 Oh think, if chargeable with deep a. Ex. 608 Is not the pardon of thy long a. F.A. 13 He has incurred a long a. St. v 31

ARREST.

To a, the fleeting images that fill T. ii 290 Can but a, the light and smoky mist T. v 105 Age after age, than to a. his course? T. vi 131

ARRIVE.

That thought is joy, a. what may to me M.P. 107 "When my last hour a." St. iii 34 To the far distant goal, a. and dies T. vi 430

ARRIVED.

 $A_{\cdot,\cdot}$ a night like noon she sees Q.V. 41 Is but a transient guest, newly a. T. iii 750 A., he feels an unexpected change Tir. 567

ARRIVING.

At length a ship a. brought A Tale 23

ARROGANCE.

Tis senseless a. to accuse F. 52 In vain: the slave of a. and pride P.E. 548

ARROGANT.

'Tis narrow, selfish, a. and draws Con. 671 Lewd, avaricious, a., unjust Ex. 56 The pride of a distinctions fall R. 659 The plea of works, as a. and vain T. 71

ARROW.

And the swift-winged a. of Light A.S. 44 So like an a. swift he flew J.G. 153 None sends his a. to the mark in view P.E. 570 And the barbed a. of a frowning God R. 304 In which are kept our a. Rusting there T. ii 804 Long since: with many an a. deep infixed T. iii 109 And lays his a. by Tran. H. 30

ARROWY.

The gloomy clouds, find weapons, a. sleet T. v 140 The lambent homage of his a. tongue T. vi 782

He called her Posy, with an amorous a. A.T. 21 She tutored some in Dædalus's a. A.T. 52 "O cursed Hypothesis! your hellish a." A.T. 113 The achievements of a. may amuse C. 37 [Con. 811 A. once esteemed may be with shame dismissed Tricked out of all his royalty by a. Ch. 53 Ingenious a., with her expressive face Ch. 97 These are the gifts of A.; and A. thrives most Ch. 113 And slaying man would cease to be an a. Ch. 619 May be esteemed a gift, and not an a. Con. 4 Whose deeds had left, in spite of hostile a. Con. 513 Grace him again with long forgotten a. Con. 839 May prove, though much beside the rules of a. Con. 869 Can Nature add a charm, or A. confer Ex. 5 Ambrosial gardens, in which A. supplies Ex. 11 To modest cheeks, and borrowed one from A. Ex. 48 The pharisee the dupe of his own a. Ex. 93 In other climes perhaps creative A. Ex. 229 From fading good derives, with chemic a. H. 159 Where busy a. are never at a stand H. 440 $\lceil H$. 497 What were they? What some fools are made by a. But speaks with plainness a. could never mend H. 451 Hence all that is in man, pride, passion, a. H. 653 Whose lines uniting by an honest a. H. 756 Which a. can only darken and disguise H. 769 Increasing commerce and reviving a. Her. 73 Through all his a. we view H.F. 14 And all thy threads with magic a. M. 18 The A. come smiling in the close Miss (Blest be the a. that can immortalize M.P. 8 The a. that baffles Time's tyrannic claim M.P. 9 By what unseen and unsuspected a. P.E. 3 And of all a. sagacious dupes invent P.E. 435 And seemed by some Magician's a. Q.V. 59 The recompense that a. or arms can yield R. 101 Parks in which A. preceptress Nature weds R. 335 But versed in a. that while they seem to stay R. 383 Wild without a., or artfully subdued R. 416 O sacred a.! to which alone life owes R. 749 These, these are a. pursued without a crime R. 799 And while I teach an a, too little known R, 807 The Christian has an a, unknown to thee R.H. 4

To steer with nicest a. betwixt the extreme S. ii 9 Nice-fingered A. must emulate in vain T. 202 By culinary a., unsavoury deems T. i 125 Lovely indeed the mimic works of A. T. i 420 His nature, and though capable of a. T. i 576 The manners and the a. of civil life T. i 596 From all that Science traces, A. invents T. i 627 I do confess them nurseries of the a. T. i 693 Each province of her a. her equal care T. i 707 But such as A. contrives, possess ye still T. i 757 Then to dispose his copies with such a. T. ii 294 Of gallery critics by a thousand a. T. ii 365 In a. like yours. I cannot call the swift T. iii 211 That may disgrace his a., or disappoint T. iii 422 Food for the vulgar merely—is an a. T. iii 449 Not so when winter scowls. Assistant A. T. iii 541 Oh innocent, compared with a like these T. iii Sol No powdered pert proficient in the a. T. iv 145 Once simple, are initiated in a. T. iv 493 And touches of his hand, with so much a. T. iv 736 With forms so various, that no powers of a. T. v 109 Thus Nature works as if to mock at A. T. v 122 His a. survived the waters; and ere long $T. \mathbf{v} \stackrel{\text{od}}{=} \mathbf{j}$ And thou hast need of discipline and a. T. v 467 By which the magic a. of shrewder wits T. vi 99 Uninjured, with inimitable a. T. vi 195 Man praises man. Desert in a. or arms T. vi 632 Exhausted all materials of the a. T. vi 717 By no kind a, his confidence again Tir. 586 Low in the world, because he scorns its a. Tir. 672 See volunteers in all the vilest a. Tir. 835 Sustained with so much grace and a. Tras. iv 35 To nurse with tender care the thriving A. T.T. @ Those a. be theirs that hate his gentle reign T.T.His galleries with the works of a, well graced T. T. \mathbb{R}^2 When ministers and ministerial a. T.T. 190 Guards well what A, and Industry have won T.T.280Let Discipline employ her wholesome a. T.T. 310 Quite unindebted to the tricks of a. T.T. 525 An a. contrived to advertise a joke T.T. 539 Had faded, poetry was not an a. T.T. 585 And a revived beneath a softer day T.T. 621 Made poetry a mere mechanic a. T.T. 654 Too proud for a., and trusting in mereforce T.T.683Than ever blazed by a. U. 28 A. has in a measure supplied W.N. 3 Transports not chargeable with a. 1789, 60 ARTFUL. To study Culture, and with a. toil R. 785 'Tis not in a. measures, in the chime T. vi 1020 ARTFULLY.

Wild without art, or a. subdued R. 416

ARTHRITIC.

From pangs a, that infest the toe T, i 105

ARTICLE.

Or in one a. of vice reclaimed Tir. 241

ARTICULATE

I think, a., I laugh and weep T. iii 198 Heard to a. like other men Tir. 667 But soon a. aloud Tran. iv 22

ARTICULATION.

Have all a. in his ears N.A. 68 Nor owed a, to his car Y.O. 148

ARTIFICE.

Where covert guile and a. abound Ch. 285 Rhetoric is a., the work of man Ex. 136 And lest the fulsome a, should fail P.E. 291 Where eloquence and a, shall fail R. 658

ARTIFICER

lespectful of the smutched $a.\ T.$ ii 491 he first a. of death; the shrewd T. v 213 fight well suppose the a. divine T. v 561 he great a. of all that moves T. vi 207 o which the unwashed a. repairs T.T. 152

ARTIFICIAL.

and vex their flesh with a. sores T. i 582

ARTILLERY.

nd deems her sharp a. mere straw H. 597 With such a. armed. Vice parries wide T. ii 810

ARTIST.

ind the sweet lyre on which an a. plays Cos. 900 l., attend! Your brushes and your paint T. 171 eace to the a. whose ingenious thought T. 210 he inferior wonders of an a.'s hand T. i 419

ARTLESS.

uspicion lurks not in her a. breast Ch. 426 le shine with all a cherub's a. charms H. 180 his a. vow may Heaven receive Miss — 93 ho bidst me honour with an a. song M.P. 13 hy genuine charms, and guide an a. hand R. 204 leaven's easy, a., unencumbered plan! T. 22 o a. ingenuity and skill T. iv 797 ler a. manners, and her neat attire T. iv 536 he stamp of a. piety impress'd Tir. 153 und, a. as thou art, whom thou wilt choose Tir. 856 Vild a. airs and concerts of her own T.T. 697

ASCEND.

ompasses earth, dives into it, a. Ch. 315 nows he his origin? can he a. F.A. 22 [T. vi 317]. the neighbouring beech; there whisks his brush int as a scale, by which the soul a. R. 111 n spiral rings a. the trunk, and lays R. 231 lose at his heels, a demagogue a. T. iv 61 his top mast, through his peering eyes T. iv 115 ave raised you high as talents can a. V. 13 and shouts that a. the sky M.D. 39

ASCENDED.

ASCENDING.

ometimes a., debonair R.C. 11 he a. damps; then leisurely impose T. iii 477, fires the horizon; while the clouds T. v 2

ASCENT.

this the rugged path, the steep a. P.E. 71 wift pace or steep a. no toil to me T. i 139

ASCERTAIN.

ralue, what no thought can a. H. 125

ASCRIBE

d some a, the invention to a priest T, i 62 ws him in all; a, to the grand cause T, iii 226

ASCRIBED.

ham s. to his assembled trees T. v 322

ASH.

tauty for a." is a gift indeed Ch. 230 [R. 230]

whelm, or smooth grained a., or glossy beech
a., or lime, or beech, distinctly shine T. i 303
d. far-stretching his umbrageous arm T. i 311
a.. where, and in what weal or woe? T. ii 519
kesina., and the fall of stocks T. iv 16; [v 726] chased them up to Heaven. Their a. flow T. scattered hair with sleet like a. filled T. iv 121
Lext mere dust and a. in the grave Tir. 60

ASHAMED.

"The guiltiest still are ever least a. A.T. 188
By softer methods, must be made a. Ch. 498
Where 'tis a shame to be a. to appear Cos. 376
And chaste themselves, are not a. to own T. iii 74
The modest speaker is a. and grieved T. iv 66
With decent duty, not a. to pray Tir. 176
[293
Return a., without the wreaths they sought Ex.

ASHO

No! Soon as from a, he saw A Tale 49 [145 Shall roll themselves a., and reach him there T, ii

ASIATIC.

With A. vices stored thy mind Ex. 372

ASININE.

'Tis the most a. employ on earth Con. 209

ASK.

She strikes out all that Luxury can a. Ch. 103 To find the medicine a. some share of wit Con. 879 A. now of History's authentic page Ex. 161A. what is human life—the sage replies H. 1 And a., and fancy they find, blessings there H. 243 What are England's rights, I a. N.C. 10 A. him, if your knotted scourges N.C. 29 Kneels and a. Heaven to bless the dear deceit P.E. Man's coltish disposition a, the thong P.E. 360 To tell them more than they have wit to a. P.E. 390 I shall not a. Jean Jacques Rousseau P.T. 1 A. wealth of Heaven, and gain a real prize R. 162 A. not the boy, who when the breeze of morn R. 395 But a, the noble drudge in state affairs R. 407 That appetite can a., or wealth provide R. 744
Yet never a. his aid! St. vi 20 [crazed! T. i [crazed! T. i 556 Though pinched with cold, a. never-Kate is Go, dress thine eyes with eyesalve; a. of him T.ii 203 Or a. of whomsoever he has taught T. ii 204 Now make our own. Posterity will a. T. ii 577 Though at their own destruction. She a. T. ii 642 To them that a. it?—Freely.—'Tis his joy T. iii 273 That a. robust, tough sinews, bred to toil T. iii 405 A. egress; which obtained, the overcharged T.iii 497 To no mean hand, and a. the touch of taste T. iii 632 These a, with painful shyness, and, refused T, iv 418 Ye all can swallow, and she a. no more T. iv 512 A distant age a. where the fabric stood T. v 535 And such well pleased to find it, a. no more $T. \times 795$ Nor a. his leave to slumber or to play T. vi 405 By budding ills, that a. a prudent hand T. vi 591 A. him, indeed, what trophies he has raised T. vi 932 Then a. not, whether limited or large? Tir. 511 The encroaching nuisance a. a faithful hand Tir. 601 Oracular, I would not curious a. Y.O. 42

And a., with busy scorn, "Was this the man?" T.T. ASKANCE.

Provokes me to a smile. With eye a. T. v 14

ASKED.

And a. them, with a kind, engaging air Com. 523 Whate'er was a., too timid to resist Ea. 540 [ii 512 And spring-time of the world; a., whence is man ? T. A. of the waves that broke upon his coast Ea. 572 And a. him to go and assist in the job P.A. 24 Were soon conjoined; nor other cement a. T. v 147 Of its own taunting question, a. so long T. vi 870 A., when in Hell, to see the royal jail T.T. 94 To give a Milton birth, a. ages more T.T. 559

ASKING.

And a. of the surge that bathes thy foot T. i 655 Would urge a wiser suit than a. more T. vi 56

ASLANT.

Blown all a., a driving, dashing rain T. 239 Then downward and then upward, then a. T. v 427

ASLEEP.

A. at the dawn of the day M.D. 2 As natural as when a, to dream R, 636

Of temper as envenomed as an a. T 159 Of a. their venom, overpowering strength T. v 702 A brood of a., or quicksands in his way Tir. 870

ASPASIO.

So spake A., firm possessed St. iii 13 Such lived A.; and at last St. iii 29

ASPECT. An a. stern on man's affairs P.T. 48

ASPERITY.

And with a. replied P. 20

ASPERSION.

A. is the babbler's trade F. 100

ASPIRE.

To joys forbidden man a. P.B. 15 I shrink abased, and yet a, to Thee R. 94

A. to the rank of Queen L.R. 7 Plant behind plant a., in the van T. iii 593 Some, more a., catch the neighbour shrub T. iii 665 And more $a_{\cdot,\cdot}$ and with ampler spread $T_{\cdot,\cdot}$ vi 145

O weariness beyond what a. feel H. 99 Stubborn and sturdy, a wild a.'s colt H. 182
For while he spake, a braying a. J.G. 203
The a.; for he, we know, has lately strayed N.A. 96
An a.'s burden, and, when laden most T. iv 441

ASSAILANT.

"Oh, shame to knighthood!" his a. cried A.T. 179 ASSAILED.

A. by scandal and the tongue of strife H. 576 Whom Truth and Soberness a. in vain T. ii 480 That promised once more firmness, so a. T. v 526

ASSAILS.

Whoe'er a. thee, thy success is sure Ex. 701

ASSASSINED.

A. by a thief! T.B. 6

ASSASSINS.

The wild a. start into the street Ch. 507

ASSAULTS.

From all a. of evil, proving still T. iii 680 Of sounding an alarm a, these doors T, iv 146 From the cruel a, of the clime W.N. 12

ASSEMBLE.

Chased, never to a. more 1789, 41

ASSEMBLED.

A. on affairs of love P.T. 14 Jotham ascribed to his a. trees T. v 322

ASSEMBLING.

Of Tityrus, a., as he sang T. iv 707

ASSEMBLY.

The moles and bats in full a. find Ex. 630 O Sin! an a. such as earth T. vi 816

ASSENT.

Virtue engages his a. H.F. 11 To cheat themselves and gain the world's c. P.E. 436 They gain at last his unreserved a. T. v 663

Her utmost reach, historical a. Con. 777

ASSERT. "To a. the charter of the chaste and fair A.T. 117

Which god a. his own St. vi 26 A. the rights of his offended Lord T. 263 A. the skies, and vindicate her due T. 490 A. precedence, and bespeaks control Tir. 9 A. the native evil of his heart Tir. 162

A. the nose upon his face his own Com. 122

Thus graced, the man a. a poet's name T.T. 714 ASSERTION.

And were I called to prove the a. true E. iii 12 ASSEVERATION.

A. blustering in your face Cos. 59 assiduous.

A. sips at every flower 1789, 18 ASSIGNED.

And bind the task a. thee to thine heart Er. 651 When, earth's a. duration at an end R. 653 God drave asunder, and a. their lot T. v 198

ASSIMILATES. A. all objects. Earth receives T. iv 329

But finds that though his tubes a. the sight Ch. 35

To a. his foe's down-fallen beast to rise T. vi 411 A SSIST A NCE

Calls for the kind a. of a tune R. 712 And needing none a. of the storm T. ii 144 Her cause demands the a. of your throats T. iv 51 ASSISTANT.

Not so when winter scowls. A. Art T. iii 541

ASSOCIATE.

To a. all the branches of mankind Ch. 84 Henceforth a, in one common herd Con. 76 The friend of Truth, the a. of sound sense R. 69 Good health, and, its a. in the most T. i 399 Since then, with few a., in remote T. iii 117 With few a., and not wishing more T. iii 120

ASSOCIATED.

But man a. and leagued with man T. iv 663

That form, indeed, the a. of a mind Tir. 5

ASSUAGE.

My sorrows I then might a. A.S. 21 To a. the throbbings of the festered part R. 321 Its foul inhabitant. But to a. T. iii 501 And thou wilt need some comfort to a. Tir. 877

ASSUME.

The snowy robe her wintry state a. R. 195 The backstring and the bib, a. the dress T. iv What character, what turn thou wilt a. Tir. 853 Touched with a coal from Heaven, a. the lyre T.T.

Than that heroic strut a. before Con. 490 Habits are soon a., but when we strive P.E. 50 But when the Second Charles a. the sway T.T.

ASSUMING.

Nature a. a more levely face R. 357. A. thus a rank unknown before T. ii 370 Pale, wan, and livid, but a. soon T. iii 523

ASSURANCE.

And confident a, of the rest T. v 576 "That give a, of their own success T. v 843

ASSURE.

But I can a. you I saw it in print P.A. 20

ASSURED.

The peasant's hopes, and not in vain a. Her. 9 Speaks him a criminal, a. St. vi 35 The soul reposing on a. relief T. 455

ASSYRIA.

Long time A. bound them in her chain Ex. 73

ASTONISH.

To a, and to grieve his gazing friends T. iv 655 The a, vulgar trembled, while He tore Ex. 139 The storm of music shakes the a, crowd T.T. 491

ASTRIDE.

Briskly, a. upon the parlour broom Tir. 367

ASTRONOMIC.

With more than a. eyes Q.V. 78

ASTRONOMY.

In which, or a. lies Gr. 15

ASTRUT.

Inflated and a. with self-conceit T. v 268

ATE.

Daniel a. pulse by choice—example rare P.E. 215

ATHANASIAN.

By A. nonsense, or Nicene) H. 394

ATHEIST.

They were by nature, a., head and heart H. 498 What a. call him, a designing knave P.E. 108 And a., if Earth hear so base a slave) P.E. 615 That live an a. life; involves the Heaven T. ii 180 Of God and goodness, a. in ostent T. vi 486 To combat a. with in modern days Tir. 639

ATHENIAN.

Liberty taught him her A. strain T.T. 343

ATHENS.

To A. or to Rome, for wisdom short T. ii 536

ATHIRST.

With acrid salts, his very heart a. T. i 448

ATHLETIC.

Make him a. as in days of old Con. 841
If one, his equal in a. frame H. 191
Of manners rough, and coarse a. cast P.F. 187
When health demands it, of a. sort Tir. 653

ATHWART.

Strikes the rough thread of error right a. Ex. 330

ATLANTIC.

The A. billows roared Cast. 2 On the other side the A. Pat! 6 Snore to the murmurs of the A. wave? T. iv 27

ATLAS.

The disencumbered A. of the state R. 394

ATOM.

Discordant a. meet, ferment, and fight Ex. 297 To whom an a. is an ample field R. 62 Of a., sparkling in the noonday beam T. i 361

Measures an a., and now girds a world? T. i 718 Noiseless, an a., and an a. more Y.O. 106

ATONES.

Sad waste! for which no after-thrift a. St. ii 29 A slight gratuity a. for all T. 288 On principle, where foppery a. T. iv 689

ATONEMENT.

The a. a Redeemer's love has wrought T. 505

ATONING.

And made the symbols of a. grace Ex. 378

ATROCIOUS.

To judge the lands, to purge a. crimes A.T. 141 Have justly doomed, for some a. cause H. 713

ATTACHED.

Else more a. to pleasures found at home R. 518

ATTACHES.

By various ties a. man to man Ch. 16

ATTACHMENT.

For sea-born Venus her a. shows Con. 265. And, proud to make his firm a. known T. 219. Where love is mere a. to the throne T. v 361 A. never to be weaned or changed T. vi 625 This fond a, to the well-known place Tir. 314 Complain not if a. lewd and base Tir. 889

ATTACK.

"But guard thee well, expect no feigned a. A.T. 189

ATTAIN.

And if, ere he a. his end Mor. 53
But me, scarce hoping to a. that rest M.P. 100
A. not to the dignity of thought R. 640
To a. perfection in this nether world T. i 85
Diffused, a. the surface; when, behold! T. iii 493
The mind a., beneath her happy reign T.T. 262
The growth that Nature meant she should a. T.T. 263

ATTAINABLE.

Truths useful and a. with ease F.A. 32

ATTAINED.

Pride has a. its most luxuriant growth T. 115

ATTAINING.

We sought without a. F. 36

ATTAINMENTS.

That man's a. in his own concerns T. vi. 613

ATTEMPT.

Oh fond a. to give a deathless lot B.B. 1
And wins mankind, as his a. provail Ch. 335.
His odoriferous a. to please Con. 287
Poets a. the noblest task they can J.T. 1
Urged his a. on every side P.B. 7
A. no task it cannot well fulfil R. 280
Presuming an a. not less sublime T. iii 459
But censure profits little: vain the a. T. iv. 500
Thwart his a., or envy his success T. iv. 787
Deserves at least applause for her a T. v 369
So oft, and wearied in the vain a. T. v 628
And that to bind him is a vain a. T. v 777
So cheaply the renown of that a. T. v 1534
That not to a. it, arduous as he deems T. vi. 757
Desperate a., till trees shall speak again! Y.O. 49

ATTEND

On all the vestiges of truth a. Con. 219
May such success a. the pious plan Con. 837
That no success a. on spears and swords Ex. 352

And if success his steps a. F. 82 A. to finish what the sword begun Her. 60 And ecstasy a. the tear Miss - 55 Death and the pains of Hell a. him there P.E. 547 True Wisdom will a. his feeble call R. 33 Man shall be summoned and the dead a.? R. 654 Artist, a.! your brushes and your paint T. 171 No Fear a. to quench his glowing fires T. 189 A.; -an apt similitude shall show T. 236 Some trivial slips their daily walk a. T. 286 He that a. to his interior self T. iii 373 All well repaid, demand him, he a. T. iii 398 \underline{A} . him; drives his cattle to a march \underline{T} . iv 647 His dog a. him, close behind his heel T. v 47 "A. to their own music? Have they faith T. v 647 Kind Providence a. with gracious aid T.T. 249 And every Muse a. her in her way T.T. 619
A. superior worth Th. 16 No Muses in these lines a. U. 29 If they who on thy state a. 1789, 66 ATTENDANT. A train, a. on their queen Miss - 71 A. at the senior's side Mor. 40 To yon fair Sun and his a. Earth? Tir. 36 If the a., and if such as these T.T. 164 ATTENDED. For Reynard, close a. at his heels N.A. 124 "Was ever cat a. thus? R.C. 54 And angel choirs a_n , wondering stood T_n vi 352 ATTENDING. Ungenial blasts a. curl the streams T.T. 213 ATTENTION. The a. Pleasure has so much engrossed Ch. 631 They fix a., heedless of your pain Con. 63 The repetition makes a. lame Con. 214 At least, we moderns, our a. less Con. 791 Mutual a. is implied F. 49 First fixes our a. F. 177 With nice a. in a righteous scale H. 367 Ensured him mute a. and regard H. 687 Becomes not weary of a. M.F. 52 Solicits kind a. to his dream P.E. 523 Habits of close a., thinking heads R. 705 A theme for all the world's a. R.C. 102 Pleasure's call a. wins St. iv. 25 Inquisitive a., while I read T. iv. 52 Would waste a. at the checker'd board T. vi 265 Their whole a., and ape all his tricks Tir. 225 Where all the a. of the faithful host Tir. 769 Should claim my fixed a. more than you T.T. 181 If human woes her soft a. claim T.T. 484

ATTENTIVE.

(A. when thou readest) of England's peers S. i 3 Wisdom in minds a. to their own T. vi 91 So bountiful, in whose a. ear T. vi 460 They see the a. crowds his talents draw Tir. 362 Its various parts to his a. note Tir. 642

ATTEST. Conspiring, may a. his bright design T. iii 654

ATTESTED.

A., glad, his approbation P.T. 40 ATTIC.

Of A. phrase and senatorial tune S. i 11 Sublimity and A. taste combined T.T. 644

ATTIRE.

The sycamore, capricious in a. T. i 318 And quaint in its deportment and a. T. ii 461

The bride, while yet her bride's a. is on A.T. 103

Her artless manners, and her neat a. T. iv 536 For cleanly riddance than for fair a. T. vi 994

ATTIRED.

Religion, if in heavenly truths a. Ex. 492 Though leafless, well a., and thick beset T. vi 168

ATTITUDE. Therefore, avaunt all $a_{\cdot \cdot}$, and stare $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ ii 430

A. us, and neglected Nature pines T. iii 730 ATTRACTED.

Touched with the magnet, had a. his Con. 272

ATTRACTIVE.

Nor less a. is the woodland scene T. i 300 And most a., is the fair result T. iii 639

ATTRIBUTES. God and His a. (a field of day Con. 471 His gracious a., and proves the share H. 139 Reflect his a. who placed them there Tir. 92

AUBURN. Thy silver locks, once a. bright M. 25 A tooth or a. lock, and by degress T. i 133

The a. nut that held thee, swallowing down Y.O. 20

Frequents the crowded a.; station'd there T. vi 286 Or turn them into shops and a. rooms Tir. 902 AUCTIONEERED.

Then advertised, and a. away T. iii 756 AUDACIOUS.

The a. convict whom he dares not bind T. iv 602AUDIT.

Corruption! Whose seeks an a. here T. iv 610 AUDITORS.

Are fittest a. for such to seek Con. 226

AUGMENT. Nor feels their happiness a. his own T. vi 326

AUGUR.

Of whom I needs must a. better things T. ii. 582 AUGUST.

His creature thwart not his a. design H. 142 And show the a. tribunal of the skies R. 656 The theme though humble, yet a. and proud T. i 6 Sofa, and couch, and high built throne a. T. v 164

And are a., but this transcends them all T. v 552 AURORA.

With which A. decks the skies T.B. 16 AUSONIA.

With all her vines; nor for A.'s groves T. ii 214 Live there, and prosper. Those A. claims T. iii 582

AUSPICIOUS. Or pass unheeded this a. morn S. ii 4 The a, moment, when the tempered heat T, iii 508

AUSTERE. Fruits of a blighted size, a. and crude T. 494 The bramble, black as jet, or sloes a. T. i 122

Milder, among a people less a. T. v 488 Religion, harsh, intolerant, a. T.T. 612

AUTHENTIC.

As Time improves the grape's a. juice Con. 643 Ask now of History's a. page Ex. 161 The unequivocal, a. deed T. v 653 Unpurified by an a. act Y.O. 12

AUTHOR.

She speaks of Him, her a., guardian, friend Ch. 399 Just as the sapience of an a's brain Ch. 519 Their a.'s frailty, and return to dust Con. 554 Hence a. of illustrious name F. 85 Himself sole a. of his own disgraces H. 317 Praising the a, of all good in man J.T. 2 "Oh! if my Sovereign A. please Miss - 25 None but an a. knows an a.'s cares P.E. 516 Till a. hear at length one general cry R. 707 As the necessities their a. feel T. ii 672 Of Nature, overlooks her a, more T, iii 237. You the regardless a. of its woes T. v 350 But not its A. Unconcerned who formed T. v 793 The A. of her beauties, who, retired T. v 893 If, s. of no mischief and some good T. vi 953 Had not its a. dignified the plan Tir. 51 He too might make his a.'s wisdom clear Tir. 100 That a. are most useful pawned or sold Tir. 211

AUTHORITY.

Blasphemed the a. from which it sprung Ex. 156
Divine a. within his breast P.E. 33
Implies a. that never can P.E. 602
And centering all a. in modes T. i 745
A. herself not seldom sleeps T. iv 593
A father, whose a., in show T. vi 30
But if a. grow wanton, woe T.T. 226
When he usurped a. just place T.T. 320
She clothed him with a. and awe T.T. 344

AUTUMN.

Nor A. yet had brushed from every spray N.A. 21 Now green, now tawny, and ere A. yet T. i 319 Hence Summer has her riches, A. hence T. iii 427 Till A.'s fiercer heats and plenteous dews Tir. 47

AUTUMNAĻ.

Twas on the noon of an a. day A.T. 70
And like the stores a. suns mature Con. 649
A. rains had made it chill Mor. 13
Unwelcome vapours quench a. beams T.T. 212
But Fate thy growth decreed; a. rains Y.O. 23

AVAIL.

Where no prevarication shall a. R. 657

AVARICE.

Low in the pits thine a. has made Ch. 72
And, A. being judge, with ease succeeds Ch. 195
Extravagance and A. shall subscribe Ch. 467
A. in thee was the desire of wealth J.T. 25
From a. and Ambition free O. ii 8
A. shows, and virtue is the price P.E. 52
Will A. and Concupiscence give place P.E. 104
Ambition, a., and the lust of fame P.E. 273
Tae lure of a., or the pompous prize R. 177
Ambition, A., Penury incurred T. iii 811
And a. that make man a wolf to men T. iv 103
When A. starves, and never hides his face T.T. 422

AVARICIOUS.

Lewd, a., arrogant, unjust Ex. 56
Fierce, a., proud, there must be war T.T. 10

AVAUNT.

Therefore, a. all attitude, and stare T. ii 430

AVENGE.

To s. than to prevent the breach of law T. i 731

AVENGED.

Which God a. on Pharach—the Bastille T. v 383

AVENGING.

Remember, Heaven has an a. rod Ch. 216 He heard the wheels of an a. God Ex. 57 Not seldom, his a. arm, to smite T. vi 464

AVENUES.

Ye fallen a.! once more I mourn T. i 338

AVERSE.

Some minds by Nature are a, to noise R. 175

AVERTED.

But, with a. eyes, the omniscient Judge T. 227

AVERTS.

In vain he closes or a. his eyes T. 470

AVON.

Of A. famed in song. Ah pleasant proof T. vi 682 AVOWED.

Not more affronted by a. neglect T. 73

AWAIT.

If toil a. me, or if dangers new T. iii 20

AWAITED.

No sofa then a. my return T. i. 126

AWAKE.

A. at Duty's call D.W. 42
But man, all feeling and a. N. 9
And, like an infant, troublesome a. T. 427
A. sometimes the Muses too Tran. H. 29
Ye reasoners broad a., whose busy search Y.O. 30

AWAKENED.

A. by the shock (cried Puss) R.C. 53

AWAKENS.

And Death a. from that dream too late T.T. 126 AWAKING.

Who brought the lamp that with a. beams Ex. 500

AWARD.

Heaven a, the vengeance due B, 42 "The strife now stands upon a fair a, Con, 851

AWARE.

A. that flight, in such a sea Cast. 33
A. of wintry storms M.B. 6
The worm, a. of his intent N.G. 13
But few that court Retirement are a. R. 609
A. of nothing arduous in a task T. ii 307
Not waste it, and a. that human life T. iii 363
Not soon deceived; a. that what is base T. vi 989
A. then how much danger intervenes Tir. 883
AWE.

Whose beauty impressed me with a. M.D. 11 [156 Regards with scorn, though once received with a. Tir. A monarch clothed with majesty and a. T. 405 That rule, pursued with reverence and with a. T. 536 Truth, Hope, and Charity, and touched with a. T. i 2 With solemn a., that bids me well beware T. ii 327 Shook the delinquent with such fits of a. T. ii 722 To touch the sword with conscientious a. T.T. 77 She clothed him with authority and a. T.T. 344

AWE-STRUCK.

A., before thy presence bend 1789, 67

AWFUL.

Of his sweet but a. lyre B. 36 Before his presence, at whose a. throne Con. 659 When God arises, with an a. frown Ex. 249 And in whose a, sight all nations seem Ex, 344 (A. alternative! believed, beloved Ex. 688 But Conscience, in some a., silent hour H. 215 Those a. syllables, Hell, Death, and Sin H. 690 And stands a witness at Truth's a. bar Her. 81 Bound on a voyage of a, length H.F. 17 The depth, how a.! falling there, we burst N.A. 110 Read, ye that run, the a. truth St. i 21 A thousand a. admonitions scorned St. ii 27 The dying, trembling at the a. close T. 436 Yet a, as the consecrated roof T, i 342 Of her magnificent and a. cause? T. ii 232 Himself, as conscious of his a. charge T. ii 403 Start at his a. name, or deem his praise T. iv 180 By the unimpeachable and a. oath T. v 549 And utter now and then an a. voice T. vi 34
To occupy a sacred, a. post Tir. 414

AWKWARD.

Such drunken reelings, have an a. look Con. 862 With rash and a. force the chords he shakes Con. 901 But gently to rebuke his a. fear H. 61 With a gait, stretched neck, and silly stare P.E.380 | To stroke his a. neck, or to receive T. vi 781

They sidle to the goal with a. pace P.E. 562 No longer blushing for her a. load T. iv 551 His a. gait, his introverted toes T. iv 633

AWOKE.

A, and found it true T.B. 48.

AXE.

The a, will smite at God's command St, i 15 The cheerful haunts of man; to wield the a. T. v. 42 But the a. spared thee. In those thriftier days Y. 0.100

AXLE.

As a, sometimes kindle as they go P.E. 407 Spin round upon her a., ere the warmth T. iii 491

AZORES. Levantine regions these, the A. send T. iii 583

AZURE. The cock his arched tail's a. show Mrs. M. 7 His radiant glories, a., green, and gold T. 61 His a. eyes, is tinctured black and red T. iv. 216

В.

Then B. is the God, and worship him" Con. 854 A priesthood such as B.'s was of old T. ii 678

BABBLER.

B. of ancient fables, leaves a doubt Ex. 503 Aspersion is the b.'s trade F. 100 That b., called philosophers, devise Tir. 158

Delighted with her b., the enchantress smiled A.T.9With doubtful credit, told to frighten b. T. iv 564 B. in the cause of freedom, and should fear T. v 291 The father, who designs his b. a priest Tir. 364 Which b. might play with; and the thievish jay Y.0.18BABEL.

Of the great B., and not feel the crowd T. iv 90 When B. was confounded, and the great T. v 193 BABOONS.

B. are free from, upon human race? Ex. 417

BARY.

The b. seems to smile with added charms P.E. 519 Of heroes, whose infirm and b. minds T. v 190 And binds a wreath about their b. brows T.T. 121

BABY-FEATURED.

Both b., and of infant size P.E. 201

BABYLON.

Saw B. set wide her two-leaved brass Ex. 59 But made long since, like B. of old T. 391 Increasing London? B. of old T. i 722 By him of B., life stands a stump T. v 401 Nineveh, B., and ancient Rome T. T. 432

BABYLONIAN.

The B. tyrant with a nod P.E. 130

BACCHANAL.

Then Genius danced a B.; he crowned T.T.602

BACCHANALIAN.

Even B. madness has its charms P.E. 56

That bind the sinner's B. brow T. 462 So when, by B. torn T.B. 62 There waiter Dick, with B. lays Tir. 214

BACK. "And guard behind the sorceress at thy b.!"A.T 190 And set up his b., and clawed like a cat A.T. ii 5

And conscious of an unincumbered b. Ch. 174

Call legions up from Hell to b. the deed Con. 691 And proves by thumps upon your b. F. 170 What thing upon his b, had got J.G. 95 The bottles twain behind his b. J.G. 123 [P.E. 115 Cries—"Well done, Saint!" and claps him on the b. These choose the b., the belly those L.W. 16 Think how many b. have smarted N.C. 23 But restless was the chair; the b. erect T. i 44 We wear it at our b. There, closely braced T. ii 58 News from all nations lumbering at his b. T. iv 7 His murderer on his b., and, push'd all day T. vi 42 But though the felon on his b. could dare T. vi 516 But bends his sturdy b. to any toy Tir. 549 Leave kingly b. to cope with kingly cares T.T. 17

BACKED.

Below the exigence, or be not b. T. ii 557 Long b., long-tailed, with whiskered snout T.B. 3. The force of discipline when b. by love Tir. 681 B. with a modest sheet of humble prose V. 20

BACKSTRING.

The b. and the bib, assume the dress T. iv 227

BACKWARD.

Yet, b. as they are, and long have been Tir. 919

BACON.

All her reflected features. B. there T. i 702

BAD.

Till perjuries are common as b. pence ${\it Ex.387}$ [${\it Con.32}$ They thought they must have died, they were so i Resistless in so b. a cause, but lame T. iv 439 [68] B. men, profaning Friendship's hallowed name C_{01} What none but b. men wish exploded, must T. v 61

BADE.

B. rise in haste a dark and drizzling fog A.T. 94 Unless the power that b. him stand, restore Ch. 348 Given him a soul, and b. him understand Con. 430 "No doubt, my dear, I b. him come M.F. 11 He drew them forth, and healed, and b, me live \tilde{T} , iii And equal; and he b. them dwell in peace T. v 201

BADGER-COLOURED.

And b, hide T.B. 36

Each lugging out his b. Y.D. 52

BAFFLED.

And at his feet the b. billows die T. i 525 B. his rider, saved against his will T. vi 520

BAFFLES.

The art that b. Time's tyrannic claim M.P. 9

BAG.

And music of the bladder and the b. T. i 585 And having dropped the expected b., pass on T. iv 11 To his voracious b., struggling in vain T. iv 450

BAGOT.

We sometimes see a Lowth or B. there Tir. 435

And b. its hook with prodigies and lies Con. 224 We found no b. T. i. 672 Alas! expect it not.

Nor b. hook deceive the fish's eye T. iii 313

BAKER'S

Dependent on the b's. punctual call T. i 244

BAKING.

For b. earth, or burning rock to lime N.A. 18

BALAAM.

He hates the hardness of a B's. heart T. vi 467

BALANCE.

While Chief Baron Ear sat to b. the laws A.C. 7 And having struck the b., now proceed Cox. 798 The partial b. and deceifful weight Ex. 41 That b. the wings of every hour Ex. 321 To make his b. true J.G. 72

Upon the ticklish b. of suspense T. iii 550 In b. on his conduct of a pin? T. vi 271 The b. in the highest place Th. 11

BALCONY.

From the b. spied J.G. 142

BALD.

Praise from the rivelled lips of toothless, b. T. ii 488 Teeth for the toothless, ringlets for the b. T. iv 81 With rueful faces and b. pates Y.D. 23

BALKS.

[R. 421 Green b. and furrowed lands, the stream that spreads () sweet retirement! who would b. the thought R. 487 Can always b. the tomb St. i 28

And such an age as ours b. no expense Tir. 257

BALL.

Was smooth and even as an ivory b. A.T. 47 Know then, that Heavenly Wisdom on this b. Ex. 314 Fandango, b, and rent! F.B. 33 Blame, cynic, if you can, quadrille or b. P.E. 175 Crape and cocked pistol, and the whistling b.T. iii 802 To theatre, or jocund feast, or b. T. v 410 To trivial toys, and, pushing ivory b. T. vi 274

To pitch the b. into the grounded hat Tir. 308 The moons of Jove, and Saturn's belted b. Tir. 634 Thou wast a bauble once, a cup and a b. Y.O. 17

BALLOTED.

Is b. and trembles at the news T. iv 627

RALM.

By way of b, for healing F. 96 With lenient b. may Oberon hence Miss - 21The b. of care, Elysium of the mind P.E. 180

BALMY.

And shed the b, blessings on the lips Con. 442 O b. gales of soul-reviving air! E. ii 27 From Flora's b. store M. 2, 10 If fanned by b, and nutritious air T, iii 524Their b. odours, and imparts their hues T. vi 243

Thy cocoas, and b, palms and yams T. i 640

BAND.

Again—the b. of commerce was designed Ch. 83 The soul can mix with the celestial b. Con. 717 Have burst the b, and cast the yoke away Ex. 465 The jocund Loves in Hymen's b. Miss — 73 Of union, and converts the sacred b. T. ii 686 The tasselled cap and the spruce b, a jest T, ii 749 Himself enslaved by terror of the b. T. iv 601 Great cause occurs to save him from a b. Tir. 696 To see a b. called patriot, for no cause T.T. 143

BANDITTI.

But to divert a fierce b. E. iv 13 The fierce b. which I mean E. iv 19

Nor his who for the b. of thousands born R. 687

BANEFUL. The comet's b. influence is a dream P.E. 100

BANISH.

To b. hesitation, and proclam H. 63 These Flora b., and gives the fair T. i 460 And bids the world take heart and b. fear T. ii 195

BANISHING.

Thy worst effect is b. for hours Con. 253

On southern b. the ruminating sheep A.T. 78

BANK.

On the b. of our river, I know C. 30 Of my favourite field, and the b. where they grew Disdains the B. and throws the golden sands Ch. 248 As ever dressed a b., or scented summer air Ch. 259 [sounds H. 45 A cottage on the b. of Ouse E. i 48 B. clothed with flowers, groves filled with sprightly A western b.'s still sunny side Mor. 18 ſ 185 Streams swelled above the b., enjoined to stand Ex. A narrow brook, by rushy b. concealed N.A. 9 Unfolds his flock, then under b. or bush R. 397 Fast by the b. of the slow-winding Ouse R. 804 Washed by the sea, or on the gravelly b. T. i 13 To enjoy a ramble on the b. of Thames T. i 115 Delighted. There, fast rooted in their b. T. i 166 Deep in the loamy b. Uptorn by strength T. iv 438 And see where it has hung the embroidered b.T.v107And called the world to worship in the b. T. vi 681

BANKRUPT.

"Battered and b. fortunes mended here" T. iii 824 He gives, what b. Nature never can V. 95 BANNERS.

And all the b. been unfurled Q.V. 23

Thus as the bee, from b. to bower 1789, 17

BANQUET.

The b. of thy smiles? O. ii 12

BANQUETING.

Sits b., and God provides the feast P.E. 166

BAPTIZED.

B. her fleet Invincible in vain Ex. 569Then all is plain. Philosophy b. T. iii 243

BAR.

[837 None b. Him out from his most secret thought Ex. Or send another shivering to the b. Con. 187 Learned at the b., in the palæstra bold Com. 842 To flourish and parade with at the b. Ez. 665 When a b. of pure silver or ingot of gold F.M. 1 Begin their march to meet thee at the b. H. 226 And stands a witness at Truth's awful b. Her. 81 Say to what b. amenable were man? P.E. 28 And b. the door the moment they intrude P.E. 160 Your cause before a b. you little dread P.E. 198 The b., the senate, or the tented field R. 102 [745 Of headstrong youth were broken; b. and bolts T. ii The folded gates would b. my progress now T. i 330 The sooty films that play upon the b. T. iv 292

> BARB. [A.T. 193

The b. sprang forward, and his lord, whose force

BARBARITY.

(As if b. were high desert) T. vi 435

BARBAROUS.

And at the bottom b, still and rude Con, 167 Would give a b. air to British song T. 102 Those b. ages past, succeeded next T. i 16 And b. climes, where violence prevails T. i 604 In b. prostitution of your son Tir. 405 Oh, b.! wouldst thou with a Gothic hand Tir. 899

And the b. arrows of a frowning God R. 304

BARD.

Such the B.'s prophetic words B. 33 [iv 704 No b. could please me but whose lyre was tuned T. And tears by b, or heroes shed Cast. 53 And deem the B., whoe'er he be D. 21 Happy the b. (if that fair name belong H. 754 Thy unbound spirit into b. again M.P. 87 All, all alike, transport the glowing b. R. 197 Mute as e'er gazed on orator or b. S. i 8 O happy peasant! O unhappy b.! T. 331 Their eulogy; those sang the Mantuan b. T. iii 453 The Sabine b. O evenings, I reply T. iv 190 No b. embalms and sanctifies his song T. v 728 No b., howe'er majestic, old or new T.T. 180 And every hallowed Druid was a b. T.T. 503In less illustrious b. his beauty shone T.T. 574 Twere new indeed to see a b. all fire T.T. 734 Already by some happier b. 1789, 10

That stripped him b., and broke his honest heart In Scotland's realm, forlorn and b. A Tale 9 His own offences, and strips others b. Ch. 494 Usurps God's office, lays his bosom b. Con. 745 But half a coat, and show his bosom b. E. iii 51 B. trees and shrubs but ill, you know P.T. 52 The Bramin kindles on his own b, head T. 99 Presented b. against the storm, plods on T. iv 353 Of those that b, them, in whatever cause T, iv 620

BAREHEADED.

Say why b. you are come J.G. 167 Who, with b. and obsequious bows T. iii 819

BARGAIN.

What, but a sordid b. for the skies T. 76 A senseless b. When I see such games T. iii 176 Swears 'tis a b., rails at his hard fate T. vi 293

BARGE-LADEN.

The Nen's b. wave St. i 2

BARK.

Impede the b. that ploughs the deep serene Ch. 132 The sapless wood, divested of the b. Con. 53 The dogs did b., the children screamed J. G. 109

Thou, as a gallant b. from Albion's coast M.P. 88 Crossing in your b. the main N.C. 44 Or ploughed perhaps by British b. again T. i 631

Then shakes his powdered coat, and b. for joy T, v 51

BARON.

While Chief B. Ear sat to balance the laws A.C.7

BARONET.

By some lewd earl, or rakehell b. P.E. 314

BARRELS.

Like b. with their bellies full Y.D. 47

BARREN.

So b, sands imbibe the shower F. 184 Γ419 But b., at the expense of neighbouring twigs \tilde{T} . iii He rears unchanged his b. head Miss -Near b. rocks, in palaces, or cells R. 540 That meet (no b. interval between) T. iii 409

B. as lances, among which the wind T. vi 142

Barrenness. To b., and solitude, and tears T. v 441 Of b. is past. The fruitful field T. vi 765

BARRIERS.

Their ancient b., deluging the dry? T. ii 56A faithful b., not o'erleaped with case T. iii 681 Sheer o'er the craggy b., and immersed T. vi 554 How weak the b. of mere Nature proves Tir. 169

BASE.

Its head as guarded as its b. is sure Con. 556 Or, in his words who damned the b. desire Ex, 422 From crimes as b, as any charged on me? Ex. 711 But men unqualified and b. F. 2

Complain not if attachments lewd and base Tir. 889 Unworthy, b. and insincere F. 215 They were, what b. credulity believes H. 507

Begetting and conceiving all that's b. P.E. 569 And Atheist, if Earth bear so b, a slave) P.E. 615 He pressed him much to quit his b. employ R. 594 Scorns the b. hireling, and the slavish drudge T. 223 And deem his b. stupidity no crime T. 542 With b. materials, sat on well-tanned hides T. i 51

Profusion unrestrained, with all that's b. T. ii 675 Society, and that saps and worms the b. T. ii 816 So coveted, else b. and disesteemed T. iii 448 Sheltering the b. with its projected eaves T. iii 483 For ever dribbling out their b, contents T, iv 506

Or his b. gluttony, are causes good T. vi 388 O'er the green summit of the rocks, whose b.T. vi 496 Not soon deceived; aware that what is b. T. vi 989 To such b. hopes, in many a sordid soul Tir. 460 Is b. in kind, and born to be a slave T.T. 28

Wanting its proper b, to stand upon T.T. 54 If monarchy consist in such b. things T.T. 139 While no b, fear impedes her in her course T. T. 267

BASELY.

Paid with the blood that he had b. spared T. iii 91

BASENESS.

To lure me to the b. of a lie T.T. 86

BASER.

In b, souls unnumbered evils meet Ch, 37

BASEST.

Worse than a poniard in the b, hand P.E. 305 Is profanation of the b. kind T.T. 758

BASHFUL.

I pity b. men, who feel the pain Con. 347 The squire, once b., is shamefaced no more P.E.403As b., yet impatient to be seen T. i 325 The meek and b. boy will soon be taught Tir. 338

BASHFULNESS.

Sweet b.! it claims at least this praise T. iv 70

BASIS.

And must be made the b. F. 57

In hope to b. a little yet Mor. 21 To frisk awhile, and b, in the warm sun T, vi 314 Graze with the fearless flocks; all b.at noon T. vi 774

BASKET.

Now b, up the family of plagues T, ii 667 But that the b. dangling on her arm T. iv 547 The swains their b. make T.B. 30

BASKING.

Were b. hot, and all in blow P.B. 2

As they had b. been J.G. 128

BASTILLE.

Which God avenged on Pharach—the B. T. v 383

BASTIONS.

As b. set point blank against God's will Con. 688

BATH.

Content with Bristol, B., and Tunbridge Wells R. BATHES.

And asking of the surge that b. thy foot T. i 655 And b. their eyes with nectar, and includes T. vi 244

The moles and b. in full assembly find Ex. 630As useless to the moles and to the b. T. vi 880

BATTERED.

"His country's weather-bleached and b. rocks T. v B. and bankrupt fortunes mended here "T. iii 824

BATTLE.

Rushed to b., fought and died B. 39 But shipwreck, earthquake, b., fire, and flood Ch.282 "Speed us away to b. and to fame!" Ex. 289 Unblest, and that the b. is the Lord's? Ex. 353 Parts to be told of b. won or lost R. 476 It was not in the b. R.G. 17

BAUBLE.

The ring a b., and the priest a knave A.T. 66 To make the sun a b, without use H. 81 Delighted with my b. coach, and wrapped M.P. 50 rikin to rapture, when the b. finds T. vi 276 I give the b. but the second place Tir. 388 Thou wast a b. once, a cup and ball Y.O. 17

BAULK.

「135 Let, though he tease and b. your listening ear \overline{Con} .

BAWL.

As loud as he could b. J.G. 112 "Yes, truly—one must scream and b. M.F. 27

BAYS.

Lolls at his ease behind four handsome b. R. 392 Green as the b. tree, ever green St. i 17 They swarm around thee, and thou stand'st at b. T. In village or in town, the b. of curs T. i 230 Shall royal institutions miss the b. Tir. 503 Where Nichol swung the birch and twined the b. V.36

BEACH.

Methinks I see thee straying on the b. T. i 654 That pressed the b., and hasty to depart T. ii 118 Their offspring, left upon so wild a b. Tir. 802

BEACONS.

Have kindled b. in the skies, and the old T. ii 59 "That show like b. in the blue abyss T. v 839

BEADS.

Book, b., and maple dish, his meagre stock T. 80 Like a swarth Indian with his belt of b. T. iv 749 BEAGLE.

True b, as the staunchest hound he keeps P.E, 87

BEAK.

Entreated, opening wide his b. P.T. 19 And parrots with twin cherries in their b. T. i 38 He left poor Bully's b. T.B. 54 That b. whence issued many a lay T.B. 56 Or kites with cruel b. The Doves 34

He lives, and o'er his brimming b. boasts T. vi 434

BEAM.

But she, inconstant as the b. that play A.T. 23 "By Dian's b.," Sir Marmadan exclaimed A.T. 187 Blessed the glad b. of that propitious day A.T. 205 Too scanty for the exertion of his b. Ch. 590 A b. that aids, but never grieves the sight Con. 600 Of Revelation's ineffectual b. Con. 830 The b. of heavenly truth have swelled the debt! Ex. That b. delight? a heart untaught to sigh Ep. i 6 Dimness and anguish, all thy b. obscured Ex. 393 Who brought the lamp that with awaking b. Ex. 500 Save for the fruits his heavenly b. produce H. 82 In b. of inextinguishable light H. 134 [H. 503 And though his b., that quicken where they shine Suppose the b. should dip on the wrong side H. 374 But brighter b, than his who fires the skies H, 491 His noonday b. were never half so bright H. 737 Than golden b. of orient light M. 27 Pay tribute to thy glorious b. O. i 7 Hatched by the b. of truth, denies him rest P.E. 241 In counterpoise, flies up and kicks the b. T. 356 Some b. of rectitude she yet displays T. 485 While he that scorns the noonday b., perverse T.523Of atoms, sparkling in the noonday b. T. i 361 Beneath the rosy cloud, while yet the b. T. i 495 In which they flourish most; where, in the b.T.i694The fence withdrawn, he gives them every b.T. iii 444 The eclipse that intercepts truth's heavenly b. T. v683 That shows by night a lucid b. Tran. i 3 Watch every b. Philosophy imparts T.T. 78 Unwelcome vapours quench autumnal b. T.T. 212 If brighter b. than all he threw not forth T.T. 680 Transmitting cloudless, and the solar b. Y.O. 75

BEAMING.

And all his country b. in his face T.T. 347

BEAMY.

"And many an aching wish, your b. fires T. v 838

BEANS.

But corn was housed, and b. were in the stack N.A.

BEAR. To improve the fortitude that b. the load Ch. 160

Tried, as it should be, by the fruit it b. Con. 172 Because a b. is rude and surly? No-Con. 192 And b. the marks upon a blushing face Com. 349

While Honour, Virtue, Piety, b. sway Ex. 326 And are indeed a bog that b. F. 124

To pardon or to b. it F. 174 That cannot b. the blaze of Scripture light H. 298

To b. it, suffered shame where'er he went H. 587 In which I b. my trusty sword J.G. 63 No virtuous wish can b. a date Mor. 57 The choicest flowers she b. Pat. 14

Or Fancy's fondness for the child she b. P.E. 517 And Atheist, if Earth b. so base a slave) P.E. 615 And Destiny, that sometimes b. P.T. 47 B. proof of an intelligence divine R. 208

A mind unnerved, or indisposed to b. R. 677 And b, the brand of blasphemy burnt in T. 348 And strained to the last screw that he can b. T. 385 We b. our shades about us; self-deprived T. i 259

May b. us smoothly to the Gallic shore T. ii 262 We may with patience b, our moderate ills T, iv 339 Upon their jutting chests. He, formed to b. T. iv 350 The plump convivial parson often b. T. iv 595

A noble cause, which none who b, a spark T, iv 614 To b. his burdens, drawing in his gears T. v 273 But is it fit, or can it b. the shock T. v 305 All b. the royal stamp that speaks them his T. v 551 While sloth seduces more, too weak to b. T. vi 107 The Lion, and the libbard, and the b. T. vi 773

Custom and prejudice shall b. no sway T. vi 838
Because that world adopts it. If it b. T. vi 982
And b. the palm away "Th. 12 And fierce Licentiousness should b, the blame T.T.

B. witness, long ere his dismission come Tir. 561 He b. it with meek manliness of soul T.T. 225

BEARDS. Long b., long noses, and pale faces M.F. 6 [iv 123 Fringed with a b. made white with other snows T. Then, with his silver b. and magic wand P.E. 183 The veteran shows, and gracing a grey b. T. i 406

And shamed as we have been, to the very b. T. ii 271 BEARDED

The youth now b., and yet pert and raw, Tir. 155 And having known thee b. and full-grown V. 37

BEARDLESS.

The scoff of withered age and b. youth H. 743 BEARER.

A pedler's pack, that bows the b. down T. i 465 Till the stout b. lift the corpse again T. i 481

BEARING.

Well, I protest 'tis past all b.!" M.F. 25

BEAST.

The δ , that roam over the plain A.S. 13 The b. is laid down in his lair A.S. 50 The b. are chartered—neither age nor force Ch. 171 The noble b. judge otherwise, his groom Con. 414 Till none but b. acknowledge him a man Con. 426 The snorting b. began to trot J.G. 83 Birds of all feather, b. of every name N.A. 65

Envy the b., then, on whom Heaven bestows P.E. 267

Weeps when she sees inflicted on a b. T. ii 25

On bird and b., the other charged for man T. iv 249 Thy waggon is thy wife, and the poor b. T. iv 367 And just in his account, why bird and b. T. vi 389

To assist his foe's down-fallen b. to rise T. vi 444 That oft the b, has seem'd to judge the man T. vi 478 A longer date to the far nobler b. T. vi 529 A b. forth sallied on the scout T.B. 34

REAT. [vi 497

B. back the roaring surge, scarce heard so high T.

Let Dares b. Entellus black and blue Con. 198 After all he must b, it as thin and as fine F.M. 21 "Where tempests never b. nor billows roar" M.P.97

B. in the breast of man, that even a few T. i 285 B, high within them at a mother's wrongs T. v 519 Playing, at b. of drum, their martial pranks T.T.136

BEATEN. Confine the million in the b. track T.T. 667

BEATING. B. alternately, in measured time T.T. 528

BEAU. A spaniel, B., that fares like you Beau 1

The sight's enough—no need to smell a b. Con. 285 B. marked my unsuccessful pains D.W. 21
B. trotting far before D.W. 30 And b., adepts in every thing profound H. 347 A praying, synagogue-frequenting b. T 57

Her crimson honours; and the spangled b. T. iii 578 BEAUTEOUS.

Her b. form reflected clear below M.P. 93 Now sanguine, and her b. head now set T. vi 158 BEAUTIFUL.

A b. and perfect whole E. i 64 Scenes must be b. which, daily viewed T. i 177 Or what he views of b, or grand T, vi 249 And weighed down its b. head The Rose 4 On the b. bosom of May W.N. 16

BEAUTIFY.

Might b. and cheer the night" N.G. 22 That all the various b. we survey A.T. 48

BEAUTY.

"Starts at the call of b. in distress A.T. 120
"B. for ashes" is a gift indeed Ch. 230
But are we so to wit and b. blind Con. 257 Their b. I intent surveyed D.W. 15 The b. of a rose full blown E. i 68 And praised the wrath that laid her b. waste Ex. 427 The graces and the b. F. 45 For its b, admired and its use Gr. 26 Wine has no taste, and b. has no charms H. 705

Whose b, impressed me with awe M.P. 11 Whilst b. decks the plain Miss - 40There B, woos him with expanded arms P, E, 55 Where unassisted sight no b. sees R. 56. Borrowing a b. from the works of grace R. 358

B. he lately slighted as he passed R. 425 He views it not, or sees no b. there R. 470 Graced with such wisdom, how would b. shine R. 55 Sighs o'er the b. of the charming scene R. 566 Has lost its b. and its powers S. 16

His Maker has no b. in his sight T. 414 Of hedge-row b. numberless, square tower T. i 173 Her b., her fertility. She dreads T. i 370 And mar the face of B., when no cause T. i 458

Till half their b. fade; the weary sight T. i 510 Gives more than female b, to a stone T, i 703 Drives to their dens the obedient b. of prey R. 766 That so much b. would do well to purge T. i 726 Where b. oft and lettered worth consume T. ii 123 Displaying his own b., starves his flock T. ii 429 Poured forth by B. splendid and polite T. ii 494 That gives society its b., strength T. ii 681 And charmed with rural b., to repose T. iii 28 Some traces of her youthful b. left) T. iii 299 There blooms exotic b., warm and anug T. iii 568 And covetous of Shakespeare's b., seen T. iii 601 And by contrasted b. shining more) T. iii 635 Are wedded thus, like b. to old age T. iii 660 As twice seven years, his b. had then first T. iv 714 That all discern a b. in his works T. iv 739 Smit with the b. of so fair a scene T. v 560 So clothed with b., for rebellious man? T. v 754 The Author of her b., who, retired T. v 893 The b. of the wilderness are his T. vi 186 And clothe all climes with b.; the represch \tilde{T} . vi To see thy b., and to share thy joy T. vi 815 Strength joined with b., dignity with grace Tir. 2 The prize of b. in a woman's eyes Tir. 472 That like some cottage $b_{\cdot,\cdot}$ strikes the heart T, T, 524In less illustrious bards his b. shone T.T. 574 And as the sun in rising b, dressed T.T. 706 See, Mary, what b. I bring W.N. 5

BECAME.

The rest, alert and active, as b. A.T. 133 The new acquaintance soon b. a guest Con. 531 They felt what it b. them much to feel Con. 543 The debt, which justly b. due E. iv 23 That trot b. a gallop soon J.G. 87 The new machine, and it b. a Chair T. i 43 Gan murmur, as b, the softer sex T, i 71 And Virtue fled. The schools b. a scene T. ii 735 B. stone blind; precedence went in truck T. ii 741 Were burnished into heroes, and b. T. v 280

BECAMEST.

Fostering propitious, thou b. a twig Y.O. 39

BECKONS.

B. the legions of his storms away H.477

BECKONING.

Where b. Pleasure leads them wildly stray Ex. 464 BECOME.

B. at length so splendid in our own Con. 370 Now, in a posture that b. you more Con. 489 Who waits for heaven ere he b. divine Con. 584 B. a mockery and a standing jest Ex. 110 The rich grow poor, the poor b. purse-proud H. 18 B. not weary of attention M.F. 52 Tis now b. a history little known M.P. 52 Ere yet the pleasing toil b. a pain P.E. 70 B. more rare as dissipation spreads R. 706 There touched by Reynolds, a dull blank b. T. i 700 And tender in address, as well b. T. ii 406 We are b. so candid and so fair T. iii 93 He speaks. The lake in front b. a lawn T. iii 774 B. a dice-box, and a billiard mace T. iv 221 Less dainty than b, his grave outside T, iv 605 That instant he b. the serjeant's care T. iv 631 He stands erect; his slouch b. a walk T. iv 639 B. a loathsome body, only fit T. iv 674 B. the soul that animates them all T. v 275Thou couldst b. unkind at last The Doves 31 B. their pattern, upon whom they fix Tir. 224 Thy popularity, and art b. Y.O. 57

BECOMING.

But unattired in that b. vest T.T. 722

Relate how many weeks they kept their b. Con. 315

And who is hanged, and who is brought to b. Con. 396 Would give relief of b. and board to none H. 306 Nor gardens interspersed with flowery b. R. 336 He left his b., he trod the floor R.C. 91 Then stepped the poet into b. R.C. 107Come hither, ye that press your b. of down T. i 362 Whose headaches nail them to a noonday b. T. i 500 Finds a cold b. her only comfort left T. ii 655 [827 Spawned in the muddy b. of Nile, came forth T. ii The b. the trusted treasure of their seeds T. iii 650 Saves the small inventory, b., and stool T. iv 401 Blown in its native b.; 'tis there alone T. iv 660 Where, on his b. of wool and matted leaves T. vi 312

BEDEW.

And the first thankful tears b. his cheeks H. 727 BEDIGHT.

With russet specks b. A Tale 42

BEDLAM.

See B.'s closeted and handcuffed charge Tir. 819 This B. part; and others nearer home T. T. 609

BEDSIDE.

Dagger in hand, steals to your b. Ch. 187

Perhaps might prosper with a swarm of b. Con. 288 Their memory, like the b. that fed M. 29 And b, in hives as idly wait N. 3 A b. of most discerning taste P.B. 3 The silly unsuccessful b. P.B. 22. As all by instinct, like the b. Q.V. 43
The b. transports the fertilizing meal T. iii 538 He travels and expatiates, as the b. T. iv 107 Of his lost b, to her maternal ear T, v 137 Thus as the b., from bank to bower 1789, 17

BEECH.

Ascends the neighbouring b.; there whisks his brush Muse, hang this harp upon you aged b. Ev. 718 Of ash, or lime, or b_i , distinctly shine T_i i 303 The maple, and the b. of oily nuts T. i 315 Rough elm, or smooth-grained ash, or glossy \bar{b} . R. For ere the b. and elm have cast their leaf T. iii 466 The rustic throng beneath his favourite b. T. iv 708

But knew no medium between guzzling b. R. 601

BEFALL.

To tell us what is to b. A Fable 22 His sole opinion, whatsoe'er b. Con. 133 Changes will b., and friends may part E. iii Or (which is likelier to b.) P.T. 34

BEFELL.

[P.E. 464

By thee worse plagues than Pharaoh's land befell BEFIT.

But what old Chaucer's merry page b. A.T. 84 That constancy b. them F. 159

That royal residence might well b. T. v 157

BEFRIEND.

Shall much b. you. Time shall give increase T. iv B. thee, of all other friends bereft Tir. 881

BEG.

B. you for once to take his part St. 135 He b. their flattery with his latest breath T. 315 She b. an idle pin of all she meets T. i 553 Loud when they b., dumb only when they steal T. i Can dig, b., rot, and perish, well content T. iii 805 B. a warm office, doomed to a cold jail T. iii 820 To engross a moment's notice; and yet b. T. iv 67

B. a propitious ear for his poor thoughts T. iv 68 And b. for exile, or the pangs of death? T. v 434 [iv 405 And looks as if he came to b. G.D. 31 To soothe their honest pride, that scorns to beg T.

BEGAN. One was accounted when the cry b. A.T. 135 Home to the goal where it b, the race Ch, 566 Which this day's incident b.? E. i 84 See Nature gay as when she first b. H. 39

As useless as the moment it b. H. 96Since Abel worshipped, or the world b. H. 644

The snorting beast b, to trot J.G. 83 B. to feel, as well he might N.G. 5 B. to agitate the matter P.T. 16

Her climbing she b. to find R.C. 25 Thus war b, on earth; these fought for spoil T. v 228 Was registered in Heaven ere time b. T. v 530 And learn with wonder how this world b. Tir. 127

Time was he closed as he b. the day Tir. 175

The tasted sweets of property b. T. v 224

B. a tranquil confidence in all T. vi 366

Which idleness and weariness b. R. 762B. its likeness. Rank abundance breeds T. i 686 Increase of power b. increase of wealth T. iv 580 The eyesight of Discovery; and b. T. v 452 Remorse b. reform. His master-lust T. v 618 B. no thunder-clouds to trouble life V. 76

BEGETTING. B. and conceiving all that's base P.E. 569

BEGGARS. B. Invention, and makes Fancy lame R. 710 [ii 656] Wives b. husbands, husbands starve their wives T.

BEGGARED. Though lean and b., every twentieth pace T. iv 468

BEGGARLY. And force the b. last doit, by means T. v 316

BEGGARY.

Than abstinence, and b., and lice T. 124

And b. an interest in his frequent prayers Con. 74 What their affliction was, and b. a share Con. 524 Lest he should trepass, b. to go abroad E. iii 23 Ye are bid, b., besought to entertain P.E. 264

BEGGED.

BEGGING. Of fluttering, loitering, cringing, b., loose T. iii 832

'Tis in the church the leprosy b. Ex. 96 B. their march to meet thee at the bar H. 226 And where his danger and God's wrath b. H. 609That folly ends where genuine Hope b. H. 637 His journey to b. J.G. 50 B. a long look out for distant land R. 433 Lashed into foaming waves, b. to roar T. 260 Exposed to his cold breath, the task b. T. iii 469 Just when our drawing-rooms b, to blaze T, iv 267 My pleasures too b. But me, perhaps T. iv 272 In all directions, he b. again—T. v 431 Thus, half accomplished ere ye yet b. Tir. 234 ()f classic food b. to be his care Tir. 319 That here b. with most that long complaint Tir. 587 Who, just when industry b. to snore Tir. 745 Look up-your brains begin to swim Tran. ii 10 When children first b. to spell Tran. iv 37

Ere yet his race b., its glorious close T.T. 708

Or ere the wheels of verse b, to roll T.T. 711 At length the busy time b. Y.D. 49

BEGINNING.

Whose Love knew no b., knows no end Ch. 400 Runs round; still ending, and b. still T. iii 627

BEGIRT. The villas with which London stands b. T. iv 748

BEGONE.

B.! the whip and bell in that hard hand Ch. 212 BEGOT.

Of self-congratulating Pride, b. T. v 622

BEGOTTEN. Their zeal b., as their works rehearse Ch. 505

BEGUILE. For he would oft b. Ep. ii. 34 Which labour of his frown b. Mrs. M. 29 No meretricious graces to b. T. 23

B. their woes, and make the woods resound T.i586B. the night, and set a keener edge T. iv 161 For, after all, if merely to b. T.T. 740

BEGUILED. So fares it with the multitudes b. H. 278 By expectation every day b. M.P. 40 Fretful unless diverted and b. R. 108.

BEGUN. Produced a friendship, then b. E. i 101Attend to finish what the sword b. Her. 60 Wretch even then, life's journey just b. P. M.P. 21 His morning course, the enchantment was b. P.E. 68

In tribes and clans, and had b. to call T. v 222Egregious purpose! worthily b. Tir. 404 BEHALF.

"In b. of the Nose, it will quickly appear A.C. 9 He pleaded again in b. of the eyes A.C. 26 Much more in b, of your wish might be said P.A.11On God's b., lays waste his fairest works T. ii 136

Nor him b., nor her again Cast. 12 B. with joy the lovely scene defaced Ex. 426 Pleased she b. aloft portrayed Q.V. 45

B. their progress with the deepest dread T.T. 325 BEHEST.

Twas Nature, Sir, whose strong b. B.R. 7

BEHOLD.

B. a Christian!—and without the fires Ch. 599 Whoever boasts that name—b. a cheat! Ch. 603 While eager Hodge b, the prize E, iv 43 And hope, in due time, to b. Gr. 31 B. in Ætna's emblematic fires Her. 45

And now in the grass b. they are laid P.F. 7 B. in these what leisure hours demand R. 701 The summit gained, b. the proud Alcove T. i 278 B. the picture!—Is it like?—Like whom? G. ii 408 Diffused, attain the surface; when, b.! T. iii 493

With all its generations; I b. T. iv 99B. the schools in which plebeian minds T. iv 492 In other heavens than these that we b. T. v 571 "So I with animated hopes b. T. v 837 All we b. is miracle; but, seen T. vi 132

B. the measure of the promise filled T. vi 798 B. your bishop! well he plays his part Tir. 420 B. that figure, neat, though plainly clad Tir. 664

BEHOVES. Now theirs was converse such as it b. Con. 537

BEING.

ives Charity her b. and her birth Ch. 378 b. of less equity than man H. 384 ave a b. less durable even than he P.F. 20 lounts from inferior b. up to God R. 114 is b. end where death dissolves the bond Tir. 67

BELIE.

their name, and offer nothing new R. 714

BELIED.

nless b. by common fame F. 86

BELIEF.

ach man's b. is right in his own eyes H. 283 stremontane, and stumbles all b. T. iv 533 And gesture, they propound to our b.? T. v 649 fis your b. the world was made for man T.T. 47

BELIEVE.

or seamen much b. in signs A Tale 61
he worst suggested, she b. the best Ch. 427
Sir! I b. it on that ground alone Con. 233
Will they b., though credulous enough Con. 721 hat while she dotes, and dreams that she b. Con. 775
His unsuspecting sheep b. it pure Ex. 103
Tis to b. what men inspired of old Ex. 646
Sut prove as ready to b. F. 17
I never will b.," the colonel cries H. 381
They were, what base credulity b. H. 507
That few b. the wonders thou hast wrought H. 667
Sould I b., that winds for ages pent N.E. 85
Stand the soul-quickening words—B. and Live T. 31
The book shall teach you; read, b., and live! T. 274
3, rush forward, and possess the prize T. 374

BELIEVED.

A close designer not to be b. Con. 477
A truth still sacred, and b. of old Ex. 351
[Awful alternative! b., beloved Ex. 688
What ardently I wished, I long b. M.P. 38 fill others have the soothing tale b. P.E. 493
This once b., 'twere logic misapplied Tir. 103

BELIEVER.

Ploughs up the roots of a b.'s care T. 460 Ill joy to the b.! He can speak—T. 571 For judge by statute a b.'s hope T.T. 72

RELINDA

B., maids are soon preferred Tran. iv 7 B. and her bird! 'tis rare Tran. iv 31

BELL.

But the sound of the church-going b. A.S. 29
begone! the whip and b. in that hard hand Ch. 212
Into the B. at Edmonton J.G. 11
Into the B. at Edmonton J.G. 11
Into the B. at Edmonton J.G. 218
Iterd the b. tolled on thy burial day M.P. 28
Iterd the b. tolled on thy burial day M.P. 28
In more move us than the b. St. iv 31
Into the B. at Cap and b. for fools T. 368
Iterd the b. to morning prayers T. 140
Iteras what it is, a cap and b. for fools T. 368
Iteras what it is, a cap and b. for fools T. 368
Iteras what it is, a cap and b. for fools T. 368
In spire, from which the sound of cheerful b.T. i 174
Into the music of those village b. T. vi 6
Irue to the jingling of our leader's b. Tir. 254

BELLES.

Year prudent grandmammas, ye modern b. R. 515

RELLV

These choose the back, the b. those L.W. 16 Like barrels with their b. full Y.D. 47

BELLOW.

If Winter b. from the north Trans. H. 22

RELL-ROPE.

Girt with a b. that the Pope has blessed T. 82

BELONG.

To which the said spectacles ought to b. A.C. 4
If sentence of eternal pain b. H. 389
Say man's a worm, and power b. to God H. 711
Happy the bard (if that fair name b. H. 754
All these b. to virtue, and all prove P.E. 247
That prize b. to none but the sincere P.E. 578
That it b. to freemen, would diagust T. v 482
Such reasonings (if that name must needs b. T. v 655
But no prophetic fires to me b. T.T. 504

BELOVED.

Reduced to practice, his b. rule Con. 139
(Awful alternative! believed, b. Ex. 688
And all the love of the b. John H. 625
Deserves to be b., but not adored R. 272
From pleasures left, but never more b. R. 564
I would not be a king to be b. T. v 359
That country, if at all, must be b. ? T. v 508
Who is b. where never seen 1789, 71

BELSHAZZAR.

Which shook B. at his wine Q.V. 51

BELT.

My leathern b. likewise J.G. 62 Through which the b. he drew J.G. 70 Like a swarth Indian with his b. of beads T. iv 749

BELTED. d pointers at their heels T. ii 753

With b, waist and pointers at their heels T. ii 753 The moons of Jove, and Saturn's b, ball Tir. 134

BEMAZED.

With intellects b. in endless doubt T. v 848

BENCH.

Your only one, till sides and b. fail T. ii 475 From tippling b., cellars, stalls, and styes T. vi 695 The b. on which we sat while deep employed Tir. 302 The hallowed b. from absolute contempt Tir. 431

DENDG

And b. the tough materials to his will Ch. 464
Though twice a Cæsar could not b. thee now Ex. 477
Could b. one knee, engage one votary there H. 506
To take the b. his appetites ordain H. 603
And when I b., retire, and shrink P. 35
B. the straight rule to their own crooked will P.E.
Hebrew or Syriac, shall be forced to b. P.E. 499
But b. his sturdy back to any toy Tir. 549
And b. her polished neck beneath his hand T.T. 411
Awe-struck, before thy presence b. 1789, 67

BENDED.

Thy parliaments adored, on b. knees Ex. 538

BENDING.

B, as he swept the chords B. 35 The shivering urchin, b. as he goes T. 143

BENEFACTOR.

Serving a b., I am free Ch. 242

BENEFACTRESS.

His b. blushes at the deed P.E. 212

BENEFICENT.

Of God, b. in all His ways R. 556 Or stained with guilt, b., approved T. vi 998

BENEFITS.

Receiving b. and rendering none T. vi 959

BENEVOLENCE.

B., and peace, and mutual aid T. ii 49

BENEVOLENT.

Come, prompt me with b. desires Ch. 11 Is sober, meek, b., and prays H. 520 Been less, or less b. than strong T. v 852 Impart to the b., who wish T. v 344

BENEVOLUS.

Thanks to B.—he spares me yet T. i 262

BENIFICENCE.

And whose b, no charge exhausts T, vi 230

BENIGHTED.

For Africa's once loved, b. shore Ch. 241

BENIGNITY.

B., friendship, and truth Gr. 44

BENT

Full many a champion b. on daring deed A.T. 123 B., wool, and feathers mixed A Tale 40 For tell some men that pleasure, all their b. Con. 875 B. all on pleasure, heedless of its ond E. ii 18 The bow well b., and smart the spring H.F. 5 That, though on pleasure she was b. J.G. 31 B. knees, round shoulders, and dejected looks T. iv 634 Beneath the dazzling deluge; and the b. T. v 22

BEREFT.

Of friends, of hope, of all b. Cast. 5 See Judah's promised king, b. of all R. 767 Befriend thee, of all other friends b. Tir. 881

BERGAMOT.

Its b., or aids the indebted eye T. ii 452

BERRIES.

Not yet the hawthorn bore her b. red N.A. 19 Or blushing crabs, or b. that emboss T. i 121

BERRY-BEARING.

Lie covered close; and b. thorns T. v 82

BESET.

Peeps at the vale below; so thick b. T. i 225 Not rude and surly, and b. with thorns T. i 601 Though leafless, well attired, and thick b. T. vi 168 B. with every ill but that of fear T.T. 363

BESOTTED.

Step forth to notice; and, b. thus T. v 257

BESOUGHT.

Ye are bid, begged, b. to entertain P.E. 264

BESPEAKS.

And every drop b. a Saviour thine E. ii 48
"B. at least a stubborn soil E. iv 82
For 'tis a union that b. F. 47
That sound b. Salvation on her way H. 455
To Him whose works b. his nature, Love J.T. 46
May rival these; these all b. a power T. i 431
That's noble, and b. a nation proud T. ii 43
Still they are frowning signals, and b. T. ii 68
Prepare for happiness; b. him one T. vi 912
Asserts precedence, and b. control Tir. 9
B. a land, once Christian, fallen, and lost T.T. 428

BESPOKE.

B. at least a man that knew mankind E. iii 41 The Lily's height b. command L.R. 13 B. him past the bounds of freakish youth T. ii 704

BEST.

That every tribe, though placed as he sees b. Ch. 19

On man, a mourner in his b. estate Ch. 156 At my b. home, if not exiled from thee " Ch. 243 The worst suggested, she believes the b. Ch. 427 From motives such as his, though not the b. Ch. 48 B. for the public, and my wisest part Con. 970 They b. can judge a poet's worth Dr. 5 That moving signal summoning when b. Ex. 179 Thus fell the b. instructed in her day Ez. 225 As ever Roman had in Rome's b. days Ex. 591 To read the news, or fiddle, as seems b. H. 76 Till the b. tongue, or heaviest hand, prevails H. 19 Whose temper was the b. J.P. 4The world's b. comfort was, his doom was passed His powers of b. exertion there Mor. 32 Those Christians b. deserve the name N.G. 35 Might prove a mischief, or at b. a toy P.E. 302 And having done, we think the b, we can P.I.Or plead its silence as its b. applause R. 414 Seems at the b. but dreaming life away R. 468 Is thine; -b. gift, the unfailing source of joy & #1 His b. concerns aright St. v 6Recoil from weary life's b. hour St. v 19 The scholar's pitch (the scholar b. knows why P.J. His love as b. we may St. vi 6 Should b. secure them, and promote them most T. Or ford the rivulets, are b. at home T. 217 The worst of men, and curses of the b. T. 434 Or vermin, or at \dot{b} . of cock purloined T. i 563 The wisest and the b. feel urgent need T. ii 483 There they are happiest who dissemble b. T. ii 639 Oh friendly to the b. pursuits of man T. iii 290 For plunder; much solicitous how b. T. iv 433 Of little worth, an idler in the b. T. vi 952 So the b. courser on the plain Th. 17 Some friend is gone, perhaps his son's b. friend T. Are b. disposed of whore with most success Tir. 8 Church ladders are not always mounted b. Tir. In which the b. and worthiest tremble most Tir. A piece of mere church furniture at b. Tir. 425 Boys are, at b., but pretty buds unblown Tir. 446 "Whate'er is b. administered is b." Tir. 508 And all the instructions of thy son's b. friend To And thou at b., and in thy soberest mood Tir. 75Every dish, and spoil the b. Tran. iii 14 Free to prove all things, and hold fast the b. T.T.2 Satire has long since done his b., and curst T.T.7 And the winter of sorrow b, shows W.N. 23 The future, b. unknown, but at thy mouth Y.O. 4 Of their b. tone their dissolution owe Y.O. 85

BESTIAL.

B., a meagre intellect, unfit T. v 454

BESTOW.

Delayed not to b. Cast. 28
To quit the bliss thy rural scenes b. Ch. 299
Not less effectual than what love b. Ch. 483
And shines as if impatient to b. Ch. 591
The largess He b., prescribes the terms H. 325
To take with gratitude what heaven b. H. 430
Nor spurn away a gift a God b. H. 547
Envy the beast, then, on whom Heaven b. P.E. 25
Woman indeed, a gift he would b. R. 269
His portion in the good that Heaven b. T.T. 20
With joy beyond what victory b. T.T. 80

BESTOWED.

Divinely b. upon man A.S. 18
Empire is on us b. B. 43
Griof is itself a medicine, and b. Ch. 159
With all that man e'er wished, or Heaven b.? Ex. 19
B. on man, like all that we partake H. 117
The fragrant waters on my cheeks b. M.P. 62
And he that deems his leisure well b. R. 505

To taste a joy like that he has b. R. 632
Fair recompense of labour well b. T. iii 430
The praise b. was just and wise Th. 13
By such a lamp b. Tran. i 14

BESTRIDES.

B. the wintry flood, in which the moon T. iv 3
BETIDE.

At what such a dream should b.? M.D. 42

BETIMES.

B. into the mould of heavenly truth Tir. 106 Shall blush b., and there his glory rise Tir. 396

Too oft b. the votaries of his fires A.T. 30 Who yet b. his secret by his works Con. 80

With naught in charge, he could b. no trust P.E. 29 B. the secret of their silent course T. 198
That speech b. at once a bigot's tongue T. 519
Flash desperation, and b. their range T i 502

Flash desperation, and b. their pangs T. i 502 But if, with all his genius, he b. Tir. 529 B. thee, while professing to defend T.T. 333

BETRAYED.

Perhaps his confidence just then b. E. iii 36 Where the b., forsaken, and oppressed T. 437 The alippery seat b. the sliding part T. i 46

BETTER.

B. dwell in the midst of alarms A.S. 7
"Andb. spear I smite you where you stand" A.T. 170
But N. liked it never the b. for that A.T. ii 6
Some b. things are found A Tale 4
And Conversation, in its b. part Con. 3
Or if, deserving of a b. doom Con. 413
Or such as might be b. shown E. iv 9
And cannot see, though few see b. E. iv 33
God's b. gift they scoff at, and refuse Ex. 459

Gol's b. gift they scoff at, and refuse Ex. 459 Prove it;—if b., I submit and bow Ex. 633 To form the b. prayer Miss — 20 Twere b. to be born a stone P. 11 And e'en the child who knows no b. P.T. 5

Their noxious growth, starve every b. seed R. 44 And ignorance of b. things makes man R. 503 Far more intelligent, and b. taught R. 673

The b. part of man unblessed St. vi 31 lugenious Fancy, never b. pleased T. i 72 Now scorned, but worthy of a b. fate T. i 254 large often wanders one, whom b. days T. i 534

Now b. clad, in clock of satin trimmed T. i 535 The b. hand, more busy, gives the nose T. ii 451 Of whom I needs must argue b. things T. ii 582 Should speak to purpose, or with b. hope T. iii 25

To all the virtues of those b. days T. iii 745
To b. deeds, he bundles up the spoil T. iv 440
Nor does the boarded hovel b. guard T. iv 443
And b. never learned, or left behind Tir. 584

Find him a b. in a distant spot Tir. 759 [T.T. 42 and Death's own scythe would b. speak his power for b. much than spectacles a brute Tir. 782 fo-guard him b. Is he not thine own Tir. 873

Saves fight for what were b. cast away T.T. 282 BETTY.

When B. screaming came down stairs J.G. 59
BEVERAGE.

And, heavy laden, brings his b. home T. i 242 He drinks his simple b. with a gust T.T. 240

BEWAIL.

Bewildered once, must he b. his loss P.E. 612 and if I must b. the blessing lost T. v 485 would at least b. it under skies T. v 487

BEWARE.

B. no negligence of yours F. 154
B. of desperate steps. The darkest day N.A. 132
B. of too sublime a sense R.C. 109
Truth will intrude—she bids him yet b. T. 471
With solemn awe, that bids me well b. T. ii 327
Of judgment and of mercy, should b. T. ii 465

BEWILDERED.

B. once, must be bewail his loss P.E. 612

BEWRAY.

Which filthily b, and sore disgrace Tir, 593

BIAS

And free from b., must approve the choice Con. 664 Free from the wayward b. bigots feel P.E. 454 The b. of the purpose. How much more T. ii 493 He gives the local b. all its sway Tir. 334

BIASED.

As Interest b. knaves, or Fashion fools Es. 38 Or seeking with a b. mind F. 209

BIB.

One that still needs his leading-string and $b.\ P.E.\ 531$ The backstring and the b., assume the dress $T.\ iv\ 227$

BIBLE.

That dropped upon his B. was sincere H. 575 Carries her B. tucked beneath his arm T. 147 Just knows, and knows no more, her B. true T. 327 The B. only stands neglected there T. 425 The B. an imposture and a cheat? T. 432

BIBLE-OATH.

A b. to be whate'er they please T. iv 629

BICKERINGS.

In causeless feuds and b. of their own Ex. 537 But oh! the strife! the b., and debate H. 342 This civil b. and debate L.R. 17

RID

An earthquake may be b, to spare A Fable 34 B. suffer it awhile, and kiss the rod Ch. 166 Else I would say, and as I spake b. fly Ch. 268 Tis heavy, bulky, and b. fair to prove Con. 307 And Jupiter b. fair to rule again Con. 822 And b. a dawning sky display E. i 77 [Con. 444 And speech may praise the power that b. it flow Had b. defiance to the warring world Ex. 212B. rottenness invade, and bring to dust Ex. 332 That He b. thousands fly when none pursue Ex. 360 B. nations leagued against thee stand aloof Ex.565Who b. him shine, or if he shine or not H. 84 And t. the mountains he has built stand fast H. 476 Clothes it with earth, and b. the produce live Her. 30 And b, us fear the same M, ii 4 'Tis Nature b., and whilst the laws Miss — 49 When virtue b. it flow Miss - 56 B. me and Mary mourn N. 14 Has He b. you buy and sell us N.C. 27 But know, the law that b. the drunkard die P.E. 199 Ye are $b_{\cdot,\cdot}$ begged, besought to entertain P.E. 264 Hence the same word, that b. our lusts obey P.E. 496 To b. the pleadings of Self-love be still R. 129 And b. her mountains and her hills rejoice R. 362 B. these in elegance of form excel R. 793 Than b. me shun the deep, and dread the shore R.H.Where Duty b. he confidently steers R.H. 6 To b. Affliction's eye no longer stream S. ii 12 Go, b. the winter cease to chill the year T. 399 Truth will intrude—she b. him yet beware T. 471 He b. him glow with unremitting love T. 557

When Custom b., but no refreshment find T. i 390 And gives them all their fury; b. a plague T. ii 182 And b, the world take heart and banish fear T, ii 195 With solemn awe, that b, me well beware T, ii 327 That b. defiance to the united powers T. ii 769 Impervious to the wind. First he b. spread T. iii 475 And undebauched. But we have b, farewell T, iii 744 Even as heb.! The enraptured owner smiles T. iii 780 That he has let it pass—But never b. T. vi 294 Or b. the rocks in ruder pomp arise Tir. 28 B. fair enough to answer in the proof Tir. 564 To b, the traveller, as he went Tran, i 15 'Tis power almighty b. him shine Tran. i 23 Nor b. him shine in vain Tran. i 24 Г213 And b, them hide themselves in earth beneath T, iii The glass that b, man mark the fleeting hour T.T.41Nor draw it, but when Duty b. him draw T.T. 78 B. equity throughout his works prevail T.T. 250 I b. you both a long and last adicu V. 5 Г509 Drink and be mad then; 'tis your country b.! T. iv

The post that at his b, speeds away Ex, 355 And waste it at the b, of his hand T.T. 451

RIDST.

Who b, me honour with an artless song M.P. 13 BIER.

As if they met around a father's b. Con. 874 And e'en the star, that glitters on the b. H. 270

BIG.

Or scare the nation with its b. contents Ch. 617 A despot b. with power obtained by wealth Ex. 370 "My head is twice as b. as yours J.G. 187 For why?—they were too b. J.G. 212 [498 Have proved them truths too b. to be expressed Com. Burly and b., and studious of his ease T. i 63 To costasy too b. to be suppress'd T. vi 340 Is kept to strut, look b., and talk away T.T. 233

BIGOT.

So he called him a b., a wrangler, a monk A.T. ii 3 Then Ceremony leads her b. forth Ex. 115 No blinder b., I maintain it still H. 594 Free from the wayward bias b. feel P.E. 454 That speech betrays at once a b.'s tongue T. 519

BIGOTRY.

Who though devout, yet b. had none Con. 68 Themselves the slaves of b. or lust Ex. 529 While B., with well dissembled fears H. 657 With all that b. adopts, inspired T. 88

BILK

He cannot drink five bottles, b. the score P.E. 193

BILKING.

In b. tavern bills, and spouting plays Tir. 327
BILLIARDS.

Returns at noon to b., or to books R. 472 Becomes a dice-box, and a b. mace T. iv 221

BILLOW

The b. and the blast defied A Tale 55
The Atlantic b. roared Cast. 2
Whom the winds waft where'er the b. roll Ex. 19
"Where tempests never beat nor b. roar M.P. 97
O'er the raging b. borne N.C. 4
And at his feet the baffled b. die T. i 525
Tormented into b., heaves and swells T. ii 101
By many a b. tossed Tran. iv 3

BILLOWY.

And fearless of the b. scene Q.V. 71

BILLS.

Anticipated ronts, and b. unpaid R. 559 In bilking tavern b., and spouting plays Tir. 327

BIND

"The marriage bond has lost its power to b. A.T. 101 To b. the lawless, and to punish guilt Ch. 281 The ties of Nature do but feebly b. Ch. 371 And b. the task assigned thee to thine heart Er. 651 The pride of lettered ignorance that b. H. 483 The keenest frost that b. the stream N. 5 No. But his own engagement b. him fast P.F.10Delusions strong as Hell shall b. him fast P.E. 609 Forbids the advancement of the soul he b. R. 236 Or b. them faster on, and add still more? T. 186 That b. the sinner's Bacchanalian brow T. 462 B. man, the lord of all. Himself derives T. i 386 B. all his faculties, forbids all growth T. i 613 Reclaims the wanderer, b. the broken heart T. ii To b. the roving appetite, and lead T. ii 525 And b, the shoulders flat. We prove its use T. ii What longest b. the closest, forms secure T. iii 🕊 The audacious convict, whom he dares not b. T.iv No frost can b. it there; its utmost force T. v if Oppression, prisons, have no power to b. T. v 54 And that to b. him is a vain attempt T. v 777 And b, a wreath about their baby brows T.T. 134 The chain that b, them, and a tyrant's sway T.T.

BIRCH.

Where Nichol swung the b. and twined the bays

BIRD.

(For ravens, though, as b. of omen A Fable 20 The homeless b. a nest? A Tale 28 Not even b. can hide A Tale 66 But you have killed a tiny b. Beau 5 Sir, when I flew to seize the b. B.R. 1If killing b, be such a crime B.R. 25 A captive b. into the boundless sky Ch. 269 To learn the twittering of a meaner b.? Con. 448 It passed unnoticed, as the b. E. i 87 Blush when I tell you how a b. F.B. 34 No groves have ye; nor cheerful sound of b. H. The b. put off their every hue Mrs. M-1B. of all feather, beasts of every name N.A. 65 If b. confabulate or no P.T. 2 The b., conceiving a design P.T. 11 A last year's b., who ne'er had tried P.T. 28 But though the b. were thus in haste P.T. 45 The fall of waters, and the song of b. R. 183 Sweet b. in concert with harmonious streams L The self-applauding b., the peacock see T. 58 B. warbling all the music. We can spare T. 17 B. warbling all the music. On b. and beast, the other charged for man T. iv He gives the princely b., with all his wives T. iv Of other tenants than melodious b. T. iv 574 He sees me, and at once, swift as a b. T. vi 316 And just in his account, why b. and beast T. vi The young to let the parent b. go free T. vi 446 He cannot skim the ground like summer b. T. vi Oft water fairest meadows, and the b. T. vi 930 Dire foe alike of b. and mouse T.B. 20 Thus sang the sweet sequestered b. The Dores S There is a b. who, by his coat Tran. ii 1 Thrice happy b.! I too have seen Tran. ii 31 Sweet Poll! the mimic b. replies Tran. iv 14 Belinda and her b.! 'tis rare Tran. iv 31 When b, are to be taught to prate Tran. iv 41 To weaving nets for b. fruit T. iv 263

BIRKS.

All b, and braes, though he was never there T.T.1

BIRTH.

he gems of India, Nature's rarest b. Ch. 134 lives Charity her being and her b. Ch. 378 s He ordains things sordid in their b. Ch. 561 o hear them tell of parentage and b. Con. 210 When wine has given indecent language b. Com. 263 and He that gives conception aids the b. Con. 434 artakers of a new ethereal b. Con. 724 [343 legret would rouse them, and give b, to prayer T. he pangs of a poetic b. Dr. 7 b. R. 35 ouls that have long since despised their heavenly erhaps 'twas mere good humour gave it b. E. iii 38 and theirs, by b., the Saviour of us all Ex. 202reates, gives b. to, guides, consummates all Ex. 315 he cradle that received thee at thy b. Ex. 469 ants for the place of her ethereal b. H. 162 If one, whose b, was in a land of light H, 535 the teemed and heaved with an infernal b. Her. 13 ly boast is not that I deduce my b. M.P. 108 Vould mock the majesty of man's high b. R.71Shall seem to start into a second b. R. 356 To b. or wit, nor gives nor takes offence R. 450 n vain they pushed inquiry to the b. T. ii 511 langs over mortal eyes, blind from the b. T. iii 234 3., deaths, and marriages, epistles wet T. iv 17 de is indeed a freeman. Free by b. T. v 763 And systems of whose b. no tidings yet T. v 827 When all creation started into b. T. vi 199 By ancient covenant ere Nature's b. T. vi 858 Why did the fiat of a God give b. Tir. 85 The great indeed, by titles, riches, b. Tir. 346 To give a Milton b, asked ages more T.T. 559 That once lived here thy brethren! At my b. Y.O. 2 So much thy juniors, who, their b. received Y.O. 135

BIRTHDAY.

The b. of Invention; weak at first T. i 17

BIRTH-PLACE.

His b. and his dam? The country mourns T. ii 814 BIRTHRIGHT.

His b. shaken, and no longer clear Con. 765 Thee of thy b., gentle Bob E. iv 2 Where I am free by b., not at all T. v 479

BISCUIT.

The b., or confectionary plum M.P. 61 BISHOP.

Supposed the man a b., or at least Con. 71And though a B, toil to cleanse the stain Ex, 384 Go, cast your orders at your B.'s feet P.E. 120 Not all the plenty of a B.'s board T. 121 They know not, what some b. may not know T. 451 Behold your b.! well he plays his part Tir. 420 BISHOP-LIKE.

Where, b., he finds a perch Tran. ii 5 BIT.

Thus b. by b. the world is swallowed L.W. 34 Always at speed, and never drawing b. T.T. 685 BITCH-FOX.

Where oft the b. hides her hapless brood N.A. 4

And, when he could, would b. Ep. ii 12 [iii 581 The winter's frown, if screened from his shrewd b. T. The creature is so sure to kick and b. P.E. 540Grow frantic with her pangs, and b. the ground T.444BITTER

Yet b. felt it still to die Cast. 35 Rise he was seldom b. or morose E. iii 35 Wept till all Israel heard his b. cry Ex. 63 That can alone make sweet the b. draught T. i 751 Unmixed with drops of b., which neglect T. iii 46 And she that sweetens all my b. too T. iii 720

BITTERNESS.

Adds tenfold b, to death by pangs T, vi 895

Let Dares beat Entellus b. and blue Con. 198 That, with a b. infernal train E. iv 15 Fleecy locks and b, complexion N.C. 13 Dwells in white and b, the same N.C. 16 Though b, and foul before O, i 20 But while they get riches by purchasing b. P.A. 15-The poisonous, b., insinuating worm P.E. 7 As yet b. breeches were not, satin smooth T. i 10 Lapdog and lambkin with b., staring eyes T. i 37 The bramble, b. as jet, or sloes austere T. i 122 His azure eyes, is tinctured b. and red T. iv 216 Serves but to show how b. is all beside Tir. 844His b. interpreter the charge disdained T.T. 99 BLACKBIRD.

The b. has fled to another retreat P.F. 9 The warblings of the b, clear and strong R. 569

BLACKEN.

Give it a charge to b, and traduce T.T. 763

BLACK-SCEPTRED.

To the b. rulers of slaves M.D. 47

BLADDER.

And music of the b, and the bag T, i 585

BLADE.

Or b. that might redeem it from despair Her. 28 And tender b, that feared the chilling blast T. iv 331 From every herb and every spiry b. T. \forall 9 Such were not they of old, whose tempered b.T. 515 To the green b, that twinkles in the sun T, vi 251

BLAME.

(A fault philosophers might b. A Fable 5 To scourge him, weariness his only b. Ch. 215 Satire is, more than those he brands; to b. Ch. 492 Not that all freedom of dissent I b. Con. 97 And he that b, what they have blindly chose H. 284 B., cynic, if you can, quadrille or ball P.E. 175 B. his own indolence, observes, though late R. 477 Poor Jack—no matter who—for when I b. R. 575 Now b. we most the nurslings or the nurse? T. ii 771 Perfect and unimpeachable of b. T. v 867 A necessary act incurs no b. T. vi 573 What none could reverence all might justly b. Tir. 87 I b. not those who, with what care they can Tir. 261 Or, if I b., 'tis only that they dare Tir. 263 The great and small deserve one common b. Tir. 515 And fierce Licentiousness should bear the b. T.T. 329

BLAMED.

He b, and protested, but joined in the plan P.A. 43 BLAMELESS.

Though b., had incurred perpetual strife Con. 512 His only answer was a b. life H. 577 Tis b., be it what it may) N.Y.G. 19 The b. animal, without rebuke T. vi 469

BLAME-WORTHY.

Thee therefore still, b. as thou art T. v 456

BLANK.

As bastions set point b. against God's will Con. 688 Not yet so b., or fashionably blind H. 92 Of b. oblivion, seem a glorious prize T. i 287 There touched by Reynolds, a dull b. becomes T. i 700 The streams are lost amid the splendid b. T. v 96

His road, deriding much the b. amaze T. vi 536 The tomb take all, and all be b. beyond Tir. 68 If not a scene of pleasure, a mere b. Tir. 752

BLASPHEME.

The Truth she loves a sightless world b. Ch. 416 B. his creed, as founded on a plan Tir. 159

BLASPHEMED.

B. the authority from which it sprung Ex. 156

BLASPHEMY.

Impudent b.! So Folly pleads Ch. 194
That Scripture lies, and b. is sense P.E. 595
Was b. his sin? Or did he stray T. 48
And bears the brand of b. burnt in T. 348
The mouth with b., the heart with woe T. i 505

RLAST

Lest the rude b. should snap the bough A Fable 14 The billows and the b. defied A Tale 55 But so the furious b. prevailed Cast. 21 Had heard his voice in every b. Cast. 45 That since the flowers of Eden felt the b. Con. 751 Chill b. of trouble nip their springing joys E. ii 32 Was rocked by many a rough Norwegian b. Ex. 470And while, at intervals, a cold $b. \sin p Ex. 720$ The Christian vessel, and defies the b. H. 168 Thus braves the whirling b. Miss -- 34 And where the woods fence off the northern b. T. Me howling b, drive devious, tempest-tossed M.P.102Nor b. that shake the dripping bower Mrs. M-16 Come fiend, come fury, giant, monster, b. N.A. 121 Sent us a wind to parch us at a b.? P.E. 256 Slips to his hammock, and forgets the b. R. 436 The rising waves obey the increasing b. R. 532 Unnumbered branches waving in the b. T. i 188 The impression of the b, with proud disdain T, i 380 And desolates a nation at a b. T. ii 188 The plenteous bloom, that no rough b. may sweep T. And potent to resist the freezing b. T. iii 465 At evening, till at length the freezing b. T. iv 303 And tender blade, that feared the chilling b. T. iv 331Or shed impervious to the b. Resigned T. v 72 Of wintry \hat{b} .; the loftiest tower Trans. H. 14 Who for the sake of filling with one b. T.T. 31 Ungenial b. attending curl the streams T.T. 213

BLASTED.

And what his storms have b, and defaced T, vi 745

BLAZE.

How dark the veil that intercepts the b. Ch. 57
To make a b.—that's roasting him alive Con. 334
The b. of a meridian day E. i 78
That cannot bear the b. of Scripture light H. 298
This earth shall b., and a new world succeed H. 749
To thee the dayspring, and the b. of noon R. 347
Tight boxes neatly sashed, and in a b. R. 483
And spreads his hopes before the b. of day T. iii 445
Just when our drawing-rooms begin to b. T. iv 267
Resemble most some city in a b. T. v 5
Occasion needs but fan them, and they b. T. v 207
As set the midnight riot in a b. Tir. 287

BLAZED.

Than ever b. by art U. 28

BLAZING.

Refreshing change! where now the b. sun? T. i 335 Her scanty stock of brushwood, b. clear T. iv 381 And b. London seemed a second Troy T.T. 323

BLAZON.

Patires to b. his own worthless name R. 217

BLEACHED.

A splintered stump b. to a snowy white Y.O. 128 BLEAK.

But where, however b. the view A Tale 3

BLEAKER.

Must find a colder soil and b. air Tir. 851

BLEAR.

Should ever tease the lungs and b. the sight T. iii
BLEATING.

Known by thy b., Ignorance thy name Con. 588 Nor herds have ye to boast, nor b. flocks H. 466 And sheep-walks populous with b. lambs T. vi lll

BLED.

And while the victim slowly b. to death Ez. 498 B., groaned, and agonized, and died in vain P.E. 69 For which our Hampdens and our Sidneys b. T. v 40 B. nobly, and their deeds, as they deserve T. v 70

BLEED.

B. gold for ministers to sport away T. iv 508
BLEEDING.

B. from the Roman rods B. 2 Lay b. under that soft hand of thine P.E. 338 And staunch the b. of a broken heart R. 322 Not knowing thee, we reap with b. hands R. 753 With stripes, that Mercy, with b. brows T. vi 236 Who wore the platted thorns with a b. heart T. 112With b. sides and flanks that heave for life T. vi 4

BLEMISH.

That none are free from b. since the fall Ch. 204 Some b. in due time made known F. 146 A b., or a sense impaired M.F. 43 Who reckon every touch a b. P. 56

BLEND

To him that b. no fable with his song H. 755 To b. good sense and elegance and ease S. ii 11 BLESS.

Your golden moments b. Miss — 102 [vi 69]
To gaze in his eyes and b. him. Maidens ware 1
Kneels and asks Heaven to b. the dear deceit P.E.S.
Adore him? Will he hear, accept, and b.? T. ii 51

BLESSED.

B. the glad beams of that propitious day A.T. 20 B. with all wealth can give thee, to resign Ch. 25 Blessing and b. where'er she goes Comp. i 8 4 Should range where Providence has b. the soil Ch. He b. the bread, but vanished at the word Cos. 5 O b. within the enclosure of your rocks H. 465 Yet b. the guardian care that kept M. ii 7 O b. proficiency! surpassing all R. 99 [P.S. Heaven b. the youth, and made him fresh and B., rather cursed, with hearts that never feel R. 5 Girt with a bell-rope that the Pope has b. T. 82 O b. effect of penury and want T. 361 Or only with a whistle b. T.B. 10

BLESSING.

For the chief b. of my fairest days Ch. 265 B. and blessed where'er she goes Comp. i 8 And shed the balmy b. on the lips Con. 442 Friendship a b. cheap or small E. i 92 Transformed to b., miss their cruel aim E. ii 38 The b. of the most indebted land Ex. 164 He brought thy land a b. when he came Ex. 484 Given thee his b. on the clearest proof Ex. 564 That b. truly sacred, and when given Ex. 684 A b. to my country and mankind Ex. 727 And bliss not seen by b. understood H. 148

Ill witnesses of b. foully scorned H. 223 and ask, and fancy they find, b. there H. 243 beem life a b. with its numerous woes H. 546 y gales of b. driven St. iii 32 hall find the b. unimproved, a curse T. 521 nd jealous of the b. Spread it then T. ii 44 rom whom are all our \hat{b} , business finds T, iii 366 nd if I must be wail the b. lost T. v 485 ut had a b. in its darkest frown T. vi 35 hose b.'s of our early youth The Doves 11 nworthy of the b. of the brave T.T. 27 b., freedom is the pledge of all T.T. 287 ad if he add, a b. shared by few V. 89

BLEST. h! never seen but in thy b. effects Ch. 7 ut souls that carry on a b. exchange Con. 693 hat there are b. inhabitants of earth Con. 723 ad b. reforms that I have never heard Con. 804 to traveller ever reached that b, abode E, ii 11 people, planted, watered, b. as they? Ex. 168scept a few with Eli's spirit b. Ex. 448 [377 he Saviour's feast, his own b. bread and wine Ex. B. be the art that can immortalize M.P. 8 n wedded love already b. N.Y.G. 11 I. he, though undistinguished from the crowd T. i ove makes the music of the b. above P.E. 77 That says the prophet? Let that day be b. P.E. 157hace the b. residence of truth divine T. 387)h b, seclusion from a jarring world T, iii 675 hus b, I draw a picture of that bliss T, iii 694 I with an infant's ignorance of all T. iv 624 in that b. moment, Nature throwing wide T. v 891 Iry now the merits of this b. exchange Tir. 173 A father b. with an ingenious son Tir. 543 Perhaps a father, b. with any brains Tir. 626 Churchmen, in whose esteem their b. employ Tir. 823 B. country, where these kingly glories shine! T.T.81

B. England, if this happiness be thine! T.T. 82 BLEW.

The ruffling wind, scarce conscious that it b. T. i 156 BLIGHT.

The garden fears no b., and needs no fence T. vi 771

BLIGHTED.

Fruits of a b. size, austere and crude T. 494 BLIGHTING.

Infectious as impure, your b. power Con. 41

 B was he born, and his misguided eyes Ch. 357 Grown dim in trifler studies, b. he dies Ch. 358 Endued with reason, yet by nature b. Ch. 382 She sees a world stark b. to what employs Ch. 404 He might as well be b., and deaf, and dumb Con. 144 But are we so to wit and beauty b. Con. 257 [375] But counterfeit is b., and skulks through fear Con. Sparious, and only current with the b. E. ii 8 B. to the working of that secret Power Ex. 320 On special search, the keen-eyed eagle b. Ex. 631 And whether being crazed or b. F. 208 N_{01} yet so blank, or fashionably b. H. 92 And teach the world, if not perversely b. H. 138 The gross idolatry b. heathens teach H. 499
The lawless herd, with fury b. M. ii 13 To faults compassionate or b. M.F. 56 Within no bounds—the b. that lead the b. P.E. 477 Not b. by choice, but destined not to see T. 530 $\frac{B}{r}$ nature to a God not yet revealed T. ii 528 Prepares it for its ruin, hardens, b. T. ii 690 Became stone b.; precedence went in truck T. ii 741 | Who write in b. the merits of your cause Her. 42

Hangs over mortal eyes, b. from the birth T. iii 234 And snow, that often b. the traveller's course T. v 142 Yours, a b. instinct, crouches to the rod T. v 355 Their progress in the road of science; b. T. v 451 Thou shalt perceive that thou wast b. before $T_* v 781$ We give to Chance, b. Chance, ourselves as b. T. v 865 Him b. antiquity profaned, not served T. vi 231 B., and in love with darkness! yet e'en these T. vi 885 "Ah, b. to bright futurity, untaught Tir. 379 Look round you on a world perversely b. Tir. 813 Merely to gratify so b. a guide? Tir. 864 Thus decked, he charms a world whom Fashion b. T.

BLINDED. The spells and charms that b, you before P.E. 619 BLINDER.

No b. bigot, I maintain it still H. 594 BLINDLY.

And he that blames what they have b, chose H, 281 BLISS.

To quit the b, thy rural scenes bestow Ch, 299 True b., if man may reach it, is composed Con. 679 Invite thee, woo thee, to the b. they share Ex. 627 A scene of fancied b, and heart-felt care H, 5 And b. not seen by blessings understood H. 148 That b., revealed in Scripture, with a glow H. 149 Plucks amaranthine joys from bowers of b. H. 164 That man will freely take an unbought b. H. 335 O b. precarious, and unsafe retreats! Her. 33 That there is b. prepared in yonder sky J.T. 13 At once both b, and wee! Miss — 8 Perhaps a tear, if souls can weep in b. M.P. 26 Full b. is b. divine N.Y.G. 14 Lead to the b. she promises the wise P.E. 73 To stand a way-mark in the road to b.? P.E. 117 His only b, is sorrow for her sake R. 244 All b. beside a shadow or a sound R. 354 Yet how fallacious is all earthly b. R. 457 Deceitful views of future b., farewell! T. 9 The path to b, abounds with many a snare T. 301 That endless b. (how strange soe'er it seem) T. 355 Was b. reserved for happier days;—so slow T. i 83 Domestic Happiness, thou only b. T. iii 41 But foolish man foregoes his proper b. T. iii 296 Thus blest, I draw a picture of that b. T. iii 694 That flattered me with hopes of earthly b. T. iv 696These, and a thousand images of b. T. vi 341 Scenes of accomplish'd b.! which who can see T. vi 760 Therefore in contemplation is his b. T. vi 924

BLITHE.

And Bonner, b. as shepherd at a wake Ex. 614 They sang as b, as finches sing F.B. 7 The priest he merry is and b. Y.D. 5

As b. spiders draw the flimsy line P.E. 495 Into his overgorged and b. purse T. i 737 Strange that such folly as lifts b. man T. v 283 And b, spider, till the pampered pest T, v 422

RLOCKHEAD.

If I mistake not—B.! with a fork! H. 362

BLOOD.

"The b. of ancient worthies in his veins A.T. 116 In the b, that she has spilt B, 14 Or one whom b. allures Beau 14 The tender argument of kindred b. Ch. 32 Trade in the b. of innocence, and plead Ch. 182 By an oath dipped in sacramental b.? Ex. 381 And when he laid them on the scent of b. Ex. 520 Received the seal of martyrdom in b. Ex. 617

No crested warrior dips his plume in b. Her. 86 With b. of his subjects imbrued M.D. 36 By our b. in Afric wasted N.C. 41 By right of worth, not b. alone Q.V. 3 My penitential stripes, my streaming b. T. 95 Cleansed in thine own all-purifying b. T. 581 Nor yet the mariner, his b. inflamed T. i 417 A plague into his b, and cannot use T, ii 140 Paid with the b, that he had basely spared T, iii 91 Search it, and prove now if it be not b. T. iii 204 To fill with riot, and defile with b. T. iii 307 Who starves his own; who persecutes the b. T. iv 463 Build factories with b., conducting trade T. iv 681 Cain had already shed a brother's b. T. v 208 Bought with His b. who gave it to mankind T. v 546 Have fallen in her defence. A Patriot's b. T. v 714 And win it with more pain. Their b. is shed T. v 719 With b, of their inhabitants impaled T, vi 391 And the b, thrills and curdles at the thought T, vi 514 With sounding whip, and rowels dyed in b. T. vi 527 Is not; the pure and uncontaminate b. T. vi 789 And overpaid its value with thy b. T. vi 860 Of amnesty, the meed of b. divine Y.O. 13

BLOOD-BOUGHT.

Cheap though b., and thrown awaywhen sold T.T.331

BLOOD-EXTORTING.

Matches, b. screws N.C. 30

BLOODY.

And eats into his b. sword like rust T.T. 8

BLOOM

To exhibit, in full b. disclosed F. 44 [iii 441]
The plenteous b., that no rough blast may sweep T.
Sweet smiles, and b.less transient than her own T.i 461
On all that b. below, or shines above H. 136
Deserted of its b., the flaccid, shrunk T. i 392
And dangerous to the touch, has yet its b. T. i 528
There b. exotic beauty, warm and snug T. iii 568
His faculties, expanded in full b. T. iv 661
Hypericum all b., so thick a swarm T. vi 165

BLOOMED.

Might have b. with its owner a while The Rose 18

BLOOMEST.

Deem not, sweet rose, that b. midst many a thorn S.ii 1

BLOOMING.

Crowned with the garland of life's b. years Con. 638
The b. groves that girdled her around Her. 6
Nor gales that catch the scent of b. groves R. 337
And putrify the breath of b. Health T. ii 184
Designs the b. wonders of the next T. vi 197
The mulberry-tree was hung with b. wreaths T. vi 685
Her sunshine and her rain, her b. spring T. vi 946

BLOSSOM.

Each opening b., freely breathes abroad T. iii 622 Her b.: and luxuriant above all T. vi 172 Spring hangs her infant b. on the trees Tir. 43 Thy b. deck our unsuspecting years V. 51

BLOSSOM-BRUISING.

Skin-piercing volley, b. hail T. v 141

BLOT.

A b. that will be still a b., in spite Ex 382
The very butt of Slander, and the b. H. 558
And say, "B. out my sin, confessed, deplored H. 502
While through the Stygian veil that b. the day Her.17
As human nature's broadest, foulest b. T. ii 22
No shades of superstition b. the day T.T. 270

BLOW.

But in the sunshine strikes the b. A Fable 39 And, Phineas-like, transfixed them at a b. A.T. 196 Deprived of her and freedom at a b. Ch. 149 May b. up self-conceit, and nourish pride Ch. 376 While you, my friend, whateverwind should b. E.iii 60 Unless a zeal for virtue guide the b. Ex. 437 Who strike the b., then plead your own defence Har. The wind did b., the cloak did fly J.G. 101 Were shattered at a b. J. G. 124 But screened from every storm that b. Mrs. M-13 The wildest wind that b. N. 6 By all the winds that b. O. i 16 Were basking hot, and all in b. P.B. 2 The breathings of the lightest air that b. R. 530 Nor those in which the stage gives vice a b. R. 685 The spark of life. The sportive wind b, wide T, i 567 B. mildew from between his shrivelled lips T. ii 186 Too weak for those decisive b. that once T. ii 273 A wreath, that cannot fade, of flowers that b.T.iv15From what point b, the weather Tran, ii 9 Skill to direct, and strength to strike the b. T.T. 🕷 If Mercy then put by the threatening b. T.T. 404 As the fairest and sweetest that b. W.N. 15

BLOWING.

But just at eve the b. weather A Fable 16

BLOWN.

II is lilies newly b. D.W. 14
The beauties of a rose full b. E. i 68
The flower of Israel's infamy full b. Ex. 222
B. all aslant, a driving, dashing rain T. 239
B. on the summit of the apparent fruit T. iii 536
B. in its native bed; 'tis there alone T. iv 660

BLUE.

Let Dares beat Entellus black and b. Con. 198
From the b.rim, where skies and mountains meetH9
The rose or lily appears b. or green H. 72
And just when evening turns the b. vault grey H. 78
"And pinch your noses b." J.P. 40.
Induced a splendid cover, green and b. T. i 32
And such expense as pinches parents b. T. ii 756
Feeds a b. flame, and makes a cheerful hearth T. iii
"That show like beacons in the b. abyss T. v 839
And has the warmth of May. The vault is b. T. vi6

BLUNDERER.

Your b. is as sturdy as a rock P.E. 539

BLUNDERS.

And when I hope his b. are all out Con. 117

BLUNT.

With every herb that b, the sense Miss - 23And forced the b, and yet unbloodied steel T. v 21 And b, his pointed fury; in its case T. vi 193

BLUNTED.

He gleans the b. shafts that have recoiled T. vi 87

BLUSH.

And only b. in the proper place Con. 374
Forgot the b. that virgin fears impart Ex 47
B., if thou canst; not petrified, thou must Ex. 55
B. when I tell you how a bird F.B. 34
B., Calumny! and write upon his tomb H. 588
His benefactress b. at the deed P.E. 212
But oft-times deaf to suppliants who would b. T. it
And having human feelings, does not b. T. ii 27
Shall b. betimes, and there his glory rise Tvs. 386
He will not b., that has a father's heart Tvs. 547
He b., hangs his head, is shy and strange Tvs. 568

BLUSHED.

That b. at its own praise; and press the youth T. ii
B. on the pannels Misser and press the youth T. B. on the pannels. Mirror needed none T. v 160 Liberty b., and hung her drooping head T.T. 324 B. that effects like these she should produce T. T. 326

And bear the marks upon a b. face Con. 349 Unveiled her b. cheek, looked on and smiled Ex. 425 And b. at the tameness of the rest Ex. 543Or b. crabs, or berries that emboss T. i 121 With b. fruits, and plenty not his own T. iii 429 No longer b, for her awkward load T, iv 551 With b. wreaths, investing every spray T. vi 169

BLUSTERING.

Asseveration b. in your face Con. 59

Washed headlong from on b. Cast. 4 Would give relief of bed and b. to none H. 306 Sir Smug," he cries (for lowest at the b. H. 413 Lolling at your jovial b. N.C. 22 Sits long and late at the carousing b. T. 50 Not all the plenty of a bishop's b. T. 121 Since pulpits fail, and sounding b. reflect T. iii 21 Placed at some vacant corner of the b. T. iv 230 Would waste attention at the checker'd b. T. vi 265 And, if admitted at thy b. he sit Tir. 725 And thankful at my frugal b. 1789, 35

BOARDED.

Nor does the b. hovel better guard T. iv 443 BOAST.

For husband there and wife may b. A Tale 5 No braver chief could Albion b. Cast. 7 Whoever b. that name—behold a cheat! Ch. 603 Youth has a sprightliness and fire to b. Con. 635 Or seem to b. a fire he does not feel Con. 714 She b. a confidence she does not hold Con. 768
And thou hadst neither fleet nor flag to b. Ex. 553 Will boast it their possession F. 3 [T. vi 146 Shall b. new charms, and more than they have lost Since fickle creatures b. a soul F. 109 That h. the treasure, all at his command H. 176 Without good works, whatever some may b. H. 363 Nor herds have ye to b, nor bleating flocks H. 466 Ah! luckless speech, and bootless b. J.G. 201 My b, is not that I deduce my birth M.P. 108 Whate'er they b. of rich and gay Mrs. M-12 It i. a splendour ever new Mrs. M— 19 At length a bullfinch, who could b. P.T. 17 [186] The world can b., and her chief favourites share R. What once I valued and could b, a friend R. 378 and highest in renown, can justly b. R. 676 from grudging hands; but other b, have none T, iv We h some rich ones whom the Gospel sways T. 377 Then b. (but wait for that unhoped-for hour) T. 401 The b, of mere pretenders to the name T, i 492 Can b, but little virtue; and inert T, i 623 Laugh ye, who b. your more mercurial powers T. iv Time was when it was praise and b, enough T, ii 233 Some small pre-eminence; we justly b. T. ii 275 Such powers I b. not—neither can I rest T. iii 217 Though many b. thy favours, and affect T. iii 294 Shinesthere, and flourishes. The golden b. T. iii 571 And cherries hangs her twigs. Geranium b. T. iii 577 Was but to b. his own peculiar good T. iii 717 Should be a despot absolute, and b. T. v 311Mark now the difference, ye that b. your love T. v and stately tone of moralists, who b. T. v 690 He lives, and o'er his brimming beaker b. T. vi 434 But he may b., what few that win it can T. vi 974

And b. its splendour too Tras. i. 28 And, of all lies (be that one poet's b.), T.T. 87 All that should be the b. of British song T.T. 369 Of chiefs whose single arm could b. 1789, 5

BOASTED.

The solemn trifler, with his b. skill Ch. 355 The sword shall light upon thy boasted powers Ch. Abhors the craft he b. of before H. 522 Tarnish all your b. powers N.C. 54 New-fangled sentiment, the b. grace Tir. 539

BOASTING.

What! silent? Is your b. heard no more T. 567

BOAT.

While the billows high-lifted the b. M.D. 7

The Jachin and the B. of them all Tir. 500 BOB.

Thee of thy birthright, gentle B. E. iv 2

BOBBINS.

Pillow and b. all her little store T. 318

BODILY.

They left these b. concerns at large A.T. 130 BODING.

The jay, the pie, and even the b. owl T. 205

He feels his b's bondage in his mind Ch. 152 Tell not as new what every b. knows Con. 237 But how a b. so fantastic, trim T. ii 460 Becomes a loathsome b., only fit T. iv 674 Stripes, and a dungeon; and his b. serves T. v 582 His b. bound, but knows not what a range T. v 775 BŒOTIAN.

Like a gross fog B., rising fast T. iii 495

From many a streaming lake and recking b. A.T. 93 Of Tiber's marshes and the papal b. Ex. 511(As Irish b. are always green) F. 122 And are indeed a b, that bears F, 124

BOIL.

Kindle a flery b. upon the skin T. ii 183 BOLD.

Airy del Castro was as b. a knight A.T. 1 So may the wolf, whom famine has made b. Ch. 184 A b. remark, but which, if well applied Ch. 535 Learned at the bar, in the palæstra b. Con. 842 To build our altar, confident and b. Con. 849 As b. as, in Agrippa's presence, Paul Ex. 445 And wilt thou join to this b. enterprise Ex. 698 His b. intrusion on their dark retreat H. 356 Where b. inquiry, diving out of sight H. 443 I am a linendraper b. J.G. 21Pushing her b. inquiry to the date R. 669 To Justice she may make her b. appeal T. 498 Than all invective is his b. harangue T. ii 354 Or harmless flocks is hazardous and b. T. iv 575 To be as b. and forward as he ought Tir. 339 When infamous Venality grown b. T.T. 416 Surly and slovenly, and b. and coarse T.T. 682 To the four-quartered winds robust and b. Y.O. 98

A b. still, a contest with the skies Ex. 699 BOLDEST.

ach seal in virtue's cause all teachers b. Tir. 517 The b. patriot might be proud to feel Ch. 308

Γ184

BOLDLY.

No knave but b, will pretend F. 13 Of popular disgust, yet b. still T. iii 706

BOLDNESS.

Stood trembling at the b. of thy power Ex. 597

BOLE.

Thou hadst within thy b. solid content Y.O. 94

BOLT.

Shoots back the b., and all his courage dies H. 721 The infidel has shot his b. away T. vi 872 Of headstrong youth were broken; bars and b. T. The b. that spare the mountains side Trans. H. 16

BOLTED. That sweeps the b. shutter, summons home T. iv 301

BON-MOTS. \cdot B. to gall the Christian and the Jew T. 308

BOND. "The marriage b, has lost its power to bind A.T.101All b. of nature, in that moment end Ch. 142 It does not feel for man. The natural b. T. ii 9 And wear the b., than fasten them on him T. ii 36 A dissolution of all b, ensued T, ii 743 Than to release the adultress from her b. T. iii 63 By regal warrant, or self-joined by b. T. iv 664 Gives b, in stone and ever-during brass T, v 710 "Our mutual b. of faith and truth The Doves 9

His being end where death dissolves the b. Tir. 67 The practice was a b. upon his heart Tir. 177 To keep the matrimonial b. unstained T.T. 74

BONDAGE.

He feels his body's b. in his mind Ch. 152 But we, in mutual b. knit Dr. 17 You chains and b. for a tyrant's sake T. v 352 Her house of b., worse than that of old T. v 382

BONDMAN.

BONE.

I was a b. on my native plain Ch. 236

Shortlived themselves to immortalize their b. T. v Which stuck in M.'s stomach as cross as a b. A.T. ii 8 And buy the muscles and the b. of man? Ch. 140 Thy b, not fashioned, and thy joints not knit Ex. 475 They left their b, beneath unfriendly skies Ex. 524 Dewdrops may deck the turf that hides the b. St.ii 31 From gaiety that fills the b. with pain T. i 504 The prominent and most unsightly b. T. ii 588

B. of my b., and kindred souls to mine T. iii 220 Thyself in miniature, thy flesh, thy b.? Tir. 874 On future broken b. and bruises Tran. ii 20 That breathes the spleen, and searches every b. \dot{T} . iv Proportioned well, half muscle and half b. T.T. 219

BONNER. And $B_{\cdot \cdot}$, blithe as shepherd at a wake Ex. 614

BONNY.

Perhaps some b. Caledonian air T.T. 534

BONY. With b, and unkerchiefed neck defies T. 137

BOOBIES.

Then let the b. stay at home Y.D. 65

BOOK.

Small need of Prayer B., or of priest, I ween A.T. 88 M. quarrels with N. because M. wrote a b. A.T. ii 1 With her b., and her voice, and her lyre C. 49

Then grace the b. phantom in their stead T.T. 43

Though such continual zigzags in a b. Con. 861 What walks we take, what b, we choose E, i 6 Kiss the b.'s outside, who ne'er look within? Ez. 389

The sacred B., its value understood Ex. 616 The b. of all the world that charmed me most H. 427

The Sacred B, no longer suffers wrong H. 449 Stoppled his cruise, replaced his b. Mor. 7

Well tutored learning, from his b. Mrs. M- 37 A critic on the sacred b. should be P.E. 452

Returns at noon to billiards, or to b. R. 472

The b. shall teach you; read, believe, and live!" T B., therefore, not the scandal of the shelves R. 683 B., beads, and maple dish, his meagre stock T. 80

The Scripture was his jest b., whence he drew T. 307 His b. well trimmed, and in the gayest style T.421But rare at home, and never at his b. T. ii 383 What's that which brings contempt upon a b. T. iii 277

Friends, b., a garden, and perhaps his pen T. iii 355 Which neatly she prepares; then to his b. T. iii 392 To b., to music, or the poet's toil T. iv 262

And learning wiser grow without his b. T. vi 87 B. are not seldom talismans and spells T. vi 98 He notes it in his b., then raps his box T. vi 292 That His most holy b., from whom it came T. vi 650 Better than all the b. he found T.B. 41 [114

What friends we sort with, or what b, we read T_{i} : A b. (to please us at a tender age Tir. 121 'Twere well with most if b. that could engage Tir.

'Tis called a b., though but a single page) Tir. 123 Deeper in none than in their surgeon's b. Tir. 289 Not to be found by poring on a b. Tir. 384

BOON. What uses of his b. the giver would Con. 436

Accept it only, and the b. is yours H. 327 The richest earthly b, his hands afford R. 271 Would he improve the b. St. v 4 To all the nations. Ample was the b. T. v 199 And with the b. gives talents for its use T. v 860But if he grant a friend, that b. possessed V. 91

Of Indian fume, and guzzling deep, the b. T. iv 47.

BOORISH. The b. driver leaning o'er his team T. i 298

BOOT.

Oh spare them, ye knights of the b. Gr. 19 [T. iv]With spatter'd b., strapp'd waist, and frozen lock In ponderous b, beside his recking team T, iv 313

BOOTED. Spendthrifts, and b. sportsmen, oftener seen T. ii 75

BOOTLESS. Ah! luckless speech, and b. boast J.G. 201

'Twere wild profusion all, and b. waste Tir. 49 BORDERING.

A rich deposit, on the b. lands Ch. 249

BORDERS.

That overhangs the b. of thy Tomb H. 38

And b. the worthless prize away A Fable 29 Thy Druids struck the well-strung harps they b. E And b, the pelting scorn of half an age H, 557 A scourge hung with lashes he b. M.D. 30 Finds, by degrees, the truths that once b. sway P.

I saw the hearse that b, thee slow away M.P. 29 Not yet the hawthorn b. her berries red N.A. 19 B. on his branch, luxuriant then and rude T. 493 Been hurt by the archers. In his side He b. T. iii 1 Cyrene, when he b. the plaintive tale T. v 136 [150 Or having, kept concealed. Some drill and b. T. iii

BORED. [iv 44 And b. with elbow points through both his sides T.

RORN

In fairy land was b. the matchless dame A.T.5To names ignoble b, to be forgot! B.B. 2 Blind was he b., and his misguided eyes Ch. 357 For thou art b. sole heir, and single E. iv 3 For thou wast b. amid the din of arms Ex. 472 At length his destined moment to be b. P F.A. 20 Of sensual evil, and thus Hope is b. H. 152 B. capable indeed of heavenly truth H. 231 [iv 265 Twere better to be b. a stone P. 11 When they command whom man was b, to please T. To serve the Sovereign we were b to obey R. 50 Nor his who, for the bane of thousands b. R. 687 Well b., well disciplined, who placed apart R. 727 In happier days to brighter prospects b.! S. ii 5 That we were b. her children. Praise enough T. ii 235 Much. I was b. of woman, and drew milk T. iii 196 'Tis b. with all, the love of Nature's works T. iv 731 Thenceforth they are his cattle: drudges b. T. v 272 Remember Handel? Who, that was not b. T. vi 645 Proclaim him b. to sway Th, 10 Few boys are b. with talents that excel Tir. 509 B. in a climate softer far than ours T.T. 234 Who, b. a gentleman, hast stooped too low V. 33 B. from above and made divinely wise V. 94

BORNE.

R. far away on elevated wings A.T. 31
Was briskly b. along A Tale 54
Now b. upon the wings of Truth sublime Ex. 466
May press the eye too closely to be b. H. 551
If chance, on heavy pinions slowly b. H. 716
O'er the raging billows b. N.C. 4
For evils daily felt and hardly b. R. 752
And ready to be b. to court R.C. 20
Has slackened to a pause, and we have b. T. i 155
Possess ye, therefore, ye who, b. about T. i 754
Learning has b. such fruit in other days T. ii 248
Oh thou, whom, b. on fancy's eager wing Tir. 131
But if a deed not tamely to be b. T.T. 488

BOROUGHS.

Hence chartered b, are such public plagues T, iv 671

BORROWS.

From her the canvass b. light and shade Ch. 107 But cannot play them, b. a friend's hand T. i 473 But b. all its grandeur from the soul Tir. 10 [669 The strength they b. with the grace they lend T. iii

BORROWED.

To modest cheeks, and b. one from Art Ex. 48 On b. wheels away she flies Q.V. 37

BORROWING.

B. a beauty from the works of grace R. 358 And, at the watchman's lantern b. light T. ii 654

BOSOM.

Felt them in her b. glow B. 38
And brings, at his return, a b. charged Ch. 321
Two b. friends, each pensively inclined Con. 507
Usurps God's office, lays his b. bare Con. 745
But half a coat, and show his b. bare E. iii 51
Should spring within thy b., drive it thence Ex. 709
The glowing b. swell Miss — 16
Our self-approving b. draws Miss — 51 [N.A. 37
Sheep grazed the field; some with soft b. pressed
"Still may my melting b. cleave Miss — 85
Speckle the b. of the distant plain P.E. 83
In every b. where her nest is made P.E. 240

Nor Ouse on his b. their image receives P.F. 4
Her peaceful b. laves Q.V. 72
The b. of his God St. iii 16
A b. heaved with never ceasing sighs T. i 552
Within its recking b., threatening death T. iii 503
Unfolds its b.; buds, and leaves, and sprigs T.iv 153
In human b., quench it or abate T. iv 747
Even in the stifling b. of the town T. iv 758
As in the b. of the slaves he rules T. v 310
His b. of the hue T.B. 15
His counsellor and b. friend shall prove Tir. 216
In little b. such achievements strike Tir. 232
Writes on his b., "To be let or sold" T.T. 417
On the beautiful b. of May W.N. 16

BOTANIST.

Say, b., within whose province fall H. 286 "When, cry the b., and stare P. 21

BOTTLE.

And—pardon me, the b. stands with you" H. 380 Had two stone b. found J.G. 66
Each b. had a curling ear J.G. 69
And hung a b. on each side J.G. 71
The b. he had slung J.G. 106
A b. swinging at each side J.G. 107
The b. twain behind his back J.G. 123
For all might see the b. necks J.G. 131
He cannot drink five b., bilk the score P.E. 193

BOTTLED.

Like b. wasps upon a southern wall R. 494

BOTTOM.

And at the b. barbarous still and rude Con. 167 Runs in a b., and divides the field N.A. 10 A drawer, it chanced, at b. lined R.C. 35

BOTTOMLESS.

The b. demands of contest waged Y.O. 102

BOUGH.

Lest the rude blast should snap the b. A Fable 14 Hung not far off upon a myrtle b. A.T. 174 Here and there one upon the topmost b. T. 380 Of thorny b.: have loved the rural walk T. i 112 Their pendant b., stooping as if to drink T. i 269 Seems sunk, and shortened to its topmost b. T. i 306 Shot through the b., it dances as they dance T. i 346 His garlands from the b. Again, as oft T. iii 442 The b. in which are bred the unseemly race Tir. 594 The nightingale may claim the topmost b. T. T. 576 Thy yet close-folded latitude of b. Y.O. 21 Still lives, though all its pleasant b. are gone T. v For owls to roost in. Once thy spreading b. Y.O. 52

BOUGHT.

Whose bounty b, me but to give me light Ch. 235 Love is not pedler's trumpery, b. and sold H. 330 Men from England b. and sold me N.C. 5 That sinews b. and sold have ever earned T. ii 32 B. with His blood who gave it to mankind T. v 546

BOUND

Held within modest b., the tide of speech Con. 889 And marks the b. of our abode E. i 38 And to domestic b. confined Ep. ii 7 Whereon he loved to b. Ep. ii 22 Long time Assyria b. them in her chain Ez. 73 Then thou art b. to serve him, and to prove Ez. 560 Thy soul as ample as thy b. are small Ez. 696 My gravelly b., from self to human kind F.A. 20 B. in the fetters of an unknown tongue H. 450 Fast by the stream that b. your just domain Her. 47 B. on a voyage of awful length H.F. 17

Within no b.—the blind that lead the blind P.E. 477 They b., and airy, o'er the sunny glade St. ii 22 E'er since, a truant boy, I passed my b. T. i 114 To narrow b. The Grove receives us next T. i 354 The law by which all creatures else are b. T. i 385 B. homeward, and in hope already there T. i 522 With lace, and hat with splendid riband b. T. i 536 Bespoke him past the b. of freakish youth T. ii 704 Than in the b. of duty? What was learned T. ii 754 One common Maker b. me to the kind? T. iii 209 Like flowers selected from the rest and b. T. iv 667 Fast b. in chains of silence, which the fair T. iv 53 And they that never pass their brick-wall b. T. iv 771 The king who loves the law, respects his b. T. v 332 Was sure to intoxicate the brows it b. T. v 245 No narrow b.; her cause engages him T. v 395 His body b., but knows not what a range T. v 775 He marks the b. which Winter may not pass T. vi 192 Not so when, held within their proper b. T. vi 574 That we are b. to cast the minds of youth Tir. 105 As b. in duty, would confirm the choice Tir. 419 To more than he is hired or b. to teach Tir. 732 But never peep beyond the thorny b. T.T. 582 The brimming goblet, seized the Thyrsus b. T.T. 603

BOUNDARY.

Virtue and vice had b, in old time T, iii 75 One step beyond the b. of the laws T.T. 228

BOUNDED.

Or b. only by a law, whose force T. vi 358 BOUNDING.

Consult Life's silent clock, thy b. vein E. i 3 The chariots b, in her wheel-worn streets Ex. 21 The b. fawn, that darts across the glade T. vi 327 For b. and curvetting in his course T.T. 305

BOUNDLESS.

Hills, valleys, rivers, and the b. sea A.T. 49 And if a b. plenty be the robe Ch. 85 A captive bird into the b. sky Ch. 269 To uphold the b. scenes of his command Ch. 582 Far from the flock, and in a b. waste E. ii 42 To distribution b. of thy own J.T. 32 In b, oceans, never to be passed T, i 629 Some b. contiguity of shade T. ii 2 And b, as it is, a crowded coop T, iii 834 Now quenching in a b. sea of clouds Y.O. 76

BOUNTEOUS.

By b, heaven designed Miss - 2But, O Thou b. giver of all good! T. v 903

BOUNTIFUL.

Himself as b, as April rains H, 304 So b., in whose attentive ear T. vi 460

BOUNTY.

Whose b. bought me but to give me light Ch. 235 Royally, freely, for his b. sake H. 118 Thy b. all were Christian, and I make J.T. 47 Thy morning b. ere I left my home M.P. 60 Thy power divine, and b. beyond thought R. 91 And share the joys your b. may create R. 790 The wretch who slights the b. of the skies T. 543 From Nature's b.—that humane address T. v 469 "The use of his own b.?—making first T. v 639 'Tis grace, 'tis b., and it calls for praise V. 87

BOURN.

And where the land slopes to its watery b. N.A. 13

Where neither strumpet's charms, nor drinking b.

BOW.

Struck thrice the point upon his saddle b. A. T. 160 I interrupt him with a sudden b. Con. 281 Horatio's servant once, with b. and cringe E. iii 21 They learn to b., to kneel, to sit, to stand Ex. 120 The Roman taught thy stubborn knee to b. Ez. 476 Prove it;—if better, I submit and b. Ez. 633 Wreathed into an elegant b. Gr. 7 Bright as the covenant-ensuring b. H. 150 The b. well bent, and smart the spring H.F.5[left Y.O. 127 To place it in thy b. O. i 26 With b, and shaft have burnt them. Some have Of drunkards, or the music-drawing b. St. ii 12 A pedler's pack, that b. the bearer down T. i 465 And craving Poverty, and in the b. T. ii 490 And b. obsequious, hide their hate of her T. ii 646 Who, with bare-headed and obsequious b. T. iii 819 In pilgrimage to b. before his shrine T. vi 669 The God that strings the silver b. Tran. H. 28 Before whose infant eyes the flatterer b. TT. 123 Then like a b. long forced into a curve T.T. 623 Fancy that from the b. that spans the sky T.T.702Starts from its office like a broken b. V. 70

BOWED.

FR. 599 Jack b. and was obliged—confessed 'twas strange B. at the close with all his graceful airs Con. 73

BOWELS.

Would creep into the b. of the hills T. vi 867

BOWER.

There Fancy nursed her in ideal b. A.T. 7 Plucks amaranthine joys from b. of bliss H. 164 Of all that deck the lanes, the fields, the b. H. 298 Nor blasts that shake the dripping b. Mrs. M— 16 Shall chase him from the b. N. 18 'Tis Harmony from yon sequestered b. P.E. 65 'Tis a b. of Arcadian sweets W.N. 9 [iv 728 Though stretched at ease in Chertsey's silent b. T. While Peace possessed these silent b. S. 14 And long protracted b, enjoyed at noon T. i 257 Forth from thy native b, to show thee here T, i 636 Of golden fruitage, and her myrtle b. T. ii 215 Thus as the bee, from bank to b. 1789, 17

And now, as he went b. down J.G. 121 Ere long some b., smirking, smart Abbé P.E. 385

The carriage b. along and all are pleased P.E. 438 He dips his b. into the weedy ditch T. i 241

BOW-WOW.

From your aggrieved B. B. R. 24

And partner once of Tiny's b. E.P. ii 43 Tight b. neatly sashed, and in a blaze R. 483 Nor his who quits the b. at midnight hour T. i 98 Suspend their crazy b., planted thick T. iv 774 He notes it in his book, then raps his b. T. vi 292 That they must soon learn Latin, and to b. Tir. 323

BOXEN.

With many a b. bush, close-clipped between A.T. 82 BOY.

Hour after hour, the yet unlettered b. Con. 12 B. care but little whom they trust F. 20 Yon roaring b., who rave and fight Pat. 5 Ask not the b., who when the breeze of morn R. 395 She yet allows herself that b, behind T, 142 E'er since, a truant b., I passed my bounds T. i 114 The sturdy swain diminished to a b.! T. i 162 And vicious pleasures; buys the b, a name T, ii 759 The b.'s neglected sire! a mother too T. vi 43 And when the bush-exploring b, that seized T. vi 445 "Ambition in a b. supplied Th. 7 [Tir. 654 Would make him-what some lovely b. have been Train him in public with a mob of b. Tir. 206 Ye nurseries of our b., we owe to you Tir. 248 B. as ye were, the gravity of men Tir. 272 The meek and bashful b. will soon be taught Tir. 338 B. are, at best, but pretty buds unblown Tir. 446 B., once on fire with that contentious zeal Tir. 470 The mind and heart of every sprightly b. Tir. 598 Few b. are born with talents that excel Tir. 509 If anxious only that their b. may learn Tw. 513 That youth takes pleasure in, to please his b. Tir. 550 Alas, poor b.!—the natural effect Tir. 575 The man approving what had charm'd the b. Tir. 149 Safe under such a wing, his b. shall show Tir. 684 And say, my b., the unwelcome hour is come Tir. 849 (Apprised that he is such) a careless b. Tir. 906 The little b. and all? Y.D. 34 [840] That though school-bred the b. be virtuous still Tir.

BOYISH.

Whose friendship from his b. years he chose Con, 424 When b. innocence was all my praise!) B. 372 Hard fare! but such as b. appetite T. i 123 The struggling efforts of my b. tongue T. iv 711 Δ b. friendship may so soon decline T ir. 453

BOYLE

Such was Sir Isaac, and such B. and Locke P.E. 538

BRACE.

The citizen, and b. his languid frame! T. iv 752 BRACED.

With leathern girdle b. J.G. 130 [T. i 350]
And now, with nerves new b. and spirits cheered
Of texture firm a lattice-work, that b. T. i 42
We wear it at our backs. There, closely b. T. ii 586

BRACELETS.

Sees watches, b., rings, and lockets P.B. 25

BRAES

All birks and b., though he was never there T.T. 535

BRAIN.

The wildest project of her teeming b. A.T. 57

Just as the sapience of an author's b. Ch. 519 With caths like rivets forced into the b. Con. 64 Useless in him alike both b. and speech Con. 141 The worst that can invade a sickly b. Con. 222 A shallow b, behind a serious mask Con. 297 Your elevated voice goes through the b. Con. 328 And puzzling set his puppy b. D.W. 23 Which busy man's inventive b. E. i 65 Make cruel inroads in my b. E. iv 16 What web too weak to catch a modern b.? Ex. 629 O querulous and weak!—whose useless b. H. 29 Patron of all those luckless b. O. i 1 Craze antiquarian b, with endless doubt P.E. 394 Has filled with all its fumes a critic's b. P.E. 445Faults in the life breed errors in the b. P.E. 564 Nor yet the swarms that occupy the b. R. 641These are the sober, in whose cooler b. T. 38 To fill the void of an unfurnished b. T. iv 209 So loose to private duty, that no b. T. v 512 The frenzy of the b. may be redressed T. vi 521 If shrewd, and of a well constructed b. Tw. 523 Perhaps a father, blest with any b. Tir. 626 Look up-your b. begin to swim Tran. ii 10

With much sufficiency in royal $b.\ T.T.\ 52$ [$V.\ 9$ Your b. well furnished, and your tongue well taught Feels himself spent, and fumbles for his $b.\ T.T.\ 537$

BRAINLESS.

Arms, through the vanity and b. rage T. iv 619

BRAKE.

Ten thousand rove the b. and thorns among H. 280 That he may follow them through b. and brier N. A. 6 As one who long in thickets and in b. T. iii 1

BRANCH.

To associate all the b. of mankind Ch. 84 Bore on his b., luxuriant then and rude T. 493 Unnumbered b. waving in the blast T. i 188 On all her b. Piety has found T. iii 249 The b., sturdy to his utmost wish T. iii 530 Must smooth be shorn away; the sapless b. T. iii 613 With clasping tendrils, and invest his b. T. iii 666 A leafless b. thy sceptre, and thy throne T. iv 125 That trickle down the b., fast congealed T. v 114 In fancied peace beneath his dangerous b. T. v 325 Whose outspread b. overarch the glade T. vi 72

BRANCHING.

Environed with a ring of b. elms T. i 223 BRAMBLE.

And horrid b. intertwine below N.A. 16 Or should the b., interposed, our fall N.A. 111 The b., black as jet, or sloes austere T. i 122 In the shadow of a b., and reclined T. v 324

BRAMIN.

The B. kindles on his own bare head T. 99 I say the B. has the fairer claim T. 108 Where hermits and where B. meet with theirs T. 168

Satire is, more than those he b., to blame Ch. 492 Or, if it does not, b. him to the last P.E. 107 And bears the b. of blasphemy burnt in T. 348 And verse of mine shall never b. the wretch T. iii 72

BRANDISHES.

He b. his pliant length of whip T. iv. 355

BRASS.

That b. and steel should make so fine a show Ch. 554 No; marble and recording b. decay Con. 551 Saw Babylon set wide, her two-leaved b. Ex. 59 And fanged with b. the demons are abroad NA. 102 And filleted about with hoops of b. T. v 402 Ah, tinkling cymbal and high-sounding b. T. v 681 Gives bond in stone and ever-during b. T. v 710 Not rough with wire of steel or b. T. B. 26

BRAT.

Then cast them, closely bundled, every b. T. ii 673

BRAVE.

Built a b. world, which cannot yet subsist Ch. 192
And veil your daring crest that b. the skies Con. 486
A soldier may be anything, if b. H. 209
Thus b. the whirling blast Miss — 34
Toll for the b.! R.G. 1
The b. that are no more! R.G. 2
Eight hundred of the b. R.G. 5
Toll for the b.! R.G. 13
B. Kempenfelt is gone R.G. 14
A b. man knows no malice, but at once T. ii 268
They b. the season, and yet find at eve T. iv 378
Mark now the proof I give thee, that the b. T. vi 509

BRAVED.

Unworthy of the blessings of the b. T.T. 27

B. and defied, and in our own sea proved T. ii 272

BRAVELY.

Who b. breaks the most Pat. 12 And forced to abandon what she b. sought T. v 368

No b. chief could Albion boast Cast 7

BRAWL. Or flushed with flerce dispute, a senseless b. T. v 472

BRAY. Or heard we that tremendous b. alone N.A. 93

Meantime, noise kills not. Be it Dapple's b. N.A. 115 BRAYING.

For while he spake, a b. ass J.G. 203 BRAZEN.

She ploughs a b, field, and clothes a soil T, i 709 Hear the faint echo of those b. throats T. iv 104 BRAZEN-CLAWED.

Demons produce them doubtless, b. N.A. 101 BREACH.

The b., though small at first, soon opening wide P.E. To avenge than to prevent the b, of law T, i 731 Lost favour back again, and closed the b. T. ii 724 BREAD.

He blessed the b., but vanished at the word Con. 533 His diet was of wheaten b. Ep. ii 13 ∫iii 342 Yes—thou may'st eat thy b., and lick the hand T. The Saviour's feast, his own blest b. and wine Ex.377The life of multitudes, a nation's b.! Her. 56 Besides the man's poor, his orchard's his b. P.A. 27 Earth gives too little, giving only b. T. 365 And sleep not: see him sweating o'er his b. T. i 363 When I am hungry for the b. of life? T. ii 426

At his own wonder, wondering for his b. T. iv 87 BREADTH.

By just degrees an overhanging b. T. iii 482 BREAK.

Fish up his dirty and dependent b. T. iii 808

And he that splits his cranium, b. at most A.T. 44 I ventured once to b. B.R. 10 He b. the cord that held him at the rack Ch. 173 Thy worn-out heart will b. at last M. 51 Ne'er roughened by those cataracts and b. M.P 66 Who bravely b, the most Pat. 12 One b, the glass, and cuts his fingers P.B. 34 Girt with a chain he cannot wish to b. R. 243 Those flimsy webs that b, as soon as wrought R, 639 To b. a jest, when pity would inspire T. ii 468 Shall b. into its preconceived display T. iii 652 Though eloquent themselves, yet fear to b. T. iv 54To b. some maiden's and his mother's heart T. iv 656 B. on the soul, and by a flash from Heaven T. v 884 This widowed heart would b." The Doves 36 He b. away, and seek the distant plain? T.T. 307

BREAKING. If b. windows be the sport Pat. 10 Regardless of wringing and b. a heart The Rose 15 BREAST.

A raven, while with glossy b. A Fable 1 The Spring drew near, each felt a b. A Tale 13 You oried,—"Forbear!"—but in my b. B.R. 5 Suspicion lurks not in her artless b. Ch. 426 Each heart would quit its prison in the b. Ch. 610 Give it the b., or stop its mouth with pap! Con. 480 And spread the sacred treasures of the b. Con. 573 And every moment's calm, that soothes the b. E. ii 39 Hast thou, though suckled at fair freedom's b. Ex. 364 Against an innocent unconscious b. Ex. 431 And sucked a b. that panted with alarms Ex. 473 Will thrust a dagger at your b. F. 94

Religion ruling in the b. F. 203 But nature works in every b. F.B. 13 There dwells a consciousness in every b. H. 636

Dwells there a wish in such a b. Miss – The shafts of woe -- in such a b. Miss -Divine authority within his b. P.E. 33

And proves a raging scorpion in his b. P.E. 241 Felt each a mortal stab in her own b. P.E. 339 To the wild wave, or wilder human b. P.E. 601

With a turf on my b, and a stone at my head P.F. 15 Thus Conscience pleads her cause within the b. R.15 To measure all that passes in the b. R. 133

The love of change that lives in every b. R. 171 His undissembling virtue to my b. R. 380 Though one, I grant it, in the generous b. R. 721

These and a thousand plagues that haunt the b. R. 763 Beats in the b. of man, that even a few T. i 285 Displeasure in his b, who smites the earth T, ii 69 As sweet as charity from human b. T. iii 197 Tempered in hell, invades the throbbing b. T. iii 686

The seeds of murder in the b. of man T. v 210 By kind tuition on his yielding b. Tir. 154 May never more be stamped upon his b. Tir. 763 Oh friendship! cordial of the human b.! V. 49

Our Queen's long-agitated b. 1789, 47

Man mourns his fleeting b. St. v 26

BREATH.

And each endures, while yet he draws his b. Ch. 143 But when the b. of age commits the fault Con. 49 Divert the champions prodigal of b. Con. 89 Upon the rolling chords rung out his dying b. Ex. 499 In dying sighs my little b. G. 11 That poor Jonquil, with almost every b. H. 89 The b. of Heaven must swell the sail H.F. 23Away went Gilpin, out of b. J.G. 157

Till man resigns his b. St. vi 34 He begs their flattery with his latest b. T. 315 Conspire against him. With his b. he draws T. ii 139 And putrify the b. of blooming Health T. ii 184 And suffocates the b, at every turn T, ii 819 Exposed to his cold b., the task begins T. iii 469

And his head thumps to feed upon the b. T. iv 47 Thy b, congealed upon thy lips, thy cheeks T, iv 122 The pent-up b. of an unsavoury throng T. iv 196 While every b., by respiration strong T. iv 348 Prove it. A b. of unadulterate air T. iv 750 Thus idly do we waste the b, of praise T, vi 711

The b, of Heaven has chased it. In the heart T, vi 786 Their b, a sample of last night's regale Tir, 834 To float a bubble on the b. of Fame T.T. 746 One b. of Heaven, that cried-" Restore!" 1789, 40

BREATHE. Which b. the low desire Miss -- 10

The marble b., the canvass glows Miss - 83

Where spices b, and brighter seasons smile M.P.91B. clouds of dust, and calls it country air R. 486 Slaves cannot b. in England; if their lungs T. ii 40 And, charged with putrid verdure, b. a gross T. ii 97 The nose of nice nobility. B. soft T. ii 259 In language soft as Adoration b.! T. ii 495 [iii 738 Whose Stygian throats b, darkness all day long T. As the sun peeps, and vernal airs b, mild T, iii 443And drenched conservatory b. abroad T. iii 498 Each opening blossom, freely b. abroad T. iii 622

That b. the spleen, and searches every bone T. iv 364

And man would b. but for his Maker's shame Tir. 85

And will it b. into him all the zeal Tir. 375

Place me where Winter b. his keenest air T.T. 294 BREATHED.

Those b. from lips of everlasting love E. ii 30 They b. in faith their well-directed prayers Ex. 239

The wind, of late b. gently forth P.T. 50 Then b. his soul into his rest St. iii 15 Complacency has b. a gentle gale T. 419

BREATHING.

Frowning in storms, or b. gentle airs R. 194 The b. of the lightest air that blows R. 530 And b. wholesome air, and wandering much T. i 589 From flower to flower, and even the b. air T. iii 539

[Tir. 838

All these, and more like these, were b. at schools A moral, sensible, and well b. man Con. 193 Peers are not always generous as well b. R. 597 And clammy, of his dark abode have b. T. i 439 The thirst than slaked it, and not seldom b. T. ii 509 And $b_{\cdot \cdot \cdot}$ within the memory of no few $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ ii 677 That ask robust, tough sinews, b. to toil T. iii 405 Though want of due restraint alone have b. Tir. 533 The boughs in which are b. the unseemly race Tir. 594

Breeches.

As yet black b, were not, satin smooth T, i 10 BREED.

They swear it, till affirmance b. a doubt Con. 66 Tis such a light as putrefaction b. Con. 675 Of man's superior b. D.W 40 The want of both denotes a meaner b. H. 292 Faults in the life b. errors in the brain P.E. 564 Nor such as useless conversation b. R. 643 The slavish dread of solitude, that b. T. i 488 Begets its likeness. Rank abundance b. T. i 686 Profusion b. them; and the cause itself T. ii 820 To check the procreation of a b. Tir 603

BREEDING.

Good b, and good sense gave all a grace H. 683 Whose wit is rudeness, whose good b. tires R. 438 Swept with a woman's neatness, b. else T. iii 616

BREEDING-PLACE.

Long-time a b. they sought A Tale 21

BREEZE.

Ask not the boy, who when the b. of morn R. 395 And the fresh-blowing b. never failed M.D. 8 Those alders quivering to the b. S. 6 And riots in the sweets of every b. T. i 444 Upon the wanton b. Strew the deck T. ii 256 Rock'd in the cradle of the western b. Tir. 44 By slender threads, and swinging in the b. Tir. 592

BRENTFORD.

So sit two kings of B. on one throne T. i 78 BRETHREN.

His free-born b. of the southern pole Ch. 34 And b. in calamity should love T. ii 74 Clothe the twin b. in each other's dress T.T. 45 That once lived here thy b.! At my birth Y.O. 2

BRIBE.

While Fame and Self-complacence are the b. Ch. 468 No wealth can b., no prayers persuade to slay Comp. i 4 No b. the heart can win Miss - 58 "Worlds should not b, me back to tread St. iii 5 Foh! 'twas a b. that left it; he has touched T. iv 609 Fidelity that neither b. nor threat T. vi 628 Will sneer, and charge you with a b. T.T. 84

BRIBED.

And judgment drunk, and b. to lose his war P.E.450And must be b. to compass earth again T. i 675

BRICKBATS.

BRICKS.

B. line the sides, but shivered long ago N.A. 15 BRICK-WALL.

And they that never pass their b, bounds T, iv 771

"Now is the time to make the maid a b.!" A.T. 69 The b., while yet her b.'s attire is on A.T. 103

As wide as the b, of the Nose is; in short A.C. 15 \underline{A} sudden steep upon a Rustic B. T. i 267 Hark! 'tis the twanging horn o'er yonder b. T. iv 1

Scrawled upon glass Miss B.'s lovely name T. 156 BRIDGEWATER,

Not Brindley nor B. would essay T.T. 182 BRIDLE.

Whose b_{\bullet} , while he cropped the grass below A.T. 173The flirted fan, the b., and the toss H. 344 BRIDLING.

Dick heard, and tweedling, ogling, b. P.T. 38

 $\lceil Ex. 512 \rceil$ Then priests with bulls, and b., and shaven crowns The b. proclaimed, it visits every pew Ch. 469

Delivered b, thus his mind P.T. 22

BRIER.

That he may follow them through brake and b. Na. 6 Who found not thorns and b, in his road E, ii 12 Picked from the thorns and b. of reproof T. vi 1013 BRIGHT.

The b, original was one he knew Ch, 433 Can hopes of Heaven, b. prospects of an hour Con. 591 Had wit as b. as ready to produce Con. 614 Thou hast as b. an interest in her rays Ex. 590 By their's whose b, example, unimpeached Ex. 656 How b. soe'er the prospect seems F. 73 B. as the covenant-ensuring bow H. 150 Yes, but an object b. as orient morn H. 550 Now let the b, reverse be known abroad H. 710 His noonday beams were never half so b. H. 737 Which is both b. and clear" J.G. 28 Thy silver locks, once auburn b. M. 25 With torches ever b. Miss — 74 Of some tall temple playing b. Mrs. M-36 With you b. regent of the day Mrs. M-52 But warm, and b., and calm as May P.T. 10 B. shone the roofs, the domes, the spires Q.V. 13 His b. perfections at whose word they rose R. 200 Now came the cane from India, smooth and b. T. i 39 Have changed the woods, in scarlet honours b. T i 320 R. as his own, and trains by every rule T. ii 347 Ficoides, glitters b. the winter long T. iii 579 Conspiring, may attest his b. design T. iii 654 Sees her unwrinkled face reflected b. T. iv 4 Misdeems it, dazzled by its b. array T. iv 685 Conspicuous, and in b. apparel clad T. v 25 To a keen edge and made it b. for war T. v 216 Yellow and b., as bullion unalloy'd T. vi 17 1 The b. profusion of her scatter'd stars T. vi 176 He sets the b. procession on its way T. vi $^{190}_{80}$ B. as the sun the sacred city shines T. vi 800 A glory, b. as that of all the signs Tir. 282 And destines their b. genius to be shown Tir. 336 Ah, blind to b. futurity, untaught Tir. 379 In that b. quarter his propitious skies Tir. 395 BRICKBATS. O b. occasions of dispensing good T.T. 63
To find it stuffed with b., earth, and stones Con. 310
I read of b. embattled fields 1789, 3

BRIGHTEN.

Whose wit can b. up a wintry day Con. 581 Reclaim his taste, and b. up his parts Con. 840

BRIGHTER.

Wait for the dawning of a b. day Ch. 167 Than those a b. season pours around Con. 648 A b. scene beyond that vale appears Con. 882 To darker climes, or climes of b. day Ex. 18 But b, beams than his who fires the skies H, 491 \mathbf{A} b, prize than that he meant \mathbf{Mor} . 55 Where spices breathe and b, seasons smile M.P. 91 And pant for b. days N. 12 Views constellations b. than her own P.E. 178 New life ordained and b, scenes to share R, 65 In happier days, to b. prospects born! S. ii 5 But let not him that shares a b. day T. 539 Shone b. still, once called to public view T. v 521But Martyrs struggle for a b. prize T. v 718 "And to possess a b. Heaven than yours? T. v 831 Works magic wonders, adds a b. hue Tir. 23 Not b. than in theirs the scholar's prize Tir. 473 Expect a b. sky Trans. H. 27 Were b. than the sleekest mole T.B. 14 If b. beams than all he threw not forth T.T. 680 Affection lights a b. flame U. 27

BRIGHTEST.

And make it b. at its latest date Con.The b. wonders of an endless day H.Howe'er performed, it was their b. part T.The b. truths that man has ever seen T. ii 555

BRIGHTLY.

Which fate shall b. gild N.Y.G. 18

BRIGHTNESS.

Conspicuous as the b. of a star T. 29

BRIGHT-STUDDED.

B. to dazzle the eyes Gr. 13

BRILLIANT.

A truth the b. Frenchman never knew T. 328 And play his b. parts before my eyes T. ii 425 Peace to them all! those b. times are fled Tir. 281

BRIMMING.

He lives, and o'er his b. beaker boasts T. vi 434 The b. goblet, seized the Thyrsus, bound T.T. 603

BRINDLEY.

Not B, nor Bridgewater would essay T.T. 182

BRINE.

Were not afraid to plough the b. A Tale 71 Not long beneath the whelming b. Cast. 13

BRING.

Or was the merchant charged to b. A Tale 27 To traverse seas, range kingdoms, and b. home Ch.301 And b., at his return, a bosom charged Ch. 321 'Tis wrong to b. into a mixed resort Con. 291 And b. the trifler under rigorous sway Con. 596 To b. the passions under sober sway Con. 831 B. forth that unexpected hour E. i 30 Good each, we know not what to-morrow b. E. iii 8 But Grace abused b. forth the foulest deeds Ex. 213Bids rottenness invade, and b. to dust Ex, 332 Reclaim the wandering thousands, and b. home Ex.720Sometime occasion b, to light F, 148 B. many a precious pearl of truth to light H. 444 B. to the distant ear a sullen sound Her. 36 "Good lack!" quoth he, "yet b. it me J.G. 61 "This shall be yours, when you b. back J.G. 219

So did he fly—which b. me to J.G. 155 [M.P. 81 Might one wish b. them, would I wish them here? Your scruples and arguments b, to my mind P.A. 17B. every thought, word, action, to the test P.E. 31 And Pleasure b, as surely in her train P.E. 43 Like a slain deer, the tumbrel b. him home P.E. 91 B. not alone the more conspicuous part T. 561 And, heavy laden, b. his beverage home T. i 242 That b, the planets home into the eye T. iii 230 What's that which b. contempt upon a book T.iii 277 Or dives not for it, or b. up instead T. iii 384 She b. her infants forth with many smiles T. iii 437 Then acts in Nature's office, b. to pass T. iii 542 Yet careless what he b., his one concern T. iv 9 To-morrow b. a change, a total change! T. iv 322 B. its own evil with it, makes it less T. v 770 B. into doubt the wisdom of the skies Tir. 72 A public school shall b. to pass with ease Tir 372 B. he, to sweeten fruits so undesired Tir. 578 Saved from his home, where every day b. forth Tir.757 B. down the warrior's trophy to the dust T.T. 7 Now, from the dust of ancient days b. forth T.T. 376 B. colours dipped in Heaven, that never die T.T.73Whate'er we write, we b. forth nothing new T.T.733See, Mary, what beauties I b. W.N. 5

BRINGING.

Are b. into vogue their heathen train Con. 821 Ye once were justly famed for b. forth Tir. 279 Thus b. home to him the most remote Tir. 643

BRINK.

Carelessly nods and sleeps upon the b. Ex. 99 They gathered close around the old pit's b. Na. 53 Then doubtless many a trifler, on the b. St. ii 13 O'er hills, through valleys, and by river's b. T. i 113

BRISK.

He cherups b. his ear-erecting steed T. iii 9 With melting airs, or martial, b., or grave T. vi 3 The Frenchman, easy, debonair, and b. T.T. 236

BRISKER

Its b, and its graver strains fall short R, 294 May run in cities, with a b, force R, 454

BRISKLY.

Was b. borne along A Tale 54 B_{-r} , astride upon the parlour broom Tir. 367 More b. moved by his severer toil T. iv 389

BRISTOL.

Content with B., Bath, and Tunbridge Wells R. 516

BRITAIN.

Steered B.'s oak into a world unknown Ch. 25 Oh, happy B.! we have not to fear E. iii 54 In B.'s isle, beneath a George's reign! Her. 90 Of all your empire; that where B.'s power T. ii 46 As dwell at large in B.'s chartered land T.T. 259

BRITISH.

"For B. nymphs, whose lords were lately true A.T.109 When the B. warrior queen B. 1
But raise the shrillest cry in B. ears Ez. 271
The fairest B. fair L.R. 26
Then farewell B. freedom Pat. 24
Can B. Paradise no scenes afford P.E. 257
With limbs of B. oak, and nerves of wire R. 311
Would give a barbarous air to B. song T. 102
Or ploughed perhaps by B. bark again T. i 631
Our B. Themis gloried with just cause T. iii 257
Of B. natures, wanting its excuse T. v 481
Poll gains at length the B. shore Tran. iv 4
And fill with discontent a B. isle T.T. 253

Ill that should be the boast of B, song T.T. 369 lence, B. poets too the priesthood shared T.T. 502

B. knows, or if he knows it not Ch. 200 t seems as if we B. were ordained Con. 363

B.'s scorn of arbitrary chains? T.T. 201

BRITTLE.

Her b. toys, restores me to myself T. iv 307

so stood the b. prodigy; though smooth T. v 154 Whose noblest coin is light and b, man V. 96

BROAD.

Ocean exhibits, fathomless and b. R. 525

Exposes, and holds up to b. disgrace T. ii 553

His b. keen knife into the solid mass T. v 35In nature, from the b. majestic oak T. vi 250

Ye reasoners b. awake, whose busy search Y.O. 30

BROADEST.

As human nature's b., foulest blot T. ii 22 BROAD-CLOTH.

B. without, and a warm heart within E. iii 63

BROILING.

B. beneath a July sun E. iv 50 BROILS.

Successive loads succeeding b. impose Ex. 308

Such civil b. are my delight Pat. 17

That stripped him bare, and b. his honest heart Ch.54

Dispelled thy gloom, and b. away thy dreams Ex. 501 Asked of the waves that b. upon his coast Ex. 572

And every post, and where the chaise b. down P.E.374 Worse than the deeds of galley-slaves b. loose T.T.327

BROKEN. Informed, He gathered up the b. thread Con. 525 "A threefold cord is not soon b. E. i 106

Fell b. and defaced at their own door, Ex. 506 She sung of the slave's b. chain M.D. 19 Only by a b. heart N.C. 48

And staunch the bleedings of a b, heart R. 322 Reclaims the wanderer, binds the b. heart T. ii 344 Of headstrong youth were b.; bars and bolts T, ii 745

See then the quiver b. and decayed T. ii 803 The dangers we have 'scaped, the b. snare T. iv 185 Ye horrid towers, the abode of b. hearts T. v 384 That the wind severs from the b. wave T. vi 156

On future b. bones and bruises Tran. ii 20 Starts from its office like a b. bow V. 70 BROOD.

"'Tis over, and the b. is safe " A Fable 19 A lawless b., and curse thee to thy face Ex. 283Where oft the bitch-fox hides her hapless b. Na. 4 And slumbering oscitancy mars the b.? T. ii 774 A b. of asps, or quicksands in his way Tir. 870

And N. did not like it, which M. could not b.A.T.ii 2 A narrow b., by rushy banks concealed Na. 9 Nor noise was heard but of the hasty b. Na. 39

Can least b. management, however mild R. 252 And like a Summer b. are past away R. 296 To draw the incautious minnow from the b. R. 402A cheap but wholesome salad from the b. T. vi 304 Like shallow b. which summer suns exhale! V. 2

BROOM.

BROOKED. Trouble is grudgingly and hardly b. Ch. 218

Althæa with the purple eye; the b. T. vi 170 Briskly, astride upon the parlour b. Tir. 367

BROTHELLERS.

For gamesters, jockeys, b. impure T. ii 751

BROTHER.

Hate their own likeness in a b.'s face Con. 158

Had each a b.'s interest in his heart H. 579 That b. should not war with b. N.G. 29 That thought that meditates a b.'s wrong T. 560

Thus man devotes his b., and destroys T. ii 20 All are not such. I had a b, once—T. ii 780

Cain had already shed a b.'s blood T. v 208

BROTHERHOOD.

The priestly b., devout, sincere Ex. 438 Of b, is severed as the flax T, ii 10

To out the link of b., by which T. iii 208 BROUGHT. At length a ship arriving b. A Tale 23

Collect at evening what the day b, forth Con. 19And who is hanged, and who is b, to bed Con, 396 Ere yet they b. their journey to an end Con. 521 As if not Love, but Wrath, had b. Himdown Ex. 132

And having trucked thy soul, b. home the fee Ex. 374

B. fire from Heaven, the sex-abusing crime Ex. 415He b. thy land a blessing when he came Ex. 484 Who b. the lamp that with awaking beams Ex.500

The morning came, the chaise was b. J.G. 33 Twas my distress that b, thee low M. 7 By our sufferings since ye b. us N.C. 45 Chafed him, and b. dull nature to a glow P.E. 408

"Since the dear hour that b, me to thy foot T. 573

With summer fruits b. forth by wintry suns T.iii 552 Yet just arrangement, rarely b. to pass T. iii 588

Then he, of all that Nature has b. forth Tir. 69 The powers that Sin has b, to a decline T.T. 383

So when remote futurity is b. T.T. 492 Polite, yet virtuous, who has b. away V. 79

BROW.

Frowns in the storm with angry b. A Fable 38 Wreaths for her b., and girdles for her waist A.T. 14Armed at all points, with terror on his b. A.T. 140

And there resume an unembarrassed b. Con. 401 Taxed till the b. of Labour sweats in vain Ex.305When Sin has shed dishonour on thy b. Ex. 394 That bind the sinner's Bacchanalian b. T. 462 Had shed immortal glories on your b. T. 569

And overbuilt with most impending b. T. iii 193 And lilies for the b, of faded age T, iv 80 A star or two, just twinkling on thy b. T. iv 253 Was sure to intoxicate the b. it bound T. v 245 It yields them, or recumbent on its b. T. v 787

Who were the platted thorns with bleeding $b.T.vi\,239$ And binds a wreath about their baby b. T.T. 124'Tis not the wreath that once adorned thy b.T.T. 370

His b. with ivy, rushed into the field T.T. 604 Sat fast on George's b. again 1789, 45

BROWN. The omnipotent magician, $B_{\cdot \cdot}$, appears! $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ iii 766

The golden harvest, of a mellow b. T. iv 314

Just when the day declined, and the b. loaf T. iv 393 That mingles all my b. with sober gray Tir. 144 The inestimable Estimate of B. T.T. 384

BRUISED.

He b. beneath his feet the infernal powers Ch. 581 And b. the side, and, elevated high T. i 66

BRUISES.

On future broken bones and b. Tran. ii 20

BRUNT.

Worse than the mortal b. of rival swords Con. 86

Endurest the b., and darest defy them all Ex. 697 The pelting b. of the tempestuous night T. iv 351

BRUSH. [b. T. vi 317

Ascends the neighbouring beech; there whisks his To b. the surface, and to make it flow Con. 102 Artist, attend! your b. and your paint T. 171 So I, with b. in hand and pallet spread T. iv 239 And half on foot, they b. the fleecy flood T. v 63

BRUSHED.

His long red cloak, well b, and neat J.G. 75 Nor Autumn yet had b, from every spray N.A. 21 B, by the wind. So sportive is the light T, i 345

BRUSHING.

Ambitious of b. the sky Gr. 4

BRUSHWOOD.

Her scanty stock of b., blazing clear T. iv 381

BRUTAL.

And joining the freethinker's b, roar P.E. 593 With b, lust as ever Circe made T.T. 629

BRUTALIZE.

In human mould, should b, by choice T, i 575 BRUTE.

I am lord of the fowl and the b. A.S. 4
His manners with his fate puts on the b. Ch. 154
Seem our nation b. no longer N.C. 49
Made nothing but a b., the slave of sense P.E. 214
B. capable would tell you 'tis a lie P.E. 261
He proves less happy than his favoured b. R. 633
And agonies of human and of b. T. ii 105 [vi 614
Matched with the expertness of the b. in theirs T.
Should some contagion, kind to the poor b. T. iii 208
The wonder; humanizing what is b. T. v 700
B. graze the mountain-top, with faces prone T. v 785
Of the poor b., seems wisely to suppose T. vi 437
Feed on the slain, but spare the living b.! T. vi 458
That claims forbearance even for a b. T. vi 466
And taught a b. the way to safe revenge T. vi 559
If not the virtuous, yet the worth of b. T. vi 724

BUBBLES.

Fternity for b. proves at last T. iii 175 To float a b. on the breath of Fame T.T. 746

Not better much than spectacles a b. Tir. 782

BUBBLING.

Thou ever b. spring of endless lies P.E. 467 And while the b. and loud hissing urn T. iv 38

BUCKETS.

Of dropping b. into empty wells T. iii 189

BUCKLED.

B. his helm, and to his steed repaired A.T. 172

BUCKRAM.

To b. out the memory of a man T. vi 652

BUD.

Ye worms that eat into the b. of youth! Con. 40 By looking on the b., descry E. i 70 A worm is in the b. of youth St. i 23 And ventilate and warm the swelling b. T. iii 426 To some shrowd sharper, ere it b. again T. iii 754 Unfolds its bosom; b., and leaves, and sprigs T. iv 153 To weep for the b. it had left with regret The Rose 7 Boys are, at best, but pretty b. unblown Tw. 446 When Discipline helps opening b. of sense T.T. 508 The b. inserted in the rind U. 13

BUDDING.

By b. ills, that ask a prudent hand T. vi 591

BUDGE.

The solemn fop, significant and b. Con. 299

His B., often filled, yet always poor Ch. 614 But O the important b.! ushered in T. iv 23

BUFFET.

Which here people call a b. Gr. 34

BUFFETED.

But tossed and b. about P. 9

BUFFOON.

The dear-bought placeman, and the cheap b. Con. 30 Our Sabbaths closed with mummery and b. P.E. 153

BUILD.

But found not where to b. A Tale 16
Thy b. each other up with dreadful skill Con. 687
To b. our altar, confident and bold Con. 849
B. by whatever plan caprice decrees H. 614
To storm the citadels they b. in air H. 626 [v 132
When thou wouldst b.; no quarry sent its stores I.
That b. its glory on its Maker's praise R. 210
He seeks a favoured spot; that where he b. T. iii 471
B. factories with blood, conducting trade T iv 681
B. him a pedestal, and say, "Stand there T. v 253
We b. with what we deem eternal rock T. v 534
The mere materials with which wisdom b. T. vi 33

BUILDING.

Or b. hospitals on English ground? Ch. 44 To finish a fine b. F. 165 At b. human wonders mountain high T. v 179 Nor write on each—This b. to be let Tir. 916

BUILT.

They paired, and would have b. a nest A Tale 15 B. a brave world, which cannot yet subsist Ch. 192 B. by no mercenary vulgar hand Ch. 257 Prisons expect the wicked, and were b. Ch. 280 B. by that architect who b. the skies Con. 560 As if, like arches b. with skilful hand Ex. 286And bids the mountains he has b_{\bullet} , stand fast H_{\bullet} 476 Discover huge cathedrals b. with stone P.E. 381 All paired, and each pair b. a nest P.T. 44 B. God a church, and laughed his word to scorn R. His well b. systems, philosophic dreams T. 8 That having wielded th' elements, and b. T. iii 170 Sofa, and couch, and high b. throne august T. v 161 Were b., the fountains opened, or the sea T. v 765 But runs the road of wisdom. Thou hast b. T. v 843 See Salem b., the labour of a God! T. vi 799 Large b. and latticed well T.B. 24 That planned, and b, and still upholds a world T. You told me, I remember, glory b. T. T.

BULK.

Goliath, might have seen his giant b. T. iv 270 Slow after century, a giant b. Y.O. 63 [R67] Whose shape would make them, had they b and size

BULKY.

'Tis heavy, b., and bids fair to prove Con. 307

BULL.

Free as the lordly b. that ranges o'er the mead A.T. A story of a cock and b. P.T. 7 [Ex. 512 Then priests with b., and briefs, and shaven crowns

BULLFINCH.

At length a B., who could boast P.T. 17

BULLION.

Tellow and bright, as b. unalloyed T. vi 171

BULLY.

and B.'s cage supported stood T.B. 22 for B.'s plumage sake T.B. 27 I dream disturbed poor B.'s rest T.B. 44 Ie left poor B.'s beak T.B. 54

BULWARKS. Despise his b., and unpeople earth R. 72

BUMPER.

The purple b. trembling at his lips H. 358 and drank the little b. every day T. 158

Twas April as the b. say A Fable 8 Each b. of the clan Y.D. 26

RITMPS

In honourable b. his rich amends Con. 200 BUNCH. Γ674

Shall stuff his shoulders with King Richard's b. T. vi

BUNDLE.

It can't be a match—'tis a b. of matches A.T. iii 4 Of the plague spread by b. left behind P.E. 352 To better deeds, he b. up the spoil T. iv 440

BUNDLED.

Then cast them, closely b., every brat T. ii 673 And b. close to fill some crowded vase T. iv 668

Once prone on earth, now b. upon air R. 66

And spirits b. with excess of glee T. vi 329

War lays a b. on the reeling state Ex.308An ass's b., and, when laden most T. iv 441 To bear his b., drawing in his gears T. v 273 Earth groans beneath the b. of a war T. vi 392

The b. of my song Y.D. 4 BURGHERS.

And b, men immaculate perhaps T. iv 672 BURIAL.

I heard the bell tolled on thy b. day M.P. 28 BURIED.

The verdure of the plain lies b. deep T. v 21

BURLY. B. and big, and studious of his case T. i 63

BURN.

Might b. his useless Machiavel, and sleep Ch. 613 Our wasted oil unprofitably b. Con. 357 Did they not b. within us by the way?" Con. 536 Till the last fire b. all between the poles Con. 756

The puny tyrant b. to subjugate H. 189 Can trace the torrent as it b. along? Her. 20 Kindled in Heaven, that it b. down to earth T. ii 134

He b. with most intense and flagrant zeal T. iii 794 \mathbf{I}^{b} to set the imprisoned wranglers free T. iv 34 With every lust with which frail Nature b. Tir. 66 kindred spark: they b. to do the like Tir. 233 the spirit of that competition b. Tir. 474 What b. at home, or threatens from afar T.T. 447

BURNED.

at she has b. her mask, not needed here T. iii 105 and if, soon after having b., by turns Tir. 65

BURNING. Fery b. word he spoke B.7

B. and scorched into perpetual dearth Ex. 421 And grinds his crown beneath her b. wheels H.652The b. of his own M. i 12

For baking earth, or b. rock to lime N.A. 18 With which she gazes at yon b. disk T. i 713 Yet feel the b. instinct: over-head T. iv 773

BURNISHED.

Were b. into heroes, and became T. \vee 280

BURNT.

Has b. to tinder a stale last year's news B.B. 10 [Y.O. 127 Have b. to dust a nobler pile M. i 3 With bow and shaft have b. them. Some have left There pages mangled, b., and torn M. i 9 And bears the brand of blasphemy b. in T. 348

BURST.

Their wisdom b. into this sage reply Con. 877 Have b. the bands, and cast the yoke away Ez. 465 Though not a hound from whom it b, appeared N.A.46The depth, how awful! falling there, we b. N.A. 110 Weep tears of joy, and b. into a song T. 458 When Tumult lately b. his prison door T.T. 318

Didst b. thine egg, as theirs the fabled twins Y.O. 35 BURSTING.

(Unfelt the fury of those b. mines) Her. 8 Of patriots, b. with heroic rage T. iv 48

Or b. me in ocean's angry tide! T. 270 B. herself in solitude profound T. 443

BUSH.

With many a boxen b., close-clipped between A.T. 82Unfolds his flock, then under bank or b. R. 897 On the flourishing b. where it grew The Rose 8

BUSH-EXPLORING.

And when the b. boy, that seized T. vi 445

BUSIED.

Sought their own village, b. as they went Con. 509 Where Policy is b_{ij} , all night long Ex. 300

BUSIEST. And may be feared amid the b. scenes R. 121

As theirs who bustle in the b, scene R, 734 BUSINESS. As mendicants, whose b. is to roam Con. 859

(For 'tis my b. to reply) T. iv 80If B., constant as the wheels of time Ex.604B. is labour, and man's weakness such H. 19

Pastime and b. both, it should exclude P.E. 159 Hackneyed in b., wearied at that oar R. 1 Or scorned where b. never intervenes R. 122 The Lover too shuns b, and alarms R. 219

That whirl away from b, and debate R, 393 The man of b, and his friends compressed R, 495

Shakes hands with b., and retires indeed R. 514 A b. with an income at its heels R. 615

B. or vain amusement, care or mirth R. 647 From whom are all our blessings, b. finds T. iii 366 Has b.; feels himself engaged to achieve T. iii 377 Where nothing feeds it. Neither b. crowds T. iv 744 Its customs and its b. Tran. ii 28

BUSKIN.

To live by b., sock, and raree-show V. 34

Votaries of b, and of pleasure prove V. 71

BUSTLE.

We b. up with unsuccessful speed Con. 215

Who makes no b. with his soul's affairs Con. 580 As theirs who b, in the busiest scene R. 734 The b, and the raree-show Tran, ii 16 And all the crowds that b. life away V. 74

BUSTLER.

Forgive him then, thou b. in concerns T. vi 951 BUSTLING.

Placed for his trial on this b. stage P.E. 23 Amused spectators of this b. stage T. v 878

Where commerce has enriched the b. coast Ch. 114 Far from the world's gay b. throng Comp. ii 4 The Mind despatched upon her b. toil Con. 437 Which b. man's inventive brain E. i 65 Her peaceful shores, where b. commerce waits Ex.13Display with b. and laborious hand Ez. 163 The b, trifler dreams himself alone Ex. 322 The b, heralds hang the sable scene H. 264 Where b, arts are never at a stand H. 440 Though b., trifling; empty though refined P.E. 426 The b. race examine and explore R. 151 Lips b., and eyes fixed, foot falling slow R. 285 Nor view of waters turning b. mills R. 334 But when his lord would quit the b. road R. 631 The rest too b., or too gay, to wait T. 40 His wrath is b., and his frown is felt T. ii 94 The better hand, more b., gives the nose T. ii 451 He picks clean teeth, and, \bar{b} . as he seems T. ii 627 Esteems that b. world an idler too! T. iii 354 What is it but a map of b. life T. iv 55

Too b, to intend a meaner care Tir, 660 And some perhaps, who, b. as they are Tir. 799 And ask, with b. scorn, "Was this the man?" T.T.120 Next, b. actor on a meaner stage V. 27 At length the b. time begins Y.D. 49

The world o'erlooks him in her b, search T, vi 915

But here the needle plies its b. task T. iv 150

Ye reasoners broad awake, whose b. search Y.O. 30 My b. search, I next applied 1789, 12

Though B.'s wit, Pope's numbers, Prior's case T.T.764

BIITT.

The very b. of slander, and the blot H. 558

Of savoury cheese, or b. costlier still T. iv 395

BUTTERFLY.

The gilded b. pursues E. iv 51

BUTTON.

Till, loop and b. failing both J.G. 103

And b. the muscles and the bones of man? Ch. 140 B. what is woman-born, and feel no shame? Ch. 181 Has He bid you b. and sell us N.C. 27 And fear those who b, them and sell them, are knaves If we do not b. the poor creatures, they will P.A. 11 And vicious pleasures; b. the boy a name T. ii 759 What pearl is it that rich men cannot b. T. iii 285

C.

And I to my a repair A.S. 52 And sends thee to thy c., well prepared T. 1 670

CABINET.

By diving into c. intrigue T.T. 154

CADENCE.

In c. sweet, now dying all away T. vi 8

CÆRULEAN.

Hangs out her lamp in you c, height A.T. 138

CÆSAB.

Regions C. never knew B. 29 Though twice a C. could not bend thee now Ex.477Till \tilde{C} .'s image is effaced at last P.E. 280 Some headless hero, or some C. shows P.E. 395 The laurels that a C reaps are weeds T vi 939

CAFFRARIA.

C.; foreigners from many lands T. iii 585

CAGE.

Might smooth her feathers, and enjoy her c. Ch. 306 So settling on his c., by play F.B. 25 Ye dungeons and ye c. of despair T. v 385 Her favourite, even in his c. T.B. 4 And Bully's c. supported stood T.B. 22 A rat fast clinging to the c. T.B. 46 His teeth were strong, the c. was wood T.B. 53 And in his c., like parrot fine and gay T.T. 232

CAGED.

For caught and c., and starved to death G. 10 CAIN.

C. had already shed a brother's blood T. v 208

CALAMITOUS.

Of that c. mischief has been found T. ii 821

CALAMITY.

Thy fastings, when c. at last Ex. 400And brethren in c. should love T. ii 74

CALCULATE.

Employed to c. the enormous sum P.E. 486 With which she c., computes, and scans T. i 716

CALEDONIA.

C.'s traffic and pride! Gr. 18

CALEDONIAN.

Perhaps some bonny C. air T.T. 534

CALENDER.

And my good friend the c. J.G. 23 Till, at his friend the c.'s J.G. 159 The c., amazed to see J.G. 161 And thus unto the c. J.G. 171The c., right glad to find J.G. 177

CALL.

"Starts at the c. of beauty in distress A. T. 120 " Come ten, come twenty, should an army c. A.T. The tree they c. a mast A Tale 34

No land but listens to the common c. Ch. 91 C. Nature from her ivy-mantled den Ch. 95 These have an ear for his paternal c. Ch. 250 Though Wisdom hail them, heedless of her c. Ch. 406 To c. the few that trust in him his friends Ch. 588 But fear to c.a more important cause Con. 397 C. gentleman whom she has made a fool Con. 466 That fools, as you have done, shall c. a dream Con, 504 C. legions up from Hell to back the deed Con. 691 Awake at Duty's c. D.W. 42 Not that I dream, or mean to c. E. i 91 Or, waking at the c. of lust alone Ex. 101 And c. up evidence from every age Ex. 162There were the prophets, theirs the priestly c Ex. 201 With none on earth that thou canst c. thine own Ex.266Which here people c, a buffet Gr. 34 But what the gods a it above Gr. 85 The sun, obedient, at her c. appears H. 43 If appetite, or what divines c, lust H. 385 With prudence always ready at our c. H. 431 Their great inspirer c. J.P. 30 But no-what here we c. our life is such M.P. 84 The c. of early Spring N. 4 Which rural gentlemen c. sport divine N.A. 8 These c. him loudly to pursuit of more P.E.50What atheists c. him, a designing knave P.E. 108 Hear him again. He c. it a delight P.E. 163 Their answer to the c. is—" Not at home " P.E. 168 That pleasures, therefore, or what such we c. P.E. 225And a her charms to public notice forth P.E. 296 If a wish wander that way, c. it home P.E. 586 And c. a creature formed for God alone R. 1 C. him away from selfish ends and aims R. 19True Wisdom will attend his feeble c. R. 33I may resemble Thee, and c. Thee mine " R. 98 That men erroneously their glory c. R. 100 C. thee to cope with enemies, and first R. 267Can c. up life into his faded eye R. 339 Breathes clouds of dust, and c. it country air R. 486 C. for the kind assistance of a tune R. 712 Flowers by that name promiscuously we c. R. 723"Shall c. to supper, when, no doubt R.C. 63 Faces a thousand dangers at her c. R.H. 7 Pleasure's c. attention wins St. iv 25 To c. up Plenty from the teeming earth T. 181 Not so; the silver trumpets' heavenly c. T. 349 Grant her indebted to what zealots c. T. 483 Dependant on the baker's punctual c. T. i 244 He c for Famine, and the meagre field T ii 185 Of heroes little known, and c. the rant T. iii 140 That He will judge the earth, and c. the fool T. iii 178 In arts like yours. I cannot c. the swift T. iii 211 Cidle, and who justly, in return T. iii 353 [iii 399 The welcome c., conscious how much the hand T. When He shall c, his debtors to account T, iii 365 That c. the past to our exact review T. iv 184 comedy, to prompt him with a smile? T. iv 199 Gloriously drunk, obey the important c.! T. iv 510 In tribes and clans, and had begun to c. T. v 222Which have their exigencies too, and c. T. v 240All that the contest c. for; spirit, strength T. v 376 Comes at his c_{-} , and serves him for a friend T_{-} v 424 Who c. for things that are not, and they come T.v 687 C. the delightful scenery all his own T. v 741 Or promising with smiles to c. again T. vi 282 That c. the unwonted villager abroad T. vi 300 Man scarce had risen, obedient to his c. T. vi 348 It may succeed; and, if his sins should c. Tir. 410 And c. aloud for sack Tran. iv 15 √v 61 come trooping at the housewife's well-known c. T. Religion, virtue, truth, whate'er we c. T.T. 286 Can c. her smiling down, and fix her here T.T. 413 Tis grace, 'tis bounty, and it c. for praise V. 87

CALLED.

The legislature c. it May A Fable 9He c. her Posy, with an amorous art A.T. 21 C. for his arms, and for his princely steed A.T. 124 So he c. him a bigot, a wrangler, a monk A.T. ii 3 Tis c. a satire, and the world appears Ch. 515 Those seeds of science c. his A.B.C. Con. 14 His evidence, if he were c. by law Con. 125 C. on a friend, drank tea, stepped home again Con. When c to address myself to you E i 28 C. for a cloud to darken all their years E. ii 25 And were I c, to prove the assertion true E, iii 12 C. thee away from peaceable employ Ex. 534Leaped out of nothing, c. by the Most High Ex. 639 Sighs for his exit, vulgarly c. death H. 90 Thus, while gray evening fulled the wind and c. F.A. Not kindred minds alone are c. to employ H. 788 They gentle c., and kind and soft J.P.Of that which c. his ardour forth Mor. 44 That once we c. the pastoral house our own M.P.53Did plants c. sensitive grow there?" P. 22 C. to these crystal streams, do ye turn off P.E. 265 C. to the temple of impure delight P.E. 584 Darkness, O queen! ne'er c. before Q.V. 35 Who comes when c., and at a word withdraws R.447 C. up from earth to heaven St. iii 30 If cushion might be c., what harder seemed T. i 55 I c. the low-roofed lodge the Peasant's nest T. i 227 Illusive of philosophy, so c. T. ii 505 [vi 1006 It shall not grieve me, then, that once, when c. T. [vi 1006] There dwelt a sage c. Discipline. His head T. ii 702 So I, designing other themes, and c. T. iii 1: Not as the prince in Shushan, when he c. T. iii 714 Shone brighter still, once c. to public view T. v 521And c. the world to worship on the banks T. vi 681 'Tis c. a book, though but a single page) Tir. 122 That babblers, c. philosophers, devise Tir. 158 To see a band, c. patriot, for no cause T.T. 143 To hear it c. extravagance and waste T.T. 163 He may be c. to give up health and gain V. 63

CALLING.

A huge throat c. to the clouds for drink Y.O. 112 CALLOUS.

Obduracy takes place; c. and tough T.T. 458 CALM.

And make a c. of human life F. 134 Γii 39 And every moment's c., that soothes the breast E. A c. succeeds—but Plenty, with her train Her. 63 But thou canst taste no c. delight M.B. 17 Their ruffled plumage c. refit Mrs. M-46 The flock grew c. again, and I, the road N.A. 127 But warm, and bright, and c. as May P.T. 10 Conveyed her c. along Q.V. 68. Come then, and thou shalt find thy votary c. T. iv And c. descend to yours St. v 36Sweet converse, sipping a the fragrant lymph T. iii And finding in the c. of truth-tried love T. iii 56 How c, is my recess, and how the frost T, iv 308 But 'twas a transient c. A storm was near T. vi. 544 Before a c., that rocks itself to rest T. vi 739 C. and alternate storm, moisture and drought Y.O.

CALUMNY.

Blush, C.! and write upon his tomb H. 588 CALVES.

Cured of the golden c., their fathers' sin Ex. 215

From school to C. or Isis, and thence home P. E. 369 CAMBRIAN.

But more discreet than he a C. ewe N.A. 106

She c.—she is gone—we have met $C.\overline{1}$ C., not expected in that humble guise Ex. 87 He brought thy land a blessing when he c. Ex. 484 The morning c., the chaise was brought J.G. 33 But soon c. down again J.G. 48 So down he c.; for loss of time J.G. 53 When Betty screaming c. downstairs J.G. 59

When Betty screaming c. downstairs J.G. 59
Until he c. unto the Wash J.G. 135
I c. because your horse would come J.G. 173
Whence straight he c. with hat and wig J.G. 181
'Twas for your pleasure you c. here J.G. 199
To a slave-cultured island we c. M.D. 26
Thus many a sad to-morrow c. and went M.P. 42
And heedless whither, to that field I c. N.A. 32
On eager wing the spoiler c. P.B. 5

The leaves c. on not quite so fast P.T. 46
Yet glad she c. that night to prove Q.V. 29
When in c., housewifely inclined R.C. 49
Then c. the maid, and it was closed R.C. 58
The evening c., the sun descended R.C. 65
And puss c. into mind no more R.C. 71
Nor plague nor famine c. St. i 10
[T. 155
Who spanned her waist, and who where'er he c.
Ere yet it c., the traveller urged his steed T. 244

Celestial, though they knew not whence it c. T. 532 Marshalling all his terrors as he c. T. 547 [39 Now c. the cane from India, smooth and bright T. i Spawned in the muddy beds of Nile, c. forth T. ii 827 That His most holy book, from whom it c. T. vi 650 In front of these c. Addison. In him T.T. 642

And looks as if he c. to beg Y.D. 31 CAMPAIGN.

O'erhung the c.; and the numerous flock Y.O. 53

CANAAN'S.

Let Egypt's plagues, and C.'s woes proclaim Ex. 169 CANCEL.

Lost innocence, or c. follies past T. iii 678 CANDID.

Clean, c., and witty—Thelypthora dies A.T. iv 2 C. and just, with no false aim in view Ex. 648 C., and generous, and just F. 19 C. and learned, dispassionate and free P.E. 453 We are become so c. and so fair T. iii 93

CANDIDATES.

That c. for such a prize should feel Tir. 376

CANDIDLY.

Or c. confess yourself a dunce T.T. 571

CANDLE.

And useless as a c. in a skull Con. 780

CANDLELIGHT.

By daylight or c.—eyes should be shut A.C. 32 CANDOUR.

Their thirst of knowledge, and their c. too! T. ii 544 CANE.

Has God then given its sweetness to the c. Ch. 190 With c. extended far, I sought D.W. 17 Dangling his c. about, and taking snuff H. 27 Supple and flexible as Indian c. H. 602 For the sweets your c. affords N.C. 24 Now came the c. from India, smooth and bright T. i

CANKERED.

The c. spoil corrodes the pining state Ch. 63 But being c. now, and half worn out P.E. 393 CANT.

And tongue accomplished in the fulsome c. T. vi

C. and whining out all day the word Con. 577 Sometimes a c. hypocrite is found T. 233

CANVASS

From her the c. borrows light and shade Ch. 107 Heaven speed the c., gallantly unfurled Ch. 123 Has dropped her anchor, and her c. furled Ch. 443 A trick upon the c., pointed flame Con. 782 The marble breathes, the c. glows Miss — 83

To teach the c. innocent decoit R. 797 Spreads all his c., every sinew plies T. 5. In shirt of hair, and weeds of c. dressed T. 81 With all his c. set, and inexpert T. ii 486 Take half thy c. in Tran H. 36

CAP.

To take his honour's orders, c. in hand Con. 416 This c., that so stately appears Gr. 1 This c. to my cousin I owe Gr. 5 Seems what it is, a c. and bell for fools T. 368 His c. well-lined with logic not his own T. ii 737 The tasselled c. and the sprace band a jest T. ii 749 CAPABLE.

Born c. indeed of heavenly truth H. 231
Brutes c. would tell you 'tis a lie P.E. 261
His nature, and though c. of arts T. i 576
Cultured and c. of sober thought T. iii 324
All that are c. of pleasure pleased T. vi 345
But all are c. of living well Tir. 510
CAPACIOUS.

But overcharges her c. hand Ch. 100 The treasured sweets of the c. plan Ch. 323 Than a c. reservoir of means T. ii 201

CAPACITY.

By our c. of grace divine T. vi 602

CAPER.

Than c. in the morris-dance of verse T.T. 519 CAPITAL.

The fairest c. of all the world T. i 698
On pleasure, haunt the c., and thus T. iv 590
CAPPED

In scarlet mantle warm, and velvet c. M.P. 51
CAPRICE.

Wherever chance, c., or fancy guide Con. 794
Build by whatever plan, c. decrees H. 614
Or aught He does, is governed by c. T. 346
And by c. as multiplied as his T. ii 597
And sweating in his service; his c. T. v 274

CAPRICIOUS.

C. Taste itself can crave no more Ch. 101 The sycamore, c. in attire T. i. 318 C., in which fancy seeks in vain T. v 120

CAPTAIN.

Their God their c., lawgiver, and king Ex. 190 A trainband c. eke was he J.G. 3
The stout tall c., whose superior size Tir. 222
Part of the c. precious store Tran. iv 5
CAPTIOUS.

And c. cavil and complaint subside H. 144 A c. question, sir (and yours is one) Tir. 903

CAPTIVATE.

To c. the tempting prey E. iv 54 And while they c., inform the mind H. 759

CAPTIVATING.

When c. lusts have lost their power H. 216

CAPTIVE.

A c. bird into the boundless sky Ch. 269 Captivity led c., rose to claim Ch. 585 Her princes c., and her treasures spoiled Ex. 62

CAPTIVITY.

C. led captive, rose to claim Ch. 585

CAR.

Sounds forth the signal, as she mounts the c. H. 647 A sliding c., indebted to no wheels T. iv 126 [vi 740 For He, whose c. the winds are, and the clouds T. Some shout him, and some hang upon his c. T. vi 698

CARAVANS.

In coaches, chaises, c., and hoys R. 521

CARCASS.

That owns a c., and not quake for fear? N.A. 100 Like an unburied c. tricked with flowers T. vi 992

CARD.

The gamester may have cast his c. away Con. 813
A sing and friendly game at c. L.W. 28
As inoffensive, what offence in c.? P.E. 149
C. with what rapture, and the polished die P.E. 171
The paralytic, who can hold her c. T. i 472
[207
C. were superfluous here, with all the tricks T. iv
Or with his pen, save when he scrawls a c. T. ii 38
Of c. devoted Time, and night by night T. iv 229
Paint c. and dolls, and every idle thing T. iv 241

CARD-PLAYING.

Or hadst thou a polite, c. wife Tir. 743

CARE.

His time, his talents, and his ceaseless c. A.T. 15 The fears and hopes of a commercial c. Ch. 279 Wherever found (and all men need thy c.) Ch. 47 And make colloquial happiness your c. Con. 82 The path of narrative with c. pursue Con. 217 When, 'scaped from literary c. D.W. 3
Are part of a Jehovah's c. E. i 58 Who, nursed with tender c. Ep. ii 6 From which no c. can save Ep. ii 42 If God Himself be not beneath her c. Ex. 603Boys c. but little whom they trust F. 20 Your unparticipated c. F. 125 A scene of fancied bliss and heartfelt c. H. 5Not that his hours devoted all to c. H. 57 His offspring hold in his paternal c. H. 140Their mind a wilderness through want of c. H. 233 The common c, that waits on all beside H. 539 Hard task! for one who lately knew no c. H. 698Without a soil to invite the tiller's c. Her. 27 Yet bless the guardian c. that kept M. 27 I c. not whether east or north M.B. 21 Extend no c. beyond themselves Miss — 63 Nor ancient, will be so, preserved with c. P.E. 400 Quavering and semiquavering c. away P.E. 127 The balm of c., Elysium of the mind P.E. 180 Mortals whose pleasures are their only c. P.E. 289None but an author knows an author's c. P.E. 516 For three score years employed with ceaseless c.R.37Thine, and upheld by thy paternal c. R. 89 With c. collect what in their eyes excels R. 153 Gives Melancholy up to Nature's c. R. 281 As ever recompensed the peasant's c. R. 332Escaped from office and its constant c. R. 408 Business or vain amusement, c. or mirth R. 647 To learned c. or philosophic toil R. 662 The weight of subjects worthiest of her c. R. 678

She left the c. of life behind R.C. 47 And, doubtful what, with prudent c. R.C. 85 But fixed, unalterable c. S. 9 And taught the unblemished to preserve with c. T.Ploughs up the roots of a believer's c. T. 460 Each province of her heart her equal c. T. i 707Were precious, and inculcated with c. T. ii 701 Or if the garden with its many c. T. iii 397 Her want of c., screening and keeping warm T.iii 440 And which no c. can obviate. It were long T. iii 558 Unsung, and many c. are yet behind T. iii 606 Not less dispersed by daylight and its c. T. iv 138 Thy days roll on exempt from household c. T. iv 366Thine helpless charge, dependent on thy c. T. iv 369With all the thrift they thrive not all the c. T. iv 399 That instant he becomes the serjeant's c. T. iv 631 He severs it away; no needless c. T. v 38Clean riddance quickly made, one only $c.\ T.\ v\ 70$ Are yet his c., and have an interest all T. vi 448 Renowned in ancient song; not vexed with c. T. vi 997 Though that of all most worthy of his c. T. 426 And lay it at its ease with gentle c. T. ii 449 [773] Through want of c.; or her whose winking eye T. ii And slight the hovel as beneath her c. T. ii 459Beneath his c., a thriving vigorous plant T. ii 714 The worth of what she mimics with such c. T. iii 103Fearless, and wrapt away from all his c. T. iii 311Whom ten long years' experience of my c. T. iii 338 Grudge not the cost. Ye little know the c. T. iii 547 And more laborious; c. on which depends T. iii 607 And constant occupation without c. T. iii 693 With sweet oblivion of the c. of day T. iv 250 Her train and her umbrella all her c. T. iv 552 So manifold in c., whose every day T. \vee 769 See that your polished arms be primed with c. T. iv Of unremitted vigilance and c. T. vi 209 [T. v 202 Peace was awhile their c.; they ploughed and sowed Still sacred, and preserves with pious c. T. vi 690 A mother's lecture and a nurse's c. Tir. 196 Of classic food begins to be his c. Tir. 319 Whose only c., might truth presume to speak Tir. What dream they of, that, with so little c. Tir. 358 May raise such fruits as shall reward his c. Tir. 771Yet make their progeny their dearest c. Tir. 800 And trust for safety to a stranger's c. Tir. 852 That then, in recompense of all thy c. Tir. 879 Our parents yet exert a prudent c. Tir. 115 I blame not those who, with what c. they can Tir. While colts and puppies cost us so much c.? Tir. 295 Though there, in spite of all that c. can do Tir. 521 Dismiss their c. when they dismiss their flock Tir. 624 Too busy to intend a meaner c. Tir. 660 In all good faculties beneath his c. Tir. 709 Whom c. and cool deliberation suit Tir. 781 To nurse with tender c. the thriving Arts T.T. 69 Leave kingly backs to cope with kingly c. T.T. 174 His fostering power, and tutelary c. T.T. 257 Ye patriots, guard it with a miser's c. T.T. 335 Her sovereign's tutelary c. 1789, 39

CAREER.

Makes Justice still the guide of his c. Ex. 715 View him at Paris in his last c. T. 311 Fruitful and young as in their first c.? Tir. 42 "Stop, while ye may; suspend your mad c. T.T. 435 Short his c., indeed, but ably run T.T. 671

CAREFUL.

Now mistress Gilpin (c. soul!) J.G. 65 Be c. where he trod Tran. i 16

CAREFULLY.

Divine Communion, c. enjoyed R. 747

CARELESS.

Is rather c. of her sister's fame Ch. 454 While thousands, c. of the damning $\sin Ex$. 388 Take, if ye can, ye c. and supine P.E. 9 Yet c. what he brings, his one concern T. iv 9 The roving eye misleads the c. heart R. 126 Or shoot the c, with a surer aim R. 218 Preserve the church! and lay not c, hands T, ii 393 C. of their Creator. And that low T. v 587 Too c. often, as our years proceed Tir. 113 (Apprised that he is such) a c. boy Tir. 906 C. of all the anxiety he feels T.T. 145

Cold in his cause, and c. of his woes V. 4 CARELESSLY.

C. nods and sleeps upon the brink Ex. 99With eager step, and c. arrayed R. 187

Or if, when ridden with a c. rein T.T. 306 They cry aloud in every c. car T.T. 431

He struck the lyre in such a c. mood T.T. 686

CARGOES. For merchants rich in c. of despair Ch. 138

CARING.

Not knowing, and too oft not c., why Tir. 7 4

CARNIVOROUS. Thanks for thy food. C., through sin T. vi 457

CAROLS.

With which he shouts and c., "Vive le Roy!" T.T. 243 CAROUSING.

Sit long and late at the c. board? T. 50

Nor c. at every flaw you may discern Con. 92

CARPET.

A Turkey c. was his lawn Ep. ii 21 These c., so soft to the foot Gr. 17

CARRIAGE. The c. bowls along and all are pleased P.E. 438 To sleep within the c. more secure T. i 92

To slumber in the c. more secure T. i 99 If the gilt c., and the pampered steed T.T. 133

CARRIED.

The good he scorned, all c. to account " T. 546

CARRIES.

"He c. weight!" "He rides a race!" J.G. 115 C. her Bible tucked beneath his arm T. 147

CORROSION.

By ceaseless sharp c. F. 63

CARROT.

Sliced c. pleased him well Ep. ii 2

CARRY.

And c., in contusions of his skull Con. 201 But souls that c. on a blest exchange Con. 693 But still he seemed to c. weight J.G. 129 This lesson seems to c. P.T. 63 To c. me, to fan me while I sleep T. ii 30

They have their weight to c., subjects theirs T.T. 175

To c. nature lengths unknown before T.T. 558

CARVE.

Weigh sunbeams, c. a fly, or spit a flea Ch. 354 To c. his rustic name upon a tree R. 400 He from the stack c. out the accustomed load T. v 33 Should c. himself a wife in gingerbread T.T. 555

CARVED.

Skillet, and old c. chest, from public sale T. iv 402 The very name we c. subsisting still Tir. 301

CARVERS.

By rural c., who with knives deface T. i 281 CARVING.

The c. and the gilding F. 168

CASCADES.

For clumps, and lawns, and temples and c. H. 247Now murmuring soft, now roaring in c. T. iii 779

('Tisa c, that has happened, and may do again) A.C.18Its semblance in another's c. Cast. 60

Makes contradiction such a hopeless c. Con. 60 And though self-idolized in every c. Cos. 157 I give him over as a desperate c. Con. 406 Tis time, however, if the c. stands thus Con. 847

To comprehend the c. D.W. 24Or how do justice in this c.? E. iv 72 In England's c. to move the Muse to tears? Ex. 2

In England's c. to move the Muse to tears? Ex. 31 Are observations on the c. F. 160Could he with reason murmur at his c. H. 316

Make works a vain ingredient in the c. H. 360Contrived to suit frail nature's crazy c. H. 601 Be in a hungry c." J.G. 192

Respecting in each other's c. N.G. 33 Now drenched throughout, and hopeless of his cT.

Are all enchantments in a c. like thine R. 261 And blunts his pointed fury; in its c. T. vi 193 Free man and slave then, if the c. be such $T.T.\ 254$

CASED. That he was c. in such enchanted steel A.T. 183

CASEMENTS. What are the c. lined with creeping herbs T. iv 762

To tease for c., and quarrel with all day P.E. 372

CASHIERED. By selfish views, thus consured and c. Tir. 496

CASK. The c., the coop, the floated cord Cast. 27

An oracle within an empty c. Con. 298

Of all this riot and ten thousand c. T. iv 503 CASKETS.

Kept snug in c. of close-hammered steel R. 308 CASSIOPEIA.

Fair C, sat Gr, 16

CASSOCKED.

A c. huntsman, and a fiddling priest! P.E. 111

On every mind some mighty spell she c. A.T. 37 And snorts aloud to c, the mist aside A.T. 164

The gamester may have c. his cards away Con. 813 Ah! be not sad, although thy lot be c. E. ii 41"And thus o'er all a lustre c. E. iv 77

Have burst the bands, and c. the yoke away Ex. 465 And truth alone, where'er my life be c. Ex. 732 Who first misuse, then c. their toys away H. 128

Is a pearl c., completely c., away H. 259 (Oh c. them from thee !) are weeds, arrant weeds H. The other was of gentler c. J.P. 13

And should my future lot be c. M. 49 An oyster c, upon the shore P, 1 Go, c. your orders at your Bishop's feet P.E. 120 Of manners rough, and coarse athletic c. P.E. 187 Luxury gives the mind a childish c. R. 703 Nature perhaps herself had c. her R.C. 8 And mercy c. away 8t vi 40

And mercy c. away St. vi 40

And c. his filthy raiment at them all T. 235

I c. them at thy feet—my only plea T. 583

Strange! that a creature rational, and c. T. i 574

Then c. them, closely bundled, every brat T. ii 673

His patrimonial timber c. its leaf T. iii 752

For ere the beech and elm have c. their leaf T. iii 466

Shakes her encumbered lap, and c. them out T. iv 499

Can wind around him, but he c. it off T. v 736

Insulted and traduced, are c. aside T. vi 879

That we are bound to c. the minds of youth Tir. 105

New situations give a different c. Tir. 440 Thence the prevailing manners take their c. Tir. 913 And move the lips of poets c. in lead T.T. 203 Slaves fight for what were better c. away T.T.282 Cod's over conf. away ton thousand sail T.T.487

God's curse can c. away ten thousand sail! T.T. 467 Verse in the finest mould of fancy c. T.T. 618 And, like his Lordship, c. thy friend away V. 48

CASTALIAN.

Has flowed from lips wet with C. dews T. iii 251

CASTING.

Though common sense, allowed a c. voice Con. 663

CASTLE.

And seeing the old c. of the state T. v 525

CASTRO.

Airy del C. was as bold a knight A.T. 1

CAT.

And set up his back, and clawed like a c. A.T. ii 5 A poet's c., sedate and grave R.C. 1 C. also feel, as well as we R.C. 23 "Was ever c. attended thus? R.C. 54 Forth skipped the c., but now replete R.C. 99 No c. had leave to dwell T.B. 21

CATALOGUE.

With glass at eye, and c. in hand T. vi 288

CATARACTS.

Ne'er roughened by those c. and breaks M.P. 66 C. of declamation thunder here T. iv 73

CATARRH.

And coughs, and rheums, and phthisic, and c. Con.

Ր392

CATCH.

Could c. the sound no more Cast. 48 He c. all improvements in his flight Ch. 115 Yes-you may c. him tripping, if you can Con. 120 To c. the triflers of the time E. i 20 C. from each other a contagious spot Ex. 105What web too weak to c. a modern brain? Ex. 629 And e, in its progress a sensible glow F.M. 20 To c. the wandering notice of mankind H. 137 How glad they c. the largess of the skies N.A. 62 At such a sight to c, the poet's flame R. 85 From all he sees he c. new delight R. 189 That I may c. a fire but rarely known R. 205 Nor gales that c. the scent of blooming groves R. 337 All c. the frenzy, downward from her Grace T. ii 647 I cannot analyse the air, nor c. T. iii 214 Must prompt him, and admonish how to c. T. iii 507 Some, more aspiring, c, the neighbour shrub T, iii 665 Where, diligent to c. the first faint gleam T. v 59 From distant mountains c. the flying joy T. vi 795 Traps to c. youth are most abundant too Tw. 522 Just c. at the sound Tran. iv 21

To c. renown by ruining mankind T.T. 60 But that they c. at popular applause T.T. 144 An eye like his to c. the distant goal T.T. 710

CATCHING.

That fire is c. if you draw too near Con. 654
Would run most dreadful risk of c. cold E. iii 59
By c. at his rein J.G. 224
In c. smoke and feeding upon air R. 38
C. its ardour as I mused along R. 376

CATCHPOLE-CLAWS.

And gibbeted, as fast as c. T. ii 681

CATERER.

Grand c. and dry nurse of the church! T. ii 371

CATECHISE.

And c. it well; apply thy glass T. iii 203

CATERPILLARS.

Like c., dangling under trees Tir. 591

CATGUT.

With wire and c. he concludes the day P.E. 126

CATHARINA.

C. has fled like a dream C. 5 C., Maria, and I C. 10 C., did nothing impede C. 27 C. alone can rejoice C. 42

CATHARTIC.

How an emetic or c. sped Con. 316

CATHEDRALS.

Discover huge c. built with stone P.E. 381

CATTLE.

Of spacious meads with c. sprinkled o'er T. i. 164 Attends him; drives his c. to a march T. iv 647 The c. mourn in corners, where the fence T. v 27 Thenceforth they are his c.: drudges born T. v 272 And his own c. must suffice him soon T. vi 710

CAUGHT.

Worms may be c. by either head or tail Ch. 528
But still the prize, though nearly c. D.W. 19
For c. and enged, and starved to death G. 10
But soon my ear c. the glad news M.D. 43
A conrteous knighthood, c. the generous fiame A.T.
C. in a delicate, soft, silken net P.E. 312
But if you pass the threshold you are c. P.E. 588
I know not where she c. the trick R.C. 7
Ocean has c. the frenzy, and upwrought T. ii 111
His horse, as he had c. his master's mood T. vi 549
C. from the deeds of men of ancient fame Tir. 645
Hast c. the cold distemper of the day V. 47

CAUSE.

So Tongue was the lawyer, and argued the c. A.C. 5 It has always been reckoned a just c. of strife A.T. ii 9 Man to the centre of the common c. Ch. 328 The c. of Virtue could not be his view Ch. 542 Who prostitute it in the c. of vice Con. 27 The c. is plain, and not to be denied Con. 159 And hazard life for any or no c. Con. 184 The c. perhaps inquiry may descry Con. 363 But fear to call a more important c. Con. 397 Of virtue, and religion's glorious c. Con. 686 And constituted guardians of his c. Ex. 200 He pours contempt on them, and on their c. Ex. 329 In such a c. they could not dare to fear Ex. 621 If lawyer, loud whatever c. he plead H. 201 This only can; for this plain c. expressed H. 340 If thus the important c. is to be tried H. 373

Who write in blood the merits of your c. Her. 42 The nymphs referred the c. J.P. 18Must c. him shame or discontent Mor. 46 For such a c., to feel the slightest fear N.A. 90 Sounds are but sounds, and till the c. appear N.A. 119 Such c. of terror in an empty sound N.A. 130 Your c. before a bar you little dread P.E. 198 Strange the recital! from whatever c. P.E. 401 Exert their influence, and advance their c. P.E. 463 Ye ladies! (for indifferent in your c. P.E. 510 Be flowery, and he see no c. of fear P.E. 546 Thus Conscience pleads her c. within the breast R. 15 For such a c. the Poet seeks the shade R. 188 Shall own itself a stammerer in that c. R. 413 C. to provide for a great future day R. 652 The sprightly morn her c. renewed R.C. 69 The c. is Conscience;—Conscience oft St. v 21 Who judged the Pharisee? What odious c. T. 41 Ye have much c. for envy-but not all T. 376 No mean advantage from a kindred c. T. i 387 And mar the face of Beauty, when no c. T. i 458 But far beyond the rest, and with most c. T. i 632 To enforce the wrong, for such a worthy c. T. ii 14 And principles; of c., how they work T. ii 191 Thou fool! Will thy discovery of the c. T. ii 196 And learn, though late, the genuine c. of all T. ii 205 Of her magnificent and awful c. ? T. ii 232 Support, and ornament of Virtue's c. T. ii 336 That he is honest in the sacred c. T. ii 375 No: he was serious in a serious c. T. ii 476 This does Profusion, and the accursed c. T. ii 697 Of such deep mischief has itself a c. T. ii 698 Profusion breeds them; and the c. itself T. ii 820 Views him in all; ascribes to the grand c. T. iii 226 From instrumental c. proud to draw T. iii 238 Our British Themis gloried with just c. T. iii 257 By c. not to be divulged in vain T. iii 371 The c. of piety, and sacred truth T. iii 707 Her interests, or that gives her sacred c. T. iii 792 Resistless in so bad a c., but lame T. iv 439 Her c. demands the assistance of your throats T. iv Lamented change! to which full many ac. T. iv 576 A noble c., which none who bears a spark T. iv 614 Of those that bare them in whatever c. T. iv 620 Babes in the c. of freedom, and should fear T. v 291To serve him nobly in the common c. T. v 344 And pity for her loss. But that's a c. T. v 370No narrow bounds; her c. engages him T. v 395 Wherever pleaded! 'Tis the c. of man T. v 396 And lack of knowledge, and with c. enough T. v 501 Can he be strenuous in his country's c. T. v 506 Takes part with Appetite, and pleads the $c.\ T.\ v$ 630 Spare not in such a $c.$ Spend all the powers $T.\ v$ 676 Patriots have toiled, and in their country's c. T. v 704 Made such by thee, we love thee for that c. T. v 881 Is c. of half the poverty we feel T. vi 52 Familiar with the effect we slight the c. T. vi 121 And under pressure of some conscious c.? T. vi 220 Whose c. is God. He feeds the secret fire T. vi 224 And fear as yet was not, nor c. for fear T. vi 367 Or his base gluttony, are c. good T. vi 388 Does law, so jealous in the c. of man T. vi 432 To interfere though in so just a c. T. vi 473 What c. move us, knowing as we must Tir. 292And you are staunch indeed in learning's c. Tir. 492 Much zeal in virtue's c. all teachers boast Tir. 517 Great c. occurs to save him from a band Tir. 696 From education, as the leading c. Tir. 911 And will prevail or perish in her c. T.T. 18 [204 The c., though worth the search, may yet elude T.T. To see a band, called patriot, for no c. T.T. 143

Have justly doomed, for some atrocious c. H. 713

Fires him at once in Freedom's glorious c. T.T. 223 The noblest c. mankind can have at stake T.T. 285 Sing where you please, in such a c. I grant T.T. 293 Her sacred c., but trembled when he rose T.T. 351 When profanation of the sacred c. T.T. 426Unchangeably connected with its c.) T.T. 443 Cold in his c., and careless of his woes V. But worn by frequent impulse, to the c. Y.O. 84 CAUSELESS. In c. fends and bickerings of their own Ex. 537 C., and daubed with undiscerning praise T. v 360 CAUTION. With c. and good heed J.G. 80 Prayer to the winds, and c. to the waves Tir. 183 Except of c. and of common sense Tir. 258 CAUTIOUS. Till I, with slow and c. hand F.B. 29 My friends! be c. how ye treat P.T. 23 Descending now (but c., lest too fast) T. i 266 C. he pinches from the second stalk T. iii 527 CAVES. And Time hath made thee what thou art—a c. Y.O.51CAVERN. Each creek and c. of the dangerous shore R. 152 CAVITY. Within that c. aloft A Tale 37 CAW. CAWING. CEASE.

Admonished, scorn the c. and the friend E. ii 17 A decent c. and reserve at least H. 404 Counsel and c from a voice like mine P.E. 10

With c. taste the sweet Circean cup P.E. 580 And while experience c. us in vain R. 755 Of all their c. in thy gentlest gales T. ii 484

That shoot into your darkest c. the day H. 493 To distant c, the lonely wanderer flies R. 769 The wilderness is theirs with all its c.'s T. vi 401

And fiery c., roars beneath his feet T. ii 90

And captious c. and complaint subside H. 144 And c at with ease, but none refute T. 360

And says—what says he?—C. Tran. ii 30

But c. rooks, and kites that swim sublime T.203

But still a soul thus touched can never c. Ch. 420 Must c. for ever when the poor shall c. Ch. 452 Relenting forms would lose their power or c. Ch. 603

And slaying man would c, to be an art Ch . 619 The guide to pleasures which can never c. S. ii 14 Go, bid the winter c. to chill the year T. 399 And comforts c. Dress drains our cellar dry T. ii 614

CEASED. Nor e. till, ever anxious to redress T.T. 632

CEASELESS.

His time, his talents, and his c. care A.T. 15 By c. sharp corrosion F. 63 For threescore years employed with c. care R. 37 To c. service by a c. force T. vi 219

By c. action all that is subsists T. i 367 The hills and valleys with their c. songs $T \cdot v 78$ CEASING.

A bosom heaved with never c. sighs T. i 552 Descending, and with never c. lapse T. iv 327

CEDARS.

For c. famed, fair Lebanon supplied A.T. 143 The c. and the hyssop on the wall H. 287

CEILING.

And gild our chamber c. as they pass T. ii 649 The shadow to the c., there by fits T. iv 275

CELEBRATE.

The man we c. must find a tomb T. iii 264 That poets c.; those golden times T. iv 514 Rejoice in him, and c. his sway T. v 326

CELESTIAL.

Pregnant with c. fire B. 34
The soul can mix with the c. bands Con. 717
And lend c. fire Miss — 82
C., though they knew not whence it came T. 532
Misled by custom, strain c. themes T. ii 438

CELL.

Wast thou in monkish c. and nunneries found Ch. 43 Near barren rocks, in palaces, or c. R. 540 With easy force it opens all the c. T. vi 11

CELLAR.

And comforts cease. Dress drains our c. dry T. ii From tippling benches, c., stalls, and styes T. vi 695

CEMENT.

Were soon conjoined; nor other c. asked T. v 147

CEMENTED.

That has c. us in one E. i 102

CENSOR.

Through reverence of the c. of thy son Tir. 734 The weekly c. of a laughing town V. 38

CENSORIOUS.

C., and her every word a wasp T. 160

CENSURE.

And all her c. of the work of grace Con. 784 [182 Lest fops should c. us, and fools should sneer Con. But public c. speaks a public foe Ex. 436 By useless c., whom we cannot mend H. 273 These move the c. and illiberal grin H. 744 His c. reached them as he dealt it P. 65 Could give advice, could c., or commend R. 291 Religion does not c. or exclude R. 783 But truce with c. Boving as I rove T. iv 232 But c. profits little: vain the attempt T. iv 500 Seems to imply a c. on the reat T.T. 92 Thus free from c., overawed by fear T.T. 115 And c. oft as useless. Stillest streams T. vi 929

CENSURED.

By selfish views, thus c. and cashiered Tir. 496 But to be rudely c. when they fail T.T. 158

CENTERING.

C. at last in having none at all Con. 134
There c. in a focus round and neat Con. 239
And c. all authority in modes T. i 745

CENTRE

From the c. all round to the sea A.S. 3
Man to the c. of the common cause Ch. 328
From the same c. of enlightening grace Ch. 364
Another's good;—theirs c. in their own Ch. 450
The c. of a glowing heart E. i 14
Pierced to the very c. of the realm Ex. 576
What treasures c., what delights, in thee H. 174
To exchange the c. of a thousand trades H. 246
Ethelred's house, the c. of six ways H. 302

The c. of delights he may not taste? P.E. 230
Discordant motives in one c. meet R. 173
Resistless from the c. he should seek T. v 590
Thou art the source and c. of all minds T. v 896
The mulberry-tree stood c. of the dance T. vi 686
Subsist and c. in one point—a friend Tir. 390

CENTURY.

Somebody proved it, c. ago P.E. 501 Then twig; then sapling; and, as c. rolled Y.O. 62 Slow after c., a giant bulk Y.O. 63

CEREMONY.

Made half their maids, sans c. wives A.T. 128 Then C. leads her bigots forth Ex. 115

CEREMONIAL.

And solemn c. of the day T. vi 680

CERTAIN.

C. invisibles as shrewd as he Con. 738
That c. feasts are instituted now Con. 823

CERULEAN.

It stands, like the c. arch we see T. 26

CHAFED.

C. him, and brought dull nature to a glow P.E. 403

CHAFF.

[Ex. 303

That yields them c. and dust, and nothing more Its patient drudges with dry c. and weeds R. 48 Full on the destined ear. Wide flies the c. T. i 359

CHAFFINCH.

A c. and his mate A Tale 12

CHAIN.

And snap the c. the moment when you may Ch. 168 Would heal his heart, and melt his c away Ch. 229 Sin forged, and Ignorance made fast, the c. Ch. 237 C. up the wolves and tigers of mankind Ch. 287 Long time Assyria bound them in her c. Ex. 73 That ever dragged a c., or tugged an oar Ex. 527 In c. of error our accomplished minds H. 484 She sung of the slave's broken c. M.D. 19 Ere our necks received the c. N.U. 42 Girt with a c. he cannot wish to break R. 243 Not to be led in c., but to subdue R.266 Galled by affliction's heavy c. St. v 11 The freeborn Christian has no c. to prove T. 187 Or, if a c., the golden one of love T. 188 $C.\ \mathrm{him}$, and tasks him, and exacts his sweat $T.\ \mathrm{ii}\ 23$ So many maniacs dancing in their c. T. ii 663 Fast bound in c. of silence, which the fair T. iv 53 You c. and bondage for a tyrant's sake T. v 352In forging c. for us, themselves were free T. v 392 C. nowhere patiently, and c. at home T. v. 478 C. are the portion of revolted man T. v 581 And all are slaves beside. There's not a c. T. v 731 His spirit takes, unconscious of a c. T. v 776 A Britain's scorn of arbitrary c. ? T.T. 201 The c. that binds them, and a tyrant's sway T.T. Tyranny sends the c. that must abridge T.T. 474

CHAINED.

Which thousands once fast c. to quit no more R. 2 C. to the routs that she frequents for life Tir. 744

CHAIR.

I twirl my thumbs, fall back into my c. Con. 115 This wheel-footed studying c. Gr. 9. Produce them—take a c.—now draw a saint T. 172 And shakes the sceptic in the scorner's c. T. 472

The new machine, and it became a C. T. i 43 But restless was the C.; the back erect T. i 44 Convenience next suggested Elbow C. T. i 87

CHAISE.

All in a c. and pair J.G. 12 Will fill the c.; so you must ride J.G. 15 The morning came, the c. was brought J.G. 33 So three doors off the c. was stayed J.G. 37 And every post, and where the c. broke down P.E. 'Tis done—he steps into the welcome c. R. 391 In coaches, c., caravans, and hoys R. 521 Close packed and smiling, in a c. and one T. i 80 His skill in coachmanship, or driving c. Tir. 826

And fling their foam against thy c. shore Ex. 273The c. ring, and knuckle down at taw Tir. 307

CHALLENGER.

The impious c. of power divine T. vi 546

CHALLENGING.

C. human scrutiny, and proved T. v. 868

CHAMBER.

As private as the c. where they slept Ex. 144 Far other paintings grace the c now H. 262 Thy nightly visits to my c. made M.P. 58 And gild our c. ceilings as they pass T. ii 649 Nor palaces, nor even c., 'scaped T. ii 831 Through all the heart's dark c., and reveal T. iii 241 The c. or refectory, may die T. vi. 572 But, if thou guard its sacred c. sure Tir. 891

CHAMBERMAID.

The c., and shut it fast R.C. 50

CHAMPION.

Full many a c., bent on daring deed A.T. 123 Divert the c. prodigal of breath Com. 89 Or serves the c. in forensic war Ex. 664 And sickly, while her c. wear their hearts $T. \vee 511$

CHANCE.

And from a c. so new A Tale 62 A fool must now and then be right by c. Com. 96 Wherever c., caprice, or fancy guide Com. 794 If Envy c. to creep in F. 75 But friends that c, to differ F, 135 If c., on heavy pinions slowly borne H. 716 A hermit (or if 'c. you hold Mor. 1 For with a race like theirs no c. I see N.A. 113 That night, by c., the poet watching R.C. 77 And worship c. alone! St. vi 28 Where c. may throw me, beneath elm or vine T. iii For property stripped off by cruel c. T. i 503 The greatest oft originate) could c. T. ii 168If e'er it chanced, as sometimes c, it must T, ii 717If c, at length he find a greensward smooth T, iii 7 What c. that I, to fame so little known T. iii 23 The hope of better things, the c. to win T. iii 828 We give to C., blind C., ourselves as blind T. v 865 But C. is not; or is not where Thou reignest T. v 870 He journeyed; and his c. was as he went T. vi 488 And if it c., as sometimes c. it will Tir. 839 If he should c. to fall Tran. ii 21

This history c. of late A Tale 10 That zeal, not vanity, has c. to make Ch. 635 A warm dispute once c, to wage J.P. 3 The goddess c. to hear L.R. 18 It c. then on a winter's day P.T. 9 This observation, as it c., not made R. 463

A drawer, it c. at bottom lined R.C. 35 If e'er it c., as sometimes chance it must T. ii 717

CHANCE-MEDLEY.

Is all c., and unknown to me Tir. 858

CHANGE.

In every c., both mine and yours A Fable 31 [845, The c. shall please, nor shall it matter aught Coa. He reads the skies, and, watching every c. Ch. 333 Who shifts and c. all things but his shape Con. 438 Great c. and new manners have occurred Con. Sel True, c. will befall, and friends may part E. iii lo But distance only cannot c. the heart E. iii 11 And feels no c., unshaken and serene Ex. 587 By such a c., thy darkness is made light Er. 640 The love of c, that lives in every breast R, 171 That so retired he should not wish a c. R. 600 Whatever hopes a c. of scene inspires R. 679 Must c. her nature, or in vain retires R. 680 But love of c., it seems, has place R.C. 21 Refreshing c.! where now the blazing sun? T. i 35 Of desultory man, studious of c. T. i 507 Can c. their whine into a mirthful note T. i 583 A new possessor, and survives the c. T. ii 110 But c. with every moon. The sycophant T. ii 599 Through every c. that Fancy, at the loom T. ii 618 For thou art meek and constant, hating c. T. iii 🕉 To-morrow brings a c., a total c.! T. iv 322 And loudly wondering at the sudden c. T. iv 451 Lamented c.! to which full many a cause T. iv 576 Grows conscious of a c., and likes it well T iv 638 Twere well if his exterior c. were all T iv 649 But not to warp or c. it. We are his T. v 343 To count the hour-bell, and expect no c. T. v 401 By dint of c. to give his tasteless task T. v 429 Grace makes the slave a freeman. 'Tis a c. T. v 68 Garden of God, how terrible the c. T. vi 371 By any c. of fortune; proof alike T. vi 626. Arrived, he feels an unexpected c. Tir. 567 Or tinkle in C. Alley, to amuse T.T. 186 C. is the diet on which all subsist Y.O. 72 Created changeable, and c. at last Y.O. 73 CHANGED.

As she had c, her kind A Tale 46 From things terrestrial, and divinely c. Con. 725 Alas, how c.! expressive of his mind H.688And though she c. her mood so oft J.P. 23 [i 33 Have c. the woods, in scarlet honours bright I Where penury is felt the thought is c. T. iv 397 Attachment never to be weaned or c. T. vi 625 Since all thy tears were c. to smiles 1789, 57

CHANGEABLE.

Created c., and change at last Y.O. 73

CHANGEFUL.

And no condition of this c. life T. v 768

CHANGING.

And finds a c. clime a happy source Con. 387

CHANNEL.

C. her cheeks, a Niobe appears T. 174

CHANTICLEEB.

Where c, amidst his harem sleeps T, iv 447

CHAOS.

C. of contrarieties at war Ex. 295 Thy c. order, and thy weakness might Ez. 641

CHAPEL.

So in the c. of old Ely House T. vi 658

CHAPLAIN.

ist made fifth c. of his patron lord H. 414

CHAPLET.

nd fragrant c., recompensing well T. iii 668

CHAPTERS.

nd deans, no doubt, and c., with one voice Tir. 418

CHARACTER.

at if she touch a c., it dies Ch. 456 hrist and his c. their only scope Con. 541 hat form the c. he seeks F. 46
1c. uncouth, and spelt amiss T. i 283
1c. has littered all the land T. ii 676
Thom matrons now, of c. unsmirched T. iii 73
nd paint his person, c. and views T. iii 143 seen no more. The c. is lost! T. iv 539
Those c., yet undebauched, retains Tir. 809
That c., what turn thou wilt assume Tir. 853
he public c. its colours draws Tir. 912
ach c. in every part Tran. iv 34 killed in the c. that form mankind T.T. 705

CHARACTERED.

Tere c. on every statesman's door T. iii 823

CHARGE. but not the mitred few, the soul their c. A.T. 129 'roves after all a wind-gun's airy c. Con. 274

r, if excused that c., at least deceived Con. 478 letort the c., and let the world be told Con. 767 nd first, let no man c. me, that I mean Con. 871 to thrust the c. of deeds that I detest Ex. 430 low freely will they meet and c.! F. 137 i priest, supinely droning o'er his c. H. 198 Yetc. not heavenly skill with having planned H. 542 and while his tongue the c. denies \hat{H} . F. 15 ach Mahomet's mysterious c. L.W. 7 With naught in c., he could betray no trust P.E.29With which I c. my page St. i 22 not, with light sufficient and left free T. 19 It such a season, and with such a c. T. 219 Irraigns him, c. him with every wrong T. 262 The poor are near at hand, the c is small T. 287 not a God with such outrageous wrong" T. 520 The loaded wain, while lightened of its c. T. i 296 spridged so high, and sent on such a c. T. ii 116 flimself, as conscious of his awful c. T. ii 403 That he had ta'en in c. He would not stoop T. ii 478 Sticks close, a Mentor worthy of his c. T. ii 595 The nurse, no doubt. Regardless of her c. T. ii 775 stand up unconscious, and refute the c. T. ii 824 That ran through all his purposes, and c. T. iii 148 These therefore are his own peculiar c. T. iii 412 True to his c., the close packed load behind T. iv 8 Thine helpless c., dependent on thy care T. iv 369 To adjust the fragrant c. of a short tube T. v 55 Beceive proud recompense. We give in c. T. v 706 But how should matter occupy a c. T. vi 216 And whose benificence no c, exhausts T, vi 230 Summer in haste the thriving c. receives Tir. 45 His pride resents the c., although the proof Tir. 163Detain their adolescent c. too long Tir. 219 But, watch they strictly, or neglect their c.? Tir. See Bedlam's closeted and handcuffed c. Tir. 819 If thou desert thy c., and throw it wide Tir. 887 But tis her own important c. Tran. iv 10 Will sneer, and c. you with a bribe T.T. 84 His black interpreter the c. disdained T.T. 99 The abuses of her sacred c., the press T.T. 633 Give it a c. to blacken and traduce T.T. 763 Let me, the c. of some good angel, find V. 77

CHARGEABLE.

Oh think, if c. with deep arrears Ex. 608 C. only with a human shape H. 514 Stand c. with guilt, and to the shafts T. ii 155 Transports not c. with art 1789, 60

CHARGED.

Or was the merchant c. to bring A Tale 27 C. with a freight transcending in its worth Ch. 133 And brings, at his return, a bosom c. Ch. 321And c. Hostility and Hate to roar Ex.566From crimes as base as any c. on me? Ex. 711 And c. with octavos and twelves Gr. 27 C. with the folly of his life's mad scene P.E. 88 One, and one only, C. with deep regret P.E. 349 Full c. with England's thunder R.G. 31 T iii 6 Of close-rammed stones has c. the encumbered soil (Such were the sins with which he c. his Lord) T. 51 And, c. with putrid verdure, breathe a gross T. ii 97 My panting side was c., when I withdrew T. iii 110 Or c, with amorous sighs of absent swains T, iv 20 On bird and beast, the other c. for man T. iv 249 But God will never. When he c. the Jew T. vi 443 And c. perhaps with venom, that intrudes T. vi 569 The rottenness which Time is c. to inflict Y.O. 67 Minority. No tutor c. his hand Y.O. 157

CHARIOT.

The c. bounding in her wheel-worn streets, Ex. 21 The nymph between two c. glasses P.B. 20 In c. and sedans, know no fatigue T. i 755 Of order from the c. to the plough T. iv 586 Propitious in his c. paved with love T. vi 744 With half the c. and sedans in town Tir. 748

CHARIOTEER.

Long ere the c. of day had run P.E. 67

CHARIOTED.

No:—let her pass, and c. along T. iii 69

CHARITY. Whether we name thee C, or Love Ch, 3 Where wast thou then, sweet C.? Where then Ch. The o'erflowing well of C. springs here" Ch. 366 Gives C. her being and her birth Ch. 378 The reign of genuine C. commence Ch. 413 But C. not feigned intends alone Ch. 449 No C. but alms aught values she Ch. 459 To Peace and C., is mere pretence Ch. 534 True C., a plant divinely nursed Ch. 573 (C. chosen as my theme and aim) Ch. 295 Did C. prevail, the press would prove Ch. 623 Let C. forgive me a mistake Ch. 634 C. may relax the miser's fist Con. 812 Judging, in c. no doubt, the town H. 250 His apostolic c. the same H. 583 Such was thy c.; no sudden start J.T. 41 Truth, Hope, and C., and touched with awe T. i 2 And there, unless when C. forbids T. i 548 In Christian c. (good-natured age!) T. iii 95

The c. that warmed his heart was moved T. vi 498 CHARLES. [vi 659]

When wandering C., who meant to be the third T. The dinner served, C. takes his usual stand T. 213 "C., without doubt," say you—and so he ought T.222 They dream of little C. or William graced T. 360 But when the second C. assumed the sway T.T. 620

As sweet as c. from human breasts T. iii 197

Who slights the c. for whose dear sake T. v 507

Against the c. of domestic life T. iv 677

CHARM.

O Solitude! where are the c. A.S. 5

No spell or c. was proof against the thrust A.T. 146 But shine with cruel and tremendous c. Ch. 545 And Virtue with peculiar c. appears Con. 637 Can Nature add a c., or Art confer Ex. 5 That clips thy shores, had no such c. for thee Ex. To c. to sleep the threatening of the skies Ex. 404 By every c. that smiles upon her face Ex. 668 Ten thousand c., that only fools despise H. 51 He shine with all a cherub's artless c. H. 180 Insensible of Truth's almighty c. H. 655 Wine has no taste, and beauty has no c. H. 705Tiv 223 And all the c. of a Sicilian year Her. 24Thus decked, he c. a world whom Fashion blinds T. Of numerous c. possessed J.P. 2 Shall boast new c, and more than they have lost T. vi In short, the c. her sister had J.P. 27 Where neither strumpet's c., nor drinking bout Tir. Yet me they c., whate'er the theme M. 23 Give life her every c. Miss - 80 T.T. 696 And c. the woodland scenes, and wilds unknown Fancy shall weave a c. for my relief M.P. 18 Even Bacchanalian madness has its c. P.E. 56 And call her c. to public notice forth P.E. 296 The baby seems to smile with added c. P.E. 519The spells and c. that blinded you before P.E. 619 Amid the c. of a sequestered spot R. 8 Thy genuine c., and guide an artless hand R. 204 Tender idolater of absent c. R. 220 The fiercest animals with magic c.) R. 254 Or c, the sorrows of a drooping friend R. 292 What c. he sees in Freedom's smile expressed R.409That does not c. the more for being new R. 462 With all the c. of an accomplished taste R. 510 To dance on earth, and c. all human eyes R. 796 Can e'er forget the c. he left behind S. ii 3 And still has power to c. St. v 16Too many shocked at what should c. them most T. Not so the pheasant on his c. presumes T. 66 That hails the rising moon, have c. for me T. 206 Still soothing, and of power to c. me still T. i 143 No tree in all the grove but has its c. T. i 307 Not senseless of its c., what still we love T. i 516 Their former c.? And having seen our state T. i 642 So sterile with what c. soe'er she will T. i 710 Is proof against thy sweet seducing c.? T. ii 482 C. he may have, but he has frailties too T. ii 497 The c. of virtue in their just esteem T. ii 796 Must lend its aid to illustrate all their c. T. iii 591 Vainglorious of her c., his Vashti forth T. iii 715 From clamour, and whose very silence c. T. iii 735 These are the c. that sully and eclipse T. iii 825 'Tis the cruel gripe T. iii 826 The c. of Nature. Then Milton had indeed a poet's \tilde{c} . \tilde{T} . iv 709 A garden in which nothing thrives, has c. T. iv 754 C. the deaf serpent wisely. Make him hear T. v 671 Smitten in vain! Such music cannot c. T. v 682 C. more than silence. Meditation here T. vi 84 To c. his ear, whose eye is on the heart T. vi 1022 No. Freedom has a thousand c. to show T.T. 260 That c. down fear they frolic it along T.T. 463 Without a creamy smoothness has no c. T.T. 513 Where the flowers have the c. of the spring W.N. 7 The c. of the late-blowing rose W.N. 21

CHARMED. [Grace?"P.E.105

C. by the sounds, "your Reverence," or "your And much was she c. with a tone C. 14 [T. vi 704 Why? what has c. them? Hath he saved the state? The world is c., and Scrib escapes the law Ch. 526 C. with the sight, "The world," I cried D.W. 37 The book of all the world that c. me most H. 427 Has c. me much (not e'en Occiduus more) P.E. 139 And the scene where his melody c. me before P.F. 11 Is so refined, and delicate, and c. T.T. 511

So sings he, c. with his own mind and form T. i Or c. me young, no longer young, I find T. i 143 And a with rural beauty, to repose T. iii 28 The man approving what had c. the boy_Tir. 149 Rose like a paper-kite and c, the town T.T.355

CHARMER.

My c. is not mine alone; my sweets T. iii 719

CHARMING.

Its odour perished, and its c. hue Con. 43 Must constitute the c. whole F. 59 O c. Paradise of short-lived sweets! Her. 34 Sighs o'er the beauties of the c. scene R. 566 And in the c. strife triumphant still T. iv 163

CHARTER.

"To assert the c. of the chaste and fair A.T. 117 And in that c, reads, with sparkling eyes T. 329 By c., and that c. sanctioned sure T. v 548 The c. was conferred, by which we hold T. vi 432

CHARTERED.

The beasts are c.—neither age nor force Ch. 171 Hence c. boroughs are such public plagues T. iv 67As dwell at large in Britain's c. land T.T. 259

CHASE.

The reeking, rearing here of the c. Con. 405 And c. the splenetic dull hours away Con. 582 By joys possessed, and joys still held in c. Ez. 63 And others shooting and the c. L.W. 32 That first engaged him in the c." Mor. 38 To urge the fruitless c. be lost Mor. 42 'Grieve not, my child, c. all thy fears away! M.P. Shall c. him from the bowers N. 18 For persevering c., and headlong leaps P.E. 86 Lived in his saddle, loved the c., the course R. 57 Nor those of learned philologists who c. R. 691 Divine Communion c., as the day R. 765 War and the c. engross the savage whole T. i 608 The c. for sustenance, precarious trust! T. i 611 To which the mind resorts, in c. of terms T. ii 25 In c. of fancied happiness, still wooed T iii 126 I shall not add myself to such a c. T. iv 786 In feast or in the c., in song or dance $T. \times 758$ Liberty c. all that gloom away T.T. 271

CHASED.

Three sparks ensued that c. it all away A.T. 167 For him, though c. with furious heat Beau 11 Till thy appearance c. the gloom, forlorn J.T. 21 Fled, c. by her melody clear M.D. 22 And c. them up to Heaven. Their ashes flew $T. \sqrt{2}$ The breath of heaven has c. it. In the heart T.vi7C., never to assemble more 1789, 41

CHASING.

C. the darkness and the damps Q.V.7

CHASM.

That theme exhausted, a wide c. ensues Con. 393 The yawning c. of indolence supply! P.E. 172

CHASTE.

To assert the charter of the c, and fair A.T, 117 Silent and c. she steals along Comp. ii 3 And he grown c. that was the slave of lust Con. 8 And plain in manner; decent, solemn, c. T. ii 401 And c. themselves, are not ashamed to own T. iii And c., though unconfined, whom I extol T. iii 7 O for a world in principle as $c.\ T.\ imes i$ 836 Not very sober though, nor very c. Tir. 750 Extravagant or sober, loose or c. Tir. 914

CHASTENING.

Father's frown, and kiss his c. hand R. 346 CHASTER.

ie c. Muse of modern days omits A.T. 85CHASTISE.

may correct a foible, may c. T. ii 316

ad C.'s eloquence to marble lips T. i 704

CHATHAM'S.

ace C. saved thee, but who saves thee next? T.T. at C.'s language was his mother tongue T ii 237 ad C., heart-sick of his country's shame T. ii 244 hey made us many soldiers. Č. still T. ii 245 nd the last left the scene when C. died T.T. 839

CHATTELS.

nd c. of leisure and ease Gr. 50

CHATTER.

nd with much twitter, and much c. P.T. 15

CHATTERING.

sidle as the c. of a daw A.T. 63 et fashion, leader of a c. train Com. 457

CHAUCER.

int what old C.'s merry page befits A.T. 84 CHEAP.

T.T. 331 though blood-bought, and thrown away when sold

he dear-bought placeman, and the c. buffoon Con. 30 riendship a blessing c. or small! E. i 92 lut above all reflect, how c. soe'er Ex. 680 c. but wholesome salad from the brook T. vi 304

CHEAPER.

and play the fool, but at a c. rate R. 562

CHEAPLY.

io c. the renown of that attempt T. vi 534 CHEAPSIDE.

Is if C, were mad J.G. 44 should purl amidst the traffic of C. T.T. 185

CHEAT.

Whoever boasts that name—behold a c.! Ch. 603 And always friendly, we were wont to c. E. iii 4 Scripture employed to sanctify the c. Ex. 92 Toc. themselves and gain the world's assent P.E. 436 And daily more enamoured of the c. P.E. 524The Bible an imposture and a c.? T. 432 To zigzag manuscript, and c. the eyes T. ii 364 Can c., or move a moment's fear in me? T. vi 508

CHEATED.

And he that will be c. to the last P.E. 607

Will c. him if he can Y.D. 28

CHECK.

To c. the vessel's course Cast. 20 To c., or alter from its course Miss — 59 Till He that rides the whirlwind c, the rein R, 535 \underline{C} vegetation in the torpid plant T. iii 468 The rich, and they that have an arm to c. T. iv 587 Not so where, scornful of a c., it leaps T. v 101That scruple c. him. Riot is not loud T. v 614 Defies the c. of winter, haunts of deer T. vi 110 To c. them. But, alas! none sooner shoots T. vi 592 To c. the procreation of a breed Tir. 603

CHECKED.

O'crheard and c. this idle talk P. 40 And never c. by what impedes the wise T. 373

CHECKER'D.

Would waste attention at the c. board T vi 265

CHECKING.

Nor freezing sky nor sultry, c. me T. vi 297

CHEEK.

She saw, and turned her rosy c. away A.T. 87 To modest c., and borrowed one from art Ex. 48 At which I of t shave c, and chin Gr. 23 Unveiled her blushing c., looked on and smiled Ex. And the first thankful tears bedow his c. H. 727The seat of empire is her c. L.R. 27 The fragrant waters on my c. bestowed M.P. 62 But when the huntsman with distended c. N.A. 43 Channel her c., a Niobe appears T. 174 With half-shut eyes and puckered c. and teeth T. For none they need: the languid eye, the c. T. i 391 His c. recovers soon its healthful hue T. i 441 Two empiries he stands, and with swoln c. T. ii 352 With tears, that trickled down the writer's c. T. iv 18 But gay confusion; roses for the c. T. iv 79 Thy breath congealed upon thy lips, thy c. T. iv 122And stroke his polished c. of purest red Tir. 847 And wet his c. with sorrows not his own V. 66

CHEEK-DISTENDING.

The c. oath, not to be praised T. iv 488

CHEER.

C. what were else a universal shade Ch. 94 That c. the silent journey of the night Ch. 320 To c. the rude forefathers of mankind Con. 454 By night a fire, to c. the gloomy way Ex. 178 Nor c. the spirit, nor refresh the sight H. 299 Soft airs and genial moisture feed and c. H. 489 And c. the drooping flowers, unheard, unseen J.T. 40 The love that c. life's latest stage M.F. 49 Might beautify and c. the night" N.G. 22 Ten thousand warblers c, the day, and one T. 200 Greets with three c. exulting. At his waist T. i 523 C. all their seasons with a grateful smile T. i 622 That c. but not inebriate, wait on each T. iv 40 The glimpse of a green pasture, how they c.T.iv 751How find the myriads that in summer c. T. v 77 Shall c. our latest age The Doves 12 One comfort yet shall c, thine aged heart Tir. 897

CHEERED.

And be c. by the sallies of youth A.S. 24 And c. her with a song A Tale 56 C. as they go by many a sprightly strain E. ii 14 That cordial thought her spirit c. Q.V. 65 And now, with nerves new braced and spirits c. T. i

CHEERFUL.

No groves have ye, nor c. sound of bird H. 469 Both sad and in a c. mood N.Y.G. 3 True Piety is c. as the day T. 176 Content though mean, and c. if not gay T. 319 Tall spire, from which the sound of c. bells T. i 174 Of c. days, and nights without a groan T. i 366 Feeds a blue flame, and makes a c. hearth T. iii 33 Cold and yet c.: messenger of grief T. iv 13 The c. haunts of man; to wield the axe T. v 42

${f CHEERFULLY}.$

Like him, crossed c. tempestuous seas H. 584 Would c. these limbs resign Tran. ii 34 And the world c. admits the claim T.T. 715

CHEERING.

The c. fragrance of her dewy vales T. i 429

CHEESE.

Of savoury c., or butter costlier still T. iv 395

CHEMIC.

From fading good derives, with c. art H 159.

CHEQUER.

In all the good and ill that c. life! T. ii 162

CHEQUERED.

The c, earth seems restless as a flood T, i 344 C, with all complexions of mankind T, iii 836

CHERISH.

To c. virtue in an humble state R. 789

CHERISHED.

An era c. long by me 1789, 33

CHERRIES.

And parrots with twin c in their beak T. i 38 [577 And c, hangs her twigs. Geranium boasts T. iii CHERRY-STONES.

Mits linking c., or platting rush R. 398

CHERTSEY.

[iv 728

Though stretched at ease in C.'s silent bowers T. CHERUB.

If shine with all a c.'s artless charms H. 180 Would him the c. Mercy from the stage T. 478 lint with a c. clear and strong D.W. 25 linc, brisk his ear-creeting steed T. iii 9

CHEST.

Half open in the topmost c. R.C. 40
Momething imprisoned in the c. R.C. 84
Anything rather than a c. R.C. 106
Millet, and old carved c., from public sale T. iv
Heals him out money from the public c. T. iii 796
Upon their jutting c. He, formed to bear T. iv 350

CHESTNUTS.

Those c. ranged in corresponding lines T. i 263 CHICKEN.

Her c. prematurely counted A Fable 4
Faint as a c.'s note that has the pip Con. 356

CHID.

From labour; and the lever, who has $c.\ T.\ v$ 412 Ha $c.\ the$ tardiness of every post $R.\ 475$

CHIEF

While C. Baron Ear sat to balance the laws A.C. 7 8at the Druid, heavy c. B. 6 No braver c. could Albion boast Cast. 7 (', grace below, and all in all above Ch. 4 For the c. blessings of my fairest days (h. 255 l'infriendly to society's c. joys Com. 252 And his c. glory, was the gospel theme Con. 620 Presumes itself a favourite of the skies Con. 674 But c., myself I will enjoin D.W. 41 But the C. Shepherd even there is near E. ii 44 Of the c. strength and glory of the frame Ex. 335 Thy cushe lords of many a perty fee Ex. 582 [186] The world can beast, and here, favourites share R. His flock the c. concern he ever knew R. 404 Of virtue, made one : , whom times of peace T, v The hardy an upon the rugged rock T. i 12 i, monster that has plagued the nations yet! T.T. A more accomplished world's a glory new T. 1724 But elegance, c. grace the garden shows T. iii 635 We the a pairon of the common wealth T, v 349 Thee I account still happy, and the c. T. v 460 Whose a distinction is their spotless name Tr. 355 That are of a and most approved report Nr. 459 Though the clastor died upon the stage T.T. 341 These were the : ; each interval of night T.T. 572 Which formed the collegible of V. 10 "I a whose single arm could boast 1789, 5

CHIEFLY.

And c. when religion leads the way Con. 704 Food c. for the mind T.B. 42 Lurks the contagion c. to be feared Tir. 689 Where vile example (yours I c. mean Tir. 761

CHIEN SAVANT.

"Friend Robert, thus like c. E. iv 87

CHILD.

So when a c., as playful children use B.B. 9 And graced with all her gifts the favourite c. Her wisdom seems the weakness of a c. Ch. 423 And was his plaything often when a c. E. iii $ My sister, and my sister's c. J.G. 13 "Grieve not, my c., chase all thy fears awa!"
"C.! I am rather hard of hearing" M.F. 26
Dupe of to-morrow even from a c. M.P. 41 And without discipline the favourite c. P.E. 31 Or Fancy's fondness for the c. she bears P.E. Patient of contradiction as a c. P.E. 586 And e'en the c. who knows no better P.T. 5 Not as the plaything of a froward c. R. 107 [iii Makes needful still; whose Spring is but the a Were but the feeble efforts of a c. T. 578 The clown, the c. of nature, without guile ?. But spurious and short-lived; the puny c. T.vi Soon see your wish fulfilled in either c. Tir. 34 To double all thy pleasure in thy c. Tir. 682Thy c. shall show respect to thy gray hairs!

CHILDHOOD.

From infancy through c.'s giddy maxe H. 187 The same that oft in c. solaced me M.P. 4 I seem to have lived my c. o'er again M.P. 115 For second c.; and devote old age T. ii 637 To sports which only c. could excuse T. ii 638 If aught was learned in c., is forgot T. ii 755 Their c. pleased them at a riper age Tir. 148

CHILDISH.

'Tis c. dotage, a delirious dream! Ch. 417 Luxury gives the mind a c. cast R. 703 A c. waste of philosophic pains Tir. 76 C. in mischief only and in noise Tir. 207 To take in c. plays a c. part Tir. 548

CHILDLIKE.

Such was thy wisdom, Newton, c. sage! T. iii

CHILDREN.

So when a child, as playful. c. uso B.B. 9
Peasants and c. all around us E. i 40
The very c. watch for thy diagrace Ex. 283
Men deal with life as c. with their play H. 127
Myself, and c. three J.G. 14
The dogs did bark, the c. screamed J.G. 109
c. not thine have trod my nursery floor M.P. 8
Then think of his c., for they must be fed P.A.
Where c. would with case discern the way P.S.
That we were born her c. Praise enough T. if
He gave them in his c. veins, and hates T. iv 48
When c. first begin to spell Tran. iv 37
Which c. use, and parsons—when they preach
In tales, in trifles, and in c.'s play T.T. 731
The c., creoked, and twisted, and deformed first

CHILL

C. Idasts of trouble nip their springing joys E.S. In wintry age to feel no c. M. 43.
Autumnal rains had made it c. Mor. 13.
With her c. hand, the mellow leaves away N.A. Go, hid the winter cease to c. the year T. 339.
And c. and darkness a wide-wandering soil T. v.

[318

CHILLED.

". more his else delightful way Mor. 16 Themselves were c., their eggs were addled P.T. 55 If love by absence c. into respect Tir. 576

CHILLING.

and tender blade, that feared the c. blast T. iv 331 By drunken howlings; and the c. tale T. iv 562 1 c. flood on summer's drooping flowers T.T. 211

CHIME.

Musical as the c. of tinkling rills P.E. 14 Streams tinkle sweetly in poetic c. R. 568
Tis not in artful measures, in the c. T. vi 1020

CHIMING

Through the cleft rock, and, c. as they fall T. 198

CHIN.

An honest man, close-buttoned to the c. E. iii 62 At which I oft shave check and c. Gr. 23C. fallen, and not an eye-ball to be seen P.E. 137 To show the peeping down upon his c. Tir. 235 The money chinks, down drop their c. Y.D. 51

No matter where, in C. or Japan E. iii 47 This c. that decks the alcove Gr. 33

CHINESE.

Like a fat squab upon a C. fan P.E. 218

And where, secure as mouse in c. R.C. 5 [T. v 86 Thins all their numerous flocks. In c. and holes The money c., down drop their chins Y.D. 51

CHIRP.

And c_{ij} , and kiss, he seemed to say F.B. 26 While the poor grasshopper must c. below T.T. 577

CHIRPING.

C. on my kitchen hearth Tran, iii 2

CHISEL.

Nor does the c. occupy alone T. i 705

Hark! how the sire of c., whose future share Tir. While yet thou wast a grovelling puling c. Ex. 474

CHIVALRY.

On all the wings of c. advanced A.T. 149

And C. from her garland picks the weed H. 293 CHOICE.

The scene of her sensible c.! C. 44 Or make the parrot's mimicry his c.! Con. 449. And free from bias, must approve the c. Con. 664 That cried "Repent"—and gloried in thy c.? Ex. 399 Dared to suppose the subject had a c. Ex. 544 Nice in its c., and of a tempered heat J.T. 36 Must be supplied with objects of his c. P.E. 46 Daniel are pulse by c.—example rare! P.E. 215 And make the course he recommends my c. R. 388Not blind by c., but destined not to see T.530Each to his c.; soon whiten all the land T. i 294 Recoils from its own c.—at the full feast T. i 467 In human mould, should brutalize by c. T. i 575 Subordinate, and diligence was c. T. ii 716 [ii 793 Than they themselves by c., for wisdom's sake T. And left them to an undirected c. T. ii 802Had I the c. of sublunary good T. iii 689 My fancy, ere yet liberty of c. T. iv 698 [vi 107 And swallowing, therefore, without pause or c. T. Nor would be quit that c. stand F.B. 28

The victim of his own tremendous c. T. vi 558 Guides the decision of a doubtful c. Tir. 34 Though much depends on what thy c. shall be Tir. Ah, happy designation, prudent c. Tir. 342 [vi 910] Would make his fate his c.; whom peace, the fruit T. As bound in duty, would confirm the c. Tir. 419 May here and there prevent erroneous c. Tir. 798

CHOICEST.

The c. raptures to impart Miss — 3 The c. flowers she bears Pat. 14 Pours she not all her c. fruits abroad T. ii 85

CHOIRS.

And angel c. attended, wondering stood T. vi 352 CHOKE.

Inveterate habits c, the unfruitful heart R, 41 CHOKED:

Are a stream c., or trickling to no end Tir. 718 CHOOSE.

Serve him with venison, and he c. fish Con. 335 But conversation, c. what theme we may Con. 703 What walks we take, what books we c. E. i 6Are come from distant Loire to c. E. i 47 Denied that earthly opulence they c. Ex. 458 These c. the back, the belly those L.W. 16 To make them grow just where she c. P. 24 Free in his will to c. or to refuse P.E. 25 C. not alone a proper mate P.T. 64 He c. company, but not the squire's R.437Grace leads the right way; if you c. the wrong T. 17 Of wrath obnoxious, God may c. his mark T. ii 156 Drink, when we c. it, at the fountain head T. ii 502 To understand and c, thee for their own T, iii 295 Or covet more than freemen c. to grant T. v 340 Is pleased with it, and, were he free to c. T. vi 909 And, artless as thou art, whom thou wilt c. Tir. 856 He c. it the rather Tran. ii 12

CHOOSING.

CHORD.

For ye are worthy; c. rather far T. iv 408

Bending as he swept the c. B. 35 With rash and awkward force the c. he shakes Con. Strike on the deep-toned c. the sum of all P.E. 605 Man is a harp whose ϵ , elude the sight R, 325 [499] Upon the rolling c. rung out his dying breath Ex. An instrument whose c., upon the stretch T. 384 The solemn c., and with a trembling hand T. i 3 The voice of singing and the sprightly c. T. ii 78

Some c. in unison with what we hear T. vi 4 [16] The touch from many a trembling c, shakes out T, iv CHORISTER.

With many a c. the woods among A.T. 77

CHORUS.

(Her rosy c.) fly Miss -- 72

CHOSE.

Whose friendship from his boyish years he c. Con.424 The tender theme on which they c. to dwell Con. 528 And he that blames what they have blindly c. H. 284 'Tis plain the creature, whom he c. to invest Tir. 95 Ennobling every reason that he c. T.T. 562 Forgetful of the man whom once ye c. V. 3 Which hue she most approved, she c. them all I. vi

CHOSEN.

(Charity c. as my theme and aim) Ch. 295 And having c. evil, scorned the voice Ex. 398 Shall be my c. theme, my glory to the last Ex. 734 His object c., wealth or fame Mor. 27 But c. with a nice discerning taste R. 726 Was c. leader; him they served in war T. v 233 His phrase well c., clear, and full of force Tir. 669

CHRIST.

C. and his character their only scope Con. 541 That love of C. in all its quickening power Con. 562 Paul's love of C., and steadiness unbribed H. 580 To prove that without C. all gain is loss H. 681

Pay!—follow C., and all is paid St. v 33But C. as soon would abdicate his own T. 77 Is C. the abler teacher, or the schools? T. ii 534 If C., then why resort at every turn T. ii 535

CHRISTIAN.

And C. marrying may convert the Turks A.T 160 Canst thou, and honoured with a C. name Ch. 180 Behold a C.!—and without the fires Ch. 599 Names almost worthy of a C.'s praise Con. 36 A C.'s wit is inoffensive light Con. 599 A veteran warrior in the C. field Con. 607 The C., in whose soul, though now distressed Con. 707 Peruses closely the true C.'s face Con. 743 That in her heart the C. she reveres Con. 787

To learn in God's own school the C. part Ex. 650 The C. vessel, and defies the blast H. 168 Nor animate the soul to C. deeds H. 300 The C. Hope is-Waiter, draw the cork-H. 360 True C. are, dissemblers, drunkards, thieves H. 508 Throughout mankind, the C. kind at least H. 635 And spits abhorrence in the C's face H. 662

Thy bounties all were C., and I make J. T. 47 Those C. best deserve the name N.G. 35 The C. has an art unknown to thee R.H. 4 And ardour in the C. race St. vi 23 The free-born C. has no chains to prove T. 187

Bon-mots to gall the C. and the Jew T. 308 Its odour o'er the C.'s thorny road! T. 454 "Is virtue then, unless of C. growth T. 515 That guides the C. in his swifter race T. 534 In C. charity, (good-natured age!) T. iii 95 C. in name, and infidel in heart Tir. 421

Our ancestry, a gallant C. race T.T.372Bespeaks a land, once C., fallen and lost T.T. 428 Drew a rough copy of the C. face T.T. 614 CHRISTIANLIKE.

He, C., retreats with modest mien T. 68 CHRONICLE.

Much ancient c., and long 1789, 2

CHURCH.

The c. warmed, they would no longer hold Ch. 606

'Tis in the c. the leprosy begins Ex. 96 Such, when the Teacher of his c. was there Ex. 123 Built God a c., and laughed his word to scorn R. 688 But that she fasts, and item goes to c. T. 152 Grand caterer and dry nurse of the c.! T. ii 371 Preserve the c. ! and lay not careless hands T. ii 393 By monitors that mother c. supplies T. ii 576

Well may the c. wage unsuccessful war T. ii 809 Trees, c., and strange visages, expressed T. iv 288 So fares thy c. But how thy c. may fare T. vi 888 C. ladders are not always mounted best Tir 381 A piece of mere c. furniture at best Tir. 425 A great frequenter of the c. Tran. ii 4

CHURCH-BRED.

"Fallible man," the c. youth replies H. 421 CHURCH-GOING.

But the sound of the c. bell A.S. 29

C., army, physic, law Tran. ii 27

CHURCHILL.

C., himself unconscious of his powers T.T. 672 CHURCH-JUGGLER.

A mere c., hypocrite, and slave P.E. 109

CHURCHMAN. Than in a c. slovenly neglect T. ii 456

C., in whose esteem their blest employ Tir. 823 CHURCH-QUACKS.

C., with passions under no command P.E. 474

Heedless of all his pranks, the sturdy c. T. v 52 Let reverend c. his ignorance rebuke Tir. 401

CHURLISH. Yet half mankind maintain a c. strife H. 322

Of c. Winter, in her froward moods T. iii 433 CHYMIST.

To adopt the c.'s golden dream F. 143 CINDERS.

Rake well the c., sweep the floor E. iv 41 In the red c., while with poring eye T. iv 289

And silent c., while her proxy plays T. i 477 Deems him a c. in the works of God T. vi 943 CIRCASSIANS.

"Ye fair C.! all your lutes employ A.T. 107 CIRCE.

With brutal lust as ever C. made T.T. 629 CIRCEAN.

With caution taste the sweet C. cup P.E. 580

CIRCLE. The c. formed, we sit in silent state Con. 379

That flight in c. urged advanced them naught N.A.53 In still repeating c., screaming loud T. 204
The Bout is Folly's c., which she draws T. ii 629 The silent c. fan themselves, and quake T. iv 149 Shall fill the c. of those eyes The Doves 15 Retired from all the c. of the gay V. 73

CIRCLING

That shook the c. seas and solid earth Her. 14 C. around and limiting his years R. 150 Slow c. ages are as transient days T. vi 227 Yon c. worlds, their distance, and their size Tir. 633

CIRCUIT. Immortal fragrance fills the c. wide Ch. 439 That tread the c. of the cistern wheel! H. 100 Runs the great c., and is still at home T. iv 119

CIRCULATE. And let it c. through every vein T. ii 45

CIRCUMSCRIBE. That no restraints can c. them more T. ii 792

CIRCUMSPECTLY. As c. as you can F. 152

CIRCUMVENTION.

Sly c., unrelenting hate T. i 615

CISTERN.

That tread the circuit of the c. wheel! H. 100 CITADELS.

To storm the c. they build in air H. 623

CITIZEN.

shn Gilpin was a c. J.G. 1 elight the c., who gasping there R. 485 nd so two c. who take the air T. i 79 o which the insipid c. resorts T. iii 642 he c., and brace his languid frame! T. iv 752 han aught that the c. can show C. 32 ad found one c. not to be o'ercome Ex. 210 he night his c. fell Q.V. 52 rom c humming with a restless crowd R. 21 ay run in c. with a brisker force R. 454 et not in c. oft; in proud, and gay T. i 681 nd gain-devoted c. Thither flow T. i 682 1 c. foul example on most minds T. i 685 a gross and pampered c., sloth, and lust T. i 687 a c., vice is hidden with most ease T. i 689 nd show this queen of c., that so fair T. i 727 lave rambled wide. In country, c., seat T. iii 14 he loses all her influence. C. then T. iii 729 'en righteous would have saved a c. once T. iii 843 ermons, and c. feasts, and favourite airs T. iv 84 hat men immured in c., still retains T. iv 766 lesemble most some c. in a blaze T. v 5 'ass where we may, through c. or through town T. If no mean c., planned or ere the hills $T. \vee 764$ light as a sun the sacred c. shines T. vi 800 herefore in towns and c. they abound Tir. 519 That follows next, let c, of great name T.T. 430 iere c. won, and fleets dispersed 1789, 18

CITY.

CITY-LIFE.

for habits of luxurious c. T. iv 745

CIVET.

cannot talk with c. in the room Con. 283

CIVETED.

. fellows, smelt ere they are seen Tir. 830

CIVIL.

hy senate is a scene of c. jar Ex. 294
his c. bickering and debate L.R. 17
juch c. broils are my delight Pat. 17 hat c. war embitters all his life T. 468
he manners and the arts of c. life T. i 596

CIVILIZES.

the sex whose presence c. ours Con. 254

CLAD.

Armed with thunder, c. with wings B. 27
hat man, in Nature's richest mantle c. Ch. 341

Of peace or ease to creatures c. as we N.A. 114

With reverend tutor, c. in habit lay P.E. 371
Saw better c., in cloak of satin trimmed T. i 535
Conspicuous, and in bright apparel c. T. v 25
Then each, in its peculiar honours c. T. vi 147
Behold that figure, neat, though plainly c. Tiv. 664

CLAIM.

Not Mexico could purchase kings a c. Ch. 214
The foe of virtue has no c. to thee Ch. 288
Captivity led captive, rose to c. Ch. 585
No!—there I grant the privilege I c. Con. 98
And c. a reverence in its shortening day Con. 645
And all her love of God a groundless c. Con. 781
And c. a right to scamper and run wide Con. 793 and c. for ever, as his royal right Ex. 362
Sace (if insensibility may c.) H. 235
Say c. some right to be esteemed divine H. 504
I self-exalting c. be turned adrift H. 530
as at that baffles Time's tyrannic c. M.P. 9
Sanot forfeit Nature's c. N.C. 14

'Tis God's just c., prerogative divine R. 278 C. most compassion, and receives the least R. 302 And never waves his c. St. i 12I say the Brahmin has the fairer c. T. 108 The vellum of the pedigree they c. T. i 569At least superior jockeyship, and c. T. ii 276 May c. this merit still—that she admits T. iii 102 Live there, and prosper. Those Ausonia c. T. iii 582Sweet bashfulness! it c. at least this praise T. iv 70 Such c. compassion in a night like this T. iv 375 The sword and falchion their inventor c. T. v 218In confirmation of the noblest c. T. v 720 Our c. to feed upon immortal truth T. v 721The flesh of animals in fee, and c. T. vi 452That c, forbearance even for a brute T, vi 466 Or safety interfere, his rights and c. T. vi 582 C. more than half the praise as his due share Tir.528 For since (so fashion dictates) all, who c. Tir. 690 Should c. my fixed attention more than you T.T. 181 And Freedom c, him for her firstborn son T.T. 281 If human woes her soft attention c. T.T. 484The nightingale may c. the topmost bough T.T. 576 And c. the palm for purity of song T.T. 636 And the world cheerfully admits the c. T.T. 715Urged loud a c. to be rehearsed 1789, 14

CLAIMED.

C. all the glory of thy prosperous wars? Ex. 347

CLAIMING.

Involves the combatants; each c. Truth T. iii 162

CLAMMY.

And c., of his dark abode have bred T. i 439

CLAMOUR.

Oh that the voice of c. and debate Ch. 309
Such is the c. of rooks, daws, and kites H. 349
Might be supposed to c. for a guide N.A. 98
Safe from the c. of perverse dispute R. 145
And c. of the field? Detested sport T. iii 326
From c., and whose very silence charms T. iii 735

CLAMOROUS.

The law grown c., though silent long T. 261 And infants c. whether pleased or pained T. i 232 To c. importunity in rags T. iv 414 The inglorious feat, and c. in praise T. vi 436

CLAN.

For interest sake or swarming into c. T. iv 665 In tribes and c., and had begun to call T. v 222 O'erwatch the numerous and unruly c. Tir. 262 Each bumpkin of the c. Y.D. 26

CLANG.

Or with the high-raised horn's melodious c. N.A. 35

CLAP.

He c. his lens, if haply they may see Ch. 385 C. spectacles on her sagacious nose Con. 742 And c. the gate behind thee M.B. 24 [P.E. 115 Cries—"Well done, Saint!" and c. him on the back Pleased Fancy c. her pinions at the sight R. 190

CLARIONETS.

Ye c., and softer still, ye flutes T. ii 260

CLASH.

The c. of arguments and jar of words Con. 85 Hence all that interferes and dares to c. P.E. 427

CLASP.

Which, crooked into a thousand whimsies, c. Y.O.118

CLASPED.

Though, c. and cradled in his nurse's arms H. 179 Arms hanging idly down, hands c. below R. 286 CLASPING.

With c. tendrils, and invest his branch T. iii 666 CLASS.

The heart of merit in the meaner c. T. iv 618 CLASSIC.

The gift of nature, or the c. store Con. 896 Whose wit well managed, and whose c. style R. 717 Of c. food begins to be his care Tir. 319

CLASSICAL.

Weigh, for a moment, c. desert Tir. 488 CLATTER.

From the c. of street-pacing steeds C. 46

CLAWS. [A.T. iii 8

Should John wed a score, oh the c. and the scratches!

And set up his back, and c. like a cat A.T. ii 5

Too weak to struggle with tenacious a T. 216 May be indifferent to her house of c. T. ii 458 CLEAN.

C., candid, and witty—Thelypthora dies A.T. iv 2 And keep the polish of the manners c. R. 733To conjure c. away the gold they touch T. i 571 He picks c. teeth, and, busy as he seems T. ii 627 His milkwhite hand; the palm is hardly c. T. iv 607 C. riddance quickly made, one only care T. v 70 To cultivate and keep the morals c. Tir. 920

CLEANLIER.

But now with pleasant pace a c. road T. iii 17 CLEANLY.

For c. riddance than for fair attire T. vi 994 CLEANSE.

And though a Bishop toil to c, the stain Ex, 384 Of abler votaries to c. the stain T.T. 635

CLEANSED.

The spot he loathed so much for ever c. away $\bar{A}.T$. C. in thine own all-purifying blood T. 581 All feel the freshening impulse, and are c. T. i 376

Decisive and c., without one if or but A.C. 30 Here stay thy foot, how copious and how c. Ch. 365 They always are decisive, c. and strong Con. 150 Admit it true, the consequence is c. Con. 165 A tale should be judicious, c., succinct Con. 235 His birthright shaken, and no longer c. Con. 765 But with a cherup c. and strong D.W. 25 And tell them truths divine and c. E. i 21Will make the dark enigma c. E. i 54To watch the fountain, and preserve it c. Ex. 98 And graced with c. credentials from above Ex. 188Too just to wink, or speak the guilty c. Ex. 256 With sums Peruvian mines could never c. Ex. 285 From mean self-interest and ambition c. Ex. 439And Dick, although his way was c. F.B. 22 Which is both bright and c." J.G. 28 Did sing most loud and c. J.G. 204 From all such frenzy c. J.P. 14 Fled, chased by her melody c. M.D. 22 Her beauteous form reflected c. below M.P. 93The c. harangue, and cold as it is c. P.E. 19 And with a c. and shining lamp supplied P.E. 558 Tis c. that they were always able P.T. 3

The warblings of the blackbird, c. and strong R. 50 And prejudice have left a passage c.) T. 114 [T. v15] Gleamed through the c. transparency, that seemed With c. exemption from its own defects T. i 404
The sport of every wave? No: none are c. T. iilii His office secred, his credentials c. T. ii 339
The method c., and argument exact P T. iii 279
Sought in still water, and beneath c. skies T. iii 33 And overlaid with c. translucent glass T. iii 485 By roses, and c. suns though scarcely felt T. iii 73 And the c. voice, symphonious, yet distinct T. iv 10 With lights, by c. reflection multiplied T. iv 268 Her scanty stock of brushwood, blazing c. T. iv 38 A c. escape from tyrannizing lust $T. \vee 579$ [vi 35] And these dissolving snows, and this c. stream I C. and sonorous, as the gale comes on ! T. vi 10 The morning sharp and c. But now at noon T. vi $\frac{1}{2}$ In modern eyes), shall make the doctrine c. T. vi 48 And unambitious course, reflecting c. T. vi 723 The stamp and c, impression of good sense T, vi 93He too might make his author's wisdom c. Tir. 10 His phrase well chosen, c., and full of force Tw. 62 Unimpaired, and shrill, and c. Tran. iii 23

Or half so c., as in the rural scene R. 456

CLEARED.

Had poured the day, and c. the Roman akies Er. 22

CLEARER.

Sheds every hour a c, light E, i 61 Or, whether c. skies and softer air P.E. 409

CLEAREST.

Given thee his blessing on the c. proof Ez. 561 Its c. tone, the rapture it inspires T.T. 293

Thy words, more c, than thy works, display R. 9 So that the jest is c. to be seen T.T.540

CLEAVE.

Like theirs that c. the flood or graze the field Con. 41 That c. the yielding air unheard E. i 88 "Still may my melting bosom c. Miss So Sophistry c. close to and protects P.E. 287 And c. through life inseparably close T. ii 761

CLEFT.

Through the c. rock, and, chiming as they fall T. 19 That hides the seamew in his hollow c. T. i 519

CLEMENCY.

If c. revolted by abuse P.E. 596 For long forbearing C. to wait T.T. 401

CLERGY.

Ye c., while your orbit is your place P.E. 96 He hails the c., and defying shame T. ii 356 Or c. made so fine? Y.D. 62

CLERK.

And there scarce less illustrious goes the c. B.B.And while the c. just puzzles out the psalm Ch. 4 For many a grave and learned c. P. 31So prays your C. with all his heart St. i 33 So your Verse-man I, and C. St. iv 9 That grave and learned c. should need such aid And sweet the c, below. But neither sleep T, i. Nor yet the dozings of the c, are sweet T, i. 101

The simple c., but loyal, did announce T. vi 661

By learned c., and Latinists professed Tir. 382

A scrivener's c., or footman out of place Tir. 40 CLICKING.

Grows drowsy as the c. of a clock H. 104

CLIENTS.

be poor thy c., and Heaven's smile thy fee! Ch. 812

CLIFF.

nahed to the c., and having reached it, stood ?. vi CLIMATE.

sch c. needs what other climes produce Ch. 89 ad knit the unsocial c. into one Ch. 126 ho seek it in his c. and his frame T.T. 207 xn in a c. softer far than ours T.T. 234

CLIMBED.

, like a squirrel to his dray A Fable 28

CLIMBEST.

on c. the mountain top, with eager eye T. i 664

CLIMBING.

er c., she began to find R.C. 25

CLIMBS.

c., he pants, he grasps them! at his heels T. iv 60 CLIME.

ch climate needs what other c. produce Ch. 89 id finds a changing c. a happy source Con. 387 darker c., or c. of brighter day Ex. 18 other c. perhaps creative Art Ez. 229 ith which from c. to c. he sped his course P.E. 408 id stepped at once into a cooler c. T. i 337 d barbarous c., where violence prevails T. i 604 every c., and travel where we might T. ii 234 id wise precaution, which a c. so rude T. iii 431 conscious of a less propitious c. T. iii 567 sucks intelligence in every c. T. iv 111 [ii 209 all be constrained to love thee. Though thy c. T. native nook of earth! Thy c. is rude T. v 462 el all the rigour of thy fickle c. T. v 484 id clothe all c. with beauty; the reproach T. vi 764 to all lands. From every c. they come T. vi 814 Afric's torrid c., or India's fiercest heat T.T. 297 id shot a dayspring into distant c. T.T. 561 om the cruel assaults of the c. W.N. 12

CLING.

Creeping ivy c. to wood or stone P.E. 285 Love, that c. around the noblest minds R. 235 Smeelves love life, and c. to it, as he T. i 483

CLINGING.

nt fast c. to the cage T.B. 46

CLINK.

ly as c. of bell to morning prayers T. 140 CLINKING.

essant, c. hammers, grinding wheels T. i 231

CLIP.

tept that office c. it as it goes Ch. 484 [551 at c. thy shores, had no such charms for thee Ex.

CLOAK.

had fetch my c.; for, though the night be raw E. iii slong red c., well brushed and neat J.G. 75 is wind did blow, the c. did fly J.G. 101 we better clad, in c. of satin trimmed T. i 535 on as a c., and hardly hides, a gown T. i 550 wrap himself in Hamlet's inky c. T. vi 675

CLOCK.

usult Life's silent c., thy bounding vein Ep. i 3 was drowsy as the clicking of a c. H. 104 hears the notice of the c., perplexed H. 700 wisely when the c. strikes four "M.F. 14 ble fancy, like the finger of a c. T. iv 118 Machines themselves, and governed by a c. Tw. 625 The c. of history, facts and events Y.O. 46

CLOCKWORK.

The c. tintinnabulum of rhyme T.T. 529

CLOD.

May turn the c., and wheel the compost home T.iii
Beneath the frozen c. all seeds of books T.

Beneath the frozen c.; all seeds of herbs T. v 81. To a vile c., so draws him, with such force T. v 589. Thou fellest mature; and, in the loamy c. Y.O. 33

LODIC

The rank debauch suits C.'s filthy taste P.E. 188 Wonders at C.'s follies, in a tone P.E. 191 Go, fool; and arm-in-arm with C., plead P.E. 197

CLOG.

Thus Conscience freed from every c. L.W. 21 No clustering ornaments to c. the pile T. 24

CLOGGED.

To the c. wheels; and in its sluggish pace T. iv 345 CLOISTER.

Thy friend, though to a c.'s shade consigned S. ii 2 CLOSE.

Designed to sit c. to it just like a saddle A.C. 16 Dagger in hand, steals c. to your bedside Ch. 187 C. to the part where vision ought to be Ch. 386 Pinched c, between his finger and his thumb Ch. 477 Forcibly drawn from many a c. recess Ch. 529 Includes creation in her c. embrace Ch. 598 Bowed at the c. with all his graceful airs Con. 73 Perhaps at last c. scrutiny may show Con. 177 And new or old, still hasten to a c. Con. 238 As if in c. committee on the sky Con. 385 A c. designer not to be believed Con. 477 Enjoy the stillness of some c. retreat Con. 570 And finds Hypocrisy c. lurking there Con. 746 To c. in sable every social scene Con. 872 To steer it c. to land D. W. 18 But somewhat at that moment pinched him c. E. iii 34 And sighing millions prophesy the c. Ex. 309 And Hell's c. mischief naked in his sight Ex. 339 And thanks for this effectual c. G. 14 Through mere necessity to c, his eyes H. 85 Life without hope can c. but in despair H. 274 Were copied c, in him, and well transcribed H. 581 The shameful c. of all his misspent years H. 715 Of c. alliance to the Eternal Mind J.T. 44 The Arts come smiling in the c. Miss -Shades slanting at the c. of day Mor. 15 Adjoining c. to Kilwick's echoing wood N.A. 3 They gathered c. around the old pit's brink N.A. 53 For Reynard, c. attended at his heels N.A. 124 Oh what a dying, dying c. was there! P.E. 64 The snug, c. party, or the splendid hall P.E. 176 Your pleasures with no curses in the c. P.E. 268 So sophistry cleaves c. to and protects P.E. 287 Where works of man are clustered c, around R, 25 Stand c. concealed, and see a statue move R. 284 But in his arduous enterprise to c. R. 617Habits of c. attention, thinking heads R. 705 Its happiest seasons, and a peaceful $c.\ R.\ 750$ To c. life wisely, may not waste my own R. 808 To the c. copse, or far sequestered green T. 69 Her elbows philoned c. upon her hips T. 133 'Tis perched upon the green hill top, but c. T. 222

The dying, trembling at the awful c. T. 436

And woven c., or needlework sublime T. i 34

In vain he c. or averts his eyes T. 470

To wait the c. of all? But grant her end T. ii 65 And with a well-bred whisper c. the scene! T. ii 418 And having spoken wisely, at the c. T. ii 442 Sticks c., a Mentor worthy of his charge T. ii 595 And cleaves through life inseparably c. T. ii 761 Enjoy c. shelter, wall, or reeds, or hedge T. iii 474 He shuts it c., and the first labour ends T. iii 489 C. interwoven, where they meet the vase T. iii 612 True to his charge, the c. packed load behind T. iv 8 Now stir the fire, and c. the shutters fast T. iv 36 C. at his heels, a demagogue ascends T. iv 61 I saw the woods and fields at c. of day T. iv. 311 By congregated loads adhering c. T. iv 344 [ii 713 C. to his side that pleased him. Learning grew T. And bundled c, to fill some crowded vase T, iv 668 C. behind his heel T. v 47 His dog attends him. Lie covered c.; and berry-bearing thorns T. v 82 And listening c. with both his ears Tran. iv 20 With c. fidelity and love unfeigned T.T.73To sheath it, in the peace-restoring c. T.T. 79 Ere yet his race begins, its glorious c. T.T. 709 Down to the c. of life's fast fading scene V. 85

CLOSE-BUTTONED.

An honest man, c. to the chin E. iii 62

CLOSE-CLIPPED.

With many a boxen bush, c. between A.T. 82

His hours of study c. at last Mor. 5 Our sabbaths, c. with mummery and buffoon P.E. 153Then came the maid and it was c. R.C. 58 Lost favour back again, and c, the breach T, ii 724 The volume c., the customary rites T. iv 167 Time was he c. as he began the day Tir. 175

CLOSE-FOLDED.

Thy yet c. latitude of boughs Y.O. 21

CLOSE-HAMMERED.

Kept snug in caskets of c. steel R. 308

CLOSELY.

Peruses c. the true Christian's face Con. 743 May press the eye too c. to be borne H.551We wear it at our backs. There, c. braced T. ii 586 Then cast them, c. bundled, every brat T. ii 673

CLOSE-PENT.

Sad witnesses how c. man regrets T. iv 777

CLOSE-RAMMED.

Γ646 Of c. stones has charged the encumbered soil T. iii

CLOSEST. Of friendship's c. tie Dr. 18 The c. knot that may be tied F. 62 What longest binds the c., forms secure T. iii 480

CLOSETS. Nor c. up his thoughts, whate'er he thinks H. 410

Yet this dull room, and that dark c. M.F. 4 Steal to the c. of young innocence P.E. 316

CLOSETED.

See Bedlam's c. and handcuffed charge Tir. 819

CLOSE-WOVEN.

For the c. arches of limes C. 29

CLOSING.

C. at last in darkness and despair H. 6

Nor frown, unless he vanish with the c. Tir. 730 Holds up the c. before Y.D. 44

CLOTHE.

[T. vi 11 Peeps through the moss that c. the hawthorn ros The power to c. that reason with his word Con. 4

Taught thee to c. thy pinked and painted hide Ez. 46 C. it with earth, and bids the produce live Her.

Humility may c. an English Dean T. 118 [i 55] Though pressed with hunger oft, or comelier c. 1 She ploughs a brazen field, and c. a soil T. i 709 Some c. the soil that feeds them, far diffused T. iii 64 And c, all climes with beauty; the reproach T, vi ${\mathcal H}$

C. the twin brethren in each other's dress T.T. 4 CLOTHED. sounds H.

Banks c. with flowers, groves filled with sprightly Is she not c. with a perpetual smile ? Ex. 4 [Ex. 39] Hast thou, when Heaven has c. thee with disgrad A monarch c. with majesty and awe T. 405 So c. with beauty, for rebellious man? T. $\sqrt{754}$ She c. him with authority and awe T.T. 344

CLOTHING.

Time was, when c., sumptuous or for use T. i 8 Of flowers, like flies c. her slender rods T. vi 166

CLOUD. Called for a c. to darken all their years E. ii 25

A c., to measure out their march by day Ez. 177 Soon raised a c. that darkened every land Er. 50 Them without light, and thee without a c. Ez. 71 The c. that flit, or slowly float away R. 192 Seen through the medium of a c. like thine R. 33 Breathes c. of dust, and calls it country air R. 49 The sloping land recedes into the $c.\ T.$ i 171 Beneath the rosy c., while yet the beams T. i 495 And perilous lightnings from the angry c. T. iii 2And drunk no moisture from the dripping c. T.iii sThan those of age, thy forehead wrapped in c. T iv 1There sit, involved and lost in curling c. T. iv 47 Ascending, fires the horizon; while the c. T. v 2That fumes beneath his nose: the trailing c. T. vThe gloomy c., find weapons, arrowy sleet T. v 1 "Beneath a vault unsullied with a c. T. v 821

Without a c., and white without a speck T. vi 63

Whose favour, like the c. of spring, might lower T. For He, whose car the winds are, and the c. T. ii 7

'Tis in the c.—that pleases him Tran. vi 11

And marks whatever c. may interpose T.T. 707 Now quenching in a boundless sea of c. Y.O. 76

CLOUD-CAPPED.

A huge throat calling to the c. for drink Y.O. 11

She towered a c. pyramid of snow Her. 4 His c. eminence divide Trans. H. 17

For then the c. of eighty-eight, 1789, 36

CLOUDLESS.

Transmitting c., and the solar beam Y.O. 75

CLOUD-SURMOUNTING.

The a Alps, the fruitful vales R. 79

And even to a c.—Now roves the eye T. i 288
The c., the child of nature, without guile T. iv 6 Without the c. that pay Y.D. 68

CLOY.

And if the feast of freedom c, thee not Ex. 671

CLOYING.

With never c. odours, early and late T. vi 164

CLUB.

Oh! to the c., the scene of savage joys Con. 421 Ensanguined hearts, c. typical of strife T. iv 21 o be the Table Talk of c. up stairs T.T. 151 hen Labour and when Dullness c. in hand T.T. 526

CLUE.

till making probability your c. Con. 218 [357 ad through life's labyrinth holds fast the c. P.E.

CLUMPS.

 \mathbf{r} c., and lawns, and temples, and cascades H. 247

CLUMSY.

ieir sovereign nostrum is a c. joke R. 313 all in design, and c. to perform T. i 18 at with his c. port the wretch has lost T. iv 650 saumes her powers, and spurns the c. fraud T iv. 188 he c. swains alight Y.D. 22

CLUSTERED.

hese most resembling c. stars Q.V..11
There works of man are c. close around R. 25

ike homely-featured Night, of c. gems T. iv 252 CLUSTERING.

oc. ornaments to clog the pile T. 21

CLUTCH.

hat his own humour dictates, from the c. T. v 317

COACH. elighted with my bauble c., and wrapped M.P. 50

1 c., chaises, caravans, and hoys R. 521
1 c. with purple lined, and mitres on its side Tir. 369

COACHBOX. The quits the c. at the midnight hour T. i 91

COACH-CROWDED.

lies, winged with joy, to some c. door Tir. 748 COACHMANSHIP.

is skill in c., or driving chaise Tir. 326

COAL. [T.T. 785

ouched with a c. from Heaven, assume the lyre

COALESCENCE.

friendly c. F. 132

COARSE. be school of c. good fellowship and noise Con. 422

ht angry, c., and harsh expression M.F. 59
scorn your c. insinuation P. 27
f manners rough, and c. athletic cast P.E. 187
b wear a tattered garb however c. T. iv 416 [831
lse c. and rude in manners, and their tonguo Tir.

be c. and rude in manners, and their tongue Tir.

with and slovenly, and bold and c. T.T. 682

h! why are farmers made so c. Y.D. 61

COARSENESS.

Lemselves will hide its c. with a veil P.E. 292 and rustic c. would. A heavenly mind T. ii 457

COARSER.

ind c. grass, upspearing o'er the rest T. v 23

COARSEST.

The passing thought, e'en in her c. works Y.O 81 COAST.

roved kinder to them than the c. A Tale 31 for ever ship left Albion's c. Cast. 9 fibre commerce has enriched the busy c. Ch. 114

Nen other nations flew from c. to c. Ex. 552 liked of the waves that broke upon his c. Ex. 572 to reach the distant c. H.F. 22

ltru, as a gallant bark from Albion's c. M.P. 88 ltric's c. I left forlorn N.C. 2

It to the c. for daily, nightly joys R. 522 Though pinched with c., asks never.—Kate is crazed! Finds a c. bed her only comfort left T. ii 655

COAT.

But half a c., and show his bosom bare E. iii 51 Yet nothing feel in that rough c. P. 51 And toil to polish its rough c. alone P.E. 420 His predecessor's c. advanced to wear T. 145 [51 Then shakes his powdered c., and barks for joy T. v

There is a bird, who by his c. Tran. ii 7 COBBLER.

Smith, c., joiner, he that plies the shears T. iv 476 COBHAM.

And C.'s groves, and Windsor's green retreats R. 571

COBWEBS.

Entangled in the c. of the schools T. iv 726

COCK.

The c. his arched tail's azure show Mrs. M—7 A story of a c. and bull P.T. 7 Or vermin, or at best of c. purloined T. i 563

And the first larum of the c.'s shrill throat T. iv 569
To sad necessity, the c. foregoes T. v 73

COCKADE.

With the king's shoulder-knot and gay c. T.T. 44
COCKED.

Crape and c. pistol, and the whistling ball T. iii 802 COCOAS.

Thy c. and bananas, palms and yams T. i 640 COEVAL.

And cake c, spread a mournful shade H. 352 His own c, took but little note T, iii 142

COFFEE.
What, give up our desserts, our c., and tea! P.A. 8

COGENCE.

An argument of c., we may say Con. 293

COGENT. [411

The tongue whose strains were c. as commands R.

A c. by Craft for Folly's use designed E. ii 7 If paid in any other c. E. iv 26 So c. grows smooth, in traffic current passed P.E.279 Whose noblest c. is light and brittle man V. 96

COINCIDENT.

C., exhibit lucid proof T. ii 374

COINED.

A story so pat, you may think it is c. P.A. 18

COLD.

So, when the c. damp shades of night prevail Ch. 527
Such frozen figures, stiff as they are c. Ch. 607
Reports it hot or c., or wet or dry Con. 386 [333
He shakes with c.—you stir the fire and strive Con.
Such men are not forgot as soon as c. Con. 630
A c. misgiving, and a killing dread Con. 770
Would run most dreadful risk of catching c. E. iii 59
Or where does c. Reflection less intrude? Ex. 8
With c. disgust, or philosophic pride Ex. 691
And while, at intervals, a c. blast sing Ex. 720
The clear harangue, and c. as it is clear P.E. 19
With some c. moral think to quench the fire P.E.320
By c. submersion, razor, rope, or lead R. 584
Was c. and comfortless within R.C. 28
Where neither c. might come, nor air R.C. 31
Of loathsome diet, penury, and c. T. i 591 [T. i 556

Exposed to his c. breath, the task begins T. iii 469 C. as its theme, and like its theme the fruit T. iii 564 Begs a warm office, doomed to a c. jail T. iii 820 C. and yet cheerful: messenger of grief T. iv 13 The piercing c., but feels it unimpaired T. iv 361 Dangled along at the c. finger's end T. iv 392 [176] Treacherous and false; it smiled and it was c. T. v In converse, either starved by c. reserve T. v 471 And we are deep in that of c. pretence T. v 494Is a on this. She execrates indeed $T. \vee 780$ [iii 554] Heat and c., and wind and steam T. A c. stagnation on the intestine tide T. vi 139

Their noble qualities all quenched and c. Tir. 818 C. in his cause, and careless of his woes V. 4 C. in my turn, and unconcerned like you V. 6 Hast caught the c. distemper of the day V. 47

COLDER. Must find a c. soil and bleaker air Tir. 851

COLLAR. Slips the slave's c. on, and snaps the lock T.T. 477

COLLECT. C. at evening what the day brought forth Con. 19 With care c. what in their eyes excels R. 153C. the scattered truths that Study gleans R. 274

COLLECTED

Were all c. in thy single arm Ex. 704 With all a July sun's c. rays R. 484

And c., untaught; sells accent, tone T. ii 359 In c. and halls, in ancient days T. ii 699 So c. and halls neglected much T. ii 731 He graced a c., in which order yet T. ii 785 Send him to c. If he there be tamed Tir. 240 Survey our schools and c., and see Tir. 909

COLLISION.

Secure from c. and dust Gr. 22 COLLOQUIAL.

And make c. happiness your care Con. 82

And sweet c. pleasures are but few! T. iv 398 COLONEL.

I never will believe," the c. cries H. 381

COLONNADE.

And the whispering sound of the cool c. P.F. 2 Not distant far, a length of c. T. i 253

COLOUR.

Poetry may, but c. cannot paint Con. 384 Than the c. of our kind N.C. 52 In c. these, and those delight the smell R. 794 Their length and c, from the locks they spare T, i 134 With c. mixed for a far different use T. iv 240 The public character its c. draws Tir. 912 Brings c. dipped in Heaven, that never die T.T. 703

COLOURED. So Flora's wreath through c. crystal seen H. 71

Not c. like his own, and having power T. ii 13

Stubborn and sturdy, a wild ass's c. H. 182 While c. and puppies cost us so much care Tir. 295 COLTISH.

Man's c. disposition asks the thong P.E. 360 COLUMN.

I see a c. of slow-rising smoke T. i 557

Lie scattered where the shapely c. stood T. ii 76 Throws up a steamy c., and the cups T. iv 39

COMBAT. A Trojan c. would be something new Con. 197 To c. may be glorious, and success T. iii 687 To c. atheists with in modern days Tir. 639 COMBATANT.

And teach the c. a woman's part? Ex. 359 No c. are stiffer F. 138 Involves the c.; each claiming Truth T. iii 162

COMBATING.

Suffered by virtue c. below? J.T. 18.

Though various foes against the Truth c. T. 473 In thee some virtuous qualities c. V. 31

COMBINED. Sweet scent, or lovely form, or both a. H. 290 "Since thus ye have c.," he said J.P. 33

The soft relations, which, c. Miss — 79 Their periwigs of wool and fears c. N.A. 75 C. with millions more Q. i 18

And earthly sounds, though sweet and well c. P.E. 7His master's interest and his own c. T. 193 What happy skill and industry c. T. 430 In all their private functions, once c. T. iv 673

Sublimity and Attic taste c. T.T. 644 COMBINING. It is c. fire with smoke F. 119

COMBUSTION.

Who, kindling a c. of desire P.E. 319 COME.

"C. ten, c. twenty,—should an army call A.T. 185 C., prompt me with benevolent desires Ch. 11 We c. with joy from our eternal rest Ch. 73 "This triple realm adores thee;—thou art c. Ch. 27 Oh c. not ye near innocence and truth Con. 39 His wit invites you by his looks to c. Con. 303

Of dangers past, and wonders yet to c. Con. 572

That c. to waft us out of sorrow's power Con. 59: He feels a gentle tingling c. E. i 11 Are c. from distant Loire to choose E. i 47 Whence c. it then, that in the wane of life E. iii l Till gentler Puss shall see c. Ep. ii 40

Who seeks a friend should c. disposed F. 43

The visit paid, with ecstasy we c. Con. 399

Nor hope have they, nor fear of aught to c. H. 23 C., prophet, drink, and tell us what think you" H. 41 Than he who must have pleasure, c. what will H. 54 Three customers c. in J.G. 52 Say why bareheaded you are c. J.G. 167 Or why you c. at all?" J.G. 168

Till half the world c. rattling at his door H. 77

"I came because your horse would c. J.G. 173 But ages yet to c. shall mourn M. i 11 "No doubt, my dear, I bade him c. M.F. 11 C., then fair maid (in nature wise) Miss — 1

The Arts c. smiling in the close Miss. And suns to c., as round they wheel Miss -C. flend, c. fury, giant, monster, blast N.A. 121 C., peace of mind, delightful guest! O. ii 1

I only wish 'twould c. Pat. 2 But triflers are engaged and cannot c. P.E. 167 Had known their sovereign c. Q.V. 44

Look where he c.; in this embowered alcove R. 2: The wreck of what I was, fatigued I c. R. 886 Nor yet the parson's who would gladly c. R. 439 Who c. when called, and at a word withdraws R. 4 Where neither cold might c., nor air R.C. 31 and those of sorrows yet to c. S. 24 for yet an hour to c. St. i 28 July at my time I c. St. iv 13 spirit of instruction! c. St. iv 35)h for a shelter from the wrath to c.! T. 268, then—a still, small whisper in your ear T. 297 ie, praised perhaps for ages yet to c. T. 833but c, at last the dull and dusky eve T, i 669 for is it well, nor can it c, to good T, i 789 all prone; the pale inhabitants c. forth T. ii 125 orth c. the pocket mirror.—First we stroke T. ii 445 han once, and others of a life to c. T. iii 123 s fed with many a victim. Lo! he c. T. iii 765 and now perhaps the glorious hour is c. T. iii 790 le c., the herald of a noisy world T. iv 5 That it foretells us, always c. to pass T. iv 72 2., Evening, once again, season of peace T. iv 243 T, then, and thou shalt find thy votary calm T. iv 259 I trooping at the housewife's well known call T. v 61 Cat his call, and serves him for a friend T. v 424 Who calls for things that are not, and they c. T. v 687 lear and sonorous, as the gale c. on! T. vi 10 igain the harmony c. o'er the vale T. vi 65 In unsuspected storm. His hour was c. T. vi 545 I pompous and allow-moving pageant c. T. vi 697 fee time of rest, the promised Sabbath, c. T. vi 733 From every clime they c. T. vi 814 nto all lands. then, and, added to thy many crowns T. vi 855 thows somewhat of that happier life to c. T. vi 907 suffer his justice in a world to c. Tir. 102 and, as maturity of years c. on Tir. 236 four son c. forth a prodigy of skill Tir. 525 Bears witness, long ere his dismission c. Tir. 561 find it expedient, c. what mischief may Tir. 692 Disease or c. not, or finds easy cure Tir. 766 If pleasures past, or follies yet to c. Tir. 778 and say, My boy, the unwelcome hour is c. Tir. 849 C. heaviest to the ground Trans. H. 15 300n the sweet Spring c. dancing forth Trans. H. 23 Here, Sally, Susan, c., c. quick Tran. iv 29 He thought the dying hour already c. T.T. 892 is punished, and down c. the thunderbolt T.T. 403 speak to the present times and times to c. T.T. 433 C., ponder well, for 'tis no jest Y.D. 1 For then the farmers c. jog, jog Y.D. 13 so in they c.—each makes his leg Y.D. 29 the dinner c., and down they sit Y.D. 37 "C., neighbours, we must wag" Y.D. 50 COMEDY.

'Susan will c. and let me out" R.C. 64

We seek it, ere it c. to light R.C. 97

COMELIER.

Though pressed with hunger oft, or c. clothes T. i 555

COMELINESS.

The praise of wisdom, c., and worth P.E. 295

COMELY.

Each c. in its kind J.G. 184

COMET.

The c.'s baneful influence is a dream P.E. 100 Replace the wandering c. in his sphere T. 400

COMFORT.

The world's best c. was his doom was passed H. 568
The c. of a few poor, added days H. 729
But happier far, who c. those that wait H. 762
The c. of the wedded state M.F. 46
Thus grief itself has c. dear Miss — 53
No pleasure! Are domestic c. dead? P.E. 248
Where should they find (those c. at an end T. 439

By its true worth, the c. it affords T. i 397 [538 Grace, knowledge, c.—an unfathomed store? T. ii And c. cease. Dress drains our cellar dry T. ii 614 Finds a cold bed her only c. left T. ii 655 And all the c. that the lowly roof T. iv 141 Nor c. else, but in their mutual love T. iv 406 The c. of a reasonable joy T. vi 847 Some taste of c. in a world of woe T. vi 966 Would die at last in c., peace, and joy Tir. 150 And thou wilt need some c. to assuage Tir. 877 One c. yet shall cheer thine aged heart Tir. 897 And may as rich in c. prove U. 11

COMFORTLESS.

Was cold and c. within R.C. 28 Oh c. existence! hemmed around T. v 432 But ere he gain the c. repose T. v 596.

COMING.

Say Wrath is c., and the storm appears Ez. 270

John c. back amain J.G. 222

[ii 644

And hates their c. They (what can they less?) T.

Which seen delights him not; then c. home T. iv 236

COMMAND.

Shall a wider world c. B. 28 In spite of your c. B.R. 2 That flies, like Gabriel on his Lord's c. Ch. 135 Are hateful ensigns of usurped c. Ch. 213 To uphold the boundless scenes of his c. Ch. 582 Once take the shell beneath his just c. Con. 904 As soldiers watch the signal of c. Ex. 119 As fortune, vice, or folly may c. H. 12That boasts the treasure, all at his c. H. 176 Oh! see me sworn to serve thee, and c. H. 669 The Lily's height bespoke c. L.R. 13 Oh that a verse had power, and could c. P.E. 323 The youth, obedient to his sire's c. P.E. 377 Church-quacks, with passions under no c. P.E. 474 Ten thousand rivers poured at his c. R. 75 The tongue whose strains were cogent as c. R. 411Influence, and power, were all at his c. R. 596 The axe will smite at God's c. St. i 15 If scorn of God's c., impressed St. vi 29 Sees, far as human optics may c. T. 3 Watches your eye, anticipates $c.\ T.\ 214$ And Justice, guardian of the dread $c.\ T.\ 277$ The occasion—for the Fair c, the song T, i 7 Exults in its c. The sheepfold here \tilde{T} . i 290 Though wondrous, He c. us, in his word T. iii 223 When they c, whom man was born to please T. iv 265 Such men are raised to station and c. T.T. 354To stoop to Tyranny's usurped c. T.T. 440When He c. in whom they place no trust T.T. 471 The Muse imparts, and can c. the lyre T.T. 481 An ell or two of prospect we $c.\ T.\check{T}.\ 581$ The laurel seemed to wait on his c. T.T. 688 At her c. winds rise and waters roar Tir. 25 A task as much within your own c. Tir. 552 Patient, affectionate, of high c. Tir. 602 His heart, now passive, yields to thy c. Tir. 885

COMMANDER.

See great c. making war a trade Tir. 821

COMMEMORATING.

And, next, c. worthies lost J.T. 3

COMMEMORATION.

C. mad; content to hear T. vi 635

COMMENCE.

The reign of genuine charity c. Ch. 418
(If the last meal c. A Roman meal T. iv 168)

COMMEND.

Could give advice, could censure, or c. R. 291 COMMENDATION,

And, more than all, with c. due Tir. 646

COMMENDED.

Much to be pitied or c. P. 44

COMMENDING.
That were not; and c. as they would T. vi 236

COMMENT. Hence c. after c., spun as fine P.E. 494

Hence c. after c., spun as the P.E. 494 COMMERCE. Again—the band of c. was designed Ch. 83

Where c. has enriched the busy coast Ch. 114
And C. partially reclaims mankind Ch. 372
Her peaceful shores, where busy C. waits Ex. 13
Increasing c. and reviving art Her. 73
In London. Where has c. such a mart T. i 719
Of riper joys, and c. with the world T. ii 763
And to the stir of C., driving slow T. iii 739

There, in his c. with the liveried herd Tir. 688 COMMERCIAL.

The fears and Lopes of a c. care Ch. 279 Thee, therefore, of c. fame, but more J.T. 5 Of innocent c. Justice red T. iv 683

COMMISSION. When sent with God's c. to the heart T. ii 471

COMMIT.

But when the breath of age c. the fault Con. 49 C. no wrong, nor wastes what it enjoys T. i 334 And glossy, he c. to pots of size T. iii 512 And conscious of the outrage he c. T. vi 599

C. her eggs, incautious, to the dust Tir. 791

COMMITTEE.
As if in close c. on the sky Con. 385

COMMITTED.

The secret just c. F. 69 C. once into the public arms P.E. 518 Though c. every day St. iv 28

COMMODIOUS.

We have at least c. standing here N.A. 120 Convivial table and c. seat T. v 162 (What seemed at least c. seat) were there T. v 163

COMMON.

One man the c. father of the kind Ch. 18

No land but listens to the c. call Ch. 91

Man to the centre of the c. cause Ch. 328
Henceforth associate in one c. herd Con. 76
Religion, Virtue, Reason, C. Sense Con. 77
Rove where you please, 'tis c. all around Con. 100
Though c. sense, allowed a casting voice Con. 663
Prose answers every c. end E. i 2
Each man of c. sense agrees E. iv 68
All men of c. sense allow E. iv 69
Till perjuries are c. as bad pence Ex. 387
Unless belied by c. fame F. 86
The c. care that waits on all beside H. 539
His speech rebellion against c. sense H. 565
In c. to the lot of all M.F. 42
Faith, want of c. sense St. vi 22
The c., overgrown with fern, and rough T. i 526

The c., overgrown with fern, and rough T. i 526 As to a c. and most noisome sewer T. i 683 And stand exposed by c. peccancy T. ii 72

And stand exposed by c. peccanoy T. ii 72
"Defend me therefore, C. Sense," say T. iii 187
One c. Maker bound me to the kind? T. iii 209
For mercy and the c. rights of man T. iv 680

That being parcel of the c. mass T. v 247
To serve him nobly in the c. cause T. v 344
Of the same grove, and drink one c. stream T. vi776

And, c. sense diffusing real day Tir. 189
Except of caution and of c. sense Tir. 258
For more than c. punishment, it shall Tir. 411
The great and small deserve one c. blame Tir. 515

With savoury truth and wholesome c. sense Tw. 629

COMMONPLACE

That savour much of c. F. 161

COMMONWEALTH.
From pools and ditches of the c. T. iii 809
We the chief patron of the c. T. v 349

COMMUNICATE.

Pants to c. her noble fires Ch. 403
Feeds sparingly, c. his store H. 521
'Tis generous to c. your skill T. ii 282
C., with joy, the good she finds T.T. 275

COMMUNICATIVE.

C. of the good he owns T. i 332

COMMUNION.

When one that holds c. with the skies Ch. 435
And flow in free c. with the rest Ch. 611
When souls drawn upwards in c. sweet Con. 509
From such c. in their pleasant course Con. 698
Divine C., carefully enjoyed R. 747
Divine C. chases as the day R. 765

COMPACT.
So polished and c. from head to heel A.T. 184
Nor more harmonious or c. Mrs. M— 40
The uplifted frame, c. at every joint T. iii 484

In verse well disciplined, complete c. T.T. 647

COMPANION.

Whose only fit c. is his horse Con. 412
Keep still the dear c. at their side? Con. 734
Should deem it by our old c. made N.A. 95
And witness, dear c. of my walks T. i 144
That drag the dull c. to and fro T. iv 368

The rude c. smiled, as if transformed T. vi 543

COMPANY.

In c. with man A Tale 72
And give good c. a face severe Con. 873
He chooses c. but not the squire's R. 437
COMPARE.

C. what then thou wast, with what thou art Ez. 557 So, fire with water to c. Q.V. 17
To spread the page of Scripture, and c. R. 131
Reverenced no less. Who could with him c.? T. v 235

C. with the speed of its flight A.S. 42

C. with this sublimest life below R. 103
All evils then seem light, c. St. v 27
C. with the repose the Sofa yields T. i 102
Oh innocent, c. with arts like these T. iii 801
Of Nature, and though poor perhaps c. T. v 739
Worthy, c. with sycophants, who kneel T. vi 886

And never withering wreaths, c. with which T. vi 933 Half a span, c. with thee Tran. iii 32

COMPARING.
Though cannot spend itself, c. still Y.O. 86
COMPARISON.

Lost nothing by c. with ours? T. i 648

COMPASS.
C. earth, dives into it, ascends Ch. 315

And give the strain the c. it demands Con. 718 [103 Sails ripped, seams opening wide, and c. lost M.P. His ship half foundered, and his c. lost T. 2 And must be bribed to c. earth again T. i 676 To c. that good end, forecast the means Tir. 884

COMPASSED.

Thus c. about with the goods Gr. 49

COMPASSION.

With much c. undertakes the task P.E. 389 Claims most c., and receives the least R. 302 In kind c. of his failing strength R. 626 Such claim c. in a night like this T. iv 375 Man may dismiss c. from his heart T. vi 442

COMPASSIONATE.

Learns to c. the sick she sees Ch. 411. To faults c. or blind M.F. 56

COMPATRIOT.

And Wolfe's great name c. with his own T. ii 238

COMPENSATE.

He may c. for a day of sloth T. iv 431

COMPENSATING.

C. his loss with added hours T. iv 134 Of rural scenes, c. his loss T. iv 768 But well c. her sickly looks T. vi 163

COMPETENCE.

The road that leads from c. and peace T. iv 496

COMPETENT.

And he was c. whose purse was so T. ii 742

COMPETITION.

Few c. but engender spite Con. 161 The spirit of that c. burns Tir. 474 To scenes where c., envy, strife V. 75

COMPLACENCE.

With looks of some c, he resumed T, vi 535

COMPLACENCY.

He views it with c. supreme P.E. 522 C. has breathed a gentle gale T. 419

COMPLAIN.

To prove an evil of which all c. E. iii 43
Thy racked inhabitants repine, c. Ex. 304
How sweet soe'er the verse c. Miss — 11
C. of being thus exposed P. 50
C. not if attachments lewd and base Tw. 889

COMPLAINED.

Few Frenchmen of this evil have c. Con. 359 In gentle sounds it seems as it c. Con. 905 The wrong was his who wrongfully c. H. 321 C., though incommodiously pent in T. i 69

COMPLAINING.

Nor is it wise c. F. 33 C. in a speech well worded P. 3

COMPLAINT.

And captious cavil and c. subside H. 141
Their long c. is self-inflicted wee T. iv 430
That here begins with most that long c. Tir. 587
And 'tis the sad c., and almost true T.T. 732

COMPLETE.

To make the shining prodigy c. Ch. 602 Though various yet c. Dr. 10 On terms of amity c. F. 116 The palace were but half c. F. 166
The worth of each had been c. J.P. 5
With all her orew c.! R.G. 12
And armed himself in panoply c. T. ii 345
Of their c. effect. Much yet remains T. iii 605
And a c. recovery struck him dumb T.T. 393
In verse well disciplined, c., compact T.T. 647

COMPLETELY.

Is a pearl cast, c. cast away H. 259 But makes him, if at all, c. free H. 646 Not yet by time c. silvered o'er T. ii 703

COMPLEX.

Oh how unlike the c. works of man T. 21

COMPLEXION.

Fleecy locks and black c. N.C. 13 Hence the c. of his future days T. 280 Chequered with all c. of mankind T. iii 836

COMPLIANCE.

C. with his will your lot ensures H. 326.

COMPLIED.

C. with, and were graciously dismissed Ex. 541

COMPLIMENT.

But first the squire's, a c. but due Ch. 470 And many a c. politely penned T.T. 721

COMPLY.

Which men c. with e'en because they must H. 386 Some to c. with humour, and a mind R. 605 But to c. with feelings, and to give V. 23

COMPOSE.

C. their useless wing N. 2 An eyebrow, next c. a straggling lock T. ii 446 C. the passions, and exalt the mind T. iii 305 Serve to c. a spirit well inclined T. v 657

COMPOSED.

True bliss, if man may reach it, is c. Con. 679 I could be much c., nor should appear N.A. 89 "For soon as I was well c. R.C. 57

COMPOST.

May turn the clod, and wheel the c. home T. iii 637

COMPOSURE.

Nor less c. waits upon the room T. 190 How perfect the c. of his soul! T. 481 Or make me so. C. is thy gift T. iv 260

COMPOUND.

No papist more desirous to c. T. 291 Is an ingredient in the c., man T. iv 732 Or rather a gross c., justly tried Tir. 466

COMPOUNDED.

C. and made up like other men T. v 307

COMPREHEND.

To c. the case D.W. 24 What simplest minds can soonest c. H. 452 Are qualities that seem to c. P.E. 423

COMPREHENSION.

In which all c. wanders lost T. iv 75

COMPREHENSIVE.

A c. faculty that grasps T. v 251 Such c. views the spirit takes T. vi 15

COMPRESS.

C. the sum into its solid worth Con. 20 And neatly fitted, it c. hard T. ii 587

COMPRESSED.

The man of business and his friends c, R, 495

COMPRESSION.

Fades rapidly, and by c. marred T. iv 669 COMPRISED.

Of giddy joys c. St. vi 10

COMPROMISE.

Then c. had place, and scrutiny T. ii 740

COMPUNCTIONS.

Of laughter his c. are sincere T. v. 616

COMPUTE. Whether he measure earth, c: the sea Ch. 353

And "Hence," he said, "my mind c. Mor. 25

With which she calculates, c., and scans T. i 716

COMBADES.

His c. who before Cast. 44 And went with his c. the apples to seize P.A. 42 And sighs for the smart c. he has left T. iv 648

COMUS. Let C. rise archbishop of the land P.E. 184

CONCEAL.

Are insincere, meant only to c. Con. 785 Successfully c. her leathsome form P.E. 8 More tattered still; and both but ill c. T. i 551 And show the name ye might c. at home T. ii 279 C. the mood lethargic with a mask T. iv 299

CONCEALED.

C. within an unsuspected part Con. 365 He found, c. beneath a fair outside Ex. 89 Where'er they flow, now seen, and now c. H. 48 With nothing here that wants to be c. H. 406 A narrow brook, by rushy banks c. N.A. 9 Stand close c., and see a statue move R. 284 My partners in retreat. Disgust c. T. iii 38 Or having, kept c. Some drill and bore T. iii 150 CONCEALING.

Sin's rotten trunk c. its defects P.E. 288

CONCEALMENT.

And waits, in snug c. laid Ep. ii 89

CONCEIT. [618

The strange c., vain projects, and wild dreams H. A silly fond c. of his fair form T. ii 420

CONCEIVE. He first c., then perfects his design Ex. 318

The impatient fervour which it first c. T. iii 502 However trivial all that he c. T. iv 69 [374] But slaves that once c. the glowing thought T. v

CONCEIVED.

This fits not nicely, that is ill c. T. ii 603 Each animal, of every name, c. T. vi 373

CONCEIVING.

Begetting and c. all that's base P.E. 569 The birds c, a design P.T. 11 C. thunders, through a thousand deeps T. ii 89

CONCEPTION.

And He that gives c. aids the birth Con. 434 For their c., which they cannot move T. v 254

CONCERN.

They left these bodily c. at large A.T. 130 Right reverend sirs! was no c. of theirs A.T. 182

Affects indeed a most humane c. Ch. 495 The system of a world's c. E. i 74 Her grave c., her kind suspicions, there H. 516 Thy maidens grieved themselves at my c. M.P. 36

His flock the chief c. he ever knew R. 404 His best c. aright St. v 6

The least of our c. (since from the least T. ii 167 As God's ambassador, the grand c. T. ii 464

Yet careless what he brings, his one c. T. iv 9 Its fluctuations, and its vast c. ? T. iv 56

The globe and its c., I seem advanced T. iv 95 In lucrative c. Examine well T. iv 606

The incumbrance of his own c., and spare T. vi 203 That man's attainments in his own c. T. vi 613 Forgive him, then, thou bustler in c. T. vi 951

But truths on which depends our main c. Tir. 77 While morals languish, a despised c. Tir. 514 Is no c. at all of his Tran. ii 29

CONCERNED.

An ordinance it c, them much to know H. 313 For Providence, that seems c. to exempt Tir. 430

CONCERT.

Some love a c. or a race L.W. 31 Sweet birds in c. with harmonious streams R. 259

With artless airs and c. of her own T.T. 697 CONCERTO.

The full c, swells upon your ear P.E. 128

CONCISE.

And finished his c. repast Mor. 6

CONCLUDE.

C. his unfeigned love of him, a feint Con. 748 We should unwarily c. F. 28With wire and catgut he c. the day P.E. 123 CONCLUSION.

And gains remote c. at a jump Con. 154 C. retrograde, and mad mistake T. iii 239 And in c. mar them. Nature's threads Y.O. 80 CONCOCTED.

And meliorate the well c. juice T. 496

CONCUPISCENCE. Will Avarice and C. give place P.E. 104

CONCUSSION.

Thrives by the rude c. of the storm T. i 378

CONDEMN. With a reasoning the court will never c. A.C. 22

Their haste himself c. Cast. 32 She makes excuses where she might c. Ch. 424 Seen in another they at once c. Com. 156

C. the prattler, for his idle pains R. 547 C. the injurious deed, the slanderous tongue T. 559
And making prize of all that he c. T. ii 604

C., approves, and with a faithful voice Tir. 33

Which, though in plain plebeians we c. Tir. 352 The rest will slight thy counsel, or c. Tir. 805 C. the unfatherly, the imprudent part Tir. 866 Maintaining yours, you cannot theirs c. T.T. 49

CONDEMNED.

"Ah, hapless wretch! c. to dwell P. 5 Like fabled Tantalus, c. to hear P.E. 231 Immured though unaccused, c. untried T. v 398 Perversely, which of late she so c. T. ▼ 631

CONDENSED.

The dews c. into angelic food Ex. 182And fast c. upon the dewy sash T. iii 496

CONDESCEND.

That throned above all height he c. Ch. 587 The just Creator c. to write H. 133

CONDESCENDING.

A man whom marks of c. grace R. 445 More nourish pride, that c. vice T. 123 While c. Majesty looks on T.T. 138

CONDITION.

His hard c. with severe constraint T. i 612 And no c. of this changeful life T. v 768

CONDUCT.

Than while his c. proves his heart sincere Com. 766
They could have held the c. they pursue H. 256
The mind and c. mutually imprint P.E. 568
Our c. with the laws engraven there R. 132
And Conscience and our C. judge us all? R. 660
Of all his c. this the genuine sense T. 94
Whence springs the c. that offends you so T. 237
His c., to the test, but tries his heart T. 562
C. the eye along his sinuous course T. i 165
Is to c. it to the destined inn T. iv 10 [v 650
"Nay—c. hath the loudest tongue. The voice T.
C. the unguarded nose to such a whif T. iv 469
In balance on his c. of a pin? T. vi 271
By their own c. they must stand or fall T.T. 108

CONDUCTED.

C. on a manageable scale Tir. 703

CONDUCTING.

Build factories with blood, c. trade T. iv 681

CONDUIT.

" Δ s freely as a c. spout! E. iv 86

CONE.

Such reasoning falls like an inverted c. T.T. 53

CONFABULATE.

If birds c. or no P.T. 2

CONFECTIONARY.

The biscuit, or c. plum M.P. 61

CONFEDERACY.

A dark c. against the laws Con. 685 C. of projectors wild and vain T. v 194

CONFEDERATE.

Of Earth and Hell c. take away T. v 541That hellish foes, c. for his harm T. v 735

CONFER.

Can Nature add a charm, or Art c. Ex. 5

CONFERENCE.

And held accustomed c. with my heart F.A.9Sweet C.; inquires what strains were they T. v 818

CONFERRED.

The charter was c., by which we hold T. vi 451 CONFESS.

A distant virtue we can all c. H. 552
I do c. them nurseries of the arts T. i 693
True, I am no proficient, I c. T. iii 210
Nor need one; I am conscious and c. T. iv 284
To see their sovereign, and c. his sway T. vi 356
Then let the supercilious great c. T. vi 967
(Forgive the crime) I wish them, I c. Tir. 921
Or candidly c. yourself a dunce T.T. 571

CONFESSED.

C. the wonder, and with daring tongue Ex. 155 And God's disposing providence c. Es. 558

And say;—"Blot out my sin, c., deplored H. 592 Are hurtful is a truth c. by all P.E. 226 Jack bowed and was obliged;—c.'twas strange R.599 Can a Truth, by all c. St. iv 21 That grace was Cowper's—his, c. by all T. 119 A power, c. so lately on his knees Tir. 180 C. a God; they kneeled before they fought T.T. 374

CONFIDENCE.

"Honour, esteem and c. forgot A.T. 111
He mounts at once—such c. infused A.T. 175
And, with a fearless c., make known Com. 695
She boasts a c. she does not hold Con. 768
Perhaps his c. just then betrayed E. iii 36
Shall win my c. again F. 190
Fresh c. the speculatist takes P.E. 490
For I have gained thy c., have pledged T. iii 346
But who, with filial c. inspired T. v 745
Begat a tranquil c. in all T. vi 366
By no kind arts his c. again Tir. 586

CONFIDENT.

To build our altar, c. and bold Con. 849
Trembling yet happy, c. yet meek T. 572
And c. assurance of the rest T. v 576
They may acquire that c. address Tir. 349
Most c., when palpably most wrong T.T. 148

CONFIDENTLY.

By some 'tis c. said L.W. 17 Where Duty bids he c. steers R.H. 6

CONFINE.

To muse in silence, or at least c. T. iii 36
For he who values Liberty c. T. v 393
Nor penury, can cripple or c. T. v 772
Within the c. of their wild domain T. vi 407
"But where, good sir, do you c. your kings"? T.T
C. the million in the besten track T.T. 667

CONFINED.

The swell of pity, not to be c. Ch. 246
Or only what in cottages c. Ex. 29
And to domestic bounds c. E.P. ii 7
But Tom was still c. F. B. 21
Than that to which he keeps c. Mrs. M— 41
Discoverers of they know not what, c. P.E. 476
However humble and c. the sphere T.T. 166

CONFIRM.

Because the deed, by which his love c. H. 324 Then obstinate self-will c. him so P.E. 543 They may c. his habits, rivet fast T. ii 767 As bound in duty, would c. the choice Tir. 419

CONFIRMATION.

In c. of the noblest claim T. v 720

CONFIRMED.

C. by long experience of thy worth T. i 147 Takes deeper root, c. by what they see T. ii 568

CONFLAGRATION.

A c., or a wintry flood Ch. 465 The thought of c. F. 108 A c. labouring in her womb Her. 12

CONFLICT.

Points out a c. with thyself, the worst R. 268 With c. of contending hopes and fears T. i 668

CONFOUND.

Our softer satellite. Your songs c. T. i 766 (If power she be that works but to c.) T. v 872

CONFOUNDED.

When Babel was c., and the great T. v 193

CONFUSION.

But gay c.; roses for the cheeks T. iv 79

CONFUTATION.

Formed for the c. of the fool T. v 567

CONGEALED.

Thy breath c. upon thy lips, thy cheeks T. iv 122 That trickle down the branches, fast c. T. v 114

CONGENIAL. C. with thine own; and if it be T. iii 205

CONGRATULATE.

Is to c., not to praise E. ii 2

CONGREGATED.

By c. loads adhering close T. iv 344 CONJECTURE.

C. gripes the victims in his paw Ch. 525 C. and remark, however shrewd T.T. 205

CONJECTURED.

C., sniffing round and round T.B. 40

CONJOINED.

· Were soon c.; nor other cement asked T. v 147 CONJUGATED.

But c. verbs and nouns declined? Tir. 619

CONJUGATION.

Of an immediate c. P.T. 41

CONJURE.

To c. clean away the gold they touch T. i 571 CONJURED.

And that my raptures are not c. up T. i 151

CONJURERS.

They teach both c, and old women A. Fable 21

CONNECTED.

For vicious ends c. F. 42In early years c., time unbinds Tir. 439

Unchangeably c. with its cause) T.T. 443

CONNECTING. He too has a c. power, and draws Ch. 327

CONNEXION. And plans and orders our c. E. i 36

There form c., but acquire no friend T. ii 634 Have oft-times no c., knowledge dwells T. vi 89 C. formed for interest, and endeared Tir. 495 CONNIVE.

But ye c. at what ye cannot cure Tir. 275

CONQUER.

Sure not to c., and sure not to yield Ch. 621 To c. those by jocular exploits T. ii 479 Generals, who will not c. when they may T.T. 194

CONQUERED.

When Obstinacy once has c. Grace Ex. 152 Lords of the c. soil, there rooted fast Ex. 192 Exported slavery to the c. East? Ex. 365

CONQUERING.

Like a proud swan, c. the stream by force T.T. 523

CONQUEROR.

And at this hour the c. feels the proof Ch. 60 How much the country to the c. owes Ex. 481 Renew the quarrel on the c.'s part Her. 74

CONQUEST.

And, cursed with c., finally succeed Con. 692 Proclaims the soil a c. he has won H. 479 Thy word fulfilled, the c. of a world! T. vi 905 Secure of c. where the prize Th. 15 CONSCIENCE.

While C., happier than in ancient years Ch. 274 Some seek, when queasy c. has its qualms Ch. 447 Hast thou, with heart perverse and c. seared Ez. 396

But C., in some awful, silent hour H. 215

That c, there performs her proper part H, 692 His c. owns it true H.F. 16

Heaven from above, and C. from within P.E. 37

Thus c. freed from every clog L.W. 21 [P.E. 24 Good sense, good health, good c. and good fame? Thus C. pleads her cause within the breast R. 15

Is there, as Reason, C., Scripture say R. 651

And C, and our Conduct judge us all ? R. 660 The cause is c, ;—c, oft St, v 21 His c, like a glassy lake before T. 259 Their judge was C., and her rule their law T. 535 Soon follows, and the curb of c. snapped T. ii $71

And warps the c. of public men T. ii 691 Great crimes alarm the c., but it sleeps T. iii 185 And self-reproaching c.? He foresees T. v 600 He slights the strokes of c. Nothing moves T. v 666 With c. and with thee. Lust in their hearts T. vi 895

He by the test of c., and a heart T. vi 988 In early days the c. has in most Tir. 109Though c. will have twinges now and then T.T.425

CONSCIENTIOUS.

To touch the sword with c. awe T.T. 77

Imagined sanctity. The c., yet Y.O. 11

CONSCIOUS. Shrieked at the sight, and, c., fled the place A.T. 200

And c. of an unincumbered back Ch. 174 That, c. of her crimes, she feels instead Con. 769 Hope! let the wretch, once c. of the joy H. 171 When, c. of no danger from below Her. 3

Say, wast thou c. of the tears I shed? M.P. 22 C. of weakness in its noblest powers R. 124 C. of jeopardy incurred R.C. 76

C. of age, she recollects her youth T. 153 Then, c. of her meritorious zeal T. 497 The ruffling wind, scarce c. that it blew T. i 156 Himself, as c. of his awful charge T. ii 403 The welcome call, c. how much the hand T. iii 399

Nor need one; I am c. and confess T. iv 284 What, c. of your virtues, we can spare T. iv 425 Grows c. of a change, and likes it well T. iv 638 C. and fearful of too deep a plunge T. v. 64

C. of impotence they soon grow drunk T. v 255 Is weakness when opposed; c. of wrong T. v 372 And under pressure of some c. cause ? T. vi 220 And, c. of some danger, either fled T. vi 375

And c. of the outrage he commits T. vi 599 Yes—ye are c.; and on all the shelves Tir. 269 Unless thy c. heart acknowledge—none Tir. 580 Nor say, go thither, c. that there lay Tir. 869

CONSCIOUSNESS.

There dwells a c. in every breast H. 636 CONSECRATE.

To c. our few remaining groves Con. 826

CONSECRATED.

All c. to adorn the fair A.T. 16 Thy Levites, once a c. host Ex. 263 With holiness and c. rest P.E. 158 Thus studied, used and c thus R. 105 Yet awful as the c. roof T. i 342

CONSECRATION.

Tis c. of his heart, soul, time R. 223

CONSENT.

But sing and shine by sweet c. N.G. 31
When health required it, would c. to roam R. 517
With one c. to rush into the sea R. 524
And I c. you take it for your text T. ii 474
Their efforts, yet resolved with one c. T. vi 333
Nor would the Nine c. the sacred tide T.T. 184

CONSEQUENCE.

Admit it true, the c. is clear Con. 165 Of your own worth and c. R.C. 110 To prove a c. by none denied Tir. 104 Shall give him c., heal all defects Tir. 392

CONSERVATORS.

Like c. of the public health Con. 390

CONSERVATORY.

And drenched c. breathes abroad T. iii 498

CONSIDER.

C. all injustice with a frown Ch. 210

CONSIDERATE.

With fixed c. face D.W. 22

CONSIDERED.

I passed, and next c.—what is man? F.A. 21 With well c. steps, seems to resent T. v 75

CONSIGNED.

Thy friend, though to a cloister's shade c. S. ii 2

CONSIST.

Safety c. not in escape A Fable 32 If monarchy c. in such base things T.T. 139

CONSISTENT.

A pledge he gave for a c. part Tir. 178

CONSOLE.

Our groves were planted to c. at noon T. i 760

CONSOLED.

C. him and dispelled his fears R.C. 90 That soothe the rich possessor; much c. T. iv. 755

CONSOLIDATED.

Forced downward, is c. soon T. iv 349

CONSORT.

Then, perching at his c.'s side A Tale 53
And thy loved c. on the dangerous tide M.P. 93

CONSPICUOUS.

C. as the brightness of a star T. 29 Brings not alone the more c. part T. 561 C. many a league, the mariner T. i 521 By more than one, themselves c. there T. ii 787 C., and in bright apparel clad T. v 25 Makes more c., and illumines more T. vi 175

CONSPIRE.

C. to honour thee Dr. 4 C. against thy peace with one design R. 263 C. against him. With his breath, he draws T. ii 139 Inveterate, hopeless of a cure, c. T. iv 577

CONSPIRING.

C., may attest his bright design T. iii 654 CONSTABLE.

Then kill a c., and drink five more P.E. 191 CONSTANCY.

That c. befits them F. 159

Or nothing much, his c. in ill T. v 687 And in the c. of nature's course T. vi 123 And c. sincere The Doves 14 With packhorse c. we keep the road Tir. 252 We hug the hopes of c. and truth V. 53

CONSTANT.

"Vain our delusive hope of c. knights A.T. 100
The c. creaking of a country sign Con. 10
Through c. dread of giving Truth offence Con. 129
Yet still, o'erclouded with a c. frown Con. 339
If Business, c. as the wheels of time Ez. 604
But ah! by c. heed I know M. 45
Thy c. flow of love, that knew no fall M.P. 65
In c. exhalations O. i 8
Escaped from office and its c. cares R. 408
Thump after thump resounds the c. flail T. i 357
C. rotation of the unwearied wheel T. i 368
It is the c. revolution, stale T. i 462
So lately found, although the c. sun T. i 621
C. at routs, familiar with a round T. ii 385
For thou art meek and c., hating change T. iii 55
And c. occupation without care T. iii 693
Who, c. only in rejecting thee T. vi 882
Ye knew at least, by c. proofs addressed Tir. 273
From c. converse with I know not whom Tir. 854

CONSTANTLY.

And c. supported F. 51

CONSTELLATION.

Or rather c. F. 12 Views C. brighter than her own P.E. 178 That c. set, the world in vain T.T. 660

CONSTITUTE.

Must c. the charming whole F. 59

CONSTITUTED.

And c. guardians of his cause Ex. 200

CONSTITUTIONAL.

Patient of c. control T.T. 224

CONSTITUTIONALLY.

Who c. pulls Pat. 15

CONSTRAIN.

That I should ill requite thee, to c. M.P. 86

CONSTRAINED.

Shall be c. to love thee. Though thy clime T. ii 200 ()r by necessity c., they live T. vi 413 The mind, released from too c. a nerve T. T. 622

CONSTRAINING.

Free too, and under no c. force Tir. 861

CONSTRAINT.

Fach individual, suffering a c. Con. 383
Abhors c., and dares not feign a zeal Con. 713
And, serving God herself through mere c. Con. 717
His hard condition with severe c. T. i 612
And we are weeds without it. All c. T. v 418

CONSTRUCTED.

If shrewd, and of a well c. brain Tir. 523

CONSTRUCTION.

So liberal in c., and so rich T. iii 94

CONSULT.

Yet to c. a little seemed no crime Con. 865 C. life's silent clock, thy bounding vein Ep. i 3 C. all day your interest and your ease T. 217

CONSULTED.

C. and obeyed, to guide his steps T. v 674

CONSULTING.

C. England's happiness at home T. ii 246

CONSUME.

C. his soul with vain desires P.B. 16 Where beauty oft and lettered worth c. T. ii 123

CONSUMED.

How oft, my slice of pocket store c. T. i 118 Angry and sad, and his last crust c. T. i 246

In penury c. his idle hours T.T. 673

CONSUMMATE.

Would only prove him a c. fool Com. 140

Creates, gives birth to, guides, c. all Es. 315 CONSUMMATION.

There was the c. and the crown Ex. 221

CONTACT.

In c. inconvenient, nose to nose Con. 270

CONTAGION. To me their peace by kind c. spread N.A. 42 If such escape c., and emerge T. ii 797

Should some c., kind to the poor brutes T. iii 308 C., and disseminating death T. iii 617 Lurks the c. chiefly to be feared Tir. 689 CONTAGIOUS.

And dreaded more than a c. touch Com. 652 Catch from each other a c. spot Ex. 105 To the next rank c., and in time T. iv 584

CONTAINS. To guess and spell what it c. E. i 52

CONTAMINATING.

Should fly the world's c. touch Ex. 446

CONTEMNS. Her dear five hundred friends, c. them all T. ii 613

CONTEMPLATE.

For can we find it less? C. first N.A. 109 CONTEMPLATING.

C. with small delight 1789, 24 CONTEMPLATION.

By C.'s help, not sought in vain M.P. 114 In c. of a turnpike-road R. 506 Scenes formed for c., and to nurse T. iii 301 And c., heart-consoling joys T. iv 781To c_{ij} , and within his reach T_{ij} , vi 263 Therefore in c. is his bliss T. vi 924

CONTEMPLATIVE. See where he sits, c. and fixed T. 415 The mind c., with some new theme T. iv 280 Thus men, whose thoughts c. have dwelt T.T. 168

CONTEMPORARIES.

C. all surpassed, see one T.T. 670

CONTEMPT. He pours c. on them, and on their cause Ex.329That, through profane and infidel c. T. i 740 What's that which brings c. upon a book T. iii 277

The hallowed bench from absolute c. Tir. 431 See what c. is fallen on humankind Tir. 814

CONTEMPTIBLE Proof not c. of what she can Y.O. 131

CONTEND.

Live to no sober purpose, and c. H. 129 CONTENDING.

With conflict of c. hopes and fears T. i 663

CONTENT.

Or scare the nation with its big c. Ch. 617 C. on earth in earthly things to shine Con. 583 I could be well c., allowed the use F.A. 1 Like him he laboured, and like him c. H. 586

Not for my own c. or ease P. 8 C. with Bristol, Bath, and Tunbridge Wells R. 516

C. if thus sequestered I may raise R. 805 Like thee, c. in every state may find S. ii 7

Than he contrives to suffer well c. T. 104 C. though mean, and cheerful if not gay T. 319

In modest medicority, c. T. i 50 Or make his house his grave: nor so c. T. ii 147

Men that if now alive, would sit c. T. ii 541
Can dig, beg, rot, and perish, well c. T. iii 805
Retires, c. to quake, so they be warmed T. iv 386
For ever dribbling out their base c. T. iv 506

To me an unambitious mind, c. T. iv 798 And reigns c. within them: him we serve T. v 333 Of that one feature can be well c. T. v 474 Man views it and admires, but rests c. T. ▼ 791

The redbreast warbles still, but is c. T. vi 77Commemoration mad; c. to hear T. vi 635 Its squeezed c., and more than it admits T. vi 671

C. indeed to sojourn while he must T. vi 913 And is he well c. his son should find Tir. 617 To exchange c. for trouble, ease for pain V. 64 C. of heart, more praises still are due V. 90

Thou hadst within thy bole solid c. Y.O. 94 CONTENTED. And I, c. with an humble theme T. vi 719 That slaves, howe'er c., never know T.T. 261

CONTENTEDLY.

And lives c. between Trans. H. 8 CONTENTION.

The trumpet of c. F. 99 But where will flerce c. end L.R. 3

CONTENTIOUS. Boys, once on fire with that c. zeal Tir. 470

CONTEST. Between Nose and Eyes a strange c. arose A.C. 1 A bolder still, a c. with the skies ? Ex. 699

He dies disputing, and the c. ends P.E. 553 Great c. follows, and much learned dust T. iii 161 All that the c. calls for; spirit, strength T. v 376

The bottomless demands of c. waged Y.O. 102 CONTIGUITY.

Some boundless c, of shade T, ii 2

CONTINGENCE. C. might alarm him, and disturb T. ii 172

CONTINUAL

Though such c. zigzags in a book Con. 861 His will and judgment at c. strife T. 467 His thorns with streamers of c. praise? T. v 330

The stress of a c. act, the pain \hat{T} . vi 208 CONTINUE. Resolved it should c. there R.C. 86

Return, sweet Evening, and c. long! T. iv 244

CONTINUING.

I grant that men c. what they are T.T.9

CONTORTIONS. By shrugs and strange c. of his face P.E. 414

CONTRABAND.

Who fill the world with doctrines c. P.E. 475

CONTRACT.

fill sympathy c. a kindred pain R. 299 I. defilement not to be endured T. iv 670

CONTRACTED.

lo spots c. among grooms below Tir. 685

CONTRADICTION.

fakes c. such a hopeless case Con. 60 s c. for its own dear sake Con. 106 'atient of c. as a child P.E. 536

CONTRARIETIES.

haos of c. at war Ex. 295

CONTRASTED.

ind by c. beauty shining more) T. iii 635

CONTRIBUTE.

to the gorgeous plan Mrs. M— 13
 most perhaps to enhance their fame Tir. 468

CONTRIBUTION.

ay c. to the store he gleans T. iv 110

CONTRIVANCE

. intricate expressed with ease R. 55

CONTRIVE.

Finan he c. to suffer well content T. 104
But such as Art c., possess ye still T. i 757
As nations ignorant of God c. T. ii 574
C. creation; travel nature up T. iii 156
Fine country, with what ardour he c. T. iv 778
C., hard shifting, and without her tools T. v 417
Flus dream they, and c. to save a God T. vi 205
Could you c. the payment, and rehearse T.T. 178

CONTRIVED.

C. both for toil and repose Gr. 10 C. to suit frail nature's crazy case H. 604 An Alderman of Cripplegate c. T. i 61 That idleness has ever yet c. T. iy 208 An art c. to advertise a joke T.T. 539

CONTRIVER.

C. who first sweated at the forge T. v 214

CONTRIVING.

No cutting and c. F. 141 Lives by c. delicates for you) T. iii 546

CONTROL.

Nor would endure that any should c. Ch. 38
Bound other systems under her c. Ch. 318
A Finch, whose tongue knew no c. P.T. 26
His passions tamed, and all at his c. T. 417
The limits of c., his gentle eye T. ii 719
Or who so worthy to c. themselves T. v 236
Dispersed the shackles of usurped c. T. v 516
The oppression of a tyrannous c. T. vi 455
Asserts precedence, and bespeaks c. Tir. 9
A ubiquarian presence and c. Tir. 266
Watch his emotions, and c. their tide Tir. 610
Patient of constitutional c. T.T. 224
No. His high mettle, under good c. T.T. 308

CONTROLLED.

As if one master-spring c. them all T. iv 203 Unbidden, and not now to be c. T. vi 551 Of that c. ordinance they move T. vi 202

CONTROVERSIAL.

Of c. rage emits F. 104
They, strangers to the c. field T. 371

CONTROVERSY.

Much c. straight arose L.W. 15

CONTUSIONS.

And carry, in c. of his skull Con. 201. C. hazarding of neck or spine N.A. 7

CONVENED

The sovereignty they were c. to please Es. 539 C. for purposes of empire less T. iii 62 They form one social shade, as if c. T. iii 586

CONVENIENCE.

Lodged with c. in the fork R.C. 13 C. next suggested Elbow Chairs T. i 87 C., and security, and use T. ii 682 The sum is this. If man's c., health T. vi 581

CONVENIENT.

He found it c. to be poor Ch, 189 Oaths used as playthings or c. tools Es, 37 Uplifted hands, that, at c. times Es, 147 And thence with all c. speed to Rome P.E, 370 But wisely seeks a more c. friend R, 443

CONVENTICLE.

Heard at c., where worthy men T. ii 437

CONVENTION.

In politic c.) put your trust T. v 323

CONVERSANT.

C. only with the ways of men R. 39 Nor c. with men or manners much T. iii 24 Much c. with Heaven, she often holds T. v 815

CONVERSATION.

And C., in its better part Com. 3
And echo c. dull and dry Com. 211
But C., choose what theme we may Com. 703
While c., an exhausted stock H. 103
I wave just now, for c.'s sake" H. 496
Nor such as useless c. breeds R. 643
In c. frivolous, in dress T. ii 379

CONVERSE

But talking is not always to c. Con. 8
Now theirs was c. such as it behoves Con. 537
Sweet c., sipping calm the fragrant lymph T. iii 391
With social c. and instructive ease T. iv 135
In c., either starved by cold reserve T. v 471
That c. which we now in vain regret T. vi 40
From constant c. with I know not whom Tir. 854 CONVERSED.

Since she and I c. together last Con. 800

CONVERT.

And Christians marrying may c, the Turks A.T. 160 Of union, and c, the sacred band T, ii 686

CONVEY

C. to this desolate shore A.S. 34 C. a distant country into mine T. i 424

CONVEYANCE

And mode of its c., by such tricks T. ii 561 The neat c. hiding all the offence T. vi 980

CONVEYED.

From them to thee, c. along the tide Ex. 624 All seemed so peaceful, that from them c. N.A. 41 C. her calm along Q.V. 68 Which Mary to Anna c. The Rose 2

CONVEYING.

C. worthless dross into its place T. i 572

CONVICTS.

C. a man fanatic in the extreme Con. 665 The audacious c., whom he dares not bind T. iv 602

CONVICTED.

C. once, should ever after wear E. iii 50

CONVICTION.

Flings at your head c. in the lump Con. 153

CONVINCED.

C. at last, upon a nearer view R. 591 Note their extravagance, and be c. T. ii 573

The plump c, parson often bears T, iv 595 C. table and commodious seat T. v 162

CONYERS. "Because ye will not," C. would reply T. 358

COOING. Sits c. in the pine-tree, nor suspends T. vi 308

When C—lamented, and with tears as just Ch. 23 While C. is loved for savage lives he saved Ch. 39

COOL. Or c., as the season demands Gr. 38. 「T. vi 533 His rage grew c.; and pleased perhaps to have earned

To enjoy c. nature in a country seat H. 245 And the whispering sound of the c. colonnade P.F. 2 Ill-clad and fed but sparely, time to c. T. iv 379 Whom care and c. deliberation suit Tir. 781

These are the sober, in whose c. brains T. 38 And stepped at once into a c. clime T. i 337

COOLING. Its c. vapour o'er the dewy meads R. 422

COOLNESS.

The gloom and c. of declining day T. i 258

The cask, the c., the floated cord Cast. 27 And boundless as it is, a crowded c. T. iii 834

Calls thee to c. with enemies, and first R. 267 Leave kingly backs to c. with kingly cares T.T. 174 That grazed it stood beneath that ample c. Y.O. 54

COPIED. Were c. close in him, and well transcribed H. 581

COPIOUS.

Here stay thy foot; how c., and how clear Ch. 365 There he was c. as old Greece or Rome Con. 621 C. of flowers the woodbine, pale and wan T. vi 162

COPIOUSLY.

When c. supplied, then most enlarged Tir. 19 COPSE.

In many an orchard, c., and grove P.T. 13 To the close c., or far sequestered green T. 69

And teach the softer not to c. theirs Con. 844 Imhibes and c. what she hears and sees P.E. 356 If languages and c. all cry "No!" P.E. 500

Then to dispose his c. with such art T. ii 294 A wish to c what he must admire Tir. 649 Drew a rough c. of the Christian face T.T. 614 CORD.

The cask, the coop, the floated c. Cast. 27 He breaks the c. that held him at the rack Ch. 173 "A threefold c. is not soon broken " E. i 106

CORDIAL.

The sober c. of sweet air Mor. 10 That c. thought her spirit cheered Q.V. 65

And give thy life its only c, left? Tir. 882 Oh friendship! c, of the human breast! V. 49

CORDIALLY. Were witnesses how c. I pressed R. 379

Some c. endearing report A.S. 35

CORK.

Her fields, a rich expanse of wavy c. Ex. 9

The Christian Hope is—Waiter, draw the c. H. 351

But c.was housed, and beans were in the stack N.A.2 CORNER. The vainest c. of our own vain heart Con. 366

Placed at some vacant c. of the board T. iv 230 The cattle mourn in c., where the fence $T \cdot v = 27$ But seeks the c. of some distant seat Tir. 571

Fops at all c., lady-like in mien Tir. 829 CORNUBIAN. And in the gulfs of her C. mines H. 458

CORONER. The jury meet, the c. is short T. 447

CORONET.

The c., placed idly at their head H. 268 And one who wears a c. and prays T. 378 CORPOREAL.

Can lift herself above c. things T. 487

CORPSE. Till the stout bearers lift the c. again T. i 481

CORRECT. It may c. a foible, may chastise T. ii 316 By thee I might c., erroneous oft Y.O. 45

CORRECTED.

An error soon c. F. 21 CORRECTION.

She needs herself c.; needs to learn T. ii 776

CORRESPONDING.

Whose c, misses fill the ream P.E, 311 These chestnuts ranged in c. lines T. i 253 A c. tone in jovial souls T. iii 333

CORRODES.

The cankered spoil c, the pining state Ch, 63 CORROSIVE.

A pestilent and most c. steam T. iii 494

CORRUPT.

Stark naught because c. in their design T.T. 4 CORRUPTED.

That salt preserves thee; more c. else T. iii 845 CORRUPTER.

Greybeard c. of our listening youth P.E. 312

CORRUPTING. Nor guiltless of c, other men R. 382

CORRUPTION.

Of honour, perjury, c., frauds T. ii 669 C.! Whose seeks an audit here T. iv 610

CORTEZ.

See C. odious for a world enslaved! Ch. 40

COST.

defect would c. him, not alone Con. 763 om purchased for them, at the c. Ex. 171 or all the time it c. Mor. 41. orld, that c. it so much smart St. v 15 at her own peculiar c. T. 397 le labour and the skill it c. T. ii 297 petite raise outcries at the c.? T. ii 621 of the c. Ye little know the cares T. iii 547 satisfy the enormous c. T. iii 783 and puppies c. us so much care? Tiv. 295 themselves unmoved the while T.T. 659 him, I dare say Y.D. 66

COSTLIER.

c. than Lucullus wore T. ii 596 98 yet known, and c. far T. ii 659 cheese, or butter c. still T. iv 395

COSTLY.

3r, while c. yet and scarce T. iii 462 c. more than of true worth T. vi 984

COT.

ie pious pastor's humble c. Tir. 760

COTTAGE.

banks of Ouse E. i 48 at in c. confined Ex. 29 er oft we since repair T. i 221 k along the plastered wall T. v 19 ome c. beauty, strikes the heart T.T. 524

COTTAGER.

unenlightened swains H. 240 o weaves at her own door T. 317

COTTON.

se humanity sheds rays H. 205

COUCH.

w c., and slumber unalarmed T. iii 345 :., and high built throne august T. v 164

COUCHED.

n upon his puissant thigh A.T. 147 n prose, they will not hear E. i 22

COUGH.

n knell, while, heedless of the sound T. iv rheums, and phthisic, and catarrh Con.392

COUNCIL.

c. Wolfe, upon the lap T. ii 242

COUNSEL.

ountry's gods B.4 thy c, only in distress Ex.530 tion from a voice like mine! P.E.10 c c, if it either fall T. if 556 ill slight thy c, or condemn Tir.805

COUNSELLOR.

bosom friend shall prove Tir. 216

COUNT.

and detects and c. his spots? T. i 714 our-bell, and expect no change T. v 404

COUNTED.

ns prematurely c. A Fable 4.

COUNTENANCE.

sage or c. had not a Nose A.C. 19 1 each c. such marks of mind N.A. 76 A simpering c., and a trifling air P.E. 20° His c., his purse, his heart, his hand R. 595 Sees not a c. there that speaks of joy T. iv 205 Was but the graver c. of love T. vi 32

COUNTER.

The polished c., and approving none T. vi 281

COUNTERFEIT.

But c. is blind, and skulks through fear Con. 375 Shall c. the motions of the flood T. ii 148

COUNTERMARCHING.

Marching and c., with an eye T. vi 267

COUNTERPART.

And he that seemed our c. at first Tir. 442

COUNTERPOISE.

In c., flies up and kicks the beam T. 356

COUNTLESS.

Stars c., each in his appointed place R. 83 In grains as c. as the seaside sands T. vi 245 Whom ocean feels through all his c. waves Tir. 39

COUNTRY.

For whose lean c. much disdain A Tale 73 Counsel of her c.'s gods B. 4 And in his c.'s glory sought his own Ch. 26 Spreads foreign wonders in his c.'s sight Ch. 116 The constant creaking of a c. sign Con. 10 That all Olympus through the c. roves Con. 825 Their title to a c. not their own Ex. 173 And thou thyself o'er every c. sown Ex. 265 I. indebted to thy power, that shine Ex. 280How much the c. to the conqueror owes Ex. 481A blessing to my c, and mankind Ex, 727 Escaped from a cross c. ride! Gr. 20 To enjoy cool nature, in a c. seat H. 245 Forsaking c., kindred, friends, and ease H. 585 As when a fellow, whom his c.'s laws H. 712 Into the c. far away J.G. 215 Breathes clouds of dust, and calls it c. air R. 486 He likes the c., but in truth must own R. 573 Conveys a distant c. into mine T. i 424 [T. iii 757 The c. starves, and they that feed the o'ercharged A patriot's for his c.; thou art sad T. i 658 To tempt us in thy c. Doing good T. i 673 God made the c., and man made the town T. i 749 It plagues your c. Folly such as yours T. i 770 They touch our c., and their shackles fall T. ii 42 My c.! and while yet a nook is left T. ii 207 And Chatham, heart-sick of his c.'s shame T. ii 244 His birth-place and his dam? The c. mourns T. ii 814 Have rambled wide. In c, city, seat T. iii 14 His c., or was slack when she required T. iii 89 They love the c., and none clse, who seek T. iii 320 To serve his c. Ministerial grace T. iii 795 Unpeople all our c. of such herds T. iii 831 Discover c., with a kindred heart T. iv 116 Drink and be mad then; 'tis your c. bids! T. iv 509 The town has tinged the c.; and the stain T. iv 553 It knew not once, the c. wins me still T. iv 694 The c, with what ardour he contrives T. iv 778 Can he be stronuous in his c.'s cause T. v 506 That c., if at all, must be beloved? T. v. 508 [834] "His c.'s weather-bleached and battered rocks T. v Patriots have toiled, and in their c.'s cause T. v 704He serves his c., recompenses well T. vi 968 That, if his c. stand not by his skill T. vi 975 Where Duty placed them, at their c.'s side T.T. 24 Blest c., where these kingly glories shine! T.T. 81 E'en when he labours for his c.'s good T.T. 142 The c.'s need have scantily supplied T.T. 338

And all his c. beaming in his face T.T. 347 But when a c. (one that I could name) T.T. 414 COUPLE.

To watch you amorous c. in their play T. 136

COURAGE.

Or c. die away Cast. 16 And fear, not c., is its proper source Con. 180 That C, is his creature; and Dismay Ex. 354 A soldier's best is c. in the field H. 405 Shoots back the bolt, and all his c. dies H. 721 Whose c. well was tried R.G. 6 Rouse all your c. at your utmost need T. 565 But be ye of good c. Time itself T. iv 420 To feel, and c. to redress her wrongs T. iv 795 For stratagem, or c., or for all T. v 232 Gives c. to their foes, who, could they see T. vi 865 With them is c.; his effrontery wit Tir. 227 Because for sooth thy c. has been tried Tir. 739 But c., man! methought the muse replied Tir. 787 Who with a c, of unshaken root T.T. 15 C. in arms, and ever prompt to show T.T. 276 C., ungraced by these, affronts the skies T.T. 378 They trust in armies, and their c. dies T.T. 468

COURAGEOUS.

C., and refreshed for future toil T. iii 19

COURSE. To check the vessel's c. Cast. 20 Intent upon her destined c. Comp. ii 6 Winding a secret or an open c. Ch. 369 The reasoning power vouchsafed of c. inferred Con. Their nimble nonsense takes a shorter c. Con. 152 Some farrier should prescribe his proper c. Con. 411 From such communion in their pleasant c. Con. 698 Pursues the c. that truth and nature teach Con. 890 Are altogether gone a devious c.~Ex.~463Impelled thee more to that heroic c. J.T. 34 To check, or alter from its c. Miss - 59 Through mere good fortune, took a different c. N.A. Sets me more distant from a prosperous c. M.P. 105 His wonted c., yet what I wished is done M.P. 113 All is irregular, and out of c. P.E. 449 [406] With which from clime to clime he sped his c. P.E. His morning c., the enchantment was begun P.E. 68 Those winding modestly a silent c. R. 78 A superstitious and monastic c. R. 118 And make the c. he recommends my choice R. 388 The tide of life, swift always in its c. R. 453 Lived in his saddle, loved the chase, the c. R. 577 Sad period to a pleasant c.! St. vi 37 Obedient to the customs of the c. T. 14 Betrays the secret of their silent c. T. 196 Man's obligations infinite, of c. T. 197 Conducts the eye along his sinuous c. T. i 165The smooth and equal c. of his affairs T. ii 173 His devious c. uncertain, seeking home T. iii 3 Maternal nature had reversed its c. T. iii 436 Meanders lubricate the c. they take T. iv 65 The c of human things from good to ill T iv 578 And snow, that often blinds the traveller's c. T. v 142 A c. of long observance for its use T. v 301 (As in a map the voyager his c.) T. vi 17 But trees, and rivulets whose rapid c. T. vi 109 And in the constancy of nature's c. T. vi 122 Age after age, than to arrest his c.? T. vi 131 Prescribed their c., to regulate it now T. vi 201 (As is the c. of rash and fiery men) T. vi 542 And unambitious c., reflecting clear T. vi 723 Fulfill'd their tardy and disastrous c. T. vi 735 Holds its due c., nor fears the frosts of age T. vi 790 To ensure the perseverence of his c. Tir. 238

It pricks the genius forward in its c. Tir. 483
The expedience of a less adventurous c. Tir. 804
Unless the sway of custom warp thy c. Tir. 802
To turn the c. of Helicon that way T.T. 183
But nothing scares them, from the c. they love T.T.
While no base fear impedes her in her c. T.T. 207
Give me the line that ploughs its stately c. T.T. 305
For bounding and curvetting in his c. T.T. 305
Leaned on her elbow, watching Time, whose c. Y.O.

COURSED. Then c. the field around, and c. it round again NA.

COURSER.

So the best c. on the plain Th. 17 Perhaps some c. who disdains the road T.T. 668

COURT.

For the c. did not think they were equally wise A.C. Then holding the spectacles up to the c.-A.C.13With a reasoning the c, will never condemn A.C.1They c, the notice of a future age B.B.4Sweet harmonist of Flora's c.! Dr. 3 With tortured innocence in Mary's c. Ex. 613 Shall I abjure thee not to c. thy shame? Ez. 655 All the grim honours of his ghastly c. H. 261 Secure of favour at her c. Mrs. M— 22 When lawless mobs insult the C. Pat. 9 Ye kings and rulers, what have c. to show? R. If That c display before ambitious eyes R. 178 That, while it c., affronts and does you wrong R f xBut few that c. Retirement are aware R. 609 And ready to be borne to c. R.C. 20And lunacy the verdict of the c. T. 448 From c. dismissed, found shelter in the groves i. To c. a grin, when you should woo a soul T. ii 🕊 On human grandeur and the c. of kings T. v 178 And in her streets, and in her spacious c. T. vi A slave at c., elsewhere a lady's man Tir. 423 [8 Who there will c. thy friendship with what views I His c., the dissolute and hateful school T.T. 636 And strangers to the air of c. 1789, 62

COURTED.

Like a coy maiden, Ease, when c. most T. i 409

COURTEOUS.

A c. knighthood, caught the generous flame A.T.1 A stranger joined them, c. as a friend Con. 522

COURTIER.

C. and Patriot cannot mix F. 127

COURTLY.

I still revere thee, c. though retired T. iv 727 True. While they live, the c. laureate pays T.T.I

COUSIN

This cap to my c. I owe Gr. 5

COVENANT.

Form, in its stead, a c. of shame Cos. 684 By ancient c. ere Nature's birth T. vi 858

COVENANTED.

Upon the lap of c. rest Con. 574

COVENANT-ENSURING.

Bright as the c, bow H. 150

COVER.

To c. a pill for a delicate palate F.M. 12 C. us from every eye St. iv 34 Induced a splendid c., green and blue T. i 32

COVERED.

And c. with a fine-spun, specious veil P.E. 328

ic c. close; and berry-bearing thorns T. v 82 [829 ere c. with the pest; the streets were filled T. ii art up sagacious, c. with the dust T. T. 170

COVERING.

. his shame from his offended sight T. v 631

COVERT.

here c. guile and artifice abound Ch. 285 ft have I wished the peaceful c. mine T. i 233

COVET.

nd c. longer woe? St. v 20 ade others c. what they saw so fair T. v 227 cc. more than freemen choose to grant T. v 340 or there is none to c., all are full T. vi 772

COVETED.

) c., else base and disesteemed T. iii 448 ore to be prized and c. than yours T. iv 191

COVETOUS.

no c. of drink O. i 10 nd c. of Shakespeare's beauty, seen T. iii 601 only of a virtuous praise T.T. 95

COWERING.

nd crowded knees, sit c. o'er the sparks T. iv 385 COWLEY.

genious C.! and though now reclaimed T. iv 723

COWPER.

", whose silver voice, tasked sometimes hard S. i 1 hat grace was C.'s—his, confessed by all T. 119

COXCOMB.

graver c. we may sometimes see Con. 295 lith some unmeaning c. at your side R. 546 like regimented c. rank and file T. 422 ad pedantry that c. learn with ease T. vi 290

COY

fidle mirth and affectation c. S. ii 10 ike a c. maiden, Ease, when courted most T. i 409 hough apt, yet c., and difficult to win T. ii 289

CRABS.

It blushing c., or berries that emboss T. i 121

CRAB-COMPUTING.

and own his c. powers o'ercome P.E. 487

CRACK.

the satiric thong? 'Twere wiser far T. iii 28 CRADLE.

be c. that received thee at thy birth Ex. 469 bck'd in the c. of the western breeze Tir 44 bequious, from the c. to the throne T.T. 122 keigned thy c.; and a skipping deer Y.O. 25

CRADLED.

hough, clasped and c. in his nurse's arms H. 179 ten in the c. weakness of the world! T. v. 286 CRAFT.

coin by c. for Folly's use designed E. ii 7 bhors the c. he boasted of before H. 522

CRAFTSMAN.

he lackey, and the groom: the c. there T. iv 474 CRAGGY.

lere runs the mountainous and c. ridge T. iv 57 heer o'er the c. barrier, and immersed T. vi 554

CRAMP.

1

hippling his pleasures with the c. of fear! T. 466

CRANIUM.

And he that splits his c., breaks at most A.T. 44

CRANNIES.

And searched for c. in the frame P.B. 6 In every c. but the right R.C. 98

CRAPE.

C. and cocked pistol, and the whistling ball T. iii 802

CRASH.

And from within the wood that c. was heard N.A. 45

CRAVE.

Capricious Taste itself can c. no more Ch. 101

CRAVING.

And suck, and leave a c. maggot there! P.E. 326 And c. Poverty, and in the bow T. ii 490 Fails for the c. hunger of the state T. v. 459

CRAWLS.

That c, at evening in the public path T, vi 565

CRAZE.

C. antiquarian brains with endless doubt P.E. 391

CRAZED.

And whether being c. or blind F. 208 [T. i 556 Though pinched with cold, asks never.—Kate is c.!

CRAZY.

Contrived to suit frail nature's c. case H. 604 And c. earth has had her shaking fits T. ii 60 Suspend their c. boxes, planted thick T. iv 774

CREAKING.

The constant c. of a country sign Con. 10 To hear his c. panniers at the door T. i 245

CREAM.

The fruit of all her labour is whipped c. T.T. 551

CREAMY.

Without a c. smoothness has no charms T.T. 513

CREATE.

Starved by that indolence their mines c. Ch. 64 C., gives birth to, guides, consummates all Ex. 313 Most unavoidably c. F. 107 The tidings of unpurchased Heaven c. H. 343 Then farewell all that must c. M.F. 45 And share the joys your bounty may c. R. 790 As must c. an appetite for prayer? Tir. 374

CREATED.

C. and sustained Q.V. 60
Seem all c. since he travelled last R. 426
Joint-stools were then c.; on three legs T. i 19
As if c. only like the fly T. iii 134
C. fair so much in vain for them T. iii 697
And streams, as if c. for his use T. iii 776
In silly dotage on c. things T. v 586
With truth from heaven, c. thing adore Y.O. 7
C. changeable, and change at last Y.O. 73

CREATING.

I gazed, myself c. what I saw T. iv 290

CREATION.

Includes c. in her close embrace Ch. 598
To drown it? What is his c. less T. ii 200
Contrive c.; travel nature up T. iii 156
Infused at the c. of the kind T. iv 733
Behind his own c., works unseen T. v. 894
When all c. started into birth T. vi 199

CREATIVE.

n other climes perhaps c. Art Ex. 229

CREATOR.

Starts not aside from her C.'s plan Con. 452 To give the creature the C.'s due E. ii 3 That their C. had no serious end H. 130 The just C. condescends to write H. 133 Who make the good C_1 on their plan H_1 . 383 Careless of their C. And that low T. v 587

CREATURE.

An isle possessed by c. of our kind Ch. 381 To tremble (as a c. of an hour Con. 657 Has made the new-born c. her abode Con. 754To give the c. the Creator's due E. ii 3 That Courage is his c.; and Dismay Ex. 354 Some fickle c. boast a soul F. 109 His c. thwart not his august design H. 142 Field, fruit, and flower, and every c. here H. 490 C. of gentler race M.B. 4 Of peace or ease to c. clad as we N.A. 114 If we do not buy the poor c. they will P.A. 11 The c. is so sure to kick and bite P.E. 540 And calls a c. formed for God alone R. 17 Adores a c., and devout in vain R. 227 And lovers, of all c., tame or wild R. 251 The law by which all c. else are bound T. i 385 Strange! that a c. rational, and cast T. i 574 Played by the c. of a Power who swears T. iii 177 Of thought, the c of a polished mind T iii 640 Strange that so fair a c., should yet want T. iii 725 The c., summoned from their various haunts T. vi 355 We think them tedious c. Tran. iv 39 In vain thy c. testify of thee T. v. 856 From c. that exist but for our sake T. vi 603 All c. worship man, and all mankind T. vi 783 The c. is that God pronounces good T. vi 828 Stands self-impeached the c. of least worth Tir. 70 'Tis plain the \bar{c} , whom he chose to invest Tir. 95 All c., with precision understood Y.O. 151

CREDENCE.

To win due c. to what follows next N.A. 72

CREDENTIALS.

And graced with clear c. from above Ex. 188His office sacred, his c. clear T. ii 339

CREDIBLY.

How c., 'tis hard for me to state) Con. 816

CREDIT.

Thy rulers load thy c., year by year Ex. 281 Of c, and renown $\tilde{J}.G$. \tilde{Z} With doubtful c., told to frighten babes T. iv 564 Soon lose their c., and are all effaced Tir. 200

CREDULITY.

They were, what base C. believes H. 507 That would have shocked C. herself T. ii 694 Deep in his soft c. the stamp T. v 497

CREDULOUS.

C. infancy, or age as weak Con. 225 Will they believe, though c. enough Con. 721

CREED.

My c. (whatever some creed-makers mean H. 393 My c. is, he is safe that does his best H. 395 My c. persuades me, well employed, may save T. 522 Blasphemes his c., as founded on a plan Tir. 159

CREED-MAKERS.

My creed (whatever some c. mean H. 393

CREEKS.

The wriggling fry soon fill the c. around P.E. 489 Each c. and cavern of the dangerous shore R, 152

CREEP. And I had rather c. to what is true Con. 863 [145

Where men of judgment c., and feel their way ('es If Envy chance to c. in F. 75 Of him that c. and him that flies N.G. 38 There from the sunburnt hayfield homeward c. T. i 295 Now c. he slow; and now, with many a frisk T. v ? The vale of Nature, where it c. and winds T. vi 721 Would c. into the bowels of the hills T. vi 867 Nor always timorously c. Trans. H. 5

As c. ivy clings to wood or stone P.E. 285 And lowly c., modest and yet fair T. iii 663 What are the casements lined with c. herbs T. iv 70 The c. vermin, loathsome to the sight T. vi 568 That c. pestilence is driven away T. vi 785

CRESCENT.

The c. moon, the diadem of night R. 82

CREST.

And veil your daring c. that braves the skies Con. 19 Which seems by the c. that it rears Gr. 3But now wear c. of oven-wood instead N.A. 12 The subtlest serpent with the loftiest c. T. 476 [27] Whole without stooping, towering c. and all T. it

No c. warrior dips his plume in blood Her. 86 Stretch'd forth to dally with the c. worm T. vi 79 CREVICE.

CRESTED.

That finds out every c. of the head T. vi 707

With all her c. complete! R.G. 12

CREWEL.

Or scarlet $c_{\cdot \cdot}$, in the cushion fixed $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ i 54

CRIB. These at his c., and some beneath his roof T. vi 4

CRIED. "Oh, shame to Knighthood!" his assailant c. .l. "Fair fall the deed!" the Knight exulting c.A.T. In vain," they c., "are hymeneal rites A.T. 99 16 To horse!" he c., "or by this good right hand A.

You c.,-" Forbear"—but in my breast B.R. 5 A mightier c.—"Proceed"—B.R. 6 Entreated "Help!" or c.—"Adieu!" Cast. 42 Charmed with the sight, "The world," I c.D.W.: "A friend!" Horatio c., and seemed to start E. iii:

So, "Fair and softly," John he c. J.G. 85 [3: That c. "Repent!"—and gloried in thy choice? E But John he c. in vain J.G. 86
And overy soul c. out, "Well done!" J.G. 111

And smiling divinely, she c.—M.D. 15 You are so deaf," the lady c. M.F. 15

See! with united wonder, c. Th. 5

Awakened by the shock (c.. Puss) R.C. 53 One breath of Heaven, that c.—"Restore!" 178

CRIME. To judge the lands, to purge atrocious c. A.T. 14If killing birds be such a c. B.R. 25 And when unstained with any grosser c. Con. 63 That, conscious of her c., she feels instead Con. 7

Yet to consult a little seemed no c. Con. 865 Could act extortion and the worst of c. Ex. 148 Brought fire from Heaven the sex-abusing c. Ez. 4 rom c. as base as any charged on me? Ex.711is c. were such as Sodom never knew H. 562 [366] at Heaven will weigh man's virtues and his c. H. heir only c., vicinity to you! Her. 52 re c. so little to be spared M.F. 44 ain at the foot of pleasure be no c. P.E. 182 ad every thought that wanders is a c. R. 224iese, these are arts pursued without a c. R. 799 just with stripes told out for every c. T. 83 faithful memory she records the c. T. 161st indiscretion is a venial c. T. 491nd deem his base stupidity no c. T. 542ie frequency of c. has washed them white T. iii 71 eat c. alarm the conscience, but it sleeps T. iii 185 ad spotted with all c.; in whom I see T. iii 837 at many a c. deem'd innocent on earth T. vi 439 ad suffer for its c.; would learn how fair T. vi 827 is c, and follies with an aching eye Tir. 62 orgive the c.) I wish them, I confess Tir. 921 hen leave their c. for History to scan T.T. 119 CRIMINAL.

adged every effort of the Muse a c. T.T. 617 is c. to leave a sinking state R. 478 peaks him a c., assured St. vi 35

CRIMSON.

fith here and there a tuft of c. yarn T. i 53 We of the c. stream meandering there T. iii 202 ler c. honours; and the spangled beau T. iii 578

CRINGE.

loratio's servant once, with bow and c. E. iii 20 lake just reprisals, and with c and shrug. T ii 645

CRINGING.

If fluttering, loitering, c., begging, loose T. iii 832

for penury, can c. or confine T. \vee 772

CRIPPLEGATE.

in alderman of C. contrived T. i 61

CRIPPLING.

his pleasures with the cramp of fear! T. 466

CRISIS.

In may improve the c., or abuse P.E. 26 he c. of a dark decisive hour T.T. 359

CRITERION.

Try the c., 'tis a faithful guide) P.E. 514

CRITIC.

If a now alive or long since dead H. 426 has filled with all its fumes a c.'s brain P.E. 445 $\frac{1}{2}$ c on the sacred book should be P.E. 452 like trout pursued, the c. in despair P.E. 502 If callery c. by a thousand arts T. ii 365 Mappetite, no sordid fare T. iii 461 Which not e'en c. criticise; that holds T. iv 51

ORITICISE.

Which not e'en critics c.; that holds T. iv 51

CRITIC-PROOF.

But I have another c.! T. iv 48

CROAKED.

[282] Storks among frogs, that have but c. and died T. v

CROAKING.

The c. nuisance lurked in every nook T. ii 830

CROMWELL.

ΓT.T. 610 when C. fought for power, and while he reigned

CRONY.

And you might grumble, c. mine E. iv 25

CROOKED.

Bend the straight rule to their own c. will P.E. 557 The children, c., and twisted, and deformed T. ii 772 C. or straight, through quags or thorny dells Tir. 253 Which, c. into a thousand whimsies, clasp Y.0.118

CROP.

He thought to put him in his c. N.G. 12 The glad esponsals, and ensures the c. T. iii 54

CROPPED.

Whose bridle, while he c. the grass below A.T. 173 I saw him, with that lily c. D.W. 33 Of grassy swarth, close c. by nibbling sheep T. i 110 And tail c. short, half lurcher and half cur T. v 46

Which stuck in M.'s stomach as c. as a bone A.T. ii 8 Escaped from a c. country ride! Gr. 20 All hope despair, that stands not on his c. H. 632For ever and for ever? No—the C.! P.E. 613 The C once seen is death to every vice P.E. 622 To c. his ambling pony day by day R. 467 Point to the cure, describe a Saviour's c. Tir. 165

CROSSED.

Like him, c. cheerfully tempestuous seas H. 584 (The storms all weathered and the ocean c.) M.P.89

Crossing.

C. in your barks the main N.C. 44

CROUCHES.

Yours, a blind instinct, c. to the rod $T. \vee 355$ Whose trade it is to smile, to c. to please T.T. 128

CROW.

Might be supposed a c. Tran. ii 3

CROWD.

A thousand names are tossed into the c. Ch. 517 A sense they know not, to the wondering c. Ch. 390 And will not punish, in one mingled c. Ex. 716Vicissitude wheels round the motley c. H. 17Proclaim their titles to the c. around H. 266 From cities humming with a restless c. R. 21Blest he, though undistinguished from the c. T. i 592And c. the roads, impatient for the town! T. iii 319 Of the great Babel, and not feel the c. T. iv 90 Where nothing feeds it. Neither business, c. T. iv 744 That c. away before the driving wind T. v 3 They see the attentive c. his talents draw Tir. 362 Much to the amusement of the c. Tran. iv. 23 The storm of music shakes the astonished c. T.T. 491And all the c. that bustle life away V. 74

CROWDED.

Like c. forest-trees we stand, St. i 13 Others are dragged into the c. room T. i 478 In all our c, streets; and senates seem T, iii 61 The c, roots demand enlargement now T, iii 532 And boundless as it is, a c coop T iii 834 Sweats in the c. theatre, and squeezed T. iv 43 And c. knees, sit cowering o'er the sparks T. iv 385 And bundled close to fill some c, vase T, iv. 668 Frequents the c. auction: station'd there T. vi 286 C. with the garland of life's blooming years Con. 638

CROWN.

There was the consummation and the c. Ex. 221 [512 Then priests with bulls, and briefs, and shaven c. Ex. And c, the soul, while yet a mourner here H. 165 And grinds his c. beneath her burning wheels! H.652 Once more the spiry myrtle c. the glade Her. 31 To c. the smiling hours N. 20 The C., took notice of an ostler's face R. 586 Retorts the affront against the c. of Pride T. 502 That c. it! yet not all its pride secures T. i 279 That picked the jewel out of England's c. T. ii 265 Where once your noble fathers won a c. ! T. ii 281 Perhaps may c. us, but to fly is safe T. iii 688 I c. the king of intimate delights T. iv 139 With modesty and meekness, and the c. T. v 243 Thou art of all thy gifts thyself the c. T. v 904

Come then, and, added to thy many c. T. vi 902 If you can c. a discipline, that draws Tir. 493 Your smooth eulogium, to one c. addressed T.T. 91 Indeed is treasure, and c. all the rest V. 92

Come then, and, added to thy many c. T. vi 855

Receive yet one, the c. of all the earth T. vi 856

And far the richest c, on earth 1789, 42

CROWNED. How laughs the land with various plenty c.! Comp. i C. with a thousand victories, and at last Ex. 191 Humility is c., and Faith receives the prize T.589When he was c, as never king was since T. vi 350 And c, it with the majesty of man Tir, 52

Then Genius danced a Bacchanal; he c. T.T. 602 CRUDE.

Fruits of a blighted size, austere and c. T. 494CRUEL.

Nor, c. as it seemed, could be Cast. 31

But shine with c. and tremendous charms Ch. 545 Transformed to blessings, miss their c. aim E. ii 38 Make c. inroads in my brain E. iv 16 Cry to the proud, the c., and unjust Ex. 268 Have done him c. wrong M. 214 But ah, the c. glass between!" P.B. 28
For property stripped off by c. chance T. i 503 C., abandoned, glorying in her shame! T. iii 68 And in his hands and feet, the c. scars T. iii 114 Of c. man, exulting in her woes T. iii 336 The charms of Nature! 'Tis the c. gripe T. iii 826 'Tis quenchless thirst T. iv 459 C. is all he does. Where c, man defeats not her design T, vi 343 No c. purpose lurk'd within his heart T. vi 362 (What will not hunger's c. rage?) T.B.5The c. death he died T.B.66Or kites with c. beak The Doves 34 From the c. assaults of the clime W.N. 12 CRUELLY.

C. spared, and hopeless of escape! T. v 399 CRUELTY.

More c. could none express G. 16 The seeds of c., that since have swell'd T. vi 381 Than c., most devilish of them all T. vi 594 CRUISE.

Stopped his c., replaced his book Mor. 7 CRUMBLING.

Or e'er his hoof had pressed the c. verge T. vi 519 CRUSH.

Had sought to c. them, guarded as they were Ex.205C. me, ye rocks; ye falling mountains, hide T. 269 An inadvertent step may c, the small T, vi 564

Forgetful that the foot may c. the trust Tir. 792 Nor c. a worm, whose useful light Tran. i 17

CRUSHED. Felt himself c. at the first word he spoke T.T. 353 CRUST.

Angry and sad, and his last c. consumed T. i 246

A dry but independent c., hard earned T. iv. 403 And, feasting on an onion and a c. T.T. 241 CRUTCHES.

Halting on c. of unequal size P.E. 560

CRY. One was accoutred when the c. began A.T. 135 [2] And in the saddest part c.—"Droll indeed!" (of Can this be true?" an arch observer c. Con. 231 Then mirth is sin, and we should always c. Con. 87

Wept till all Israel heard his bitter c. Ez. 63 C. aloud, thou that sittest in the dust Ex. 267 C. to the proud, the cruel, and unjust Ex. 268 But raise the shrillest c. in British ears Ex. 271

The c. in all thy ships is still the same Ex. 288 Lothario c., "What philosophic stuff! H. 28 C. to her universal realm, "Rejoice!" H. 54
"No need," he c., "of gravity, stuffed out H. 10
"Renounce the world," the preacher c. L. W. 25

"Adieu," Vinosa c., ere yet he sips H. 357 I never will believe," the colonel c. H. 381 Sir Smug," he c. (for lowest at the board H. 413 And c., "Perhaps eternity strikes next!" H. 701

They all at once did c. J.G. 146 They raised the hue and c. J.G. 236 "When, c. the botanists, and stare P. 21 [P.E. 1] C.—"Well done, Saint!" and claps him on the beautiful of the start of

C. in his startled ear, "Abstain from sin!" P.E. If languages and copies all c., "No!" P.E. 500 Till authors hear at length one general c. R. 707 "His joys be mine," each Reader c. St. iii 33

Wakes the sooner for his c. 8t. iv 8 Heaven on such terms!" they c. with proud dista "And is the soul indeed so lost," she c. T. 479 Where dwell these matchless saints?" old Curio c.

And perks his ears, and stamps, and c. aloud T. vi 3 One song employs all nations; and all c. T. vi 79 Sweet Poll! his doting mistress c. Tran. iv 13 They c. aloud in every careless ear T.T. 434 CRYING.

C.—hom! and reading what they never wrote T.ii 4

In being touched, and c.—"Don't!" P. 38

CRYSTAL. So Flora's wreath through coloured c. seen H. 7 Called to these c. streams, do ye turn off P.E. 26

To drink sweet waters of the c. well T. i 240 In vain to filter off a c. draught T. ii 507 Or Temper sheds into thy c. cup T. iii 47 And shrubs of fairy land. The c. drops T. v 113

CUCUMBER.

Of c., while costly yet and scarce T. iii. 462

CUE. He from Italian songsters takes his c. P.E. 112

CULINARY.

By c. arts, unsavoury deems T. i 125 CULLS.

But oh! for him my Fancy c. Pat. 13 CULPRIT.

C. his liberty regains E. iv 59

CULTIVATE.

And c, a taste for ancient song R, 375 He c. These serve him with a hint T. iv 758 To improve and c. their just demesne T. v 226 To c, and keep the morals clean Tir. 920

CULTIVATED. Distinguish every c. kind H. 291 And genial soil of c. life T. i 679 And Nature in her c. trim T. iii 357

An upright heart, and c. mind Tir. 722 If he indulge a c. taste T.T. 161

CULTIVATION.

That c. glories in, are his T. vi 189

CULTURE.

On c., and the sowing of the soil Con. 6 To study c., and with artful toil R. 785 By c. tamed, by liberty refreshed T. i 606 CULTURED.

C. and capable of sober thought T. iii 324

CUMBROUS.

And through the c. throng Q.V.66

CUNNING.

With all the c, of an envious shrew T, ii 266 Nor C. justify the proud man's wrong T. vi 844

He wipes and scours the silver c. in vain Ex. 385 But if the rogue be gone a c. too far P.E. 440 With caution taste the sweet Circean c. P.E. 580 And mingle with our c. R.G. 27 Throws up a steamy column, and the c. T. iv 39 Or Temper sheds into thy crystal c. T. iii 47 [Rose 5 The c. was all filled, and the leaves were all wet The One drop of Heaven's sweet mercy in his c. T. iii 804 Thou wast a bauble once, a c. and ball Y.O. 17

CITR.

In village or in town, the bay of c. T. i 230 And tail cropped short, half lurcher and half c. T. v 46

CURATE

Sweet sleep enjoys the c. in his desk T. i 94 Nor sleep enjoyed by c. in his desk T. i 100

To teach good manners, and to c. abuse Con. 164 By way of wholesome c. upon our pride Con. 361 Religion c. indeed its wanton play Con. 595 In spite of c. and rein J.G. 88 Soon follows, and the c. of conscience snapped T. ii The c. invented for the mulish mouth T. ii 744 Let active Laws apply the needful c. T.T. 314

CURD.

The milk of their good purpose all to c. Ch. 504 CURDLES.

And the blood thrills and c. at the thought T. vi 514 CURE. And find submission more than half a c. Ch. 158

Springs from the mischief it intends to c. Com. 170 Physicians write in hopes to work a c. Con. 407 [887 Thus touched, the tongue receives a sacred c. Con. And, tainted by the very means of c. Ex. 104 And c. of every ill! G. 15 Those evils it would gladly c. M.F. 58 And that a rope must c. them Pat. 20 Prevent the danger, or prescribe the c. P.E. 18 One sad epistle thence, may c. mankind P.E. 351 No c. for such, till God who makes them heals R.342No medicine, though it oft can c. St. i 27 The grave admits no c. for guilt or sin St. ii 30 That Scripture is the only c. of woe T. 452 ls obstinate, and c. beyond our reach T. iii 40 Dire disappointment that admits no c. T. iii 557

Inveterate, hopeless of a c., conspires T. iv 577 The heart's insanity admits no c. T. vi 523 Point to the c., describe a Saviour's cross Tir. 165 But ye connive at what ye cannot c. Tir. 275

Disease or comes not, or finds easy c. Tir. 766 Which now and then sweet Poetry may c. T.T. 743 Drew the grey c. of the fading west Ch. 263

CURED.

C. of the golden calves, their fathers' sin Ex. 215 But modest, sober, c. of all R. C. 103

CURIO.

T. 229

Where dwell these matchless saints?" old \tilde{C} . cries

CURIOSITY.

Or thine, but c., perhaps T. i 634

CURIOUS.

A great retailer of the c. ware Com. 229 With c. touch examines me P. 33 And gratify no c. eyes Q.V. 39 By c. eyes and judgments ill informed T. ii 485 And the mouse with c. snout Tran. iii 12 Oracular, I would not c. ask Y.O. 42

CURL.

Ungenial blasts attending c, the streams T.T. 213

CURLED.

C., scented, furbelowed, and flounced around Ex. 51

CURLING.

Each bottle had a c. ear J.G. 69 C. and whitening over all the waste R. 531 And c. tendrils gracefully disposed T. iv 154 There sit, involved and lost in c. clouds T. iv 472

CURRENT.

Vice passing c, by the stamp of law A.T. 156 With God's deep stamp upon its c. worth Con. 710 Spurious, and only c. with the blind E. ii 8 And day by day some c.'s thwarting force M.P. 104So coin grows smooth, in traffic c. passed P.E. 279 But nowhere with a c. so serene R. 455 To winter, and the c in his veins T iv 388 And unperceived the c. steals away T. v 100 Till settling on the c. year 1789, 27

CURRIED.

C. his mag and looked another way R.590

CURSE.

The wreath he won drew down an instant c. Ch. 61 Forgot to c., and only kneel to pray Con. 814 They drew a c. from an intended good Ex. 129 A lawless brood, and c, thee to thy face Ex. 283 Successful there, he wins a c. Mor. 48 Your pleasures with no c. in the close P.E. 268 Or c. the desert with a tenfold dearth? T. 182 Shall find the blessing unimproved a c. T. 524 The worst of men, and c. of the best T. 434 Before he eats it .- 'Tis the primal c. T. i 364 Nothing is proof against the general c. T. iii 263 Dire is the frequent c., and its twin sound T. iv 487 Procure him many a c. By slow degrees T. iv 635 Have each their record, with a c. annex'd T. vi 441 Exults to see its thistly c. repealed T. vi 768 And not with c. on his heart, who stole Tir. 151 On fire with c., and with nonsense hung Tir. 832 God's c. can cast away ten thousand sail! T.T. 467

CURSED.

"O c. Hypothesis! your hellish arts A.T. 113 And, c. with conquest, finally succeed Con. 692 Abhorred the sacrifice, and c, the priest P.E. 340 Blessed, rather c.. with hearts that never feel R.307

CURST.

Lip-deep in what he longs for, and yet c. P.E. 233 Satire has long since done his best, and c. T.T. 728 CURTAIN.

You rise and drop the c.—now 'tis night Con. 332 These c., that keep the room warm Gr. 37 The c. drawn by Prejudice and Pride H. 571 And grace his action ere the c. fall R. 34 The trumpet—will it sound? the c. rise? R. 655 He drew the c. at his side R. C. 81 Let fall the c., wheel the sofa round T. iv 37 In letting fall the c. of repose T. iv 248

CURTAINED.

That c. round the scene where they reposed A.T. 95

CURVATURE.

With c. of slow and easy sweep T. i 352

CURVE.

Then like a bow long forced into a c. T.T. 622 CURVETTING.

For bounding and c. in his course T.T. 305

CUSHION. May now and then their velvet c. take H. 248

Or scarlet crewel, in the c. fixed T. i 54 If c. might be called, what harder seemed T. i 55 On the same c. of habitual sloth T. iv 598

CUSTOM. The fear of tyrant c., and the fear Con. 181 Women, whom c. has forbid to fly P.E. 504We can escape from C.'s idiot sway R. 49 Obedient to the c, of the Course T. 14 When C bids, but no refreshment find T i 390 And c. of her own, till Sabbath rites T. i 748 Misled by c., strain celestial themes T. ii 438 By vicious C., raging uncontrolled T. iii 682 The manners, c., policy of all T. iv 109 Such dupes are men to c., and so prone T. v 299 C. and prejudice shall bear no sway T. vi 838

The slaves of c, and established mode Tir, 251

Unless the sway of c. warp thy course Tir. 862 Its c. and its businesses Tran. ii 28

CUSTOMARY.

Within its c. nook Mor. 8 The volume closed, the c. rites T. iv 167

CUSTOMER.

Three c. come in J.G. 52 Twas long before the c. J.G. 57

We have our similes c. short E. iv 65 One breaks the glass, and c. his fingers P.B. 34 And c, up all my follies by the root T, 574

To c. the link of brotherhood, by which T. iii 208 And truth c. short to make a period round T.T.51But oh! it c. him like a scythe Y.D. 7

CUTTING.

No c. and contriving F. 141

CYLINDERS.

It is passed between c, often, and rolled F.M.3CYMBAL.

Ah, tinkling c. and high-sounding brass T. v. 681 CYNIC.

Blame, c., if you can, quadrille or ball P.E. 175 CYNTHIO. While C. ogles, as she passes P.B. 19

CYPRESS. Of neighbouring c., or more sable yew T. vi 154

CYRENE. C., when he bore the plaintive tale $T. \vee 136$ CYRUS.

And $C_{\cdot \cdot}$, with relenting pity moved Ex. 75

D.

DÆDALUS.

She tutored some in D.'s art A.T. 52

DAGGER. [there? A.T. 118

"Find out her treacherous heart, and plant a d. D. in hand, steals close to your bedside Ch. 187 Will thrust a d. at your breast F. 94

DAGON.

As D, in Philistia long before Ex. 507

DAILY.

In d, musings and in nightly dreams A.T. 12 Murmuring and weary of our d. toil Ch. 221 D. derive increasing light and force Con. 697 And d, threaten to drive thence E, iv 17 I see thee d. weaker grow M. 6 And d, more enamoured of the cheat P.E. 524 Fly to the coast for d., nightly joys R. 522 Earth's millions d. fed, a world employed R. 553 For evils d, felt, and hardly borne R. 752 Some trivial slips their d. walk attend T. 286 Scenes must be beautiful which, d. viewed T. i 177 Please d., and whose novelty survives T. i 178 His d. fare as delicate. Alas! T. ii 626

DAINTY.

His d., and the World's more numerous half T. iii 54 Less d. than becomes his grave outside T_* iv 605

DAIRY.

Too proud for d, work, or sale of eggs T, iv 549 DAISIES.

And prink their hair with d., or to pick T. vi 303

DALE.

[N.A. 3 Told hill and d. that Reynard's track was found

That draw the sportsman over hill and d. T. iii 310

Stretch'd forth to d. with the crested worm T. v To d. much with subjects mean and low T.T. 544

DAM.

Lii Sl His birth-place and his d. ? The country mourns 7 Each sire and d., of an infernal race P.E. 568

DAME.

In fairy land was born the matchless d. A.T. 5 D. Gurton thus, and Hodge her son E. iv 39

DAMN.

And save or d. as these or those prevail H. 368 A hopeless task, and d. them if they fail H, 392 "And doth he reprobate and will he d. T. v 638

DAMNABLE.

Be d., then damned without excuse P.E. 597

DAMNED.

Or, in his words who d, the base desire Ex. 422 Die when he might, he must be d. at last H. 569 Be damnable, then d. without excuse P.E. 597

DAMNING.

While thousands careless, of the d, $\sin Ex$, 388

So, when the cold d. shades of night prevail Ch. 527 They put on a d. night cap, and relapse Con. 322 Chasing the darkness and the d. Q.V. 7

The ascending d.; then leisurely impose T. iii 477

"Seraglios sing, and harems d, for joy! A.T. 108The world may d, along the flowery plain E, ii 13 As in a d, the pair that take the lead H, 13 Laymen have leave to d., if parsons play P.E. 151 Then to the d., and make the sober moon P.E. 173 Footing it in the d. that Fancy leads P.E. 308 To d. on earth, and charm all human eyes R. 796 Shot through the boughs, it d. as they d. T. i 346 When safe occasion offers; and with d. T. i 584 Are silent. Revelry, and d., and show T. ii 79 Then shake them in despair, and d. again T. ii 666

Could page antry and d., and feast and song T. iii 314 In feast or in the chase, in song or d. T. v 758. That leads the d. a summons to be gay T. vi 336

DANCED.

The mulberry tree stood centre of the d. T. vi 686

Who d. with whom, and who are like to wed Con. Enjoyed the show and d. about the stake Ex. 615 To speak its excellence; I d. for joy T. iv 712 [517 The wretch, who once sang wildly, d, and laughed H. Then Genius d. a Bacchanal; he crowned T.T. 602

DANCING.

She guides the finger o'er the d. keys Ch. 109 Not of the moral, but the d. school P.E, 190 D. uncouthly to the quivering flame T. iv 276 Soon the sweet Spring comes d. forth Trans. H. 23 So many maniacs d. in their chains T. ii 663 The d. Naiada through the dewy meads T.T. 693

DANES.

Besides, if we do, the French, Dutch, and D. P.A. 9 DANGER

From d, of a frightful shape A Fable 38 The d. they discern not, they deny Ch. 418 Of d. past, and wonders yet to come Con. 572 But here again a d. lies F. 25

And where his d. and God's wrath begin H. 609 When, conscious of no d. from below Her. 3

And d. little known H.F. 18 Prevent the d., or prescribe the cure P.E. 18 The joy, the d. and the toil o'erpays P.E. 90 Tis valued for the d.'s sake the more P.E. 521

Faces a thousand d. at her call R.H. 7 While d. passed is turned to present joy T..256His d, or escapes, and haply find T, ii 309

If toil await me, or if d. new T. iii 20 How great the d. of disturbing her T. iii 35

Ten thousand d. lie in wait to thwart T. iii 553 The d, we have 'scaped, the broken snare T. iv 185

Even daylight has its d; and the walk T. iv 572

The scorn of d., and united hearts T. v 377 And, conscious of some d., either fled T. vi 375 Aware then how much d. intervenes Tir. 883 DANGEROUS.

Suggests it safe, or d., to be plain Ch. 520 I grant it d., and approve your fear Con. 653 In vain opinion's waste and d. wild H. 279 May prove a d. foe indeed F. 77 And thy loved consort on the d. tide M.P. 98 Safe in themselves, but d. in the excess P.E. 62

Each creek and cavern of the d. shore R. 152 And d. to the touch, has yet its bloom T. i 528 That it is d, sporting with the world T, ii 777 In fancied peace beneath his d. branch $T. \nabla 325$

DANGLED. D. along at the cold finger's end T. iv 392

DANGLING.

D. his cane about, and taking snuff H. 27 Still d, at his waist J.G. 132

That pressed it, and the feet hung d. down T. i 47 And holds them d. at arm's length in scorn T. 164 (But that the basket d. on her arm T. iv 547 Like caterpillars, d. under trees Tir. 591

DANIEL.

D. ate pulse by choice—example rare! P.E. 215

And D, howlings scared thee as they passed Ex, 471 DANK.

To sallow sickness, which the vapours, d. T. i 438 In volumes wheeling slow, the vapour d. T. iii 499

DAPPLE. Meantime, noise kills not. Be it D.'s bray N.A. 115

DAPPLED.

Observe the d. foresters, how light St. ii 21 Looks to the westward from the d east T.T. 706

Who d. dishonour, or defile, the tongue Con. 26 Let D. beat Entellus black and blue Con. 198 They d. not wait the riotous abuse Con. 261 We d. not risk them into public view Con. 371 That he who d., when she forbids, be grave Con. 475 Abhors constraint, and d. not feign a zeal Con. 713 The man that d. traduce, because he can Ex. 432 O slave! with powers thou didst not d. exert Ex. 546 In such a cause they could not d, to fear Ex, 621

D. step across his arbitrary views H. 193 Hence all that interferes and d. to clash P.E. 427 I d. not—"And you need not," God replies T. 272

Alas for the poet! who d. undertake F.M. 13

Woe to the tyrant, if he d. intrude T. vi 406 The audacious convict, whom he d. not bind \bar{T} . iv But though the felon on his back could d. T. vi 516 Nor could he d. presumptuously displease Tir. 179 Or, if I blame, 'tis only that they d. Tir. 263

Twould cost him, I d. say Y.D. 66

[Con. 501 DARED.

Touched by that power that you have d to mock Thou that hast wasted earth, and d. despise Ch. 69 D. to suppose the subject had a choice Ex.544 [639] (For was it less, what heathen would have d. T. vi And d, to look his master in the face T.T. 321 No sycophant or slave, that d. oppose T.T. 350

Endurest the brunt, and d. defy them all Ex. 697 DARING.

Full many a champion bent on d. deed A.T. 123

And veil your d. crest that braves the Con. 486. Confessed the wonder, and with d. tongue Ez. 155 Forbid in vain to push his d. way Ez. 17 [230 His hairbreadth 'scapes, and all his d. schemes Tir.

DARK.

Bade rise in haste a d. and drizzling fog A.T. 94 And d. oblivion soon absorbs them all B.B.8 [612] The statesman, skilled in projects d. and deep Ch. How d. the veil that intercepts the blaze Ch. 57 Shines in the d., but ushered into day Con. 677 A d. confederacy against the laws Con. 685 Will make the d. enigma clear E. 154 The sense was d.; 'twas therefore fit E. iv 61 Not to be pierced in play, or in the d. Ex. 435 But thine, as d. as witcheries of the night Ex. 491 His bold intrusion on their d, retreat H. 356 A d, importance saddens every day H. 699 D. and voluminous the vapours rise Her. 15 Yet this dull room, and that d. closet M.F. 4 Sir Humphrey, shooting in the d. M.F. 9 In earth's d. womb have found at last a vent N.A. 86 A something shining in the d. N.G. 9 Sing, Muse (if such a theme, so d. so long P.E. 1 Start it at home, and hunt in the d. R. 693 With foliage of such d. redundant growth T. i 226 Disfigures Earth, and, plotting in the d. T. i 275 And clammy, of his d. abode have bred T. i 439 And all at random, fabulous and d. T. ii 522 Left them as d, themselves. Their rules of life T, ii And d. in things divine. Full often too T. iii 235 Deciduous, when now November d. T. iii 467 Through all the heart's d. chambers, and reveal T. iii A flowery island, from the d. green lawn T. iii 630 And made so sparkling what was d. before T. v 558 The deep d. green of whose unvarnish'd leaf T. vi 174 Such rare exceptions, shining in the d. Tir. 841 The d. appearance will not last Trans. H. 26 The crisis of a d. decisive hour T.T. 359 To throw his d. displeasure o'er the scene T.T. 445 The d. and sullen humour of the time T.T. 616 Are we then left—Not wholly in the d. T.T. 662

DARKEN.

Called for a cloud to d. all their years E. ii 25 Which art can only d. and disguise H. 769 Philosophers, who d. and put out P.E. 472 And chills and d. a wide-wandering soul T. v 684

DARKENED.

Soon raised a cloud that d. every land Ex. 509

DARKENING.

And d. and enlightening, as the leaves T. i 348 DARKER.

To d. climes, or climes of brighter day Ex. 18 Prefer the twilight of a d. time T. 541

DARKEST.

That shoot into your d. caves the day H. 493 Beware of desperate steps. The d. day N.A. 132 Vanish at once into the d. shade St. ii 24 But had a blessing in its d. frown T. vi 35 And throwing up into the d. gloom T. vi 153

DARKNESS.

They cannot give it, or make d. light Ch. 388 D. itself before his eye is light Ex. 338 So then;—as d. overspread the deep Ex. 636 By such a change, thy d. is made light Ex. 640 Error and d. occupy their place Ex. 693 Closing at last in d. and despair H. 6 Spent half the d., and snored out the rest H. 510 Expects in d. and heart chilling fears H. 714

Winks hard, and talks of d. at noonday P.E. 451 Chasing the d. and the damps Q.V. 7
D. the skies had mantled o'er Q.V. 33
D., O Queen! ne'er called before Q.V. 35
Whose Stygian throats breathe d. all day long T.i
By works of d. and nocturnal wrong T. iv 435
Blind, and in love with d.! yet e'en these T. vi 8
And, tedious years of Gothio d. passed T.T. 564

DARLING.

Howe'er ingenious on his d. theme Con. 137
The text that sorts not with his d. whim P.E. 448
The Frenchman's d.? Are they not all proofs T. iv?
The shipwright's d. treasure, didst present Y.O.

DART.

For every d. that malice ever shot H. 559
And he that forged, and he that threw the d. H. 3
D. to the mud, and finds his safety there P.E. 503
Swift beyond thought the lightnings d. away T. 3
With gentle force soliciting the d. T. iii 115
By traitor Appetite, and armed with d. T. iii 685
"From the green wave emerging, d. an eye T. v 533
The bounding fawn that d. across the glade T. vi 327
And d. his soul into the dawning plan T.T. 499 DARTED.

Grew stern, and d. a severe rebuke T. ii 720 DARTING.

And d. through his elm an eagle's eye A.T. 148 DARWIN.

Can gaze on even D.'s wit Dr. 19

Strange! how the frequent interjected d. Ch. 521 To d. through thick and thin J.G. 40 The d. of Ocean on his winding shore T. i 186 The milldam, d. on the restless wheel T. v 102 To d. the pen through all that you proscribe T.T. 76

DASHED.

From the d. pane the deluge as it falls T. iii 488 DASHING.

The raving storm and d. wave defies Con. 559 This plumage, neither d. shower Mrs. M— 15 Blown all aslant, a driving, d. rain T. 239

DASTARDLY.

The practice d., and mean, and low Cos. 178

DATE.

A more enduring d. Cast. 58 And make it brightest at its latest d. Con. 604 [≅ Their woes, not yet repealed, thence d. them all E Thence d, their sad declension, and their fall Ex.2: To trace thee to the d, when you fair sea Ex. 55t By reminiscence to his earliest d.? F.A. 23 And of a transient d. G. 9 His d. of life, so likely to be short H. 208 No virtuous wish can bear a d. Mor. 57 But short the d, of all we gather here R. 460 Pushing her bold inquiry to the d. R. 669 Who waits to dress us, arbitrates their d. T. ii 60 That He who made it, and revealed its d. T. iii 1 Old or of later d., by sea or land T. v 381 All has its d, below; the fatal hour T, v 529 Hence d, the persecution and the pain T, vi 384 A longer d, to the far nobler beast T, vi 529 Far beyond the d. of man Tran. iii 28 There is a time, and justice marks the d. T.T. 40

DAUB.

The difference of a Guido from a d. T. vi 285

Half a millenium since the d. of thine Y.O. 136

DAUBED.

Causeless, and d. with undiscerning praise T. \forall 360 DAUGHTER.

Sends Nature forth, the d. of the skies R. 795 DAW.

As idle as the chattering of a d. A.T. 63 Such is the clamour of rooks, d., and kites H. 349 The very rooks and d. forsake the fields T. v 89 DAWN.

Grey d. appears; the sportsman and his train P. E. 82 The d. of thy last advent; long desired T. vi 866 There d. the splendour of his future years Tir. 394 Neither night nor d. of day Tran. iii 25

DAWNING.

Wait for the d. of a brighter day Ch. 167 The peep of morning shed a d. light Ch. 261 And bid a d. aky display E. i 77 And darts his soul into the d. plan T.T. 499

Enjoyed at ease the genial d. A Fable 7

DAY.

On rippling waters in an April d. A.T. 24 Twas on the noon of an autumnal d, A.T. 70 The chaster Muse of modern d. omits A.T. 85 And set the unseemly pair in open d. A.T. 168 Blessed the glad beams of that propitious d. A.T. 205 And when your linnet on a d. B.R. 13My numbers that d, she had sung C, 17 In number the d, of the year C, 26 Wait for the dawning of a brighter d. Ch. 167 Inform his mind; one flash of heavenly d. Ch. 228 For the chief blessings of my fairest d. Ch. 265 No works shall find acceptance in that d. Ch. 557 Collect at evening what the d. brought forth Con. 19 The heathen lawgivers of ancient d. Con. 35 A tasteless journal of the d. before Con. 276 God and his attributes (a field of d. Con. 471 0 d. of heaven, and nights of equal praise! Con. 567 Serene and peaceful as those heavenly d. Con. 568 Canting and whining out all d. the word Con. 577 Whose wit can brighten up a wintry d. Con. 581 A dozen would-bes of the modern d. Con. 612 And claims a reverence in its shortening d. Con.645 Shines in the dark, but ushered into d. Con. 677 Make him athletic as in d, of old Con, 841 To express the occurrence of the d. E. i 4 But d. by d., and year by year E. i 53 The blaze of a meridian d. E. i 78 Which this d.'s incident began? E. i 84 (Twas therefore much the same in ancient d.E. iii 7 Some few that I have known in d. of old E, iii 58 Anticipates a d. it never sees Ep. i 8 [Ex. 16 Where dwell they now? Where dwelt in ancient d. [Ex. 16 To darker climes, or climes of brighter d. Ex. 18 A cloud to measure out their march by d. Ex. 177 Thus fell the best instructed in her d. Ex. 225 [228] Had poured the d., and cleared the Roman skies Ex. Where shall a teacher look, in d. like these Ex. 450 Thou wast the veriest slave, in d. of yore Ex. 526 As ever Roman had in Rome's best d. Ex. 591 Heroes and worthies of d. past, thy sires? Ex.658To spend two hours in dressing for the d. H. 80 And if perchance, on some dull drizzling d. H. 371 A hand as liberal as the light of d. H. 408The trumpet of a life-restoring d. H. 456 The sweet vicissitudes of d. and night H. 488 That shoot into your darkest caves the d. H. 493 And finds the modish manners of the d. H. 612 A dark importance saddens every d. H. 699 The comfort of a few poor, added d. H. 729
Their hours, their d., in listening to his joy H. 739

The brightest wonders of an endless d. H. 753When on a d., like that of the last doom Her. 11 [17] While through the Stygian veil that blots the d. Her. To-morrow is our wedding d, J.G. 9 Said John,-" It is my wedding d. J.G. 193 Was heard, one genial summer's d. J.P. 31 Asleep at the dawn of the d. M.D. 2And something every d. they live M.F. 39 Shades slanting at the close of d. Mor. 15 I heard the bell tolled on thy burial d. M.P. 28 By expectation every d. beguiled M.P. 40 And where the gardener Robin, d. by d. M.P. 48 Could those few pleasant d, again appear M.P. 80 And d. by d. some current's thwarting force M.P.104 Where rises and where sets the d. Mrs. M—11 With you bright regent of the d. Mrs. M-52 And pant for brighter d. N. 12And weave fresh garlands every d. N. 19 Beware of desperate steps. The darkest d. N.A. 132 A nightingale, that all \hat{d} . long N.G.That wish on some fair future d. N.Y.G. 17Why, stooping from the noon of d. O. i 9 Rebellion is my theme all d. Pat. 1 Thus having wasted half the d. P.B. 11Long ere the charioteer of d. had run P.E. 67 'Tis exercise, and health, and length of d. P.E. 91 With wire and catgut he concludes the d. P.E. 126 A d. of luxury, observed aright P.E. 164 What says the prophet? Let that d. be blest P.E. To tease for cash, and quarrel with all d. P.E. 372 It chanced then on a winter's d, P.T. 9 'Tis well if, looked for at so late a d. R. 31 Happy, if full of d.—but happier far R. 45 Instruct me, guide me to that heavenly d. R. 95 From scenes of sorrow into glorious d. R. 168 The rising or the setting orb of d. R. 191 Soft airs, nocturnal vigils, and d. dreams R. 260 Ye saw me once (ah, those regretted d. R. 371To cross his ambling pony d. by d. R. 467 Exempt from future service all his d, R, 628 Cause to provide for a great future d. R. 652Can save us always from a tedious d. R. 745Divine Communion chases as the d. R. 765 (With her indeed 'twas never d.) R.C. 68 Than if entombed the d. before R.C. 72 In happier d_{\cdot} , to brighter prospects born! S_{\cdot} ii δ To see again my d. o'erspread St. iii 7 He who sits from d. to \hat{d} . St. iv 1 Though committed every d. St. iv 28Who trample order; and the d. St. vi 25Sport for a d., and perish in a night T. 42 From the strict duties of the sacred d.? T. 49 And drank the little bumper every d. T. 158True Piety is cheerful as the d. T. 176 Ten thousand warblers cheer the d., and one T. 200 Consults all d, your interest and your ease T. 217 Hence the complexion of his future d. T. 280 Shuffling her threads about the livelong d. T. 320 But let not him that shares a brighter d. T. 539 Was bliss reserved for happier d.;—so slow T. i 83 The gloom and coolness of declining d. T. i 258 Of cheerful d., and nights without a groan T. i 366 'Tis free to all—'tis every d. renewed T. i 434 [547 The dreary waste; there spends the livelong d.T. i There often wanders one, whom better d. T. i 534 To dream all night of what the d. denied T. i 671 My soul is sick, with every d.'s report T. ii 6 The terrors of the d, that sets them free T, ii 128 He grinds divinity of other d. T. ii 362 [T. iii 738 Whose Stygian throats breathe darkness all d. long What was a Monitor in George's d.? T. ii 580 In colleges and halls, in ancient d. T.ii 699 Men too were nice in honour in those d. T. iii 85

Learning has borne such fruit in other d. T. iii 248 And spreads his hopes before the blaze of d. T. iii 445 That d, and night are exercised, and hang T, iii 549 To all the virtues of those better d. T. iii 745 [iii 786] That he has touched, retouched, many a long d. T. Than Sodom in her d. had power to be T. iii 847 With sweet oblivion of the cares of d. T. iv 250 I saw the woods and fields at close of d. T. iv 311 Thy d. roll on exempt from household care T. iv 366 Warmed, while it lasts, by labour all d. long T. iv 377 He may compensate for a d, of sloth T, iv 434 [393] Just when the d. declined, and the brown loaf T. iv Would I had fallen upon those happier d. T. iv 513 That favoured such a dream, in d. like these T. iv 530 Of smiling d., they gossip'd side by side $T. \nabla 60$ So manifold in cares, whose every d. T. v 769 [525] Vain wish! those d. were never; airy dreams \bar{T} . iv Then we are free. Then Liberty like d. T. v 883 Slow circling ages are as transient d. T. vi 227 [177 These have been, and these shall be in their d. T. vi His murderer on his back, and, push'd all d. T. vi 428 Accountable, and God, some future d. T. vi 605 And give the d, to a musician's praise T, vi 644 And solemn ceremonial of the d. T. vi 680 [vi 696] The statesman of the d. T. Swarm in the streets. And in his sportive d. Th. 2 [Tir. 757 Saved from his home, where every d. brings forth Down to the sunset of their latest d. Tir. 82In early d, the conscience has in most Tir, 109 Yet e'en in transitory life's late d. Tir. 143 Time was he closed as he began the d. Tir. 175 And, common sense diffusing real d. Tir. 189 We love the play place of our early.d. Tir. 297 We feel it e'en in age, and at our latest d. Tir. 317 And labours to surpass him d. and night Tir. 480 The indented stick, that loses d. by d. Tir. 559 To combat Atheists with in modern d. Tir. 639 Not occupied in d. dreams, as at home Tir. 775 Which disappears by d. Tran. i 4 Neither night nor dawn of d. Tran. iii 25 Feats of renown, though wrought in ancient d. T.T. No shades of superstition blot the d. T.T. 270 [376 Now, from the dust of ancient d., bring forth T.T.Not prompted, as in our degenerate d. T.T. 590And arts revived beneath a softer d. T.T. 621Hast caught the cold distemper of the d. V. 47 The manners, not the morals, of the d. V. 80If God give health, that sunshine of our d.! V. 88 And long before the d. appears Y.D. 11 In sooth the sorrow of such d. Y.D. 17 But the axe spared thee. In these thriftier d. Y.O.

DAYLIGHT.

By d. or candlelight—Eyes should be shut A.C. 32 Not less dispersed by d, and its cares T, iv 138 Even d. has its dangers; and the walk T. iv 572

DAYSPRING.

To thee the d., and the blaze of noon R. 347 Of d. overshoot his humble nest T. i 496 And shot a d. into distant climes T.T. 561

DAZZLE.

Bright-studded to d. the eyes Gr. 13 Or will he seek to d. me with tropes T. ii 423

Misdeems it, d. by its bright array T. iv 685 DAZZLING.

In d. streaks the vivid lightnings play Her. 18 Beneath the d. deluge, and the bents T. v 22 So d. in their eyes who set it on T. v 244 The d. splendour of the scene below T. vi 64

DEAD.

Alike immortalize the d. Cast. 54 Who live in pleasure, d. e'en while they live H. 230 Adds nothing now to the degraded d. H. 269 Of critics now alive or long since d. H. 426 Reveal (the man is d.) to wondering eyes H. 572 The d, in whom that good abounded most J.T. 4 My Mother! when I learned that thou wast d. M.P.21No pleasure! Are domestic comforts d.? P.E. 243 At length when all had long supposed him d. R.583Man shall be summoned and the d. attend? R. 654 And all are d, beside St, vi 2 Are such a d., preponderating weight T. 354 That man is d. in sin, and life a gift T. 514 Of lazy nurse who snores the sick man d. T. i 97 For interest sake, the living to the d. T. iii 661 Of sympathy, and therefore d. alike T. vi 323 Deaf as the d, to harmony, forgets T, vi 646 The incorrigibly wrong, the deaf, the d.! Tir. 780 That were a theme might animate the d. T.T. 202Though abroad they are frozen and d. W.N. 8

DEAF. He might as well be blind, and d., and dumb Con. 144Pleasure is d, when told of future pain Ex. 66 "You are so d.," the lady cried M.F. 15 "You are so sadly d., my dear M.F. 17 And d. to all the impertinence of tongue R. 549 [415 But oft-times d, to suppliants who would blush T, iv Charm the d, serpent wisely. Make him hear T, v 671 D. as the dead to harmony, forgets T. vi 646 [867] Thou wouldst not, d. to Nature's tenderest plea Tir. The incorrigibly wrong, the d., the dead! Tir. 780

DEAL. With a great d. of skill, and a wig full of learning But such a tree! 'twas shaven d. A Tale 33 Sorting and puzzling with a d. of glee Con. 13 Who d. with Scripture, its importance felt Con. 729 Men d. with life as children with their play H. 127 To d, and shuffle, to divide and sort T. i 474D. him out money from the public chest T. iii 796 Or doing nothing with a d. of skill T.T. 193 With stern severity d. out the year T.T. 209

DEALINGS. A lawyer's d, should be just and fair H. 401

Slaves of gold, whose sordid d. N.C. 53 DEALT.

As Tully with philosophy once d. Con. 730 For Israel d. in robbery and wrong Ex. 35 His censure reached them as he d, it P. 65 The painted tablets, d. and d. again! P.E. 170

DEAN. But (I might instance in St. Patrick's d.) Ch. 499 Humility may clothe an English D. T. 118 And d., no doubt, and chapters, with one voice Tir.

DEAR. "My d. deliverer out of hopeless night Ch. 234 "Adieu, d. Sir! lest you should lose it now" Con. 282 Is contradiction for its own d. sake Con. 106 [708 Lives the d. thought of joys he once possessed (an)Keep still the d. companion at their side? Con. 731 D. Anna-between friend and friend E. i 1 Not dreaming of so d, a friend E, i 41 D. Joseph-five and twenty years ago- E. iii l One story more, d. Hill, and I have done E. iii 45 Of d. Mat Prior's easy jingle E. iv 4 If d, society be worth a thought Ex. 670 Thy d. delights while here below F. 212 His happiness, her d., her only aim H. 64 Gethsemane! in thy d., hallowed ground H. 297

And you are she, my dearest d. J.G. 19 And for that wine is d. J.G. 26 For which he paid full d. J.G. 202 "No doubt, my d., I bade him come M.F. 11 "You are so sadly deaf, my d. M.F. 17 Thus grief itself has comforts d. Miss - 53 The meek intelligence of those d. eyes M.P. 7 Faithful remembrancer of one so d. M.P. 11I would not trust my heart—the d. delight M.P. 82 Our d, delights are often such P.B. 29 0 the d. pleasures of the velvet plain P.E. 169 My d. Dick Redcap, what say you? P.T. 37 "Since the d. hour that brought me to thy foot T. Their own d. virtue their unshaken trust T. 281 And witness, d. companion of my walks T. i 144 As d, to thee as once? And have thy joys T, i 647 No: d. as freedom is, and in my heart's T. ii 33 [643] Her d. five hundred friends, contemns them all T. ii Who slights the charities for whose d, sake T. v 507 They prove too often at how d. a rate T. vi 416 A man deemed worthy of so d, a trust Tir, 71 Receive, d. friend, the truths I teach Trans. H. 1 Reward his memory, d. to every muse T.T. 14 And I will sing, at Liberty's d. feet T.T. 296 And thinking I might purchase it too d. T.T. 515 You sell it plaguy d. Y.D. 60 For that d. sorrow's sake forego 1789, 52

John Gilpin's spouse said to her d. J.G. 5

DEAR-BOUGHT.

The d. placeman, and the cheap buffoon Con. 30 Are not important always as d. Tir. 74

DEAREST.

And you are she, my d. dear J.G. 19
The occupation d. to his heart T. ii 709
The nurture of her youth, her d. pledge T. ii 779
Yet make their progeny their d. care Tir. 800 [359
They risk their hopes, their d. treasure, there? Tir.

DEARLY.

The wreath He won so d. in our name Ch. 586 The emphatic speaker d. loves to oppose Con. 269 D. obtains the refuge it affords T. i 238

DEARTH.

Burning and scorched into perpetual d. Ex. 421 Or curse the desert with a tenfold d. T. 182 The d. of information and good sense T. iv 71 From d. to plenty, and from death to life T. vi 181

DEATH.

But waged with D. a lasting strife Cast. 17 A stroke as fatal as the scythe of D. Ch. 144 And put the peaceably-disposed to d. Con. 90 Never, if honest ones, when d. is sure Con. 408 And while the victim slowly bled to d. Ex. 498 For caught and caged, and starved to d. G. 10 Sighs for his exit, vulgarly called d. H. 90 [H. 260 They die.—D. lends them, pleased and as in sport And d.'s a doom sufficient for the rest" H. 396 Denouncing d. upon the sins of man H.512 [627 And smite the untempered wall 'tis d. to spare H. Those awful syllables, Hell, D., and Sin H. 690 D. and the pains of Hell attend him there P.E. 547 The Cross once seen is d. to every vice P.E. 622 Till d. exterminate us all P.T. 35 That so much d. appears? St. i 8 This annual tribute D, requires St, i 11 That, soon or late, d. also is your lot St. ii 35 The gulf of d. triumphant passed St. iii 31 D at hand—yourselves his mark—St. iv 11 D and Judgment, Heaven, and Hell St iv 29 Why deem we d. a foe? St. v 18

And dread of D, ensues St, v 24 With the approach of D. St. v 28His d. your peace ensures St. v 34 But rather d. disguised St. vi 12 Of everlasting d. St. vi 36 And d. or restitution is the word T. 264 And smothered in't at last is praised to d. T. 316Life for obedience, d. for every flaw T. 550 She heard the doleful tidings of his d. T. i 455 That she is rigid in denouncing d. T. i 732 Life in the unproductive shades of d. T. ii 124 To seek a tranquil d, in distant shades T, iii 111 Within its recking bosom, threatening d. T.iii 503Contagion, and disseminating d. T. iii 617 Births, d., and marriages, epistles wet T. iv 17 The first artificer of d.; the shrowd T. v 213 True to the d_{\bullet} , but not to be his slaves T_{\bullet} v 345 And beg for exile, or the pangs of d.? T. v 434 O'er all we feed on power of life and d. T. vi 453 Of folly, plunging in pursuit of d. T. v 595 Ages of hopeless misery. Future d. T. v 607 And d. still future. Not a hasty stroke T. v 608 But unrepealable enduring d. T. v 610 Tis desperate, and he sleeps the sleep of d. T.v 669 Yet deemed oracular, lure down to d. T. v 863 Might he demand them at the gates of d. T. vi 45 From dearth to plenty, and from d. to life T. vi 181 Adds tenfold bitterness to d. by pangs T. vi 395 To steel their hearts against the dread of d." T. vi511 Declined the d., and wheeling swiftly round T.vi 518 The d, he had deserved, and died alone T, vi 556 The cruel d. he died T.B. 66 D. never shall divide The Doves 28 [T.T. 42 And D. own soythe, would better speak his power His being end where d. dissolves the bond Tir. 67 And D, awakens from that dream too late T.T. 126 Even where D. predominates. The spring Y.O. 132

DEATH-BELL.

To toll the d. of its own decease T. ii 51

DEATHLESS.

Oh fond attempt to give a d. lot B.B. 1 Thy d. wreaths, and triumphs all thine own H. 664

DEBARRED.

From the whole hog to be d. L.W. 12

DEBASED.

And that a nation shamefully d. T.T. 396 D. to servile purposes of Pride T.T. 748

DEBATE.

Oh that the voice of clamour and d. Ch. 309
A duel in the form of a d. Con. 84
But oh! the strife, the bickering, and d. H. 312
Or if in masculine d. he shared H. 686
This civil bickering and d. L.R. 17
That whirl away from business and d. R. 393
Or do we grind her still? The grand d. T. iv 30
Fell Discord, arbitress of such d. T. iv 482

DEBAUCH.

The rank d, suits Clodio's filthy taste P.E. 188 Of stale d., forth issuing from the styes T. iv 470 And tattered in the service of d. T. v 633

DEBAUCHED.

Of rank obscenity, d. their age T.T. 631

DEBILITATES.

From what d, and what inflames R. 20

DEBONAIR

Sometimes ascending, d. R.C. 11The Frenchman, easy, d., and brisk T.T. 236

DEBT.

I owed a trifle, and have paid the d. Con. 796
The d., which justly became due E. iv 23 [Ex. 611
The beams of heavenly truth have swelled the d.!
Their measure filled, they too shall pay the d. Ex.712
Increasing taxes and the nation's d. T.T. 177
DEBTORS.

When He shall call his d. to account T. iii 365

DECAY.

No; marble and recording brass d. Con. 551
They flourish, and as these decline, d. Ex. 327
Shall live exempt from weakness and d. H. 752
Which first inspired the flame, d. M.F. 54
A falling empire, hasten its d. R. 384
Sprightly, and old almost without d. T. i 408
With most success when all besides d. T. iv 157
Neglected talents rust into d. T.T. 546

DECAYED.

See then the quiver broken and d. T. ii 803 D. by time, or withered by a frost V. 58

Slow, into such magnificent d. Y.O. 90

That now and then a hero must d. Con. 175 To to!l the death-bell of its own d. T. ii 51

All but their own experience as d.! Con. 720 Their piety a system of d. Ex. 91 Kneels and asks Heaven to bless the dear d. P.E. 525 To teach the canvass innocent d. R. 797 Where rumour of oppression and d. T. ii 3

$\begin{array}{c} \textbf{DECEITFUL.} \\ \textbf{nce and } d. \ \textbf{weight } Ex \end{array}$

The partial balance and d, weight Ex. 41 D, views of future bliss, farewell! T. 9

DECEIVE.

She mocks her Maker, and herself d. Con. 776 Nor any fool he would d. F. 16 Or may my friend d. me! F. 216 Nor baited hook d. the fish's eye T. iii 313 Not slothful; happy to d. the time T. iii 362 D. no student. Wisdom there and truth T. vi 114

DECEIVED.

With many a freakish trick d. his pains A.T. 25
Both sides d., if rightly understood Ch. 622
But if, unhappily d., I dream Ch. 632
Will judge himself d., and prove it too Con. 112
Or, if excused that charge, at least d. Con. 478
And disappointed still, was still d. M.P. 39
And therefore prints, himself but half d. P.E. 492
If this be learning, most of all d. T. iii 184 [295
Though still d., some stranger's near approach T. iv
Not soon d.; aware that what is base T. vi 989

DECENT.

Suffice it then in d. terms to say A.T. 86
And let them guide you to a d. end Con. 220
So manners d. and polite F. 178
A d. caution and reserve at least H. 404
And plain in manner; d., solemn, chaste T. ii 401
Some, d. in demeanour while they preach T. ii 440
With d. duty, not ashamed to pray Tir. 176
Then d. Pleasantry and sterling Sense T.T. 638
DECENTLY.

My share of duties d. fulfilled T. vi 1001

DECEPTION.

No mockery meets you, no d. there P.E. 618 D. innocent—give ample space T. i 353

DECIDE.

D. no question with their tedions length Con. 87 A worthless form, than to d. aright T. vi 851

Must be d. by the worth Mor. 43 In settled habit and d. taste Tir. 778 in settled habit and d. taste Tir. 778

DECIDIOUS.

D., when now November dark T. iii 467 D., or its own unbalanced weight T. v 40

DECISION.

The event and sure d. of the fight? Ez. 363 Guides the d. of a doubtful choice Tir. 34

DECISIVE.

D. and clear, without one if or but A.C. 30 They always are d., clear and strong Con. 150 Too weak for those d. blows that once T. ii 273 The crisis of a dark d. hour T. T. 359

DECK.

Oft pacing, as the mariner his d. F.A. 19 This china that d. the alcove $G\tau$. 33 Of all that d. the lanes, the fields, the bowers H. 288 That d., with all the splendour of the true H. 485 Whilst beauty d. the plain Miss — 40 [ii 31 Dewdrops may d. the turf that hides the bones St.

And d. itself with ornaments of gold T. i 529 Upon the wanton breezes. Strew the d. T. ii 256 Nor are these all. To d. the shapely knoll T. iii 625 He travels, and I too. I tread his d. T. iv 114

He travels, and I too. I tread his d. T. iv 114 With which Aurora d. the skies T.B. 16 [d. F.O. 95] That might have ribbed the sides and planked the Thy blossoms d. our unsuspecting years V. 51

DECKED.

Presents it d. with every hue Mor. 30 [iv 223]

Thus d., he charms a world whom Fashion blinds f.

And winter is d. with a smile W.N. 4

DECLAIMERS.

Designed by loud d. on the part T. v 498 DECLAMATION.

Cataracts of d, thunder here T, iv 73

DECLARE.

And differing judgments serve but to d.~H.~423DECLARED.

For Time, the destroyer d. Gr. 45

DECLENSION.

Thence date their sad d., and their fall Ex. 223 Must save it from d. F. 180 Preserved by virtue from d. M.F. 51 Of modest grandeur, and d. thence Y.O. 89 DECLINE.

Nor soon he felt his strength d. Cast. 15 That in the valley of d. are lost Con. 636 They flourish; and as these d., decay Ex. 327 Partakers of thy sad d. M. 33 As life d., speed rapidly away T. i 130 A boyish friendship may so soon d. Tir. 453

The powers that Sin has brought to a d. T.T. 383

DECLINED.

D. at length into the vale of years T. ii 726

D. at length into the vale of years T. ii Just when the day d., and the brown loaf T iv D. the death, and wheeling swiftly round T. vi But conjugated verbs and nouns d. Tir. 619

DECLINING.

"Till Sol, d. in the west R.C. 62
The gloom and coolness of d. day T. i 258

DECLIVITY.

. with tufted hills R. 333 d. is sharp and short T. i 326 rp d. shoots off secure T. iii 487

hallow'd time; d. reign'd T. vi 691 on, and, for d. sake T. vi 985

DECOYED.

, d. into that fatal ring T. ii 631

DECREE.

alterable fixed d. Con. 467 rt of his deep d. E. i 60 s will and his d. ordain Ex. 325 was just and without flaw H. 318 whatever plan caprice d. H. 614 by Heaven's d. Miss — 46 al suicide on God's d. T. 20

DECREED.

iship d., with a grave solemn tone A.C. 29 hosoever should offend E. iii 48 the laurel-wreath d. E. iv 83 ı, as Justice has long since d. H. 748 thy growth d.; autumnal rains Y.O.23

DECREPID.

, now d. and worn out Ex. 502 DECREPITUDE.

1 the looks of lean T. ii 489

DEDICATE.

tribute, in its use T. vi 712 DEDUCE.

is not that I d. my birth M.P. 108

DEED.

(For what kings d. a toil, as well they may T.T. 155I the d.!" the knight exulting cried A.T. 68 y a champion bent on daring d. A.T. 123 me to the d. B.R. 8 ice as a warrant for the d.? Ch. 183 s abuse among the foulest d. Ch. 209 1 of liberal and heroic d. Ch. 245 e the guerdon of a noble d. Ch. 293 [461 ny d. with which the world has rung Ch. on's verdict is a madman's d. Con. 190 . had left, in spite of hostile arts Con. 513 ons up from Hell to back the d. Con. 691 me wrong, I recompensed the d. Con. 797 ar of this thy d. D. W. 38 ce abused brings forth the foulest d. Ex. t the charge of d. that I detest Ex. 430 nate the soul to Christian d. H. 300 the d., by which his love confirms H. 324 which the world must never mix P.E. 162 efactress blushes at the d. P.E. 212 . d. of thine! Q.V. 36 and d., imply St. vi 30 , word, and d., his liberty evince T. 195 en thousand mercenary d. T. 224 [T. 559 ns the injurious d., the slanderous tongue or d., he bundles up the spoil T. iv 440 1 in peace, for sake of warlike d. T. v 234 requivocal, authentic d. T. v 653 lay what tune he pleases. In the d. T. v bly, and their d., as they deserve T. v 705 asure of the offence, rebukes a d. T. vi 655 lliates d. of folly and of shame) Tir. 333 from the d of men of ancient fame Tir. 645 hat men admire as half divine T.T. 3 ces not fire at their heroic d. T.T. 26

But if a d. not tamely to be borne T.T. 488 D. of unperishing renown 1789, 15

「Ch. 589 DEEM. That in the heaven of heavens, that space He d. She d. all safe, for she has paid the price Ch. 458 And having felt the pangs you d. a jest Con. 497 As, having it, he d. the world's disdain Con. 762 And d, the bard, whoe'er he be Dr. 21 Not that I d., or mean to call E. i 91 To d. the wit a friend displays F. 88 Quite to forget, or d. it worth no thought H. 83 And d, her sharp artillery mere straw H. 597 D, life a blessing with its numerous woes H. 546 Should d. it by our old companion made N.A. 95 D. our nation brutes no longer N.C. 49 And minds that d. derided pain a treat R. 310 Does all, and d, too little, all he can R. 320 And he that d: his leisure well bestowed R. 505 Why d, we death a foe ? St. v. 18 [thorn S. ii 1 D. not, sweet rose, that bloomest midst many a Who d. his house a useless place St. vi 21 And d, his base stupidity no crime T. 542 By culinary arts, unsavoury d. T. i 125 Who d. religion frenzy, and the God T. iv 178 Start at his awful name, or d. his praise T. iv 180 We build with what we d. eternal rock T. v 534 He d. a thousand or ten thousand lives T. v 276 Nor d. he wiser him, who gives his noon T. vi 278 Of what he d, no mean or trivial trust T, vi 607 And I am recompensed, and d. the toils T. vi 725 That not to attempt it, arduous as he d. T. vi 757 Pursuing gilded flies; and such he d.T. vi 922 D. him a cipher in the works of God T. vi 943 He d. it hard to vegetate alone Tir. 724 D. his reward too great if he prevail Tir. 479 Would d, it no abuse, or waste of pains Tir. 627 D. it of no great moment whose, or where Tir. 781

DEEMED.

The Point of Honour has been d. of use Con. 163 Can ne'er be d. worth half so much E, iv 29 That men have d. substantial since the fall H. 154 Let each be d. a queen " L.R. 24 Has she no spark that may be d. her own? T. 482 Emerging, must be d. a labour due T. iii 631 [iv 546] Ill propped upon French heels; she might be d. T. Yet d. oracular, lure down to death T. v 863 They now are d. the faithful, and are praised \bar{T} . vi But many a crime d. innocent on earth T. vi 439 What all had d. his own Th. 20 A man d. worthy of so dear a trust Tir. 711

D. in ruin as in guilt B. 16 D. in the abyss of Silver-End E. i 42 The purport of his d. decrees E. i 60 Impede the bark that ploughs the d. serone Ch. 132 Yes, to d. sadness sullenly resigned Ch. 151 The statesman, skilled in projects dark and d. Ch. Λd . memorial graven on their hearts Con. 514 [741] The Worldgrown old her d. discernment shows Con. Whose wisdom, drawn from the d. well of life Con. 564 With God's d. stamp upon its current worth Con. 710 Oh think, if chargeable with d. arrears Ex. 608 So then:—as darkness overspread the d. Ex. 636 That remedy, not hid in d. profound H. 111 [F.A.28] D. mysteries both! which schoolmen must have toiled To search forbidden d., where mystery lies F.A. 33 Beneath the smiling surface of the d. H. 184 Thy d. repentance of thy thousand lies H. 590 Hates with a d. sincerity the true H. 642 han the d. of galley-slaves broke loose T.T. No thunders shook with d. intestine sound Her. 5

[628

[94]

And all their d. impressions, wear away P.E. 278Fast anchored in the d. abyss of space R. 84 One, and one only, charged with d. regrot P.E. 349 To dive into the secret d, within R, 135 Pursue their sport, and follow to the d. R. 160 To them the d recess of dusky groves R. 181 He swathes about the swelling of the d. R. 527 Some swayed by fashion, some by d. disgust R. 607 Where it advances far into the d. T. i 619 $\lceil R.H. \ 2 \rceil$ Than bid me shun the d., and dread the shore? Conceiving thunders, through a thousand d. T. ii 89 Gone with the refluent wave into the d. T. ii 120 Rise not, the waters of the d. shall rise T. ii 143 Of such d. mischief has itself a cause T. ii 698 [109 Long since: with many an arrow d. infixed T. iii Immortal Hale! for d. discernment praised T. iii 258 The rage of fermentation, plunges d. T. iii 519 And spreads the honey of his d. research T. iv 112 Of d. deliberation, as the man T. iv 300 D. in the loamy bank. Uptorn by strength T. iv Of Indian fume, and guzzling d. the boor T. iv 473 The verdure of the plain lies buried d. T. v 21 D. plunging, and again d. plunging oft T. v 34 Conscious and fearful of too d. a plunge T. v 64 And we are d. in that of cold pretence T. v. 494 Die too: the d. foundations that we lay T. v. 532 D. in his soft credulity the stamp T. v 497 The d, dark green of whose unvarnished leaf T, vi [302 In wisdom, and with philosophic d. T. v 297 The bench on which we sat while d. employed Tir. That age or injury has hollowed d. T. vi 311 D. in the flood, found, when he sought it not T. vi

Swarmed with a scribbling herd, as d. inlaid T.T. DEEPER.

Not always tempt the distant d. Trans. H. 4

And whelmed in d. gulfs than he Cast. 66 Of d. green the elm; and d. still T. i 312 Takes d. root, confirmed by what they see T. ii 568 D. in none than in their surgeon's books Tir. 289 DEEPEST.

DEEPLY.

Beheld their progress with the d. dread T.T. 325

D. resolved to shut a Saviour out Con. 690 With fingers d. dyed in human gore Ex. 497 And him as d. who abhors it not H. 333 Ill fated race! how d. must they rue Her. 51 A thousand other themes less d, traced M.P. 57 DEEP-TONED.

Strike on the d, chord the sum of all P.E. 605 DEER.

Like a slain d., the tumbrel brings him home P.E. Or forest where the d. securely roves R. 182 I was a stricken d, that left the herd T, iii 108 Defies the check of winter, haunts of d. T. vi 110 Poor England! thou are a devoted d. T.T. 362 Designed thy cradle; and a skipping d. Y.O. 25 DEFACE.

By rural carvers, who with knives d. T. i 281 DEFACED.

Beheld with joy the lovely scene d. Ex. 426 And what his storms have blasted and d. T. vi 745

The price of his d. But now—yes, now T. iii 92 DEFEAT.

To thwart its influence, and its end d. Ch. 38 'Tis love like his that can alone d. R. 781 To France than all her losses and d. T. \vee 380 Where cruel man d. not her design T. vi 343

DEFECT.

Their own d., invisible to them Con. 155

That great d. would cost him, not alone Con. 763 Our friend's d. long hid from sight F. 149 Sin's rotten trunk concealing its d. P.E. 288 With clear exemption from its own d. T. i 404 In aid of our d. In some are found T. vi 611 Shall give him consequence, heal all d. Tir. 392

DEFECTION.

That after man's d. laid all waste Com. 752

DEFECTIVE. In aid of our d. sight E. i 62

D. only in his Roman nose P.E. 396 D. and unsanctioned, proved too weak T. ii 524 DEFENCE.

Say not (and if the thought of such d. Ex. 708 [43 Who strike the blow, then plead your own d. He. Have fallen in her d. A Patriot's blood T. v 711

DEFENCELESS. His victims, robbed of their d. all T. iv 458

Waged with d. innocence, while he T. vi 393 'Tis hard, indeed, if nothing will d. Con. 173
Till sinking in the quicksand he d. P.E. 552

"D. me therefore, Common Sense," say I T. iii 187 Betray thee, while professing to d. T.T. 333 DEFIANCE.

Had bid d. to the warring world Ex. 212 That bids d. to the united powers T. ii 769 And in d. of her rival powers T. v 123 Or growled d. in such angry sort T. vi 377 DEFICIENT.

Aiding a dubious and d. sight Ch. 329 DEFIED.

The billows and the blast d. A Tale 55Each tender tie of life d. Miss — 29

Braved and d., and in our own sea proved T. ii 272 Is never with impunity d. T. vi 548 Who dare dishonour, or d., the tongue Con. 26

Hear then how Mercy, slighted and d. T. 501

To fill with riot, and d. with blood T. iii 307 DEFILED. Then Nature, injured, scandalized, d. Ex. 424

My prayers and alms, imperfect and d. T. 577 To them it flowed much mingled and d. T. ii 503 Is soon dishonoured and d. in most T. vi 590 The puppy pack that had d. the scene T.T. 641 DEFILEMENT.

Contracts d. not to be endured T. iv 670

DEFINED. But that disease, when soberly d. Con. 667

Or something not to be d. F. 176DEFORM.

No flaw d., no difficulty thwarts T. vi 229 As now, and with excoriate forks d. Y.O. 5

DEFORMED. With prickly gorse, that, shapeless and d. T. i 527

Be fickle, and thy year, most part, d. T. ii 210 The children, crooked, and twisted, and d. T. ii. 772 DEFRAY.

With our expenditure d. his own T. ii 605

The raving storm and dashing wave d. Con. 559 ndurest the brunt, and darest d. them all Ex. 697 he Christian vessel, and d. the blast H. 168 ired with a zeal peculiar, they d. H. 461 fith bony and unkerchiefed neck d. T. 137 fere grotto within grotto safe d. T. v 117 lender to be within grotto safe d. T. v 117 lender to be within grotto safe d. T. v 117 lender to be worth of his three kingdoms I d. T.T. 85.

DEFYING.

le hails the clergy, and d. shame T. ii 356 DEGENERATE.

he features of the last d. times T. vi 900 of prompted, as in our d. days T. T. 590

DEGRADE.

and would d. her votary to an ape Con. 460 listurb good order, and d. true worth T. iii 674

DEGRADED.

dds nothing now to the d. dead H. 269 DEGRADING.

) most d. of all ills that wait Ch. 155

DEGREE.

Though feeble in d., in kind the same Ch. 594 For God unfolds by slow d. E. i 59 let man, laborious man, by slow d. Her. 67 finds, by d., the truths that once bore sway P.E.277Pleasure admitted in undue d. P.E. 269 There hardening by d., till double steeled P.E. 590 He sighs,—for after all, by slow d. R. 465 A tooth or auburn lock, and by d. T. i 133 The middle field; but scattered by d. T. i 293 But just d., an overhanging breadth T. iii 482 The licence of the lowest in d. T. iv 588 Procure him many a curse. By slow d. T. iv 635 He yet by slow d. puts off himself T. iv 637 Thus by d. self-cheated of their sound T. v 264 And wisely store the nursery by d. Tir. 117 May be as fervent in d. U. 9 On all around him; learned not by d. Y.O. 147

DEIFIED.

D. useless wood or senseless stone Ex. 238

DEIGN.

Scarce d. to notice him, or, if she see T. vi 942

DEIGNED.

T.T. 718

The flowers would spring where'er she d. to stray No pastime but with her he d. to take A.T. 17 Did not our hearts feel all He d. to say Con. 535 To Truth itself, that d. him no reply T. iii 271 Presents the prayer the Saviour d. to teach Tir. 123

DEIST.

There, and there only (though the d. rave P.E. 614 Where d., always foiled, yet scorn to yield T. 372

DEITY.

1 D. could solve. Their answers, vague T. ii 521 DEJECTED.

Bent knees, round shoulders, and d. looks T. iv 634

DELAY. rerleaning all

Nor stops, till, overleaping all d. Ch. 178
It suffers interruption and d. P.E. 442
Vociterous, and impatient of d. T. i 299
To his young hopes, requires discreet d. T. iii 504
And patient of the slow-paced swain's d. T. v 32
Its long d., feels every welcome stroke T. v 413
Thy saints proclaim thee king; and thy d. T. vi 864

DELAYED.

Our progress was often d. C. 11 D. not to bestow Cast. 28

DELEGATE.

Legates and d., with powers from hell Ex. 514 Whom once, as d. of God on earth T. vi 399 Seem with one voice to d. to you? Tir. 554

DELIBERATION.

With slow d. he unties Ch. 471 Of deep d., as the man T. iv 300 Whom care and cool d. suit Tir. 781

DELICACY.

To virtue, d., truth, or sense P.E. 513

DELICATE.

With feet too d. to touch the ground Ex. 52
To cover a pill for a d. palate F.M. 12
'Tis gentle, d., and kind M.F. 55
Caught in a d., soft, silken net P.E. 313
Sounds harshly in so d. an ear R. 250
"Oh what a d. retreat! R.C. 60
More d. his timorous mate retires T. 214
You think, perhaps, so d. his dress T. ii 625
His daily fare as d. Alas! T. ii 626
Lives by contriving d. for you) T. iii 546
Some act by the d. mind The Rose 14
Is so refined, and d. and chaste T.T. 511
So nice his ear, so d. his touch) T.T. 653
To the d. growth of our isle W.N. 2

DELICIOUS.

D., when her patriots of high note T. iv 170 The promise of d. fruit appears V. 52

DELIGHT.

The seaman, with sincere d. A Tale 57 A lasting, a sacred d. C. 40 But misery still d. to trace Cast. 59 And injured, makes forgiveness her d. Ch. 431 On all the wings of holiday d.) Ch. 548 What neither yields us profit nor d. Con. 241 That fills the listening lover with d. Con. 446 And, farewell else all hope of pure d. Con. 681 To mar d. superior to its own E. ii 34 That beams \hat{d} . ? a heart untaught to sigh ? Ep. i 6 In hopes of permanent d. F. 68Thy dear d. while here below F. 212 But that d, they never knew F.B. 11 If he wish to instruct, he must learn to d. F.M. 17 She holds a Paradise of rich d. H. 60 What treasures centre, what d., in thee H. 174 Nature indeed vouchsafes for our d. H. 487Of fools that hate thee and d. in sin H. 745 Seek to d., that they may mend mankind H. 758 To illumine with d. the saddest scenes J.T. 20 But thou canst taste no calm d. M.B. 17 That all the true d. of man Miss -I would not trust my heart—the dear d. M.P. 82 Me from my d. to sever N.C. 11 Such civil broils are my d. Pat. 17 Our dear d. are often such P.B. 29 Where'er he turns, enjoyment and d. P.E. 47 Hear him again. He calls it a d. P.E. 163 D. us, by engaging our respect P.E. 208 The centre of d. he may not taste? P.E. 230 D. like these, ye sensual and profane P.E. 263Called to the temple of impure d. P.E. 584 From all he sees he catches new d. R. 189Shall fill thee with d. unfelt before R. 360 Nature in every form inspires d. R. 417 D. the citizen, who gasping there R. 485 Yet neither these d., nor aught beside R. 743 In colour these, and those d. the smell R. 794 Puss with d. beyond expression R.C. 43

To make his precepts our d. St. vi 7Himself so much the source of his d. T. 413 D. us, happy to renounce awhile T. i 515 Thy simple fare, and all thy plain d. T. i 646 Of gratulation and d., her King? T. ii 84 Scenes such as these, 'tis bis supreme d. T. iii 306 D. which who would leave, that has a heart T. iii 322I crown thee king of intimate d. T. iv 139 Which seen d. him not; then coming home T. iv 236 Is still the livery she d, to wear T, iv 760 Freely and with d., who leaves us free T. \vee 334 Upon his heart-strings, trembling with d. T. v 414 Whom God d. in, and in whom He dwells T. v 778Made pure, shall relish with divine d. T. v 783 [328 When none pursues, through mere d. of heart T. vi Such recollection of our own d. Tir. 311 That scorn of all d, but those of sense Tir. 351 To lead his son, for prospects of d. Tir. 630 From vicious inmates and d. impure Tir. 892But still, while Virtue kindled his d. T.T. 598 And, dizzy with d., profaned the sacred wires T.T.607 To polish, furnish, and d. the mind T.T.645Mankind to share in the divine d. T.T. 753 D. in agitation, yet sustain Y.O.82Contemplating with small d. 1789, 24

DELIGHTED

D. with her babe, the enchantress smiled A.T. 9D. with my bauble coach, and wrapped M.P. 50 There, fast rooted in their bank T. i 166 And smiles d, with the eternal poise T, iv 486 DELIGHTFUL.

From side to side of her d. isle Ex. 3 And this d. earth, and that fair sky Ex. 638 Chilled more his else d. way Mor. 16 Come, peace of mind, d. guest! O. ii 1 "O most d. hour by man St. iii 1D. industry enjoyed at home T. iii 356 Calls the d. scenery all his own T. \checkmark 741

DELIGHTFULLY.

Hour after hour d. allot R. 373

DELINQUENT.

Shook the d, with such fits of awe T. ii 722 Denounce no doom on the d.? None T. vi 433

DELIRIOUS.

'Tis childish dotage, a d. dream! Ch. 417

DELIRIUM.

Intoxication and d. wild T. ii 510 Imposed a gay d, for a truth T, iv 528

DELIVERS.

Legends prolix d. in the ears S. i 2

DELIVERANCE.

The fast that wins d., and suspends Ex. 406 Shall he, for such d. freely wrought T. 191 The disappointed foe, d. found T. iv 186

DELIVERED.

Is note for note d. in our ears Con. 455 D. briefly thus his mind P.T. 22 But, once d_{\cdot} , kills them with a frown T_{\cdot} iii 438 Because d. down from sire to son T. v 303

DELIVERER.

"My dear d. out of hopeless night Ch. 234 Viewed a d. with disdain and hate Ex. 217 To the d. of an injured land T. iv 793

DELLS.

[253] Crooked or straight, through quags or thorny d. Tir.

DELUGE.

To let the military d. pass Ex. 60 These like a d, with impetuous force R. 77 From the dashed pane the d, as it falls T, iii 43 Beneath the dazzling d.; and the bents T. v 22 The d. washed it out; but left unquenched T. v

DELUGING.

Their ancient barriers, d. the dry? T. ii 56 Profusion, d. a state with lusts T. ii 688

Mere folly and d.—Sir, your toast H. 364 D. strong as Hell shall bind him fast P.E. 609 Each in his own d.; they are lost T. iii 125

DELUSIVE.

"Vain our d. hope of constant knights A.T. 100 There no d, hope invites despair P.E. 617 D. most where warmest wishes are T. i 542

DEMAGOGUE.

Close at his heels, a d. ascends T. iv 61

DEMAND.

Not only fills Necessity's d. Ch. 99 And give the strain the compass it d. Con. 718 He knows that God d. his heart entire Com. 759 And gives him all his just d. require Con. 760 D. one moment of thy fleeting time Ep. i 2 Or cool, as the season d. Gr. 38

What health and sober appetite d. H. 158Go now, and with important tone d. H. 528 The keen d. of appetite N.G. 6 Behold in these what leisure hours d. R. 701 The loud d., from year to year the same R. 709 The grain, or herb, or plant that each d. R. 788

High in d., though lowly in pretence T. 93 A soul redeemed d. a life of praise T. 279 More distant, and that prophecy d. T. ii 66 The adagio and andante it d. T. ii 361

Can lodge a heavenly mind—d. a doubt T. ii 462 All well repaid, d. him, he attends T. iii 398 The crowded roots d. enlargement now T. iii 532 Her cause d. the assistance of your throats T. iv 51

Might he d. them at the gates of death T. vi 45 So vast in its d., unless impell'd T. vi 218 The exalted prize d, an upward look Tir, 383 When health d. it, of athletic sort Tir. 653The bottomless d. of contest waged Y.O. 102

DEMANDING.

Not tire, d. rather skill than force T. iii 407 DEMEANOUR.

Hence a d. holy and unspecked T. 281 Some, decent in d. while they preach T. ii 440

DEMESNE. But that the lord of this enclosed d. T. i 331

To improve and cultivate their just d. T. v 226

DEMI-DEIFY.

They d. and fume him so T. v 266

DEMIGOD.

Surrounding throngs the d, revere T. 312

DEMON.

Where a D., her enemy, stood— M.D. 27 D. produced them doubtless, brazen-clawed N. 1.10 And fanged with brass the d. are abroad N.A. 102

Of d. uttered, from whatever lungs N.A. 118

DEMOSTHENES.

In him, D. was heard again T.T. 312

DEMURE.

bserve each face, how sober and d.! P.E. 135

DEN.

alls Nature from her ivy-mantled d. Ch. 95 and shut up every satyr in his d. Con. 38 rives to their d. the obedient beasts of prey R. 766 d. of mischiefs never to be told T. 392

DENIED.

he feels that frailty she d. so long Ch. 409
he cause is plain, and not to be d. Con. 159
! that earthly opulence they choose Ex. 458 hese, amidst scenes as waste as if d. H. 538
o dream all night of what the day d. T. i 671 le feels the anxieties of life, d. T. ii 302 happy! and, in my account, d. T. iv 357
ly the impure, and hears his power d. T. v 895
b, the endearments of thine eye The Doves, 35
lo prove a consequence by none d. Tir. 104
That Nature, alas! has d. W.N. 1

DENOMINATES.

). an itch for writing E. i 18

DENOTES.

The want of both d, a meaner breed H. 292

DENOUNCE.

D. no doom on the delinquent? None T. vi 433

DENOUNCING.

9. death upon the sins of man H. 512 that she is rigid in d. death T. i 732

DENSE.

mpelled through regions d. and rare O. i 15

DENY.

The danger they discern not, they d. Ch. 418 and while his tongue the charge d. H.F. 15 latched by the beams of truth, d. him rest P.E.240 seek that peace a tyrant's frown d. R. 770 shall fall on her, when Heaven d. it thee T. 512 the power that wields it. God proclaims T. ii 178 seed help, d. them nothing but his name. T. iv 423 b. thy Godhead with a martyr's zeal. T. vi 883

DEPART.

Distanced legions freely might d. Ch. 618 [785 Resighs, d., and leaves the accomplished plan T. iii Our more harmonious notes: the thrush d. T. i 767 That pressed the beach, and hasty to d. T. ii 118

DEPARTED.

And Heaven is all d. as a scroll H. 747

DEPARTING.

From the d., they are lost, and rove $T. \vee 898$

DEPARTURE.

Are but d. from the first design A.T. 50

DEPEND.

Yet much d., as in the tiller's toil Con. 5
While truths on which eternal things d. Ex. 117
And if the genuine worth of gold d. J.T. 27
And more laborious; cares on which d. T. iii 607
Baperior as we are, they yet d. T. vi 608
But truths on which d. our main concern Tir. 77
1. not much upon your golden dream Tir. 429 [857
Though much d. on what thy choice shall be Tir.
Thus happiness d., as Nature shows T.T. 246

DEPENDANT.

 $^{\prime D.}$ on the baker's punctual call T. i 244

DEPENDED.

If the matter d. alone upon me P.A. 37

DEPENDENCE.

Is what it was, d. upon Thee T. 584

DEPENDENT.

Fish up his dirty and d. bread T. iii 808 Thine helpless charge, d. on thy care T. iv 369 D. upon man; those in his fields T. vi 414

DEPENDING.

His legs d. at the open door T. i 93 With handkerchief in hand d. low T. ii 450 Thus all success d. on an ear T.T. 514

DEPICTED.

The pattern grows, the well d. flower T. iv 151

DEPLORE.

Youth lost in dissipation, we d. H. 23
Ten thousand swains the wasted scene d. Her. 39
D. the wasted regions of her globe Her. 80
Thee to d., were grief misspent indeed J.T. 11

DEPLORED.

And say;—"Blot out my sin, confessed, d. H. 592 But though I less d. thee ne'er forgot M.P. 45 And worse than all, and most to be d. T. ii 21 Works the d. and mischievous effect T. iv 616

DEPORTMENT.

Manly d., gallant, easy, gay H. 407 A just d., manners graced with ease P.E. 421 And quaint in its d. and attire T. ii 461

DEPOSIT.

A rich d., on the bordering lands Ch. 249 D. in those shallows all their spawn P.E. 479

DEPRAVED.

Against a heart d, and temper hurt Tir. 489

DEPRECIATES.

 $m{D}$. and undoes us in our own? $m{T}$. iii 284

DEPRIVED.

D. of her and freedom at a blow Ch. 149

DEPTH.

As men of d. in erudition use Ch. 392 The d., how awful! falling there, we burst N.A. 110 Of d. enough, and none to spare R. C. 41 To reach a d. profounder still, and still T. v 593

DERIDED

(Though Vice d. with a just design Ch. 487 And minds that deem d. pain a treat R. 310

DERIDING.

His road, d. much the blank amaze T. vi 536

DERISION

As move d., or by foppish airs T. ii 562 Grew tremulous, and moved d. more T. ii 729 Incurs d. for his easy faith T. v 500

DERIVE.

Daily d. increasing light and force Con. 697
From fading good d., with chemic art H. 159
Binds man, the lord of all. Himself d. T. i 386
D. from Heaven, pure as the fountain is T. vi 833
From which at least a grateful few d. T. vi 965
That man, the master of this globe d. Tw. 3

DERIVED.

D. from nature's noblest part E. i 13 With light d, from thee, would smother thine Ex.281

н 🧐

D. from the same source of light and grace T. 533 'Tis Liberty of Heart, d. from Heaven T. v 545 DESCANTS.

With merry d. on a nation's woes T. iv 77 DESCANTING.

D. on his fate Cast. 56

His sun precipitate d. Mor. 54 And calm d. to yours St. v 36 With youthful smiles, d. towards the grave T. i 407 While the winds whistle, and the snows d. T. iii 569 That seizes first the opulent, d. T. iv 583Shall visit earth in mercy; shall d. T. vi 743 DESCENDED.

The evening came, the sun d. R.C. 65

DESCENDING. Tis Heaven, all Heaven d. on the wings H. 732 Seem drops d. in a shower of light R. 350 Then swift d. with a seaman's haste R. 435 D. now (but cautious, lest too fast) T. i 266 D., and with never-ceasing lapse T. iv 327

Of his d. progeny was found \hat{T} . v 212 And when d. he resigns the skies Tir. 37

DESCRIBE. He reads wise lectures, and d. aloud Ch. 389

Hophni and Phineas may d. the rest Ex. 449 When Pope d. them, have a thousand sweets R.572Praise justly due to those that I d. T. i 180 Would I d. a preacher, such as Paul T. ii 395 A history: d. the man, of whom T. iii 141 Should seek the guiltless joys that I d. T. iii 698 D. and prints it, that the world may know T. iv 237 Point to the cure, d. a Saviour's cross Tw. 165

DESCRIED. As here and there a twinkling star d. Tir. 843 DESCRY.

The cause perhaps inquiry may d. Con. 363 By looking on the bud, d. E. i 70 Impatient to d. the flags of France Ex. 291 Endued with reason only to d. Tir. 61

Hail, honoured land! a d. where A Tale 65 Where seas or d. part them from the rest Ch. 20 Verse cannot stoop so low as thy d. Ex. 547 Well spake the prophet,—" Let the d. sing H. 524 The foes of man, or make a d. sweet R. 782 Or curse the d. with a tenfold dearth? T. 182 D. their office; and themselves intent T. iv 589 (As if barbarity were high d.) T. vi 435 Man praises man. D. in arts or arms T. vi 632

DESERT.

Must shine by true d., or not at all Tir. 357 Weigh, for a moment, classical d. Tir. 488 If thou d. thy charge, and throw it wide Tir. 887 Stands in the d. shivering and forlorn T.T. 724 DESERTED.

... D. and his friends so nigh Cast. 36 D. of its bloom, the flaccid, shrunk T. i 392 DESERVE.

> Those Christians best d, the name N.G. 35 D. not, if so soon offended P. 43 I should d. to forfeit all applause) P.E. 511 D. to be beloved, but not adored R. 272 Can life in them d. the name St. vi 13 What shall the man d. of human kind T. 429 And 'tis but seemly, that where all d. T. ii 71

Exposed to manacles, d. them well T. v 368 D, at least applause for her attempt T. v 369 Bled nobly, and their deeds, as they d. T. v 705 His steeds, usurp a place they well d. T. vi 703 Be it a weakness, it d. some praise Tir. 296 Should move a sneer at thy d. fame Tir. 142

The great and small d. one common blame Tir. 51 D. an answer similar, or none Tir. 904

Whose worth d, as warm a lay U, 3

DESERVED.

And having well d., expects the worst T. 266 Of academic fame (howe'er d.) T. iii 15 The death he had d, and died alone T, vi 556 DESERVEDLY.

Who scorns it, starves d, at home T, i 435

DESERVEST. Thou well d. an alienated son Tir. 579

DESERVING. Or if, d. of a better doom Con. 413 Because d., silently retire T. iv 419 Then most d, in their own account T. v 261

D. honour, but for wisdom more T. vi 491 Are but departures from the first d. A.T. 50

DESIGN.

(Though Vice derided with a just d. Ch. 487 And one in heart, in interest, and d. Con. 701 As smiths or joiners perfect a d. Con. 790 Is made subservient to the grand d. Con. 897 Tis not that I d, to rob E, iv 1 Stiff in the letter, lax in the d. Ex. 125 He first conceives, then perfects his d. Ex. 318 Hast thou, by statute, shoved from its d. Ez. 376 And farther still the formed and fixed d. Ez. 429 His creature thwart not his august d. H. 142 By this, with nice precision of d. H. 606 Fancy may stand aloof from the d. H. 672Phœbus, if such be thy d. O. i 25 It falls at last, far wide of his d. P.E. 575 The birds conceiving a d. P.T. 11 In aid of her d. Q.V. 34 To trace in Nature's most minute d. R. 53 Manly d., and learning's grave pursuits R. 242

And such as, in the zeal of good d. R. 697 Pride above all opposes her d. T. 474 Dull in d., and clumsy to perform T. i 18 His master-strokes, and draw from his d. T. ii 39 The threads of politic and shrewd d. T. iii 147 Conspiring, may attest his bright d. T. iii 654 To grace the full pavilion. His d. T. iii 716 D. the blooming wonders of the next T. vi 197 Whose work is without labour; whose d. T. vi 2 Where cruel man defeats not her d. T. vi 343 Much less might serve, when all that we d. T. vi 6-

Conspire against thy peace with one d. R. 262

Stark naught, because corrupt in their d. T. T. 4 Distorted from its use and just d. T.T. 754 DESIGNATION.

To want of judgment than to wrong d. T. vi 657

The father, who d. his babe a priest Tir. 364

If, therefore, e'en when honest in d. Tir. 452

Ah, happy d., prudent choice Tir. 342 With d. of the finger's end Tir. 641

D. to sit close to it just like a saddle A.C. 16 Again—the band of commerce was d. Ch. 83 Let just Restraint, for public peace d. Ch. 286 The melody that was at first d. Con. 453 And touch the subject I d. at first Con. 868 A coin by Craft for Folly's use d. E. ii 7 In pity to the souls his Grace d. E. ii 23 at if a sweeter voice, and one d. Ex. 726 ., in honour of his endless love H. 121 he seemed d. for Flora's hand L.R. 15 y bounteous heaven d. Miss - 2 nd sense of having well d. Mor. 52 hat heralds ere d. Q. V. 24 ben he d. a Paradise below R. 270 aster of all the enjoyments he d. R. 427 s they d. to mock me, at my side T. v 17 by loud declaimers on the part T. v 498 f such a gulf as he d. his grave T. vi 515 ho, when she form'd, d. them an abode T. vi 580 nd all the plan their destiny d. Tir. 86 alfil the purpose, and appear d. Tir. 93 ade just the adept you d. your son Tir. 237 or taint his speech with meannesses d. Tir. 686 by Nature wise, but self-made fools Tir. 837 hus with a rigour, for his good d. T.T. 216 thy cradle; and a skipping deer Y.O. 25

DESIGNER.

int though we praise the exact d.'s skill Ch. 555 close d. not to be believed Con. 477

DESIGNING.

What Atheists call him, a d. knave P.E. 108 to I, d. other themes, and called T. iii. 11 and still d. a more glorious far T. v 564

DESIRABLE.

fot e'en the sun, d. as rare H. 505 in so d. an end Mor. 34

DESIRE.

lone, prompt me with benevolent d. Ch. 11 ind, in the glow of her intense d. Ch. 402 found him as prompt, as their d. was true Con. 545 Their hopes, d., and purposes estranged Con. 725 and while it shows the land the soul d. Con. 885 It. in his words who damned the base d. Ex. 422Which make that Heaven, if thou d. it thine Ex.687They drop through mere d. to prate F. 71 and Dick felt some d. F.B. 15 Renewed d. would grace with other speech H. 35. Man feels the spur of passions and d. H. 55Avarice in thee was the d. of wealth J.T. 25 Which breathes the low d. Miss — 10 To thy whole heart's d.? N.Y.G. 12 Consumes his soul with vain d. P.B. 16 The world around solicits his d. P.E. 39 Who, kindling a combustion of d. P.E. 319 Of pride, ambition, or impure d. R. 110 Genius, and temper, and d of rest R. 172 We meet at last in one sincere d. R. 389Give e'en a dunce the employment he d. R. 613 With visions prompted by intense d. T. i 451 Yet thousands still d. to journey on T. i 470 D of more; and industry in some T. v 225 "Love kindles as I gaze. I feel d. T. v 842
With what intense d. he wants his home Tir. 562 Who, wise yourselves, d. your sons should learn Tir. Thou hast all thine heart's d. Tran. iii 16 [811

DESIRED.

The good so long d. A Tale 24
As hermit could have well d. Mor. 4
Seems so to be d., perhaps I might M.P. 83
From objects too much dreaded or d. R. 144
The dawn of thy last advent, long d. T. vi 866

DESIRING.

And shines without d. to be seen T. 70

DESIROUS.

No Papist more d. to compound T. 291 D. to return, and not received T. iii 81.

DESK.

"Ye groves" (the statesman at his d. exclaims R. 365 Sweet sleep enjoys the curate in his d. T. i 94 Nor sleep enjoyed by curate in his d. T. i 100

DESOLATE

Convey to this d. shore A.S. 34 And d. a nation at a blast T. ii 188 And regions long since d., proclaim T.T. 431

DESOLATED.

Rolled over all our d. land Ch. 76

DESOLATING.

Abroad, and d. public life T. iii 683

DESPAIR.

Soon hurries me back to d. A.S. 48Supported by d. of life Cast. 18 For merchants rich in cargoes of d. Ch. 138 By lean d, upon an empty purse Ch, 506 Is yet no subject of d. F. 32 Closing at last in darkness and d. H. 6 Hollow-eyed Abstinence, and lean D. H. 58 Life without hope can close but in d. H. 274 All hope d., that stands not on his cross H. 632 And harder still as learnt beneath d. H. 697 That Hope which can alone exclude d. H. 751 Or blade that might redeem it from d. Her. 23 Like trout pursued, the critic in d. P.E. 502 There no delusive hope invites d. P.E. 617 And weeps a sad libation in d. R. 226The prospect, such as might enchant d. R. 469 And must d. to pay $St. \nabla 32$ Of old achievements, and d. of new T. ii 254 Then shake them in d., and dance again T. ii 666 Ye dungeons and ye cages of d. T. v 385 "So strict, that less than perfect must d.? T. v 641 Of lust, and on the anvil of d. T. v 685 We could not teach, and must d. to learn T. vi 620 Promise a work of which they must d. Tir. 264 When Freedom, wounded almost to d. T.T. 196

DESPAIRING.

Whom now d. agonies destroy H. 172 As midnight, and d. of a morn J.T. 22 Plunging, and half d. of escape T. iii 6

DESPATCHED.

The mind d. upon her busy toil Con. 437

DESPERATE.

I give him over as a d. case Con. 406 Beware of d. steps. The darkest day N.A. 132 'Tis d., and he sleeps the sleep of death T. v 669 As if their duty were a d. task T.T. 313 D. attempt, till trees shall speak again! Y.O. 49

DESPERATION.

Flash d., and betray their pangs T. i 502

DESPISE.

Thou that hast wasted earth, and dared d. Ch. 69
As to d. the glory of our kind Con. 258
Ten thousand charms, that only fools d. H. 51
What they themselves, without remorse, d. H. 253
D. his bulwarks, and unpeople earth R. 72
D. the plain direction, and are lost T. 33
The favoured few—the enthusiasts you d. T. 231

DESPISED.

Patron of else the most d. of men Ch. 290

Pleasure o'ervalued, and his grace d. Ex. 252 And tells of laws d., at least not kept H. 220 Thy means so feeble, and d. so much H. 666 Souls that have long d, their heavenly birth R. 35 Shall be d, and overlooked no more R. 359 But which the poor, and the d. of all T. iii 287 Insipid else, and sure to be d. T. vi 1016 I name thee not, lest so d. a name Tir. 141 While morals languish, a d. concern Tir. 514 D. by thee, what more can he expect Tir. 712 See womanhood d., and manhood shamed Tir. 827 Will be d. and trampled on at last T.T. 897 DESPISING. D. all rebuke, still persevered Ex. 397

O long d., but now victorious host T.T. 473

DESPOND. And I can weep, can hope, and can d. T. iii 841 DESPONDENCE.

D., self-deserted in her grief R. 757 Nor is it yet d. and dismay T.T. 410

DESPOT. A d. big with power obtained by wealth Ex.370Should be a d. absolute, and boast T. v 311

DESPOTISM. As well be yoked by D.'s hand T.T. 258

And d. all the treasure there A Fable 26

DESSERTS.

What, give up our d., our coffee, and tea! P.A. 8 DESTINED.

Not d. to my tooth B.R. 18 When such a d. wretch as I Cast. 3 Intent upon her d. course Comp. ii 6 At length his d. moment to be born ? F.A. 26 Through the ripe harvest lies their d. road Her. 54 Not blind by choice, but d. not to see T. 530 Full on the d. ear. Wide flies the chaff T. i 359 Heaven-born, and d. to the skies again T. iii 50 Admirers, and be d. to divide T. iii 726 Is to conduct it to the d. inn T. iv 10

Its d, goal of difficult access T, vi 277 Its d. office, yet with gentle stroke T. vi 1003

DESTINES. And d. their bright genius to be shown Tir. 336 DESTINY.

His d. repelled Cast. 40 For which, alas! my d. severe N.A. 27 And D., that sometimes bears P.T. 47 And all the plan their d. design'd Tir. 86 DESTITUTE.

No, wrangler,—d. of shame and sense P.E. 235 For their support, so d. But they T. iv 455 And d, of means to raise themselves T, v 248

DESTROY. That thankless waste and wild abuse d. Ex. 679

Whom now despairing agonies d. H. 172Whose fruit, though fair, tempts only to d. P.E. 238Thus man devotes his brother and d. T. ii 20 Let slip with such a warrant to d. T. ii 54 Adored through fear, strong only to d. T. v 445 [322 When the rude rabble's watchword was—"D.!" T.T.

D. them—skies uncertain, now the heat Y.O. 74

DESTROYED.

For them, the states to which they went d. Ex. 176 Destruction, with a zeal to be d. T. vi 526 [303 Though mangled, hacked, and hewed, not yet d. Tir. What is all righteousness that men d. T. 75

DESTROYER.

For Time, the d. declared Gr. 45 To prove you their d., as ye are Her. 82

DESTRUCTION.

Though at their own d. She that asks T. ii 642 D., with a zeal to be destroyed T. vi 523

DESTRUCTIVE. Well does the work of his d. scythe T. iv 223

DESULTORY.

Of d. man, studious of change T. i 507

DETACH.

D. the soul from earth, and speed her to the skies P.

DETACHED. Must be d., and where it strews the floor T. iii 61

D. their adolescent charge too long Tir. 219 DETAINED.

DETAIN.

Struggling, d. in many a petty nook N.A. 40 "As one who long d. on foreign shores T. v 832

Undazzled, and d. and counts his spots ? T. i 714

But soon, alas! d. the rash mistake V. 55 DETECTED.

What shifts he used, d. in a scrape Tir. 328

DETERMINED. D., and possessing it at last T. iv 720

DETEST. For scorning what they taught him to d. Ch. 56

To thrust the charge of deeds that I d. Ex. 430 Hypocrisy, d. her as we may T. iii 100 DETESTED.

And clamours of the field? D. sport T. iii 326

DETHRONED. And seems d, and vanquished. Peace ensues T. v &

DEVASTATION.

Havoc and d. in the van Her. 21 DEVIATIONS.

The needle's d. too F. 113 DEVICES.

With shallow shifts and old d., worn T. \forall 632

DEVIL. A mere disguise, in which a d. lurks Con. 79

A d.'s purpose with an angel's face T.T. 136 DEVILISH.

Than cruelty, most d. of them all T. vi 594

DEVIOUS.

Are altogether gone a d. course Ex. 463 Me howling blasts drive d., tempest-tossed M.P. 10 Or lead him d. from the path of truth P.E. 60 His d. course uncertain, seeking home T. iii 3 Or drive it d. with a dexterous pat Tir. 309

DEVISE.

That earth has seen, or fancy can d. Ch. 255 And tricks and turns that fancy may d. Ez. 137 "The sanguinary schemes that some d. H. 382 And place, instead of quirks themselves d. H. 629 More hideous foes than fancy can d. R. 68

)., while he guards his tender trust T. iii 561 hat babblers, called philosophers, d. Tir. 158

DEVISED.

! by self to answer selfish ends T. 110
! the Weatherhouse, that useful toy! T. 211
leard the sweet mean with pity, and d. T. i 74

DEVOTE

farms engage him, he d. to sport H. 207 hat he d. not with a zeal like theirs R. 222
boms and d. him as his lawful prey T. ii 15
hus man d. his brother, and destroys T. ii 20
'or second childhood; and d. old age T. ii 637 and whether I d. thy gentle hours T. iv 261

THE TOTAL

iot that his hours d. all to care H. 57 if card d. Time, and night by night T. iv 229 cor England! thou art a d. deér T.T. 362

DEVOTEES.

le d. to your adored employ P.E. 75

DEVOTION.

Supplied such relics as d. holds T. vi 689

DEVOUR.

M nations, sworn to spoil thee and d. Ex. 703 And worry and d. each other N.G. 30 Reedless, and first torments ere he d. T. vi 396

DEVOURING.

Thunder, and earthquake, and d. flame T. 548

DEVOUT.

Who though d., yet bigotry had none Con. 68 The priestly brotherhood, d., sincere Ex. 438 With academic dignity d. H. 106 Adores a creature, and d. in vain R. 227 Skilful alike to seem d. and just R. 689

DEW.

Thy lips have shed instruction as the d. Ch. 238
80 once in Gideon's fleece the d. were found E. ii 49
Whose foot ne'er tainted morning d. Ep. ii 3
The d. condensed into angelic food Ex. 182
My drink the morning d. G. 3
Why falls the Gospel like a gracious d.? T. 180
That dries his feathers, saturate with d. T. i 494
Has flowed from lips wet with Castalian d. T. iii 251
Nectareous essences, Olympian d. T. iv 83
To sweep away the d. T.B. 18
Till Autumn's fiercer heats and plenteous d. Tir. 47
Let laurels drenched in pure Parnassian d. T.T. 13

DEWDROP

D. may deck the turf that hides the bones St. ii 31 With slipshod heels, and d. at his nose T. 144

DEWY

That murmurs through the d. mead O. ii 16
Hark! how it floats upon the d. air! P.E. 63
Lis cooling vapour o'er the d. meads R. 422
Prolific, and the lime at d. eve T. i 316
The cheering fragrance of her d. vales T. i 429
And fast condensed upon the d. sash T. iii 496
The dancing Naiads through the d. meads T.T. 693

DEXTEROUS.

And with a d. jerk soon twists him down T. iv 62 Or drive it devious with a d. pat Tir. 309

DIADEM.

Thy d. displaced, thy sceptre gone Ex. 258

The crescent moon, the d. of night R. 82 God set the d. upon his head T. vi 351 The d., with mighty projects lined T.T. 59

DIAL

Like figures drawn upon a d. plate Con. 380

DIALOGUE.

And snappish d., that flippant wits T. iv 198

DIAMOND.

As d., stripped of their opaque disguise Ch. 397 As with the d. on his lily hand T. ii 424 With spots quadrangular of d. form T. iv 217

DIAN.

"By D.'s beams," Sir Marmadan exclaimed A.T. 187

DIANAS.

Nymphs were D, then, and swains had hearts T. iv

DIARY.

An extract of his d., -no more Con. 275

DIBBLING.

With pointed hoof d, the glebe prepared Y.O. 26

DICE.

Γ171

Cards with what rapture, and the polished d. P.E. Owes all its weight, like loaded d. to lead Con. 302

DICEBOX.

Becomes a d., and a billiard mace T. iv 221

DICK.

And D. felt some desires F.B. 15 And D., although his way was clear F.B. 22 My dear D. Redcap, what say you? P.T. 37 D. heard, and tweedling, ogling, bridling P.T. 38 There waiter D., with bacchanalian lays Tir. 214

DICTATE.

How slow to learn the d. of his love E. ii 20
Of all that Wisdom d. this the drift T. 513
[418
Is Nature's d. Strange! there should be found T. i
That his own humour d., from the clutch T. v 317
For since (so fashion d.) all, who claim Tir. 690

DIE.

Clean, candid, and witty—Thelypthora d. A.T. iv 2 Or courage d. away Cast. 16 Yet bitter felt it still to d. Cast. 35 Grown dim in trifling studies, blind he d. Ch. 358 Laugh at their only remedy, and d. Ch. 419 But if she touch a character, it d. Ch. 456 But being tied, it d. upon the lip Con. 355 Above all else, and wondered He should d. Con. 520 The stench remains, the lustre d. away Con. 678 That sick, she trembles, knowing she must d. Con. 773 His manna from the ground, or starve and d. F. A. 38D. of disdain, or whistle off the sound H. 348 [H. 260] They d.—Death lends them, pleased, and as in sport D. when he might, he must be damned at last H.569Shoots back the bolt, and all his courage d. H. 721 And glory for the virtuous when they d. J.T. 14 I saw him both sicken and d. M.D. 37 Leaps every fence but one, there falls and d. P.E. 93But know, the law that bids the drunkard d. P.E. 199 He d. disputing, and the contest ends P.E. 553 D. then, if power Almighty save you not P.E. 589 And having lived a trifler, d. a man R. 14 Tickle and entertain us, or we d. R. 708 Where all good qualities grow sick and d. R. 738

D. self-accused of life run all to waste? St. ii 28 [ii 6 On which the press might stamp him next to d. St. Though 'tis his privilege to d. St. v 3 With life that cannot d. St. vi 32 Make us learn that we must d. St. vi 36 Pants for it, aims at it, enters it, and d. T. 6 Far distant, such as he would d. to find T. i 453 They love it, and yet loathe it; fear to d. T. i 485 And at his feet the baffled billows d. T. i 525 The rivers d into offensive pools T, ii 96 Life's necessary means, but he must d. T. ii 141 Or heedless folly, by which thousands d. T. iii 219 It is a flame that d. not even there T. iv 743 As instinct prompts; self-buried ere they d. T. v 88A splendid opportunity to d. P T. v 320 D. too: the deep foundations that we lay T. v 532And, ere one flowery season fades and d. T. vi 196 To the far distant goal, arrives and d. T. vi 430 The chamber, or refectory, may d. T. vi 572 And useless while he lives, and when he d. Tir. 71 Would d. at last in comfort, peace, and joy Tir. 150 The meteor of the gospel d. away Tir. 190 Poor Poll is like to d.! Tran. iv 30 Brings colours dipped in Heaven that never d. T.T. They trust in armies, and their courage d. T.T. 468 As one at point to d. Y.D. 10

DIED.

Rushed to battle, fought, and d. B: 39 [Con. 323 They thought they must have d., they were so bad D. by the sentence of a shaven priest Ch. 55 Soon after He that was our surety d. Con. 506 [625 Their streaming hearts poured freely when they d.Ex.Had Paul of Tarsus lived and d. a Jew H. 257 Bled, groaned, and agonized and d. in vain P.E. 624 Lived long, wrote much, laughed heartily and d.T.307With one who left her, went to sea, and d. T. i 533 O'erlooked and unemployed, fell sick, and d. T. ii 733 Saved him, or the unrelenting seer had d. T. vi 471 The death he had deserved, and d. alone T. vi 556 The cruel death he d. T.B. 66Storks among frogs, that have but croaked and d Tells of a few stout hearts that fought and d. T.T. 23 And the last left the scene when Chatham d. T.T. 339Though the chief actor d. upon the stage T.T. 341 That he who d. below, and reigns above T.T. 738

DIET.

His d. was of wheaten bread Ep. ii 13
In lighter d. at a later hour Ex. 403
Of loathsome d., penury, and cold T. i 591
He gulps the windy d.; and ere long T. v 269
To improve this d., at no great expense Tir. 629
Prevented much by d. neat and plain Tir. 767
Change is the d. on which all subsist Y.O. 72

DIFFER.

But friends that chance to d. F. 135 Skins may d., but affection N.C. 15 Your sentence and mine d. What's a name f T. 107

DIFFERENCE.

A d. strikes at length the musing heart Comp. i 8 But here alas! the fatal d. lies H. 282 The d., though essential, fails to strike P.E. 204 Mark now the d., ye that boast your love T. v 346 The d. of a Guido from a daub T. vi 285

DIFFERENT.

Seem to reflection of a d. race Ex. 619 Thus things terrestial wear a d. hue H. 69 Through mere good fortune, took a d. course N. A. 123 With colours mixed for a far d. use T. iv 240 To join a traveller, of far d. note T. vi 489 New situations give a d. cast Tir. 440 D. in size, but in effect the same Tir. 516

DIFFERING.

D. in language, manners, or in face, Ch. 21 And d. judgments serve but to declare H. 423 Adorns, though d. in its kind U. 15

DIFFICULT.

So dimly writ, or d. to spell Ez. 311
So d. to spell Q. V. 50
A life of ease a d. pursuit R. 631
Though apt, yet coy, and d. to win T. ii 233
Its destined goal of d. access T. vi 277
Is d., their punishment obscene Tir. 221
Armed for a work too d. for thee Tir. 677

DIFFICULTY.

Gives d. all the grace of ease Ch. 110 No flaw deforms, no d. thwarts T. vi 229 But d. soon abate Tran. iv. 40

DIFFIDENT.

Affable, humble, d., and mild P.E. 537

DIFFUSE.

But groves, hills, and valleys d. C. 39 Thy fame d., praised not for utterance meet S. i 13

DIFFUSED.

That good d. may more abundant grow Con. 443 'Tis more—'tis God d. through every part H. 734 D., make Earth the vestibule of Hell P.E. 465 D., attain the surface; when, behold! T. iii 433 Some clothe the soil that feeds them, far d. T. iii 651 The Lordof all, himself through all d. T. vi 221

DIFFUSING.

D. odours; nor unnoted pass T. i 317 And, common sense d. real day Tir. 189

DIG.

If I survive thee, I will d. thy grave T. iii 349 Can d., beg, rot, and perish, well content T. iii 800 DIGEST.

Mysteries are food for angels; they d. F.A. 35 Or turn to nourishment, d. well T. iii 396 But wholesome, well d.; grateful some T. vi 1014

DIGNIFIED.

On man's most d. and happiest state Ch. 2 Now tell me, d. and sapient sir T. ii 531 So d., that she was hardly less T. iv 537 Had not its author d. the plan Tir. 51

DIGNITY.

Named with emphatic d., "The Tower" Ch. 550 In form a man, in d. a God Ex. 86 With academic d. devout H. 106 With all Elijah's d. of tone H. 624 Attain not to the d. of thought R. 640 "I am all splendour, d., and grace!" T. 65 By wealth or d., who dwells secure T. i 593 Paternal sweetness, d., and love T. ii 708 Of honour, d., and fair renown! T. iii 59 But d.'s, resentful of the wrong T. iii 79 To monarchs d.; to judges sense V. iv 796 Fortune and d.; the loss of all T. v 602 Strength joined with beauty, d. with grace Tir. 2 See wealth abused, and d. misplaced Tir. 815Lifted at length by d. of thought T.T. 676 Your senatorial d. of face V. 11

DIGRESS.

Beyond the example of our sires d. Con. 792

DIGRESSION.

), is so much in modern use Con. 855

DILATED.

lis whispered theme, d: and at large Con. 273

DILATES.

and what d. the powers must needs refine Ch. 332 DILIGENCE.

Subordinate, and d. was choice T. ii 716

DILIGENT.

Where, d. to catch the first faint gleam T. v 59

DIM.

And Hymen, trimming his d. torch anew A.T. 201 Grown d. in trifler studies, blind he dies Ch. 358 Their views, indeed, were indistinct and d. Con. 539 Review thy d. original and prime Ex. 467 With mournful scutcheons, and d. lamps between H. Soon watery grew her eyes and d. Q.V. 53 And sees, by no fallacious light or d. R. 115 Seen in the d. horizon, turns thee pale T. i 667 And Nature with a d. and sickly eye T. ii 64 Man made for kings! those optics are but d. T.T. 55

DIMENSIONS.

Within the small d. of a point R. 58

DIMINISHED.

The sturdy swain d. to a boy! T. i 162

DIMINUTIVE.

D., well filled with well-prepared T. iii 513

DIMLY.

So d. writ, or difficult to spell Ex. 311 How d. seen, how faintly understood! R. 88

DIMNESS.

D. and anguish, all thy beams obscured Ex. 393

DIM-SIGHTED.

For our d. observation E. i 86

For thou wast born amid the d. of arms Er. 472 For all the savage d. of the swift pack T. iii 325

if wife should d, at Edmonton J.G. 195 And I should d. at Ware " J.G. 196 "l am in haste to d. J.G. 198

A man o' the town d. late, but soon enough T. ii 622

DINGLEDERRY.

All Kilwick and all D. rang N.A. 36

DINNER.

"The d. waits, and we are tired" J.G. 147 The d. served, Charles takes his usual stand T. 213 The d. comes, and down they sit Y.D. 37

By d. of change to give his tasteless task T. v 429 And d. of genius, to an affluent lot T.T. 677

Suppose the beam should d, on the wrong side H. 374 No crested warrior d. his plume in blood Her. 86 He d. his bowl into the weedy ditch T. i 241 We pass a gulf in which the willows d. T. i 268

DIPPED.

And e'en the d. and sprinkled live in peace Ch. 609 By an oath d. in sacramental blood? Ex. 38

D. in the fountain of eternal love T. vi 863 Brings colours d. in Heaven, that never die T.T.703

The d. effect of mercy without price H. 496 D. disappointment that admits no cure T. iii 557 D. is the frequent curse, and its twin sound T. iv 487

Anticipate perforce some d. event T. v 524 D. foe alike of bird and mouse T.B. 20

(A. d. effect, by one of Nature's laws T.T. 442

D. us in our distant road E. i 37

D. thee to that eminence they reached Ex. 657 Paul should himself d. me. I would trace T. ii 397 So did not Paul. D. me to a quip T. ii 472

Nor does he govern only, or d. T. iii 403 Skill to d., and strength to strike the blow T.T. 357

DIRECTED.

They breathed in faith their well d. prayers Ex. 239 Yet, by his ear d., guessed R.C. 83

They take perhaps a well d. aim T.T. 206

DIRECTING.

Pursue the track of his d. wand T. iii 777 DIRECTION.

Despise the plain d., and are lost T. 33 In all d., he begins again—T. \vee 431 And just d. sacred, to a thing T. vi 713

D. to the First and Only Fair T. v 675

DIREST.

DIRECTLY.

And gives his d. foe a friend's embrace T. ii 270

DIRT.

"But let me scrape the d. away J.G. 189 DIRTY.

Fish up his d, and dependent bread T, iii 808 DISABUSED.

At once the dreaming mind is d. Tir. 90

DISAGREE.

On Scripture ground are sure to d. H. 599If flowers can d.? L.R. 4

DISAPPEAR.

Vines, olives, herbage, forests d. Her. 23 As duly as the swallows d. T. iii 814 Which d. by day Tran. i 4

DISAPPOINT.

That may disgrace his art, or d. T. iii 422 And d, the roots; the slender roots T, iii 611 Whose frown can d, the proudest strain T, vi 1023

DISAPPOINTED

And d. still, was still deceived M.P. 39 Sick of a thousand d. aims) R. 366 And still are d. Rings the world T. iii 129 The d. foe, deliverance found T. iv 186

DISAPPOINTMENT.

But when unpacked your d. groans Con. 309 With d. lowering in his eyes H. 2 Man's d. must of course ensue H. 132 And d. all the fruit P.B. 18 Dire d. that admits no cure T. iii 557 A d. waits him even there Tir. 566 Hook d. on the public wheels T.T. 146

DISARMS.

His grief the world of all her power d. H. 704 Yet let a poet (Poetry d. R. 253

DISASTROUS.

Fulfilled their tardy and d. course T. vi 735 DISBANDED.

D. legions freely might depart Ch. 618

DISCARD.

And studious of mutation still, d. T. ii 610

DISCARDED.

And gods and goddesses d. long Con. 819

DISCERN.

The danger they d. not, they deny Ch. 418
Nor carp at every flaw you may d. Con. 92
D. a rival in a friend F. 83
Then might all people well d. J.G. 105
D. the fraud beneath the specious lure P.E. 17
Where children would with ease d. the way P.E. 434
But if the wanderer his mistake d. P.E. 610
Their real interest to d. N.G. 28
If, ere we yet d. life's evening star R. 46
We may d. the thresher at his task T. i 356
That all d. a beatuy in his works T. iv 739
D. in all things what, with stupid gaze T. v 808
And soothed into a dream that he d. T. vi 284

DISCERNED.

The floating wreath again d. D.W. 31 Have not, it seems, d. it F. 210 Thence with what pleasure have we just d. T. i 159

DISCERNING.

So famed for his talent in nicely d. A.C. 8
True Modesty is a d. grace Con. 373
As once absurd in all d. eyes Con. 806
A Bee of most d. taste P.B. 3
But chosen with a nice d. taste R. 726
Such rhapsodies our shrewd d. youth Tir. 191

DISCERNMENT.

The World grown old her deep d. shows Con. 741 Grant me d., and I grant it you P.E. 535 Immortal Hale! for deep d. praised T. iii 258 And read with such d., in the port T. vi 617 D., Eloquence, and Grace Th. 9

DISCHARGE.

Is to d, the duties of his sphere H. 400 D, but these kind offices, (and who T. iii 618

DISCHARGED.

What wonder, if d. into the world T. ii 806

DISCIPLINE.

And without d. the favourite child P.E. 361
That she is slack in d.; more prompt T. i 730
That fear no d. of human hands T. ii 325
Of holy d., to glorious war T. ii 348
There dwelt a sage called D. His head T. ii 702
But D., a faithful servant long T. ii 725
Their good old friend, and D. at length T. ii 732
And thou hast need of d. and art T. v 467
No meaner hand may d. the shoots T. iii 413
Schools, unless d. were doubly strong Tir. 218
If you can crown a d., that draws Tir. 493
The force of d. when backed by love Tir. 681
Let D. employ her wholesome arts T.T. 310
Where D. helps opening buds of sense T.T. 508

DISCIPLINED.

Well born, well d., who, placed apart R. 727 In verse well d., complete, compact T.T. 647

DISCLAIM.

Woe to the man whose wit d, its use R, 211

For what poor toys they can d. St. vi 15 Else his own glorious rights He would d. T. 555

DISCLAIMING.

And Truth d. both; and thus they spend T. iii 16 Their nature; and, d. all regard T. iv 679

DISCLOSE

O Nature! whose Elysian scenes d. R. 199
That trust them, and in the end d. a face T. ii 693
Her veil opaque, d. with a smile T. v 892.

DISCLOSED.

Of hearts in union mutually d. Con. 680. To exhibit, in full bloom d. F. 44

DISCLOSING.

D. Paradise where'er He treads? T. ii 87

DISCOMFITED. And sore d., from slough to slough T. iii 5

DISCOMPOSE.
Shall drench again or d. Mrs. M-17

DISCONCERT.

To d. what Policy has planned Ex. 299

DISCONTENT.

Serves merely as a soil for d. H. 97
Must cause him shame or d. Mor. 46
Murmuring and ungrateful D.—R. 759
In repining d. Tran. iii 30
Though D. alone can find out where T.T. 197

And fill with d. a British isle T.T. 253

DISCONTENTED.

With aching heart, and d. looks R. 471

DISCORD.

Yield only d. in his Maker's ear T. 386 Fell D., arbitress of such debate T. iv 482

DISCORDANT.

D. atoms meet, ferment, and fight Ex. 297
D. motives in one centre meet R. 173
Of homogeneal and d. springs T. ii 190
No passion touches a d. string T. vi 787

DISCOURSE.

Whatever subject occupy d. Con. 57
D. may want an animated—No Con. 101
Of wise reflection and well timed d. Con. 388
D., as if released and safe at home Con. 571
To hold d., at least in fable P.T. 4
D. ensues, not trivial, yet not dull T. iv 174
(As often as libidinous d. T. v 660
So on they fared. D. on other themes T. vi 539
Na jester, and yet lively in d. Tir. 668
Foul with excess, and with d. obscene Tir. 736.
Myself the oracle, and will d. Y.O. 142

DISCOVER.

D. huge cathedrals built with stone P.E. 381 That fools d. it, and stray no more T. ii 530 Of Observation, and d., else T. iii 231 D. him that rules them; such a veil T. iii 233 D. countries, with a kindral heart T. iv 116

DISCOVERER.

D. of they know not what, confined P.E. 476

DISCOVERING.

D. much the temper of her sire T. iii 434

DISCOVERY.

Enriched with the d. ye have made R. 666 The task of new d. falls on me T. 218 Thou fool! Will thy d. of the cause T. ii 196 And pregnant with d. new and rare T. iii 138 The eyesight of D.; and begets T. v 452 Then spread the rich d., and invite T.T. 752

DISCREDITS.

The noblest function, and d. much T. ii 554
DISCREET.

And she may now be as d. and wise Con. 805 Yet was thy liberality d. J.T. 35 But more d. than he a Cambrian ewe N.A. 106 To his young hopes, requires d. delay T. iii 504 DISCREETLY.

Reply d.—" To be sure—no doubt!" Con. 118 D. limited to two at most Tir. 770

DISCRETION.

And Dullness of D.—F. 6

DISCRIMINATE.

And could d. and argue well T. v 289 DISCRIMINATED.

D. each from each, by strokes T. iv 735 DISCRIMINATING.

That souls have no d. hue Ch. 202

DISCUSS.

And without this, whatever he d. Ch. 351 DISCUSSION.

Of rational d., that a man T. v 306

DISDAIN.

For whose lean country much d. A Tale 73 D. the Bank, and throws the golden sands Ch. 248 Of fancied scorn and undeserved d. Con. 348 As, having it, he deems the world's d. Con. 762 Viewed a deliverer with d. and hate Ex. 217 It shakes the sides of splenetic D. Ex. 548
Die of d., or whistle off the sound H. 348 And swelling with d. L.R. 10 Wins in return an answer of d. R. 228 "Heaven on such terms!" they cry with proud d. T. Heaven turns from with abhorrence and d. T. 72 D. not, nor the palate, undepraved T. i 124 The impression of the blast with proud d. T. i 380 Thy follies too; and with just d. \hat{T} . ii 222 That feels for injured love! but I d. T. iii 66 Trivial and worthy of d., achieves T. v 699 From repartee, with jokes that he d. Tir. 728 That wants no driving and d. the lead T.T. 134 Perhaps some courser who d. the road T.T. 668

DISDAINED.

By mummeries He that dwelt in it d. Ex. 146 I. thy counsels, only in distress Ex. 530 His black interpreter the charge d. T.T. 99 And so d. the rules he understood T.T. 687

DISDAINFUL.

Though but a dream) art grown d. too V. 44
DISEASE.

And, from a knowledge of her own d. Ch. 410
And give us, in recitals of d. Con. 313
But that d., when soberly defined Con. 667
Punctually paid for lengthening out d. H. 204
The source of the d. that Nature feels T. ii 194
Vain tampering has but fostered his d. T. v 668
But all is harmony and love. D.—T. vi 788
May some d., not tardy to perform T. vi 1002
D. or comes not, or finds easy oure Tir. 766

DISEASED.

Who much d., yet nothing feel St. vi 17

DISENCUMBERED.

The d. Atlas of the state R. 394

DISENGAGE.

No time shall d. The Doves 10

DISENGAGED.

Long held, and scarcely d. at last T. iii 16

DISENTANGLE.

They d, from the puzzled skein T, iii 145

DISESTREMED.

So glorious now, though once so d. Ch. 580 So coveted, else base and d. T. iii 448

DISFIGURES.

D. Earth, and, plotting in the dark T. i 275

DISGRACE.

So withered stumps d. the sylvan scene Con. 51 Who to please others will themselves d. Con. 227 Of needless shame, and self-imposed d. Con. 350 There sits and prompts him with his own d. Con. 463 The very children watch for thy d. Ex. 282 And do his errand of d. and shame Ex. 334 Hast thou, when Heaven has clothed thee with d. Ex. Whose horrid perpetration stamps d. Ex. 416 And that, judicially withdrawn, d. Ex. 692 Himself sole author of his own d.? H. 317 Exposes, and holds up to broad d. T. ii 553 That may d. his art, or disappoint T. iii 422 Or fertile only in its own d. T. vi 767 High-minded, foaming out their own d. T. vi 898 Pressed on his part by means that would d. Tir. 406 Such vicious habits as d. his name Tir. 531 Which filthily bewray and sore d. Tir. 593 From total night and absolute d. T.T. 665

DISGRACED.

DISGRACEFUL.

Vainly industrious, a d. prize T. iii 385.

DISGRACEFULLY.

D. on every trifler's tongue Ex. 663

DISGUISE.

When all d. shall be rent away Ch. 558
As diamonds, stripped of their opaque d. Ch. 397
A mere d., in which a devil lurks Con. 79
Will speak without d., and must impart Con. 711
Which art can only darken and d. H. 769
Jack knew his friend, but hoped in that d. R. 587
For monstrous novelty and strange d. T. ii 612
While innocence without d. The Doves 13

DISGUISED.

Howe'er d. the inflammatory tale P.E. 327 But rather death d. St. vi 12

DISGUST.

With cold d., or philosophic pride Ex. 691 Some swayed by fashion, some by deep d. R. 607 Object of my implecable d. T. ii 418 My partners in retreat. D. concealed T. iii 38 Of popular d., yet boldly still T. iii 706 That it belongs to freemen, would d. T. y 482

DISGUSTED.

Was hurt, d., mortified P. 19

DISH.

"You shapeless nothing in a d. P. 25 Book, beads, and maple d., his meagre stock T. 80 Every d., and spoil the best Tran. iii 14

DISHEARTENING.

Whose prospect shows thee a d. waste H. 32 Mov'd many a sigh at its d. length T. vi 22

DISHEVELLED.

Like the fair flower d, in the wind T, iii 262

DISHONOUR.

Who dare d., or defile, the tongue Con. 26 When sin has shed d. on thy brow Ex. 394 D. with unhallowed play St. vi 27 Reflect d, on the land I love T, ii 224

Its own d. by a worse relapse T. v 626 "D. God, and makes a slave of man T. v 613 D., and be wronged with redress T. vi 822

DISHONOURED.

Send your d. gown to Monmouth Street P.E. 121 Or be d., in the exterior form T. ii 560 Is soon d, and defiled in most T, vi 590

In his d, works himself endure T. vi 821 DISINCLINED.

To social scenes by nature d. R. 606

DISINGENUOUS. Than Vice's mean and d. race P.E. 297

DISINTERESTED.

D. good, is not our trade T. i 674 The most d. and virtuous minds Tir. 438

DISJOINING.

D. from the rest, has unobserved Y.O. 107

DISK.

With which she gazes at you burning d. T. i 713 The sun's meridian d., and at the back T. iii 473 More ardent as the d. emerges more T. v 4

DISMANTLED.

Shall be d. of its fleecy load T. vi 179

DISMAY.

The positive pronounce without d. Con. 146 That Courage is his creature; and D. Ex. 354 Nor is it yet despondence and d. T.T. 410

DISMAYED.

Sir Airy, not a whit d. or scared A.T. 171

DISMISS.

"D. poor Harry!" he replies M.F. 19 Man may d. compassion from his heart T vi 442 D, me weary to a safe retreat T, vi 1004 D. their cares when they d. their flock Tir. 624

DISMISSED.

Unless his right to rule it be d.? Ch. 193 Arts once esteemed may be with shame d. Con. 811 Complied with, and were graciously d. Ex. 541The man that mentioned him, at once d. H. 560 D. with grave, not haughty looks Mrs. M-38He teaches those to read, whom schools d. T. ii 358 From courts d., found shelter in the groves T. iv 519

DISMISSING.

With whom, d. forms, he may unbend R. 414 Nor even then, d. as performed T. iii 655

DISMISSION.

Bears witness, long ere his d. come Tir. 561

DISOBEDIENCE.

DISOBEY.

Would d, though sure to be shut out H. 315

DISORDER.

In wild d., and unfit for use T. ii 805

My d. now B.R. 22

DISOWN.

That Scripture, Justice, and Good Sense d. Er. 593 DISPASSIONATE.

Candid and learned, d. and free P.E. 453

DISPATCH.

With reasonable forecast and d. T ii 623 Of pleasure and variety, d. T. iii 813

DISPELLED.

D. thy gloom, and broke away thy dreams Er. 501 Consoled him and d. his fears R.C. 90

DISPENSE

Though Nature weigh our talents, and d. Con. 1 For Nature, nice, as liberal to d. P.E. 213 Swallow the two grand nostrums they d. P.E. 591

"The teacher's office, and d. at large T. v 645 DISPENSED.

That only shadows are d. below H. 67

DISPENSERS.

Ye sage d, of poetic fame T, iii 457

DISPENSING.

O bright occasions of d. good T.T. 63

DISPERSE.

When the sun's shafts d. the gloom of night Ex.479May suddenly your joys d. F. 65 Which admonition can alone d. Tir. 600

DISPERSED.

But now, to gather up what seems d. Con. 867 Their glory faded, and their race d. Ex. 241 The family d., and fixing thought T. iv 137 Not less d. by daylight and its cares T. iv 138 D. the shackles of usurped control T. v. 516 Here cities won, and fleets d. 1789, 13

DISPERSING.

D. all his dream D. W. 26

DISPLACE.

Retrench a sword blade, or d. a patch T. ii 318

DISPLACED.

Thy diadem d, thy sceptre gone Ex. 258 My shrubs d. from that retreat F.B. 2

DISPLAY.

And bid a dawning sky d. E. i 77 D. with busy and laborious hand Ex. 163 To deem the wit a friend d. F. 88 Like quicksilver, the rhetoric they d. P.E. 21

Which formed the chief d. Q.V. 10 Thy words, more clearly than thy works, d. R. 95 That courts d. before ambitious eyes R. 178

Some beams of rectitude she yet d. T. 485 Nor taste alone and well-contrived d. T. iii 603 Shall break into its preconceived d. T. iii 652 Thus war affording field for the d. T. v 238

His other works, the visible d. T. v 553 As, hid from ages past, God now d. Tir. 638 Thy magnanimity d. Tran. H. 32

And when recording History d. T.T. 21

DISPLAYED.

It was the time when Ouse d. D.W. 13 See mercy's grand apocalypse d.! H. 448 Then sweet to muse upon his skill d. R. 51 Just in the scene where he d. his own Tir. 337 So I, from theme to theme d. 1789, 21

DISPLAYING.

D., on its varied side, the grace T. i 172
D. his own beauty, starves his flock! T. ii 429
DISPLEASE.

Nor could he dare presumptuously d. Tir. 179

DISPLEASED.

His only pleasure is to be d. Con. 346

DISPLEASURE.

D. in his breast who smites the earth T, ii 69 His hot d. against foolish men T. ii 179 To throw his dark d. o'er the scene T.T. 445

DISPOSE

Find place in his dominion, or d. T. ii 169 Then to d. his copies with such art T. ii 294 Large expectation, he d. neat T. iii 423 Replete with vapours, and d. much T. v 463 Not only Vice d. and prepares T.T. 438

DISPOSED.

In starry forms d. upon the wall Ch. 552
Who seeks a friend should come d. F. 43
Each yielding harmony, d. aright R. 326
He, therefore, who would see his flowers d. T. iii 648
And curling tendrils, gracefully d. T. iv 154
Lamps gracefully d., and of all hues T. v. 149
Are best d. of where with most success Tir. 348

DISPOSING.

And God's d. providence confessed Ex. 558 But by a master's hand, d. well T. iii 589

DISPOSITION.

Man's coltish d. asks the thong P.E. 360 When d., like a sail unfurled Tir. 450

DIGDBOUR

DISPROVE.
So fancy dreams. D. it, if ye can Y.O. 29

DISPUTABLE. A d. point is no man's ground Con. 99

DISPUTANTS.

No learned d. would take the field Ch. 620

DISPUTATION. The sparks of d. F. 105

DISPUTE.

The point in d. was, as all the world knows A.C. 3 My right there is none to d. A.S. 2 She rather waives than will d. her right Ch 430 A warm d. once chanced to wage J.P. 3 D., though short, are far too long P. 45 Safe from the clamours of perverse d. R. 145 "Past all d., you anchorite, say you T. 106 And he says much that many may d. T. 350 Fierce the d. whate'er the theme; while she T. iv 481 Or flushed with fierce d., a senseless brawi T. v 472 Whose lying heart d. against a God T. v 568 D. have been, and still prevail Tran. i 5

DISPUTING.

He dies d., and the contest ends P.E. 553

DISREGARD.

Theu wast not heard with drowsy d. S. i 5

Or d., or more presumptuous still T. ii 177 Or d. our follies, or that set T. v 877 I d. as much as once I loved Y. 8

DISREGARDED.

Drops from the lips a d. thing T. ii 565

DISSECTION.

Under d. of the knotted scourge T. vi 419

DISSEMBLE.

There they are happiest who d. best T. ii 639

DISSEMBLED.

While Bigotry, with well d. fears H. 657

DISSEMBLERS.

But, grave d.! could not understand Ex. 159 True Christians are, d., drunkards, thieves H. 508 Than by the mere d.'s feigned respect T. 74

DISSEMINATING.

Contagion, and d. death T. iii 617

DISSENSION.

And rush into d. F. 102

DISSENT.

Not that all freedom of d. I blame Con. 97

DISSIMILAR.

To give d. yet fruitful lands R. 787

DISSIMULATION.

If smooth D., skilled to grace T.T. 129

DISSIPATE.

Prowess to d. a host 1789, 6

DISSIPATED

A social, not a d. life T. iii 376 Hopeless indeed that d. minds T. iii 695

DISSIPATION.

Youth lost in d., we deplore H. 23 Become more rare as d. spreads R. 706 Of fashion d., taverns, stews T. ii 770

DISSOLUTE.

His court, the d. and hateful school T.T. 626

DISSOLUTION.

 $A\ d.$ of all bonds ensued T. ii 743 For d., burtful to the main T. iv 675 Of their best tone their d. owe Y.O. 85

DISSOLVE.

That makes seas stable, and d. the rock Con. 502 D. in pity, and account the learn'd T. iii 183 His being end where death d. the bond Tir. 67

DISSOLVED.

For them, the rocks d. into a flood Ex. 181

DISSOLVING.

And these d. snows, and this clear stream T. vi 260

DISTANCE.

But d. only cannot change the heart E. iii 11 Viewed from a d., and with heedless eyes P.E. 202 All d., motion, magnitude, and now T. i 717 At measured d., that air and sun T. iii 424 At a safe d., where the dying sound T. iv 92 Yon circling worlds, their d., and their size Tir. 633

DISTANCED.

Was quickly d., matched against a peer's R. 580

DISTANT.

"To d. wilds in quest of other game A.T. 106

Responsive to the d. neigh he neighs Ch. 177 Directs us in our d. road E. i 37 Are come from d. Loire to choose E. i 47 Groan heavily along the d. road Er. 58 Thy language at this d. moment shows Ex. 480 Of d. wisdom shoots across his way H. 94 And scorns to share it with the d. sun H. 490 A d. virtue we can all confess H. 552 Brings to the d. ear a sullen sound Her. 36 A land that d. tyrants hate in vain Her. 89 To reach the d. coast H.F. 22 D. a little mile he spied Mor. 17 Sets me more d. from a prosperous course M.P. 103 Speckle the bosom of the d. plain P.E. 83 And hills that echo to the d. herds R. 184That melt and fade into the d. sky R. 424 Begins a long look out for d. land R. 433 To d. caves the lonely wanderer flies R. 769 And plough the d. main R.G. 32 Of d. floods, or on the softer voice T. 191 Anxious in vain to find the d, floor T, i 48 The d. plough slow-moving, and beside T. i 160 Not d. far, a length of Colonnade T. i 252 Within the twilight of their d. shades T. i 304 Conveys a d. country into mine T. i 424 Far d., such as he would die to find T. i 453 To d. shores, and she would sit and weep T. i 540 If ever it has washed our d, shore T, i 656 More d., and that prophecy demands T. ii 66 Alighting in far d. fields, finds out T. ii 109 To seek a tranquil death in d. shades T. iii 111 To d, worlds, and trifling in their own T. iii 166 But in a d. spot, where, more exposed T. iii 770 I mean the man who, when the d. poor T. iv 427 A d. age asks where the fabric stood T. v 535From inland regions to the d. main T. v 790 Shall publish, even to the d. eye T. vi 148 To the far d. goal, arrives and dies T. vi 430 Though but in d. prospect, and not feel T. vi 761 From d, mountains catch the flying joy T, vi 795 With truths poured down from every d. age Tir. 14 But seeks the corner of some d. seat Tir. 571 Find him a better in a d. spot Tir. 759 Not always tempt the d. deep Trans. H. 4 He break away, and seek the d. plain? T.T. 307

And shot a dayspring into d. climes T.T. 561 An eye like his to catch the d. goal T.T. 710 DISTEMPER.

Now the d., spite of draught or pill Con. 319 They saw d. healed, and life restored Ex. 153 Has caught the cold d. of the day V. 47

The poet's heart; he looks to d. storms T.T. 495

DISTEMPERED. D., or has lost prolific powers T. iii 415 DISTENDED.

But when the huntsman with d. cheek N.A. 43

DISTICH. To set a d. upon six and five T.T. 507

DISTILS. Earth glitters with the drops the night d. H. 42

DISTINCT.

Not more d. from harmony divine Con. 9 Which seldom a d. report pervades Con. 802 Voice only fails, else how d. they say M.P. 5 And the clear voice, symphonious, yet d. T. iv. 162

DISTINCTION.

The pride of arrogant d. fall R. 659

O'erwhelming all d. On the flood T. v 97 Whose chief d, is their spotless name Tir, 355.

DISTINCTLY.

Of ash, or lime, or beech, d. shine T. i 303 "D. scenes invisible to man T. v 826

DISTINGUISH.

D. every cultivated kind H. 291

Nobly d. above all the six P.E. 161 With less d. than ourselves; that thus T. iv 338 D. much by reason, and still more T. vi 601

DISTINGUISHED.

DISTORT.

And sullen sadness, that o'ershade, d. T. i 457

DISTORTED. It views the truth with a d. eye Con. 639 Our own as much d. F. 54

D. from its use and just design T.T. 75 t On thy d. root, with hearers none Y.O. 140

DISTORTION. From rickets and d., else our lot T. ii 592 DISTRACTING.

To fly for refuge from d, thought T, v 415 DISTRESS. "Starts at the call of beauty in d. A.T. 120

Alas! his efforts double his d. Com. 343 Disdained thy counsels, only in d. Ex. 530 The poor, inured to drudgery and d. H. 7 Twas my, d. that brought thee low M. 7 Interpret to the marking eye $d.\ R.\ 287$ Yet he too finds his own d. in theirs T. iv 390

DISTRESSED. Springs in due time supply for the d. Ch. 482

The Christian, in whose soul, though now d. Con. 707 So Jealousy looks forth d. F. 80 Always from port withheld, always d. M.P. 101 A mind quite vacant is a mind d. R. 624

D. the weary loins that felt no ease T. i 45 Are both alike d. Y.D. 20 In all her gates, and shakes her d. shores T.T. 453 DISTRESSFUL

Fix on the wainscoat a d. stare Con. 116

DISTRIBUTION. To d. boundless of thy own J.T. 32 Of d.; liberal of their aid T. iv 413

He gave them, in its d. fair T. v 200

DISTRUST.

And no d. of his intent in theirs T. vi 363 DISTURB.

That pleads for peace till it d. the state Ch. 310 And with a quiet, which no fumes d. Con. 267 When snoring she d. As sweetly he T. i 90 Contingence might alarm him, and d. T. ii 172 Is oft too welcome, and may much d. T. ii 492 D. good order, and degrade true worth T. iii 671

D. the economy of Nature's realm T. vi 579 To guard the Peace that Riot would d. T.T. 315

DISTURBANCE.

And sin without d. Often urged T. v. 659 Wrought this d. But the wane is near T. vi 709

DISTURBED. More fixed below, the more d. above T. i 384

A dream d. poor Bully's rest T.B. 44

DISTURBING.

How great the danger of d. her T. iii 35 DISUSE.

Frew rusty by d.; and massy gates T. ii 746 DISUSED.

Now rust d., and shine no more M. 11

O'er hedge and d., through gaps and mews E. iv 52

He dips his bowl into the weedy d. T. i 241 From pools and d. of the commonwealth T. iii 809

DITTY.

Resounds with his sweet-flowing d. no more $P.F.\,12$

DIVE.

Compasses earth, d. into it, ascends Ch. 315 Twas theirs alone to d, into the plan Ex. 235

To d, into the secret deeps within R. 135 Or d. not for it, or brings up instead T. iii 384

Thus levely halcyons d. into the main T.T. 566

DIVERGING.

D. each from each, like equal rays H. 303

DIVERSIFIED. D. with trees of every growth T. i 301

D., that two were never found T. iv 737 DIVERSIFY.

Ingenious to d. dull life R. 520

DIVERSION.

Some seek d. in the tented field T. v 185

DIVERSITY.

The gay d. of leaf and flower T. iii 590 Was split into d. of tongues T. v 195

DIVERT. D. the champions prodigal of breath Con. 89

But to d. a fierce banditti E. iv 13

DIVERTED.

Fretful unless d. and beguiled R. 108 DIVEST.

D. the rougher sex of female airs Con. 843

DIVESTED.

The sapless wood, d. of the bark Con. 53

DIVIDE. Whom nothing could d. A Tale 68 A fretful temper will d. F. 61

No fertilizing streams your fields d. H. 467 Runs in a bottom, and d. the field N.A. 10 b the frail inhabitants of earth R. 648 To deal and shuffle, to d. and sort T. i 474

Admirers, and be destined to d. T. iii 726 Two Gods d. them all. Pleasure and Gain T. vi 892 Death never shall d. The Doves 28

His cloud-capped eminence d. Trans. H. 17 DIVIDED.

She thus maintains d. sway Mrs. M-51United yet d., twain at once T. i 77

DIVIDING.

The Onse, d. the well-watered land T. i 323

DIVINE.

Effects of punishment and wrath d. A.T. 51 Each some approaching good d. A Tale 63 And gave them a grace so d. C. 18

No voice d, the storm allayed Cast, 61 And Love D. has paid one price for all Ch. 205 Speaks a d. ambition, and a zeal Ch. 307 All truth is precious, if not all d. Ch. 331 'Tis truth d., exhibited on earth Ch. 377 Implies no trespass against Love D.) Ch. 488 And prove too weak for so d. a theme Ch. 633 Not more distinct from harmony d. Con. 9 But Truth d. for ever stands secure Con. 555 Who waits for heaven ere he becomes d. Con. 534 Gird up each other to the race d. Con. 702 For which Heaven formed the faculty d. Con. 893 And tell them truths d. and clear E. i 21 Thy tears all issue from a source $d.\ E.\ { m ii}\ 47$ By power d., and skill that could not err Ex. 206 As a mere instrument in hands d. Ex. 319 The word of prophecy, those truths d. Ex. 686 But know, that Wrath D., when most severe Ex. 714

For truth is unwelcome, however d. F.M. 23 If, led from earthly things to things d. H. 141 If appetite, or what d. call lust H. 385 May claim some right to be esteemed d. H. 504That while I trembling trace a work d. H. 671 The abundant harvest, recompense d. H. 770

Which rural gentlemen call sport d. N.A. 8 For 'twas the self-same Power D.—N.G. 19 Full bliss is bliss d. N.Y.G. 14

And import, of their oracles d. Ex. 126

And prove their owner half d." P. 64 D. authority within his breast P.E. 33 The signature and stamp of power d. R. 54

Thy power d., and bounty beyond thought R. 91 Bears proof of an intelligence d. R. 208

'Tis God's just claim, prerogative d. R. 278

Ye want but that to seem indeed d. R. 558

D. Communion, carefully enjoyed R. 747 D. Communion chases as the day R. 765

No soil like poverty for growth d. T. 363 Once the blest residence of truth d. T. 387

Nor hoped, but in thy righteousness d. T. 576 The legate of the skies!—His theme d. T. ii 338

I seek d. simplicity in him T. ii 432 Who handles things d.; and all beside T. ii 433

Of Light D. But Egypt, Greece, and Rome T. ii 500

And waved his rod d., a race obscene T. ii 826 And dark in things d. Full often too T. iii 235 And lineaments d. I trace a hand T. iii 722

Might well suppose the artificer d. T. v 561

From fool to wise, from earthly to d. T. v 696

Made pure, shall relish with d. delight T. v 783 Till then unfelt, what hands d, have wrought T. imes 784

What prodigies can power d. perform T vi 118 An agency d., to make him know T. vi 129

The impious challenger of power d. T. vi 546

By our capacity of grace d. T. vi 602

A talent so d., remember too T. vi 649

If he regard not, though d, the theme T, vi 1019 Of poets raised by you, and statesmen, and d. Tir. 283

Whate'er she meant, this truth d. Tran. i 21 The deeds that men admire as half d. T.T. 3

Than Virtue quickens, with a warmth d. T.T. 382 She pours a sensibility d. T.T. 486

Mankind to share in the d. delight T.T. 753 May kill a sound d. Y.D. 64

Of amnesty, the need of blood d. Y.O. 13

A theme for poetry d. 1789, 29

DIVINELY.

D. bestowed upon man A.S. 18 But Reason still, unless d. taught Ch. 337 True Charity, a plant d. nursed Ch. 573 From things terrestrial, and d. changed Con. 726 To walk with God, to be d. free T. v 722

On some fair theme; some theme d. fair T. vi 754 Born from above and made d. wise V. 94

DIVING.

Where bold Inquiry, d. out of sight H. 443 By d. into cabinet intrigue T.T. 154

DIVINITY.

He grinds d. of other days T. ii 362 That hides d. from mortal eyes T. vi 877

DIVORCE.

This riving stroke, this ultimate d. H. 640

DIVORCED.

And knees and hassocks are well nigh d. T. i 748 DIVULGED.

By causes not to be d. in vain T. iii 371

DIZZY.

And d. with delight, profaned the sacred wires T.T. And sucked in d. madness with his draught H. 518

DOCTOR. [ii 351

But hark—the D.'s voice!—fast wedged between T.

A d.'s trouble, but without the fees Con. 314
Victorious seemed, and now the d.'s skill Con. 320
Are there who purchase of the D.'s ware? T. ii 366

DOCTRINE.

The d. warped to what they never meant Con. 778 While others at that d. rail L.W. 19 Who fill the world with d. contraband P.E. 475 In d. uncorrupt; in language plain T. ii 400 [373 Whose hands are pure, whose d. and whose life T. ii In modern eyes), shall make the d. clear T. vi 482 Strange d. this! that without scruple tears T.T. 5

DODONA.

As in D. once thy kindred trees Y.O. 41

DOFFS.

Sheepish he d. his hat, and mumbling swears T. iv 628

DOG

My d.! what remedy remains Beau 17 My d. shall mortify the pride D.W. 39 The d. did bark, the children screamed J.G. 109 [125 By panting d., tired man, and spattered horse N.A. Unmissed but by his d. and by his groom P.E. 95 Receives the morsel—flesh obscene of d. T. i 562 His d. attends him. Close behind his heel T. v 47

DOGGISH.

And ease a d. pain Beau 10

DOG'S-EARED.

Who starve upon a d. Pentateuch Tir. 402

DOIT.

And force the beggarly last d., by means T. v 316

Pick up their nauseous d., though sweet to them T.
"Their weekly d. of edifying strains T. v 646

DOLEFUL.

With d. rumour and sad presage hung Ex. 357 She heard the d. tidings of his death T. i 545

DOLLS.

Paint cards and d., and every idle thing T. iv 241

Or such another d. as you P. 30

DOMAIN.

Fast by the stream that bounds your just d. Her. 47 Within the confines of their wild d. T. vi 407

DOMES.

Bright shone the roofs, the d., the spires Q.V. 13

DOMESTIC.

And to d. bounds confined Ep. ii 7
D. happiness and rural joy Ez. 535
Alas! and is d. strife M.F. 31
No pleasure! Are d. comforts dead? P.E. 213
D. Happiness, thou only bliss T. iii 41
D. life in rural leisure passed! T. iii 292
And under an old cak's d. shade T. iv 172
Against the charities of d. life T. iv 677
The feathered tribes d. Half on wing T. v 63
Upon the endearments of d. life T. v 438
And shining each in his d. sphere T. v 520
None that, in thy d. snug recess Tir. 581
Exchanged for the secure d. scheme Tir. 705

DOMINEERING.

Free from the d. power of Lust P.E. 458

DOMINION.

Holds a usurped d. o'er his tongue Con. 462 Strength in his heart, d. in his nod T. 409 Find place in his d., or dispose T. ii 169 With kingship and d. o'er the rest Tir. 96 Those ensigns of d., how disgraced! T. T. 40

DON.

[98

"Indeed," replied the D., "there are but few" I.

DONOR.

With him, the D. of eternal life H. 323

DOOM.

Or if, deserving of a better d., Con. 413

The world's best comfort was, his d. was passed !!

And death's a d. sufficient for the rest !! H. 396

When on a day, like that of the last d. Her. 11

When wit and genius meet their d. M. ii 1

She now presaged approaching d. R.C. 74

D. and devotes him as his lawful prey T. ii 15 [53]

To preach the general d. When were the winds T ii 10. to the knife; nor does he spare the soft T. iii 41.

And d. him for perhaps a heedless word T. v 440

Denounce no d. on the delinquent? None T. vi 403

D. him not then to solitary meals Tir. 719

And if He d. that people with a frown T.T. 456

DOOMED.

This process achieved, it is d. to sustain F.M.9 Have justly d., for some atrocious cause H.713 Eternal winter d. to know Miss = 35 Which future pages yet are d. to share T.146 Begs a warm office, d. to a cold jail T. iii 820 D. it, as insufficient for his praise T. v 565 The tyranny that d. them to the fire T. v 731 "And hasting to a grave, yet d. to rise T. v 830 D. to the dust, or lodged already there T. vi 714 Who, d. to an obscure but tranquil state T. vi 905 D. to a no less ignominious fate Tir. 498

DOOMSDAY.

And writes a D. sentence on his heart H. 693
DOOR.

Passing his prison d. B.R. 14
Not he, but his emergence, forced the d. Ch. 18
Might swing at ease behind his study d. Ch. 615
Swinging the parlour d. upon its hinge E. in 21
And sift the dust behind the d. E. iv 42
Adultery neighing at his neighbour's d. Er. 39
Fell broken and defaced at their own d. Er. 506
Till half the world comes rattling at his d. H. 77

And they might enter at his open d. H. 308 at the d. his key applies H. 720 within is ruin at the d. Her. 76 to the d. lest all J.G. 35 off the chaise was stayed J.G. 37 pect him at the d. M.F. 13 d. the moment they intrude P.E. 160 ed at your inhospitable d. P.E. 250 le in the pond, before the d. R. 499 r, who weaves at her own d. T. 317 sending at the open d. T. i 93 creaking panniers at the d. T. i 245 1rns the key in her own d. T. ii 653 Profusion is the sire T. ii 674 eadily through every d. T. iii 99 [559 ed d. was safe; men did not watch T. iv cadily through every d. T. iii 99 tered on every statesman's d. T. iii 823 moonlight at their humble d. T. iv 171 an alarm assaults these d. T. iv 146 the d., however well secured T. iv 446 at thick emboss his iron d. T. v 426 at the study d. T.B. 17l with joy, to some coach-crowded d. Tir. \Rightarrow d., and watches a retreat Tir. 572 hat haunt the rich man's d. Trans. H. 11 t lately burst his prison d. T.T. 318

DORMITORY.

ran. ii 6

DOSE.

oth scribble and d. Gr. 12

d., a delirious dream! Ch. 417 not Vanity maintain? Ex. 628 created things T. v 586

DOTARDS.

s of d., such as thou T. vi 507

DOTE.

7775 ne d., and dreams that she believes Con. uch, nor spoil what ye admire T. ii 498 d., refusing while we can T. v 874

n these the world's last d. years Ch.604his d. mistress cries Tran. iv 13

DOUBLE.

orts d. his distress Con. 343 imployment of mallet and mill F.M. 16 ning by degrees, till d. steeled P.E. 590 I should then with d. pain T. v 483 ght d. justice; made the fool T. vi 557 pleasure in thy child Tir. 682 strained behind a d. guard T.T. 66 and shiver at their work T.T. 215

DOUBLED.

y that thou hast d. long T. i 149

DOUBLY.

by truth enlarged, are d. freed Ch. 231 t to feelings quick as thine Ch. 298 s d. sweet Q.V. 28 ess discipline were d. strong Tir. 218

it, till affirmance breeds a d. Con. 66 etly—"To be sure—no d.!" Con. 118 ent importing this, no d. E. iii 52 ncient fables, leaves a d. Ex. 503 Spartan soul a d. expressed Ex. 542 charity no d., the town H. 250

Then theirs, no d., as well as mine, is sure H. 388 No d., my dear, I bade him come M.F. 11 That sage they seemed, as lawyers o'er a $d.\ N.A.\ 77$ Will heartily thank us, no d., for our pains P.A. 10 Craze antiquarian brains with endless d. P.E. 394 Eternal truth by everlasting d. P.E. 473 Shall call to supper, when, no d. R. C. 63 [222 "Charles without d.," say you—and so he ought T. D, not hereafter with the saints to mount T. 150 And heaven, no d., shall be their home at last T. 296 Can lodge a heavenly mind—demands a d. T. ii 462 Tis Revelation satisfies all d. T. ii 527The nurse, no d. Regardless of her charge T. ii 775 Are grand, no d., and worthy of the Word T. v. 555 With intellects bemazed in endless d. T. v 848 Is register'd in heaven; and these no d. T. vi 440 Brings into d. the wisdom of the skies Tir. 72 [418] And deans, no d., and chapters, with one voice Tir. Some sneaking virtue lurks in him, no d. Tir. 244 You think, no d., he sits and muses Tran. ii 19 To d. the love his favourites may pretend T.T. 159 And should, no d., if they were all forgot T.T. 771

DOUBTED.

And he that never d. of his state T. 299

DOUBTFUL

Her gloomy monarch, d., and resigned Ex. 570 And, d. what, with prudent care R.C. 85 With d. credit, told to frighten babes T. iv 564 Guides the decision of a d. choice Tir. 34

DOUBTLESS.

Is d. left behind A Tale 48 D. it is. To which, of my own store H. 433 Demons produce them d., brazon-clawed N.A. 101 And d. she in thine N.Y.G. 16 He d. is in sport, and does but droll T. ii 369

DOUGH.

And he that kneads the d.; all loud alike T. iv 477 DOVE

Oh! had I the wings of a d. A.S. 19 They sport like wanton d. in airy rings A.T. 32 Time, as he passes us, has a d's wing T. iv 211 And soothed the listening d. The Doves 8

Starts from the d. on which she lately slept H. 219 D. that almost escape the inquiring eye R. 423 Come hither, ye that press your beds of d. T. i 362 To show the peeping d. upon his chin Tir. 235

DOWN-FALLEN.

To assist his foe's d. beast to rise T. vi 444

DOWNRIGHT.

Through d. inability to rise T, i 480

DOWN-STOOPING.

Where Night d. from her ebon throne P.E. 177

DOWNY.

The thistle's d. seed my fare G. 2 His mantling neck with d. gold Mrs. M-6 Return and make thy d. nest O. ii 2 Fast falls a fleecy shower ; the d. flakes T. iv 326

A d. would-bes of the modern day Con. 612 Some half a d., and some half a score Tir. 695

DOZING.

The d. sages drop the drowsy strain Con. 247 D. out all his idle noons Ep. ii 31 Nor yet the d. of the clerk, are sweet T. i 101

DRAG.

They swathe the forehead, d, the limping limb T. i 581 That d. the dull companion to and fro T. iv 368

DRAGGED.

That ever d. a chain, or tugged an oar Ex. 527 Others are d. into the crowded room T. i 478 Till Persecution d. them into fame T. v 725

DRAGON-SCALES.

With helmet heads, and d. adorned R. 69

DRAINED.

So rich, so throughd, so d., and so supplied T. i 720 D. to the last poor item of his wealth T. iii 784

DRAINING.

And d. its nutritious powers to feed R. 43

DRAINS.

And comforts cease. Dress d. our cellar dry T. ii 614

What means the d. by the world sustained? R. 646

For then, by toil subdued, he d. Cast. 47 Called on a friend, d. tea, stepped homeagain Con. 278 And d. the little bumper every day T. 158

DRAUGHT.

Now the distemper, spite of d. or pill Con. 319 And sucked in dizzy madness with his d. H, 518 In vain to filter off a crystal d. T. ii 507

DRAVE.

God d. asunder, and assigned their lot T. v 198 DRAW.

And each endures, while yet he d.his breath Ch. 143 He too has a connecting power, and d. Ch. 327 That fire is catching if you d. too near Con. 654 'Tis narrow, selfish, arrogant, and d. Con. 671 Who labour hard to allure and d. E. i 23 Is to renounce hypocrisy; to d. Ex. 408
The Christian Hope is—Waiter, d. the cork H. 361 He laughs, whatever weapon Truth may d. H. 596 He d. upon life's map a zig-zag line H. 607 Ye monarchs, whom the lure of honour d. Her. 41 ()ur self-approving bosom d. Miss - 51 "Long as I d. ethereal air Miss - 67 Is almost enough to d. pity from stones P.A. 4 But he can d. a pattern, make a tart P.E. 195 His great improvement and new lights hed. P.E. 402 As bloated spiders d, the flimsy line P.E. 495 To d, the incautious minnow from the brook R.402Produce them—take a chair—now d. a saint T. 172 The love of Nature, and the scenes she d. T. i 412 Or else vain-glory, prompted us to d. T. i 635 Conspire against him. With his breath, he d. T. ii 139 His master-strokes, and d. from his design T. ii 398 The Rout is Folly's circle, which she d. T. ii 629 From instrumental causes proud to d. T. iii 238 That d, the sportsman over hill and dalo T, iii 310 Thus blest, I d, a picture of that bliss T, iii 694 To a vile clod, so d. him, with such force T. v 589 D. gross impurity, and likes it well T. vi 979 As happy as we once to kneel and d. Tir. 306 They see the attentive crowds his talents d. Tir. 362 If you can crown a discipline, that d. Tir. 493 The public character its colours d. Tir. 912 Plants it upon the line that justice d. T.T. 17 Nor d. it, but when Duty bids him d. T.T. 78 When tithing time d. near Y.D. 8

DRAWER.

A d., it chanced, at bottom lined R.C. 35

A d. impending o'er the rest R.C. 39
"The open d. was left, I see R.C. 55
He 'gan in haste the d. explore R.C. 92

DRAWING.

Exhibits elevations, d., plans P.E. 397
In d. pictures of forbidden joys R. 216
And growing old in d. nothing up!" T. iii 190
Just when our d. rooms begin to blaze T. iv 267
To bear his burdens, d. in his gears T. v 273
Always at speed, and never d. bit T.T. 685

DRAWL.

Their fleece his pillow, and his weekly d. H. 199

DRAWLING.

The tedious rector d. o'er his head T. i 95

DRAWN

Forcibly d. from many a close recess Ch. 529
Like figures d. upon a dial plate Con. 380
Whose wisdom, d. from the deep well of life Cm.
When souls d. upwards in communion sweet Cm.
The curtain d. by Prejudice and Pride H. 571
To streams of popular opinion d. P.E. 478
D. from his refuge in some lonely elm T. vi 318
In measure, as by force of instinct d. T. vi 418

DRAY.

Climbed like a squirrel to his d. A Fable 28

DREAD.

Found oftenest in what least we d. A Fable 37 But slavery !-- Virtue d. it as her grave Ca. 16 Preserve me from the thing I d. and hate Con. Through constant d. of giving Truth offence Con. Enlarge and fortify the d. redoubt Con. 689 A cold misgiving, and a killing d. Con. 770 A d. she would not, yet is forced to feel Con. Pulled down the tyrants India served withd Ba Your cause before a bar you little d. P.E. 198 Like Eden's d. probationary tree P.E. 468
That d. the encroachment of our growing stre Than bid me shun the deep, and d. the shore! R. And d. of Death ensues St. v 24Much menaced, nothing d. St. vi 18 A growing d. of vengeance at his heels T. 238 And Justice, guardian of the d. command T. 2 Her beauty, her fertility. She d. T. i 370 Then wherefore not renounce them? No-the The slavish d. of solitude, that breeds T. i 488 The joy of many, and the d. of more T. iii 281 Much of her vigilant instinctive d. T. iii 340 To steel their hearts against the d. of death" T. vi Fixed motionless, and petrified with d. T. vi i A world that does not d. and hate his laws T. vi The symptoms that you see with so much d. Tr. Beheld their progress with the deepest d. T.T.1

DREADED.

And d. more than a contagious touch? Con. 633 A tempest usher in the d. morn H. 717 From objects too much d. or desired R. 144 Once d. by our foes R.C. 26 And d. as thou art! Thou hold'st the sun T. ivl

DREADFUL.

They build each other up with d. skill Con. 687
Would run most d. risk of catching cold E. iii and But ah! those d. yells what soul can hear N.A. and Of his own works, his d. part alone T. ii and T. ii and

DREADING.
a negative, and overawed E. iii 22
DREAM.

 \Rightarrow land of d., Hypothesis her name A.T. 6 daily musings and in nightly d. A.T. 12 t forms material whatsoe'er we d. A.T. 40other d. his feverish mind employed A.T. 153 barina is fled like a d. C. 5 erefore purpose not, or d. Cast. 55 losophy, that does not d. or stray Ch. 313 childish dotage, a delirious d.! Ch. 417 if, unhappily deceived, I d. Ch. 632 to any except those that d. Con. 482 t fools, as you have done, shall call a d. Con. 504 twhile she dotes, and d. that she believes Con.775 persing all his d. D.W. 26 I haunts, in hope to d. of youth again Ex. 26 nounced him frantic, and his fears a d. Ex. 70 mounced by greybeards a pernicious d. Ex. 114 th all the embroidery of poetic d. Ex. 234 busy trifler d. himself alone Ex. 322 [Ex. 402]at mean they? Cans't thou d. there is a power grasshoppers, as dust, a drop, a d.? Ex. 345 pelled thy gloom, and broke away thy d. Ex. 501d did they d., and art thou wiser now? Ex. 632 4 i that he had found one F. 18 thoughts of friendship are but d. F. 74 adopt the chymist's golden d. F. 143 poets will swear that I d. Gr. 55 grave Philosophy's absurdest d. H. 65 d, howsoever shadowy, no d. H. 124 thaps when sickness, or some fearful d. H. 217vere the laws they d. that Heaven ordains H. 241 estrange conceits, vain projects, and wild d.H.618e language uttered in a d. M. 22 what such a d. should betide? M.D. 42 momentary d., that thou art she M.P. 20 s comet's baneful influence is a d. P.E. 100 th sentimental frippery and d. P.E. 312 Seits kind attention to his d. P.E. 523 [598] that they can silence, when they will P.E. ough his life be a d., his enjoyments, I see P.F. 19 is laden, d. that they are rich and great R. 155 it airs, nocturnal vigils, and day d. R. 260 Rery of fancy, and a d. of woes R. 324 hatural as when asleep to d. R. 636 ker 1 of dress, intrigue, and pleasure reign R.642* man who d. himself so great R.C. 111 *well-built systems, philosophic d. T. 8 e of fancy, tranquil and secure T. i 236 ut of transports she was not to know T. i 544 e' is past; and thou hast found again T. i 639 d. all night of what the day denied T. i 671 th Lurtful error, prejudice, and d. T. ii 504 'te'll its slumbers, and to paint its d. T. iii 13 n never won. D. after d. ensues T. iii 127 4 still they d, that they shall still succeed T, iii 128empty d. The million flit as gay T. iii 133 [317 \mathbf{P}^{\perp} they have a taste for fields and groves $ar{T}$. iii is have wings, and grandeur is a d. T. iii 263 ared, and many a night pursued in d. T. iii 787 ed with a waking d. of houses, towers T. iv 287 wish! those days were never; airy d. T. iv 525 favoured such a d., in days like these T. iv 530 ery d. were rural: rural too T. iv 700 tly as a d. the fabric rose T. v 144 [492] comble at vain d. P. Heaven grant I may! T. v them trusty to the general weal T. v 514 they, and contrive to save a God T. vi 205 bothed into a d. that he discerns T. vi 284 dost thou d.," the impenetrable man T. vi 505

A d. disturbed poor Bully's rest T.B.'44
Replete with d., unworthy of a man Tir. 160
What d. they of, that, with so little care Tir. 358
They d. of little Charles or William graced Tir. 360
D. him episcopally such at least Tir. 365
Depend not much upon your golden d. Tir. 429
Each d. that each is just what he appears Tir. 418
Not occupied in day d., as at home Tir. 775
And Death awakens from that d. too late T.T. 126
O Liberty! the prisoner's plessing d. T.T. 288
Though but a d.!) art grown disdainful too V. 44
So Fancy d. Disprove it, if ye can Y.O. 29
Through tomes of fable and of d. 1789, 7

DREAMED.

He d. not of a foe, or if his fear A.T. 151 Foretold one, d. not of a foe so near A.T. 152 I d. what I cannot but sing M.D. 3 I d. that, on ocean afloat M.D. 5

DREAMER.

The rest are sober d., grave and wise T. iii 137 Ingenious d., in whose well-told tale Tir. 135 DREAMING.

"What, always d. over heavenly things Con. 575 Not d. of so dear a friend E. i 41 Seems at the best but d. life away R. 468 At once the d. mind is disabused Tir. 90 Of d. study and pedantic rust T.T. 171 Such is the folly of our d. youth V. 54

DREAMT.

He little d., when he set out J.G. 99

DREAR

And such in ancient halls and mansions d. T. i 24 And drive the wedge in yonder forest d. T. v 43

DREARY.

Neglected, leaves a d. waste behind Comp. i 12 Again life's d. waste St. iii 6 The d. waste ; there spends the livelong day T. i 457 And prospect oft so d. and forlorn T. vi 21 Is d., so with him all seasons please T. vi 255

DREGS.

The d. and feculence of every land T. i 684

DRENCH.

Shall d. again or discompose Mrs. M-17
DRENCHED.

Now d. throughout, and hopeless of his case T. 246 And d. conservatory breathes abroad T. iii 498 Let laurels d. in pure Parnassian dews T.T. 13 DRESS.

Earth seems a garden in its loveliest d. Her. 57 To d. a room for Montagu Mrs. M-2 Sweat of ours must d. the soil N.C. 20 Where dreams of d., intrigue, and pleasure reign R. Her form with d, and lotion they repair P.E, 299 Go, d. thine eyes with eyesalve; ask of him T. ii 203 The freaks of fashion, regulate the d. T. ii 317 In conversation frivolous, in d. T. ii 379 Who waits to d. us, arbitrates their date T. ii 600 We sacrifice to d., till household joys T. ii 613 [614 And comforts cease. D. drains our cellar dry T. ii You think, perhaps, so delicate his $ar{d}.$ T. ii 625When gay Goodnature d. her in smiles T. ii 784 And d, the regular yet various scene T, iii 592 The backstring and the bib, assume the d. T. iv 227 To d. a sofa with the flowers of verse T. vi 1007 Clothe the twin brethren in each other's d. T.T. 45 DRESSED.

hich she little d. Perhaps she owes T. vi 945 As ever d. a bank, or scented summer air Ch. 259

By Vanity's unwearied finger d. Ex. 46 What though in scaly armour d. Miss — 41 He knows indeed that whether d. or rude R. 415 In shirt of hair, and weeds of canvass d. T. 81 Some mansion, neat and elegantly d. T. 250 D. to his taste, inviting him abroad T. iii 358 That softly swelled and gaily d. appears T. iii 629 Though well perfumed and elegantly d. T. vi 991 So take my judgment in his language d. Tir. 507 In painted plumes superbly d. Tran. iv 1 And as the sun in rising beauty d. T. T. 706

DRESSING.

To spend two hours in d, for the day H. 80 Pant for the praise of d, to the taste T, iii 460

DREW.

The spring d. near, each felt a breast A Tale 13 The wreath he wond. down an instant curse Ch. 61 D. the grey curtain of the fading west Ch. 263 Such was the portrait an apostle d. Ch. 432 Or when a storm d. near Ep. ii 28 They d, a curse from an intended good Ex. 129 Through which the belt he d. J.G. 70 And still, as fast as he d. near J.G. 117 And, turning from my nursery window, d. M.P. 30 D. me to school along the public way M.P. 49 George ever d. from her Q.V. 56 He d the curtain at his side R.C. 81 He d. them forth, and healed, and bade me live T. And all his strength from Scripture d. St. iii 19 The Scripture was his jest book, whence he d. T.307 D. from the stream below. More favoured, we T.ii 501 Much. I was born of woman, and d. milk T. iii 196 He d. the liturgy, and framed the rights T. vi 679 D. a rough copy of the Christian face T.T. 614
D. not his life from woman; never gazed Y.O. 145 In praise harmonious the first air he d. Y.O. 155

DRIBBLING.

The d. stream ne'er puts it out again P.E. 822 For ever d. out their base contents T. iv 506

DRIED.

With which when neatly peeled and d. T.B. 29

DRIFT.

Of all that Wisdom dictates the d. T. 513 Force not my d. beyond its just intent Tir. 505

DRIFTED.

Wide scampering, snatches up the d. snow T. v 49

Or having, kept concealed. Some d. and bore \bar{T} . iii DRILLED.

And d. in holes, the solid oak is found T. i 26

DRINK.

Fast as the thirsting ear can d, the sound Ch, 112 D. wisdom at the milky stream of light Ch. 319 While others poison what the flock must d. Ex. 100 Come, prophet, d., and tell us what think you? H.
Must go to heaven—and I must d. Link you? My d. the morning dew G. 3 Must go to heaven—and I must d. his health H. 412 Too covetous of d. O. i 10 He cannot d. five bottles, bilk the score P.E. 193 Then kill a constable, and d. five more P.E. 194 Thou fountain at which d, the good and wise P.E. 466 He that sips often, at last d. it up P.E. 581 The sun, a world whence other worlds d. light R. 81 To d, sweet waters of the crystal well T, i 240 Their pendant boughs, stooping as if to d. T. i 269 D., when we choose it, at the fountain head T. ii 502 And drought on all the d. herbs around E.

D. and be mad then; 'tis your country bids! T. iv To swear, to game, to d.; to show at home T iv! He d. his simple beverage with a gust T.T. 240 Of the same grove, and d. one common stream TA huge throat calling to the clouds for d. Y.O.

DRINKING.

Where neither strumpet's charms, nor d.bout Tir. DRIPPING.

Nor blasts that shake the d. bower Mrs. M-16 With d. rains, or withered by a frost T. ii 211 And drunk no moisture from the d. clouds T. iii For a nosegay, so d. and drowned The Rose 10

Who d. a loathsome traffic, gauge and span Ch. Would d. them forth from the resort of men $C_{\mathfrak{A}}$ And daily threaten to d, them E, iv 17 Should spring within thy bosom, d. it thence) Ez. D. through the realms of Sin, where Riot reels H. To d. up to the door, lest all J.G. 35 Me howling blasts d. devious, tempest-tossed l D. to their dens the obedient beasts of prey R. Attends him; d. his cattle to a march T. iv 647 And d, the wedge in yonder forest drear T. $v \notin$ Or d. it devious with a dextrous pat Tir. 309

DRIVEL.

Should ever d. out of human lips T. v 285

DRIVELING. Sniveling and d. folly without end P.E. 310

DRIVELLER.

If some mere d, suck the sugared fib P.E. 530DRIVEN.

Wherever d. by wind or tide P. 53 D. out an exile from the face of Saul R. 768 By gales of blessing d. St. iii 32 Plashed neatly, and secured with d. stakes T. is Were d. from Paradise: and in that hour T. $\forall i$ D. to the slaughter, goaded, as he runs T. vi That creeping pestilence is d. away T. vi 785 To fairy land be d. Miss — 22

DRIVER.

The boorish d. leaning o'er his team T. i 298 DRIVING.

Blown all aslant, a d., dashing rain T. 239 The mind He gave me; d. it, though slack T. And to the stir of Commerce, d. slow T. iii 7That crowd away before the d. wind T. $\forall 3$ His skill in coachmanship, or d. chaise Tir. That wants no d. and disdains the lead T.T.

DRIZZLING.

Bade rise in haste a dark and d. fog A.T. 94 And if perchance, on some dull, d. day II. 37 DROLL.

And in the saddest part ory-" D.indeed!" Ca He doubtless is in sport, and does but d. T. With d. sobriety they raised a smile T.T.658

DRONE-PIPE.

That's worse—the d. of an humblebee Con. DRONING.

If priest, supinely d. o'er his charge H. 198 DROOP.

Should d, and wither where they grow P. 54

d cheers the d. flowers, unheard, unseen J.T. 40 charm the sorrows of a d. friend R. 292 chilling flood on summer's d. flowers T.T. 211 berty blushed, and hung her d. head T.T. 324

DROP.

one by one from Fame's neglecting hand B.B. 6 half exhibits, and then d. the sum Ch. 478 e dozing sages d. the drowsy strain Con. 247 u rise and d. the curtain—now 'tis night Con. 332 d every d. bespeaks a Saviour thine E. ii 48 grasshoppers, as dust, a d., a dream? Ex. 345 ey d. through mere desire to prate F. 71 rth glitters with the d. the night distils H. 42 at Pity had engendered, d. one here H. 677 d. at once his fetters and his fear H. 725 poet's d. of ink? O. i 12 astrious d.! and happy then O. i 21 [396 at shakes the glittering d. from every thorn R. m d. descending in a shower of light R. 350 d the rein, and leaves him to his pace T. 247 the red vengeance from his willing hand T. 278 te kindred d. been mingled into one T. ii 19 from the lips a disregarded thing T. ii 565 mixed with d. of bitter, which Neglect T. iii 46 ed of Heaven's sweet mercy in his cup T. iii 804 id d, the night-bolt;—ruffians are abroad T, iv 568 id shrubs of fairy land. The crystal d. T. v 113 om many a twig the pendant d. of ice T. vi 83 re every d. of honey hides a sting T. vi 830 ast d. indeed the hope of public praise T. vi 973 a money chinks, down d. their chins Y.D. 51

DROPPED.

 \mathbf{s} d. her anchor, and her canvass furled Ch. 443 quick approach, and soon he d. D.W. 35 at d. upon his Bible was sincere H. 575 sapples might hang till they d. from the tree P.A. id, having d. the expected bag, pass on T. iv. 11

BOPPING.

d. buckets into empty wells T. iii 189

DROSS.

id made all pleasures else mere d. to me " H. 537 It sensuality and d. behind T. 526 aveying worthless d. into its place T. i 572

DROUGHT. [iii 555 oisture and d., mice, worms, and swarming flies T. \mathbf{M} d. on all the drooping herbs around \mathbf{E} , ii 50 fter long d., when rains abundant fall N.A.59hat can alone make sweet the bitter d. T. i 751 $_{\rm alm}$ and alternate storm, moisture and d. Y.O. 77

DROVE.

int d. them to the Bell J.G. 218

DROWN.

ad d him in her dry and dusty gulfs T. ii 149 od. it? What is his creation less T. ii 200 or drunk enough to d. it. In the midst T. v 615

DROWNED.

thers, that earth, ere Sin had d. it all A.T. 46 or a nosegay, so dripping and d. The Rose 10

DROWSY.

he dozing sages drop the d. strain Con. 247nows d. as the clicking of a clock H. 104 hou was not heard with d. disregard S. 115

DRUDGE.

a patient d. with dry chaff and weeds R. 48 Let ask the noble d. in state affairs R. 407 corns the base hireling, and the slavish d. T. 228 henceforth they are his cattle: d. born T. v 272 and teach one tyrant pity for his d. T. vi 723

DRUDGERY.

The poor, inured to d. and distress H. 7

DRUG.

Thou art indeed the d. a gardener wants Con. 255 A fever's agonies, and fed on d. T. i 446

DRUGGED.

Or do they still, as if with opium d. T. iv 26

DRUID.

Sat the D., hoary chief B. 6 Thy D. struck the well strung harps they bore Ex. And every hallowed D, was a bard T.T.503When our forefathers D, in their oaks Y.0. 10

He hates the field, in which no fife or d. T. iv 646 Playing at beat of d., their martial pranks T.T.136

DRUNK.

[ii 808 Their points obtuse, and feathers d. with wine! T. Enthusiasts d. with an unreal joy P.E. 76 And judgment d., and bribed to lose his way P.E. 450 And d. no moisture from the dripping clouds T. iii 515 All learned, and all d. ! the fiddle screams T. iv 478 Gloriously d., obey the important call! T. iv 510 Conscious of impotence they soon grow d. T. v 255 Nor d, enough to drown it. In the midst T, v 615

DRUNKARDS.

True Christians are, dissemblers, d., thieves H. 508 But know, the law that bids the d. die P.E. 199 Of d., or the music-drawing bow St. ii 12

DRUNKEN.

Such d. reelings, have an awkward look Con. 862 By d. howlings; and the chilling tale T. iv 562 Shall win his heart, and have his d. praise Tir. 215

DRUNKENNESS.

F833 Now flushed with d., now with whoredom pale Tir. DRY.

And echo conversations dull and d. Con. 211 Reports it hot or cold, or wet or d. Com. 386 Through the d. leaves, and pants upon the string Ex.

Shall shine and d. the tear N. 24 Its patient drudges with d. chaff and weeds R. 48 And all, impatient of d. land, agree R. 523 And comforts cease. Dress drains our cellar d. T. ii A sleeping fog, and fancies it d. land T. 4 $\lceil T \rceil$ T. i 566 Which, kindled with d. leaves, just saves unquenched That d. his feathers, saturate with dew T. i 494 Their ancient barriers, deluging the d.? T. ii 56 And drown him in her d. and dusty gulfs T. ii 149 Grand caterer and d. nurse of the church T. ii 371 D. fern or littered hay, that may imbibe T. iii 476 A d. but independent crust, hard earned T. iv 409

DRYADS.

Nereids or D., as the fashion leads R. 537

DUB.

Praise his proficiency, and d. him man P.E. 368

DUBIOUS.

Aiding a d, and deficient sight Ch. 329 Man on the d. waves of error tossed T. 1

DUBIUS.

D. is such a scrupulous good man Con. 119

D. paddle in the pond, before the door R. 499

DUCTILE.

Smooth, d., and even his fancy must flow F.M. 18

DUE.

Heaven awards the vengeance d. B. 42 But first the squire's, a compliment but d. Ch. 470 Springs in d. time supply for the distressed Ch. 482 They fill their measure, and receive their d. Com. 34 And in d. time feeds heartily on both Com. 338 [750] (And in d. time the world shall know it too) Con. Lest they miscarry of what seems their d. Con. 372 For mercy shown, while wrath is justly d. Con. 492 To give the creature the Creator's d. \dot{E} . ii 3 The debt, which justly became d. E. iv 23 If Vice received her retribution d. Ex. 247 Some blemish in d. time made known F. 146 And hope, in d. time, to behold Gr. 31 While Passion turns aside from its d. scope H. 113 To win d. credence to what follows next N.A.72To give to Virtue what is Virtue's d. P.E. 294 Assert the skies, and vindicate her d. T. 490 Praise justly d. to those that I describe T. i 180 To adorn the Sofa with eulogium d. T. iii 12 Emerging, must be deemed a labour d. T. iii 631 And surfeited lewd town with her fair d. T. iii 758 D. sustenance, or where subsist they now? T. imes 79 Where all was vitreous, but in order d. T. v 161 That in d, season he forgets it too T. v. 267 Holds its d. course, nor fears the frosts of age T. vi But fairer wreaths are d., though never paid T. v712 D. to thy last, and most effectual work T. vi 904 Claims more than half the praise as his d. share Tir.528Though want of d, restraint alone have bred Tir.533And, more than all, with commendation d. Tir. 646 Content of heart, more praises still are d. V. 90

DUEL.

A d. in the form of a debate Con. 84

DUKE.

The parson knows enough who knows a d. Tir. 403 But, having found him, be thou d. or earl Tir. 706 DULCET.

The mulberry tree was hymn'd with d, airs T, vi 687

DULCIMER.

Psaltery and sackbut, d. and flute P.E. 133 DULL.

And echo conversations d. and dry Con. 211 And chase the splenetic d. hours away Con. 582 That truth itself is in her head as d. Con. 779 And the d. service of the lip were there Ex. 44 To fill the d. vacuity till four H. 78 A d. rotation, never at a stay H. 101 And if, perchance, on some d., drizzling day H. 371 Yet this d. room, and that dark closet M.F. 4 [408] Chafed him, and brought d. nature to a glow P.E. Ingenious to diversify d, life R, 520 Then Heaven, eclipsed so long, and this d. earth R. Envy, ye great, the d. unlettered small T. 375 Torpid and d. beneath a frozen zone T. 481 D. in design, and clumsy to perform T. i 18 There touched by Reynolds, a d. blank becomes T. i I cannot think thee yet so d. of heart T. i 651 But comes at last the d. and dusky eve T. i 669 Discourse ensues, not trivial, yet not d. T. iv 174 That drag the d. companion to and fro T. iv 368 Some have amused the d. sad years of life T. v 180 To him whose moments all have one d. pace T. v 407 D. as it is, and satisfy a law T. vi 217 The knowledge of the World, and d. of thought Tir. The punch goes round, and they are d. Y.D. 45 He was excused the penalties of d. Y.O. 156

DULNESS.

Grave without d., learned without pride Con. 609

And D. of Discretion F. 6 Or shine the d. of still life away R. 746 To palliate d., and give time a shove T. iv 210 When Labour and when D., club in hand T.T. 526

Wrath stays him, or else God would strike them ! He might as well be blind, and deaf, and d. Con. 14 As well for them had prophecy been d. H. 255 [57] Loud when they beg, d. only when they steal T. Of harmless Nature, d., but yet endued T. iii 329And makes the task his own. Inspiring d. T. vi 474 Praise him on earth, or obstinately d. Tir. 101 D. as a senator, and as a priest Tir. 424 And a complete recovery struck him d. T.T. 393

DUNCE.

How much a d. that has been sent to roam P.E. 41! Excels a d. that has been kept at home P.E. 416 Give e'en a d. the employment he desires R. 613 Proceeding soon a graduated d. T. ii 739 And many a d., whose fingers itch to write T.T.111 Or candidly confess yourself a d. T.T. 571 Would you your son should be a sot or d. Tir. 201

DUNGEON.

But knowledge such as only d. teach Ch. 303 Upon his d. walls the lightning play H.718What a mere d, is this house! M.F. 2In some unwholesome d., and a prey T. i 437 Ye d. and ye cages of despair T. v 386Stripes, and a d.; and his body serves T. v 582

DUPE. And made her d. see all things with her eyes) 4.7.3The pharisee the d. of his own art Ex. 93 D. of to-morrow even from a child M.P. 41

And of all hearts sagacious d. invent P.E. 435 He that hates truth shall be the d. of lies P.E. 607 The d. of pleasure, or the slaves of gain R. 24 Such d. are men to custom, and so prone T. v 299

DURABLE.

Have a being less d. even than he P.F. 20 Twas d.; as worthless as it seemed T. v 174That we account most d. below Y.O.71

DURATION.

When, earth's assigned d, at an end R, 653

DURHAM'S.

Though placed in golden D.'s second stall T. 120

Scarce noticed in the kindred d. of eve T. iv 321 DUSKY.

And wood and lawn in d. folds enclosed A.T. 96To them the deep recess of d. groves R. 181 But comes at last the dull and d. eve T. i 669

As ever mingled with heroic d. Ch. 24 Their author's frailty, and return to d. Com. 554 And sift the d. behind the door E. iv 42 Cry aloud, thou that sittest in the d. Ex. 267 [30] That yields them chaff and d., and nothing more E_{I} Bids rottenness invade, and bring to d. Ex. 332 As grasshoppers, as d., a drop, a dream? Ex. 345Kneel now, and lay thy forehead in the d. Ez. 554 Secure from collision and d. Gr. 22 Have burnt to d. a nobler pile M. i 3 Breathes clouds of d., and calls it country air R. 48 Her palaces are d. In all her streets T, ii 77 [16] Great contest follows, and much learned d. T. ii Minute as d. and numberless, oft work T. iii 556 nd fairly laid the zodiac in the d. T. iii 647 bey roll themselves before him in the d. T. v 260 ad licks the foot that treads it in the d. T. v 356 e turn to d., and all our mightiest works T. v 531 d in the d., sifted and searched in vain T. v 536 hoform'd him from the d., his future grave T. vi 349 smed to the d., or lodged already there T. vi 741 e d. that waits upon his sultry march T. vi 741 e next mere d. and ashes in the grave T vr. 60 mmits her eggs, incautious, to the d. T:T. 791 ings down the warrior's trophy to the d. T:T. 7 art up sagacious, covered with the d. T:T. 170 w, from the d. of ancient days, bring forth T:T. 376

DUSTY.

d drown him in her dry and d. gulfs T. ii 149 to that which sends him to the d. grave T. v 609

DUTCH.

sides, if we do, the French, D., and Danes P.A. 9

DUTY.

id laws and d. are neglected things A.T. 33 rake at D.'s call D.W. 42 minst the well-known d. of a friend E. iii 49 ciprocated d. F. 48 to discharge the d. of his sphere H. 400 Ids joy to d., makes me glad to pay M.P. 70 we the means that d. urges N.C. 31 ace, both the d. and the prize N.G. 37 d a mere sport, or an employ ? R. 649 here D. bids he confidently steers R.H. 6 om the strict d. of the sacred day? T. 49 pert in all the d. of his place T. 206 an in the bounds of d.? What was learned T. ii 754 loose to private d., that no brain T. v 512 share of d. decently fulfilled T. vi 1001 ith decent d., not ashamed to pray Tir. 176 bound in d., would confirm the choice Tir. 419 rene, and to his d. much inclined Tir. 774 here D. placed them, at their country's side T.T. 24 r draw it, but when D. bids him draw T.T. 78 if their d, were a desperate task T.T. 313

DWARFISH.

ie l., in the rear retired, but still T. iii 594

DWELL.

Mere d. in the midst of alarms A.S. 7 [Ex. 167] here d. they now? Where dwelt in ancient day be tender theme on which they chose to d. Con. 528 hills yet he d. below, must stoop to glean F.A. 37 f those that walk at evening where ye d. H. 472 here d. a consciousness in every breast H. 636 nation d., not envious of your throne Her. 49 add. there in a female heart Miss — 1 1 there a wish in such a breast Miss — 5 1 b joy can ever d. Miss — 44

D. in white and black the same N.C. 16
There d. some wish in every heart N.Y.G. 15
Where wilt thou d., if not with me O. ii 7
"Ah, hapless wretch! condemned to d. P. 5
Votaries of Pleasure, where'er she d. R. 539 [T.229
"Where d. these matchless saints?" old Curio cries
By wealth or dignity, who d. secure T. i 593
Whom God delights in, and in whom He d. T. v 778
And equal; and he bade them d. in peace T. v 201
There d. the most forlorn of human kind T. v 397
Have offtimes no connexion. Knowledge d. T. vi 89
No cat had leave to d. T.B. 21
As d. at large in Britain's chartered land T.T. 259
To teach, no Spirit d. in thee, nor voice Y.O. 138

DWELLER.

Vain thought! the d. in that still retreat T. i 237 The d. in the vales and on the rocks T. vi 793

DWELLING.

His d. a recess in some rude rock T. 79

DWELT.

Where dwell they now? Where d. in ancient day Ex. By mummeries He that d. in it disdained Ex. 146 Where once we d. our name is heard no more M.P. 46 And still unsated, d. upon the scene T. i 158 There d. a sage called Discipline. His head T. ii 702 D. young Misagathus; a scorner he T. vi 485 D. visibly the light-creating God T. 390 [T.T. 168 Thus men, whose thoughts contemplative have d.

DWINDLED.

Have d. into unrespected forms T. i 747

DYE.

The peacock sends his heavenly d. Mrs. M— 3 D. them at last in all their glowing hues Tir. 48

DYED.

With fingers deeply d. in human gore Ex. 497 Should suffer torture, and the streams be d. T. vi 390 With sounding whip, and rowels d. in blood T. vi 527

DYING.

D., hurled them at the foe B. 40 [499]
Upon the rolling chords rung out his d. breath Ex.
In d. sighs my little breath G. 11
Oh what a d., d. close was there! P.E. 64
The d., trembling at the awful close T. 436
That feeds upon the sobs and d. shrieks T. iii 328
At a safe distance, where the d. sound T. iv 92
But d. soon, like all terrestrial joys T. iv 382
At the sword's point, and d. the white robe T. iv 682
In cadence sweet, now d. all away T. vi 8
The spaniel d. for some venial fault T. vi 418
And glistening even in the d. eye T. vi 631
He thought the d. hour already come T.T. 392

$\mathbf{E}.$

EAGER.

ler e. thought, and feeds her flowing joys Ch. 405 keaped my e. hand D.W. 20 hile e. Hodge beholds the prize E. iv 43 hr. wing the spoiler came P.B. 5 hou climbest the mountain top, with e. eye T. i 664 lh thou, whom, borne on fancy's e. wing Tir. 131

With e. step, and carelessly arrayed R. 187 [73] Truths that the learned pursue with e. thought Tir.

EAGERLY

When, looking e. around N.G. 7

EAGLE

And darting through his helm an e.'s eye A.T. 148

Where his e. never flew B. 31 Then the proud e. of all-conquering Rome Ex. 209 On special search, the keen-eyed e. blind Ex. 631 Where finds Philosophy her e. eye T. i 712 As if an e. flew aloft, and then T.T. 552

EAGLE-EYED.

This truth, Philosophy, though e. T. ii 174

EAGLE-PINIONED.

Shook the young leaves about her e. A Fable 12

Placed with advantage at his listening e. A.T. 181

But the Muse e., has in view P.E. 331

EAR. While Chief Baron E, sat to balance the laws A, C, 7

Fast as the thirsting e. can drink the sound Ch. 112 These have an e. for his paternal call Ch. 250 Gathering around it, with erected e. Ch. 516 [135] Yet, though he tease and balk your listening e. Con. Nose, e., and eyes seem present on the spot Con. 318Is note for note deliver'd in our e. Con. 455 Be never named in e. esteemed polite Con. 474 His rich materials, and regale your e. Con. 617 Nor e. heard huntsman's halloo Ep. ii 4 For e. and hearts that he can hope to please? Ex. E. long accustomed to the pleasing lute Ex. 68But raise the shrillest cry in British e. Ex. 271 Whoever keeps an open e. F. 97 Like music it tinkles and rings in your e. F.M. 7 His eyes shut fast, his fingers in his e. H. 658 And laughter sounds like madness in his e. H. 703 The sound of pardon pierce his startled e. H. 724 Brings to the distant e. a sullen sound Her. 36 Each bottle had a curling e. J.G. 69 But soon my e. caught the glad news M.D. 43 The sweetest that e. ever heard M.D. 18 [N.A. 25 With tails high mounted, e. hung low, and throats Though e.'s she gave me two, gave me no e. N.A. 28 Have all articulation in his c. N.A. 68 Falls soporific on the listless e. P.E. 20 Cry in his startled e., "Abstain from sin!" P.E. 38 The full concerto swells upon your e. P.E. 128 The precious stream still purling in his e. P.E. 232 Sounds harshly in so delicate an e. R. 250 Yet by his e. directed, guessed R.C. 83 Saluting his poetic e. R.C. 89 Legends prolix delivers in the e. S. i 2 Oft repeated in your e. St. iv 18 His measured step were governed by his e. T. 63 The truth is (if the truth may suit your e. T. 113 To soothe and satisfy the human e. T. 199 Come, then—a still, small whisper in your e. T. 297 Yield only discord in his maker's c. T. 386 How does it grate upon his thankless c. T. 465 Taught the raised shoulders to invade the e. T. i 67 Just undulates upon the listening e. T. i 175 And taints the golden ϵ . He springs his mines T. ii From such unpleasing sounds as haunt the e. T. i 229 Full on the destined e. Wide flies the chaff T. i 359 Might never reach me more! My e. is pained T. ii 5 Swarms in all quarters; meets the eye, the e. T. ii 818 Begs a propitious e. for his poor thoughts T. iv 68 Fall a soft murmur, on the uninjured e. T. iv 93 May prove a trumpet, summoning your e. T. iv 570 Ere yet her e. was mistress of their powers T. iv 703 Shaggy, and lean, and shrewd, with pointed e. T. v 45 Of his lost bees to her maternal ϵ . T. v 137With music such as suits their sovereign e. T. v 387 And goodness infinite, but speak in e. T. v 854 A voice is heard that mortal e. hear not T. v 886 Your house about your e. Pat. 16 And, as the mind is pitch'd, the e. is pleased T. vi 2 Falling at intervals upon the e. T. vi 7

Much to persuade, he plied his e. with truths T.

Is but to gratify an itching e. T. vi 643

And perks his e.'s, and stamps, and cries aloud T.

To charm his e., whose eye is on the heart T. vi 100

The leathern e. of stockjobbers and Jews T.T. 187

They cry aloud in every careless e. T.T. 434

Thus all success depending on an e. T.T. 514

So nice his e., so delicate his touch) T.T. 653

For aided both by e. and scent T.B. 49

To e. and eyes, the vices of the rest Tir. 274

A parent pours into regardless e. Tir. 590

And listening close with both his e. Tran. iv 20

In my own e. such matter as I may Y.O. 143

Nor owed articulation to his e. Y.O. 148

EAR-ERECTING.

So bountiful, in whose attentive c. T. vi 460

He cherups brisk his e. steed T. iii 9

EARL.

Guy E. of Warwick and fair Eleanore Con. 243 By some lewd e., or rakehell baronet P.E. 314 But, having found him, be thou duke or e. Tir. 70

EARLIER.

Could fetch from records of an e. age Con. 615

But down to latest age, from e. youth H. 232

Our most important are our e. years P.E. 354

EARLIEST.

By reminiscence to his e. date? F.A. 23

To one, from our e. youth Gr. 42

EARLY.

And to say truth, though in its e. prime Con. 633 Exclaims "Prepare thee for an e. shroud" Ep. i l Either too e. or too late Mor. 58 The call of e. Spring N. 4 The sun accomplishing his e. march N.A. 29 What e, philosophic hours he keeps R, 429 Round Thurlow's head in e, youth Th. 1 Those blessings of our e. youth The Doves 11 There we grow e. grey, but never wise T. ii 633 But there I laid the scene. There e. strayed T. iv 69 In the low vale of life, that e. felt T. iv 799 With never cloying odours, e. and late T. vi 164 In e. days the conscience has in most Tir. 109 Our e. notices of truth, disgraced Tir. 199 We love the play-place of our e. days Tir. 297 With all the adventures of his e. life Tir. 325 In e. years connected, time unbinds Tir. 439 Hurt too perhaps for life; for e. wrong Tir. 490 Where e. rest makes e. rising sure Tir. 765

EARN.

And echoing praises, such as fiends might e. Her. 6 E. if you want; if you abound, impart P.E. 253 Just e. a scanty pittance, and at night T. 321 Toils much to e. a monumental pile T. i 276 Well spent in such a strife, may e. indeed T. v 713

EARNED.

As ever e. a lady's love in fight A.T. 2
And e. too late, it wants the grace Mor. 37 [T.vi3]
His rage grew cool; and pleased perhaps to have
That sinews bought and sold have ever e. T. ii 32
Well-managed shall have e. its worthy price T. iii 81
A dry but independent crust, hard e. T. iv 409
So Gideon e. a victory not his own T.T. 360

EARNEST.

Is given in e. of eternal rest E. ii 40

EARNESTLY.

And, occupied as e. as she T. vi 917

EARTH.

Or all that this e. can afford A.S. 28 Others, that e., ere Sin had drowned it all A.T. 46 Thou that hast wasted e., and dared despise Ch. 69 That e. has seen, or fancy can devise Ch. 254 Compasses e., dives into it, ascends Ch. 315 Whether he measure c., compute the sea Ch. 353 'Tis truth divine, exhibited on e. Ch. 377 To be resolved into their parent e. Ch. 562 Its fruit on e., its growth above the skies Ch. 578 Tis the most asinine employ on e. Con. 209 To find it stuffed with brickbats, e., and stones Con. For all is perfect that God works on e. Con. 433 The time is short, and there are souls on e. Con. 493 Content on e. in earthly things to shine Con. 583 That there are blest inhabitants of e. Con. 723 [266 With none on e, that thou canst call thine own Ex. Where Paradise seemed still vouchsafed on e. Ex. 420 This island, spot of unreclaimed rude e. Ex. 468 Thy thunders travel over e, and seas Ex, 582 They could not purchase e. with such a prize Ex. 622 And this delightful e., and that fair sky Ex. 638 E. glitters with the drops the night distils H. 42 And c. has no reality but wee" H. 68 Hope with uplifted foot, set free from e. H. 161 Peace be to those (such peace as E. can give) H. 229 This e. shall blaze, and a new world succeed H. 749 That shook the circling seas and solid e. Her. 14 Clothes it with e., and bids the produce live Her. 30 E. seems a garden in its loveliest dress Her. 57 From loins enthroned, and rulers of the e. M.P. 109 For baking e., or burning rock to lime N.A. 18 In e. dark womb have found at last a vent N.A. 86 From e. or hell, we can but plunge at last N.A. 122 Diffused, make E. the vestibule of Hell P.E. 465 And atheist, if E. bear so base a slave) P.E. 615 Till yonder heaven and e. shall mingle P.T. 33 Their wishes all impregnated with e. R. 36 [P.E.74 Detach the soul from e., and speed her to the skies? Once prone on e., now buoyant upon air R. 66 Despise his bulwarks, and unpeople e. R. 72 E. made for man, and man himself for him R. 116 On e. what is, seems formed indeed for us R. 106 Then Heaven, eclipsed so long, and this dull e. R. 355 E.'s millions daily fed, a world employed R.553Divide the frail inhabitants of e. R. 648 When, e.'s assigned duration at an end R. 653 To dance on e., and charm all human eyes R. 796 E., seas, and sun, adieu! St. iii 10 Called up from E. to Heaven St. iii 30 To call up Plenty from the teeming E.-T. 181 No slaves on e, more welcome were than they T. 352 E. gives too little, giving only bread T. 365 Supreme on e., and worthy of the skies T. 408 To all on E., and to Himself above T. 558 Disfigures E., and, plotting in the dark T. i 275 The chequered e, seems restless as a flood T, i 344 The E. was made so various, that the mind T. i 506 And fungus fruits of e., regales the sense T. i 532 And must be bribed to compass e. again T. i 676 Not more the glory of the ϵ , than she T, i 723 Of wrong and outrage with which e. is filled T. ii 7 And crazy e. has had her shaking fits T. ii 60 Displeasure in his breast who smites the c. T. ii 69 How does the e. receive him? with what signs T. ii 83 Grows fluid; and the fixed and rooted e. T. ii 1 Kindled in Heaven, that it burns down to e. T. ii 134 The e. shall shake him out of all his holds T. ii 146 Were he on e., would hear, approve, and own T. ii 396 The solid e., and from the strata there T. iii 15] That He will judge the e., and call the fool T. iii 178 And bid them hide themselves in e. beneath T. iii 213 The only amaranthine flower on e. T. iii 268

Though placed in Paradise (for e. has still T. iii 298 Thrice must the voluble and restless e. T. iii 490 These on the warm and genial e, that hides T, iii 516 Oh thou resort and mart of all the e. T. iii 835 [645 Has made a Heaven on e.; with suns and moons T. iii Assimilates all objects. E. receives T. iv 329 [iv 82 Heaven, e., and ocean, plundered of their sweets T. From Heaven to E., of lambent flame serene T. v 153 Thus war began on e.; these fought for spoil T. v 228 Thy native nook of e.! Thy clime is rude T. v 462 Of E. and Hell confederate take away T. v 541 [803 To e.'s acknowledged Sovereign, finds at once $ar{T}.~v.$ "And stored the e.so plenteously with means T.v 636 Praise that from e. resulting, as it ought T. v 802 To gratulate the new-created e. T. v 820 [T. ▼ 80 E. yields them nought: the imprisoned worm is safe And Flora, and Vertumnus, peopling $e.\ T.\ ext{vi } 234$ The forms with which he sprinkles all the e. T. vi 246 And e. be punish'd for its tenants' sake T. vi 257 E. groans beneath the burden of a war T. vi 392 Whom once, as delegate of God on e. T. vi 399 But many a crime deem'd innocent on e. T. vi 439 Shall visit e. in mercy; shall descend T. vi 743 Rivers of gladness water all the e. T. vi 763 E, rolls the rapturous hosanna round T, vi 797 All kingdoms and all princes of the e. T. vi 801 O Sion! an assembly such as e. T. vi 816 Whose power is such, that whom she lifts from e. T. Receive yet one, the crown of all the e. T. vi 856 And mischief in their hands, they roam the e. T. vi 896 To yon fair Sun and his attendant E.? Tir. 36 If all we find possessing e., sea, air Tir. 91 Praise him on e., or obstinately dumb Tir. 101 The wretch shall rise, and be the thing on e. Tir. 412 To spread the e. before him, and commend Tir. 640 The impoverished e.; an overbearing race T. iii 672 That theme on e. exhausted, though above T.T. 594 A soul exalted above E., a mind T.T.704E. shakes beneath them, and Heaven roars above T.T.To fame as lasting as the e, pretend V. 17 While E, wears a mantle of snow W.N. 13 And far the richest crown on e. 1789, 42 The good on e, they valued most 1789, 51

EARTHLY.

Content on earth in e. things to shine Con. 583
Denied that e. opulence they choose Ex. 458
If, led from e. things to things divine H. 141
He now perceives where e. pleasure ends H. 695 [78
And e. sounds, though sweet and well combined P.E.
The richest e. boon his hands afford R. 271
Yet how fallacious is all e. bliss R. 457
Fond of the phantom of an e. rest R. 764
That flattered me with hopes of e. bliss T. iv 696
From fool to wise, from e. to divine T. v 696
Ghostly in office, e. in his plan Tir. 422

EARTH-RUST.

Where neither grub, nor root, nor e. now T. v 90

EARTHQUAKE.

An e. may be bid to spare A Fable 34 But shipwreck, e., battle, fire, and flood Ch. 282 Thunder and e., and devouring flames T. 548

TRASE

Enjoyed at e. the genial day A Fable 7
Well fed, and at his e. Beau 2
And e. a doggish pain Beau 10
Gives difficulty all the grace of e. Ch. 110
And, Avarice being judge, with e. succeeds Ch. 195
Might swing at e. behind his study door Ch. 615
To press your point with modesty and e. Con. 104
A life of e. would make them harder still E. ii 22

That Matthew's numbers run with e. E. iv 67 Yet fear, youth ofttimes healthful and at e. Ep. i 7 Thou canst not read, with readiness and e. Ex. 312 And all at home is pleasure, wealth, and e. Ex. 583 Truths useful and attainable with e. F.A. 32 With e, and find them nutriment; but man F.A.36And chattels of leisure and e. Gr. 50 Forsaking country, kindred, friends, and e. H. 585 Such is his thirst of opulence and e.) Her. 68 To live, unblessed, in torpid e. Miss — 27 Have speech for him, and understood with e. N.A. 58 Of peace or e. to creatures clad as we N.A. 114 Not for my own content or e. P. 8
His scruples thus silenced, Tom felt more at e. P.A. Where children would with e. discern the way P. E. 434 With the same e. that man puts on his gown ? P.E.103 The mind, impressible and soft, with e. P.E. 355 A just deportment, manners graced with e. P.E. 421Lay his old age upon the lap of E.-R. 12 Contrivance intricate expressed with s. R. 55 God in a moment executes with e. R. 328 Lolls at his e. behind four handsome bays R. 392 A life of e. a difficult pursuit R. 634 Sometimes her e. and solace sought R.C. 15 Recumbent at her ϵ ere long R.C. 45 To blend good sense and elegance and e. S. ii 11 Consults all day your interest and your e. T. 217 Think with what pleasure, safe and at his e. T. 253 And cavil at with e., but none refute T. 360 Distressed the weary loins that felt no e. T. i 45 Burly and big, and studious of his e. T. i 63 And ill at e. behind. The ladies first T. i 70 That mounts the stile with e., or leaps the fence T. i From strenuous toil his hours of sweetest e. T. i 388 Like a coy maiden, E., when courted most T. i 409 In manners—victims of luxurious e. T. i 625 In cities, vice is hidden with most e. T. i 689 And lay it at its e. with gentle care T. ii 449 And winds his way with pleasure and with c. T. iii 10 Me, therefore, studious of laborious e. T. iii 361 A faithful barrier, not o'erleaped with e. T. iii 681 Thus sitting, and surveying thus at c. T. iv 94 [iv 728 Though stretched at e. in Chertsey's silent bowers T. With social converse and instructive e. T. iv 135 Thus oft reclined at e., I lose an hour T. iv 302 Hail, therefore, patroness of health and e. T. iv 780 A wish for e. and leisure, and ere long T. iv 800 Found here that leisure and that e. I wished T. iv 801 Great purposes with e., that turns and wields T.v252With as much e, as Samson his green withes $T \times 737$ With e., and is at large. The oppressor holds $T \times 774$ And pedantry that coxcombs learn with e. T vi 290 Engage no notice, and enjoy much e. T vi 957 [118 With wholesome learning, yet acquired with e. Tir. The rude will scuffle through with s. enough Tir. 340 A public school shall bring to pass with e. Tir. 372 No longer takes, as once, with fearless a. Tir. 569 And his address, if not quite French in e. Tir. 670 Secure and at his e. Tran. ii 18 Must follow royalty, then welcome e. T.T. 165 [764 Though Butler's wit, Pope's numbers, Prior's e. T.T. To exchange content for trouble, e. for pain V. 64 Fulfilled with e. had you been so inclined V. 22 [19 Seeking her food, with e. might have purloined Y.O.

EASED.

Who, if from labour e. Miss - 62

EASIER.

With both our eyes, is e. than to think Tir. 256 Were occupation e. to be found Tir. 701

EASIEST

For there the game they seek is e. found Tir. 520

EASILY.

Traced ϵ , to its true source above J.T. 45

EAST.

From E. to West, no sorrow can be found Er. 28
Exported alayery to the conquered E.? Ez. 365
I care not whether e. or north M.B. 21
Now shifted e., and e. by north P.T. 51
And aguish e., till time shall have transformed T. iii
A prisoner in the yet undawning e. T. iv 130
Thy vigorous pulse, and the unhealthful E.—T. iv 363
A native of the gorgeous e. Tran. iv 2
Looks to the westward from the dappled e. T.T. 706

EASTERN.

Of e. groves, and oceans floored with ice Ez. 16
'Tis heard where England's E. glory shines H. 457
She spreads the morning over e. hills H. 41
No pleasure! Has some sickly e. waste P.E. 255
Is heard salvation. E. Java there T. vi 810

EASTWARD.

Some e., and some westward, and all wrong H. 281 Turn e. now, and Fancy shall apply T. 97

acj buun u

EASY. Of dear Mat Prior's e. jingle E. iv 4 That Robert's lines are ϵ , too E, iv 70 Manly deportment, gallant, e., gay H. 407 But 'tis not e. with a mind like ours R. 123 Tis such an e. walk, so smooth and straight R. 489 'Tis e. to resign a toilsome place R. 621 Heaven's e., artless, unencumbered plan! T. 22 Rebel, because 'tis e. to obey T. 36 Genteel in figure, e. in address T. 203 O'er all his thoughts, and swelled his c. sail T. 420 But rude at first, and not with e. slope T. i 64 With curvature of slow and e. sweep T. i 352 Is obvious, placed within the e. reach T. i 598 An e. reckoning, and they think the same T. v 278 Incurs derision for his ϵ . faith T. v 500 With e. force it opens all the cells T. vi 11 And levying thus, and with an e. sway Tir. 611 Disease or comes not, or finds c. cure Tir. 766 The Frenchman, e., debonair, and brisk T.T. 236 And took, too often, there his e. nap T.T. 679

EAT.

Nor did you kill that you might e. Beau 9
Ye worms that e. into the bud of youth! Con. 40
And stop and e., for well you may J.G. 191
They might with safety e. the rest L.W. 10
Mahometans e. up the hog L.W. 22
With mouths made only to grin wide and e. R. 309
Before he e. it.—'Tis the primal curse T. i 364
A vagabond and useless tribe there e. T. i 559
It is a hungry vice;—it e. up all T. ii 680 [iii 342
Yes—thou may'st e. thy bread, and lick the hand T.
And e. into his bloody sword like rust T.T. 8

EATEN.

Till quite from tail to snout 'tis e. L.W. 38 And e. with a sigh, than to endure T. iv. 410

EATING.

By worms voracious c. through and through T. i 27

EAVES.

Sheltering the base with its projected $e.\ T.$ iii 483 The sparrows peep, and quit the sheltering $e.\ T.$ v 65

ERR.

But which, when life at e. runs weak and low R. 3 Health suffers, and the spirits e.; the heart T. i 166

[177 Where Night, down-stooping from here. throne P.E. The honours of his e. poll T.B. 13

Of rainous e. that prompts T. iv 460

ECCENTRIC.

But if e. ye forsake your sphere P.E. 98 Of modest truth for wit's e. range Tir. 174 ECHO.

And e. conversations dull and dry Con. 211 And E. learns politely to repeat Con. 827 And hills that e, to the distant herds R, 184 Hear the faint e, of those brazen throats T, iv 104 Just e. thine, whose features are thine own Tir. 846 To e. sigh for sigh, and groan for groan V. 65

"Oh, shame!" ten thousand e. nymphs replied \overline{A} . T. And e. praises, such as fiends might earn Her. 61 Adjoining close to Kilwick's e. wood N.A. 3

(For thou hast known e., and endured Ex. 392 The splendour of your lamps, they but e. T. i 765 To be preferred to smoke, to the e. T. iii 736 These are the charms that sully and e. T. iii 825 The c. that intercepts truth's heavenly beam T. v 683

Then Heaven, e. so long, and this dull earth R. 355

ECLIPSING.

That, quite e. Pleasure's painted face T.T. 649 ECONOMY.

Disturbs the e. of Nature's realm T. vi 579

ECSTACY.

The visit paid, with e. we come Con. 399 And e. attends the tear Miss - 55 E. sets her stamp on every mien P.E. 136 To e. too big to be suppress'd T. vi 340 As e., unmanacled by form T.T. 589

Ring with c. sounds unheard before R. 780.

EDEN.

That since the flowers of E. felt the blast Con. 751 Like E.'s dread probationary tree P.E. 468 Traces of E. are still seen below R. 28 And thou enjoy an E ere it fails R. 364 So E. was a scene of harmless sport T. vi 364 In E., ere yet innocence of heart T.T. 584

EDGE.

What e. of subtlety canst thou suppose T. iii 206 Beguile the night, and set a keener e. T. iv 164 To a keen c. and made it bright for war T. v 216 With his aly scythe, whose ever-nibbling e. Y.O. 105

EDGED.

Streams e. with osiers, fattening every field H. 47

EDIFICE.

Of the e. that policy has raised T. ii 817

EDIFIED.

Whoe'er was c., themselves were not! T. ii 444 Doubtless, much e., and all refreshed T. vi 693

EDIFYING.

Their weekly dole of e. strains T. v 646 EDMONTON.

Unto the Bell at E.-J.G. 11

Of E. so gay J.G. 136 At E., his loving wife J.G. 141

If wife should dine at E.-J.G. 195

EDUCATION.

That E. gives her, false or true P.E. 358 Say, muse (for e. made the song Tir. 290 Were e., else so sure to fail Tir. 702 From e., as the leading cause Tir. 911 Whom E. stiffens into state T.T. 125

EDUCE.

From mere minutiæ can e. E. i 75 Yet has the wondrous virtue to e. H. 155

And the sixth E., grace the historic page T.T. 103 EFFACED.

Still outlives many a storm that has e. M.P. 56 Till Cæsar's image is e. at last P.E. 280 Then were not all e.; then speech profane T. iv 522 Soon lose their credit, and are all e. Tir. 200

EFFECT.

E. of punishment and wrath divine A, T, 51Oh! never seen but in thy blest e. Ch. 7 Thy worst e. is banishing for hours Con. 253 (Hardly the e. of inclination E. i 99 With less excuse, and, haply, worse e.?" F.A. 17 The dire e. of mercy without price! H. 496 And the world's hatred, as its sure c. T. 282 O blessed e. of penury and want T. 361 Need other physic none to heal the e. T. i 590 Resolving all events, with their e. T. ii 163 By necessary laws their sure e. T. ii 192 Suspend the e., or heal it? Has not God T. ii 197 Of grossest nature and of worst e. T. ii 689 The grand e.; acknowledges with joy T. iii 227 Of their complete e. Much yet remains T. iii 605 The e. of laziness or sottish waste T. iv 431 Works the deplored and mischievous e. T. iv 616 Whose word leaps forth at once to its e. T. v 686 Familiar with th' e. we slight the cause T. vi. 121 Nature is but a name for an e. T. vi 223 (O wonderful e. of music's power!) T. vi 636 Different in size, but in e. the same Tir. 516 Alas, poor boy!—the natural e. Tir. 575 Blushed that e. like these she should produce T.T. 326 A dire e., by one of Nature's laws $\bar{T}.T.$ 442 'Tis but the natural e. 1789, 68

EFFECTUAL.

When, snatched from all e. aid Cast. 63 Not less e. than what Love bestows Ch. 483 And thanks for this e. close G. 14 The most important and e, guard T, ii 335 Sovereign, and most e., to secure T. ii 590 Due to thy last and most e, work T, vi 904

EFFEMINACY.

But that e., folly, last T.T. 394

EFFEMINATES.

Frown at e., whose very looks T. ii 223

EFFERVESCENCE.

Without an e. F. 129

EFFORT.

Alas! his e. double his distress Con. 343 That, after many an e. vain F.B. 16 Were but the feeble e, of a child T, 578 The firstborn e. of my youthful muse T. iv 701 The struggling e, of my boyish tongue T, iv 711 Almost without an e., plans too vast T. v 253

Their e., yet resolved with one consent T. vi 338 And every e. ends in push-pin play T.T. 547 Judged every e. of the Muse a crime T.T. 617

EFFRONTERY.

With them is courage; his e. wit Tir. 227

EGG.

Her new-laid e. she fondly pressed A Fable 2
Four ivory e. soon pave its floor A Tale 41
Remorse the fatal e. by Pleasure laid P.E. 239
Themselves were chilled, their e. were addled P.T. 55
The e. was laid from which he sprung T.B. 8
Should never game-fowl hatch her e. again T. iii 312
Enjoyed, spare feast! a radish and an e.! T. iv 173
Too proud for dairy work, or sale of e. T. iv 549
Commits her e., incautious to the dust Tir. 791
Didst burst thine e., as theirs the fabled twins Y.O. 35

EGLANTINE.

Nor grateful e. regales the smell H. 471

EGREGIOUS.

E. purpose! worthily begun Tir. 404

EGRESS.

Asks e.; which obtained, the overcharged T. iii 497

EGYPT.

Let E. plagues, and Canaan's woes proclaim Ex. 168 Of Light Divine. But E., Greece, and Rome T. ii 500 Polluting E.: gardens, fields, and plains T. ii 828

EIGHT.

E. years and five round-rolling moons Ep. ii 29 E. hundred of the brave R.G. 5 And He and his E. Hundred R.G. 35

EIGHTEEN.

The management of tyros of e. Tir. 220

EIGHTY-EIGHT.

For then the clouds of e. 1789, 36

EIGHTY-NINE.

In memorable e. 1789, 31 The spring of e. shall be 1789, 32

EKE.

A trainband captain e, was he J.G. 3 And e. with all his might J.G. 92 And e. did rear right merrily, two staves T. vi 662

ELAPSED.

Twelve years have e. since I last took a view P.F. 5 Long time e. or e'er our rugged sires T. i 68 That hour e., the incurable revolt T.T. 402 Ages e. ere Homer's lamp appeared T.T. 556

ELASTIC.

Or when it first forsakes the e. string P.E. 573 The e. spring of an unwearied foot T. i 135 His form robust and of e. tone T.T. 218

ELBOW.

All e. shake. Look in, and you would swear P.E. 129
Her e. pinioned close upon her hips T. 133
But e. still were wanting; these, some say T. i 60
The soft Settee; one e. at each end T. i 75
And in the midst an e. it received T. i 76
Convenience next suggested e. chairs T. i 87
Till prostitution e. us aside T. iii 60
Grow on the gamester's e., and the alert T. iii 761
And bored withe. points through both his sides T. iv 44
Her e. ruffled, and her tottering form T. iv 545 [160
Leaned on her e., watching Time, whose course Y.O.

ELEANORE.

Guy Earl of Warwick and fair E. Con. 243

ELECT.

The sacramental host of God's e. T. ii 349

ELECTION.

And having made c. F. 153

ELECTIVE.

Man, thus endued with an e. voice P.E. 45

ELEGANCE.

A sense of e. we rarely find R. 501 Bids these in e. of form excel R. 793 To blend good sense and e. and ease S. ii 11 A real e., a little used T. ii 611 But e., chief grace the garden shows T. iii 638

ELEGANT.

Wreathed into an e. bow Gr. 7 E. phrase, and figure formed to please P.E. 422 This e. rose, had I shaken it less The Rose 17 The jasmine, throwing wide her e. sweets T. vil73 E. as simplicity, and warm T.T. 588

ELEGANTLY.

Some mansion, neat and e. dressed T. 250 Though well perfumed and e. dressed T. vi 991

ELEMENT.

Still to that e. from which she rose Con. 266
And fit the limpid e. for use T. i 374
Your e.; there only ye can shine T. i 758
And by the voice of all its e. T. ii 52
The very e., though each be meant T. ii 137
That having wielded th' e., and built T. iii 170
Of e. tumultuous, in whom lust T. v. 308
The infant e. received a law T. vi 200
Nature in arms, her e. at strife T.T. 448
And, all the e. thy puny growth Y.O. 38

ELEVATED.

Borne far away on e. wings A.T. 31 Your e. voice goes through the brain Con. 323 And bruised the side, and, e. high T. i 66 Its e. site forbids the wretch T. i 239

ELEVATION.

Exhibits e., drawings, plans P.E. 397 Of e. down into the abyss T. ii 93 "If from your e., whence ye view T. v. 825

ELT.

Except a few with E.'s spirit blest Es. 448

ELIGIBLE.

I sought an a theme 1789, 8

ELIJAH.

And say, as stern E. said of old Con. 850 With all E.'s dignity of tone H. 624

RT.TSHA.

E.'s eye, that, when Gehazi strayed Tir. 267

ELL.

An e, or two of prospect we command T.T. 581

Rough e., or smooth-grained ash, or glossy beech R.

Stand, never overlooked, our favourite e. T. i 167 Environed with a ring of branching e. T. i 223 Of deeper green the e.; and deeper still T. i 312

Between the upright shafts of whose tall e. T. i 355 For ere the beach and e. have east their leaf T. iii 466 The walk, still verdant, under oaks and e. T. vi 70 [29 Where chance may throw me, beneath e. or vine T. iii Drawn from his refuge in some lonely e. T. vi 310

ELOPE.

[876]

That, since thy strength must with thy years e. Tir.

ELOQUENCE.

His happy e. seemed there at home Con. 622
Nor all an angels's e. explain H. 126
Not all whose e. the fancy fills P.E. 13
Where e. and artifice shall fail R. 658
With spirit, genius, e., supplied T. 305
And Chatham's e. to marble lips T. i 704
Of patriot e. to flash down fire T. ii 217
With e. that agonies inspire T. iii 330
Here rills of oily e. in soft T. iv 64
"Discernment, E. and Grace Th. 9

ELOQUENT.

As honest and more e. than mine J.T. 8 Harangued him thus, right e. N.G. 14 Though e. themselves, yet fear to break T. iv 54

ELUDE.

Where nought e, the persevering quest H. 445 Man is a harp whose chords e, the sight R. 325 [204 The cause, though worth the search, may yet e. T.T.

ELVES.

Peace to the phlegm of sullen e. Miss — 61

ELY.

So in the chapel of old E. House T. vi 658

ELYSIAN.

Shall steep me in E. reverie M.P. 19 O Nature! whose E. scenes disclose R. 199

RLYSIUM.

The balm of care, E. of the mind P.E. 180

EMANCIPATE.

That parts us, are e. and loosed T. ii 39 Familiar, serve to e. the rest! T. v 298

EMANCIPATED.

The soul, e., unoppressed T.T. 272

EMBALMS.

No bard e. and sanctifies his song T. v 728

EMBALMED.

E. for ever in its own perfume Com. 632

EMBATTLED.

And roofs e. high, the gloomy scenes T. ii 122 And through the trees I view the e. tower T. vi 66 I read of bright e. fields 1789, 3

EMBELLISH.

May Mercury once more e. man Con. 833 Such lofty strains e. what you teach T.T. 478

EMBELLISHED.

Then, whether e. or rude C. 35 E. with—"He said," and "So said I" Con. 212

EMBELLISHING.

E. the scene around P. 58

EMBELLISHMENT.

Rich in e. as strong Dr. 11

EMBERS.

The few small e. left she nurses well T. iv 383

EMBITTERING.

E. all his state Trans. H. 12

EMBITTERS.

That civil war e. all his life T. 468

EMBLEM.

Apt e. of a virtuous maid Comp. ii 2 E. of health and heavenly aid Q.V. 47 Forth steps the man e. of myself T. i 213 And spades, the e. of untimely graves T. iv 219 There, like the visionary e. seen T. v 400

EMBLEMATIC.

Behold in Ætna's e. fires Her. 45

EMBODIED.

"Ordained to guide the e. spirit home T. v. 840 EMBOSS.

Or blushing crabs, or berries that e. T. i 121 The studs that thick e. his iron door T. v 426

EMBOSSED.

The sunbeam; there, e. and fretted wild T. v 118 Upheaved above the soil, and sides e. Y.O. 65

EMBOWELLED.

E. now, and of thy ancient self Y.O. 110

EMBOWERED.

Look where he comes; in this e. alcove R. 283

EMBRACE.

Includes creation in her close e. Ch. 598
Straitening its growth by such a strict e. R. 234
And gives his direst foe a friend's e. T. ii 270
His works. Admitted once to his e. T. v 780
Unless the world were all prepared to e. Tir. 917

EMBRACED.

But still, whoever wooed her, or e. A.T. 36

EMBROIDERED.

Sweet Nature, stripped of her e. robe Her. 79 And see where it has hung the c. banks T. v 107

EMBROIDERY.

With all the e, of poetic dreams Ex. 234

EMBRYO

And all thine c. vastness, at a gulp Y.O. 22

EMERGE.

If such escape contagion, and e. T. ii 797 More ardent as the disk e. more T. \forall 4

EMERGED.

E. all splendour in our isle at last T.T. 565

EMERGENCE.

Not he, but his e., forced the door Ch. 188

EMERGING.

E., must be deemed a labour due T. iii 631 "From the green wave e., darts an eye T. v 835

EMETIC.

How an e. or cathartic sped Con. 316 O nauseous!—an e. for a whet! P.E. 222

EMINENCE.

Directs thee to that e. they reached Ex. 657 How oft upon you e. our pace T. i 154 To e. fit only for a God T. v. 284 His cloud-capped e. divide Trans. H. 17

EMINENT.

One e. above the rest for strength T. v. 231

EMITS.

Of controversial rage e. F. 104

EMOLLIENTS.

And such e, as his friends could spare R, 305

EMOLUMENT.

Of honours, or e., or fame T. iv 785 Her honours, her e., her joys T. vi 923

EMOTION.

Watch his e., and control their tide Tir. 610

EMPEROR.

Once on a time an E., a wise man E. iii 46

EMPHASIS.

The e. in score, and gives to prayer T. ii 360 And by an e. of interest his T. \forall 749

DACTOTT A MICO

Named with e. dignity, "The Tower" Ch. 550 The e. speaker dearly loves to oppose Con. 269

PUDIDE

Rome, for e. far renowned B. 17
E. is on us bestowed B. 43
The seat of e. is her cheeks L.R. 27
Its e. is not hers, not is it thine R. 277
A falling e., hasten its decay R. 384
Our arch of e., steadfast but for you T. i 773
True, we have lost an e.—let it pass T. ii 263
Of all your e.; that where Britain's power T. ii 46
Convened for purposes of e. less T. iii 62
With all thy loss of e., and though squeezed T. v 457
Vast was his e., absolute his power T. vi 357
His right of e. over all that lives Tir. 4

EMPIRICS.

Two e. he stands, and with swoln cheeks T. ii 352 EMPLOY.

"Ye fair Circassians! all your lutes e. A.T. 107 God's gift with pleasure in his praise e. Ch. 252 She sees a world stark blind to what e. Ch. 404 If Self e. us, whatsoe'er is wrought Ch. 569 As alphabets in ivory e. Con. 11
'Tis the most asinine e. on earth Con. 209 Some men e. their health, an ugly trick Con. 311 E. our present thoughts and pains E. i 51 Called thee away from peaceable e. Ex. 534 Not kindred minds alone are called to e. H. 738 Ye devotees to your adored e. P.E. 75 Turtle and venison all his thoughts e. P.E. 220 The sacred implement I now e. P.E. 301 His hours of leisure and recess e. R. 215 A secret thirst of his renounced e. R. 474 He pressed him much to quit his base e. R. 594 Is duty a mere sport, or an e.? R. 649 Is occupied as well, e. his hours R. 507 E., shut out from more important views R. 803 Nature inanimate e. sweet sounds T. 197 What glowing thanks his lips and heart e. T. 255 And did He not of old e. his means T. ii 199 Servile e.; but such as may amuse T. iii 406 All healthful, are the e. of rural life T. iii 625 Like those which modern senators e. T. iv 490 New faculties, or learns at least to e. T. v 806 One song e, all nations; and all cry T, vi 791 Churchmen, in whose esteem their blest e. Tir. 823 Wouldst thou, possessor of a flock, e. Tir. 905 E. his philosophic pate Tran. ii 23 His humorous talent next e. Tran. iv 26 When themes like these e. the poet's tongue T.T. 198 Let Discipline a her wholesome arts T.T. 310 If Flattery, Folly, Lust, c. the pen T.T. 761

EMPLOYED. Far other dreams his feverish mind c. A.T. 153

Scripture e. to sanctify the cheat Ez. 92
Nature, e. in her allotted place H. 145
E. to calculate the enormous sum P.E. 486
For threescore years e. with ceaseless care R. 37
Earth's millions daily fed, a world e. R. 553
A mind e. on so sublime a theme R. 668
My creed persuades me well e., may save T. 522
Than when e. to accommodate the fair T. i 73
Happy the man who sees a God e. T. ii 161
Treads on thy sweeping train; one hand e. T. iv 247
That even our enemies, so oft e. T. v 391
With means that were not till by thee e. T. v 850
Witty, and well e., and, like thy Lord Tw. 139
The bench on which we sat while deep e. Tir. 302
Of argument, e. too oft amiss Y.O. 31

EMPLOYMENT.

With the double e. of mallet and mill F.M. 16 So well that thought the e. seems to suit P.E. 132 Give e'en a dunce the e. he desires R. 613 How various his e. whom the world T. iii 352

EMPOWERED.

Were I e. to regulate the lists Con. 195

By lean despair upon an e. purse Ch. 506

EMPTINESS.

From e, itself a real use H, 156

EMPTY.

An oracle within an e. cask Con. 298
Lavish of life, to win an e. tomb Ez. 522
Such cause of terror in an e. sound N.A. 130
But sighs at thought of e. pockets P.B. 26
Though busy, trifling; e. though refined P.E. 426
In an old e. watering pot R.C. 16
Or all that we have left, is e. talk T. ii 253
Strutting and vapouring in an e. school T. ii 330
Most part an e. ineffectual sound T. iii 22
Dreams e. dreams. The million flit as gay T. iii 133
Of dropping buckets into e. wells T. iii 189
Imparting substance to an e. shade T. iv 527
A trifler vain, and e. of all good Tir. 754

EMULATE.

Nice-fingered Art must e, in vain T. 202

EMULATION.

Whose toe of e. treads too near R. 442 Then study languished, E. slept T. ii 734 And e. is its specious name Tir. 469 And e., as engendering hate Tir. 497

EMULOUS.

E. always of the nearest place H. 238

ENACTING.

So frail a kind, and then e. laws T. v 640

ENAMOURED.

And daily more e. of the cheat P.E. 524 E. of its harm! St. v 14 For me, e. of sequestered scenes T. iii 27 Thee too e. of the life I loved T. iv 718

ENCHANT.

Whate'er e. them, are no snares to them R. 180 The prospect such as might e. despair R. 469

ENCHANTED.

That he was cased in such e. steel A.T. 183 Perhaps, e. with the love of fame Ch. 539 My poems e. I view Gr. 30

ENCHANTING.

Nature, c. Nature, in whose form T. iii 721 E. music and immortal wreaths T. iv 687 E. novelty, that moon at full T. vi 706

ENCHANTMENT.

His morning course, the e. was begun P.E. 68 Are all e, in a case like thine R. 261

ENCHANTRESS.

Delighted with her babe, the e. smiled A.T. 9

ENCLOSED.

But man, within a wider pale a A.T. 59 And wood and lawn in dusky folds e. A.T. 96 You, in your grotto-work e. P. 49 But that the lord of this e. demesne T. i 331 Or Inspiration teaches; and e. T. i 628

ENCLOSURE.

0 blessed within the e. of your rocks H. 465 Then snug e. in the sheltered vale T. i 513

ENCOMIUM.

E. in old time was poet's work T. vi 715

ENCOMPASSING.

E. his throne a few short years T.T. 132

ENCOUNTER.

They should e. with well loaded fists Con. 196 Of half the toils they must e. there R. 610

ENCOURAGE.

Was to c. goodness. He would stroke T. ii 710 He can e. slavery to a smile T.T 252 Or better managed, or e. less Tir. 922

ENCOURAGEMENT.

Here see the c. Grace gives to vice H. 495 Of warm e., and in the eye T. i 695

ENCOURAGING.

And Mercy, e. thought! A.S. 54

ENCROACH.

That man should thus e. on fellow man T. v. 435

ENCROACHING.

And hates him for e. F. 84. The c. nuisance asks a faithful hand Tir. 601

ENCROACHMENT.

That dread the e. of our growing streets R. 482

ENCUMBERED.

Of close-rammed stones has charged the e. soil T. iii Shakes her e. lap, and casts them out T. iv 499 The plentiful moisture e. the flower The Rose 3 Though laden, not e. with her spoil Tir. 17

ENCUMBRANCE.

Account him an e. on the state T. vi 958

[A.T. 127 Lest Rome should c. with her first founders' lives To thwart its influence, and its e. defeat Ch. 38 Wise to promote whatever c. he means Ch. 87 All bonds of nature, in that moment c. Ch. 142 Whose Love knew no beginning, knows no e. Ch. 400 Perhaps-whatever e. he might pursue Ch. 541

His wise forbearance has their e. in view Con. 33 Mankind from quarrels, but their fatal e. Con. 174 And let them guide you to a decent e. Con. 220 Ere yet they brought their journey to an e. Con. 521

Rose answers every common e. E. i 2 Bent all on pleasure, heedless of its e. E. ii 18 "'Tis but a step, sir, just at the street's e." E. iii 26 For vicious e. connected F. 42 That their Creator had no serious e. H. 130 That folly e, where genuine Hope begins H. 637 He now perceives where earthly pleasure e. H. 695 On application to its noblest e. J.T. 28

But where will fierce contention e. L.R. 4 On so desirable an e. Mor. 34

And if, ere he attain his c. Mor. 53

Can trace her mazy windings to their e. P.E. 16 Sniveling and driveling folly without e. P.E. 310 He dies disputing, and the contest e. P.E. 553 Calls him away from selfish e. and aims R. 19 [645]

Whence, and what are we? to what e. ordained? R. From mighty means to more important e. R. 112 When, earth's assigned duration at an e, R, 653 Or stabbed a man to serve some private e.? T. 47 Devised by self to answer selfish e. T. 110

Where should they find (those comforts at an e.) T. With designation of the finger's e. Tir. 641 The soft Settee; one elbow at each e. T. i 75

To wait the close of all? But grant her e. T. ii 65 That trust them, and in the e. disclose a face T. ii 693 He shuts it close, and the first labour e. T. iii 489 And Katerfelto, with his hair on e. T. iv 86

When shall I find an e., or how proceed? T. iv 233 Dangled along at the cold finger's e. T. iv 392 Ten thousand seek an unmolested e. T. v 87 Which heaven has heard for ages, have an e. T. vi 730

Of God and man, and peaceful in its e. T. vi 999 His being e. where death dissolves the bond Tir. 67 And ending, if at last its e, be gained Tir. 408 [487] The e., though plausible, not worth the means Tir. And his e. sure, without one glimpse of hope Tir. 427

Are a stream choked, or trickling to no e. Tir. 718 To compass that good e., forecast the means Tir. 884 And every effort e. in push-pin play T.T. 547

That such short absence may e. it more T. i 517 When having no stake left, no pledge to e. T. iii 791 Raging abroad, and the rough wind, c. T. iv 809

ENDEARED.

Of hours that sorrow since has much e. T. i 117 Connexion formed for interest, and e. Tir. 495

ENDEARMENTS.

Upon the e. of domestic life T. v 438 Denied the e. of thine eye The Doves 35

ENDEARING.

Some cordial e. report A.S. 35 All this, and more e. still than all M.P. 61 ENDEAVOUR.

E. laudable engage Mor. 50 His high e., and his glad success T. ▼ 901 Prompt his e., and engage his aim T.T. 747

My ramble e., I returned D. W. 29 Nor yet when eventide was e. N.G. 4

ENDING.

Runs round; still e., and beginning still T. iii 627 "From toilsome life to never e. rest T. v 841 And e., if at last its end be gained Tir. 408

And gains new vigour at her e. task Ch. 104 Fixed in the rolling flood of e. years Con. 557 A harbinger of e. good E. i 90 "Matthew" says Fame "with e. pains E. iv 73 Designed, in honour of his e. love H. 121

The brightest wonders of an e. day H. 753 Craze antiquarian brains with e. doubt P.E. 394 Thou ever bubbling spring of e. lies P.E. 467 An e. life above? St. vi 16 That e. bliss (how strange soe'er it seem) T. 355 Ten thousand sages lost in e. woe T. 517 By s. riot, Vanity, the Lust T. iii 812 With intellects bemazed in e. doubt T. v 848

ENDOWED.

Where will you find a race like theirs e. Ex. 195 The soldier thus e., who never shrinks H. 409 Men well e., of honourable parts Tir. 836

ENDUED.

And e. her increase. Thy rams are there T. vi 804

Fancy e. her in her natal hour) A.T. 92 So it is, when the mind is e. C. 33 E. with reason, yet by nature blind Ch. 382 Man, thus c. with an elective voice P.E. 45 Of harmless Nature, dumb, but yet e. T. iii 329 Refinement is e., thrice happy thou! T. iv 359 E. with reason only to descry Tir. 61

ENDURE.

Nor would e. that any should control Ch. 33 And each e., while yet he draws his breath Ch. 143 All other sorrows virtue may e. Ch. 157 Through wintry rigours unimpaired e. Con. 650 Such as a friend but ill e. F. 155 And will, with sympathy e. M.F. 57 Whatever evil it e. P. 42 Though some folks can't e. them Pat. 18 He just e., and, with a sickly spleen R. 565 All plants of every leaf, that can e. T. iii 580 Few self-supported flowers e. the wind T. iii 657 And eaten with a sigh, than to e. T. iv 410 But once enslaved, farewell! I could e. T. v 477 In heaven-renouncing exile, he e. T. v 598 The playful humour; he could now e. T. vi 47 In his dishonor'd works himself e. T. vi 821 And evils not to be endured e. Tir. 276 Thine e. the winter long Tran. iii 22 That neither gave nor would e. offence T.T. 639 The tædium that the lazy rich e. T.T. 742

ENDURED.

(For thou hast known eclipses, and e. Ex. 392 He does not scorn it, who has long e T. i 445 Contracts defilement not to be e. \overline{T} . iv 670 And evils not to be e. endure Tir. 276

ENDUREST.

E. the brunt, and darest defy them all Ex. 697

A more e. date Cast. 58 But unrepealable c. death T. v 610

ENEMY.

Calls thee to cope with e_{\cdot} , and first R_{\cdot} 267 Has made, what e. could ne'er have done T. i 772 Make e of nations who had else T ii 18 Of flowers, that feared no e. but warmth T. v 159 That even our e., so oft employed T. v 391

ENERGETIC.

Expressive, e., and refined Ex. 482

ENERGY.

Or sought with e., must fill the void R. 748 By native power and e. her own T. 396 Of all-creating e. and might T. v 554 Where now the vital e. that mov'd T. vi 134 To press with e. your ardent thought V. 10

ENERVATE.

E. and enfeeble, and needs must T.T. 395

ENFEEBLE.

E. his affection F. 156 Enervate and e., and needs must T.T. 395

ENFOLDS.

As the leaf that e. what an invalid swallows F.M. 22

ENFORCE.

Not that I mean to approve, or would e. R. 117 To e. the wrong, for such a worthy cause T. ii 14 Will need no stress of argument to e. Tir. 803 ENFORCED.

On pangs e. with God's severest stroke R. 314 ENGAGE.

That men e. in it impelled by force Con. 179 Whom all the vanities they scorned e. Ez. 661 If arms e. him, he devotes to sport H. 207 Could bend one knee, e. one votary there H. 506 Virtue e. his assent H.F. 11 Endeavours laudable e. Mor. 50

'Tis a sight to e. me, if anything can P.F. 17 No narrow bounds; her cause e. him T. ▼ 395 E. no notice, and enjoy much ease T. vi 957
'Twere well with most if books that could e. Tir. 147

At stated hours, his freakish thoughts e. Tir. 606 The fleeting forms of majesty e. T.T. 117 Will win her visits or e. her stay T.T. 411 Prompt his endeavour, and e. his aim T.T. 747 ENGAGED.

E. myself to be at home M.F. 12 That first e. him in the chase" Mor. 38 But triflers are e. and cannot come P.E. 167 Has business; feels himself e. to achieve T. iii 377 E. my wonder, and admiring still T. iv 715 ENGAGEMENT.

No. But his own e. binds him fast P.E. 106 From all his wearisome e, freed R, 513

ENGAGING.

And asked them, with a kind, e. air Con. 523 Delights us, by e. our respect P.E. 208

ENGENDER.

Few competitions but e. spite Con. 161 Or lust e., and indulgence feeds R. 644

ENGENDERED.

That Pity had e., drop one here H. 677

ENGENDERING.

And emulation, as e. hate Tir. 497

ENGINE.

In an e. of utmost mechanical strength F.M 4

ENGINEERING.

Though all your e. proves in vain P.E. 321

ENGLAND. Might traverse E. safely to and fro E. iii 61
Why weeps the Muse for E.? What appears Er. 1

In E.'s case to move the Muse to tears? Ex. 2 Then wherefore weep for E.? What appears E. 30 In E.'s case to move the Muse to tears? Er. 31
"Tis heard where E.'s Eastern glory shines H. 457
Men from E. bought and sold me N.C. 5

What are E.'s rights, I ask N.C. 10 For no such sight had E.'s Queen Q.V. 25 The tears that E. owes. R.G. 28

Full charged with E.'s thunder R. G. 31

we when thou readest) of E.'s peers S. i 3 t of ship from E. Every speck T. i 666 annot breath in E.; if their lungs T. ii 40 tier E.! lest he spare not thee \bar{T} . ii 160 all thy faults, I love thee still T. ii $206 \lceil 226 \rceil$. prosper, when such things, as smooth T. ii ng E.'s happiness at home T. ii 246 ked the jewel out of E.'s grown T. ii 265 y in the heart; were E. now T. iii 742 was, plain, hospitable, kind T. iii 743 g in E, too, he may be weak T, v 337 glory, seeing it wax pale T. v 510 ., stretch'd towards the setting sun T. vi 483 if this happiness be thine! T.T. 82 ! thou art a devoted deer T.T. 362 reatened E.'s trembling state 1789, 37

ENGLISH.

ften stood A Tale 74
ing hospitals on E. ground? Ch. 44 rere treason against E. laws Con. 398 nes of old Rome for E. use Con. 836
y may clothe an E. Dean T. 118
ne grave sinners upon E. ground T. 292
ows Italian light on E. walls T. i 425
'. minds and manners may be found T. ii 208 not an E. heart that would not leap T. v 389 tiff, but frank, and formed to please Tir. 671 pet's privilege to rant T.T. 299
tost they flourish, upon E. ground T.T. 337

ENGRAVEN.

isted with his own e. laws Ex. 199 inct with the laws e. there R. 132 e. on the mouldy walls T. v 418 is e. with a pen T. vi 862

ENGROSS.

the chase e. the savage whole T. i 608 coment's notice; and yet begs T. iv 67

ENGROSSED.

ation Pleasure has so much e Ch 631

ENGULPHS.

them all! The shark is there T. iii 816

ENHANCE.

10 favour, and e. the joy Ex. 678 tes most perhaps to e. their fame Tir. 468

ENHANCED.

m the lees, which often more e. T. ii 508

ENHANCING.

n others but e. more T. ii 795

ENIGMA.

se the dark e. clear E. i 54

ENIGMATIC.

he c. line Q.V. 49

ENJOIN.

rovidence e. to every soul Ch. 121 of, myself I will e. D.W. 41 aven e. the fallible and frail H. 391 pept that e. him abstinence P.E. 236 swelled above the bank, e. to stand Ex. 185 ence publicly e. P.T. 21

ENJOINED.

EX IOV

o e. the palm-tree's offered shade Ch. 222 mity from priestly power Ch. 273 nooth her feathers, and e. her cage Ch. 306

E. the stillness of some close retreat Con. 570 [585] Leaves saints to e. those altitudes they teach Con. To e cool nature in a country seat H. 245 And ruminating flocks e. the shade Her. 32 And hate the tumult half the world e. R. 176 And thou e. an Eden ere it fails R. 364 Sweet sleep e, the curate in his desk T, i 94 To e. a ramble on the banks of Thames T. i 115 Commits no wrong, nor wastes what it e. T. i 334 Such health and gaiety of heart e. T. i 587 From all the rigours of restraint, e. T. ii 127 Or tasting long e, thee; too infirm T, iii 44Will he be idle who has much to e.? T. iii 360 His warm but simple home, where he e. T. iii 389 E. close shelter, wall, or reeds, or hedge T. iii 474 Which he, thus occupied, e.! Retreat T. iii 676 It may e. the advantage of the north T. iii 771 He wanted, for a wealthier to e.! T. iii 789 That I, and mine, and those we love, e. T. iv 193 And the resplendent rivers. His to e. T. v 743 As free to live, and to e. that life T. vi 585 Engage no notice, and e. much ease T. vi 957 Let me e., in some unthought-of spot V. 83

ENJOYED.

E. at ease the genial day A Fable 7
Of rights restored, variety e. A.T. 154
E. the show, and danced about the stake Ex.615
E. the open air F.B. 3
In gathering plenty yet to be e. R. 554
Divine Communion, carefully e. R. 747
Nor sleep e. by curate in his desk T. i 100
And long protracted bowers, e. at noon T. i 257
Delightful industry e. at home T. iii 356
Forsaken, or through folly not e. T. iii 711
E., spare feast! a radish and an egg! T. iv 173
The silence and the warmth e. within T. iv 310

ENJOYING.

Might we view her e. it here C. 56 With sight of animals e. life T. vi 325

ENJOYMENT.

Where'er he turns, e. and delight P.E. 47 Are sweet Philosophy's e. run P.E. 259 Though his life be a dream, his e., I see P.F. 19 Master of all the e. he designed R. 427 These tell me of e. past S. 23 Fireside e., homeborn happiness T. iv 140

ENLARGE.

E. and fortify the dread redoubt Con. 689 He gives a tongue to c. upon, a heart T. iv 794

ENLARGED.

With rich instruction, and a soul e. Ch. 322 And slaves, by truth e., are doubly freed Ch. 231 And still e. as she receives the grace Ch. 596 As London, opulent, e., and still T. i 721 When copiously supplied, then most e. Tir. 19

ENLARGEMENT.

The crowded roots demand e. now T. iii 532

ENLIGHTENED.

Or from philosophy's e. page Con. 616 Than ye, when happiest, and e. most R. 675 The mind indeed, e. from above T. iii 225

ENLIGHTENING.

From the same centre of e. grace Ch. 364 And darkening and e., as the leaves T. i 348

ENLISTED.

A graver fact, e. on your side Con. 205

ENLISTS.

First Appetite e. him Truth's sworn foe P.E. 542

ENLIVEN.

Storms but e. its unfading green Ch. 576

ENNOBLE.

That can e. man, and make frail life T. v 603 A theme to e. even mine 1789, 30

ENNOBLING.

And these the Grecian in e. strains T. iii 454 Lost without thee the e. powers of verse T.T. 291 E. every region that he chose T.T. 562

ENORMITY.

To swear to some e. he saw Con. 126

ENORMOUS.

Employed to calculate the e. sum P.E. 486
To an e. and o'erbearing height T. ii 112
A mine to satisfy the e. cost T. iii 783
To such gigantic and e. growth T. vi 382
Of girth e., with moss-cushioned root Y.O. 64

EN PASSANT.

"Lets fall a poem e. E. iv 88

ENRAGED.

E. the more by what might have reformed T. vi 524

ENRAPTURED.

Even as he bids! The e. owner smiles T. iii 780

ENRICH.

But time that should e. the nobler mind Comp. i 11 Sprightly and fresh, e. every theme Con. 894
To e. thy walls: but thou didst hew the floods T. v 133
Does but encumber whom it seems to e. T. vi 95
Why do the seasons still e. the year Tir. 41
Than how to e. thyself, and next, thine heir Tir. 661

ENRICHED.

Where commerce has e. the busy coast Ch. 114
The farther traced, e. them still the more Con. 516
May feel a heart e. by what it pays R. 209
E. with the discoveries ye have made R. 666

ENROLLED.

But though slave they have e. me N.C. 7

ENSANGUINED.

E. hearts, clubs typical of strife T. iv 218

ENSIGN.

Are hateful e. of usurped command Ch. 213 "Right," says an e., "and for aught I see H. 397 Those e. of dominion, how disgraced! T.T. 40

ENSLAVED.

See Cortez odious for a world e.! Ch. 40 From servile fear, or be the more e.? T. 184 Himself e. by terror of the band T. iv 601 But once e., farewell! I could endure T. v 477 Which whose tastes can be e. no more T. v 544

ENSLAVES.

E. the will, nor leaves the judgment free P.E. 270

ENSNARING.

They stood the test of her e. smile Ex. 78

ENSUE.

That theme exhausted, a wide chasm e. Con. 393 Man's disappointment must of course e. H. 132 An Iliad, only not in verse, e. H. 194 And dread of death e. St. v 24 And never won. Dream after dream e. T. iii 127 Discourse e., not trivial, yet not dull T. iv 174 [63] And seems dethroned and vanquished. Peace e. T.

ENSUED.

Three sparks e. that chased it all away A.T. 167
The evening gray again e. R.C. 70
A dissolution of all bonds e. T. ii 743
Minute the horrors that e. T.B. 52

ENSUING.

E. seemed to obliterate the past T. vi 540

ENSURE.

Compliance with his will your lot e. H. 326 His death your peace e. St. v 34 The glad espousals, and e. the crop T. iii 543 And for a time e., to his loved land T. v 716 To e. the perseverance of his course Tir. 238 Of grandeur that e. respect 1789, 69

ENSURED.

Their usefulness e. by zeal and love Ez. 443 E. him mute attention and regard H. 687 E. us mastery there, we yet retain T. ii 274

ENTANGLED.

Full many a knight had been e, there A.T. 35 E., winds now this way and now that T. iii 2 E. in the cobwebs of the schools T. iv 726

ENTELLUS.

Let Dares beat E. black and blue Con. 198

ENTER.

And they might e. at his open door H. 308
Pants for it, aims at it, e. it, and dies T. 6
'Tis open, and ye cannot e.—why? T. 357
I would not e. on my list of friends T. vi 560
Or, if it e., soon starved out again Tir. 768
Nor heed what guests there e. and abide Tir. 888

ENTERING.

The plough of wisdom never e. there H. 234 He, e. at the study door T.B. 37

ENTERPRISE.

And wilt thou join to this bold e. Ex. 698 But in his arduous e. to close R. 617

ENTERTAIN.

Is often useful, always e. Con. 204
Of all ambitions man may e. Con. 221
You speak with life, in hopes to e. Con. 327
I will by no means e. F. 191
Ye are bid, begged, besought to e. P.E. 264
Tickle and e. us, or we die R. 708
To e. a thief or two in pay Tir. 693

ENTERTAINMENT.

Their wonted e., all retire T. ii 303

ENTHRALL'D.

Holds an unthinking multitude e. T. vi 100

ENTHRONED.

From loins e., and rulers of the earth M.P. 109
'Twas the last trumpet—see the Judge e.! T. 564

ENTHUSIAST.

E. drunk with an unreal joy P.E. 76 No wild e. ever yet could rest P.E. 470 The favoured few—the e. you despise T. 231

ENTICE.

That, so refined, it might the more e. P.E. 344 ENTICED.

E. him from his oaths of knighthood far A.T. 27

ENTICING.

not alone the grape's e. juice P.E. 271

ENTITLED.

nere to reign Q.V. 4

NTIRE.

knows that God demands his heart e. Con. 759 pt unperceived, the mountain yet e. Her. 2

ENTOMBED.

m if e. the day before R.C. 72

ENTRANCED.

where the fond Sir Airy lay e. A.T. 150 error leads them, by a tune e. T. vi 104

ENTREATED.

"Help!" or cried—"Adieu!" Cast. 42 opening wide his beak P.T. 19

ENVELOPE.

d floating films e. every thorn A.T. 73

ENVENOMED.

temper as e. as an asp T. 159

ENVIED.

e c tenants of some happier spot T. i 610 great, be feared, be c., be admired V. 16

ENVIES.

 π ϵ . he aught more their idle sport T. vi 272

ENVIOUS.

a c. world will interpose its frown E. ii 33 ith fierce and c. yet admiring eyes Ex. 204 a c. man, if you succeed F. 76 nation dwells, not c. of your throne Her. 49 ith all the cunning of an c. shrew T. ii 266 be minor heroes view with c. eyes Tir. 223

ENVIRONED.

with a ring of branching elms T. i 223

ENVY.

is glittering purse, that c. of all eyes Ch. 472
3c mingles with our praise Dr. 13
bese rights that millions c. thee appear Ex. 681
c. chance to creep in F. 75
b. I. pines at good possessed F. 79
harts our pride, and moves our c. less H. 553
c. that unfeeling shrub P. 15
the beast, then, on whom Heaven bestows P.E. 26

that unfeeling shrub P. 15
the beast, then, on whom Heaven bestows P.E. 267
the beast, then, on whom Heaven bestows P.E. 267
the great, the dull unlettered small T. 376 have much cause for e.—but not all T. 376 harewell e. of the Peasant's Nest! T. i 247 ich all might view with e., none partake T. iii 718 at it.—I still must e. them an age T. iv 529
rart his attempt, or e. his success T. iv 787
a. hatred, jealousy, and pride Tiv. 467

scenes where competition, e., strife V. 75

Penius only found in c. lays ? T.T. 568

EPICTETUS.

E., Plato, Tully, preached! T. ii 540

EPIDEMIC.

throats, if such there are Con. 391

EPISCOPALLY.

ams him e. such at least Tir. 365

EPISTLE.

 $^{\text{bal}}$ e. thence, may cure mankind P.E. 351 hs, deaths, and marriages, e. wet T. iv 17

EQUAL.

Was e. to the swiftness of his horse A.T. 194
Are taught by rays that fly with e. pace Ch. 363
O days of heaven, and nights of e. praise! Con. 567
And e. truth on either side F. 50
If one, his e. in athletic frame H. 191
Diverging each from each, like e. rays H. 303
Was one, whom justice, on an e. plan H. 511
With e. grace below O. i 28
Each province of her art her e. care T. i 707
The smooth and e. course of his affairs T. ii 173
And e.; and he bade them dwell in peace T. v 201

The sweets of Liberty and e. laws T. v. 717 A rhetoric e. to those parts of speech? Tw. 898

EQUALLY.

Adopt his own, 'tis e. in vain Con. 109 A soul serene, and e. retired R. 143 Or nymphs responsive, e. affect T. iv 21

EQUIPAGE.

Of e., our gardens, and our sports T. i 644 The gilded e., and turning loose T. vi 702

EQUIPPED.

E. from top to toe J.G. 74

EQUITY.

A being of less e. than man H. 384
Where Peace, and E., and Freedom smile Her. 84
He sees that human e. is slack T. vi 472
And E.; not jealous more to guard T. vi 850
Bids e. throughout his works prevail T.T. 250

ERA

An e. cherished long by me 1789, 33

ERADICATE.

E. him, tear him from his hold T. v 437 ERASED.

To impress a value, not to be e. Tir. 613

ERECT.

But Innocence, sedate, serene, e. P.E. 207 Her head e., her fan upon her lips T. 134 But restless was the chair; the back e. T. i 44 But thus admonished, we can walk e. T. ii 593 He stands e.; his slouch becomes a walk T. iv 639 The stubborn soil, and hold thee still e Y.O. 119

ERECTED.

Gathering around it, with e. ears Ch. 516 Or mean self-love e. F. 39

ERR

By power divine, and skill that could not e. Ex. 201 Than opportunity vouchsafed to e. F.A. 16 Or so resolved to e. J.P. 26 Whoever e., the priest can ne'er be wrong P.E. 508 It e. but little from the intended line P.E. 574 Thus Fancy paints thee, and though apt to e. T. i 661 Perhaps e. little when she paints thee thus T. i 662 That e. not, and find raptures still renewed T. iii 723

ERRED.

Its error, if it e., was merely this T.T. 391

ERRAND.

Impel the fleet whose e. is to save Ch. 128 And do his e. of disgrace and shame Ex. 334 Wild fowl or venison, and his e. speeds T. iv 612

ERRONEOUS.

By modern lights from an e. taste T. iv 724 May here and there prevent e. choice Tir. 798 By thee I might correct, e. oft Y.O. 45

ERRONEOUSLY.

That men e. their glory call R. 100

ERROR.

Infuses lies and e, of his own Ex. 102 Strikes the rough thread of e. right athwart Ex. 330 E., and darkness occupy their place Ex. 693 An c. soon corrected F. 21 Of fewer e., on a second proof! F.A. 5 In chains of e. our accomplished minds H. 484 The serpent E. twines round human hearts P.E. 34 Then welcome e., of whatever size P.E. 283 Tell him he wanders, that his e. leads P.E. 544 Faults in the life breed e. in the brain P.E. 564 Man on the dubious waves of e, tossed T. 1 He, lost in e. his vain heart prefers T. 335 With hurtful e., prejudice, and dreams T. ii 504 Of e. leads them, by a tune entranced, T. vi 104 One Lord, one Father. E. has no place T. vi 784 And quit their office for their e.'s sake T. vi 884 But learns his e. in maturer years Tir. 449 A monarch's e. are forbidden game T.T. 114 Its e., if it erred, was merely this T.T. 391

ERST.

As e. with airy self-conceit R.C. 100

ERUDITE.

"'Twere well," says one sage, e., profound T. iii 191

ERUDITION.

As men of depth in e. use Ch. 392 Add to such e., thus acquired T. ii 765 Let e. grace him, or not grace Tir. 387

ESCAPE.

Safety consists not in e. A Fable 32 The world is charmed, and Scrib e. the law Ch. 526 Alas, how time e.!—'tis even so E. iii 2 "To e. him at the idlest time E. iv 76 Might also have indulged with an e. H. 513 We can e, from custom's idiot sway R. 49 Downs that almost e. the inquiring eye R. 423 He might e. the most observing eyes R. 588 E. at last to liberty and light T. i 440 The wealth of Indian provinces, e. T. i 738 Tremble and be amazed at thine e. T. ii 159 His dangers or e., and haply find T. ii 309 If such e. contagion, and emerge T. ii 797 Plunging, and half despairing of e. T. iii 6 Suffer his woes, and share in his e. T. iv 117 Unless by Heaven's peculiar grace, e. T. ii 632 E. unhurt beneath so warm a veil T. iv 332 To e. the impending famine, often scared T. v 68 Cruelly spared, and hopeless of e.! T. v 399 A clear e, from tyrannizing lust T, v 579 How he was flogged, or had the luck to e. Tir. 329

ESCAPED.

E. my eager hand D.W. 20
If we e. not, if Heaven spared not us Ex. 245
E. from a cross country ride! Gr. 20
E. from office and its constant cares R. 408
E. with pain from that adventurous flight T. i 4
One who has known, and has e. mankind V. 78

ESPECIALLY.

E. sugar, so needful we see? P.A. 7

ESPOUSALS.

The glad e., and ensures the crop T. iii 543

ESSAY.

And, after many a vain e. E. iv 53 And fights again; but finds his best e. T. v 624 Not Brindley nor Bridgewater would e. T.T. 183 And place it in his first e. U. 21

ESSENCED.

And tender as a girl, all e. o'er T. ii 227 ESSENCES.

Nectareous e., Olympian dews T. iv 83
ESSENTIAL.

I superadd a few e. more H. 434
The difference, though e., fails to strike P.E. 204

The slaves of custom and e. mode Tir. 251

ESTATE.

On man, a mourner in his best e. ! Ch. 156

Not to redeem his time, but his e. R. 561

The e. his sires had owned in ancient years R. 57.

E. are landscapes, gased upon awhile T. iii 755

(Made by a monarch) on her own e. T. v 171

ESTERM.

"Honour, e. and confidence forgot A.T. 111
But has left a regret and e. C. 7
For ever aiming at the world's e. Con. 367
And wild as madness in the world's e. Con. 666
The sorrows sympathy e. us own Con. 696
Loses at once all value and e. Es. 113
How he e. your merit F. 171
E. them, sow them, rear them, and protect H. 295
Yet let me stand excused, if I e. R. 667
But what is man in his own proud e. ? T. 403
The charms of virtue in their just e. T. ii 796
E. that busy world an idler too! T. iii 354
Where he, that fills an office, shall e. T. vi 816
And schools, that have outlived all just e. Tir. 704
Churchmen, in whose e. their blest employ Tir. 8

ESTEEMED.

The longer I heard, I e. C. 21
May be e. a gift, and not an art Con. 4
Be never named in ears e. polite Cos. 474
Arts once e. may be with shame dismissed Con. 81
May claim some right to be e. divine H. 504

ESTIMATE.

His well-poised e. of right and wrong H. 611 The inestimable E. of Brown T.T. 884

ESTIMATION.

Just e. prized above all price T. ii 34

ESTRANGE.

"Seduce our husbands, and e. their hearts A.T.1

ESTRANGED.

Their hopes, desires, and purposes e. Con. 725
To live e. from God his total scope Tir. 426
Add too, that, thus e., thou canst obtain Tir. 55

ETERNAL.

We come with joy from our e. rest Ch. 73
And all supplied from an e. source Ch. 370
To rush into a fixed e. state Con. 185
The pillar of the e. plan appears Con. 558
Is given in earnest of e. rest E. ii 40
While truths on which e. things depend Ez. 117
Received the transcript of the E. Mind Ex. 193
"Suffering the vengeance of e. fire" Ex. 423
Ere Nature rose from her e. sleep Es. 637
With him the Donor of e. life H. 323
If sentence of e. pain belong H. 389

On icy plains, and in e. snows H. 464 Of an e., universal war H. 648 These are thy glorious works, e. Truth H. 742 Of close alliance to the E. Mind J.T. 44 E. winter doomed to know Miss - 35 E. truth by everlasting doubt P.E. 473 Settling at last upon e, things R, 672 Worthy to live, and of e. use R. 700 In the pure fountain of e. love T. iii 244 Fruits of omnipotent e. love T. iv 188 And smiles delighted with the e, poise T, iv 486 We build with what we deem e. rock T. v 534 Meant it e., had he not himself T. v 562 Their only point of rest, E. Word! T. v 897 And that one season an ϵ . spring T. vi 770 Dipped in the fountain of e. love T. vi. 863 But let c. Infamy pursue T.T. 29 ETERNITY.

And cries, "Perhaps c. strikes next!" H. 701 E.'s unknown expanse appears R. 149 E. for bubbles proves at last T. iii 175 Trembling, as if c. were hung T. vi 270

ETHELRED.

E.'s house, the centre of six ways H. 302

ETHEREAL.

Partakers of a new e. birth Con. 724
Pants for the place of her e. birth H. 162
"Long as I draw e. air Miss — 67
Vast in its powers, e. in its kind Tw. 6

ETIQUETTE.

And has the Ladies' E. by heart P.E. 196 EULOGIUM.

To adorn the Sofa with e. due T. iii 12 Your smooth e., to one crown addressed T.T. 91

EULOGY.

If honest e. can spare thee room H. 589
Their e.; those sang the Mantuan bard T. iii 453
Messiah's e. for Handel's sake T. vi 687

EUROPE.

Give saintship, then all E. must agree T. 111 The post-horns of all E., lays her waste T.T. 32

EVANDER

 $_{\rm E}^{\rm of}$ good E., still where he was left T. vi 537 E., famed for piety, for years T. vi 490

EVANESCENT.

0f e, glory, once a stream T. v 167

EVANGELICAL.

Oh fie! 'Tis e. and pure P.E. 133

EVAPORATE.

And not at last e. in air Tir. 772

EVE.

But just at e. the blowing weather A Fable 16
And here I wander e. and morn M.B. 11
Nor yet at e. his note suspended N.G. 3
Prolific, and the lime at dewy e. T. i 316
But comes at last the dull and dusky e. T. i 669
The pensive wanderer in their shades. At e. T. i 761
Scarce noticed in the kindred dusk of e. T. iv 321
They brave the season, and yet find at e. T. iv 378
From morn to e. his solitary task T. v 44
One silent e. I wandered late The Doves 5

EVEN.

Was smooth and e. as an ivory ball A.T. 47
Smooth, ductile, and e. his fancy must flow F.M. 18
Perched on the sign-post, holds with e. hand T. iv 483

EVENING.

Again, when e. in her sober vest Ch. 262 Collect at e. what the day brought forth Con. 19 His frisking was at e. hours Ep. ii 25 Thus, while gray e. lulled the wind and called F.A.6And just when e, turns the blue vault gray H. 79 Of those that walk at c. where ye dwell H. 472 Ere long approach life's e. shades Mor. 35 A poet, in his c. walk P. 39 For Sabbath e., and perhaps as sweet P.E. 141 If, ere we yet discern life's e. star R. 46 The purple e, and resplendent moon R. 348 Nor quits till c. watch his giddy stand R. 434 The c. came, the sun descended R.C. 65 The e. gray again ensued R.C. 70 At e., and at night retire secure T. iii 344 So let us welcome peaceful e. in T. iv 41 Not such his e., who with shining face T. iv 42 Of long uninterrupted e. know T. iv 143 O s. worthy of the gods! exclaimed T. iv 189 The Sabine bard. O s. I reply T. iv 190 Come, E., once again, season of peace T. iv 243 Return, sweet E., and continue long! T. iv 244 At e., till at length the freezing blast T. iv 303 That crawls at e. in the public path T. vi 565

EVENING-RAMBLE.

The last ϵ , we made C. 9

EVENING-TIDE.

To serious thought at E. Mor. 12

EVENT.

In musings worthy of the great e. Con. 510 E. of most important use E. i 76
Providence adverse in e. like these? Ex. 313
The e., and sure decision of the fight? Ex. 363
Trifles pursued, whate'er the e. Mor 45
Resolving all e., with their effects T. ii 163
Do I forbode impossible e. T. v 491
Anticipate perforce some dire e. T. v 524
The e. is sure; expect it, and rejoice! Tir. 343
E. improbable and strange as these Tir. 370
Seizes e. as yet unknown to man T.T. 498
The clock of history, facts and e. Y.O. 46

EVENTFUL.

E., should supply her with a theme Y.O. 161

EVENTIDE.

It happened on a solemn e. Con. 505 Walks forth to meditate at e. T. vi 949

EVER-DURING.

Gives bond in stone and e. brass T. v 710

EVERLASTING.

Those breathed from lips of e. love E. ii 30 Eternal truth by e. doubt, P.E. 473 Of e. death St. vi 36 On the sad theme, their e. state T. 41 'Tis found as e. as his love T.T. 595

EVER-NIBBLING.

With his sly scythe, whose e. edge Y.O. 105

EVIDENCE.

His e., if he were called by law Con. 125 And call up e. from every age Ex. 162 An e. and reprehension both Tir. 656

EVII.

In baser souls unnumbered e. meet Ch. 37
Few Frenchmen of this e. have complained Con. 359
To prove an e. of which all complain E. iii 43
And having chosen e., scorned the voice Ex. 398

Of e. yet unmentioned F. 195 It is an e. incident to man F.A. 30 Of sensual e., and thus Hope is born H. 152 Can see his love, though secret e. lurks H. 544 Can see no e. in a play L. W. 30 Those e. it would gladly cure M.F. 58 Whatever e, it endures P. 42 Knowledge of good and e. is from thee P.E. 469 For e. daily felt and hardly borne R. 752 And e. felt within St. iii 26 All e. then seem light, compared St. v 27 Forgive their e., and accept their good T. 582 Such e. Sin hath wrought, and such a flame T. ii 133 From all assaults of e., proving still T. iii 680 Except what wisdom lays on e. men T. v 449 Is e.; hurts the faculties, impedes T. v 450 Brings its own e. with it, makes it less T. v 770 Yet, feeling present e., while the past T. vi 23 That source of e. not exhausted yet T. vi 369 Assert the native e, of his heart Tir, 162 And e. not to be endured endure Tir. 276 But judge, where so much e. intervenes Tir. 486

EVINCE.

Thought, word, and deed, his liberty e. T. 195

EVINCED.

Incurable obduracy e. T. vi 532

EVINCING.

In heavenly truth; e., as she makes T. vi 183

EWE

A ram, the e. and wethers, sad, addressed N.A. 82 But more discreet than he, a Cambrian e. N.A. 106

EXACT.

But though we praise the e. designer's skill Ch. 555 Can length of years on God himself e. Con. 549 E. yet not precise, though meek, keen-eyed Con. 610 Their order on his shelves e. Mrs. M—39 No—the man's morals were e.; what then ? T. 52 In London. Where her implements e. T. i 715 Chains him, and tasks him, and e. his sweat T. ii 23 The method clear, and argument e. ? T. iii 279 That calls the past to our e. review T. iv 184 And tutored with a relish more e. T. iv 741 E. and regular the sounds will be T.T. 530 Then Pope, as harmony itself e. T.T. 646 Now stars, two lobes, protruding, paired e. Y.O. 36

EXACTEST.

Apparelled in e. sort R.C. 19

EXALT.

To e. a people, and to place them high Con. 519 To gaze at his own splendour, and to e. T. ii 547 Compose the passions, and e. the mind T. iii 305

EXALTED.

And yet e. above God's own word Ex. 128 E. on his pedestal of pride T. 313 Let heathen worthies, whose e. mind T. 525 Whose heart with praise, and whose e. mind T. v 751 The e. prize demands an upward look Tir. 383 A soul e. above Earth, a mind T.T. 704

EXALTING.

As if c. him they raised themselves T. v 263 EXAMINE.

With curious touch e. me P. 33
The busy race e. and explore R. 151
In lucrative concerns, E. well T. iv 606

EXAMPLE.

Beyond the e. of our sires digress Con. 792
By theirs whose bright e., unimpeach'd Ex. 656
And seem to pray, for good e. sake H. 249
Resort to this e. as a rock P.E. 143
Daniel ate pulse by choice—e. rare! P.E. 215
In cities foul e. on most minds T. i 685
That his e. had a magnet's force T. ii 250
And loose e., whom he should instruct T. ii 552
Nor can e. hurt them: what they see T. ii 794
Of sad experience, nor e. set T. v 294
Shine with his fair e., and though small T. vi 961
Whose fair e. may at once inspire Tir. 648
Where vile e. (yours I chiefly mean Tir. 761
O learn, from our e. and our fate T.T. 436

EXCEED.

Though the pleasures of London e. C. 25 But, if he play the glutton and e. P.E. 211 He finds the labours of that state e. R. 619

EXCEEDING.

He makes one useful point e. clear Com. 136 Then, with a voice e. low M.F. 29

EXCEL.

And stirs his own to match them, or e. Ch. 118
Ambitious, not to shine or to e. Con. 623
E. a dunce that has been kept at home P.E. 416
With care collect what in their eyes e. R. 153
Who will may pant for glory and e. R. 245
Her works must needs e. who fashioned you P. 549
Bids these in elegance of form e. R. 793
E. ten thousand mercenary deeds T. 224
Few boys are born with talents that e. Tir. 509

EXCELLENCE.

To speak its e.; I danced for joy T. iv 712

EXCELLENT.

The growth of what is e., so hard T. i 84 Of what is e. in man, they thirst T. ii 790

EXCELLING.

Are luxuries e, all the glare R. 185

THY CHEPTED

And, thunderbolts e., quite a God! T. 410

EXCEPTIONS.

Such rare e., shining in the dark Tir. 841

EXCESS.

Their prayers made public, their e. kept Ex. 143
Or spendthrifts prodigal e. afford J.T. 16
Safe in themselves, but dangerous in the e. P.E. 6:
Still hurtful in the abuse, or by the e. P.E. 228
Of libertine e. The Sofa suits T. i 106
And wantonness, and gluttonous e. T. i 688
May feed e. she can ill afford T. ii 651
Wealth luxury, and luxury e. T. iv 581
E., the scrofulous and itchy plague T. iv 582
And spirits buoyant with e. of glee T. vi 329
And Liberty, preserved from wild e. T.T. 316
Foul with e., and with discourse obscene Tir. 736

EXCHANGE.

But souls that carry on a blest e. Con. 693
To e. the centre of a thousand trades H. 246
I would not yet e. thy sullen skies T. ii 212
Try now the merits of this blest e. Tir. 173
To e. content for trouble, ease for pain V. 64

EXCHANGED.

E. for the secure domestic scheme Tir. 705

EXCISE.

The c. is fattened with the rich result T. iv 501 EXCITE.

May even our wonder e. C. 38
The explosion of the levelled tube e. H. 350
The pleasing spectacle at once e. Tir. 310

EXCITING.

E. oft our gratitude and love T. iv 182

EXCLAIM.

E. "Prepare thee for an early shroud" Ep. i 10
"Spoke like an oracle," they all e. H. 437
And with a rapture like his own e. R. 86
"Ye groves," (the statesman at his desk e. R. 365
Sarcastic, would e., and judge the song T. iii 563

EXCLAIMED.

"By Dian's beams," Sir Marmadan e. A.T. 187 0 evenings worthy of the gods! e. T. iv 189 E., "that me, the lullabies of age T. vi 506 "And such," I e., " is the pitiless part The Rose 13

EXCLAIMING.

And left them both e., "'Twas the Lord! Con. 534

EXCLUDE.

That Hope which can alone e. despair H. 751 Pastime and business both, it should e. P.E. 159 Religion does not censure or e. R. 783

EXCLUSION.

Shall sigh at their e., and return T. vi 672

EXCLUSIVE.

Is sparkling wit the world's e. right Con. 589 While learning, once the man's e. pride P.E. 429

EXCLUSIVELY.

Peculiar, and e. her own T. i 432

EXCOMMUNICATION.

On pain of e." L. W. 6

EXCORIATE.

As now, and with s. forks deform Y.O. 5

EXCURSIONS.

His wild e., window-breaking feats Tir. 228

EXCURSIVE.

That Fancy finds in her e. flights T. iv 212

EXCUSE.

Let my obedience then e. B.R. 21
She makes e. where she might condemn Ch. 424
With less e., and, haply, worse effect?" F.A. 17
But these, e. the liberty I take H. 435
Of sabbath hours with plausible e.? P.E. 145
Be damnable, then damned without e. P.E. 597
To sports which only childhood could e. T. ii 638
Unmaked, vouchsafing this their sole e. T. ii 695
Nor this to feed his own! "Twere some e. T. iv 452
Of British natures, wanting its e. T. v 481
To e. in which reason has no part T. v 656
It seems idolatry with some e. Y.O. 9

EXCUSED.

Or, if e. that charge, at least deceived Con. 478
The veteran steed e. his task at length R. 625
Yet let me stand e., if I esteem R. 667
E. the incumbrance of more solid worth Tir. 347
He was e. the penalties of dull Y.O. 156

EXECRATE.

With eyes of anguish, e. their lot T. ii 665 Is cold on this. She e. indeed T. v 730

EXECUTE.

And Vengeance e. what Justice wills Ch. 82 God in a moment e. with ease) R. 328

EXECUTED

But measures planned and e. well T.T. 386

EXEMPLIFIED.

Its use and power e. in thee J. T. 50 Rarely e. among ourselves T. vi 621

EXEMPT.

Shall live e. from weakness and decay H. 752 E. from every ill beside P. 54 E. from future service all his days R. 628 That liberates and e. me from them all T. iv 97 Thy days roll on e. from household care T. iv 366 For Providence, that seems concerned to e. Tir. 430

EXEMPTED.

If quite e. from the same) A Fable 6 Oh! may I live e. (while I live T. i 103

EXEMPTION.

With clear e. from its own defects T. i 404

EXERCISE.

When I do e." J.G. 64
When, e. and air-my only aim N.A. 31
'Tis e., and health, and length of days P.E. 91
And e. all functions of a man T. iii 199
May e. amiss his proper powers T. v 339

EXERCISED.

That day and night are e., and hang T. iii 549 EXERT.

O slave! with powers thou didst not dare e. Ex. 546 E. their influence, and advance their cause P.E. 463 Our parents yet e. a prudent care Tir. 115

EXERTED.

Had been e. none Q.V. 62 Lest Power e., but without success Tir. 277

EXERTING.

Nature e. an unwearied power T.T. 690

EXERTION.

Too scanty for the e. of his beams Ch. 590 His powers of best e. there Mor. 32

EXHALATIONS.

In constant e. O. i 8

Like fleeting e., found no more Tir. 84

EXHALE.

Like shallow brooks which summer suns e.! V. 2

EXHAUST.

Noisome, and ever greedy to e. T. iii 671 And whose beneficence no charge e. T. vi 230 Sure to e. the plant on which they feed Tir. 604

EXHAUSTED.

That theme e., a wide chasm ensues Con. 393
While conversation, an e. stock H. 103
E., has had genius to supply T. ii 609
E., he resorts to solemn themes T. v 661
That source of evils not e. yet T. vi 369
Till, his e. quiver yielding none T. vi 878
E. all materials of the art T. vi 717
That theme on earth e., though above T.T. 594

EXHIBIT.

He half e., and then drops the sum Ch. 478
To e., in full bloom disclosed F. 44
E. elevations, drawings, plans P.E. 397
Ocean e., fathomless and broad R. 525
Coincident, e. lucid proof T. ii 374
Would fail to e. at the public shows T. ii 619
E. every lineament of these T. vi 901
Thence to e. to his wondering eyes Tir. 632

EXHIBITED.

'Tis truth divine, e. on earth Ch. 377

EXHIBITIONS.

What c. various hath the world Y.O. 69

EXHILARATE.

E. the spirit, and restore T. i 182

EXHORTATION.

Pathetic e.; and to address T. ii 469

EXIGENCE.

Below the e, or be not backed T. ii 557 Which have their e. too, and call T. v 240 By public e., till annual food T. v 458

EXILE

Driven out an e. from the face of Saul R. 768 And seeking e. from the sight of men T. 442 And beg for e., or the pangs of death? T. v 434 In heaven-renouncing e., he endures T. v 598

EXILED.

At my best home, if not e. from thee " Ch. 243 Ah! I could pity thee e. M.B. 13

EXIST.

From creatures that e. but for our sake T. vi 603

EXISTED.

Fair as it is, e. ere it was T. v 799

EXISTENCE.

Oh comfortless e.! hemmed around T. v 432

EXIT.

Sighs for his e., vulgarly called death H. 90

EXOTIC.

Is hope e. ? Grows it not at home ? H. 549 There blooms e. beauty, warm and snug T. iii 568

EXPAND.

His high-bred steed e. his nostrils wide A.T. 163 Still as I touch the lyre, do thou e. R. 203 The toiling steeds e. the nostril wide T. iv 347

EXPANDED.

There Beauty woos him with e, arms P.E. 55 His faculties, e. in full bloom T. iv 661 Beneath the shade of her e, leaves Tir. 46

EXPANSE.

Her fields, a rich e. of wavy corn Ex. 9 Thy mariners explore the wild e. Ex. 290 Eternity's unknown e. appears R. 149

EXPATIATES.

He travels and e., as the bee T. iv 107

EXPECT.

"But guard thee well, e. no feigned attack A.T.189 Prisons e. the wicked, and were built Ch. 280 E. in darkness and heart-chilling fears H. 714

And shall e. him at the door M.F. 13 And having well deserved, e. the worst T. 266

Alas! e. it not. We found no bait T. i 672 Uninjured, but e. the upholding aid T. iii 658 E. her soon with footboy at her heels T. iv 550

To count the hour-bell, and e. no change T. v 10 The event is sure; e. it, and rejoice! Tiv. 343 With so much reason all e. from them Tiv. 353 Despised by thee, what more can he e. Tw. 712 E. a brighter sky Trans. H. 27

EXPECTANT.

Stand motionless s. of its fall T. v 528

EXPECTATION.

Much less of pleasing e.) E. i 100 Or e. of the next, give leave Ex. 607 By e. every day beguiled M.P. 40 The folly of his e. R.C. 116 Large e., he disposes nest T. iii 423

EXPECTED.

Came, not e in that humble guise Ex. 87 And, having dropped the e. bag, pass on T. iv 11 And view with tears the e. harvest lost V. 57

May be e. from thee, seated here Y.O. 139

EXPECTING.

A gift to his c. fair A Fable 27

EXPEDIENCE.

E. as a warrant for the deed? Ch. 183
The e. of a less adventurous course Tir. 801 EXPEDIENT.

Suggests the e. of a yearly fast Ex. 401 To be at least e. F. 201

The e. and inventions multiform T. ii 287 Too long, to tell the e. and the shifts T. iii 559 As God's e. to retrieve his loss Tir. 166

Find it e., come what mischief may Tir. 692 EXPELS.

Or soon e. him if it is M.F. 62

EXPEND.

But youth, health, vigour to e. Mor. 33 EXPENDING.

E. late on all that length of plea S. i 6

EXPENDITURE.

With our e. defrays his own T. ii 605

EXPENSE.

Needs no e. of argument F. 140 A laugh at his e., is slender praise R. 318 The unpitied victim of ill judged e. R. 512 And such e. as pinches parents blue T. ii 756

But barren, at the e. of neighbouring twigs T. iii 41 For loose e. and fashionable waste Tir. 204 And such an age as ours balks no e. Tir. 257 Those habits of profuse and lewd e. Tir 350 To improve this diet, at no great e. Tir. 628

And they that can afford the e. of more Tir. 694 But seldom (as if fearful of e.) T.T. 698

EXPERIENCE.

Yet Age, by long e. well informed Con. 639 All but their own e. as deceit! Con. 720 Of passed e., and the wisdom gleaned F.A. 2 Now by the voice of his e. true H. 707 And while E. cautions us in vain R. 755 Confirmed by long e. of thy worth T. i 147 Whom ten long years' e. of my care T. iii 338

E., slow preceptress, teaching oft T. iii 505

Of sad e., nor examples set T. v 294

EXPERIENCED.

y a pang e. still within E. ii 35 elow St. iii 2 d the sage Th. 6

EXPERT.

m, he lay Cast. 14 the duties of his place T. 206 m e. inquirers after truth Tir. 192

EXPERTNESS.

with the e. of the brutes in theirs T. vi 614

EXPIRED.

noment the monster e. M.D. 38 hree years of heroship e. T. iv 644

EXPLAIN.

1 angel's eloquence e. H. 126 steries, except her own T. ii 528

EXPLAINED.

ated, and searched so well Con. 527

EXPLODED.

te but bad men wish e., must T. v 613

EXPLOITS.

er those by jocular e. T. ii 479 journeys, submarine e. T. iv 85

EXPLORE.

ners e. the wild expanse Ex. 290 dpeckers e. the sides M.B. 7 race examine and e. R. 151 n haste the drawers e. R. C. 92 area 'gan e. J.B. 38 and finger never need e. T. iv 362

EXPLORING.

d wide the watery waste T. i 665

EXPLOSION.

mense e. F. 66

the levelled tube excites H. 350

EXPORTED.

y to the conquered East? Ex. 365

EXPOSED.

of being thus e. P. 50 w, but not to touch P.B. 30 o much to the wind R.C. 26 the vengeance of the laws? T. 45 de. by common peccancy T. ii 72 nexperience to the snare T. ii 801 cold breath, the task begins T. iii 469 distant spot, where, more e. T. iii 770 thers, with less scruple made T. iv 457 pacles, deserves them well T. v 366

EXPOSES.

olds up to broad disgrace T. ii 553

EXPOSTULATE.

o persuade, e., and warn Ex. 441

EXPOUND.

the melancholy tone N.A. 94

EXPRESS.

occurrence of the day E. i 4
nelty could none e. G. 16
vieldy joy Q.V. 20
ts symptoms can alone e. R. 288
it hout noise, and swift as an e. T. 204
e great Sovereign would his will e. T. 551
s. him simple, grave, sincere T. ii 399

EXPRESSED.

Have proved them truths too big to be e. Con. 498 And if some Spartan soul a doubt e. Ex. 542' This only can; for this plain cause e. H. 340 (Had he the sinful part e. L. W. 9 Their sentiments so well e. P.T. 42 Contrivance intricate e. with ease R. 55 What charms he sees in Freedom's smile e. R. 409 Grow, by being oft e. St. iv 23 Well taught, he all the sounds e. T.B. 11 Trees, churches, and strange visages e. T. iv 288 Thus thy praise shall be e. Tran. iii 9 Is not to be e. Y.D. 18

EXPRESSION.

E. and the privilege of thought Con. 404 Thy indistinct e. seem M. 21 But angry, coarse, and harsh c. M.F. 59 Pass with delight beyond c. R.C. 43

EXPRESSIVE.

Ingenious Art, with her e. face Ch. 97 E., energetic, and refined Ex. 482 Alas, how changed! E. of his mind H. 688 And seem, if judged by their e. looks Tir. 238

EXPUNGE.

Propitious Spirit! yet e. a wrong Ch. 276

EXQUISITELY.

Rufillus, e. formed by rule P.E. 189 Harmony, strength, words e. sought T.T. 701

EXTEND.

E. no care beyond themselves Miss — 63 E. a larger sphere Miss — 100 Fall back into our seat, e. an arm T. ii 448 Sing, then—and e. thy span Tran. iii 27

EXTENDED.

With came e. far, I sought D.W. 17

EXTENDING.

'Tis thus, e. his tempestuous arm Ex. 581

EXTENSIVE.

Opening the map of God's e. plan R. 147

EXTERIOR.

But lives when that c. grace M.F. 53 And Wisdom falls before c. grace P.E. 418 Or be dishonoured, in the c. form T. ii 560 "Twere well if his c. change were all T. iv 649 Less on c. things than most suppose T.T. 247

EXTERMINATE.

Till death e. us all P.T. 35

EXTERMINATED.

Peeled, scattered, and e. thus Ex. 246

EXTINCT.

The flame e., he views the roving fire B.B. 11 Some place, a spark or two not yet e. T. vi 684

EXTINGUISH.

Religion should e. strife F. 133 Are paramount, and must e. theirs T. vi 583

EXTINGUISHED.

His eye relumines its e. fires T. i 442 The taper soon e., which I saw T. iv 391

EXTOL.

We therefore pleased e. thy song Dr. 9 And chaste, though unconfined, whom I e. T. iii 713

EXTOLLED.

When admirals, e. for standing still T.T. 192

EXTORT.

To c. their truncheons from the puny hands T. v 189 EXTORTED.

They live, and live without e. alms T. iv 403

EXTORTION.

Could act e. and the worst of crimes Ex. 148

EXTRACT.

An e. of his diary,—no more Con. 275 E. a register, by which we learn T. iii 152

EXTRACTING.

In the lost kind, e. from the lips T. v 701

EXTRAVAGANCE.

E. and Avarice shall subscribe Ch. 467 Note their e., and be convinced T. ii 573 To hear it called e. and waste T.T. 163

EXTRAVAGANT.

When most e. in his applause T. v 262 E. or sober, loose or chaste Tir. 914

EXTREME.

Convicts a man fanatic in the e. Con. 665 Yours real, and pernicious in the e. P.E. 101 To steer with nicest art betwixt the e. S. ii 9 E., at once rapacious and profuse T. ii 380

EXTREMEST.

For he has touched them. From the e. point T. ii 92

EXUBERANT.

E. is the shadow it supplies Ch. 577 Though sickly samples of the e. whole T. iv 761

EXULTING.

"Fair fall the deed!" the knight e. cried A.T. 68 Scarce less e. in the sight A Tale 59 Greets with three cheers e. At his waist T. i 523 Of cruel man, e. in her woes T. iii 336

EXULT.

His soul e., Hope animates his lays R. 777
E. in its command. The sheepfold here T. i 290
E. to see its thistly curse repealed T. vi 768
E. in his miscarriage if he fail Tir. 478

EYE.

Between Nose and E, a strange contest arose A, C, 1He pleaded again in behalf of the E.-A.C. 26 [32] By daylight or candlelight—E. should be shut A.C. And made her dupes see all things with her e.) A.T. 39And darting through his helm an eagle's c. A.T. 148 His feathered shipmates c. A Tale 58 Princess! if our aged e. B. 9Blind was he born, and his misguided e. Ch. 357 (Two themes to Nature's c. for ever scaled) Ch. 362 His glittering purse, that envy of all e. Ch. 472 At every stroke wit flashes in our e. Ch. 543 [Con. 232 "Yes" (rather moved) "I saw it with these e'!" Nose, ears, and c. seemed present on the spot Con.318 Self-searching with an introverted e. Con. 364 In other e. our talents rarely shown Con. 369 Know then, and modestly let fall your e. Con. 485 It views the truth with a distorted c. Con. 669 As once absurd in all discerning e. Con. 806 With an unjaundiced e. Dr. 20 Could you, though luminous your e. E. i 69

In old grimalkin's glaring e. E. iv 44 Hast thou the vigour of thy youth? An c. Ep. i The prophet wept for Israel; wished his a Ez. 33 [They stretched the neck, and rolled the wanton of To sift and search them with unerring c. Ez. 88 With fierce and envious yet admiring e. Es. 201 Philosophy indeed on Grecian e. Ex. 227 Darkness itself before his e. is light Ez. 338 And hide past folly from all-seeing e.? Ez. 405 Lest, having misapplied our e. F. 26 Bright-studded to dazzle the c. Gr. 13 With disappointment lowering in his c. H. 2 Whose e. reverted weeps o'er all the past H. 31 Or pride can look at with indifferent c. H. 52 Through mere necessity to close his c. H. 85 Each man's belief is right in his own e. H. 233 Where science points her telescopic e. H. 441 Have risen at length on your admiring c. H. 4 The poor reclaimed inhabitant, his e. H. 533 May press the e. too closely to be borne H. 551 Reveal (the man is dead) to wondering e. H. 51 (Though other follies strike the public e. H. 🥮 Lama Sabacthani before their e. H. 630 His e. shut fast, his fingers in his ears H. 658 His e. are sunk, arms folded, head reclined H. With lustre-beaming e. Miss - 70 The meek intelligence of those dear e. M.P.7 His rainbows and his starry e. Mrs. M-4 And in her e., and by her aid Mrs. M-49Viewed from a distance, and with heedless c. ? Must watch his purpose with a steadfast c. P.E. And gratify no curious e. Q.V. 39 Soon watery grew her e. and dim Q.V. 53 With more than astronomic e. Q.V. 73 The roving e. misleads the careless heart R 13 With care collect what in their e. excels R. 153 A few forsake the throng; with lifted c. R. 161 That courts display before ambitious c. R. 178 Who studies Nature with a wanton e. R. 213 Teaches his e, a language, and no less R. 239 Lips busy, and e. fixed, foot falling alow R. 25 Interpret to the marking s. distress R. 287 Can call up life into his faded e. R. 339 She shines but little in his heedless c. R. 405 Downs that almost escape the inquiring c. R. He might escape the most observing c. R. 588 To dance on earth, and charm all human c. R. 7 To bid affection's e. no longer stream S. ii 12 [With anxious meaning, Heavenward turn hise. All Heaven unfolded to my e. St. iii 11 Cover us from every e. St. iv 34 Watches your e., anticipates command T. 214 To your weak sight her telescopic e. T. 98 Her eyebrows arched, her e. both gone astray 7. And tells, not always with an e. to truth T. 154 But, with averted c., the omniscient Judge 7.1 Even at your side, Sir, and before your e. T. 271
The scrutiny of those all-seeing e. T. 271 And in that charter reads, with sparkling s. I. Grace in his mien, and glory in his e. T. 407 In vain he closes or averts his e. T. 470 Lap-dog and lambkin with black, staring a T.i For none they need: the languide., the check f. i While Admiration, feeding at the c. T. i 157 Conducts the e. along his sinuous course T. il And even to a clown.—Now roves the c. T. i Admits me to a share: the guiltless c. T. i 333 A sparkling c, beneath a wrinkled front T, is Than please the e.—sweet Nature every sense I. i His c. relumines its extinguished fires T. i 45 The lowering e., the petulance, the frown Li And save me too from theirs whose haggards. 7.1 Where frequent hedges intercept the c. T. i 514

st the mountain top, with eager e. T. i664 ncouragement, and in the e. T. i 695 is Philosophy her eagle e. T. i 712 e with agdim and sickly c. T. ii 64 their e., a mercy, for thy sake T. ii 132 s e. rule all things, and intend T. ii 166 hine e. with eye-salve; ask of him T. ii 203 s.!—be grooms, and win the plate T. ii 280 manuscript, and cheats the e. T. ii 364 nis brilliant parts before my e. T. ii 425 e. and judgments ill informed T. ii 435 ton, and give proof to every e. T. ii 443 tot, or aids the indebted e. T. ii 452 s fair reversion with keen e. T. ii 601 anguish, execrate their lot T. ii 665 meek and gentle, and a smile T. ii 708 of control, his gentle e. T. ii 719 uckhis arm, his sparkling e. T. ii 727 [773 ant of care; or her whose winking c. T. ii all quarters; meets the e., the ear T. ii 818 ering e., still leaning on the arm T. iii 53 s the planets home into the e. T. iii 230 r mortal e., blind from the birth T. iii 234 eed; and viewing all she sees T. iii 245 l hook deceive the fish's e. T. iii 313 [135 ds his motley wings in the e. of noon \bar{T} . iii l Labour needs his watchful e. T. iii 400 ash of his far-beaming e. T. iii 602 of office glitter in his e. T. iv 59 [iv 352 shut e., and puckered cheeks and teeth T. is topmast, through his peering e. T. iv 115 e., is tinctured black and red T. iv 216 cinders, while with poring e. T. iv 289 me to a smile. With e. askance T. v 14 ne fair occasion; well they e. T. v 66 g in their e. who set it on T. v 244 y means in philosophic e. T. v 698 Heaven an unpresumptuous e. T. v 746 they fill with tears of holy joy T. v 750 sall be instructed, and thine heart T. v 782ent upon the scanty herb T. v 786 green wave emerging, darts an e. T. v 835 ish, even to the distant e. T. vi 148 th the purple e.; the broom T. vi 170

Where no e. sees them. And the fairer forms T. vi188 And bathes their e, with nectar, and includes T, vi 244 Marching and countermarching, with an e. T. vi 267 With glass at e., and catalogue in hand T. vi 288 In modern e.), shall make the doctrine clear T. vi 482 And glistening even in the dying e. T. vi 631 [vi 699 To gaze in his e., and bless him. Maidens wave T. (A sight to which our e. are strangers yet) T. vi 825 She judges of refinement by the e. T. vi 987 That hides divinity from mortal e. T. vi 877 To charm his ear, whose e is on the heart T. vi 1022 Ye nymphs! if e'er your e. were red T.B. 1 Shall fill the circles of those e. The Doves 15 Denied the endearments of thine e. The Doves 35 His crimes and follies with an aching e. Tir. 62 The minor heroes view with envious c. Tir. 223 With both our e., is easier than to think Tir. 256 Elisha's e., that, when Gehazi strayed Tir. 267 To ears and ϵ ., the vices of the rest Tir. 274 Which only a parental e. foresees Tir. 371 The prize of beauty in a woman's e. Tir. 472 And e. the door, and watches a retreat Tir. 572 And seems it nothing in a father's e. Tir. 615 Thence to exhibit to his wondering e. Tir. 632 Beneath thy roof, beneath thine e. to prove Tir. 680 Before whose infant e. the flatterer bows T.T. 123 Stand most revealed before the freeman's e. T.T. 269 An e like his to catch the distant goal T.T.710The e., that never saw thee, shine 1789, 58

EYEBALL.

Chins fallen, and not an e. to be seen P.E. 137

EYEBROW.

Her e. arched, her eyes both gone astray T. 135 An e., next compose a straggling lock T. ii 446

EYELID.

If ever on thy e. stood the tear H. 676

EYESALVE.

Go, dress thine eyes with e.; ask of him T. ii 203

EYESIGHT.

The e. of Discovery; and begets T. v 452

F.

FABLE.

that seemed for ever mute Con. 817 ne in f., and grace idle themes Ex. 233 f ancient f., leaves a doubt Ex. 503 at blends no f. with his song H. 755 scourse, at least in f. P.T. 4; in f. feigned Q.V. 58 e heart, and f. false as hell T. v 862 surpassing f., and yet true T. vi 759 imes of f. and of dream 1789, 7

FABLED.

he f. Phobus woodd in vain Ex. 599 ntalus, condemned to hear P.E. 231 on than that age of f. gold T. vi 996 tt thine egg, as theirs the f. twins Y.O. 35

FABRIC.

s a dream the f. rose T. v 144 age asks where the f. stood T. v 535

FABULOUS.

And all at random, f. and dark T. ii 522 As if, like him of f. renown T. v 691

FACE.

That sages have seen in thy f.? A.S. 6
Differing in language, manners, or in f. Ch. 21
Ingenious Art, with her expressive f. Ch. 97
The smile of opulence in sorrow's f. Ch. 130
And Heaven reflected in her f. Comp. ii 10
Asseveration blustering in your f. Con. 59
Assert the nose upon his f. his own Con. 122
Hate their own likeness in a brother's f. Con. 158
Yet please not, but affront you to your f. Con. 228
And bear the marks upon a blushing f. Con. 349
Peruses closely the true Christian's f. Con. 743
Tell her again, the sneer upon her f. Con. 783
And give good company a f. severe Con. 873
With fixed considerate f. D.W. 22
The mask from f. never seen before Et. 140

A lawless brood, and curse thee to thy f. Ex. 283 And long provoked, repaid thee to thy f. Ex. 391 Are proud and set their f. as a rock Ex. 457 By every charm that smiles upon her f. Ez. 668 If even her f. he has spared Gr. 47 Yesterday's f., twin image of to-day H. 102 And spits abhorrence in the Christian's f. H. 662 That hangs upon your f. J.G. 190 Long beards, long noses, and pale f. M.F. 6 And while that f. renews my filial grief M.P. 17 Awhile they mused; surveying every f. N.A. 73 Observe each f., how sober and demure! P.E. 134 To hide the shocking features of her f. P.E. 298 By shrugs and strange contortions of his f. P.E. 414 Nature assuming a more levely f. R. 357 The Crown, took notice of an ostler's f. R. 586 Driven out an exile from the f. of Saul R. 768

F. a thousand dangers at her call R.H. 7 And mar the f. of Beauty, when no cause T. i 458 And pretty f., in presence of his God? T. ii 422 That trust them, and in the end disclose a f. T. ii 693 Sees her unwrinkled f. reflected bright T. iv 4 Not such his evening, who with shining f. T. iv 42 The slope of f., from the floor to the roof T. iv 202 And sleeps and is refreshed. Meanwhile the f. T. iv 298 And slowly, and by most unfelt, the f. T. iv 324 Brutes graze the mountain-top, with f. prone T. v 785 Whose f. too was familiar to his view T. vi 494 A devil's purpose with an angel's f. T.T. 130

And dared to look his master in the f. T.T. 321 And all his country beaming in his f. T.T. 347 When Avarice starves, and never hides his f. T.T. 422 Drew a rough copy of the Christian f. T.T. 614 That, quite eclipsing Pleasure's painted f. T.T. 649 Your senatorial dignity of f. v. 1] With rueful f, and bald pates Y.D. 23

FACT.

FACETIOUS.

The skittish fancy with f. tales T. ii 470

A graver f., enlisted on your side Con. 205 Or make that fiction which was once a f. Con. 550 Specious in show, impossible in f. R. 638 Else sure notorious f., and proof so plain Tw. 259 The clock of history, f. and events Y.O. 46 Timing more punctual unrecorded f. Y.O. 47

In setting right what F, has set wrong Ex. 301 To quell the f. that affronts the throne T.T. 67 FACTION-MAD.

That, like the multitude made f. T. iii 673 FACTIOUS.

Healthful and undisturbed by f. fumes T. v 513 FACTORIES. Build f. with blood, conducting trade T. iv 681

FACULTY.

Provides the f. an ampler range Ch. 334 The f. that seemed reduced to naught Con. 403 Obscure or quench a f. that finds Con. 593 For which Heaven formed the f. divine Con. 898 Far as the f. can stretch away R. 74 His utmost f., severe indeed R. 620 Binds all his f., forbids all growth T.i 613 His f., expanded in full bloom T. iv 661 A comprehensive f. that grasps T. v 251 Is evil; hurts the f., impedes T. v 450 New f., or learns at least to employ T. v 806 Fires all the f. with glorious joy T. v 885

With all thy f. elsewhere applied Tir. 659 In all good f. beneath his care Tir. 709

FADE. And verse, more lasting, hues that never f. Ch. 100

Whose glory, with a light that never f. Cos. 883 The glow that Fancy gave it f. Mor. 36 Shine safe without a fear to f. Mrs. M— 50

That melt and f. into the distant sky R. 424 Man thinks he f. too soon St. v 2

Till half their beauties f.; the weary sight T. i 516 All flesh is grass, and all its glory f. T. iii 261 [14

A wreath that cannot f, of flowers that blow T, is F. rapidly, and by compression marred T. iv 669 And f. not. There is Paradise that fears T. v 572

And, ere one flowery season f. and dies T. vi 196 FADED.

Their glory f., and their race dispersed Er. 241 Refreshes, where it winds, the f. green J.T. 39 Can call up life into his f. eye R. 339 But feels while grasping at his f. joys R. 473 And lilies for the brows of f. age T. iv 80

Though f.; and the lands were lately waved \tilde{T} . And renovation of a f. world T. vi 124 Had f., poetry was not an art T.T. 585

FADING. Drew the grey curtain of the f. west Ch. 263 From f. good derives, with chemic art H. 159 Both Poet saves and Plume from f. Mrs. M.— 55

Down to the close of life's fast f. scene V. 85 Give me the fidgets, and my patience f. Con. 208 [70 That strength would f., opposed against the push L

A hopeless task, and damns them if they f. H. 32 Voice only f., else how distinct they say M.P. 5 The difference, though essential f. to strike P.E. 20 And lest the fulsome artifice should f. P.E. 291 From urns that never f., through every land R. 7 Both f. beneath a fever's secret sway R. 295

And thou enjoy an Eden ere it f. R. 364 Where eloquence and artifice shall f. R. 658Sighs if perhaps your appetite should f. T. 215 That never fail'd, nor shall it f. me now'' T. 586

And under such preceptors, who can f.? T. ii 284

Your only one, till sides and benches f. T. ii 475 Would f, to exhibit at the public shows T, ii 619 Since pulpits f., and sounding boards reflect T. iii From ill to worse, is fatal, never f. T. iv 579 F. for the craving hunger of the state T. v 459 That these ménageries f, their trust Tir, 293

And pillars of our planet seem to f. T. ii 63

Were education, else so sure to f. Tir. 702 But to be rudely censured when they f. T.T. 158 They trust in navies, and their navies f. T.T. 435 Farewell, false hearts! whose best affections f. V. When most relied on is most sure to f. V. 68

Exults in his miscarriage if he f. Tir. 478

F. not, in virtue and in wisdom laid Y.0. 121 FAILED. He shouted; nor his friends had f. Cast. 19

And when his juicy salads f. Ep. ii 19 And the fresh-blowing breeze never f. M.D. 8 That never f., nor shall it fail me now" T. 586 FAILING.

Of never f. love A Tale 52

Till, loop and button f. both J.G. 103 That f. left untold J.P. 24 'Tis wild good nature's never f. lot R. 582 In kind compassion of his f. strength R. 626

FAINT.

F. as a chicken's note that has the pip Con. 356 Led them, however faltering, f. and slow T. 537 scho of those brazen throats T. iv 104 aination, that uplipts T. iv 274 ent to catch the first f. gleam T. v 59 kness lost, and love grown f. Tir. 588

FAINTER.

nave a f. flow M. 5 she spake, I f. heard the peals N.A. 123

FAINTLY.

seen, how f. understood! R. 88 mble f. what she views R. 298 he mind, or not at all T. vi 24

FATR

s expecting f. A Fable 27

sted to adorn the f. A.T. 16 e addressed the wayward f. A.T. 34 [68 deed!" the knight exulting cried A.T. ght, but mild and f. as May A.T. 71 ians! all your lutes employ A.T. 107 [110 ite as f., and happier once than you A.T. the charter of the chaste and f. A.T. 117 can he that serves the f. do less) A.T. 119famed, f. Lebanon supplied A.T. 143 nt turf, and flowers as wild and f. Ch.258 vithout, and luminous within Ch. 343 Warwick and f. Eleanore Con. 243 [251 weed! whose scent the f. annoys Con. bulky, and bids f. to prove Con. 307 647 of age, less f., are yet more sound Con. r bids f. to rule again Con. 822 now stands upon a f. award Con. 851 concealed beneath a f. outside Ex. 89 [364 hough suckled at f. Freedom's breast Ex. ee to the date when you f. sea Ex. 550 slightful earth, and that f. sky Ex. 638 ïa sat Gr. 16 vays that seem to promise f. H. 338 dealings should be just and f. H. 401 er at the toilet of the f. H. 684 bard, (if that f. name belong H. 754 1 softly," John he cried J.G. 85 al flower L.R. 14 British f. L.R. 26 f. maid (in nature wise) Miss — 13 possession! but the record f. M.P. 54 n some f. future day N.Y.G. 17 [P.E.216 ssed the youth, and made him fresh and f. t, though f., tempts only to destroy P.E.238heir idol, and pronounce her f. P.E. 300 who, under Virtue's f. pretence P.E. 315 without mercy on the f. P.E. 325 Italian flowers so sweet and f. P.E. 410real frame, thus wondrous f. R. 90 worships his supremely f. R. 225 er heathy wilds, nor scenes as f. R. 331 aven of my native home R. 385 reedom?—he was always free R. 399 , and if a shower approach R.491on-for the F. commands the song T. i 7 employed to accommodate the f. T. i73of f. prospect; scenes that soothed T. i 141 pear below, such as he left T. i 452 a banishes, and gives the f. T. i 460 this queen of cities, that so f. T. i 727 d conceit of his f. form T. ii 420 nise the slow retiring f. T. ii 454is f. reversion with keen eye T. ii 601 , dignity, and f. renown! T. iii 59 come so candid and so f. T. iii 93 flower dishevelled in the wind T. iii 262 ense of labour well bestowed T. iii 430 attractive, is the f. result T. iii 639

And lowly creeping, modest and yet f. T. iii 663 Created f. so much in vain for them T. iii 697 [725] Strange that so f. a creature should yet want \bar{T} . iii And surfeited lewd town with her f. dues T. iii 758 And all that I abhor; thou freckled f. T. iii 839 Fast bound in chains of Silence, which the f. T. iv 53 Follow the nimble finger of the f. T. iv 155 Than the f. shepherdess of old romance T. iv 538 A wrestling match, a footrace, or a f. T. iv 626 To seize the f. occasion; well they eye T. v 66 He gave them, in its distribution f. T. v 200 Made others covet what they saw so f. T. v 227 Smit with the beauty of so f. a scene T. v 560 Directly to the First and Only F.-T. v 675 F. as it is, existed ere it was T. v 799 With those f. ministers of light to man T. v 816 His presence, who made all so f, perceived T. vi 253 On some f. theme, some theme divinely f. T. vi 754 And suffer for its crime; would learn how f. T. vi 827 Shine with his f, example, and though small T, vi 961 For cleanly riddance than for f. attire T. vi 994 I played awhile, obedient to the f. T. vi 1003 F. science poured the light of truth Th. 3 To yon f. Sun and his attendant Earth Tir. 36 But, f. although and feasible it seem Tir. 428 Though f, in promise, permanent and sound Tir. 437Bid f. enough to answer in the proof Tir. 564 Whose f, example may at once inspire Tir, 648 To purchase at the fool-frequented f. T.T. 756 With flower as sweet, or fruit as f. U. 17 No firmer friendships than the f. have shown V. 82

FAIRER.

The f. scenes of sweet Saucerre E. i 46 To wish thee f. is no need N.Y.G. 5 I say the Bramin has the f. claim T. 108 But f. wreaths are due, though never paid T. v 712 Where no eye sees them. And the f. forms T. vi 188 Makes all still f., as with him no scene T. vi 254

FAIREST.

F. and foremost of the train that wait Ch. 1
For the chief blessings of my f. days Ch. 265
And show the softest minds and f. forms Con. 259
The f. British fair L.R. 26
The f. capital of all the world T. i 698
On God's behalf, lays waste his f. works T. ii 136
Oft water f. meadows, and the bird T. vi 930
As the f. and sweetest that blow W.N. 15

FAIRLY

Which is, that I may f. quit E. iv 22 I f. find myself pitchkettled E. iv 32 Faithfully, f., by that sacred test R. 134 And f. laid the zodiac in the dust T. iii 647

FAIRY.

In f. land was born the matchless dame A.T. 5 To f. land be driven Miss-22 And shrubs of f. land. The crystal drops T. v 113

FAITH

That man by F. and Truth is made a slave A.T. 66
Her hope presumption, and her f. a lie Con. 774
If he be silent, f. is all a whim Con. 853
And F., the root whence only can arise Ev. 111
And kept the f. immaculate and pure Ex. 208;[239
They breathed in f. their well directed prayers Ex.
Why having kept good f., and often shown Ex. 276
Your f. and mine substantially agree H. 398
Of f.'s supporting rod St. iii 14
F., want of common sense St. vi 22
Prayer would add f., and f. would fix them there T.
Humility is crowned, and F. receives the prize T. 589
Incurs derision for his easy f. T. v 500

"Attend to their own music? Have they $f.T. \vee 647$ And all the mysteries to f. proposed T. vi 878 Of virtue, and whom virtue, fruit of f. T. vi 911 "Our mutual bond of f. and truth The Doves 9

Act but an honest and a f. part Ex. 556 F., and faithfully informed, unfold Ex. 647 Will trust him for a f. generous part H. 336 The f. monitor's and poet's part H. 757 F. remembrancer of one so dear M.P. 11 (Try the criterion, 'tis a f. guide) P.E. 514 Virtuous and f. Heberden, whose skill R. 279 In f. memory she records the crimes T. 160 A f. likeness of the forms he views T. ii 293 But Discipline, a f. servant long T. ii 725 And f. to the foot, his spirits rise T. iii 8 A f. barrier, not o'erleaped with ease T. iii 681 [881 They now are deemed the f., and are praised T. vi Condemns, approves, and with a f. voice Tir. 33 The encroaching nuisance asks a f. hand Tir. 601 Where all the attention of his f. host Tir. 769 And f, in its sort U. 10

FAITHFULLY.

Faithful, and f. informed, unfold Ex. 647 F., fairly, by that sacred test R. 134

FAITHLESS. F. alike in friendship and in love V. 72

FALCHION.

The sword and f. their inventor claim T. v 218

On waxen pinions soar without a f. A.T. 54 [68 "Fair f. the deed!" the knight exulting cried A.T. Lethean gulfs receive them as they f. B.B. 7 That none are free from blemish since the f. Ch. 204 Thus taught, down f. the plumage of his pride Ch. 345

I twirl my thumbs, f. back into my chair Con. 115 You f. at once into a lower key Con. 329 Know then, and modestly let f. your eyes Con. 485 Lets f. a poem en passant E. iv 88 Thence date their sad declension, and their f. Ex.

That men have deemed substantial since the f. H. 154 Say, botanist, within whose province f. H. 286 But if infirmities that f. M.F. 41 Thy constant flow of love, that knew no f. M.P. 65 After long drought, when rains abundant f. N.A. 59

Or should the brambles, interposed, our f. N.A. 111 F. soporific on the listless ear P.E. 20 And if he fell, would f, because he must P.E. 30 Leaps every fence but one, there f. and dies P.E.93 And Wisdom f. before exterior grace P.E. 418

It f. at last, far wide of his design P.E. 575 But, Muse, forbear; long flights forbade a f. P.E. And grace his action ere the curtain f. R. 34 Ourselves, and our recovery from our f. R. 138

The f. of waters, and the song of birds R. 183 Its brisker and its graver strains f. short R. 294 The pride of arrogant distinctions f. R. 659

Who next is fated, and who next to f. St. ii 18 [23]

One f.—the rest, wide-scattered with affright St. ii Why f. the Gospel like a gracious dew ? T. 180 Through the cleft rock, and, chiming as they f. T. 193

And some are marked to f. St. i 14

The task of new discoveries f. on me T. 218 Reproach a people with his single f. T. 234

Shall f. on her, when Heaven denies it thee T. 512 Pride f. unpitied, never more to rise T. 588

That seems to swing uncertain, and yet f. T. i 358 A mutilated structure, soon to f. T. i 774 That f, asunder at the touch of fire T, ii 11

They touch our country, and their shackles f. T. ii 4 The rocks f. headlong, and the valleys rise T. ii 9 F. prone; the pale inhabitants come forth T. ii 121

F. back into our seat, extend an arm T. ii 448 For ghostly counsel, if it either f. T. ii 556 Of Paradise that has survived the f.! T. iii 42

From the dashed pane the deluge as it f. T. iii 488 Down f, the venerable pile, the abode T, iii 767Houses in ashes, and the f. of stocks T. iv 16

Let f, the curtains, wheel the sofa round T, iv 37 F. a soft murmur on the uninjured ear T. iv 93 In letting f. the curtain of repose T. iv 248

Fast f, a fleecy shower: the downy flakes T, iv 325That lifts him into life, and lets him f. T. iv 791

That in its f. the liquid sheet throws wide T. v 106Stand motionless expectants of its f. T. v 528

F. first before his resolute rebuke T. v 619 On fancied Innocence. Again he f. T. v 623 And, intercepting in their silent f. T. vi 74 Oft as the price-deciding hammer f. T. vi 291 [1011

Let f, the unfinished wreath, and roved for fruit T. $\forall i$ The task now f, into the public hand T, vi 718 At least his follies have not wrought her f. T. vi 976 The props of such proud seminaries f. Tir. 499

And save him from a f. Tran. i 20 If he should chance to f. Tran. ii 21 Such reasoning f. like an inverted cone T.T.53By their own conduct they must stand or f. T.T. 108 Adorn the polished periods as they f. T. T. 766

FALLACIOUS.

And sees, by no f. light or dim R. 115 Yet how f. is all earthly bliss R. 457

FALLACY. Mere f., or foolishness, or both? T. 516

FALLEN.

Thy temple, once thy glory, f. and raised Ez. 259 Chins f., and not an eyeball to be seen P.E. 137 F. from her glory, and too weak to rise T. 480 Ye f. avenues! once more I mourn T. i 338 The hope of such hereafter! They have f. T ii 240 Would I had f. upon those happier days T. iv 513 Another moon new risen, or meteor f. T. v 152 To hear that ye were f. at last; to know T. v 390 Have f. in her defence. A Patriot's blood T. v 714

"Art thou too f., Iberia? Do we see Ch. 67

Bespeaks a land, once Christian, f. and lost T.T. 429 FALLIBLE. Then heaven enjoins the f. and frail H. 391 "F. man," the church-bred youth replies H. 421 "Is still found f., however wise H. 422

See what contempt is f. on humankind Tir. 814

FALLING. And knows that f. he shall rise no more Ch. 347 The depth, how awful! f. there, we burst N.A. 110 Lips busy, and eyes fixed, foot f. slow R. 285 A f. empire, hasten its decay R. 384

Crush me, ye rocks; ye f. mountains, hide T. 269 F. at intervals upon the ear T. vi TAnd flee for safety to the f. rocks T. vi 868

FAL LOWS. I saw far off the weedy f. smile T. iv 316

And f. ones are as rare almost A Tale 7 The scales are f., or algebra a lie Con. 22 In every tale they tell, or f. or true Con. 61 Pronounce your human form a f. pretence Con. 78

'Tis hard if all is f. that I advance Con. 95 Is the f. fire of an o'erheated mind Con. 668 rning legendary, f., absurd Ex. 127 nd just, with no f. aim in view Ex. 648 ip a f. ideal good F. 29 irsuit of fugitive, f. good H. 4 fice is to winnow f. from true H. 417 ion, is unknown to you H. 486 ication gives her, f. or true P.E. 358 as Learning without f. pretence R. 695 imies, is this f. or true? T. ii 533 v and so f.—I feel my heart T. iii 182 ous and f.; it smiled and it was cold T. v 176 he heart, and fables f. as hell T. v 862 oes ravish thee, and no f. friend T.T. 332, f. hearts! whose best affections fail V. 1

FALSEHOOD.

ich whoso but suspects of truth T. v 642

FALSELY.

ed, and no such thing St. vi 11 lages after sages strove T. ii 506

FALTERING.

1, however f., faint, and slow T. 537

FAME.

the path to f. B. 24by one from F.'s neglecting hand B.B. 6 careless of her sister's f. Ch. 454 and self-complacence are the bribe Ch. 468 enchanted with the love of f. Ch. 539 w," says F., "with endless pains E. iv 73 away to battle and to f.! Ex. 289 elied by common f. F. 86 on spread around J.G. 114 prefore, of commercial f., but more J.T.5t chosen, wealth or f. Mor. 27 [f.? P.E. 246 se, good health, good conscience, and good 1, avarice, and the lust of f. P.E. 273 nd vainly, at poetic f. R. 802 fuse, praised not for utterance meet S. i 13 ichman first in literary f. T. 303 mic f. (howe'er deserved) T. iii 15 ince that I, to f. so little known T. iii 23 lispensers of poetic f. T. iii 457 ith is rhetoric, and who swear for f. T. iv rs, or emolument, or f. T. iv 785 emes of monumental f.; and sought T. v 182 issue to his health, f., peace T. v 601 ecution dragged them into f. T. v 725 ot left the venerable man T. vi 492 achievements of immortal f. T. vi 933 ove a sneer at thy deserved f. Tir. 142 ie firmament of f. still shines Tir. 281 lies of less illustrious f. Tir. 354 .h, f., honours, all that I intend Tir. 389 es most perhaps to enhance their f. Tir. 468 his health, his fortune, and his f. Tir. 532 om the deeds of ancient f. Tir. 645 than a mere plebeian f. Tir. 691 bubble on the breath of F.—T.T. 746 s lyre, to fix his f. U. 25 sting as the earth pretend V. 17

FAMED.

nis talent in nicely discerning A.C. 8 rs f., fair Lebanon supplied A.T. 143 probity from shore to shore J.T. 6 d integrity, not more than f. T. iii 259 f. for piety, for years T. vi 490 f. in song. Ah pleasant proof T. vi 682 vere justly f. for bringing forth Tir. 279

FAMILIAR.

nton is f. with the joy Ch. 253

F. with the wonders of the sky H. 442 . With such fine words f. to his tongue P.E. 509 To studies then f., since forgot R. 374 And wilds f. with a lion's roar R. 779 Fastidious, seeking less f. scenes T. i 512 Constant at routs, f. with a round T. ii 385 Has made at last f.; she has lost T. iii 339 F., serve to emancipate the rest! T. v 298 Is made f., watches his approach T. v 423 F. with the effect we slight the cause T. vi 121 Grown so f. with her frequent guest T. vi 306 Whose face too was f. to his view T. vi 494 She makes f. with a Heaven unseen T. vi 926 And, least f. where he should be most Tir. 573

FAMILY.

Now baskets up the f. of plagues T. ii 667 Not visible, his f. of worlds T. iii 232 The f. dispersed, and fixing thought T. iv 137 Its f. and tribe. Laburnum rich T. vi 149 Thus harmony and f. accord T. vi 379 But f. of less illustrious fame Tir. 354

FAMINE

So may the wolf, whom f. has made bold Ch. 184 F., and Pestilence, her first-born son Her. 59 Did F. or did Plague prevail St. i 7 Nor Plague nor F. came St. i 10 He calls for F., and the meagre fiend T. ii 185 Whom f. cannot reconcile to filth T. iv 417 To escape the impending f., often scared T. v 68

FAMISHED

Food for the f. rovers of the flood Ch. 532 Is f.—finds no music in the song T. i 468

FAMOUS.

Of f. London town J.G. 4

FAN.

The flirted f., the bridle, and the toss H. 344
Sighs must f. it, tears must water N.C. 19
Like a fat squab upon a Chinese f. P.E. 218
Much less to feed and f. the fatal fires R. 109
There, wanting nothing save a f. R.C. 17
Her head erect, her f. upon her lips T. 134
Graced with a sword, and worthier of a f. T. i 771
To carry me, to f. me while I sleep T. ii. 30
That never tire, soon f. them all away T. iii 763
The silent circle f. themselves, and quake T. iv 149
Occasion needs but f. them, and they blaze T. v 207

FANATIC.

And half the night? f. and absurd! Con. 578 What is f. frenzy, scorned so much Con. 651 Convicts a man f. in the extreme Con. 665

FANCIED.

A f. head against a f. post A.T. 45 Of f. scorn and undeserved disdain Con. 348 We find the friends we f. we had won E. iii 16 A scene of f. bliss and heart-felt care H. 5 In chase of f. happiness, still wooed T. iii 126 In f. peace beneath his dangerous branch T. v 325 On f. Innocence. Again he falls T. v 623

FANCIFUL.

And it seemed to a f. view The Rose 6

FANCY.

There F. nursed her in ideal bowers A.T. 7 F. endued her in her natal hour) A.T. 92
The work of my F. the more C. 22
That earth has seen, or f. can devise Ch. 254
Suppose (when thought is warm, and f. flows Ch. 379

Wherever chance, caprice, or f. guide Con. 794 Thought is so rare, and f. so profuse Con. 856 And tricks and turns, that F. may devise Ex. 137 Smooth, ductile, and even his f. must flow F.M. 18 In many such f. as these Gr. 52 And f. I fear they will seem Gr. 53 And ask, and f. they find, blessings there H. 243 F. may stand aloof from the design H. 672 Or lively f. guess Miss - 104 The glow that F. gave it fades Mor. 36 F. shall weave a charm for my relief M.P. 18 And while the wings of f. still are free M.P. 118 There Genius, Learning, F., Wit Mrs. M-45 But oh! for him my F. culls Pat. 13 Not all whose eloquence the f. fills P.E. 13 Footing it in the dance that F. leads P.E. 308 From F.'s influence, and intemperate Zeal P.E. 455 Or F.'s fondness for the child she bears P.E. 517 More hideous foes than f. can devise R. 68 Then with a glance of F., to survey R. 78 Wherever freakish f. points the way R. 128 Pleased F. claps her pinions at the sight R. 190 Forgery of f., and a dream of woes R. 324 Beggar's Invention, and makes F. lame R. 710 A sleeping fog, and f, it dry land T. 4
Turn eastward now, and F. shall apply T. 97
Ingenious F., never better pleased T. i 72 The dreams of f., tranquil and secure T. i 236 The powers of f. and strong thought are theirs T. i 402 Her F, followed him through foaming waves T. i 539 At what a sailor suffers; F, too T. i 541 Thus F. paints thee, and though apt to err T.i 661 The skittish f. with facetious tales T. ii 470 Through every change that F., at the loom T. ii 608 While f., like the finger of a clock T. iv 118 Of f., or proscribes the sound of mirth T. iv 176 That F. finds in her excursive flights T. iv 242 Me oft has F., ludicrous and wild T. iv 286 The glassy threads with which the F, weaves T. iv 306 My f., ere yet liberty of choice T. iv. 698 Capricious, in which f. seeks in vain T. v 120 Pushed with a madman's fury. F. shrinks T. vi 513 For her the F., roving unconfined Tir. 21 Oh thou, whom, borne on f.'s eager wing Tir. 131 In f. sees him more superbly ride Tir. 368 Genius is thine, and thou art F.'s nurse; T.T. 290 That verse, whatever fire the f. warms T.T. 512 Verse in the finest mould of f. cast T.T. 618 F. that from the bow that spans the sky T.T. 702 F. has sported all her powers away T.T. 730 With all that F. can invent to please T.T. 765 So F. dreams. Disprove it, if ye can Y.O. 29

FANDANGO.

F., ball, and rout! F.B. 33

FANGED.

And f. with brass the demons are abroad N.A. 102

FANGS.

A quarry of stout spurs and knotted f. Y.O. 117

FANNED.

If f. by balmy and nutritious air T. iii 524

FANNING.

Around her, f. light her streamers gay M.P. 95

FANTASIES.

And f. of dotards, such as show T. vi 507

FANTASTIC.

But how a body so f., trim T. ii 460 (F. misarrangement)! on the roof T. ▼ 111

FAR-BEAMING.

In every flash of his f. eye T. iii 602

FARCE.

Till f. itself, most mournfully jejune R. 711 Of solemn f., where Ignorance in stilts T. ii 736

A Spaniel, Beau, that f. like you Beau 1 The thistle's downy seed my f. G. 2 So f. it with the multitudes beguiled H. 278 So f. it with the sinner, when he feels T. 257 Hard f.! but such as boyish appetite T. i 123 Thus f. the shivering natives of the north T. i 617 Thy simple f., and all thy plain delights T. i 646 His daily f, as delicate. Alas! T. ii 626 So f. we in this prison-house, the world T. ii 661 Of critic appetite, no sordid f. T. iii 461 Ill f. the traveller now, and he that stalks T. iv 341 So f. thy church. But how thy church may f. T. vi 888 To feed our infant minds with proper f. Tw. 116

So on they f. Discourse on other themes T. vi539

FAREWELL. -'twas summer's f. peep! A.T.

Lay snug and warm;—'twas summer's f. pec F., my former joys! I sigh no more Ch. 240 And, f. else all hope of pure delight Con. 681 The freeman to a f. flight F.B. 20 Then f. all that must create M.F. 45 Adieus and f. are a sound unknown M.P. 33 And now, F.—Time unrevoked has run M.P. 112 F.! we meet no more? O. ii 24 Then f. British freedom Pat. 24 The poplars are felled;—f. to the shade P.F.1But f. promises of happier fruits R. 21 Her smile his aim, all higher aims f.! R. 246 Then f, all self-satisfying schemes T. 7 Deceitful views of future bliss, f.! T. 9 So f. envy of the Peasant's Nest! T. i 247 F. those honours, and f. with them T. ii. 239 And undebauched. But we have bid f. T. iii 741 But f. now to unsuspicious nights T. iv 565 But once enslaved; f.! I could endure T. v 477 But now f. all legendary tales Tir. 181 Health's last f., a staff to thine old age Tir. 878 If this be kingly, then f. for me T.T. 149 F., false hearts! whose best affections fail V. 1 Your altered heart—and so, my Lord, f.! V. 26 First, f. Niger! whom now duly proved V. 7 Terentius, once my friend, f. to thee! V. 30

FARMER.

Woe to the gardener's pale, the f.'s hedge T. iv 436For then the f. come jog, jog Y.D. 13 Oh! why are f. made so coarse Y.D. 61

FARRIER.

Their mildest physic is a f.'s purge Ch. 502 Some f. should prescribe his proper course Con. 411

FAR-SOUGHT.

I found the f. treasure near 1789, 28

FAR-SPREADING.

That sweep the skirt of some f, wood T, i 184

FAR-STRETCHING.

And ash f. his umbrageous arm T. i 311

FASCINATE.

All vanish there, and f. no more P.E. 620

FASCINATION.

Some to the f. of a name T. vi 101

FASHION.

iteps forth to f. and refine the race Ch. 98 let F., leader of a chattering train Con. 457 By F. taught, forbade them once to name Con. 496 As Interest bias d knaves, or F. fools Ex. 38 That F., Taste, or Luxury suggest H. 446 las time worn out, or f. put to shame P.E. 245 lefines his speech and f, his address R, 240 vereids or Dryads, as the f. leads R. 537 some swayed by f., some by deep disgust R. 607 massy slab, in f. square or round T. i 21 ldvancing F. to the post of Truth T. i 744 the freaks of f_{\cdot} , regulate the dress T_{\cdot} ii 317 If f., dissipation, taverns, stews T. ii 770 thus decked, he charms a world whom F, blinds T, iv The worse for what it soils. The f. runs T. iv 555 Where F, shall not sanctify abuse T, vi 852 For since (so f. dictates) all, who claim Tir. 690

FASHIONABLE.

And just proportion, f. mien T. ii 421 For loose expense and f. waste Tir. 204

FASHIONABLY.

Not yet so blank, or f. blind H. 92

FASHIONED.

Thy bones not f., and thy joints not knit Ex. 475 Or was he not, till f. in the womb? F.A. 27 To snare the mole, or with ill f. hook R. 401 Her works must needs excel who f. you R. 544 Much more who f. it, he gives it praise T. v 801

FASHIONING.

"And f. my softened heart Miss - 91

FASHION-LED.

But whom do I advise? the f. Tir. 779

FAST. Seized f, the saddle and sprang up behind A.T. 178

F. as the thirsting ear can drink the sound Ch. 112 \sin forged, and Ignorance made f., the chain Ch. 237

Lards of the conquered soil, there rooted f. Ex. 192

Seized f. his hand, held out to set them free Ex.219Suggests the expedient of a yearly f. Ex. 401The j. that wins deliverance, and suspends Ex. 406 Hope, as an anchor firm and sure holds f. H. 167 And bids the mountains he has built stand f. H. 476 His eyes shut f., his fingers in his ears H. 658 by the stream that bounds your just domain Her. 47 Seized f, the flowing mane J.G. 46 And still, as f. as he drew near J.G. 117 rooted against every rub" P. 16 No. But his own engagement binds him f. P.E. 106 Seems verging f. towards the female side P.E. 430 $\frac{4\pi d}{3}$ through life's labyrinth holds f. the clue P.E.357The propagated myriads spread so f. P.E. 484 Delusions strong as Hell shall bind him f. P.E. 609 The leaves came on not quite so f. P.T. 46 Which thousands once f chained to quit no more R.2 F. anchored in the deep abyss of space R. 84 I by the banks of the slow-winding Ouse R. 804 The chambermaid, and shut it f. R.C. 50 f. by their native shore! R.G. 4 But that she f., and, item, goes to church T. 152 And all their leaves f. fluttering, all at once T. 189 I cked in mine, with pleasure such as Love T. i 146 Delighted. There, f. rooted in their bank T. i 166 Descending now (but cautious, lest too f.) T. i 236 Who then that has thee, would not hold thee f. T. ii 129 The mirror of the mind, and hold them f. T. ii 291 They gaze upon the links that hold them f. T. ii 664 And gibbeted, as f. as catchpole-claws T. ii 684 they may confirm his habits, rivet f. T. ii 767

Like a gross fog Bœotian, rising f. T. iii 495 [ii 351 But hark—the Doctor's voice!—f. wedged between T. And f. condensed upon the dewy sash T. iii 496 F. as the periods from his fluent quill T. iv 19 Now stir the fire, and close the shutters f. T. iv 36 F. bound in chains of Silence, which the fair T. iv 53 By flocks, f. feeding and selecting each T. iv 318 F. falls a fleecy shower, the downy flakes T. iv 326 And heaviest, light of foot steals f. away T. iv 442 That trickle down the branches, f. congealed T. \vee 114 Recovering f. its liquid music, prove T. vi 261 A rat f. clinging to the cage T.B. 46 F. stuck within his own T.B, 60 Holds f. her office here, can ne'er forget Tir. 134 Either his gratitude shall hold him f. Tir. 898 He that holds f. the golden mean Trans. H. 7 Free to prove all things, and hold f. the best T.T. 273 Sat f. on George's brows again 1789, 45 Down to the close of life's f. fading scene V. 85

FAST-ANCHORED.

And we the righteous, whose f. isle T. ii 151

FASTEN.

Who f. without mercy on the fair P.E. 325 And wear the bonds, than f. them on him T. ii 36

FASTER

And made him f. run J.G. 228 Or bind them f. on, and add still more f T. 186 Shakes it again, and f., to the ground T. 241 But f. far, and more than all the rest T. iv 613

FASTIDIOUS.

F., seeking less familiar scenes T. i 512 F., or else listless, or perhaps T. ii 306

FASTING.

Thy f., when calamity at last Ex. 400 All f. else, whate'er be the pretence Ex. 412 F. and prayer sit well upon a priest H. 403

FAT.

Like a f. squab upon a Chinese fan P.E. 218

FATAI

A stroke as f. as the scythe of Death Ch. 144
Mankind from quarrels, but their f. end Con. 174
But here, alas! the f. difference lies H. 282
And pleasure's f. wiles? O. ii 9
Remorse, the f. egg by Pleasure laid P.E. 239
To f. ills; that though the path he treads P.E. 545
The least obliquity is f. here P.E. 599
Much less to feed and fan the f. fires R. 109
She sprang no f. leak R.G. 19
That none, decoyed into that f. ring T. ii 631
From ill to worse, is f., never fails T. iv 579
All has its date below; the f. hour T. v 529
The f. issue to his health, fame, peace T. v 601
A flat and f. negative obtains Tir. 714
Some mischief f. to his future worth Tir. 758

FATALIST.

Else, on the f. unrighteous plan P.E. 27

FATE.

F. steals along with silent tread A Fable 36
But F. reserved Sir Airy to maintain A.T. 56
Descanting on his f. Cast. 56
His manners with his f., puts on the brute Ch. 154
F. having placed all truth above his reach Con. 142
They tell us of the f. of Rome M. ii 3
Far be it from my f. Miss — 26
Which f. shall brightly gild N.Y.G. 18
These for the rich: the rest, whom F. had placed T. i

Now scorned, but worthy of a better f. T. i 254 Your f. unmerited, once more rejoice T. i 339 Swears 'tis a bargain, rails at his hard f. T. vi 293 Just then, by adverse f. impressed T.B. 43 [T. vi 910 Would make his f. his choice; whom peace, the fruit Doomed to a no less ignominious f. Tir. 498 O learn, from our example and our f. T.T. 436 But F. thy growth decreed; autumnal rains Y.O. 23

FATED.

Ill f. race! how deeply must they rue Her. 51 Who next is f., and who next to fall St. ii 18

FATHER. One man the common f, of the kind Ch. 18 The tender ties of f., husband, friend Ch. 141 As if they met around a f.'s bier Con. 874 Cured of the golden calves, their F's sin Ex. 215 And while she takes, as at a f.'s hand H. 157 A F.'s frown, and kiss his chastening hand R. 346 Our f. knew the value of a screen T. i 255 Where once your noble f. won a crown! T. ii 281 That sits a stigma on his f's house T, ii 760 Who had survived the f, served the son T. iii 748 And smiling say—My F, made them all!" T, v 747 Appropriates nature as his F.'s work T. v 761 Af., whose authority, in show T. vi 30 All, in the universal F.'s love? T. vi 449 One Lord, one F. Error has no place T. vi 784 Indulges all a f.'s heartfelt glee Tir. 321 The f., who designs his babe a priest Tir. 364 A f. blest with an ingenuous son Tir. 543 F., and friend, and tutor, all in one Tir. 544 He will not blush, that has a f.'s heart Tir. 547 His favourite stand between his f.'s knees Tir. 570 And seems it nothing in a f.'s eye Tir. 615 Perhaps a f., blest with any brains Tir. 626 And hopest thou not ('tis every f.'s hope) Tir. 875 While Alfred's name, the f. of his age T.T. 105 One man alone, the f. of us all Y.O. 144 Our f.'s triumphs and our own 1789, 16 FATHER-BIRD.

Soon every f. and mother P.T. 56

FATHOMLESS.

Ocean exhibits, f. and broad R. 525 Profounder, in the f. abyss T. v 594

FATHOMS.

FATIGUE.

But, if you please, some f. lower down T. 170

Incurring short f.: and though our years T. i 129 In chariots and sedans, know no f. T. i 755 The insupportable f. of thought T. vi 106 To include his genius, after long f. T.T. 153

FATIGUED.

The wreck of what I was, f. I come R. 386 F. me, never weary of the pipe T. iv 706

FATTENED.

The excise if f. with the rich result T. iv 504

FATTENING.

Streams edged with osiers, f. every field H. 47

FAULT. (A f. philosophers might blame A Fable 5 But when the breath of age commits the f. Con. 49 Sometimes the f. is all our own F. 145 F. in the life breed errors in the brain P.E. 564

To f. compassionate or blind M.F. 56 Mark well the finished plan without a f. R. 551 England, with all thy f., I love thee still T. ii 206

Is oft-times proof of wisdom, when the f. T. iii 39 The spaniel dying for some venial f. T. vi 418 Or looked for now, the f. must be his own Tir. 243 The whole reproach, the f. was all his own Tir. 536

FAUNS

The F. and Satyrs, a lascivious race A.T. 199

A subject's f, a subject may proclaim T. T. 113

FAVOUR.

Were hushed in f. of thy generous plea Ch. 311 The f. poured upon the Jewish name Es. 170 Secure the f., and enhance the joy Ex. 678 Secure of f. at her court Mrs. M = 22What f. then not yet possessed N.Y.G. 9 Yet seek him, in his f. life is found R. 353

Thankless for f. from on high St. $\vee 1$ Lost f. back again, and closed the breach T. ii 724 Though many boast thy f., and affect T. iii 294 [3 Whose f., like the clouds of spring, might lower T. v. And trivial f., lasting as the life T. vi 630

Religion, richest f. of the skies T.T. 268 FAVOURABLE.

Man's f. judgment, but his own Con. 764

Has he not hid thee, and thy f. land Ex. 562And right toward the f. place Mor. 19 He proves, less happy than his f. brute R. 633 The f. few—the enthusiast you despise T. 231 And sinks, while f. with the means to rise T. 544 Who oftenest sacrifice are f. least T. i 411

FAVOURED.

And the most f, land, look where we may E_{I} , 226

Towards the Antarctic. Even the f. isles T. i 629 Drew from the stream below. More f., we T. ii S^{*} He seeks a f. spot; that where he builds T. iii 471 That f, such a dream, in days like these T. iv 530

With transports such as f. lovers feel T. iv 721

" F. as ours, transgressors from the womb T. \forall 82 FAVOURITE.

And graced with all her gifts the f. child A.T. 10 Presumes itself chief f. of the skies Con. 674 "My f. Nymph to slight J.P. 34 'Twas but a mile; your f. horse M.F. 23 And without discipline the f. child P.E. 361 Of my f, field, and the bank where they grew P.F. To spare no passion, and no f. sin R. 136 The world can boast, and her chief f. share R. 18 Stand, never overlooked, our f. elms T. i 167 Sermons, and city feasts, and f airs T. iv 84 His f. herb; while all the leafless groves T. iv 31: The rustic throng beneath his f. beech T. iv 705

A scene so friendly to his f. task T. vi. 264 With tears o'er hapless f. shed T.B. 2 Her f., even in his cage T.B. 4 Transport them, and are made their f. themes Ti His f. stand between his father's knees Ter. 570 To doubt the love his f. may pretend T.T. 159 She rears her f. man of all mankind T.T. 217

To skip and gambol like a f. Ep. ii 23 The bounding f., that darts across the glade T.

And filled her with a thousand f. A Fable 13 And all her f.'s were hushed together A Fable 17 F. seized the trembling sex; in every grove A.T. He dreamed not of a fee, or if his f. A.T. 151 Of virtue too well fenced to f. a flaw A.T. 155 She whispered still that he had naught to f. A. With little to hope or to f. C. 54 Through f., not love; and Heaven abhors the sion of transmuting f. to love? Ch. 225 superior but the God she f. Ch. 275 I hopes of a commercial care Ch. 279 rm thee, but I f. the shame Ch. 294 st courage, is its proper source Con. 180 tyrant custom, and the f. Con. 181 being silent makes us mute Con. 352 tother, fearing none beside Con. 362 [375] erfeit is blind, and skulks through f. Con. all a more important cause Con. 397 [495] and with the woes that f. or shame Con. dangerous, and approve your f. Con. 653 she seems to scorn him, only f. Con. 788

Britain! we have not to f. E. iii 54 [i 7 outh ofttimes healthful and at ease Ep. he lost his f. Ep. ii 26 e blush that virgin f, impart Ex. 47 ed him frantic, and his f. a dream Ex. 70 the gates of nations, rouse their f. Ex. 269cause they could not dare to f. Ex. 621 couldst laugh away the f. of harm Ex. 705 es I f. they will seem Gr. 53 to rebuke his awkward f. H. 61 have they, nor f. of sught to come H. 254 se every f. with, God is just H. 370 otry, with well dissembled f. H. 657 darkness and heart-chilling f. H. 714 at once his fetters and his f. H. 725 s f. the same M. ii 4 ot, my child, chase all thy f. away!" M.P. without a f. to fade Mrs. M-50 and gestures of their griefs and f. N.A. wigs of wool and f. combined N.A. 75 cause, to feel the slightest f. N.A. 90 a carcass and not quake for f.? N.A. 100 minous, and viewed with f.P.E.99[P.A.2 e who buy them and sell them, are knaves and he see no cause of f. P.E. 546 Il have winter yet" P.T. 25 f virtue, and the f. of God R. 730 im and dispelled his f. R.C. 90to parley with unmanly f. R.H. 5 stice, wakes no f. St. iv 20 ent shakes him; there's the f. St. v 29s plain, but what have we to f. T. 129 ile f., or be the more enslaved? T. 184 ads to quench his glowing fires T. 189 feels his gratitude inspires T. 190 of generous love and filial f. T. 226 spossible, he f. the first T. 265 hope who never had a f. T. 298 is pleasures with the cramp of f.! T. 466 nce can inflict, or sinners f. T. 554 it, and yet loathe it; f. to die T. i 485 and remorse, the f. of shame T. i 489 ct of contending hopes and f. T. i 668 ne world take heart and banish f. T. ii 195 discipiine of human hands T, ii 325total of their hopes and f. T. iii 132 o smile at what they need not f. T. iii 575 quent themselves, yet f. to break T. iv 54 was undisturbed by F., unscared T.iv 561 e cause of freedom, and should f. T. v 291ough f., strong only to destroy T. v 445 ot. There is Paradise that f. T. v 572 s still a trumpet to his f. T. v 611 et was not, nor cause for f. T. vi 367 and an instructive f. T. vi 374 or move a moment's f. in me? T. vi 508 f. no blight, and needs no fence T. vi 771 ie course, nor f. the frosts of age T. vi 790 e alone they seize The Doves 23 to other f. The Doves 24

Preserved from guilt by salutary f. Tir. 111 Rejoices with a wholesome f. Trans. H. 20 Thus free from censure overswed by f. T.T. 115Happy the state that has not these to f. T.T. 167 While no base f. impedes her in her course T.T. 267 Beset with every ill but that of f. T.T. 363 That charm down f., they frolic it along T.T. 463 And some wits flag through f, of losing it T, T, 521He then is full of fright and f. Y.D. 9

FEARED.

[575 Then too much f, and now too much forgot Ex. And may be f. amid the busiest scenes R. 121 A plague so little to be f. M.F. 33 Are neither felt nor f. by them N. 7Sounds such as these, so worthy to be f. N.A. 84 Not else unworthy to be f. Q.V. 67 That rule he prized, by that he f. St. iii 21No want of timber then was felt or f. T. i 57 And tender blade, that f, the chilling blast T, iv 331 Of flowers, that f no enemy but warmth T v 159 They f, and as his perfect image love T vi 400 Lurks the contagion chiefly to be f. Tir. 689 Be great, be f., be envied, be admired V. 16

FEARFUL.

Perhaps when sickness, or some f. dream H. 217 And 'tis a f. spectacle to see T. ii 662 Conscious and f. of too deep a plunge T. v 64 As f. of offending whom he wished T. vi 501 But seldom (as if f. of expense) T.T. 698

FEARING.

To fear each other, f. none beside Con. 362 The sons of Albion; f. each to lose T. iii 599

FEARLESS.

And, with a f. confidence, make known Con. 695 And f. of the billowy scene Q.V. 71 F. of humid air and gathering rains T. 212
F. of wrong, reposed his weary strength T. i 15 And stands an impudent and f mark T. ii 812 F., and rapt away from all his cares T. iii 311 F., a soul that does not always think T. iv 285 Graze with the f. flocks; all bask at noon T. vi 774 No longer takes, as once, with f. ease Tir. 569

FEASIBLE.

But, fair although and f. it seem Tir. 428

FEAST.

And made so welcome at their simple f. Con. 532 That certain f. are instituted now Con. 823 The Savour's f., his own blest bread and wine Ex. 377 And if the f, of freedom cloy thee not Ex. 671 The full-gorged savage, at his nauseous f. H. 509Sits banqueting, and God provides the f. P.E. 166 Let him your rubric and your f. prescribe P.E. 185 Beneath the open sky she spreads the f. T. i 433 Recoils from its own choice—at the full f. T. i 467 Could pageantry and dance, and f. and song T. iii 314 Sermons, and city f., and favourite airs T. iv. 84 Enjoyed, spare f.! a radish and an egg! T. iv 173 To theatre, or jocund f., or ball T. v 410 In f. or in the chase, in song or dance T. v 758

FEASTING.

And, f. on an onion and a crust T.T. 241

FEAT.

The f. of Vestris, or the naval force Con. 58 Some write a narrative of wars and f. T. iii 139 To Nature's praises. Heroes and their f. T. iv 705 Performing such inimitable f. T. v 125 The inglorious f., and. clamorous in Draise T. vi 486 His wild excursions, window-breaking f. Tir. 228 F. of renown, though wrought in ancient days T.T.22 The f. of heroes and the wrath of kings T.T. 597 For f. of sanguinary hue 1789, 25

FEATHER.

Bents, Wool, and f. mixed A Tale 40 And licked his f. smooth B.R. 20 Might smooth her f., and enjoy her cage Uh. 306 Birds of all f., beasts of every name N.A. 65 That dries his f., saturate with dow T. i 494 Their points obtuse, and f. drunk with wine! T. ii 808 And fledged with icy f., nod superb T. v 26 A soldier's f., or a lady's glove T.T. 549

FEATHERED.

His f. shipmates' eyes A Tale 58
The f. tribes domestic. Half on wing T. v 62
The ostrich, silliest of the f. kind Tir. 789

FEATURE.

Ghastly in f., and his stammering tongue Ex. 356
To hide the shocking f. of her face P.E. 298
You ancient prude, whose withered f. show T. 131
Pleasure and wonder in his f. mixed T. 416
All her reflected f. Bacon thore T. i 702
Of that one f. can be well content T. v 474
The f. of the last degenerate times T. vi 900
Just echoes thine, whose f. are thine own Tir 846
That gild thy f., show in theirs 1789, 65

FECULANCE.

The dregs and f. of every land T. i 684

FED.

Well f., and at his ease Beau 2
F. by the Love from which it rose at first Ch. 574
Were fountains f. with infinite supplies Ex. 34
F. from the richest veins of the Mogul Ex. 369
That f. the flocks and herds of wealthy Lot Ex. 419
There Memory, like the bee that's f. M. ii 9 [28
Then think of his children, for they must be f." P. A.
With which the fieldfare, wintry guest, is f. N.A. 20
Earth's millions daily f., a world employed R. 553
Of malice f. while flesh is mortified T. 166
I f. on scarlet hips and stony haws T. i 120
A fever's agonies, and f. on drugs T. i 446
And f. on manna. And such thine, in whom T. iii 256
Is f. with many a victim. Lo! he comes T. iii 765
Ill-clad and f. but sparely, time to cool T. iv 379
Still to be f., and not to be surcharged Tir. 20

FEE. JCh. 46
Through fear, not love: and Heaven abhors the f.
The poor thyclients, and Heaven's smile thy f.! Ch. 312
A doctor's trouble, but without the f. Con. 314 [374
And having trucked thy soul, brought home the f. Ex.
Thy chiefs, the lords of many a petty f. Ex. 532
Perhaps a grave physician, gathering f. H. 203
The flesh of animals in f., and claim T. vi 452

FEEBLE.

Though f. in degree, in kind the same Ch. 594 And f. onset of a pigmy rush Er. 707 But now and then perhaps a f. ray H. 93 To frown and roar, and shake his f. form H. 186 Thy means so f., and despised so much H. 606 Whose hand is f., or his aim untrue P.E. 571 True Wisdom will attend his f. call R. 33 Were but the f. efforts of a child T. 578

FEEBLENESS.

Such f. of limbs thou provest M. 37 FEEBLY.

The ties of Nature do but f. bind Ch. 371. F. and vainly, at poetic fame) R. 802

FEED.

Her eager thought, and f. her flowing joys Ch. 406 And in due time f. heartily on both Con. 338 In fly-blown flesh, whereon the magget f. Com. 67 Soft airs and genial moisture f. and cheer H. 489 F. sparingly, communicates his store H. 521 And hides the ruin that it f. upon P.E. 286 And draining its nutritious powers to f. R. 43 Sick of the service of a world that f. R. 47 Much less to f. and fan the fatal fires R. 109 And f. the fire that wastes thy powers away R. 26 Or lust engenders, and indulgence f. R. 644 And auxious mainly that the flock he f. T. ii 404 May f. excesses she can ill afford T. ii 651 [T.iii] The country starves, and they that f. the o'erchang F. a blue flame, and makes a cheerful hearth T. iii That f. upon the sobs and dying shricks T. iii 329 That f thee; thou may'st frolic on the floor T. iii 3 And succulent, that f. its giant growth T. iii 413 Some clothe the soil that f. them, far diffused T.iii And his head thumps, to f. upon the breath T. iv Nor this to f. his own! 'Twere some excuse T. iv That like the filth with which the peasant f. T, iv Where nothing f. it. Neither business crowds T.iv That f the thrush (whatever some suppose) T. v Our claim to f. upon immortal truth T. v 721 Whose cause is God. He f. the secret fire T. vil O'er all we f. on power of life and death T. vi Can find no warrant there. F. then, and yield T.vi F. on the slain, but spare the living brute! T.vi To f. our infant minds with proper fare Tw. 116 For public schools 'tis public folly f. Tir. 250 Sure to exhaust the plant on which they f. Tir. No nourishment to f. his growing mind Tir. 618 Who f. a pupil's intellect with store Tir. 622 And f. him well, and give him handsome pay The stream that f. the wellspring of the heart T.T.

FEEDING.

In catching smoke and f. upon air R, 38 While Admiration f. at the eye T. i 157 By flocks, fast f. and selecting each T. iv 318

FEEL.

"F. all the meanness of your slavish lot A.T. Il Would f. herself happier here C. 28 Might f. themselves allied to all the race Ch. 2 And at this hour the conqueror f. the proof Ch He f. his body's bondage in his mind Ch. 152 Buy what is woman-born, and f. no shame! Ch We f. thy force still active, at this hour Ch. 271 The boldest patriot might be proud to f. Ch. 30 He f. his need of an unerring guide Ch. 346 Flies to save some, and f. a pang for all Ch. 407 She f. that frailty she denied so long Ch. 409 Where men of judgment creep, and f. their way I pity bashful men, who f. the pain Con. 347 Did not our hearts f. all He deigned to say Con. They felt what it became them much to f. Com F. less the journey's roughness and its length Com Or seem to boast a fire he does not f. Con. 714 That, conscious of her crimes, shef. instead Con A dread she would not, yet is forced to f. Con-He f. a gentle tingling come E. i 11 Should f, that itching and that tingling E.i. He, still more aged, f. the shocks Ep. ii 41 And f. no change, unshaken and serene Es. # Act without aim, think little, and f. less H. 8 Man f. the spur of passions and desires H. 55 O weariness beyond what asses f. H. 99 Again the mountain f. the imprisoned foe He. In wintry age to f. no chill M. 42 To f. the most refined Miss - 4 tender heart can f. Miss - 103 a cause, to f. the slightest fear N.A. 90 f., as well he might N.G. 5 as well as he P.34ng f. in that rough coat P. 51 l not f. at all-not you P. 60 the wayward bias bigots f. P.E. 454 eart enriched by what it pays R. 209 [307 ather cursed, with hearts that never f. R. is like those a wounded spirit f. R. 341 ile grasping at his faded joys R. 473 pleasure perfect in its kind R. 629 ., as well as we R.C. 23 ot what she f. within S. 10 a pause, would f. it good to think St. ii 15 h diseased, yet nothing f. St. vi 17 · he f. his gratitude inspires T. 190 ; with the sinner, when he f. T. 257 happy amidst all her grief T. 456 n a Sofa, may I never f. T. i 108 again, and f. at every step T. i 271 [376 freshening impulse, and are cleansed T. i indeed indignant, and to f. T. i 379 t f. for man. The natural bond T, ii 9 inkind may f. her mercy too T. ii 47 e of the disease that Nature f. T. ii 194 f. thy fortunes, and partake T. ii 219 underer there. And I can f. T. ii 221 anxieties of life, denied T. ii 302 too; affectionate in look T. ii 405 t and the best f. urgent need T. ii 483 cessities their authors f. T. ii 672 tread. If. myself at large T. iii 18 [iii 411 we himself who trains them, none can f. T. r injured love! but I disdain T. iii 66 and so false—I f. my heart T. iii 182 ess; f. himself engaged to achieve T. iii 377 and pity, when I think on thee! T. iii 842 eat Babel, and not f. the crowd T. iv 90 , robust and hardy, f. indeed T. iv 360 ing cold, but f. it unimpaired T. iv 361 '. least, as more inured than she T. iv 387 sports such as favoured lovers f. T. iv 721 burning instinct: over-head T. iv 773courage to redress her wrongs T. iv 795 w not what it is to f. within T. v 250 elay, f. every welcome stroke T. v 413 rigour of thy fickle clime T. v 484 opriety that none can f. T. v 744 idles as I gaze. If. desires T. v 842 arent's presence no restraint T, vi 49 f half the poverty we f T. vi 52 relvet level, f. a joy T. vi 275 ir happiness augment his own T. vi 326 sublimest privilege to f. T. vi 359 ie impulse and the spur he f. T. vi 755 nt in distant prospect, and not f. T. vi 761 n I f. myself a wife The Doves 25 eanf. through all his countless waves Tir.39 at that sight, and f. at none Tir. 299 en in age, and at our latest day Tir. 317 lidates for such a prize should f. Tir. 376 rage that female rivals f. Tir. 471 who never f. in the right place Tir. 540 ne f. an unexpected change Tir. 567 happiest privileges lost Tir. 574 ect that he has sense, and f. Tir. 720 wants that pinch the poor Trans. H. 10 t pines f. most the power Trans. H. 13 he savage thirst a tiger f. T.T. 36 f all the anxiety he f. T.T. 145 f. the alacrity and joy T.T. 242 e mind that f. indeed the fire T.T. 480

Whate'er the theme, that others never f. T.T. 483 F. himself spent, and fumbles for his brains T.T. 537

FEELING.

Joys doubly sweet to f. quick as thine Ch. 298 With Friendship's finest f. F. 93 Fires all his f, with a noble scorn H. 151 How much his f. suffered, sat Sir Smug) H. 416 Powers of the mind, and f. of the heart H. 654 But man, all f. and awake N. 9 Prove that you have human f. N.C. 55Of ruder shape, and f, none P. 12 Your f, in their full amount P, 47 These, these are f. truly fine P. 63 These both are pleasures to the f. heart P.E. 254 And having human f., does not blush T. ii 27 To thaw him into f.; or the smart T. iv 197 And have a friend in every f, heart T, iv 376 Yet, f. present evils, while the past T. vi 23 Though some, perhaps, that shock thy f. mind Tir. Much less transfix his f. with an oath Tir. 729 But they have human f.—turn to them Tir. 806 Along the nerve of every f. line T.T. 487 But to comply with f., and to give V. 23 Not hard by nature, in a f. part V. 42

FEE-SIMPLE.

The fixed f. of the vain and light? Con. 590

FEET.

Then would he say submissive at thy f. Ch. 232 He bruised beneath his f. the infernal powers Ch. 584 The treasure at my f. D. W. 36 With unshod f. they yet securely tread E. ii 16 The flinty soil indeed their f. annoys E. ii 31 With f. too delicate to touch the ground Ex. 52 Down to the very turf beneath thy f. H. 50 At every step beneath their f. they tread Her. 55 Beneath his well shod f. J.G. 82 Go, cast your orders at your Bishop's f. P.E. 120 When Winter soaks the fields, and female f. T. 215 I cast them at thy f.—my only plea T. 583 [47 That pressed it, and the f. hung dangling down T. i And at his f, the baffled billows die T, i 525 And in his hands and f., the cruel scars T. iii 114 Nor his, who patient stands till his f. throb T. iv 46 To horrid sounds of hostile f. within T. iv 571 And I will sing, at Liberty's dear f. T.T. 296

FEIGN.

Abhors constraint, and dares not f. a zeal Con. 713 But he that loves him has no need to f. T. T. 90

FEIGNED.

"But guard thee well, expect no f. attack A.T. 189 But Charity not f. intends alone Ch. 449 And nowhere, but in f. Arcadian scenes H. 9 Like those in fable f. Q.V. 58 Than by the mere dissemblers' f. respect T. 74 With all the prettiness of f. alarm T. vi 319

FEIGNING

Yet even these, though, f. sickness oft T. i 580

FEINT.

Concludes his unfeigned love of him, a f. Con. 748

ELL. [72

Till the foe found them, and down f. the towers Ex. Thus f. the best instructed in her day Ex. 225 F. broken and defaced at their own door Ex. 506 And if he f., would fall because he must P.E. 30 The night his city f. Q.V. 52 A serving-maid was she, and f. in 10.00 T. 1537 [733 O'erlooked and unemployed, f. Bind died T. ii

F. Discord, arbitress of such debate T. iv 482 The wonder of the North. No forest f. T. v 131 The tree-enchanter Orpheus f. T. B. 64 I snapped it, it f. to the ground The Rose 12 Shifted the wind that raised it, and it f. T.T. 387 Oaks f. not, hewn by thousands, to supply Y.O. 101 FELLED.

The poplars are f.—farewell to the shade P.F. 1 FELLER.

The f.'s toil which thou couldst ill requite Y.O. 115 FELLEST.

Thou f. mature; and, in the loamy clod Y.O. 33 FELLOW.

He finds the pasture where his f. graze Ch. 179 But marks the man that treads his f. down Ch. 211 Prefers his f. grooms, with much good sense Con. 417 "Go, f.!—whither?"—turning short about E. iii 24 He finds his f. guilty of a skin T. ii 12 That man should thus encroach on f. man T. v 435 Resents his f.'s, wishes it were less Tir. 477 Coveted f., smelt ere they are seen Tir. 830 "Few, f.!—there are all that ever reigned T.T. 100 And, summoned to partake its f.'s woe V. 69

The school of coarse good f. and noise Con. 422 For human f., as being void T. vi 322

As when a f., whom his country's laws H. 712 Flies to the tempting pool, or f. knife T. 446 [813 Have we not tracked the f. home, and found T. ii But though the f. on his back could dare T. vi 516

The spring drew near, each f. a breast A Tale 13 F. them in her bosom glow \hat{B} . 38 Nor soon he f. his strength decline Cast. 15 Yet bitter f. it still to die Cast. 35 Nor f. but in the soul that Heaven selects Ch. 8 And having f, the pangs you deem a jest Con. 497 They f. what it became them much to feel Con. 543 Who deal with Scripture, its importance f. Con. 729 That since the flowers of Eden f. the blast Con. 751 And Dick f. some desires F.B. 15 If ever thou hast f. another's pain H. 674 They f. the rude alarm M. ii 6 Are neither f. nor feared by them N. 7 And f. the sneer with scorn enough P. 18 And each by shrinking showed he f. it P. 66 His scruples thus silenced, Tom f. more at ease P.A. F. each a mortal stab in her own breast P.E. 339 But teems with powers he never f. before P.E. 404 Job f. it, when he ground beneath the rod R. 303 But with a soul that ever f, the sting R. 315 Revered at home, and f. in foreign lands R. 412 No happiness is f., except the true R. 461 For evils daily f, and hardly borne R. 752 And evil f, within St, iii 26 But when he f. it, heaved a sigh St. iii 27 Distressed the weary loins that f. no ease T. i 45 No want of timber then was f. or feared T. i 57 The spleen is seldom f. where Flora reigns T. i 455 Is f., mankind may feel her mercy too T. ii 47 [73 To what no few have f., there should be peace T. ii His wrath is busy, and his frown is f. T. ii 94 [733 By roses, and clear suns though scarcely f. T. iii That never f. a stupor, know no pause T. iv 283 Where penury is f. the thought is changed T. iv 397 That f. their virtues; Innocence, it seems T. iv 518 In the low vale of life, that early f. T. iv 799 Would not reproach me with the loss I f. T. v 490

Were sons indeed; they f, a filial heart T. v 518 [972 The man, whose virtues are more f. than seen T. $\forall i$ Shall ne'er be f. by me The Doves 18 Or gently f., and only so The Doves 19 And, f. alike by each, advances both Tir. 485 7231 On situations that they never f. T.T. 169 Is seldom f., though sometimes seen and heard T. T. F. himself crushed at the first word he spoke T.T.353So little f., so fervently professed! V. 50

Divest the rougher sex of f. airs Con. 843 The nymph must lose her f. friend L.R. 1 And dwells there in a f. heart Miss - 1 Seems verging fast towards the f. side P.E. 430 When Winter soaks the fields, and f. feet T. 215 Gives more than f. beauty to a stone T. i 703 On f. industry, the threaded steel T. iv 165 F. and male, Pomona, Pales, Pan T. vi 233 Feel all the rage that f. rivals feel Tir. 471

FENCE.

Leaps every f. but one, there falls and dies P.E. S. Teach him to f, and figure twice a week P.E. 365 That mounts the stile with ease, or leaps the f. T. i 13 The f. withdrawn, he gives them every beam T. iii 44! The cattle mourn in corners, where the f. T. v 27 And where the woods f, off the northern blast T, vi Θ The garden fears no blight, and needs no f. T. vi77Or oaken f. that hems the paddock round T.T. 58

FENCED.

Of virtue too well f, to fear a flaw A.T, 155

FERMENT.

Discordant atoms meet, f. and fight Ez. 297

FERMENTATION.

The rage of f., plunges deep T. iii 519 FERMENTING.

Impregnated with quick f. salts T. iii 464 FERN.

The common overgrown with f_{ij} , and rough T_{ij} is Dry f. or littered hay, that may imbibe T. iii 476 FERRIED.

And they themselves once f. o'er the wave T. ii 1

FERTILE.

Or f. only in its own disgrace T. vi 767 FERTILITY.

Her beauty, her f. She dreads T. i 370

FERTILIZING. No f. streams your fields divide H. 467

The bee transports the f. meal T. iii 538 FERVENCY.

F., freedom, fluency of thought T.T. 700 FERVENT.

His f. spirit labours. There he fights T. vi 936 May be as f. in degree U. 9

FERVENTLY.

So little felt, so f. professed! V. 50

FERVOUR.

The f, and the force of Indian skies Ez. 12 The impatient f. which it first conceives T. iii 50 FESTERED.

To assuage the throbbings of the f. part R. 321 FESTOON.

Else unadorned, with many a gay f. T. iii 667

FETCH.

:ecords of an earlier age Con. 615 [30 ak; for, though the night be raw E. iii

FETCHED.

e worth; nor seldom waits T. i 243

FETTERS.

. of an unknown tongue H. 450 ice his f. and his fear H. 725

FEUDS.

and bickerings of their own Ex. 537. for armies to suppress T.T. 317

FEVER.

ath a f.'s secret sway R. 295 and fed on drugs T. i 446

FEVERISH.

ams his f. mind employed A.T. 153

FIAT.

he f. of his word Ex. 154 of a God give birth Tir. 35

FIB.

lriveller suck the sugared f. P.E. 530

FIBRES.

rate its tenderest part R. 42

FICKLE.

res boast a soul F. 109
vers to suit a f. taste H. 767 year, most part, deformed T. ii 210 or f., frail support T. iii 54
gour of thy f. clime T. v 484
ce forbids that f. power T. v 871 and unchaste The Doves 29

FICOIDES.

ght the winter long T. iii 579

FICTION.

f. which was once a fact? Con. 555 nted f. of the loom T. i 416 weet truth alike prevail Tir. 136

FICTITIOUS. of the times T. 162

FIDDLE.

ews, or f., as seems best H. 76 let us all be gay! P.E. 150 ad all drunk! the f. screams T. iv 478 ass, his f., and his frisk T.T. 237

FIDDLING.

untsman, and a f. priest P.E. 111

FIDELITY.

md's f. and love Con. 308. live E. i 104: bribe nor threat T. vi 628 and love unfeigned T.T. 73

FIDGETS.

., and my patience fails Con. 208

FIE.

ent (oh f. upon 't!) P. 37 vangelical and pure P.E. 133

FIELD. [A.T. 186 f., thou shouldst withstand them all" sputants would take the f. Ch. 620

God and his attributes (a f. of day Con. 471 [428] Like theirs that cleave the flood or graze the f. Con. A veteran warrior in the Christian f. Con. 607 Her f., a rich expanse of wavy corn Ex. 9 Streams edged with osiers, fattening every f. H. 47 Of all that deck the lanes, the f., the bowers H. 288 A soldier's best is courage in the f. H. 405 No fertilizing streams your f. divide H. 467 F., fruit, and flower, and every creature here H. 490 There is a f., through which I often pass N.A. 1 Runs in a bottom, and divides the f. N.A.10 [N.A.50]Then coursed the f. around, and coursed it round again And heedless whither, to that f. I came N.A. 32 | 37 Sheep grazed the f.; some with soft bosom pressed N.A. Again, impetuous to the f. he flies P.E. 92 He takes the f., the master of the pack P.E. 114 [6 Of my favouritef., and the bank where they grew P.F. Where mountain, river, forest, f. and grove R. 29 To whom an atom is an ample f. R. 62 The bar, the senate, or the tented f. R. 102From every window, and the f. are green R. 498 When Winter soaks the f., and female feet T. 215 They, strangers to the controversial f. T. 371 That f. of promise, how it flings abroad T. 458 The middle f.; but scattered by degrees T. i 293 Renounce the odours of the open f. T. i 415 Fair f. appear below, such as he left T. i 452 She ploughs a brazen f., and clothes a soil T. i 709 And least be threatened in the f, and groves T, i 753 Alighting in far distant f., finds out T. ii 109 [213 And f. without a flower, for warmer France T. ii Each in his f. of glory; one in arms T. ii 241 [317] Who dream they have a taste for f, and groves T, iii Polluting Egypt: gardens, f., and plains T. ii 828 And clamours of the f.? Detested sport T. iii 326 While f. of pleasantry amuse us there T.iv 76 I saw the woods and f. at close of day T. iv 311 He hates the f., in which no fife or drum T. iv 646 Hence to the f. of glory, as the world T. iv 684 [772 To range the f, and treat their lungs with air T, iv Stretches a length of shadow e'er the f. T. \forall 10 The very rooks and daws forsake the f. T. v 89 Some seek diversion in the tented f. T. v 185 Thus war affording f, for the display T, v 238 He looks abroad into the varied f, T, v 738 To each some province, garden, f. or grove T. vi Dependent upon man; those in his f. T. vi 414 Or take their pastime in the spacious f. T. vi 576 Of barrenness is past. The fruit ul f. T. vi 765 In Honour's f. advancing his firm foot T.T. 16 The varied f. of science, ever new T.T. 264 His brows with ivy, rushed into the f. T.T. 604 [692 Spreads the fresh verdure of the f., and leads T.T. I read of bright embattled f. 1789, 3

FIELDFARE.

With which the f., wintry guest, is fed N.A. 20

FIEND.

And echoing praises, such as f. might earn Her. 61 Come f., come fury, giant, monster, blast N.A. 121 He calls for Famine, and the meagre f. T. ii 185

FIERCE.

But to divert a f. banditti E. iv 13
The f. banditti which I mean E. iv 19
With f. and envious yet admiring eyes Ex. 204
Thy monarchs arbitrary, f., unjust Ex. 528
A temper passionate and f. F. 64
But where will f. contention end L.R. 3
Where man, by nature f., has laid aside T. i 594
Where f. Temptation, seconded within T. iii 684
Or flushed with f. dispute, a senseless brawl T. v 472

F. the dispute whate'er the theme; while she T. iv 481 And anger insignificantly f. T. vi 320 To prey upon each other; stubborn, f. T. vi 897 F., avaricious, proud, there must be war T.T. 10 And keeps alive his f. but noble fires T.T. 223 [329 And f. Licentiousness should bear the blame T.T.

FIERCENESS.

His f., having learnt, though slow to learn T. i 595 FIERCER.

Till Autumn's f. heats and plenteous dews Tir. 47
FIERCEST.

The f. animals with magic charms) R. 254 His manly forehead to the f. foe T.T. 277 In Afric's torrid clime, or India's f. heat T.T. 297

FIERY

Whom f. suns, that scorch the russet spice Ex. 15 Where no volcano pours his f. flood Her. 85 And f. caverns, roars beneath his foot T. ii 90 Kindle a f. boil upon the skin T. ii 183 Are sown the sparks that kindle f. war T. v 206 (As is the course of rash and f. men) T. vi 542

FIFE

He hates the field, in which no f. or drum T. iv 646

FIFTEEN.

To scribble as you scribbled at f. P.E. 318 Just f. minutes, huddle up their work T. ii 412

FIFTH.

Just made f. chaplain of his patron lord H. 414

FIFTY.

Some f. or a hundred lustrums hence T. ii 579

FIGHT.

FIGURE,

Such frozen f., stiff as they are cold Ch. 607 Like f. drawn upon a dial plate Con. 380 And grace thy f. with a soldier's pride Ex. 487 Teach him to fence and f. twice a week P.E. 366 Elegant phrase, and f. formed to please P.E. 422 Genteel in f., easy in address T. 203 And f. of the man, his secret aim T. vi 618 Behold that f., neat, though plainly clad Tir. 664 Like the two f. at St. Dunstan's stand T.T. 527 A wintry f. like a withered thorn T.T. 725

FILE.

Like regimented coxcombs rank and f. T. 422

FILIAL.

And while that face renews my f. grief M.P. 17 The work of generous love and f. fear T. 226

Were sons indeed; they felt a f. heart T. v 518 But who, with f. confidence inspired T. v 745 Of f. frankness lost, and love grown faint Tir. 589 And keep him warm and f. to the last Tir. 894

FILL

Not only f. Necessity's demand Ch. 99 Immortal fragrance f. the circuit wide Ch. 439 They f. their measure, and receive their due Con. 34 That f. the listening lover with delight Con. 446 Happy to f. Religion's vacant place Er. 121 Might give more life to marble, or might f. Ez. 231 The Maker f. the nations with alarm Ez. 585 To f, the dull vacuity till four H. 78 To f. with fragrance his abode above H. 122 Will f, the chaise; so you must ride J.G. 15 Not all whose eloquence the fancy f. P.E. 13 Whose corresponding misses f. the ream P.E. 311 Who f. the world with doctrines contraband P.E. 475 The wriggling fry soon f. the creeks around P.E. 480 And f, the world of traffic and the shades R. 120 Shall f. thee with delights unfelt before R. 360 Or sought with energy, must f. the void R. 748 And lull the spirit while they f. the mind T. i 187 All summer long, which winter f. again T. i 329 From gaiety that f. the bones with pain T. i 504 To f. the ambition of a private man T. ii 236 To arrest the fleeting images that f. T. ii 290 To f. with riot, and defile with blood T. iii 307 [429] And hence even Winter f, his withered hand T, iii To f. the void of an unfurnished brain T. iv 200 And bundled close to f. some crowded vase T. iv 68Just in the niche he was ordained to f. T. iv 792 Not to the man who f. it as he ought T. \vee 362 Whose eye they f. with tears of holy joy T. v 750 -ye may f. your garners, ye that reap T. v 750 That f, the skies nightly with silent pomp T. v. 817 Where he, that f. an office, shall esteem T. vi 846 Shall f. the circles of those eyes The Doves 15 For her, the memory f, her ample page Tir. 13 But oh! if Fortune f. thy sail Trans. H. 34 And f. with discontent a British isle T.T. 253 She f. profuse ten thousand little throats T.T. 694

FILLED.

And f, her with a thousand fears A Fable 13 With genial instinct f. A Tale 14 [sounds H. 45 Banks clothed with flowers, groves f. with sprightly Has f. his urn where these pure waters rise Ch. 436 His Budget, often f., yet always poor Ch. 614 F. up at last with interesting news Con. 394 With such a jest as f. with hellish glee Con. 737 Their measure f., they too shall pay the debt Er. 712 With a whole gamut f, of heavenly notes N.A.26Has f. with all its fumes a critic's brain P.E. 445 Who stole her slipper, f. it with Tokay T. 157 Of wrong and outrage with which earth is f. T. ii i The pulpit, therefore, (and I name it f. T. ii 326 [82] Were covered with the pest; the streets were f. T. i Diminutive, well f. with well-prepared T. iii 513 Thy scattered hair with sleet like ashes f. T. iv 121 Unoccupied, has f. the void so well T. v 557 Behold the measure of the promise $f. T. vi798 \lceil Rose \rceil$ The cup was all f., and the leaves were all wet ThF. with as much true merriment and glee T.T. 244 To each his name significant, and, f. Y.O. 153

FILLETED.

And f. about with hoops of brass $T. \neq 402$

FILLING.

Who for the sake of f. with one blast T.T. 31

FILMS.

and floating f, envelope every thorn A.T. 73 The sooty f, that play upon the bars T. iv 292

FILTER.

n vain to f. off a crystal draught T. ii 507

FILTH.

The f. of rottenness and worm of pride Ex. 90 To purge and skim away the f. of vice P.E. 343 Whom famine cannot reconcile to f. T. iv 417 [502 That like the f. with which the peasant feeds T. iv

FILTHILY.

Which f. bewray and sore disgrace Tir. 593

FILTHY.

The rank debauch suits Clodio's f. taste P.E. 188 And cast his f. raiment at them all T. 235

FINALLY.

And, cursed with conquest, f. succeed Con. 692

FINCH

They sang as blithe as f. sing FB. 7 A F., whose tongue knew no control P.T. 26

FIND. [there? A.T. 118

"F. out her treacherous heart, and plant a dagger Norage nor infancy could thee there Ch. 48 [A.C. 10 And your lordship," he said, "will undoubtedly f. And f, submission more than half a cure Ch. 158 He f. the pasture where his fellows graze Ch. 179 But f. that though his tubes assist the sight Ch. 387 No works shall f, acceptance in that day Ch. 557 [310 To f. it stuffed with brickbats, earth, and stones Con. And f. a changing clime a happy source Con. 387 Obscure or quench a faculty that f. Con. 593 But veneration or respect f. none Con. 739 And j, it a mere mask of sly grimace Con. 744 And f. Hypocrisy close lurking there Con. 746 To f. the medium asks some share of wit Con. 879 F. the sweet lyre on which an artist plays Con, 900 And all the floating thoughts we f. E. i 7We f. the friends we fancied we had won E. iii 16 I fairly f. myself pitchkettled E. iv 32 And gammer f. it on her knees E. iv 45 He f, his long, last home Ep, ii 38 F. not, or hardly f., a single friend $E_{\overline{\nu}}$. 118 What nation will you f. whose annals prove $E_{\overline{\nu}}$. 165 Where will you f. a race like theirs endowed Ex. 195 The moles and bats in full assembly f. Ex. 630 lf every polished gem we f. F. 7 Shall f, me as reserved as he F. 188 Pursue the search, and you will f. F. 199 With ease, and f. them nutriment; but man F.A. 36 There f a judge inexorably just H. 227 And ask, and fancy they f, blessings there H. 243 And f, the modish manners of the day H. 612 And he that f, his Heaven must lose his sins H. 638 F. out his weaker part H.F. 10 O'erjoyed was he to f. J.G. 30 The calendar, right glad to f. J.G. 177 And set their wit at work to f. L.W. 13 The flowers are gone—but still we f. M. ii 15 So I no more may f. thee M.B. 22 Will f. occasion to forbear M.F. 38 For can we f. it less? Contemplate first N.A. 109 Till some reason ye shall f. N.C. 50 "Methinks," I said, "in thee I f. P.B. 13 May f. a Muse to grace it with a song) P.E. 2 [277 F. by degrees, the truth that once bore sway P.E. Your sober thoughts will hardly f. it one P.E. 489 Darts to the mud, and f. his safety there P.E. 503

We f. a little isle, this life of man R. 148

You f. safe shelter in the next stage-coach R. 492 Forget their labours, and yet f. no rest R. 496 A sense of elegance we rarely f. R. 501And he soon f, the talents it requires R, 614 He f. the labours of that state exceed R. 619 Grasps seeming Happiness, and f. it Pain R. 756 Her climbing she began to f. R.C. 25 Like thee, content in every state may f. S. ii 7 The Scripture yields) or hope to f. a friend? T. 440 Where should they f. (those comforts at an end T. 439 Shall f, the blessing unimproved, a curse T, 524 Shall f. them rated at their full amount T. 545 Anxious in vain to f, the distant floor T, i 48 Or charmed me young, no longer voung, I f. T. i 142 When custom bids, but no refreshment f. T. i 390 Far distant, such as he would die to f. T. i 458 Is famished—f. no music in the song T. i 468 Where f. Philosophy her eagle eye T. i 712 He f. his fellow guilty of a skin T. ii 12 Alighting in far distant fields, f. out T. ii 109 F. place in his dominion, or dispose T. ii 169 That each may f, its most propitious light T, ii 295 His dangers or escapes, and haply f. T. ii 309 [514 Where must he f. his Maker? With what rites T. ii F, one ill made, another obsolete T. ii. 602F. a cold bed her only comfort left T. ii 655 If chance at length he f, a greensward smooth T. And f. the total of their hopes and fears T. iii 132 The man we celebrate must f. a tomb T. iii 264 Seek and obtain, and often f. unsought? T. iii 288 Would f, them hideous nurseries of the spleen T, iii 318 Vain tears, alas! and sighs that never f. T. iii 332 [366] From whom are all our blessings, business f. T. iii The morning f, the self-sequestered man T, iii 386. That errs not, and f. raptures still renewed T. iii 723 With meaner objects even the few she f.! T. iii 727 Where shall I f. an end, or how proceed? T. iv 233 F. happiness sublighted; or, if found T. iv 334 [803 Sent through the traveller's temples! He that f. T iii Come then, and thou shalt f, thy votary calm T, iv 259 That Fancy f. in her excursive flights T. iv. 212 Yet he too f. his own distress in theirs T. iv 390 They brave the season, and yet f. at eve T. iv 378 But helpless, in few years shall f. their hands T. iv 423 How f. the myriads, that in summer cheer T. v 77The gloomy clouds, f. weapons, arrowy sleet T. v 140 Where f. ye passive fortitude? Whence springs T.v 327 The wearied hireling f, it a release T. v 411 Opprobrious residence, he f. them all T. v 584 And fights again; but f. his best essay T. ∇ 624 "We f. sound argument, we read the heart" T. v 654In senseless riot; but ye will not f. T. v 757 The Paradise he sees, he f. it such T. v 794 And such well pleased to f. it, asks no more $T \cdot \sqrt{795}$ To earth's acknowledged Sovereign, f. at once T. v 803 Happy who walks with him! Whom what he f T.vi 247 Akin to rapture, when the bauble f. T. vi 276 [vi 456] Can f. no warrant there. Feed then, and yield T. Shall seek it, and not f. it, in his turn T. vi 600 That f, out every crevice of the head T, vi 707 F. in a sober moment time to pause Tir. 56 If all we f. possessing earth, sea and air Tir. 91 Is not to f. what they profess to seek Tir. 194 Nor gambling practices can f. it out Tir. 246 And is he well content his son should f. Tir. 617 F. it expedient, come what mischief may Tir. 692 F. him a better in a distant spot Tir. 759 Disease or comes not, or f. easy cure Tir. 766 Must f. a colder soil and bleaker air Tir. 851 Where, bishoplike, he f. a perch Tran. ii 5 And in reality to f, no friend T.T. 160 Though Discontent alone can f. out where T.T. 197 Communicates with joy, the good she f. T.T. 275

· Let me, the charge of some good angel f. V. 77 F. thee not less alive to her sweet force Y.O. 133

FINDEST.

Friendship and truth to others, f. thou none? Ex.277

FINDING.

Till f., what he might have found before Ch. 475 But f. soon a smoother road J.G. 81 And f. in the calm of truth—tried love T. iii 56 Not unemployed, and f. rich amends T. iv 729 That f an interminable space T v 556

FINE.

That brass and steel should make so f. a show Ch. 554 A f. puss-gentleman that's all perfume Con. 284 To finish a f. building F. 165 After all he must beat it as thin and as f. F.M. 21 Poet's goods are not often so f. Gr. 54 And sensibilities so f. ! P. 14
"And your f. sense," he said, "and yours P. 41 These, these are feelings truly f. P. 63 Hence comment after comment, spun as f. P.E. 494 With such f. words familiar to his tongue P.E. 509 He wore them as f. trappings for a show T. 56 [vi 561 (Though graced with polished manners and f. zense T. Ere yet mortality's f. threads give way T. v 578 And in his cage, like parrot f, and gay T.T. 232 Or clergy made so f. f Y.D. 62

F. passing thought, e'en in her coarsest works Y.O. FINE-SPUN.

And covered with a f., specious veil P.E. 328

FINESSE.

But he (his musical f. was such) T.T. 652

FINEST.

With Friendship's f. feeling F. 98 Verse in the f. mould of fancy cast T.T. 618

FINGER.

She guides the f. o'er the dancing keys Ch. 109 Pinched close between his f. and his thumb Ch. 477 Down to his f. and his thumb E. i 12 By Vanity's unwearied f. dressed Ex. 46 With f. deeply dyed in human gore Ex. 497 Shows with a pointing f., but no noise H. 221 His eyes shut fast, his f. in his ears H. 658 Shall make your scribbling f ache J.P. 39 One breaks the glass, and cuts his f. P.B. 34 His f. held the pen R.G. 22 And hides his hands to keep his f. warm T. 148 While fancy, like the f. of a clock T. iv 118 Follow the nimble f. of the fair T. iv 155 The learned f. never need explore T. iv 362 Dangled along at the cold f.'s end T. iv 392 Touched by the Midas f. of the state T. iv 507 With designation of the f.'s end Tir. 641 And many a dunce, whose f. itch to write T.T. 111

FINISH.

I must f. my journey alone A.S. 10 To f. a fine building F. 165 Attend to f. what the sword begun Her. 60

FINISHED.

And f. his concise repast Mor. 6 Mark well the f. plan without a fault R. 551 That in good time the stripling's f. taste Tir. 203 'Tis f., and yet, f. as it seems T. iii 781

TH. 525

Where sprang the thorn, the spiry f. shall spring | Had they maintained allegiance f. and sure Ez. 2.7

FIRE.

Too oft betrays the votaries of his f. A.T. 30 Pregnant with celestial f. B. 34 The flame extinct he views the roving f. B.B. 11

Teach me to kindle at thy gentle f. Ch. 12 But shipwreck, earthquake, battle, f., and flood Ch.

Pants to communicate her noble f. Ch. 403

Behold a Christian !—and without the f. Ch. 599 Grows fungous, and takes f. at every spark Con. 54

Important trifles! have more smoke than f. Con. 250 He shakes with cold—you stir the f.and strive Con. 333

That man should love his Maker, and that f. Con. 483 Youth has a sprightliness and f. to boast Con. 635

That f. abated which impels rash youth Con. 641 That f. is catching if you draw too near Con. 654 Is the false f. of an o'erheated mind Com. 668

Or seem to boast a f. he does not feel Con. 714 Till the last f. burn all between the poles Con. 750 By night a f., to cheer the gloomy way Ex. 178[415]

Brought f. from Heaven, the sex-abusing crime E. Suffering the vengeance of eternal f. Ez. 423 Ez. 63 Or his, who touched their hearts with hallowed:

Would hunt a Saracen through f. and flood Er. 521 It is combining f. with smoke F. 119 F. all his feelings with a noble scorn H. 151

But brighter beams than his who f. the skies H. 491 There was a time when Ætna's silent f. Her. 1

Behold in Ætna's emblematic f. Her. 45 And lend celestial f. Miss — 82 Whose f. to sacred Truth applied Mrs. M-32And kindles in his soul a treacherous f. P.E. 40

With some cold moral think to quench the f.P.E.330 To hang their momentary f. Q.V. 15 So, f. with water to compare Q. V. 17 Much less to feed and fan the fatal f. R. 109

That I may catch a f. but rarely known R. 205 And feed the f. that wastes thy powers away R. 264 The sacred f., self-torturing his trade T. 100

No Fear attends to quench his glowing f. T. 189 His eye relumines its extinguished f. T. i 412

That falls as under at the touch of f. T. ii 11 F. from beneath, and meteors from above T. ii 57

Of patriot eloquence to flash down f. T. ii 217 And keeps our larder lean; puts out our f. T. ii 615 Now stir the f., and close the shutters fast T. iv 36 Ascending, f. the horizon; while the clouds T. $v \ge 1$ The tyranny that doomed them to the f. T. v 731

"And many an aching wish, your beamy f. T. v 838 F. all the faculties with glorious joy T. v 885 Whose cause is God. He feeds the secret f. T. vi 224 Whose f. was kindled at the prophet's lamp T. vi 732

Boys, once on f. with that contentious zeal Tir. 470 On f. with curses, and with nonsense hung Tir. 532 Frisking thus before the f. Trans. iii 15

That takes not f. at their heroic deeds T.T. 26 And keeps alive his fierce but noble f. T.T. 223 222 F. him at once in Freedom's glorious cause T.T. Is but the f. without the sacrifice T.T. 379

I know the mind that feels indeed the f. T.T. 480

F. indignation and a sense of scorn T.T. 489 But no prophetic f. to me belong T.T. 504 That verse, whatever f. the fancy warms T.T. 512 The victim of his own lascivious f. T.T. 606 'Twere new indeed to see a bard all f. T.T. 731

FIRED.

F. with a zeal peculiar, they defy H. 461

FIRESIDE.

F. enjoyments, homeborn happiness T. iv 140 FIRM.

He couched it f. upon his puissant thigh A.T. 147

Hope, as an anchor f. and sure, holds fast H. 167 My f. persuasion is, at least sometimes H. 365 So spake Aspasio, f. possessed St. iii 13 Of texture f. a lattice-work that braced T. 42 And, proud to make his f. attachment known T. 219 Upborne they stood. Three legs upholding f. T. i 20 Than the f. oak of which the frame was formed T. i56 And skirted thick with intertexture f. T. i 111 His f. stability to what he scorns T. i 383 F. as a rock. Nor wanted aught within T. v 156 In Honour's field advancing his f. foot T.T. 16 [195 F. friends to peace, to pleasure, and good pay T.T.

FIRMAMENT.

And in the f. of fame still shines Tir. 281

FIRMER.

Of adolescence, or a f. age Con. 46 [287 The more 'twere pressed the f. it would stand Ex. No f. friendships than the fair have shown) V. 82

FIRMEST.

When tempests could not. At thy f. age Y.O. 93 FIRMNESS.

Had reached the sinewy f. of their youth T. v 288 That promised once more f., so assailed T. v 526

FIRST.

Are but departures from the f. design A.T. 50 [127 Lest Rome should end with herf. founders' lives A.T. But f. the squire's, a compliment but due Ch. 470 Humility the parent of the f. Con. 377 And f., let no man charge me, that I mean Con. 871
"I'll see him too—the f. I ever saw" E. iii 31
F., for a thought—since all agree E., iv 35 The last of nations now, though once the f. Ex. 242 He f. conceives, then perfects his design Ex. 318 F. fixes our attention F. 177 The same we practised at f. sight F. 179 See Nature gay as when she f. began H. 39 Who f. misuse, then cast their toys away H. 128 Starts at her f. approach, and sounds to arms! H. 656 And the f. thankful tears bedew his cheeks H. 727 For he got f. to town J.G. 246 Since f. our sky was overcast M. 2 Which f. inspired the flame, decays M.F. 54
That f. engaged him in the chase "Mor. 38
For can we find it less? Contemplate f. N.A. 109 F. wish to be imposed on, and then are P.E 290 F. Appetite enlists him Truth's sworn foe P.E. 542 F. put it out, then take it for a guide P.E. 559 Or when it f. forsakes the clastic string P.E. 573 Calls thee to cope with enemies, and f. R. 267 [396 F. shakes the glittering drops from every thorn R. The lowest f., and without stop R. C. 93 The last impossible, he fears the f. T. 265 The Frenchman f. in literary fame T. 303 And ill as ease behind. The ladies f. T. i 70 Thus f. Necessity invented Stools T. i 86 [T. ii 198 Still wrought by means since f. He made the world? Forth comes the pocket mirror.—F. we stroke T.ii 445 And planetary some; what gave them f. T. iii 159 Even as his f. progenitor, and quits T. iii 297 [475 Impervious to the wind. F. he bids spread T. iii He shuts it close, and the f. labour ends T. iii 489 The impatient fervour which it f, conceives T.iii 502 And the f. larum of the cock's shrill throat T. iv 569 That seizes f. the opulent, descends T. iv 583 [714 As twice seven years, his beauties had then f. T. iv Where, diligent to catch the f. faint gleam T. v 59 The f. artificer of death; the shrewd T. v 213 Contriver who f. sweated at the forge T. v 214 And the f. smith was the f. murderer's son T. \vee 219

Thus kings were f, invented, and thus kings $T \cdot v = 279$ Of these the f. in order, and the pledge T. v 575 Falls f. before his resolute rebuke T. v 619 "The use of his own bounty?—making f. T. \vee 639 Directly to the F. and Only Fair T. v 675 And need not his immediate hand, who f. T. vi 203 The total herd receiving f. from one T. vi 335 Needless, and f. torments ere he devours T. vi 396 Fruitful and young as in their f. career? Tir. 42 That f., or last, hereafter, if not here Tir. 99 And some street-pacing harlot his f. love Tir. 217 When f. we started into life's long race Tir. 315 When children f. begin to spell Tran. iv 37 Felt himself crushed at the f. word he spoke T.T. Flew to its f, position, with a spring T.T.623And place it in this f. essay U. 21 F., farewell Niger! whom now duly proved V. 7 Of treeship-f. a seedling hid in grass Y.O. 61 In praise harmonious the f. air he drew Y.O. 155

FIRSTBORN

Famine, and Pestilence, her f. son Her. 59 The f. efforts of my youthful muse T. iv 701 And Freedom claims him for her f. son T.T. 281

FISH.

Serve him with venison, and he chooses f. Con. 335 You that are but almost a f. P. 26 Nor baited hook deceive the f.'s eye T. iii 313 F. up his dirty and dependent bread T. iii 808 Propitious, pays his tribute, game or f. T. iv 611 FISTS.

They should encounter with well loaded f. Con. 196 Charity may relax the miser's f. Con. 812 And griping f., and unrelenting frowns Ex. 513

FIT

Perhaps the man was in a sportive f. Ch. 537 Whose only f. companion is his horse Con. 412 [644] Mellows and makes the speech more f, for use Con. The sense was dark; 'twas therefore f. E. iv 61 A Friendship that in frequent f. F. 103 Than this his Maker has seen f, to give H, 601 They therefore needs must f. J.G. 188I hold it therefore wisest and most f. N.A. 103She, for her humble sphere by nature f. T. 323 And f. the limpid element for use T. i 374 And crazy earth has had her shaking f. T. ii 60 This f. not nicely, that is ill conceived T. ii 603 Waste youth in occupations only f. T. ii 636 Shook the delinquent with such f of awe T ii 722 Of womanhood, \tilde{f} , pupils in the school T, iv 228 The shadow to the ceiling, there by f. T. iv 275 Becomes a loathsome body, only f. T. iv 674 To eminence f. only for a God T. v 284 But is it f., or can it bear the shock T. v 305 F. for the power in which he stands array'd Tir. 98 To f. thee for a nobler post than thine V. 32

FITNESS.

Of rectitude and f., moral truth T. v 672

FITTED.

And neatly f., it compresses hard T. ii 587 Till smooth'd and squar'd and f. to its place T. vi 9 $

FITTER.

Is but a garnished nuisance f. far T. vi 993

FITTEST.

Are f. auditors for such to seek Con. 226

FIVE.

Every f. minutes how the minutes go Con. 382 Dear Joseph—f. and twenty years ago E. iii 1

Eight years and f. round-rolling moons Ep. ii 29 He cannot drink f. bottles, bilk the score P.E. 193 Then kill a constable, and drink f. more P.E. 194 Her dear f, hundred friends, contemns them all T. ii 643 Else of a mannish growth, and f. in ten Tir. 208 To set a distich upon six and f. T.T. 507 FIX. They f. attention, heedless of your pain Con. 63 F. on the wainscoat a distressful stare Con. 116 [T. 344 First f. our attention F. 177 Prayer would add faith, and faith would f. them there

The roving thought and f. it on themselves T. vi 119 Becomes their pattern, upon whom they f. Tir. 224 Can call her smiling down, and f. her here T.T.413The poet's lyre, to f. his fame U. 25

FIXED.

Their roofless home they f. A Tale 38 To rush into a f. eternal state Con. 185 'Tis an una terable f. decree Con. 467 F. in the rolling flood of endlers years Con. 557 The f. fee-simple of the vain and light? Con. 590 With f. considerate face D.W. 22

And farther still the formed and f. design Ex. 429 And f. by Heaven's decree Miss F. their tyrants' habitations N.C. 38 Lips busy, and eyes f., foot falling slow R. 285 But f., unalterable care S. 9

See where he sits, contemplative and f. T. 415 Or scarlet crewel, in the cushion f. T. i 54 Ponderous, and f. by its own massy weight T. i 59 More f. below, the more disturbed above T. i 384 Grows fluid; and the f. and rooted earth T. ii 100 And tell us whence the stars; why some are f. T. iii158

Indurated and f., the snowy weight T. v 98 As f. as marble, with a forehead ridged T. vi 268 F. motionless, and petrified with dread T. vi 538 Should claim my f, attention more than you T.T.181FIXING.

The family dispersed, and f. thought T. iv 137 FLACCID.

Deserted of its bloom, the f., shrunk T. i 392

Now wantoned lost in f, and reeds D.W.9Impatient to descry the f. of France Ex. 291 And thou hadst neither fleet nor f, to boast Ex. 553 And some wits f. through fear of losing it T.T. 521

FLAGEOLET.

Of f. or flute T.B. 12

FLAGGED.

Of some f. admiral; and tortuous arms Y.O. 96 FLAGRANT.

He burns with most intense and f. zeal T. iii 794

Where f_{} of oratory thresh the floor Ex_{} 302 Thump after thump resounds the constant f. T. i 357

FLAKES. Fast falls a fleecy shower: the downy f. T. iv 326 The frequent f., has kept a path for me T. vi 75

FLAMBEAUX.

Whose f, flash against the morning skies T, ii 648 FLAME.

A courteous Knighthood, caught the generous f.A.T.The f. extinct, he views the roving fire B.B. 11 Unless a love of virtue light the f. Ch. 491

That sight imparts a never-dying f. Ch. 593

But sage observers oft mistake the f. Con. 655 A trick upon the canvass, pointed f. Con. 782 That jewel of the purest f. F. 11 He followed Paul, his zeal a kindred f. H. 582 . In all devouring f. M. ii 2

Out of the very f. of rage and hate Con. 186

Which first inspired the f., decays M.F. 54 That glossy shine, or vivid f. Mrs. M-10 At such a sight to catch the poet's f. R. 85

May least offend against so pure a f. R. 248 He reads his sentence at the f. of Hell T. 10 Thunder, and earthquake, and devouring f. T. 548 Their fortitude and wisdom were a f. T. 531

Such evil Sin hath wrought, and such a f. T. ii 133 Feeds a blue f., and makes a cheerful hearth T. iii 33 Dancing uncouthly to the quivering f. T. iv 276

It is a f, that dies not even there T, iv 743 From Heaven to Earth, of lambent f. serene T. v 153

To teach his heart to glow with generous f. Tir. 644 Affection lights a brighter f. U. 27 FLAMING. Where, f. in scarlet and gold Gr. 29

FLANKS. Which made his horse's f. to smoke J.G. 127 With bleeding sides and f. that heave for life T. vi 429 FLASH.

Inform his mind; one f. of heavenly day Ch. 228 At every stroke wit f. in our eyes Ch. 543 Thunder and f. upon the steadfast shores R. 534 F. desperation, and betray their pangs T. i 502 Of patriot eloquence to f. down fire T. ii 217 Whose flambeaux f. against the morning skies T. ii

In every f, of his far-beaming eye T, iii 602Breaks on the soul, and by a f. from Heaven T. v 834 When lightnings f. among the trees The Doves 21 And f. thanksgivings to the skies! 1789, 55 FLASHING.

Wit f. on Religion's side Mrs. M-31 Now f. wide, now glancing as in play T. 242 And binds the shoulders f. We prove its use T. ii 589

A f. and fatal negative obtains Tir. 714 FLATTED. Is sent to be f. or wrought into length F.M. 2

FLATTER.

Teach, while they f. him, his proper place R. 446 The lie that f. I abhor the most T. T. 88

FLATTERED.

That f, me with hopes of earthly bliss T, iv 696

FLATTERER. Before whose infant eyes the f. bows T.T. 123

FLATTERY. He begs their f. with his latest breath T. 315

By nature, or by f. made so, taught T. ii 546 If F., Folly, Lust, employ the pen T.T. 761.

FLAVIA.

F., most tender of her good name Ch. 453 FLAVOUR.

That gives it all its f. We have run T. ii 607 Of f. or of scent in fruit or flower T. vi 248

Of virtue too well fenced to fear a f. A.T. 155 Nor carp at every f. you may discern Con. 92 No! the decree was just and without f. H. 318

f. unsightly N.Y.G. 8 ience, death for every f. T. 550 s, no difficulty thwarts T. vi 229 rts without a f. between V. 86

FLAX.

od is severed as the f. T. ii 10

FLAXEN.

hand upon his f. head Tir. 848

FLAYED.

a off, 'tis being f. alive P.E. 583 ams, carve a fly, or spit a f. Ch. 354

FLED.

Γ*Α.Τ.* 200

「214

the sight, and, conscious, f. the place f. like a dream C. 5 f. to as the last resort H. 378 y her melody clear M.D. 22 meless sweets of friendship f.? P.E. 244 d has f. to another retreat P.F. 9 The schools became a scene T. ii 735 ons of some danger, either f. T. vi 375 liliam. and the news was fresh T. vi 660 a all! those brilliant times are f. Tir. 284 scribed, as to a refuge, f. Y.O. 16

FLEDGED.

ld I paint him, has his pinions f. T. iv cy feathers, nod superb T. v 26

FLEE.

fety to the falling rocks T. vi 868

FLEECE.

ideon's f. the dews were found E. ii 49 illow, and his weekly drawl H. 199 18 of her f. M.B. 10

FLEECED.

renly in pretension, f. thee well Ex.515

FLEECY.

black complexion N.C. 13 f. tenants o'er the glebe T. i 291 . shower: the downy flakes T. iv 326 foot, they brush the f. flood T. v 63 nantled of its f. load T. vi 179

clance of the mind A.S. 41 whose errand is to save Ch. 128 y f, and armies, stolen the gem Ex. 348 dst neither f. nor flag to boast Ex. 553 r f. Invincible in vain Ex.569wanton, and almost as f. T. vi 330 von, and f. dispersed 1789, 13

FLEETING.

e moment of thy f. time Ep. i 2 julgence winged the f. hours Ex. 71 deed as is the f. hour H. 119 his f. breath St. v 26 e f. images that fill T. ii 290 If am but a f. shade T. v 13 lustre and perfume T. v. 447 lations, found no more Tir. 84 at bids man mark the f. hour T.T. 41 of majesty engage T.T. 117

FLESH.

f., whereon the maggot feeds Con. 676 pampered while the f. grows lean T. 117 nd while f. is mortified T. 166

Receives the morsel—f. obscene of dog T. i 562 And vex their f. with artificial sores T. i 582 There is no f. in man's obdurate heart T. ii 8 All f. is grass, and all its glory fades T. iii 261 The f. of animals in fee, and claim T. vi 452 Thyself in miniature, thy f., thy bone Tir 874

FLESH-FLIES.

Far, far away, these f. of the land P.E. 324

FLEW.

He f. to reach it, by a law A Tale 51 Where his eagles never f. B. 31Which f. not till to-day Beau 6 Sir, when I f. to seize the bird B.R. 1 And ever as the minutes f. Cast. 41 And Time forbid to touch them as he f. Ex. 184 When other nations f from coast to coast Ex. 552At last it f. away J.G. 101 Up f, the windows all J.G. 110 So like an arrow swift he f. J.G. 153 Laid down his pipe, f. to the gate J.G. 163 F. open in short space J.G. 242 And f. to save, ere yet too late L R. 19 And rockets f., self-driven Q.V. 14 [v 723 And chased them up to Heaven. Their ashes f. T. At once the shock unseated him: he f. T. vi 553 As if an eagle f, aloft, and then T.T. 552 F. to its first position, with a spring T.T. 623

FLEXIBLE.

Supple and f. as Indian cane H. 602

FLIGHT.

Compared with the speed of its f. A.S. 42Aware that f., in such a sea Cast. 33 He catches all improvements in his f. Ch. 115 With scarce a slower f. D.W. 12No f. above the pitch of prose E. i 16 The freeman to a farewell f. F.B. 20Could Time, his f. reversed, restore the hours M.P. Around their f. who highest sour Mrs. M-48 That f. in circles urged advanced them nought N.A. He trimmed his f. another way P. B. 12 But, muse, forbear; long f. forbode a fall P.E. 604 Escaped with pain from that adventurous f. T. i 4 Beyond the achievement of successful f. T. i 692 They shame their shooters with a random f. T. ii 807 That Fancy finds in her excursive f. T. iv 242 'Tis pusillanimous and prone to f. T. v 373 Is Liberty: a f. into his arms T. v 577 That wait on man, the f. performing horse T. vi 126 Thither he wings his airy f. Trans. ii 14

FLIMSY.

As bloated spiders draw the f. line P.E. 495 Those f, webs that break as soon as wrought R. 639 Hackneyed and worn to the last f. thread T.T. 727

F. at your head conviction in the lump Con. 153. And f. their foam against thy chalky shore? Ex. 273 To f. his glories o'er the robe she wears H. 44 That field of promise, how it j abroad T. 453 Snuffs up the wind and f, himself abroad T.T. 669 And f, his head before Y.D. 30

FLINTY.

The f, soil indeed their feet annoys E, ii 31

FLIPPANT.

The f. and the scold J.P. 22 And snappish dialogue, that f. wits T. iv 198 The squirrel, f., pert, and full of play T. vi 313 With all their f. fluency of tougue T.T. 147

FLIRTED.

The f. fan, the bridle, and the toss H. 844 FLIT.

F. out of sight, and mocks his pains E. iv 60 The clouds that f., or slowly float away R. 192 [133 Dreams empty dreams. The million f. as gay T. iii FLITTING.

Pleased with his solitude, and f. light T. vi 79

FLOAT.

It f. a vapour now O. i 14 Hark! how it f. upon the dewy air! P.E. 63 The clouds that flit, or slowly f. away R. 192 And she may f. again R.G. 30 Now hoist the sail, and let the streamers f. T. ii 255 To f, a bubble on the breath of Fame T.T. 746

FLOATED.

The cask, the coop, the f. cord Cast. 27

FLOATING.

And f, films envelope every thorn A.T. 78 His f. home for ever left Cast. 6 The f. wreath again discerned D.W. 31 And all the f. thoughts we find E. i 7

FLOCK.

Far from the f., and in a boundless waste E. ii 42 While others poison what the f. must drink Ex. 100 That fed the \hat{f} , and herds of wealthy Lot Ex. 419 Alas, not so! the poorest of the f. Ex. 456 A f. so scattered, and so wont to roam Ex. 729 Nor herds have ye to boast, nor bleating f. H. 466 And ruminating f. enjoy the shade Her. 32 The f. grew calm again, and I, the road N.A. 127 Will not the sickliest sheep of every f. P.E. 142 Unfolds his f., then under bank or bush R. 397 His f. the chief concern he ever knew R. 404 And anxious mainly that the f. he feeds T. ii 404 Displaying his own beauty, starves his f. ! T. ii 429 By $f_{...}$ fast feeding and selecting each $T_{...}$ iv 318 Or harmless f., is hazardous and bold T. iv 575 [v 86 Thins all their numerous f. In chinks and holes T. Then, as a shepherd separates his f. T. v 196 Graze with the fearless f.; all bask at noon T. vi 774 F. to that light; the glory of all lands T. vi 802 Nabaioth, and the f. of Kedar there T. vi 805 [624 Dismiss their cares when they dismiss their f. Tir. Wouldst thou, possessor of a f., employ Tir. 905 To see a people scattered like a f. T.T. 34 O'erhung the campaign; and the numerous f. Y.O.53 No f. frequents thee now. Thou hast outlived Y.O. 56

FLOGGED.

How he was f., or had the luck to escape Tir. 329

FLOOD.

But shipwreck, earthquake, battle, fire, and f. Ch. 282 A conflagration, or a wintry f. Ch. 465 Food for the famished rovers of the f. Ch. 532 [428] Like theirs that cleave the f. or graze the field Con. Fixed in the rolling f, of endless years Con. 557 For them, the rocks dissolved into a f. Ex. 181 Would hunt a Saracen through fire and f. Ex. 521Pours out a f. of splendour upon thine Ex. 589 A painful passage o'er a restless f. H. 3 Has wept a silent f., reversed his ways H. 519 Where no volcano pours his fiery f. Her. 85 Thus swiftly dividing the f. M.D. 25 There sits quiescent on the f. that show M.P. 92 Scorned by the nobler tenants of the f. P.E. 482 Now in the f., now panting in the meads R. 538

Of distant f., or in the softer voice T. 191

The chequered earth seems restless as a f. T. i 344 Resistless. Never such a sudden f. T. ii 115 Shall counterfeit the motions of the f. T. ii 148 Bestrides the wintry f, in which the moon T. iv 3

And half on foot, they brush the fleecy f. T. v 63 O'erwhelming all distinction. On the f. T. v 97 [13] To enrich thy walls; but thou didst hew the f. T. v Deep in the f. found, when he sought it not T. vi 555

A chilling f. on summer's drooping flowers T.T. 211

FLOODGATES. And forced the f. of licentious mirth Con. 264

FLOOR. Four ivory eggs soon pave its f. A Tale 41 And panting pressed the f. B.R. 16Rake well the cinders, sweep the f. E. iv 41

Where flails of oratory thresh the f. Ex. 302Children not thine have trod my nursery f. M.P. 4 He left his bed, he trod the f. \tilde{R} . C. 91 Anxious in vain to find the distant f. T. i 48 That feeds thee; thou may'st frolic on the f. T. iii Must be detached, and where it strews the f. T. iii 615 The slope of faces, from the f. to the roof T. iv 203

One spits upon the f. Y.D. 42 FLOORED.

Of eastern groves, and oceans f. with ice Ex. 16 FLORA Sweet harmonist of F.'s court! Dr. 3

So F.'s wreath through coloured crystal seen H. 71 She seemed designed for F,'s hand L.R. 15 From F.'s balmy store M. ii 10 The spleen is seldom felt where F. reigns T. i 455 These F. banishes, and gives the fair T. i 460 And F., and Vertumnus; peopling earth T. vi 234 Where F. is still in her prime W.N. 10

FLOUNCED.

Curled, scented, furbelowed, and f. around Ez. 51

FLOURISH.

They f.; and, as these decline, decay Ex. 327 To f, and parade with at the bar Ex, 665 In which they f. most; where, in the beams T. i 694 Shines there, and f. The golden boast T. iii 571 Where most they f., upon English ground T.T. 337

FLOURISHING.

On the f. bush where it grew The Rose 8

FLOW. Suppose (when thought is warm, and fancy f. Ch. 379

And f. in free communion with the rest Ch. 611 [i9 Streams neverf. in vain; where streams abound Comp. To brush the surface, and to make it f. Con. 102 [444 And speech may praise the power that bids it f. Con. Tastes of its healthful origin, and f. Con. 565 Should f. like waters after summer showers Con. 705 F. in a foreign land, but not in vain E. ii 46 Smooth, ductile, and even his fancy must f. F.M. 18 Where'er they f., now seen and now concealed H. 48 Thy spirits have a fainter f. M. 5 When virtue bids it f. Miss.

Thy constant f. of love, that knew no fall M.P. 65 Vast as it is, it answers, as it f. R. 529

But tears of godly grief ne'er f. within St. ii 32 And gain-devoted cities. Thither f. T. i 682 F. into her; unbounded is her joy T. vi 803

A wig that f. behind J.G. 182 To them it f, much mingled and defiled T, ii 503 Rotation; from what fountain f. their light T. iii 160 Has f. from lips wet with Castalian dows T. iii 251

FLOWER.

oft in amaranthine f. A.T. 8 he found, he wove in haste A.T. 13 ed the f. that graced their side A.T.75turf, and f. as wild and fair Ch. 258 ndiments the promised f. Con. 42 f. with labour meet Con. 439 f. of Eden felt the blast Con. 751 lendour of the f.? E. i 72 Nature's sweetest f. E. i 94 il's infamy full blown Ez. 222 ither fruit nor f. F. 185 [sounds H.45 l with f., groves filled with sprightly eed of an immortal f. H. 120 e kindred tribes of weeds and f.? H. ad f., and every creature here H. 490 suit a fickle taste H. 767 e drooping f., unheard, unseen J.T. 40 Tee? L.R. 4 —but still we find M. ii 15 herbs and f. rejoicing all N.A. 60 l f. L.R. 14 ; with thy vesture's tissued f. M.P. 75 she bears Pat. 14 ilian f. so sweet and fair P.E. 410 ne promiscuously we call R. 723 ur upon thorny lands R.754thin its seed the future f. R. 792 f., her aromatic gums T. ii 86 hout a f. for warmer France T. ii 213 . dishevelled in the wind T. iii 262 anthine f. on earth T. iii 268 oversbadowing golden f. T. iii 535 ind even the breathing air T. iii 539 there with intermingling f. T. iii 576 cities of leaf and f. T. iii 590 who would see his f. disposed T. iii 648 orted f. endure the wind T. iii 657 [728 r ornaments, her leaves, and f. ! T. iii so he from land to land T. iv 108 rows, the well depicted f. T. iv 151 t cannot fade, of \bar{f} . that blow T. iv 156 r is like a f. T. iv 659 d from the rest, and bound T. iv 667 red no enemy but warmth T. v 159 one that gives the f. T. v 446 √
137 It sleeps; and the icy touch T. vi he woodbine, pale and wan T. vi 162 clothing her slender rods T. vi 166 d nature. Not a f. T. vi 240 of scent in fruit or f. T. vi 248 among poetic f T. vi 752 nemselves into our sweetest f. T. vi 831 ied carcass tricked with f. T. vi 992 a with the f. of verse T. vi 1007 I knew would little please T. vi 1010 moisture encumbered the f. The Rose 3 uit the wilderness supplies Tir 27 in an insect or a f. Tir. 636 [T.T.718 pring where'er she deigned to stray d on summer's drooping f. T.T. 211 and gives scent to every f. T.T. 691 et, or fruit as fair U. 17 ave the charms of the spring W.N.7 at every f. 1789, 18

FLOWERY.

vild, indeed, but f. spray Ch. 629 y dance along the f. plain E. ii 13 lurks, beneath what f. shades P.E. 54 ee no cause of fear P.E. 546 t hang on pleasure's f. stem R. 179 terspersed with f. beds R. 336

Kills too the f. weeds, where'er they grow T. 461 Hence, ankle-deep in moss and f. thyme T. i 270 A f. island, from the dark green lawn T. iii 630 And, ere one f. season fades and dies T. vi 196 By flowing numbers and a f. style T.T. 741

FLOWING.

Her eager thought, and feeds her f. joys Ch 405 These f. from the fount of grace above E. ii 29 Seized fast the f. mane J.G. 46 With wig prolix, down f. to his waist Tir. 361 Was natural as in the f. stream T.T. 592. By f. numbers and a flowery style T.T. 741

FLUCTUATION

Strange f. of all human things! E. iii 9 Its f., and its vast concerns? T. iv 56

FLUENT.

Fast as the periods from his f. quill T. iv 19

FLUENCY.

With all their flippant f. of tongue T.T. 147 Fervency, freedom, f. of thought T.T. 700

FLUID

Grows f: and the fixed and rooted earth T. ii 100 FLUSH.

Vigorous in age as in the f. of youth Con. 601 And f. into variety again T. vi 180

FLUSHED.

[Tir. 833

Now f. with drunkenness, now with whoredom pale Or f. with flerce dispute, a senseless brawl T. v 472

FLUTE

Psaltery and sackbut, dulcimer and f. P.E. 133 Ye clarionets, and softer still, ye f. T. ii 260 Of flageolet or f. T.B. 12

FLUTTER.

"And f. loose, the sport of every wind A.T. 102 That f. loose on golden wing F.B. 8
That f. least is longest on the wing T. vi 931

FLUTTERED.

Had f. all his strength away B.R. 15 And sighed for every fool that f. by Ex. 54

FLUTTERING.

And all their leaves fast f., all at once T. i 189 Their f. rags, and shows a tawny skin T. i 568 Of f., loitering, cringeing, begging, loose T. iii 832

FLY.

That f., like Gabriel on his Lord's commands Ch. 135 Loose f. his forelock and his ample mane Ch. 176 Else I would say, and as I spake, bid f. Ch. 268 Weigh sunbeams, carve a f., or spit a flea Ch. 354 Are taught by rays, that f. with equal pace Ch. 363 F. to save some, and feels a pang for all Ch. 407 And if it weigh the importance of a j. Con. 21 That He bids thousands f, when none pursue Ex. 360 Should f. the World's contaminating touch Ex. 446 The wind did blow, the cloak did f. J.G. 101 So did he f.—which brings me to J.G. 155 Thus seeing Gilpin f. J. (7. 234 (Her rosy chorus) f. Miss — 72 Of him that creeps and him that f. N.G. 38 Ordained perhaps, ere summer f. O. i 17 Again, impetuous to the field he f. P.E. 92 Women, whom custom has forbid to f. P.E. 504 On borrowed wheels away she f. Q, V. 37 F. to the levee, and, received with grace R. 479 F. to the coast for daily, nightly joys R. 522 To distant caves the lonely wanderer f. R. 769

Else, though unequalled to the goal he f. T. 15 In counterpoise, f. up and kicks the beam T. 356 F. to the tempting pool, or felon knife T. 446 Full on the destined ear. Wide f. the chaff T. i 359 As if created only like the f. T. iii 134 Moisture and drought, mice, worms, and swarming f Must f. before the knife; the withered leaf T. iii 614 Perhaps may crown us, but to f. is safe T. iii 688 F. swiftly, and unfelt the task proceeds T. iv 166 To f. for refuge from distracting thought T. v 415 Of flowers, like f. clothing her slender rods T. vi 166 Pursuing gilded f.; and such he deems T. vi 922 The shadows f., philosophy prevails Tir. 182 [746 F., winged with joy, to some coach-crowded door Tir. that unimproved those many moments f. Tir. 616 Spread little wings, and rather skip than f. T.T. 579Time was when, settling on thy leaf, a f. Y.O. 91

FLY-BLOWN.

In f. flesh, whereon the magget feeds Com. 676

FLYING.

From distant mountains catch the f. joy T. vi 795

And fling their f. against thy chalky shore? Ex. 273 The f, upon the waters not so light T. 43

FOAMING.

Lashed into f. waves, begins to roar T. 260 Her Fancy followed him through f. waves T. i 539 High-minded, f. out their own disgrace T. vi 898

FOAMY.

Her silver globes, light as the f. surf T. vi 155

FOCUS.

There centring in a f. round and neat Con. 239

FODDER.

Their wonted f.; not like hungering man T. v 30

He dreamed not of a f., or if his fear A.T. 151 Foretold one, dreamed not of a f. so near A.T. 152 Rushed with a whirlwind's fury on the f. A.T. 195 Dying, hurled them at the f. B. 40 The f. of virtue has no claim to thee Ch. 288 Snares in his path, and f. that lurk within Con. 470 Till the f. found them, and down fell the towers Ex.72But public censure speaks a public f. Ex. 436 Thy \hat{f} , implacable, thy land at rest Ex. 581 What nation amongst all my f, is free Ex. 710 (Sworn f. to every thing that's witty!) E. iv 14 May prove a dangerous f. indeed F. 77 And \hat{f} , of our perishing kind Gr. 46 Again the mountain feels the imprisoned f. Her. 37 Some f. to his upright intent H.F. 9 Appeared two lovely $f.\ L.R$ 6 Sworn f. to sense and law M. i 2 Thou polished and high-finished f, to truth P.E. 341 First Appetite enlists him Truth's sworn f. P.E. 542 More hideous f. than fancy can devise R. 68 The f. of man, or make a desert sweet R. 782 Once dreaded by our f. R. G. 26 And the f.'s uncerring aim St. iv 12 Why deem we death a f.? St. v 18 Though various f. against the Truth combine T. 473 Upon thy f., was nover meant my task T. ii 218 And gives his direst f. a friend's embrace T. ii 270 The disappointed f., deliverance found T. iv 186 As he whose prowess had subdued their f.? T. v 237 That hellish f., confederate for his harm T. v 785 To assist his f.'s down-fallen beast to rise T. vi 444

Antipathies are none. No f. to man T. vi 777

Gives courage to their f., who, could they see T. vi 865 Dire f. alike of bird and mouse T.B. 26 His manly forehead to the fiercest f. T.T. 277 May no f ravish thee, and no false friend T.T.332She has one f., and that one f. the world T.T. 455

FOG.

Bade rise in haste a dark and drizzling f. A.T. 94 And thine was smothered in the stench and f. Ez. 510A sleeping f., and fancies it dry land T. 4 Like a gross f. Bœotian, rising fast T. iii 495

FOH. F.! 'twas a bribe that left it: he has touched T.iv FOIBLE.

It may correct a f., may chastise T. ii 316

FOILED.

A man that would have f. at their own play Con.611 Where deists, always f., yet scorn to yield T. 372 Or having long in miry ways been f. T. iii 4 The State that strives for liberty, though f. T. v 367 Till Nature, unavailing Nature, f. T. ▼ 627

FOLD.

And wood and lawn in dusky f. enclosed A.T. 96 To quit the forest and invade the f. Ch. 185 All night, we resting quiet in the f. N.A. 92 Russet and rude, f. up the tender germ T. vi 194

FOLDED,

His eyes are sunk, arms f., head reclined H. 689 The f gates would bar my progress now T i 330

FOLIAGE.

With its new f. on St. i 18 With f. of such dark redundant growth T. i 226 Large f., over hadowing golden flowers T. iii 535 Peep through their poli-bed f. at the storm T. iii 574 Shall put their graceful f. on again T. vi 144 Forgotten as the f. of thy youth Y.O. 59

FOLIO.

This f. of four pages, happy work! T. iv 50 FOLK.

For us plain f., and all who side with us Con. 848 And yield so much to noble f. F. 118Were never f. so glad J.G. 42 Though some f. can't endure them Pat. 18 Were e'er such hungry f.! Y.D. 38

FOLLOW.

And though the fox he f. may be tamed Con. 409 Nor swifter greyhound f. Ep. ii 2 And unless you adorn it, a nausea f. F.M. 24 That shows how far 'tis safe to f. sin H. 608 That he may f. them through brake and brier N.A.6 To win due credence to what f. next N.A. 72 Peace f. Virtue as its sure reward P.E. 42 Pursue their sport, and f. to the deep R. 160 Pay!—f. Christ, and all is paid St. v 33And all were swift to f. whom all loved T. ii 251 Soon f., and the curb of conscience snapped T. ii 571 Great contest f., and much learn'd dust T. iii 161 F, the nimble finger of the fair T, iv 155 To wandering sheep, resolved to f. none T. vi 891 To f. foolish precedents, and wink Tir. 255

What f. next, let cities of great name T.T. 430 FOLLOWED.

Must f. royalty, then welcome ease T.T. 165

I thence withdrew, and f. long D.W. 27 Showed that they f. all they seemed to shun Ex. 112 I, his seal a kindred flame H. 582 nd loved, renounced and f. L.W. 33
y f. him through foaming waves T. i 539
r revenge, or to supplant T. i 609 perhaps by a smile" The Rose 20

FOLLOWER.

or f. of mine L.W. 4

FOLLOWING.

d me to my own abode N.A. 128
a wretch, whom, f. her old plan Tir. 737

FOLLY.

blasphemy! So F. pleads Ch. 194 J'errules all human f. still Ch. 463 sh f., not to be reclaimed Ch. 497 ly of the nurse's lap Con. 479 instained by f. or by strife Con. 563 me more perhaps than F. ought Con. 625 Craft for F.'s use designed E. ii 7 past f. from all-seeing eyes? Ex. 405 n-out f., now acknowledged such F. Δ . 8 s, vice, or f. may command H. 12 ith all his f., has a mind H. 91 d delusion—Sir, you toast H. 364 other f. strike the public eye H. 620 ds where genuine Hope begins H. 637 ys, resound at your return Her. 62 the f. of the wise H.F. 13 x shall for your f.'s sake J.P. 37 ing of his pursuit P.B. 17 e and F. unsabdued behind P.E. 81 rith the f. of his life's mad scene P.E. 88 at Clodio's f., in a tone P.E 191 nocence are so alike P.E. 203 r has a vacant stare P.E. 205 F. with a full moon tide P.E. 282 and driveling f. without end P.E. 310 is expectation R.C. 116 on F,'s pageantry with scorn S, ii 8 l his woe! St, iii 4 p all my f. by the root T. 574 your country. F. such as yours T. i 770 : and with a just disdain T. ii 222 F. is soon learned T. ii 283 hat need it. is F.'s circle, which she draws T. ii 629 to spoil him is a task T. ii 768 listurbed by F., and apprised T. iii 34 is f., by which thousands die T. iii 219 sence, or cancel f. past T. iii 678 or through f. not enjoyed T. iii 711 he heart; were England now T. iii 742 lantry for every vice T. iv 690 at such f. as lifts bloated man T. v 283 s ample measure meet T. v 309 ging in pursuit of death T. v. 595 rd our f., or that sit T. v 877 filded f., we renounced T. vi 39 s f. have not wrought her fall T. vi 976 and f. with an aching eye Tir. 62 schools 'tis public f. feeds Tir. 250 tes deeds of f. and of shame) Tir. 333 ms are the f. that annoy Tir. 597 hful f. than the same neglect Tir. 713 es past, or f. yet to come Tir. 776 feminacy, f., lust T.T. 394 , themselves unmoved the while T.T. 659 , F., Lust, employ the pen T.T. 761 f. of our dreaming youth V. 54

FOMENTATION.

I invite the seed T. iii 510

FOND.

Propitious to his f. intent there grew A.T. 80
To where the f. Sir Airy lay entranced A.T. 150
Oh f. attempt to give a deathless lot B.B. 1
And you, f maid, approve Miss — 94
(A poet f. of Nature and your friend) R. 542
F. of the phantom of an earthly rest R. 764
Nor in her own f. apprehension R.C. 101
A silly f. conceit of his fair form T. ii 420
This f. attachment to the well known place Tir. 314
F. of the speculative height Trans. ii 13

FONDLED.

What pleasure can the miser's f. hoard J.T. 13

FONDLY.

Her new-laid eggs she f. pressed A Fable 2 Then thus the god whom f. they J.P. 29

FONDNESS.

Strange f. of the human heart St. v 13 Or Fancy's f. for the child she bears P.E. 517

FOOD.

Has left some hundreds without home or f. Ch. 466 F. for the famished rovers of the flood Ch. 532 The dews condensed into angelic f. Es. 182 Mysteries are f. for angels: they digest F.A. 35 Restless as his who toils and sweats for f. J.T. 24 And hoards them in her sleeve; but needful f. T. i 554 F. for the vulgar merely—is an art T. iii 449 By public exigence, till annual f. T. v 458 [P.F. 483 Minnows and gudgeons gorge the unwholesome f. Thanks for thy f. Carnivorous, through sin T. vi 457 F. chiefly for the mind T.B. 42 Of classic f. begins to be his care Tir. 319 For such is all the mental f. purveyed Tir. 620 Seeking her f., with ease might have purloined Y.O.19

FOOL.

A f. must now and then be right by chance Con. 96 Would only prove him a consummate f. Con. 140 [182 Lest fops should censure us, and f. should sneer Con. Calls gentleman whom she has made a f. Con. 466 That f., as you have done, shall call a dream Con. 504 And therefore 'tis a mark f. never hit Con. 880 As Interest biased knaves, or Fashion f. Ex. 38 And sighed for every f, that fluttered by Ex. 54 Nor any f, he would deceive F. 16 Ten thousand charms, that only f. despise H. 51 What were they? What some f. are made by art H. 197 And when by that of reason, a mere f. H. 567Of f. that hate thee and delight in sin H. 745 To play the f. on Sundays, why not we? P.E. 147 Go, f.; and, arm in arm with Clodio, plead P.E. 197 And play the f., but at a cheaper rate R. 562 In misery f. upon themselves impose T. 126 Seems what it is, a cap and bells for f. T. 368 And the f. with it, who insults his Lord T. 504.
Thou f.! Will thy discovery of the cause T. ii 196
That f. discover it, and stray no more T. ii 530 Till they can laugh at virtue, mock the f. T. ii 692 That He will judge the earth and call the f. T. iii 178 Formed for the confutation of the f. T. v 567 From f. to wise, from earthly to divine T. v 696 So God wrought double justice; made the f. T. vi 557 Designed by Nature wise, but self-made f. Tir. 837 E'en on the f. that trampled on their laws T.T. 651

FOOLISH.

The sight our f. heart inflames P.B. 31. His hot displeasure against f. men T. ii 179 But f. man foregoes his proper bliss T. iii 296 To follow f. precedents, and wink Tir. 255

FOOLISHNESS.

Mere fallacy, or f., or both ? T. 516.

FOOT.

And woman trembling at the f. of man A.T. 158 Here stay thy f.; how copious, and how clear Ch. 365 Whose f. ne'er tainted morning dew Ep. ii 3 Stamped with his f., and smote upon his thigh Es. 64 These carpets, so soft to the f. Gr. 17 Hope with uplifted f., set free from earth H. 161 I plant my f. upon this ground of trust H. 369 Slain at the f. of Pleasure be no crime P.E. 182 Lips busy, and eyes fixed, f. falling slow R. 285 "Since the dear hour that brought me to thy f. T. 578 The elastic spring of an unwearied f. T. i 135 Our f. half sunk in hillocks green and soft T. i 272 And asking of the surge that bathes thy f. T. i 655 And flery caverns, roars beneath his f. T. ii 90 And faithful to the f., his spirits rise T. iii 8 And heaviest, light of f. steals fast away T. iv 442 And half on f., they brush the fleecy flood T. v 63 Intrinsically precious; to the f. T. v 175 And licks the f. that treads it in the dust T. v 356

FOOT-BOY.

Expect her soon with f, at her heels T, iv 550

To rend a victim trembling at his f. T. vi 411

He sells protection. Witness at his f. T. vi 417 Who needlessly sets f. upon a worm T. vi 568

Forgetful that the f. may crush the trust Tir. 792 In Honour's field advancing his firm f. T.T. 16

FOOT-FREQUENTED.
To purchase, at the f. fair T.T. 756

FOOTING.

F. it in the dance that Fancy leads P. E. 308

FOOTMAN.

A scrivener's clerk, or f. out of place Tir. 407 By f. Tom for witty and refined Tir. 687

FOOT-RACE.

A wrestling match, a f., or a fair T. iv 626

FOOTSTEPS.

The f. of Simplicity, impressed T. iv 520 The unambiguous f. of the God T. v 812

FOP.

Lest f. should censure us, and fools should sneer Con. The solemn f., significant and budge Con. 299 F. at all corners, lady-like in mien Tir. 829

FOPPERY.

On principle, where f. atones T. iv 689

FOPPISH.

As move derision, or by f. airs T. ii 562

FORBADE.

By Fashion taught, f. them once to name Con. 496

FORBEAR.

You cried—"F.!"—but in my breast B.R. 5 Will find occasion to f. M.F. 38 But, muse, f.; long flights forebode a fall P.E. 604 Oh, Muse! f. to speak T.B. 51

FORBEABANCE.

His wise f, has their end in view Con, 33 That claims f, even for a brute T. vi 466

FORBEARING.

For long f. elemency to wait T.T. 401

FORBID. That he who dares, when she f., be grave Con. 4

And Time f. to touch them as he flew Ez. 184
He meant not to f. the head L.W. 18
F. him none but the licentious joy P.E. 237
Women, whom custom has f. to fly P.E. 504
F. the advancement of the soul he binds R. 236
The thousands whom the world f. to rest T. 438
Its elevated site f. the wretch T. i 239
And their inveterate habits, all f. T. i 490

F. in vain to push his daring way Ex. 17

And there, unless when Charity f. T. i 548
Binds II his faculties, f. all growth T. i 613
Nor such as with a frown f. the play T. iv 175
F. their interference, looking on T. v 523
Thy Providence f. that fickle power T. v 871
And while the dreadful risk foreseen f. Tir. 860

FORBIDDEN.

If either on f. ground F. 34

To search f. deeps, where mystery lies F.A. 33

Nor hold f. joys in view 0. ii 5

To joys f. man aspires P.B. 15 In drawing pictures of f. joys R. 216 A monarch's errors are f. game T.T. 114

FORBIDDEST. Thou temptest none, but rather much f. Y.O. 11

FORBIDDING.
F. you the prey Beau 8
Sweet in itself, and not f. sport Tir. 652

FORBORNE.

Which God, though long f., will not forget Er.?

FORCE.

[1]
The barb sprang forward, and his lord, whose f. A

The beasts are chartered—neither age nor f. Ch. 1 We feel thy f. still active, at this hour Ch. 273 With gentle yet prevailing f. Comp. ii 5 The feats of Vestris, or the naval f. Com. 58 Where others toil with philosophic f. Com. 151 That men engage in it, impelled by f. Com. 179 Daily derive increasing light and f. Com. 697 [9] With rash and awkward f. the chords he shakes Cand f. me to a smile Ep. ii 36 The fervour and the f. of Indian skies Ez. 12

Nature opposes with her utmost f. H. 639 And still by motives of religious f. J.T. 83 Thy hands their little f. resign M. 34 And day by day some current's thwarting f. M.P.1 Whether increased momentum, and the f. P.E. 4 The Will made subject to a lawless f. P.E. 448

With f. not easily suppressed F.B. 14

[182]

These like a deluge with impetuous f. R. 77
May run in cities, with a brisker f. R. 454
F. many a shining youth into the shade R. 560
That passion's f., and so did she R.C. 24
His life should prove that he perceives their f. T. 1
That his example had a magnet's f. T. ii 250
And f. them sit, till he has pencilled off T. ii 251
Spent all his f., and made no proselyte) T. ii 331

With gentle f. soliciting the darts T. iii 115
Not tire, demanding rather skill than f. T. iii 46
From his pernicious f. Nor will he leave T. iv 4
With such undeviating and even f. T. v 37

With such undeviating and even f. T. vNo frost can bind it there; its utmost f. T. vAnd f. the beggarly last doit, by means T. vTo a vile clod, so draws him, with such f. T. v With easy f. it opens all the cells T. v i 11 [vi

With easy f. it opens all the cells T. vi 11 [vi 2]
From which they swerve not since. That under f.
When most severe, and mustering all its f. T. vi
To ceaseless service by a ceaseless f. T. vi 219

Or bounded only by a lair, whose f. T. vi 358 measure, as by f. of instinct drawn T. vi 412 ef. he spends against their fury vain Tir. 64 digive your monstrous project all its f. Tir. 239 espur is powerful, and I grant its f. Tir. 482 not my drift beyond its just intent Tir. 505 sphrase well chosen, clear, and full of f. Tir. 669 ef. of discipline when backed by love Tir. 681 eetoo, and under no constraining f. Tir. 861 pplies with warm activity and f. T.T. 220 eventures onward with a prosporous f. T.T. 266 ts with a f., and kindles with a zeal T.T. 482 [523 keaproud swan, conquering the stream by f. T.T. oproud for art, and trusting in mere f. T.T. 683 thousand ways the f. of genuine love V. 62 relling with vegetative f. instinct Y.O. 34 lef. that agitates not unimpaired Y.O. 83 ads thee not less alive to her sweet f. Y.O. 133

FORCED.

ot he, but his emergence, f. the door Ch. 188 ith caths like rivets f. into the brain Con. 64 and f. the floodgates of licentious mirth Con. 264 dread she would not, yet is f. to feel Con. 786 from home and all its pleasures N.C. 1 strew or Syriac, shall be f. to bend P.E. 499 to a pause, would feel it good to think St. ii 15 downward, is cosolidated soon T. iv 349 and f. the blunt and yet unblooded steel T. v 215 and f. to bendon what she bravely sought T. v 368 ben like a bow long f. into a curve T.T. 622

FORCEFUL.

pturned so lately by the f. share T. iv 315

FORCIBLY.

drawn from many a close recess Ch. 529

FORCING.

16 meek and modest Truth, and f. her T. vi 840

FORD.

'f. the rivulets, are best at home T. 217

FOREBODE.

ad, if I well f. J.G. 174

at muse, forbear; long flights f. a fall P.E. 604 o I f impossible events T. v 491 afect his happiest moments, he f. T. v 606

FOREBODING.

endulous, and $f_{\cdot,i}$ in the view $T_{\cdot,i}$ iv 293

FORECAST.

ith reasonable f. and dispatch T. ii 623
the future whole; that when the scene T. iii 651 compass that good end, f. the means Tir. 884

FOREFATHER.

in cheer the rude f. of mankind Con. 454 she thy renowned f., far and wide S. i 12 M our f.—a grave, whiskered race T. iii 768 then our f. Druids in their caks Y.O. 10 that has he left that he can yet f.? Ch. 150 Priendship! if my soul f. F. 211 he very sense of it f. its use H. 21 ts nature to f. Miss — 6. di wish, or seem to wish, they could f. R. 4, not what she feels within S. 10 hat foolish man f. his proper bliss T. iii 296 lo sad necessity, the cock f. T. v 78 he that dear sorrow's sake f. 1789, 52

FOREGO.

FOREGOING.

Than in f. years? St. i 6

FOREGONE.

More frequent, and f. her usual rest T. ii 61

FOREHEAD.

Kneel now, and lay thy f. in the dust Ex. 554
They swathe the f., drag the limping limb T. i 581
Than those of age, thy f. wrapped in clouds T. iv 124
As fix'd as marble, with a f. ridged T. vi 268
Rise in his f., and seem rank enough Tir. 164
His manly f. to the fiercest foe T.T. 277

FOREIGN.

Spreads f. wonders in his country's sight Ch. 116 Flow in a f. land, but not in vain E. ii 46 Sets off a wanderer into f. lands P.E. 378 Revered at home, and felt in f. lands R. 412 In f. eyes!—be grooms, and win the plate T. ii 280 "As one who long detained on f. shores T. v 832

FOREIGNER.

If f. likewise would give up the trade P.A. 13 Caffraria; f. from many lands T. iii 585

FORELOCK.

Loose fly his f. and his ample mane Ch. 176

FOREMOST.

Fairest and f. of the train that wait Ch. 1 To take the lead and be the f. still Tir. 377

FORENSIC.

Or serves the champion in f. war Ex. 664

FORERUNNER.

The foul f. of a general rot Ex. 106

FORESEEING.

He, f. what vexations N.C. 37

FORESEEN.

And while the dreadful risk f. forbids Tir. 860

FORESEES.

And self-reproaching conscience? He f. T. v 600 Which only a parental eye f. Tir. 371

FOREST.

From the f. of our land B. 26
To quit the f. and invade the fold Ch. 185
As when two pilgrims in a f. stray H. 276
Vines, olives, herbage, f. disappear Her. 23
Where mountain, river, f., field, and grove R. 29
Or f. where the deer securely roves R. 182
Then f., or the savage rock, may please T. i 518
There f. of no meaning spread the page T. iv 74
And drive the wedge in yonder f. drear T. v 43
The wonder of the North. No f. fell T. v 131
By men performed, made all the f. ring Y. O. 109
Long since, and rovers of the f. wild Y. O. 126

FORESTALL.

To f. sweet St. Valentine P.T. 12

FORESTER.

Like a neglected $f_{\cdot \cdot}$, runs wild P.E. 362 Observe the dappled $f_{\cdot \cdot}$, how light St_{\cdot} ii 21

FOREST-TREES.

Like crowded f. we stand St. i 13

FORETASTE.

His soul refreshed with f. of the joy? T. vi 762

FORETELLS.

That it f. us, always comes to pass T. iv 72

FORETOLD.

F. one, dreamed not of a fee so near A.T. 1.72 F. by prophets, and by poets sung T. vi 731

FOREWARN'D.

But he that has humanity, f. T. vi 566

FOREWENT.

His sheltering side, and wilfully f. T. vi 40

FORFEIT. Cannot f. Nature's claim N.C. 14 I should deserve to f. all applause) P.E. 511 To which he f. even the rest he loves T. i 395 Gives him his praise, and f. not her own T. iii 247 Prove this, and f. all pretence to praise T.T. 569

FORFEITURE.

No f., and of its fruits he sends T. v 573

Strong Genius, from whose f. of thought Mrs. M-23 Contriver who first sweated at the f. T. v 214 Till hardened his heart's temper in the f. T. v 664 FORGED.

Sin f., and Ignorance made fast, the chain Ch. 237 And he that F, and he that threw the dart H. 578

FORGERY. F. of fancy, and a dream of woes R. 324 By f., by subterfuge of law T. ii 670 What none can prove a f., may be true T. v 612 FORGET.

Of her he loves, and never can f. Ch. 146 Snuffs up the morning air, f. the rein Ch. 175 F. to enjoy the palm-tree's offered shade Ch. 222 F. his harmony, with rapture heard Con. 447 Is madly to f. that life is short Con. 772 Which God, though long forborne, will not f. Ex. 713 If he could possibly f. F. 167 Quite to f., or deem it worth no thought H. 83 Slips to his hammock, and f. the blast R. 436 F. their labours, and yet find no rest R. 496 Can e'er f. the charms he left behind S. ii 3

No;—the voluptuaries, who ne'er f. T. 341 F. her labour as she toils along T. 457 And having found his instrument, f. T. ii 176 F. in peace the injuries of war T. ii 269 That in due season he f. it too T. ▼ 267 That he at last f. it. All his hopes T. v 591 Deaf as the dead to harmony, f. T. vi 646

Holds fast her office here, can ne'er f. Tir. 134 FORGETFUL. F. of the glorious toils of war A.T. 28

F. that the foot may crush the trust Tir. 792 F. of the man whom once ye chose V. 3 FORGETTING.

I must incur, f. Howard's name Ch. 296 F. its important weight F. 70

FORGING.

In f. chains for us, themselves were free T. v 392

FORGIVE.

Let Charity f. me a mistake Ch. 684 To pity and perhaps f. M.F. 40 F. their evil, and accept their good T. 582 F. him then, thou bustler in concerns T. vi 951 (F. a transient thought) The Doves 30 (F. the crime) I wish them, I confess Tir. 921

FORGIVEN. All former friends f., and forgot V. 84

FORGIVENESS.

And injured, makes f. her delight Ch. 431 F., and the privilege of hope H. 214

FORGOT.

"Honour, esteem and confidence f. A.T. 111To names ignoble born to be f. ! B.B. 2What he remembers seems to have f. Con. 132

Nothing is slightly touched, much less f. Con. 31: Such men are not f. as soon as cold Con. 630

F. to curse, and only kneel to pray Con. 814 F. the blush that virgin fears impart Ez. 47

Mere shadows now, their ancient pomp f. Ex. 2.2 Then too much feared, and now too much f. Ex. 5: But though I less deplored thee ne'er f. M.P. 45

So soon to be f. O. i 21 Left out his linchpin, or f. his tar P.E. 441

Where all his long anxieties f. R. 7

To studies then familiar, since f. R. 374

Jack vanished, was regretted and f. R. 581These truths, though known, too much f. St. i 31

F, their office, opening with a touch T, ii 747

If aught was learned in childhood, is f. T. ii 755 They should go out in fume, and be f. P. T. iii 172 How! turn again to tales long since f. Tir. 545 And should, no doubt, if they were all f. T.T. 771

All former friends forgiven, and f. V. 81

FORGOTTEN. Grace him again with long f. arts Con. 839 Who fret their hour and are f. things V.46 F. as the foliage of thy youth Y.O.59

If I mistake not—Blockhead! with a f.! H. 362

Lodged with convenience in the f. R.C. 13 From the full f., the saturated straw T. iii 479 The peasants urge their harvest, ply the f. T. T. 1

As now, and with excoriate f. deform Y.O. 5 FORLORN.

In Scotland's realm, f. and bare A Tale 9 Till thy appearance chased the gloom, f. J. T. 21Afric's coast I left f. N.C. 2 At thought of her f, and abject state T, i 659 There dwell the most f. of human kind T. \vee 397

And prospect oft so dreary and f. T. vi 21 Stands in the desert shivering and f. T.T. 724

FORM. My f. with indifference see A.S. 14

That f. material, whatsoe'er we dream A.T.40That f, and rites are tricks of human law A. T. 6 F. or no f., pluralities or pairs A.T. 131 In starry f. disposed upon the wall Ch. 552 To recollect that in a f. like ours Ch. 583 Relenting f. would lose their power, or cease Ch.

Pronounce your human f. a false pretence Con. A duel in the f. of a debate Con. 84 And show the softest minds and fairest f. Com. F., in its stead, a covenant of shame Con. 684

In f, a man, in dignity a God Ex. 86 With hollow f., and gesture, and grimace Er. 1: The requisites that f. a friend F. 14

That f. the character he seeks F. 46 My f. genteel, my plumage gay G. 5 And f. genteel were all in vain G. 8

These stoves that for pattern and f. Gr. 39To frown and roar, and shake his feeble f. H. 1

Sweet scent, or lovely f., or both combine H. By this he f., as pleased he sports along H. 610 Such at least was the f. that she wore M.D. 10 To f. the better prayer Miss — 20

Her beauteous f. reflected clear below M.P. 93

nick perfection wrought Mrs. M-24 is in the skies O. i 19 y conceals her loathsome f. P.E. 8 dress and lotion they repair P.E. 299 at a thousand insect f. R. 63 the taste of her he loves R. 238 very f. inspires delight R. 417 n, dismissing f., he may unbend R. 444 n elegance of f. excel R. 793 charmed with his own mind and f. T. 411 a twisted f. vermicular T. i 30 scenery and the loveliest f. T. i 711 1led iuto unrespected f. T. i 747 ikeness of the f. he views T. ii 293 l conceit of his fair f. T. ii 420 noured in the exterior f. T. ii 560 w gymnastic as of yore T ii 591 ndid as the proudest there T. ii 620 nnexions, but acquire no friend T. ii 634 est binds the closest, f. secure T. iii 480 social shade, as if convened T. iii 586 chanting Nature, in whose f. T. iii 721 quadrangular of diamond f. T. iv 217 s ruffled, and her tottering f. T. iv 545 movement; is as smart above T. iv 641 rarious, that no powers of art T. v 108 tenant of man's noble f. T. v 455 eavenly light gilding all f. T. v 810 ye sees them. And the fairer f. T. vi 188 which he sprinkles all the earth T. vi 246 is free to f. them at the first T. vi 586 ss f., than to decide a right T. vi 851 om his f., in which we trace Tir. 1 deed, the associate of a mind Tir. 5 e labour of Almighty skill Tir. 7 on, to strike his genius forth Tir. 679 ig f. of majesty engage T.T. 117 ist and of elastic tone T.T. 218 1, his f., his action full of grace T.T. 346 instruments; each f. of war T.T. 446 , unmanacled by f. T.T. 589 and gives scent to every flower T.T.691the characters that f. mankind T.T. 705

FORMALITY. , f. in prayer Ex. 43

FORMED.

er still the f. and fixed design Ex. 429 harden hearts and shock the sight E_{x} . 495 Ithee nothing, f. thee for his praise Ex. 643 hrase, and figure f. to please P.E. 422 a creature f. for God alone R. 17 irm oak of which the frame was f. T. i 56 use, and ready at his will? T. ii 202 or contemplation, and to nurse T. iii 301 r jutting chests. He, f. to bear T. iv 350 n she f., designed them an abode T. vi 580 union f. for life The Doves 27 sh stiff, but frank, and f. to please Tir. 671 mechanically f. in ranks \hat{T} . T. 135 us, with such Herculean powers T.T. 235 aterials neat and soft A Tale 39 him who f. us and redeemed Ch. 579 f., we sit in silent state Con. 379 Heaven f. the faculty divine Con. 898 xquisitely f. by rule P.E. 189 he chief display Q.V. 10 rhat is, seems f. indeed for us R. 106 at power who f. thee and sustains R. 201 has f. thee with a wiser view R. 265 And wherefore as he is? T. ii 513

earn, and f. of stubborn stuff T. iv 633

I never framed a wish or f. a plan T. iv. 695 [740 And all can taste them; minds that have been f. T. iv F. for the confutation of the fool T. v 567 But not its Author. Unconcerned who f. T. v 793 Who f. him from the dust, his future grave T. vi 349 Thus f., thus placed, intelligent, and taught Tir. 53 "Why f. at all, and wherefore as thou art?" Tir. 58 Connexion f. for interest, and endeared Tir. 495 As, wheresoever taught, so f., he will Tir. 526 And f. of God without a parent's mind Tir. 790 F. as if akin to thee Trans. iii 18 A union f. as mine with thee U. 7

FORMER.

Farewell, my f. joys! I sigh no more Ch. 240 Not that the F. of us all, in this T. 345 Their f. charms? And having seen our state T. i 642 My f. partners of my peopled scene T. iii 119

FORNICATION.

How simple wedlock f. works A.T. 159

FORSAKE.

The vessel weighs, f. the shore A Tale 43 But if eccentric ye f. your sphere P.E. 98 Or when it first f. the elastic string P.E. 573 A few f. the throng; with lifted eyes R. 161 The very rooks and daws f. the fields T.v 89

FORSAKEN.

Forsaking, and f. of all friends H. 694 F. her retreat Q.V. 26 Where the betrayed, f., and oppressed T. 437 F., or through folly not enjoyed T. iii 711

FORSAKING.

F. country, kindred, friends, and ease H. 585 F., and forsaken of all friends H. 694 F. thee, what shipwreck have we made T. iii 58

FORTIFY.

Enlarge and f. the dread redoubt Con. 689

FORTITUDE.

To improve the f, that bears the load Ch, 160 Their f, and wisdom were a flame T, 531 Where find ye passive f.? Whence springs T. \vee 327

FORTRESS.

 $\triangle f$. to which she retreats W.N. 11

FORTUITOUS.

By these f. and random strokes T. v 124

FORTUITOUSLY.

The world and I f. met Con. 795

FORTUNE.

Be it your f., year by year A Tale 77
As f., vice, or folly may command H. 12
Through mere good f., took a different course N.A. 126
But I can feel thy f., and partake T. ii 219
On F.'s velvet altar offering up T. ii 657
Their last poor pittance—F., most severe T. ii 658
"Battered and bankrupt f. mended here" T. iii 821
F., and dignity; the loss of all T. v 602
By any change of f.; proof alike T. vi 626
Threaten his health, his f., and his fame Tir. 532
Of adverse f.'s power Trans. H. 3
But oh! if F. fill thy sail Trans. H. 34
In wisdom, health, in f., and in lies T.T. 469

FORTY.

She might be young some f. years ago T. 132

FORWARD.

To be as bold and f. as he ought Tir. 339

FOSTERED.

Vain tampering has but f. his disease T. v 668 FOSTERING.

His f. power, and tutelary care T.T. 257 F. propitious, thou becamest a twig Y.O. 39

FOUGHT.

Rushed to battle, f., and died B.39But, though they fight as thine have ever f. Ex.292His last sea-fight is f. R.G.15 [T.T.610When Cromwell f. for power, and while he reigned If any wronged her. Wolfe, where'er he f. T. ii 248 Thus war began on earth; these f. for spoil T. v 228 Tells of a few stout hearts that f. and died T.T.23Confessed a God; they kneeled before they f. T. T. 374

FOUL

The f. forerunner of a general rot Ex. 106
Though black and f. before O. i 20
There stand, and justify the f. abuse P.E. 144
In cities f. example on most minds T. i 685
May yet be f.; so witty, yet not wise T. i 728
Pure, from so f. a pool, to shine abroad T. ii 798
Its f. inhabitant. But to assuage T. iii 501
The way to glory by miscarriage f. T. iii 506
The triple purpose. In that sickly, f. T. v 583
F. with excess, and with discourse obscene Tir. 736
FOULEST.

Ranks its abuse among the f. deeds Ch. 209
But Grace abused brings forth the f. deeds Ez. 213
As human nature's broadest, f. blot T. ii 22

FOULLY.

All witnesses of blessings f. scorned H. 223 FOUND.

F. oftenest in what least we dread A Fable 37 With all the flowers he f., he wove in haste A.T.13Some better things are f. A Tale 4 But f. not where to build A Tale 16 Wherever he f. man to nature true Ch. 27 The simple native of the new f. isle Ch. 30 Wast thou in monkish cells and nunneries f. Ch. 43 Wherever f. (and all men need thy care) Ch. 47 He f. it inconvenient to be poor Ch. 189 Till finding, what he might have f. before Ch. 475 Sure to succeed, the remedy they f. Con. 500 F. him as prompt, as their desire was true Con. 545 Hearts may be f. that harbour at this hour Con. 561 Nor shall be f. in unregenerate souls Con. 755 Sobriety perhaps may now be f. Con. 807 That Spaniel f. for me) D.W. 8 Thus we were settled when you f. us E. i 39 Who f. not thorns and briars in his road E. ii 12 So once in Gideon's fleece the dews were f. E. ii 49 That all was naught within, and all f. out E. iii 53 But ah! 'tis lost as soon as f. E. iv 58 From East to West, no sorrow can be f. Ex. 28 Till the foe f, them, and down fell the towers Ex.72He f., concealed beneath a fair outside Ex. 891 Had f. one city not to be o'ercome Ex. 210 He will be f. impartially severe Ex. 255 He f. thee savage, and he left thee tame Ex. 485 F. thee a goodly sponge for Power to press Ex, 531 He f. the laurel only-happier you Ex. 600 Who f, thee nothing, formed thee for his praise Ex. Happy the man there seeking and there f. Ex. 652 Not quickly f., if negligently sought Ex. 695 And dream that he had f. one F. 18 Or where it was not to be f. F. 35 Through numerous generations till he f. F.A. 25 Yet seldom sought where only to be f. H. 112 [275 Twas there we f. them, and must leave them there H. If wild in nature, and not duly f. H. 296

"Is still f. fallible, however wise H. 422 Had two stone bottles f. J.G. 66 Told hill and dale that Reynard's track was f. N. In earth's dark womb have f. at last a vent N.A. Much wondered that the silly sheep had f. N.A. And f. a supper somewhere else N.G. 26 If all the plants that can be f. P. 57 She myriads f. below Q.V. 76 And works of God are hardly to be f. R. 26 Yet seek him, in his favour life is f. R. 353 Else more attached to pleasures f, at home R. Some seeking happiness not f. below R. 604 Have f. their home, the grave St. i 4 Once went I forth, and f., till then unknown T. Sometimes a canting hypocrite is f. T. 233 Now scattered wide, and nowhere to be f. T. 3 And drilled in holes, the solid oak is f. T. i 26 Is Nature's dictate. Strange! there should be f. So lately f., although the constant sun T. i 621 The dream is past; and thou hast f. again T. i Alas! expect it not. We f. no bait T. i 672 [T.i And homestall that ched with leaves. But hast the And having f. his instrument, forgets T. ii 176 Of action and reaction. He has f. T. ii 193 Where English minds and manners may be f. T. ii Their least amusement where he f. the most T. ii But where are its sublimer trophies f.? T. ii 31 Till gowns at length are f. mere masquerade T. ii Have we not tracked the felon home, and f. T. ii Of that calamitous mischief has been f. T. ii & F. too where most offensive, in the skirts T. ii There was I f. by one who had himself T. iii ll On all her branches. Piety has f. T. iii 249 Such as the mistress of the world once f. T. iv The disappointed foe, deliverance f. T. iv 186 Finds happiness unblighted; or if f. T. iv 334 From courts dismissed, f. shelter in the groves ? And manners profligate, were rarely f. T. iv 53 Had f. me, or the hope of being free T. iv 699 The joy half lost, because not sooner f. T. iv 7 Diversified, that two were never f. T. iv 737 F, here that leisure and that ease I wished T.iv In such a palace Aristæus f. T. v 135 The same lubricity was f. in all T. v 165 Of his descending progeny was f. T. v 212 Some relish, till the sum, exactly f. T. v 430 For when was public virtue to be f. T. v 502 We miss'd that happiness we might have f.! T. Deep in the flood f., when he sought it not T. vi In aid of our defects. In some are f. T. vi 611 Better than all the books he f. T.B. 41 Awoke and f. it true T.B. 48 Like fleeting exhalations, f. no more Tir. 84 Not to be f. by poring on a book Tir. 384 Besides, school-friendships are not always f. Tir. For there the game they seek is easiest f. Tir. Were occupation easier to be f. Tir. 701 But, having f. him, be thou duke or earl Tir. 7 Patriots, alas! the few that have been f. T.T. Is genius only f. in epic lays? T.T. 568 'Tis f. as everlasting as his love T.T. 595 Pity Religion has so seldom f. T.T. 716 On other mighty ones, f. also thee Y.O. 68 But none I f., or f. them shared 1789, 9 But rests on none till that be f. 1789, 19 If. the far-sought treasure near 1789, 28

FOUNDATION.

On what f. virtue is to stand H. 529 Die too: the deep f. that we lay T. v 532 So stands a kingdom, whose f. yet Y. O. 120

FOUNDED.

Blasphemes his creed, as f. on a plan Tir. 159

FOUNDER.

[127 should end with her first f.s' lives A.T. that name alone inspires Ch. 600

FOUNDERED.

salf f., and his compass lost T. 2

FOUNT.

ring from the f. of grace above E. ii 29

FOUNTAIN.

he f. in the neighbouring glade Ch. 223 make gain a f., whence proceeds Ch. 244 ed with infinite supplies Ex. 34 the f., and preserve it clear Ex. 98 it is, the f. whence alone H. 708 which drink the good and wise P.E. 466 ouring f., or of rills that slip T. 192 en we choose it, at the f. head T. ii 502 from what f. flowed their light T. iii 161 e f. of eternal love T. iii 244 , the f. opened, or the sea T. v 765 om Heaven, pure as the f. is T. vi 833 the f. of eternal love T vi. 863

FOUR.

gs soon pave its floor A Tale 41 dull vacuity till f. H. 78 when the clock strikes f." M.F. 14 s case behind f. handsome bays R. 392 f. hundred men R.G. 24 the simple plan, made three legs f. T. i 29 of f. pages, happy work! T. iv 50

FOUR-QUARTERED.

inds, robust and bold Y.O. 98

FOWL

of the f. and the brute A.S. 4 to say-"Ye meaner f., give place T.64

FOX.

h the f. he follows may be tamed Con. 409

FOX-FOLLOWER.

pever is reclaimed Con. 410

FRAGMENT.

cily! rude f. now T. ii 75 he spoutless teapot there T. iv 776

FRAGRANCE.

f. fills the circuit wide Ch. 439 me gale that wafts the f. round Her 35 h f. his abode above H. 122 the f. as he passed P.B. 4 ng f. of her dewy vales T. i 429

FRAGRANT.

f, and flowers as wild and fair Ch. 258 emory will outlast their tomb Con. 631 re, the inestimable mine H. 177 ers on my cheeks bestowed M.P. 62 verse, sipping calm the f. lymph T. iii 391 plet, recompensing well T. iii 668 myrtle, or the f. weed T. iv 764 the f. charge of a short tube T. v 55

FRAIL

f, and can but ill sustain Ex. 81 en enjoins the fallible and f. H. 391to suit f. nature's crazy case H. 604 f. memorial, but sincere M.P. 72 f. inhabitants of earth R. 648 f. always) made more f. St. i 5 f. as thou or I St. iii 25

Of Novelty, her fickle, f. support T. iii 54 That can ennoble man, and make f. life T. v 603 "So f. a kind, and then enacting laws T. v 640 With every lust with which f. Nature burns Tir. 66 But, being man, and therefore f., he may?) Tir. 896 The heart of man for such a task too f. V. 67

FRAILTY.

She feels that f. she denied so long Ch. 409 Their author's f., and return to dust Con. 554 Charms he may have, but he has f. too T. ii 497

FRAME.

That none could f, or ratify but she Con. 468 F. many a purpose, and God works His own Ex. 323 Of the chief strength and glory of the f. Ez. 333 And youth invigorate that f. again H. 34 If one, his equal in athletic f. H. 191 And searched for crannies in the f. P.B. 6But still in vain, the f. was tight P.B. 9 We long for pineapples in f. P.B. 32This universal f., thus wondrous fair R. 90 Than the firm oak of which the f. was formed T. i 56 But relaxation of the languid f. T. i 81 The agglomerated pile, his f. may front T. iii 472The uplifted f., compact at every joint T. iii 484 Thy f., robust and hardy, feels indeed T. iv 360 The citizen, and brace his languid f.! T. iv 752 Who seek it in his climate and his f. T.T. 207 A tender sympathy pervades the f. T.T. 485

FRAMED.

I never f. a wish, or formed a plan T. iv 695 He drew the liturgy, and f. the rights T. vi 679 F. for the service of a free-born will Tir. 8 And yet his judgment was not f. amiss T.T. 390

FRANCE.

Impatient to descry the flags of F.—Ex. 291 And fields without a flower, for warmer F.-T. ii 213 True, we may thank the perfidy of F.-T. ii 264 To F, than all her losses and defeats T, v 380 To give thee what politer F. receives T. v 468

FRANK.

Not English stiff, but f., and formed to please Tir. 671

FRANKINCENSE.

And fumed with f. on every side T. 314

FRANKNESS.

Of filial f. lost, and love grown faint Tir. 588

FRANTIC.

The sable warrior, f. with regret Ch. 145 Pronounced him f., and his fears a dream Ex. 70 Played only gambols in a f. mood H. 541 But most so when most f. Pat. 8 Grow f. with her pangs, and bite the ground T. 444 But f. who thus spend it all for smoke? T. iii 174 Laughs at the f. sufferer's fury, spent T. vi 423

FRATERNAL.

As that of true f. love U. 12

FRAUD.

Discern the f. beneath the specious lure P.E. 17 Of honour, perjury, corruption, f. T. ii 669 And pocketed a prize by f. obtained T. iii 87 A Liberty which persecution, f. T. v 542 Resumes her powers, and spurns the clumsy f. Tir.

FRAUGHT.

The show-glass f. with glittering ware P.B. 24

FREAK.

The f. of fashion, regulate the dress T. ii 317 Thy most magnificent and mighty f. T. v 130

With many a f. trick deceived his pains A.T. 25 The f. humour of the present time Con. 866 Wherever f. Fancy points the way R. 128 Bespoke him past the bounds of f, youth T, ii 704 At stated hours, his f. thoughts engage Tir. 606 Grow f., and o'erleaping every mound T.T. 302

FRECKLE.

But shows some touch, in f., streak, or stain T. vi 241 FRECKLED.

And all that I abhor; thou f. fair T. iii 839

FREE.

F. as the lordly bull that ranges o'er the mead A. T. 61 He made at first, though f. and unconfined Ch. 17 That has a heart and life in it, "Be f.!" Ch. 170 That none are f. from blemish since the fall Ch. 204 Serving a benefactor, I am f. Ch. 242 But let insolvent innocence go f." Ch. 289 If this be servile, that can ne'er be f. Ch. 568 And flow in f. communion with the rest Ch. 611 And f. from bias, must approve the choice Con. 664 And f. from every taint but that of vice Ex, 150 Seized fast his hand, held out to set them f. Ex. 219 Thou that hast set the persecuted f. Ex 278Baboons are f. from, upon human race? Ex. 417 And all from shore to shore is f. beside E_{θ} . 595 Charge not, with light sufficient and left f. T. 19 Will seldom scruple to make f. F. 92Time was when I was f. as air G. 1 Hope with uplifted foot, set f. from earth H. 161 The f. republic of the whip-gig state H. 190 [536 Shall answer—" Hope, sweet Hope, has set me f. H. But makes him, if at all, completely f. H. 646 And while the wings of fancy still are f. M.P. 118 Still in thought as f. as ever N.C. 9 From Avarice and Ambition f. O. ii 8 If apostolic gravity be f. P.E. 146 Enslaves the will, nor leaves the judgment f. P.E. Candid and learned, dispassionate and f. P.E. 453 F. from the domineering power of Lust P.E. 458 How fair is Freedom? he was always f. R. 399 From ostentation, as from weakness, f. T. 25 The gracious showers, unlimited and f. T. 511 'Tis f. to all—'tis every day renewed T. i 434 Receive our air, that moment they are f. T. ii 41 The terrors of the day that sets them f. T. ii 128 Is f. to all men—universal prize T. iii 724 Is India f.? and does she wear her plumed T. iv 28 I burn to set the imprisoned f. T. iv 34 When he should strike, he trembles, and sets f. T. Had found me, or the hope of being f. T. iv 699 Freely and with delight, who leaves us f. T. v 334 In reason, is judicious, manly, f. T. v 354 Of a superior, he is never f. T. v 364 In forging chains for us, themselves were f. T. v 392 Among the nations, seeing thou art f. T. v 461 Yet being f., I love thee: for the sake $T \vee 473$ Where I am f. by birthright, not at all T. v 479 In scenes which, having never known me f. T. v 489 Haste now, philosopher, and set him f. T. v 670 To walk with God, to be divinely f. T. v 722 He is the freeman whom the Truth makes f. T. v. 733 He is indeed a freeman. F. by birth T. v 763 Then we are f. Then Liberty like day T. v 883 Unvisited by man. There they are f. T. vi 403 The young to let the parent bird go f. T. vi 446 Is pleased with it, and, were he f. to choose T. vi 909 He is indeed a f. Free by birth T. v 763

Religion makes the f. by nature slaves Tw. 184 F. too, and under no constraining force Tw. 861 All kingship, and may I be poor and f. ! T.T. 150 As if he heard his king say, "Slave be f.!" T.T. 245 Heroic song from thy f. touch acquires T.T. 292

FREEBORN.

His f. brethren of the southern pole Ch. 34 The f. Christian has no chains to prove T. 187 Framed for the service of a f. will Tir. 8To him that treads upon his f. toe T.T. 227

FREED.

And slaves, by truth enlarged, are doubly f. Ch. 231 Thus Conscience f. from every clog L.W. 21 Or more ingenious, or more f. N.Y.G. 7 From all his wearisome engagements f. R. 513

FREEDOM.

Deprived of her and f. at a blow Ch. 149 Can quell the love of f, in a horse Ch, 172 Not that all f. of dissent I blame Con. 97 Their f. purchased for them, at the cost Ex. 171 Hast thou, though suckled at fair f.'s breast Es. 364 F., in other lands scarce known to shine Ez. 588 True f. is where no restraint is known Ex. 592 Such f. is—and Windsor's hoary towers Ez. 596 And if the feast of f. clog thee not Ez. 671 Loudly resent the stranger's f. there H. 354 Where Peace, and Equity, and F. smile Her. 84 Then farewell British f. Pat. 24 How fair is F. P He was always free R. 399 What charms he sees in F.'s smile expressed R. 40 In F. lost so long, now repossessed \overline{R} . 410 His f, is the f, of a prince T, 196 No; dear as f. is, and in my heart's T. ii 33 F.: whom they that lose thee so regret T. ii 130 Babes in the cause of f., and should fear T. v 23l Whose f is by sufferance, and at will T v 363 Of f., in that hope itself possess T. \vee 375 His f. is the same in every state T. \vee 767 When F., wounded almost to despair T.T. 196 Fires him at once in F.'s glorious cause T.T. 229 But is not F., at least, is not ours T.T. 300 F. has a thousand charms to show T.T. 250And F. claims him for her first-born son T.T. 281 But they that fight for f., undertake T.T. 284 A blessing, f is the pledge of all T.T. 287 Fervency, f., fluency of thought T.T. 700

FREELY.

Disbanded legions f. might depart Ch. 618 "As f. as a conduit spout! E. iv 86 Their streaming hearts poured f. when they died E How f. will they meet and charge! F. 137 Royalty, f., for his bounty's sake H. 118 He will give f., or he will withhold H. 331
That man will f. take an unbought bliss H. 355 Shall he, for such deliverance f. wrought T. 191 The remedy you want I f. give T. 273
Respiring f. the fresh air, that makes T. i 137
To them that ask it?—F.—'Tis his joy T. iii 273 Admitted f., may afford their aid T. iii 425 Each opening blossom, f. breathes abroad T. iii 6 F. and with delight, who leaves us free T. v 334FREE MAN.

The f. to a farewell flight F.B. 20 "I go to make F. of slaves" M.D. 16 Himself the only f. of his land ? T. \forall 312 Or covet more than f. choose to grant T. v 340 That it belongs to f., would disgust T. v 482 Grace makes the slave a f. 'Tis a change T. v 68 He is the f. whom the Truth makes free T. v 733

F. and slave then, if the case be such T.T. 254 Stands most revealed before the f. eyes T.T. 239

FREETHINKER.

And joining the f.'s brutal roar P.E. 593

FREEZING.

And potent to resist the f. blast T. iii 465 At evening, till at length the f. blast T. iv 303 Nor f. sky nor sultry, checking me T. vi 297

FREIGHT

Charged with a f. transcending in its worth Ch. 133 FREIGHTED.

So when a ship, well f. with the stores Ch. 441

FRENCH.

Resides, if we do, the F., Dutch and Danes P.A. 9 His stock, a few F. phrases got by heart P.E. 375 An Indian mystic, or a F. recluse T. 128 [543] Ill propped upon F. heels, she might be deemed T. iv And his address, if not quite F. in ease Tir. 670

FRENCHMAN.

Few F. of this evil have complained Con. 359 I praise the F., his remark was shrewd R. 739 The F. first in literary fame T. 303 A truth the brilliant F. never knew T. 328 The F.'s darling? Are they not all proofs T. iv 765 The F., easy, debousir, and brisk T.T. 236

FRENZY.

What is fanatic f., scorned so much Con. 651 A tenfold f. seizes all the rest H. 634 From all such f. clear J.P. 14 Ocean has caught the f., and upwrought T. ii 111 All catch the f., downward from her Grace T. ii 647 Who deem religion f., and the God T. iv 178 To gratify the f. of his wrath T. vi 387 The f. of the brain may be redressed T. vi 521 Surpassed in f. by the mad at large Tur. 820

FREQUENCY.

The f. of crimes has washed them white T. iii 71

FREQUENT.

Strange! how the f. interjected dash Ch. 521
As f. as the want of it appears Ch. 605
And begged an interest in his f. prayers Con. 74
With f. intercourse, and always sweet E. iii 3
A Friendship that in f. fits F. 103
The rustling straw sends up a f. mist T. i 360
Where f. hedges intercept the eye T. i 514
By f. lapse, can hope no triumph there T. i 691
Dire is the f. curse, and its twin sound T. iv. 487
The f. flakes has kept a path for me T. vi 75
F. the crowded auction; station'd there T. vi 286
Grown so familiar with her f. guest T. vi 306
Chained to the routs that she f. for life Tiv. 744
No flock f. thee now. Thou hast outlived Y.O. 56
But worn by f. impulse, to the cause Y.O. 84

FREQUENTER.

A great f. of the Church Trans. ii 4

FRESH.

Or taxed invention for a f. supply Ch. 514
Revived, are hastening into f. repute Con. 818
Sprightly and f., enriches every theme Con. 894
And to this hour, to keep it f. in mind Ex. 516
F. odours from the shrubbery at my side F.A. 7
By thy own hand, till f. they shone and glowed M.P.63
And weave f. garlands every day N. 19 [P.E. 316
Heaven blessed the youth, and made him f. and fair
F. confidence the speculatist takes P.E. 490

Respiring freely the f. air, that makes T. i 138 Smells f., and, rich in odoriferous herbs T. i 531 F. for his task, intend what task he may T. iii 387 Had fled from William, and the news was f. T. vi 660 And there obtains f. triumphs o'er himself T. vi 937 Spreads the f. verdure of the field, and leads T.T. 692 These pinks are as f., and as gay W.N. 14

FRESH-BLOWING.

And the f. breeze never failed M.D. 8

FRESHENING.

F. his lazy spirits as he ran P.E. 411
All feel the f. impulse, and are cleansed T. i 376
FRESHNESS.

Knows what the f. of their hue implies N.A. 61

FRET.

Those humours, tart as wines upon the f. R. 761Who f. their hour and are forgotten things V. 46

FRETFUL.

Some f. tempers wince at every touch Con. 325 A f. temper will divide F. 61 Froward at school, and f. in his plays H. 188 To gratify a f. passion M.F. 35 F. unless diverted and beguiled R. 108 F. if unsupplied; but silent, meek T. v 31

FRETTED.

The sunbeam; there, embossed and f. wild T. v 118

FRETTING.

The f. plague is in the public purse Ch. 62 FRICTIONS.

With f. of her fleece M.B. 10

FRIEND.

My f., do they now and then send A.S. 37 Oh! tell me I yet have a f. A.S. 39 Though a f. I am never to see A.8.40Of f., of hope, of all bereft Cast. 5 He shouted; nor his f. had failed Cast. 19 Deserted and his f. so nigh Cast. 36 Thou tutelary f. of helpless men? Ch. 42 The tender ties of father, husband, f. Ch. 141 She speaks of Him, her author, guardian, f. Ch. 399 But lest I seem to sin against a f. Ch. 485 To call the few that trust in him his f. Ch. 588 Then each might show, to his admiring f. Con. 199 Called on a f., drank tea, stepped home again Con.278 An absent f.'s fidelity and love Con. 308 Two bosom f., each pensively inclined Con. 507 A stranger joined them, courteous as a f. Con. 522 Mine be the f. less frequent in his prayers Con. 579 Dear Anna—between f. and f. E. i 1 Not dreaming of so dear a f. E. i 41 Admonished, scorn the caution and the f. E. ii 17 True. Changes will befall, and f. may part E. iii 10 We find the f. we fancied we had won E. iii 16 [iii 27 "For what?"—"An please you, sir, to see a f." E. "A f.!" Horatio cried, and seemed to start E. iii 28 Against the well-known duties of a f. E. iii 49 [60] While you, my f., whatever wind should blow E. iii "F. Robert, thus like chien savant E. iv 87 Find not, or hardly find, a single f. Ez. 118 The requisites that form a f. F. 14 Who seeks a.f. should come disposed F. 43 But not a f. worth keeping F. 78 Discerns a rival in a f. F. 83 To deem the wit a f. displays F. 88 But f. that chance to differ F. 135 Seeking a real f., we seem F. 142

Our f.'s defect long hid from sight F. 149

Such as a f. but ill endures F. 155 That f. should be sincere and just F. 158 Is such a f. that one had need F. 172 Be very much his f. indeed F. 173 Or may my f. deceive me! F. 216 To leave his f. behind F.B. 24 A prison with a f. preferred F.B. 85 Forsaking country, kindred, f., and ease H. 585 Forsaking, and forsaken of all f. H. 694 And my good f, the calender J.G, 23 Till, at his f. the calender's J.G. 159 His f. in merry pin J.G. 178 The nymph must lose her female f. L.R. 1 No f, or follower of mine L, W, 4 Like her a f. to peace M.B. 12 "F.! we have lived too long. I never heard N.A.83 If stubborn Greek refuse to be his f. P.E. 498 "My f.! be cautious how ye treat P.T. 23 Though sage advice of f. the most sincere R. 249 Or charm the sorrows of a drooping f. R. 292 And such emollients as his f. could spare R. 305 F. such as his for modern Jobs prepare R. 306 What once I valued and could boast, a f. R. 378 But wisely seeks a more convenient f. R. 443 The man of business and his f. compressed R. 495 (A poet fond of Nature and your f.) R. 542 Jack knew his f., but hoped in that disguise R. 587 The f. of Truth, the associate of sound Sense R. 696 F. (for I cannot stint as some have done R. 719 F., not adopted with a schoolboy's haste R. 725 Such f. prevent what else would soon succeed R. 731 But grant me still a f. in my retreat R. 741 Thy f., though to a cloister's shade consigned S. ii 2 Had he seduced a virgin, wronged a f. T. 46 The Scripture yields) or hope to find a f.? T. 440 But cannot play them, borrows a f.'s hand T. i 473 And heard our music; are thy simple f. T. i 645 And gives his direct foe a f.'s embrace T. ii 270 One proof at least of manhood! while the f. T. ii 594 There form connections, but acquire no f. T. ii 634 Her dear five hundred f., contemns them all T. ii 643 Their good old f., and Discipline at length T. ii 732 F. in the f. of science, and true prayer T. iii 250 I knew at least one hare that had a f. T. iii 351 F., books, a garden, and perhaps his pen T. iii 355 And have a f. in every feeling heart T. iv 376 To astonish and to grieve his gazing f. T. iv 655 We too are f. to loyalty. We love T. v. 331 Comes at his call, and serves him for a f. T. v 424 Who loves no part? He be a nation's f. T. v 504 Who is, in truth, the f. of no man there? T. v 505 Some f. is gone, perhaps his son's best f.! T. vi 29 That softer f., perhaps more gladly still T. vi 44 I would not enter on my list of f. T. vi 560 What f. we sort with, or what books we read Tir. 114 His counsellor and bosom f. shall prove Tir. 216 Subsist and centre in one point—a f. Tir. 390 A f., whate'er he studies or neglects Tir. 391 Father, and f., and tutor, all in one Tir. 544 E'en in his pastimes he requires a f. Tir. 607 Wise for himself and his few f. alone Tir. 675 And all the instructions of thy son's best f. Tir. 717 Befriend thee, of all other f. bereft Tir. 881 Receive, dear f., the truths I teach Trans. H. 1 And in reality to find no f. T.T. 160 Firm f. to peace, to pleasure, and good pay T.T. 195 May no foes ravish thee, and no false f. T.T. 332 Virtue indeed meets many a rhyming f. T.T. 620 The kindness of a f. U. 2 I sink the poet in the f. U. 30 Made you a Peer, but spoiled you for a f. ! V. 14 But not hereafter to the name of f. ! V. 18

Terentius, once my f., farewell to thee! V. 30

Graced with the name of a long-absent f. V. 40 And, like his Lordship, cast thy f. away V. 48 Whoever undertakes a f.'s great part V. 59 All former f. forgiven, and forgot V. 84 But if he grant a f., that boon possessed V. 91 The truth of a f. such as you W.N. 24 FRIENDLY. And always f., we were wont to cheat E. iii 4 A f. coalescence F. 132 A snug and f. game at cards L.W. 28 At least are f. to the great pursuit R. 146 F. to peace, but not to me S. 2 Oh f. to the best pursuits of man T. iii 290 F. to thought, to virtue, and to peace T. iii 291 F. to vital motion, may afford T. iii 509 Strained through the f. mats, a vivid green T. iii 525 A scene so f. to his favourite task T. $\forall i$ 264 FRIENDSHIP. Society, F., and Love A.S. 17 Whose f. from his boyish years he chose Con. 424 Bad men, profaning f.'s hallowed name Con. 683 Of f.'s closest tie Dr. 18 F. a blessing cheap or small E. i 92 Produced a f., then begun E. i 101 F. and truth to others, findest thou none? Ez. 277 No wonder F. does the same F. 10 F. a false ideal good F. 29 No F. will abide the test F. 37 All thoughts of f, are but dreams F. 74 With F.'s finest feeling F. 93 A F. that in frequent fits F. 103 The noblest F. ever shown F. 205 OF.! if my soul forego F. 211 Of F., satisfied with noise F.B. 32 Benignity, f., and truth Gr. 44 F. and Love seemed tenderly at strife H. 680 And generous F. hand in hand Miss Are all the nameless sweets of f. fled P.E.244 [69] Health, leisure, means to improve it, f., peace T. iii A boyish f. may so soon decline Tir. 453 Who there will court thy f., with what views Tir. 855 To love and f. both, that is not pleased T. vi 324 As ever F. penned U. 4 Oh f.! cordial of the human breast! V. 49 Faithless alike in f. and in love V. 72 No firmer f. than the fair have shown V 82 FRIGHTS. I soon recover from these needless f. H. 375 He then is full of f. and fears Y.D. 9 FRIGHTED. The f. steed he f. more J.G. 227 FRIGHTEN. With doubtful credit, told to f. babes T. iv 564 FRIGHTFUL. From dangers of a f. shape A Fable 33 FRINGED. And from the trees that f. his hill Mor. 14 F. with a beard made white with other snows T. iv FRIPPERY. With sentimental f., and dream P.E. 312 Now creeps he slow; and now, with many a f. \tilde{T} . rTo f, awhile, and bask in the warm sun T. $\forall i$ 314 Give him his lass, his fiddle, and his f. T.T. 237FRISKING.

His f, was at evening hours Ep, ii 25 F, thus before the fire Trans, iii 15

FRITH.

Lands intersected by a narrow f. T. ii 16

FRIVOLOUS.

In conversation f., in dress T. ii 379

rrog.

[452

Yet gnats have had, and f. and mice, long since T. iii Storksamong f., that have but croak'd and died T. v282

FROLIC.

And f. where they list F.B. 9
That feeds thee; thou may'st f. on the floor T. iii 343
Retracing thus his f. ('tis a name Tir. 332
That charm down fear, they f. it along T.T. 463

FRONT

The second milestone f. the garden gate R. 490 A sparkling eye beneath a wrinkled f. T. i 405 The agglomerated pile, his frame may f. T. iii 472 He speaks. The lake in f. becomes a lawn T. iii 774

FRONTED.

The prouder sashes f. with a range T. iv 763

FROST.

The keenest f. that binds the stream N. 5
With dripping rains, or withered by a f. T. ii 211
And introduces hunger, f., and woe T. ii. 616
How calm is my recess, and how the f. T. iv 308
No f. can bind it there; its utmost force T. v 104
Holdaits due course, nor fears the f. of age T. vi 790
Decayed by time, or withered by a f. V. 58
One talks of mildew and of f. Y.D. 53

FROST-BOUND.

And slippery the materials, yet f. T. v 155

FROWARD.

F. at school, and fretful in his plays H. 188 Not as the plaything of a f. child R. 107 Of churlish Winter, in her f. moods T. iii 433

FROWN.

F. in the storm with angry brow A Fable 38 And made the mountains tremble at his f.? Ch. 78 Considers all injustice with a f. Ch. 210 Yet still, o'erclouded with a constant f. Con. 339 An envious world will interpose its f. E. ii 33 He judged them with as terrible a f. Ex. 131 When God arises with an awful f. Ex. 249 And griping fists, and unrelenting f. Ex. 513 'Twas but to prove how quickly, with a f. Ex. 578 The tide of pleasure, heedless of his f. Ex. 683 To f, and roar, and shake his feeble form H. 186 As with a f. to say, "Do this, and live H. 329 [650] Scorns with the same indifference f, and smiles H. Her f, were seldom known to last J.P. 15 Which labour of his f, beguile Mrs, M— 29 A Father's f., and kiss his chastening hand R. 346 To seek that peace a tyrant's f. denies R. 770 Your portion is with them; nay never f. T. 169 And if he but suspects a f., turns pale T. 216 The lowering eye, the petulance, the f. T. i 456 His wrath is busy, and his f. is felt T. ii 94 F. at effeminates, whose very looks T. ii 223 Secured it by an unforgiving f. T. ii 247 His f. was full of terror, and his voice T. ii 721 But, once delivered, kills them with a f. T. iii 438 And groat per diem, if his patron f. T. iii 821 [581 The winter's f., if screened from his shrewd bite \overline{T} . iii Nor such as with a f. forbids the play T. iv 175 The rugged f. and insolent rebuffs T. iv 411 But had a blessing in its darkest f. T. vi 35 Whose f. can disappoint the proudest strain T. vi 1023 Nor f., unless he vanish with the cloth Tir. 730 And if He doom that people with a f. T.T. 456 The f. of a sky so severe W.N. 18

FROWNED.

F. oftener than she smiled J.P. 8
And in her humour, when she f. J.P. 9
(And raised her voice, and f. beside) M.F. 16
Nor ever f., or sad appeared St. iii 23

FROWNING

F. in storms, or breathing gentle airs R. 194 And the barbed arrows of a f. God R. 304 F. as if in his unconscious arm T. i 381 Still they are f. signals, and bespeak T. ii 68

FROZEN.

Such f. figures, stiff as they are cold Ch. 607
From the world's girdle to the f. pole Ex. 20
Piles up his stores amidst the f. waste H. 475
Torpid and dull beneath a f. zone T. 481
With spatter'd boots, strapp'd waist and f. locks T. iv
Beneath the f. clod; all seeds of herbs T. v 81
Though abroad they are f. and dead W.N. 8

TRIIGAL.

She had a f. mind J.G. 32 To her who, f. only that her thrift T. ii 650 The f. housewife trembles when she lights T. iv 380 And thankful at my f. board 1789, 35

FRUIT.

When scarlet f, the russet hedge adorn A.T. 72 Its f. on earth, its growth above the skies Ch. 578 Tried, as it should be, by the f. it bears Con. 172 F. of his love and wonders of his might $Con. 473 \lceil 586 \rceil$ And plucks the f. placed more within his reach" Con. The f of age, less fair, are yet more sound Con. 647 But render neither f. nor flower F. 185 Save for the f, his heavenly beams produce H. 82 Field, f. and flower, and every creature here H. 490 And f reward his honourable toil H. 761 Poor man! I would save him his f. if I could P.H. 35 And disappointment all the f. P.B. 18Whose f., though fair, tempts only to destroy P.E. The f, that hang on pleasure's flowery stem R. 179 Her summer heats, her f., and her perfumes R. 196 But farewell promises of happier f. R. 241 Such are the f. of sanctimonious pride T. 165 F. of a blighted size, austere and crude T. 494 And fungous f. of earth, regales the sense T. i 532 And all her f, by radiant truth matured T, i 607 By other hopes and richer f. than yours T. i 677 Pours she not all her choicest f. abroad T. ii 85 Learning has borne such f. in other days T. iii 248 With pleasure more than even their f, afford T, iii 410 With blushing f., and plenty not his own T. iii 429 Blown on the summit of the apparent f. T. iii 536 Cold as its theme, and like its theme the f.T.iii 564 [552 With summer f., brought forth by wintry suns T. iii F. of omnipotent eternal love T. iv 188 [T. vi 910 Would make his fate his choice; when peace, the f. To weaving nets for bird-alluring f. T. iv 263 No forfeiture, and of its f. he sends T. v 573 Of flavour or of scent in f, or flower T, vi 248 [1011] Let fall the unfinished wreath, and roved for f. T. vi Of virtue, and whom virtue, f. of faith T. vi 911 With flower and f. the wilderness supplies Tir. 27 Brings he, to sweeten f. so undesired Tir. 578 May raise such f. as shall reward his care Tir. 771 The f. of all her labour is whipped cream T.T. 551 With flower as sweet, or f. as fair U. 17 The promise of delicious f. appears V. 52 Of f. proscribed, as to a refuge, fled Y.O. 16

FRUITAGE.

Of golden f., and her myrtle bowers T. ii 215

FRUITFUL.

God opens f. Nature's various scenes Ch. 88
No longer f., and no longer green Con. 52
The f. parent of abuse and wrong Con. 461
Think on the f. and well watered spot Ex. 418
The cloud-surmounting Alps, the f. vales R. 79
To give dissimilar yet f. lands R. 787
Me f. scenes and prospects waste S. 21
And f. soil, that has been treasured long T. iii 514
Were sown in human nature's f. soil T. vi 383
Of barrenness is past. The f. field T. vi 765
F. and young as in their first career? Tir. 42

FRUITFULNESS.

And social, nip his f. and use T. v 439

FRUITLESS.

To urge the f. chase be lost Mor. 42 Our years, a f. race without a prize H. 25 Revolving seasons, f. as they pass Her. 25

FRY.

The wriggling f. soon fill the creeks around P.E. 480 And the land stank—so numerous was the f. T ii 832

FUEL.

They pick their f. out of every hedge T. i 565

FUGITIVE.

A vain pursuit of f., false good H. 4 My f., years are all hasting away P.F. 13 Multitudes, f. on every side T. ii 106 And f. in vain. The sylvan scene T. ii 107

FULFIL.

'Tis thus Omnipotence his law f. Ch. 81
To praise him, is to serve him, and f. Ez. 644
For though thou gladly wouldst f. M. 13
Attempts no task it cannot well f. R. 280
F. the purpose, and appear design'd Tir. 93

FULFILLED.

I wish it all f. N.Y.G. 20
F. their tardy and disastrous course T. vi 735
Thy word f., the conquest of a world! T. vi 905
My share of duties decently f. T. vi 1001
Soon see your wish f. in either child Tir. 344
F. with ease had you been so inclined V. 22

TLL. [A.C.

With a great deal of skill, and a wig f. of learning F. of rage and f. of grief R. 8 A satisfactory receipt in f. Con. 202 The beauties of a rose f. blown E, i 68 "Who both write well, and write f. speed! E. iv 84 The flower of Israel's infamy f. blown) Ex. 222 Gone thither armed and hungry, returned f. Ez. 368 Those holy men, so f. of truth and grace Es. 618 The moles and bats in f. assembly find Ex. 630 To exhibit, in f. bloom disclosed F. 44 F. slowly pacing o'er the stones J.G. 79 His reeking head f. low J.G. 122 F. ten miles off, at Ware J.G. 152 For which he paid f. dear J.G. 202 F. bliss is bliss divine N.Y.G. 14 Your feelings in their f. amount P. 47 The f. concerto swells upon your ear P.E. 128 In rushes Folly with a f, moon tide P.E. 282 Happy if f. of days—but happier far R. 45 F. charged with England's thunder R.G. 31 Shall find them rated at their f. amount T. 545 F. on the destined ear. Wide flies the chaff T. i 359

Recoils from its own choice—at the f. feast T. i 467 Just please us while the passion is at f. T. ii 598 His frown was f. of terror, and His voice T. ii 721 And dark in things divine. F. often too T. iii 235 From the f. fork, the saturated straw T. iii 479 To grace the f. pavilion. His design T. iii 716 Stealing a sidelong glance at a f. house T. iv $2 \cdot 1$ Lamented change! to which f. many a cause T. iv 576 His faculties, expanded in f. bloom T. iv 661 And f immunity from penal woe T, v 580 [T iv 30] Were tasked to his f. strength, absorbed and lost The squirrel, flippant, pert, and f. of play T. vi 315 That skims the spacious meadow at f, speed T, vi 331 Gentle, and affable, and f. of grace T. vi 500 Enchanting novelty, that moon at f. T. vi 706 For there is none to covet, all are f. T. vi 772 His phrase well chosen, clear, and f. of force Tir. 669 Little inmate, f. of mirth Tran. iii 1 "There," said his guide, "the group is f. in view" His speech, his form, his action f. of grace T.T. 346 The shelves are f., all other themes are sped T.T. 726 And having known thee bearded and f. grown V. 37He then is f. of fright and fears Y.D. 9 Live barrels with their bellies f. Y.D. 47

FULL-BLOWN.

The f. rose, the shepherd and his lass T. i 36

FULL-GORGED.

The f. savage, at his nauseous feast H. 509

FULSOME.

And lest the f, artifice should fail P.E. 291 Now this is f.; and offends me more T. ii 455 And tongue accomplish'd in the f. cant T. vi 239

FUMBLE.

Feels himself spent, and f. for his brains T.T. 537

FUME.

And with a quiet, which no f. disturb Con. 267 Has filled with all its f. a critic's brain P.E. 445 They should go out in f., and be forgot ? T. ii 172 Of Indian f., and guzzling deep, the boor T. iv 473 That f. beneath his nose: the trailing cloud T. v 56 They demi-deify and f. him so T. v 266 Healthful and undisturbed by factions f. T. v 513

FUMED.

And f. with frankincense on every side T. 314

FUNCTION.

The sacred f., in your hands is made P.E. 123 Sad sacrilege! no f., but a trade! P.E. 123 The noblest f., and discredits much T. ii 554 And exercise all f. of a man T. iii 199 In all their private f., once combined T. iv 673

FUNGOUS

Grows f., and takes fire at every spark Con. 54 And f. fruits of earth, regales the sense T. i 532

FIIR.

Needs he the tragic f., the smoke of lamps T. iv 195 FURBELOWED.

Curled, scented, f., and flounced around Ex. 51

FUR-CLAD.

Imperial mistress of the f. Russ! T. v 129

FURIOUS.

For him, though chased with f. heat Beau 11 But so the f. blast prevailed Cast. 21 And in the f. inquest that it makes T. ii 135

FURLED.

Has dropp'd her anchor, and her canvass f. Ch. 443 furnish.

To f. and accommodate a world Ch. 124 May f. illustration, well applied Con. 206 And f. us, perhaps at last \hat{E} . i 55 F. always oil for its own wheels R. 616 Of heavenly temper, f. with arms T. ii 346 To polish, f., and delight the mind T.T. 645

FURNISHED.

We will be f. with our own J.G. 27 Your brain well f., and your tongue well taught V. 9

FURNISHING.

Who, far enough from f. their shelves Tir. 825 FURNITURE.

A piece of mere church f. at best Tir. 425

FURROWED.

Wild roses over f, ground Mrs, M=28 [421] Green balks and f, lands, the stream that spreads R. Γ421 And f. into storms, and with a hand T. vi. 269

FURY.

Rushed with a whirlwind's f, on the foe A.T. 195 (Unfelt the f. of those bursting mines) Her. 8 And shake with f, to the ground J.P. 11 The lawless herd, with f, blind M, ii 13 Come fiend, come f., giant, monster, blast N.A. 121 The force he spends against their f. vain Tir. 64 And gives them all their f.; bids a plague T. ii 182 And blunts his pointed f.; in its case T. vi 193 Laughs at the frautic sufferer's f., spent T. vi 423 Pushed with a madman's f. Fancy shrinks T. vi 513 And tamer far for so much f. shown T. vi 541

FUTURE.

They court the notice of a f. age B.B. 4 Though f. pain may serve for present mirth Con. 494 The f. splendour of the flower? E. i 72 Pleasure is deaf when told of f. pain Ex. 66 The f tone and temper of the sky Ex. 158 That only f. ages can restore Her. 40 And should my f. lot be cast M. 49 That wish on some fair f. day N.Y.G. 17 And learned in f, to be wiser P.T. 60 Heaven grant us no such f, sight Q.V.79Exempt from f. service all his days R. 628 Cause to provide for a great f. day R. 652 That shuts within its seed the f. flower R. 792 Deceitful views of f. bliss, farewell! T. 9 Which f, pages yet are doomed to share T. 146 Hence the complexion of his f. days T. 280 The f. shall obliterate the past T. 295 Courageous, and refreshed for f. toil T. iii 19 A pimple that portends a f. sprout T. iii 528 Forecasts the f. whole; that when the scene T. iii 651 Ages of hopeless misery. F. death T. v 607 And death still f. Not a hasty stroke T. \vee 608 Who form'd him from the dust, his f. grave T. vi 349 Accountable, and God, some f. day T. vi 605 Hark! how the sire of chits, whose f. share Tir. 318 There dawns the splendour of his f. years Tir. 394 That instant upon all his f. pains Tir. 715 Some mischief fatal to his f. worth Tir. 758 On f. broken bones and bruises Trans. ii 20 The f., best unknown, but, at thy mouth Y.0. 48

FUTURITY.

Then perish on f.'s wide shore Tir. 88 Ah, blind to bright f., untaught Tir. 879 So, when remote f. is brought T.T. 492

G.

GABRIEL.

That flies, like G. on his Lord's commands Ch. 135

But save me from the g. of those T. i 499 From g, that fills the bones with pain T, i 504 Such health and g. of heart enjoy T. i 587

That softly swelled and g. dressed appears T. iii 629

Yet from a richer nothing g. A Tale 75 And g, new vigour at her endless task Ch, $104 \lceil 244 \rceil$ Some men make g. a fountain, whence proceeds Ch. But all he g. for his harangue is—" Well! Ch. 393 In hopes to g., what else I must have lost Ch. 630 And g, remote conclusions at a jump Con. 154 Instructed him at length to g, F, B, 17 To prove that without Christ all g. is loss H. 631 To cheat themselves and g, the world's assent P.E.436The dupes of pleasure, or the slaves of g. R. 24 Ask wealth of Heaven, and g. a real prize R. 162 A meaner than himself shall g. the prize T. 16 The poor should g. it, and the rich should not? T. 340 Through plenty, lose in morals what they g. T. i624But ere he g, the comfortless repose T, v 596 They g. at last his unreserved assent T. v 663 [892] Two gods divide them all—Pleasure and G.— \bar{T} . vi | Bon mots to g. the Christian and the Jew T. 308

Poll g. at length the British Shore Trans. iv 4 He may be called to give up health and g. V. 63 GAIN-DEVOTED.

And g. cities. Thither flow T. i 682 GAINED.

The summit g., behold the proud Alcove T. i 278 For I have g, thy confidence, have pledged T, iii 346 And ending, if at last its end be g. Tir. 408 Such knowledge, g. betimes, and which appears Tir. The proud Protector of the power he g. T.T. 611

GAIT. Γ38υ

With awkward g., stretched neck, and silly stare P.E. His awkward g., his introverted toes T. iv 633 His altered g. and stateliness retrenched T. v. 76 GALE

The g. informs us, laden with the scent Ch. 446 O balmy g. of soul-reviving air! E. ii 27 The selfsame g. that wafts the fragrance round Her. Norg. that catch the scent of blooming groves R.337By g. of blessing driven St. iii 32 Completency has breathed a gentle g. T. 419Of all their caution in thy gentlest g. T. ii 484 Clear and sonorous, as the g. comes on ! T. vi 10 With more than a propitious g. Trans. H. 35

GALL.

Remarks that g. so many, to the few T. iii 37 GALLANT.

Manly deportment, g., easy, gay H. 407 Thou, as a g. bark from Albion's coast M.P. 88 New trimmed, a g. show! Q.V. 6 Our ancestry, a g. Christian race T.T. 372

GALLANTLY.

Heaven speed the canvass, g. unfurled Ch. 123

GALLANTRY. For folly, g. for every vice T. iv 690

GALLED.

Which g, him in his seat J.G. 84 G. by affliction's heavy chain St. v 11 To loose the links that g, mankind before T. 185

Of g, critics by a thousand arts T, ii 365 His g. with the works of art well graced T.T. 162

GALLEY-SLAVES. Worse than the deeds of g, broke loose T.T. 327

GALLIC.

May bear us smoothly to the G. shore T. ii 262 GALLOP.

That trot became a g. soon J.G. 87

GALLOPED

And g, off with all his might J.G. 207 GAMBLING.

Nor g. practices can find it out Tir. 246

Played only g. in a frantic mood H. 541 These g, he did play J.G. 134 To skip and g. like a fawn Ep. ii 23

GAMBOL.

The very kine that g. at high noon T. vi 334 Together, or all g. in the shade T. vi 775 GAME.

"To distant wilds in quest of other g. A.T. 106 A snug and friendly g. at cards L.W. 28 Or other sublunary g. Mor. 28 A senseless bargain. When I see such g. T. iii 176 Learn every trick, and soon play all the g. T. iv 231 Propitious, pays his tribute, g. or fish T. iv 611 To swear, to g., to drink; to show at home T. iv 652 But war's a g. which, were their subjects wise T. v 187 A monarch's errors are forbidden g. T.T. 114

Went with him, and saw all the g. he played? Tir. 268 Playing our g., and on the very spot Tir. 303

For there the g. they seek is easiest found Tir. 520 GAME-FOWL.

Should never g. hatch her eggs again T. iii 312 GAMESTER.

The g. may have cast his cards away Con. 813 For g., jockeys, brothellers impure T. ii 751 Grow on the g.'s elbows, and the alert T. iii 761

GAMMER.

And g, finds it on her knees E, iv 45 GAMUT.

With a whole g. fill'd of heavenly notes N.A. 26 'GAN.

'G. make his instrument of music speak N.A. 44 He 'g. in haste the drawers explore R.C. 92 G. murmur, as became the softer sex T. i 71 Its ample area 'g. explore T.B. 38

GANDER.

Swift as the proudest g, of them all A.T. 55

O'er hedge and ditch, through g, and mews E, iv 52 Not in the words—but in the g. between T.T. 541

Is Winter hideous in a g. like this? T. iv 194 To wear a tattered g., however coarse T. iv 416

Ambrosial g., in which Art supplies Ex. 11

Earth seems a g. in its loveliest dress Her. 57 Within the g.'s peaceful scene L.R. 5 Nor g. interspersed with flowery beds R. 336 The second milestone fronts the g. gate R. 490

Of equipage, our g., and our sports T. i 644 Polluting Egypt: g., fields, and plains T. ii 828 Friends, books, a g., and perhaps his pen T. iii 355 Or if the g. with its many cares T. iii 397

Who loves a g., loves a greenhouse too T. iii 566 But elegance, chief grace the g. shows T. iii 638 A g. in which nothing thrives has charms T. iv 754 To each some province, g., field or grove T. vi 237

G. of God, how terrible the change T. vi 371 The g. fears no blight, and needs no fence T. vi 771 Robbery of g., quarrels in the streets Tir. 229

GARDENER. Thou art indeed the drug a g. wants Com. 255 And where the g. Robin, day by day M.P. 48 She watched the g. at his work R.C. 14

Woe to the g.'s pale, the farmer's hedge T. iv 436 GARLAND.

Crowned with the g. of life's blooming years Com. 638 And Chloe from her g, picks the weed H, 293 The g. that she wore J.P. 12 And weave fresh g. every day N. 19 His g, from the boughs. Again, as oft T. iii 442 GARMENT.

Their very g. sacred, old yet new Ex. 183 GARNER.

Yes—ye may fill your g., ye that reap T. v 755 GARNISH.

That ye may g. your profuse regales T. iii 551 GARNISHED.

Is but a g. nuisance, fitter far T. vi 993

GARRICK.

And so, while G., as renowned as he T. iii 598 Man praises man; and G.'s memory next T. vi 664 To show the world how G. did not act T. vi 677 For G, was a worshipper himself T, $\forall i$ 678

My little g. of sense E. iv 18

GASP. At his last g.; but could not for a world T. iii 807

GASPING. Delight the citizen, who g. there R. 485

Hark! the Gaul is at her g.'s! B. 20 To pour his golden tide through all her g. Ex. 14

Knock at the g. of nations, rouse their fears Ez. 269 To hear plain truth at Judah's ballowed g. H. 763 Their g, wide open threw J.G. 120 Laid down his pipe, flew to the g. J.G. 163 And claps the g. behind thee M.B. 24

The second milestone fronts the garden g. R. 490 The folded g, would bar my progress now T, i 330 Grew rusty by disuse; and massy g. T. ii 746

To hear the roar she sends through all her g. T. iv 91 No rattling wheels stop short before these g. T. iv 144 Might be demand them at the g. of death T. vi 45 In all her g., and shakes her distant shores T.T.453Praise is in all her g.; upon her walls T. vi 808 Now, all unwelcome at his g. Y.D. 21 GATH. In pame it not in G.! it cannot be T. ii 367 From many a mirror, in which he of G.-T. iv 269 GATHER. But now, to g. up what seems dispersed Con. 867 Can g. honey from a weed P.B. 36 But short the date of all we g. here R. 460 That learning is too proud to g. up T. iii 286 To g. kingcups in the yellow mead T. vi 302 GATHERED. [1012 Roved far, and g. much: some harsh, 'tis true T. vi Informed, He g. up the broken thread Con. 525 They g. close around the old pit's brink N.A. 53 GATHERING. G. around it, with erected ears Ch. 516 And g. all her treasures, sweet by sweet Con. 440 Perhaps a grave physician, g. fees H. 203 In g. plenty yet to be enjoyed R, 554 Fearless of humid air and g, rains T, 212 Slow g, in the midst, through the square mass T, iii And g., at short notice, in one group T. iv 136 GATIDY. But g. plumage, sprightly strain G. 7 Who drive a loathsome traffic, g, and span Ch, 139 GA UL. Hark! the G. is at her gates! B. 20 To G., to Greece, and into Noah's ark R. 694 GAVE. And g, them a grace so divine C, 18 Whate'er they $g_{\cdot \cdot}$, should visit more Cast. 30 But his who g, thee, and preserves thee mine Ch. 267 Perhaps'twas mere good humour g. it birth E. iii 38 She g, it, and g, me beside Gr, 6 Good breeding and good sense g. all a grace H. 683 And g. misplaced applause J.P. 20 That privilege was thine: Heaven g. thee means J.T.The glow that Fancy g. it fades Mor. 36 Oft g. me promise of thy quick return M.P. 37 Though ears she g. me two, g. me no ear N.A. 28 No tempest g, the shock R.G, 18 From Sinai's top Jehovah g. the law T. 549 G. them a twisted form vermicular T. i 30 And planetary some; what g, them first T iii 159 The mind Heg. me; driving it, though slack T. iii 369 He g, them in his children's veins, and hates T. iv 464He g. them, in its distribution fair T. v 200Bought with His blood who g. it to mankind T. v 546 A pledge he g. for a consistent part Tir. 178 Spoke from his lips, and in his looks g. law T.T.245That neither g. nor would endure offence T.T. 639 G. Virtue and Morality a grace T.T. 648 Perhaps thou g. me, though unfelt, a kiss M.P. 25 GAY. Far from the world's g. busy throng Comp. ii 4 My form genteel, my plumage g. G. 5See Nature g, as when she first began H. 39 Manly deportment, gallant, easy, g. H. 407 Like streamer long and g. J.G. 102 Of Edmonton so g. J.G. 136 Around her, fanning light her streamers g. M.P. 95 Whate'er they boast of rich and g. Mrs. M-12The great, the g., shall they partake O. ii 13 And many a g, unlettered spark P, 32

Strike the fiddles, let us all be q. ! P.E. 150But now alike, g. widow, virgin, wife R. 519 And whistling, as if unconcerned and g. R. 589The g., the thoughtless, have I seen St. i 19 The rest too busy, or too g., to wait T. 40 Content though mean, and cheerful if not g. T. 319Whom we call g. ? That honour has been long T. i 491 The innocent are g.—the lark is g. T. i 493 Himself a songster, is as g. as he T. i 498 Yet not in cities oft: in proud, and g. T. i 681 Yet what can satire, whether grave or g.? T. ii 315 When g. Goodnature dresses her in smiles T. ii 784 Dreams empty dreams. The million flit as g. T. iii 133 The g. diversities of leaf and flower T. iii 590 Else unadorned, with many a g. festoon T. iii 667 But g. confusion; roses for the cheeks T. iv 79 Imposed a g. delirium for a truth T. iv 528 And ribands streaming g., superbly raised T. iv 541 That makes so g, the solitary place T, vi 187 That leads the dance a summons to be g. T. vi 336Not more intelligent, than loose and g. Tir. 530 And much too g, to have any of their own Tir. 788 With the king's shoulder-knot and g. cockade T.T. 44 And in his cage, like parrot fine and g. T.T. 232Retired from all the circles of the g. V. 73 These pinks are as fresh, and as g. W.N. 14GAYEST. The g. I had to produce Gr. 28 His books well trimmed, and in the g. style T. 421 May teach the g., make the gravest smile Tir. 138 GAZE. Can g. on even Darwin's wit Dr. 19 To g. at Nature in her green array T. i 449 With which she g. at you burning disk T. i 713 To g. at his own splendour, and to exalt T. ii 547 They g, upon the links that hold them fast T, ii 664 Discerns in all things what, with stupid g. T. v 808 "Love kindles as I g. I feel desires T. v 812 [699 To g, in his eyes, and bless him. Maidens wave \tilde{T} , vi GAZED. All huddling into phalanx, stood and g. N.A. 48 Mute as e'er g. on orator or bard S. i 8 Estates are landscapes, g. upon a while T. iii 755 I g., myself creating what I saw T. iv 290 Drew not his life from woman; never g. Y.O. 145 Then view him, self-proclaimed in a g. T.T. 37 GAZING. We wonder, as we g. stand below Ch. 553 To astonish and to grieve his g, friends T, iv 655 With g., when they see an able man T. v 256 GEARS. To bear his burdens, drawing in his g. T = 273Elisha's eye, that, when G. strayed Tir. 267 GEM. [22] And graved it on a g, and wore it next his heart A. T. The g. of India, Nature's rarest birth Ch. 134 Proud of thy fleets and armies, stolen the g. Ex. 348 It sparkles with the g, he left behind Ex, 483 If every polished g, we find F, 7 Had he the g, the spices, and the land H. 175

The g., though luminous before Mrs. M-33

Since such a reptile has its g. Trans. i 27 Incomparable g.! thy worth untold T.T. 330

With hopeful g. The rest, no portion left T. iii 421

Like homely-featured night, of clustering g. T. iv 252 The g. of truth from his unguarded soul Tir. 152

GENERAL.

And offers something to the g. use Ch. 90
A prouder station on the g. scale Ch. 336
The foul forerunner of a g. rot Ex. 106
He was a traitor by the g. voice Ex. 545
Gleans up the refuse of the g. spoil Her. 70
Till authors hear at length one g. cry R. 707
To preach the g. doom. When were the winds T. ii 53
Nothing is proof against the g. curse T. iii 266
Can dream them trusty to the g. weal T. v 514
And adds his rapture to the g. praise T. v 890
G., who will not conquer when they may T.T. 194 GENERATION.

Through numerous g. till he found F.A. 25 At length a g. more refined T. i 28 With all its g.; I behold T. iv 99 GENEROUS.

A courteous knighthood, caught the g. flame A.T. 134
And reddening with a just and g. pride A.T. 204
Puts off his g. nature, and, to suit Ch. 153
Were hushed in favour of thy g. plea Ch. 311
Candid, and g., and just F. 19
Was much too g. and sincere F.B. 23
Will trust him for a faithful g. part H. 336
From g. sympathy what joys Miss — 15
And g. Friendship hand in band Miss — 75
Peers are not always g. as well bred R. 597
Though one, I grant it, in the g. breast R. 721
Thy g. powers, but silence honoured thee S. i 7
The work of g. love and filial fear T. 226
'Tis g. to communicate your skill T. ii 282
Of royal mercy, and through g. flame Tir. 644 GENIAL.

Enjoyed at ease the g. day A Fable 7
With g. instinct filled A Tale 14
This g. intercourse, and mutual aid Ch. 93
Soft airs and g. moisture feed and cheer H. 489
Was heard, one g. summer's day J. P. 31
No g. spring to taste Miss — 36
And g. soil of cultivated life T. i 679
These on the warm and g. earth that hides T. iii 516
The regular return of g. months T. vi 125
When thou, transplanted from thy g. home Tir. 850

Unfolded g. and spread the man P.E. 412 GENIUS.

To show my g, or my wit E, iv 7When wit and g. meet their doom M. ii 1 Strong G., from whose forge of thought Mrs. M-23There G., Learning, Fancy. Wit Mrs. M-45And praise his g., he is soon repaid P.E.532 $G_{\cdot \cdot \cdot}$, and temper, and desire of rest $R_{\cdot \cdot}$ 172 With spirit, g., eloquence, supplied T. 805 Exhausted, has had g, to supply T, ii 609 Milton, whose g. had angelic wings T. iii 255 And G. shed his rays Th. 4 And destines their bright g. to be shown Tir. 336 It pricks the g. forward in its course Tir. 483 But if, with all his g., he betray Tir. 529 To form thy son, to strike his g. forth Tir 679 To indulge his g., after long fatigue T.T. 153 G. is thine, and thou art Fancy's nurse T.T. 290 The substitute for g., sense, and wit T.T. 543 Thus g, rose and set at ordered times T.T. 560 Is g. only found in Epic lays? T.T. 568 Then G. danced a Bacchanal; he crowned T.T. 602 And dint of g., to an affluent lot T.T. 677 How are the powers of g misapplied! T.T. 749

GENTEEL.

My form g., my plumage gay G. 5

And form g. were all in vain G. 8 G. in figure, easy in address T. 203

GENTLE. Teach me to kindle at thy g. fires Ch. 12 Soft airs and g. heavings of the wave Ch. 127 With g. yet prevailing force Comp. ii 5 In g. sounds it seems as it complained Con. 905 He feels a g. tingling come E. i 11 Thee of thy birthright, g. Bob E. iv 2 Yet He was g, as soft summer airs Ex, 133 Humility is g., apt to learn Ex. 454 Thanks, g. swain, for all my woes G. 13 Politely learned, and of a g. race H. 662 They g. called, and kind and soft J.P. 21 'Tis g., delicate, and kind M.F. 55 Frowning in storms, or breathing g. airs R. 194 Completency has breathed a g. gale T. 419 And strength is lord of a 1; but g., kind T. i 605 Thee, g. savage! whom no love of thee T. i 633 And lay it at its case with g. care T. ii 449 My very g. reader yet unborn T. ii 581 His eye was meek and g., and a smile T. ii 706 The limits of control, his g. eye T. ii 719 With g, force soliciting the darts T, iii 115 And whether I devote thy g. hours T. iv 261 We lov'd, but not enough, the g. hand T. vi 37 G., and affable, and full of grace T. vi 500 Its destined office, yet with g, stroke T, vi 1003 Those arts be theirs that hate his g. reign T.T. 89 GENTLEMAN.

Calls g. whom she has made a fool Con. 466
As some grave g. in Terence says E. iii 6
Six g. upon the road J.G. 233
Which rural g. call sport divine N.A. 8
So sweet to huntsman, g., and hound N.A. 131
"Methinks the g.," quoth she P.T. 30
Who, born a g., has stooped too low V. 33
GENTLER.

Till g. Puss shall come Ep. ii 40
The other was of g. cast J.P 13
Crestures of g. race M.B. 4
The g. Virtues too are joined Miss — 77
Why takes the g. Moon her turn to rise Tir. 38
GENTLEST.

Of all their caution in thy g. gales T. ii 484
GENTLY.

When g., as in June, the rivers glide A.T. 74
That men, if g. tutored, will not learn Ch. 496
Then lifts it g. from the ground E. iv 57
But g. to rebuke his awkward fear H. 61
Yet g. pressed, press g. mine M. 35
The wind, of late breathed g. forth P.T. 50
Or g. felt, and only so The Doves 19
O'er all his pleasures g. to preside Tir. 609
GENUINE.

The reign of g. Charity commence Ch. 413
"Nor needs his g. ore refine! E. iv 89
Man is the g. offspring of revolt H. 181
And Peace the g. offspring of her smile H. 482
That folly ends where g. hope begins H. 637
And if the g. worth of gold depend J.T. 27
That not a glimpse of g. light pervades P.E. 6
Thy g. charms, and guide an artless hand R. 204
Of all his conduct this the g. sense T. 94
But g., and art partner of them all T. i 153
And learn, though late, the g. cause of all T. ii 23
Undoubted scholarship and g. worth Tir. 280
A thousand ways the force of g. love V. 62
GEORGE.

In Britain's isle, beneath a G.'s reign Her. 90

G. took his seat again Q.V. 2 Where G., recovered, made a scene Q.V. 27 G. ever drew from her Q.V. 56 And G, the theme of all Q, V, 48 Save love of G. alone Q.V. 64 Down went the Royal G.—R.G. 11
What was a Monitor in G.'s days? T. ii 580
Sung to the praise and glory of King G.! T. vi 663

GEORGIAN.

One G, star adorns the skies Q.V.75

Sat fast on G.'s brows again 1789, 45

GERANIUM.

And cherries hangs her twigs. G. boasts T. iii 577

GERMS.

Then rise the tender $g_{\cdot \cdot}$, upstarting quick $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ iii 521 Russet and rude, folds up the tender g. T. vi 194

GERMANY.

And still it spreads. See G, send forth H, 459

GESTURE.

With hollow form, and g., and grimace Ex. 122 The looks and g, of their griefs and fears N.A. 67 and natural in g; much impressed T, ii 402 'And g., they propound to our belief? T. v 649

Where they did all g in J.G. 38 He did again g. down J.G. 248 He will lose mone by me, though I g. a few " P.A.40Reduce his wages, or g. rid of her T. 211

From top to toe the G. now in vogue T. 202

GETHSEMANE!

3.! in thy dear, hallowed ground H. 297

GEWGAWS.

Lade all his virtues g. of no price T. 55

GHASTLY.

3. in feature, and his stammering tongue Ex.356Ill the grim honours of his g, court H. 261

[723 When Hope, long lingering, at last yields the g. H.GHOSTLY.

o may the ruffian, who with g. glide Ch. 186 or g. counsel, if it either fall T. ii 556 'erhaps, though by profession g. pure T. iv 603 in office, earthly in his plan Tir. 422

GIANT.

ome fiend, come fury, g., monster, last N.A. 121 ind succulent, that feeds its g. growth T. iii 418 ioliath, might have seen his g. bulk T. iv. 270 llow after century, a g. bulk Y.O. 63.

GIANT-KILLING.

ir g. Jack, would please me more Con. 244 and g_{-i} as fast as catchpole-claws T_{-i} ii 684

GIBBETED.

GIBEON.

s once in G., interrupt the race T. vi 126

GIDDY.

rom infancy through childhood's g. maze H. 187 or quits till evening watch his g. stand R. 434 f g. joys comprised St. vi 10 [Tir. 444 oung heads are g., and young hearts are warm Thus seeing G. fly J.G. 284

GIDEON.

So once in G.'s fleece the dews were found E. ii 49 So G. earned a victory not his own T.T. 360

GIFT.

A g. to his expecting fair A Fable 27 And graced with all her g, the favourite child A.T. He soothed with g., and greeted with a smile Ch. 29 "Beauty for ashes" is a g. indeed Ch. 230 [Ch. 113 These are the the g. of Art, and Art thrives most God's g. with pleasure in his praise employ Ch. 252 May be esteemed a g., and not an art Cos. 4 The g. of nature, or the classic store Con. 896 Puffed up with g. they never understood Ex. 130 When g. perverted, or not duly prized Ex. 251! God's better g, they scoff at, and refuse Ex. 459 Life is his g., from whom whate'er life needs H. 115 With every good and perfect g., proceeds H. 116 And grace be grace indeed, and life a g. H. 531 Nor spurn away a g. a God bestows H. 547 The well judged purchase, and the g. M. i. 7The g. of Nature and of Grace N.G. 34 Woman indeed, a g. he would bestow R. 269 Is thine;—best g., the unfailing source of joy S. ii 18 That man is dead in sin, and life a g." T. 514 The g. of Providence, and squander life T. i. 638 What wonder then that health and virtue, g. T. i. 750 Or make me so. Composure is thy g. T. iv 280 And promise of a God. His other g. T. v 550 Thou art of all thy g. thyself the crown T. v. 904 Nature imparting her satiric g. T.T. 656 The g. whose office is the Giver's praise T.T.750 [41 Might prove a welcome g., and touch thine heart V.

GIGANTIC.

To such g, and enormous growth T, vi 382

And the sun g, the shining spires again Her. 72 Which fate shall brightly g, N, Y, G, 18 And he shall g. yon mountain's height again P.E. 69 Or recollected only to g. o'er R. 9 And g. our chamber ceilings as they pass T. ii 649 That g. thy features, show in theirs 1789, 65

GILDED.

The g. butterfly pursues E. iv 51 By ev'ry g. folly, we renounced T. vi 89 The g. equipage, and turning loose T. vi 702 Pursuing g. flies; and such he deems T. vi 922

GILDING.

For such indulgence g. all thy years E_{x} . 609 The carving and the g. F. 168 A ray of heavenly light g, all forms T, v 810

GILPIN.

John G. was a citizen J.G. i John G.'s spouse said to her dear J.G. 5 Quoth Mrs. G.,—" That's well said J.G. 25 John G. kissed his loving wife J.G. 29 John G. at his horse's side J.G. 45 Now mistress G. (careful soul!) J.G. 65 Away went G., neck or naught J.G. 97 Away went G.—who but he? J.G. 118
Said G.—"So am 1!" J.G. 148
"Stop, stop, John G.!—Here's the house!" J.G. 145 Away went G., out of breath J.G. 157 Now G., had a pleasant wit J.G. 169 Away went G., and away J.G. 209 Went G.'s hat and wig J.G. 210 Now Mistress G., when she saw J.G. 213 Away went G., and away J.G. 229

That G. rode a race J.G. 214 And G., long live he J.G. 250

GILT

If the g. carriage, and the pampered steed T.T. 133
GINGERBREAD.

Should carve himself a wife in g. T.T. 555

GIRD.

G. up each other to the race divine Con. 702 Measures an atom, and now g. a world? T. i 718

GIRDLE.

Wreaths for her brow, and g. for her waist A.T. 14 Trade is the golden g. of the globe Ch. 86 From the world's g. to the frozen pole Ex. 20 With leathern g. braced J.G. 130 A g. of half-withered shrubs he shows T. i 524

GIRDLED.

The blooming groves that g. her around Her. 6

GIRL.

And tender as a g., all essenced o'er T. ii 227 GIRT.

G. with a chain he cannot wish to break E. 248 G. with a bell-rope that the pope has blessed T. 82

GIRTH.

Of g. enormous, with moss-cushioned root Y.O. 64

G. even Affliction a grace A.S. 55 Oh fond attempt to g, a deathless lot B, B, 1To g. the melancholy theme Cast, 57 G. difficulty all the grace of ease Ch. 110 To g. the pole the produce of the sun Ch. 125 Whose bounty bought me but to g, me light Ch. 235 Blessed with all wealth can g. thee, to resign Ch. 297 G. Charity her being and her birth Ch. 378 They cannot g. it, or make darkness light Ch. 388 How the good squire g. never less than gold Ch. 480 All seal for a Beform that g. offence Ch. 583 But all shall g. account of every wrong Con. 25 (For opposition g. opinion strength) Con. 88 G. me the fidgets, and my patience fails Con. 208 And g. us, in recitals of disease Con. 313 I g. him over as a desperate case Con. 406 And He that g. conception aids the birth Con. 434 G. it the breast, or stop its mouth with pap! Con. 480 But g. it usefulness unknown before Con. 597 And g. true piety that odious name Con. 656 And g. the strain the compass it demands Con. 718 And g. him all his just demands require Con. 760 And g, the moral springs their proper play Con. 832And g. good company a face severe Con. 873 To Him who g. me all "D. W. 44 To g. the creature the Creator's due E. ii 3 G. him at length the lucky pat E, iv 55 Might g. more life to marble, or might fill Ex. 231 Creates, g. birth to, guides consummates all Es. 315 Or expectation of the next, g. leave Ex. 607 Of what He g., unsparing and profuse Ex. 677 And she g, largely more than he requires H. 56 To prove that what she g, she g, sincere H, 62 Peace be to those (such peace as Earth can g.) H. 229 Would g. relief of bed and board to none H. 806 And sure it is as kind to smile and g. H. 328He will g. freely, or he will with nold H. 331 God g the word, the preachers throng around H. 453 Here see the encouragement Grace g. to vice H. 495 Than this his Maker has seen fit to g. H. 601G life her every charm Miss — 80 So may your guiding angel g. Miss - 95

G. wit, that what is left may shine O. i 27 What, g. up our desserts, our coffee, and tes! P.A. 8 If foreigners likewise would g. up the trade P.A. 13 Will Avarice, and Concupiscence g. place P.E. 104 So g. to Virtue what is Virtue's due P.E. 294 That Education g. her, false or true P.E. 358 We g. some Latin, and a smatch of Greek P.E. 365 Whatever shocks, or g. the least offence P.E. 512 G. useful light though I should miss renown B. 206 No longer g, an image all thine heart R. 276 G. Melancholy up to Nature's care R. 281 Could g. advice, could censure, or commend R. 291 To birth or wit; nor g. nor takes offence R. 450 G. e'en a dunce the employment he desires R. 613 Pardon me, ye that g, the midnight oil R, 661 Nor those in which the stage g. vice a blow R. 685 Luxury g, the mind a childish cast R, 703 G. Truth a lustre, and make Wisdom smile R. 718 To g. dissimilar yet fruitful lands R. 787 Legible only by the light they g. T. 30 And seems to say—"Ye meaner fowl, g. place T. 60 Would g. a barbarous air to British song T. 102 He g. a perfect rule—what can He less? T. 552 That g. society its beauty, strength T. ii 681 G. saintship, then all Europe must agree T. 111 "The remedy you want I freely g. T. 273Regret would rouse them, and g. birth to prayer T. 34 Earth g. too little, giving only bread T. 365 Deception innocent -g, ample space T, i 353 These Flora banishes, and g, the fair T, i 460 G. more than female beauty to a stone T. i 703 And g. them all their fury; bids a plague T. ii 182 And g, his direct foe a friend's embrace T, ii 270 The emphasis in score, and g. to prayer T. ii 300 Grow wanton, and g, proof to every eye T, ii 443 The better hand, more busy, g. the nose T. ii 451 That g. it all its flavour. We have run T. ii 607 795 And g. the world their talents and themselves T. i And thus g. Virtue indirect applause T. iii 104 G. him his praise, and forfeits not her own T. iii 24 That, while it g. us worth in God's account T. iii 2%The sence withdrawn, he g. them every beam T. iii 44 Suffice to g. the marshalled ranks the grace T. iii 60 Sightly, and in just order, ere he g. \check{T} . iii 649 Her interests, or that g. her sacred cause T. iii 72 To palliate dullness and g, time a shove T, iv 210 And g, them voice and utterance once again T, iv 35 He g. the princely bird, with all his wives T. iv 48 Great taleuts; and God g. to every man T. iv 789 He g. a tongue to enlarge upon, a heart T. iv 794 By dint of change to g. his tasteless task T. v. 429 'Tis Liberty alone that g. the flower T. v 446 [iv 4 Shall much befriend you. Time shall g. increase ! To g. thee what politer France receives T. v 468Ere yet mortality's fine threads g. way T. v 578 Receive proud recompense. We g. in charge T. v 1 G. bond in stone and ever-during brass T. v 710 But g. the glorious sufferers little praise $T_{\rm c}$ v 73 Much more who fashioned it, he g it praise T. Who g. its lustre to an insect's wing T. v 813 "That g, assurance of their own success T, v 84 And with the boon g. talents for its use T. v 860 \uparrow We g. to Chance, blind Chance, ourselves as blind 1 G. what Thou canst, without thee we are poor T. \forall May g. an useful lesson to the head T. vi 86 Nor deems he wiser him, who g. his noon T. vi j To g. such act and utterance as they may T. vi Mark now the proof Ig. thee, that the brave T. vi And g, the day to a musician's praise T, vi 644 To g. it praise proportioned to its worth T. vi ? G. courage to their foes, who, could they see T. vi Why did the flat of a god g. birth Tir. 35 And g. your monstrous project all its force Tir.

e g. the local bias all its sway Tir. 334
g. the bauble but the second place Tir. 388 hall g. him consequence, heal all defects Tir. 392
ew situations g. a different cast Tir. 440
nd g. thy life its only cordial left Tir. 882 nd feed him well, and g. him handsome pay Tir. 907 him a modicum of light Tran. i 11
ome g. that honour to his tail Tran. i 7
he a strain as I can g. Tran. iii 8
e scolds, and g. the lie Tran. iv 27
g. Religion her unbridled scope T.T.71 [T.T.309 him Olympic speed, and shoots him to the goal him his lass, his fiddle, and his frisk T.T. 237
e g. the word, and Mutiny soon roars T.T. 452
Liberty the last, the mortal shock T.T. 476 [522

Liberty the last, the mortal shock T.T. 476 [522] me the line that ploughs its stately course T.T. of g. a Milton birth, asked ages more T.T. 559 orms, opens, and g. scent to every flower T.T. 691 it a charge to blacken and traduce T.T. 763 ut to comply with feelings, and to g. V. 23 is may be called to g. up health and gain V. 63 f God g. health, that sunshine of our days! V. 88 is g., what bankrupt nature never can V. 95 is to to g. offence or grieve Y.D. 43 Which it would g. in rivulets to thy root Y.O. 113

Ias God then g. its sweetness to the cane Ch. 190 When wine has g. indecent language birth Con. 263 i. him a soul, and bade him understand Con. 430 s g. in earnest of eternal rest E. ii 40 Their wisdom pure, and g. them from above Ex. 442 i. thee his blessing on the clearest proof Ex. 564 That blessings truly sacred, and when g. Ex. 684 and yet our lot is g. us in a land H. 439 Surpassing all that mine or mint had g. J.T. 30 for rested till the Gods had g. it life P.E. 529 If provocation g. or wrong sustained T. v 315 Hath God indeed g. appetites to man T. v 635 [610 Their strength, or speed, or vigilance, were g. T. vi

GIAER.

What uses of his boon the g. would Con. 436 With some sincerity, on the g.'s part T. ii 559 But, O Thou bounteous g. of all good! T. v 903 The gift whose office is the G.'s praise T.T. 750

GIVING.

Ihrough constant dread of g. Truth offence Con. 129 Earth gives too little, g. only bread T. 365 In playing tricks with Nature, g. laws T. iii 165 And sorted hues (each g. each relief T. iii 634 And g. one, whose heart is in the skies V. 93

GLAD. Blessed the g. beams of that propitious day A.T. 205 of the g. legions of the King of Kings H. 733

Were never folk so g. J.G. 42
Le calender, right g. to find J.G. 177
Le postboy's horse right g. to miss J.G. 231
Twas in the g. season of spring M.D. 1
Leds joy to duty, makes me g. to pay M.P. 70
Low g. they catch the largess of the skies N.A. 62
Lested, g., his approbation P.T. 40
Lested, g., his approbation P.T. 40
Lested, g. soul is made Heaven's welcome guest fould oft anticipate his g. return T. i 543
Le g. espousals, and ensures the crop T. iii 543
Le g. she came that night to prove Q.V. 29

GLADE.

taste the fountain in the neighbouring g. Ch. 228 vect stream that winds through yonder g. Comp. iil heremouldering abbey walls o'erhang the g. H. 351 kee more the spiry myrtle crowns the g. Her. 31

They bound, and airy, o'er the sunny $g.\,St.$ ii 22 Whose outspread branches overarch the $g.\,T.$ vi 71 The bounding fawn that darts across the $g.\,T.$ vi 327

GLADLY.

Some youthful grace that age would g. keep T. i 132 G. the thickening mantle; and the green T. iv 330 And g. would have done J.G. 226 For though thou g. wouldst fulfil M. 13 Those evils it would g. cure M.F. 58 But g., as the precept were her own M.P. 16 Nor yet the parson's, who would g. come R. 439 Would g. stretch life's little span St. v 7

GLADNESS.

Suffering with g, for a Saviour's sake R, 776 Rivers of g, water all the earth T, vi 763

GLANCE.

How fleet is a g. of the mind A.S. 41 Then with a g. of Fancy to survey R. 78 Stealing a sidelong g. at a full house T. iv 201

GLANCED.

Of undesigned severity, that g. T. v 170

GLANCING.

Now flashing wide, now g. as in play T. 242

GLARE.

Are luxuries excelling all the g. R. 185 By short transition we have lost his g. i 336

GLARING.

In old grimalkin's g. eyes E. iv 44

GLASS.

Pure-bosomed as that watery g. Comp. T. ii 9
Sighing and smiling as he takes his g. H. 419
The nymph between two chariot g. P.B. 20
But ah, the cruel g. between! P.B. 28
One breaks the g., and cuts his fingers P.B. 34
Scrawled upon g. Miss Bridget's lovely name T. 156
That, as with molten g., inlays the vale T. i 170
And start theatric, practised at the g. T. ii 431
With opera g. to watch the moving scene T. ii 453
And catechise it well; apply thy g. T. iii 203
And overlaid with clear translucent g. T. iii 455
With g. at eye, and catalogue in hand T. vi 288
Unquestioned, though the jewel be but g. Tvr. 463
The g. that bids man mark the fleeting hour T.T. 41

GLASSY.

This g. stream, that spreading pine S. 5 His conscience, like a g. lake before T. 259 Obdurate and unyielding, g. smooth T. i 52 [306 The g. threads with which the Fancy weaves T. iv And make thy marble of the g. wave T. v 134

GLEAM.

Where, diligent to catch the first faint g. T. v 59

GLEAN.

While yet he dwells below, must stoop to g. F.A. 37 G. up the refuse of the general spoil Her. 70 Collect the scattered truths that Study g. R. 274 Pay contribution to the store he g. T. iv 110 He g. the blunted shafts that have recoiled T. vi 874

GLEANED.

G. through the clear transparency, that seemed T. Of passed experience, and the wisdom g. F.A. 2

GLEANING.

Repays their work—the g. only mine H. 771 Like g. of an olive tree they show T. 872

GLEBE.

Pours out its fleecy tenants o'er the g. T. i 291 With pointed hoof dibbling the g. prepared Y.O. 26

GLEE.

Sorting and puzzling with a deal of g. Con. 18 With such a jest as filled with hellish g. Con. 737 And spirits buoyant with excess of g. T. vi 329 Indulges all a father's heartfelt g. Tir. 321 Filled with as much true merriment and g. T.T. 244

GLENS.

Its hollow g., its thickets, and its plains T. vi 402

GLIDE.

When gently, as in June, the rivers g. A.T. 74 So may the ruffian, who with ghostly g. Ch. 186 I g. and steal along with heaven in view H. 379 So life g, smoothly and by stealth away T, vi 995 So g, my life away! and so at last T, vi 1000

GLIMPSE.

A g, of joy, that we have met N. 23 That not a g. of genuine light pervades P.E. 6 The g. of a green pasture how they cheer T. iv 751 And his end sure, without one g. of hope Tir. 427

GLISTENING.

G. at once with pity and surprise H. 533 And g. even in the dying eye T. vi 631

GLITTER.

Must tinkle and g. like gold to the sight F.M. 19 Earth g, with the drops the night distils H. 42 And e'en the star, that g. on the bier H. 270 Now g. in the sun and now retires T. i 324 Ficoides, g. bright the winter long T. iii 579 The seals of office g, in his eyes T, iv 59 With those whose mansions g, in his sight T, v 740 Not always g. in my view) 1789, 26

GLITTERING.

His g. purse, that envy of all eyes Ch. 472 Like a loose heap of ribbon, a g. show F.M. 6 The show-glass fraught with g. ware P.B. 24 G. in vain, or only to seduce R. 212 First shakes the g. drops from every thorn R. 396 Here g. turrets rise, upbearing high T. v 110 Is worth, with all its gold and g. store T.T. 61

GLOBE.

Trade is the golden girdle of the g. Ch. 86 Deplores the wasted regions of her g. Her. 80 The g. and its concerns, I seem advanced T. iv 95 Her silver g., light as the foamy surf T. vi 155 That man, the master of this g. derives Tir. 3 The g, and sceptre in such hands misplaced T.T. 39

GLOBOSE.

The seas g, and huge, the o'erarching vault R, 552 With prominent wens g.; till at the last Y.O. 68

GLOOM.

When the Sun's shafts disperse the g. of night Ex. Dispelled thy g., and broke away thy dreams Ex. 501 For lift thy palsied head, shake off the g.~H.~37 Till thy appearance chased the g., forlorn J.T.~21The g. and coolness of declining day T. i 258 So spent in parlour twilight, such a g. T. iv 278 And throwing up into the darkest g. T. vi 153 Liberty chases all that g. away T. T. 271 Loved not the light, but, gloomy, into g. Y.O. 14

GLOOMY.

Are g, thoughts led on by Spleen E, iv 20 By night a fire, to cheer the g. way Ex. 178 Her g. monarch, doubtful, and resigned Ex. 570 The g. scene surveys N. 10 With all the g. past St. iii 8 And roofs embattled high, the g. scenes T. ii 122 The g. clouds, find weapons, arrowy sleet T. v 140 Loved not the light, but, g., into gloom Y.O. 14 GLORIED.

That cried "Repent"—and g. in thy choice? Er. 399 Our British Themis g. with just cause T. iii 257 GLORIFY.

We g. that Self, not him we ought Ch. 570 GLORIOUS.

Forgetful of the g, toils of war A.T. 28 So g. now, though once so disesteemed Ch. 580 Of virtue, and religion's g. cause Con. 686 Live from his lips, and spread the g. sound H. 454 Not e'en the g. sun, though men revere H. 501 These are thy g. works, eternal Truth H. 742 Then these thy g, works, and they who share H.750Pay tribute to thy g. beams O. i 7 "These are thy g. works, thou Source of good R. I From scenes of sorrow into g. day R. 168 G. as Solyma's interior shrine T. 388 Else his own g. rights He would disclaim T. 555 Of blank oblivion, seem a g. prize T. i 287 Of holy discipline, to g. war T. ii 348 To combat may be g., and success T. iii 687 And now perhaps the g. hour is come T. iii 790 Pronounced it transient, g. as it is T. v 563 And still designing a more g. far T. v 564 But gives the g. sufferers little praise T. v 732 Fires all the faculties with g. joy T. v 885 Fires him at once in Freedom's g. cause T.T. 229 G. in war, but for the sake of peace T.T. 278 Ere yet his race begins, its g. close T.T. 708 GLORIOUSLY.

G. drunk, obey the important call! T. iv 510 GLORY.

And in his country's g. sought his own Ch. 26 Thy pomp is in the grave, thy g. laid Ch. 71 Reflect the noonday g. of the skies Ch. 398 Or sell their g. at a market price Con. 28 As to despise the g. of our kind Con. 258 To spread the newborn g. in their view Con. 546 And his chief g., was the gospel theme Con. 620 Whose g., with a light that never fades Con. 883 Jerusalem a prey, her g. soiled Ex. 61 Their g. faded, and their race dispersed Ez. 241 Thy temple, once thy g., fallen and raised Ex.259Of the chief strength and g. of the frame Ex. 335 Claimed all the g. of thy prosperous wars? Ex. 34 Thy g., and thy shame if unimproved) Ex. 689 Shall be my chosen theme, my g. to the last E_s . 79 Fo fling his g., o'er the robe she wears H. 44 'Tis heard where England's Eastern g. shines H. 45 G. your aim, but Justice your pretence Her. 44 And g, for the virtuous when they die J.T. 14 Wherever her g. appeared M.D. 20 Yet let the g. of a night Q.V.77That men erroneously their q, call R, 100 Successive rhyme his g, and reward R, 198 That builds its g, on its Maker's praise R. 210 Who will may pant for g, and excel R. 245 His work of g. done R.G. 16 His radiant g., azure, green, and gold T. 61 Though he too has a g, in his plumes T. 67 Restore to man the g, he has lost T. 398 Grace in his mien, and g. in his eyes T. 407 Fallen from her g., and too weak to rise T. 480 Had shed immortal g, on your brow T. 569 iot more the g. of the earth than she T. i 723 more accomplished world's chief g. now T. i 724 such in his field of g.; one in arms T. ii 241 Il flesh is grass, and all its g. fades T. iii 261 lis g., and his nature to impart T. iii 274 he way to g. by miscarriage foul T. iii 506 tre his sole aim, and all his g. now T. iv 658 lence too the field of g, as the world T. iv 684 If evanescent g., once a stream T. v 167 or England's g.. seeing it wax pale T. v 510 at these are not his g. Man, 'tis true T. v 559 he g. of thy work, which yet appears T. v 868 hat cultivation g. in, are his T. vi 189 ung to the praise and g. of King George! T. vi 663 lock to that light; the g. of all lands T. vi 802 nd shows him g. yet to be revealed T. vi 927 ou told me, I remember, g., built T.T. 1 lest country, where these Kingly g.'s shine! T.T. 81 g., bright as that of all the signs Tir. 282 hall blush betimes, and there his g. rise Tir. 396

GLORYING.

ruel, abandoned, g. in her shame! T. iii 68

GLOSSARY.

and needs no g. to set him right N.A. 70

GLOSSY.

raven, while with g. breast A Fable 1
'bat g. shine, or vivid flame Mrs. M— 10 lough elm, or smooth-grained ash, or g. beech R. 230 and g., he commits to pots of size T. iii 512

GLOSSY-LEAVED.

ome g., and shining in the sun T. i 314

GLOVE.

is if the world and they were hand and g. T.T. 173 soldier's feather, or a lady's g. T.T. 549

GLOW

Telt them in her bosom g. B. 38 and, in the g. of her intense desires Ch. 402 and, warmed by the pressure, is all in a g. F.M. 8 and catch in its progress a sensible g. F.M. 20 hat bliss, revealed in scripture, with a g. H. 149 Where late we saw the mimic landscape g. H. 263 a transport g. in all he looks and speaks H. 726 he marble breathes, the canvas g. Miss — 83 ha g. that Fancy gave it fades Mor. 36 hafed him, and brought dull nature to a g. P.E. 408 iet London in a g. Q.V. 8 le bids him g. with unremitting love T. 557 to teach his heart to g. with generous flame Tir. 644

GLOWED.

by thy own hand, till fresh they shone and g. M.P. 63

GLOWING.

Then all his g, language issued forth Con. 709 be centre of a g, heart E, i 14 he g, tablets with a juster skill Ex. 232 he g, bosom swell Miss — 16 be little ones, unbuttoned, g, hot Tir. 304 by them at last in all their g, hues Tir. 48 till, all alike, transport the g, band R. 197 be fear attends to quench his g, fires T. 189 that g, thanks his lips and heart employ T. 255 he g, hearth may satisfy awhile T, iv 273 lutslaves that once conceive the g, thought T. \forall 374 hely by gratitude and g, thought T. 7. 387

GLOW-WORM.

ind knew the g. by his spark N.G. 10

GLUED.

Was g. to the sword-hilt with Indian gore Ch. 50

GLUTTON.

But, if he play the g. and exceed P.E. 211

GLUTTONOUS.

And wantonness, and g. excess T. i 688

GLUTTONY.

Or his base g., are causes good T. vi 388

GNATS.

[452]

Yet g, have had, and frogs and mice, long since T, iii

GNOMON.

As if the g, on his neighbour's phiz Con. 271

But g. the male? Far wiser, he A Tale 47

GO.

There g, my lady, and there g, the squire B.B. 12 There g, the parson—O illustrious spark! B.B. 13 And there scarce less illustrious, g. the clerk B.B. 14 But let insolvent innocence g. free" Ch. 289 Except that office clips it as it g. Ch. 484 Blessing and blessed where'er she g. Comp. i 8 G., quit the rank to which ye stood preferred Con. 75 Your elevated voice g. through the brain Con. 328 Every five minutes how the minutes g. Con. 382 G. seek on Revelation's hallowed ground Con. 499 Ere life g. down, to see such sights again) Con. 606 Cheered as they g. by many a sprightly strain E. ii 14 And said, "G spend them in the vale of tears" E. ii 26 "G., fellow!-whither?-turning short about E. iii24 Must g, to heaven—and I must drink his health H, 412 G. now, and with important tone demand H. 528 Will lend his horse to g. " J. G. 24 G.! thou art all unfit to share M.B. 1 Thy prowess—therefore, g.! M.B. 20 [P.A. 26 What! rob our good neighbour! I pray you don't g. : "I g. to make Freemen of Slaves" M.D. 16 [P.A.33 They spoke, and Tom pondered—"I see they will g. And asked him to g, and assist in the job P.A. 24 If you will g, with us, you shall have a share P.A.31But since they will take them, I think I'll g. too P.A.39 G., cast your orders at your Bishop's feet P.E. 120 G., fool; and arm in arm with Clodio plead P.E. 197 As axles sometimes kindle as they g. P.E. 407Thus men g. wrong with an ingenious skill P.E. 556 Ten thousand thousand strings at once g. loose R. 329 As useless if it g, as when it stands R 682 To ages, where he g. St. v 10The shivering urchin, bending as he g. T. 143 But that she fasts, and, item, g. to church T. 152 G., bid the winter cease to chill the year T. 399 And not a year but pilfers as he g. T. 131 G. dress thine eyes with eyesalve; ask of him T. ii Ambling and prattling scandal as he g. T. ii 382 He whistles as he g., light-hearted wretch T. iv 12 The wain g. heavily, impeded sore T iv 343 Now g, the nightly thief prowling abroad T, iv 432 Forth g, the woodman, leaving unconcerned T. v 41 Makes wintry music, sighing as it g. T.vi 143 [vi 140] But let the months g, round, a few short months T. And is not ere to-morrow's sun g. down T. vi 215 The young to let the parent bird g, free T, vi 446 Shall have its altar; and the world shall g. T. vi 668 Nor say, g. thither, conscious that there lay Tir. 869 The punch g, round, and they are dull Y.D. 45

GOADED.

Driven to the slaughter, g_{\cdot} , as he runs T_{\cdot} vi 421

GOAL.

Home to the g, where it began the race Ch. 586 They sidle to the g, with awkward pace P.E. 562 Else, though unequalled to the g, he flies T. 15 Its destined g, of difficult access T. vi 277 To the far distant g, arrives and dies T. vi 430 And does but at the g, obtain Th. 19 T. 309 Gives him Olympic speed and shoots him to the g. An eye like his to catch the distant g. T.T. 710

GOBLET.

The brimming g, seized the Thyrsus, bound T.T.603

3OD

Counsel of her country's g.'s B. 4 G., working ever on a social plan Ch. 15 G. stood not, though he seemed to stand, aloof Ch. Art thou the G., the thunder of whose hand Ch. 75 G. opens fruitful Nature's various scenes Ch. 88 A herald of G.'s love to pagan lands Ch. 186 Or if the will and sovereignty of G.—Ch. 165 Has G. then given its sweetness to the cane Ch. 190 To smite the poor is treason against G.—Ch. 217 G.'s gift with pleasure in his praise employ Ch. 252 Owns no superior but the G. she fears Ch. 275 For self to self, and G, to man revealed Ch, 361 But G. o'errules all human follies still Ch. 463 Nor spring from love to $G_{\cdot,\cdot}$ or love to man Ch. 560To see a G. stretch forth his human hand Ch. 581 G.'s name so much upon his lips, a priest Con. 72 For all is perfect that G. works on earth Con. 433 G. and his attributes (a field of day Con. 471 [Con. 32 Wrath stays him, or else G. would strike them dumb That air of insolence affronts your G.-Con. 487 Man to maintain, and such as G. approves Con. 538Can length of years on G. himself exact Con. 549 As bastions set point blank against G.'s will Con.688With G, s deep stamp upon its current worth Con.710G.'s work may serve an ape upon a stage Con. 736 Usurps G.'s office, lays his bosom bare Con. 745 [747 And, serving G, herself through mere restraint Con. Sincerity towards the heart-searching G.-Con.753He knows that G, demands his heart entire Con. 759 And all her love of G, a groundless claim Con, 781 And g. and goddesses discarded long Con. 819 [749 And yet, G. knows, look human nature through Con. By stout substantial g, of wood and stone Con, 834 If Israel's Lord be G, then serve the Lord Con. 852Then Baal is the G., and worship him ' Con. 854 For G, unfolds by slow degrees E, 159 When G, and you know I have neither E, iv 8 Since twenty sheets of lead, G. knows E. iv 27 He heard the wheels of an avenging G. Ex. 57In form a man, in dignity a G.-Ex. 86 Then G. own image on the soul impressed Ex. 109 And yet exalted above G's own word Ex. 128 Their G, their captain, lawgiver, and king Ex. 190 And the true G. the G. of truth was theirs E_{\emptyset} . 240 When G, arises with an awful frown Ex, 249 [323] Frames many a purpose, and G, works his own Ex. The stroke that a vindictive G, intends Ex, 407 G.'s better gift they scoff at, and refuse Ex. 459 And G.'s disposing providence confessed Ex.558 If G. himself be not beneath her care Ex.603 [Ex.504But still light reached thee; and those G. of thine: To learn in G.'s own school the Christian part Ex.650Which G., though long forborne, will not forget Ex.713On points which G. has left at large F. 136 But what the g. call it above Gr. 35 And the barbed arrows of a frowning G.-R. 304 When G. and man stand opposite in view H. 131 And silence every fear with -G, is just H. 370 And -G is merciful - Sets all to rights H. 376

Nor spurn away a gift a G. bestows H. 547 G. gives the word, the preachers throng around H. Scripture indeed is plain, but G. and he H. 598 And where his danger and G.'s wrath begin H. 609 A man arise, a man whom G, has taught H. 623 Except the few his G. may have impressed H. 633 Mighty to parry and push by G.'s word H. 659 G.'s holy word, once trivial in his view H. 706 Say man's a worm, and power belongs to G.-H.711Tis more—'tis G. diffused through every part H. 734 'Tis G. himself triumphant in his heart H. 735 What scourges are the g.'s that rule below Her. 66 And, though G. made thee of a nature prone J.T. 31 Then thus the g. whom fondly they J.P. 29 [131 Had summoned them to serve his golden g. P.F. G.'s worship and the mountebank between P.E. 156 Sits banqueting, and G provides the feast P.E. 166 Thou g. of our idolatry, the Press? P.E. 461 Nor rested till the g. bad given it life P.E. 523 Take leave of nature's G., and G. revealed P.E.591 And calls a creature formed for G, alone R, 17 And works of G, are hardly to be found R, 26 Mounts from inferior beings up to G.-R. 114 Truth is not local, G. alike pervades R. 119 Opening the map of G.'s extensive plan R. 147 Up!—G. has formed thee with a wiser view R. 263 'Tis G.'s just claim, prerogative divine R. 278 On pangs enforced with G.'s severest stroke R. 314 G. in a moment executes with ease) R. 328 No cure for such, till G, who makes them heals R. Much of the power and majesty of G.—R. 526 Of G., beneficent in all His ways R. 556 [R. 688] Built G. a church, and laughed his word to score The love of virtue, and the fear of G.-R.730And trusting in his G., surmounts them all R.H. 5 The axe will smite at G.'s command St. i 15 The bosom of his G.—St. iii 16 He lives who lives to G., alone St. vi 1 For other source than G. is none St. vi 3 To live to G. is to require St. vi 5 Have wounds which only G. can heal St. vi 19 Which G, asserts his own St, vi 26 If scorn of G. commands, impressed St. vi 29 Yet so will G. repay St. vi 38 Your wilful suicide on G.'s decree T. 20 You think him humble—-G. accounts him proud I. I dare not—" And you need not," G. replies T. 272 Dwelt visibly the light-creating G.—T. 390 And thunderbolts excepted quite a G. !-T. 410 Charge not a G, with such outrageous wrong T.520Prefer to the performance of a G.—T. i 418 The total ordinance and will of G.-T. i 743 [749] G. made the country, and man made the town T: While G, performs, upon the trembling stage T, ii 3On G.'s behalf, lays waste his fairest works T. ii 136 Of wrath obnoxious, G. may choose His mark T. iil 36 Happy the man who sees a G, employed T, ii 161 Then G. might be surprised, and unforeseen T. ii 171 Denies the power that wields it. G, proclaims T, ii 178 Suspend the effect, or heal it? Has not G.—T, ii 197 The sacramental host of G's elect T. ii 349 To make G.'s work a sinecure; a slave T. ii 390 And pretty face in presence of his G. ?—T. ii 422 He that negotiates between G, and man T, ii 463 As G.'s ambassador, the grand concerns T. ii 464 When sent with G's commission to the heart T. ii 47l Blind nature to a G. not yet revealed T. ii 526 As nations ignorant of G, contrive T, ii 574 T, iii 221 G. never meant that man should scale the heavens As meant to indicate a G. to man T. iii 246 [iii 705 And virtue, and those scenes which G ordained T. Sagacious reader of the works of G.-T.iii 253[279]And wherefore? Will not G. impart his light T. iii

That, while it gives us worth in G.'s account T.iii 283 For whom G, heard his Abraham plead in vain T. iii 848 Who deem religion frenzy, and the G.-T. iv 178 O evenings worthy of the g.! exclaimed T. iv 189 Great talents: and G. gives to every man T. iv 789 \underline{G} . drave asunder, and assigned their lot T. v 198 To eminence fit only for a G.—T. v 284 And quake before the g, themselves had made T, vWhich G, avenged on Pharach—the Bastille T. \vee 383 As dreadful as the Manichean g. T. v 444And promise of a G. His other gifts T. v 550 Whose lying heart disputes against a G.-T. v 568"Hath G. indeed given appetites to man T. v 685 "Dishonours G., and makes a slave of man T. v 643 To walk with G., to be divinely free T. v 722 [779 Acquaint thyself with $G_{\cdot,i}$ if thou wouldst taste $T_{\cdot,i}$ v Whom G. delights in, and in whom He dwells T. v 778 The unambiguous footsteps of the G.-T. v 812Sent forth a voice, and all the sons of G.-T. v 821G. such as gilt makes welcome; g. that sleep T. \vee 876 See nought to wonder at. Should G, again T, vil 25 A soul in all things, and that soul is G.-T. vi 185 Thus dream they and contrive to save a G.-T. vi205 Whose cause is G. He feeds the secret fire T. vi 224 With tutelary goddesses and g. T. vi 235 [252 Prompts with remembrance of a present G.—T. vi G. set the diadem upon his head T. vi 351 Garden of G., how terrible the change T. vi 371 Whom once, as delegate of G, on earth T, vi 399 But G. will never. When he charged the Jew T. vi 443 Of G. and goodness, atheist in ostent T. vi 486 [557 So G. wrought double justice; made the fool T. vi As G, was free to form them at the first T, vi 586 Accountable, and G., some future day T. vi 605 The g. of our idolatry once more T. vi 667 See Salem built, the labour of a G.! T. vi 799 [820] So G. has greatly purposed; who would else T. vi The creature is that G, pronounces good T. vi 828 Two g. divide them all—Pleasure and Gain T. vi 892 Deems him a cipher in the works of G.—T. vi 943 Of G. and man, and peaceful in its end T. vi 999 Why did the fiat of a g. give birth Tir. 35 [Tir. 54 Look where he will, the wonders G. has wrought That taught of G. they may indeed be wise Tir. 107 And guides the Progress of a soul to G.—Tir. 146 As G.'s expedient to retrieve his loss Tir. 166 In sacrilege, in G.'s own house profaned Tir. 409 To live estranged from G. his total scope Tir. 426 That G. and nature, and your interest too Tir. 558 As, hid from ages past, G. now displays Tir. 638 And formed of G. without a parent's mind Tir. 790 The G. that strings the silver bow Trans. H. 28[374 Confessed a G.; they kneeled before they fought T.T. Stamps G.'s own name upon a lie just made $ar{T}.T.420$ 6.'s curse can cast away ten thousand sail! T.T. 467 And yet magnificent—a G, the theme! T.T.593If G. give health, that sunshine of our days! V. 87

GODDESS.

And gods and g. discarded long Cos. 819 The g. chanced to hear L.R. 18 of g. yet known, and costlier far T. ii 659 That reeling g. with the zoneless waist T. iii 52 With tutelary g. and gods T. vi 285

GODDESS-LIKE.

That g. woman he viewed M.D. 34

GODHEAD.

Deny thy G. with a martyr's zeal T. vi 883

GODLIKE.

Oh! 'tis a g. privilege to save Ch. 226

GODLINESS.

Pretends a zeal for g. and grace H. 661 GODLY.

But tears of g. grief ne'er flow within St. ii 32 GOING.

"Nay—stay at home—you're always g. out" E. iii What! hang a man for g. mad! Pat. 23

More precious than silver and g. A.S. 27G., to be sure !—Throughout the town 'tis told Ch. How the good squire gives never less than g. Ch. 480 As one of g., and yours was such E. iv 30 Can g. grow worthless that has stood the touch? E. No; g. they seemed, but they were never such E. iii 19 When a bar of pure silver or ingot of g. F.M. 1 Must tinkle and glitter like g. to the sight F.M. 19 Where, flaming in scarlet and g. Gr. 29And if the genuine worth of g, depend J.T. 27 His mantling neck with downy g. Mrs. M—6 Paid my price in paltry g. N.C. 6 Slaves of g., whose sordid dealings N.C. 58 His radiant glories, azure, green, and g. T. 61And decks itself with ornaments of g. T. i 529 To conjure clean away the g. they touch T. i 571 To peculators of the public g. T. i 735 Ambitious of preferment for its g. T. ii 387 Bleed g. for ministers to sport away T. iv 508 In streaming g.; Syringa, ivory pure T. vi 150 More golden than that age of fabled g. T. vi 996 Is worth, with all its g, and glittering store T.T.61G., purer far than Ophir ever knew V. 97 GOLD-BEATER.

The thump after thump of a g. mallet F.M. 10 GOLDEN.

And spread her g. hopes below A Fable 15 And phillyrea of a g. green A.T. 83 Trade is the g. girdle of the globe Ch. 86 Disdains the Bank, and throws the g. sands Ch. 248 To pour his g, tide through all her gates Ex, 14 Cured of the g. calves, their fathers' $\sin Ex$. 215 To adopt the chymist's g. dream F. 143 That flutter loose on g, wing F.B. 8 Than g. beams of orient light M. 27 Your g. moments bless Miss — 102 Like sunbeams on the g. height Mrs. M-35 Had summoned them to serve his g. god P.E. 131 With g, wing and satin poll P. T. 27 Her g. tassels on the leafy sprays R. 232 Though placed in g. Durham's second stall T. 120 Or, if a chain, the g. one of love T. 188 And taints the g. ear. He springs his mines T. ii 187 Of g. fruitage, and her myrtle bowers T. ii 215 Large foliage, overshadowing g. flowers T. iii 535 Shines there, and flourishes. The g. boast T. iii 571 The Levee swarms, as if in g. pomp T. iii 822 The g. harvest, of a mellow brown T. iv. 314 That poets; celebrate those g. times T. iv 514 Her g. tube, through which a sensual world T. vi 978 More g, than that age of fabled gold T, vi 996 Depend not much upon your g. dream Tir. 429 He that holds fast the g. mean Trans. H. 7

GOLDFINCHES.

Two g., whose sprightly song F.B. 4 GOLIATH.

G., might have seen his giant bulk T. iv 270 GONE.

But the sea-fowl is g. to her nest A.S. 49
"Shall mourn her absent lord, for he is g. A.T. 104
The mother-bird is g. to sea A Tale 45

She came—she is g.—we have met C. 1 'Tis g. again—plague on't! I thought E. iv 37 That useful thing, her needle g. E. iv 40 Thy diadem displaced, thy sceptre g. Ex. 258G. thither armed and hungry, returned full Es. 368 Are altogether g. a devious course Ex. 463 The flowers are g.—but still we find M. 215 But was it such?—it was.—Where thou art g. M.P. 32But if the rogue be g. a cup too far P.E. 440 Brave Kempenfelt is g. R.G. 14 But Kempenfelt is g. R.G. 33 I passed—and they were g. St. i 20Her eyebrows arched, her eyes both g. astray T. 135 Looked to the sea for safety? They are g. T. ii 119 G. with the refluent wave into the deep T. ii 120 I see that all are wanderers, g. astray T. iii 124 [403 Still lives, though all its pleasant boughs are g. T. vSome friend is g., perhaps his son's best friend! T. vi29

GOOD. [A.T. ii 4 With as many hard names as would line a g. trunk "To horse!" he cried, "or by this g. right hand A. T. 169 Though little need, to his g. palfrey's side A.T. 192 'Tis a very g. match between Mary and John A.T. iii 2 The g. so long desired A Tale 24 Each some approaching g. divines A Tale 63 Takes the resemblance of the g. she views Ch. 396 Another's g.; theirs centres in their own Ch. 450 Flavis, most tender of her own g. name Ch. 453 How the g. squire gives never less than gold Ch. 480 The milk of their g. purpose all to curd Ch. 504 Pelting each other for the public g. Ch. 622 Dubius is such a scrupulous g. man Con. 119 To teach g. manners, and to curb abuse Con. 164 Prefers his fellow grooms, with much g. sense Con. 417 The school of coarse g. fellowship and noise Con. 422 That g. diffused may more abundant grow Con. 443 The soul's sure interest in the g. she seeks Con. 728 And give g. company a face severe Con. 873 A harbinger of endless g. E. i 90 G. lack, we know not what to-morrow brings E. iii 8 Perhaps 'twas mere g. humour gave it birth E. iii 38 They drew a curse from an intended g. Ex. 129Why, having kept g, faith, and often shown Ex. 276 That infidels may prove their title g. Ez. 380 That Scripture, Justice, and G. Sense disown Ex. 593 Friendship a false ideal g. G. 29 As Envy pines at g, possessed G, 79 On g, that seems approaching G. 81 G. sense and knowledge of mankind G. 200 Thus compassed about with the g. Gr. 49Poets' g. are not often so fine Gr. 54 A vain pursuit of fugitive, false g. H. 4With every g, and perfect gift, proceeds H. 116 By g, vouchsafed makes known superior g, H, 147 From fading g. derives, with chemic art H. 159 And seem to pray, for g. example sake H. 249 Without g. works, whatever some may boast H. 363 Who make the g. Creator on their plan H. 383 Wild as if Nature there, void of all $g.\ H.\ 540$ This man was happy—had the World's g. word H. 678 G. breeding and g, sense gave all a grace H. 683 And my g, friend the calender J.G. 23 "G. lack!" quoth he, yet bring it me J.G. 61 With caution and g, heed J.G. 80 Praising the Author of all g, in man J.T. 2 The dead in whom that g, abounded most J.T. 4 Thou hadst an industry in doing g. J.T. 23"G. Mussulman, abstain from pork L.W. 2 [126] Through mere g, fortune, took a different course N.A. Maria! I have every g. N.Y.G. 1But staying behind will do him no g. P.A. 36 Will Providence o'erlook the wasted g.? P.E. 223 G. sense, g. health, g. conscience, and g. fame? P.E. 246 | Nor smooth G. (supplemental grace) T. vi 853

But we, as if g. qualities would grow P.E. 363 Thou fountain at which drink the g. and wise P.E. 466 Knowledge of g, and evil is from thee P.E. 469 By his g, will would keep us single P.T. 32 Than to neglect a g. adviser P.T. 61 "These are thy glorious works, thou Source of g.R.87And woo and win thee to thy proper g. R. 256The g. we never miss we rarely prize R. 406 Whose wit is rudeness, whose g. breeding tires R. 438 'Tis wild g. nature's never failing lot R. 582 And such as, in the zeal of g. design R. 697 Where all g, qualities grow sick and die R. 738 To blend g, sense and elegance and case S, ii 11 Forced to a pause, would feel it g. to think St. ii 15 Have purchased Heaven, and prove my title g. T. 96 Possess herself of all that's g. or true T. 489 The g. he scorned, all carried to account " T. 546 Forgive their evil, and accept their g. T. 582Communicative of the g. he owns T. i 332 G. health, and, its associate in the most T. i 399 G. temper; spirits prompt to undertake T. i 400 To tempt us in thy country. Doing g. T. i 673 Disinterested g., is not our trade T. i 674 It is not seemly, nor of g. report T. i 729 Nor is it well, nor can it come to g. T. i 739 In all the g. and ill that chequer life! T. ii 162 Their g, old friend, and Discipline at length T, ii 732 With such ingredients of g, sense and taste T, ii 789 Well-equipaged, is ticket g. enough T. iii 98 Disturb g. order, and degrade true worth T. iii 674 Had I the choice of sublunary g. T. iii 689 Was but to boast his own peculiar g. T. iii 717 The dearth of information and g, sense T, iv 71 But be ye of g. courage. Time itself T. iv 420 The course of human things from g. to ill T. iv 578 Seem most at variance with all moral g. T. iv 621 Your self-denying zeal, that holds it g. T. v 328 The surest presage of the g. they seek T. v 378 'Tis therefore sober and g. men are sad T. \forall 509 Be most sublimely g., verbosely grand T. v 678 The loaded soil, and ye may waste much g. T. v. 756But, O Thou bounteous giver of all g.! T. v 903 Till time has stolen away the slightest g. T. vi 51 Or his base gluttony, are causes g. T. vi 388 Of g. Evander, still where he was left T. vi 537 To quadruped instructors, many a g. T. vi 622 The creature is that God pronounces g. T. vi 828 The cocasion it presents of doing g. T. vi 847 If, author of no mischief and some g. T. vi 953 The stamp and clear impression of g. sense T. vi 983 Quick-sighted arbiter of g, and ill Tir. 31 That in g. time the stripling's finished taste Tir. 203 In all g. faculties beneath his care Tir. 709 A trifler vain, and empty of all g. Tir. 754 To compass that g. end, forecast the means Tir. 884His portion in the g. that Heaven bestows T.T. 20O bright occasions of dispensing g. T.T. 63 "But where, g. sir, do you confine your kings?" T.T. E'en when he labours for his country's g. T.T. 142 Patriots, who love g. places at their hearts T.T. 191 Firm friends to peace, to pleasure, and g. pay T.T.195Thus with a rigour, for his g. designed T.T. 216 Communicates with joy the g. she finds T.T. 275 No. His high mettle, under g. control T.T. 308 Always harbinger of g. Trans. iii That holds in view the g. of man U. 24 Let me, the charge of some g. angel, find V. 77 To make their payments g. Y.D. 16 G. Mr. What-d'ye-call? Y.D. 36 The g on earth they valued most 1789, 51 GOOD-BREEDING.

GOODLY.

Found thee a g. sponge for Power to press Ex. 531 GOOD-NATURE.

When gay G, dresses her in smiles T, ii 784

GOOD-NATURED.

In Christian charity, (g. age!) T. iii 95 GOODNESS.

Wisdom and G. are twin-born, one heart Ex. 634 His names of wisdom, g., power, and love H. 135 It were to weep that g. has its meed J.T. 12 Was to encourage g. He would stroke T. ii 710 And g. infinite, but speak in ears T. v 854 Of God and $g_{\cdot \cdot}$, atheist in ostent $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ vi 486

And promised they should act the wild g, part A.T.53Or a wild q, at play J.G, 140

Was glued to the sword-hilt with Indian g. Ch. 50 With fingers deeply dyed in human g. Es. 497

> GORGE. [483]

Minnows and gudgeons g, the unwholesome food P.E. GORGEOUS.

Contribute to the g. plan Mrs, M-13 A native of the g. East Trans. iv 2

GORGONIUS.

G. sits, abdominous and wan P.E. 217

GORSE.

With prickly g, that shapeless and deformed T, i 527

Surprised at all they meet, the g. pair P.E. 379 GOSPEL.

And his chief glory, was the g. theme Con. 620 This record of thee for the G.'s sake J.T. 48 Why falls the G. like a gracious dew ? T. 180 We boast some rich ones whom the G sways T. 377 How readily, upon the G. plan T. 381 As angels use, the G. whispers peace T. ii 342 The meteor of the g. dies away Tir. 190 With g. lore, turn infidels themselves Tir. 826

GOSSIP'D.

Of smiling day, they g. side by side T. v 60 ·

And up he g., in haste to ride J.G.What thing upon his back had g. J.G. 95Nor stopped till where he had g. up J.G.His stock, a few French phrases g. by heart P.E.

Without it, all is g. as the scene T. iii 641 Uh, barbarous! wouldst thou with a G. hand Tir. 899 And, tedious years of G. darkness passed T.T. 564

GOURD.

To raise the prickly and green-coated g. T. iii 446

GOUTY.

The g. limb, 'tis true; but g. limb T. i 107

GOVERN.

That guides and g, our affections E, i 35 Nor does he g. only, or direct T. iii 408 That g. all things here, shouldering aside T. vi 839

His measured step were g. by his ear T. 63 Or aught He does, is g. by caprice T. 346

Machines themselves, and g. by a clock Tir. 625 Then, only g. by the selfsame rule Tir. 871

GOVERNMENT.

For skill in g_{\cdot} , at length made king T_{\cdot} v 241 I praise a school as Pope a g. Tir. 508

GOVERNOR.

The G. of all, himself to all T. vi 459

With the same ease that man puts on his g. ? P.E. 103Send your dishonoured g.to Monmouth Street P.E.121 Worn as a cloak, and hardly hides, a g. T. i 550 Till g. at length are found mere masquerade T. ii 748

GRACE.

Gives even Affliction a g. A.S. 55 And gave them a g. so divine C. 18 Chief g, below, and all in all above Ch. 4 Gives difficulty all the g. of ease Ch. 110 From the same centre of enlightening $g. Ch. 364 \lceil 395 \rceil$ The soul, whose sight all-quickening g. renews Ch. And would the g. I mean to recommend Ch. 486 And still enlarged as she receives the g. Ch. 597 Thus have I sought to g. a serious lay Ch. 628 True Modesty is a discerning g. Con. 373 Weak and imperfect in all g, beside Con. 758 And all her censures of the work of g. Con. 784 G. him again with long forgotten arts Con. 839 (Two nymphs adorned with every g. D.W. 7In pity to the souls his G. designed E. ii 23 These flowing from the fount of g, above E, ii 29 And had the g, in scenes of peace to show Ex. 79 The g, of a life that wins the skies Ex. 112 Had g. for other's sins, but none for theirs Ex. 134 When Obstinacy once has conquered G.-Ex. 152 But G. abused brings forth the foulest deeds Ex. 213 Might shine in fable, and g. idle themes Ex. 233 Pleasure o'ervalued, and his g. despised E_{θ} . 252 And made the symbols of atoning g. Ex. 378 And g, thy figure with a soldier's pride Ex. 487 Peculiar is the g. by thee possessed Ex. 580 Those holy men, so full of truth and g. Ex. 618 What virtue, or what mental g. F. 1 The g. and the beauties F. 45 Renewed desire would g, with other speech H. 35 Is handmaid to the purposes of g. H. 146To any throne, except the throne of g. H. 239 Far other paintings g, the chamber now H. 262 "Adieu to all morality, if G.—H. 359 Here see the encouragement G, gives to vice H. 495 And g, be g, indeed, and life a gift H_{\bullet} 531 And reconcile his lusts with saving g. H. 605 Pretends a zeal for godliness and g. H. 661 Good breeding and good sense gave all a $g.\ H.$ 683 Those hangings with their worn-out $g.\ M.F.$ 5 But lives when that exterior g. M.F. 53 And earned too late, it wants the g. Mor. 37 The gifts of Nature and of G .- N.G. 34 With equal g, below O, i. 28 May find a Muse to g. it with a song) P.E.2 [P.E.105Charm'd by the sounds—Your Reverence, or your G. The G. too, while Virtue at their shrine P.E. 337 Returning, he proclaims by many a g. P.E. 413 And Wisdom falls before exterior g. P.E. 418 And g, his action ere the curtain fall R. 34 Truth, wisdom, g., and peace, like that above R. 163 But does a mischief while she lends a g. R. 233Borrowing a beauty from the works of g. R. 358 A man whom marks of condescending g. R. 445Flies to the levee, and, received with g. R. 479 But not to manage leisure with a g. R. 622 G. leads the right way; if you choose the wrong T. 17

No meretricious g, to beguile T. 23 I am all splendour, dignity, and g.! T. 65 That g. was Cowper's—his, confessed by all T. 119 Though not a g. appears on strictest search T. 151 Reports a message with a pleasing g. T. 205 G. in his mien, and glory in his eyes T. 407 G. undeserved, yet surely not for all T. 484 Derived from the same source of light and g. T. 533 Some youthful g, that age would gladly keep T, i. 132 Displaying, on its varied side, the g. T. i 172 A messenger of g, to guilty men T, ii 407 G., knowledge, comfort—an unfathomed store? T. ii Unless by Heaven's peculiar g., escape T. ii 632 All catch the frenzy, downward from her G. T. ii 647 Suffice to give the marshalled ranks the g. T. iii 604But elegance, chief g, the garden shows T, iii 638 The strength they borrow with the g. they lend T. iii 669 To g, the full pavilion. His design T, iii 716 Hill wants a g., the loveliest it could show T. iii 782 To serve his country. Ministerial g. T. iii 795 Which some may practise with politer g. T. iv 494 Whom once her virgin modesty and g. T. iv 585 His hat, or his plumed helmet, with a g. T. iv 643 Of nightshade, or valerian, g. the well T. iv 757 And with poetic trappings g, thy prose T. \vee 679 G. makes the slave a freeman. 'Tis a change T. \vee 688 And seeking g, to improve the prize they hold T. vi 55 With which kind nature g, every scene T. vi 342 Gentle, and affable, and full of g. T. vi 500 By medicine well applied, but without $g. T. \forall i 522$ By our capacity of g, divine T, vi 602 Nor smooth Good-breeding (supplemental g.) T. vi "Discernment, Eloquence and G. Th. 9 Strength joined with beauty, dignity with g. Tir. 2 That g. and Nature have to wage through life Tir. 30 Let erudition g. him, or not g. Tir 387 [Tir. 397 Your Lordship, and your G.! what school can teach Still keeps a seat or two for worth and g. Tir. 433 New-fangled sentiment, the boasted g. Tir. 539 Though thou hadst never g. enough to prove Tir. 741 Sustain'd with so much g, and art Trans. iv 35 Then g, the bony phantom in their stead T. T. 48 And the sixth Edward's, g. the historic page T.T. 106 If smooth Dissimulation, skilled to $g. \tilde{T}.\tilde{T}.$ 129 His speech, his form, his action full of g. T.T. 346 Patterns of every virtue, every g. T.T. 373 Without the smile, the sweetness or the g. T.T. 615 Gave Virtue and Morality a g. T.T. 648 Stamped on the well-bound quarto g, the shelf T.T. Sound sense, intrepid spirit, manly g. V. 12 'Tis g., 'tis bounty, and it calls for praise V. 87 GRACED.

And g, with all her gifts the favourite child A.T. 10 And only missed the flowers that g, their side A.T.75Love g. the theme, and harmony the song A.T. 198 And g. with all Philosophy can add Ch. 342 And g, with clear credentials from above Ea. 188 That g. his lettered store M. i. 8 A just deportment, manners g. with ease P.E. 421 As he that slumbers in pavilions g. R. 509G. with such wisdom, how would beauty shine! R. G. with a sword, and worthier of a fan T. i 771 G. caterer and dry nurse of the church! T. ii 371 He g. a college, in which order yet T. ii 785 [vi 561 (Though g. with polished manners and fine sense T. Scenes rarely g, with rural manners now T, iv 557 They dream of little Charles or William g. Tir. 360 His galleries with the works of art well g. T.T. 162 Was g, with many an undulating light T.T. 573 Thus g., the man asserts a poet's name T.T. 714 G. with the name of a long absent friend V. 40 Seem g. with a livelier hue W.N. 22 GRACEFUL.

G. and useful all she does Comp. ii 7 Bowed at the close with all his g. airs Con. 73 How airy and how light the g. arch T. i 341 Shall put their g, foliage on again T, vi 144 Hence, in a Roman month, the g. named T.T. 500

GRACEFULLY.

Then, with an air most g, performed T, ii 447 And ourling tendrils, g. disposed T. iv 154 Lamps g. disposed, and of all hues T. v 149 Can wear it e'en as g. as she T. vi 986

And, Truth and Wisdom g. all he said Con. 526 The veteran shows, and g. a grey beard T. i 406

GRACIOUS.

His g. attributes, and prove the share H. 189 And scorn, for its own sake, the g. way T. 37 Why falls the Gospel like a g. dew ? T. 180 The g. shower, unlimited and free T. 511 But like his purpose, g., kind, and sweet T. vi 504 Kind Providence attends with g. aid T.T. 249

GRACIOUSLY.

Complied with, and were g, dismissed Ex, 541 GRADUATED.

Proceeding soon a g. dunce T. ii 739 Taints downward all the g. scale T. iv 585

GRAIN. The g., or herb, or plant, that each demands R. 788 The scattered g., and thievishly resolved T. \vee 67 Of voided pulse or half-digested g. T. v 95 Then what were left of roughness in the g. T. v 480In g, as countless as the sea-side sands T, vi 245

GRAINED.

Rough elm, or smooth g. ash, or glossy beech R. 230 GRANBY.

But G. was, meant truly what he said R. 598 GRAND. Is made subservient to the g. design Con. 897

See Mercy's g. apocalypse displayed! H. 448 G. Metropolitan of all the tribe P.E. 186 Swallow the two g. nostrums they dispense P.E. 594 No g. inquisitor could worse invent T. 103 The g. retreat from injuries impressed T. i 280 As God's ambassador, the g. concerns T. ii 464 Views him in all; ascribes to the g. cause T. iii 226 The g. effect; acknowledges with joy T. iii 227 Or do we grind her still? The g. debate T. iv 30 Are g., no doubt, and worthy of the Word T. v 555 Be most sublimely good, verbosely g. T. v 678 More g. than it produces year by year T. vi 120

GRANDEUR.

Or what he views of beautiful or g. T. vi 249

The g, transition, that there lives and works T, vi 184

Riches have wings, and g. is a dream T. iii 263 With modest g. in thy purple zone T. iv 257 Long wavy wreaths T. v 158 For g, or for use. On human g. and the courts of kings T. v 172But borrows all its g, from the soul Tir. 10 But thou, it seems (what cannot g. do V. 43 Of modest g, and declension, thence Y.O.89Of g. that ensures respect 1789, 69

GRANDMAMMAS.

Your prudent g., ye modern belles R. 515 GRANT.

But g. the plea, and let it stand for just Ch. 196

No!—there I g. the privilege I claim Con 98 GRATIFY. I g. it dangerous, and approve your fear Con. 653 "Oh! g., kind Heaven to me Miss — 66 Too often rails to g, his spleen Ch, 500 To g. a fretful passion M.F. 85 G. me discernment, and I g. it you P.E. 535 And g. no curious eyes Q.V. 39 "To g, the hunger of his wish T. v 637 To g, the frenzy of his wrath T. vi 387 Is but to g, an itching ear T. vi 648 Heaven g. us no such future sight Q.V. 79 Oh! g. a poet leave to recommend R. 541 Though one, I g. it, in the generous breast R. 721 But g. me still a friend in my retreat R. 741 Merely to g. so blind a guide? Tir. 864 \underline{G} . her indebted to what scalots call T. 483 To wait the close of all? But g, her end T, ii 65 G. it: -I still must envy them an age T. iv 529 While G, and Love made service sweet Ch. 233 Or covet more than freemen choose to g. T. v 340 Hour after hour, thy g, and love Ex, 561 And tremble at vain dreams? Heaven g. I may! T.v492 That g, and temperance in our use Ex, 676 Which monarchs cannot g, nor all the powers T. \vee 540 To take with g, what heaven bestows H. 430 The spur is powerful, and I g. its force Tir. 482 Till G. grew vocal in the praise R. 555 I g. that men continuing what they are T.T. 9 What fear he feels his g. inspires T. 190 Has he a world of g. and love? T. 208 I g. the sarcasm is too severe T.T. 103Sing where you please; in such a cause I g. T.T. 298 Thine unsuspecting g, and love T, iii 348 But if he g. a friend, that boon possessed V. 91 Its g., and thanks him with its sweets T. iii 623 Exciting oft our g, and love T, iv 182 GRANTED. Can move or warp; and g, for small T, vi 629 Either his g, shall hold him fast Tir, 898 'Tis g., and no plainer truth appears P.E. 353 Only by g, and glowing thought T.T. 587 As Time improves the g.'s authentic juice Con. 643 GRATUITY. 'Tis not alone the g.'s enticing juice P.E. 271 A slight g. atones for all T. 288 GRATULATE. Now stoops upon it, and now g, the prey P.E. 334 To g, the new-created earth T, v 820 G. seeming Happiness, and find it Pain R. 756 GRATULATIONS. In tempests; quits his g, upon the winds T, ii 181 Angelic g. rend the skies T. 587 He climbs, he pants, he g. them! At his heels T. iv 60 A comprehensive faculty that g. T. v 251Of g, and delight, her King? T, ii 84 GRAVE. GRASPED. [125 So his lordship decreed, with a g. solemn tone A. C. So swarmed the Sabine youth, and g, the shield A.T.Thy pomp is in the g., thy glory laid Ch. 71 But slavery!—Virtue dreads it as her g. Ch. 168 He g. the mane with both his hands J.G. 91 Shines as it runs, but g. at, slips away P.E. 22 And land some g, optician on the shore Ch, 384 GRASPING. Hearing a lawyer, g, in his address Con. 69 That he who dares, when she forbids, be g. Con. 475 G. without dulness, learned without pride Con. 609 But feels while g. at his faded joys R. 478 GRASS. As some g. gentleman in Terence says E. iii 6 Whose bridle, while he cropped the g. below A.T. 173For matters of more g. import E. iv 66 Thick overspread with moss and silky g. N.A. 2Must soon partake his g. Ep. ii 44 But, g. dissemblers! could not understand Ex. 159 And now in the g. behold they are laid P.F. 7 In matted g., that with a livelier green T. 195 All flesh is g., and all its glory fades T. iii 261 Of all that g, apologists may write Ex, 883 'Tis g. Philosophy's absurdest dream H. 65 Perhaps a g. physician, gathering fees H. 208 Her g. concern, her kind suspicions, there H. 516 And coarser g., upspearing o'er the rest T. v 23 Of treeship—first a seedling hid in g. Y.O. 61 Dismissed with g_{\cdot} , not haughty looks Mrs. M - 38GRASSHOPPERS. To save our life leap all into the g.! N.A. 108For many a g, and learned clerk P. 31 As g., as dust, a drop, a dream? Ex. 345 Happiest g. that are Trans. iii 20 You speak very fine, and you look very g. P.A. 29 Manly designs, and learning's g. pursuits R. 242 While the poor g. must chirp below T.T. 577 Seeming a sanctuary, proves a g. R. 736GRASSY. A poet's cat, sedate and g. R.C. 1Of g. swarth, close cropped by nibbling sheep T. i 110 Have found their home, the g. St. i 4 The g, admits no cure for guilt or sin St, ii 30 GRATE. And the next opening g, may yawn for you St, ii 36Soon passed the wiry g. G. 12Soon the g. must be your home St. iv 15 How does it g. upon his thankless ear T. 465 Think on the g. where He was laid St. v 35 Well latticed—but the g. alas! T.B. 25 Than some g. sinners upon English ground T. 292 With youthful smiles, descends towards the g. T. i 407 GRATEFUL. Or make his house his g.: nor so contend T. ii 147 Nor g, eglantine regales the smell H, 471 Yet what can satire, whether g. or gay? T. ii 315 That they proceeded from a g. heart T. 580 I would express him simple, $g_{\cdot \cdot}$, sincere T_{\cdot} ii 899 [868] Cheer all their seasons with a g. smile T. i 622 So g. to the palate, and when rare T. iii 447 That g, and learned clerks should need such aid T, ii The rest are sober dreamers, g. and wise T. iii 187 And we that worship him, ignoble g. T. iii 265 Here also g. mixture of well matched T. iii 633 From which at least a g, few derive T. $\forall i$ 965 If I survive thee, I will dig thy g. T. iii 349 Of our forefathers—a g., whiskered race T. iii 768 But wholesome, well digested; g. some T. vi 1014 And spades, the emblem of untimely $g.\ T.\ iv\ 219$ Less dainty than becomes his $g.\ outside\ T.\ iv\ 605$

Like that which sends him to the dusty g. T. v 609

GRATIFIED. Are g. with mischief, and who spoil $T. \vee 191$ Of theological and g. import) $T. \nabla 662$ "And hasting to a g., yet doomed to rise $T. \vee 830$ With melting airs, or martial, brisk or g. T. vi 3 Who form'd him from the dust, his future $g.\ T.\ vi\ 349$ Of such a gulf as he designed his g. T. vi 515The next mere dust and ashes in the g. Tir. 60 GRAVED

And g, it on a gem and wore it next his heart A. T. 22 GRAVELLY.

My g. bounds, from self to human kind F.A. 20 Washed by the sea, or on the g. bank T. i 13 GRAVEN.

A deep memorial g, on their hearts Con, 514 GRAVER.

Once more I would adopt the g. style Ch. 489 A g. fact, enlisted on your side Con. 205 A g. coxcomb we may sometimes see Con. 295 And, like the g.'s memory, pass away Con. 552 Its brisker and its g, strains fall short R. 294 A jarring note. Themes of a g, tone T, iv 181 Was but the g. countenance of love T. vi 32 GRAVEST.

May teach the gayest, make the g. smile Tir. 138 GRAVING.

The wall on which we tried our g. skill Tir. 300 GRAVITATION.

GRAVITY.

And sordid g, of his powers T, v 588

"No need," he ories, " of g., stuffed out H. 105 If apostolic q, be free P.E. 146 In spite of g, and sage remark T, v 12 and with a g. beyond the size T. vi 654 Boys as ye were, the g. of men Tir. 272

GRAZE. He finds the pasture where his fellows g. Ch. 179 Like theirs that cleave the flood or g. the field Con. 428 And turned into the park or mead to g. R. 627 [785 Brutes g. the mountain-top, with faces prone T. v. G. with the fearless flocks; all bask at noon T. vi 774

GRAZED. Sheep g. the field; some with soft bosom pressed The sheep recumbent, and the sheep that g. N.A. 47 With verdure not unprofitable, g. T. iv 317That g, it stood beneath that ample cope Y. O. 54

GREASED If Tom be sober, and the wheels well g. P.E. 439

GREAT. With a g. deal of skill, and a wig full of learning Guns, halberts, swords and pistols, g. and small Ch.551A g. retailer of this curious ware Con. 229 In musings worthy of the g. event Con. 510 That g. defect would cost him, not alone Con. 763 G. changes and new manners have occurred Con. 803 As needs they must, from g. to small! E. i. 80 The g, and small but rarely meet F. 115 Honesty shines with g, advantage there H. 402 Their g, inspirer call J.P. 30 The happiest of the g. M.B. 16 'Tis woven in the world's g. plan Miss - 45 The g., the gay, shall they partake O. ii 13 His g, improvement and new lights he draws P.E.402At least are friendly to the g. pursuit R. 146 Thus laden, dream that they are rich and g. R.155 Be thou the g. inspirer of my strains R. 202 Cause to provide for a g. future day R. 652 All such as manly and g, souls produce R, 699 The man who dreams himself so g. R.C. 111

Envy, ye g., the dull unlettered small T. 375

When the g. Sovereign would his will express T. 551 He, not unlike the g ones of mankind T i 274 G. skill have they in palmistry, and more T. i 570

And Wolfe's g. name compatriot with his own T. ii 238 How g, the danger of disturbing her T, iii 35

G. contest follows, and much learned dust T. iii 161 Of oracles like these? G. pity too T. iii 169 [185] G. crimes alarm the Conscience, but it sleeps T. iii

Of the g. Babel, and not feel the crowd T. iv 90 Runs the g. circuit, and is still at home T. iv 119 Yet show that thou hast mercy, which the g. T.iv 371

The g proficiency he made abroad T iv 654 But slighted as it is, and by the g. T. iv 691 Some must be g. G. offices will have T. iv G. offices will have T. iv 788

G. talents: and God gives to every man T. iv 789 When Babel was confounded, and the g. T. v 193 G. purposes with ease, that turns and wields T. v 252 The g. artificer of all that moves T. vi 207 [T. v177 G. princes have g. playthings. Some have played Then let the supercilious g, confess T, vi 967 The wisdom of g. nations, now no more Tir. 16 [34]

G. schools suit best the sturdy and the rough Tor. The g. indeed, by titles, riches, birth Tir. 346 Deems his reward too g. if he prevail Tir. 479 G. schools rejected then, as those that swell Tir.501The g, and small deserve one common blame Tir.515

To improve this diet, at no g. expense Tir. 628 G. cause occurs to save him from a band Tir. 696 Deem it of no g. moment whose or where Tir. 784 Securely placed between the small and g. Tir. 808 G. titles, offices, and trusts disgraced Tir. 816 See g. commanders making war a trade Tir. 821G. lawyers, lawyers without study made Tiv. 822 A g. frequenter of the church Tran. ii 3 He sees that this g. roundabout Tran. ii 25

The little and the g. Trans. H. 9 What follows next, let cities of g. name T. T. 430 Or, having whelped a prologue with g. pains T.T.536Be g_{\cdot} , be feared, be envied, be admired V_{\cdot} 16 Whoever undertakes a friend's g. part V. 59 The g. and little of thy lot, thy growth Y.0.87

GREATER. And raised thyself, a g., in their stead? Ez. 367

GREATEST. The g. oft originate) could Chance T. ii 168

GREATLY. I pity them g., but I must be mum P.A. 5 So God has g. purposed; who would else T. vi 820

Philosophy indeed on G. eyes Ex. 227 And these the G., in ennobling strains T. iii 454

GREECE.

Not the proud monuments of G. or Rome Ch. 302 There he was copious as old G. or Rome Con. 621 To Gaul, to G., and into Noah's ark R. 694 Of Light Divine. But Egypt, G., and Rome T. ii 500 He sunk in G., in Italy he rose T.T. 563 Anacreon, Horace, played in G. and Rome T.T.608

GREEDY.

Noisome, and ever g, to exhaust T, iii 671GREEK.

The little G, look trembling at the scales H, 195 Leuconomus (beneath well sounding G.-H. 554 We give some Letin, and a smatch of G.-P.E. 365 If stubborn G. refuse to be his friend P.E. 498 Small skill in Latin, and still less in G.—Tir. 385 Tis not enough that G, or Roman page Tir. 605

GREEN.

And phillyrea of a golden g. A.T. 88

Storms but enliven its unfading g. Ch. 576 No longer fruitful, and no longer g. Con. 52 F626 When some g. heads, as void of wit as thought Con. (As Irish bogs are always g.) F. 122 The yellow tilth, g. meads, rocks, rising grounds H. The rose or lily appears blue or g. H. 72Refreshes, where it winds, the faded g. J.T. 39 And teach her, unexperienced yet and g. P.E. 317 From every window, and the fields are g. R. 498 [571 And Cobham's groves, and Windsor's g. retreats R. G. as the bay tree, ever g. St. i 17 [R. 421 G. balks and furrowed lands, the stream that spreads His radiant glories, azure, g., and gold T. 61 To the close copse, or far sequestered g. T. 69In matted grass, that with a livelier g. T. 195 Induced a splendid cover, g. and blue T. i 32
'Tis perched upon the g. hill top, but close T. i 222 Our foot half sunk in hillocks \hat{g} , and soft T, i 272 Of deeper g, the elm; and deeper still T, i 312 Now $g_{\cdot,i}$ now tawny, and ere autumn yet $T_{\cdot,i}$ 319 To gaze at Nature in her g. array T. i 449 Strained through the friendly mats a vivid g. T. iii A flowery island, from the dark g. lawn T. iii 630 A variegated show; the meadows g. T. iv 312 Gladly the thickening mantle; and the g. T. iv 330 The glimpse of a g. pasture, how they cheer T. iv 751 That Nature lives; that sight-refreshing g. T. iv 759 With as much ease as Samson his g. withes T. v 737 "From the g. wave emerging, darts an eye T. v 835 The deep dark g, of whose unvarnish'd leaf T, vi 174 To the g. blade that twinkles in the sun T. vi 251 O'er the g. summit of the rocks, whose base T. vi 496

GREEN-COATED. To raise the prickly and g. gourd T. iii 446 GREENHOUSE.

The g. is my summer seat F.B. 1 Who loves a garden, loves a g. too T. iii 566 GREENSWARD.

If chance at length he find a g. smooth T. iii 7 GREETED.

He soothed with gifts, and g, with a smile Ch. 29 GREETS.

G. with three cheers exulting. At his waist T, i 523 GREW.

Propitious to his fond intent there g. A.T. 80 Till both g. vexed and tired A Tale 22 And where unsightly and rank thistles g. H. 526 The flock g. calm again, and I, the road N.A. 127 The plant he meant g, not far off P. 17 [P.F. 6 Of my favourite field, and the bank where they g. G. quarrelsome, and pecked each other P.T. 57 Soon watery g. her eyes and dim Q.V. 53 Till Gratitude g. vocal in the praise R. 555 [ii 713 Close to his side that pleased him. Learning g. T. 6. stern, and darted a severe rebuke T. ii 720 θ , tremulous, and moved derision more T, ii 729 G. rusty by disuse; and massy gates T. ii 746 [vi 533 His rage g. cool; and pleased perhaps to have earned T. On the flourishing bush where it g. The Rose 8 [129 And some memorial none where once they g. Y.O.

Drew the g. curtain of the fading west Ch. 263 [6 Thus, while g. evening lulled the wind and called F.A. And just when evening turns the blue vault g. H. 79G. dawn appears; the sportsman and his train P.E. 82 Beneath your shades your g. possessor hide R. 368 The evening g, again ensued R. C. 70 [302 Alike yet various. Here the g, smooth trunks T, i And of a wannish g.; the willow such T. i 309 The veteran shows, and gracing a g. beard T. i 406 | Conjecture g. the victims in his paw Ch. 525

There we grow early g, but never wise T, ii 633 That mingles all my brown with sober g. Tir. 144 Thy child shall show respect to thy g. hairs Tir. 880

GREYBEARD.

Pronounced by g. a pernicious dream Ex. 114 G. corrupter of our listening youth P.E. 342

GREYHOUND.

Nor swifter g. follow Ep. ii 2

GRIEF.

Full of rage and full of g. B. 8 G. is itself a medicine, and bestowed Ch. 159 Has one that notices his silent g. Ch. 207That g., sequestered from the public stage Oh. 305 A long immunity from g, and pain Ex. 82 His g. might prompt him with the speech he made E. His g. the world of all her power disarms H. 704 Thee to deplore were g. misspent indeed J.T. 11 Thus g. itself has comforts dear Miss — 53 And while that face renews my filial g. M.P. 17The looks and gestures of their g. and fears N.A. 67 O'erwhelmed at once with wonder, g., and joy R. 593 Despondence, self-deserted in her g. R. 757No womanish or wailing g, has part R. 773 But tears of godly g, ne'er flow within St, ii 32 Feels herself happy amidst all her g. T. 456Cold and yet cheerful: messenger of g. T. iv 13. To him indifferent whether g, or joy T, iv 15 Oh! share Maria's g. T.B. 3

GRIEVANCE.

To stroke the prickly g., and to hang T. \vee 329 GRIEVE.

A beam that aids, but never g, the sight Con. 600 To mortify and g, me F. 213 "G. not, my child, chase all thy fears away!" M.P. 6
G., but alarms me not. I mourn the pride T. iv 102 To astonish and to g, his gazing friends T, iv 655 Yet not to give offence or g. Y.D. 43 [1006 It shall not g, me, then, that once, when called T, vi GRIEVED

Although it g, him sore J, G, 54 Thy maidens g, themselves at my concern M.P. 36 The modest speaker is ashamed and g. T. iv 66 GRIM.

All the g. honours of his ghastly court H. 261 GRIMACE.

Prescribes the theme, the tone, and the g. Con. 464 And finds it a mere mask of sly g. Con. 744 With hollow form, and gesture, and g. Ex. 122

GRIMALKIN.

In old g,'s glaring eyes E, iv 44 GRIN.

And g, with wonder at the jar he makes Con, 902 These move the censure and illiberal g. H. 744But show peculiar light, by many a g. P.E. 383With mouths made only to g. wide and eat R. 309 To court a g., when you should woo a soul T. ii 467 Relaxed into a universal g. T. iv 204

GRIND.

Oppression, labouring hard to g, the poor Ex, 40 And g, his crown beneath her burning wheels! H.652He g. divinity of other days T. ii 362 The grand debate T. iv 30 Or do we g. her still?

GRINDING.

Incessant, clinking hammers, g. wheels T. i 231

The charms of Nature! 'Tis the cruel g. T. iii 826

And g. fists, and unrelenting frowns Ex. 513 GRIST.

The total g. unsifted, husks and all T. vi 108 GROAN.

But when unpacked your disappointment g. Con. 309 G. heavily along the distant road Ex. 58
"Where'er is heard a g. Miss — 88 [g. P.A. 3 What I hear of their hardships, their tortures, their And tortures and g. will be multiplied still P.A. 12 And happiest he that g. beneath his weight R. 156 Will weep indeed, and heave a pitying g. T. 177 Of cheerful days, and nights without a g. T. i 366 The sighs and g. of miserable men! T. v 388 Earth g. beneath the burden of a war T. vi 392 The g. of Nature in this nether world T. vi 729 To echo sigh for sigh, and g. for g. V. 65 GROANED.

Bled, g., and agonized, and died in vain P.E. 624 Job felt it, when he g. beneath the rod R. 303 Hark! universal Nature shook and g. T. 563 GROAT.

And g. per diem, if his patron frown T. iii 821 GROOM.

The noble beast judge otherwise, his g. Con. 414
Prefers his fellow g., with much good sense Con. 417
If neither horse nor g. affect the squire Con. 419
Unmissed but by his dogs and by his g. P.E. 95
In foreign eyes!—be g., and win the plate T. ii 280
The lackey, and the g.: the craftsman there T. iv 474
No spots contracted among g. below Tir. 685
Or throw them up to livery nags and g. Tw. 901

GROSS.

The g. idolatry blind heathens teach H. 499
In g. and pampered cities, sloth, and lust T. i 687
And, charged with putrid verdure, breathe a g. T. ii 97
Like a g. fog Bœotian, rising fast T. iii 495
As this is g. and selfish! over which T. vi 837
Draws g. impurity, and likes it well T. vi 979
Or rather a g. compound, justly tried Tir. 466

GROSSER.

And when unstained with any g. crime Con. 634 That, while thy truths my g. thoughts refine R. 97

GROSSEST.

Of g, nature and of worst effects T, ii 689 GROTTO.

Here g. within g. safe defies T. v 117 GROTTO-WORK.

"You, in your g. enclosed P. 49

GROUND.

Soon her pride shall kiss the g. B. 19
Or building hospitals on English g.? Ch. 44
And honest Merit stands on slippery g. Ch. 284
A disputable point is no man's g. Con. 99
Sir! I believe it on that g. alone Con. 233
Go seek on Revelation's hallowed g. Con. 499
That, while in health, the g. of her support Con. 771
Where once intoxication pressed the g. Con. 808
Then lifts it gently from the g. E. iv 57
With feet too delicate to touch the g. Ex. 52
If either on forbidden g. F. 34
His manna from the g., or starve and die F.A. 38
The yellow tilth, green meads, rocks, rising g. H. 46
Gethsemane! in thy dear, hallowed g. H. 297
I plant my foot upon this g. of trust H. 369

On Scripture g, are sure to disagree H. 599 With what materials, on what $g_{.}$, you please H. 615 And shake with fury to the $g_{.}$ J.P. 11 Wild roses over furrowed g. Mrs. M. -He spied far off, upon the g. N.G. 8 And pleased at heart, because on holy g. T. 232 Shakes it again, and faster, to the g. T. 241Than some grave sinners upon English g. T. 292In science, win one inch of heavenly g. T. 338 Grow frantic with her pangs, and bite theg. T. 444 There, lost behind a rising g., the wood T. i 305 I would not have a slave to till my g. T. ii 29 That we might try the g. again, where once T. vi 29 He cannot skim the g. like summer birds T. vi 921 I snapped it, it fell to the g. The Rose 12 Comes heaviest to the g. Trans. H. 15 Where most they flourish upon English g. T.T. 337 He trod the very selfsame g. you tread T.T. 388 A skilful guide into poetic g.! T.T. 717 GROUNDED.

To pitch the ball into the g. hat Tir. 308 GROUNDLESS.

And all her love of God a g. claim Con. 781

GROUP.

"There," said his guide, "the g. is full in view" T.T. And gathering, at short notice, in one g. T. iv 136

Sounds H. 45 Banks clothed with flowers, g. filled with sprightly Fear seized the trembling sex; in every g. A.T. 97But $g_{\cdot,i}$ hills, and valleys diffuse $C_{\cdot,i}$ 39 Some through the g., some down the sloping hills Ch. To consecrate our few remaining g. Con. 826 Of eastern g., and oceans floored with ice Ez. 16 The fragrant g., the inestimable mine H.177 [H.74] Rocks, g., and streams, must join him in his praise No g. have ye; nor cheerful sound of bird H. 469 The blooming g, that girdled her around Her, 6 The g., and the sequestered shed O. ii 17 Ere another such g, shall arise in its stead P.F. 16 ln many an orchard, copse, and g. P.T. 13 Where mountain, river, forest, field, and g. R. 29 To them the deep recess of dusky g. R. 181 Nor gales that catch the scent of blooming g. R. 337"Ye g.," (the statesman at his deak exclaims R. 365 And Cobham's g., and Windsor's green retreats R.571 G., heaths, and smoking villages, remote T. i 176 No tree in all the g. but has its charms T. i 307 To narrow bounds. The G, receives us next T. i 354 And least be threatened in the fields and g. P T. i 753 Our g, were planted to console at noon T, i 760 With all her vines; nor for Ausonia's g. T. ii 214 Who dream they have a taste for fields and g. T iii 317And g., if unharmonious yet secure T. iii 734 Those naked acres to a sheltering g. T. iii 773 His favourite herb; while all the leafless g. T. iv 319 From courts dismiss'd, found shelter in the g. T. iv519 To each some province, garden, field, or g. T. vi 237 Thy g, and lawns then witness'd! Everyheart T.vi372

Of the same g., and drink one common stream T. vi 776 And Saba's spicy g., pay tribute there T. vi 807 GROVELLING.

While yet thou wast a g., puling chit Ez. 474
GROW.

G. fungous, and takes fire at every spark Con. 54
That good diffused may more abundant g. Con. 443
Though Time will wear us, and we must g. old Con.639
The rich g. poor, the poor become purse-proud H.18
G. drowsy as the clicking of a clock H. 104 [18]
Can gold g. worthless that has stood the touch? E. iii

s Hope exotic? G. it not at home? H. 549 see thee daily weaker g. M. 6)id plants called sensitive g. there?" P. 22 To make them g, just where she chooses P. 24 should droop and wither where they g. P. 59 30 coin g. smooth, in traffic current passed P.E. 279 But we, as if good qualities would g. P.E. 363 Where all good qualities g. sick and die R. 738

shall g. the myrtle, and luxuriant yew" H. 527

3., by being oft expressed St. iv 23 Pride may be pampered while the flesh g. lean T. 117 It thrives in misery, and abundant g. T. 125 frantic with her pangs, and bite the ground T.

Kills too the flowery weeds where'er they g. T. 461 G. fluid; and the fixed and rooted earth T. ii 100 G. wanton, and give proof to every eye T. ii 443 Since Heaven would g. weary of a world T. ii 583 There we g. early grey, but never wise T. ii 633

The pattern g., the well depicted flower T. iv 151 G conscious of a change, and likes it well T iv 638 Conscious of impotence they soon g. drunk $T. \times 255$ And Learning wiser g. without his books T. vi 87

G. on the gamester's elbows, and the alert T. iii 761

But if Authority g. wanton, wee T.T.G. freakish, and o'erleaping every mound T.T.The reprobated race g, judgment-proof T.T.The stock whereon it g. U. 16

GROWING.

That dread the encroachment of our g, streets R. 482 A g. dread of vengeance at his heels T. 258 And g. old in drawing nothing up!" T. iii 190 The g. seeds of wisdom; that suggest T. iii 302 The g, wonder takes a thousand shapes T, v 119 No nourishment to feed his g. mind Tir. 618

GROWL'D.

Or g, defiance in such angry sort T. vi 377

GROWN. G. dim in trifling studies, blind he dies Ch. 358 [741

The world g. old, her deep discernment shows Con. And he g. chaste that was the slave of lust Con. 810 The law g. clamorous, though silent long T. 261 Thus often Unbelief, g. sick of life T. 445 Society, g. weary of the load T. iv 498 Can even now when they are g. mature T. v 296 Patriots are g. too shrewd to be sincere T. v 495 (Himself g. sober in the vale of tears) T. vi 48 6. so familiar with her frequent guest T. vi 306 Of filial frankness lost, and love g. faint Tir. 588 When infamous Venality g. bold T.T. 416

And having known thee bearded and full g. V. 37Though but a dream) art g. disdainful too V. 44 GROWTH. Its fruit on earth, its g. above the skies Ch. 578

Their noxious g., starve every better seed R. 44 Straitening its g, by such a strict embrace R, 234 Pride has attained its most luxuriant g. T. 115 No soil like poverty for g. divine T. 363 Pride, of a g. superior to the rest T. 475 "Is virtue then, unless of Christian g. T. 515The g. of what is excellent, so hard T. i 84 Of ancient g., make music not unlike T. i 185 With foliage of such dark redundant g. T. i 226 Diversified with trees of every g. T. i 301 Binds all his faculties, forbids all g. T. i 613 And succulent, that feeds its giant g. T. iii 418 [529 And interdicts its g. Thence straight succeed T. iii large g, of what may seem the sparkling trees $T \cdot v \cdot 112$ And of an humbler g., the other tall T. vi 152 To such gigantic and enormous g. T. vi 882 If unrestrained, into luxuriant g. T. vi 598

Else of a mannish g_{-} , and five in ten Tir. 208 Of the mere schoolboy's lean and tardy g. Tir. 657 The g, that Nature meant she should attain T.T.263To the delicate g. of our isle W.N. 2 But Fate thy g. decreed; autumnal rains Y.O. 23 And, all the elements thy puny g. Y.O. 38 The great and little of thy lot, thy g. Y.O. 87

GRUB.

As little mercy as the g. and worms? $Cos. 280 \lceil 90 \rceil$ Where neither g., nor root, nor earth-nut now T. v GRUDGE.

G. not, ye rich, (since Luxury must have T. iii 544 G. not the cost. Ye little know the cares T. iii 547 And reaped their plenty without g. or strife T. v 2.33GRUDGING.

From g, hands; but other boast have none T, iv 404 GRUDGINGLY.

Trouble is g, and hardly brooked Ch. 218

GRUMBLE.

And you might $g_{\cdot \cdot}$, crony mine E_{\cdot} iv 25 GUARD.

"But g. thee well, expect no feigned attack A.T. 189 "And g, behind the sorceress at thy back!" A.T. 190

Remember, if He g, thee and secure Ex. 700 While all his purposes and steps to g. P.E. 41And g, it with a sanction as severe T, 553 The most important and effectual g. T. ii 835 Devises, while he g. his tender trust T. iii 561 Nor does the boarded hovel better g. T. iv 443 To invade another's rights, or g, their own T, iv 560 To administer, to g., to adorn the state T. v 342

To g. them, and to immortalize her trust T. v 711And Equity: not jealous more to g. T. $\forall i$ 850 Keep Vice restrained behind a double g. T.T. 66 G. what you say; the patriotic tribe T.T. 83 If g., mechanically formed in ranks T.T. 135

G. well what Arts and Industry have won T.T. 280 To g, the Peace that Riot would disturb T.T. 315 Ye patriots, g. it with a miser's care T.T. 335

-g. him better. Is he not thine own Tir. 873 But, if thou g. its sacred chambers sure Tir. 891 GUARDED.

Its head as g, as its base is sure Con, 556 Had sought to crush them, g. as they were Ex. 205Is kept and g. as a sacred thing T. v 804

GUARDIAN.

She speaks of Him, her author, g., friend Ch. 399 And constituted g, of his cause Ex, 200 Yet blessed the g. care that kept M. ii 7 Whatever parents, $g_{\cdot \cdot}$, schools, intend P.E. 424 And Justice, g. of the dread command T. 277

GUDGEONS. Minnows and g. gorge the unwholesome food P.E.

GUERDON. Should be the g. of a noble deed Ch. 293

To g, and spell what it contains E, i 52 Or g., with a prophetic power E. i 71 Or lively fancy g. Miss — 104

GUESSED.

Yet, by his ear directed, g. R.C. 83 [447 Whose scent and hues are rather g. than known Tir. GUEST.

GUESS.

The new acquaintance soon became a g. Con. 531 But g. that sought it in the appointed One H. 307 O welcome g., though unexpected here! M.P. 12 With which the fieldfare, wintry g., is fed N.A. 20 Come, peace of mind. delightful g.! O. ii 1 To be a g. with them? O. ii 18 When the glad soul is made Heaven's welcome g. Man, Nature's g. by invitation sweet P.E. 209 Is but a transient $g_{\cdot,i}$ newly arrived $T_{\cdot,i}$ iii 750 Grown so familiar with her frequent g. T. vi 306 Nor heed what g. there enter and abide Tir. 888 Inoffensive, welcome g.! Trans. iii 10

GUIDE.

She g, the finger o'er the dancing keys Ch. 109 He feels his need of an unerring g. Ch. 346 Philosophy, without his heavenly g. Ch. 375 And let them g, you to a decent end Con. 220 Wherever chance, caprice, or fancy g. Con. 794 That g, and governs our affections E, i 35 Creates, gives birth to, g., consummates all Ex. 315 Unless a zeal for virtue g, the blow Ex. 437 Makes Justice still the g. of his career Ex. 715 To g. our use of it, is all in all H. 482 Which served my weak thought for a g. M.D. 44 "True," answered an angelio g. Mor. 39 Might be supposed to clamour for a g. N.A. 98 (Try the criterion, 'tis a faithful g.) P.E. 514First put it out, then take it for a g. P.E. 559 Instruct me, g, me to that heavenly day R. 95 Thy genuine charms, and g. an artless hand R. 204 The g, to pleasures which can never cease S, ii 14 He that would win the race, must g. his horse T. 13 That g, the Christian in his swifter race T. 534 Consulted and obeyed, to g. his steps T. v 674 "Ordained to g, the embodied spirit home T, v 840 A skilful g. into poetic ground! T.T. 717 [97 "There," said his g., "the group is full in view "T.T. G. the decision of a doubtful choice Tr. 34 And g. the progress of the soul to God Tir. 146 Merely to gratify so blind a g.? Tir. 864 To modern times, with Truth to g. 1789, 11

GUIDED.

With nice incision of her g, steel T, i 708

GUIDING.

So may your g. angel give Miss — 95 GUIDO.

The difference of a G. from a daub T. vi 285

Where covert g, and artifice abound Ch, 285 The clown, the child of nature, without g. T. iv 623

Deep in ruin as in g. B. 16

To bind the lawless, and to punish g. Ch. 281 With all the g. of such unnatural war Con. 188 The grave admits no cure for g. or $\sin St$. ii 30 Her tale of g, renews St, v 22 Γ876 Gods such as g. makes welcome; gods that sleep T. v Stand chargeable with g., and to the shafts T. ii 155 Or stained with g., beneficent, approved T. vi 998 Preserved from g. by salutary fears Tir. 111 On selfish principles, is shame and g. T.T. 2

GUILTIER.

Far g. England! lest he spare not thee T. ii 160

GUILTIEST.

"The g. still are ever least ashamed A.T. 188

GUILTLESS.

Nor g. of corrupting other men R. 382 G. of pampered appetite obscene) T. i 104 Admits me to a share: the g. eye T. i 333 Should seek the g. joys that I describe T. iii 698 Upon the g. passenger o'erthrown T. vi 424 And g. of offence, they range the air T. vi 575

GUILTY.

Too just to wink, or speak the g. clear" Ez. 256 He finds his fellow g, of a skin T. ii 12 A messenger of grace to g. men T. ii 407 And none than we more g. But where all T. ii 154 In g. splendour, shake the public ways T. iii 70 Cannot indeed to g, man restore T, iii 677 Or harms them there is g, of a wrong T, vi 578 [597 By which Heaven moves in pardoning g, man \hat{T} , \vec{v} Or g. soon relenting into tears Tir. 112 The g. and not g., both alike T.T. 102 Are but his rods to scourge a g. land T.T. 450

GUINEA. Slides g, behind g, in his palm Ch, 474

GUISE. Came, not expected in that humble g. Ez. 87 This more than monster in his proper g. H. 573 In merry g, he spoke J.G. 172

GULF.

Lethman g, receive them as they fall B.B.7And whelmed in deeper g. than he Cast. 66 And in the g, of her Cornubian mines H. 458 Wide yawns a g. beside a ragged thorn N.A. 14 The g. of death triumphant passed St. iii 31 We pass a g. in which the willows dip T. i 268 And drown him in her dry and dusty g. T. ii 149 And wantons in the pebbly g. below T. \forall 103 Of such a g. as he designed his grave T. \forall 1515 Down to the g. from which is no return T.T. 465

He does not swallow, but he g. it down Com. 340 And all thine embryo vastness, at a g. Y.O. 22 GULPHS.

He g. the windy diet, and ere long T. \vee 269

GUMS.

Her sweetest flowers, her aromatic q. T. ii 86 [551 GUNS.

G., halberts, swords and pistols, great and small Ch. GURTON.

Dame G. thus, and Hodge her son E. iv 39

GUST.

Such writers and such readers owe the g. P.E. 329 But swelled into a g.—who then, alas! T. ii 485 He drinks his simple beverage with a g. T.T. 240

GUY.

G. Earl of Warwick and fair Eleanore Con. 243

GUZZLING.

But knew no medium between g. beer R. 601 Of Indian fume, and g. deep, the boor T. iv 473

GYMNASTIC.

A form, not now g. as of yore T. ii 591

H.

HABIT.

rend tutor, clad in h. lay P.E. 371 n assumed, but when we strive P.E. 582 h. choke the unfruitful heart R. 41 e attention, thinking heads R. 705 inveterate h., all forbid T. i 490 stlier than Lucullus wore T. ii 596 confirm his h., rivet fast T. ii 767 luxurious city-life T. iv 745 f profuse and lewd expense Tir. 350 ination, temper, taste Tir. 441 us h. as disgrace his name Tir. 531 h. and decided taste Tir. 778

HABITATIONS.

r tyrants' h. N.C. 39

HABITUAL.

me cushion of h. sloth T. iv 598

HACKED.

[Tir. 303] angled, h., and bewed, not yet destroyed

HACKNEYS.

h. in the schooling trade Tir. 62I

HACKNEYED.

ness, wearied at that oar R. 1 e unlackeyed; who, in haste T. ii 652 rn to the last flimsy thread T.T. 727 me too from theirs whose h. eyes T. i 501 red land! a desert where A Tale 65 isdom h. them, heedless of her call Ch. 406 hat h. you Tom or Jack F. 169 s rising moon, have charms for me T. 206 clergy, and, defying shame T. ii 356 ore, patroness of health and ease T. iv 780 des unknown : H., rural life! T. iv 783 ning volley, blossom-bruising h. T. v 141 old then; and, Hopkins, h.! Amen T.T. 760 if storms of h. Y.D. 54

HAGGARD.

HAIR.

hat's strangled by a h. A Fable 35 wed, and wadded with h. Gr. 11 r look one h. the worse M.F. 24 wanton with her h. R.C. 32 h., and weeds of canvass dressed T. 81 felto, with his h. on end T. iv 86 red h. with sleet like ashes filled T. iv 121 their h. with daisies, or to pick T. vi 303 shall show respect to thy gray h. Tir. 880

HAIR-BRAINED.

y h. proselyte he makes P.E. 491

HAIR-BREADTH.

spes, and all his daring schemes Tir. 230

HALBERTS.

words and pistols, great and small Ch. 551

HALCYONS.

y h. dive into the main T.T. 566

HALE.

[258]

HALF.

Made h. their maids, sans ceremony, wives A.T. 128 And find submission more than h. a cure Ch. 158 He h. exhibits, and then drops the sum Ch. 478 Makes h. a sentence at a time enough Con. 246 And h. the night? fanatic and absurd! Con. 578 But h. a coat, and show his bosom bare E. iii 51 Can ne'er be deemed worth h. so much E. iv 29 The palace were but h. complete F. 166 All these are not h. that I owe Gr. 41 Till h. the world comes rattling at his door H. 77 To thrive in, an incumbrance ere h. spent H. 98 Yet h. mankind maintain a churlish strife H. 822 Spent h. the darkness, and snored out the rest H. 510 And bore the pelting scorn of h. an age H. 557 His noonday beams were never h. so bright H. 737 Time has but h. succeeded in his theft M.P. 120 And prove their owner h. divine" P. 64 Thus having wasted h. the day P.B. 11 But being cankered now, and h. worn out P.E. 393 Till h. mankind were like himself possessed P.E. 471 And therefore prints, himself but h. deceived P.E.492And hate the tumult h, the world enjoys R, 176 Or h. so clear, as in the rural scene R. 456 Of h, the toils they must encounter there R, 610 H. open in the topmost chest R.C. 40 His ship h. foundered, and his compass lost T. 2 She, h. an angel in her own account T. 149 She, never heard of h. a mile from home T. 334 Our foot h. sunk in hillocks green and soft T. i 272 Till h. their beauties fade; the weary sight T. i 510 A prince with h. his people! Ancient towers T. ii 121 To insure a side box station at h, price T, ii 624 Plunging, and h. despairing of escape T. iii 6 With the vain stir. I sum up h. mankind T. iii 130 And add two-thirds of the remaining h. T. iii 131 That seems h.quenched in the immense abyss T.iii 216 H. so refined or so sincere as ours T. iv 206 H. so refined or so sincere as ours T. iv 206 [545] His dainties, and the World's more numerous h. T. iii For more than h, the tresses it sustains T, iv 544 The joy h. lost, because not sooner found T, iv 717 Screens them, and seem h. petrified to sleep T. v 28And tail cropped short, h. lurcher and h. cur T. v 46The feathered tribes domestic. H. on wing T. \forall 62 And h. on foot, they brush the fleecy flood T. \forall 63 Is cause of h. the poverty we feel T. vi 52 [vi 78] With slender notes, and more than h. suppressed T. Thus, h. accomplished ere he yet begin Tir. 234 Claims more than h. the praise as his due share Tir. 528 Some h. a dozen, and some h. a score Tir. 695 With h. the chariots and sedans in town Tir. 748 H. a span, compared with thee Trans. iii 32 The deeds that men admire as h. divine T.T. 3 Proportioned well, h. muscle and h. bone T.T. 219 Religion weaves for her, and h. undressed T.T. 723 Take h. thy canvass in Trans. H. 36 Sifts h. the pleasures of short life away Y.O. 32 H. a millennium since the date of thine Y.O. 136

HALF-A-CROWN.

She pulled out h. J.G. 216

HALF-DIGESTED.

Of voided pulse or h. grain T. v 95

HALF-EATEN.

Lodged on the shelf, h. without sauce T. iv 394 HALF-SHUT.

H.! for deep discernment praised T. iii With h. eyes, and puckered cheeks, and teeth T. iv

HALF-WITHERED.

A girdle of h. shrubs he shows T. i 524

HALL.

Even till his spacious h, would hold no more H. 309 The snug, close party, or the splendid h. P.E. 176 And such in ancient h, and mansious drear T. i 24 In colleges and h., in ancient days T. ii 699 So colleges and h, neglected much T. ii 731

HALLOO.

Nor ear heard huntsman's h. Ep. ii 4

HALLOWED.

Go seek on Revelation's h. ground Con. 499
Bad men, profaning friendship's h. name Con. 683
Or his, who touched their hearts with h. fires? Ex. 659
Gethsemane! in thy dear, h. ground H. 297
To hear plain truth at Judah's h. gate H. 763
So'twas a h. time: decorum reign'd T. vi 691
And every h. Druid was a bard T.T. 503
The h. bench from absolute contempt Tir. 431

HALT.

Though h., and weary of the path they tread T. i 471

HALTING.

Old Winter, h. o'er the mead N. 13 H. on crutches of unequal size P.E. 560

HAMILTON.

And many a tomb, like H.'s aloud Ep. i 9

HAMLET

Village, or h., of this merry land T. iv 467 Or wrap himself in H.'s inky cloak T. vi 675

HAMMER.

How I shall h. out a letter E. iv 34 Incessant, clinking h., grinding wheels T. i 231 No sound of h. or of saw was there T. v 145 Oft as the price-deciding h. falls T. vi 291

HAMMOCK.

Slips to his h., and forgets the blast R. 436

HAMPDENS.

For which our H. and our Sidneys bled T. v 486

HAND.

An arbour near at h. of thickest yew A.T. 81 The trumpet now spoke Marmadan at h. A.T. 161 "To horse!" he cried, "or by this good right h.A.T.169 Drop one by one from Fame's neglecting h. B.B. 6 The h. that slew till it could slay no more Ch. 49 Art thou the God, the thunder of whose h. Ch. 75 But overcharges her capacious h. Ch. 100 Dagger in h., steals close to your bedside Ch. 187 He from whose h. alone all power proceeds Ch. 208 Begone! the whip and bell in that hard h. Ch. 212 Built by no mercenary vulgar h. Ch. 257 Heaven held his h., the likeness must be true Ch. 434 To see a God stretch forth his human h. Ch. 581 To take his honour's orders, cap in h. Con. 416 Had not his Maker's all-bestowing h. Con. 429 But let the wise and well instructed h. Con. 903 Escaped my eager h. D.W. 20The h. of the Supremely Wise E. i 34 Though duly from my h, he took Ep, ii 9 Uplifted h., that, at convenient times Ex. 147 That Sin let loose speaks Punishment at h. Ex. 160 Display with busy and laborious h. Ex. 163 Seized fast his h., held out to set them free Ex.219Provoke the vengeance of his righteous h. Ex. 253 As if, like arches built with skilful h. Ex. 286 As a mere instrument in h. divine Ex. 319

Weighing them in the hollow of his h. Ex. 343 For ages safe beneath his sheltering h. Ez. 563 Till I, with slow and cautions h. F.B. 29 Seem the work of Mulciber's h. Gr. 40 Riches are passed away from h. to h. H. 11 And while she takes, as at a father's h. H. 157 Till the best tongue, or heaviest A., prevails # 1 A h. as liberal as the light of day H. 408 A plaything world, unworthy of his h. H. 543 A painter's skill into a poet's h. H. 670 He grasped the mane with both his h. J.G. 91 She seemed designed for Flora's h. L.R. 15 Thy h, their little force resign M. 34 In his h., as the sign of his sway M.D. 2 The scourge he let fall from his h. M.D. 35 And generous Friendship h. in h. Miss - 75 And, staff in h., set forth to share Mor. 9 By thy own h., till fresh they shone and glowed With her chill h., the mellow leaves away N.A. The sacred function, in your h. is made P.E. I Worse than a poniard in the basest A. P.E. 355 Lay bleeding under that soft h. of thine P.E. Whose h, is feeble, or his aim untrue P.E. 571 Thy genuine charms, and guide an artless A. I. The richest earthly boon his h. afford R. 271 Arms hanging idly down, h. clasped below L. A Father's frown, and kiss his chastening A. I Kneels, kisses h., and shines again in place & Shakes h, with business, and retires indeed \mathbf{k} His countenance, his purse, his heart, his A. R. An idler is a watch that wants both h. R. 661 Amusement and true knowledge h. in h. R. 70 Not knowing thee, we reap with bleeding A. L. Death at h.—yourselves his mark St. iv 11 And hides his h, to keep his fingers warm r. Drops the red vengeance from his willing k. T. The poor are near at h., the charge is small ?. The solemn chords, and with a trembling & T. The inferior wonders of an artist's A. T. i 419 But cannot play them, borrows a friend's A.T. Of temperate wishes and industrious h. T. i 30 Presume to lay their h. upon the ark T. ii 231 That fear no discipline of human h. T. ii 325 Whose h. are pure, whose doctrine and whose Preserve the church! and lay not careless k. 7.5 As with the diamond on his lily h. T. ii 424 With handkerchief in h. depending low T. ii 4 The better h., more busy, gives the nose T. ii And mortifies the liberal h. of love T. ii 757 And in his h, and feet, the cruel scars T, iii 114 Yes—thou may'st eat thy bread, and lick the The welcome call, conscious how much the k. T.i Impaired by age, his unrelenting h. T. iii 416 No meaner h. may discipline the shoots T. if And hence even Winter fills his withered h. T. And lightly, shaking it with agile h. T. iii 47 But by a master's h., disposing well T. iii 500 To no mean h., and asks the touch of taste I. And lineaments divine I trace a h. T. iii 722 Treads on thy sweeping train; one h. employed So I, with brush in h. and pallet spread T. iv Sat for the picture; and the poet's h. T. iv One h. secures his hat, save when with both I. And while her infant race with outspread A. T. From grudging h.; but other boast have none? But helpless, in few years shall find their A. 7.3 Perched on the sign-post, holds with even A. T. Indebted to some smart wig-weaver's A. T. iv To all the violence of lawless h. T. iv 591 His milk-white h.; the palm is hardly clean I. And touches of his h., with so much art T.iv To extort their truncheons from the puny & f Till then unfelt, what h. divine have wrought I not enough, the gentle h. T. vi 37 his immediate h., who first T. vi 203 into storms, and with a h. T. vi 269 ye, and catalogue in h. T. vi 288 to the precipice at h. T. vi 512 s, that ask a prodent h. T. vi 591 falls into the public h. T. vi 718 see, her infant's playful h. T. vi 779 spreads abroad the h. T. vi 812 t, rent too by priestly h. T. vi 876 a their h, they roam the earth T. vi 896 is h., whose praise I seek T. vi 1017 gn into a stranger's h. Tir. 551 ng nuisance asks a faithful A. Tir. 601 il him, and so near at h. Tir. 697 h. upon his flaxen head Tir. 848 s. its key is in thine h. Tir. 886 wouldst thou with a Gothic h. Tir. 899 e-The h. of might Trans. i 9 sceptre in such h. misplaced T.T. 39 l and they were h. and glove T.T. 173 ted by Despotism's h. T.T. 258 me inimitable h. T.T. 348 polished neck beneath his h. T.T. 441 t the bidding of his h. T.T. 451 and when Dullness club in h. T.T. 526 rudely from the Muse's h. T.T. 689 tutor charged his h. Y.O. 157

HANDCUFFED.

closeted and h. charge Tir. 819

HANDEL.

gy for H.'s sake T. vi. 637 P Who, that was not born T. vi 645

HAND-IN-HAND.

nce plates F. 106

HANDKERCHIEF. d depending low T. ii 450

HANDLED.

ofore J.G. 94

HANDLES.

divine; and all beside T. ii 433

HANDMAID.

rposes of grace H. 146

HANDSOME.

nt, as your hopes presage Con. 306 se behind four h. bays R. 392 well, and give him h. pay Tir. 907

HANG.

ip in yon cærulean height A.T. 138 isms h. not on my tongue Con. 93 onest man, and save a thief Con. 128 harp upon you aged beech Ex.7181ds h. the sable scene H. 264 prrors in the neighbouring skies Her.16 your face J.G. 190 ght A. till they dropped from the tree in for going mad! Pat. 23 mentary fires Q.V. 15 t h. on pleasure's flowery stem R.179thome must h., but he that puts T. i 736 d, to think himself a man? T. ii 28 1 eyes, blind from the birth T. iii 234 night are exercised, and h. T. iii 549 . her twigs. Geranium boasts T. iii 577 prickly grievance, and to h. T. v 329 honour of a man?) T. vi 641

Some shout him, and some h. upon his car T. vi 698 Spring h. her infant blossoms on the trees Tir. 43 He blushes, h. his head, is shy and strange Tir. 568

HANGED.

And who is h., and who is brought to bed Con. 396

HANGING.

Those h. with their worn-out graces M.F. 5 Arms h. idly down, hands clasped below R. 286

HAPLESS.

Where oft the bitch-fox hides her h. brood N.A. 4 "Ah, h. wretch! condemned to dwell P. 5 With tears o'er h. favorites shed T.B. 2

HAPLY.

He claps his lens, if h. they may see Ch. 385 With less excuse, and, h., worse effect?" F.A. 17 His dangers or escapes, and h. find T. ii 309

HAPPENED.

('Tis a case that has h., and may do again) A.C. 18 It h. on a solemn eventide Con. 505

HAPPIER.

"Nymphs quite as fair, and h. once than you A.T.110Would feel herself h. here C. 28 While Conscience, h. than in ancient years Ch. 274 At any poet's h. lays Dr. 15 He found the laurel only-h. you Ex. 600 From h. scenes. to make your land a prey H. 478 Still h., if he till a thankful soil H. 760 But h. far, who comfort those that wait H. 762 (And thou wast h. than myself the while M.P. 78 Of h. times, appear N. 22 Happy if full of days—but h. far R. 45 But farewell promises of h. fruits R. 241 In h. days, to brighter prospects born! S. ii 5 Maturer years shall h. stores produce T. 495 Was bliss reserved for h. days;—so slow T. i 83 The envied tenants of some h, spot T, i 610 Would I had fallen upon those \tilde{h} . days T. iv 513 Shows somewhat of that h, life to come T, vi 907 The prize of h. times, will serve thee now T.T. 371 Thou surpassest, h. far Trans. iii 19 Already by some h. bard 1789, 10

HAPPIEST.

On man's most dignified and h. state Ch. 2
Its h. soil in the screnest minds? Con. 594
And h. he that groans beneath his weight R. 156
Than ye, when h., and enlightened most R. 675
Its h. seasons, and a peaceful close R. 750
The h. of the great M.B. 16
The kindest and the h. pair M.F. 37
Beyond the h. lot O. i 22
There they are h. who dissemble best T. ii 639
Infect his h. moments, he forebodes T. v 606
Now h. they that occupy the scenes T. vi 397
Feels all his h. privileges lost Tir. 574
H. grasshoppers that are Trans. iii 20

HAPPILY.

Some minds are tempered h., and mixed T. ii 788

HAPPINESS.

And make colloquial h. your care Con. 82
Where 'tis an angel's h. to stray) Con. 472
Domestic h. and rural joy Ex. 535
Taste h., or know what pleasure means H. 10
His h., her dear, her only aim H. 64
That lasting h., a thankful heart H. 160
In part abate, that h. were small N.A. 112
No h. is felt, except the true R. 461

Some seeking h. not found below R. 604 Grasp seeming H., and find it Pain R. 756 Consulting England's h. at home T. ii 246 Domestic H., thou only bliss T. iii 41 In chase of fancied h., still wooed T. iii 126 Substantial h. for transient joy T. iii 300 Fireside enjoyments, homeborn h. T. iv 140 Finds h. unblighted; or, if found T. iv 334 We miss'd that h. we might have found! T. vi 28 Nor feels their h. augment his own T. vi 326 A far superior h, to theirs T, vi 346 Prepare for h.; bespeak him one T. vi 912 He seek his proper h. by means T. vi 954 Blest England, if this h. be thine! T.T. 82 Thus h. depends as Nature shows T.T. 246 All hope of h. below 1789, 53 The h. of answered prayers 1789, 64

HAPPY.

And finds a changing clime a h. source Con. 387 His h. eloquence seemed there at home Con. 622 While all the h. man possessed before Con. 895 Oh, h. Britain! we have not to fear E. iii 54 All speak her h.:—let the Muse look round Ex, 27 Returned them h. to the land they loved Ex. 76 H. to fill Religion's vacant place Ex. 121 H. the man there seeking and there found Ex. 652 H. the nation where such men abound ! Ex. 653 Lived h. prisoners there F.B. 6 This man was h.—had the world's good word H. 678 H. the bard, (if that fair name belong H. 754 I mourn, or, since thrice h. thou must be J.T.9Ere yet with ruthless joy the h. hound N.A. 33 None here is h. but in part N.Y.G. 13 Illustrious drop! and h. then O. i 21 H. if full of days—but happier far R. 45 He proves, less h. than his favoured brute R. 683 O h. shades!—to me unblest S. 1 O h. peasant! O unhappy bard! T. 331 Feels herself h. amidst all her grief T. 456 Trembling yet h., confident yet meek T. 572 In Albion's h. isle. The lumber stood T. i 58 Delight us, h. to renounce awhile T. i 515 And h. in their unforeseen release T. ii 126 H. the man who sees a God employed T. ii 161 That lost in his own musings, h. man! T. ii 301 Not alothful; h. to deceive the time T. iii 362 Whose only h. are their wasted hours T. iv 225 O h.! and, in my account, denied T. iv 357 Refinement is endued; thrice h. thou! T. iv 359 Whose h. skill and industry combined T. iv 30 This folio of four pages, h. work! T. iv 50 Thee I account still h., and the chief T. v 460"Radiant with joy towards the h. land T. v 836 H. who walks with him! whom what he finds T. vi 247 All h., and all perfect in their kind T. vi 354 H. to rove among poetic flowers T. vi 752 He is the h. man whose life e'en now T vi 906 H. the state that has not these to fear T.T. 167 Is always h., reign whoever may T.T. 238 The mind attains, beneath her h. reign T.T. 262 Back to the season of life's h. spring Tir. 132 As h, as we once to kneel and draw Tir. 806 Ah, h. designation, prudent choice Tir. 342 Thrice h. bird! I too have seen Tran. ii 31

HARANGUE.

But all he gains for his h. is; - "Well! Ch. 393 The clear h., and cold as it is clear P.E. 19 Than all invective is his bold h. T. ii 354 The popular h., the tart reply T. iv 31

HARANGUED.

H. him thus, right eloquent N.G. 14

HARASSED.

Provoked and h., in return plagued thee Ez. 5:

HARBINGER.

A h. of endless good E. i 90 Prolific all, and h. of more T. iii 531 Always h. of good Tran. iii 4

HARBOUR.

Hearts may be found that h. at this hour Con.

HARD.

With as many h. names as would line a good to Begone! the whip and bell in that h, hand Ch. 'Tis h. if all is false that I advance Con. 95 Tis h., indeed, if nothing will defend Con. 173 How credibly, 'tis h. for me to state) Con. 816 Who labour h. to allure and draw E. i 23 That h. by nature, and of stubborn will E ii 21 Such h. and arbitrary measure here E. iii 55 Oppression labouring h. to grind the poor Er. Of all their h. oppressors valued most Ez. 172 H. task indeed o'er arctic seas to roam! H. 548 H. task! for one who lately knew no care H. & But for one piece they thought it h. L. W. 11 "Child! 1 am rather h. of hearing" M.F. 26 Winks h., and talks of darkness at noonday P.F. 'Twas h. to tell, of streets or squares Q.V. 9 Cowper, whose silver voice, tasked sometimes k. & H. lot of man, to toil for the reward T. 11 Of virtue, and yet lose it! Wherefore h.? T. 12 The growth of what is excellent; so h. T. i 84 H. fare! but such as boyish appetite T. i 123 His h. condition with severe constraint T i612 Laughed at, he laughs again; and stricken A. I And neatly fitted, it compresses h. T. ii 587 'Twas h. perhaps on here and there a waif T. iii A dry but independent crust, h. earned T. iv #0 Contrives, h. shifting, and without her tools T. Swears 'tis a bargain, rails at his h. fate T. vi I The heart is h. in nature, and unfit T. vi 321 He deems it h. to vegetate alone Tir. 724 Not h. by nature, in a feeling part V. 42

HARDEN.

Was formed to h. hearts and shock the sight Ez. Prepares it for its ruin, h., blinds T. ii 690

HARDENED.

Till h. his heart's temper in the forge T. v 664 HARDENING.

There h. by degrees, till double steeled P.E. HARDER.

And h. to withstand B.R. 4 A life of ease would make them h. still E. ii S And h. still as learnt beneath despair H. 697 If cushion might be called, what h. seemed T.

HARD-FARING.

From his accustomed perch. H. race! T. i HARD-HANDED.

That lean h. Poverty inflicts T. iii 827

HARDNESS.

He hates the h. of a Balaam's heart T. vi 467

HARDSHIPS.

What I hear of their h., their tortures, their g

HARDY.

If after all, some headstrong h. lout H. 314 The h. chief, upon the rugged rock T. i 12 Thy frame, robust and h., feels indeed T. iv

HARE.

「334 wild Jack h. Ep. ii 8 at least is safe. One sheltered h. T. iii least one h. that had a friend T. iii 351 es are all my own. The timorous h. T.vi 305

HAREM.

sing, and h. dance for joy! A.T. 108 nticleer amidst his h. sleeps T. iv 447

HARK!

ul is at her gates! B. 20 music of a thousand rills Ch. 367 swers,—Wild tornadoes N.C. 33 floats upon the dewy air! P.E. 63 [ii 351 Doctor's voice!—fast wedged between T. sal Nature shook and groaned T. 563 twanging horn o'er yonder bridge T. iv 1 e sire of chits, whose future share Tir. 318 yon h., wooing all she meets T. 507 street-pacing h. his first love Tir. 217

HARM.

ouldst laugh away the fear of h. Ex. 705 head from h. M. ii 8 l of its h.! St. v 14 minds like yours can do no h. T. 1 759 h foes, confederate for his h. T. v 735 there is guilty of a wrong T. vi 578

HARMLESS.

of pleasantry and mirth E. iii 39 nse, as h. as an infant's play H. 613 nt, and h., and refined P.E. 179 re, dumb, but yet endued T. iii 329 s, is hazardous and bold T. iv 575 ice and h. manners too T. iv 651 seures, in the thronged abode T. iv 782 as a scene of h. sport T. vi 364 e, and natural, as they are Tir. 565

HARMLESSLY.

ed pleasures h. pursued R. 784

HARMONIOUS

. or compact Mrs. M- 40 in concert with h. streams R. 259 . notes: the thrush departs T. i 767 order of them all Tir. 635 the first air he drew Y.O. 155

HARMONIST.

Flora's court! Dr. 3

HARMONY.

I the theme, and h. the song A.T. 198 to fame B.24istinct from h. divine Con. 9 .., with rapture heard Con. 447 .., 'tis jar M.F. 47 1 you sequestered bower P.E. 65 at soothes the midnight hour P.E. 68 is universal love P.E. 78 nd peace make h. more meet P.E. 140 ng \bar{h} ., disposed aright R. 326 ones and h. unheard T. iv 480 . comes o'er the vale T. vi 65 family accord T. vi 379 dead to h., forgets T. vi 646 and love. Disease T. vi 788 as h. itself exact T.T. 646 , words exquisitely sought T.T. 701

HARP.

[496

Thy Druids struck the well strung h. they bore Ex. Muse, hang this h. upon you aged beech Ex. 718 Man is a h. whose chords elude the sight R. 325 Sweet is the h. of prophecy; too sweet T. vi 747

HARPSICHORD.

If he the tinkling h. regards P.E. 148

HARRY.

"Dismiss poor H.!" he replies M.F. 19

HARSH.

But angry, coarse, and h. expression M.F. 59 Sounds inharmonious in themselves and h. T. 207 Religion h., intolerant, austere T.T. 612 [vi 1012 Royed far, and gathered much; some h., 'tis true T.

HARSHLY.

Sounds h. in so delicate an ear R. 250 Not h. thundered forth, or rudely pressed T. vi 503

HARVEST.

The abundant h., recompense divine H. 770 Through the ripe h. lies their destined road Her. 54 The golden h., of a mellow brown T. iv 314 And plenteous h., to the prayer he makes T. vi 947 The peasants urge their h., ply the fork T.T. 214 And view with tears the expected h. lost V. 57

HASSOCKS.

And knees and h, are well nigh divorced T, i 748 HASTE.

With all the flowers he found, he wove in h. A.T. 13Bade rise in h. a dark and drizzling fog A.T. 94 Their h. himself condemn Cast. 32 And up he got, in h. to ride J.G. 47 I am in h. to dine J.G. 198 But though the birds were thus in h. P.T. 45 Then swift descending with a seaman's h. R. 435Friends not adopted with a schoolboy's h. R. 725 He 'gan in h. the drawers explore R.C. 92 Is backneyed home unlackeyed; who, in h. T. ii 652

H. now, philosopher, and set him free T. v 670 [v 819 With which Heaven rang, when every star in h. T. H., then, and wheel away a shattered world T. vi 823 Summer in h. the thriving charge receives Tir. 45 I seize thy name in h. U. 20

HASTEN. And new or old, still h. to a close Con. 238

A falling empire, h. its decay R. 384 HASTENED.

So have I seen (and h. to the sight Ch. 547

HASTENING.

Revived, are h. into fresh repute Con. 818

HASTILY.

I h. seized it, unfit as it was The Rose 9

HASTING.

My fugitive years are all h. away P.F. 13 And h. to a grave, yet doomed to rise T. v 830

HASTY.

Nor noise was heard but of the h. brook N.A. 39 That pressed the beach, and, h. to depart T. ii 118 And death still future. Not a h. stroke T. v. 608

And has him safe beneath his h. E. iv 56 Away went h. and wig J.G. 98 My h. and wig will soon be here J.G. 175 Whence straight he came with h, and wig J.G. 181 A h. not much the worse for wear J.G. 183 Went Gilpin's h. and wig J.G. 210 With lace, and h. with splendid riband bound T. i 536 One hand secures his h., save when with both T. i v 354 Sheepish he doffs his h., and mumbling swears T.iv628 His h., or his plumed helmet, with a grace T. iv 643 To pitch the ball into the grounded h. Tir. 308

HATCH.

Should never game-fowl \(\lambda \). her eggs again \(T \). iii 312

H, by the beams of truth, denies him rest P.E. 241 These h., and those resuscitated worms R. 64 HATE.

Reviled by those that h. her, prays for them Ch. 425 Preserve me from the thing I dread and h. Con. 83 H. their own likeness in a brother's face Con. 158 Out of the very flames of rage and h. Con. 186 (I h. long arguments verbosely spun) E. iii 44 The treacherous smile, a mask for secret h. Ex. 42 Viewed a deliverer with disdain and h. Ex. 217 And charged Hostility and H. to roar Ex. 566 And h. him for encroaching F. 84 H. with a deep sincerity the true H. 642 Of fools that h, thee and delight in sin H. 745 A land that distant tyrants h in vain Her. 89 He that h truth shall be the dupe of lies P.E. 607 And h the tumult half the world enjoys R. 176 Sly circumvention, unrelenting h. T. i 615 [T. ii 644 And h. their coming. They (what can they less?)
And bow obsequious, hide their h. of her T. ii 646
All h. the rank society of weeds T. iii 670 [464 464 He gave them in his children's veins, and h. T. iv He h. the field, in which no fife or drum T. iv 646 He h. the hardness of a Balaam's heart T. vi 467 A world that does not dread and h, his laws T, vi 826 Those arts be theirs that h. his gentle reign T.T. 89 And h. it with the malice of a Jew Tir. 168 And emulation, as engendering h. Tir. 497

HATED

Reminds them of their h. inmate, Sin E. ii 36 Reminds him of religion, h. theme! H. 218 He loved the world that h. him; the tear H. 574 Oh! welcome now the sun's once h. light H. 736 Shine not, or undesired and h. shine R. 351 He h., hoped, and loved! St. iii 22 For which we shunned and h. thee before T. v 882

HATEFUL.

Are h. ensigns of usurped command Ch. 213 Thenceforth 'tis h., for it smells of you Con. 44 Safe policy, but h. F. 183 His court, the dissolute and h. school T.T. 626

HATING.

For thou art meek and constant, h. change T. iii 55 HATRED.

For the h. she ever has shown M.D. 46 And the world's h., as its sure effect T. 282 (And no man's h. ever wronged her yet) T. iii 101 Of envy, h., jealousy, and pride Tir. 467

HAUGHTY.

Dismissed with grave, not h. looks Mrs. M— 38 Perhaps the self-approving h. world T. vi 940

HAUGHTILY.

When did the waves so h. o'erleap T. ii 55 HAUNT.

Still h., in hope to dream of youth again Ex. 26 These and a thousand plagues that h. the breast R.763

From such unpleasing sounds as h. the ear T. i 2 On pleasure, h. the capital, and thus T. iv 590 The cheerful h. of man; to wield the axe T. v 42 Defies the check of winter, h. of deer T. vi 110 [3 The creatures, summon'd from their various h. T. Nor plagues that h. the rich man's door Trans. H. HAVEN.

In some safe h. of our western world Ch. 444 To the fair h. of my native home R. 385 HAVOC.

H. and devastation in the van Her. 21 HAWS.

I fed on scarlet hips and stony h. T. i 120
HAWTHORN.

On twigs of h, he regaled Ep, ii 17 Not yet the h, bore her berries red N.A. 19 So stooping down from h, top N.G. 11 1 Peeps through the moss that clothes the h, root \tilde{L} .

HAV

Dry fern or littered h., that may imbibe T. iii HHAYFIELD.

There from the sunburnt h. homeward creeps THAZARD.

And h. life for any or no cause Con. 184 HAZABDING.

Contusion h. of neck or spine N.A. 7.

HAZARDOUS.

Of this world's h. and headlong shore St. ii 14 Or harmless flocks, is h. and bold T. iv 575 HAZELS.

Where the h, afford him a screen from the heat P.

HEAD.

A fancied h. against a fancied post A.T. 45

So polished and compact from h. to heel A.T. 18 Worms may be caught by either h. or tail Ch. Flings at your h. conviction in the lump Con. 15 Its h. as guarded as its base is sure Con. 556 [6 When some green h., as void of wit as thought (That truth itself is in her h. as dull Con. 779 His h. and his heart are both likely to ache F.M. "For lift thy palsied h., shake off the gloom H. The coronet, placed idly at their h. H. 268 They were by nature, atheists, h. and heart H 4 His eyes are sunk, arms folded, h. reclined H 6 When, turning round his h. he saw J.G. 51 His reeking h. full low J.G. 122 My h. is twice as big as yours J.G. 187 He meant not to forbid the h. L.W. 18 His sacred h. from harm M. ii 8 He rears unchanged his barren h. Miss — 39 M.P. Wouldst softly speak, and stroke my A. and smi But lovely spring peeps o'er his A. N. 15 Oaks intersperse it, that had once a h. N.A. 11 In praise applied to the same part—his h. P.E. With a turf on my breast, and a stone at my h. P.F.With helmet h., and dragon-scales adorned R. Tis not, as h. that never ache suppose R. 323 Not sounder he that on the mainmast h. R. 431 What obvious truths the wisest h. may miss! R. Habits of close attention, thinking h. R. 705 With this reflection in his h. R.C. 108Both heart and h.; and couldst with music sweet: The Bramin kindles on his own bare A. T. 99 Her h. erect, her fan upon her lips T. 134 And sails with lappet h, and mincing airs T. 139 To nourish pride, or turn the weakest h. T. 366 The tedious rector drawling o'er his h. T. i 95 reach of man: his hoary h. T. i 520 is h., to think himself a man? T. ii 28 apostles, O ye mitred h. T. ii 392 1 we choose it, at the fountain h. T. ii 502 a sage called Discipline. His h. T. ii 702 odest and ingenuous worth T. ii 711 be, were not madness in the h. T. iii 741 thumps, to feed upon the breath T. iv 47 rned with lappets pinned aloft T. iv 540 e h. for purposes of war T. iv 666 strut; and, wading at their h. T. ∇ 74 a useful lesson to the h. T. vi 86 with thoughts of other men T. vi 90 ne, and her beauteous h. now set T. vi 158 diadem upon his h. T. vi 351ut every crevice of the h. T. vi 707 remained to tell T.B. 65 ·low's h. in early youth Th. 1 d down its beautiful h. The Rose h. might agitate in vain Tir. 130 e giddy, and young hearts are warm I hangs his h., is shy and strange Tir. 568 ne hand upon his flaxen h. Tir. 848 to his h. Trans. i. 8 h. between 'em Trans. ii 36 shed, and hung her drooping h. T.T. 324 h. in Luxury's soft lap T.T. 678 iis h. before Y.D. 30

HEADACHES.

il them to a noonday bed T. i 500

HEADLESS.

co, or some Cæsar shows P.E. 395

HEADLONG.

rom on board Cast. 4
) vigorous and h. rage Con. 45 ring chase, and h. leaps P.E. 86
d's hazardous and h. shore St. ii 14 em h., and is seen no more T. i 454 all h., and the valleys rise T. ii 95
ness of the h. rage T. iii 218

HEADSTRONG.

were broken; bars and bolts T. ii 745 h., or all these at once Tir. 202

HEAL.

theart, and melt his chains away Ch. 229 such, till God who makes them h. R. 342 is which only God can h. St. vi 19 physic none to h. the effects T. i 590 kes it languish or rejoice T. ii 70 effect, or h. it? Has not God T. ii 197 im consequence, h. all defects Tir. 392

HEALED.

istemper h., and life restored Ex. 153 m forth, and h., and bade me live T. iii 116

HEALING.

elm for h. F. 96 e privilege of h. woe J.T. 17 HEALTH.

employ their h., an ugly trick Con. 311
vators of the public h. Con. 390 in h., the ground of her support Con. 771 weather, and the news E. i. 5 [4
ay -"H. here has long to reign?" E_F. i.
d sober appetite demand H. 158 heaven—and I must drink his h. H. 412 h., vigour to expend Mor. 33
[P.E. 246
good h., good conscience, and good fame?
e, and h., and length of days; P.E. 91

Emblems of h. and heavenly aid Q.V. 47 When h. required it, would consent to roam R. 517 No present h. can h. insure St. i. 25 An infidel in h.;—"But what when sick?" T. 309 That Nature rides upon, maintains her h. T. i 369 Good h., and, its associate in the most T. i 399 H. suffers, and the spirits ebb; the heart T. i 466 Such h. and gaiety of heart enjoy T. i 587 What wonder then that h and virtue, gifts T i 750 And putrefy the breath of blooming H.—T. ii 184 [691 H., leisure, means to improve it, friendship, peace T.iii Hail, therefore, patroness of h. and ease T. iv 780 The fatal issue to his h., fame, peace T. v 601 The sum is this. If man's convenience, h. T. vi 581 Threaten his h., his fortune, and his fame Tir. 532 When h, demands it, of athletic sort Tir. 653 H.'s last farewell, a staff of thine old age Tir. 878 He may be called to give up h. and gain V. 68 If God give h., that sunshine of our days! V. 88

HEALTHFUL.

Tastes of its h. origin, and flows Con. 565
Temperance and Peace insure its h. state Con. 603
Yet fear, youth ofttimes h. and at ease Ep. i 7
His cheek recovers soon its h. hue T. i 441
All h., are the employs of rural life T. iii 625
H. and undisturbed by factious fumes T. v 513

HEAP.

Like a loose h. of ribbon, a glittering show F.M. 6 The stable yields a stercoraceous h. T. iii 463

HEAR.

Never h. the sweet music of speech A.S. 11 To h. them tell of parentage and birth Con. 210 With strains it was a privilege to h. Con. 618 Where Venus h. the lover's tender vow Con. 824 Shall h. of this thy deed D.W. 38 Which, couched in prose, they will not h. E. i 22 Will h. perhaps thy salutary strain Ex. 453 That few will h., and fewer heed the strain Ex. 725 For tattlers, will be sure to h. F. 98 "Say little, and h. all you can " F. 182 He h, the notice of the clock, perplexed H. 700 To h. plain truth at Judah's hallowed gate H. 763 The goddess chanced to h. L.R. 18'Twas Liberty only to h. M.D. 24 What shall I do to make you h.? M.F. 18 I tell you, you can't h. at all!" M.F. 28
No matter if you h. or no! M.F. 30 [groans P.A. 3 What I h. of their hardships, their tortures, their And helpless, hopeless, h. thee say O. ii 23 He h. the herbs and flowers rejoicing all N.A. 60 But ah! those dreadful yells what soul can h. N.A. 99 H. him again. He calls it a delight P.E. 163 Like fabled Tantalus, condemned to h. P.E. 231 Imbibes and copies what she h, and sees P.E. 356 H. the just law—the judgment of the skies! P.E. 606 And h. the million hum Q.V. 42 Till authors h. at length one general cry R. 707 H. the sweet accents of his tuneful voice R. 771 H. him, o'erwhelmed with sorrow, yet rejoice R. 772 H. it often as we may St. iv 26 Reformed and well instructed? You shall h. T. 130 He h. the tempest howling in the trees T. 254 H. him, himself the poet and the theme T. 404 H. then how Mercy, slighted and defied T. 501 To h. his creaking panniers at the door T. i 245 [396 Were he on earth, would h., approve, and own T. ii
Adore him? Will he h., accept, and bless? T. ii 515 As aught occurs that she may smile to h. T. iii 395 To h, the roar she sends through all her gates T. iv 91 H. the faint echo of those brazen throats T. iv 104 To h. that ye were fallen at last; to know T. v 890 Charm the deaf serpent wisely. Make him h. T. v 671 That h. not, or receive not their report T. v 886 A voice is heard that mortal ears h. not T. v 886 Which he that h. it with a shout repeats T. v 889 By the impure, and h. his power denied T. v 895 Some chord in unison with what we h. T. v i 4 Commemoration mad; content to h. T. v i 635 In vain the poet sings, and the world h. T. v i 635 In vain the poet sings, and the world h. T. v i 1018 They h. him speak—the oracle of law Tir. 363 H. Nature plead, show mercy to thy son Tir. 756 To h. it called extravagance and waste T.T. 163 I h. as mute as if a Syren sung T.T. 199 He h. the thunder ere the tempest lowers T.T. 496 At first he aims at what h. Trun. iv 19 In pulpit none shall h. Y.D. 58

HEARD.

These valleys and rocks never h. A.S. 80

A trumpet that was h, through all the land A.T, 162 Against my orders, whom you h. Beau 7 A louder voice than yours I h. B.R. 3 The longer I h. I esteemed C. 21 Had h. his voice in every blast Cast. 45 Forget his harmony, with rapture h. Con. 447 And blest reforms that I have never h. Con. 804 The moment when I h. from you E. iv 24 Nor ear h. huntsman's halloo Ep. ii 4 He h. the wheels of an avenging God Ex. 57 Wept till all Israel h. his bitter cry Ex. 63 I h. and acquiesced: then to and fro F.A. 18 Then praise is h. instead of reasoning pride H. 143 'Tis h. where England's Eastern glory shines H. 457 Or voice of turtle in your land is h. H. 470 Had h. a lion roar J.G. 206 Was h., one genial summer's day J.P. 31 The sweetest that ear ever h. M.D. 18 H. shouts that ascended the sky M.D. 39 "Where'er is h. a groan Miss — 88
With me but roughly since I h. thee last M.P. 2 I h. the bell tolled on thy burial day M.P 28 Where once we dwelt our name is h. no more M.P.46Nor noise was h. but of the hasty brook N.A. 39 And from within the wood that crash was h. N.A.45"Friends! we have lived too long. I never h. N.A 83 Or h. we that tremendous bray alone N.A. 93 While thus she spake, I fainter h, the peals N.A. 123 The songster h, his short oration N.G. 23 Was h.—though never h. before P. 2 Dick h., and tweedling, ogling, bridling P.T. 38 H. an inexplicable scratching R.C. 78 Thou was not h. with drowsy disregard S. i 5 These alone, so often h. St. iv 30Yet h. in scenes where peace for ever reigns T. 208 Tis done—the raging storm is h. no more T. 275 She, never h. of half a mile from home T. 334 [567] What! silent? Is your boasting h. no more? T.
H. the sweet mean with pity, and devised T. i 74
She h. the doleful tidings of his death T. i 545 And h, our music; are they simple friends T, i 645 H. at conventicle, where worthy men T. ii 437 Played on his lips, and in his speech was h. T. ii 707 Has never h. the sanguinary yell T. iii 335 For whom God h, his Abraham plead in vain T, iii Resounding oft, and never h. in vain T. iv 356 Of midnight murder was a wonder h. T, iv 563 And ever as the sullen sound is h. T. v 405 Till Thou art h., imaginations vain T. ▼ 861 A voice is h. that mortal ears hear not T. v 886 Where memory slept. Wherever I have h. T. vi 12 Which heaven has λ . for ages, have an end T. vi 780 Is h. salvation. Eastern Java there T. vi 810 [497 Beats back the roaring surge, scarce h. so high T. vi And h. the voice of love The Doves 6

And I recorded what I h. The Dones 39
But reason h., and nature well perused Tir. 89
H. to articulate like other men Tir. 667
Is seldom felt, though sometimes seen and h. T.T.
As if he h. his king say, "Slave, be free!" T.T. 245
In him, Demosthenes was h. again T.T. 342
And ages ere the Mantuan Swan was h. T.T. 557

HEARERS.

He ties up all his h. in suspense Con. 130 Their peevish h. almost wish they had Con. 324 Or seldom such, the h. of his song T. ii 305 On thy distorted root, with h. none Y. O. 140

HEARING.

H. a lawyer, grave in his address Con. 69 "Child! I am rather hard of h." M.F. 26 He has no h. on the prudent side P.E. 549

HEARSE.

HEART.

Tthere ? A.T. 118

I saw the h, that bore thee slow away M.P. 29

"Find out her treacherous h., and plant a dagger His tender h. victoriously impressed A.T. 4 [A.T.2] And graved it on a gem, and wore it next his t "Seduce our husbands, and estrange their h. A.T. 114 To other h., must have thee in his own Ch. 10 That stripped him bare, and broke his honest h. Ct. That has a h. and life in it, "Be free!" Ch. 170 Would heal his h., and melt his chains away Ch. 229 Teach mercy to ten thousand h. that share Ch. 273 Has still a veil of midnight on his h. Ch. 376 Each h. would quit its prison in the breast Ch 610 A difference strikes at length the musing h. Comp. is The vainest corner of our own vain h. Com. 366 Man's h. had been impenetrably sealed Com. 427 Warming his h., should at his lips transpire? Con. 454 Your h. shall yield a life-renewing stream Con. 500 A deep memorial graven on their h, Con. 514 Did not our h. feel all He deigned to say Com. 535 H. may be found that harbour at this hour Con. 561 And while at h. sin unrelinquished lies Con. 673 Of h. in union mutually disclosed Con. 680 Those h. should be reclaimed, renewed upright Con-Sad as it is, his undissembling h. Con. 712 And one in h., in interest, and design Com. 701 He knows that God demands his h. entire Con. 7% Than while his conduct proves his h. sincere Con.766 That in her h. the Christian she reveres Con. 787 Though, could our h. repine Dr. 14 The centre of a glowing h. E. i 14 But He who knew what human h. would prove f. But distance only cannot change the h. E. iii 2 "Yea marry shalt thou, and with all my h. E. iii 💆 Broad-cloth without, and a warm h. within E. iii 8 That beams delight? a h. untaught to sigh? Ep. i6 My h. of thoughts that made it ache Ep. ii 35 Self-idolized, and yet a knave at h. Ex. 94 Their streaming h. poured freely when they died be The web of every scheme they have at h. Er. 331 To quell the valour of the stoutest h. Ez. 358 [396 Hast thou, with h. perverse and conscience seared It. For ears and h. that he can hope to please? Er. 451 Was formed to harden h. and shock the sight Ez. 495 Wisdom and Goodness are twin-born one h. Ex. 634 And hind the task assigned thee to thine h. Ez. 651 Of Liberality of h. F. 5 Or his, who touched their h. with hallowed fires? Ex. Illuminating h. or mind F. 8 And held accustomed conference with my h. F.4.9His head and his h. are both likely to ache F.M.15 That lasting happiness, a thankful A. H. 160 Nor set a price upon a willing h. H. 337

HEART

201

The writer well remarks, a h., that knows H. 429 They were by nature, atheists, head and h. H. 498 Had each a brother's interest in his h. H. 579 Powers of the mind, and feelings of the h. H. 654 And writes a Doomsday sentence on his h. H. 693 Tis God himself triumphant in his h. H. 735 But pleasure wins his h. H.F. 12 After long sleep, of passion in the h. J.T. 42Have wound themselves about this h. M. 19 Thy worn-out h. will break at last M. 51. Proves that the h. is none of his M.F. 61 And dwells there in a female h. Miss — 1 No bribes the h. can win Miss — 58
And fashioning my softened h. Miss — 91 With all a tender h. can feel Miss - 103 I would not trust my h.—the dear delight M.P. 82 With present ills his h. must ache N. 11 Only by a broken h. N.C. 48 To thy whole h. desire? N.Y.G. 12 There dwells some wish in every h. N.Y.G. 15 Once more in this sad h. O. ii 3 The sight our foolish h. inflames P.B. 31 The serpent Error twines round human h. P.E. 43 And has the Ladies' Etiquette by h. P.E. 196These both are pleasures to the feeling h. P.E. 254 The h., surrendered to the ruling power P.E. 275 To taint his h., was worthy of thine own! P.E. 346 His stock, a few French phrases got by h. P.E. 375 Inveterate habits choke the unfruitful h. R. 41 The roving eye misleads the careless h. R. 126 May feel a h. enriched by what it pays R. 209 Tis consecration of his h., soul, time, R. 223 No longer give an image all thine h. R. 276 Blessed, rather cursed, with h. that never feel R. And staunch the bleedings of a broken h. R. 322 With aching h, and discontented looks R. 471 His countenance, his purse, his h., his hand R. 595 From vulgar minds, have honour much at h. R. 728 No, not a moment, in his royal h. R. 774 His noble h. went pit-a-pat R.C. 79 And h. that cannot rest, agree! S. 4 [i 10 Both h. and head; and couldst with music sweet S. So prays your Clerk with all his h. St. i 33 But when his h. had roved St. iii 24 Strange fondness of the human h. St. v 13 Prompt every movement of his h. and mind T. 194 One act, that from a thankful h. proceeds T. 223 And, pleased at h., because on holy ground T. 232 By some kind, hospitable h. possessed T. 251 What glowing thanks his lips and h. employ T. 255 Lies down secure, her h. and pocket light T. 322 He, lost in errors his vain h. prefers T. 335 Strength in his h., dominion in his nod T. 409 His conduct, to the test, but tries his h. T. 562 That they proceeded from a grateful h. T. 580 With acrid salts, his very h. athirst T. i 448 Health suffers, and the spirits ebb; the h. T. i 466 The mouth with blasphemy, the A. with woe T. i 505 Such health and gaiety of A. enjoy T. i 587 I cannot think thee yet so dull of h. T. i 651 There is no flesh in man's obdurate h. T. ii 8 With stripes, that Mercy, with a bleeding h. T. ii 24 No: dear as freedom is, and in my h.'s T. ii 33 And bids the world take h, and banish fear T, ii 195 Thy joys and sorrows, with as true a h. T. ii 220 Put so much of his h. into his act T. ii 249 [ii 320 What vice has it subdued? whose h. reclaimed T. I venerate the man whose h. is warm T. ii 372 Reclaims the wanderer, binds the broken h. T. ii 344 When sent with God's commission to the h. T. ii 471 O Popular Applause! what h. of man T. ii 481 Upon the roving and untutored h. T. ii 570 The occupation dearest to his h. T. ii 709

What provocation to the indignant h. T. iii 65 So hollow and so false—I feel my h. T. iii 182 [241 Through all the h.'s dark chambers, and reveal T. iii Reflections such as meliorate the h. T. iii 304 [322 Delights which who would leave, that has a h. T. iii That has a h., and keeps it; has a mind T. iii 374 With her who shares his pleasures and his h. T. iii 390 And folly in the h.; were England now T. iii 742By which he speaks the language of his h. T. iv 105 Discover countries, with a kindred h. T. iv 116 Ensanguined h., clubs typical of strife T. iv 218 And have a friend in every feeling h. T. iv 376 517 Nymphs were Dianas then, and swains had h. T. iv The h of merit in the meaner class T iv 618 To break some maiden's or his mother's h. T. iv 656 He gives a tongue to enlarge upon, a h. T. iv 794 Than human passion please. In every h. T. v 205 The scorn of danger, and united h. T. ▼ 377 Ye horrid towers, the abode of broken h. T. v 385 There's not an English h. that would not leap T. \vee 389 All h. to sadness, and none more than mine T. v 464 And sickly, while her champions wear their h. T. v511 Were sons indeed; they felt a filial h. T. \vee 518 'Tis Liberty of H., derived from Heaven T. \vee 545 Whose lying h. disputes against a God T. v 568 Propense his h. to idols, he is held $T. \times 585$ "We find sound argument, we read the h." T = 654Till hardened his h's temper in the forge T. v 664 Whose h. with praise, and whose exalted mind T.v751Thine eye shall be instructed, and thine h. T. ∇ 782 Possess the h., and fables false as hell T. v 862Is touch'd within us, and the h. replies T. vi 5 [87] May think down hours to moments. Here the h. T. vi The h. is hard in nature, and unfit T. vi 321 When none pursues, through mere delight of h. T. vi No oruel purpose lurk'd within his h. T. vi 362 [372 Thy groves and lawns then witness'd! Every h. T. vi Man may dismiss compassion from his h. T. vi 442 He hates the hardness of a Balaam's h. T. vi 467 The h.'s insanity admits no cure T. vi 523 The charity that warmed his h. was moved T. vi 498 To steel their h. against the dread of death" T. vi 511 That piety has still in human h. T. vi 683 The breath of Heaven has chased it. In the h. T. viAnd e'en the joy that haply some poor h. T. vi 832 Thy saints proclaim thee king; and in their h. T. vi 861 He by the test of conscience; and a h. T. vi 988 [895] With conscience and with thee. Lust in their h. \bar{T} . vi To charm his ear, whose eye is on the h. T. vi 1022 This widowed h. would break" The Doves 36 Regardless of wringing and breaking a h. The Rose 15 To press the important question on his h. Tir. 57 And not with curses on his h., who stole Tir. 151 Assert the native evil of his h. Tir. 162 The practice was a bond upon his h. Tir. 177 But taverns teach the knowledge of the h. Tir. 213 Shall win his h., and have his drunken praise Tir. 215 The scene is touching, and the h. is stone Tir. 298 Christian in name, and infidel in h. Tir. 421 Young heads are giddy, and young h. are warm Tir. 'Twere wiser sure to inspire a little h. Tir. 454 Against a h. depraved and temper hurt Tir. 489 He will not blush, that has a father's h. Tir. 547 How does it lacerate both your h. and his! Tir. 558 Unless thy conscious h. acknowledge none Tir. 580 The mind and h. of every sprightly boy Tir. 598 To teach his h. to glow with generous flame Tir. 644 An upright h, and cultivated mind Tir. 722 [Tir. 801] Whose h. will ache, once told what ills may reach Thou canst not! Nature, pulling at thine h. Tir. 865 His h., now passive, yields to thy command Tir. 885 One comfort yet shall cheer thine aged h. Tir. 897 Thou hast all thine h. desire Trans. iii 16

Tells of a few stout h. that fought and died T. T. 23 Patriots, who love good places at their h. T.T. 191 The poet's h.; he looks to distant storms T.T. 495 [380 The stream that feeds the wellspring of the h. T. T. That, like some cottage beauty strikes the h. T.T. 524 In Eden, ere yet innocence of h. T.T. 584 And every warbler has his tune by h. T.T. 655 Should be the poet's h. U. 26 Farewell, false h.! whose best affections fail V. 1 Your altered h.—and so, my Lord, farewell! V 26 Might prove a welcome gift, and touch thine h. V. 41 Should be renewed in nature, pure in h. V. 60 The h. of man, for such a task too frail V. 67 Union of h. without a flaw between V. 86 Content of h., more praises still are due V. 90 And giving one, whose h. is in the skies V. 93 Each h, as heavy as a log Y.D. 15

HEART-CHILLING.

Expects in darkness and h. fears H. 714

HEART-CONSOLING.

And contemplation, h. joys T. iv 781

HEART-DISTENDING.

Of silent tears and h. sighs! T. iii 331

HEART-FELT.

A scene of fancied bliss and h. care H. 5 Of h. joys, succeeds not soon again Her. 64 Indulges all a father's h. glee Tir. 321

HEARTH.

Feeds a blue flame, and makes a cheerful h. T. iii 33 The glowing h. may satisfy awhile T. iv 273 Chirping on my kitchen h. Trans. iii 2

HEARTILY.

And in due time feeds h. on both Con. 338
Will h. thank us, no doubt, for our pains P.A. 10
Lived long, wrote much, laughed h. and died T. 307

HEART-SEARCHING.

Sincerity towards the h. God Con. 753

HEART-SHAKING.

With such h. music, who can say T. iv 24

HEART-SICK.

And Chatham h. of his country's shame T. ii 244

HEART-STRINGS.

Upon his h., trembling with delight T. v 414

HEARTY.

And now a h. smack Trans. iv 18

HEAT.

For him, though chased with furious h. Beau 11
Nice in its choice, and of a tempered h. J.T. 36 [10
Where the hazels afford him a screen from the h. P.F.
Her summer h., her fruits, and her perfumes R. 196
The auspicious moment, when the tempered h. T.iii508
The process. H. and cold, and wind and steam T.iii554
Till Autumn's flercer h. and plenteous dews Tw. 47
In Afric's torrid clime, or India's flercest h. T.T. 297
Destroys them—skies uncertain, now the h. Y.O. 74

HEATH.

The h. uncovered and the moors A Tale 17 Groves, h., and smoking villages, remote T. i 176 Near yonder h.; where Industry misspent T. iii 643

HEATHEN.

The h. lawgivers of ancient days Con. 35 Are bringing into vogue their h. train Con. 821 The gross idolatry blind h. teach H. 499 Let h. worthies, whose exalted mind T. 525 (For was it less, what h. would have dared T. vi 639

HEATHY.

Then neither h. wilds, nor scenes as fair R. 331 HEAVE.

"And still the sigh responsive h. Miss — 87 Will weep indeed, and h. a pitying grean T. 177 Tormented into billows, h. and swells T. ii 101 [422 With bleeding sides and flanks that h. for life T. vi He h. up many a sigh Y.D. 12

HEAVED.

She teemed and h. with an infernal birth Her. 13 But when he felt it, h. a sigh St. iii 27 A bosom h. with never ceasing sighs T. i 552

HEAVEN.

H. awards the vengeance due B. 42 Nor felt but in the soul that H. selects Ch. 8 Through fear, not love; and H. abhors the fee Ch. 46 Of H.'s mysterious purposes and ways Ch. 58 H. speed the canvas, gallantly unfurled Ch. 123 Remember, H. has an avenging rod Ch. 216 The poor thy clients, and \hat{H} .'s smile thy fee Ch. 312 That H. spreads wide before the view of man Ch. 324 H. held his hand, the likeness must be true Ch. 434 That in the h. of h., that space He deems Ch. 589 And H. reflected in her face Comp. ii 10 That H. and Hell, and righteousness and sin Con. 469 O days of h., and nights of equal praise! Con. 567 Who waits for h. ere he becomes divine Con. 584 Can hopes of H., bright prospects of anthour Com. 591 For which H. formed the faculty divine Con. 898 Where under H. is Pleasure more pursued Es. 7With all that man e'er wished, or H. bestowed? Ez.196If we escaped not, if H. spared not us Ex. 245 [390 Hast thou, when H. has clothed thee with disgrace Er. Brought fire from H., the sex-abusing crime Ez. 415 Their hope in H., servility their scorn Ex. 440 While his own h, surveys the troubled scene Ez. 586 Marked with the signature and stamp of H.—Er. 685 Which make that H., if thou desire it, thine Ez. 687 By which H. rules the mixed affairs of man H. 16 That H,'s intentions are not what they seem H. 66 Revere the laws they dream that H. ordains H. 241 The tidings of unpurchased H. create H. 343 [366] That H, will weigh man's virtues and his crimes H. I glide and steal along with h. in view H. 379 Then h, enjoins the fallible and frail H. 391 Must go to h.—and I must drink his health H. 412 To take with gratitude what h, bestows H, 430 And he that finds his H. must lose his sins H. 638 'Tis H., all H., descending on the wings H. 732 And h, is all departed as a scroll H, 747 The breath of h. must swell the sail H.F. 23 That privilege was thine; H. gave thee means J.T. Thine had a value in the scales of H.-J.T. 29 By bounteous h. designed Miss - 2 Mankind received from h. Miss - 24 And fixed by H.'s decree Miss -- 46 "Oh! grant, kind H. to me Miss. This artless vow may H. receive Miss — 93 Not scorned in H., though little noticed here M.P. His lamp now planted on H.'s topmost arch N.A. 31) The H. that thou alone canst make? O. ii 14 When the glad soul is made H.'s welcome guest $P.E_1$ H. from above, and Conscience from within P.E. 37 [P.E. 216 H.'s harmony is universal love P.E. 78 H. blessed the youth, and made him fresh and fair Envy the beast, then, on whom H. bestows P.E. 267 Kneels and asks H. to bless the dear deceit P.E. 525 Till yonder h. and earth shall mingle P.T. 33 Amid the vault of h. Q.V. 16

H. grant us no such future sight Q.V. 79 For H.'s high purposes, and not his own R. 18 Ask wealth of H., and gain a real prize R. 162 Then $H_{\cdot,\cdot}$ eclipsed so long, and this dull earth $R_{\cdot,\cdot}$ 355 Nor seldom, as propitious H. might send R. 377 Could I, from H. inspired, as sure presage St. ii 1 All H. unfolded to my eyes St. iii 11 Called up from Earth to H. St. iii 30Death and Judgment, H. and Hell St. iv 29 H.'s easy, artless, unencumbered plan! T. 22 "H. on such terms!" they cry with proud disdain T. H. turns from with abhorrence and disdain T. 72 As stoop from H, to sell the proud a throne T. 78 Have purchased H., and prove my title good T. 96 Thus H. approves, as honest and sincere T. 225 And h., no doubt shall be their home at last T. 296 One pleasure lost, lose h. without regret T. 342 Shall fall on her, when H. denies it thee T. 512 Kindled in H., that it burns down to earth T. ii 134 That live an atheist life; involves the H.-T. ii 180 Are all such teachers? Would to H. all were! T. ii 350 Since H, would grow weary of a world T, ii 583[788] Just when it meets his hopes, and proves the H.—T.iii Unless by H.'s peculiar grace, escape T. ii 632 [221 God never meant that man should scale the H.-T.iiiThan all that held their routs in Juno's h.! T. ii 660 Has made a H. on earth; with suns and moons T. iii 645 One drop of H.'s sweet mercy in his cup T. iii 804 H., earth, and ocean, plunder'd of their sweets T. iv 82 From H. to Earth, of lambent flame serene T. v 153 And tremble at vain dreams? H. grant I may! T. v 492 Was registered in H. ere time began T. v 530 'Tis Liberty of Heart, derived from H.—T. v 545 In other h. than these that we behold T. v 571 And chased them up to H. Their ashes flew T. ∇ 726 Can lift to H. an unpresumptuous eye T. v 746 [796 Not so the mind that has been touched from H.-Much conversant with H., she often holds T. ∇ 815 With which H rang, when every star, in haste T v819 "And to possess a brighter H. than yours? T. v 831 Breaks on the soul, and by a flash from H. -T. v 884 Is register'd in h.; and these no doubt T. vi 440[844 "And that, infused from H., must thither tend "T. vBy which H, moves in pardoning guilty man T, vi 597 Which h, has heard for ages, have an end T, vi 730 The breath of H. has chased it. In the heart T. vi 786 Saw never, such as H. stoops down to see T. vi 817 Derives from H., pure as the fountain is T. vi 833 She makes familiar with a H. unseen T. vi 926 [547 Was now to learn that H., though slow to wrath T. vi Were all that H. required of human kind Tir. 85 What if thine H. be overcast Trans. H. 25 His portion in the good that H. bestows T.T. 20 May she! and, if offended H. be still T.T. 406 [460 Earth shakes beneath them, and H. roars above T. T. Brings colours dipped in H., that never die T.T. 703 Touched with a coal from H., assume the lyre T.T.735With truth from h., created thing adore Y.O. 7 With love and wisdom, rendered back to H.-Y.O.154One breath of H., that cried-" Restore!" 1789, 40

HEAVEN-BORN.

H., and destined to the skies again T. iii 50

HEAVEN-DEFYING.

When Perjury, that H. vice T.T. 418

HEAVENLY.

Resides in that h. word! A.S. 26 Inform his mind; one flash of h. day Ch. 228 Philosophy, without his h. guide Ch. 375 Serene and peaceful as those h. days Con. 568 "What, always dreaming over h. things Con. 575

Of joys they meet with in their h. range Con. 694 Know then, that H. Wisdom on this ball Ex. 314 Religion, if in h. truths attired Ex. 492 Though h. in pretension, fleeced thee well Ex. 515 The beams of h, truth have swelled the debt! Ex. 611 Save for the fruits his h. brams produce H. 82 Born capable indeed of h. truth H. 231 (Yet charge not h. skill with having planned H. 542 Where'er the h. Nymph is seen Miss — 69 The peacock sends his h. dyes Mrs. M-3 With a whole gamut filled of h. notes N.A.26Emblems of health and h. aid Q.V. 47 Souls that have long despised their h. birth R. 35 Instruct me, guide me to that h. day R. 95 O that unwelcome voice of h. love T. 463 In science, win one inch of h. ground T. 338 Not so; the silver trumpet's h. call T. 349 Of h, temper, furnishes with arms T. ii 346 And rustic coarseness would. A h. mind T. ii 457 Can lodge a h. mind-demands a doubt T. ii 462 The eclipse that intercepts truth's h. beam T. v 683A ray of h. light gilding all forms T. v 810In h. truth; evincing, as she makes T. vi 183 Betimes into the mould of h. truth Tir. 106

HEAVEN-PROTECTED.

O place me in some H. isle Her. 83

HEAVEN-RENOUNCING.

In h. exile, he endures T. \vee 598

HEAVENWARD.

With anxious meaning, H. turn his eye! St. ii 8 [818 Thus H. all things tend. For all were once T. vi

HEAVIER.

They only weigh the h. Y.D. 48

HEAVIEST.

Till the best tongue, or h. hand, prevails H. 196 And h., light of foot steals fast away T. iv 442 Comes h. to the ground Trans. H. 15

HEAVILY.

Groan h. along the distant road Ex. 58The wain goes h., impeded sore T. iv 343

HEAVINGS.

Soft airs and gentle h. of the wave Ch. 127 HEAVY.

'Tis h., bulky, and bids fair to prove Con. 307 If chance, on h. pinions slowly borne H. 716 Galled by affliction's h. chain St. v 11 And, h. laden, brings his beverage home T. i 242 Each heart as h. as a log Y.D. 15

HEBERDEN.

Virtuous and faithful H., whose skill R. 279

HEBREW.

H., or Syriac, shall be forced to bend P.E. 499

HEBRUS.

On Thracian H. side T.B. 63

HEDGE.

When scarlet fruits the russet h. adorn A.T. 72 O'er h. and ditch, through gaps and mews E. iv 52 Where frequent h. intercept the eye T. i 514 They pick their fuel out of every h. T. i 565 Enjoy close shelter, wall, or reeds, or h. T. iii 474 Woe to the gardener's pale, the farmer's h. T. iv 436 Beneath the h., or near the stream Trans. i 1

HEDGEROW.

As h. in the wild A Tale 8

Her h. shrubs, a variegated store R. 419 Of h. beauties numberless, square tower T. i 173

HEED.

That few will hear, and fewer h. the strain Ex. 725 With caution and good h. J.G. 80 But ah! by constant h. I know M. 45 Warily therefore, and with prudent h. T. iii 470 Nor h. what guests there enter and abide Tir. 888

HEEDLESS.

H. of a soldier's name B. 22 Though Wisdom hail them, h. of her call Ch. 406 They fix attention, h. of your pain Con. 63 Bent all on pleasure, h. of its end E. ii 18 The tide of pleasure, h. of his frown Ex. 683 And h. whither, to that field I came N.4.32Viewed from a distance, and with h. eyes P.E.202She shines but little in his h. eyes R. 405 H. of his loudest lay St. iv 3 And therefore h., can withstand thy power? T. ii Or h. folly, by which thousands die T. iii 219 [148 Or h. folly, by which thousands die T. iii 219 [148 Cough their own knell, while, h. of the sound T. iv H. of all his pranks, the sturdy churl T. v 52 And doom him for perhaps a h. word T. v 440 Ruminate h. of the scene outspread T. ▼ 788 The uninformed and h. souls of men $T. \times 864$

HEEL.

So polished and compact from head to h. A.T. 184 Went postboy at his h. J.G. 230 For Reynard, close attended at his h. N.A. 124 A business with an income at its h. R. 615 Had made the vessel h. R.G. 7With slipshod h., and dewdrop at his nose T. 144 A growing dread of vengeance at his h. T. 258 With belted waist and pointed at their h. T. ii 753 He climbs, he pants, he grasps them! At his h. T. iv 60 Close at his h., a demagogue ascends T. iv 61 [iv546] Ill propped upon French h.; she might be deemed T. Expect her soon with footboy at her h. T. iv 550 His dog attends him. Close behind his h. T. v 47 To madness; while the savage at his h. T. vi 422 Some royal mastiff panting at their h. T.T. 35 [vi 332 Then stops and snorts, and, throwing high his h. T.

· HEIGHT.

Hangs out her lamp in you carulean h. A.T. 138 Duly, as ever on the mountain's h. Ch. 260 That throned above all h. He condescends Ch. 587 The Lily's h. bespoke command L.R. 13 Like sunbeams on the golden h. Mrs. M- 35 And he shall gild you mountain's h. again P.E. 69 And posted on this speculative h. T. i 289 To an enormous and o'erbearing h. T. ii 112 To shake thy senate, and from h. sublime T. ii 216 To the sharp peak of her sublimest h. T. iii 157 To some secure and more than mortal h. T. iv 96 To some not steep, though philosophic h. Tir. 631 Fond of the speculative h. Tran. ii 13

HEIR.

Is still the progeny and h. of sin Ch. 344 [Tir. 356 Whose h., their honours none, their incomes small For thou art born sole h., and single E. iv 3 [Tir. 708] And, as thou wouldst the advancement of thine h. Than how to enrich thyself, and next, thine h. Tir.661

HELD.

He breaks the cord that h. him at the rack Ch. 173 Heaven h. his hand, the likeness must be true Ch. 434 H. within modest bounds, the tide of speech Con. 889 Seized fast his hand, h. out to set them free Ex. 219 Or caken fence that h. the paddock round T.T. 583

By joys possessed, and joys still h. in chase Ex. 669 H. by the tenure of his will alone Ex. 673 And h. accustomed conference with my heart F.A. They could have h. the conduct they pursue H. 256

He h. them up, and in his turn J.G. 185 I always h. them in the right Pat. 7

But all unconscious whom it h. R.C 52 His fingers h. the pen R.G. 22

He h. the thunder. But the monarch owes T i 382 Than all that h. their routs in Juno's heaven! T. ii 660

The mind was well-informed, the passions h. T. ii 715 Long h, and scarcely disengaged at last T. iii 16 And sealed with the same token. It is h. T. v 547

Propense his heart to idols, he is h. T. v 585 [574 Not so when, h. within their proper bounds T. vi Which having served us, perish, we are h. T. vi 604

The auburn nut that h, thee, swallowing down Y.0.20 HELICON.

HELL. That Heaven and $H_{\cdot, \cdot}$ and righteousness and $\sin Con$.

Call legions up from H. to back the deed Con. 691

"Who throw their H. about E. iv 85 To turn the course of H. that way T.T. 183

And H.'s close mischief naked in his sight Ez. 339 Legates and delegates, with powers from h. Ez. 514 From earth or h., we can but plunge at last "N.A. 122 Those awful syllables, H., Death, and Sin H. 690 Diffused, make Earth the vestibule of H.-P.E. 465 Death and the pains of H. attend him there P.E. 547Delusions strong as H. shall bind him fast P.E.609Death and Judgment, Heaven and H. St. iv 29 He reads his sentence at the flames of H.-T.10 [686 Tempered in h., invades the throbbing breast T. in Of Earth and H. confederate take away T. v 541 Possess the heart, and fables false as h. T. v 862

Asked, when in \dot{H} , to see the royal jail T.T. 94 HELLISH.

"O cursed Hypothesis! your h. arts A.T. 113 With such a jest as filled with h. glee Con. 737 That h. foes, confederate for his harm T. v 735

HELM.

And darting through his h. an eagle's eye A.T. 148 Buckled his h., and to his steed repaired A.T. 172 And hoped to seize his abdicated h. Ex. 577

HELMET.

With h, heads, and dragon-scales adorned R. 69 His hat, or his plumed h., with a grace T, iv 643 Of trophied h., spears, and shields 1789, 4

HELP.

Entreated "H.!" or cried-"Adieu!" Cast. 42 Quickens a market, and h. off the trash Ch. 522 By Contemplation's h., not sought in vain M.P.114Need h., let honest industry provide P.E. 252 Need h., denies them nothing but his name T. iv 428 Not more in human h., than we on theirs T. vi 609Where Discipline h. opening buds of sense T.T. 508

HELPLESS.

Thou tutelary friend of h men? Ch. 42 And h., hopeless, hear thee say— O. ii 23 Thus some retire to nourish h. woe R. 603 Thine h. charge, dependent on thy care T. iv 369 But h., in few years shall find their hands T. iv 423 And h. victims with a sense so keen T. vi 475 In aiding h. indigence, in works T. vi 964

HEMMED.

Oh comfortless existence! h. around T. v 432 HERALD.

A h. of God's love to pagan lands Ch. 136 The busy h. hang the sable scene H. 264 That A. ere designed Q.V. 24 He comes, the h. of a noisy world T. iv 5

Sips meek infusions of a milder h. Con. 268 And drought on all the drooping h. around E. ii 50 With every h. that blunts the sense Miss - 23 [38 The h. as soft, while nibbling strayed the rest N.A. He bears the h. and flowers rejoicing all N.A. 60 The grain, or h., or plant that each demands R. 788 Smells fresh, and, rich in odoriferous h. T. i 581 His favourite h.; while all the leafless groves T. iv 319 What are the casements lined with creeping h. T. iv Beneath the frozen clode all acceptance. And eyes intent upon the scanty h. T. v 786

HERBAGE.

Vines, olives, h., forests disappear Her. 23 Upon the yielding h. (so they sing) T. iv 521 HERCULANEAN.

Models of H. pots and pans P.E. 398 Not formed like us, with such H. powers T.T. 235 HERD.

Henceforth associate in one common h. Con. 76 That fed the flocks and h. of wealthy Lot Ex. 419 Nor h. have ye to boast, nor bleating flocks H. 466 The lawless h., with fury blind M. ii 13 And hills that echo to the distant h. R. 184 I was a stricken deer that left the h. T. iii 108 Unpeople all our counties of such h. T. iii 831 The total h. receiving first from one T. vi 335 [688 There, in his commerce with the liveried h. Tir. Swarmed with a scribbling h., as deep inlaid T.T628

HERDSMAN.

That screen the h.'s solitary hut T. i 168

HERESY.

Then Truth is hushed, that H. may preach Ex. 107 HERMIT.

A H. (or if 'chance you hold Mor. 1 As H. could have well desired Mor. 4 Your h., young and jovial sirs! Mor. 23 See the sage h., by mankind admired T. 87 Ten starveling h. suffer less than he T. 112 T168 Where h. and where Bramins meet with theirs T.

HERO.

And tears by bards or h. shed Cast. 53 That now and then a h. must decease Con. 175 The reeking, roaring h. of the chase Con. 405 H. and worthies of days past, thy sires? Ex. 658 What are ye, monarchs, laurelled h., say Her. 77 Some headless h., or some Cæsar shows P.E. 395 Of h. little known, and call the rant T. iii 140 To Nature's praises. H. and their feats T. iv 705 Of h., whose infirm and baby minds T. v 190 Were burnished into h., and became T. v 280 The minor k. view with envious eyes Tir 223 The feats of h, and the wrath of kings T.T. 597

HEROIC.

As ever mingled with h. dust Ch. 24 A stream of liberal and h. deeds Ch. 245 Than that h. strut assumed before Con. 490 Impelled thee more to that h. course J.T. 34 Of patriots, bursting with h. rage T. iv 48

That takes not fire at their h. deeds T.T. 26 H. song from thy free touch acquires T.T. 292 Make their h. powers your own at once T.T. 570

HEROSHIP.

And, his three years of h. expired T. iv 641 HESITATE.

No muse can h., or linger long) Tir. 291

HESITATION.

With h. admirably slow Con. 123 To banish h., and proclaim H. 63

HETEROGENEOUS.

Their h. politics F. 128

HEW.

To enrich thy walls; but thou didst h. the floods T. v133

HEWED.

[Tir. 303

Though mangled, hacked, and h., not yet destroyed And h. them link from link. There Albion's sons T. \forall

HEWING.

At h. mountains into men, and some $T_* v 178$ HEWN.

Oaks fell not, h. by thousands, to supply Y.O. 101 HID.

Has he not h, thee, and thy favoured land E_x . 562 Our friend's defect long h, from sight F. 149 That remedy, not h. in deeps profound H. 111 There h. in losthed obscurity, removed R. 563 Long h, by interposing hill or wood T. 249 As, h. from ages past, God now displays Tir. 638 Of treeship—first a seedling h. in grass Y.O. 61

Like h. lamps in old sepulchral urns Con. 358 And h. as it is, and far remote T. i 228 In cities, vice is h. with most case T. i 689

Not even birds can h. A Tale 66 He h. behind a magisterial air Ch. 493 And h. past folly from all-seeing eyes? Ex. 405 [481] Taught thee to clothe thy pinked and painted h. Ex. Where oft the bitch-fox h, her hapless brood N.A.4And h. the ruin that it feeds upon P.E. 286 Themselves will h. its coarseness with a veil P.E. 292 To h. the shocking features of her face P.E. 298 Beneath your shades your grey possessor h. R. 368 Dewdrops may deak the turf that h. the bones St. ii 31 Crush me, ye rocks; ye falling mountains h. T. 269And h. his hands to keep his fingers warm T. 148With base materials, sat on well-tanned h. T. i 51 That h, the seamew in his hollow clefts T, i 519 The livelong night. A tattered apron h. T. i 549 Worn as a cloak, and hardly h., a gown T. i 550 And bow obsequious, h. their hate of her T. ii 646 And bid them h, themselves in earth beneath T, iii 213 These on the warm and genial earth that h. T. iii 516 Here every drop of honey h. a sting T. vi 830 That h. divinity from mortal eyes T. vi 877 And badger-colored h. T.B. 36When Avarice starves, and never h, his face T.T.

BIDEOUS

With all these h. howlings to the skies N.A. 88 More h. foes than fancy can devise R. 68 Or with vortiginous and h. whirl T. ii 102 Would find them h, nurseries of the spleen T, iii 318 Is Winter h. in a garb like this? T. iv 194

HIDING.

The neat conveyance h. all the offence T. vi 980

HIGH.

And on her wickerwork h. mounted A Fable 3 But suddenly a wind, as h. A Fable 10 To exalt a people, and to place them h. Con. 519 And h. in pedigree D.W. 6 They knew, by sure prognostics seen on h. Ex. 157 Leaped out of nothing, called by the most H. Es. 639 With ribbon-bound tassel on h. Gr. 2 [H. 812 That all might mark—knight, menial, h., and low Stood pilloried on infamy's h. stage H. 556 [N.A. 25 With tails h. mounted, ears hung low, and throats Is there One who reigns on h. ? N. C. 26 Now, while the poison all h. life pervades P.E. 347 And steeples towering h., much like our own P.E.382The ocean serves, on h. Q.V. 18 For Heaven's h. purposes, and not his own R. 18 Would mock the majesty of man's h. birth R. 71 Nightly lifts his voice on h. St. iv 6 Thankless for favours from on h. St. v 1H. in demand, though lowly in pretence T. 93 And bruised the side, and, elevated h. T. i 66 Upridged so h., and sent on such a charge T. ii 116 And roofs embattled h., the gloomy scenes T. ii 122 Delicious, when her patriots of h. note T. iv 170 No less than hers, not worn indeed on h. T. iv 255 Sofa, and couch, and h. built throne august T. v. 164 Here glittering turrets rise, upbearing h. T. v 110 At building human wonders mountain h. T. v 179 Beat h. within them at a mother's wrongs T. v 519 His h. endeavour, and his glad success T. v 901 [vi 332 Then stops and snorts, and throwing h. his heels T. The very kine that gambol at h. noon T. vi 334 (As if barbarity were h. desert) T. vi 435 [T. vi 497] Beats back the roaring surge, scarce heard so h. No need of lightnings from on h. The Doves 33

Have raised you h. as talents can ascend V. 13 HIGH-BRED.

His h. steed expands his nostrils wide A.T. 163

Patient, affectionate, of h. command Tir. 602

No. His h. mettle, under good control T.T. 308

HIGHER.

But h. far my proud pretensions rise M.P. 110 Her smile his aim, all h. aims farewell R. 246 A h. than a mere plebeian fame Tir. 691

HIGHEST.

Around their flight who h. soar) Mrs. M— 48 Whose h. praise is that they live in vain R. 23 And h. in renown, can justly boast R. 676 Now which stands h. in your serious thought? T. 221 The balance in the h. place Th. 11 Stooped from its h. pitch to pounce a wren T.T. 553

HIGH-FINISHED.

Thou polished and h. foe to truth P.E. 341

HIGH-LIFTED.

While the billows h. the boat M.D. 7

HIGHLY.

And only there, please h. for their sake T. 209

HIGH-MINDED.

H., foaming out their own disgrace T. vi 898

HIGH-RAISED.

Or with the h. horn's melodious clang N.A. 35

HIGH-SOUNDING.

Ah, tinkling cymbal and h. brass T. v 681

HIGHT.

October h., but mild and fair as May A.T. 71

HIGHWAYMAN.

"Stop thief! stop thief!—a h.!" J.G. 237

HIGHWAY-SIDE. Suburban villas, h. retreats R. 481

HILL

H., valleys, rivers, and the boundless sea A.T. 49 But groves, h., and valleys diffuse C. 39 [Ch. 368 Some through the groves, some down the sloping h. Perched on the top of yonder h. E. i 44

Perched on the top of yonder h. E. i 44 One story more, dear H., and I have done E. iii 45 She spreads the morning over eastern h. H. 41

She spreads the morning over eastern h. H. 41
And from the trees that fringed his h. Mor. 14 [34
Told h. and dale that Reynard's track was found N.A.
And h. that echo to the distant herds R. 184

Nor soft declivities with tufted h. R. 333 And bid her mountains and her h. rejoice R. 362 Long hid by interposing h. or wood T. 249 [113]

Long hid by interposing h. or wood T. 249 [113 O'er h., through valleys, and by river's brink T. i 'Tis perched upon the green h. top, but close T. i 222 Of h and valley interposed between T i 322

The perched upon the green h. top, but close T.1222 Of h. and valley interposed between T. i 322 The air salubrious of her lofty h. T. i 428

The h. move lightly, and the mountains smoke T. ii 91 That draw the sportsman over h. and dale T. iii 310 Woods vanish, h. subside, and valleys rise T. iii 775 Noiseless, appears a moving h. of snow T. iv 346

Noiseless, appears a moving h, of snow T, iv 346 The h and valleys with their ceaseless songs T, v 78 These meadows and that range of h, his own T, v 223 Of no mean city, planned or ere the h. T, v 764

Upon the southern side of the slant h. T. vi 59 Would creep into the bowels of the h. T. vi 867

HILLOCKS. Our foot half sunk in h, green and soft T. i 272

HINDER. .

No noise is here, or none that h. thought T. vi 76

That may advance but cannot h. thing T. vi 955

That may advance, but cannot \(\lambda\), thine T. vi 955 HINDRANCE.

And meets with h. in the smoothest way P.E. 443 If h. obstruct thy way Trans. H. 31

HINDS.

Knew their own masters, and laborious h. T. iii 747

HINGE. Swinging the parlour door upon its h. E. iii 21 Say on what h. does his obedience move? T. 207

s his obedience move? T. ? HINT

I am no preacher; let this h. suffice P.E. 621 He cultivates. These serve him with a h. T. iv 758

HIPS.
Her elbows pinioned close upon her h. T. 133

Her elbows pinioned close upon her h. T. 133 I fed on scarlet h. and stony haws T. i 120

HIRE.

Who vote for h., or point it with lampoon Con. 29
"Do they themselves, who undertake for h. T. v 644
Why h. a lodging in a house unknown Tir. 555

Why h. a lodging in a house unknown Tir. 555

The nurse sleeps sweetly, h. to watch the sick T. i To more than he is h. or bound to teach Tiv. 732

HIRELING

Scorns the base h., and the slavish drudge T. 228
The wearied h finds it a release T w 411

The wearied h. finds it a release T. v. 411

HIS8.

Would h. the cherub Mercy from the stage T. 478
HISSED.

110040.

All mercy from his lips, and sneered and h. H. 561

HISSING.

And while the bubbling and loud h, urn T. iv 38

The poet's or h,'s page by one T, iv 158

HISTORIC.

In vain recorded in h. page B.B. 3 Their names to the sweet lyre. The H. Muse T. v 707 And the sixth Edward's, grace the h. page T.T. 106 In many a page h. strayed 1789, 22

HISTORICAL.

Her utmost reach, h. assent Con. 777

HISTORY.

This h. chanced of late A Tale 10 This h. of a wedded pair A Tale 11 Ask now of H.'s authentic page Ex. 161 The Saviour's h. makes known F. 206 'Tis now become a h. little known M.P. 52 A h.: describe the man, of whom T. iii 141 And $H_{\cdot, \cdot}$ so warm on meaner themes $T_{\cdot, \cdot}$ v 729 And when recording H. displays T.T. 21 Then leave their crimes for H. to scan T.T. 119 Is truth, if h. itself be true T.T. 399 The clock of h., facts and events Y.O. 46 With problems. H. not wanted yet Y.O. 159

HISTRIONIC.

And h. mummery, that let down T. ii 563 Illustrious h. patentee V. 29

HIT.

And therefore 'tis a mark fools never h. Con. 880 HITCH.

Knots and impediments make something h. Con. 108

HIVES.

And bees in h, as idly wait N. 3 Our public h. of puerile resort Tir. 458

HOARD.

What pleasure can the miser's fondled h. J.T. 15The squirrel here his h, provides M.B, 5 And h. them in her sleeve; but needful food T. i 554

HOARSENESS.

And by the h. of his note Trans. ii 2

HOARY.

Sat the Druid, A. chief B. 6 Such freedom is ;—and Windsor's h. towers Ex, 598 Above the reach of man: his h. head T. i 520 That at the sound of Winter's h. wing T. iii 830

HODGE.

The morning came, when neighbour H.—A Fable 24 Dame Gurton thus, and H. her son E. iv 39 While eager H. beholds the prize E. iv 43

From the whole h, to be debarred L.W. 12 Mahometans eat up the h. L.W. 22

HOIST.

Now h. the sail, and let the streamers float T. ii 255

HOLD.

When one that h, communion with the skies Ch. 435 H.a usurped dominion o'er his tongue Con. 462 [606 The churches warmed, they would no longer h. Ch. She boasts a confidence she does not h. Con. 768 Must h. both sisters, never seen apart Ex. 635 She k. a Paradise of rich delight \hat{H} . 60

His offspring h. in his paternal care H. 140 Hope, as an anchor firm and sure, h. fast H. 167 Even till his spacious hall would h, no more H. 309 To h. the liquor that she loved J.G. 67 A Hermit (or if 'chance you h. Mor. 1 I h. it therefore wisest and most fit N.A. 103 Nor h. forbidden joys in view 0. ii 5 And through life's labyrinth h. fast the clue P.E. 357 For 'tis a rule that h. for ever true P.E. 534 To h. discourse, at least in fable P.T. 4 And h. the world indebted to your aid R. 665 He h. no parley with unmanly fears R.H. 5 And h, them dangling at arm's length in scorn T, 164 The paralytic, who can h. her cards T. i 472 That life h out to all, should most abound T i 752 Who then that has thee, would not h. thee fast T. ii 129 The earth shall shake him out of all his h. T. ii 146 The mirror of the mind, and h. them fast T. ii 291 Exposes, and h. up to broad disgrace T. ii 553 A relaxation of Religion's h. T. ii 569 They gaze upon the links that h, them fast T, ii 664 That h mankind together, to a scourge T ii 687 Which not e'en critics criticise: that h. T. iv 51 Perched on the signpost, h. with even hand T. iv 483 Your self-denying zeal, that h. it good T. v 328 Eradicate him, tear him from his h.T. v 437With ease, and is at large. The oppressor h. T. v 774Much conversant with Heaven, she often h. T. v 815 And seeking grace to improve the prize they h. T. vi55H. an unthinking multitude enthrall'd T. vi 101 The charter was conferred, by which we h. T. vi 451 Supplied such relics as devotion h. T. vi 689 H. its due course, nor fears the frost of age T. vi 790 H. no ignoble, though a slighted, place T. vi 971 H. fast her office here, can ne'er forget Tir. 134 Maintains its h. with such unfailing away Tir. 316 Either his gratitude shall h. him fast Tir. 893 He that h fast the golden mean Trans. H. 7 [273 Free to prove all things, and h. fast the best T.T. That h, in view the good of man U. 24 H. up the cloth before Y.D. 44 The stubborn soil, and h. thee still erect Y.O. 119

HOLDING.

Then h the spectacles up to the Court A.C. 18 HOLD'ST.

And dreaded as thou art! Thou h, the sun T, iv. 129 HOLES

And drilled in h., the solid oak is found T. i 26 [86] Thinsall their numerous flocks. In chinks and h. T. v

On all the wings of h. delight) Ch. 548 No h. have seen J.G. 8 Humour in h., and sightly trim T.T. 643

HOLINESS.

With h. and consecrated rest P.E. 158

HOLLOW.

And had a h. with a wheel A Tale 35 With h. form, and gesture, and grimace Ex. 122 Weighing them in the h. of his hand Es. 343 A h. scooped, I judge, in ancient time N.A. 17 That hides the seamew in his h. clefts T. i 519 She quakes at his appproach. Her h. womb T. ii 88 So h, and so false—I feel my heart T, iii 182 Its h. glens, its thickets, and its plains T. vi 402

HOLLOW'D.

That age or injury has h, deep T. vi 311

HOLLOW-EYED.

H. Abstinence, and lean Despair H. 58

HOLLOW-TRUNKED.

A shattered veteran, λ . perhaps Y.O. 4 HOLY.

The temple and its h. rites profaned Ex. 145 Thy services, once h. without spot Ex. 261 H, and unpolluted: are thine such? Ex. 447 Those h. men, so full of truth and grace Ex. 618 God's h. word, once trivial in his view H. 706 And pleased at heart, because on h. ground T. 232 Hence a demeanour h. and unspecked T. 281 Of h, writ, she has presumed to annul T, i 741 With what intent I touch that h. thing) T. ii 328 Of h. discipline, to glorious war T. ii 348 Truths undiscerned but by that h. light T. iii 242 That makes a minister in h. things T. iii 280 Whose eye they fill with tears of h. joy T. ▼ 750 That His most h. book, from whom it came T. vi 650

HOMAGE.

The lambent h. of his arrowy tongue T. vi 782

HOME. Their roofless h. they fixed A Tale 38 To wing all her moments at h. C. 50His floating h. for ever left Cast. 6 At my best h., if not exiled from thee" Ch. 243 From Sparta hither, and art here at h. Ch. 271 To traverse seas, range kingdoms, and bring h. Ch. 301 Has left some hundreds without h. or food Ch. 468 H. to the goal where it began the race Ch. 566 Called on a friend, drank tea, stepped h. again Con. 278 But when you knock, it never is at h. Con. 304 As from a seven years' transportation h. Con. 400 Discourse, as if released and safe at h. Con. 571 His happy eloquence seemed there at h. Con. 622 Make every parish but their own their h. Con. 860 "Nay—stay at h. —you're always going out "E. iii 25 He finds his long, last k. Ep. ii 38 [Con. 529]
That reaching k., "The night," they said, "is near And having trucked thy soul, brought h. the fee Ex. 374 And all at h. is pleasure, wealth, and ease Ex.583Reclaim the wandering thousands and bring h. Ex. 728 Is Hope exotic? Grows it not at h.? H. 549 Engaged myself to be at h. M.F. 12 Thy morning bounties ere I left my h. M.P. 60 Forced from h. and all its pleasures N.C. 1 little nearer h. Pat. 4 Like a slain deer, the tumbrel brings him h. P.E. 94Their answer to the call it-" Not at h." P.E. 168 From school to Cam or Isis, and thence h. P.E. 369 Excels a dunce that has been kept at h. P.E. 416If a wish wander that way, call it h. P.E. 586 To the fair haven of my native h. R. 385 Revered at h., and felt in foreign lands R. 412 Obsequious when abroad, though proud at h. R. 440 Else more attached to pleasures found at h. R. 518 Start it at h., and hunt it in the dark R. 693 Have found their h., the grave St. i 4 "My h. henceforth is in the skies St. iii 9 Soon the grave must be your h. St. iv 15 Or ford the rivulets, are best at h. T. 217 Then welcome refuge, and a peaceful h. T. 267 And heaven, no doubt, shall be their h. at last T. 296 She, never heard of half a mile from h. T. 334 Still hungering, pennyless, and far from h. T. i 119 And, heavy laden, brings his beverage h. T. i 242 Who scorns it, starves deservedly at h. T. i 435 That thieves at h. must hang but he that puts T. i 736 We have no slaves at h.: —'then why abroad? T. ii 37 Consulting England's happiness at h. T. ii 246 And show the name ye might conceal at h. T. ii 279 But rare at h., and never at his books T. ii 383 Is hackneyed h. unlackeyed; who, in haste T. ii 652

Have we not tracked the felon λ ., and found T. ii 813 His devious course uncertain, seeking h. T. iii 3 That brings the planets h. into the eye T. iii 230 Innocent partner of my peaceful h. T. iii 337 Delightful industry enjoyed at h. T. iii 356 His warm but simple h., where he enjoys T. iii 38. May turn the clod, and wheel the compost h. T. iii 637 Runs the great circuit, and is still at h. T. iv 119 [236] Which seen delights him not; then coming h. T. iv That sweeps the bolted shutter, summons h. T. iv 304 Neglected pine at h., themselves, as more T. iv 456 To swear, to game, to drink; to show at h. T. iv 652 Chains nowhere patiently, and chains at A. T. v 478 "Ordained to guide the embodied spirit h. T. v 840 Below the skies, but having there his h. T. vi 914 With what intense desire he wants his h. Tir. 562 Thus bringing h, to him the most remote Tir. 643 Not occupied in day-dreams, as at h. Tir. 775 [757 Saved, from his h., where every day brings forth Tw. When thou, transplanted from thy genial h. Tir. 850 What burns at h., or threatens from afar T.T. 447 This Bedlam part; and others nearer A. T.T. 609 Then let the boobies stay at h. Y.D. 65 HOME-BORN.

Fireside enjoyments, h. happiness T. iv 140

HOMELESS.

The h. birds a nest? A Tale 28

Serves, in a plain and h. way E. i 3

HOMELY-FEATURED.

Like h. Night, of clustering gems T. iv 252

HOMER.

Or can, the more than H. of his age? T. vi 647 What need of H.'s verse, or Tully's prose Tir. 399 Ages elapsed ere H.'s lamp appeared T.T. 556

HOMESTALL.

And h. thatched with leaves. But hast thou found Γ .

HOMEWARD.

There from the sunburnt hayfield h. creeps T. i. 295 Bound h., and in hope already there T. i 522

HOMOGENEAL.

Of h. and discordant springs T. ii 190

HONEST.

That stripped him bare, and broke his h. heart Ch. 54 And h. Merit stands on slippery ground Ch. 284 Would hang an h. man, and save a thief Con. 128 Never, if h. ones, when death is sure Con. 408 An h. man, close-buttoned to the chin E. iii 62 Act but an h, and a faithful part Ex. 556 If h. eulogy can spare thee room H. 589 Whose lines uniting by an h. art H. 756 As h, and more eloquent than mine J.T. 8 Need help, let h. industry provide P.E. 252 Thus Heaven approves, as h. and sincere T. 225 I see thee weep, and thine are h. tears T. i 657
That he is h. in the sacred cause T. ii 375 And all their h. pleasures. Mansions once T.iii 746 So he may wrap himself in h. rags T. iii 806 To soothe their h. pride, that scorns to beg T. iv 405 If, therefore, e'en when h. in design Tir. 452

HONESTY.

H. shines with great advantage there H. 402 A knave when tried on h.'s plain rule H. 566

But we that make no h., though we sting Con. 289

The h. on his tongue M. ii 16 Can gather h. from a weed P.B. 36 And spreads the h. of his deep research T. iv 112 Here every drop of h. hides a sting T. vi 830

HONEYED.

Those open on the spot their h. store P.E. 49

HONOUR.

"H., esteem and confidence forgot A.T. 111 The Point of H. has been deemed of use Con. 163 Whatever Use may urge, or H. plead Con 189 To take his h.'s orders, cap in hand Con. 416 That 'tis an h. and a joy to pay Con. 646 Conspire to h. thee Dr. 4 While H., Virtue, Piety, bear sway Ex. 326 Designed, in h. of his endless love H. 121 A right to the meek h. of her name) H. 236 All the grim h. of his ghastly court H. 261 Ye monarchs, whom the lure of h. draws Her. 41 Who bidst me h. with an artless song M.P. 13 Such h. to thee as my numbers may M.P. 71 From vulgar minds, have h. much at heart R. 728 Have changed the woods, in scarlet h. bright T. i 320 Whom we call gay? That h. has been long T. i 491 And liberty, and oft-times h. too T. i 734 Farewell those h., and farewell with them T. ii 239 The h. of the turf as all our own T. ii 277 Of h., perjury, corruption, frauds T. ii 669 Of h., dignity, and fair renown! T. iii 59 Her sex's h., was renounced herself T. iii 77 Men too, were nice in h. in those days T. in 85 Her crimson h.; and the spangled beau T. iii 578 ()f h., or emolument, or fame T. iv 785 At random, without h., hope, or peace T. v 899 Then each, in its peculiar h. clad T. vi 147 The h.'s of his matchless horse his own T. vi 438 Deserving h., but for wisdom more T. vi 491 Wins public h.; and ten thousand sit T. vi 633 And hang it up in h. of a man P) T. vi 641 Her h., her emoluments, her joys T. vi 923 The h. of his ebon poll T.B. 13 [356 Whose heirs, their h. none, their income small Tir. [356] His wealth, fame, h., all that I intend Tir. 389 Least qualified in h., learning, worth Tir. 413 Some give that h. to his tail Trans. i 7 In H's field advancing his firm foot T. T. 16 For senatorial h. Thus to Time Y.O. 103

HONOURABLE.

They wept the wrongs of h. love A.T. 98 In h. bumps his rich amends Con. 200 And fruit reward his h. toil H. 761 Though I revere your h. names R. 668 Such squalid sloth to h. soil! T. i 579 The world accounts an h. man Tir. 738 Men well endowed, of h. parts Tir 836

HONOURED.

Hail, h. land! a desert where A Tale 65 Canst thou, and h. with a Christian name Ch. 180 And add Right Reverend to Smug's h. name H. 438 Thy generous powers, but silence h. thee S. i 7 Was sacred, and was h., loved, and wept T. ii 786

HOOD-WINKED.

Surrender judgment, h. Some the style T. vi 102

HOOF.

Ore'er his h. had pressed the crumbling verge T. vi 519 With pointed h. dibbling the glebe prepared Y.O. 26

HOOK.

And baits its h. with prodigies and lies Con. 224 To mare the mole, or with ill-fashioned h. R. 401

Nor baited h, deceive the fish's eye T, iii 313 H. disappointment on the public wheels T.T. 146

HOOPS.

And filleted about with h. of brass T. v 402

HOPE.

And spread her golden h. below A Fable 15 Vain our delusive h. of constant knights A.T. 100 And may his h. be true! A Tale 64 With little to h. or to fear C. 54 Of friends, of h., of all bereft Cast. 5 The fears and h. of a commercial care Ch. 279 Thrives against H., and in the rudest scene Ch. 575 In h. to gain, what else I must have lost Ch. 630 And when I h. his blunders are all out Con. 117 He humbly h.—presumes—it may be so Con. 124 Some handsome present, as your h. presage Con. 306 You speak with life, in h. to entertain Con. 327 Your h. to please him vain on every plan Con. 341 Physicians write in h. to work a cure Con. 407 Their object, and their subject, and their h. Com. 542 Can h. of Heaven, bright prospects of an hour Con. 591 Oh! I have seen (nor h. perhaps in vain Con. 605 And, farewell else all h. of pure delight Con. 681 Their h., desires, and purposes estranged Con. 725 Her h. presumption, and her faith a lie Con. 774 Still haunts, in h. to dream of youth again Ex. 26 When we were visited, what h. for you? Ex. 248 Their h. in Heaven, servility their scorn Ex. 440 For ears and hearts that he can h. to please? Ex.451In h. of permanent delight F. 68 With still less h. of thriving F. 144 To recommence life's trial, in the h. F.A. 4 And h., in due time, to behold Gr. 31 The inquirer's aim, that remedy, is H.-H. 114 Of sensual evil, and thus H. is born H. 152 H. sets the stamp of vanity on all H. 153 H., with uplifted foot, set free from earth H. 161 H., as an anchor firm and sure, holds fast H. 167 H.! nothing else can nourish and secure H. 169 H.! let the wretch, once conscious of the joy H. 171 Forgiveness, and the privilege of h. H. 214 Nor h. have they, nor lear of aught to come H. 254 Life without h. can close but in despair H. 274 Thus h. of every sort, whatever sect H. 294
The Christian H. is—Waiter, draw the cork H. 361
Shall answer—"H., sweet H., has set me free H. 536 Is H. exotic? Grows it not at home? H. 549 Your H. shall stand unblamed, perhaps admired H. 616 If not that H. the Scripture has required H. 617 All h. despair, that stands not on his cross H. 632 That folly ends where genuine H. begins H. 637 Parent of H., immortal Truth! make known H. 663 Must spring that H, he pants to make his own H. 709 When H., long lingering, at last yields the ghost H.723 Of him whom H. has with a touch made whole H.731 That H, which can alone exclude despair H. 751 The peasant's h., and not in vain, assured Her. 9 In h. to bask a little yet Mor. 21 There no delusive h. invites despair P.E. 617 Scorned by the rest, with patient h, they wait R, 165 Whatever h. a change of scene inspires R. 679 His soul exults, H. animates his lays R. 777 He has no h. who never had a fear T. 298 The Scripture yields) or h. to find, a friend? T. 440 Truth, H., and Charity, and touched with awe T. i 2 Bound homeward, and in h. already there T. i 522 With conflict of contending h, and fears T i 668 By other h, and richer fruits than yours T i 677 By frequent lapse, can h. no triumph there T. i 691 The h. of such hereafter! They have fallen T. ii 240 Should speak to purpose, or with better h. T. iii 25

And find the total of their h, and fears T, iii 132 [788] Just when it meets his h., and proves the Heaven T. iii And spreads his h. before the blaze of day T. iii 445 To his young h., requires discreet delay T. iii 504 The h. of better things, the chance to win T. iii 828 And I can weep, can h., and can despond T. iii 841 That flattered me with h. of earthly bliss T. iv 696 Had found me, or the h. of being free T. iv 699 Of freedom, in that h. itself possess $T. \vee 375$ And then alternate, with a sickly h. T. v 428That he at last forgets it. All his h. T. v 591So I with animated h. behold T. v 837 At random, without honour, h., or peace T. v 899 Must drop indeed the h. of public praise T. vi 978 And his end sure, without one glimpse of h. Tir. 427 To such base h., in many a sordid soul Tir. 460 [359 They risk their h., their dearest treasure, there? Tir. But though the joys he h. beneath your roof Tir. 563 And hopest thou not ('tis every father's h.) Tir. 875 And h. in spite of pain Trans. H. 21 Nor judge by statute a believer's h. T.T. 72 Must h. to look upon their like again T.T. 661 We hug the h. of constancy and truth V. 53 All h. of happiness below 1789, 53

And h. to seize his abdicated helm E_{θ} . 577 Jack knew his friend, but h. in that disguise R. 587 He hated, h., and loved St. iii 22 Nor h., but in thy righteousness divine T. 576

HOPEFUL.

With show of love, at least with h. proof T. ii 558 With h. gems. The rest, no portion left T. iii 421 HOPELESS. Perish, h. and abhorr'd B. 15

"My dear deliverer out of h. night Ch. 234 Makes contradiction such a h. case Con. 60 A h. task, and damns them if they fail H. 392 And helpless, h., hear thee say - O. ii 23 With h. wish one looks and lingers P.B. 88 And h. of repose St. v 12 Now drenched throughout, and h. of his case T. 246 Solicit pleasure, h. of success T. ii 685 H. indeed that dissipated minds T. iii 695 Inveterate, h. of a cure, conspires T. iv 577 Cruelly spared, and h. of escape! T. ▼ 899 Ages of h. misery. Future death T. v 607

HOPEST.

And h. thou not ('tis every father's hope) Tir. 875 HOPHNI.

H. and Phineas may describe the rest Ex. 449

HOPING.

But me, scarce h. to attain that rest M.P. 100 HOPKINS.

Hail, Sternhold then, and H., hail! Amen T.T.760HORACE.

Anacreon, H., played in Greece and Rome T.T. 608

HORATIO.

"A friend!" H. cried, and seemed to start E. iii 28 H.'s servant once, with bow and cringe E. iii 20

HORIZON.

Seen in the dim h., turns thee pale T. i 667 That skirt the h., wore a sable hue T. iv 320 Ascending, fires the h.; while the clouds T. v 2

Poured out from Plenty's overflowing h. Ex. 10

To sound his h., and publish it abroad H. 311 Or with the high-raised h.'s melodious clang N.A. 35 Beneath a pane of thin translucent h. Tir. 120 Hark! 'tis the twanging h. o'er yonder bridge T. iv!

HORRIBLE.

Than reign in this h. place 4.8.8 His h. intent, again he sought T. vi 525

HORRID.

Whose h. perpetration stamps disgrace Ex. 416 And h. brambles intertwine below N.4. 16 Abrupt and h. as the tempest roars R. 533 To h. sounds of hostile feet within T. iv 571 Ye h. towers, the abode of broken hearts T. v 384

Minute the A. that ensued T.B. 52 And hang their h. in the neighbouring skies Her. 16

"To h.!" hecried, "or by this good right hand A.T Was equal to the swiftness of his h. A.T. 194 Whose only fit companion is his h. Con. 412 Can quell the love of freedom in a h. Ch. 172 If neither h. nor groom affect the squire Con. 419 Will lend his h. to go" J.G. 24 John Gilpin at his h.'s side J.G. 45 His h., who never in that sort J.G. 93 Which made his h's flanks to smoke J.G. 127 But yet his h. was not a whit J.G. 149 His h. at last stood still J.G. 160 "I came because your h. would come J.G. 173 So turning to his h., he said J.G. 197 Whereat his h. did snort, as he J.G. 205 The postboy's h. right glad to miss J.G. 231 Twas but a mile; your favorite h. M.F. 23 By panting dog, tired man, and spattered h. N.A. 12 And always, ere he mounted, kissed his h. R. 573 He that would win the race, must guide his h. T. 1 His h. and him, unconscious of them all T. iv 22 The h. as wanton, and almost as fleet T. vi 330 That wait on man, the flight performing h. T. vi 42 The honours of his matchless h. his own T. vi 488 His h., as he had caught his master's mood T. vi54 Agreed. But would you sell or slay your h. T.T. 30 A king, that would, might recommend his h. Tw. 41 A kick that scarce would move a h. Y.D. 63

HORSEBACK.

On h. after we" J.G. 16

HOSANNA.

A loud h. sent from all thy works $T. \times 888$ Earth rolls the rapturous h. round T. vi 797

HOSPITABLE.

By some kind, h. heart possessed T. 251 What England was, plain, h., kind T. iii 743

HOSPITALITY.

Where peace and k. might reign T. ii 617

HOSPITALS.

Or building h. on English ground? Ch. 44

HOST.

Their h, to move, and when it stayed to rest Ex. 18 Thy Levites, once a consecrated h. Ex. 263 The sacramental h. of God's elect T. ii 349 Shouting for joy.—" Tell me, ye shining h. T. v 52 His h, of wooden warriors to and fro T. . vi 266 Where all the attention of his faithful h. Tw. 769 Prowess to dissipate a h. 1789, 6

A long despised, but now victorious h. T.T. 473 hose deeds had left, in spite of h. arts Con, 518 horrid sounds of h. feet within T. iv 571

HOSTILE.

HOSTILITY.

d charged H. and Hate to roar Ex. 566 weakness, and h. by love T. v 703

HOT.

ports it h. or cold, or wet or dry Con. 386 sre basking h., and all in blow P.B. 2 s h. displeasure against foolish men T. ii 179 [742 hen sin hath moved him, and his wrath is h. T. vi ie little ones, unbutton'd, glowing h. Tir. 304

HOUND.

re lies, whom h. did ne'er pursue Ep. ii 1 e yet with ruthless joy the happy h. N.A. 33 ough not a h. from whom it burst appeared N.A. 46 sweet to huntsman, gentleman, and h. N.A. 131 ne beagle as the staunchest h. he keeps P.E. 87

HOUR.

incy endued her in her natal h.) A.T. 92 e long survives, who lives an h. Cast. 37 ad at this h. the conqueror feels the proof Ch. 60 e feel thy force still active, at this h. Ch. 272 after h., the yet unlettered boy Con. 12 by worst effect is banishing for h. Con. 253 now, your arrears with every h. accrue Con. 491 earts may be found that harbour at this h. Con. 561 nd chase the splenetic dull h. away Con. 582 [591 an hopes of Heaven, bright prospects of an h. Con. o tremble (as the creature of an h. Con. 657 rings forth that unexpected h. E. i 30 heds every h. a clearer light E. i 61 tedious h.—and now we never meet! E. iii 5 is frisking was at evening h. Ep. ii 25 ith self-indulgence winged the fleeting h. Ex. 71 hat balances the wings of every h. Ex. 321 lighter diet at a later h. Ex. 403 nd to this h., to keep it fresh in mind Ez. 516 after h., thy gratitude and love Ex. 561 an pause one h. to read a serious rhyme Ex. 605 ot that his h. devoted all to Care H. 57 o spend two h. in dressing for the day H. 80 ransient indeed, as is the fleeting h. H. 119 at Conscience, in some awful, silent h. H. 215 is h. no longer pass unmarked away H. 698 heir h., their days, in listening to his joy H. 789 in me, amid your silent h. Miss — 19 o may the rosy-fingered h. Miss — 97 is h. of study closed at last Mor. 5 ould Time, his flight reversed, restore the h. M.P.74 o crown the smiling h. N. 20 weet Harmony, that soothes the midnight h.!P.E. 66 f Sabbath h. with plausible excuse? P.E. 145 f some ungoverned passion every h. P.E. 276 ow to secure, in some propitions h. R. 141 nd every h, sweeps multitudes away R. 158 is h. of leisure and recess employs R. 215 after h. delightfully allot R. 373 hat early philosophic h. he keeps R. 429 nd talks and laughs away his vacant h. R. 452 occupied as well, employs his h. R. 507 ehold in these what leisure h. demand R. 701 or yet an A. to come St. i 26 most delightful h. by man St. iii 1 he h. that terminates his span St. iii 3 When my last h. arrives" St. iii 84 ecoil from weary life's best h. St. v 19 hen boast (but wait for that unhoped for h.) T. 401 ince the dear h. that brought me to thy foot T. 573 ho quits the coachbox at the midnight h. T. i 91

Nor his who quits the box at midnight h. T. i 98 Of h. that sorrow since has much endeared T. i 117 From strenuous toil his h. of sweetest case T. i 388 And now perhaps the glorious h, is come T, iii 790 And therefore more obnoxious at this h. T. iii 846 Compensating his loss with added h. T. iv 134 Of undisturbed Retirement, and the h. T. iv 142 Whose only happy are their wasted h. T. iv 225 And whether I devote thy gentle h. T. iv 261 Not undelightful is an h. to me T. iv 277 Thus oft reclined at ease, I lose an h. T. iv 302 All has its date below; the fatal h. T. v 529 [vi 85 May think down h. to moments. Here the heart T. Were driven from Paradise; and in that h. T. vi 380 An unsuspected storm. His h. was come T. vi 545 Receives advantage from his noiseless h. T. vi 944 If man be what he seems, this h. a slave, Tir. 59 At stated h., his freakish thoughts engage Tir. 606 And say, My boy, the unwelcome h. is come Tir. 849 The glass that bids man mark the fleeting h. T.T. 41 The crisis of a dark decisive h. T.T. 359He thought the dying h. already come T.T. 392 That h. elapsed, the incurable revolt T.T. 402 In penury consumed his idle h. T.T. 673 Who fret their h. and are forgotten things V. 46

HOUR-BELL.

To count the h., and expect no change T. v 404

HOUR-GLASS.

What should be, and what was an h, once T, iv 220

HOURLY.

Is that which angles h. for surprise Con. 223 H. allurements on his passions press P.E. 61 To h. use applied St. iii 20

HOUSE.

Resort on Sundays to the h. of prayer H. 242 Ethelred's h., the centre of six ways H. 302 "Stop, stop, John Gilpin!—Here's the h.!" J.G. 145 For why?—his owner had a h. J.G. 151 But to the h. went in J.G. 180 What a mere dungeon is this h.! M.F. 2 That once we called the pastoral k. our own M.P. 53 Your h. about your ears Pat. 16 Who deem his λ . a useless place 8t. vi 21 He likes your h., your housemaid, and your pay T. Or make his h. his grave: nor so contend T. ii 147 May be indifferent to her h. of clay T. ii 458 That sits a stigma on his father's h. T. ii 760 H. in ashes, and the fall of stocks T. iv 16 Stealing a sidelong glance at a full h. T. iv 201 Soothed with a waking dream of h., towers T. iv 287 Her h. of bondage, worse than that of old $T. \vee 882$ So in the chapel of old Ely H.T. vi 658 Above, below, in all the h. T.B. 19 In sacrilege, in God's own h. profaned Tir. 409 Why hire a lodging in a h. unknown Tir. 555 Or is thine h., though less superb thy rank Tir. 751

HOUSED.

But corn was h., and beans were in the stack N.A. 23

HOUSEHOLD.

We sacrifice to dress, till h. joys T. ii 613 Thy days roll on exempt from h. care T. iv 366

HOUSELESS.

The h. rovers of the sylvan world T. i 588

HOUSEMAID.

He likes your house, your h., and your pay T. 210

HOUSEWIFE.

But well thou playedst the h.'s part M. 17 The frugal h, trembles when she lights T, iv 380 Come trooping at the h.'s well known call T. v 61

HOUSEWIFELY.

When in came, h. inclined R.C. 49

HOVEL.

And slight the h. as beneath her care T. ii 459 Nor does the boarded h. better guard T. iv 443

HOVER. [own ? Tir. 556

For one whose tenderest thoughts all h. round your

HOVERED.

H. thy spirit o'er thy sorrowing son M.P. 23 HOVERING.

The screaming nations, h. in mid air H. 353 Or kites are h. near The Doves 22

HOWARD.

I must incur, forgetting H.'s name Ch. 296

HOWL.

And h. and roar as likes them, uncontrol'd T. vi 404 HOWLING.

And Danish h. scared thee as they passed Ex. 471 Me h. blasts drive devious, tempest-tossed M.P. 102 With all these hideous h. to the skies N.A. 88 He hears the tempest h, in the trees T. 254 By drunken h.; and the chilling tale T. iv 562

HOYS.

In coaches, chaises, caravans, and h. R. 521

Just fifteen minutes, h. up their work T. ii 412

HUDDLING. All h. into phalanx, stood and gazed N.A. 48

And verse, more lasting, h. that never fade Ch. 108 That souls have no discriminating h. Ch. 202 He talks of light, and the prismatic h. Ch. 391 Its odour perished, and its charming h. Con. 43 And never of a sabler h. than now) Ex. 395 Thus things terrestrial wear a different h. H. 69 They raised the h. and cry J. G. 236 "Yours is," she said, "the nobler h. L.R. 21 Presents it decked with every h. Mor. 30 The birds put off their every h. Mrs. M-1Knows what the freshness of their h. implies N.A. 61 Though each its h. peculiar; paler some T. i 308 His cheek recovers soon its healthful h. T. i 441 And sorted h. (each giving each relief T. iii 634 That skirt the horizon, wore a sable h. T. iv 320 And, tingeing all with his own rosy h. T. v 8 vi 161 Which h. she most approved, she choose them all T. Lamps gracefully disposed, and of all h. T. v. 149 Their balmy odours, and imparts their h. T. vi 243 His bosom of the h. T.B. 15 Whose scent and h. are rather guessed than known Works magic wonders, adds a brighter h. Tir. 23 Dye them at last in all their glowing h. Tir. 48 Seem graced with a livelier h. W.N. 22 (For feats of sanguinary h. 1789, 25

HUG.

We h. the hopes of constancy and truth V. 53

Discover h. cathedrals built with stone P.E. 381 The seas globose and h., the o'erarching vault R. 552 A h, throat calling to the clouds for drink Y.O. 112 I am out of H.'s reach A.S. 9

HUM.

And hears the million h. Q.V. 42

HUMAN. That forms and rites are tricks of h. law A.T. 62 And softens h. rock-work into men Ch. 96 What h. wisdom cannot but oppose Ch. 340 But God o'errules all h. follies still Ch. 463 To see a God stretch forth his h, hand Ch, 581 Sacred interpreter of h. thought Com. 23 Pronounce your h. form a false pretence Con. 78 That odious libel on a h. voice? Con. 450 And yet, God knows, look h. nature through Con. 749 The monuments of h. strength E. i 82 But He who knew what h. hearts would prove E. ii Strange fluctuation of all h. things! E. iii 9 Baboons are free from, upon h. race? Ez. 417 With fingers deeply dyed in h. gore Es. 497 And make a calm of h. life F. 134 My gravelly bounds, from self to h. kind F.A. 20 Ask what is h. life—the sage replies H. 1 Chargeable only with a h. shape H. 514 That sorest ill of h. life M.F. 32 Obtrude on h. notice more Mrs. M- 34 Prove that you have h. feelings N.C. 55 The serpent Error twines round h. hearts P.E. 4 Lights of the world, and stars of h. race P.E. 97 To the wild wave, or wilder h. breast P.E. 601 That yields not to the touch of h. skill R. 344 But reveries (for h. minds will act) R. 637 To dance on earth, and charm all h. eyes R. 796 Strange fondness of the h, heart St. v 13 Sees, far as h. optics may command T. 3 To soothe and satisfy the h. ear T. 199 The self-restoring arm of h. power T. 402 In h. mould, should brutalize by choice T. i 575 As h. nature's broadest, foulest blot T. ii 22 And having h. feelings, does not blush T. ii 27 And agonies of h. and of brute T. ii 105 That fear no discipline of h. hands T. ii 325 Ah spare your idol! think him h. still T. ii 496 As sweet as charity from h. breasts T. iii 197 By strides of h. wisdom. In his works T. iii 222 All that is h. in me, to protect T. iii 347 Not waste it, and aware that h. life T. iii 363 And magnified beyond all h. size T. iv 542 The course of h. things from good to ill T. iv 578 In h. bosoms, quench it or abate T. iv 747 On h. grandeur and the courts of kings T. ▼ 172 At building h. wonders mountain high T. v 179 Than h. passion please. In every heart T. v 203 Should ever drivel out of h. lips T. v 285 There dwell the most forlorn of h. kind T. v 397 Challenging h. scrutiny, and proved T. v 868 For h. fellowship, as being void T. vi 322 Were sown in h. nature's fruitful soil T. vi 383 He sees that h. equity is slack T. vi 472 Not more on h. help, than we on theirs T. vi 60 That piety was still in h. hearts T. vi 683 Of this tempestuous state of h. things T. vi 737

Oh friendship! cordial of the h. breast! V. 49 HUMANE.

Affects indeed a most h. concern Ch. 495 H. as they would seem, not always show T. iv 3 From Nature's bounty—that h. address T. v 469

From touch of h. lips at best impure T. vi 835 But they have h. feelings-turn to them Tir. 80

Two or three millions of the h. race T.T. 423

If h. woes her soft attention claim T.T. 484 [4

And armed with strength surpassing h, powers T.

Man lavished all his thoughts on h. things T.T.

HUMANITY.

o Cotton, whose h. sheds rays H. 205 ut he that has h., forewarn'd T. vi 566 HUMANIZING.

he wonder; A. what is brute T. v 700

HUMANKIND.

That shall the man deserve of h. T. 429 'ere all that Heaven required of h. Tir. 85 se what contempt is fallen on h. Tir. 814

HUMBLE.

ould h. many a towering poet's pride Ch. 536 Persian, h. servant of the sun Con. 67 ame, not expected in that h. guise Ex. 87 fable, h., diffident, and mild P.E. 537 cherish Virtue in an h. state R. 789 nd oh! that h. as my lot St. i 29 ou think him h.—God accounts him proud T. 92 he, for her h. sphere by nature fit T. 323 he theme though h., yet august and proud T. i 6 f dayspring overshoot his h. nest T. i 496 nd h. learners of a Saviour's worth T. ii 542 erhaps by moonlight, at their h. doors T. iv 171 isdom is h. that he knows no more T. vi 97 nd 1, contented with an h. theme T. vi 719 is sphere though h., if that h. sphere T. vi 960 ithin some pious pastor's h. cot Tir. 760 owever h. and confined the sphere T.T. 166 scked with a modest sheet of h. prose V. 20

HUMBLEBEE.

hat's worse—the drone-pipe of an h. Con. 330

HUMBLER.

ow seek repose upon an h. theme T. i 5 nd of an h. growth, the other tall T. vi 152 sach h. thoughts to you Trans. i 26

HUMBLY

e h. hopes-presumes-it may be so Con. 124

HUMDRUM.

nd lulled by her own h. song R.C. 46

HUMID.

earless of h. air and gathering rains T. 212

HUMILITY.

the parent of the first Con. 377
is gentle, apt to learn Ex. 454 may clothe an English Dean T. 118 is crowned, and Faith receives the prize T. 589

HUMMING.

rom cities h. with a restless crowd R. 21

HUMOUR.

story in which native h. reigns Con. 203
he freakish h. of the present time Con. 866
erhaps 'twas mere good h. gave it birth E. iii 38 kept him for his h.'s sake Ep. ii 33 heir h. yet so various F. 111
nd in her h., when she frowned J.P. 9 hat h. interposed too often makes M.P. 67
pme to comply with h., and a mind R. 605 hose h., tart as wines upon the fret R. 761 hat his own h. dictates, from the clutch T. v 317
he playful h.; he could now endure T. vi 47 be dark and sullen h. of the time T.T. 616
'. in holiday and sightly trim T.T. 648

HUMOROUS.

[137]

Those h. vein, strong sense, and simple style Tir. is h. talent next employs Trans. iv 26

HUMPHREY.

Sir H., shooting in the dark M.F. 9

HUNDRED.

Has left some h. without home or food Ch. 466 Eight h. of the brave R.G. 5 With twice four h. men R.G. 24 And He and his Eight H.—R.G. 35 Some fifty or a h. lustrums hence T. ii 579 Her dear five h. friends, contemns them all T. ii 643

HUNG

H. not far off upon a myrtle bough A.T. 174
With doleful rumour and sad presage h. Ex. 357
And his that seraphs tremble at is h. Ex. 662
And h. a bottle on each side J.G. 71
Some clouds which had over us h. M.D. 21
A scourge h. with lashes he bore M.D. 30 [N.A. 25
With tails high mounted, ears h. low, and throats
Else He that h. there suffered all his pain P.E. 623
Where the prisoned lark is h. St. iv 2 [v 107
And see where it has h. the embroider'd banks T.
That pressed it, and the feet h. dangling down T. i47
Trembling, as if eternity were h. T. vi 270 [T. vi 685
The mulberry-tree was h. with blooming wreaths
On fire with curses, and with nonsense h. Tiv. 832
Liberty blushed, and h. her drooping head T.T. 324

HUNGER.

With h. pinched, and pinched for room R.C. 73 [555 Though pressed with h. oft, or comelier clothes T.i And introduces h., frost, and woe T. ii 616 That h., and supplies it; and who seeks T. iii 875 Fails for the craving h. of the state T. v 459 "To gratify the h. of his wish T. v 637 Of h. unassuaged, has interposed T. vi 463 (What will not h.'s cruel rage?) T.B. 5

HUNGERING.

Still h., pennyless, and far from home T. i 119 Their wonted fodder; not like h. man T. v 80

HUNGRY.

Gone thither armed and h., returned full Ez. 368
Be in a h. case" J.G. 192
When I am h. for the bread of life? T. ii 426
With an old tavern quill, is h. yet T. ii 628
It is a h. vice;—it eats up all T. ii 680
His h. acres, stinks and is no use T. iv 503
Were e'er such h. folk? Y.D. 38

HUNT.

Would h. a Saracen through fire and flood Es. 521 Start it at home, and h. it in the dark R. 693 There they are privileged; and he that h. T. vi 577 The nations h., all mark thee for a prey T.T. 364

HUNTSMAN.

Nor ear heard h.'s halloo Ep. ii 4 But when the h. with distended cheek N.A. 43 So sweet to h., gentleman, and hound N.A. 131 A cassocked h., and a fiddling priest P.E. 111

HURLED.

Dying, h. them at the foe B. 40

HURRIED.

And h., but with unsuccessful speed T. 245 HURRY.

Soon h. me back to despair A.S. 48 [372] With needless h, whirled from place to place T. iv

HURRYING.

And h. him, impatient of his stay T. iv 132

HURT.

[458 Whom man, for his own h., permits to reign Con. It h. our pride, and moves our envy less H. 553 Was h., disgusted, mortified P. 19

Might soothe a soul less h. than mine S. 7 Nor can example h. them: what they see T. ii 794 Been h.by the archers. In his side He bore T. iii 118

Is evil; h. the faculties, impedes $T. \neq 450$ Against a heart depraved and temper h. Tir. 489 H. too perhaps for life; for early wrong Tir. 490

HURTFUL. Are h. is a truth confessed by all P.E. 226 Still h. in the abuse, or by the excess P.E. 228

With h. error, prejudice, and dreams T. ii 504 For dissolution, h. to the main T. iv 675

HUSBAND. "Seduce our h., and estrange their hearts A.T. 114 For h. there and wife may boast A Tale 5

The tender ties of father, h., friend Ch. 141 Her tender h., wondering much J.G. 143

Her h. posting down J.G. 214 My h. safe and well " J.G. 220

Wives beggar h., h. starve their wives T. ii 656

HUSH. H.—silent readers profit most A Tale 29 But h.!—the muse perhaps is too severe T. vi 653

HUSHED. And all her fears were h, together A Fable 17 Were h. in favour of thy generous plea Ch. 311 Then Truth is h., that Heresy may preach Ex. 107

HUSKS. The total grist unsifted, h. and all T. vi 110

HUT.

That screen the herdsman's solitary h. T. i 168

HYMEN.

And H., trimming his dim torch snew A.T. 201 The jocund Loves in H.'s band Miss - 73

HYMENEAL.

"In vain," they cried, "are h. rites A.T. 99 HYMN'D.

The mulberry-tree was h, with dulcet airs T, vi 687

HYPERBOLE. Is this h.? The world well known P.E. 488

HYPERBOLICAL.

Her notions h. R.C. 104

HYPERICUM.

H. all bloom, so thick a swarm T. vi 165

HYPOCRISY. And finds H. close lurking there Con. 746 H., formality in prayer Ex. 43 Is to renounce h.; to draw Es. 408

With which H. for ever teems H. 619

H., detest her as we may T. iii 100 HYPOCRITE.

A mere church-juggler, h. and slave P.E. 109 A h.'s pretence! St. vi 24 Sometimes a canting h. is found T. 233

HYPOTHESIS. The land of dreams, H. her name A.T. 6 And for H. was somewhat long A.T. 19

H. (for with such magic power A.T. 91 "O cursed H.! your hellish arts A.T. 113 When some h. absurd and vain P.E. 444 HYSSOP.

The cedar and the h. on the wall H. 287

Ι.

IBERIA.

"Art thou too fallen, I.? Do we see Ch. 67 ICE.

Of eastern groves, and oceans floored with i. Es. I. upon i., the well-adjusted parts T. v 146From many a twig the pendent drops of i. T. vi 81

ICY.

On i. plains, and in eternal snows H. 464 [vi 137 Of leaf and flower? It sleeps; and the i, touch T. And fledged with i. feathers, nod superb T. v 26

IDEAL. There Fancy nursed her in i. bowers A.T. 7 Friendship a false i. good F. 29

IDIOT.

So should an i., while at large he strays Con. 899 We can escape from Custom's i. sway R. 49

IDLE.

As i. as the chattering of a daw A.T. 63 Dozing out all his i. noons Ep. ii 31 Might shine in fable, and grace i. themes Ex. 233

See it an uninformed and i. mass Her. 26 O'erheard and checked this i. talk P. 40 Condemn the prattler, for his i. pains R. 547 Of i. mirth and affectation coy S. ii 10 She begs an i. pin of all she meets T. i 553 Is squandered in pursuit of i. sports T. ii 758 Calls i., and who justly, in return T. iii 353 Will he be i. who has much to enjoy? T. iii 360 [23]

To his true worth, most pleased when i. most T.

Paint cards and dolls, and every i, thing T. iv 24 Nor envies he aught more their i. sport T. vi 272 And i, tinkling of a minstrel's lyre T. vi 1021 Account him no just mark for i. wit Tir. 726 In penury consumed his i. hours T.T. 673 idleness. As silly pride and i. produce Ex.50Which I. and Weariness beget R. 762 But that of i., and taste no scenes T. i 756 That i. has ever yet contrived T. iv 208 By lewdness, i., and sabbath-breach T. iv 658

IDLER.

An i. is a watch that wants both hands R. 681 Esteems that busy world an i. too! T. iii 354 Of little worth, an i. in the best T. vi 952

IDLEST.

"To escape him at the i. time E. iv 76

IDLY.

The coronet, placed i. at their head H. 268 Arms hanging 4. down, hands clasped below R. 286 Thus i. do we waste the breath of praise T. vi 711

Then kiss their i., and pronounce her fair P.E. 300 Farthest retires—an i., at whose shrine T. i 410 Ah, spare your j.! think him human still T. ii 496 Improvement too, the i. of the age T. iii 764 Propense his heart to i., he is held T. v 585 The i. of our worship while he lived T. vi 666 Or, if to see the name of i. Self T.T. 744

IDOLATER.

Tender i. of absent charms R. 220

The gross i. blind heathens teach H. 499 Thou god of our i., the Press? P.E. 461 The god of our i. once more T. vi 667 It seems i. with some excuse Y.O. 9

IDOL-GOD.

They set up self, that i., within Ex. 216

IDOLIZED.

To war with pleasure, i. before Ex. 410

IGNOBLE.

To names i., born to be forgot! B.B. 2 To smother in i. rest Miss - 7 And we that worship him, i. graves T. iii 265 Holds no i., though a slighted, place T. vi 971

IGNOBLEB.

Spared yet again the i. for his sake T. vi 530

IGNOMINIOUS.

Doomed to a no less i. fate Tir. 498

IGNORANCE.

Sin forged, and I. made fast, the chain Ch. 287 From pride, in league with i., have sprung! Ch.462 Known by thy bleating, I. thy name Con. 588 The pride of lettered i., that binds H. 488 And s. of better things makes man R. 508 Such lunacy is i. alone T. 450 For i. of what they could not know? T. 518 And well prepared, by i, and sloth T, ii 888 Of solemn farce, where I. in stilts T. ii 736 A weight of i.; in that, of pride T. iv 485 Of i., till then she overlooked T. v 809 Blest with an infant's i. of all T. iv 624 His i. and harmless manners too T. iv 651 Let reverend churls his i. rebuke Tir. 401

Sordid as active, i. as loud R. 22 And i., except of outward show) T. i 650 As nations i. of God contrive T. ii 574

IGNORANTLY.

Nor i. wandering miss the skies Tir. 108

My I. and Odyssey too Gr. 32 An I., only not in verse, ensues H. 194

ILL.

0 most degrading of all i. that wait Ch. 155 But i. of every shape and every name E. ii 37 To urge reformation of national i. F.M. 14 And cure of every i. ! G. 15

I. fated race! how deeply must they rue Her. 51 And still to love, though pressed with i. M. 41 That screet i. of human life M.F. 32 With present i. his heart must ache N. 11 Exempt from every i. beside P. 54 [545] To fatal i.; that though the path he treads P.E. And in a world where, other i. apart R. 125 And thou, sad sufferer under nameless i. R. 343 To snare the mole, or with i. fashioned hook R. 401 The unpitied victim of i. judged expense R. 512

Recompense i.? He trembles at the thought T. 192 In all the good and i, that chequer life! T, ii 162 We may with patience bear our moderate i. T. iv 339 The course of human things from good to i. T. iv 578 That even servitude, the worst of i. T. v 302Or nothing much, his constancy in i. T. v 667

By budding i., that ask a prudent hand T. vi 591 "Those i. that wait on all below The Doves 17 Quick-sighted arbiter of good and i. Tir. 31 With all varieties of i. by turns Tir. 475 [Tir. 801 Whose hearts will ache, once told what i. may reach

Much trash unuttered, and some i. undone Tir. 733 Beset with every i. but that of fear T.T. 363

ILL-CHOSEN.

"Nor suffered one i. rhyme E. iv 75 But proud of his uncouth, i. task T. iii 644

ILL-CLAD.

I. and fed but sparely, time to cool T. iv 379

ILLIBERAL.

These move the censure and i. grin H. 744

ILLUME.

I. the land's remotest part 1789, 61

ILLUMINATES.

And so i. the path of life T. ii 529 I. thy lamp, mysterious Word! T. ▼ 846

ILLUMINATING.

I. heart or mind F. 8 Like his to shed i. rays T.T. 712

ILLUMINATION.

With faint i., that uplifts T. iv 274

ILLUMINE.

To i, with delight the saddest scenes J.T. 20 Makes more conspicuous, and i. more T. vi 175 ILLUMINED.

I. every side; a watery light T. v 150As more i., and with nobler truths T. iv 192

ILLUSIVE.

I. of philosophy, so called T. ii 505

TLLITSTRATE.

With simile to i. it E. iv 62 Must lend its aid to i, all their charms T, iii 591

ILLUSTRATED.

Explained, i., and searched so well Con. 527

ILLUSTRATION.

May furnish i., well applied Con. 206

ILLUSTRIOUS.

There goes the parson—O i. spark! B.B. 13 And there, scarce less i., goes the clerk B.B. 14 Hence authors of i. name F. 85 I. drop! and happy their O. i 21 Of objects, more i. in her view T. vi 916 But families of less i. fame Tir. 354

In less i. bards his beauty shone T.T. 574

I. histrionic patentee V. 29

IMAGE. Then God's own i. on the soul impressed Ex. 109 Yesterday's face turn i. of to-day H. 102

Against thine i., in thy saint, O Lord H. 593 Till Cassar's i. is effaced at last P.E. 280 And stamp their i, in each other's mint P.E. 567

Nor Ouse on his bosom their i. receives P.F. 4 Pastoral i. and still retreats R. 257

No longer give an i. all thine heart R. 276 To arrest the fleeting i. that fill T. ii 290 By every pleasing i, they present T, iii 303 These, and a thousand i, of bliss T, vi 341

They fear'd, and as his perfect i. loved T. vi 400 A soul, an i. of Himself, and therefore true V. 98 IMAGINATION.

I. to his view Mor. 29 I. scattering round Mrs. M-27 Till Thou art heard, i. vain T. v 861 I. noxious and perverse Tir. 599 Of wild i., and there reeled T.T. 605 IMAGINED.

I. Sanctity. The conscience, yet Y.O. 11 IMBIBE.

So barren sands i. the shower F. 184 I. and copies what she hears and sees P.E. 356 Dry fern or littered hay, that may i. T. iii 476 IMBRUED.

With blood of his subjects i. M.D. 36 IMBRUTES.

His every action, and i. the man T. iv 461 IMBUE.

She should i. the tongue with what she sips Com. 441 IMBUED.

Relics of ages! Could a mind, i. Y.O. 6

IMITATION.

Provoke to i. F. 9 IMITATIVE.

But i. strokes can do no more T. i 426 While servile trick and i. knack T.T. 666 IMMACIILATE.

And kept the faith i, and pure Ex, 208 And burghers, men i. perhaps T. iv 672

IMMEASURABLE. For such i. woe appears T, i 459 IMMEDIATE.

Of an i. conjugation P.T. 41 And need not his i. hand, who first T. vi 203 IMMENSE.

At one i. explosion F. 66 On steady wing sails through the i. abyss H. 163 Sucks down its prey insatiable. I.-T. ii 103 That seems half quenched in the i. abyss T. iii 216 Mine, spindling into longitude i. T. v 11

Absorbed in that i. I see R. 98

IMMERSED.

In the soft medium, till they stand i. T. iii 520 Sheer o'er the craggy barrier, and i. T. vi 554 IMMORTAL.

Verse, like the laurel, its i. meed Ch. 292 I. fragrance fills the circuit wide Ch. 439 Although i., may be pricked or soratched Ch. 512 Till tuned at length to some i. song Con. 907 That won a nymph on that i. plain Ex. 598

And yet the seed of an i. flower H. 120 Parent of Hope, i. Truth! make known H. 663 In youth i. warm Miss — 78
Had shed i. glories on your brow T. 569 On such a Stool i. Alfred sat T. i 22 Has man within him an i. seed? T. ii 517 I. Hale! for deep discernment praised T. iii 258 Enchanting music and i. wreaths T. iv 687 Our claim to feed upon i. truth T. \checkmark 721 Or what achievements of i. fame T. vi 933 To palates that can taste i. truth T. vi 1015

IMMORTALITY.

Some thought of i. remains T. 39

IMMORTALIZE.

Alike i. the dead Cast. 54 (Blest be the art that can i. M.P. 8 So strong the zeal to i. himself T. i 284 Shortlived themselves to i. their bones T. v 184 To guard them, and to i, her trust T. v 711

IMMUNITY. Enjoy i. from priestly power Ch. 273 A long i. from grief and pain Ex. 82And full i, from penal woe T, v 580

IMMURED.

That man i. in cities, still retains T. iv 766 I. though unaccused, condemned untried T. v 398 IMPAIR.

Those truths, which neither use nor years i. Ez. 626 IMPAIRED.

A blemish, or a sense i. M.F. 43 Mine have not pilfered yet; nor yet i. T. i 140 I. by age, his unrelenting hand T. iii 416 IMPALED.

With blood of their inhabitants i. T. vi 391

IMPART. That sight i. a never-dying flame Ch. 593 Will speak without disguise, and must i. Com. 711 Forgot the blush that virgin fears i. Ez. 47 The choicest raptures to i. Miss - 3 Earn if you want; if you abound, i. P.E. 253 With much to learn, but nothing to i. P.E. 376 I. to things inanimate a voice R. 361 And wherefore? Will not God i. his light T. iii 272 His glory, and his nature to i. T. iii 274 Their balmy odours, and i. their hues T. vi 243

I. to the benevolent, who wish T. vi 344
That pedantry is all that schools i. Tir. 212 But poor in knowledge, having none to i. Tw. 663 Watch every beam Philosophy i. T.T. 70 The Muse i., and can command the lyre T.T. 481 IMPARTED.

In selfish silence, but i. oft T. iii 394

IMPARTIALLY.

He will be found i, severe Ex, 255

IMPARTING.

I. substance to an empty shade T. iv 257 Nature i. her satiric gift T.T. 656

IMPATIENT.

And shines as if i. to bestow Ch. 591 I. swim to meet D.W. 34 I. to descry the flags of France Ex. 291 And all, i. of dry land, agree R. 523 Vociferous, and i. of delay T. i 299

As bashful, yet i. to be seen T. i 825 And crowd the roads, i. for the town! T. iii 319

The i. fervour which it first conceives T. iii 502 And hurrying him, i. of his stay T. iv 132

IMPEACH.

Prove, rather than i., the just remark Tir. 842 IMPEDE.

Catharina, did nothing i. C. 27
I. the bark that ploughs the deep serene Ch. 132
And never checked by what i. the wise T. 373
Is evil; hurts the faculties, i. T. v 450
While no base fear i. her in her course T.T. 267
IMPEDED.

None ever yet i. what He wrought Ex. 336 Too oft, and much i. in its work T. iii 370 The wain goes heavily, i. sore T. iv 343

IMPEDIMENTS.

Knots and i. make something hitch Con. 108
IMPEL.

I. the fleet whose errand is to save Ch. 128 That fire abated which i. rash youth Con. 641

IMPELLED.

I. me to the deed B.R. 8
A task I venture on, i. by thee Ch. 6
That men engage in it, i. by force Con. 179
I. thee more to that heroic course J.T. 34
I. through regions dense and rare O. i 15.
By no malignity i. R.C. 51
So vast in its demands, unless i. T. vi 218

IMPENDING.

A drawer i. o'er the rest R.C. 39 And overbuilt with most i. brows T. iii 193 To escape the i. famine, often scared T. v 68

IMPENETRABLE.

"And dost thou dream," the i. man T. vi 505

IMPENETRABLY.

Man's heart had been i. sealed Con. 427

IMPERCEPTIBLE.

Through the i. meandering veins T. vi 136

IMPERFECT.

Weak and i. in all grace beside Con. 758 A kind release from their i. state R. 166 My prayers and alms, i. and defiled T. 577

IMPERIAL.

As vain i. Philip on his own Ch. 52 A fair i. flower L.R. 14 I. mistress of the fur-clad Russ! T. v 129

IMPERTINENCE.

And deaf to all the i. of tongue R. 549

IMPERVIOUS.

I. to the wind. First he bids spread T. iii 475 Or shed i. to the blast. Resigned T. v 72

IMPETUOUS.

Again, i. to the field he flies P.E. 92 These like a deluge with i. force R. 77 He sprang i. forth Ch. 14

IMPIOUS.

Nor do we madly, like an i. world T. iv 177 The i. challenger of power divine T. vi 546 Less i. than absurd, and owing more T. vi 656

IMPLACABLE.

Thy foes i., thy land at rest Ex. 581 Object of my i. disgust T. ii 418

IMPLEMENT.

Account them i. of mischief still Ch. 556 Too often proves an i. of play Con. 17 The sacred i. I now employ P.E. 301 In London. Where her i. exact T. i 715

IMPLIED.

Mutual attention is i. F. 49

IMPLY.

Self-knowledge truly learned of course i. Ch. 359 I. no trespass against Love Divine) Ch. 488 Knows what the freshness of their hue i. N.A. 61 I. authority that never can P.E. 602 On word and deed, i. St. vi 30 Seems to i. a censure on the rest T.T. 92

IMPORT.

I. what others have invented well Ch. 117
For matters of more grave i. E. iv 66
And i., of their oracles divine Ez. 126
With such address from themes of sad i. T. ii 300
Of theological and grave i.) T. v 662

IMPORTANCE.

And if it weigh the i. of a fly Con. 21 Who deal with Scripture, its i. felt Con. 729 A dark i. saddens every day H. 699 And his i. of such weight E.C. 112

IMPORTANT.

Alike i. in their Maker's view Ch. 203 The i. letters that include the rest Ch. 523 I. triflers! have more smoke than fire Con. 250 But fear to call a more i. cause Con. 397 Events of most i. use E. i 76 Forgetting its i. weight F. 70 If thus the i. cause is to be tried H. 373 Go now, and with i. tone demand H. 528 A quarry more i. still than you P.E. 332 Our most i. are our earliest years P.E. 354 From mighty means to more i. ends R. 112 And search the themes, i. above all R. 137 Your useful labours, and i aims R. 664 Employs, shut out from more i. views R. 803 The most i. and effectual guard T. ii 335 But O the i. budget! ushered in T. iv 23 Gloriously drunk, obey the i. call ! T. iv 510 To press the i. question on his heart Tir. 57 Are not i. always as dear-bought Tir. 74 But 'tis her own i. charge Trans. iv 10

IMPORTING.

The punishment i. this, no doubt E. iii 52 IMPORTUNITY.

To clamorous i. in rags T. iv 414

IMPOSE.

Successive loads succeeding broils i. Ex. 308
In misery fools upon themselves i. T. 126
The ascending damps; then leisurely i. T. iii 477

IMPOSED.

First wish to be i. on, and then are P.E. 290 I. a gay delirium for a truth T. iv 528

IMPOSSIBLE.

Specious in show, i. in fact R. 688
"Incredible, i., and vain!" T. 35
The last i., he fears the first T. 265
I. when Virtue is so scarce T. iv 531
Do I forebode i. events T. v 491

IMPOSTORS.

He stripped the i. in the noonday sun Ex. 141

IMPOSTURE.

The Bible an i. and a cheat? T. 432

IMPOTENCE.

Conscious of i. they soon grow drunk T. ▼ 255

IMPOVERISHED..

A little Naiad her i. urn T. i 328 The i. earth; an overbearing race T. iii 672

IMPREGNATED.

While airs i. with incense play M.P. 94
Their wishes all i. with earth R. 36
I. with quick fermenting salts T. iii 464

IMPRESS.

With adjurations every word i. Con. 70
Faintly i. the mind, or not at all T. vi 24
How shall a verse i. thee? By what name Ex. 654
To i. a value, not to be erased Tiv. 613

IMPRESSED.

His tender heart victoriously i. A.T. 4
Then God's own image on the soul i. Es. 109
For truth self-evident, with pomp i. H. 109
Except the few his God may have i. H. 633
If scorn of God's commands, i. St. vi 29
Just then, by adverse fate i. T.B. 43
The grand retreat from injuries i. T. i 280
And natural in gesture; much i. T. ii 402
The footsteps of Simplicity i. T. iv 520
Of unprolific winter has i. T. vi 138
The stamp of artless piety i. Tiv. 153
Not yet perhaps incurably i. Tir. 764

IMPRESSIBLE.

The mind, i. and soft, with ease P.E. 355

IMPRESSION.

Are mere i. on the passive mind $A \cdot T$. 43 And all their deep i., wear away P.E. 278 The i. of the blast with proud disdain T. i 380 The stamp and clear i. of good sense T. vi 983

IMPRINT.

Nature i. upon whate'er we see Ch. 169
The mind and conduct mutually i. P.E. 566

IMPRISONED.

Again the mountain feels the i. foe Her. 37 Something i. in the chest R. C. 84 He does not scorn it, who, i. long T. i 436 I burn to set the i. wranglers free T. iv 84 Earth yields them nought: the i. worm is safe T. v 80

IMPROBABLE.

Events i. and strange as these Tir. 370

IMPROVE.

To i. the fortitude that bears the load Ch. 160
Else who would lose, that had the power to i. Ch. 224
Let him i. his talent if he can Con. 425
As Time i, the grape's authentic juice Con. 643
Man may i. the crisis, or abuse P.E. 26
The suitor's air indeed he soon i. R. 237
I. the kind occasion, understand R. 345
I. the remnant of his wasted span R. 13
As wisely, and as much i. his powers R. 508
Would he i. the boon St. v 4
Even here: while sedulous I seek to i. T. iii 367 [691
Health, leisure, means to i. it, friendship, peace T. iii
To i. and cultivate their just demesne T. v 226
And seeking grace to i. the prise they hold T. vi 55
To i. this diet, at no great expense Tir. 628

IMPROVED.

I. thee far beyond his own intent Ez. 489
I. the simple plan; made three legs four T. i 29

IMPROVEMENT.

He catches all i. in his flight Ch. 115 His great i. and new lights he draws P.E. 402 I. too, the idol of the age T. iii 764 Less for i. than to tickle spite Tir. 481

IMPRUDENT.

Condemns the unfatherly, the i. part T. 866

IMPUDENT.

And stands an i. and fearless mark T. ii 812 I. blasphemy! So Folly pleads Ch. 194

IMPULSE.

All feel the freshening i., and are cleaned T. 1376 Such is the i. and the spur he feels T. vi 755 But worn by frequent i., to the cause Y.O. 84

IMPUNITY.

That none shall with i. neglect Ch. 36
Is never with i. defied T. vi 548

IMPURE.

Infectious as i., your blighting power Con. 41
Of all that was absurd, profane, i. Con. 888
Called to the temple of i. delight P.E. 584
Of pride, ambition, or i. desires R. 110
For gamesters, jockeys, brothellers i. T. ii 751
By the i., and hears his power denied T. v 895
From touch of human lips at best i. T. vi 835
From vicious inmates and delights i. Tir. 898

IMPURITY.

Draws gross i., and likes it well T. vi 979

IMPUTED.

But still the i. tints are those alone H. 73
INABILITY.

Through downright i. to rise T. i 480

INADVERTENT.

An i. step may crush the snail T. vi 564

INANIMATE.

Impart to things i. a voice R. 361 Nature i. employs sweet sounds T. 197

INATTENTIVE.

And all in sight of i. man? T. vi 120

INBORN.

His i. inextinguishable thirst T. iv 767

INCAS.

Oh! could their ancient I. rise again Ch. 65

INCAUTIOUS.

To draw the i. minnow from the brook R. 402 Or too i., to preserve thy sweets T. iii 45 Commits her eggs, i., to the dust Tiv. 791

INCENSE.

While airs impregnated with i. play M.P. 94 INCESSANT.

I., clinking hammers, grinding wheels T. i 231 INCH.

In science, win one 4. of heavenly ground T. 338

INCIDENT.

The language plain, and i. well linked Con. 236
Which this day's i. began? E. i 84
It is an evil i. to man F.A. 30

INCISION.

With nice i. of her guided steel T. i 708

INCLEMENCY.

The rude i. of wintry skies T. 138

INCLEMENT.

Whether i. seasons recommend T. iii 388

INCLINATION.

(Hardly the effect of i. E. i 99 May taste, whate'er his i. L. W. 5 Of habit, i., temper, taste Tir. 441

INCLINES.

And each i. its votary to retreat R. 174

INCLINED.

Two bosom friends, each pensively i. Con. 507 I. to tarry there J.G. 150 By nature weak, or viciously i. P.E. 432 When in came, housewifely i. R.C. 49 To thrift and parsimony much i. T. 141 Serve to compose a spirit well i. T. v 657 Serene, and to his duties much i. Tir. 774 Fulfilled with ease had you been so i. V. 22

INCLUDE.

The important letters that i. the rest Ch. 523 I. creation in her close embrace Ch. 598 And bathes their eyes with nectar, and i. T. vi 244

INCOME.

A business with an i. at its heels R. 615 Whose heirs, their honours none, their i. small Tir.

INCOMMODIOUSLY.

Complained, though i. pent in T. i 69

INCOMPARABLE.

I. gem! thy worth untold T.T. 330

INCOMPATIBLE.

And i. with serious thought T. iv 622

INCONSTANT.

But she, i. as the beams that play A.T. 23

INCONTINENCE.

That lewd i., and lawless rape A.T. 64 By riot and i. the worst T. i 699

INCONVENIENT.

In contact i., nose to nose Con. 270

INCORPORATED.

I., seem at once to lose T. iv 678

INCORRIGIBLY.

The i. wrong, the deaf, the dead! Tir. 780

INCREASE.

To teach the wanderer, as his woes i. Ch. 161 To i, a stranger's treasures N.C. 3 Shall much befriend you. Time shall give i. T. iv I. of power begets i. of wealth T. iv 580
And endless her i. Thy rams are there T. vi 804 His spirits rising as his toils i. T.T. 279

INCREASED.

Whether i. momentum, and the force P.E. 405 From anxious thoughts how wealth may be i. R. 140

INCREASING.

Daily derive i. light and force Con. 697 I. commerce and reviving art Her. 78 The rising waves obey the i. blast R. 532 I. London? Babylon of old T. i 722

I. taxes and the nation's debt T.T. 177

INCREDIBLE.

Is it i, or can it seem Con. 481 "I., impossible, and vain!" T. 35

INCREDULOUS.

That the i, themselves may see J.T. 49

INCULCATED.

Were precious, and i. with care T. ii 701

INCUMBER.

Does but i. whom it seems to enrich T. vi 95

INCUMBRANCE.

To thrive in; an i. ere half spent H. 98 The i. of his own concerns, and spare T. vi 206 Excused the i. of more solid worth Tir. 347

I must i., forgetting Howard's name Ch. 296 I. resentment for the love he shows H. 285 I. derision for his easy faith T. v 500 A necessary act i. no blame T. vi 578

INCURABLE.

I. obduracy evinced T. vi 532 That hour elapsed, the i. revolt T.T. 402

INCURABLY.

Not yet perhaps i. impressed Tir. 764

INCURRED.

Though blameless, had i. perpetual strife Con. 512 Stand now and judge thyself .- Hast thou i. Ez. 340 As to be wantonly i. M.F. 34 Conscious of jeopardy i. R.C. 76 He has i. a long arrear St. v 31 Ambition, Avarioe, Penury i. T. iii 811

INCURRING.

I. short fatigue; and though our years T. i 129

The looms of Ormus, and the mines of I.—T. vi 806 INDEBTED.

The blessings of the most i. land Es. 164 Countries i. to thy power, that shine Ex. 280 And hold the world i. to your aid R. 665 Scorned in a world, i. to that scorn R. 751 Grant her i. to what zealots call T. 483 Its bergamot, or aids the i. eye T. ii 452 A sliding car, i. to no wheels T. iv 126 I. to some smart wig-weaver's hand T. iv 543

INDECENT.

When wine has given i. language birth Con. 263 INDENTED.

Two leaves produced, two rough i. leaves T. iii 526

The i. stick, that loses day by day Tir. 559

INDEPENDENT.

A dry but i. crust, hard earned T. iv 409

INDIA.

The gems of I., Nature's rarest birth Ch. 134 The sun matures on I.'s spicy shores Ch. 442 Pulled down the tyrants I. served with dread Ex. 366 From I., for the ladies' use R.C. 38 Now came the cane from I., smooth and bright T. i Of Portugal and Western I. there T. iii 572 Is I. free? and does she wear her plumed T. iv 28 In Afric's torrid clime, or I.'s flercest heat T.T. 297

INDIAN.

Was glued to the sword-hilt with I. gore Ch. 50
The fervour and the force of I. skies Es. 12
Supple and flexible as I. cane H. 602
All tribes beside of I. name Mrs. M—9
An I. mystic, or a French recluse T. 128
And range an I. waste without a tree T. i 261
The wealth of I. provinces, escapes T. i 738
Of I. fune, and guzzling deep, the boor T. iv 473
Like a swarth I. with his belt of beads T. iv 749

INDICATE.

As meant to i. a God to man T. iii 246 That turns and turns, to i. Trans. ii 8

INDIFFERENCE.

My form with i, see A.S. 14 Scorns with the same i, frowns and smiles H. 650 I, may repel Miss — 42

INDIFFERENT.

Or pride can look at with i. eyes H. 52 To please her sated and i. lord? P.E. 258 Ye ladies! (for, i. in your cause P.E. 510 May be i. to her house of clay T. ii 458 To him i. whether grief or joy T. iv 15

INDIGENCE.

And years of pining i. must show Her. 65 To i. and rapine; till at last T. iv 497 In aiding helpless i., in works T. vi 964

INDIGENT.

(Toilsome and i.), she renders much T. 326

INDIGNANT.

He spoke i., and his spurs applied A.T. 191 Sought, with an i. mien B. 3 He seems indeed i., and to feel T. i 879 What provocation to the i. heart T. iii 65 Returns i. to the slighted plough T. iv 645

INDIGNATION.

Fire i. and a sense of scorn T.T. 489 Moves i., makes the name of king T. v 442

INDIRECT.

And thus gives Virtue i. applause T. iii 104

INDISCRETION.

Past i. is a venial crime T. 491

ast v. is a venial trime 1. 191

INDISCRIMINATELY.

If all men i. share T.T. 256

INDISPOSED.

A mind unnerved, or i. to bear R. 677 Pregnant, or i. alike to all T. iv 281

INDISTINCT.

Their views, indeed, were i. and dim Cos. 589 Thy i. expressions seem M. 21

INDITE.

I. much metre with much pains O. i 3

INDIVIDUAL.

Each i., suffering a constraint Con. 383 An i. is a sacred mark Ex. 484

INDOLENCE.

Starved by that i. their minds create Ch. 64
The yawning chasm of i. supply! P.E. 172
With i. and luxury, is trash P.E. 428
Blames his own i., observes, though late R. 477
(Life spent in i. and therefore sad) T. v 181

INDOLENT.

His active years with i. repose R. 618 In i. vacuity of thought T. iv 297

INDUCED.

I. a splendid cover, green and blue T. i 32

INDULGE.

I i. my poetical moods Gr. 51
The Poet's treasure, silence, and i. T. i 235
On petty robbers, and i. life T. i 733
What!—will a man play tricks, will he i. T. ii 419
I. all a father's heartfelt glee Tir. 321
To i. his genius, after long fatigue T.T. 153
If he i. a cultivated taste T.T. 161

INDULGED.

Might also have i. with an escape H. 513 And pleased with novelty, might be i. T. i 508 I. in what they wish, they soon supply T. iii 534

INDULGENCE.

For such i. gilding all thy years Ex. 609 Or lust engenders, and i. feeds R. 644

INDULGENT

Perhaps i. Nature meant Trans. i 13

INDURATED.

I. and fixed, the snowy weight $T. \vee 98$

INDUSTRIOUS.

Not more i. are the just and true P.E. 293
Plies all the sinews of i. toil Her. 69
Of temperate wishes and i. hands T. i 599
Some, more acute and more i. still T. iii 155
Vainly i., a disgraceful prize T. iii 385
Poor, yet i., modest, quiet, neat T. iv 374

INDUSTRIOUSLY.

While every worm i. weaves Tir. 595

INDUSTRY.

Thou hadst an i. in doing good J.T. 23
Need help, let honest i. provide P.E. 252
Where Power secures what I. has won Her. 87
What happy skill and i. combined T. 430
Delightful i. enjoyed at home T. iii 356
Near yonder heath; where I. misspent T. iii 643
Or female i.: the threaded steel T. iv 165
Desire of more; and i. in some T. v 225
Who, just when i. begins to snore Tiv. 745
Guards well what Arts and I. have won T.T. 280

INEBRIATE.

That cheer but not i., wait on each T. iv 40

INEFFECTUAL

Of Revelation's i. beam Con. 830 Most part an empty i. sound T. iii 22 Slides i. down the snowy vale T. v 7

INERT.

Can boast but little virtue; and i. T. i 623

INESTIMABLE.

The fragrant grove, the i. mine H. 177 The i. estimate of Brown T.T. 384

INEXORABLY.

There find a judge i. just H. 227

INEXPERIENCE.

Exposed their i. to the snare T. ii 801 (Through i., as we now perceive) T. vi 27 That sanguine i. loves to make V. 56

INEXPERIENCED.

Seek to supplant his i. youth P.E. 59

INEXPERT.

With all his canvass set, and i. T. ii 486

INEXPLICABLE.

Heard an i. scratching R.C. 78

INEXTINGUISHABLE.

In beams of i. light H. 134 His inborn i, thirst T. iv 767

INFALLIBLE.

And prove it in the i. result T. iii 180

INFAMOUS.

When i. Venality, grown bold T.T. 416

INFAMY.

The flower of Israel's i. full blown Ez. 222 Stood pilloried on i.'s high stage H. 556 With i. too nauseous to be named Tir. 828 But let eternal I. pursue T.T. 29

INFANCY.

Nor age nor i. could find thee there Ch. 48 Credulous i., or age as weak Con. 225 From i. through childhood's giddy mase H. 187

INFANT.

Though loose, as harmless as an i.'s play H. 613 Till, all my stock of i. sorrow spent M.P. 43 Both baby-featured, and of i. size P.E. 201 That shines and rests, as i. smile and sleep R. 528 And, like an i., troublesome awake T. 427 And swayed the sceptre of his i. realms T. i 23 And i. clamorous whether pleased or pained T. i 232 She brings her i. forth with many smiles T. iii 437 And while her i. race, with outspread hands T. iv 384 Blest with an i.'s ignorance of all T. iv 624 The i. elements received a law T. vi 200 And smiles to see, her i.'s playful hand T. vi 779 Spring hangs her i. blossoms on the trees Tir. 43

Before whose i. eyes the flatterer bows T.T. 123 INFATUATES.

I., and through labyrinths and wilds T. vi 104

To feed our i. minds with proper fare Tir. 116

INFECT.

I. his happiest moments, he forebodes T. v 606

INFECTED.

I. with the manners and the modes T. iv 693

INFECTIOUS.

I. as impure, your blighting power Con. 41

INFERIOR.

Mounts from i. beings up to God R. 114 The i. wonders of an artist's hand T. i 419 That man inflicts on all i. kinds T. vi 385

INFERNAL.

He bruised beneath his feet the i. powers Ch. 584 That, with a black, i. train E. iv 15 She teemed and heaved with an i. birth Her. 13 Each sire and dam, of an i. race P.E. 568

·INFERRED.

481

The reasoning power vouchsafed of course i. Uon.

INFEST.

To poison vermin that i. his plants Con. 256

This of all maladies that man i. R. 301 From pangs arthritic that i. the toe T. i 105 Mourns because every plague that can i. T. ii 315 With what vermin else i. Trans. iii 13

INFIDEL.

That i. may prove their title good Ex. 380
An i. in health;—"But what when sick?" T. 309
That, through profane and i. contempt T. i 740
The i. has shot his bolts away T. vi 872
Christian in name, and i. in heart Tir. 421
With Gospel lore, turn i. themselves Tir. 826

INFIDELITY.

By i. and love o' the world T. ii 389 In i. and lewdness men Tir. 209

INFINITE.

Were fountains fed with i. supplies Ex. 34 (I. skill) in all that He has made R. 52 Man's obligations i., of course T. 197 Mercy is i., and man is weak T. 294 And goodness i., but speak in ears T. v 854

INFIRM.

Or tasting long enjoy thee; too i. T. iii 44 Of the i., is wholesome air to thee T. iv 865 Of heroes, whose i. and baby minds T. v 190

INFIRMITIES.

But if i. that fall M.F. 41

INFIXED.

Long since: with many an arrow deep i. T. iii 109

INFLAMED.

Nor yet the mariner, his blood i. T. i 447

INFLAMES.

The sight our foolish heart i. P.B. 31 From what debilitates and what i. R. 20

INFLAMMATORY.

Howe'er disguised the i. tale P.E. 327

INFLATED.

I. and astrut with self-conceit T. v 268

INFLICT.

As Vengeance can i., or sinners fear T. 554 That lean hard-handed Poverty i. T. iii 827 That man i. on all inferior kinds T. vi 385 The rottenness which time is charged to i. Y.O. 67

INFLICTED.

Weeps when she sees i. on a beast T. ii 25

INFLUENCE.

To thwart its i., and its end defeat Ch. 38
In vain warm suns their i. shed Miss — 37
Their lustre to his i. owe Mrs. M— 54
The comet's baneful i. is a dream P.E. 100
From Fancy's i., and intemperate zeal P.E. 455
Exert their i., and advance their cause P.E. 463
I., and power, were all at his command R. 596
She loses all her i. Cities then T. iii 729
The soothing i. of the wafted strains T. vi 68
His i., if that i. all be spent T. vi 962

INFLUENCED.

For this, of all that ever i. man H. 643 I. mightily the rest P.T. 43

INFOLD

The pheasant plumes which round i. Mrs. M-5

INFORM.

I. his mind; one flash of heavenly day Ch. 228. The gale i. us, laden with the scent Ch. 446 And while they captivate, i. the mind H. 759 A terrible sagacity i. T.T. 494

INFORMATION.

Let all your rays of i. meet Com. 240 The dearth of i. and good sense T. iv 71

INFORMED.

I., He gathered up the broken thread Con. 525 Yet age, by long experience well i. Con. 639 Faithful, and faithfully i., unfold Ew. 647 By curious eyes and judgments ill i. T. ii 435 His mind i., his morals undefiled Tir. 683

INFUSE.

Could i. into numbers of mine C. 20 I. lies and errors of his own Ex. 102

INFUSED.

He mounts at once—such confidence i. A.T. 175 I. at the creation of the kind T. iv 783 [844 "And that, i. from Heaven, must thither send" T. v

INFUSIONS.

Sips meek i. of a milder herb Con. 268

INGENIOUS.

I. Art, with her expressive face Ch. 97
Howe'er i. on his darling theme Com. 187
Or more i., or more freed N.Y.G. 7
Thus men go wrong with an i. skill P.E. 556
I. to diversify dull life R. 520
Peace to the artist whose i. thought T. 210
I. Fancy, never better pleased T. i 72
I. Parsimony takes, but just T. iv 400
I. Cowley! and though now reclaimed T. iv 723
To such amusements as i. woe T. v 416
I. dreamer, in whose well-told tale Tir. 185

INGENUITY.

To artists i. and skill T. iv 797

INGENUOUS.

The head of modest and i. worth T. ii 711 A father blest with an i. son Tir. 543

INGLORIOUS.

The i. feat, and, clamorous in praise T. vi 436

INGOT.

When a bar of pure silver or i. of gold F.M. 1

INGREDIENT.

A principal i. F. 204
Make works a vain i. in the case H. 360
And though the world may think the i. odd R. 729
With such i. of good sense and taste T. ii 789
Is an i. in the compound, man T. iv 732

INHABIT.

To i. a mansion remote C. 45

INHABITANTS.

That there are blest i. of earth Con. 723
Thy racked i. repine, complain Ex. 804
The poor reclaimed i., his eyes H. 582
Divide the frail i. of earth R. 648
Fall prone; the pale i. come forth T. ii 125
Its foul i. But to assuage T. iii 501
With blood of their i. impaled T. vi 391

INHALING.

That play of lungs, i. and again T. i 137

INHARMONIOUS.

Sounds i. in themselves and harsh T. 207

INHERIT.

The works of man i., as is just Con. 568

INHOSPITABLE.

Stand starved at your i. door? P.E. 250

INIMITABLE.

Performing such i. feats T. v 125 Uninjured, with i. art T. vi 195 He stood, as some i. hand T.T. 348

INITIATED.

Once simple, are i. in arts T. iv 493

INJURE.

Poor man! what a pity to i. him so! P.A. 34

INJURED.

And i., makes forgiveness her delight Ch. 431 In just resentment of his i laws Ex. 328 Then Nature, i., scandalized, defiled Ex. 424 That feels for i. love! but I disdain T. iii 68 Their vigour, i. soon, not soon restored T. iii 608 To the deliverer of an i. land T. iv 793

INJURIOUS.

The subtle and i. may be just Con. 809 Condemns the i. deed, the slanderous tongue T. 559 The i. trampler upon Nature's law T. vi 465

INJURY

Of the rude i. it late sustained Con. 906
Where only Vice and I. are tied Es. 594
Who scorns to do an i. by stealth H. 411
The grand retreat from i. impressed T. i 280
Forgets in peace the i. of war T. ii 269
That age or i. has hollow'd deep T. vi 311
Of i., with such knowledge of their strength T.vi 476

INJUSTICE.

Considers all i. with a frown Ch. 210

TNK

A poet's drop of i.? O. i 12

INKY.

Or wrap himself in Hamlet's i. cloak T. vi 675

INLAID.

Swarmed with a scribbling herd, as deep i. T.T. 628

INLAND.

[117

Possessed an i. scene. Where now the throng T. ii From i. regions to the distant main $T. \vee 790$

INLAYS.

That, as with molten glass, i. the vale T. i 170

INMATE.

Reminds them of their hated i., Sin E. ii 36 From vicious i. and delights impure Tir 892 Little i., full of mirth Trans. iii 1

INN.

Is to conduct it to the destined i. T. iv 10

INNOCENCE.

Trade in the blood of i., and plead Ch. 182
But let insolvent i. go free "Ch. 289
Oh come not ye near i. and truth Cos. 39
With tortured i. in Mary's court Ex. 613
Folly and I. are so alike P.E. 203
But I., sedate, serene, erect P.E. 207
Steal to the closet of young i. P.E. 316

When boyish i. was all my praise!) R. 372 Lost i., or cancel follies past T. iii 678 That felt their virtues; I., it seems T. iv 518 On fancied I. Again he falls T. v 623 Waged with defenceless i., while he T. vi 393 "While i. without diagnise The Doves 13 In Eden, ere yet i. of heart T.T. 584

INNOCENT.

But i. was all his sport Beau 15
Against an i., unconscious breast Ex. 431
While one as i. regards L.W. 27
'Tis i., and harmless, and refined P.E. 179
I.! oh! if venerable Time P.E. 181
To teach the canvass i. deceit R. 797
Deception i.—give ample space T. i 353
The i. are gay—the lark is gay T. i 493
I. partner of my peaceful home T. iii 337
Oh i., compared with arts like these T. iii 801
But many a crime deem'd i. on earth T. vi 439
Of i. commercial Justice red T. iv 683
Our i. sweet simple years again Tiv. 313
To joys less i., as less refined T.T. 601

INOFFENSIVE.

A Christian's wit is i. light Con. 599 As i., what offence in cards? P.E. 149 I., welcome guest! Trans. iii 10

INQUEST.

And in the furious i. that it makes T. ii 185

INQUIRE.

Was much addicted to i. R.C. 8
We next i., but softly and by stealth Con. 389 [818
Sweet conference; i. what strains were they T. v
And not a tongue i. how, where, or when T.T. 424

INQUIRER.

The i.'s aim, that remedy, is Hope H. 114 Or negligent i., not a spark T. iii 276 Learn from expert i. after truth Tir. 192

INQUIRING.

Downs that almost escape the i. eye R. 423

INQUIRY.

Whatever steep i. recommends Ch. 316
'Twere vain i. to what port she went Ch. 445
The cause perhaps i. may descry Con. 363
Oh vain i.! they without remorse Ex. 462
Where bold I., diving out of sight H. 443
Pushing her bold i. to the date R. 669
In vain they push'd i. to the birth T. ii 511
Before the keen i. of her thought T.T. 493

INQUISITIVE.

I. attention, while I read T. iv 52 I., the less ambiguous past Y.O. 44

INQUISITOR.

No grand i. could worse invent T. 103

INBOADS.

Make cruel i. in my brain E. iv 16

INSANITY.

The heart's i. admits no cure T. vi 523

Insatiable.

Sucks down its prey i. Immense T. ii 103

INSCRIBED.

I. above the portal, from afar T. 28

INSCRIPTION.

Points to i. whereso'er they tread P.E. 391

INSECT.

To wonder at a thousand i. forms R. 68 Who gives its lustre to an i.'s wing T. v 813 To show him in an i. or a flower Tir. 636

INSENSIBILITY.

Peace (if i. may claim) H. 235

INSENSIBLE.

I. of Truth's almighty charms H. 655

INSEPARABLY.

And cleaves through life i. close T. ii 761

INSERTED.

The bud i. in the rind U. 13

INSIDIOUS.

The i, witch that had his wits abused A.T. 176
INSIGNIFICANT.

Witness its i. result Con. 16

INSIGNIFICANTLY.

And anger i. flerce T. vi 320

INSINCERE.

Are i., meant only to conceal Con. 785 Unworthy, base, and i. F. 215 But to the proud, uncandid, i. T. iii 275

INSINUATING.

The poisonous, black, i. worm P.E. 7

INSINUATION.

I scorn your coarse i. P. 27

INSIPID.

To which the 6. citizen resorts T. iii 642 I. else, and sure to be despised T. vi 1016

INSIST.

I. on, as if each were his own pope H. 213 Still I i., though music heretofore P.E. 138

INSOLENCE.

That air of i. affronts your God Con. 487 'Tis not however, i. and noise T.T. 408

INSOLENT.

Her women, i. and self-caressed Ex. 45 The rugged frowns and i. rebuffs T. iv 411

INSOLVENCIES.

Yet hence, alas! i., and hence R. 511

INSOLVENT.

But let i. innocence go free" Ch. 289

INSPIRATION.

They scorned his i., and his theme Ex. 69 Or I. teaches; and enclosed T. i 628

INSPIRE.

'Tis thus the tenderness that Love i. A.T. 29 And with scenes that new rapture i. C. 51 The founder of that name alone i. Ch. 600 The language of the land she seeks i. Con. 886 The mischiefs your ambitious pride i.! Her. 46 And wit that puppet prompters might i. R. 312 Nature in every form i. delight R. 417 Whatever hopes a change of scene i. R. 679 What fear he feels his gratitude i. T. 190 And well tried virtues, could alone i. T. i 148 I. the News, his trumpet. Keener far T. ii 353 To break a jest, when pity would i. T. ii 468 With eloquence that agonies i. T. iii 330 Of his unrival'd pencil. He i. T. vi 242 Twere wiser sure to i. a little heart Tir. 454 Whose fair example may at once i. Tir. 648 Hence Liberty, sweet Liberty, i. T.T. 222

Its clearest tone, the rapture it i. T.T. 293
I. the song, and that his name is Love T.T. 739

INSPIRED.

'Tis to believe what men i. of old Ex. 646
From thousands with rapture i. M.D. 40
Could I, from heaven i., as sure presses St. ii 1
With all that bigotry adopts, i. T. 88
But who, with filial confidence i. T. v 745
What knavish priests promulgate as i. Tir. 186
Which first i. the flame, decays M.F. 54

INSPIRER.

Their great i. call J.P. 30 Be thou the great i. of my strains R. 202

INSPIRING.

And makes the task his own. I. dumb T. vi 474

INSTANCE.

But (I might i. in St. Patrick's dean) Ch. 499

INSTANT.

The wreath he won drew down an i. curse Ch. 61 An i.'s pause, and lives but while she moves T. i 371 That i. he becomes the serjeant's care T. iv 631 That i. upon all his future pains Tir. 715

INSTINCT.

With genial i. filled A Tale 14
As all by i., like the bees Q.V. 43
When led by i. sharp and sure T.B. 32
Yet feel the burning i.: over-head T. iv 773
As i. prompts; self-buried ere they die T. v 88
Yours, a blind i., crouches to the rod T. v 355
In measure, as by force of i. drawn T. vi 412
While meaner things, whom i. leads The Doves 3
Swelling with vegetative force i. Y.O. 84

INSTINCTIVE.

Much of her vigilant i. dread T. iii 340 A jealousy and an i. fear T. vi 374

INSTITUTED.

That certain feasts are i. now Con. 823

INSTITUTIONS.

Shall royal i. miss the bays Tir. 503

INSTRUCT.

I. us how to love! A Tale 80
If he wish to i., he must learn to delight F.M. 17
I. me, guide me to that heavenly day R. 95
And loose example, whom he should i. T. ii 552
She next i. him in the kiss Trans. iv 16

INSTRUCTED.

But let the wise and well i. hand Con. 903
Thus fell the best i. in her day Ex. 225
I. him at length to gain F.B. 17
Reformed and well i.? You shall hear T. 130
Thine eye shall be i., and thine heart T. v 782
The Muse i. a well-nurtured train T.T. 634

INSTRUCTION.

Thy lips have shed i. as the dew Ch. 238
With rich i., and a soul enlarged Ch. 322
Spirit of i.! come St. iv 35
I., and inventing to ourselves T. v 875
Aud all the i. of thy son's best friend Tir. 717

INSTRUCTIVE.

With social converse and i. ease T. iv 135

INSTRUCTORS.

Of all these sepulchres, i. true St. ii 34 To quadruped i., many a good T. vi 622

INSTRUMENT.

As a mere i, in hands divine Ex. 319
'Gan make his i, of music speak N.A. 44
An i, whose chords, upon the stretch T. 384
And having found his i., forgets T. ii 176
"Is but an i. on which the priest T. v 651
But read the i., and mark it well T. vi 454
All are his i.; each form of war T.T. 446

INSTRUMENTAL.

From i. causes proud to draw T. iii 238

INSUFFICIENT

Doomed it, as i. for his praise T. v 565

INSULT.

When lawless mobs i. the Court Pat. 9
And the fool with it, who i. his Lord T. 504

INSULTED

I. and traduced, are cast aside T. vi 879

INSUPPORTABLE.

The i. fatigue of thought T. vi 106

INSURANCE.

Like Hand-in-Hand i. plates F. 106

INSURE.

Temperance and Peace i. its healthful state Con. 605 No present health can health i. St. i 25 To i. a side-box station at half price T. ii 624

INTEGRITY.

Had once his i. put to the test P.A. 22 And sound i., not more than famed T. iii 259 Their sober zeal, i., and worth T.T. 377

INTELLECT.

Their want of light and i. supplied Con. 147 Adorn his i. as well as shelves T. 423 Our wayward i., the more we learn T. iii 236 Bestial, a meagre i., unfit T. v 454 With i. bemazed in endless doubt T. v 848 Who feed a pupil's i. with store Tir. 622

INTELLECTUAL.

An i. kingdom, all her own Tir. 12

INTELLIGENCE.

The meek i. of those dear eyes M.P. 7 Bears proof of an i. divine R. 208 He sucks i. in every clime T. iv 111 By one of sound i. rehearsed T. vi 480

INTELLIGENT.

Are more i. at least,—try them" Ex. 461
Far more i., and better taught R. 673
Thus form'd, thus placed, i., and taught Tir. 53
Not more i. than loose and gay Tir. 530
At once, upstood i., surveyed Y.O. 150

INTEMPERATE.

From Fancy's influence, and i. zeal P.E. 455

INTEND.

But Charity not feigned i. alone Ch. 449
Springs from the mischief it i. to cure Con. 170
The stroke that a vindictive God i. Ex. 407
Whatever parents, guardians, schools i. P.E. 424
Did not his eye rule all things, and i. T. ii 166
Fresh for his task, i. what task he may T. iii 387
His wealth, fame, honours, all that I i. Tir. 389
Too busy to i. a meaner care Tir. 660

INTENDANTS.

Have ye, ye sage i. of the whole Tir. 265

INTENDED.

And the Nose was as plainly i. for them " A.C. 24 They drew a curse from an i. good Ex. 129 It err but little from the i. line P.E. 574

INTENSE.

And, in the glow of her i. desires Ch. 402 With visions prompted by i. desire T. i 451 He burns with most i. and flagrant zeal T. iii 794 With what i. desire he wants his home Tir. 562

INTENT.

Propitious to his fond i. there grew A.T. 80

I. upon her destined course Comp. ii 6 Some never seem so wide of their i. Com. 857 Their beauties I i. surveyed D. W. 15 Improved thee far beyond his own i. Ex. 489 To prove at last my main i. F. 139 Some foe to his upright i. H.F. 9 Shall recompense his mere i. Mor. 56 The worm, aware of his i. N.G. 13 The worst is-Scripture warped from its i. P.E. 437 With what i. I touch that holy thing) T. ii 328 Desert their office; and themselves i. T. iv 589 And eyes i. upon the scanty herb T. v 786 And no distrust of his i. in theirs T. vi 363 His horrible i., again he sought T. vi 525 Force not my drift beyond its just i. Tir. 505

INTENTIONS.

That Heaven's i. are not what they seem H. 66

INTERCEPT.

How dark the veil that i. the blaze Ch. 57 Where frequent hedges i. the eye T. i 514 The eclipse that i. truth's heavenly beam T. v 683

INTERCEPTING.

And, i. in their silent fall T. vi 74

INTERCOURSE.

This genial i., and mutual aid Ch. 93 With frequent i., and always sweet E. iii 8 Sure there is need of social i. T. ii 48 His i. with peers and sons of peers Tir. 393

INTERDASHED.

A prologue i. with many a stroke T.T. 538

INTERDICTS. And i. its growth. Thence straight succeed T. iii 529

INTEREST.

And begged an i. in his frequent prayers Con. 74 And one in heart, in i., and design Con. 701 The soul's sure i. in the good she seeks Con. 728 As I. biased knaves, or Fashion fools Ex. 38So rich an i. in Almighty love? Ex. 166 Thou hast as bright an i. in her rays Ex. 590 If I. move thee, to persuade e'en thee Ex. 667That stands on sordid i. F. 38 To passion, i., pleasure, whim, resigned H. 212 Had each a brother's i. in his heart H. 579 Their real i. to discorn N.G. 28 The point of i, or the post of power R. 142 His master's i. and his own combined T. 193 Consults all day your i. and your ease T. 217
For though the Pope has lost his i. here T. 289
For i. sake, the living to the dead T. iii 661 Her i., or that gives her sacred cause T. iii 792 For i. sake, or swarming into clans T. iv 665 And by an emphasis of i. his T. v 749

Are yet his care, and have an i. all T. vi 448

Connexion formed for i., and endeared Tir. 495 That God and nature, and your i. too Tir. 558 INTERESTING.

Filled up at last with i. news Con. 394 INTERFERE.

Hence all that i., and dares to clash P.E. 427 To i. though in so just a cause T. vi 478 Or safety i., his rights and claims T. vi 582 INTERFERENCE.

Forbids their i., looking on T. v 523 INTERFUSED.

Than water i. to make them one T. v 148

INTERIOR. Glorious as Solyma's i. shrine T. 388

He that attends to his i. self T. iii 373 INTERJECTED.

Strange! how the frequent i. dash Ch. 521 INTERJECTIONS.

Sweet i.! if he learn but those ? Tir. 400 INTERLACED.

That i. each other, these supplied T. i 41 INTERMEDDLING.

Nor stranger i. with my joy T. vi 298 INTERMINABLE.

That finding an i. space T. v 556

INTERMINGLING.

With all my purpose i. E. i 23 Shadow and sunshine i. quick T. i 347 The amonum there with i. flowers T. iii 576 INTERPOSE

An envious world will i. its frown E. ii 88 None i. now to succour thee Ex. 279 And marks whatever clouds may i. T.T. 707 INTERPOSED.

That humour i. too often makes M.P. 67 Or should the brambles, i., our fall N.A. 111 Of hill and valley i. between T. i 322 Abhor each other. Mountains i. T. ii 17 Of hunger unassuaged, has i. T. vi 463

INTERPOSING.

The pipe, with solemn i. puff Con. 245 Long hid by i. hill or wood T. 249

Than to i. by the letter P.T. 6 I. to the marking eye distress R. 287 I. her more truly) of a rank T. iv 548

INTERPRETER.

Sacred i. of human thought Con. 23 A lewd i. is never just P.E. 459 His black i. the charge disdained T.T. 99 INTERRED.

When some stranger is i. St. iv 32INTERRUPT.

I i. him with a sudden bow Con. 281 As once in Gibeon, i. the race T. vi 126

INTERRUPTION.

It suffers i. and delay P.E. 442

INTERSECTED.

Lands i. by a narrow frith T. ii 16 INTERSPERSE.

Oaks i. it, that had once a head N.A. 11

INTERSPERSED.

Nor gardens i. with flowery beds R. 336

INTERTEXTURE. And skirted thick with i. firm T. i 111

INTERTWINE.

And horrid brambles i. below N.A. 16

INTERVAL.

And while, at i., a cold blast sings Ex. 720 That meet (no barren i. between) T. iii 409

Falling at i. upon the ear T. vi 7

These were the chief; each i. of night T.T. 572

INTERVENE. Or scorned where business never i. R. 122

But judge, where so much evil i. Tir. 486 Aware then how much danger i. Tir. 883 But Providence himself will i. T.T. 444

INTERVENING.

A transient visit i. E. i 97

INTERVIEW.

At every i. their route the same Con. 213

INTERWOVEN. Close i., where they meet the vase T. iii 612

INTESTINE.

No thunders shook with deep i. sound Her. 5 And tumult, and i. war M.F. 48 A cold stagnation on the i. tide T. vi 139

INTIMATE.

I crown thee king of i. delights T. iv 139

INTOLERANT.

Religion, harsh, i., austere T.T. 612 INTOXICATE.

Was sure to i. the brows it bound T. v 245

Where once i. pressed the ground Con. 808 I. and delirium wild T. ii 510

INTREPID.

Sound sense, i. spirit, manly grace V. 12 INTRICATE.

Contrivance i. expressed with ease R. 55 INTRIGUE.

Where dreams of dress, i., and pleasure reign R.642 By diving into cabinet i. T.T. 154

INTRINSIC. To your i. merit true E. i 27

INTRINSICALLY.

I. precious; to the foot T. v 175

With such as merchants i. R.C. 37 And i. hunger, frost, and woe T. ii 616

INTROVERTED. Self-searching with an i. eye Con. 364

His awkward gait, his i. toes T. iv 633

INTRUDE. Or where does cold Reflection less i.? Ex. 8 A thought i, that says, or seems to say H. 372

And bar the door the moment they i. P.E. 160 Truth will i.—she bids him yet beware T. 471 Woe to the tyrant, if he dare i. T. vi 406

And charged perhaps with venom, that i. T. vi 569

INTRUDER.

That made them an i. on their joys T. iv 179 INTRUSION.

His bold i. on their dark retreat H. 356 Risk an i. on thy pensive mood R. 255

INTRUSTED.

Life an i. talent, or a toy? R. 650

INTUITION.

He spells them true by i.'s light N.A. 69 INURED.

The poor, i. to drudgery and distress H. 7 The man feels least, as more i. than she T. iv 387

INVADE. To quit the forest and i the fold Ch. 185

The worst that can i. a sickly brain Con. 222 Bids rottenness i., and bring to dust Ex. 332

I., possesses, and o'erwhelms the soul H. 730 Taught the raised shoulders to i. the ears T. i 67

Which winds and waves obey, i. the shore T. ii 114
That no rude savour maritime i. T. ii 258 Tempered in hell, i. the throbbing breast T. iii 686 To i. another's rights, or guard their own T. iv 560

Winter i the spring, and often pours T.T. 210 INVALID.

As the leaf that enfolds what an i. swallows F.M. 22

INVECTIVE.

Than all i. is his bold harangue T. ii 354

INVENT. And of all arts sagacious dupes i. P.E. 435 No grand inquisitor could worse i. T. 103

From all that Science traces, Art i. T. i 627 With all that Fancy can i. to please T.T. 765

INVENTED. Imports what others have i. well Ch. 117

Thus first Necessity i. Stools T. i 86 The curbs i. for the mulish mouth T. ii 744 Thus kings were first i., and thus kings T. v 279 Priests have i., and the world admired Tir. 185

INVENTING. Instruction, and i, to ourselves T, v 875

INVENTION.

Or taxed i. for a fresh supply Ch. 514 Beggars I., and makes Fancy lame R. 710 The birthday of I.; weak at first T. i 17 And some ascribe the i, to a priest T, i 62

The expedients and i. multiform T. ii 287 INVENTIVE.

Which busy man's i, brain E. i 65 INVENTOR.

The sword and falchion their i. claim T. v 218

INVENTORY.

Saves the small i., bed, and stool T. iv 401

INVERTED. O Winter, ruler of the i. year T. iv 120

Such reasoning falls like an i. cone T.T. 53

With clasping tendrils, and i. his branch T. iii 666 'Tis plain the creature, whom he chose to i. Tir. 95

INVESTING. With blushing wreaths, i. every spray T. vi 169

INVETERATE.

I. habits choke the unfruitful heart R. 41 And their i. habits, all forbid T. i 490 I., hopeless of a cure, conspires T. iv 577

INVIGORATE.

And youth i. that frame again H. 34 Not more i. life's noblest part T.T. 381 I. by turns the springs of life Y.O. 78

INVINCIBLE.

None i. as they " B. 32 Baptized her fleet I. in vain Ex. 569

INVISIBLE.

Their own defect i, to them Con. 155 Certain i. as shrewd as he Con. 738 The I. in things scarce seen revealed R. 61 "Distinctly scenes i. to man T. v 826

INVITATION.

Man, Nature's guest by i. sweet P.E. 209

INVITE. His wit i. you by his looks to come Con. 303 I. thee, woo thee, to the bliss they share Ex. 627 The open windows seemed to i. F.B. 19 Without a soil to i. the tiller's care Her. 27 There no delusive hope i. despair P.E. 617 I. us. Monument of ancient taste T. i 253 Soft fomentation, and i, the seed T, iii 510 Then spread the rich discovery, and i. T.T. 752

I. her to slumber there R.C. 42 Kings are i., and would kings obey T. 351

INVITING.

Dressed to his taste, i. him abroad T. iii 358

INVOLVED.

Obscurest night i. the sky Cast. 1 There sit, i. and lost in curling clouds T. iv 472

That live an atheist life; i. the Heaven T. ii 180 I. the combatants; each claiming Truth T. iii 162

TRIS.

To form an I. in the skies O. i 19

IRISH.

(As I. bogs are always green) F. 122

IRON.

The studs that thick emboss his i. door T. v 426

IRON-HEARTED.

Think, ye masters i. N.C. 21

IRRATIONAL.

I. in what they thus prefer Tir. 795

IRREGULAR.

All is i., and out of course P.E. 449 The onset, and i. At length T. v 230

IRRESOLUTE.

Weak and i. is man H.F. 1

IRREVOCABLE.

Alike i. both when past Comp. i 5

IRRITATE.

Not to molest, or i., or raise R. 317

Like I., with a mind applied Mor. 11 √538 Such was Sir I., and such Boyle and Locke P.E. | And i. down the victims of the past St. ii 4

ISAAC-LIKE.

When, I., the solitary saint T. vi 948

ISIS.

[369

From school to Cam or I., and thence home P.E.

TRILAND.

This i., spot of unreclaimed rude earth Ex. 468 To a slave-cultured i. we came M.D. 26 A flowery i., from the dark green lawn T. iii 630

ISLE.

The simple native of the new found i. Ch. 30 An i. possessed by creatures of our kind Ch. 381 From side to side of her delightful i. Ev. 3 Yet Truth is yours, remote unenvied i.! H. 481 O place me in some heaven-protected i. Her. 83 In Britain's i., beneath a George's reign! Her. 90 So then—the Vandals of our I.—M. i I Shoots into port at some well-havened i. M.P. 90 We find a little i, this life of man R. 148 In Albion's happy i. The lumber stood T. i 58 [620 Towards the Antarctic. Even the favoured i. T. i And we the righteous, whose fast-anchored i. T. ii 151 And fill with discontent a British i. T.T. 258 Emerged all splendour in our i. at last T.T. 565 To the delicate growth of our i. W.N. 2 O Queen of Albion, queen of i.! 1789, 56

ISLINGTON.

Thus all through merry I.-J.G. 133

ISRAEL.

How would they take up I.'s taunting strain! Ch. 66 If I.'s Lord be God, then serve the Lord Con. 852 The prophet wept for I.; wished his eyes Ex. 33 For I. dealt in robbery and wrong Ex. 35 Wept till all I. heard his bitter cry Ex. 63 People and priest, the sons of I. were Ex. 124 The flower of I.'s infamy full blown Ex. 222 O I., of all nations most undone! Ex. 257

TESTIE.

Thy tears all i. from a source divine E. ii 47 The fatal i. to his health, fame, peace T. v 601

ISSUED.

When all his glowing language i. forth Con. 709 Now therefore i. forth the spotted pack N.A. 24 That beak, whence i. many a lay T.B. 56

Of stale debauch, forth i. from the styes T. iv 470

ITALIAN.

He from I. songsters takes his cue P.E. 112 That make I. flowers so sweet and fair P.E. 410 And throws I. light on English walls T. i 425

ITALY.

O I.! thy sabbaths will be soon P.E. 152 He sunk in Greece, in I. he rose T.T. 563

Denominates an i. for writing E. i 18 And many a dunce, whose fingers i. to write T.T

Should feel that i, and that tingling E, i 25 Is but to gratify an i, ear T, vi 643

ITCHY.

Excess, the scrofulous and i. plague T. iv 582

ITRM.

But that she fasts, and, i., goes to church T. 152 Drained to the last poor i. of his wealth T. iii 784

IVORY.

Was smooth and even as an i, ball A.T. 47Four i. eggs soon pave its floor A Tale 41 As alphabets in i. employ Con. 11 Or twining silken threads round i. reels T. iv 264 With i. teeth, or ploughs it with his snout T. v 50

In streaming gold; syringa, i. pure T. vi 150 To trivial toys, and, pushing i. balls T. vi 274

As creeping i. clings to wood or stone P.E. 285 His brows with i., rushed into the field T.T. 604

IVY-MANTLED.

Calls Nature from her i. den Ch. 95

J.

JACHIN.

The J. and the Boaz of them all Tir. 500

Or giant-killing J. would please no more Con. 244 Was still a wild j. hare Ep. ii 8 The man that hails you Tom or J.-F. 169 Poor J.—no matter who—for when I blame R. 575 J. vanished, was regretted and forgot R. 581 [R.599] JEOPARDY. J. bowed and was obliged—confessed 'twas strange' Conscious of j. incurred R.C. 76 J. knew his friend, but hoped in that disguise R. 587 Twas he, the same, the very J. he knew R. 592

JACQUES. l shall not ask Jean J. Rousseau P.T. 1

Asked, when in Hell, to see the royal j. T.T. 94 Begs a warm office, doomed to a cold j. T. iii 820 JAPAN.

No matter where, in China or J.—E. iii 47

The clash of arguments and j. of words Con. 85 And grins with wonder at the j. he makes Con. 902 Thy senate is a scene of civil j. Ex. 294Instead of harmony, 'tis j. M.F. 47

JARGON.

To them, the sounding j. of the schools T. 367

JARRING.

Hence j. sectaries may learn N.G. 27 O blest seclusion from a j. world T. iii 675 A j. note. Themes of a graver tone T. iv 181 JASMINE.

The J., throwing wide her elegant sweets T. vi 173

JAVA.

Is heard salvation. Eastern J. there T. vi 810 JAY.

Which babes might play with; and the thievish j. The j., the pie, and even the boding owl T. 205

JEALOUS.

He did it with a j. look Ep. ii 11 And j. of the blessing. Spread it then T. ii 44 Does law, so j. in the cause of man T. vi 432 And Equity: not j. more to guard T. vi 850

So J. looks forth distressed F. 80 A j. and an instinctive fear T. vi 374 Of envy, hatred, j., and pride Tir. 467

I shall not ask J. Jacques Rousseau P.T. 1

JEHOVAH.

908 It sounds J.'s name, and pours his praise along Con.

Are part of a J.'s cares \dot{E} . i 58 From Sinai's top J. gave the law T. 549

JEJUNE. Till farce itself, most mournfully j. R. 711

JEOPARDY.

JERK.

And with a dexterous j, soon twists him down I in JERUSALEM.

J. a prey, her glory soiled Ex. 61

The violet, the pink, the j. M.P. 76 Their j., her j. remote T. iii 584

With such a j. as filled with hellish glee Con. 737 And having felt the pangs you deem a j. Con. 497 Becomes a mockery and a standing j. Ex. 110 And say he wounded you in j. F. 95Or laugh or mourn with me, the rueful j. P.E. 110 Could argue once, could j., or join the song R. 20 The Scripture was his j. book, whence he drew T. 306 No smartness in the j., and wonders why T. i 469 To break a j., when pity would inspire T. ii 468The tasselled cap and the spruce band a j. T. ii 749His pupil, and his torment, and his j. T. iv 632 And he abhors the j. by which he shines T. v 617So that the j. is clearly to be seen T.T.540 Come, ponder well, for 'tis no j. Y.D. 1

Jester.

No j., and yet lively in discourse Tir. 668

The bramble, black as j., or sloes austere T. i \mathbb{R}^2

Had Paul of Tarsus lived and died a J.—H. 257 Bon mots to gall the Christian and the J.-T.308But God will never. When he charged the J.-T.vi445And hates it with the malice of a J.—Tir. 168

The leathern ears of stockjobbers and J.-T.T.187JEWEL.

He sought the j. in his neighbour's shame Ch. 540 That j. of the purest flame F. 11 That picked the j. out of England's crown T. ii 265 Unquestioned, though the j. be but glass Tir. 463

JEWELED.

And j. turban with a smile of peace T. iv 29

JEWISH.

The favours poured upon the J. name Ex. 170So when the J. leader stretched his arm T. ii 825

JINGLE.

of dear Mat Prior's easy j. E. iv 4

Sportive and j, her poetic bells T, iv 702 Frue to the j. of our leader's bells Tir. 254

And asked him to go and assist in the j. P.A. 24 I. felt it, when he groaned beneath the rod R. 303 Friends such as his for modern J. prepare R. 306

JOCKEY.

Prepares for meals as j. take a sweat P.E. 221 For gamesters, j., brothellers impure T. ii 751 And, while the playful j. scours the room Tir. 366

JOCKEYSHIP.

Where can at last his j. retire? Con. 420 At least superior j., and claim T. ii 276

To conquer those by j. exploits T. ii 479

JOCUND.

The j. Loves in Hymen's band Miss -To theatre, or j. feast, or ball T. v 410

JOG.

For then the farmers come j., j. Y.D. 13

JOHN.

[A.T. iii 8

Should J. weda score, O the claws and the scratches! If J. marries Mary, and Mary alone A.T. iii 1 Tis a very good match between Mary and J. A.T. iii 2 And all the love of the beloved J.—H. 625 J. Gilpin was a citizen J.G. 1 I. Gilpin's spouse said to her dear J.G. 5 J. Gilpin kissed his loving wife J.G. 29

J. Gilpin at his horse's side J.G. 45 So, "Fair and softly," J. he cried J.G. 85 "Stop, stop, J. Gilpin!—Here's the house!" J.G. Said J. "It is my modding at 1 G. 1991.

Said $J_{.,}$ "It is my wedding day $J_{.,}$ 198 J. coming back amain J.G. 222

Rocks, groves, and streams, must j. him in his praise And wilt thou j. to this bold enterprise Ex. 698 Did j. in the pursuit J.G. 240 J. me, amid your silent hours Miss -- 19 Could argue once, could jest, or j. the song R. 290 To j. a traveller, of far different note T. vi 489

JOINED.

A stranger j. them, courteous as a friend Con. 522 The gentler virtues too are j. Miss - 77 He blamed and protested, but j in the plan P.A.43In one procession j. Q.V. 22Strength j. with beauty, dignity with grace Tir. 2

As smiths or j. perfect a design Con. 790 Smith, cobbler, j., he that plies the shears T. iv 476

And j. the freethinker's brutal roar P.E. 593

JOINT.

Thy bones not fashioned, and thy j. not knit Ex. 475What j. the prophet had in mind) L.W. 14 The shapely limb and lubricated j. R. 57The uplifted frame, compact at every j. T. iii 484 And nimble motion of those restless j. T. iii 762

JOINT-STOOLS.

J. were then created, on three legs T. i 19

JOKE.

And loved a timely j. J.G. 170Their sovereign nostrum is a clumsy j. R. 313 From repartee, with j. that he disdains Tir. 728An art contrived to advertise a j. T.T. 539It is no time to j. Y.D. 40

JONQUIL.

That poor J., with almost every breath H. 89

JORDAN.

A J. for the ablution of our woes Con. 566

JOSEPH.

Dear J.—five and twenty years ago E. iii 1

JOTHAM.

J. ascribed to his assembled trees T. v 322

JOURNAL.

A tasteless j. of the day before Con. 276

JOURNEY.

I must finish my j. alone A.S. 10

That cheers the silent j. of the night Ch. 320 Both speed their j. with a restless stream Comp, i 2 Ere yet they brought their j. to an end Con. 521 Feel less the j.'s roughness and its length Con. 699

His j. to begin J.U.50

Wretch even then, life's j. just begun! M.P. 24 All these, life's rambling j. done St. i 3 Yet thousands still desire to j. on T. i 470 Æthereal j., submarine exploits T. iv 85

Shortening his j. between morn and noon T. iv 131 Short as in retrospect the j. seems T. vi 19

JOURNEYED.

He j.; and his chance was as he went T. vi 488

JOVE.

Like Pallas springing armed from J. Mrs. M-26 The moons of $J_{\cdot \cdot}$, and Saturn's belted ball $T_{\cdot \cdot \cdot}$. 634 To strip J.'s statue of his caken wreath T. vi 640

Your hermit, young and j. sirs! Mor. 23 Lolling at your j. boards N.C. 22 A corresponding tone in j. souls T. iii 333

"Seraglios sing, and harems dance for j.! A.T. 108 We come with j. from our eternal rest Ch. 78 While life's sublimest j. are overlooked Ch. 219 Farewell, my former j.! I sigh no more Ch. 240 And Thornton is familiar with the j. Ch. 253 J. doubly sweet to feelings quick as thine Ch. 298 Her eager thought, and feeds her flowing j. Ch. 405Unfriendly to society's chief j. Con. 252 Oh! to the club, the scene of savage j. Con. 421 That 'tis an honour and a j. to pay Con. 646 [708 Lives the dear thought of j. he once possessed Con. Of j. they meet with in their heavenly range Con. 694 Chill blasts of trouble nip their springing j. E. ii 32 And after all the j. that Plenty leads Er. 83 Beheld with j, the lovely scene defaced Ex. 426 Domestic happiness and rural j. Ex. 535By J. possessed, and j. still held in chase Ex. 669 Secure the favour, and enhance the j. Ex. 678 May suddenly your j. disperse F. 65 O ye, who never taste the j. F.B. 31 J. always prized, when placed within our reach H. Plucks amaranthine j. from bowers of bliss H. 164

Hope! let the wretch, once conscious of the j. H. 171 A pale procession of past sinful j. H. 221 And with it every j. it can afford H. 679 J., far superior J., that much outweighs H. 728 Their hours, their days, in listening to his j. H. 739 Of heartfelt j., succeeds not soon again Her. 64 From generous sympathy what j. Miss — 15 No j. can ever dwell Miss — 44 And every j. which now is yours Miss — 99 Adds j. to duty, makes me glad to pay M.P. 70 That thought is j., arrive what may to me M.P. 107To have renewed the j. that once were mine M.P. 116 A glimpse of j, that we have met N. 23 Ere yet with ruthless j. the happy hound N.A. 33 Nor hold forbidden j. in view O. ii 5 To j. forbidden man aspires P.B. 15 Enthusiasts drunk with an unreal j. P.E. 76 The j, the danger and the toil o'erpays P.E. 90 Love, j., and peace make harmony more meet P.E. 140Witness of j. that shun the sight of noon P.E. 174 He snuffs far off the anticipated j. P.E. 219 Forbids him none but the licentious j. P.E. 237To express unwieldy j. Q.V. 20He may possess the j. he thinks he sees R. 11 In drawing pictures of forbidden j. R. 216 But feels while grasping at his faded j. R. 473 Fly to the coast for daily, nightly j. R. 522[598] O'erwhelmed at once with wonder, grief, and j. R. To taste a j. like that he has bestowed R. 632 And share the j. your bounty may create R. 790 [ii 9] Time then would seem more precious than the j. St. To thine;—best gift the unfalling source of j. S. ii 13 "His j. be mine," each Reader cries St. iii 33 Of giddy j. comprised St. vi 10 While danger passed is turned to present j. T. 256 Weeps tears of j., and bursts into a song T. 458 All j. to the believer! He can speak T. 571 Witness a j. that thou hast doubled long T. i 149 He walks, he leaps, he runs—is winged with j. T. i 443 And tasteless of the same repeated j. T. i 463 As dear to thee as once? And have thy j. T. i 647 Thy j. and sorrows, with as true a heart T. ii 220 Such j. has he that sings. But ah! not such T. ii 304 We sacrifice to dress, till household j. T. ii 613 Of riper j., and commerce with the world T. ii 763 J. that her stormy raptures never yield T. iii 57 The grand effect; acknowledges with j. T. iii 227
To them that ask it?—Freely—'Tis his j. T. iii 273
The j. of many, and the dread of more T. iii 281 Substantial happiness for transient j. T. iii 300 Should seek the guiltless j. that I describe T. iii 698 Perhaps to thousands, and of j. to some T. iv 14 To him indifferent whether grief or j. T. iv 15 That made them an intruder on their j. T. iv 179 Sees not a countenance there that speaks of j. T. iv 205 But dying soon, like all terrestrial j. T. iv 382 The j. half lost, because not sooner found T. iv 717 And contemplation, heart-consoling j. T. iv 781 Then shakes his powdered coat, and barksforj. T.v 51 Whose eye they fill with tears of holy j. T. \forall 750 Shouted for j. – "Tell me, ye shining hosts T. \forall 822 "Radiant with j. towards the happy land T. v 836 Fires all the faculties with glorious j. T. v 885 Across a velvet level, feel a j. T. vi 275 Nor stranger intermeddling with my j. T. vi 298 The comfort of a reasonable j. T. vi 347 He ruled with meekness, they obey'd with j. T. vi Their kerchiefs, and old women weep for j. T. vi 700 His soul refreshed with foretaste of the j.? T. vi 762 From distant mountains catch the flying j. T. vi 795 Flows into her; unbounded is her j. T. vi 803 To see thy beauty, and to share thy j. T. vi 815 And e'en the j. that haply some poor heart T. vi 832

Her honours, her emoluments, her j. T. vi 923
Would die at last in comfort, peace, and j. Tir. 150
Oh'tis a sight to be with j. perused Tir. 537 [Tir. 745
Flies, winged with j., to some coach-crowded door
But though the j. he hopes beneath your roof Tir. 563
To speak its excellence; I danced for j. T. iv 712
Is odious, and their wages all their j. Tir. 824
With j. beyond what Victory bestows T.T. 80
We never feel the alsority and j. T.T. 242
Communicates with j., the good she finds T.T. 275
The tempest of tumultuary j. T.T. 409
The storms that overset the j. of life T.T. 449
To j. less innocent, as less refined T.T. 601
Then peace and j. again possessed 1789, 46
Such j. and peace as can be known 1789, 48
With j. not unallied to thine 1789, 59

JOYFUL.

Unless, when rising on a j. wing Con. 716 But with a j. tear Q.V. 54 Which j. I will oft record 1789, 34

JOYLESS.

Still to reflect, that though a j. note T. v 406

JUDAH.

To hear plain truth at J.'s hallowed gate H. 763 See J.'s promised king, bereft of all R. 767

JUDGE.

To j, the lands, to purge atrocious crimes A.T. 141 And, Avarice being j., with ease succeeds Ch. 195 The j. of all men owes them no regard Ch. 572 Will j. himself deceived, and prove it too Con. 112A fool with j., amongst fools a j. Con. 300 The noble beast j. otherwise, his groom Com. 414 They best can j. a poet's worth Dr. 5 [340 Stand now and j. thyself.—Hast thou incurred Ex. Then j, yourself, and prove your man F. 151 There find a j. inexorably just H. 227 No j., sure, were e'er so mad J.P. 25 A hollow scooped, I j., in ancient time N.A. 17 And j. you from the kennel and the stye P.E. 262J. his own ways, and sigh for a return P.E. 611 And Conscience and our conduct j. us all? R. 660 But, with averted eyes, the omniscient j. T. 227 Their j. was Conscience, and her rule their law T.535'Twas the last trumpet—see the J. enthroned T. 564 That He will j. the earth, and call the fool T. iii 178 Sarcastic, would exclaim, and j. the song T. iii 563To monarche dignity; to j. sense T. iv 796 That of the beast has seem'd to j. the man T. vi 478She j. of refinement by the eye T. vi 987 But j., where so much evil intervenes Tir. 486 Nor j. by statute a believer's hope T.T. 72

JUDGED.

He j. them with as terrible a frown Ex. 131 Who, strange to tell, all j. it wrong J.P. 19
The well j. purchase, and the gift M. i 7
The unpitied victim of ill j. expense R. 512
Who j. the Pharisee? What odious cause T. 44
And j. offenders well. Then he that sharp'd T. iii
Then skilful most when most severely j. T. v 865
And seem, if j. by their expressive looks Tir. 288
I j. a man of sense could scarce do worse T.T. 518
J. every effort of the Muse a crime T.T. 617

JUDGING.

J., in charity no doubt, the town H. 250

JUDGMENT.

Where men of j. creep, and feel their way Con. 145 Man's favourable j., but his own Con. 764

I., however tardy, mends her pace Ex. 151 Of talents, j., mercies, better far F.A. 15 And differing j. serve but to declare H. 423 Enslaves the will, nor leaves the j. free P.E. 270 But if to wrong the j. and abuse P.E. 304 And j. drunk, and bribed to lose his way P.E. 450 Hear the just law—the j. of the skies! P.E. 606 Strong J. labouring in the scripture mine R. 698 Death and J., Heaven and Hell St. iv 29 Tis J. shakes him; there's the fear St. v 29His will and j. at continual strife T. 467 That even a j., making way for thee T. ii 131 By curious eyes and j. ill informed T. ii 435 Of j. and of mercy, should beware T. ii 465 By a just j. strip and starve themselves T. iii 759 Soon, by a righteous j., in the line T. v 211And sober j. that he is but man T. v 265Surrender j., hood-winked. Some the style T. vi To want of j, than to wrong design T, vi 657 For her the J., umpire in the strife Tir. 29 So take my j. in his language dressed Tir. 507 And yet his j. was not framed amiss T.T. 390 UDGMENT-PROOF.

JUDICIALLY.

And that, j. withdrawn, disgrace Ex. 692 JUDICIOUS.

The reprobated race grows j. T.T. 459

A tale should be j., clear, succinct Con. 235 In reason, is j., manly, free T. v 354

As Time improves the grape's authentic j. Con. 643 Like that of salts with lemon j. F. 130 'Tis not alone the grape's enticing j. P.E. 271And meliorate the well concocted j. T. 496

And when his j. salads failed Ep. ii 19

Broiling beneath a J. sun E. iv 50 With all a J. sun's collected rays R. 484

JUMP.

And gains remote conclusions at a j. Con. 154

When gently, as in J., the rivers glide A.T. 74 "With J.'s undoubted right J.P. 36

JUNIORS.

So much thy j., who, their birth received Y.O. 135 JUNO.

Than all that held their routs in J.'s heaven! T. JUPITER.

And J. bids fair to rule again Con. 822 JURY.

The j. meet, the coroner is short T. 447

JUST. [A.T. ii 9 It has always been reckoned a j. cause of strife Truth armed it with a point so keen, so j. A.T. And reddening with a j. and generous pride A.T.204When Cook—lamented, and with tears as j. Ch. 23 But grant the plea, and let it stand for j. Ch. 196 Let j. Restraint, for public peace designed Ch. 286 Though Vice derided with a j. design Ch. 487 No skill in swordmanship, however j. Ch. 509 Affords a plea allowable, or j. Con. 47
For want of prominence and j. relief Con. 127 The works of man inherit, as is j. Con. 553 And gives him all his j. demands require Con. 760

The subtle and injurious may be j. Con. 809 [904 Once take the shell beneath his j. command Con. Too j. to wink, or speak the guilty clear" Ex. 256 In j. resentment of his injured laws Ex.328Of his j. praise, to lavish it on them? Ex.349Candid and j., with no false aim in view Ex.648Candid, and generous, and j. F. 19A tax upon their own j. praise F. 89 That friends should be sincere and j. F. 158 The j. Creator condescends to write H. 133 There find a judge inexorably j.~H.~227No! the decree was j. and without flaw H. 318 And silence every fear with-God is j. H. 370 A lawyer's dealing should be j. and fair H.401 [47]Fast by the stream that bounds your j. domain Her. Is far too j. to pass the trifler by P.E. 200 Not more industrious are the j. and true P.E. 293 A j. deportment, manners graced with ease P.E. 421 Hear the j. law—the judgment of the skies! P.E. 606 A lewd interpreter is never j. P.E. 459'Tis God's j. claim, prerogative divine R. 278 But never marked her with so j, a sight R. 418 Skilful alike to seem devout and j. R. 689Let verse at length yield thee thy j. reward S. i 4 Some lead a life unblameable and j. T. 283 J. estimation prized above all price T. ii 34 Thy follies too; and with a j. disdain T. ii 222 And j. proportion, fashionable mien T. ii 421 Make j reprisals, and with cringe and shrug T ii 645 The charms of virtue in their j esteem T ii 796 Our British Themis gloried with j. cause T. iii 257 To its j, point—the service of mankind T, iii 372 By j. degrees, an overhanging breadth T. iii 482 Yet j. arrangement, rarely brought to pass T. iii 588 Sightly, and in j. order, ere he gives \hat{T} . iii 649 [759] By a j, judgment strip and starve themselves T, iii To improve and cultivate their j. demesne T. v 228 Abridge him of his j. and native rights T. v 436Its only j. proprietor in him T. v 804 And j in his account, why bird and beast T vi 389 To interfere though in so j. a cause T. vi 473 And j. direction sacred, to a thing T. vi 713 The praise bestowed was j, and wise Th. 13 With j, abhorrence of so mean a part Tir, 455 Force not my drift beyond its j. intent Tir. 505 And schools, that have outlived all j, esteem Tir.704Respect, as is but rational and j. Tir. 710 Account him no j. mark for idle wit Tir. 726 Prove, rather than impeach, the j. remark Tir. 842 To pour in Virtue's lap her j. reward T.T. 65 When he usurped Authority's j. place T.T. 320 [640 Whipped out of sight, with satire j. and keen T.T. Vouchsafes to man a poet's j. pretence T.T. 699 Distorted from its use and j. design T.T. 754

JUSTER.

The mark at which my j. aim I take Con. 105 The glowing tablets with a j. skill Ex. 232

JUSTICE.

And Vengeance executes what J. wills Ch. 82 Or how do j. in this case? E. iv 72 That Scripture, $J_{\cdot \cdot}$, and Good Sense disown Ex. 593 Makes J. still the guide of his career Ex.715Thus between J., as my prime support H. 377 Was one, whom J., on an equal plan H. 511 And when, as J. has long since decreed H. 748 Glory your aim, but J. your pretence Her. 44 In j. to the various powers Miss - 17And $J_{\cdot,\cdot}$ guardian of the dread command $T_{\cdot,\cdot}$ 277 To J, she may make her bold appeal T. 498 Of innocent commercial J, red T, iv 683 So God wrought double j.; made the fool T. vi 557 ;

Suffer his j. in a world to come Tir. 102
To him that figh's with J. on his side T.T. 12
Plants it upon the line that J. draws T.T. 17
There is a time, and J. marks the date T.T. 400

JUSTIFIED.

Who when occasion j. its use Con. 613

JUSTIFY.

There stand, and j. the foul abuse P.E. 144 To j. it by a thousand lies P.E. 284 Nor Cunning j. the proud man's wrong T. vi 844

JUTTING.

Upon their j. chests. He formed to bear T. iv 350

K.

KATE.

[T. i 556

Though pinched with cold, asks never.—K. is crazed!

KATERFELTO.

And K., with his hair on end T. iv 86

KEDAR.

Nebaioth, and the flocks of K. there T. vi 805

KEEN.

Occasion prompt, and appetite so k. A.T. 90
Truth armed it with a point so k., so just A.T. 145
The k. demands of appetite N.G. 6
Like thine, her appetite is k. P.B. 27
Whipped out of sight, with satire just and k. T.T.
Surveys his fair reversion with k. eye T. ii 601
By tricks and lies as numerous and as k. T. ii 671
K. enough, wise and skilful as thou art T. iii 207
His broad k. knife into the solid mass T. v 35
To a k. edge and made it bright for war T. v 216
And helpless victims with a sense so k. T. vi 475
K. in pursuit, and vigorous to retain Tiv. 524
Before the k. inquiry of her thought T.T. 493

KEENER.

Inspires the news, his trumpet. K. far T. ii 353 Beguile the night, and set a k. edge T. iv 164

KEENEST.

The k. frost that binds the stream N. 5 Place me where Winter breathes his k. air T.T. 294

KEEN-EYED.

Exact yet not precise, though meek k. Con. 610 On special search, the k. eagle blind Ex. 631

KEEP.

Why such a one should k, himself away Con, 294 K. still the dear companion at their side? Con. 734 K. wisdom, or meet vengeance in your turn! Ex. 244 And to this hour, to k. it fresh in mind Ex. 516 Whoever k. an open ear F. 97 These curtains, that k. the room warm Gr. 37 And k, it safe and sound J.G. 68 That memory k. of all thy kindness there M.P. 55 Than that to which he k. confined Mrs. M. -True beagle as the staunchest hound he k. P.E. 87 By his good will would k, us single P.T. 32 What early philosophic hours he k. R. 429 And k. the polish of the manners clean R. 733 And hides his hands to k. his fingers warm T. 148 Some youthful grace that age would gladly k. T. i 32 And k. our larder lean; puts out our fires T. ii 615 That has a heart, and k. it; has a mind T. iii 374 With packhorse constancy we k. the road Tir. 252 Still k. a seat or two for worth and grace Tir. 433 And k. him warm and filial to the last Tir. 894 To cultivate and k, the morals clean Tir. 920K. Vice restrained behind a double guard T.T. 66 To k. the matrimonial bond unstained T.T 74 And k. alive his fierce but noble fires T.T. 223

KEEPING.

But not a friend worth k. F. 78 Her want of care, screening and k. warm T. iii 440

KEMPENFELT.

Brave K. is gone R.G. 14 When K. went down R.G. 23 But K. is gone R.G. 33

KENNEL.

And judge you from the k. and the sty P.E. 262

KEPT.

Relate how many weeks they k. their bed Con. 315 I k. him for his humour's sake Ep. ii 33 Their prayers made public, their excesses k. Er. 143 And k. the faith immaculate and pure Ex. 208 Why, having k. good faith, and often shown Er. 276 Yet blessed the guardian care that k. M. ii 7 Excels a dunce that has been k. at home P.E. 416 And tells of laws despised, at least not k. H. 220 K. snug in caskets of close-hammered steel k. 308 In which are k. our arrows! Busting there T ii 804 Orhaving, k. concealed. Some drill and bore T iii 159 The frequent flakes has k. a path for me T. vi 75 Is k. and guarded as a sacred thing T. v 304 Is k. to strut, look big, and talk away T.T. 233

KERCHIEFS

How smooth these k., and how sweet! R.C. 59 Their k., and old women weep for joy T. vi 700

KERNEL.

We slight the precious k. of the stone P.E. 419

KETTLE.

Their miserable meal. A k., along T. i 560

KEY.

She guides the finger o'er the dancing k. Ch. 109 Serve as a k. to those that are suppressed Ch. 524 You fall at once into a lower k. Con. 329 An office k., a picklock to a place Ex. 379 The warder at the door his k. applies H. 720 Alighting, turns the k. in her own door T. ii 633 Secure it thine, its k is in thine hand Tir. 886 [188] Vouchsafe, at least, to pitch the k. of rhyme T.

KICK.

The creature is so sure to k. and bite P.E. 540 In counterpoise, flies up and k. the beam T. 356 A k. that scarce would move a horse Y.D. 63

KILL.

Nor did you k. that you might eat Beau 9
Vociferated logic k. me quite Con. 113
Meantime, noise k. not. Be it Dapple's bray N.4.
Then k. a constable, and drink five more P.E. 194
K. too the flowery weeds, where'er they grow T. 461
But, once delivered, k. them with a frown T. iii 438
May k. a sound divine Y.D. 64

KILLED.

But you have k. a tiny bird Beau 5

KILLING.

If k, birds be such a crime B.R, 25 What think you, Sir, of k. Time B.R. 27 A cold misgiving, and a k. dread Con. 770

KILWICK.

Adjoining close to K.'s echoing wood N.A. 3 All K. and all Dinglederry rang N.A. 36

KIND.

That substances, and modes of every k. A.T. 42 And she regardless of her softer k. A.T. 177 As she had changed her k. A Tale 46 One man the common father of the k. Ch. 18 She still is k., and still she perseveres Ch. 415 Though feeble in degree, in k. the same Ch. 594 As to depise the glory of our k. Con. 258 And asked them, with a k., engaging air Con. 528 Their very language of a k. that speaks Con 727 Old Tiny, surliest of his k. Ep. ii 5 My gravelly bounds, from self to human k. F.A. 20And foe of our perishing k. Gr. 46 K. souls! to teach their tenantry to prize H. 252 Distinguish every cultivated k. H. 291 And sure it is as k, to smile and give H. 328 Her grave concern, her k. suspicions, there H. 516 Throughout mankind, the Christian k, at least H. 635 Each comely in its k. J.G. 184 They gentle called, and k. and soft J.P. 21 But steadfast principle, and, in its k. J.T. 43The same k. office for me still M. 14 Tis gentle, delicate, and k. M.F. 55 "Oh! grant, k. Heaven to me Miss — 66] To me their peace by k. contagion spread N.A. 42 He scans of every locomotive k. N.A. 64 Than the colour of our k. N.C. 52Solicits k. attention to his dream P.E. 523 A k. release from their imperfect state R. 166 Improve the k. occasion, understand R. 345 In k. compassion of his failing strength R. 626 There feels a pleasure perfect in its k. R. 629 Calls for the k. assistance of a tune R. 712 With linen of the softest k. R.C. 36 By some k., hospitable heart possessed T. 251 And strength is lord of all; but gentle, k. T. i 603 One common Maker bound me to the k.? T. iii 209 Should some contagion, k. to the poor brutes T. iii 308 Discharge but these k. offices, (and who T. iii 618 So manifold, all pleasing in their k. T. iii 624 What England was, plain, hospitable, k. iii 743 Infused at the creation of the k. T. iv 733 There dwell the most foriorn of human k. T. v 397 "So frail a k., and then enacting laws T. v 640 In the lost k., extracting from the lips T. v 701 With which k. nature graces every scene T. vi 342 The very k. that gambol at high noon T. vi 334 All happy, and all perfect in their k. T. vi 354 That man inflicts on all inferior k.'s T. vi 385 [504] But like his purpose, gracious, k., and sweet T. vi Vast in its powers, ethereal in its k. Tir. 6 By k. tuition on his yielding breast Tir. 154 By no k. arts his confidence again Tir. 586 The ostrich, silliest of the feathered k. Tir. 789 Is base in k., and born to be a slave T.T. 28 h. Providence attends with gracious aid T.T. 249 Must she perform the same k. office now? T.T. 405 Is profanation of the basest k. T.T. 758 Adorns, though differing in its k. U. 15

Proved k, to them than the coast A Tale 31

KINDEST.

The k and the happiest pair M.F. 37

KINDLE.

Teach me to k. at thy gentle fires Ch. 12 Though nothing have occurred to k. strife E. iii 15 And k in his soul a treacherous fire P.E. 40 As axles sometimes k, as they go P.E. 407 While morning k, with a wirdy red R, 432 The sense of mercy k. into praise R. 778 The Bramin k, on his own bare head T. 99 K. a fiery boil upon the skin T. ii 183 Are sown the sparks that k. flery war T. v 206 "Love k. as I gaze. I feel desires T. v 842 That k. up the skies Trans. i 10 Acts with a force, and k. with a zeal T.T. 482

KINDLED.

Which, k. with dry leaves, just saves unquenched Like him, the soul, thus k. from above Ch. 595 The light they walk by, k. from above T. 369 Have k beacons in the skies, and the old T ii 59 K. in Heaven, that it burns down to earth T. ii 134 Whose fire was k, at the prophet's lamp T, vi 732 But still, while Virtue k. his delight T.T. 598

KINDLING.

Who, k. a combustion of desire P.E.Swells at the thought, and k. into rage T. 477 And no such lights are k. in their stead Tir.And tell the world still k, as he sung T.T.

Down to the rosy west; but k. still T. iv 133 Ah, treat them k.! rade as thou appearest T. iv 370 KINDNESS.

That memory keeps of all thy k, there M.P. 55 Where k, on his part, who ruled the whole T. vi 365 The k. of a friend U. 2 KINDRED.

The tender argument of k. blood Ch. 32 What parts the k. tribes of weeds and flowers ? H. He followed Paul, his zeal a k. flame H. 582 Forsaking country, k., friends, and case H. 585 Not k. minds alone are called to employ H. 738 Till sympathy contract a k. pain R. 299 No mean advantage from a k. cause T. i 387 Like k. drops been mingled into one T. ii 19 Bone of my bone, and k. souls to mine T. iii 220 Discover countries, with a k. heart T. iv 116 Scarce noticed in the k. dusk of eve T. iv 321 A k. melody, the scene recurs T. vi 13 A k. spark: they burn to do the like Tir. 233 As in Dodona once thy k. trees Y.O. 41

KINE.

KING.

Not Mexico could purchase k. a claim Ch. 214 Their God their captain, lawgiver and k. Ex. 190 Of the glad legions of the K. of kings H. 733 Now let us sing, long live the $k.\ J. \breve{G}.\ 249$ Ye k. and rulers, what have courts to show? R. 104 See Judah's promised k., bereft of all R. 767 What purpose has the K of saints in view? T. 179 h. are invited, and would k. obey T. 351 So sit two k. of Brentford on one throne T. i 78 Of gratulation and delight, her K. ? T. ii 84 I crown thee k. of intimate delights T. iv 139 On human grandeur and the courts of k. T. v 172 K. would not play at. Nations would do well T. v 188 For skill in government, at length made k. T. \vee 241 K. was a name too proud for man to wear T. v 242 Thus k. were first invented, and thus k. T. v 279 The k. who loves the law, respects his bounds T. v 332 We trust him not too far. K. though he be T. v 336 And k. in England too, he may be weak T. v 337 Of k., between your loyalty and ours T. v 347 We, for the sake of liberty, a k. T. v 351 [T. vi674 Shall stuff his shoulders with K. Richard's hunch I would not be a k. to be beloved T. v 359 [vi 861 Thy saints proclaim thee k.; and in their hearts T. Moves indignation, makes the name of k. T. v 442 Of k, whom such prerogative can please) T. v 443When he was crown'd as never k, was since T. vi 350 Sung to the praise and glory of K. George! T. vi 663 Thy saints proclaim thee k.; and thy delay T. vi 864 A k., that would, might recommend his horse Tir. 417 With the k. shoulder-knot and gay cockade T.T. 44 K. do but reason on the self-same plan T.T. 48 Man made for k.! those optics are but dim T.T. 55 "But where, good sir, do you confine your k." T.T.79 K. then, at last, have but the lot of all T.T. 107 I pity k, whom worship waits upon T.T. 121 Sighing, I say again, I pity k.! T.T. 140 [Y.O. 50 Time made thee what thou wast, k. of the woods (For what k. deem a toil, as well they may T.T. 155 As if he heard his k. say, "Slave, be free!" T.T. 245 The feats of heroes and the wrath of k. T.T. 597 And strutting in thy school of Queens and k. V. 45

KINGCUPS.

To gather k. in the yellow mead T. vi 302

KINGDOM.

Shook principalities and k. down Ch. 77 To traverse seas, range k., and bring home Ch.301Life and a k. upon worms below Ch. 592 His mind his k., and his will his law T. 406 All k. and all princes of the earth T. vi 801 An intellectual k., all her own Tir. 12 The worth of his three k. I defy T.T. 85 So stands a k., whose foundation yet Y.O. 120

KING-ENNOBLING.

That were indeed a k. thought T.T. 57

KINGLY.

Blest country, where these k. glories shine! T.T. 81 If this be k., then farewell for me T.T. 149 Leave k. backs to cope with k. cares T.T. 174

KINGSHIP.

Were k, as true treasure as it seems T, v 357 With k. and dominion o'er the rest Tir. 96 All k., and may I be poor and free! T.T. 150

KISS.

Soon her pride shall k. the ground B. 19 Bid suffer it awhile, and k. the rod Ch. 166 389 K. the book's outside, who ne'er look within P Ex. And chirp, and k., he seemed to say F.B. 26 Perhaps thou gavest me, though unfelt, a k. M.P. 25 Then k their idol, and pronounce her fair P.E.300A Father's frown, and k. his chastening hand R. 346 Kneels, k. hands, and shines again in place R. 480 She next instructs him in the k. Trans. iv 16

KISSED.

I only k, his ruffled wing B.R. 19 John Gilpin k. his loving wife J.G. 29 And always, ere he mounted, k. his horse R. 578

KITCHEN.

Chirping on my k. hearth Trans. iii 2

KITE.

Such is the clamour of rooks, daws, and k. H. 349 But cawing rooks, and k. that swim sublime T. 203 Or k. are hovering near The Doves 22 Or k. with cruel beak The Doves 34

KNACK.

While servile trick and imitative k. T.T. 666

KNAVE.

The ring a bauble, and the priest a k. A.T. 66 Shall stand proscribed, a madman or a k. Con. 476 Self-idolized, and yet a k. at heart Ex. 94 As Interest biased k., or Fashion fools Ex. 38 So may a tradesman, if not quite a k. H. 210 A k., when tried on honesty's plain rule H. 566 No k., but boldly will pretend F. 13 [k. P.A. And fear those who buy them and sell them, are What atheists call him, a designing k. P.E. 108Of k, in office, partial in the work T, iv 412

KNAVISH.

Praise is the medium of a k. trade E. ii 6 What k. priests promulgate as inspired Tir. 186

KNEADS.

And he that k, the dough; all loud alike T, iv 477

KNEE.

And gammer finds it on her k. E. iv 45 The Roman taught thy stubborn k. to bow Ez. 476 Thy parliaments adored, on bended k. Ex. 538 Then place it once again between my k. Ex. 730Could bend one k., engage one votary there H. 506 And k, and hassocks are well nigh divorced T, i 748 And crowded k., sit cowering o'er the sparks T. iv 385 Bent k., round shoulders, and dejected looks T. iv 634 A power, confessed so lately on his k. Tir. 180 With his own likeness placed on either k. Tir. 320 His favourite stand between his father's k. Tir. 570 Oh! if Servility with supple k. T.T. 127

Forgot to curse, and only k. to pray Con. 814 They learn to bow, to k., to sit, to stand Ex. 120 K. now, and lay thy forehead in the dust Ez. 554 K. and ask Heaven to bless the dear deceit P.E. 525 K., kisses hands, and shines again in place R 480 K. with the native of the farthest west T. vi811 (433) With woes, which who that suffers would not T.T.vWorthy, compared with sycophants who k. T. vi 886 As happy as we once to k, and draw Tir. 306 I might with reverence k., and worship thee Y.0.8

KNEELED.

Confessed a God; they k. before they fought T.T.KNEE-TIMBER.

Warped into tough k., many a load! Y.O. 99

Never sighed at the sound of a k. A.S. 31 [iv 148 Cough their own k., while, heedless of the sound T.

KNEW.

Regions Cæsar never k. B. 29 But he, they k., worship nor shore Cast. 29 Whose Love k. no beginning, knows no end Ch. 400 The bright original was one he k. Ch. 433 Well known, or such as no man ever k. Con. 62 Knows what he knows, as if he k. it not Con. 131 But he who k. what human hearts would prove E, ii 19 I k. the man, and k. his nature mild E. iii 32 Bespoke at least a man that k. mankind E. iii 41 They k., by sure prognostics seen on high Ex. 157

But that delight they never k. F.B. 11 [519] Were trained beneath his lash, and k. the smack Ex. Γ519 That truth lies somewhere, if we k. but where H. 424 His crimes were such as Sodom never k. H. 562Hard task! for one who lately k. no care H. 696 Yet loss of pence, full well he k. J.G. 55 Thy constant flow of love, that k. no fall M.P. 65 And thought again - but k. not what to think N.A. 54 And k, the glowworm by his spark N.G. 10 But other magic there, she k. Q.V. 61 His flock the chief concern he ever k. R. 404Jack k. his friend, but hoped in that disguise R. 587 Twas he, the same, the very Jack he k. R. 592 But k, no medium between guzzling beer R. 601 At length a voice which well he k. R. C. 87 A truth the brilliant Frenchman never k. T. 328 They k, not, what some bishops may not know T. 451 Celestial, though they k. not whence it came T. 532 Our fathers k. the value of a screen T. i 255 [v 538 From what they k., to what they wished to know T. I k. at least one hare that had a friend T. iii 351 K, their own masters, and laborious hinds T, iii 747It k. not once, the country wins me still T. iv 694 Whom flowers alone I k. would little please T. vi 1010 To Nature's scenes, than Nature ever k. Tir. 24 Ye k. at least, by constant proofs addressed Tir. 273 Gold, purer far than Ophir ever k. V. 97

KNIFE

Save when the k. is at your throat P. 52 Flies to the tempting pool, or felon k. T. 446 By rural carvers, who with k. deface T. i 281 Dooms to the k.; nor does he spare the soft T. iii 417 Must fly before the k.; the withered leaf T. iii 614 His broad keen k. into the solid mass T. v 35

KNIGHT.

Airy del Castro was as bold a k. A.T. 1 Full many a k. had been entangled there A.T. 35 "Fair fall the deed!" the k. exulting oried A.T. 68 "Vain our delusive hope of constant k. A.T. 100 "Will none arise, no k. who still retains A.T. 115 "A k.—(can he that serves the fair do less) A.T. 119 K. of the Silver Moon, Sir Marmadan A.T. 136 Oh spare them, ye k. of the boot Gr. 19 [815 The world of wandering k. and squires to town T. iii Thatall might mark—k., menial, high, and low H. 312

KNIGHTHOOD.

Enticed him from his caths if k, far A.T. 27 A courteous k., caught the generous flame A.T. 134 "Oh, shame to k.!" his assailant cried A.T. 179

KNIT.

And k. the unsocial climates into one Ch. 126
But we, in mutual bondage k. Dr. 17
Not that I mean, while thus I k. E. iv 5
Thy bones not fashioned, and thy joints not k. Ex.

KNOCK.

But when you k., it never is at home Con. 304 κ . at the gates of nations, rouse their fears Ex. 269

KNOLL.

Nor are these all. To deck the shapely k. T. iii 628

KNOT.

k. and impediments make something hitch Con.108 The closest k. that may be tied F.62 k. worthy of solution, which alone T. ii 520 Can seize the slippery prey, unties the k. T. ii 685

KNOTTED.

The sheep here smoothes the k. thorn M.B. 9 Ask him, if your k. scourges N.C. 29

Under dissection of the k. scourge T. vi 419 A quarry of stout spurs and k, fangs Y.O. 117

KNOW.

The point in dispute was, as all the world k. A.C. 3Then shifting his side as a lawyer k. how A.C. 25 But what were his arguments few people k. A.C. 27 On the banks of our river, I k. C. 30 A Briton k., or if he k. it not Ch. 200 And k, that falling he shall rise no more Ch. 347 A sense they k not, to the wondering crowd Ch. 390 Whose Love knew no beginning, k. no end Ch. 400 What few can learn, and all suppose they k. Ch. 627 K. what he k., as if he knew it not Con. 131 Tell not as new what everybody k. Con. 237 Recovering what we lost we k. not how Con. 402 K. then, and modestly let fall your eyes Con. 485 K., your arrears with every hour accrue Con. 491 And yet, God k., look human nature through Con. 749 (And in due time the world shall k. it too) Con. 750 He k. that God demands his heart entire Con. 759 And k. no other fear The Doves 24 And this is what the world, who k. E. i 15 Good lack, we k. not what to-morrow brings E. iii 8 When God and you k. I have neither E. iv 8 Since twenty sheets of lead, God k. E. iv 27 K. then, that Heavenly Wisdom on this ball Ex. 314 But k., that Wrath Divine, when most severe Ex.715I k, the warning song is sung in vain Ex.724K. he his origin? can he ascend F.A. 22 Taste happiness, or k. what pleasure means H. 10 An ordinance it concerned them much to k. H. 313 The writer well remarks, a heart, that k. H. 429 As all the world doth k. J.G. 22 But ah! by constant heed I k. M. 45 Eternal winter doomed to k. Miss — 35 The sordid never k. Miss — 54 That thou mightest k, me safe and warmly laid M.P. The Plume and Poet both we k. Mrs. M-K. what the freshness of their hue implies N.A. 61 The ass; for he, we k., has lately strayed N.A. 96 As who k, but perhaps it may?) Pat. 3 But k., the law that bids the drunkard die P.E. 199 Discoverers of they k. not what, confined P.E. 476 The scholar's pitch (the scholar best k. why) P.E.505None but an author k. an author's cares P.E. 516 And e'en the child who k. no better P.T. 5 Bare trees and shrubs but ill, you k. P.T. 52The servant of the public never k. R. 370 He k. indeed that whether dressed or rude R. 415 I k. not where she caught the trick R.C.7Hardly k. that he has sung St. iv 4 Just k., and k. no more, her Bible true T. 327 [451 They knew not, what some bishops may not \bar{k} . T. For ignorance of what they could not k.? T. 518 From what theyknew, to what they wished to k. T. 538 And dream of transports she was not to k. T. i 544 In chariots and sedans, k. no fatigue T. i 755 A brave man k, no malice, but at once T, ii 268 Which only poets k. The shifts and turns T. ii 286 What man that lives, and that k. how to live T. ii 618 Few k. thy value, and few taste thy sweets T. iii 293 Grudge not the cost. Ye little k. the cares T. iii 547 And the loud laugh—I long to k, them all T, iv 33 Of long uninterrupted evening k. T. iv 143 Describes and prints it, that the world may k. T. iv That never felt a stupor, k. no pause T. iv 283 To do he k, not what. The task performed T, iv 630 They k. not what it is to feel within T. v 250To hear that ye were fallen at last; to k. T. v 390His body bound, but k. not what a range T. v 775 "That navigate a sea that k. no storms T. \vee 823 Wisdom is humble that he k. no more T. vi 97

An agency divine, to make him k. T. vi 129 That k. no measure, by the scanty rule T. vi 213 She scorns his pleasures, for she k. them not T. vi 719 The parson k. enough who k. a duke Tir. 403 From con-tant converse with I k. not whom Tir. 854 That slaves, howe'er contented, never k. T. T. 261 I k. the mind that feels indeed the fire T. T. 480 I sent you verse, and, as your Lordship k. V. 19 And well he may, for well he k. Y. D. 25

KNOWEST.

Thou k. my praise of Nature most sincere T. i 150

KNOWING.

Well k, him a sacred thing B.R. 17 Without the means of k, right from wrong Con. 149 That sick, she trembles, k, she must die Con. 773 Who, k, them, can tell Miss — 14 Not k, thee, we reap, with Simma = 14 Not k, thee, we reap, Simma = 14 Not Simma = 1

KNOWLEDGE.

But k. such as only dungeons teach Ch. 303 And, from a k. of her own disease Ch. 410 Though all accomplishments, all k, meet Ch. 601 Good sense and k, of mankind F. 200 K. of good and evil is from thee P.E. 469 Amusement and true k, hand in hand R. 702 Long k. and the scrutiny of years T. i 179 Grace, k., comfort—an unfathomed store? T.ii 538 Their thirst of k., and their candour too! T. ii 544 And lack of k., and with cause enough T. ∇ 501 K. and wisdom far from being one T. vi 88 Have oft-times no convexion. K. dwells T. vi 89 K., a rude unprofitable mass T. vi 92 K. is proud that he has learn'd so much T. vi 96 Of injury, with such k. of their strength T. vi 476 But taverns teach the k. of the heart Tir. 213 The k. of the World, and dull of thought Tir. 380 Such k., gained betimes, and which appears Tir.650But poor in k., having uone to impart Tir. 663

KNOWN.

But the strife is the strangest that ever was k. A.T. Who seeks to praise thee, and to make thee k. Ch. 9 This is indeed Philosophy; this k. Ch. 349 Well k., or such as no man ever knew Con. 62

In making k. how oft they have been sick Con. 312 K. by thy bleating, Ignorance thy name Con. 588 And, with a fearless confidence, make k. Con. 695 Who oft themselves have k. Dr. 6 And howsoever k. Dr. 22Say, Anna, had you never k. E. i67Some few that I have k. in days of old E. iii 58 (For thou hast k. eclipses, and endured Ez. 392 Freedom, in other lands scarce k to shine Ex. 5% True freedom is where no restraint is k. Ex. 592 Some blemish in due time made k. F. 146 The Saviour's history makes k. F. 206By good vouchsafed makes k. superior good H.147 Parent of Hope, immortal Truth! make k. H. 663 Now let the bright reverse be k, abroad H. 710 And dangers little k. H.F. 18 Her frowns were seldom k. to last J.P. 15 'Tis now become a history little k. M.P. 52
Is this hyperbole? The world well k. P.E. 488 Had k. their sovereign come Q.V. 44 That I may catch a fire but rarely k. R. 205 And while I teach an art too little k. R. 807 For 'tis a truth well k. to most R.C. 95 These truths, though k., too much forgot St. i 31 And, proud to make his firm attachment k. T. 219 Reverse the sentence, let the truth be k. T. 449 Sweets tasted here, and left as soon as k. T. i 653 Of goddesses yet k., and costlier far T. ii 659 What chance that I, to fame so little k. T. iii 23 Thou art not k. where Pleasure is adored T. iii 51 Of heroes little k., and call the rant T. iii 140 [144 As they had k. him from his mother's womb T. iii I studied, prized, and wished that I had k. T. iv 722 Come trooping at the housewife's well k. call T. v61 In scenes which, having never k. me free T. v 489 Ere yet he starts is k. Th. 18 Are rarely k, to stray The Doves 4 Whose scent and hues are rather guessed than ! This fond attachment to the well k. place Tir. 314 Unpatronized, and therefore little k. Tir. 674 A worm is k, to stray Trans, i 2 And having k, thee bearded and full grown V. 37 One who has k., and has escaped mankind V. 78 With him, perhaps with her (for men have k. V. 81 Such joy and peace as can be k. 1789, 48

KNUCKLE.

The chalky ring, and k. down at taw Tir. 307

L.

Display with busy and l. hand Ex. 163 That, while l. and quick-thoughted man Ex. 316 Yet man, l. man, by slow degrees Her. 67 Me, therefore, studious of l. ease T. iii 361 And more l.; cares on which depends T. iii 607 Knew their own masters, and l. hinds T. iii 747 As too l. and severe a task T. vi 210 l., yet unconscious of her toil Tir. 18

LABORIOUS.

LABOUR.

Visiting every flower with l. meet Con. 439
No longer l. merely to produce Con. 891
By l. of their own Dr. 8
Who l. hard to allure and draw E. i 23
"Sure so much l., so much toil E. iv 81
Taxed till the brow of L. sweats in vain Ex. 305
Seem the l. of Mulciber's hands Gr. 40
Business is l., and man's weakness such H. 19

Pleasure is l. too, and tires as much H. 20 Nor l. they, nor time nor talents waste H. 766 Who, if from l. eased Miss - 62 Which L. of his frown beguile Mrs. M-29 Forget their l., and yet find no rest R. 496 He finds the l. of that state exceed R. 619 Your useful l., and important aims R. 664 Forgets her l. as she toils along T. 457 Than by the l. and the skill it cost T. ii 297 [T.ii 434 Though learned with l., and though much admired Of lubbard L. needs his watchful eye T. iii 400 Fair recompense of l. well bestowed T. iii 430 He shuts it close, and the first l. ends T. iii 489 The vigilance, the l., and the skill T. iii 548 Of too much l., worthless when produced T. iii 565 Emerging, must be deemed a l. due T. iii 631 Warmed, while it lasts, by l., all day long T. iv 377 And l. too. Meanwhile ye shall not want T. iv 424 Repays their l. more; and perched aloft T. v 91

From l.; and the lover, who has chid T. v 412 Not so the l. of his love: they shine T. v 570 Whose work is without l.; whose designs T. vi 228 The l., were a task more arduous still T. vi 758 See Salem built, the l. of a God! T. vi 799 His fervent spirit l. There he fights T. vi 936 That form, the l. of Almighty skill Tir. 7 And l. to surpass him day and night Tir. 480 E'en when he l. for his country's good T.T. 142 When L, and when Dulness, club in hand T.T. 526 The fruit of all her l. is whipped cream T.T. 551 Achieved a l. which had, far and wide Y.O. 108

LABOURED

Like him he l., and like him content H. 586 L., and many a night pursued in dreams T. iii 787

LABOURING.

Oppression, l. hard to grind the poor Ex. 40 A conflagration l. in her womb Her. 12 Strong Judgment l. in the scripture mine R. 698 His l, team that swerved not from the track T, i 161

LABURNUM.

Its family and tribe. L. rich T. vi 149

LABYRINTH.

And through life's l. holds fast the clue P.E. 357 Infatuates, and through l. and wilds T. vi 103 And, warp'd into the l. of lies Tir. 157

LACE.

[536 With l., and hat with splendid riband bound T. i LACERATE.

How does it l. both your heart and his! Tir. 558 LACK.

"Good l.!" quoth he, "yet bring it me J.G. 61 And I. of knowledge, and with cause enough T. v 501

LACQUEY.

His palace, and his l., and "My Lord" T. 122 [474 The l., and the groom; the craftsman there \tilde{T} . iv

LADDERS.

Church l. are not always mounted best Tir. 381

LADEN.

The gale informs us, l. with the scent Ch. 446 Thus l., dream that they are rich and great R. 155 And, heavy l., brings his beverage home T. i 242 An ass's burden, and, when l. most T. iv 441 Though l., not encumbered with her spoil Tir. 17

LADY.

As ever earned a l.'s love in fight A.T. 2 There goes my l., and there goes the squire B.B.12The l. thus addressed her spouse M.F. 1 "You are so deaf," the l. cried M.F. 15 And as for you, my L. Squeamish P. 55 And has the L.'s Etiquette by heart P.E. 196 Ye l.! (for, indifferent in your cause P.E. 510 From India, for the l's use R.C. 38 And ill at ease behind. The l. first T. i 70 Our palaces, our l., and our pomp T. i 643 Frequent in Park with l. at his side T. ii 381 A soldier's feather, or a l.'s glove T.T. 549 A slave at court, elsewhere a l.'s man Tir. 423

LADYLIKE.

Fops at all corners, l. in mien Tir. 829

LADYSHIP.

"An't please your l." quoth I-E. iv 79 Of l., a stranger to the poor T. ii 386

LAGS.

The Tempest itself l. behind A.S. 43

LAID.

The beast is l. down in his lair A.S. 50 And l. her soft in amaranthine flowers A.T. 8Thy pomp is in the grave, thy glory l. Ch. 71 That after man's defection l. all waste Com. 752 And waits, in snug concealment l. Ep. ii 39 [Ex.427 And praised the wrath that l. her beauties waste And when he l, them on the scent of blood Ex, 520 L. down his pipe, flew to the gate J.G. $163 \int M.P. 59$ That thou mightest know me safe and warmly l. What then ! - are appetites and lust l. down P.E.102Remorse, the fatal egg by Pleasure l. P.E. 239 And now in the grass behold they are l. P.F. 7 And l. her on her side R.G. 8 Think on the grave where He was $l.\ St.\ imes\ 35$ Where man, by nature fierce, has l. saide T. i 594 And fairly l. the zodiac in the dust T. iii 647 [697 But there I l. the scene. There early strayed T.iv The egg was l. from which he sprung T.B. 8 He l. his head in Luxury's soft lap T.T. 678 Fails not, in virtue and in wisdom l. Y.O. 121

LAIR.

The beast is laid down in his l. A.S. 50 'Tis he, the Nimrod of the neighbouring l. P.E. 84

The l. run wild.—But do they now? T. ii 572

LAKE.

From many a steaming l, and recking bog A.T.93His conscience, like a glassy l. before T. 259 Else noxious: oceans, rivers, l., and streams T. i 375 He speaks. The l. in front becomes a lawn T. iii 774

L. Sabacthani before their eyes H. 630

And sheep-walks populous with bleating l.T.vi111 "Worthy the L., for he was slain for us!" T.vi792

LAMBENT.

From Heaven to Earth, of l. flame serene T. v 153 The l. homage of his arrowy tongue T. vi 782

LAMBKIN.

Lapdog and l. with black, staring eyes T. i 37

LAME.

The repetition makes attention $l.\ Con.\ 214$ Beggars Invention, and makes Fancy l. R. 710 Resistless in so bad a cause, but l. T. iv 439 LAMENT.

My soul shall sigh in secret, and l. Ex. 722Pierced with the woes that she l. in vain R. 300 I cannot but l. thy splendid wit T. iv 725

LAMENTED.

When Cook-l, and with tears as just Ch. 23 L. change! to which full many a cause T. iv 576

Hangs out her l. in you cærulean height A.T. 138 The l. of revelation only shows Ch. 339 Like hidden l, in old sepulchral urns Con. 358[500] Who brought the l. that with awaking beams Ex. With mournful scutcheons, and dim l. between H.265His l. now planted on Heaven's topmost arch N.A.30 "Did you admire my l.," quoth he N.G.15And with a clear and shining l. supplied P.E. 558 Then Loyalty, with all her l. Q.V. 5

The splendour of your l., they but eclipse T. i 765 The little wick of life's poor shallow l. T. iii 164 Needs he the tragic fur, the smoke of l. T. iv 195 L. gracefully disposed, and of all hues T. v 149 So reads he Nature, whom the l. of truth T. v 845 Illuminates. Thy l., mysterious Word! T. v 846 Whose fire was kindled at the prophet's l. T. vi 732 By such a l. bestowed Trans. i 14 Ages elapsed ere Homer's l. appeared T. T. 556

LAMPOON.

Who vote for hire, or point it with l. Con. 29

LANCE.

The well-poised l. that quivered at his side A.T.144 But he, the virtues of his l. to show A.T.165 Barren as l., among which the wind T. vi 142

LAND.

Of a l. I shall visit no more A.S. 36 When I think of my own native l. A.S. 45 In fairy l, was born the matchless dame A.T.5The l. of dreams, Hypothesis her name A.T. 6 To judge the l., to purge atrocious crimes A.T. 141 A trumpet that was heard through all the l. A.T. 162 Hail, honoured l.! a desert where A Tale 65 From the forests of our l. B. 26 Those twinkling, tiny lustres of the l. B.B. 5 Rolled over all our desolated l. Ch. 76 No l. but listens to the common call Ch. 91 A herald of God's love to Pagan l. Ch. 136 A rich deposit, on the bordering l. Ch. 249 Thy rights have suffered, and our l., too long Ch. 277 And l. some grave optician on the shore Ch. 384 [i 10] How laughs the l. with various plenty crowned! Comp. And while it shows the l. the soul desires Con. 885 The language of the l. she seeks inspires Con. 886 To steer it close to l. D.W. 18 Leads to the l. where sorrow is unknown E. ii 10 Flow in a foreign l., but not in vain E. ii 46 Returned them happy to the l. they loved Ex. 76 The blessings of the most indebted l. Ex. 164 [186 While they passed through to their appointed l. Ex.And the most favoured l., look where we may Ex. 226 To pour down wrath upon a thankless l. Ex. 254He brought thy l. a blessing when he came Ex. 481 Who poises and proportions sea and l. Ex. 342Soon raised a cloud that darkened every l. Es. 509 Has he not hid thee, and thy favoured l. Ex. 562Thy foes implacable, thy l. at rest Ex. 581 Freedom, in other l. scarce known to shine Ex. 588 Had he the gems, the spices, and the l. H. 175 And yet our lot is given us in a l. H. 439Or voice of turtle in your l. is heard H. 470 From happier scenes, to make your \overline{l} . a prey H. 478 Of one, whose birth was in a l. of light H. 535 A l. that distant tyrants hate in vain Her. 89 But soon as approaching the l. M.D. 33 To fairy l. be driven Miss — 22 And where the l. slopes to its watery bourn N.A. 13 Let Comus rise Archbishop of the l. P.E. 184 It stabs at once the morals of a l. P.E. 306 Far, far away, these flesh-flies of the l. P.E. 324 Sets off a wanderer into foreign l. P.E. 378 By thee worse plagues than Pharaoh's l. befell P.E. From urns that never fail, through every l. R. 76 Revered at home, and felt in foreign l. R. 412 [R.421 Green balks and furrowed l., the stream that spreads Begins a long look out for distant l. R. 433And all, impatient of dry l., agree R. 523 Flowers of rank odour upon thorny l. R. 754 To give dissimilar yet fruitful l. R. 787 A sleeping fog, and fancies it dry l. T. 4

As leanest l, supplies the richest wine T. 364 The sloping l. recedes into the clouds T. i 171 Each to his choice, soon whiten all the l. T. i 294 The Ouse, dividing the well-watered l. T. i. 323 The dregs and feculence of every l. T. i 684 L. intersected by a narrow frith T. ii 16 Reflect dishonour on the l. I love T. ii 224 In character has littered all the $l.\ T.$ ii 676 And the l. stank—so numerous was the fry T. ii 832 Caffraria; foreigners from many l. T. iii 585 From flower to flower, so he from l. to l. T. iv 108 Though faded; and the l. where lately waved T.iv 313 Village, or hamlet, of this merry $l.\ T.$ iv 467 To the deliverer of an injured $l.\ T.$ iv 793 And shrubs of fairy l. The crystal drops T. \forall 113 Himself the only freeman of his l. ? T. v 312 Old or of later date, by sea or l. T. v 381And for a time ensure, to his loved $l.\ T.\ v\ 716$ "Radiant with joy towards the happy $l.\ T.\ v\ 836$ Their way was on the margin of the $l.\ T.\ v\ 495$ Laughs with abundance; and the l., once lean T.vi766 Flock to that light; the glory of all l. T. vi 802 Into all l. From every clime they come T. vi 814 His life a lesson to the l. he sways T.T. 76 [Tir.900 Pull down the schools—what! all the schools in the!. As dwell at large in Britain's chartered l. T.T. 259 When Providence means mercy to a l. T.T. 355 Bespeaks a l., once Christian, fallen and lost T.T.428Are but his rods to scourge a guilty l. T.T. 450Perched on the meagre produce of the l. T.T. 580 Illume the l.'s remotest part 1789, 61

LAND-BREEZE.

A l. shook the shrouds R.G. 9

LANDING.

And may ye, sometimes l. here A Tale 79

LANDSCAPE.

Where late we saw the mimic l. glow H. 263 Or lay the l. on the snowy sheet R. 798 Estates are l., gazed upon awhile T. iii 755 With what he views. The l. has his praise T. v 792 LANES.

Of all that deck the l., the fields, the bowers H. 288 For I have loved the rural walk through l. T. i 109 And l. in which the primrose ere her time T. vi 112

LANGFORD.

As duly as the L. of the show T. vi 287

LANGUAGE.

Differing in l., manners, or in face Ch. 21 In l. warm as all that love inspires Ch. 401 So l, in the mouths of the adult Con. 15 The l. plain, and incidents well linked Con. 236 When wine has given indecent l. birth Con. 263 When all his glowing l, issued forth Con. 709 Their very l, of a kind that speaks Con. 727 The l. of the land she seeks inspires Con. 886 Howe'er it was, his l., in my mind E. iii 40 "That, while the l. lives shall last" E. iv 78 Thy l. at this distant moment shows Ex. 480 All speak one l., all with one sweet voice H. 53 All speakers, yet all l. at a loss H. 345 Their l. simple, as their manners meek H. 764 Like l. uttered in a dream M. 22 Oh that those lips had l.! Life has passed M.P. 1 If l. and copies all cry, "No!" P.E. 500 Teaches his eyes a l., and no less R. 239 That Chatham's l. was his mother tongue T. ii 237 In doctrine uncorrupt; in l. plain T. ii 400

In l, soft as Adoration breathes! T, ii 495 By which he speaks the l. of his heart T. iv 105 L, above all teaching, or if taught T.T. 586 So take my judgment in his l. dressed Tir. 507 The l. and the tone Trans. iv 33

But relaxation of the l. frame T. i 81 The tone of l. Nature. Mighty winds T. i 183 For none they need: the l. eye, the cheek T. i 391 That palls and satiates, and makes l. life T. i 464 My l. limbs, when summer sears the plains T. iii 30 The citizen, and brace his l. frame! T. iv 752

LANGUISH.

Or heals it, makes it l. or rejoice T. ii 70 While morals l., a despised concern Tir. 514

LANGUISHED.

Then Study l., Emulation slept T. ii 734

LANGUISHING.

Receive me, l. for that repose R. 369

LANK.

From him who rears a poem l. and long T.T. 532

LANTERN. And, at the watchman's l. borrowing light T. ii 654

LAP.

O folly worthy of the nurse's l. Con. 479 Upon the l. of covenanted rest Con. 574 Lay his old age upon the l. of Ease R. 12 And one in council. Wolfe, upon the l. T. ii 242 Shakes her encumbered l., and casts them out T. iv 499 To pour in Virtue's l. her just reward T.T. 65 He laid his head in Luxury's soft l. T. T. 678

LAP-DOG.

L. and lambkin with black, staring eyes T. i 37

And sails with l. head and mincing airs T. 139 Her head, adorned with l. pinned aloft T. iv 540

LAPSE.

The l. of time and rivers is the same Comp. i 1 Well—what are ages, and the l. of time Con. 547 By frequent l., can hope no triumph there T. i 691 Descending, and with never ceasing l. T. iv 327

LARDED.

As meal and l. locks can make him; wears T. iv 642

LARDER.

And keeps our l. lean; puts out our fires T. ii 615

LARGE.

L. population on a liberal plan A.T. 157 On points which God has left at l. F. 186 And thus he left the point at l. L.W. 8By no means l. enough; and was it M.F. 3 I mean to tread. I feel myself at l. T. iii 18 L expectation, he disposes neat T iii 423 L. foliage, overshadowing golden flowers T. iii 535 Ten thousand rovers in the world at l. T. v 408 [112]L growth of what may seem the sparkling trees T. v L prelibation oft to saints below T. v 574L. built and latticed well T.B. 24 Then ask not, whether limited or l.? Tir. 511 Surpassed in frenzy by the mad at l. Tir. 820 As dwell at l. in Britain's chartered land T.T. 259

LARGELY.

And she gives l. more than he requires H. 56

LARGER.

Extend a l. sphere Miss - 100

LARGESS.

The l. He bestows, prescribes the terms H. 325 How glad they catch the l. of the skies N.A. 62

Just when the l., and when the shepherds rise $H.\,86$ Where the prisoned l. is hung St. iv 2 The innocent are gay—the l. is gay T. i 493

And the first l. of the cock's shrill throat T. iv 569

LASCIVIOUS.

The Fauns, and Satyrs, a $l.\ \mathrm{race}\ A.T.\ 199$ L., headstrong, or all these at once Tir. 202 To the l. pipe and wanton song T.T. 462 The victim of his own l. fires T.T. 606

「Ex. 519

Were trained beneath his l., and knew the smack Wait but the l. of a wintry storm H. 185 A scourge hung with l. he bore M.D. 30

LASHED.

L. into foaming waves, begins to roar T. 260

The full-blown rose, the shepherd and his l. T. i 36 No: we are polished now! The rural l. T. iv 534 Give him his l., his fiddle, and his frisk T.T 237

Has burnt to tinder a stale l. year's news B.B. 10The l. evening-ramble we made C. 9 [604] Were Love, in these the world's l. doting years Ch. The l. by Vanity produced and nursed Con. 378 In the l. scene of her six thousand years Con. 456 Till the l. fire burn all between the poles Con. 756 "That, while the language lives shall l." E. iv 78 He finds his long, l. home Ep. ii 38 The l. of nations now, though once the first Ex. 242 And Mercy, fled to as the l resort H. 378 $\lceil H$. 746 But these shall l. when night has quenched the pole When on a day, like that of the l. doom Her. 11 Her frowns were seldom known to l. J.P. 15 Ah would that this might be the l.! M. 3 But he, whom e'en in life's l. stage Mor. 49 Or, if it does not, brands him to the l. P.E. 107 And he that will be cheated to the l. P.E. 608 A l. year's bird, who ne'er had tried P.T. 28 In the l. scene of such a senseless play R. 32 His l. sea-fight is fought R.G. 15 To whom the rising year shall prove his l. St. ii 2 "When my l. hour arrives" St. iii 34 The l. impossible, he fears the first T. 265 View him at Paris in his l. career T. 311 Twas the l. trumpet—see the Judge enthroned! T. And strained to the l. screw that he can bear T. 385 Angry and sad, and his l. crust consumed T. i 246 Their l. poor pittance—Fortune, most severe T. ii 658 Sells the l. scantling, and transfers the price T. iii 753 Drained to the l. poor item of his wealth T. iii 784 At his l. gasp; but could not for a world T. iii 807 Of the l. meal commence. A Roman meal T. iv 168 Warmed, while it l., by labour, all day long T. iv 377 And force the beggarly l. doit, by means T. v 316 The dawn of thy l. advent, long desired T. vi 866 The features of the l. degenerate times T. vi 900 Due to thy l. and most effectual work T. vi 904 That first, or l., hereafter, if not here Tir. 99 Their breath a sample of l. night's regale Tir. 834 Health's l. farewell, a staff to thine old age Tir. 878 The dark appearance will not l. Trans. H. 26

And the l. left the scene when Chatham died T.T.339 Gives Liberty the l., the mortal shock T.T.476 Hackneyed and worn to the l. flimsy thread T.T.727 Lest this should prove the l. U. 22 I bid you both a long and l. adieu V. 5 With prominent wens globose, till at the l. Y.O.66

LASTING.

But waged with Death a l. strife Cast. 17 A l., a sacred delight C. 40 And verse, more l., hues that never fade Ch. 108 Matched against truths as l. as sublime? Com. 548 That l. happiness, a thankful heart H. 160 Is virtue; the only l. treasure, truth T. iii 269 And trivial favours, l. as the life T. vi 630 To fame as l. as the earth pretend V. 17

LATE.

'Tis well if, looked for at so l. a day R. 31 Yet e'en in transitory life's l. day Tir. 143

LATE-BLOWING.

The charms of the l. rose W.N. 21

LATELY.

Starts from the down on which she l. slept H. 219 The ass; for he, we know, has l. strayed N.A. 96 I sing the Sofa. I who l. sang T. i 1 So l. found, although the constant sun T. i 621 A power, confessed so l. on his knees Tir. 180 When Tumult l. burst his prison door T.T. 318

LATER.

In lighter diet at a l. hour Ex. 403 A quickness, which in l. life is lost Tir. 110 Old or of l. date, by sea or land T. v 381

LATEST.

And make it brightest at its l. date Con. 604 But down to l. age, from earliest youth H. 232 The Love that cheers life's l. stage M.F. 49 And still to be so to my l. age M.F. 69 He begs their flattery with his l. breath T. 315 To l. times; and Scripture, in her turn T. \vee 709 Down to the sunset of their l. day Tir. 82 We feel it e'en in age, and at our l. day Tir. 317 Shall cheer our l. age The Doves 12

LATIN.

We give some L., and a smatch of Greek P.E. 365 That they must soon learn L., and to box Tir. 323 Small skill in L., and still less in Greek Tir. 385

LATINISTS.

By learned clerks, and L. professed Tir. 382

LATITUDE.

Thy yet close-folded l. of boughs Y.O. 21

LATTICED.

Large built and l. well T.B. 24 Well l.—but the grate alas! T.B. 25

LATTICE-WORK.

Of texture firm a l., that braced T. i 42

LAUDABLE.

Endeavours l. engage Mor. 50

LAUGH.

L. at their only remedy, and die Ch. 419 [i 10 How l. the land with various plenty crowned! Comp. And thou couldst l. away the fear of harm Ex. 705 He l., whatever weapon Truth may draw H. 596 And raise a l.) pass unmolested by H. 621 You l.—'tis well—the tale applied L. W. 23 May make you l. on t'other aide L. W. 24

Or l. or mourn with me, the rueful jest P.E. 110 Then l. at all you trembled at before P.E. 592 A l. at his expense, is slender praise P. 318 And talks and l. away his vacant hours R. 452 L. at the reputations she has torn T. 163 Laughed at, he l. again; and stricken hard T. ii 323 Till they can l. at virtue, mock the fools T. ii 622 I think, articulate, I l. and weep T. iii 198 That pleasest and yet shock'st me, I can l. T. iii 840 And the loud l.—I long to know them all T. iv 33 L. ye, who boast your more mercurial powers T. iv 2x L.'s at the francic sufferer's fury, spent T. vi 423 L. with abundance; and the land, once lean T. vi 766 And Nature l. again Trans. H. 24 And l. the sense of misery far away T.T. 239 To l. it would be wrong Y.D. 2

LAHOURD

LAUGHED. [H. 517]
The wretch, who once sang wildly, danced, and L. He L and trifled, made him welcome there H. 685. Built God a church, and L. his word to scorn R. 686. Lived long, wrote much, L. heartily and died T. 307. By rigour P or whom L. into reform P. T. ii 321. L. at, he laughs again; and stricken hard T. ii 323.

LAUGHING.

The weekly censor of a l. Town V. 38

LAUGHTER.

And l., all their work, is life misspent Con. 876 And l. sounds like madness in his ear H. 703 Of l. his compunctions are sincere T. \vee 616

LAUNCHED.

Now see him l. into the world at large H. 197

LAUREATE.

True. While they live, the courtly l. pays T.T. 109
. LAUREL.

Verse, like the l., its immortal meed Ch. 292
He found the l. only—happier you Ex. 600
The unfading l., and the virgin too! Ex. 601
And pluck each other's l. F. 90
Who sell their l. for a myrtle wreath T. ii 229
The l. that a Cæsar reaps are weeds T. vi 939
The l. that the very lightning spares T.T. 6
Let l. drenched in pure Parnassian dews T.T. 13
The l. seemed to wait on his command T.T. 688

LAURELLED.

What are ye, monarchs, l. heroes, say Her. 77

LAUREL-WREATH.

"Theirs be the l. decreed E. iv 83

LAVENDER.

With l., and sprinkle liquid sweets T. ii 257

LAVES.

Her peaceful bosom $l.\ Q.V.\ 72$ And owns her power on every shore he $l.\ P.\ T_{V.\ 40}$

LAVISH.

Of his just praise, to l. it on them? Ex. 349 L. of life, to win an empty tomb Ex. 523

LAVISHED.

They l. all on her J.P. 28

Man l. all his thoughts on human things T.T. 596

LAVISHLY.

But poets having l. long since T. vi 716

I. A W

While Chief Baron Ear sat to balance the l. A. (17) And l. and duties are neglected things A. T. 33 hat forms and rites are tricks of human l. A.T. 62 Then Roman rapine, by no l. withheld A.T. 126 ice passing current by the stamp of l. A.T. 156 e flew to reach it, by a l. A Tale 51 ut though some nobler minds a l. respect Ch. 35 is thus Omnipotence his l. fulfils Ch. 81 nless his l. be trampled on,—in vain? Ch. 191 he world is charmed, and Scrib escapes the l. Ch.526 is evidence, if he were called by l. Con. 125 t least to trample on our Maker's l. Con. 183 s if 'twere treason against English l. Con. 398 dark confederacy against the l. Con. 685 lse, could a l. like that which I relate E. iii 56 Tere trusted with his own engraven l. Ez. 199 a just resentment of his injured l. Ex. 328 hy life upon the pattern of the l. Ex. 409ime wasted, violated l., abuse F.A. 14 nd tells of l. despised, at least not kept H. 220 evere the l. they dream that Heaven ordains H. 241 nd he that made had right to make the l. H. 319 s when a felon, whom his country's l. H. 712 worn foes to sense and l. M. i 2 I'is Nature bids, and whilst the l. Miss — 49 ut know, the l. that bids the drunkard die P.E. 199 y thee, Religion, Liberty, and L.—P.E. 462 lear the just l.—the judgment of the skies P.E.606har conduct with the l. engraven there R. 132 Exposed him to the vengeance of the l. ? T. 45 the l. grown clamorous, though silent long T. 261 It is mind his kingdom, and his will his l. T. 406 [535] Their judge was conscience, and her rule their l. T. 'rom Sinai's top Jehovah gave the l. T. 549 The l. by which all creatures else are bound T. i 385 To avenge than to prevent the breach of l. T. i 731 By necessary l, their sure effects T, ii 192 By him, the violated l. speaks out T. ii 340 By forgery, by subterfuge of l. T. ii 670 [T. iii 97 Imageress what l. they may. Well-dressed, well-bred in playing tricks with Nature, giving l. T. iii 165 Against the l. of love, to measure lots T. iv 337 In for a l, to noose the villain's neck T, iv $462 \lceil 471 \rceil$ That l. has licensed, as makes temperance reel T. iv The king who loves the l., respects his bounds T. v 332 'So frail a kind, and then enacting l. T. v 640The sweets of Liberty and equal $l.\ T.\ v\ 717$ To mix her wild vagaries with thy l. T. v 878The infant elements received a l. T. vi 200 Dull as it is, and satisfy a l. T. vi 217 or bounded only by a l., whose force T. vi 358 And own, the l. of universal love T. vi 360 Does l., so jealous in the cause of man T. vi 432 The injurious trampler upon Nature's l. T. vi 465 I world that does not dread and hate his l. T. vi 826More than the perquisite: where L shall speak T . vi848One step beyond the boundary of the l. T.T. 228 poke from his lips, and in his looks gave l. T.T. 245 et active L. apply the needful curb T.T. 314 in all its parts, times, ministry, and l. T.T. 427 A dire effect, by one of Nature's l. T.T. 442 E en on the fools that trampled on their l. T.T. 651 The wildest scorner of his Maker's l. Tir. 55 They hear him speak—the oracle of l. Tir. 363 Church, army, physic, l. Trans. ii 27 LAWFUL.

000ms and devotes him as his l. prey T. ii 15

LAWGIVER.

The heathen l. of ancient days Con. 35
Their God their captain, l., and king Ex. 190

LAWLESS.

That lewd incontinence, and l. rape A.T. 64 To bind the l., and to punish guilt Ch. 281

A l. brood, and curse thee to thy face Ex. 283 The l. herd, with fury blind M. ii 13 When l. mobs insult the Court Pat. 9 The Will made subject to a l. force P.E. 448 One l. particle to thwart his plan T. ii 170 To all the violence of l. hands T. iv 591

LAWN.

And wood and l. in dusky folds enclosed A.T. 96 A Turkey carpet was his l. Ep. ii 21 For clumps, and l., and temples, and cascades H. 247 For all that pleased in wood or l. S. 13 A flowery island, from the dark green l. T. iii 630 He speaks. The lake in front becomes a l. T. iii 774 Wrought patiently into the snowy l. T. iv 152 [372 Thy groves and l. then witness'd! Every heart T. vi

LAWYER.

So Tongue was the l., and argued the cause A.C. 5 Then shifting his side as a l. knows how A.C. 25 Hearing a l., grave in his address Con. 69 If l., loud whatever cause he plead H. 201 A l.'s dealings should be just and fair H. 401 That sage they seemed, as l. o'er a doubt N.A. 77 The statesman, l., merchant, man of trade R. 5 Great l., l. without study made Tir. 822

LAX

Stiff in the letter, l. in the design Ex. 125

LAY. [A.T. 79]

L. snug and warm; 'twas Summer's farewell peep! To where the fond Sir Airy l. entranced A.T. 150 Expert to swim, he l. Cast. 14 Thus have I sought to grace a serious l. Ch. 628 And either warps or l. it useless by Con. 670 Usurps God's office, l. his bosom bare Con. 745 At any poet's happier l. Dr. 15 A stranger's purpose in these l. E. ii 1War l. a burden on the reeling state Ex. 306 To waste thy life in arms, or l. it down Ex. 531 Kneel now, and l. thy forehead in the dust Ex. 554 L. bleeding under that soft hand of thine P.E. 338 With reverend tutor, clad in habit l. P.E. 371 L. his old age upon the lap of Ease R. 12In spiral rings ascends the trunk, and l. R. 231 Or l, the landscape on the snowy sheet R. 798 Heedless of his loudest l. St. iv 3 On God's behalf, l. waste his fairest works T. ii 136 Presume to l. their hand upon the ark T. ii 231 Preserve the church! and l. not careless hands T. ii 393 And l. it at its ease with gentle care T. ii 449 Her undecisive scales. In this she l. T. iv 484 The magisterial sword in vain, and l. T. iv 596 Except what wisdom l. on evil men T. v 449 Die too: the deep foundations that we l. T. v 532That beak, whence issued many a l. T.B. 56 Again she l. them slumbering on the shore Tir. 26 There waiter Dick, with bacchanalian l. Tir. 214 His soul exults, Hope animates his l. R. 777And l. thine hand upon his flaxen head Tir. 848 L. such a stake upon the losing side Tir. 863 Nor say, go thither, conscious that there l. Tir. 869 And l. his arrows by Trans. H. 30 The post-horns of all Europe, l. her waste T.T. 32 Is genius only found in epic l.? T.T. 568 Whose worth deserves as warm a l. U. 3

LAYMEN.

L. have leave to dance, if parsons play P.E. 151

LAZILY.

Oft loitering l. if not o'erseen T. iii 401

LAZINESS.

The effect of l. or sottish waste T. iv 431

LAZY.

Freshening his l. spirits as he ran P.E. 411 Of l. nurse who snores the sick man dead T. i 97 The sedentary stretch their l. length T. i 389 The tædium that the l. rich endure T.T. 742

LEAD.

Since twenty sheets of l., God knows E. iv 27 But 'tis not timber, l., and stone F. 163 By cold submersion, razor, rope, or l. R. 584 And move the lips of poets cast in l. T.T. 203May rove at will, where appetite shall l. A.T. 60 To measure the life that she l. C. 48 Owes all its weight, like loaded dice, to l. Con. 302 L. to the land where sorrow is unknown E. ii 10 And after all the joys that Plenty l. Ex. 83Then Ceremony l. her bigots forth Ex. 115 Where beckoning Pleasure l, them, wildly stray Ex. As in a dance the pair that take the l. H. 13 L. on the various year Miss - 98Or l. him devious from the path of truth P.E. 60 L. to the bliss she promises the wise P.E.73Footing it in the dance that Fancy l. P.E. 308 Serves but to l. philosophers astray P.E. 433 [477 Within no bounds—the blind that l, the blind P.E. Tell him he wanders, that his error l. P.E. 544 While meaner things, whom instinct l. The Doves 3 Nereids or Dryads, as the fashion l. R. 537A temper rustic as the life we l. R. 732Grace l. the right way; if you choose the wrong T. 17 Some l. a life unblameable and just T. 283 To bind the roving appetite, and l. T. ii 525To him that l. it, wise, and to be praised T. iii 380 The road that l. from competence and peace T. iv 496 Of error l. them by a tune entranced T. vi 104 That l. the dance a summons to be gay T. vi 336 To take the l. and be the foremost still Tir. 377 To l. his son, for prospects of delight Tir. 630 That wants no driving and disdains the l. T.T. 134 Spreads the fresh verdure of the field and l. T.T. 692

LEADER.

Yet Fashion, l. of a chattering train Con. 457 Their l. armed with meekness, seal and love Ex. 187 So when the Jewish l. stretched his arm T. ii 825 Was chosen l.; him they served in war T. v 233 True to the jingling of our l.'s bells Tir. 254

LEADING.

One that still needs his l. string and bib P.E. 581 From education, as the l. cause Tir. 911

LEAF.

Shook the young l. about her ears A Fable 12 Through the dry l., and pants upon the strings Ex.721As the l. that enfolds what an invalid swallows F.M.22 With her chill hand, the mellow l. away N.A. 22 The winds play no longer and sing in the l. P.F. 3 The l. came on not quite so fast P.T. 46 [T. i 641] And homestall thatched with l. But hast thou found And all their l. fast fluttering, all at once T. i 189 And poplar that with silver lines his l, T, i 310 [566] Which, kindled with dry l. just saves unquenched T.i And darkening and enlightening, as the l. T. i 348 The sleeping l., is all the light they wish T. i 763 For ere the beech and elm have cast their l. T. iii 466 Two l. produced, two rough indented l. T. iii 526 The spiry myrtle with unwithering l. T. iii 570 The gay diversities of l. and flower T. iii 590 All plants, of every l., that can endure T. iii 580Must fly before the knife; the withered l. T. iii 614

The scent regaled, each odoriferous l. T. iii 621
Stripped of her ornaments, herl., andflowers! T.iii723
His patrimonial timber cast its l. T. iii 752
Unfolds its bosom, buds, and l., and sprigs T. iv 153
That tinkle in the wither'd l. below T. vi 82 [137
Of l. and flower? It sleeps; and the icy touch T. vi
That scarce a l. appears; mezereon too T. vi 167
The deep dark green of whose unvarnish'd l. T. vi 162
Where, on his bed of wool and matted l. T. vi 312
Beneath the shade of her expanded l. Tir. 46 [Rose5
The cup was all filled, and the l. were all wet The
And winds his web about the rivelled l. Tir. 596
A l. succeeded, and another l. Y.O. 37
Time was when, settling on thy l., a fly Y.O. 91
LEAFLESS.

A l. branch thy sceptre, and thy throne T. iv 125 His favourite herb; while all the l. groves T. iv 319 Seen through the l. wood. His slanting ray T. v 6 Though l., well attired, and thick beset T. vi 168

LEAFY.

Her golden tassels on the l. sprays T. 232

LEAGUE.

From pride in l. with ignorance, have sprung! $\tilde{\iota}$ i. Conspicuous many a l., the mariner T. i 521 LEAGUED.

Bid nations l. against thee stand aloof Ez. 565 But man associated and l. with man T. iv 663

LEAK.

She sprang no fatal l. R.G. 19 LEAN.

For whose l. country much disdain A Tale 78
By l. despair upon an empty purse Ch. 506
Hollow-eyed Abstinence, and l. Despair H. 58 [11.7]
Pride may be pampered while the flesh grows l. T.
Decrepitude, and in the looks of l. T. ii 489
And keeps our larder l.; puts out our fires T. ii 613
That l. hard-handed Poverty inflicts T. iii 827 [468
Though l. and beggared, every twentieth pace T. iv
Transformed to a l. shank. The shapeless pair T. v liv
Shaggy, and l., and shrewd, with pointed ears T. v liv
L. pensioners upon the traveller's track T. v 93 [760]
Laughs with abundance; and the land, once l. T. vi
With l. performance ape the work of Love! T. vi St
Of the mere schoolboy's l. and tardy growth Tiv. 657

LEANED. [180] L. on her elbow, watching Time, whose course 1.0.

LEANEST.

As l. land supplies the richest wine T. 364

As l. land supplies the richest wine T. 364 LEANING.

And when the Stuart, l. on the Scot Ex. 574 That to the wrong side l. O. i 2 The boorish driver l. o'er his team T. i 298 And wandering eyes, still l. on the arm T. ii 53 Lest storms should overset the l. pite T. v 39

LEAP

That life to save, we l. into the pit" N.A. 104 "How! l. into the pit our life to save! N.A. 107 To save our life l. all into the grave! N.A. 108 For persevering chase, and headlong l. P.E. 86 L. every fence but one, there fails and dies P.E. 93 That mounts the stile with ease, or l. the fence T.1136 He walks, he l., he runs—is winged with joy T.143 Not so where, scornful of a check, it l. T. v 101 There's not an English heart that would not l. l v 389 Whose word l. forth at once to its effect l v 686 The dreadful l, more rational his steed l vi 517

LEAPED.

L. out of nothing, called by the most High Ex. 639

LEARN.

Might l. from the wisdom of age A.S. 23

Alternately the nations l, and teach Ch, 120 Whate'er she l., l. nothing as she ought Ch. 338 L. to compassionate the sick she sees Ch. 411 That men, if gently tutored, will not l. Ch. 496 What few can l., and all suppose they know Ch. 627 To l. the twittering of a meaner bird? Con. 448 And Echo l. politely to repeat Con. 827

How slow to l. the dictates of his love E. ii 20 They l. to bow, to kneel, to sit, to stand Ex. 120 [243 They warn and teach the proudest, would they l. Ex.

Humility is gentle, apt to l. Ex. 454To l, in God's own school the Christian part Ex. 650 For who but l, in riper years F. 22 If he wish to instruct, he must l. to delight F.M. 17

L. something from whate'er occurs Mor. 24 Hence jarring sectaries may l. N.G. 27 With much to l., but nothing to impart P.E. 376 Will l. in school of tribulation R.C. 115 L. then, ye living! by the mouths be taught St. ii 33

Make us l. that we must die St. iv 36 His fierceness, having learnt, though slow to l. T. of wisdom, proves a school in which he l. T. i 614 And l., though late, the genuine cause of all T. ii 205 Or unenlightened, and too proud to l. T. ii 549 On skulls that cannot teach, and will not l. T. ii 394 She needs herself correction; needs to l. T. ii 776 Extract a register, by which we l. T. iii 152

Our wayward intellect, the more we l. T. iii 236 L. every trick, and soon play all the game T. iv 231 But none with readier skill!—'Tis here they l. T. iv 495 Unapt to l., and formed of stubborn stuff T. iv 636 New faculties, or l. at least to employ T. v 806 [547

Was now to l, that Heaven, though slow to wrath T. vi That whom it teaches it makes prompt to l. T. v 859And pedantry that coxcombs l, with ease T, vi 290 We could not teach, and must despair to l. T. vi 620 But 1. we might, if not too proud to stoop T. vi 621 And suffer for its crime; would l. how fair T. vi 827 That 'tis our shame and misery not to l. Tir. 78

L. from expert inquirers after truth Tir. 192 There shall he l., ere sixteen winters old Tir. 210 That they must soon l. Latin, and to box Tir. 323 Sweet interjections! if he l, but those Tir. 400 [811 Who, wise yourselves, desire your son should l. Tir.

And I. with wonder how this world began Tir. 127

L. much, and to a thousand listening minds T.T. 274 O l., from our example and our fate T.T. 436 L. wisdom and repentance ere too late" T.T. 437 But l. his error in maturer years Tir. 449

If anxious only that their boys may l, Tir. 513

LEARNED.

I have read the Review; it is l, and wise A.T, iv 1 Self-knowledge truly l. of course implies Ch. 359 No l. disputants would take the field Ch. 620 Words l. by rote a parrot may rehearse Con. 7 Grave without dulness, l. without pride Con. 609 L at the bar, in the palsestra bold Con. 842 And l. as 'tis sweet Dr. 12 The virtue they had l. in scenes of woe Ex. 80 Hast thou not 1., what thou art often told Ex. 350 Proclaim the remedy, ye l., next H. 108 And he that stole has l, to steal no more H, 523 Politely 1., and of a gentle race H. 682 And the sad lesson must be l. once more Her. 75 y mother! when I l. that thou wast dead M.P. 21 Li. at last submission to my lot M.P. 44

For many a grave and l. clerk P. 31

Candid and l., dispassionate and free P.E. 453 And l. in future to be wiser P.T. 60 To l. cares or philosophic toil R. 662

Nor those of l. philologists, who chase R. 691 Or else she l. it of her master R.C. 10

That self-renouncing wisdom l. before T. 568 To those that need it. Folly is soon l. T. ii 283 [434 Though l, with labour, and though much admired T, ii

That grave and l. clerks should need such aid T. ii 368 Than in the bounds of duty? What was l. T. ii 754

If aught was l. in childhood, is forgot T. ii 755 Great contest follows, and much l. dust T. iii 161 Dissolve in pity, and account the l. T. iii 183

And oft at last in vain. The l. and wise T. iii 562 The l, finger never need explore T, iv 362

All l., and all drunk! the fiddle screams T. iv 478 Knowledge is proud that he has l. so much T. vi 96 Truths that the l. pursue with eager thought Tir. 73 By l. clerks, and Latinists professed Tir. 382

And better never l., or left behind Tir. 581 On all around him; l. not by degrees Y.O. 147

LEARNERS. And humble l. of a Saviour's worth T. ii 542

LEARNING.

With a great deal of skill, and a wig full of l. A.C. 6Their l. legendary, false, absurd Ex. 127 Well turored L., from his books Mrs. M-

There Genius, L., Fancy, Wit Mrs. M— 45 While l., once the man's exclusive pride P.E. 429 L. itself, received into a mind P.E. 431 Admire his l., and almost adore l.E. 507

Manly designs, and l.'s grave pursuits R. 242 But such as L. without false pretence R. 695 L. is one, and wit, however rare T. 302

When l., virtue, piety, and truth T. ii 700 Close to his side that pleased him. L. grew T. ii 713 If this be l., most of all deceived T. iii 184 L. has borne such fruit in other days T. iii 248 That l. is too proud to gather up T. iii 286

And l. wiser grow without his books T. vi 88 With wholesome l., yet acquired with case Tir. 118 Least qualified in honour, l., worth Tir. 413

And you are staunch indeed in l.'s cause Tir. 492 Prepared by taste, by l., and true worth Tir. 678

And harder still as l. beneath despair H. 697 [595] His fierceness, having l., though slow to learn T. i

LEATHERN.

My l. belt likewise J.G. 62 With l, girdle braced J.G. 130 The l, ears of stockjobbers and Jews T.T. 187

LEAVE.

Neglected, l. a dreary waste behind Comp. i 12 L. saints to enjoythose altitudes they teach Com. 585 Babbler of ancient fables, l. a doubt Ex. 503 Or expectation of the next, give l. Ex. 607Remain with thee, or l. thee at his word Ex. 675 But if He l, thee, though the skill and power Ex.702And of the worst, that unexplored he l. F.A. 31 [H. 275 To l. his friend behind F.B. 24 'Twas there we found them, and must l. them there L. Vice and Folly unsubdued behind P.E. 81 Laymen have l. to dance, if parsons play P.E. 151 Enslaves the will, nor l. the judgment free P.E. 270 And suck, and l. a craving magget there! P.E. 326 Take l. of nature's God, and God revealed P.E.591'Tis criminal to l. a sinking state R. 478 Oh! grant a poet l. to recommend R. 541 That l. no stain upon the wing of Time R. 800

He drops the rein, and l. him to his pace T. 247 And l. to mercy, with a tranquil mind, T. 499 [322 Delights which who would l., that has a heart T. iii At least neglect not, or l. unemployed T. iii 368 [785 He sighs, departs, and l. the accomplished plan T. iii From his pernicious force. Nor will he l. T. iv 445 Takes a Lethean l. of all his toil T. iv 475 Freely and with delight, who l. us free T. v 334 Nor ask his l. to slumber or to play T. vi 405 No cat had l. to dwell T.B. 21 Then l. their crimes for History to scan T.T. 119 L. kingly backs to cope with kingly cares T.T. 174

LEAVING.

The pannels, l. an obscure, rude name T. i 282 Forth goes the woodman, l. unconcerned T. v 41 L. the poor no remedy but tears T. vi 845

LEBANON.

For cedars famed, fair L. supplied A.T. 143

LECTURE.

He reads wise l., and describes aloud Ch. 389 To read wise l., vanity the text H. 107 A mother's l. and a nurse's care Tir. 196 Is Nature's progress, when she l. man T. vi

LED.

Are gloomy thoughts l. on by Spleen E. iv 20 Captivity l. captive, rose to claim Ch. 585 If, l. from earthly things to things divine H. 141 Following, that l. me to my own abode N. A. 128 Not to be l. in chains, but to subdue R. 266 L. them, however faltering, faint and slow T. 537 When l. by instinct sharp and sure T. B. 32

LEECH.

And the shark's prey; the spendthrift, and the l.

Quite to the l.? And has religion none? P.E. 260 Pure from the l., which often more enhanced T. ii 508

LEUWENHOEK. E'en L. himself would stand aghast P.E. 485

LEFT.

They l, these bodily concerns at large A.T. 130

They l. these bodily concerns at large A.T. 130 Is doubtless l. behind A Tale 48 You l. when he was slain Beau 12But has l. a regret and esteem C. 7 His floating home for ever l. Cast. 6 Nor ever ship l. Albion's coast Cast. 9 They l. their outcast mate behind Cast. 23 What has he l. that he can yet forego? Ch. 150 Has l. some hundreds without home or food Ch. 466 Whose deeds had l., in spite of hostile arts Con. 513The scene of all those sorrows l. behind Con. 508 [534 And l. them both exclaiming "Twas the Lord! Con. And plunging l. the shore D.W. 32 [Ex. 175 For them, the states they l. made waste and void Who l. them still a tributary state Ex.217But l. their virtues and thine own behind Ex. 373 It sparkles with the gems he l. behind Ex. 483 He found thee savage, and he l. thee tame Ex. 485 Some twigs of that old scourge are l. behind Ex.517They l. their bones beneath unfriendly skies Ex. 524 On points which God has l. at large F. 136 [29] To unriddle, and have l, them mysteries still F.A. "The wine is l, behind!" J.G. 60 That failing l. untold J.P. 21 And thus be l, the point at large L.W.8Thy morning bounties ere I l. my home M.P. 60 Myself removed, thy power to sootheme l. M.P. 121 Afric's coast I l. forlorn N.C. 2 Give wit, that what is l. may shine 0. i 27 Of the plague spread by bundles l. behind P.E. 352 L. out his linchpin, or forgot his tar P.E. 441 But not the mischiefs; they still l. behind P.E. 554 From pleasures l., but never more be loved R. 564 She l. the cares of life behind R.C. 47 "The open drawer was l. I see R.C. 55 He l. his bed, he trod the floor R.C. 91 Can e'er forget the charms he l. behind S. ii 3 Charge not, with light sufficient and l. free T. 19 And prejudice have l. a passage clear) T. 114 Is l. to sleep for peace and quiet sake T. 428 Fair fields appear below, such as he l. T. i 452 L. sensuality and dross behind T. 526 With one who l. her, went to sea, and died T. i 538 Sweets tasted here, and l. as soon as known T. i 653 My country! and while yet a nook is l. T. ii 207Or all that we have l., is empty talk T. ii 253 [523] L. them as dark themselves. Their rules of life T. $\ddot{\mathrm{u}}$ Finds a cold bed her only comfort l. T. ii 655As l. him not, till penitence had won T. ii 723 And l. them to an undirected choice T. ii 802 I was a stricken deer that l, the herd T, iii 108 Some traces of her youthful beauty l.) T. iii 299 With hopeful gems. The rest, no portion l. T. iii 421 When having no stake l., no pledge to endear T. iii 79! The few small embers i. she nurses well T. iv 383 Foh!'twas a bribe that l. it: he has touched T. iv 604And sighs for the smart comrades he has l. T. iv 613 The deluge washed it out; but l. unquenched T. v 200 Then what were l. of roughness in the grain T. v 490 Fame had not l. the venerable man T. vi 492 Of good Evander, still where he was l. T. vi 537 He l. poor Bully's beak T.B. 54 To weep for the buds it had l. with regret The Rose And better never learned, or l. behind Tir. 584 Their offspring, l. upon so wild a beach Tir. 802 And give thy life its only cordial l. ? Tir. 882 [339 And the last l. the scene when Chatham died T.T.Are we then l.—not wholly in the dark T.T.662Was l. to spring by vigour of his own T.T. 675 [125 Thine arms have l, thee. Windshave rent them off I.0. The task was l. to whittle thee away Y. O. 104 [Y.O. 127 With bow and shaft have burnt them. Some have L LEG.

One l. by truth supported, one by lies P.E. 561
Joint-stools were then created, on three l. T. i 19
Upborne they stood. Three l. upholding firm T.i20
Improved the simple plan, made three l. four T.i23
His l. depending at the open door T. i 93
Preposterous sight! the l. without the man T. v 29
Though Vestris on one l. still shine below Tir. 543
So in they come—each makes his l. Y. D. 29

LEGATE.

L., and delegates, with powers from hell Ez. 514 The l. of the skies!—His theme divine T. ii 338

LEGATEE.

No.-Mammon makes the world his l. Ch. 45

LEGENDARY.

Their learning l., false, absurd Ez. 127 An ancient, not a l. tale T. vi 479 But now farewell all l. tales Tir. 181

LEGENDS.

L. prolix delivers in the ears S. i 2 LEGIBLE.

All this still l. in Memory's page M.P. 68 Such as, when l., were never read P.E. 332 L. only by the light they give T. 30 Is l. and plain Trans. i 22

LEGIONS.

Disbanded l. freely might depart Ch. 618 Call l. up from Hell to back the deed Com. 691 Beckons the L of his storms away H. 477 Of the glad l. of the King of kings H. 733

The trumpet sounds, your l. swarm abroad Her. 53

LEGISLATURE.

The l. called it May A Fable 9

LEGITIMATE.

Of its l., peculiar powers) T. ii 333 Now the l. and rightful lord T. iii 749

LEISURE.

And chattels of l. and ease Gr. 50 But l., silence, and a mind released R. 139 His hours of l. and recess employs R. 215 And he that deems his l. well bestowed R. 505

But not to manage l, with a grace R. 622 Behold in these what l. hours demand R. 701 Domestic life in rural l. passed! T. iii 292 [T. iii 691 Health, l., means to improve it, friendship, peace A wish for ease and l., and ere long T. iv 800

Found here that l. and that ease I wished T. iv 801

LEISURELY.

The ascending damps; then l. impose T. iii 477

LEMON.

Like that of salts with l. juice F. 130

LEND.

Let supposition l. her aid once more Ch. 383 To listen is to l. him aid F. 101 H. 260 They die.—Death l. them, pleased, and as in sport Will l. his horse to go " $J.\hat{G}$. 24 And L celestial fire Miss — 82

But does a mischief while she l. a grace R. 233 [591 Must l. its aid to illustrate all their charms T. iii Need no such aids as Superstition $l.\ T.\ vi\ 510\ [669]$ The strength they borrow with the grace they l. T. iii

LENGTH.

Decide no question with their tedious l. Con. 87 Can l. of years on God himself exact Con. 549 Feel less the journey's roughness and its l. Con. 699 Is sent to be flatted or wrought into l. F.M. 2 Bound on a voyage of awful l. H.F. 17 Tis exercise, and health, and l. of days P.E. 91 Expending late on all that l. of plea S. i 6 And holds them dangling at arm's l. in scorn T. 164 Their 1. and colour from the locks they spare T. i 134 Not distant far, a l. of colonnade T. i 252 The sedentary stretch their lazy l. T. i 389 That with its wearisome but needful l. T. iv 2 He brandishes his pliant l. of whip T. iv 355 Stretches a l. of shadow o'er the field T. v 10 Shoot into pillars of pellucid l. T. v 115

The roof, though movable through all its l. T. vi 74LENGTHENING.

Mov'd many a sigh at its disheart'ning l. T. vi 22

Punctually paid for l. out disease H. 204

To carry nature l. unknown before T.T. 558

LENIENT.

With l. balm may Oberon hence Miss — 21 And l. as soft opiates to the mind P.E. 80

LENS.

He claps his l., if haply they may see Ch. 385

[P.F.8

LEPROSY.

Tis in the church the l. begins Ex. 96

LESSENS.

And l. to the sight A Tale 44

And the sad l. must be learned once more Her. 75 This l. seems to carry P.T. 63

Admires the work but slips the l. by R. 214 May give an useful l, to the head T, vi 86

A l. for mankind The Doves 40 His l. tire, his mild rebukes offend Tir. 716

His life a l. to the land he sways $T.T_{r}$ 76 LET.

Nor write on each—This building to be l. Tir. 916

LETHARGIO. Conceals the mood l, with a mask T, iv 299

LETHÆAN.

L. gulfs receive them as they fall B.B. 7 Takes a L. leave of all his toil T. iv 475

LETTER. How I shall hammer out a l. E. iv 34

Stiff in the l., lax in the design Ex. 125 The important l. that include the rest Ch. 523 [348]

Write, if then canst, one l. from the shades $\bar{P}.E$. Than to interpret by the l. P.T. 6

A man of i, and of manners too! T, ii 782 The royal l, are a thing of course Tir. 416 A man of l., manners, morals, parts Tir. 673

LETTERED.

The pride of l. ignorance, that binds H. 483 That graced his l. store M. i 8

Where beauty oft and l. worth consume T. ii 123 LETTING.

By l. poetry alone E. iv 10

In l. fall the curtain of repose T. iv 248 LETTUCES.

Thistles, or l. instead Ep. ii 15

LEUCONOMUS.

L. (beneath well sounding Greek H. 554 LEVANTINE.

L. regions these, the Azores send T. iii 583

LEVEE. Flies to the l., and, received with grace R. 479 The l. swarms, as if in golden pomp T. iii 822

LEVEL. Here Ouse, slow winding through a l. plain T. i 163

The pulpit to the l. of the stage T. ii 564 Across a velvet l., feel a joy T. vi 275 Stand on a l., and you prove too much T.T. 255 LEVELLED.

The explosion of the l. tube excites H. 350

LEVIATHAN.

Alas! L. is not so tamed T. ii 322

LEVIED.

L. a tax of wonder and applause T.T. 650 LEVITES.

Thy L., once a consecrated host Ex. 263No longer L., and their lineage lost Ex.264

LEVYING. And l. thus, and with an easy sway Tir. 611

LEWD.

And the tree is my seat that once l. me a shade | That l. incontinence, and lawless rape A.T

L., avaricious, arrogant, unjust Ex. 56
By some l. earl, or rakehell baronet P.E. 314
A l. interpreter is never just P.E. 459
In which l. sensualists print out themselves R. 684
Perverting often, by the stress of l. T. ii 551 [764
The l. vain world that must receive him soon T. ii
And surfeited l. town with her fair dues T. iii 758
Those habits of profuse and l. expense Tir. 350
Complain not if attachments l. and base Tir. 889
LEWDNESS.

By l., idleness, and sabbath-breach T. iv 653 In infidelity and l. men Tir. 209 That L. had usurped and worn so long T.T. 637 LIBATION.

And weeps a sad l. in despair R. 226
LIBBARD.

The lion, and the l., and the bear T. vi 773 LIBEL.

That odious l. on a human voice ? Con. 450

Large population on a l. plan A.T. 157
A stream of l. and heroic deeds Ch. 245
A hand as l. as the light of day H. 408
For Nature, nice, as l. to dispense P.E. 213
And mortifies the l. hand of love T. ii 757
So l. in construction, and so rich T. iii 94
Pure is the nymph, though l. of her smiles T. iii 712
Of distribution; l. of their aid T. iv 413
L. in all things else, yet Nature here T.T. 208 LIBERALITY.

LIBERAL.

Of L. of heart F. 5 Yet was thy l. discreet J. T. 35 LIBERATES.

That l. and exempts me from them all T. iv 97 LIBERTINE.

The praises of the l. professed T. 433 Of l. excess. The Sofa suits T. i 106 LIBERTY.

Thine altar, sacred L., should stand Ch. 256 Culprit his l. regains E. iv 59 Strangers to l. 'tis true F.B. 10 To L. without F.B. 36 But these excuse, the l. I take H. 435 And methought while she L. sung M.D. 23 'Twas L. only to hear M.D. 24 By thee. Religion, L., and Laws P.E. 462 A moment's l. to speak P.T. 20 Ranges at l., and snuffs the wind R. 630 Thought, word, and deed, his l. evince T. 195 Escapes at last to l. and light T. i 440 By culture tamed, by l. refreshed T. i 606 And l., and oft-times honour too T. i 734 My fancy, ere yet l. of choice T. iv 698 We, for the sake of l., a king T. v 351 The State that strives for l., though foiled $T \approx 367$ For he who values L. confines T. v 393 'Tis L. alone that gives the flower T. v 446 Of L., themselves the slaves of lust T. v 499But there is yet a L. unsung T. v 538 A L. which persecution, fraud T. v 542 Tis L. of Heart, derived from Heaven T. v 545 The sweets of L, and equal laws T, v 717 A l. like his, who unimpeached T. v 759 Is L.: a flight into his arms T. v 577 Then we are free. Then L. like day T. v 883 Hence L., sweet L., inspires T.T. 222 L. chases all that gloom away T.T. 271 O L.! the prisoner's pleasing dream T.T. 288

And I will sing, if L. be there T.T. 295
And I will sing, at L.'s dear feet T.T. 296
And L., preserved from wild excess T.T. 316
L. blushed, and hung her drooping head T.T. 324
L. taught him her Athenian strain T.T. 343
Gives L. the last, the mortal shock T.T. 476

LIBIDINOUS.

(As often as l. discourse T. v 660

LICE

Than abstinence, and beggary and $l.\ T.\ 124$

LICENCE.

LICENSED.

The l. of the lowest in degree T. iv 588

That law has l., as makes temperance reel T. iv 471 LICENTIOUS.

And forced the floodgates of l. mirth Con. 264 Forbids him none but the l. joy P.E. 237

LICENTIOUSNESS.

And fierce L, should bear the blame T.T. 329

T.TCK

Yes—thou mayst eat thy bread, and l. the hand l. And l. the foot that treads it in the dust T. v 356 LICKED.

And l. his feathers smooth B.R. 20

TING

)8. [859

Canst thou, the tear just trembling on thy l. Tir.

When Scandal has new minted an old l. Ch. 513 What monstrous l. some travellers will tell "Ch. 394 The scales are false, or algebra a l. Con. 22 And baits its hook with prodigies and l. Con. 224 And while at heart sin unrelinquished l. Con. 673

Her hope presumption, and her faith a l. Con. 774 Here l., whom hound did ne'er pursue Ep. ii I Infuses l. and errors of his own Ez. 102

But here again a danger l. F. 25 To search forbidden deeps where mystery l. F.A. 33 In which, or astronomy l. Gr. 15

Can only say, —"Nobility l. here" H. 271 But here alsa! the fatal difference l. H. 282 [$\frac{424}{l}$] That truth l. somewhere, if we knew but where H. Thy deep repentance of thy thousand l. H. 590

To sweep away all refuges of l. H. 628

Through the ripe harvest l. their destined road Her.

Brutes capable would tell you 'tis a l. P.E. 261

To justify it by a thousand l. P.E. 204

Thou ever bubbling spring of endless l. P.E. 467 One leg by truth supported, one by l. P.E. 561 That Scripture l., and blasphemy is sense P.E. 585 He that hates truth shall be the dupe of l. P.E. 607 And I must ere long l. as lowly as they P.F. 14

A sepulchre in which the living l. R. 737 L. down secure, her heart and pocket light T. 322 L. scattered where the shapely column stood T. ii 76

By tricks and l. as numerous and as keen T. ii 671 Ten thousand l. in wait to thwart T. iii 553 The verdure of the plain l. buried deep T. v 21

L. covered close; and berry-bearing thorns $T. v \stackrel{\text{ge}}{\sim} L$. undissolved; while silently beneath $T. v \stackrel{\text{ge}}{\sim} A$ nd, warp'd into the labyrinth of L. Tir. 157

To lure me to the baseness of a l. T.T. 86 And, of all l. (be that one poet's boast) T.T. 87 The l. that flatters I abhor the most T.T. 88 Stamps God's own name upon a l. just made T.T. 420

In wisdom, wealth, in fortune, and in l. T.T. 463 He scolds, and gives the l. Trans. iv 27

LIFE. [A.T. 127 Lest Rome should end with her first founder's l. Fo measure the l. that she leads C. 48 She will have just the l, she prefers C. 53 Supported by despair of l. Cast. 18 While Cook is loved for savage l. he saved Ch. 39 That has a heart and l. in it, "Be free!" Ch. 170 While l.'s sublimest joys are overlooked Ch. 219 L. and a kingdom upon worms below Ch. 592 Some men have surely then a peaceful l.! Con. 56 And hazard l. for any or no cause Con. 184 Am I to set my l. upon a throw Con. 191 You speak with l., in hopes to entertain Con. 327 They spake of him they loved, of him whose l. Con.511 Whose wisdom, drawn from the deep well of l. Con. 564 Ere l. go down, to see such sights again) Con. 606 Is madly to forget that l. is short Con. 772 [638 Crowned with the garland of l.'s blooming years Con. And laughter, all their work, is l. misspent Con. 876But though l.'s valley be a vale of tears Con. 881 A l. of ease would make them harder still E. ii 22 Whence comes it then, that in the wane of l. E. iii 14Consult L.'s silent clock, thy bounding vein Ep. i 3 The graces of a l, that wins the skies Ex, 112 They saw distemper healed, and l. restored Ex. 153Might give more l. to marble, or might fill Ex. 231 Thy l. upon the pattern of the law Ex. 409 Lavish of l., to win an empty tomb Ex. 522To waste thy l, in arms, or lay it down Ex. 536 Nor spare a l, too short to reach the skies Ex. 623 And truth alone, where'er my l. be cast Ex. 732 They manifest their whole l. through F. 112 And make a calm of human l. F. 134To recommence l.'s trial, in the hope F.A. Ask what is human l.—the sage replies H. 1 Through l.'s sad remnant, what no sighs restore H. Is such a l., so tediously the same H. 87 By which he reads, that l. without a plan H. 95 L. is his gift, from whom whate'er l. needs H. 115 Men deal with l. as children with their play H. 127 His date of l., so likely to be short H. 208 And l. abused, and not to be suborned H. 224 L. without hope can close but in despair H. 274 With him the Donor of eternal l. H. 323 And grace be grace indeed, and l. a gift H. 531 Deem l. a blessing with its numerous woes H. 546 His only answer was a blameless l. H. 577He draws upon l.'s map a zig-zag line H. 607 Which most should sweeten his untroubled $l.\ H.\ 681$ The l. of multitudes, a nation's bread! Her. 56 That sorest ill of human l. M.F. 32 The love that cheers l.'s latest stage M.F. 49 Each tender tie of l. defied Miss -Give l. her every charm Miss - 80 Ere long approach l.'s evening shades Mor. 35 But he, whom e'en in l.'s last stage Mor. 49 Oh that those lips had language! L has passed M.P.1Wretch even then, l.'s journey just begun? M.P. 24 But no—what here we call our l, is such M.P, 84 Of l., long since has anchored by thy side M.P. 99 That l. to save, we leap into the pit" N.A. 104 How! leap into the pit our l. to save! N.A. 107 To save our l. leap all into the grave! N.A. 108 Till l.'s poor transient night is spent N.G. 32 Thus l. is spent (oh fie upon 't!) P. 37
That Virtue points to? Can a l. thus spent P.E. 72 Charged with the folly of his l.'s mad scene P.E. 88 Now, while the poison all high l pervades P.E.347 And through l 's labyrinth holds fast the clue P.E.357Nor rested till the Gods had given it l. P.E. 529 Faults in the l. breed errors in the brain P.E. 564 Though his l. be a dream, his enjoyments, I see P.F.19But which, when l. at ebb runs weak and low R. 3

New l. ordained and brighter scenes to share R. 65 Compared with this sublimest l. below R. 103 We find a little isle, this l. of man R. 148 Nor these alone prefer a l. recluse R. 169 Can call up l. into his faded eye R. 339 Yet seek him, in his favour l. is found R. 853 Are l.'s prime pleasures in his simple view R. 403 The tide of l., swift always in its course R. 453 Seems at the best but dreaming l. away R. 468 Ingenious to diversify dull l. R. 520 A $ar{l}$. of ease a difficult pursuit R. 634 L. an intrasted talent, or a toy? R. 650 A temper rustic as the l. we lead R. 732 Or shine the dulness of still l. away R. 746 O sacred art! to which alone l. owes R. 749 To close l. wisely, may not waste my own R. 808 She left the cares of l. behind R.C. 47 Sweet moralist! afloat on l.'s rough sea R.H. 3 All these, l.'s rambling journey done St. i 3 Die self-accused of l. run all to waste l St. ii 28 Again l.'s dreary waste St. iii 6 "Such only be your l." St. iii 36 Would gladly stretch l. little span St. v 7 Recoil from weary l.'s best hour St. v 19Whence l: can be supplied St. vi 4 But l., within a narrow ring St. vi 9 Can l. in them deserve the name St. vi 13 And endless l. above? St. vi 16 With l, that cannot die St, vi 32 Wearing out l. in his religious whim T. 89 His l. should prove that he perceives their force T. To save your l. would nobly risk his own T. 220 A soul redeemed demands a l. of praise T. 279 Some lead a l. unblameable and just T. 283 Shows them the shortest way to l, and love T. 870 Thus often Unbelief, grown sick of l. T. 445 That civil war embitters all his l. T. 468 That man is dead in sin, and l. a gift T. 514 L. for obedience, death for every flaw T. 550 As l. decline, speed rapidly away T. i 130 If Solitude make scant the means of l. T. i 248 Not such the alert and active. Measure l. T. i 396 That palls and satiates, and makes languid l. T. i 454Themselves love l., and cling to it, as he T. i 483 The spark of l. The sportive wind blows wide T. i 567 The manners and the arts of civil l. T. i 596The gifts of Providence, and squander l. T. i 638And genial soil of cultivated l. T. i 679 On petty robbers, and indulges l. T. i 733 That l. holds out to all, should most abound T. i 752 L. in the unproductive shades of death T. ii 124 L.'s necessary means, but he must die T. ii 141 In all the good and ill that chequer l. ! T. ii 162 That live an atheist l.; involves the Heaven T. ii 180 He feels the anxieties of l., denied T. ii 302 [T. ii 373 Whose hands are pure; whose doctrine and whosel. When I am hungry for the bread of l.? T. ii 428 [523 Left them as dark themselves. Their rules of l. T. ii And so illuminates the path of l. T. ii 529Variety's the very spice of l. T. ii 606 And cleaves through l. inseparably close T. ii 761 Than once, and others of a l. to come T. iii 123 The little wick of l.'s poor shallow lamp T. iii 164 Ah! what is l. thus spent l and what are they T.iii 178 Domestic l. in rural leisure passed! T. iii 292 Not waste it, and aware that human l. T. iii 363 A social, not a dissipated l. T. iii 376 A l. all turbulence and noise may seem T. iii 379 All healthful, are the employs of rural l. T. iii 625 Abroad, and desolating public l. T. iii 683 What is it but a map of busy l. T. iv 55 Γiv 187 Unlooked for, l. preserved, and peace restored T.

If, ere we yet discern l.'s evening star R. 46

Against the charities of domestic $l.\ T.\ iv.\ 677$ Thee too enamoured of the l. I loved T. iv 718 The most unfurnished with the means of L T. iv 770 Of multitudes unknown. Hail! rural l.! T. iv 783 That lifts him into l., and lets him fall T. iv 791 In the low vale of l., that early felt T. iv 799 Some have amused the dull sad years of l. T. v 180(L. spent in indolence and therefore sad) T. v 181He deems a thousand or ten thousand l. T. v 276 His thousands, weary of penurious $l.\ T.\ v$ 319 Who lives, and is not weary of a l. T. v 365 By him of Babylon, l. stands a stump T. v 401 Upon the endearments of domestic l. T. v 438 Of fleeting l. its lustre and perfume T. v 447 And plausible that social l. requires T. v 466 That can ennoble man, and make frail l. T. v 603And no condition of this changeful l. T. v 768"From toilsome l. to never ending rest T. v 841 From thee is all that soothes the l of man T. v 900 How gladly would the man recall to l. T. vi 42 [181]From dearth to plenty, and from death to l. T. vi Sustains, and is the l. of all that lives T. vi 222 With sight of animals enjoying l. T. vi 325 [vi 429 With bleeding sides and flanks that heave for l. T. O'erall we feed on power of l, and death T, vi 453 As free to live, and to enjoy that l. T. vi 585 And trivial favours, lasting as the $l.\ T.\ vi\ 630$ He is the happy man whose l. e'en now T. vi 906 Shows somewhat of that happier l. to come T. vi 907 Nor, though he tread the secret path of l. T. vi 956 He sits secure, and in the scale of l. T. vi 970 So l. glides smoothly and by stealth away T. vi 995 So glide my l. away! and so at last T. vi 1000 Resolved a union formed for l. The Doves 27 That grace and Nature have to wage through l. Tir. Tis true that, if to trifle l. away Tir. 81 A quickness, which in later l. is lost Tir. 110 Back to the season of l.'s happy spring Tir. 132
Yet e'en in transitory l.'s late day Tir. 143 When first we started into l.'s long race Tir. 315 With all the adventures of his early l. Tir. 325 Hurt too perhaps for l.; for early wrong Tir. 490 Which, oft neglected, in l.'s waning years Tir. 589 Chained to the routs that she frequents for l. Tir. 744 To you, then, tenants of l.'s middle state Tir. 807 And give thy l, its only cordial left? Tir. 882 His l. a lesson to the land he sways T.T. 76 Respect, while stalking o'er l. narrow stage T.T. 118 Not more invigorates l.'s noblest part T.T. 381 The storms that overset the joys of l. T.T. 449 And all the crowds that bustle l. away V. 74 Beget no thunder-clouds to trouble l. V. 76 Down to the close of l.'s fast fading scene V. 85 Sits half the pleasures of short l. away Y.O. 32 Invigorate by turns the springs of l. Y.O. 78 Yet L. still lingers in thee, and puts forth Y.O. 130 Drew not his l. from woman; never gazed Y.O. 145

LIFE-RENEWING.

Your heart shall yield a l. stream Con. 503

LIFE-RESTORING.

The trumpet of a l. day H. 456

LIFT.

Then l. it gently from the ground E. iv 57 "For l. thy palsied head, shake off the gloom H. 37 Nightly l. his voice on high St. iv 6 [T. vi 925 Whose power is such, that whom she l. from earth Can l. herself above corporeal things T. 487 Till the stout bearers l. the corpse again T. i 491 That l. him into life, and lots him fall T. iv 791 Strange that such folly as l. bloated man T. v 283

Can l. to Heaven an unpresumptuous eye T. v 746 Where Violence shall never l. the sword T. vi 843

LIFTED.

A few forsake the throng; with l. eyes R. 161 L. at length, by dignity of thought T.T. 676

JGHT.

And the swift-winged arrows of L.-A.S. 44 No l. propitious shone Cast. 62 The sword shall l. upon thy boasted powers Ch. 79 From her the canvass borrows l. and shade Ck. 107 Whose bounty bought me but to give me l. Ch. 235 The peep of morning shed a dawning l. Ch. 261 Drinks wisdom at the milky stream of l. Ch. 319 With a new medium and a purer l. Ch. 330 They cannot give it, or make darkness l. Ch. 388 He talks of l., and the prismatic hues Ch. 391 Unless a love of virtue l. the flame Ch. 491 Their want of l. and intellect supplied Con. 147 Quite as absurd, though not so l., as he Con. 25 The southern sash admits too strong a l. Cos. 331 The fixed fee-simple of the vain and l.? Con. 590 A Christian's wit is inoffensive l. Con. 599 'Tis such a l. as putrefaction breeds Con. 675 Daily derive increasing l. and force Con. 697 And through the scenes of toil-renewing l. Con. 732 Whose glory, with a l. that never fades Con. 883 Sheds every hour a clearer l. E. i 61 As often as too little l. E. iv 64With l. derived from thee, would smother thine Ex. Where sharp and solid, phlegmatic and l. Ex. 296 Darkness itself before his eye is l. Ex. 338 His victory was that of orient l. Ex. 478 But still l. reached thee; and those gods of thine E: By such a change, thy darkness is made l. Ez. 640 Them without l, and thee without a cloud Ex. 717Sometime occasion brings to l. F. 148 In beams of inextinguishable $l.\ H.\ 134$ [178 Were l., when weighed against one smile of thine H. That cannot bear the blaze of Scripture l. H. 298 A hand as liberal as the l. of day $\dot{H}.$ 408 Brings many a precious pearl of truth to I. H. 444 But above all, in her own l. arrayed H. 447 Of one, whose birth was in a land of l. H. 535 And l, and shade, and every stroke be thine H. 673 Oh! welcome now the sun's once hated l. H. 736 Than golden beams of orient l. M. 27 Shed l., like a sun on the waves M.D. 14 Around her, fanning l. her streamers gay M.P.S. He spells them true by intuition's l. N.A. 69 That you with music, I with l. N.G. 21 And only pervious to the l. P.B. 10 That not a glimpse of genuine l. pervades P.E. 6 L. of the world, and stars of human race P.E. 97 But show peculiar l., by many a grin P.E. 383 His great improvement and new l. he draws P.E. 42 The sun, a world whence other worlds drink l. R. Sl And sees, by no fallacious l. or dim R. 115 Give useful l. though I should miss renown R. 206 Seem drops descending in a shower of l. R. 350 We seek it, ere it come to l. R.C. 97 Observe the dappled foresters, how l. St. ii 21 All evils then seem l., compared St. v 27Charge not, with l. sufficient and left free T. 19 Legible only by the l, they give T. 30 The foam upon the waters not so l. T. 43 Lies down secure, her heart and pocket l. T. 322 The l, they walk by, kindled from above T. 369 "Truly not I! The partial l. men have T. 521 Derived from the same source of l. and grace T.533 How airy and how l. the graceful arch T. i 34i Brushed by the wind. So sportive is the l. T. i 345

And throws Italian l. on English walls T. i 425 Escapes at last to liberty and l. T. i 440[152] Moved not, while theirs was rocked like a l. skiff T. ii The sleeping leaves, is all the l. they wish T. i 763 That each may find its most propitious l. T. ii 295 Of L. Divine. But Egypt, Greece, and Rome T. ii 500 And, at the watchman's lantern borrowing l. T. ii 654Rotation; from what fountain flowed their l. T. iii 160 Truths undiscerned but by that holy l. T. iii 242 And wherefore? Will not God impart His l. T. iii 272 With l., by clear reflection multiplied T. iv 268 The frugal housewife trembles when she l. T. iv 380And heaviest, l. of foot steals fast away T. iv 442 By modern l. from an erroneous taste T. iv 724 Can but arrest the l. and smoky mist T. v 105 Illumined every side: a watery l. T. v 150 A ray of heavenly l. gilding all forms T. v 810 With those fair ministers of l. to man T. v 816 Pleased with his solitude, and flitting l. T. vi 79 Her silver globes, l. on the foamy surf T. vi 155 Though poor in skill to rear them, l. at last T. vi 753 Flock to that l.; the glory of all lands T. vi 802 And no such l. are kindling in their stead Tir. 285 Was graced with many an undulating l. T.T. 573 Fair Science poured the l. of truth Th. 3 With that l. task; but soon, to please her more T. vi Gives him a modicum of l. Trans. i 11 Nor crush a worm, whose useful l. Trans. i 17 Affection l. a brighter flame U. 27 Whose noblest coin is l. and brittle man V. 96 Loved not the l., but, gloomy, into gloom Y.O. 14

LIGHT-CREATING.

Dwelt visibly the l. God T. 390

LIGHTENED.

The loaded wain, while l. of its charge T. i 296

LIGHTER.

In l. diet at a later hour Ex. 403

LIGHTEST.

The breathings of the l. air that blows R. 530

LIGHT-HEARTED.

He whistles as he goes, l. wretch T. iv 12

LIGHTLY.

The hills move l., and the mountains smoke T. ii 91 And l., shaking it with agile hand T. iii 478 He places l., and as time subdues T. iii 518

LIGHTNESS.

Of l. in his speech. 'Tis pitiful T. ii 468

LIGHTNING.

Upon his dungeon walls the l. play H. 718 In dazzling streaks the vivid l. play Her. 18 Swift beyond thought the l. dart away T. 243 And perilous l. from the angry clouds T. iii 212 The laurel that the very l. spares T. T. 6 "When l. flash among the trees The Doves 21 No need of l. from on high The Doves 33

LIKE.

He l. yours little, and his own still less Con. 344
Yet l. a slice as well as he L.W. 36
He l. the country, but in truth must own R. 573
Most l. it, when he studies it in town R. 574 [210
He l. your house, your housemaid, and your pay T.
Grows conscious of a change, and l. it well T. iv 638
And howl and roar as l. them, uncontrol'd T. vi 404
Draws gross impurity, and l. it well T. vi 979

LIKED

But N. l. it never the better for that A.T. ii 6

LIKENESS.

Heaven held his hand, the l. must be true Ch. 434 Hate their own l. in a brother's face Con. 158 Begets its l. Rank abundance breeds T. i 686 A faithful l. of the forms he views T. ii 293 The l. of some object seen before T. v 121 With his own l. placed on either knee Tir. 320

LILAC.

The l., various in array, now white T. vi 157

LILY.

His l. newly blown D.W.I saw him, with that l. cropped D.W.The rose or l. appears blue or green H.The L. and the Rose L.R.The L.'s height bespoke command L.R.As with the diamond on his l. hand T. ii 424 And l. for the brows of faded age T. iv 80

LIMR

Such feebleness of l. thou provest M. 37 The shapely l. and lubricated joint R. 57 With l. of British oak, and nerves of wire R. 311 By soft recumbency of outstretched l. T. i 82 The gouty l., 'tis true; but gouty l. T. i 107 [581 They swathe the forehead, drag the limping l. T. i My languid l., when summer sears the plains T. iii 30 I view the muscular proportioned l. T. v 15 Would cheerfully these l. resign Tvans. ii 34

LIME.

For the close-woven arches of l. C. 29 For baking earth, or burning rock to l. N.A. 18 Of ash, or l., or beech, distinctly shine T. i 303 Prolific, and the l. at dewy eve T. i 316 The ruddier orange and the paler l. T. iii 573

LIMIT.

Within the scanty l. of the mind Ch. 247 To l. thought, by Nature prone to stray R. 127 The l. of control, his gentle eye T. ii 719

LIMITATION.

And righteous l. of its act T. vi 596

LIMITED.

Then ask not, whether l. or large? Tir. 511 Discreetly l. to two at most Tir. 770

LIMITING.

Circling around and l. his years R. 150

LIMPID

And fit the l. element for use T. i 374

LIMPING.

They swathe the forehead, drag the L limb T. i 581

LINCHPIN.

Left out his l., or forgot his tar P.E. 441

LINE.

With as many hard names as would l. a good trunk A poet does not work by square or l. Con. 789
That Robert's l. are easy too E. iv 70
He draws upon life's map a zigzag l. H. 607
Whose l. uniting by an honest art H. 756
Bricks l. the sides, but shivered long ago N. A. 15
As bloated spiders draw the filmsy l. P. E. 495
It err but little from the intended l. P. E. 574
Unlike the enigmatic l. Q. V. 49
And poring on thy page, whose every l. R. 207
Long l. of ancestry, renowned of old Tir. 817
These chestnuts ranged in corresponding l. T. i 263
And poplar that with silver l. his leaf T. i 310

Soon, by a righteous judgment, in the l. T. v 211Plants it upon the l. that Justice draws T.T. 17 Along the nerve of every feeling l. T.T. 487 [522] Give me the l. that ploughs its stately course T.T. No Muses on these l, attend U, 29

LINEAGE.

No longer Levites, and their l. lost Ex. 261

LINEAMENT.

And l. divine I trace a hand T. iii 722 Exhibit every l. of these T. vi 901

LINED.

A drawer, it chanced, at bottom, l. R.C. 35 What are the casements l. with creeping herbs T. iv In cosch with purple l., and mitres on its side Tir. 369 The diadem, with mighty projects l. T.T. 59

LINEN.

With l. of the softest kind R.C. 36

LINEN-DRAPER.

I am a l. bold J.G. 21

LINGER.

With hopeless wish one looks and l. P.B. 33 No muse can hesitate, or l. long) Tir. 291 Yet Life still l. in thee and puts forth Y.O. 130

When Hope, long l., at last yields the ghost H. 723

LINK. To loose the l. that galled mankind before T. 185

They gaze upon the l, that hold them fast T, ii 664 To cut the l. of brotherhood, by which T. iii 208 And hewed them l. from l. Then Albion's sons T. v 517

LINKED.

The language plain, and incidents well l. Con. 236

Sits l. cherry-stones, or platting rush R. 398

LINNET.

The l. twittered out his parting song A.T. 76 And when your l. on a day B.R. 13

Had heard a l. roar J.G. 206 And wilds familiar with a l.'s roar R. 779 The l. tells him—I am monarch here! T. vi 408 The unfledged raven and the l.'s whelp T. vi 461 The l., and the libbard, and the bear T. vi 773 LIP.

Thy l. bave shed instruction as the dew Ch. 238 God's name so much upon his l., a priest Con. 72 But being tied, it dies upon the l. Con. 355

And shed the balmy blessing on the l. Con. 442 [484] Warming his heart, should at his l. transpire? Con. And l. unstained by folly or by strife Con. 563 Those breathed from l. of everlasting love E. ii 30 And the dull service of the l. were there Ex. 44 The purple bumper trembling at his l. H. 358 [454

Live from his l., and spread the glorious sound H. All mercy from his l., and sneered, and hissed H. 561 Oh that those l, had language! Life has passed M.P.1Those l are thine—thy own sweet smile I see M.P.3The parting word shall pass my l no more! M.P.35L. busy, and eyes fixed, foot falling slow R. 285

Her head erect, her fan upon her l. T. 134 What glowing thanks his \hat{l} , and heart employ T.255And Chatham's eloquence to marble $l.\ T.\ i\ 704$ Blows mildew from between his shrivelled $l.\ T.\ ii\ 186$

Praise from the rivelled l. of toothless, bald T. ii 488 A l. Naiad her impoverished urn T. i 328

Played on his l., and in his speech was heard T. ii 707 Drops from the l. a disregarded thing T. ii 565 Has flowed from l. wet with Castalian dews T. iii 251 Some note of Nature's music from his l. T. iii 600

Thy breath congealed upon thy l., thy cheeks T. iv 122Should ever drivel out of human l. T. v 285In the lost kind, extracting from the l. T. v 701 From touch of human l. at best impure T. vi 835

And move the l. of poet's cast in lead T.T.203Spoke from his l., and in his looks gave law T.T.245

LIP-DEEP. L. in what he longs for, and yet curst P.E. 233

LIQUID.

With lavender, and sprinkle l. sweets T. ii 257 That in its fall the l, sheet throws wide T, v 106 Recovering fast its l. music, prove T. vi 261

LIQUOR.

To hold the l. that she loved J.G. 67

LISPING. L. our syllables, we scramble next Tir. 125

Were I empowered to regulate the l. Con. 195 And frolic where they l. F.B. 9I would not enter on my l. of friends T. vi 560

LISTEN. No land but l. to the common call Ch. 91 Speak but the word, will l. and return Ez. 455

To l, is to lend him aid F. 101 Speaks with reserve, and l. with applause R. 448

LISTENING. Placed with advantage at his l. ear A.T. 181 Yet, though he tease and baulk your I. ear Con. 135 That fills the l. lover with delight Con. 446

Their hours, their days, in l. to his joy H. 739 Greybeard corrupter of our l. youth P.E. 342 Just undulates upon the l. ear T. i 175 And soothed the l. dove The Doves 8 Then turning, he regales his l. wife Tir. 324 Learns much, and to a thousand l. minds T.T.274And, l. close with both his ears Trans. iv 20

LISTLESS. Falls soporific on the l. ear P.E. 20 Hence an unfurnished and a l. mind T.E. 425 Fastidious, or else l., or perhaps T. ii 306

When, 'scaped from l. cares D.W. 3 The Frenchman first in l. fame T. 303 In all true worth and l. skill? Tir. 378

LITTERED.

Dry fern or l. hay, that may imbibe T. iii 476 LITTEBING.

Wandering, and l. with unfolded silks T. vi 280 LITTLE

My l. garrison of sense E. iv 18 In dying sighs my l. breath G. 11 The l. Greeks look trembling at the scales H. 195 Thy hands thy l. force resign M. 34 Distant a l. mile he spied Mor. 17 Spontaneous, take but l. pains to sow P.E. 364

We find a l. isle, this life of man R. 148 Would gladly stretch life's l. span St. imes 7 And drank the l. bumper every day T. 158

Pillow and bobbins all her l. store T. 318 Has l. understanding, and no wit T. 324

Can boast but l. virtue; and inert T. i 623 The l. wick of life's poor shallow lamp T. iii 164 With all her l. ones, a sportive train \hat{T} . vi 301 Of l. worth, an idler in the best T. vi 952 And the tear that is wiped with a l. address The Rose In l. bosoms such achievements strike Tir. 232 The l. ones, unbuttoned, glowing hot Tir. 304 They dream of l. Charles or William graced Tir. 360 Twere wiser sure to inspire a l. heart Tvr. 454 L. inmate, full of mirth Trans. iii 1 Tis now a l. one, like Miss Trans. iv 17 The l. and the great Trans. H. 9 At Westminster, where l. poets strive T.T. 506 Spread l. wings, and rather skip than fly T.T. 579 She fills profuse ten thousand l. throats T.T. 694. The l. boy and all? Y.D. 34 The great and I. of thy lot, thy growth Y.O. 87 LITURGY. He drew the l., and framed the rights T. vi 679 He long survives, who l. an hour Cast. 37 And e'en the dipped and sprinked l. in peace Ch. That the surviving world may l. in peace Con. 176 L. the dear thought of joys he once possessed Con. 708 "That, while the language l. shall last" E. iv 78 You must not l. alone F.B. 27 L. to no sober purpose, and contend H. 129 Who l. in pleasure, dead e'en while they l. H. 230 As with a frown to say, "Do this, and l." H. 329 [454 L. from his lips, and spread the glorious sound H. Some wiser rule must teach him how to l. H. 600 Shall l. exempt from weakness and decay H. 752 [30] Clothes it with earth, and bids the produce l. Her. Now let us sing, long l. the king J.G. 249 And Gilpin, long l. he J.G. 250 And something every day they l. M.F. 39But l. when that exterior grace M.F. 53 To l., unblessed, in torpid ease Miss — 27 Perceives in everything that l. a tongue N.A. 56 L. till to-morrow, will have passed away N.A. 133 That thy worst part, thy principles, l. yet P.E. 350 Whose highest praise is that they l, in vain R, 23 The love of change that l. in every breast R. 171 Some pleasures l. a month, and some a year R. 459 Worthy to l., and of eternal use R.700He l. who l. to God, alone St. vi 1 To l. to God is to requite 8t. vi 5 Who only l. to prove St. vi 14 Stand the soul-quickening words—Believe and L.T. The book shall teach you; read, believe, and l.! Oh! may I l. exempted (while I l. T. i 103 [371 An instant's pause, and l. but while she moves T. i Yet scorn the purposes for which they l. T. i486 [116 He drew them forth, and healed, and bade me l. T.iii That l an atheist life; involves the Heaven T ii 180 What man that l, and that knows how to l, T, ii 618 "'Twere well, could you permit the world to l. T. iii 194 How then should I and any man that l. T. iii 200 L. by contriving delicates for you) T. iii 546 [582 L. there, and prosper. Those Ausonia claims T. iii They l., and l. without extorted alms T. iv 403 [759] That Nature 1.; that sight-refreshing green T. iv Who l., and is not weary of a life T. v 365 [403 Still l., though all its pleasant boughs are gone T. v To l. on terms of amity with vice T. v 658 [184 The grand transition, that there l, and works T, vi Sustains, and is the life of all that l. T. vi 222 Or by necessity constrained, they l. T. vi 413

He l., and o'er his brimming beaker boasts T. vi 434

For these they l., they sacrifice to these T. vi 893

Will tread aside, and let the reptile l. T. vi 567

As free to l., and to enjoy that life T. vi 585

True. While they l., the courtly laureate pays T.T.109 His right of empire over all that l. Tir. 4 And useless while he l, and when he dies Tir. 71 To l. estranged from God his total scope Tir. 426 L. not, aged though he be Trans. iii 31 So shalt thou l. beyond the reach Trans. H. 2 And l. contentedly between Trans. H. 8 To l. by buskin, sock, and raree-show V. 34 In all that l., plant, animal, and man Y.O. 79 LIVED.

And I have l. recluse in rural shades Con. 801 [451] And too short l. to reach the realms of peace Ch. L. happy prisoners there F.B. 6 Had Paul of Tarsus l. and died a Jew H. 257 A man once young, who l. retired Mor. 3 I seem to have l. my childhood o'er again M.P. 115 "Friends! we have l, too long. I never heard N.A.88And having l. a trifler, die a man R. 14 L. in his saddle, loved the chase, the course R. 577 Such l. Aspasio; and at last St. iii 29 L. long, wrote much, laughed heartily, and died T. To a sharp reckoning that has l, in vain T, iii 179 Yet few remember them. They l. unknown T. v 724 The idol of our worship while he l. T. vi 666 Such Mary's true love, that has l. W.N. 19 [Y.O. 40 Who l, when thou wast such? oh couldst thou speak That once l. here thy brethren! at my birth Y.O.2

LIVELIER.

Seem graced with a l. hue W.N.22In matted grass, that with a l. green T. 195

LIVELONG.

Will the sweet warbler of the l. night Con. 445 The l. night: nor these alone, whose notes T. 201 Shuffling her threads about the l. day T. 320 The dreary waste; there spends the l. day T. i 547 The l. night. A tattered apron hides T. i 549

Or l. fancy guess Miss — 104 No jester, and yet l. in discourse Tir. 668

LIVERIED.

There, in his commerce with the l. herd Tir. 688 LIVERY.

Is still the l. she delights to wear T. iv 760

LIVERY-NAGS.

Or throw them up to l. and grooms Tir. 901

LIVID.

Pale, wan, and l., but assuming soon T. iii 523 LIVING.

A sepulchre in which the l. lie R. 737 Learn then, ye l.! by the mouths be taught St. ii 33 Where should the l., weeping o'er his woes T. 435 For interest sake, the l. to the dead T. iii 661 Feed on the slain, but spare the l. brute! T. vi 458 But all are capable of l. well Tir. 510 To set some l. worthy in his view Tir. 647

LOAD.

To improve the fortitude that bears the l. Ch. 160 Thy rulers l, thy credit, year by year Ex. 281 Successive l. succeeding broils impose Ex. 308 True to his charge, the close packed l. behind T. iv By congregated \bar{l} , adhering close T, iv 344 Society, grown weary of the l. T. iv 498 No longer blushing for her awkward l. T. iv 551' [33 He from the stack carves out the accustomed $l. \bar{T}. v$ Shall be dismantled of its fleecy l. T. vi 179 Warped into tough knee-timber, many a l.! Y.O. 99

LOADED.

They should encounter with well l. fists Con. 196 Owes all its weight, like l. dice, to lead Con. 302 The l. wain, while lightened of its charge T. i 296 The l. soil, and ye may waste much good T. v 756

LOAF.

LOAMY.

Deep in the l. bank. Uptorn by strength T. iv 438 Thou fellest mature; and, in the l. clod Y.O. 38

Just when the day declined, and the brown l. T. iv

Is but a l., to be repaid with use T. iii 364 Supplies his need with a usurious l. T. iii 798

LOATHE. He takes what he at first professed to l. Con. 337

They love it, and yet l. it; fear to die T. i 485 And serves the altar, in my soul I l. T. ii 416

LOATHED.

[206 The spot he l. so much for ever cleansed away A.T. There hid in l. obscurity, removed R. 563 And l. the thought of $\sin St$. iii 28

Precipitate the \bar{l} . abode of man T. vi 376 LOATHSOME.

Who drive a l. traffic, gauge and span Ch. 139 Successfully conceals her l. form P.E. 8 Of l. diet, penury, and cold T. i 591 Becomes a l. body, only fit T. iv 674

The creeping vermin, l. to the sight T. vi 568 And l. Ribaldry has done his worst T.T.729

LOBES. And spreading wide their spongy l., at first T. iii

Now stars; two l., protruding, paired exact Y.O. 36

Truth is not l., God alike pervades R. 119 He gives the l. bias all its sway Tir. 334

Thy silver l., once auburn bright M. 25

Fleecy l. and black complexion N.C. 13 A tooth or suburn l., and by degrees T. i 133 [134] Their length and colour from the l. they spare T. i An eyebrow, next compose a straggling l. T. ii 446 With spatter'd boots, strapp'dwaist and frozen l.T. iv6 As meal and larded l. can make him; wears T. iv 642 And tells them, as he strokes their silver l. Tir. 322

Slips the slave's collar on, and snaps the l. T.T. 477

LOCKE. L538 Such was Sir Isaac, and such Boyle and L - P.E. LOCKED.

Fast l. in mine, with pleasure such as Love T. i 146 LOCKETS.

Sees watches, bracelets, rings and l. P.B. 25

LOCOMOTIVE.

He scans of every l. kind N.A. 64

LODGE.

Who long had marked her airy l. A Fable 25 [531 Plunged in the stream, they l. upon the mind Ch. I called the low-roofed l, the Peasant's nest T, i 227 Oh for a l. in some vast wilderness T. ii 1 Can l. a heavenly mind—demands a doubt T. ii 462

LODGED.

L. with convenience in the fork R.C. 13 L. on the shelf; half-eaten without sauce T. iv 394

Doomed to the dust, or l. already there T. vi 714 A mind well l., and masculine of course T.T.221

LODGING.

Why hire a l. in a house unknown Tir. 555 LOFTIEST.

The subtlest serpent with the l. crest T. 476 Of wintry blasts; the l. tower Trans. H. 14 LOFTY.

An apple tree, or l. pear R.C. 12 The air salubrious of her l. hills T. i 428 O'ertop the l. wood that skirts the wild T. i 558 Such l. strains embellish what you teach T.T. 478

The well-stacked pile of riven l. and roots T.iv 👭

Each heart as heavy as a l. Y.D. 15

Vociferated l. kills me quite Con. 113 His cap well-lined with l. not his own T. ii 737 The l., and the wisdom, and the wit T. iv 32 This once believed, 'twere l. misapplied Tir. 103 Seldom, alas! the power of l. reigns T.T. 51

From l. enthroned, and rulers of the earth M.P.

Distressed the weary l, that felt no case T, i 45 LOIRE.

LOITERERS. The l. I never saw E. i 24

Are come from distant L, to choose E, i 47

Remarks two l, that have lost their way P.E. 3% LOITERING.

Oft l. lazily if not o'erseen T. iii 401 Of fluttering, l., cringing, begging, loose T. iii 832 LOLLS.

L, at his ease behind four handsome bays R. 392 LOLLING.

L. at your jovial boards N.C. 22

LONDON.

Though the pleasures of L. exceed C. 25 Of famous L. town J.G. 4 Set L, in a glow Q, V, 8 Such L. is, by taste and wealth proclaimed T. i 697

Where her implements exact T. i 715 Where has commerce such a mart T. i 719 As L., opulent, enlarged, and still T. i 721 Increasing L.? Babylon of old T. i 722 L. engulphs them all! The shark is there T. iii816

And wanton vagrants, as make L., vast T. iii 833 The villas with which L. stands begirt T. iv 748 And blazing L, seemed a second Troy T.T. 323 LONELY.

Taking my l. winding walk, I mused F.A. 8 To distant caves the l. wanderer flies R. 769

Who l. had marked her airy lodge A Fable 25 And for Hypothesis was somewhat l. A.T. 19

Not l. beneath the whelming brine Cast. 13 He l. survives, who lives an hour Cast. 37 And so l. he, with unspent power Cast. 39 Thy rights have suffered, and our land, too l. Ch. 277 But sedentary weavers of l. tales Con. 207 Yet Age, by l. experience well informed Con. 639 And gods and goddesses discarded l. Con. 819

Grace him again with l. forgotten arts Con. 839 thence withdrew, and followed l. D.W. 27 Ears l. accustomed to the pleasing lute Ex. 68 5. time Assyria bound them in her chain Ex. 73 A l, immunity from grief and pain Ex. 82 Where Policy is busied, all night l. Ex. 300 And l, provoked, repaid thee to thy face Ex. 391 How much, though l. neglected, shining yet Ex. 610 By l, fidelity and love E, i 104 Seems it to say—"Health here has l. to reign?" Ep. He finds his l., last home Ep. ii 38 Our friend's defect l, hid from sight F. 149 Is not the pardon of thy l. arrear F.A. 13 Had been their mutual solace l. F.B. 5Though short, too l., the price he pays for all H. 200 Of critics now alive or l. since dead H. 426 [723 When Hope, l. lingering, at last yields the ghost H. And when, as Justice has l. since decreed H. 748 Twas l. before the customers J.G. 57 His l. red cloak, well brushed and neat J.G. 75 Like streamer l. and gay J.G. 102 Now let us sing, l. live the king J.G. 249 And Gilpin, l. live he J.G. 250 After l. sleep, of passion in the heart J.T. 42 L. beards, l. noses, and pale faces M.F. 6 Ere l. approach life's evening shades Mor. 35 Affectionate, a mother lost so l. M.P. 14 A l., l. sigh, and wept a last adieu! M.P. 31 What ardently I wished, I l. believed M.P. 38 Of life, l. since has anchored by thy side M.P. 99 After l. drought, when rains abundant fall N.A. 59 "Friends! we have lived too l. I never heard N.A. 83 A nightingale, that all-day $l.\ N.G.\ 1$ Disputes, though short, are far too l. P. 45 We l. for pineapples in frames P.B. 32 Sing, Muse, (if such a theme, so dark, so l. P.E. 1 L. ere the charioteer of day had run P.E. 67 Lip-deep in what he l. for, and yet curst P.E. 233 Ere l. some bowing, smirking, smart Abbé P.E. 385 Men loved their own productions l. ago P.E. 527 He cannot l. be safe whose wishes roam P.E. 587 But, Muse, forbear; l. flights forebode a fall P.E. 604 And I must ere l. lie as lowly as they P.F. 14 When, l. sequestered from his throne Q.V. 1 Those the l. milky way Q.V. 12 Where all his l. anxieties forgot R. 7 Though l. rebelled against, not yet suppressed R. 16 Souls that have l. despised their heavenly birth R. 35 Begins a l. look out for distant land R. 433 Recumbent at her ease, ere l. R.C. 45A l. and melancholy mew R.C. 88 He has incurred a l. arrear St. v 31 Sit l. and late at the carousing board? T. 50 And sore tormented l. before his time T. 84 His voluntary pains, severe and l. T. 101 L. hid by interposing hill or wood T. 249 Lived 1., wrote much, laughed heartily, and died T. The law grown clamorous, though silent l. T. 261 But made l. since, like Babylon of old T. 391 \underline{L} time elapsed or e'er our rugged sires T. i 68 His wasted spirits quickly, by l. toil T. i 128 Confirmed by l. experience of thy worth T. i 147 Witness a joy that thou hast doubled l. T. i 149 L. knowledge and the scrutiny of years T. i 179 And l. protracted bowers, enjoyed at noon T. i 25 Whom we call gay? That honour has been l. T. i 491 As one who l, in thickets and in brakes T, iii 1 Or having l. in miry ways been foiled T. iii 4 L. held, and scarcely disengaged at last T. iii 16 L. since: with many an arrow deep infixed T. iii 109 Whom ten l. years' experience of my care T. iii 338 And fruitful soil, that has been treasured l. T. iii514And which no care can obviate. It were l. T. iii 558 Too l., to tell the expedients and the shifts T. iii 559 Ficoides, glitters bright the winter $l. T. iii 579 \lceil 786 \rceil$ That he has touched, retouched, many a l. day $ar{T}$. iii And the loud laugh—I l. to know them all T. iv 33 Of l, uninterrupted evening know T, iv 143 Warmed, while it lasts, by labour, all day l. T. iv 377 Their l. complaints, is self-inflicted wee T. iv 430 A wish for ease and leisure, and ere l. T. iv 800 The l, protracted rigour of the year T. v 85 For grandeur or for use. L. wavy wreaths T. v 158 His art survived the waters; and ere l. T. v 220He gulps the windy diet, and ere l. T. v 269 A course of l, observance for its use T. v 301 Its l. delay, feels every welcome stroke T. v 413 "As one who l, detained on foreign shores T, \forall 832 His l. love-ditty for my near approach T. vi 309 Narrow and l., o'erlooks the western wave T. vi 484 She l. to yield, no sooner woo'd than won Tir. 172 No muse can hesitate, or linger l.) Tir. 291 When first we started into life's l. race Tir. 315 That here begins with most that l. complaint $\it Tir.~587$ L. lines of ancestry, renowned of old Tir. 817 To indulge his genius, after l. fatigue T.T. 153 From him who rears a poem lank and l. T.T. 532 Then like a bow l, forced into a curve T, T. 622 From these a l. succession, in the rage T.T. 630 That Lewdness had usurped and worn so l. T.T. 637Satire has l. since done his best, and curst T.T. 728 I bid you both a l. and last adieu V. 5 Graced with the name of a l. absent friend V. 40 And l. before the day appears Y.D. 11 L. since, and rovers of the forest wild Y.O. 126 Much ancient chronicle, and l. 1789, 2 An era cherished l. by me 1789, 33

LONG-AGITATED.

Our Queen's l. breast 1789, 47

LONGER.

The l. I heard, I esteemed C. 21 His birthright shaken, and no l. clear Con. 765 No l. Levites, and their lineage lost Ex. 264The Sacred Book no l. suffers wrong H. 449 The world, no l. thy abode, not thee J.T. 10 Deem our nation brutes no l. N.C. 49 No l. give an image all thine heart R. 276 To bid Affliction's eye no l. stream S. ii 12 And covet l. wee l $\tilde{S}t$. v 20 Then anxious to be l. spared St. v 25 Or charmed me young, no l. young I find T. i 142 A l. respite, unaccomplished yet T. ii 67 A wooden one, so we, no l. taught T. ii 575 No l. blushing for her awkward load T. iv 551 But violence can never l. sleep T. v 204 Which whose sees no l. wanders lost T. v 847 A l. date to the far nobler beast T. vi 529 Till Reason, now no l. overawed Tir. 187 No l. takes, as once, with fearless case Tir. 569

LONGEST.

What l. binds the closet, forms secure T. iii 480 That flutters least is l. on the wing T. vi 931

LONGITUDE.

Mine, spindling into l. immense T. v 11

LONG-SURVIVING.

Lord of the woods, the l. oak T. i 313

LONG-TIME.

L. a breeding-place they sought A Tale 21

LOOK.

To l. at him who formed us and redeemed Ch, 579 His wit invites you by his l. to come Con. 303

And yet, God knows, l. human nature through Con. 749 Such drunken reelings, have an awkward l. Con. 862 He did it with a jealous l. Ep. ii 11 All speak her happy:—let the Muse l. round Ex.27And the most favoured land, l. where we may Ex.221Kiss the book's outside, who ne'er l. within Ex. 389 Where shall a teacher l., in days like these Ex. 450 "L. to the poor; the simple and the plain Ex. 452So Jealousy l. forth distressed F. 80 Or pride can l. at with indifferent eyes H. 52 The little Greeks l. trembling at the scales H. 195 A transport glows in all he l and speaks H. 726 Transforms thy smiles to l. of woe M. 47 Will never l. one bair the worse " M.F. 24 Dismissed with grave, not haughty l. Mrs. M-38 The l, and gestures of their griefs and fears N.A. 67 You speak very fine, and you l. very grave P.A.29With hopeless wish one l. and lingers P.B. 33 [129] All elbows shake. L. in, and you would swear P.E. L. where he comes; in this embowered alcove R. 283 Begins a long l, out for distant land R, 433 With aching heart, and discontented l. R. 471Nature indeed l. prettily in rhyme R. 567 And l. on Folly's pageantry with scorn S. ii 8 Frown at effeminates, whose very l. T. ii 223 May feel it too; affectionate in l. T. ii 405 Decrepitude, and in the l. of lean T. ii 489 Bent knees, round shoulders, and dejected l. T. iv 634 He l. abroad into the varied field T. v. 738 But well compensating her sickly l. T. vi 163 With l. of some complacence he resumed T. vi 535 L. where he will, the wonders God has wrought Tir.54 And seem, if judged by their expressive l. Tir. 288 The exalted prize demands an upward l. Tir. 383 L. round you on a world perversely blind Tir. 813 Now l. on him, whose very voice in tone Tir. 845 L. up—your brains begin to swim Trans. ii 10 While condescending majesty l. on T.T. 138 Is kept to strut, l. big, and talk away T.T. 233 Spoke from his lips, and in his l. gave law T.T. 245 And dared to l. his master in the face T.T. 321 The poet's heart; he l. to distant storms T.T. 495 Must hope to l. upon their like again T.T. 661 L. to the westward from the dappled east T.T. 706 And l. as if he came to beg Y.D. 31

LOOKED.

Γ42

Unveiled her blushing cheek, l. on, and smiled Ex. 'Tis well if, l. for at so late a day R. 31 Curried his nag and l. another way R. 390 L. to the sea for safety? They are gone T. ii 119 Or l. for now, the fault must be his own Tir. 243

· LOOKING.

By l. on the bud, descry E. i 70 And stood l. out for his prey M.D. 31 When, l. eagerly around N.G. 7 Forbids their interference, l. on T. v 523

LOOM.

For the unscented fictions of the $l.\ T.$ i 416 Through every change that Fancy, at the $l.\ T.$ ii 608 The l. of Ormus, and the mines of Ind T. vi 806

TOOD

Till, l. and button failing both J.G. 103

LOOPHOLES.

'Tis pleasant, through the l. of retreat T. iv 88 LOOSE.

"And flutters l., the sport of every wind A.T. 102 L. fly his forelock and his ample mane Ch. 176 Much to the purpose, if our tongues were l. Con. 354 And wanting him to l. the sacred seal Con. 544

That Sin let l. speaks Punishment at hand Ex. 160 That flutter l. on golden wing F.B. 8 Like a l. heap of ribbon, a glittering show F.M. 6 Though l., as harmless as an infant's play H. 613 Ten thousand thousand strings at once go l. R. 329 To l. the links that galled mankind before T. 185 Upon l. pebbles, lose themselves at length T. 194 But l. in morals, and in manners vain T. ii 378 And l. example, whom he should instruct T. ii 5.2No l. or wanton, though a wandering Muse T. iii & 2 Of fluttering, loitering, cringing, begging, l. T. iii 832 So l. to private duty, that no brain T. v 512 The gilded equipage, and turning l. T. vi 702For l, expense and fashionable wa-te Tir. 204 Not more intelligent, than l. and gay Tir. 530 Extravagant or sober, l. or chaste Tir. 914 Worse than the deeds of galley-slaves broke l. T.T.

LOOSED.

LORD.

10.9

That parts us, are emancipate and l. T. ii 39

"For British nymphs, whose l. were lately true A.T.[193 I am l. of the fowl and the brute A.S. 4 The barb sprang forward, and his l., whose force A.T. "Shall mourn her absent l., for he is gone A.T. 104That flies, like Gabriel on his L.'s commands Ch. 13 And left them both exclaiming,"'TwastheL.!Con.53: If Israel's L. be God, then serve the L. Con. 822 L. of the conquered soil, there rooted fast Ez. 192 Unblest, and that the battle is the L.'s? Ex. 353 Thy chiefs, the l. of many a petty fee Ex. 532 Like angels in the service of their L. Ex. 674 L. paramount of the surrounding plains H. 305 Just made fifth chaplain of his patron l. H. 414 Against thine image, in thy saint, O L.!" H. 593 To please her sated and indifferent l. ? P.E. 238 My L., alighting at his usual place R. 585 But when his l. would quit the busy road R. 631 [51 Such were the sins with which he charged his L.) T. His palace, and his lacqueys, and "My L." T. 122 Asserts the rights of his offended L.-T. 263 And the fool with it, who insults his L.-T.504L. of the woods, the long-surviving oak T. i 313 But that the l. of this enclosed demesne T. i 331 Binds man, the l. of all. Himself derives T. i 3% And strength is l. of all; but gentle, kind T. i 605 Now the legitimate and rightful l. T iii 749 The L. of all, himself through all diffused T. vi 221 Ungratified: for there some noble l. T. vi 673 [87] "Where is the promise of your L.'s approach?" T_{ri} One L., one Father. Error has no place T. vi 784

Your altered heart—and so, my L., farewell! V.25LORDLY.

Witty, and well employed, and, like thy L. Tir. 139

Free as the l. bull that ranges o'er the mead A.T.61

LORDSHIP.

"Your l. observes they are made with a straddle A.C. And your l.," he said," will undoubtedly find A.C. 17 So his l. decreed, with a grave solemn tone A.C. 29 I sent you verse, and, as your L. knows V. 19 [397 Your L., and your Grace! what school can teach T.And, like his L., cast thy friend away V. 48

LORE.

With Gospel l., turn infidels themselves Tir. 826

LOSE.

L. in tears the far receding shore Ch. 147 [224 Else who would l., that had the power to improve Ch. Relenting forms would l. their power, or cease Ch. 608

'Adieu, dear Sir! lest you should l. it now" Con.282 L. at once all value and esteem Ex. 113 And he that finds his Heaven must l. his sins H. 638 The nymph must l. her female friend L.R. 1 I would not l. it to be styed M.B. 15 He will l. none by me, though I get a few " P.A. 40 And judgment drunk, and bribed to l. his way P.E.450 Secure of nothing, but to l. the race P.E. 563 Of virtue, and yet l. it! Wherefore hard? T. 12 Upon loose pebbles, l. themselves at length T. 194 One pleasure lost, l. heaven without regret T. 312 Through plenty, l. in morals what they gain T. i 625 Freedom! whom they that l. thee so regret T. ii 130 Tue sons of Albion; fearing each to l. T. iii 599 L. its treasure of salubrious salts T. iii 610 She l. all her influence. Cities then T. iii 729 And wins them, but to l. them in his turn T. iv 63 Thus of treclined at ease, I l. an hour T. iv 302 Incorporated, seem at once to l. T. iv 678 She l. in such storms her very name T.T. 328 Soon l. their credit, and are all effaced Tir. 200 The indented stick, that l. day by day Tir. 559 LOSING.

Lay such a stake upon the l. side Tir. 863 And some wits flag through fear of l. it T.T. 521 Who l., or supposing lost 1789, 50

LOSS.

All speakers, yet all language at a $l.\ H.\ 345$ To prove that without Christ all gain is l. H. 631 So down he came; for l. of time J.G. 53 Yet l. of pence, full well he knew J.G. 55 The l. was his alone M. i 10 O'er Murray's l. the Muses wept M. ii 5 Bewildered once, must be bewail his l. P.E. 612 That purity, whose l. was l. of all T. iii 84 Compensating his l. with added hours T. iv 134 Of rural scenes, compensating his l. T. iv 768 And pity for her l. But that's a cause T. v 370 To France than all her l. and defeats T. v 380 [457] With all thy l. of empire, and though squeezed T. vWould not reproach me with the l. I felt T. v 490 Fortune and dignity; the l. of all T. v 602 To meaner music, and not suffer l. T. vi 750As God's expedient to retrieve his l. Tir. 166 With l. of what she least could spare 1789, 38

LOST.

"The marriage bond has l. its power to bind A.T. 101 In hopes to gain, what else I must have l. Ch. 630 With one he stumbled on, and l. his walk Con. 280 Recovering what we l. we know not how Con. 402 That in the valley of decline are l. Con. 636 Now wantoned l, in flags and reeds D.W.9But ah! 'tis l. as soon as found E. iv 58 For then he l. his fear Ep. ii 26 No longer Levites, and their lineage $l. Ex. 264 \lceil 578 \rceil$ "What tidings?" and the surge replied, "All l.!" Ex. Youth l. in dissipation, we deplore H. 23 When captivating lusts have l. their power H. 216 Both may be l., yet each in his own way H. 277 Was-welladay, the title page was l. H. 428 If then, just then, all thoughts of mercy l. H. 722 Or all the toil is l. H.F. 24 He l. them sooner than at first J.G. 211 And, next, commemorating worthies l. J.T. 3 To arge the fruitless chase be l. Mor. 42 Affectionate, a mother l. so long M.P. 14 [M.P. 103 Sails ripped, seams opening wide, and compass l. And being l., perhaps, and wandering wide N.A.97Remarks two loiterers that have l. their way P.E. 386 L, till he tune them, all their power and use R. 330 In Freedom l. so long, now repossessed R. 410

The spot he loved has l, the power to please R, 466 Pants to be told of battles won or l. R. 476 Lucrative offices are seldom l. R. 611L. by abandoning her own relief R.758That whatsoever thing is l. R.C. 96 Has l. its beauties and its powers S. 16 His ship half foundered, and his compass l. T. 2 Despise the plain direction, and are l. T. 33For though the Pope has l. his interest here T. 289 He, l. in errors his vain heart prefers T. 335 One pleasure l., lose heaven without regret T. 342 Restore to man the glories he has l. T. 398 "And is the soul indeed so l."—she cries T. 479 Ten thousand sages l. in endless wee T. 517 There, l. behind a rising ground, the wood T. i 305 By short transition we have l. his glare T. i 336 L. nothing by comparison with ours? T. i 648 True, we have l. an empire—let it pass T. ii 263 That l. in his own musings, happy man! T. ii 301 L. favour back again, and closed the breach T. ii 724 And specious semblances have l, their use T, iii 107 Each in his own delusions; they are $l.\ T.$ iii 125 Has made at last familiar; she has l. T. iii 339 Distempered, or has l. prolific powers T. iii 415 And purified, rejoices to have l. T. iii 500 L. innocence, or cancel follies past T. iii 678 In which all comprehension wanders l. T. iv 75 Has l. its terrors ere it reaches me T. iv 101 Were tasked to his full strength, absorbed and l. T.ivThere sit, involved and l. in curling clouds T. iv 472 The character is l.! T. iv 539 Is seen no more. But with his clumsy port the wretch has l. T. iv 650 The joy half l., because not sooner found T. iv 717 For a l. world in solitude and verse T. iv 730 The streams are l. amid the splendid blank T. v 96 Of his l. bees to her maternal ear T. v 137 And if I must bewail the blessing l. T. v 485In the l. kind, extracting from the lips T. v 701 Which whose sees no longer wanders l. T. v 847 From thee departing, they are l., and rove T. v 898 Of poetry not l., if verse of mine T. vi 726 [T. vi 146 Shall boast new charms, and more than they have l. A quickness, which in later life is l. Tir. 110 What sums he l. at play, and how he sold Tir. 330 Feels all his happiest privileges l. Tir. 574 Of filial frankness l., and love grown faint Tir. 588 L. without thee the ennobling powers of verse T.T.291 Bespeaks a land, once Christian, fallen and l.T.T.428 And view with tears the expected harvest l. V. 57 And one of pigs that he has l. Y.D. 55Who losing, or supposing l. 1789, 50

LOT.

And reconciles man to his l. A.S. 56"Feel all the meanness of your clavish l. A.T. 112 Oh fond attempt to give a deathless l. B.B. 1May it still be her l, to possess C. 43 Ah! be not sad, although thy l. be cast E. ii 41 That fed the flocks and herds of wealthy L. Ex. 419 Compliance with his will your l. ensures H. 326 Of all it ever was my l. to read H. 425 And yet our l, is given us in a land H. 439 And should my future l. be cast M. 49 In common to the l. of all M.F. 42 I learned at last submission to my l. M.P. 44 Beyond the happiest l. O. i 22That never ought to be the l. of man P.E. 603 'Tis wild good nature's never failing l. R. 582 And oh! that humble as my l. St. i 29That, soon or late, death also is your l. St. ii 35 Hard l, of man, to toil for the reward T. 11 Receives no praise, but though her l. be such T. 325 Possess for me their undisputed l. T. 527

From rickets and distortion, else our l. T. ii 592 With eyes of anguish, execrate their l. T. ii 665 Against the law of love, to measure l. T. iv 337 Tis therefore, many whose sequestered $l.\ T.\ v\ 522$ God drave asunder, and assigned their $l.\ T.\ v\ 198$ And dint of genius, to an affluent l. T.T. 677And scorn thy present l. The Doves 32 Kings, then at last, have but the l. of all T.T. 107 The great and little of thy l., thy growth Y.O. 87 LOTHARIO.

L. cries, "What philosophic stuff! H. 28 LOTION.

Her form with dress and l. they repair P.E. 299 LOUD.

If lawyer, l. whatever cause he plead H. 201 As l, as he could bawl J.G. 112 Did sing most l. and clear J.G. 204 Sordid as active, ignorant as l. R. 22 The l. demand, from year to year the same R. 709 In still repeated circles screaming $l.\ T.\ 204$ [iii 740 And thundering l., with his ten thousand wheels PT. Thrown up by wintry torrents roaring l. T. i 14These speak a l. memento. Yet even these T. i 482 L. when they beg, dumb only when they steal T.i 573 And the l. laugh -I long to know them all T. iv 33 And while the bubbling and l. hissing urn T. iv 38 And he that kneads the dough; all l. alike T. iv 477 Designed by l. declaimers on the part T. v 498 That scruple checks him. Riot is not l. T. v 614 A l. Hosanna sent from all thy works T. v 888 Now pealing l. again, and louder still T. vi 9 [490 The strings are swept with such a power, so l. T.T. Urged l. a claim to be rehearsed 1789, 14 LOUDER.

A l. voice than yours I heard B.R. 3 Now pealing loud again, and l. still T. vi 9 LOUDEST.

(For stormy troubles l. roar Mrs. M— 47 Heedless of his l. lay St. iv 3 Be l. in their praise who do no more T. ii 314 [650] "Nay—conduct hath the l. tongue. The voice T. v

LOUDLY.

L. resent the stranger's freedom there H. 354 These call him l. to pursuit of more P.E. 50 And l. wondering at the sudden change T. iv 451 LOUT.

If after all, some headstrong hardy l. H. 314

Society, Friendship, and L.—A.S. 17 As ever earned a lady's l. in fight A.T. 2
'Tis thus the tenderness that l. inspires A.T. 29 They wept the wrongs of honourable l. A.T. 98 L. graced the theme, and harmony the song A.T. 198 Of never-failing l. A Tale 52Instruct us how to l.! A Tale 80 'Tis Nature alone that we l. C. 36 Whether we name thee Charity or L.-Ch. 3 Through fear, not l.; and Heaven abhors the fee $\bar{C}h$. A herald of God's l. to pagan lands Ch. 136 Of her he l., and never can forget Ch. 146 Can quell the l. of freedom in a horse Ch. 172 And L. Divine has paid one price for all Ch. 205 The occasion of transmuting fear to l.? Ch. 225 While Gratitude and L, made service sweet Ch, 233 Whose L knew no beginning, knows no end Ch . 400 The Truth she l. a sightless world blaspheme Ch. 416 Not less effectual than what L. bestows Ch. 483 Implies no trespass against L. Divine) Ch. 488

Fed by the L, from which it rose at first Ch. 574 Spreads wide her arms of universal l. Ch. 596 [604 Were L., in these the world's last doting years Ch. A vehicle of virtue, truth, and l. Ch. 624 The emphatic speaker dearly $\it l$. to oppose Con. 269 An absent friend's fidelity and l. Con. 308 Fruits of his l. and wonders of his might Con. 473 That man should l, his Maker, and that fire Con. 483 That l. of Christ in all its quickening power Con. 562 To supplicate his mercy, l. his ways Con. 661 Concludes his unfeigned l. of him, a feint Con. 748 And all her l. of God a groundless claim Con. 781 To show a l. as prompt as thine D.W. 43 By long fidelity and l. E. i 104 How slow to learn the dictates of his L. E. ii 20 Those breathed from lips of everlasting l. E. ii 30 As if not L, but Wrath, had brought Him down Ez.132So rich an interest in Almighty l. ? Ex. 166 Their leader armed with meekness, zeal, and l. Ez. Their usefulness ensured by zeal and l. Ez. 443 Hour after hour, thy gratitude and l. Ex. 561 Their l. is so precarious F. 114 Designed, in honour of his endless l. H. 121 His names of wisdom, goodness, power, and L. H. Incurs resentment for the l. he shows H. 285 L. is not pedler's trumpery, bought and sold H. 330 Because the deed, by which his l. confirms H, 324 Can see his l., though secret evil lurks H. 544 Paul's l. of Christ, and steadiness unbribed H. 580 And all the l. of the beloved John H. 625 Friendship and L. seem tenderly at strife H. 680 To him whose works bespeak his nature, L.-J.T.46Some l. a concert or a race L.W. 31 And still to l., though pressed with ill M. 41 The L. that cheers life's latest stage M.F. 49 Shows L, to be a mere profession M.F. 60The jocund L, in Hymen's band Miss - 73Whate'er you wish or l., Miss - 96 Thy constant flow of l., that knew no fall M.P. 65 In wedded l. already blest N.Y.G. 11 By pity, sympathy, and l. P. 62 If L. reward him, or if Vengeance strike P.E. 31 L. makes the music of the blest above P.E. 77 Heaven's harmony is universal l. P.E. 78 L., joy, and peace make harmony more meet $P\mathcal{I}$. That virtue has a title to your l. P.E. 248 Assembled on affairs of l. P.T. 14How much the object of her l. Q.V. 31Save l. of George alone Q.V. 64 Remind him of his Maker's power and l. R. 30[16] Sealed with his signet whom they serve and l. R. The l, of change that lives in every breast R. 171 So L., that clings around the noblest minds R. 235 And forms it to the taste of her he l. R. 238The l. of virtue, and the fear of God! R. 730 'Tis l. like his that can alone defeat R. 781 But l. of change, it seems, has place R. C. 21 His l., as best we may St. vi 6 Or, if a chain, the golden one of l. T. 188 Has he a world of gratitude and l. P T. 208 The work of generous l. and filial fear T. 226 Shows them the shortest way to life and l. T. 371 O that unwelcome voice of heavenly l. T. 463 Some l. of virtue, and some power to praise T. 496 The atonement a Redeemer's l. has wrought T. 505 He bids him glow with unremitting l. T. 557 [446 Fast locked in mine, with pleasure such as L.-T. Reproach their owner with that l. of rest T. i 394 To which he forfeits even the rest he I. T. i 395 The l. of Nature, and the scenes she draws T. i 412

Unless a l. of virtue light the flame Ch. 491

Perhaps, enchanted with the l. of fame Ch. 539 Nor spring from l. to God, or l. to man Ch. 560

Themselves l. life, and cling to it, as he T. i 483 They l. it, and yet loathe it; fear to die T. i 485 Not senseless of its charms, what still we l. T. i 516 A serving-maid was she, and fell in l. T. i 537Thee, gentle savage! whom no l, of thee T, i 633 And brethren in calamity should $l. T. ii 74 \lceil T. ii 209$ Shall be constrained to i. thee. Though thy clime England. with all thy faults, I l. thee still T. ii 206 Reflect dishonour on the land I l. T. ii 224 [T. ii 230 And I. when they should fight; when such as these By infidelity and l. o' the world T. ii 389 [ii 543 Preach it who might. Such was their l. of truth T. With show of l., at least with hopeful proof T. ii 558 Paternal sweetness, dignity, and l. T. ii 708 And mortifies the liberal hand of l. T. ii 757 And finding in the calm of truth-tried l. T. iii 56 That feels for injured l.! but I disdain T. iii 66 In the pure fountain of eternal l. T. iii 244 They l. the country, and none else, who seek T. iii Thine unsuspecting gratitude and l. T. iii 348 Who L a garden, l. a greenhouse too T. iii 566 [619 Would spare, that l. them, offices like these?) T. iii Scenes that I l., and with regret perceive T. iii 710 Abandoned as unworthy of our l. T. iii 731 A moment's operation on his l. T. iii 793 Much that I L, and more that I admire T. iii 838 I l. thee, all unlovely as thou seem'st T iv 128 Exciting oft our gratitude and l. T. iv 182 Fruits of omnipotent eternal l. T. iv 188 That I, and mine, and those we l., enjoy T. iv 193 Against the law of l., to measure lots T. iv 387 Nor comfort else, but in their mutual l. T. iv 406And wrongs the woman he has sworn to l.! T. iv 465'Tis born with all: the l. of Nature's works T. iv 731 We too are friends to loyalty. We l. T. v 331 The king who l. the law, respects his bounds T. \vee 332 Mark now the difference, ye that boast your l. T. v 346We l. the man; the paltry pageant you T. v 348 Our l. is principle, and has its root T. v 353 Where l is mere attachment to the throne T v 331 Yet being free, I l. thee: for the sake T. \vee 473 Where private was not? Can he l. the whole T. v 503 Who l. no part? He be a nation's friend T. v 504 Not so the labours of his l.: they shine T. v 570 By weakness, and hostility by l. T. v 703With worthy thoughts of that unwearied L.-"L. kindles as I gaze. I feel desires T. v 842 Made such by thee, we l. thee for that cause T. v 881Was but the graver countenance of l. T. vi 32 [324 To l. and friendship both, that is not pleased \bar{T} . vi And own, the law of universal l. T. vi 360 All, in the universal Father's l. T. vi 449 Ye. therefore, who l. mercy, teach your sons T. vi To l. it too. The spring-time of our years T. vi 589 Propitions in his chariot paved with l. T. vi 744 But all is harmony and l. Disease T. vi 788 With lean performance ape the work of L.! T. vi 854Dipped in the fountain of eternal l. T. vi 863 [885] Blind, and in l. with darkness! Yet e'en these T. vi And heard the voice of l. The Doves 6 Opposed against the pleasures Nature l! Tir. 170 And some street-pacing harlot his first 7. Tir. 217 We l. the playplace of our early days Tir. 297 If l. by absence chilled into respect Tir. 576 If filial frankness lost, and l. grown faint Tir. 588 The force of discipline when backed by I. Tir. 681 That any thing but vice could win thy l. Tir. 742 With close fidelity and l. unfeigned T.T. 73 But he that l. him has no need to feign T.T. 90 so doubt the l. his favourites may pretend T.T.159 atriots, who l. good places at their hearts T.T. 191 Fis found as everlasting as his l. T.T. 595 [T.T. 461 lut nothing scares them, from the course they l.

Inspires the song, and that his name is L.-T.T.739 As that of true fraternal l.U.12 That sanguine inexperience l. to make V.56 A thousand ways the force of genuine l.V.62 Faithless alike in friendship and in l.V.72 Such Mary's true l., that has lived W.N.19 [154 With l. and wisdom, rendered back to heaven Y.O.

He L them both, but both in vain Cast. 11 While Cook is l. for savage lives he saved Ch. 39 For Africa's once l., benighted shore Ch. 241 [511 They spake of him they l., of him whose life Con. But to treat justly what he l. so well Con. 624 Whereon he l. to bound Ep. ii 22 Returned them happy to the land they l. Ex. 76 He l. the world that hated him: the tear H. 574 To hold the liquor that she l. J.G. 67 And l. a timely joke J.G. 170 Reviled and l., renounced and followed L.W. 33 So little to be I., and thou so much M.P. 85 And thy l. consort on the dangerous tide M, P. 98 Whate'er I l. before O. ii 21 Men l. their own productions long ago P.E. 527 Was l. by all beside Q.V. 32 The spot he l. has lost the power to please R. 463 Lived in his saddle, l. the chase, the course R. 577 He hated, hoped, and l. St. iii 22 For I have l, the rural walk through lanes T, i 1(9) Of thorny boughs: have l, the rural walk T, i 112 And all were swift to follow whom all l. T. ii 251 Was sacred, and was honoured, l, and wept T. ii 786 Thee too enamoured of the life I l. T iv 718 And for a time ensure, to his l. land T. v 716

L. not the light, but, gloomy, into gloom Y.O. 14 LOVE-DITTY.

We l., but not enough, the gentle hand T. vi 37

They fear'd, and as his perfect image l. T. vi 400

His long l, for my near approach T, vi 809

I disregard as much as once I l. V. 8

LOVELIER.

But Nature's works far l. I admire T. i 421

LOVELIEST.

Earth seems a garden in its l. dress Her. 57 The richest scenery and the l. forms T. i 711 Still wants a grace, the l. it could show T. iii 782

LOVELY.

Beheld with joy the l. scene defaced Ex. 426

Sweet scent, or l. form, or both combined H. 290 Appeared two l. foes L.R. 6
And still more l. in my sight M. 26
With me is to be l. still M. 43
But l. Spring peeps o'er his head N. 15
And woman, l. woman, does the same P.E. 274
Nature assuming a more l. face R. 357
Sorawled upon glass Miss Bridget's l. name T. 156
L. indeed the mimic works of Art T. i 420
Prospects, however l., may be seen T. i 509
How l., and the moral sense how sure T. v 673
Among her l. works with a secure T. vi 722 [654
Would make him—what some l. boys have been Tir.
Thus l. halcyons dive into the main T.T. 566

LOVER.

Nor soft enough to suit a l.'s tongue A.T. 20 That fills the listening l. with delight Con. 446 Where Venus hears the l.'s tender vow Con. 824 The L. too shuns business and alarms R. 219 And l., of all creatures, tame or wild R. 251

With transports such as favoured l. feel T. iv 721 From labour; and the l., who has chid T. v 412

LOVEST.

Upheld by two; yet still thou l. M. 39

LOVING.

If a man must be scolded for l, his own A.T. ii 12 Yet parent of this l. pair A Tale 67 John Gilpin kissed his l. wife J.G. 29 At Edmonton, his l. wife J.G. 141

Him answered then his l. mate and true N.A. 105

LOW.

L. in the pits thine avarice has made Ch. 72 The practice dastardly, and mean and l. Con. 178 Verse cannot stoop so l. as thy desert Ex. 547 His recking head full l. J.G. 122 [H. 312 That all might mark—knight, menial, high, and l.

'Twas my distress that brought thee i. M. 7 Then, with a voice exceeding l. M.F. 29 Which breathes the l. desire Miss - 10[N.A. 25

With tails high mounted, ears hung l., and throats Let no l. thought suggest the prayer Miss-65But which, when life at ebb runs weak and l. R. 3 With handkerchief in hand depending l. T. ii 450

In the l. vale of life, that early felt T. iv 799 Careless of their Creator. And that l. T. v 587 L. in the world, because he scorns its arts Tir. 672 To dally much with subjects mean and l. T.T. 544 By l, ambition and the thirst of praise T.T. 591 Who, born a gentleman, has stooped too l. V. 33

LOWER.

[vi 33 You fall at once into a l. key Con. 329 Whose favour, like the clouds of spring, might l. T. But if you please, some fathoms l. down T. 170 They sink and settle l. than they need T. v 249

He hears the thunder ere the tempest l. T.T. 496 LOWERING.

With disappointment l. in his eyes H. 2 The L eye, the petulance, the frown T. i 456

LOWEST.

Turn downward, and the l. pair succeed H. 14 Sir Smug," he cries (for l. at the board H. 413 The l. first, and without stop R.C. 93 The licence of the l. in degree T. iv 588 Sells caths by tale, and at the l. price T.T. 419

LOWLY. And I must ere long lie as l. as they P.F. 14 High in demand, though l. in pretence T. 93 And l. creeping, modest and yet fair T. iii 663

And all the comforts that the l. roof T. iv 141

LOW-ROOFED. I called the l. lodge the Peasant's nest T. i 227

LOWTH.

We sometimes see a L. or Bagot there Tir. 435

LOYAL.

The simple clerk, but l., did announce T. vi 661

LOYALTY.

Then L., with all her lamps Q.V.5We too are friends to l. We love T. v 331Of kings, between your l. and ours T. v 347

LUBBARD. Of l. Labour needs his watchful eye T. iii 400

Meanders l. the course they take T. iv 65

LUBBICATED.

The shapely limb and l, joint R, 57 LUBRICITY.

The same l. was found in all T. v 165 LUCID. A l. mirror, in which Nature sees T. i 701

Coincident, exhibit l. proof T. ii 374 That shows by night a l. beam Trans. i 3

LUCK.

How he was flogged, or had the l. to escape Tw. 329 LUCKLESS. Ah! l. speech, and bootless boast J.G. 201 Patron of all those l. brains O. i 1

LUCKY.

Gives him at length the l. pat E. iv 55 LUCRATIVE.

L. offices are seldom lost R. 611 In l. concerns. Examine well T. iv 606

Though motives of mere l. sway the most Tw. 518

LUCULLUS. Our habits, costlier than L. wore T. ii 596

LUDICROUS. Me oft has Fancy, l. and wild T. iv 286

LUGGING.

Each l. out his bag Y.D. 52 LULL.

To l. the painful malady with alms Ch. 448 And l. the spirit while they fill the mind T. i 187

Is like a nurse's l. at night Con. 242 Exclaimed, "that me, the l. of age T. vi 506

Thus, while gray evening l, the wind and called F.A.

And l. by her own humdrum song R.C. 46 That winds and waters, l. by magic sounds T. ii 261

LUMBER.

Like useless l., or a stroller's song Com. 820 In Albion's happy isle. The l. stood T. i 58 Was l. in an age so void of taste T.T. 619 LUMBERING.

The l, of the wheels J, G, 232

News from all nations L at his back T. iv 7

LUMINOUS.

Though fair without, and l. within Ch. 343 Could you, though l. your eye E. i 69
The gem, though l. before Mrs. M — 33 The parallax of yonder l. point T. iii 215 LUMP.

Flings at your head conviction in the l. Com. 153 LUMPISH.

And l, still as ever Y.D. 46

LUNACY.

And l, the verdict of the court T. 448 Such l. is ignorance alone T. 450

·LUNG.

Of demons uttered, from whatever l. N.A. 118 That play of l., inhaling and again T. i 137 Slaves cannot breathe in England; if their l. T. ii 40 hould ever tease the l. and blear the sight T. iii 168 o range the fields and treat their l. with air T. iv 772

LURCHER.

nd tail cropped short, half l, and half cur T. \forall 46

LURE.

e monarchs, whom the l. of honour draws Her. 41 iscern the fraud, beneath the specious l. P.E. 17 he l. of avarice, or the pompous prize R. 177 et deemed oracular, l. down to death T. v 868 o l. me to the baseness of a lie T.T. 85 spicion l. not in her artless breast Ch. 426 mere disguise, in which a devil l. Con. 79 pares in his path, and foes that l. within Con. 470 in see his love, though secret evil l. H. 544 ell where she l, beneath what flowery shades P.E. in the serpent now; the mother sees T. vi 778 me snesking virtue l. in him, no doubt Tir. 244 the contagion chiefly to be feared Tir. 689

LURKED.

he croaking nuisance l. in every nook T. ii 830 o cruel purpose l. within his heart T. vi 362

LURKING.

nd finds Hypocrisy close l. there Con. 746

LUST.

or making speech the pamperer of l. Con. 48 nd he grown chaste that was the soul of l. Con. 810 e saw his people slaves to every l. Ez. 55 r, waking at the call of l. alone Ex. 101 o punish l., or pluck presumption down Ex. 250 o vanquish l., and wear its yoke no more Ex. 411 hemselves the slaves of bigotry or l. Ex. 529ben captivating l. have lost their power H. 216 appetite, or what divines call l. H. 885 nd reconcile his l. with saving grace H. 605 his only spares no l., admits no plea H. 645 hat then !—are appetites and l. laid down P.E. 102 mbition, avarice, and the l. of fame P.E. 273 nd relish of their pleasure all to l. P.E. 330 ee from the domineering power of L.—P.E. 458 ence the same word, that bids our L obey P.E. 496 r l. engenders, and indulgence feeds R. 644 gross and pampered cities, sloth and l. T. i 687rofusion, deluging a state with l. T. ii 688 y endless riot, Vanity, the L.-T. iii 812 l elements tumultuous, in whom l. T. v 808 Liberty, themselves the slaves of l. T. v 499 clear escape from tyrannising l. T. v 579hat does he not, from l. opposed in vain T. \vee 599 l., and on the anvil of despair T. v 665 [vi 895 ith conscience and with thee. L. in their hearts T. ith every l. with which frail Nature burns Tir. 65 at that effeminacy, folly, l. T.T. 894 ith brutal l. as ever Circe made T.T. 629 Flattery, Folly, L., employ the pen T.T. 761

LUSTRE

tose twinkling, tiny l. of the land B.B. 5 ie stench remains, the l. dies away Con. 678 And thus o'er all a l. cast E. iv 77 nd rival in l. of that Gr. 14 teir l. to his influence owe Mrs. M-54

Give Truth a l., and make Wisdom smile R. 718 Of fleeting life its l. and perfume T. v 447 Who gives its l. to an insect's wing T. v 813 With such a l., he that runs may read Tir. 80

LUSTRE-BEAMING.

With l. eye Miss -- 70

LUSTRUMS.

Some fifty or a hundred l, hence T, ii 579

"Ye fair Circassians! all your l. employ A.T. 107 Ears long accustomed to the pleasing l. Ex. 68

LUXURIANT.

As richest soil the most l. weeds Ex. 214 Shall grow the myrtle, and l. yew" H. 527 Pride has attained its most l. growth T. 115 Bore on his branch, l. then and rude T. 493 Her blossoms; and l. above all T. vi 172 If unrestrained, into l. growth T. vi 593

LUXURIOUS.

In manners—victims of l. ease T. i 625 Nor habits of l. city-life T. iv 745

LUXURY.

She strikes out all that L. can ask Ch. 103 Yet above all, his l. supreme Con. 619 A new-found l., not seen in her? Ex. 6 That Fashion, Taste, or L. suggest H. 446 The l. within Miss — 60 A day of l., observed a right P.E. 164 With indolence and l., is trash P.E. 428 Are l. excelling all the glare R. 185 L. gives the mind a childish cast R. 703 And L, the accomplished Sofa last T, i 88 With l, of unexpected sweets T, i 533 Grudge not, ye rich, (since L. must have T. iii 544 Wealth l., and l. excess T. iv 581 Twas thus till L. seduced the mind T.T. 600 He laid his head in L.'s soft lap T.T. 678

LYING.

Whose I. heart disputes against a God T. v 568

LYMPH.

۲391 Sweet converse, sipping calm the fragrant l. T. iii While summer was, the pure and subtile l. T. vi 135

LYRE

Of his sweet but awful l. B. 36 With her book, and her voice, and her l. C. 49 The painter's pencil, and the poet's l. Ch. 106 Find the sweet l. on which an artist plays Con. 900 Though Phoebus string the l. Miss. The Muses sweep the l. Miss - 84 Still as I touch the l., do thou expand R. 203[iv 160] The sprightly l., whose treasure of sweet sounds T. By magic summons of the Orphean l. T. iii 587 [704 No bard could please me but whose l. was tuned T. iv Theirnames to the sweetl. The Historic Muse T. v 707 And idle tinkling of a minstrel's l. T. vi 1021 The Muse imparts, and can command the l. T.T. 481 He struck the l. in such a careless mood T.T. 686 The poet's l., to fix his fame U. 25 Touched with a coal from Heaven, assume the l.T.T.

Μ.

[381 | "Yes, m.," and "No, m.," uttered soft y, show Con. MACE.

Becomes a dicebox, and a billiard m. T. iv 221

MACHIAVEL.

Might burn his useless M., and sleep Ch. 613

MACHINE.

The new $m_{.}$, and it became a Chair $T_{.}$ i 43 M. themselves, and governed by a clock Tir. 625

As if Cheapside were m. J.G. 44 No judges, sure, were e'er so m. J.P. 25 Who say the mob are m. outright Pat. 19 What! hang a man for going m.! Pat. 23 Charged with the folly of his life's m. scene P.E. 88 Conclusion retrograde, and m. mistake T. iii 239 Commemoration m.; content to hear T. vi 635 [509] Drink and be m. then; 'tis your country bids! T. iv Surpassed in frenzy by the m. at large Tir. 820 [435] "Stop, while ye may; suspend your m. career T.T. With m. rapidity and unconcern T.T. 464

MADAM.

Take, M., the reward of all your prayers T. 167 And how does miss and m. do Y.D. 38

MADE.

[A.C. 14 "Your lordship observes they are m. with a straddle Ye winds that have m. me your sport A.S. 33 That the spectacles plainly were m, for the Nose A. C. And m. her dupes see all things with her eyes A.T.39That man by Faith and Truth is m. a slave A. T. 66 M. half their maids, sans ceremony, wives A.T. 128 The last evening-ramble we m. C. 9He m. at first, though free and unconfined Ch. 17 Low in the pits thine avarice has m. Ch. 72 And m. the mountains tremble at his frown? Ch. 78 So may the wolf, whom famine has m. bold Ch. 184 While Gratitude and Love m. service sweet Ch. 233 Sin forged, and Ignorance m. fast, the chain Ch. 237 And if perhaps m. angry, soon appeared Ch. 429 By softer methods, must be m. ashamed Ch. 498 Having unloaded and m. many stare Con. 230 Calls gentleman whom she has m. a fool Con. 468 And m. so welcome at their simple feast Con. 532 Has m. the new-born creature her abode Con. 754 Is m. subservient to the grand design Con. 897 And m. almost without a meaning $ar{E}$. i 98 [$m{E}$. iii 37 His grief might prompt him with the speech he m. My heart of thoughts that m, it sohe Ep, ii 35 Their prayers m. public, their excesses kept Ex. 143 M. sure by prodigies till then unknown Ex. 174 $\lceil 175 \rceil$ For them, the states they left m. waste and void Ex. And m, the symbols of atoning grace Ex. 378 M. thee at last a warrior like his own Ex. 491 When persecuting zeal m, royal sport Ex, 612 By such a change, thy darkness is m. light Ex. 640 And must be m, the basis F, 57 Some blemish in due time m. known F. 146 And having m. election F. 153 [H. 497 What were they? What some fools are m. by art [H. 497 Such stuff the world is m. of; and mankind H. 211 And he that m. had right to make the law H. 319 Just m. fifth chaplain of his patron lord H. 414 And m, all pleasures else mere dross to me " H. 587

He laughed and trifled, m. him welcome there H. 685 Of him whom Hope has with a touch m. whole H.731 Which m, his horse's flanks to smoke J.G. 127 And m. him faster run J.G. 228 And, though God m. thee of a nature prone J.T. 31 Autumnal rains had m. it chill Mor. 13 [fair P.E. 216 Heaven blessed the youth, and m. him fresh and Thy nightly visits to my chamber m. M.P. 58Should deem it by our old companion m. N.A. 95 The sacred function in your hands is m. P.E. 123 M. nothing but a brute, the slave of sense P.E. 214 In every bosom where her nest is m. P.E. 210 [165 When the glad soul is m. Heaven's welcome guest P.EThe Will m, subject to a lawless force P.E. 448 Where George, recovered, m. a scene Q.V. 27 (Infinite skill) in all that He has m.! R. 52 Earth m. for man, and man himself for him R. 116 With mouths m. only to grin wide and eat R. 309 This observation, as it chanced, not m. R. 463 Enriched with the discoveries ye have m. R. 666 Had m, the vessel heel R.G. 7 Was man (frail always) m. more frail St. i 5 M. all his virtues gewgaws of no price T. 55 But m. long since, like Babylon of old T. 391 Improved the simple plan; m. three legs four I. i But softened into mercy; m. the pledge T. i 365 The Earth was m. so various, that the mind T. i 56 God m. the country, and man m. the town T. i 749 Has m., what enemies could ne'er have done T. 1772 They m. us many soldiers. Chatham, still T. ii 25 Spent all his force, and m. no proselyte) F. ii 321 By nature, or by flattery m. so, taugnt T. ii 546 Finds one ill m., another obsolete T. ii 602 [T. ii 198 Still wrought by means since first He m. the world? Forsaking thee, what shipwreck have we m. T. iii 53 That He who m. it, and revealed its date T. iii 13 Has m. at last familiar; she has lost T. iii 339 [iii 645 Has m. a Heaven on earth; with suns and moons I. That, like the multitude m. faction-mad T. iii 673 M. vocal for the amusement of the rest T. iv 159 That m. them an intruder on their joys T. iv 179 Exposed than others, with less scruple m. T. iv 457 The great proficiency he m. abroad T.iv 654 iv 13 Fringed with a beard, m. white with other snows i. Clean riddance quickly m., one only care T. v 70 (M. by a monarch) on her own estate T. v 171 To a keen edge and m. it bright for war T. v 216 M. others covet what they saw so fair T. v 227 [39 Of virtue, m. one chief, whom times of peace I v For skill in government, at length m. king T. vill The world was m, in vain, if not for him T, $v \ge 71$ And quake before the Gods themselves had m. T. 7 22 Compounded and w. up like other men T. v 307Is m. familiar, watches his approach T. v 423And m, so sparkling what was dark before T. \checkmark 53 Is work for him that m. him. He alone T. v 697 And smiling say—My Father m. them all!" T. v 74M. pure, shall relish with divine delight T. v 783 M, such by thee, we love thee for that cause T, v 3His presence, who m. all so fair, perceived T. vi 23 The new m.monarch, while before him pass'd T.vi 35 So God wrought double justice; m. the fool T. vi 53 Who in his sovereign wisdom m. them all T. vi 5 And thou hast m. it thine by purchase since T. vi & Oh, had he m. that too his prey! T.B. 55 [vi 60] When time hath somewhat mellow'd it, and m. Received his nobler nature, and was m. Tir. 97 [13] Who m., who marred, and who has ransomed man I'm

M. just the adept that you designed your son Tir. 237 Say, muse (for education m. the song Tir. 290 He had not m. his own with more address Tir. 582 Great lawyers, lawyers without study m. Tir. 822 'Tis your belief the world was m. for man T.T. 47 Vigilant over all that he has m. T.T. 248Who think, or seem to think, man m. for them T.T. Stamps God's own name upon a lie just m. T.T. 420 That m. the vaulted roofs of Pleasure ring T.T. 625 With brutal lust as ever Circe m. T.T. 629 [Tir. 129 Points, which, unless the Scripture m. them plain M. poetry a mere mechanic art T.T. 654 [Tir. 231 Transport them, and are m. their favourite themes M. you a Peer, but spoiled you for a friend! V. 14 Born from above and m. divinely wise V. 94 Oh! why are farmers m. so coarse Y.D. 61 Or clergy m. so fine? Y.D. 62 [50 Time m. thee what thou wast, king of the woods Y.O. And Time hath m, thee what thou art—a cave Y. 0.51 By man performed, m. all the forest ring Y.O. 109

Is m. to forget that life is short Con. 772 Nor do we m., like an impious world T. iv 177

MADMAN.

Can be secure against a m.'s thrust Ch. 510 On Reason's verdict is a m.'s deed Con. 190 Shall stand proscribed, a m. or a knave Con. 476 Pushed with a m.'s fury. Fancy shrinks T. vi 513

MADNESS.

And wild as m. in the world's esteem Con. 666 And sucked in dizzy m, with his draught H, 518 And laughter sounds like m. in his ear H. 703 The sin and m. of mankind P.B. 14 Even Bacchanalian m. has its charms P.E. 56 Sorrow might muse herself to m. then T. 441 They would be, were not m. in the head T. iii 741 To m.; while the savage at his heels T. vi 422

One m. of theirs is worth them all T.T. 767

MAGGOT.

In fly-blown flesh, whereon the m. feeds Con. 676 And suck, and leave a craving m. there! P.E. 326 By m. at the tail Y.D. 56

MAGIC.

Hypothesis (for with such m. power A.T. 91 But Rome, with sorceries and m. wand Ex. 508 And all thy threads with m. art M. 18 Then with his silver beard and m. wand P.E. 183 But other m, there, she knew Q.V. 61 The fiercest animals with m. charms) R. 254 Of other's speech, but m, of thy own S, i 14 Whence has the world her m. power? St. v 17 None more admires, the painter's m. skill T. i 422 That winds and waters, lulled by m. sounds T. ii 261 With m. wand. So potent is the spell T. ii 630 By m. summons of the Orphean lyre T. iii 587 By which the m. art of shrewder wits T. vi 99 Works m. wonders, adds a brighter hue Tir. 23

MAGICIAN.

And seemed by some m.'s art Q.V.59The omnipotent m., Brown, appears! T. iii 766

MAGISTERIAL.

He hides behind a m. air Ch. 493 The m. sword in vain, and lays T. iv 596

MAGISTRATES.

Let m. alert perform their parts T.T. 311

MAGNANIMITY.

Thy m. in fight M.B. 19 Thy m. display Trans. H. 32 By silent m. alone T.T. 68

Touched with the m., had attracted his Con. 272 That his example had a m's force T. ii 250

MAGNIFICENT.

The song m., the theme a worm! T. 412 Of her m. and awful cause? T. ii 232 Thy most m. and mighty freak T. v 130 And yet m.—a God the theme! T.T. 593 Slow, into such m. decay Y.O. 90

MAGNIFIED.

And m, beyond all human size T, iv 542

MAGNIFIES.

Each vainly m. his own success Tir. 476

MAGNITUDE.

Of such m, and weight St, iv 22 All distance, motion, m., and now T. i 717

MAHOMET.

Such M.'s mysterious charge L.W. 7

MAHOMETANS. M. eat up the hog L. W. 22

MAID.

"Now is the time to make the m. a bride!" A.T. 69 Made half their m., sans ceremony, wives A.T. 128 Apt emblem of a virtuous m. Comp. ii 2 Adorning May, that prevish m. J.P. 35 Come, then fair m. (in nature wise) Miss — 13 And you, fond m., approve Miss -The m. who views with pensive air P.B. 23 "Then came the m., and it was closed R.C. 58 Belinda's m. are soon preferred Trans. iv 7

MAIDEN.

Then sang the married and the m, throng A.T. 197 Thy m. grieved themselves at my concern M.P. 36 Like a coy m., Ease, when courted most T. i 409 To break some m.'s and his mother's heart T. iv 656 To gaze in his eyes and bless him. M. wave T. vi 699

If the new m, thy merchants now receive Ex, 606 MAIN.

Thou self-entitled ruler of the m. Ez. 549 To prove at last my m. intent F. 139 Crossing in your barks the m. N.C. 44 And plough the distant m. R.G. 32But was a wholesome rigour in the m. T. iii 82 For dissolution, hurtful to the m. T. iv 675 From inland regions to the distant m. T. \vee 790 But truths on which depends our m. concern Tir. 77 Thus lovely haloyons dive into the m. T.T. 566

MAINLY.

And anxious m. that the flock he feeds T. ii 404 MAINMAST.

Not sounder he that on the m. head R. 431

MAINTAIN.

But Fate reserved Sir Airy to m. A.T. 56 Man to m., and such as God approves Con. 538 What dotage will not vanity m.? Ev. 628 Yet half mankind m. a churlish strife H. 322 No blinder bigot, I m. it still H. 594 She thus m. divided sway Mrs. M— 51 That Nature rides upon, m. her health T. i 369 M. its hold with such unfailing sway Tir. 316 Or tell me, if you can, what power m. T.T. 200 MAINTAINED.

Had they m. allegiance firm and sure Ex. 207 By which the mighty process is m. T. vi 225

MAINTAINING.

M. yours, you cannot theirs condemn T.T. 49

MAJESTIC.

M. in its own simplicity T. 27 In nature, from the broad m. oak T. vi 250 No bard, howe'er m., old or new T.T. 180

MAJESTY.

MAJESTI.

Would mock the m. of man's high birth R. 71

Much of the power and m. of God R. 526

A monarch clothed with m. and awe T. 405

With all its m. of thundering pomp T. iv 686

And crown'd it with the m. of man Tw. 52

The fleeting forms of m. engage T.T. 117

While condescending M. looks on T.T. 138

For a man to m. free with another man's wife A.T. "Now is the time to m. the maid a bride!" A.T. 69 Who seeks to praise thee, and to m. thee known Ch. 9 No.—Mammon m. the world his legatee Ch. 45 [244 Some men m. gain a fountain, whence proceeds Ch. That man m. man his prey, because he must Ch. 197 Who m. some rich for the supply of all Ch. 251 M. wisdom, worthy of the name, his own Ch. 350 They cannot give it, or m. darkness light Ch. 388 She m. excuses where she might condemn Ch. 424 And injured, m. forgiveness her delight Ch. 431 That brass and steel should m. so fine a show Ch. 554 To m. the shining prodigy complete Ch. 602 That Zeal, not Vanity, has chanced to m. Ch. 635 M. contradiction such a hopeless case Con. 60 And m. colloquial happiness your care Con. 82 To brush the surface, and to m. it flow Con. 102 Knots and impediments m. something hitch Con. 108 He m. one useful point exceeding clear Con. 136 The repetition m. attention lame Con. 21 M. half a sentence at a time enough Con. 246 But we that m. no honey, though we sting Con. 289 What m. some sick, and others à-la-mort Con. 292 To m. a blaze—that's roasting him alive Con. 834 The fear of being silent m. us mute Con. 352 Or m. the parrot's mimicry his choice Con. 449 That m. seas stable, and dissolves the rock Con. 502 Or m. that fiction which was once a fact? Con. 550 Who m. no bustle with his soul's affairs Con. 580 And purifying, m. it shine the more Con. 598 And m. it brightest at its latest date Con. 604 Mellows and \bar{m} , the speech more fit for use Con. 644 And, with a fearless confidence, m. known Con. 695 M. him athletic as in days of old Con. 841 M. every parish but their own their home Con. 860 And grins with wonder at the jar he m. Con. 902 Will m, the dark enigma clear E, i 54 A life of ease would m, them harder still E, ii 22 M. cruel inroads in my brain E. iv 16 Which m. that Heaven, if thou desire it thine Ex. 687 M. Justice still the guide of his career Es. 715 Will seldom scruple to m. free F. 92 And m. a calm of human life F. 134 The Saviour's history m. known F. 206 Too many, yet too few to m. us wise H. 26 To m, the sun a bauble without use H. 81 By good vouchsafed m. known superior good H. 147 That m. superior skill his second praise H. 206 And he that made had right to m, the law H. 319 M. works a vain ingredient in the case H. 360

Who m, the good Creator on their plan H. 383 From happier scenes, to m. your land a prey H. 478 But m. him, if at all, completely free H. 646 Parent of Hope, immortal Truth! m. known H. 663 Must spring that Hope he pants to m. his own H.709 To m. his balance true J.G.72"Shall m. your scribbling fingers ache J.P. 39 Thy bounties all were Christian, and I m. J.T. 47May m. you laugh on t'other side L, W. 24 Each thinks his neighbour m. too free L. W. 35 "I go to m. Freemen of Slaves" M.D. 16 M. answer quite beside the mark M.F. 10 What shall I do to m. you hear?" M.F. 18 That humour interposed too often m. M.P. 67 Adds joy to duty, m. me glad to pay M.P. 70 'Gan m. his instrument of music speak N.A. 44 M. the plant for which we toil? N.C. 18 Who studiously m, peace their aim N.G. 36 Return and m, thy downy nest O, ii 2 The Heaven that thou alone canst m.? O. ii 14 To m, them grow just where she chooses P. 24 Love m. the music of the blest above P.E. 77 Love, joy, and peace m. harmony more meet P.E. 140 Then to the dance, and m. the sober moon P.E. 173 But he can draw a pattern, m. a tart P.E. 195 That m. Italian flowers so sweet and fair P.E. 410 Diffused, m. Earth the vestibule of Hell P.E. 465 From every hair-brained proselyte he m. P.E. 491 Soothe thee to m. thee but a surer prey R. 263 [67 Whose shape would m. them, had they bulk and size R. No cure for such, till God who m them heals R. 342 And m, the course he recommends my choice R. 383 And ignorance of better things m. man R. 503 Beggars Invention, and m. Fancy lame R. 710 Give Truth a lustre, and m. Wisdom smile R. 718 Tis manly music, such as martyrs m. R. 775 The foes of man, or m. a desert sweet R. 782 M. us learn that we must die St. iv 36 To m. his precepts our delight St. vi 7 Of ancient growth, m. music not unlike T. 185 And, proud to m, his firm attachment known T.219To Justice she may m. her bold appeal T. 498 Respiring freely the fresh air, that m. T. i 138If Solitude m. scant the means of life T. i 248 That palls and satiates, and m. Isoguid life T. i 464 Beguile their woes, and m. the woods resound T. i586 That can alone m. sweet the bitter draught T. i 751 M, enemies of nations who had else T, ii 18 Or heals it, m. it languish or rejoice T. ii 70 And in the furious inquest that it m. T. ii 135 Or m. his house his grave; nor so content T. ii 147 To m. God's work a sinecure; a slave T. ii 390 Now m. our own. Posterity will ask T. ii 577 M. just reprisals, and with cringe and shrug T. ii 645 M. men mere vermin, worthy to be trapped T. ii 683 Feeds a blue flame, and m. a cheerful hearth T. iii 33 That m. a minister in holy things T. iii 280 [iii 433 M. needful still; whose Spring is but the child T. That metropolitan volcanoes m. T. iii 737 And wanton vagrants, as m. London, vast T. iii 833 And avarioe that m. man a wolf to man T. iv 103 Or m. me so. Composure is thy gift T. iv 260 I slight thee not, but m. thee welcome still T. iv 266 That law has licensed, as m. temperance reel T. iv 471As meal and larded locks can m. him; wears T. iv 643 And m, thy marble of the glassy wave T, v 134 Than water interfused to m, them one T, v, 148 And m, the sorrows of mankind their sport T. v 186 Moves indignation, m. the name of king T. v 443 That can ennoble man, and m. frail life T. \vee 603 "Dishonours God, and m. a slave of man T. v 643 Charm the deaf serpent wisely. M. him here T. v671 Grace m. the slave a freeman. 'Tis a change T. v689 rings its own evil with it, m. it less T. v 770 hat whom it teaches it m. prompt to learn T. v 859 nd m. the world the wilderness it is T. vi 53 [876 ods such as guilt m. welcome; gods that sleep T. v n agercy divine, to m. him know T. vi 129 . wintry music, sighing as it goes T. vi 143 . more conspicuous, and illumines more T. vi 175 heavenly truth; evincing, as she m. T. vi 183 nat m. so gay the solitary place T. vi 187. all still fairer. As with him no scene T. vi 254 egardless of their plaints. To m. him sport T.vi 386 nd m. the task his own. Inspiring dumb T. vi 474 \mathbf{modern} eyes), shall m. the doctrine clear T. vi 482ne m. familiar with a Heaven unseen T. vi 926 nd plenteous harvest, to the prayer he m. T. vi 947 o polish can m. sterling; and that vice T. vi 990 he swains their baskets m. T.B. 30ould m. his fate his choice; whom peace, the fruit e too might m. his author's wisdom clear Tir 100 ay teach the gayest, m. the gravest smile Tir. 138 eligion m. the free by nature slaves Tir. 184 hould m, the little ye retain still less Tir. 278 and m. mistakes for manhood to reform Tir. 445 here early rest m. early rising sure Tir. 765 [654] Vould m. him—what some lovely boys have been Tir. et m. their progeny their dearest care Tir. 800 nd m. him quite a wit Trans. iv 12 Fould strive to m. a Paul or Tully stand T.T. 849 and m, his pupils proud with silver pence T.T.509

e is the freeman whom the Truth m. free T. v 733 and truth cut short to m. a period round T.T. 517 Proves that the mind is weak, or m. it so T.T. 545 1. their heroic powers your own at once T.T. 570 To m, the pitiful possessor shine T.T.755That sanguine inexperience loves to m. V. 56 To m, their payments good Y.D. 16 so in they come—each m. his leg Y.D. 29

MAKER.

Alike important in their M.'s view Ch. 203 At least to trample on our M.'s laws Con. 183 Had not his M.'s all-bestowing hand Con. 429 That man should love his M., and that fire Con. 483 She mocks her M., and herself deceives Con. 776 Thy M, fills the nations with alarm Ex. 585 Than this his M. has seen fit to give H. 601Remind him of his M.'s power and love R. 30 Resign our own and seek our M.'s will R. 130 That builds its glory on its M.'s praise R. 210 Yield only discord in his M.'s ear T. 386 His M. has no beauty in his sight T. 414 He mocks his M., prostitutes and shames T. ii 427 Where must he find his M.? With what rites T. ii 514 One common M. bound me to the kind? T. iii 209 And though the Almighty M. has throughout T. iv 734 The wildest scorner of his M.'s laws Tir. 56 And man would breathe but for his M.'s shame Tir. But moulded by his M. into man Y.O. 149

MAKING.

A poet's name by m. thee the theme Ch. 14 For m. speech the pamperer of lust Con. 48 Still m. probability your clue Con. 218
In m. known how oft they have been sick Con. 312 That even a judgment, m. way for thee T. ii 131 And m, prize of all that he condemns T, ii 604 "The use of his own bounty?-m. first T. v 639 See great commanders m. war a trade Tir. 821

MALADY.

To lull the painful m. with alms Ch. 448 This, of all m, that man infest R. 301

MALE.

But goes the m.? Far wiser, he A Tale 47 Female and m., Pomona, Pales, Pan T. vi 233

MALICE.

The very dart that M. ever shot H. 559 Of m. fed while flesh is mortified T. 166 A brave man knows no m., but at once T. ii 268 And hates it with the m. of a Jew Tir. 168 MALIGNANT.

The more m. If he spared not them T. ii 158 MALIGNITY.

By no m. impelled R.C. 51

[10

MALLET. The thump after thump of a gold-beater's m. F.M.With the double employment of m, and mill F.M. 16 MAMMON.

No,—M. makes the world his legatee Ch. 45 MAN.

The m. that's strangled by a hair A Fable 35 They are so unacquainted with m. A.S. 15 Divinely bestowed upon m. A.S. 18And reconciles m, to his lot A.S. 56 But m., within a wider pale enclosed A.T. 58 [66] That m. by Faith and Truth is made a slave A.T.And woman trembling at the foot of $m. A.T. 158 \lceil 10 \rceil$ For a m. to make free with another m.'s wife $A.\overline{T}$. ii If a m. must be scolded for loving his own A.T. ii 12 In company with m. A Tale 72 So much resemble m.? Beau 20 On m.'s most dignified and happiest state Ch. 2 By various ties attaches m. to m. Ch. 16 One m. the common father of the kind Ch. 18 Wherever he found m, to nature true Ch, 27 The rights of m. were sacred in his view Ch. 28 Thou tutelary friend of helpless m.? Ch. 42 Wherever found (and all m. need thy care) Ch. 47 And softens human rock-work into m. Ch. 96 And buy the muscles and the bones of m.? Ch. 140 On m., a mourner in his best estate! Ch. 156 That m. make m. his prey, because he must Ch. 197 But marks the m. that treads his fellow down Ch. 211 Patron of else the most despised of m. Ch. 290 [244] Some m. make gain a fountain, whence proceeds Ch. M. to the centre of the common cause $Ch. 328 \lceil 324 \rceil$ That Heaven spreads wide before the view of m. Ch. That m., in Nature's richest mantle clad Ch. 341 For self to self, and God to m. revealed Ch. 361 As m, of depth in erudition use Ch. 392 That m., if gently tutored, will not learn Ch. 496 Perhaps the m. was in a sportive fit Ch. 537 Nor spring from love to God, or love to m. Ch. 560 The judge of all m, owes them no regard Ch, 572 And slaying m, would cease to be an art Ch, 619 To every m. his modicum of sense Con. 2 Would drive them forth from the resort of m. Con. Some m. have surely then a peaceful life! Con. 56 Well known, or such as no m. ever knew Con. 62 Supposed the m. a bishop, or at least Con. 71 A disputable point is no m.'s ground Con. 99 A noisy m. is always in the right Con. 114 Dubius is such a scrupulous good m. Con. 119 [145] Where m. of judgment creep, and feel their way Con. Would hang an honest m., and save a thief Con. 128 That m. engage in it impelled by force Con. 179 A moral, sensible, and well-bred m. Con. 193 Of all ambitions m. may entertain Con. 221 Some m. employ their health, an ugly trick Con. 311 I pity bashful m., who feel the pain Con. 347 Till none but beasts acknowledge him a m. Con. 426 M.'s heart had been impenetrably sealed Com. 427

No-Nature, unsophisticate by m. Con. 451 [458 Whom m., for his own hurt, permits to reign Con. That m. should love his Maker, and that fire Con. 483 M. to maintain, and such as God approves Con. 538 The works of m. inherit, as is just Con. 553 A m. that would have foiled at their own play Con. And wiser m.'s ability, pretence Con. 628 Such m, are not forgot as soon as cold Con, 630 Convicts a m. fanatic in the extreme Con. 665 Its sordid nourishment from m.'s applause Con. 672 True bliss, if m may reach it, is composed Con. 679 That after m.'s defection laid all waste Con. 752 [683] Bad m., profaning friendship's ballowed name Con. M.'s favourable judgment, but his own Con. 764 May Mercury once more embellish m. Con. 838 [875] For tell some m. that pleasure, all their bent Con. And first, let no m. charge me, that I mean Con. 871 While all the happy m. possessed before Con. 895 Of m.'s superior breed D.W. 40 Far more alive than other m. E. i 10 Which busy m.'s inventive brain E. i 65 The works of m, tend, one and all E, i 79 From m. to m., or e'en to woman paid E. ii 5 I knew the m., and knew his nature mild E. iii 32 Bespoke at least a m. that knew mankind E. iii 41 Once on a time an Emperor, a wise m. E. iii 46 An honest m., close-buttoned to the chin E. iii 62 Each m, of common sense agrees E, iv 68 All m. of common sense allow E. iv 69 But m. is frail, and can but ill sustain Ex. 81 In form a m., in dignity a God Ex. 86 Rhetoric is artifice, the work of m. Ez. 136 [Ez. 196 With all that m. e'er wished or Heaven bestowed? That Truth and Mercy had revealed to m. Ex. 236 That, while laborious and quick-thoughted m. Ex.316 The m. that dares traduce, because he can Ex. 432 With safety to himself, is not a m. Ex. 433As meek as the m. Moses, and withal Ex. 444 Those holy m., so full of truth and grace Ex. 618 'Tis to believe what m. inspired of old Ex. 646 Happy the m. there seeking and there found Ex. 652 Happy the nation where such m, abound Ex, 653 But m, unqualified and base F. 2 That m., when smoothest he appears F. 28 An envious m., if you succeed F. 76 A m. renowned for repartee F. 91 Then judge yourself, and prove your m. F. 151 The m. that hails you Tom or Jack F. 169 [21 The m. I trust, if shy to me F. 187 I passed, and next considered—What is m.? F.A. [36] It is an evil incident to m. F.A. 30 With ease, and find them nutriment: but m. F.A. By which Heaven rules the mixed affairs of m. H. 16 Business is labour, and m.'s weakness such H. 19 With smiles alluring her admirer, m. H. 40M. feels the spur of passions and desires H. 55 [127] M. deal with life as children with their play H. Bestowed on m., like all that we partake H. 117 When God and m, stand opposite in view H. 131 M.'s disappointment must of course ensue H. 132 That m. have deemed substantial since the fall H.154 M. is the genuine offspring of revolt H. 181 To m. of pedigree, their noble race H. 237 Each m's belief is right in his own eyes H. 283 That m. will freely take an unbought bliss H. 335 A being of less equity than m. H. 384ſ*H*. 366 That Heaven will weigh m.'s virtues and his crimes Which m comply with e'en because they must H. 386 "Fallible m.," the church-bred youth replies H. 421 The best of every m.'s performance here H. 499 Not e'en the glorious sun, though m. revere H. 501 Denouncing death upon the sins of m. H. 512 [560 The m. that mentioned him, at once dismissed H.

Reveal (the m. is dead) to wondering eyes H, 572 \mathbf{M} . arise, a m. whom God has taught H. 623 For this, of all that ever influenced m. H. 643 [678 This m. was happy—had the World's good word H. Hence all that is in m.,—pride, passion, art H. 653 Say m.'s a worm, and power belongs to God H. 711 It marches o'er the prostrate works of m. Her. 22 Yet m., laborious m., by slow degrees Her. 67 Weak and irresolute is m. H.F. 1M. vainly trusts his own H.F. 20 How in a trice the turnpike m. J.G. 119 Praising the Author of all good in m. J.T. 2 That all the true delights of m. Miss — 47 A m. once young, who lived retired Mor. 3 The real worth of m.'s pursuits Mor. 26 But m., all feeling and awake N. 9 The m. to solitude accustomed long N.A. 55 By panting dog, tired m., and spattered horse N.A. M, from England bought and sold me N.C.5Besides the m.'s poor, his orchard's his bread P.A. Poor m.! what a pity to injure him so! P.A. 34 [35 Poor m.! I would save him his fruit if I could P.A. He shared in the plunder, but pitied the m. P.A. 44 That m. shall be my toast Pat. 10 What! hang a m. for going mad! Pat. 73 To joys forbidden m. aspires P.B. 15 M. may improve the crisis, or abuse P.E. 26 Say to what bar amenable were m.? P.E. 28 M. thus endued with an elective voice P.E. 45[103 With the same ease that m. puts on his gown? P.L. M., Nature's guest by invitation sweet P.E. 209 Is m, then only for his torment placed P.E. 229 M.'s coltish disposition asks the thong P.E. 360 Praise his proficiency, and dub him m. P.E. 368 For m. of their appearance and address P.E. 388 Unfolded genially and spread the m. P.E. 412 [429 While learning, once the m.'s exclusive pride P.E.M. loved their own productions long ago P.E. 527 A muleteer's the m. to set him right P.E. 541 Thus m. go wrong with an ingenious skill P.E. 556 That never ought to be the lot of m. P.E. 603 To muse on the perishing pleasures of m. P.F. 18 An aspect stern on m.'s affairs P.T. 48 The statesman, lawyer, merchant, m. of trade R. 5 And having lived a trifler, die a m. R. 14 Where works of m. are clustered close around R.25 Conversant only with the ways of m. R. 39 Would mock the majesty of m.'s high birth B. 71 That m. erroneously their glory call R. 100 Earth made for m., and m. himself for him R. 116 We find a little isle, this life of m. R. 148 Woe to the m. whose wit disclaims its use R. 211 This of all maladies that m. infest R. 301 He that has not usurped the name of m. R. 319 M. is a harp whose chords elude the sight R. 325 Nor guiltless of corrupting other m. R. 382 A m. whom marks of condescending grace R. 445 The m. of business and his friends compressed R. 495 And ignorance of better things makes m. R. 503 Thought to the m, that never thinks may seem R. 635 M. shall be summoned and the dead attend? R. 654 The foes of m., or make a desert sweet R. 782 The m. who dreams himself so great R.C. 111 With twice four hundred $m.\ R. ilde{G}.$ 24 Was m. (frail always) made more frail St. i 5 O most delightful hour by m. St. iii 1 He was a m. among the few St. iii 17 M. thinks he fades too soon St. v 2M. mourns his fleeting breath St. ▼ 26 The better part of m. unblessed St. vi 31 Till m. resigns his breath St. vi 34 M. on the dubious waves of error tossed T. 1 Hard lot of m., to toil for the reward T. 11

265

MAN

Oh how unlike the complex works of m. T. 21 Or stabbed a m, to serve some private end? T. 47 No-the m.'s morals were exact; what then? T. 52 'Twas his ambition to be seen of m. T. 53 What is all righteousness that m, devise T. 75 M.'s obligations infinite, of course T. 197 Forth steps the m.—an emblem of myself! T. 213 Mercy is infinite, and m. is weak T. 294 That question has its answer—What is m.? T. 382 Restore to m. the glories he has lost T. 398 But what is m. in his own proud esteem? T. 403 What shall the m. deserve of human kind T. 429 The worst of m., and curses of the best T. 434 And seeking exile from the sight of m. T. 442 That m is dead in sin, and life a gift T. 514 "Truly not I! The partial light m. have T. 521 And m, might safely trifle with his name T. 556 Of lazy nurse who snores the sick m. dead T. i 97 Beats in the breast of m., that even a few T. i 285 Binds m., the lord of all. Himself derives T. i 386 And music of the woods—no works of m. T. i 430 Of desultory m., studious of change T. i 507 Above the reach of m.: his hoary head T. i 520 Where m., by nature fierce, has laid aside T. i 594 God made the country, and m. made the town T. i 749 There is no flesh in m.'s obdurate heart T. ii 8 It does not feel for m. The natural bond T. ii 9 Thus m. devotes his brother, and destroys T. ii 20 Then what is m.? And what m., seeing this T. ii 26 And hang his head, to think himself a m.? T. ii 28 The minister of m., to serve his wants T. ii 138 Happy the m. who sees a God employed T. ii 161 His hot displeasure against foolish m. T. ii 179 To fill the ambition of a private m. T. ii 236 A brave m, knows no malice, but at once T, ii 268 That lost in his own musings, happy m.! T. ii 301I venerate the m. whose heart is warm T. ii 372 A messenger of grace to guilty m. T. ii 407 [T. ii 512]And spring-time of the world; asked, Whence is m.? In m. or woman, but far most in m. T. ii 414 And most of all in m, that ministers T, ii 415 [419] What!—will a m. play tricks, will he indulge T. ii Heard at conventicle, where worthy m. T. ii 437 O Popular Applause! what heart of m. T. ii 481 He that negotiates between God and m. T. ii 463 Has m. within him an immortal seed? T. ii 517 My m. of morals, nurtured in the shades T. ii 532 Of m.'s occasions, when in him reside T. ii 537 M. that, if now alive, would sit content T. ii 541 The brightest truths that m. has ever seen T. ii 555 While prejudice in m. of stronger minds T. ii 567 What m. that lives, and that knows how to live T. ii618 A m, o' the town dines late, but soon enough T, ii 622 Makes m. mere vermin, worthy to be trapped T. ii 683 And warps the consciences of public m. T. ii 691 Peace to the memory of a m. of worth T. ii 781 A m. of letters and of manners too! T. ii 782 Of what is excellent in m., they thirst T. ii 790 Nor conversant with m. or manners much T. iii 24 M. too were nice in honour in those days T. iii 85 (And no m.'s hatred ever wronged her yet) T. iii 101 With other views of m. and manners now T. iii 122 A history: describe the m., of whom T. iii 141
While thoughtful m. is plausibly amused T. iii 186 And exercise all functions of a m. T. iii 199 [T. iii 221 God never meant that m. should scale the Heavens How then should I and any m. that lives T. iii 200 As meant to indicate a God to m. T. iii 246 The m. we celebrate must find a tomb T. iii 264 What pearl is it that rich m. cannot buy T. iii 285 Oh friendly to the best pursuits of m. T. iii 290 But foolish m. foregoes his proper bliss T. iii 296 Of cruel m., exulting in her woes T. iii 336

The morning finds the self-sequestered m. T. iii 386 Cannot indeed to guilty m. restore T. iii 677 Is free to all m.—universal prize T. iii 724 [T. iv 265 When they command whom m. was born to please And avarice that make m, a wolf to m, T, iv 103 On bird and beast, the other charged for m. T. iv 249 Of deep deliberation, as the m. T. iv 800 The m, feels least, as more inured than she T, iv 387 I mean the m. who, when the distant poor T. iv 427 His every action, and imbrutes the m. T. iv 461 M. in society is like a flower T. iv 659 The unguarded door was safe; m. did not watch T. But m. associated and leagued with m. T. iv 663 And burghers, m. immaculate perhaps T. iv 672 For mercy and the common rights of m. T. iv 680 Is an ingredient in the compound, m. T. iv 732 That m., immured in cities, still retains T. iv 766 Sad witnesses how close-pent m. regrets T. iv 777 Great talents: and God gives to every m. T. iv 789 Preposterous sight! the legs without the m. T. v 20 Their wonted fodder; not like hungering m. T. v 30 The cheerful haunts of m.; to wield the axe T. v 42 Because a novelty, the work of m. T. v 128 At hewing mountains into m., and some T. v 178 Because m. suffer it, their toy the World T. v 192 The seeds of murder in the breast of m. T. v 210When m, was multiplied and spread abroad T, v 221 King was a name too proud for m. to wear T. v 242 With gazing, when they see an able m. T. v 256 And sober judgment that he is but m. T. v 265 Strange that such folly as lifts bloated m. T. v 283 Such dupes are m. to custom, and so prone T. v 299 Of rational discussion, that a m. T. v 306 Compounded and made up like other m. T. v 307But recollecting still that he is m. T. v 335 We love the m.; the paltry pageant you T. v 348 Sterling, and worthy of a wise m's wish T. v 358 Not to the m. who fills it as he ought T. v 362 The sighs and groans of miserable m.! T. v 388 Wherever pleaded. 'Tis the cause of m. T. ▼ 396 That m, should thus encroach on fellow m. T. v 435 Except what wisdom lays on evil m. T. v 449 To be the tenant of m's noble form T. v 455 [505] Who is, in truth, the friend of no m. there? T. v To be the tenant of m.'s noble form T. ▼ 455 'Tis therefore sober and good m. are sad T. v 509 But these are not his glory. M., 'tis true T. v 559 Chains are the portion of revolted m. T. v 581 That can ennoble m., and make frail life T. v 603 What none but bad m, wish exploded, must T, v 613 "Hath God indeed given appetites to m. T. v 6353 "Dishonours God, and makes a slave of m. T. v 64 But transformation of apostate m. T. v 695 So clothed with beauty, for rebellious m.? T. v 754 Of usurpation, and to no m.'s wrong T. v 760 M. views it and admires, but rests content T. v 791 With those fair ministers of light to m. T. v 816 "Distinctly scenes invisible to m. T. ▼ 826 The uninformed and heedless souls of m. T. v 864 From thee is all that soothes the life of m. T. v 900 How gladly would the m. recall to life T. vi 42 In heads replete with thoughts of other m. T. vi 90 And all in sight of inattentive M.?—T. vi 122 Is Nature's progress, when she lectures m. T. vi 182 So m., the moth, is not afraid, it seems T. vi 211 Precipitate the loathed abode of m. T. vi 376 [vi 256 Though winter had been none, had m been true T. Where ornel m. defeats not her design T. vi 343 M, scarce had risen, obedient to his call T, vi 348 But sin marr'd all; and the revolt of m. T. vi 368 That m, inflicts on all inferior kinds T, vi 385 Unvisited by m. There they are free T. vi 403 [426 That wait on m., the flight performing horse T. vi Dependent upon m.; those in his fields T. vi 414 Does law, so jealous in the cause of m. T. vi 432 \[478 That oft the beast has seem'd to judge the m. T. vi M. may dismiss compassion from his heart T. vi 442 Fame had not left the venerable m. T. vi 492 [505] "And dost thou dream" the impenetrable (As is the course of rash and fiery m.) T. vi 542 Yet wanting sensibility) the m. T. vi 562 By which Heaven moves in pardoning guilty m. T. vi The sum is this. If m.'s convenience, health T. vi 581 That m's attainments in his own concerns T. vi 613 And figure of the m., his secret aim T. vi 618 M. praises m. Desert in arts or arms T. vi 632 And hang it up in honour of a m.?) T. vi 641 To buckram out the memory of a m. T. vi 652 M. praises m.; and Garrick's memory next T. vi 664 M. praises m. The rabble, all alive T. vi 694 For m.'s revolt, shall with a smile repair T. vi 746 Antipathies are none. No foe to m. T. vi 777 All creatures worship m., and all mankind T. vi 783 In nooks obscure, far from the ways of m.! T. vi 842 Nor Cunning justify the proud m.'s wrong T. vi 844 Thy name adoring, and then preach the m.! T. vi 887 He is the happy m. whose life e'en now T. vi 908 The m., whose virtues are more felt then seen T. vi972 Of God and m., and peaceful in its end T. vi 999 M. yet mistakes his way The Doves 2

That m., the master of this globe, derives Tir. 3 And crown'd it with the majesty of m. Tir. 52 If m, be what he seems, this hour a slave Tir. 59 And m. would breathebut for his Maker's shame Tir.88 Revere the m. whose Pilgrim marks the road Tir. 145 The m.approving what had charm'd the boy Tir. 149Replete with dreams, unworthy of a m. Tir. 160 In infidelity and lewdness m. Tir. 209 [Tir. 128 Who made, who marred, and who has ransomed m. Boys as ye were, the gravity of m. Tir. 272 A slave at court, elsewhere a lady's m. Tir. 423 Caught from the deeds of m. of ancient fame Tir. 645 Art thou a m. professionally tied Tir. 658 Heard to articulate like other m. Tir. 667 Am. of letters, manners, morals, parts Tir. 673 [700] Are such m, rare? perhaps they would abound Tir. A m. deemed worthy of so dear a trust Tir. 711 The world accounts an honourable m. Tir. 738 But courage, m.! methought the muse replied Tir. 786 M. well endowed, of honourable parts Tir. 836 But, being m., and therefore frail, he may?) Tir. 896 Much of the vanities of m. Trans. ii 32 Far beyond the date of m. Trans. iii 28 Wretched m., whose years are spent Trans. iii 29 [11 Nor plagues that haunt the rich m.'s door Trans, H. The deeds that m. admire as half divine T.T. 3 I grant that m. continuing what they are T.T.9'Tis to the virtues of such m., m. owes T T 19 The m, that is not moved with what he reads T, T, 25 The glass that bids m. mark the fleeting hour T.T.41'Tis your belief the world was made for m. T.T. 47 Who think, or seem to think, m. made for them T.T.50 M. made for kings! those optics are but dim T.T. 55 Poets, of all m, ever least regret T.T. 176 [120 And ask, with busy scorn," Was this the m.?" T.T. If all m, indiscriminately share T.T. 256 [T.T. 168 Thus m., whose thoughts contemplative have dwelt She rears her favourite m. of all mankind T.T. 217 Such m, are raised to station and command T.T. 354 Seizes events as yet unknown to m. T.T. 498I judged a m. of sense could scarce do worse T.T. 518 The m that means success should soar above T.T.548M. lavished all his thoughts on human things T.T.596 Vouchsafes to m. a poet's just pretence T.T. 699 Thus graced, the m. asserts a poet's name T.T. 714 That holds in view the good of m. U. 24 Forgetful of the m. whom once ye chose V. 3

The heart of m., for such a task too frail V. 67 [81 With him, perhaps with her (for m. have known V. Whose noblest coin is light and brittle m. V. 96 Quoth one a rarer m. than you Y.D. 57 In all that live, plant, animal, and m. Y.O. 79 By m. performed, made all the forest ring Y.O. 109 One m. alone, the father of us all Y.O. 144 But moulded by his Maker into m. Y.O. 149

MANACLES,

Exposed to m., deserves them well $T \vee .366$

MANAGE.

But not to m. leisure with a grace R. 622 To m. with address, to seize with power T.T. 358

MANAGEABLE.

Conducted on a m. scale Tir. 703

MANAGED.

Thy soldiery, the Pope's well m. pack Ez. 518 Whose wit well m., and whose classic style R. 717 Beyond a size that can be m. well Tir. 502 Or better m., or encouraged less Tir. 922

MANAGEMENT.

Can least brook m., however mild R. 252 The m. of tyros of eighteen Tir. 220

MAN-DEGRADING.

To the m. mart N.C. 46

MANE.

Loose fly his forelook and his ample m. Ch. 176 Seized fast the flowing m. J.G. 46 He grasped the m. with both his hands J.G. 91

MANFULLY.

He m. did throw J.G. 76

MANGLED.

Their pages m., burnt, and torn M. i 9 [Tir. 303 Though m., hacked, and hewed, not yet destroyed MANHOOD.

One proof at least of m.! while the friend T ii 594 Then shame to m., and opprobrious more T. \checkmark 379 And make mistakes for m. to reform Tir. 445 See womanhood despised, and m. shamed Tir. 827

MANIACS.

So many m. dancing in their chains T. ii 663 MANICHEAN.

As dreadful as the M. God T. v 444

MANIFEST.
They m. their whole life through F. 112

MANIFOLD.

And m. results, into the will T. ii 164 So m., all pleasing in their kind T. iii 624 So m. in cares, whose every day T. v 769 MANKIND.

To associate all the branches of m. Ch. 84
Chain up the wolves and tigers of m. Ch. 287
And wins m., as his attempts prevail Ch. 335
And Commerce partially reclaims m. Ch. 372
M. from quarrels, but their fatal end Con. 174
To cheer the rude forefathers of m. Con. 454
To rescue from the ruins of m. E. ii 24
Bespoke at least a man that knew m. E. iii 41
They, and they only, amongst all m. Ex. 197
A blessing to my country and m. Ex. 727
Good sense and knowledge of m. F. 200
To catch the wandering notice of m. H. 137
Such stuff the world is made of; and m. H. 211
Yet half m. maintain a churlish strife H. 322

Throughout m., the Christian kind at least H. 635 Beek to delight, that they may mend m. H. 758M. received from heaven Miss - 24 That serve m., or shun them, wild or tame N.A. 66 The sin and madness of m. P.B. 14 One sad epistle thence, may cure m. P.E. 351 Till half m. were like himself possessed P.E. 471 See the sage hermit, by m. admired T. 87 To loose the links that galled m. before T. 185 The worthless and unfruitful of m." T. 500 He, not unlike the great ones of m. T. i 274 Is felt, m. may feel her mercy too T. ii 47 That holds m. together, to a scourge T. ii 687 With the vain stir. I sum up half m. T. iii 130 To its just point—the service of m. T. iii 372 Chequered with all complexions of m. T. iii 836 And make the sorrows of m, their sport T, v 186 Still stranger much that when at length m. T. v 287 Bought with His blood who gave it to m. T. v 546 On Noah, and in him on all m. T. vi 450 All creatures worship man, and all m. T. vi 783 A lesson for m. The Doves 40 M. are various, and the world is wide Tir. 788 That occupy m. below Trans. ii 17 To catch renown by ruining m. T.T. 60 She rears her favourite man of all m. T.T. 217 The noblest cause m. can have at stake T.T. 285 Skilled in the characters that form m. T.T. 705 M. to share in the divine delight T.T. 753 One who has known, and has escaped m. V. 78

MANLINESS.

He bears it with meek m. of soul T.T. 225

MANLY.

M. deportment, gallant, easy, gay H. 407
M. designs, and learning's grave pursuits R. 242
All such as m. and great souls produce R. 699
Tis m. music, such as martyrs make R. 775
In reason, is judicious, m., free T. v 354
His m. forehead to the flercest foe T.T. 277
Sound sense, intrepid spirit, m. grace V. 12

MAN-MONSTER.

At sight of the m. With a smile T. vi 499

MANNA.

His s. from the ground, or starve and die F.A. 88 And fed on m.! And such thine, in whom T. iii 256

MANNER.

Differing in language, m., or in face Ch. 21 His m. with his fate, puts on the brute Ch. 154
To teach good m., and to curb abuse Con. 164 Our polished m. are a mask we wear Con. 166 Great changes and new m. have occurred Con. 803 So m. decent and polite F. 178 And finds the modish m. of the day H. 612 Their language simple, as their m. meek H. 764 Of m. rough, and coarse athletic cast P.E. 187 A just deportment, m. graced with ease P.E. 421 With what success let modern m. show R. 686 And keep the polish of the m. clean R. 733 The m, and the arts of civil life T, i 596 In m.—victims of luxurious case T. i 625 Where English minds and m, may be found T, if 208 But loose in morals, and in m. vain T. ii 378 And plain in m.; decent, solemn, chaste T. ii 401 A man of letters and of m. too! T. ii 782 Of m. sweet as Virtue always wears T. ii 783 Nor conversant with men or m. much T. iii 24 With other views of men and m. now T. iii 122 His m., and with rapture tastes his style T. iii 228 For sanctity of m. undefiled T. iii 200

The m., customs, policy of all T. iv 109
And m. profligate, were rarely found T. iv 528
Her artless m., and her neat attire T. iv 536
Scenes rarely graced with rural m. now! T. iv 557
His ignorance and harmless m. too T. iv 651
Infected with the m. and the modes T. iv 693
Thine unadulterate m. are less soft T. v 465
A stranger to the m. of the youth T. vi 493 [vi 561
(Though graced with polished m. and fine sense T.
A man of letters, m., morals, parts Tir. 673
Else coarse and rude in m., and their tongue Tir. 831
Thence the prevailing m. take their cast Tir. 913
M. is all in all, whate'er is writ T.T. 542
Parent of m. like herself severe T.T. 613
The m., not the morals, of the day V. 80

MANNISH.

Else of a m. growth, and five in ten Tir. 208 MANSION.

The winged m. move A Tale 50
To inhabit a m. remote C. 45
So he who seeks a m. in the sky P.E. 576
Some m. neat and elegantly dressed T. 250
And such in ancient halls and m. drear T. i 24
And all their honest pleasures. M. once T. iii 746
With those whose m. glitter in his sight T. v 740

MANTLE.

His snowy m. o'er his shoulders threw A.T. 202 That man in Nature's richest m. clad Ch. 341 In scarlet m. warm and velvet capped M.P. 51 Gladly the thickening m., and the green T. iv 330 While Earth wears a m. of snow W.N. 13

MANTLED.

Darkness the skies had m. o'er Q.V 33 With woodbine and wild roses m. o'er R. 420

MANTLE-TREE.

Except in porcelain on her m. Ch. 460

MANTLING.

His m. neck with downy gold Mrs. M-6

MANTUAN.

Their eulogy, those sang the M. bard T. iii 453 And ages ere the M. Swan was heard T.T. 557

MANURE.

The smoking m., and overspreads it all T. iii 517

MANUSCRIPT.

To zigzag m. and cheats the eyes T. ii 364

MAP

He draws upon life's m, a signag line H. 607 Opening the m, of God's extensive plan R. 147 O'er these but far beyond a spacious m. T. i 321 What is it but a m. of busy life T. iv 55 (As in a m, the voyager his course) T. vi 17

MAPLE.

Book, beads, and m. dish, his meagre stock T. 80 The m., and the beech of oily nuts T. i 315

MAR.

272

Unnerves the moral powers, and m. their use P.E. Ye novelists, who m. what ye would mend P.E. 309 And m. the face of Beauty, when no cause T. i 458 And slumbering oscitancy m. the brood? T. ii 774 To m. delights superior to its own E. ii 34 [80] And in conclusion m. them. Nature's threads Y.O.

MARBLE.

No; m. and recording brass decay Con. 551

Might give more life to m., or might fill Ex. 231 The m. breathes, the canvass glows Miss — 83 And Chatham's eloquence to m. lips T. i 704 And make thy m. of the glassy wave T. v 134 No m. tells us whither. With their names T. v 727 As fix'd as m., with a forehead ridged T. vi 268

MARCH.

A cloud to measure out their m. by day Ex. 177 The sun accomplishing his early m. N.A. 29 Begin their m, to meet thee at the bar H. 226 It m. o'er the prostrate works of man Her. 22 Attends him; drives his cattle to a m. T. iv 647 Proud of the treasure, m. with it down T. v 708 The dust that waits upon his sultry m. T. vi 741

MARCHING.

M. and countermarching, with an eye T. vi 267
MARGIN.

Their way was on the m. of the land T vi 495

MARIA.

Catharina, M., and I C. 10 Less sweet to M. and me C. 15 M.! I have every good N.Y.G. 1 Oh! share M.'s grief T.B. 3 M. weeps—the Muses mourn T.B. 61

MARINER.

Thy m. explore the wild expanse Ex. 290 Oft pacing, as the m. his deck F.A. 19 Nor yet the m., his blood inflamed T. i 447 Conspicuous many a league, the m T. i 521

MARITIME.

That no rude savour m. invade T. ii 258

MARK.

But m. the man that treads his fellow down Ch. 211 The m. at which my juster aim I take Con. 105 And bear the m. upon a blushing face Con. 349 Than rove and stagger with no m. in view Con. 864 And therefore 'tis a m. fools never hit Con. 880 And m, the bounds of our abode E, i 38 [H. 225 "M. these," she says, "these, summoned from afar An individual is a sacred m. Ex. 434 312 That all might m.—knight, menial, high, and low H. Makes answer quite beside the m. M.F. 10 Stamped on each countenance such m. of mind N.A. None sends his arrow to the m. in view P.E. 570 A man whom m. of condescending grace R. 445 M. well the finished plan without a fault R. 551 To m. the matchless workings of the Power R. 791 Death at hand—yourselves his m. St. iv 11 M. what a sumptuous Pharisee is he! T. 59 She has her praise. Now m. a spot or two T. i 725 Of wrath obnoxious, God may choose his m. T. ii 156 And stands an impudent and fearless m. T. ii 812 Moves right toward the m.; nor stops for aught T.v53Beyond that m. is treason. He is ours T. v 341 [346 M. now the difference, ye that boast your love T. v He m. the bounds which Winter may not pass T. vi 192 But read the instrument, and m, it well T, vi 454 M. now the proof I give thee, that the brave T vi 509 Right to his m. the monster went T.B. 50 Revere the man whose Pilgrim m. the road Tir. 145 Account him no just m. for idle wit Tir. 726 The glass that bids man m. the fleeting hour T.T. 41 The Nations hunt, all m. thee for a prey T.T. 364 There is a time, and Justice m. the date T.T. 400 [457 And m. them with a seal of wrath pressed down T.T. And m. whatever clouds may interpose T.T. 708

Who long had m. her airy lodge A Fable 25

Beau m. my unsuccessful pains D.W. 21
M. with the signature and stamp of Heaven Es. 685
But never m. her with so just a sight R. 418
And some are m. to fall St. i 14
Was m. and shunned as odious. He that sold T. iii

MARKET.

Quickens a m., and helps off the trash Ch. 522 Or sell their glory at a m. price Con. 28

MARKING.

Interpret to the m. eye distress R. 287

MARMADAN.
The trumpet now spoke M. at hand A.T. 161

MARO.
And those Arcadian scenes that M. sings T. iv 515

MARRED.

Fades rapidly, and by compression m. T. iv 669 But sin m. all; and the revolt of man T. vi 368 [123 Who made, who m., and who has ransomed man Tv.

MARRIAGE.

Are m. in its true and proper shape A.T. 65 "The m. bond has lost its power to bind A.T. 101 What m. means, thus pert replied P.T. 29 Births, deaths, and m., epistles wet T. iv 17

MARRIED.

Then sang the m. and the maiden throng A.T. 197

MARRY.

"Yea m. shalt thou, and with all my heart E. iii 29 I m. without more ado P.T. 36 But proper time to m. P.T. 65 If John m. Mary, and Mary alone A.T. iii 1

MARRYING.

And Christians m. may convert the Turks A.T. 160

MARSHALS.

And m. all the order of the year T. vi 191

MARSHALLED.

Suffice to give the m. ranks the grace T. iii 604

MARSHALLING.

M. all his terrors as he came T. 547

MARSHES.

Of Tiber's m. and the papal bog Ex. 511

MART.

To the man-degrading m. N.C. 46 [719 In London. Where has commerce such a m. T i Oh thou resort and m. of all the earth T. iii 835

MARTHA.

Thus M., even against her will E. i 43

MARTIAL.

He steps right onward, m. in his air T. iv 640 With melting airs, or m., brisk, or grave T. vi 3 Playing at beat of drum, their m. pranks T.T. 136

MARTYR.

'Tis manly music, such as m. make R. 775 But M. struggle for a brighter prize T. v 718 Deny thy Godhead with a m.'s zeal T. vi 883

MARTYRDOM.

Received the seal of m. in blood Es. 617 Prepared for m., and strong to prove V. 61

MARVELLED.

I m. much that, at so ripe an age T. iv 713

MARY.

If John marries M., and M. alone A.T. iii 1 'Tis a very good match between M. and John A.T. With togened in second in the second i With tortured innocence in M.'s court Ex. 613 Bids me and M. mourn N. 14 Which M. to Anna conveyed The Rose 2 My M.! To Mary See, M., what beauties I bring W.N.5Such M.'s true love, that has lived W.N. 19

MASCULINE.

Or if in m. debate he shared H. 686 A mind well lodged, and m. of course T.T. 221

MASK.

Our polished manners are a m, we wear Con. 166 A shallow brain behind a serious m. Con. 297 The treacherous smile, a m, for secret hate Ex, 42 The m. from faces never seen before E_{σ} . 140 And finds it a mere m. of sly grimace Con. 744 [105 But she has burned her m., not needed here T. iii Conceals the mood lethargic with a m. T. iv 229 Not skulk, or put on a prudential m. T.T. 312

MASQUERADE.

Till gowns at length are found mere m. T. ii 748 But the World's Time is Time in m.! T. iv 213

MASS

See it an uninformed and idle m. Her. 26 [T. iii 492 Slow gathering in the midst, through the square m. His broad keen knife into the solid m. T. v 35 That being parcel of the common m. T. v 247 Knowledge, a rude unprofitable m. T. vi 94

MASSY.

A m. slab, in fashion square or round T. i 21 Ponderous, and fixed by its own m. weight T. i 59 Grew rusty by disuse; and m. gates T. ii 746

MAST.

The tree they call a m. A Tale 34

Their skill a truth, his m.'s a pretence Con. 418 Think, ye m. iron-hearted N.C. 21 He takes the field, the m. of the pack P.E. 114 M. of all the enjoyments he designed R. 427 Or else she learned it of her m. R.C. 10Within her m.'s snug abode R.C. 34 His m.'s interest and his own combined T. 193 But by a m.'s hand, disposing well T. iii 589 Knew their own m., and laborious hinds T. iii 747 His horse, as he had caught his m.'s mood T. vi 549 That man, the m. of this globe, derives Tir. 3 As Poll can m. it Trans. iv 9 And dared to look his m. in the face T.T. 821

MASTER-LUST.

Remorse begets reform. His m. T. v 618

MASTER-SPRING.

As if one m. controlled them all T. iv 203

MASTER-STROKES.

His m., and draw from his design T. ii 398

MASTERY.

Ensured us m. there, we yet retain T. ii 274

MASTIFF.

Some royal m, panting at their heels T.T. 35

Of dear M. Prior's easy jingle E. iv 4 [iii 525] No m.;—we could shift when they were not T. T. Strained through the friendly m., a vivid green T. In my own ear such m. as I may Y. O. 143 fiii 2 'Tis a very good m. between Mary and John A.T. It can't be a m.—tis a bundle of m.'s A.T. iii 4 And stirs his own to m. them, or excel Ch. 118 M., blood-extorting screws N.C. 30 A wrestling m., a footrace, or a fair T. iv 626

MATCH.

MATCHED.

And even Virtue, so unfairly m. Ch. 511 M. against truths as lasting as sublime? Con. 548 Was quickly distanced, m. against a peer's R. 580 Here also grateful mixture of well m. T. iii 633 [614 M. with the expertness of the brutes in theirs T. vi To meet with such a well m. pair Trans. iv 32

MATCHLESS.

In fairy land was born the m. dame A.T. 5 Weep upon thy m. wrongs B. 10 To mark the m. workings of the Power R. 791 [229 "Where dwell these m. saints?" old Curio cries T. The honours of his m. horse his own T. vi 438 Of m. grandeur, and declension thence Y.O. 89

MATE.

A chaffinch and his m. A Tale 12 They left their outcast m, behind Cast. 23 Him answered then his loving m, and true N.A. 105 Choose not alone a proper m. P.T. 64More delicate his timorous m, retires T. 214 The turtle thus addressed her m. The Doves 7

MATERIAL.

That forms m., whatsoe'er we dream A.T. 40 Formed with m. neat and soft A Tale 39 And bends the tough m, to his will Ch, 464 His rich m., and regale your ear Con. 617 With what m., on what ground, you please H. 615 With base m., sat on well-tanned hides T. i 51 And slippery the m., yet frostbound T. v 155 The mere m. with which wisdom builds T. vi 93 Exhausted all m. of the art T. vi 717

MATERNAL.

Ah, that m. smile! it answers—"Yes" M.P. 27 M. nature had reversed its course T. iii 436 Of his lost bees to her m. ear T. v 137

MATHEMATIC.

Sure ne'er to want them, m. truths N.A. 80

MATRIMONIAL.

Your m. plan A Tale 70 To keep the m. bond unstained T.T. 74

MATRON.

Whom m, now, of character unsmirched T, iii 73 With m, step slow moving, while the Night T, iv 246

MATTED.

In m. grass, that with a livelier green T. 195 Where, on his bed of wool and m. leaves T. vi 312

MATTER.

[845] The change shall please, nor shall it m. aught $\bar{C}on$. No m. where, in China or Japan E. iii 47 For m. of more grave import E. iv 66 No m. if you hear or no M.F. 30 No m. when—a poet's Muse is P. 23 Began to agitate the m. P.T. 16 Poor Jack-no m. who-for when I blame R. 575 But how should m. occupy a charge T. vi 216 [770

MATTHEW.

That M.'s numbers run with case E. iv 67 "M.," says Fame, "with endless pains E. iv 73

MATURE.

The sun m. on India's spicy shores Ch. 442 And like the stores autumnal suns m. Con. 649 Can even now when they are grown m. T. v 296 Thou fellest m.; and, in the loamy clod Y.O. 33

MATURED.

In peace upon her sloping sides m. Her. 10 And all her fruits by radiant truth m. T. i 607 That toiling ages have but just m. T. iii 450

MATURER.

M. years shall happier stores produce T. 495 But learns his error in m. years Tir. 449

MATURITY.

And, as m. of years comes on Tir. 236

MAUL.

Poets, are sometimes apt to m. the thing Con. 290

MAUSOLEAN.

By pyramids and m. pomp T. v 188

MAW.

With sand to scour his m. Ep. ii 16

MAY.

The legislature called it M.—A Fable 9 October hight, but mild and fair as M.—A.T. 71 "Adorning M., that peevish maid J.P. 35 Then April with her sister M.—N. 17 But warm, and bright, and calm as M.—P.T. 10 [62 The vault is blue T. vi And as the warmth of M. The vault is On the beautiful bosom of M.—W.N. 16

MAZE.

From infancy through childhood's giddy m. H. 187

MAZY.

Can trace her m. windings to their end P.E. 16

MEAD.

Free as the lordly bull that ranges o'er the m. \overline{A} . T. Pursued the swallow o'er the m. D.W. 11 The yellow tilth, green m., rocks, rising ground H. Old Winter, halting o'er the m. N. 13 That murmurs through the dewy m. O. ii 16 Its cooling vapour o'er the dewy m. R. 422 And turned into the park or m. to graze R. 627 Now in the floods, now panting in the m. R. 538 Of spacious m. with cattle sprinkled o'er T. i 164 To gather kingcups in the yellow m. T. vi 302 The dancing Naiads through the dewy m. T.T. 698

Wasting towns, plantations, m. N.C. 35 A variegated show; the m. green T. iv 312 These m. and that range of hills his own T. v 223That skims the spacious m. at full speed T. vi 331 Oft water fairest m., and the bird T. vi 930

MEAGRE.

Book, beads, and maple dish, his m, stock T. 80 He calls for Famine, and the m. fiend T. ii 185 Bestial, a m. intellect, unfit T. v 454 Perched on the m. produce of the land T.T. 580.

Prepares for m. as jockeys take a sweat P.E. 221 How regular his m., how sound he sleeps! R. 430 Their miserable m. A kettle, slung T. i 560 The bee transports the fertilizing m. T. iii 588

Of the last m. commence. A Roman m. T. iv 168 As m. and larded locks can make him; wears T. iv 642 Doom him not then to solitary m. Tir. 719

MEAN.

Wise to promote whatever end he ss. Ch. 87 And wound the grace I m. to recommend Ch. 486 But still remember, if you m. to please Con. 103[149 Without the m. of knowing right from wrong Con. The practice dastardly, and m., and low Con. 178 Tuey m. to try what may at last be done Con. 833 And first, let no man charge me, that I m. Con. 871 Not that I deem, or m. to call E. i. 91 Not that I m., while thus I knit E. iv 5 The fierce banditti which I m. E. iv 19What m, they ? Canst thou dream there is a power And, tainted by the very m. of cure Ez. 104 Are far too m. for Him that rules the skies Ez. 138 From m. self-interest and ambition clear Ez. 439 Or m. self-love erected F. 39 I will by no m. entertain F. 191 Taste happiness, or know what pleasure m. H. 10 My creed (whatever some creed-makers m. H. 333 Thy m. so feeble, and despised so much H. 666 That privilege was thine; Heaven gave theem. J.T. 19 By no m. large enough; and was it M.F. 3 Are the m. that duty urges N.C. 31 He takes offence, and wonders what you m. P.E. & Than Vices m, and disingenuous race P.B. 297 What marriage m., thus pert replied P.T. 29 From mighty m. to more important ends R. 112 Not that I m. to approve, or would enforce R. 117 The portion of a m, or vulgar mind R, 502 What m, the drama by the world sustained ? R.646Content though m., and cheerful if not gay T.319And sinks, while favoured with the m. to rise T.544If Solitude make scant the m. of life T. i 248 No m. advantage from a kindred cause T. i 887 M. self-attachment, and scarce aught beside T. i 616 Life's necessary m., but he must die T. ii 141[ii 198 Still wrought by m. since first He made the world? T. And did He not of old employ his m. T. ii 199 Than a capacious reservoir of m. T. ii 201 [T. iii 691 Health, leisure, m. to improve it, friendship, peace I m. to treed. I feel myself at large T. iii 18 To no m. hand, and asks the touch of taste T. iii 632 I m. the man who, when the distant poor T. iv 427 The most unfurnished with the m. of life T. iv 770 And destitute of m, to raise themselves T, v 248 And force the beggarly last doit, by m. T. v 316 "And stored the earth so plenteously with m.T.v636 And He by m, in philosophic eyes T, v 698 Of no m. city, planned or ere the hills T. v 764With m, that were not till by thee employed T, v 850 Of what he deems no m. or trivial trust T. vi 607 He seek his proper happiness by m. T. vi 954 [406 Pressed on his part by m. that would disgrace Tiv. With just abhorrence of so m. a part Tir. 456 The end, though plausible, not worth the m. Tir. 487 His post not m., his talents not unknown Tw. 723 Where vile example (yours I chiefly m. Tir. 761 To compass that good end, forecast the m. Tir. 881 He that holds fast the golden m. Trans. H. 7 When Providence m, mercy to a land T.T. 355 M. you to prophesy, or but to preach? T.T. 479 To dally much with subjects m. and low T.T. 544 The man that m, success, should soar above T.T.548

MEANDERS.

M. lubricate the course they take T. iv 65

MEANDERING.

Her wood Sir Airy, by m. streams A.T. 11

Take of the crimson stream m. there T. iii 202 Through the imperceptible m. veins T. vi 136

MEANER.

And once more mingles with us m. things Ch. 437 To learn the twittering of a m. bird? Con. 448 The want of both denotes a m. breed H. 292 A m. than himself shall gain the prize T. 16 And seems to say—"Ye m. fowl, give place T. 64 No m. band may discipline the shoots T. iii 413 The ambition of one m. far, whose powers T. iii 458 With m. objects even the few she finds! T. iii 727 The heart of merit in the m. class T. iv 618 And History, so warm on m. themes T. v 729 Proved he not plainly that his m. works T. vi 447 To m. music, and not suffer loss T. vi 750 While m. things, whom instinct leads The Doves 3 Too busy to intend a m. care Tir. 660 Next, busy actor on a m. stage V. 27

MEANEST.

"Smoothed and refined the m. strains E. iv 74 Else they are all—the m. things that are T. vi 584

MEANING.

And made almost without a m. E. i 98 And little or no m. O. i 4 With anxious m., Heavenward turn his eye! St. ii 8 His mind with m, that he never had T, iii 149 There forests of no m. spread the page T. iv 74

MEANNESS.

"Feel all the m. of your slavish lot A.T. 112 Patience itself is m. in a slave Ch. 164 Nor taint his speech with m., designed Tir. 686

[778] The doctrines warped to what they never m. Con. Are insincere, m. only to conceal Con. 785 As when returning to the theme they m. Con. 858 But not performing what he m. J.G. 225He m. not to forbid the head L.W. 18A brighter prize than that he m. Mor. 55 The plant he m. grew not far off P. 17 But Granby was, m. truly what he said R. 598 That scorns afflictions mercifully m. R. 760 The very elements, though each be m. T. ii 137Upon thy foes, was never m. my task T. ii 218
As m. to indicate a God to man T. iii 246 [iii 221 God never m. that man should scale the Heavens T. M. it eternal, had he not himself T. v 562But still in vain. The Providence that m. T. vi 528 Was never m., was never used before T. vi 651 Perhaps indulgent Nature m. Trans. i 13 [T. vi 659 When wandering Charles, who m. to be the third Whate'er she m., this truth divine Trans. i 21 And never m, the rule should be applied T.T. 11 The growth that Nature m. she should attain T.T. 268

MEASURE.

To m, the life that she leads C. 48 Whether he m. earth, compute the sea Ch. 353 They fill their m., and receive their due Con. 34 Such hard and arbitrary m. here E. iii 55 A cloud to m, out their march by day Ex. 177 Their m. filled, they too shall pay the debt Ez. 712 To m. all that passes in the breast R. 133 Not such the alert and active. M. life T. i 396 M. an atom, and now girds a world? T. i 718 Against the law of love, to m. lots T. iv 337 But above m. strange, that neither proof T. v 298 And folly in as ample m. meet T. v 809 To span omnipotence, and m. might T. vi 212 That knows no m., by the scanty rule T. vi 213 In m., as by force of instinct drawn T. vi 412

And m. of the offence, rebukes a deed T. vi 655 Behold the m. of the promise filled T. vi 798 Tis not in artful m., in the chime T. vi 1020 But m. planned and executed well T.T. 386 Art has in a m. supplied W.N. 3

MEASURED.

At m. distances, that air and sun T. iii 424 His m. step were governed by his ear T. 63 Beating alternately, in m. time T.T. 528

MECHANIC.

Not as if raised by mere m. powers Con. 706 Some plain m., who, without pretence R. 449 Made poetry a mere m. art T.T. 654

MECHANICAL.

In an engine of utmost m, strength F.M, 4

MECHANICALLY.

If guards, m. formed in ranks T.T. 135

MEDALS.

And sells them m., which, if neither rare P.E.899

MEDICINE.

Grief is itself a m., and bestowed Ch. 159 No m., though it oft can cure St. i 27 By m. well applied, but without grace T. vi 522

MEDIOCRITY.

In modest m., content T. i 50

MEDITATE.

That thought that m. a brother's wrong T. 560 Walks forth to m. at eventide T. vi 949

MEDITATION.

Charms more than silence. M. here T. vi 84

MEDIUM.

With a new m. and a purer light Ch. 380 To find the m. asks some share of wit Con. 879 Praise is the m. of a knavish trade E. ii 6 The m. represents, and not their own H. 74 Seen through the m. of a cloud like thine R. 352 But knew no m. between guzzling beer R. 601 In the soft m., till they stand immersed T. iii 520

MEED.

Verse, like the laurel, its immortal m. Ch. 292 It were to weep that goodness has its m. J.T. 12 Of amnesty, the m. of blood divine Y.O. 13

MEEK.

Sips m. infusions of a milder herb Con. 268 [610] Exact, yet not precise, though m., keen-eyed Con. As m, as the man Moses, and withal Ex. 444 M., modest, venerable, wise, sincere Ex. 620 A right to the m. honours of her name) H. 236 Is sober, m., benevolent, and prays H. 520 Their language simple, as their manners m. H. 764The m. intelligence of those dear eyes M.P. 7 Trembling yet happy, confident yet m. T. 572His eye was m. and gentle, and a smile T. ii 706[55 For thou art m. and constant, hating change T. iii I praise you much, ye m. and patient pair T. iv 407 Fretful if unsupplied; but silent, m. T. v 31 The m, and modest Truth, and forcing her T. vi 840 The m. and bashful boy will soon be taught Tir. 338 He bears it with m. manliness of soul T.T. 225

MEEKNESS.

Their leader armed with m., zeal, and love Ex. 187 With modesty and m., and the crown T. v 243 He ruled with m., they obey'd with joy T. vi 361

MEET.

And m, perhaps never again C. 2 In baser souls unnumbered evils m. Ch. 37 [Ch. 148 But not the thought that they must m. no more Prepared to poniard whomsoe'er they m. Ch. 508 They m. with little pity, no redress Ch. 530 Though all accomplishments, all knowledge m. Ch. Let all your rays of information m. Con. 240 Visiting every flower with labour m. Con. 439 [694 Of joys they m. with in their heavenly range Con. M. their opposers with united strength Con. 700 Impatient swim to m. D.W. 84 Shall m., unite, and part no more E. i 32 A tedious hour—and now we never m. ! E. iii 5Her vaults below, where every vintage in. Ex. 22 Discordant atoms m., ferment, and fight Ex. 297 The great and small but rarely m. F. 115 244 "Keep wisdom, or m. vengeance in your turn! Ex. How freely will they m. and charge! F. 137 The youth did ride, and soon did m. J.G. 221 [H. 49 From the blue rim, where skies and mountains m. Begin their march to m, thee at the bar H. 226 When wit and genius m, their doom M, ii 1 May I but m, thee on that peaceful shore M.P. 34 Farewell! we m, no more PO. ii 24 Or present, or in prospect, m. his sight P.E. 48 Love, joy, and peace make harmony more m. P.E 140 Surprised at all they m., the gosling pair P.E. 379 And $oldsymbol{a}$ n. with hindrance in the smoothest way P.E.443New-raised objections with new quibbles m. P.E.551 No mockery m. you, no deception there P E. 618 The subject upon which we m. P.T. 24 Discordant motives in one centre m. R. 173 We m. at last in one sincere desire R. 389 Thy fame diffuse, praised not for utterance m. S. i 13 The jury m., the coroner is short T. 447 Where hermits and where Brahmins m. with theirs Seest thou you harlot, wooing all she m. T. 507 The wain that m. it passes swiftly by T. i 297 She begs an idle pin of all she m. T. i 553 Swarms in all quarters; m. the eye, the ear T. ii 818 That m. (no barren interval between) T. iii 409 Close interwoven, where they m. the vase T. iii 612 And folly in as ample measure m. T. v 309 [T. iii 788] Just when it m. his hopes, and proves the Heaven To m. with such a well matched pair Trans. iv 32 Virtue indeed m. many a rhyming friend T.T. 620

MELANCHOLY.

To give the m. theme Cast. 57 I could expound the m. tone N.A. 94 Gives M. up to Nature's care R. 281 A long and m, mew R.C. 88

MELIORATE.

To m, and tame the stubborn soil R. 786 And m, the well concocted juice T, 496 Reflections such as m, the heart T, iii 304

MELLIFLUOUS.

Of such m. tone T.B. 57

MELLOW.

M. and makes the speech more fit for use Con. 644 With her chill hand, the m. leaves away N.A.22The golden harvest, of a m. brown T. iv 314

665

When time hath somewhat m. it, and made T, y; Beneath thy parent tree m. the soil Y.O. 24

MELODIOUS.

Or with the high-raised horn's m. clang N.A. 35 Of other tenants than m. birds T. iv 574

MELODY.

The m. that was at first designed Con. 453 Fled, chased by her m. clear M.D. 22 [P.F. 11 And the scene where his m. charmed me before kindred m., the scene recurs T. vi 13 M. throughout the year Trans. iii 24

MELT.

[229 Would heal his heart, and m. his chains away Ch. That m and fade into the distant sky R. 424

"Still may my m. bosom cleave Miss — 85 With m. airs, or martial, brisk, or grave T. vi 3

MEMENTO.

These speak a loud m. Yet even these T. i 482

MEMORABLE.

In m. eighty-nine 1789, 31

MEMORANDUM-BOOK.

With m. for every town P.E. 373

MEMORIAL.

A deep m. graven on their hearts Con. 514 Perhaps a frail m., but sincere M.P. 72 A sad m., and subjoin his own T. v 420 And some m, none where once they grew Y.O. 129

MEMORY.

And, like the graver's m., pass away Con. 552 Their fragrant m. will outlast their tomb Con. 631 There M., like the bee that's fed M. ii 9 That m. keeps of all thy kindness there M.P.55All this still legible in M.'s page M.P. 68 But every tear shall scald thy m. P.E. 336 For her, the M. fills her ample page T. 13 In faithful m. she records the crimes T. 160 And bred, within the m. of no few T. ii 677 Peace to the m. of a man of worth T. ii 781 While we retrace with M.'s pointing wand T. iv 183 Where M. slept. Wherever I have heard T. vi 12 To buckram out the m. of a man T. vi 652 Man praises man; and Garrick's m. next T. vi 664 I pleased remember, and, while m. yet Tir. 133 Reward his m., dear to every Muse T.T. 14

MENACED.

Much m., nothing dread St. vi 18

MENAGERIES.

That these m. all fail their trust Tir. 293

MEND.

Judgment, however tardy, m. her pace Ex. 151 By useless censure, whom we cannot m. H. 273 But speaks with plainness art could never m. H. 451 Seek to delight, that they may m. mankind H. 758. Ye novelists, who mar what ye would m. P.E. 309

MENDED.

"Battered and bankrupt fortunes m. here" T. iii

MENDICANTS.

As m., whose business is to roam Con. 859

MENIAL.

[312 That all might mark—knight, m., high, and low H.

What virtue, or what m. grace F. 1 For such is all the m. food purveyed Tir. 620

MENTION.

("M. him if you please ;-Voltaire?"--" The same

MENTIONED.

The man that m. him, at once dismissed H. 560 MENTOR.

Sticks close, a M. worthy of his charge T. ii 595 With some such M. always at his side Tir. 699

MERCENARY.

Built by no m. vulgar hand Ch. 257 His soul abhors a m. thought H. 332 Excels ten thousand m. deeds T. 224

MERCER.

[279] To Miss, the m.'s plague, from shop to shop T. vi MERCHANT.

Or was the m. charged to bring A Tale 27 For m. rich in cargoes of despair Ch. 138 If the new mail thy m, now receive Ex, 606 The statesman, lawyer, m., man of trade R. 5 With such as m introduce R.C. 37 Hence m., unimpeachable of sin T. iv 676

MERCIFUL.

And—God is m.—sets all to rights H. 376

MERCIFULLY.

That scorns afflictions m. meant R. 760

MERCURIAL.

Laugh ye, who boast your more m. powers T. iv 232

MERCURY.

May M. once more embellish man Con. 838

MERCY.

There is M. in every place A.S. 53 And M., encouraging thought! A.S. 54 Alike the wrath and m. of the skies Ch. 70 Teach m. to ten thousand hearts that share Ch. 278 As little m. as the grubs and worms! Con. 260 For m. shown, while wrath is justly due Con. 492 To supplicate his m., love his ways Con. 661 That Truth and M. had revealed to man Ex, 236 Is wooing m. by renewed offence Ex. 413Of talents, judgment, m., better far F.A. 15 And M., fled to as the last resort H. 378 See M.'s grand apocalypse displayed H. 448 The dire effect of M. without price H. 496 All m. from his lips, and sneered and hissed H. 561 If then, just then, all thoughts of m. lost H. 722 Who fasten without m, on the fair P.E. 325 The sense of m. kindles into praise R. 778 And m. cast away St. vi 40 M. receives him on her peaceful shore T. 276 M. is infinite, and man is weak T. 294 Sid messenger of m. from above T. 464 Would hiss the cherub M. from the stage T. 478 And leave to M., with a tranquil mind T. 499 lear then how M., slighted and defied T. 501 But softened into m.; made the pledge T. i 365 With stripes, that M., with a bleeding heart T. ii 21 Is felt, mankind may feel her m, too T, ii 47 Seems, in their eyes, a m., for thy sake T. ii 132 Of judgment and of m., should beware T. ii 455 To seek him rather where his m. shines T. iii 22-One drop of Heaven's sweet m. in his cup T. iii 804 Yet show that thou hast m., which the great T. iv 371 For m. and the common rights of man T. iv 680 Of royal m., and through generous scorn T. vi 410 So little m. shows who needs so much! T. vi 431 Ye, therefore, who love m., teach your sons T. vi 588 M. to him that shows it, is the rule T. vi 595 Shall visit earth in m.; shall descend T. vi 743 Though m. for thyself thou canst have none Tir. 755

Hear Nature plead, show m. to thy son Tir. 756 When Providence means m, to a land T.T. 355 If M. then put by the threatening blow T.T. 404

MERETRICIOUS.

No m. graces to beguile T. 23

MERIDIAN.

The blaze of a m. day E. i 78 M. sunbeams tempt him to unfold T. 60 The sun's m. disk, and at the back T. iii 473

MERIT.

And honest M. stands on slippery ground Ch. 284 To your intrinsic m. true E. i 27 How he esteems your m. F. 171Who write in blood the m, of your cause Her. 42 May claim this m, still—that she admits T, iii 102 The heart of m. in the meaner class T. iv 618 Try now the m. of this blest exchange Tir. 173

MERITORIOUS.

Then, conscious of her m. zeal T. 497

MERRILY.

And eke did rear right m., two staves T. vi 662

MERRIMENT.

Filled with as much true m. and glee T.T. 244 MERRY.

But what old Chaucer's m. page befits A.T. 84 Thus all through m. Islington J.G. 133 In m. guise, he spoke J.G. 172 His friend in m. pin J.G. 178 Or m, turn in all he ever wrote T, ii 473 With m. descants on a nation's woes T. iv 77 Village, or hamlet, of this m. land T. iv 467 The priest he m. is and blithe Y.D. 5

MESSAGE.

Reports a m. with a pleasing grace T. 205

MESSENGER.

Sad m. of mercy from above T. 464 There stands the m. of truth; there stands T. ii 337 A m. of grace to guilty men T. ii 407 Cold and yet cheerful: m, of grief T, iv 13

MESSIAH.

M.'s eulogy for Handel's sake T. vi 637

MET.

She came – she is gone—we have m. C. 1The world and I fortuitously m. Con. 795 As if they m. around a father's bier Con. 874 When minds that never m, before E, i 31 A glimpse of joy, that we have m. N. 23Except that they had ever m. P.T. 59

METEOR.

Fires from beneath, and m. from above T. ii 57 Another moon new risen, or m. fallen T. v 152 The m. of the Gospel dies away Tir. 190 A M., or a star; in these, the sun T.T. 575

METHINKS.

"M.," I said, "in thee I find P.B. 13 "M. the gentleman," quoth she P.T. 30 M. I see thee straying on the beach T. i 654 M. I see thee in the streaky west T. iv 245 But less, m., than sacrilege might serve T. vi 638 But yet, m. to tell you true Y.D. 59

METHOD.

By softer m., must be made ashamed Ch. 498 The m. clear, and argument exact? T. iii 279 Approved their m. in all other things T.T. 95

METHOUGHT.

But courage, man! m. the muse replied Tir. 786

METRE.

Indite much m. with much pains O. i 3

METROPOLITAN.

Grand M. of all the tribe P.E. 186 That m. volcanoes make T. iii 737

METTLE.

His high m., under good control T.T. 308

MEW.

O'er hedge and ditch, through gaps and m. E. iv 52 A long and melancholy m. R.C. 88

MEXICO.

Not M. could purchase kings a claim Ch. 214

MEZEREON.

That scarce a leaf appears; m. too T. vi 167

flies T. iii 555

Moisture and drought, m., worms, and swarming Yet gnats have had, and frogs and m., long since T. [iii 452

MICROSCOPIC.

Such m. proof of skill and power Tir. 637

The screaming nations, hovering in m. air H. 353

Touched by the M. finger of the state T. iv. 507

MIDDLE.

The m. of my song J.G. 156 The m. field; but scattered by degrees T. i 293 To you, then, tenants of life's m. state Tir. 807

MIDNIGHT.

Has still a veil of m. on his heart Ch. 376 As m., and despairing of a morn J.T. 22 Sweet Harmony that soothes the m. hour P.E. 66 Pardon me, ye that give the m. oil R. 661 Who quits the coach-box at the m. hour T. i 91 Nor his who quits the box at m. hour T. i 98 Of m. murder was a wonder heard T. iv 563 As set the m. riot in a blaze Tir. 287

MIEN.

Sought, with an indignant m. B. 3 And yours the statelier m. L.R. 22Ecstasy sets her stamp on every m. P.E. 136 He, Christianlike, retreats with modest m. T. 68 Grace in his m., and glory in his eyes T. 407 And just proportion, fashionable m. T. ii 421 Fops at all corners, ladylike in m. Tir. 829

MIGHT.

Fruits of his love and wonders of his m. Con. 473 Thy chaos order, and thy weakness m. Ex. 641 And eke with all his m. J.G. 92And gallop'd off with all his m. J.G. 207 To span omnipotence, and measure m. T. v 212 Of all-creating energy and m. T. v 554 But this is sure—the hand of m. Trans. i 9

MIGHTIER.

A m. cried-" Proceed"-B.R. 6

MIGHTIEST.

We turn to dust, and all our m. works T. v 531

MIGHTILY.

Influenced m. the rest P.T. 43

MIGHTY.

On every mind some m. spell she cast A.T. 37 Are m. mischiefs, not to be withstood Ch. 283 Weak to perform, though m. to pretend P.E. 15 The m. myriads, now securely scorned R. 70 From m, means to more important ends R. 112 M. to parry and push-by God's word H. 659 His m. work, who speaks and it is done R. 60 The tone of languid Nature. M. winds T. i 183 Not by a m. wind, but by that voice T. ii 113 Thy most magnificent and m. freak T. v 130 By which the m. process is maintain'd T. vi 225 The diadem, with m. projects lined T.T. 59 The m. plan, oracular, in verse T.T. 179 On other m. ones, found also thee Y.O. 68

MIGRATES.

M. uplifted, and, with all its soil T. ii 108

MILD.

October hight, but m. and fair as May A.T. 71 Pure in her aim, and in her temper m. Ch. 422 I knew the man, and knew his nature m. E. iii 32 Had both alike been m. J.P. 6 Affable, humble, diffident, and m. P.E. 537 Can least brook management, however m. R. 252 But though true worth and virtue, in the m. T. i 678 For oft, as if in her the stream of m. T. iii 435 [443 As the sun peeps, and vernal airs breathe $m. \tilde{T}. \tilde{m}$ His lessons tire, his m. rebukes offend Tir. 716

MILDER.

Sips meek infusions of a m. herb Con. 268 M., among a people less austere T. v 483

MILDEST.

Their m. physic is a farrier's purge Ch. 502

MILDEW.

Blows m. from between his shrivelled lips T. ii 183 One talks of m, and of frost Y.D.58

Full ten m. off, at Ware J.G. 152 'Twas but a m.; your favorite horse M.F. 23 Distant a little m. he spied Mor. 17 She, never heard of half a m. from home T. 334

MILESTONE.

The second m, fronts the garden gate R, 490

MILITARY.

To let the m. deluge pass Ex. 60

MILK.

The m. of their good purpose all to curd Ch. 504 An 1 m., and oats, and straw Ep. ii 14Much. I was born of woman, and drew m. T. iii 196

MILKWHITE.

His m. hand; the palm is hardly clean T. iv 607

MILKY.

Drinks wisdom at the m. stream of light Ch. 319 Those the long m, way Q.V. 12

MILL.

With the double employment of mallet and m. F.M. Nor view of waters turning busy m. R. 334

MILLDAM,

The m., dashes on the restless wheel T. v 102

MILLENNIUM.

Half a m. since the date of thine Y.O. 136

MILLIONS.

And sighing m. prophecy the close Ex. 309
Those rights that m. envy thee appear Ex. 681
Combined with m. more O. i 18
And hears the m. hum Q.V. 42
Earth's m. daily fed, a world employed R. 553
Dreams empty dreams. The m. fit as gay T. iii 133
Two or three m. of the human race T.T. 423
Confine the m. in the beaten track T.T. 667

MILTON.

M., whose genius had angelic wings T. iii 255 Then M. had indeed a poet's charms T. iv 709 To give a M. birth, asked ages more T.T. 559

MIMIC

Where late we saw the m. landscape glow H. 263 And I can view this m. show of thee M.P. 119 Lovely indeed the m. works of Art T. i 420 The worth of what she m. with such care T. iii 103 Sweet Poll! the m. bird replies Trans. iv 14

MIMICRY.

Or make the parrot's m. his choice Con. 449
MINCING.

And sails with lappet head and m. airs T. 139

MIND.

Which amounts to possession time out of m." A.C.How fleet is a glance of the M.—A.S. 41 On every m. some mighty spell she cast A.T. 37 Are mere impressions on the passive m. A.T. 43 Far other dreams his feverish m, employed A.T. 153So it is, when the m. is endued C. 33 But though some nobler m. a law respect Ch. 35 He feels his body's bondage in his m. Ch. 152 Inform his m.; one flash of heavenly day Ch. 228 Within the scanty limits of the m. Ch. 247 But time that should enrich the nobler m. Comp. i 11 And show the softest m. and fairest forms Con. 259 The M. despatched upon her busy toil Con. 437 Its happiest soil in the serenest m.? Con. 594 Is the false fire of an o'erheated m. Con. 668 Upon the surface of the m. E. i 8 When m, that never met before E, i 31 Howe'er it was, his language, in my m. E. iii 40 Received the transcript of the Eternal M.—Ex. 198 With Asiatic vices stored thy m. Ex. 372 And to this hour, to keep it fresh in m. Ex. 516To every pang that racks an anxious m. Ex. 571Illuminating heart or m. F. 8 As similarity of m. F. 175 Or seeking with a biassed m. F. 209 Much less could be alter her m. Gr. 43 For he, with all his follies, has a m. H. 91 Their m. a wilderness through want of care H. 233 What simplest m. can soonest comprehend H. 452 In chains of error our accomplished m. H. 484Powers of the m., and feelings of the heart H. 654 Alas, how changed! Expressive of his m. H. 688 Not kindred m. alone are called to employ H. 738 And while they captivate, inform the m. H. 759She had a frugal m. J.G. 32 Were suited to their m. J.G. 58 ()f close alliance to the Eternal M.—J.T. 44 What joint the prophet had in m.) L.W. 14 Like Isaac, with a m. applied Mor. 11
And "Hence," he said, "my m. computes Mor. 25 Is paid at least in peace of m. Mor. 51 The various treasures of his m. Mrs. M = 42But, with precision nicer still, the m. N.A. 63 M. are never to be sold N.C. 8 N.A. 76

Stamped on each countenance such marks of m.

Come, peace of m., delightful guest! O, ii 1 The noblest m. their virtue prove P. 61 Your scruples and arguments bring to my m. P.A. 17Might well alarm the most unguarded m. P.E. 58 And lenient as soft opiates to the m. P.E. 80 The balm of care, Elysium of the m. P.E. 180 The M., impressible and soft, with ease P.E. 355 Hence an unfurnished and a listless m. P.E. 425 Learning itself, received into a m. P.E. 431 The m. and conduct mutually imprint P.E. 566 Delivered briefly thus his m. P.T. 22 But 'tis not easy with a m. like ours R. 123 But leisure, silence, and a m. released R. 139 Some m. by nature are averse to noise R. 175 So Love, that clings around the noblest ... R. 235 And m, that deem derided pain a treat R, 310 No rough annoyance rankling in his m. R. 428The portion of a mean or vulgar m. R. 502 Some to comply with humour, and a m. R. 605 A m. quite vacant is a m. distressed R. 624 But reveries (for human m. will act) R. 637 A m. employed on so sublime a theme R. 668 A m. unnerved, or indisposed to bear R. 677 Luxury gives the m. a childish cast R. 703 The m., relaxing into needful sport R.715From vulgar m., have honour much at heart R. 728 And puss came into m. no more R.C. 71 Oh, tell thy thoughtless sex, the virtuous m. S. ii 6 Prompt every movement of his heart and m. T. 194 His m. his kingdom, and his will his law T. 406 [411 So sings he, charmed with his own m. and form T. And leave to Mercy, with a tranquil m. T. 499 Let heathen worthies, whose exalted m. T. 525 And lull the spirit while they fill the m. T. i 187 The Earth was made so various, that the m. T. i 506 In cities foul example on most m. T. i 685 There only m. like yours can do no harm T. i 759 Where English m and manners may be found T. ii 208 To which the m. resorts, in chase of terms T. ii 288 The mirror of the m., and hold them fast T. ii 291 Are occupations of the poet's m. T. ii 298 [457 And rustic coarseness would. A heavenly m. T. ii Can lodge a heavenly m—demands a doubt T. ii 462 While prejudice in men of stronger m. T. ii 567 Some m. are tempered happily, and mixed T. ii 788 The m, was well-informed, the passions held T, ii 715 His m. with meanings that he never had T. iii 149 The m. indeed, enlightened from above T. iii 225 Compose the passions, and exalt the m. T. iii 305 Susceptible of pity, or a m. T. iii 323 The m. He gave me; driving it, though slack T. iii That has a heart, and keeps it; has a m. T. iii 374 Of thought, the creature of a polished m. T. iii 640 But it has peace, and much secures the m. T. iii 679 Hopeless indeed that dissipated m. T. iii 695 Suits well the thoughtful or unthinking m. T. iv 279 The m. contemplative, with some new theme T. iv 280 Behold the schools in which plebeian m. T. iv 492 To me an unambitious m., content T. iv 798 [iv 740] And all can taste them: m. that have been formed T. Of heroes, whose infirm and baby m. T. v 190 [751]Whose heart with praise, and whose exalted m. T. v In those that suffer it, a sordid m. T. v 453 [v 796 Not so the m. that has been touched from Heaven T. Thou art the source and centre of all m. T. v 896 And, as the m. is pitch'd, the ear is pleased T. vi 2 Faintly impress the m., or not at all T. vi 24 Wisdom in m. attentive to their own T. vi 92 [262 Who then, that has a m. well strung and tuned T. vi Food chiefly for the m. T.B. 42 Some act by the delicate m. The Rose 14 That form, indeed, the associate of a m. Tir. 5 The present Muse of every pensive m. Tir. 22

At once the dreaming m, is disabused Tir. 90Proofs of the wisdom of the all-seeing m. Tir. 94 That we are bound to cast the m. of youth Tir. 105 To feed our infant m. with proper fare Tir. 116 The most disinterested and virtuous m. Tir. 438[583 Though some, perhaps, that shock thy feeling m.Tir. The m. and heart of every sprightly boy Tir. 598 No nourishment to feed his growing m. Tir. 618 His m. informed, his morals undefiled Tir. 683 An upright heart, and cultivated m. Tir. 722 Where, stillness aiding study, and his m. Tir. 773 And formed of God without a parent's m. Tir. 790 A m. well lodged, and masculine of course T.T. 221 The m. attains, beneath her happy reign T.T. 262 Learns much, and to a thousand listening m. T.T.274 The m, that slumbers sweetly in her snares T.T.439I know the m. that feels indeed the fire T.T. 480 Proves that the m. is weak, or makes it so T.T. 545 'Twas thus till Luxury seduced the m. T.T. 600 [623 The m., released from too constrained a nerve T.T. To polish, furnish, and delight the m. T.T. 645 A soul exalted above Earth, a m. T.T. 701 Proof of a trifling and a worthless $m.\ T.T.\ 759$ Not to recall a promise to your $m.\ V.\ 21$ Relics of ages! could a m., imbued Y.O. 6 With the thought-tracing quill or tasked his m. Y.O.

Starved by that indolence their m. create Ch. 64 "Tis ready polished from the m." E. iv 90 With sums Peruvian m, could never clear Ex, 235 That proved a mint of wealth, a m. to Rome Ex. 523The fragrant grove, the inestimable m. H. 177And in the gulfs of her Cornubian m. H. 458(Unfelt the fury of those bursting m.) Her. 8 Surpassing all that m, or mint had given J.T. 30 His unexhausted m., the sordid vice P.E. 51 [698] Strong Judgment labouring in the Scripture m. R. And taints the golden ear. He springs the m. T. ii 187 A m to satisfy the enormous cost T iii 783 Or if that m. be shut, some private purse T. iii 797 The looms of Ormus, and the m. of Ind T. vi 806

MINER.

Raised by the mole, the m. of the soil T. i 273 MINGLE.

And once more m, with us meaner things Ch, 437 No Envy m. with our praise Dr. 13 Till yonder heaven and earth shall m. P.T. 33 And m, with our cup R.G. 27 That m. all my brown with sober gray Tir. 144 MINGLED.

As ever m. with heroic dust Ch. 24 And will not punish, in one m. crowd Ex. 716 Her m. suits and sequences, and sits T. i 475 Like kindred drops been m. into one T. ii 19 To them it flowed much m, and defiled T, ii 503 His sprightly m. with a shade of sad Tir. 665

MINIATURE.

Thyself in m., thy flesh, thy bone? Tir. 874 MINISTER.

The m. of man, to serve his wants T. ii 138 And most of all in man that m. T. ii 415 That makes a m. in holy things T. iii 280 Bleed gold for m. to sport away T. iv 508 With those fair m. of light to man T. \vee 816 When m. and ministerial arts T.T. 191 Prize it, ye m.; ye monarchs, spare T.T. 324

MINISTERIAL.

To serve his country. M. grace T. iii 795 When ministers and m. arts T.T. 190

MINISTRY.

In all its parts, times, m. and laws T.T. 427

MINNOW.

M. and gudgeons gorge the unwholesome food P.E. To draw the incantious m, from the brook R, 402

MINOR.

The m. heroes view with envious eyes Tir. 223

MINORITY.

M. No tutor charged his hand Y.O. 157 MINSTREL.

Afford the smaller m, no supply T, $v \otimes t$ And idle tinkling of a m.'s lyre T. vi 1021

MINSTRELSY.

"As much as I your m. N.G. 16

[iv 736 That here and there some sprigs of mournful is. T. That proved a m. of wealth, a mine to Rome Er. 523 Surpassing all that mine or m, had given J.T.30And stamp their image in each other's m. P.E. 567

MINTED.

When Scandal has new m, an old lie Ch. 513

MINUTE.

And ever as the m. flew Cast. 41 Every five m, how the m, go Con, 382 To trace in Nature's most m. design R. 53 Just fifteen m., huddle up their work T. ii 412 M. as dust and numberless, oft work T. iii 556 Terrestrial, in the vast and the m. T. v 811 M. the horrors that ensued T.B. 52

MINUTIÆ.

From mere m. can educe E. i 75

MINX.

"The m. shall, for your folly's sake J.P. 37

All we behold is m.; but, seen T. vi 132 So duly, all is m. in vain T. vi 133

MIRACULOUSLY.

Muscle and nerve m. spun R. 59

MIRROR

This table and m. within Gr. 21 A lucid m., in which Nature sees T. i 701 The m. of the mind, and hold them fast T. ii 291 Forth comes the pocket m.—First we stroke T.ii 415 From many a m. in which he of Gath T. iv 269 Blushed on the pannels. M. needed none T. v 160

MIRTH.

And forced the floodgates of licentious m. Con. 264 Though future pain may serve for present m. Con. 44 Then m. is sin, and we should always cry Con. 878. The harmless play of pleasantry and m. E. iii 39 Business or vain amusement, care or m. R. 647 Of idle m, and affectation coy S, ii 10 There is a public mischief in your m. T. i 769 Of fancy, or proscribes the sound of m. T. iv 170And m. without offence. No few return'd T. vi 89 Little inmate, full of m. Trans. iii 1 Her serious m., to Arbuthnot and Swift T.T. 657

Can change their whine into a m. note T. i 583

MIRY.

Or having long in m. ways been foiled T. iii 4 Along the m. road Y.D. 14

MISAGATHUS.

Dwelt young M.; a scorner he T. vi 485

MISAPPLIED.

Lest, having m. our eyes F. 26
Is m. to sanctify their sway P.E. 497
Who pant with application m. T. vi 273
This once believed, 'twere logic m. Tir. 103
How are the powers of genius m.! T.T. 749

MISAPPLYING.

Or m. his unskilful strength T. iii 402

MISARRANGEMENT.

(Fantastic m.)! on the roof T. v 111

MISCARRIAGE.

The way to glory by m. foul T. iii 506 Exults in his m. if he fail Tir. 478

MISCARRY.

Lest they m. of what seems their due Con. 372

MISCHIEF.

Are mighty m., not to be withstood Ch. 283 Account them implements of m. still Ch. 556 Springs from the m. it intends to cure Con. 170 And Hell's close m. naked in his sight Ex. 339 His aim was m. and his zeal pretence H. 561 The m. your ambitious pride inspires! Her. 46 Might prove a m., or at best a toy P.E. 302 But not the m.: they still left behind P.E. 554 But does a m, while she lends a grace R. 233 A den of m, never to be told T. 392 That may record the m, he has done T, i 277 There is a public m. in your mirth T. i 769 Of such deep m. has itself a cause T. ii 698 Of that calamitous m. has been found T. ii 821 Are gratified with m., and who spoil T. v 191 And m. in their hands, they roam the earth T. vi 896 If, author of no m. and some good T. vi 953 Childish in m. only and in noise Tir. 207 Though from ourselves the m. more proceeds Tir. Such m. after it, with much applause Tir. 494 Find it expedient, come what m. may Tir. 692 Some m. fatal to his future worth Tir. 758

MISCHIEVOUS.

Works the deplored and m. effect T. iv 616

MISDEEMS.

M. it, dazzled by its bright array T. iv 685

MISEMPLOY'D.

Power m., munificence misplaced Tir. 50

MISER.

Charity may relax the m.'s fist Con. 812 What pleasure can the m.'s fondled hoard J.T. 15 Ye patriots, guard it with a m.'s care T.T. 335

MISERABLE.

Their m. meal. A kettle, slung T. i 560 The sighs and groans of m. men! T. v 388

MISERY.

But m, still delights to trace Cast. 59 By the m, that we tasted N.C.It thrives in m, and abundant grows T.In m, fools upon themselves impose T.Ages of hopeless m. Future death T. v 607 That 'tis our shame and m, not to learn Tir.And laughs the sense of mc far away T.T.

MISGIVING.

A cold m., and a killing dread Con. 770

MISGUIDED.

Blind was he born, and his m. eyes Ch. 357

MISHAPS.

And now—alas, for unforeseen m.! Con. 821

MISLEAD.

The roving eye m. the careless heart R. 126

MISLED.

M. by custom, strain celestial themes T. ii 438

MISPLACED.

And gave m. applause J.P. 20 Power misemploy'd, munificence m. Tir. 50 See wealth abused, and dignities m. Tir. 815 The globe and sceptre in such hands m. T.T. 39

MISS.

And only m. the flowers that graced their side A.T. Transformed to blessings, m. their cruel aim E. ii 38 The postboy's horse right glad to m. J.G. 231 Whose corresponding m. fill the ream P.E. 311 M.! the tale that I rolate P.T. 62 Give useful light though I should m. renown R. 206 The good we never m. we rarely prize R. 406 [458 What obvious truths the wisest heads may m.! R. Scrawled upon glass M.Bridget's lovely name T.156 E'en m., at whose age their mothers wore T. iv 226 Nor ignorantly wandering m. the skies Tir. 108 [279 To M., the mercer's plague, from shop to shop T. vi Shall royal institutions m. the bays Tir. 503 "Tis now a little one, like M.—Trans. iv 17 And how does m. and madam do Y.D. 33

MISSED

And therefore never m. F.B. 12 We m. that happiness we might have found ! T. vi 28

MISSPENT.

And laughter, all their work, is life m. Con. 876 The shameful close of all his m. years H. 715 Thee to deplore were grief m. indeed J.T. 11 Near yonder heath; where Industry m. T. iii 643

MISSTATED.

Recovering and m. setting right Y.O. 48

MIST.

And snorts aloud to cast the m. aside A.T. 164 The rustling straw sends up a frequent m. T. i 360 Can but arrest the light and smoky m. T. v 105 The sun proceeds, I wander. Neither m. T. vi 296

MISTAKE.

Let Charity forgive me a m. Ch. 634
But sage observers oft m. the flame Con. 655
If I m. not—Blockhead! with a fork! H. 362
But if the wanderer his m. discern P.E. 610
Conclusion retrograde, and mad m. T. iii 239
Adopting their m., profoundly thinks T. v 270
Man yet m. his way The Doves 2
And make m. for manhood to reform Tir. 445
But soon, alas! detect the rash m. V. 55

MISTAKEN.

To Moses, was m. in its age T. iii 154

MISTRESS.

M., at least while Providence shall please Ex. 274
Now m. Gilpin (careful soul!) J.G. 65
Now m. Gilpin, when she saw J.G. 213
And she, once m. of the realms around T. 393
Such as the m. of the world once found T. iv 169
Ere yet her ear was m. of their powers T. iv 703
Imperial m. of the fur-clad Russ! T. v 129
Sweet Poll! his doting m. cries Trans. iv 13

MISUSE.

Who first m., then cast their toys away H. 128 MITE.

Adds as he can, his tributary m. T.T. 112

MITRED

But not the m. few, the soul their charge A.T. 129 From such apostles, O ye m. heads T. ii 392

MITRES.

Г369 In coach with purple lined, and m. on its side Tir.

The soul can m. with the celestial bands Con. 717 Courtier and Patriot cannot m. F. 127 By deeds in which the world must never m. P.E. 162 M. with the world, but with its wiser part R. 275 To m. her wild vagaries with thy laws T. v 873

MIXED.

Bents, wool, and feathers m. A Tale 40 'Tis wrong to bring into a m. resort Con. 291 By which Heaven rules the m. affairs of man H. 16 Pleasure and wonder in his features m. T. 416Some minds are tempered happily, and m. T. ii 788 With colours m. for a far different use T. iv 240 MIXTURE.

Here also grateful m. of well matched T. iii 633 MOAN.

Heard the sweet m. with pity, and devised T. i 74 MOB.

When lawless m. insult the Court Pat. 9 Who say the m. are mad outright Pat. 19 Train him in public with a m. of boys Tir. 206

> MOCK. Con. 501

Touched by that power that you have dared to m. She m. her Maker, and herself deceives Con. 776 Flits out of sight, and m. his pains E. iv 60 Would m. the majesty of man's high birth R. 71 He m. his Maker, prostitutes and shames T. ii 427 Till they can laugh at virtue, m. the fools T. ii 692 As they designed to m. me, at my side T. v 17 Thus Nature works as if to m. at Art T. v 122

MOCKERY.

Becomes a m. and a standing jest Ex. 110 No m. meets you, no deception there P.E. 618 A m. of the world! What need of these T. ii 750 MODE.

That substances, and m. of every kind A.T. 42 And sought it in the likeliest m. R.C. 33 And centering all authority in m. T. i 745 And m. of its conveyance, by such tricks T. ii 561 Infected with the manners and the m. T. iv 693 The slaves of custom and established m. Tir. 251 Not that he previshly rejects a m. T. vi 981

MODELS.

M. of Herculanean pots and pans P.E. 398 MODERATE.

We may with patience bear our m. ills T. iv 339 MODERN.

The chaster Muse of m. days omits A.T. 85 A dozen would-bes of the m. day Con. 612 Digression is so much in m. use Con. 855 At least, we m., our attention less Con. 791 What web too weak to catch a m. brain? Ex. 623 Friends such as his for m. jobs prepare R. 306 Your prudent grandmammas, ye m. belles R. 515 With what success let m. manners show R. 686

Down into m. use; transforms old print T. ii 363 Like those which m. senators employ T. iv 490 By m. lights from an erroneous taste T. iv 721 In m. eyes), shall make the doctrine clear T. vi 482 To combat atheists with in m. days Tir. 639 I was a poet too: but m. taste T.T.510Sufficient to redeem the m. race T.T. 664 To m. times, with Truth to guide 1789, 11

MODEST. Held within m. bounds, the tide of speech Con. 889 To m. cheeks, and borrowed one from Art Er. 48 Meek, m., venerable, wise, sincere Ex. 620

But m., sober, cured of all R.C. 103 He, Christianlike, retreats with m. mien T. 68 In m. mediocrity, content T. i 50 The head of m, and ingenuous worth T, ii 711 And lowly creeping, m. and yet fair T. iii 663 The m. speaker is ashamed and grieved T. iv 66 With m. grandeur in thy purple zone T. iv 257 Poor, yet industrious, m., quiet, neat T. iv 374

The meek and m. Truth, and forcing her T. vi 840 Of m. truth for wit's eccentric range Tir. 174 Backed with a m. sheet of humble prose V. 20

MODESTLY.

Know then, and m. let fall your eyes Con. 485 Those winding m, a silent course R. 78

MODESTY.

To press your point with m. and ease Con. 104 True M. is a discerning grace Con. 373 Whom once her virgin m. and grace T. iv 535 With m, and meekness, and the crown T. v 243 Offend not him, whom m. restrains Tir. 727

MODICUM.

To every man his m. of sense Con. 2 Gives him a m. of light Trans. i 11

MODISH.

And finds the m. manners of the day H. 612

MODULATING.

With music m, all their notes T.T. 695 MOGUL.

Fed from the richest veins of the M. Ex. 369

MOIST.

And all was m. to the warm touch; a scene $T. \times 166$ MOISTURE. iii 555

M. and drought, mice, worms, and swarming flies I. Soft airs and genial m. feed and cheer H. 489 And drunk no m. from the dripping clouds T. iii 515 The plentiful m. encumbered the flower The Rine 3Calm and alternate storm, m. and drought Y.O. 77

MOLE.

The m. and bats in full assembly find Ex. 630 To snare the m., or with ill-fashioned hook R. 401 Raised by the m., the miner of the soil T. i 273 As useless to the m, and to the bats T, vi 880 Were brighter than the sleekest m. T.B. 14 MOLEST.

Not to m., or irritate, or raise R. 317 MOLTEN.

That, as with m. glass, inlays the vale T. i 170 MOMENT.

"Again, would your lordship a m. suppose A.C. 17 In a m. I seem to be t here A.S. 46 The sun of that m, is set C, 3 To wing all her m, at home C, 50 All bonds of nature in that m. end Ch. 142

And snap the chain the m. when you may Ch. 168 And every m.'s calm, that soothes the breast E. ii 39 But somewhat at that m. pinched him close E. iii 34 The m, when I heard from you E, iv 24 Demands one m, of thy fleeting time Ep, i 2 Thy language at this distant m, shows Ex, 480 At length his destined m. to be born? F.A. 26 As useless as the m, it began H, 96 And the m. the monster expired M.D. 38 Your golden m. bless Miss - 102 And bar the door the m. they intrude P.E. 160 A m. liberty to speak P.T. 20 God in a m. executes with ease) R. 328 No, not a m., in his royal heart R. 774 Play wanton, every m., every spot T. i 349 Receive our air, that m. they are free T. ii 41 Of smiling Victory that m. won T. ii 243 And at this m. unassayed in song T. iii 451 The auspicious m., when the tempered heat T. iii A m's operation on his love T. iii 793 To engross a m. notice; and yet begs T. iv 67 To him whose m, all have one dull pace T. v 407 Infect his happiest m., he forebodes T. v 606 In that blest m., Nature throwing wide T. v 891 That in a few short m. I retrace T. vi 16 May think down hours to m. Here the heart T. vi His m, when to sink and when to rise T, vi 130 Can cheat, or move a m.'s fear in me? T. vi 508 Finds in a sober m, time to pause Tir. 56 Weigh, for a m., classical desert Tir. 488 [Tir. 614 On m. squandered else, and running all to waste That unimproved those many m. fly? Tir. 616 Deem it of no great m, whose or where Tir. 784

MOMENTARY.

A m. dream, that thou art she M.P. 20 To hang their m. fires Q.V. 15

MOMENTUM.

Whether increased m., and the force P.E. 405

MONARCH.

I am m. of all I survey A.S. 1 She, with all a m.'s pride B. 37 Thy m, arbitrary, fierce, unjust Ex. 528 Her gloomy m., doubtful, and resigned Ex. 570 The m most that seldom will appear H. 502 Ye m., whom the lure of honour draws Her. 41 What are ye, m., laurelled heroes, say Her. 77A m. clothed with majesty and awe T. 405 He held the thunder. But the m. owes T. i 382 To m. dignity; to judges sense T. iv 796 (Made by a m.) on her own estate T. v 171 That m. have supplied, from age to age T. v 386 Which m. cannot grant, nor all the powers T. v 540 The new made m., while before him pass'd T. vi 353 The lion tells him-I am m. here! T. vi 408 A m. errors are forbidden game T.T. 114 Prize it, ye ministers; ye m.'s, spare T. T. 334

MONARCHY.

If m. consist in such base things T.T. 139 MONASTIC.

A superstitious and m. course R. 118

MONEY.

Deals him out m. from the public chest T. iii 796 Spendthrift alike of m. and of wit T.T. 684 The m. chinks, down drop their chins Y.D. 51

MONITOR.

The faithful m.'s and poet's part H. 757 A m.'s, though not a poet's praise R. 806 By m. that mother church supplies T. ii 576 What was a M. in George's days? T. ii 580 A M. is wood—plank shaven thin T. ii 585

MONITORY.

Pause here, and think! A m. rhyme Ep. i 1 But the m. strain St. iv 17

MONK.

So he called him a bigot, a wrangler, a m. A.T. ii 3 MONKISH.

Wast thou in m. cells and nunneries found Ch. 43 MONMOUTH.

Send your dishonoured gown to M. Street P.E. 121 MONOPOLISTS.

Suppose themselves m, of sense Con. 627 MONSTER.

And quell the shapeless m. of the times A.T, 142 And the moment the m, expired M.D. 38 This more than m, in his proper guise H, 573 Come fiend, come fury, giant, m., blast N.A. 121 Right to his mark the m. went T.B. 50 Chief m. that has plagued the nations yet! T.T. 38 MONSTROUS.

What m. lies some travellers will tell " Ch. 394 For m. novelty and strange disguise T. ii 612 And give your m. project all its force Tir. 239

MONTAGU.

To dress a room for M.-Mrs. M-2Safe with protecting M.-Mrs. M-20All these to a M.'s repair Mrs. M-43

MONTH.

Some pleasures live a m., and some a year R. 459 And novels (witness every m.'s Review) R. 713 Learn then, ye living! by the m. be taught St. ii 33 The regular return of genial m. T. vi 123 But let the m. go round, a few short m. T. vi 140

MONUMENT.

Not the proud m. of Greece or Rome Ch. 302 Where stands that m. of ancient power Ch. 549 The m. of human strength E. i 82 Invites us. M. of ancient taste T. i 253

MONUMENTAL.

Toils much to earn a m, pile T, i 276 With schemes of m. fame; and sought T. v 182

Played only gambols in a frantic m. H. 541I indulge my poetical m. Gr. 51 And though she changed her m. so oft J.P. 23 Both sad and in a cheerful m. N.Y.G. 3 Risk an intrusion on thy pensive m. R. 255Of churlish Winter, in her froward m. T. iii 433 Conceals the m, lethargic with a mask T, iv 299 The night was winter in his roughest m. T. vi 57 His horse, as he had caught his master's m. T. vi 549 And thou at best, and in thy soberest m. Tir. 753He struck the lyre in such a careless m. T.T. 686

MOON.

Knight of the Silver M., Sir Marmadan A.T. 136 Eight years and five round-rolling m. Ep. ii 29 States thrive or wither, as m. wax and wane Ex. 324 Then to the dance, and make the sober m. P.E. 173In rushes Folly with a full m. tide P.E. 282 The crescent m., the diadem of night R. 82 The purple evening and resplendent m. R. 348While thirteen m, saw smoothly run St, i 1 That hails the rising m., have charms for me T. 206 But change with every m, The sycophant T, ii 599

Suffices thee; save that the m is thine T iv 254 645Has made a Heaven on earth; with suns and m. T. iii Bestrides the wintry flood, in which the m. T. iv 3 Another m. new risen, or meteor fallen T. v 152 Enchanting novelty, that m. at full T. vi 706 Why takes the gentler M. her turn to rise Tir. 38 The m. of Jove, and Saturn's belted ball Tir. 634

MOONBEAM.

The m, sliding softly in between T, i 762 MOONLIGHT.

Perhaps by m., at their humble doors T. iv 171

MOORS.

The heaths uncovered and the m. A Tale 17 MOP. Just like unto a trundling m. J.G. 139

MORAL.

A m., sensible, and well-bred man Con. 193 And give the m. springs their proper play Con. 832 Not of the m., but the dancing school P.E. 190 Unnerves the m. powers, and mars their use P.E. 272 It stabs at once the m. of a land P.E. 306 With some cold m, think to quench the fire P.E. 320 Then pour it on the m. of thy son P.E. 345 No-the man's m, were exact; what then? T. 52 Through plenty, lose in m. what they gain T. i 624 But loose in m., and in manners vain T. ii 378 My man of m., nurtured in the shades T. ii 532 Seem most at variance with all m. good T. iv 621 Of rectitude and fitness, m. truth T. v 672 How lovely, and the m. sense how sure T. v 673 Through m. narrative, or sacred text Tir. 126 While m. languish, a despised concern Tir. 514 A man of letters, manners, m., parts Tir. 673 His mind informed, his m. undefiled Tir. 683 To cultivate and keep the m. clean Tir. 920 The song was m., and so far was right T.T. 599 The manners, not the m., of the day V. 80

MORALIST.

Sweet m.! afloat on life's rough sea R.H. 3 The saint or m. should tread \tilde{S} . 17 And stately tone of m., who boast T. v 690

MORALITY.

"Adieu to all m., if Grace H. 359 What are they now?—M. may spare H. 515 Gave Virtue and M. a grace T.T. 648

MORALIZE.

But not to m. too much, and strain E. iii 42

MORN.

Yes, but an object bright as orient m. H. 550A tempest usher in the dreaded m. H. 717 As midnight, and despairing of a m. J.T. 22 And here I wander eve and m. M.B. 11Ask not the boy, who when the breeze of m. R. 395The sprightly m. her cause renewed R.C. 69 Or pass unheeded this auspicious m. S. ii 4 Herself from m. to night, from night to m. T. 509 She tells me, too, that duly every m. T. i 663 [131 Shortening his journey between m, and noon T, iv From m, to eve his solitary task T. v 44

MORNING.

The m. came, when neighbour Hodge A Fable 24 Snuffs up the m. air, forgets the rain Ch. 175 The peop of m, shed a dawning light Ch. 261 Whose foot ne'er tainted m. dew Ep. ii 3 My drink the m. dew G. 3 She spreads the m. over eastern hills H. 41

The m. came, the chaise was brought J.G. 33 Thy m. bounties ere I left my home M.P. 60 His m. course, the enchantment was begun P.E. 68 While m, kindles with a windy red R. 432 Would ye, when rambling in your m. ride R. 545 Duly as clink of bell to m. prayers T. 140 Whose flambeaux flash against the m. skies T. ii 648 The m. finds the self-sequestered man T. iii 386 'Tis m.; and the sun, with ruddy orb T. v 1 The m. sharp and clear. But now at noon T. vi 58 MOROSE.

Else he was seldom bitter or m. E. iii 35

MORRIS-DANCE.

Than caper in the m. of verse T.T. 519

MORSEL.

Receives the m.—flesh obscene of dog T. i 562 MORTAL.

Worse than the m. brunt of rival swords Con. 86 M. whose pleasures are their only care P.E. 289 Felt each a m. stab in her own breast P.E. 339 And m. nuisance into all the air T. ii 98 Hangs over m. eyes, blind from the birth T. iii 234 To some secure and more than m, height T, iv 96 A voice is heard that m. ears hear not $T. \vee 896$ Not to be wronged by a mere m. touch T. vi 748 That hides divinity from m. eyes T. vi 877 Gives Liberty the last, the m. shock T.T. 476 With more than m. music on his tongue T.T. 737

MORTALITY.

Ere yet m.'s fine threads give way $T. \ v. 578$

MORTIFIED.

Was hurt, disgusted, m. P. 19 Of malice fed while flesh is m. T. 166 MORTIFY.

My dog shall m. the pride D.W. 39 To m, and grieve me F. 213 And m, the liberal hand of love T, ii 757

MORTIFYING.

And is it not a m. thought T. 339 Alas! 'twas but a m. stroke T. v 169

As meek as the man M., and withal Ex. 444 To M., was mistaken in its age T. iii 154

Peeps through the m. that clothes the hawthorn root Thick overspread with m, and silky grass N.A. 2 Hence, ankle-deep in m. and flowery thyme T. i 270

MOSS-CUSHIONED.

Of girth enormous, with m. root Y.O. 64

MOSS-GROWN.

This m. alley, musing, slow S. 18

Where Nature has her m. velvet spread E. ii 15

MOTH.

So man, the m., is not afraid, it seems T. vi 211 MOTHER.

Affectionate, a m. lost so long M.P. 14 My m.! when I learned that thou wast dead M.P.21Soon every father-bird and m. P.T. 56 That Chatham's language was his m. tongue T. ii 237 By monitors that m. church supplies T. ii 576 [14] As they had known him from his m.'s womb T. iii E'en misses, at whose age their m, wore T. iv 226

To break some maiden's and his m's heart T, iv 656 Beat high within them at a m's wrongs T. v 519 The boy's neglected sire! a m. too T. vi 43 Lurks in the serpent now: the m. sees T. vi 778 A m.'s lecture and a nurse's care Tir. 196

MOTHER-BIRD.

The m. is gone to sea A Tale 45

MOTION.

All distance, m., magnitude, and now T. i 717 Shall counterfeit the m. of the flood T. ii 148 Friendly to vital m., may afford T. iii 509 The nimble m. of those restless joints T. iii 762

MOTIONLESS.

Stand m. expectants of its fall T. v 528Fixed m., and petrified with dread T. vi 538

MOTIVE.

From m. such as his, though not the best Ch. 481 Such as our m. is our aim must be Ch. 567 And still by m. of religious force J.T. 33 Here various m. his ambition raise P.E. 53 Discordant m. in one centre meet R. 173 The principle and m. all in all T. 200 Though m, of mere lucre sway the most Tir, 518

MOTLEY.

Vicissitude wheels round the m. crowd H. 17 [154 Preaching and pranks will share the m. scene P.E. That spreads his m. wings in the eye of noon T. iii 135 The world, with all its m. rout. Trans. ii 26 [215] With m. plumes; and, where the peacock shows T. iv

MOTS.

Bon m. to gall the Christian and the Jew T. 308

MOULD.

In such a m. philosophique R.C. 9 In human m., should brutalize by choice T. i 575 Betimes into the m. of heavenly truth Tir. 106 Verse in the finest m. of fancy cast T.T. 618

MOULDED.

But m. by his Maker into man Y.O. 149

MOULDERING.

Where m, abbey walls o'erhang the glade H. 351 To view some rugged rock or m. tower T. iv 235

MOULDY.

To read, engraven on the m. walls T. v 418

Grow freakish, and o'erleaping every m. T.T. 302

MOUNT.

He m. at once—such confidence infused A.T. 175 Sounds forth the signal, as she m. her car H. 647 M. from inferior beings up to God R. 114 Doubts not hereafter with the saints to m. T. 150 That m. the stile with ease, or leaps the fence T.i 136 We m. again, and feel at every step T. i 271 The things that m, the rostrum with a skip T, ii 409 He settles next upon the sloping m. T. iii 486

MOUNTAIN.

And made the m. tremble at his frown? Ch. 78 Duly, as ever on the m.'s height Ch. 260 From the blue rim, where skies and m. meet H. 49 And bids the m, he has built, stand fast H. 476 Slept unperceived, the m. yet entire Her. 2 Again the m. feels the imprisoned foe Her. 37 Some Alpine m., wrapped in snow Miss — 33 And he shall gild you m.'s height again P.E. 69 Where m., river, forest, field, and grove R. 29

And bid her m, and her hills rejoice R. 362 Crush me, ye rocks; ye falling m., hide T. 269 Thou climbest the m. top, with eager eye T. i 664 Abhor each other. M. interposed T. ii 17 The hills move lightly, and the m. smoke T. ii 91 At hewing m, into men, and some T, v 178 At building human wonders m. high T. v 179 His are the m., and the valleys his T. v 742Shout to each other, and the m. tops T. vi 794 From distant m. catch the flying joy T. vi 795 The bolts that spare the m.'s side Trans. H. 16

MOUNTAINOUS.

Here runs the m. and craggy ridge T. iv 57

MOUNTAIN-TOP.

Brutes graze the m., with faces prone T. \vee 785

MOUNTEBANK.

God's worship and the m. between P.E. 156

MOUNTED.

And on her wickerwork high m. A Fable 3 Now see him m. once again J.G. 77 With tails high m., ears hung low, and throats N.A. And always, ere he m., kissed his horse R. 578 Church ladders are not always m. best Tir. 381

MOURN.

"Shall m, her absent lord, for he is gone A.T. 104 I m.; or, since thrice happy thou must be J.T. 9 But ages yet to come shall m. M. i 11 Bids me and Mary m. N. 14 Or laugh or m. with me, the rueful jest P.E. 110 Man m. his fleeting breath St. v 26 Ye fallen avenues! once more I m. T. i 338 [814 His birth-place and his dam? The country m. T. ii M. because every plague that can infest T. ii 815 Grieves, but alarms me not. I m, the pride T, iv 102 The cattle m, in corners, where the fence T, v 27 Maria weeps—the Muses m.—T.B. 61

MOURNER.

On man, a m. in his best estate! Ch. 156 And crowns the soul, while yet a m. here H. 165 And wast it to the m. as he roves R. 338

With m. scutcheons, and dim lamps between H. 265 And oaks coeval spread a m, shade H, 352 How each would trembling wait the m. sheet St. ii 5 That here and there some sprigs of m. mint T. iv 756

MOURNFULLY.

Till farce itself, most m. jejune R. 711

MOUSE.

And where, secure as m. in chink R.C. 5 Dire foe alike of bird and m. T.B. 20 And the m. with curious snout Trans. iii 12

MOUTH.

So language in the m. of the adult Con. 15 Give it the breast, or stop its m. with pap! Con. 480 With m, made only to grin wide and cat R, 309 The m. with blasphemy, the heart with woe T. i 505 The curbs invented for the mulish m. T. ii 744 Hence, in a Roman m., the graceful name T.T.500The future, best unknown, but at thy m. Y.O. 43

MOVE.

The winged mansion m. A Tale 50 It m. me more perhaps than Folly ought Con. 625 In England's case to m, the Muse to tears? E_x , 2 In England's case to m, the Muse to tears? E_x , 31 Their host to m., and when it stayed to rest Ex. 180

If Interest m, thee, to persuade e'en thee Ex. 667 But they that wore them, m. not at the sound H. 237 It hurts our pride, and m. our envy less H. 553 These m, the censure and illiberal grin H, 744 [25] Which, though new-born, with vigour m. Mrs. M-Ordained to m. when others please P. 7 A trifle if it m. but to amuse P.E.~303Stand close concealed, and see a statue m. R. 284 Must m. and act for him alone R.C. 114 No more m. us than the bell St. iv 31 M. without noise, and swift as an express T. 204 Say on what hinge does his obedience m.? T. 207 An instant's pause, and lives but while she m. T.i371As m. derision, or by foppish airs T. ii 562 The hills m. lightly, and the mountains smoke T. ii M. right toward the mark; ner stops for aught, T. v 53 For their conception, which they cannot m. T. v 254M. indignation, makes the name of king T. v 442 The great artificer of all that m. T. vi 207 [T.v 666 He slights the strokes of conscience. Nothing m. Of that controlling ordinance they m. T. vi 202 [597] By which Heaven m. in pardoning guilty man T. vi Can cheat, or m. a moment's fear in me? T. vi 508 Can m. or warp; and gratitude for small T. vi 629 Should m. a sneer at thy deserved fame Tir. 142 What causes m. us, knowing, as we must Tir. 292 And m, the lips of poets cast in lead T.T. 203 A kick that scarce would m. a horse Y.D. 63

MOVEABLE.

This m. structure of shelves Gr. 25
The roof, though m. through all its length T. vi 72
MOVED. [232]

"Yes" (rather m.) "I saw it with these eyes!" Con.
And Cyrus, with relenting pity m. Ex. 75 [152
M. not, while theirs was rocked like a light skiff T. ii
Grew tremulous, and m. derision more T. ii 729[566
The weak prehaps are m., but are not taught T. ii
More briskly m. by his severer toil T. iv 389
M. many a sigh at its disheart ning length T. vi 22
Where now the vital energy that m. T. vi 134
The charity that warmed his heart was m. T. vi 498
When sin hath m. him, and his wrath is hot T. vi 712
The man that is not m. with what he reads T.T. 25

MOVEMENT.

Prompt every m. of his heart and mind T 194 His form, and m.; is as smart above T. iv 641

MOVEST.

That now at every step thou m. M. 38 MOVING.

That m. signal summoning, when best Ex. 179
With opera glass to watch the m. scene T. ii 453
With matron step slow m., while the Night T. iv 246
Noiseless, appears a m. hill of snow T. iv 316

Ch. 5

Plunged in the stream, they lodge upon the m. Darts to the m., and finds his safety there P.E. 503

MUDDY.

Spawned in the m. beds of Nile, came forth T. ii 827

MULBERRY-TREE.

The m. was hung with blooming wreaths T. vi 685 The m. stood centre of the dance T. vi 686 The m, was hymn'd with dulcet airs T. vi 687 And from his touchwood trunk the m. T. vi 688

MULCIBER.

Seem the labour of M.'s hands Gr. 40

MULETEER.

A m.'s the man to set him right P.E. 541

MULISH.

That m. folly, not to be reclaimed C_{h} . 497 The curbs invented for the m. m

MULTIFORM.

The expedients and inventions m. T. ii 237
And tortures and groans will be m. at ll P.A. 12
And by caprice as m. as his T. ii 597
With lights, by clear reflection m. T. iv 238
When man was m. and spread abroad T. v 221

MULTITUDE.

So fares it with the m. beguiled H. 278
The life of m., a nation's bread! Her. 56
"We do"—a m. replies L.W. 25
And every hour sweeps m. away R. 159
M., fugitive on every side T. ii 106
That, like the m. made faction-mad T. iii 673
Of m. unknown! Hail, rural life! T. iv 783
With all his roaring m. of waves T. v 766
Holds an unthinking m. enthrall'd T. vi 100

MUM.

I pity them greatly, but I must be m. P.A. 5

MUMBLING.

Sheepish he doffs his hat, and m. swears T. iv 623 MUMMERY.

By m. He that dwelt in it disdained Ex. 146 Our sabbaths closed with m. and buffoon P.E. 153 And histrionic m., that let down T. ii 563

MUNIFICENCE.

Powers misemploy'd, m. misplaced Tir. 50

MURDER.

Of midnight m. was a wonder heard T. iv 563 The seeds of m. in the breast of man T. v 210

MURDERER.

The robber and the m. weak as we? Ch. 68
And the first smith was the first m.'s son T. v 219
His m. on his back, and, push'd all day T. vi 428

MURMUR.

O salutary streams, that m. there! E. ii 28 Could he with reason m. at his case H. 316 That m. through the dewy mead O. ii 16 'Gan m., as became the softer sex T. i 71 Snore to the m. of the Atlantic wave? T. iv 27 Falls a soft m. on the uninjured ear T. iv 93

MURMURING.

M. and weary of our daily toil Ch. 221
Still m. with the solemn truths I teach Ex. 719
M. and ungrateful Discontent R. 759
Now m. soft, now roaring in cascades T. iii 779

MURRAY

And M. sighs o'er Pope, and Swift M. i 5 O'er M.'s loss the Muses wept M. ii 5

MUSCLE.

And buy the m. and the bones of man? Ch. 140 M. and nerve miraculously spun R. 59
And withered m., and the vapid soul T. i 393
Proportioned well, half m. and half bone T.T. 219

MUSCULAR.

I view the m. proportioned limb T. v 15

MUSE.

The chaster M. of modern days omits A.T. 85 That I presume to address the M.—E. iv 12 [Er. 1 Why weeps the M. for England? What appears All speak her happy :—let the M. look round Ex.27In England's case to move the M. to tears? Ex. 32 M., hang this harp upon you aged beech Ex. 718 [19] But oh! what M., and in what powers of song Her. O'er Murray's loss the M. wept M. ii 5 The angry M. thus sings thee forth M.B. 23 Awaking, how could I but m. M.D. 41The M. sweep the lyre Miss — 84
No matter when—a poet's M. is P. 23
Sing M., (if such a theme, so dark, so long P.E. 1 May find a M. to grace it with a song) P.E. 2 But the M., eagle-pinioned, has in view P.E. 331 Petronius! all the M. weep for thee P.E. 335 [604 But, M., forbear; long flights forebode a fall P.E. To m. on the perishing pleasures of man P.F. 18 Then sweet to m, upon his skill displayed R, 51 Sorrow might m. herself to madness then T. 441 To m, in silence, or at least confine T, iii 36 No loose or wanton, though a wandering M.-The firstborn efforts of my youthful m. T. iv 701 Ah, M.! forbear to speak T.B. 51 [v 7 Their names to the sweet lyre. The historic M.-But hush!—the m. perhaps is too severe T. vi 653 Maria weeps—the M. mourn T.B. 61 The present M. of every pensive mind Tir. 22 Say, m., (for education made the song Tir. 290 No m. can hesitate, or linger long) Tir. 291 [787 But courage, man! methought the M_ replied Tir. No m. can hesitate, or linger long) Tir. 291 You think, no doubt, he sits and m. Trans. ii 19 Awakes sometimes the M. too Trans. H. 29 Reward his memory, dear to every M.—T.T. 14 The poet's m., his passion, and his theme T.T. 289 The M. imparts, and can command the lyre T.T. 481 Else summoning the M. to such a theme T.T. 550 Judged every effort of the M. a crime T.T. 617 The M. instructed a well nurtured train T.T. 634 He snatched it rudely from the M.'s hand T.T. 689 And every M. attend her in her way T.T. 719 No M. on these lines attend U. 29

In England's case to move the M, to tears ? Ex. 2

MUSED.

Taking my lonely winding walk, I m. F.A. 8 Awhile they m.; surveying every face N.A. 73 Catching its ardour as I m. along R. 376

MUSIC.

Never hear the sweet m, of speech A.S. 11 Hark! 'tis the m. of a thousand rills Ch. 367 Like m. it tinkles and rings in your ears F.M. 7 Sweet m. is no longer m. here H. 702 'Gan make his instrument of m. speak N.A. 44 That you with m., I with light- $N.\tilde{G}$. 21 Love makes the m. of the blest above P.E. 77 Set Paul to m., he shall quote him too P.E. 113 Still I insist, though m. heretofore P.E. 138 To waste unheard the m. of his strains R. 548 Tis manly m., such as martyrs make R. 775[S. i 10 Both heart and head; and couldst with m. sweet He treads as if, some solemn m. near T. 62 Of ancient growth, make m. not unlike T. i 185 And m. of her woods—no works of man T. i 430 Is famished—finds no m. in the song T. i 468 And m. of the bladder and the bag T. i 585 And heard our m.; are thy simple friends T. i 645 Birds warbling all the m. We can spare T. i 764 Some note of Nature's m. from his lips T. iii 600 With such heart-shaking m., who can say T. iv 24 To books, to m., or the poet's toil T. iv 262 Enchanting m. and immortal wreaths T. iv 68 With m, such as suits their sovereign ears T, v 387 Account it m.; that it summons some T. v 409 [647 "Attend to their own m.? Have they faith T. Smitten in vain! such m. cannot charm T. v 682

How soft the m. of those village bells T. vi 6 Whence all the m. I again perceive T. vi 67 Makes wintry m., sighing as it goes T. vi 143 Recovering fast its liquid m., prove T. vi 261 (O wonderful effect of m.'s power!) T. vi 633 To meaner m., and not suffer loss T. vi 750 The storm of m, shakes the astonished crowd T.T.With m. modulating all their notes T.T. 695 With more than mortal m. on his tongue T.T. 737

MUSICAL.

As only her m, tongue C, 19 M. as the chime of tinkling rills P.E. 14 Are m. enough in Thomson's song R. 570 As ornamental, m., polite T. iv 489But he (his m. finesse was such) T.T. 652

MUSIC-DRAWING.

Of drunkards, or the m, bow St, ii 12

MUSICIAN.

And give the day to a m.'s praise T. vi 644

MUSING.

In daily m, and in nightly dreams A.T. 12A difference strikes at length the m. heart Comp. i 8 In m. worthy of the great event Con. 510 This moss-grown alley, m., slow S. 18 That lost in his own m., happy man! T. ii 301 And settle in soft m. as I tread T. vi 69

MUSSULMAN.

"Good M., abstain from pork L.W. 2

MUSTEBING.

When most severe, and m. all its force T. vi 31

Witnessed, of m. in all Y.O.70

MUTATION.

And studious of m. still, discard T. ii 610

MUTE.

The fear of being silent makes us m. Con. 352 That fables old, that seemed for ever m. Con. 817 Ensured him m. attention and regard H. 687 Not one of them was m. J.G. 238 M. as e'er gazed on orator or bard S. i SScared, and the offended nightingale is m. T. i 768 And though by nature m. T.B. 9I hear as m. as if a Syren sung T.T. 199 With m unconsciousness of what he saw Y.O. 143

MUTILATED.

A m. structure, soon to fall T. i 774

MUTINY.

He gives the word, and M. soon roars T.T. 452

MUTTON.

When thus a m. statelier than the rest N.A. 81

MUTUAL.

This genial intercourse, and m. aid Ch. 93 But we, in m. bondage knit Dr. 17 M. attention is implied F. 49 Had been their m. solace long F.B. 5 Benevolence, and peace, and m. aid T. ii 48 Nor comfort else, but in their m. love T. iv 406 "Our m. bond of faith and truth The Doves 9

MUTUALLY.

Of hearts in union m. disclosed Con. 680 The mind and conduct m, imprint P.E, 566

MYRIADS.

The mighty m., now securely scorned R. 70

How find the m., that in summer cheer T. v 77 The propagated m. spread so fast P.E. 484 She m. found below Q.V. 76

Hung not far off upon a m. bough A.T. 174 Shall grow the m., and luxuriant yew" H. 527 Once more the spiry m. crowns the glade Her. 31 Of golden fruitage, and her m. bowers T. ii 215 Who sell their laurel for a m. wreath T. ii 229 The spiry m. with unwithering leaf T. iii 570 Of orange, m., or the fragrant weed T. iv 764

MYSTERY.

[F.A. 28

Deep m. both! which schoolmen must have toiled To unriddle, and have left them m. still F.A. 29 To search forbidden deeps where m. lies F.A.33

M. are food for angels; they digest F.A.35Explains all m., except her own T. ii 528 And all the m, to faith proposed T, vi 878

MYSTERIOUS.

Of Heaven's m. purposes and ways Ch. 58 M. are his ways whose power E. i 29 Such Mahomet's m. charge L.W. 7 On subjects more m., they were yet T. v 290 Illuminates. Thy lamp, m. Word! T. v 846

MYSTIC.

An Indian m., or a French recluse T. 128

MYTHOLOGIC.

And taught at schools much m, stuff Tir, 197

N.

NABAIOTH.

N., and the flocks of Kedar there T. vi 805

NAG.

Curried his n. and looked another way R. 590

NAIAD.

A little N. her impoverished urn T. i 328 The dancing N. through the dewy meads T.T. 693

Whose headaches n, them to a noonday bed T, i 500 NAILED.

From a worse yoke, and n. it to the tree Ex. 220

NAKED.

Sca-beaten rocks and n. shores A Tale 19 And Hell's close mischief n, in his sight Ex. 339 Those n. acres to a sheltering grove T. iii 773 And all shall be restored. These n. shoots T. vi 141

NAME.

The land of dreams, Hypothesis her n. A.T. 6 [ii 4 With as many hard n, as would line a good trunk A. T. Heccless of a soldier's n. B. 22 To n. ignoble, born to be forgot! B.B. 2 That tells his n., his worth, his age Cast. 51 Whether we n. thee Charity or Love Ch. 3 A poet's n., by making thee the theme Ch. 14 Canst thou, and bonoured with a Christian n. Ch. 180 I must incur, forgetting Howard's n. Ch. 296 Makes wisdom, worthy of the n, his own Ch. 350 Flavia, most tender of her own good n. Ch. 453 A thousand n, are tossed into the crowd Ch. 517 The wreath He won so dearly in our n. Ch. 586 The founder of that n, alone inspires Ch. 600 Whoever boasts that n.—behold a cheat! Ch. 603 N. almost worthy of a Christian's praise Con. 36 God's n. so much upon his lips, a priest Con. 72 By Fashion taught, forbade them once to n. Con. 496 Known by thy bleating, Ignorance thy n. Con. 588 And give true piety that odious n. Con. 656 Bad men, profaning friendship's hallowed n. Con. The praise of n. for ages obsolete Con. 828 [Con. 908] It sounds Jehovah's n., and pours his praise along But ills of every shape and every n. E. ii 37 The favours poured upon the Jewish n. Ex. 170 Their n. far published, and revered as far Ex. 194

Their n., alas! in vain reproach an age E_{ℓ} . 660 Hence authors of illustrious n. F. 85 His n. of wisdom, goodness, power, and love H. 135 Or, more provoking still, of nobles a. H. 192 A right to the meek honours of her n., H. 236 [43] And add Right Reverend to Smug's honoured π . H. I slur a n. a poet must not speak) H. 555 Happy the bard, (if that fair n. belong H. 754 Oppression his terrible s. M.D. 28 All tribes beside of Indian n. Mrs. M-9 Where once we dwelt our n, is heard no more M.P. Those Christians best deserve the n. N.G. 35 Birds of all feather, beasts of every n. N.A. 65 Retires to blazon his own worthless n. R. 217 Thyrsis, Alexis, or whatever n. R. 247He that has not usurped the n. of man R. 319 To carve his rustic s. upon a tree R. 400 I pity, and must therefore sink the n. R. 576 Though I revere your honourable n. R. 663 Belie their n., and offer nothing new R. 714 Too rigid, in my view, that n. to one R. 720 Flowers by that n. promiscuously we call R. 723 Can life in them deserve the n. St. vi 13 Your sentence and mine differ. What's an.? I.107 Scrawled upon glass Miss Bridget's lovely n. T.155 And man might safely trifle with his n. T. 556 The pauels, leaving an obscure, rude n. T. i 282 And theirs alone seems worthy of the n. T. i 358 The boast of mere pretenders to the n. T. i 492 How, in the n. of soldiership and sense T. ii 225 238 And Wolfe's great n. compatriot with his own I. ii And show the n. ye might conceal at home T. ii 279 The pulpit, therefore, (and I n. it filled T. ii 326 Oh n. it not in Gath! it cannot be T. ii 367 And vicious pleasures; buys the boy a n. T. ii 759 His n. a theme for praise and for reproach? T. iii 283 Start at his awful n., or deem his praise T. iv 180 Need help, denies them nothing but his n. T. iv 128 King was a n, too proud for man to wear T. v 242Moves indignation, makes the n. of king T. v 442 Such reasonings (if that n. must needs belong T. v 65 Their n. to the sweet lyre. The Historic Muse T. v 707 No marble tells us whither. With their n. T. v 727 Some to the fascination of a n. T. vi 103 Nature is but a n. for an effect T. vi 223 With self-taught rites, and under various n. T. vi \mathfrak{M} Each animal, of every n., conceived T. vi 373 How shall a verse impress thee? By what n. Ex.654 | Thy n. adoring, and then preach thee man! T. vi 887

Visite Alfred's $n_{\cdot \cdot}$, the father of his age T.T. 105 the loses in such storms her very n. T.T. 328 But when a country (one that I could n.) T.T. 414 Stamps God's own n. upon a lie just made T.T. 420 What follows next, let cities of great n. T.T. 430 Hence, in a Roman mouth, the graceful n. T.T. 500 inspires the song, and that his n is Love T.T. 739Thus graced, the man asserts the poet's n. T.T. 714 Or, if to see the n of idol self T.T.744[n. thee not, lest so despised a n. Tir. 141 The very n. we carved subsisting still Tir. 301 Retracing thus his frolics ('tis a n. Tir. 332 Whose chief distinction is their spotless n. Tir. 355 Christian in n., and infidel in heart Tir. 421 And emulation is its specious n. Tir. 469 Such vicious habits as disgrace his n. Tir. 531 Thy n. omitted, in a page U. 5 I seize thy n. in haste U. 20

Graced with the n. of a long absent friend V. 40 To each his n. significant, and, filled Y. 0. 153 NAMED.

But not hereafter to the n. of friend! V. 18

N. with emphatic dignity, "The Tower" Ch. 550 Be never n. in ears esteemed polite Con. 474 ls falsely n., and no such thing St. vi 11 Him, Tubal n., the Vulcan of old times T. v 217 With infamy too nauseous to be n. Tir. 828

NAMELESS.

Are all the n. sweets of friendship fied ? P.E. 244 And thou, sad sufferer under n. ill R. 343

NAMING.

But, n. none, the Voice now speaks to all St. ii 20

NAP.

And took too often there his easy n. T.T. 679

NARRATIVE.

Of n. sincere Cast. 50
The path of n. with care pursue Con. 217
Some write a n. of wars and feats T. jii 139
Through moral n., or sacred text Tir. 126

NARROW.

'Tis n., selfish, arrogant, and draws Con. 671 A n. brook, by rushy banks concealed N.A. 9 Himself a wanderer from the n. way P.E. 118 But life, within a n. ring St. vi 9
To n. bounds. The Grove receives us next T. i 354 Lauds intersected by a n. frith T. ii 16
No n. bounds; her cause engages him T. v 395
No nook so n. but he spreads them there T. v 773
N. and long, o'erlooks the western wave T. vi 484
Respect, while stalking o'er life's n. stage T.T. 118

NASAL.

To me is odious as the n. twang T. ii 436

NATAL

Fancy endued her in her n. hour) A.T. 92

NATION.

Alternately the n. learn and teach Ch. 120
Or scare the n. with its big contents Ch. 617
When n. are to perish in their sins Ex. 95
What n. will you find, whose annals prove Ex. 165
In vain the n., that had seen them rise Ex. 203
The last of n. now, though once the first Ex. 242
O Israel, of all n. most undone! Ex. 257
Knock at the gates of n., rouse their fears Ex. 269
And in whose awful sight all n. seem Ex. 344
When other n. flow from coast to coast Ex. 552
Bid n. leagued against thee stand aloof Ex. 565

Happy the n. where such men abound Ex. 653 Of n., sworn to spoil thee and devour Ex. 703 What n, amongst all my foes is free Ex. 710 A n. scourged, yet tardy to repent Ex.723The screaming n., hovering in mid air H. 353 A n. dwells, not envious of your throne Her. 49 The life of multitudes, a n.'s bread! Her. 56 Deem our n. brutes no longer N.C. 49 That water all the n.'s O. i 6 Seas on which every n. spreads her sails R. 80 Make enemies of n. who had else T. ii 18 That's noble, and bespeaks a n. proud T. ii 43 Between the n., in a world that seems T. ii 50 And desolates a n. at a blast T. ii 188 As n. ignorant of God contrive T. ii 574 With things so sacred as a n.'s trust T. ii 778 News from all n-lumbering at his back T. iv 7 With merry descants or a n's woos T. iv 77Kings would not play at. N. would do well T. v 183 To all the n. Ample was the boon T. \forall 199 Among the n., seeing thou art free T. v 461 Who loves no part? He be a n's friend T. v 504 One song employs all n.; and all cry T. vi 791 Till, n. after n. taught the strain T. vi 796 The wisdom of great n., now no more Tir. 16 Chief monster that has plagued the n. yet! T.T. 33 Increasing taxes and the n.'s debt T.T. 177 And weighs the n. in an even scale T.T. 251 The n. hunt, all mark thee for a prey T.T. 364 And that a n. shamefully debased T.T. 396 The standards of all n. sre unfurled T.T. 454

The Maker fills the n, with alarm Ex, 585

NATIONAL.

To urge reformation of n. ill F.M. 14

NATIVE.

When I think of my own n. land A.S. 45
The simple n. of the new-found isle Ch. 30
I was a bondman on my n. plain Ch. 236
A story in which n. humour reigns Con. 203
For ever in my n. shell P. 6
To the fair haven of my n. home R. 335
Fast by their n. shore! R.G. 4
By n. power and energy her own T. 396
Thus fare the shivering n. of the north T. i 617
Forth from thy n. bowers, to show thee here T. i 636
Blown in its n. bed; 'tis there alone T. iv 660
Abridge him of his just and n. rights T. v 436
My n. nook of earth! Thy clime is rude T. v 462
Kneels with the n. of the farthest west T. vi 811
Assert the n. evil of his heart Tir. 162
A n. of the gorgeous East Trans. iv 2

NATURAL.

"Her n. ally Miss — 90
As n. as when asleep to dream R. 636
It does not feel for man. The n. bond T. ii 9
And n. in gesture; much impressed T. ii 402
Harmless, and safe, and n., as they are Tir. 565
Alas, poor boy!—the n. effect Tir. 575
Of n. pity, send him not to school Tir. 872
Was n. as in the flowing stream T.T. 592
'Tis but the n. effect 1789, 68

NATURE.

'Twas N., sir, whose strong behest B.R. 7
Yet much as N. I respect B.R. 9
Tis N. alone that we love C. 36
Wherever he found man to n. true Ch. 27
God opens fruitful N.'s various scenes Ch. 33
Calls N. from her ivy-mantled den Ch. 95
The gems of India, N.'s rarest birth Ch. 134
All bonds of n., in that moment end Ch. 142

Puts off his generous n., and, to suit Ch. 153 N. imprints upon whate'er we see Ch. 169 Walks arm in arm with N. all his way Ch. 314 That man, in N.'s richest mantle clad Ch. 341 (Two themes to N.'s eye for ever sealed) Ch. 362 The tics of N. do but feebly bind Ch. 371 Endued with reason, yet by n. blind Ch. 382 Though N. weigh our talents, and dispense Con. 1 No-N., unsophisticate by man Con. 451 And yet, God knows, look human n, through Con.749Pursues the course that truth and n. teach Con. 890 The gift of n., or the classic store Con. 896 Derived from n's noblest part E. i 13 Like some of N.'s sweetest flowers E. i 94 Where N, has her mossy velvet spread E, ii 15 That hard by n., and of stubborn will E. ii 21 I knew the man, and knew his n. mild E. iii 32 Can N. add a charm, or Art confer Ex. 5 Then N., injured, scandalized, defied Ex. 424 Ere N, rose from her eternal sleep Ex, 637 But n. works in every breast F.B. 13 See N. gay as when she first began H. 39 N., employed in her allotted place H. 145 To enjoy cool n. in a country seat H. 245 If wild in n., and not duly found H. 296 N. indeed vouchsafes for our delight H. 487 They were by n., atheists, head and heart H. 498 Wild as if n, there, void of all good H. 540 Contrived to suit frail n.'s crazy case H. 604 N. opposes with her utmost force H. 639 Unconscious n., all that he surveys H. 740 Sweet N., stripped of her embroidered robe Her. 79 And, though God made thee of a n, prone J.T. 31 To Him whose works bespeak his n., Love J.T. 46 Its n. to forego Miss — 6 Come, then, fair maid (in n. wise) Miss - 13 'Tis N. bids, and whilst the laws Miss - 49 Of N. we retain Miss — 50 Cannot forfeit N.'s claim N.C. 14 Why did all-creating N.-N.C. 17 The gifts of N. and of Grace N.G. 34 Man, N.'s guest by invitation sweet P.E. 209 For N_{\cdot} , nice, as liberal to dispense P.E. 213 Chafed him, and brought dull n. to a glow P.E. 408 By n. weak, or viciously inclined P.E. 432 Take leave of n.'s God, and God revealed P.E. 591 To trace in N.'s most minute design R. 53 To limit thought, by N. prone to stray R. 127 Some minds by n, are averse to noise R, 175 N. in all the various shapes she wears R. 193 O N.! whose Elysian scenes disclose R. 199 Who studies N, with a wanton eye R, 213 Gives Melancholy up to N.'s care R. 281 Parks in which Art preceptress N. weds R. 335 N. in every form inspires delight R. 417 (A poet fond of N. and your friend) R. 542 N, assuming a more levely face R, 357 N. indeed looks prettily in rhyme R. 567 'Tis wild good n.'s never failing lot R. 582 To social scenes by n. disinclined R. 606 Must change her n., or in vain retires R. 680 Sends N. forth, the daughter of the skies R. 795 N. perhaps herself had cast her R.C. 8 N. inanimate employs sweet sounds T. 197 But animated N. sweeter still T. 198 She, for her humble sphere by n. fit T. 323 As N. at her own peculiar cost T. 397 Hark! universal N. shook and groaned T. 563 With N.'s varnish; severed into stripes T. i 40 Thou knowest my praise of N. most sincere T. i 150 The tone of languid N. Mighty winds T. i 183 That N. rides upon, maintains her health T. i 369 The love of N., and the scenes she draws T. i 412

But N.'s works far lovelier. I admire T. i 421 [413 Is N.'s dictate. Strange! there should be found T.i Than please the eye—sweet N. every sense T. i 427 To gaze at N. in her green array T. i 449 His n., and though capable of arts T. i 576 Where man, by n. fierce, has laid aside T. i 594 A lucid mirror, in which N. sees T. i 701 As human n.'s broadest, foulest blot T. ii 22 And N, with a dim and sickly eye T, ii 64In N.'s tendencies, oft overlooks T. ii 175 The source of the disease that N. feels T. ii 194 Blind n, to a God not yet revealed T, ii 526 By n., or by flattery made so, taught T. ii 546 Of grossest n. and of worst effects T. ii 689 Contrive creation; travel n. up T. iii 156 In playing tricks with N., giving laws T. iii 165 Of N., overlooks her author more T. iii 237 His glory, and his n. to impart T. iii 274 Of harmless N., dumb, but yet endued T. iii 329 And N. in her cultivated trim T. iii 357 Maternal n. had reversed its course T. iii 436 Then acts in N.'s office, brings to pass T. iii 542 Some note of N.'s music from his lips T. iii 600 N., enchanting N., in whose form T. iii 721 Attract us, and neglected N. pines T. iii 730 The charms of N. 'Tis the cruel gripe T. iii 826 Of universal n. undergoes T. iv 325 The clown, the child of n., without guile T. iv 633 Their n.; and, disclaiming all regard T. iv 679 To N.'s praises. Heroes and their feats T. iv 705 'Tis born with all: the love of N.'s works T. iv 731 That N. lives; that sight-refreshing green T. iv 759 A peep at N., when he can no more T. iv 779 Thus N. works as if to mock at Art T. v 122 'Twas transient in its n., as in show T. v 173 From N.'s bounty—that humane address T. v 469 Of British n., wanting its excuse T. v 481 Till N., unavailing N., foiled T. v 627 The shag of savage n., and were each T. v 693 Of N., and though poor perhaps compared T. v 739 Appropriates n. as his Father's work T. v 761 So reads he N., whom the lamp of truth T. v 845 In that blest moment, N. throwing wide T. v 891 And in the constancy of N.'s course T. vi 122 Is N.'s progress, when she lectures man T. vi 182 N. is but a name for an effect T. vi 223 Rules universal n. Not a flower T. vi 240 In n., from the broad majestic cak T. vi 250 The heart is hard in n., and unfit T. vi 321 With which kind n. graces every scene T. vi 342 Were sown in human n.'s fruitful soil T. vi 383 The injurious trampler upon N.'s law T. vi 465 Disturbs the economy of N.'s realm T. vi 579 The vale of N., where it creeps and winds T. vi 721 The groans of N. in this nether world T. vi 729 By ancient covenant ere N.'s birth T. vi 858 And though by n, mute T.B. 9 To N.'s scenes, than N. ever knew Tir. 24 That Grace and N. have to wage through life Tir. With every lust with which frail N. burns Tir. 66 Then he, of all that N. has brought forth Tir. 69 But reason heard, and n. well perused Tir. 89 Received his nobler n., and was made Tir. 97 Touch but his n, in its ailing part Tir, 161 How weak the barrier of mere N. proves Tir. 169 Opposed against the pleasures N. loves! Tir. 170 Religion makes the free by n. slaves Tir. 184 Or if, by n. sober, ye had then Tir. 271 That God and n., and your interest too Tw. 553 Hear N. plead, show mercy to thy son Tir. 756 Designed by N. wise, but self-made fools Tir. 837 Thou canst not! N., pulling at thine heart Tir. 865 Thou wouldst not, deaf to N.'stenderest plea Tir. 867

Perhaps indulgent N. meant Trans. i 13 And N. laughs again Trans. H. 24 Liberal in all things else, yet N. here T.T. 208 Thus happiness depends, as N. shows T.T. 246 The growth that N. meant she should attain T.T. 263 (A dire effect, by one of N's laws T.T. 442 N. in arms, her elements at strife T.T. 448 To carry n, lengths unknown before T.T.558N. imparting her satiric gift T.T. 656 N. exerting an unwearied power T.T. 690 As if produced by N, there U, 18 Not hard by n., in a feeling part V. 42 Should be renewed in n., pure in heart V. 60 He gives, what bankrupt n. never can V. 95

And in conclusion mar them. N.'s threads Y.O. 80 NAUGHT.

What N., alas! has denied W.N. 1

She whispered still that he had n to fear A.T. 182The faculties that seemed reduced to n. Con. 403 That all was s. within, and all found out E. iii 53 Away went Gilpin, neck or n. J.G. 97 With n. in charge, he could betray no trust P.E. 29 We travel far, 'tis true, but not for n. T. i 675 Stark n., because corrupt in their design T.T. 4 The wretch, to s. but his ambition true T.T 30

NAUSEA.

And unless you adorn it, a n. follows F.M. 24

NAUSEOUS.

'Tis n. as the vapour of a vault Con. 50 The full-gorged savage, at his n. feast H. 509 O n.!—an emetic for a whet! P.E. 222 The n, task to paint her as she is T, iii 67 Pick up their n dole, though sweet to them T v 94 With infamy too n, to be named Tir. 828

NAVAL.

The feats of Vestris, or the n. force Con. 58

NAVIES.

They trust in $n_{...}$ and their $n_{...}$ fail T.T. 466

NAVIGATE.

"That n. a sea that knows no storms T. v 823

NAVIGATORS.

By n. uninformed as they T. i 630

NEAR.

But the Chief Shepherd even there is n. E. ii 44 N. barren rocks, in palaces, or cells R. 540 [T.iv295] Though still deceived, some stranger's n. approach His long love-ditty for my n, approach T, vi 309 But 'twas a transient calm. A storm was n. T. vi 544 So sure to spoil him, and so n. at hand Tir. 697

NEARER.

A little n. home Pat. 4 Convinced at last, upon a n. view R. 591

NEAREST.

Emulous always of the n. place H. 238

NEAT.

Formed with materials n. and soft A Tale 39 There centering in a focus round and n. Con. 239 His long red cloak, well brushed and n. J.G. 75Some mansion, n and elegantly dressed T. 250 Large expectation, he disposes n. T. iii 423 [iii 278 And him who writes it, though the style be n. T. Poor, yet industrious, modest, quiet, n. T. iv 374 Her artless manners, and her n. attire T. iv 536 The n. conveyance hiding all the offence T. vi 980

Behold that figure, n., though plainly clad Tir. 664 Prevented much by diet n. and plain Tir. 767

Tight boxes n sashed, and in a blaze R. 483 And n. fitted, it compresses hard T. ii 587 Which n. she prepares; then to his book T. iii 392 Of the smooth-shaven prop, and n. tied T. iii 659 Plashed n., and secured with driven stakes T. iv 437 With which when n. peeled and dried T.B. 29 N. secured from being soiled or torn Tir. 119

NEATNESS.

Washed with a n. scrupulously nice Ex. 143 Swept with a woman's n., breeding else T. iii 616 Sacred to n. and repose, the alcove T. vi 571

NECESSARY.

Life's n. means, but he must die T. ii 141 By n. laws their sure effects T. ii 192 A n. act incurs no blame T. vi 578

NECESSITY.

Not only fill's N.'s demand Ch. 99 Through mere n, to close his eyes H. 85 Thus first N. invented Stools T. i 86 As the n, their authors feel T, ii 672 To sad n., the cock foregoes T. v 73 Or by n. constrained, they live T. vi 413

 $\lceil Ex. 53 \rceil$ They stretched the n, and rolled the wanton eye Away went Gilpin, n. or naught J.G. 97 For all might see the bottle n. J.G. 131 His mantling n. with downy gold Mrs. M-6 Contusion bazarding of n. or spine N.A. 7 Ere our n. received the chain N.C. 42 With awkward gait, stretched n. and silly stare $\bar{P}.E$. With bony and unkerchiefed n. defice T. 137 Oh for a law to noose the villain's n. T, iv 462 To stroke his azure n., or to receive T. vi 781 And bend her polished n. beneath his hand T.T. 441

NECTAR.

And bathes their eyes with n_i , and includes T_i , vi

NECTAREOUS.

N. essences, Olympian dews T. iv 83 Where most n. sweets abound 1789, 20

NEED.

rrr

Small n. of Prayer Book, or of priest, I ween A.T. Though little n., to his good palfrey's side A.T. 192 Wherever found (and all men n. thy care) Ch. 47 Each climate n. what other climes produce Ch. 89 And what dilates the powers must n. refine Ch. 332 He feels his n. of an unerring guide Ch. 346 Such virtues had n. prove their own reward Ch. 571 The sight's enough—no n, to smell a beau Con, 285 You n. his pardon, and provoke his rod Con. 488 And you, though you must n. prefer E. i 45 As n. they must, from great to small! E. i 80 "Nor n. his genuine ore refine! E. iv 89 N. only to be seen to be admired Ex.493N. no expense of argument F. 140 Is such a friend that one had n. F. 172"No n.," he cries, "of gravity, stuffed out H. 105 Life is his gift, from whom whate'er life n. H. 115 Pious enough, and having n. of none H. 251 So stooping down, as n. he must J.G. 89 They therefore n. must fit J.G. 188 Such strings for all who n. 'em Pat. 22 N. help, let honest industry provide P.E. 252 One that still n. his leading string and bib P.E. 531 And n. no glossary to set him right N.A. 70

To wish thee fairer is no n. N.Y.G. 5 We therefore n. not part O. ii 6 Her works must n. excel who fashioned you R. 544 Still n. repeated warnings, and at last St. ii 26 I dare not-"And you n. not," God replies T. 272 Is not for you—the righteous n. it not T. 508 Rouse all your courage at your utmost n. T. 565[391 For none they n.: the languid eye, the cheek T. i N. other physic none to heal the effects T. i 590 Sure there is n. of social intercourse T. ii 48 [ii 368 That grave and learned clerks should n. such aid T. To those that n. it. Folly is soon learned T. ii 283 The wisest and the best feel urgent n. T. ii 483 Of whom I n. must argue better things T. ii 582 A mockery of the world! What n, of these T, ii 750 She n. herself correction; n. to learn T. ii 776 Of lubbard Labour n. his watchful eye T. iii 400 And seem to smile at what they n. not fear T. iii 575 Supplies his n. with a usurious loan T. iii 798 N. he the tragic fur, the smoke of lamps T. iv 195 Nor n. one; I am conscious and confess T. iv 231 The learned finger never n. explore T. iv 362 N. help, denies them nothing but his name T. iv 428 Occasion n. but fan them, and they blaze T. \vee 207 They sink and settle lower than they n. T. v 249 And thou hast n. of discipline and art T. v 467[655] Such reasonings (if that name must n. belong T. v And n. not his immediate hand, who first T. vi 203 So little mercy shows who n. so much! T. vi 431 N. no such aids as Superstition lends T. vi 510 The garden fears no blight, and n. no fence T. vi 771 What n. of Homer's verse, or Tully's prose Tir. 399 Will n. no stress of argument to enforce Tir. 803And thou wilt n. some comfort to assuage Tir. 877 "No n. of lightnings from on high The Doves 33 But he that loves him has no n. to feign T.T. 96 The country's n. have scantily supplied T.T. 338 Enervate and enfeeble, and n. must T.T. 395

NEEDED.

Nor Sofa then I n. Youth repairs T. i127 But she has burned her mask, not n. here T. iii 105 Blushed on the panels. Mirror n. none T. v 160

NEEDFUL.

This truth premised was n. as a text N.A. 71 Especially sugar, so n. we see P.A. 7 The mind, relaxing into n. sport R. 713 And hoards them in her sleeve; but n. food T. i 554 Not n. here, beneath a roof like mine T. iii 341[636 Is n. Strength may wield the ponderous spade T. iii Makes n. still; whose Spring is but the child T. iii 432 That with its wearisome but n. length T. iv 2 Let active Laws apply the n. curb T.T. 314

NEEDING.

And n. none assistance of the storm T. ii 144 Not sumptuously aderned, nor n. aid T. iv 251

NEEDLE.

That useful thing, her n., goue E. iv 40
True as a n. to the pele F. 110
The n.'s deviations too F. 113
Thy n., once a shining store M. 9
But here the n. plies its busy task T. iv 150

NEEDLESS

Of n. shame, and self-imposed disgrace Con. 350 I soon recover from these n. frights H. 375 With n. hurry whirled from place to place T. iv 372 IIe severs it away: no n. care T. v 38 N., and first torments ere he devours T. vi 396 This second weaning, n. as it is Tir. 557

NEEDLESSLY.

Who n. sets foot upon a worm T. vi 563

NEEDLEWORK.

And woven close, or n. sublime T. i 34

NEGATIVE.

Dreading a n., and overawed E. iii 22 A flat and fatal n. obtains Tir. 714

NEGLECT.

That none shall with impunity n. Ch. 36
Than to n. a good adviser P.T. 61
Not more affronted by avowed n. T. 73
Than in a churchmau slovenly n. T. ii 456
Unmixed with drops of bitter, which n. T. iii 46
At least n. not, or leave unemployed T. iii 368
That self-condemned they must n. the prise T. iii 700
Against unkindness, absence, and n. T. vi 627
A friend, whate'er he studies or n. Tir. 391
But, watch they strictly, or n. their charge? Tir. 512
From youthful folly than the same n.? Tir. 713

NEGLECTED.

And laws and duties are n. things A.T. 33
N., leaves a dreary waste behind Comp. i 12
How much, though long n., shining yet Ex. 610
Like a n. forester, runs wild P.E. 362
The Bible only stands n. there T. 425
So colleges and halls n. much T. ii 731
Attract us, and n. Nature pines T. iii 730
N. pine at home, themselves, as more T. iv 436
The boy's n. sire! a mother too T. vi 43
Which, oft n., in life's waning years Tir. 589
N. talents rust into decay T.T. 546

NEGLECTING.

Drop one by one from Fame's n. hand B.B. 6

NEGLIGENCE.

Beware no n. of yours F. 154 Small thanks to those whose n. or sloth T. ii 800 'Twas n. in him, not want of worth T.T. 681

NEGLIGENT.

Or n. inquirer, not a spark T. iii 276

NEGLIGENTLY.

Not quickly found, if n. sought Ex. 695

NEGOTIATES.

He that n. between God and man T. ii 463 NEIGH.

Responsive to the distant neigh he n. Ch. 177

NEIGHBOUR.

The morning came, when n. Hodge A Fable 21
He sought the jewel in his n's shame Ch. 540
As if the gnomon on his n's phiz Con. 271
Adultery neighing at his n's door Ex. 39
Studious of peace, their n. and their own Hcr. 50
His n. in such trim J. G. 162
What! rob our good n.! I pray you don't go P.A.2;
Each thinks his n. makes too free L. W. 35
Some more aspiring, catch the n. shrub T. iii 665
And stuns the n. round Trans. iv 21

NEIGHBOURING.

Or taste the fountain in the n. glade Ch. 223 And hang their horrors in the n. skies Her. 16 Reserved to solace many a n. squire N.A. 5 'Tis he, the Nimrod of the n. lairs P.E. 84 Nor can he much affect the n. peer R. 441 Of n. fountain, or of rills that slip T. 192

"Come, n., we must wag" Y.D. 50

it barren, at the expense of n. twigs T. iii 419 w from the roost, or from the n. pale T. v 58 n. cypress, or more sable yew T. vi 154 cend the n. beech; there whisks his brush T. vi an yonder upstarts of the n, wood Y.O. 134

NEIGHING.

ultery, n. at his neighbour's door Ex. 89

NEN.

e N.'s barge-laden wave St. i 2

NEREIDS.

or Dryads, as the fashion leads R. 537

uscle and n, miraculously spun R, 59 [T. i 350 nd now, with n. new braced and spirits cheered ith limbs of British oak, and n. of wire R. 311 is every n, in action and at stretch T, iii 90 ong the n. of every feeling line T.T. 487 ne mind, released from too constrained a n. T.T.

It the sea-fowl is gone to her n. A.S. 49 ey paired, and would have built a n. A Tale 15 ne homeless birds a n. ? A Tale 28 turn and make thy downy n. O. ii 2 every bosom where her n. is made P.E. 210 l paired, and each pair built a n. P.T. 44 epping into their n., they paddled P.T. 54 Merely to prove a n. for me R.C. 56 [227 called the low-roofed lodge the Peasant's n. T. i farewell envy of the Peasant's N.! T. i 247 dayspring overshoot his humble n. T. i 496 NET.

aught in a delicate, soft, silken n. P.E. 313o weaving n. for bird-alluring fruit T. iv 253

NETHER.

o attain perfection in this n. world T. i 85 Have reached this n. world, ye spy a race T. v 828 he greans of Nature in this n. world T. vi 729

NEVER-DYING.

hat sight imparts a n. flame Ch. 598

NEW. nd from a chance so n. A Tale 62 nd with scenes that n. rapture inspire C. 51 he simple native of the n. found isle Ch. 30 and gains n. vigour at her endless task Ch. 104 till prompt him, with a pleasure always n. Ch. 326 with a n. medium and a purer light Ch. 330 Trojan combat would be something n. Con. 197 ell not as n. what everybody knows Con. 237 nd n. or old, still hasten to a close Con. 238 he n. acquaintance soon became a guest Con. 531 artakers of a n. ethereal birth Con. 724 [803 reat changes and n. manners have occurred Con. his page of providence quite n. E. i 49heir very garments sacred, old yet n. Ex. 183 the n mail thy merchants now receive Ex. 606 ly strains for ever n. G. 6 his earth shall blaze, and a n. world succeed H. 749 t boasts a splendour ever n. Mrs. M-19lis great improvement and n. lights he draws P.E. . raised objections with n. quibbles meets P.E.551. trimmed, a gallant show! Q.V. 6 . life ordained and brighter scenes to share R. 65 rom all he sees he catches n. delight R. 189 hat does not charm the more for being n. R. 462

elie their name and offer nothing n. R. 714

he task of n. discoveries falls on me T. 218

lith its n. foliage on St. i 18

[T. i 350 N. as ever seem our sins St. iv 27 And now, with nerves n. braced and spirits cheered The n. machine, and it became a Chair T. i 43 A n. possessor, and survives the change T. ii 110 If toil await me, or if dangers n. T. iii 20 Of old achievements, and despair of n. T. ii 254 And pregnant with discoveries n, and rare T, iii 138 The mind contemplative, with some n. theme T. iv280 N. to my taste his Paradise surpassed T. iv 710 Another moon n. risen, or meteor fullen T. v 152 N. faculties, or learns at least to employ T. v 806 N. situations give a different cast Tir. 440 [T. vi 146] Shall boast n. charms, and more than they have lost The n made monarch, while before him pass'd T vi353 No bard, howe'er majestic, old or n. T.T. 180 The varied fields of science, ever n. T.T. 204 [733 Whate'er we write, we bring forth nothing n. T.T. Twere n, indeed to see a bard all fire T, T. 734

NEW-BORN.

To spread the n. glories in their view Con. 543 Has made the n. creature her abode Con. 754 His n. virtues, and preserve him pure H. 170 Which, though n., with vigour move Mrs. M-25

NEW-CREATED.

To gratulate the n. earth T. v 820

NEW-FANGLED.

N. sentiment, the boasted grace Tir. 539

NEW-FOUND.

A n. luxury, not seen in her? Ex. 6

NEW-LAID.

Her n. eggs she fondly pressed A Fable 2

NEWLY.

His lilies n. blown D.W. 14 Is but a transient guest, n. arrived T. iii 750

NEWS.

Has burnt to tinder a stale last year's n. B.B. 10 Filled up at last with interesting n. Con. 394 Our health, the weather, and the n. E. i 5 To read the n., or fiddle, as seems best H.76"What n. ? what n. ? your tidings tell J.G. 165 But soon my ear caught the glad n. M.D. 43 Inspires the n., his trumpet. Keener far T. ii 353 N. from all nations lumbering at his back T. iv 7 Is balloted, and trembles at the n. T. iv 627 Had fled from William, and the n. was fresh T. vi

NEWTON.

Such was thy wisdom, N., childlike sage! T. iii 252 NIBBLING.

The herb as soft, while n. strayed the rest N.A. 38 Of grassy swarth, close cropped by n. sheep T. i 110

Washed with a neatness scrupulously n. Ex. 149 With n. attention in a righteous scale H. 367 By this, with n. precision of design H. 606 N. in its choice, and of a tempered heat J.T. 36 "Some people are more n, than wise M.F. 20 For Nature, n., as liberal to dispense P.E. 213But chosen with a n. discerning taste R. 726 With n. incision of her guided steel T. i 708 The nose of n, nobility. Breathe soft T, ii 259 Men too were n. in honour in those days T. iii 85 Some show that n. sagacity of smell T. vi 616 (So n. his ear, so delicate his touch) T.T. 653

NICE-FINGERED.

N. art must emulate in vain T. 202

NICELY.

And periwig n. adjust Gr. 21 This fits not n., that is ill-conceived T. ii 603

NICENE.

By Athanasian nonsense, or N.) H. 394

NICER.

From which our n. optics turn away H. 424 But, with precision n. still, the mind N.A. 63

NICEST.

To steer with n. art betwixt the extreme S. ii 9 NICHE.

Just in the n. he was ordained to fill T. iv 792

NICHOL.

[36 Where N. swung the birch and twined the bays V. NIGER.

First, farewell N.! whom now duly proved V. 7

NIGHT. Oft as his patroness who rules the n. A.T. 137 Obscurest n. involved the sky Cast. 1 "My dear deliverer out of hopeless n. Ch. 234 That cheers the silent journey of the n. Ch. 320 So, when the cold damp shades of n. prevail Ch 527 Is like a nurse's lullaby at n. Con. 242 [Con. 529] That reaching home, "The n.," they said "is near You rise and drop the curtain—now tis n. Con. 332 Will the sweet warbler of the livelong n. Con. 445 O days of heaven, and n. of equal praise! Con. 567 And half the n.? fanatic and absurd! Con. 578 And in the silent watches of the n. Con. 731 [iii 30 "And fetch my cloak; for though the n. be raw E. His pittance every n. Ep. ii 10 And every n. at play Ep. ii 32 By n. a fire, to cheer the gloomy way Ex. 178 Where Policy is busied, all n. long Ex. 300 Γ479 When the Sun's shafts disperse the gloom of n. Ex. But thine, as dark as witcheries of the n. Ex. 494 Earth glitters with the drops the n. distils H. 42 The sweet vicissitudes of day and n. H. 488 [H. 746 But these shall last when n. has quenched the pole All n., me resting quiet in the fold N.A. 92 Might beautify and cheer the n." N.G. 22 Till life's poor transient n. is spent N.G. 32 Where N., down-stooping from her abon throne P.E. Yet glad she came that n. to prove Q.V. 29 That n. except her own Q.V. 40 Arrived, a n. like noon she sees Q.V. 41 The n. his city fell Q.V. 52 Yet let the glories of a n. Q.V. 77 The crescent moon, the diadem of n. R. 82 The stars that, sprinkled o'er the vault of n. R. 349 The n rolled tardily away R.C. 67 That n., by chance, the poet watching R.C. 77 Sport for a day, and perish in a n. T. 42 The livelong n_i : nor these alone, whose notes T_i 201 Just carns a scanty pittance, and at n. T. 321 Herself from morn to n., from n. to morn T. 509 Of cheerful days, and n. without a groan T. i 366 The livelong n. A tattered apron hides T. i 549 To dream all n. of what the day denied T. i 671 At evening, and at n. retire secure T. iii 344 That day and s. are exercised, and hang T. iii 549 Laboured, and many an. pursued in dreams T. iii 787 Beguile the n., and set a keener edge T. iv 164 Of card devoted Time, and n. by n. T. iv 229 [246 With matron step slow moving, while the N.—T. iv With matron step slow moving, while the N.—T. iv Like homely-featured N., of clustering gems T. iv 252 The pelting brunt of the tempestuous s. T. iv 351

Such claim compassion in a n. like this T. iv 375

But farewell now to unsuspicious n. T. iv 565 The n. was winter in his roughest mood T. vi 57 So soon succeeding such an angry n. T. vi 259 N. veiled the pole; all seemed secure T.B. 31 And labours to surpass him day and n. Tir. 49)
Their breath a sample of last n.'s regale Tir. 534 That shows by n. a lucid beam Trans. i 3 To show a stumbling stone by n. Trans. i 19 Neither n. nor dawn of day Trans. iii 25 These were the chief; each interval of s. T.T. 572 From total n. and absolute disgrace T.T. 665 NIGHT-BOLT. And drop the n, ;—ruffians are abroad T, iv 568

NIGHTCAP.

They put on a damp n., and relapse Con. 322

NIGHTINGALE. By the n. warbling nigh C. 12 A n., that all day long N.G. 1 Scared, and the offended n. is mu'e T. i 768 The n. may claim the topmost bough T.T. 576

NIGHTLY.

In daily musings and in n. dreams A.T. 12 Thy s. visits to my chamber made M.P. 58 Fly to the coast for daily, n. joys R. 522 N. lifts his voice on high St. iv 6 Now goes the n. thief prowling abroad T. iv 432 That fill the skies n. with silent pomp T. v 817

NIGHTSHADE.

Of n., or valerian, grace the well T. iv 757

NILE.

Spawned in the muddy beds of N., came forth T. ii

NIMBLE.

Their n. nonsense takes a shorter course Con. 132 Upon his n. steed J.G. 78 The n. motion of those restless joints T. iii 763 Follow the n. finger of the fair T. iv 155 Not of a n. tongue, though now and then Tir. 660

NIMBLEST.

Proceeding with his n. pace Mor. 20

NIMROD.

'Tis he, the N. of the neighbouring lairs P.E. 81 NINE.

Nor would the N. consent the sacred tide T.T. 184

NINEVEH.

N., Babylon, and ancient Rome T.T. 432 NIOBE.

Channel her cheeks, a N. appears T. 174

Chill blasts of trouble a. their springing joys E.

And social, n. his fruitfulness and use T. v 439 NITROUS.

And sheltered Sofa, while the n. air T. iii 32

NOAH.

To Gaul, to Greece, and into N.'s ark R. 694 On N., and in him on all mankind T. vi 450

NOBILITY.

Can only say,—" N. lies here" H. 271 But royalty, n., and state T. 353 The nose of nice n. Breathe soft T. ii 259 NOBLE.

Should be the guerdon of a n. deed Ch. 293

ts to communicate her n. fires Ch. 403 n. beast judge otherwise, his groom Con. 414 ough all He spoke a n. plainness ran Ez. 135 fusion apes the n. part F. 4 lyield so much to n, folk F, 118 es all his feelings with a n, scorn H. 151 men of pedigree, their n race H. 237 ask the n. drudge in state affairs R. 407 n. heart went pit-a-pat R.C. 79 many wise, rich, n., or profound T. 337 t's n., and bespeaks a nation proud T. ii 43 ere once your n. fathers won a crown! T. ii 281 n. office, and, instead of truth T. ii 428

. show! while Roscius trod the stage T. iii 597 cause, which none who bears a spark T. iv 614 be the tenant of man's n, form T, v 455 ratified; for there some n, lord T, vi 673 ir n. qualities all quenched and cold Tir. 818 keeps alive his fierce but n, fires T.T. 223 n. sweep of all their privilege T.T. 475

NOBLER. though some n. minds a law respect Ch. 35 seek a. n. amidst scenes of woe Ch. 300 rich possession of a n. prize Ch. 360 time that should enrich the n. mind Comp. i 11 he rich, the produce of a n, stem Ex, 460 more provoking still, of n, name H. 192 ours is," she said, "the n, hue L.R. 21 e burnt to dust a n. pile M. i 3 rned by the π . tenants of the flood P.E. 482 more illumined, and with n, truths T, iv 192 onger date to the far n. beast T. vi 529 eived his n. nature, and was made Tir. 97 ne to the n. part affects it long Tir. 491

NOBLEST.

fit thee for a n. post than thine V. 32

ived from nature's n, part E, i 13 e z. Friendship ever shown F. 203 ts attempt the n. task they can J.T. 1 application to its n. end J.T. 28 n minds their virtue prove P. 61 ascious of weakness in its n, powers R, 124 Love, that clings around the n. minds R. 235 e n. function, and discredits much T. ii 554 confirmation of the n. claim T. v 720 too is witness, n. of the train T. vi 425 e n. cause mankind can have at stake T.T. 285 t more invigorates life's n. part T.T. 381 ose n. coin is light and brittle man V. 96

NOBLY.

distinguished above all the six P.E. 161 save your life would n. risk his own T. 220 serve him n. in the common cause T. v 344 d s., and their deeds, as they deserve T. v 703

NOCTURNAL.

Lairs, s. vigils, and day dreams R. 250 works of darkness and n. wrong T. iv 435

elessly n, and sleeps upon the brink Ex. 99 Babylonian tyrant with a n. P.E. 130 length in his heart, dominion in his n. T. 409 d fledged with icy feathers, n. superb T. v 26 school of coarse good fellowship and s. Con. 422 Priendship, satisfied with n. F.B. 32 ws with a pointing finger, but no n. H. 221

k senseless n., his argument the sword H. 660

n. was heard but of the hasty brook N.A. 39

httime, n. kills not. Be it Dapple's bray N.A. 115

Now shifted east, and east by n. P.T. 51

Some minds by nature are averse to n. R. 175 And prayer more seasonable than the n. St. ii 11 Moves without n., and swift as an express T. 201 A life all turbulence and n, may seem T, iii 379 No n. is here, or none that hinders thought T. vi 76 Childish in mischief only and in n. Tir. 207 Tis not, however, insolence and n. T.T. 408

N., appears a moving hill of snow T. iv 346 Receives advantage from his n. hours T. vi 944 N., an atom, and an atom more Y.O. 106

As to a common and most n, sewer T, i 683 N., and ever greedy to exhaust T. iii 671

n. man is always in the right Con. 114 He comes, the herald of a n. world T. iv 5

NONSENSE.

Their nimble n. takes a shorter course Con. 152 By Athanasian n., or Nicens) H. 394 On fire with curses, and with n. hung Tir. 832

Within its customary n. Mor. 8 Struggling, detained in many a petty n. N.A. 40 For n. to which she might retire R.C. 4 My country! and while yet a n. is left T. ii 207 The croaking nuisance lurked in every n. T. ii 830 Remains to each, the search of sunny n. T imes 71My native n. of earth! Thy clime is rude T. imes 462No n, so narrow but he spreads them there T. v 773 In n. obscure, far from the ways of men T. vi 842

NOON.

'Twas on the n. of an autumnal day A.T. 70 The n. was shady, and soft airs D.W. 1The virtuoso thus, at n. E. iv 49 Dozing out all his idle n. Ep. ii 31 To rise at n., sit slipshod and undressed H. 75 Why, stooping from the n. of day O. i 9 Witness of joys that shun the sight of n. P.E. 174 Arrived, a night like n, she sees Q.V. 41 To thee the day spring, and the blaze of n. R. 317 Returns at n. to billiards, or to books R. 472 And long protracted bowers, enjoyed at n. T. i 257 Our groves were planted to console at n. T. i 760 That spreads his motley wings in the eye of n. T.iii135 Shortening his journey between morn and n. T. iv 131 The morning sharp and clear. But now at n. T. vi 58 Nor deems he wiser him, who gives his n. T. vi 278 The very kine that gambol at high n. T. vi 334 [774 Graze with the fearless flocks; all bask at n. T. vi

NOONDAY.

Reflect the n. glory of the skies Ch. 398 He stripped the impostors in the n. sun Ex. 141 His. n. beams were never half so bright H. 737 Winks hard, and talks of darkness at n. P.E. 451 While he that scorns the n. beam, perverse T. 523 Of atoms, sparkling in the n. beam T. i 361 Whose headaches nail them to a n, bed T, i 500

NOONTIDE.

Traduce the splendour of a n. ray T. 540

NOOSE.

Oh for a law to n. the villain's neck T. iv 462

NORTH.

Her sons to pour it on the farthest n. H. 460

Thus fare the shivering natives of the n. T. i 617 It may enjoy the advantage of the n. T. iii 771 The wonder of the N. No forest fell T. v 131 If Winter bellow from the n. Trans. H. 22

NORTHERN.

And where the woods fence off the n. blast T. vi 60 NORWEGIAN.

Was rocked by many a rough N. blast Ex. 470

[A.C. 23 That the spectacles plainly were made for the N.-Between N. and Eyes a strange contest arose A. C. 1 I hat the N, has had spectacles always in wear A. C.11"In behalf of the N., it will quickly appear A.C. 9 As wide as the bridge of the N. is; in short A.C. 15 To at the visage or countenance had not a N .--A.C.19 And the N, was as plainly intended for them "A.C.24 That, whenever the N. put his spectacles on A.C. 31 Assert the n. upon his face his own Con. 122 In contact inconvenient, n. to n. Com. 270 Who thrusts his n. into a raree-show? Con. 286 N., ears, and eyes seem present on the spot Con. 318 Claps spectacles on her sagacious n. Con. 742 "And pinch your n. blue " J.P. 40 Long beards, long n., and pale faces M.F. 6 Defective only in his Roman n. P.E. 396 With slipshod heels, and dewdrop at his n. T. 144 The n. of nice nobility. Breathe soft T. ii 259 The better hand, more busy, gives the n. T. ii 451 Terribly arched and aquiline his n. T. iii 192 Conducts the unguarded n, to such a whiff T, iv 469 That fumes beneath his n.; the trailing cloud T. v 56 One wipes his n. upon his sleeve Y.D. 41

NOSEGAY.

For a n., so dripping and drowned The Rose 10 NOSTRIL.

His high-bred steed expands his n, wide A, T, 163 Through the pressed n, spectacle-bestrid T. ii 439 The toiling steeds expand the n. wide T. iv 347

NOSTRUM. Swallow the two grand n. they dispense P.E. 594 Their sovereign n. is a clumsy joke R. 313

NOTCH.

N. after n., till all are smoothed away Tir. 560 NOTE.

And by Philomel's annual n. C. 47 And pours a torrent of sweet n, around Ch, 111 Faint as a chicken's n. that has the pip Con. 356 ls n. for n. delivered in our ears Con. 455 With a whole gamut filled of heavenly n.'s N.A. 26 Nor yet at eve his n. suspended N.G. 3 Me poetry (or rather n. that aim R. 801 [i 201 The livelong night: nor these alone, whose n. T. Can change their whine into a mirthful n. T. i 583 Of public n., they reach their perfect size T. i 696 Our more harmonious n: the thrush departs T. i 767 They never undertook, they little n. T. ii 308 N. their extravagance, and be convinced T. ii 573 His own coevals took but little n. T. iii 142 Some n. of Nature's music from his lips T. iii 600 Delicious, when her patriots of high s. T. iv 170 Themes of a graver tone T. iv 181 A jarring n. Still to reflect, that though a joyless n. T. v 40 [78 With slender n., and more than half suppress'd T. vi He n. it in his book, then raps his box T. vi 292 To join a traveller, of far different n. T. vi 489 Its various parts to his attentive n. Tir. 642 And by the hoarseness of his n. Trans. ii 2 With music modulating all their n. T.T. 695

NOTHING.

Whom n. could divide A Tale 68 Yet from a richer n. gain A Tale 75 Let n. adverse, n. unforeseen Ch. 131 Whate'er she learns, learns n. as she ought Ch. 335 N. is slightly touched, much less forgot Con. 317 So self starts n., but what tends apace Ch. 565 Though n. have occurred to kindle strife E. iii li That yields them chaff and dust and s. more Ex. 30 And Peace does n, to relieve the weight Ez. 307Leaped out of n., called by the Most High Ez. 639 Who found thee n., formed thee for his praise Es. 613 Once thought of n., and now thinks in vain H. 3) Hope! n. else can nourish and secure H. 169 Adds n. now to the degraded dead H. 269 With n, here that wants to be concealed H. 406 "You shapeless n. in a dish P. 25 Yet n, feel in that rough coat P. 51 Made n. but a brute, the slave of sense P.E. 214 Saints offer n., in their warmest prayers R. 221 Belie their name and offer n. new R. 714 There, wanting n. save a fan R.C. 17 And forth he peeped, but n. spied R.C. 82 Lost n. by comparison with ours? T. i 648 Aware of n. arduous in a task T. ii 307 And growing old in drawing n. up!" T. iii 190 N. is proof against the general curse T. iii 236 How far he went for what was n. worth T. iv 233 Need help, denies them n. but his name T. iv 425 Where n. feeds it. Neither business crowds T.iv 744 A garden in which n. thrives, has charms T.iv 7.4 Or n. much, his constancy in ill T. v 667 He slights the strokes of conscience. N. moves I. And seems it n, in a father's eye Tir, 615 Or doing n. with a deal of skill T.T. 193 But n. scares them, from the course they love T.T. Whate'er we write, we bring forth n. new T.T. 734

They court the n. of a future age B.B. 4 Has one that n. his silent grief Ch. 207 To catch the wandering n, of mankind H. 137 He hears the n, of the clock, perplexed H. 700Obtrude on human n. more Mrs. M- 34 And call her charms to public n. forth P.E. 236 The Crown, took n. of an ostler's face R. 586 Wins no n., wakes no fears St. iv 20 Advance it into n., that its worth T. iii 703 To engross a moment's n.; and yet begs T. iv 67 And gathering, at short n., in one group T. iv 136 Step forth to n.; and, besotted thus T. v 257 Scarce deign to n. him, or, if she see T. vi 942 Engage no n., and enjoy much ease T. vi 957 Our early n. of truth, disgraced Tir. 199

Not scorned in Heaven, though little n. here MP. Scare n. in the kindred dusk of eve. T. iv 321

NOTING.

Thy prophets speak of such; and n. down T. vi 89

Her n. hyperbolical R.C. 104 And teach him n, splendid as themselves T, 424

NOTORIOUS.

Else sure n. fact, and proof so plain Tir. 259

NOUNS.

But conjugated verbs and n. declined Tir. 619

NOURISH.

May blow up self-conceit, and n. pride Ch. 376 Hope! nothing else can n, and secure H. 169

Thus some retire to n. helpless wee R. 603 But not like me to n. woe! S. 20 More n. pride, that condescending vice T. 123 To n. pride, or turn the weakest head T. 366

NOURISHING.

Threatening at once and n, the plant T, vi 36

NOURISHMENT.

Its solid n. from man's applause Con. 672 Or turn to n., digested well T. iii 396 No n. to feed his growing mind Tir. 618

Admiring, terrified, the n. strain N.A. 49 And n. (witness every month's Review) R. 713

NOVELISTS.

Ye n., who mar what ye would mend P.E. 309

NOVELTY.

Please daily, and whose n. survives T. i 178 And pleased with n., might be indulged T. i 503 For monstrous n. and strange disguise T. ii 612 Of N., her fickle, frail support T. iii 54 Because a n., the work of man T. v 128 Enchanting n., that moon at full T. vi 706

NOVEMBER.

Deciduous, when now N. dark T. iii 467

· NOXIOUS.

Their n. growth, starve every better seed R. 44 Else n: oceans, rivers, lakes, and streams T. i 375 Imaginations n. and perverse Tir. 599

NUISANCE.

The worn-out n. of the public streets T. 508 And mortal n, into all the air T, ii 98 The croaking n, lurked in every nook T, ii 830 Is but a garnished n, fitter far T, vi 993 The encroaching n. asks a faithful hand Tir. 601

And He, whose power mere n. obeys Ex. 642 From almost n. into a state Y. 0. 88

My n. that day she had sung C. 17 Could infuse into n. of mine C. 20 In n, the days of the year C. 26 That Matthew's n. run with ease E. iv 67 Such honours to thee as my n, may M.P. 71As I can n. in my punctual page St. ii 3
And in thy n., Philips, shines for aye T. iii 455
By flowing n. and a flowery style T.T. 741 Though Butler's wit, Pope's n., Prior's ease T.T. (Since which I n. threescore winters past Y.O. 3

NUMBERING.

To wear out time in n. to and fro T. v 425

NUMBERLESS.

Of hedge-row beauties n., square tower T. i 173 Minute as dust and n., oft work T. iii 556

Though n. once, reduced to few or none? E. iii 17 Through n. generations till he found F.A. 25 Deem life a blessing with its n. woes H. 546 Of n. charms possessed J.P. 2
By tricks and lies as n. and as keen T. ii 671 And the land stank—so n. was the fry T. ii 832 His dainties, and the World's more n. half T. iii 545 And all your n. progeny, well trained T. iv 422 [86 Thins all their n. flocks. In chinks and holes T. v O'erwatch the n. and unruly clan Tir. 232

So n, are the follies that T ir. O'erhung the campaign; and the n. flock Y.O. 53 NUNNERIES.

Wast thou in monkish cells and n, found Ch, 43

NURSE.

Is like a n.'s lullaby at night Con. 242 O folly worthy of the n.'s lap Con. 479 Though, clasped and cradled in his n's arms H. 179 The n. sleeps sweetly, hired to watch the sick T. i 89 Of lazy n. who snores the sick man dead T. i 97 Grand caterer and dry n. of the church! T. ii 371 Now blame we most the nurslings or the n.? T. ii 771 The n., no doubt. Regardless of her charge T. ii 775 Thou art the n. of Virtue. In thine arms T. iii 43 Scenes formed for contemplation, and to n. T. iii 301 The few small embers left she n. well T. iv 383 A mother's lecture and a n.'s care Tir. 196 To n. with tender care the thriving Arts T.T. 69 Genius is thine, and thou art Fancy's n. T.T. 290

NURSED.

There Fancy n, her in ideal bowers A.T. 7 True Charity, a plant divinely n. Ch. 573
The last by Vanity produced and n. Con. 378
Who, n. with tender care Ep. ii 6

NURSERY.

And, turning from my n, window, drew M.P. 30 Children not thine have trod my n. floor M.P. 47 I do confess them n, of the arts T, i 693 Would find them hideous n. of the spleen T. iii 318 And wisely store the n. by degrees Tir. 117 Ye n. of our boys, we owe to you Tir. 248 And, while on public n. they rely Tir. 793

NURSLINGS.

Now blame we most the n. or the nurse? T. ii 771

NURTURE.

The n of her youth, her dearest pledge T ii 779

NURTURED.

My man of morals, n. in the shades T. ii 532 The Muse instructed a well n, train T.T. 634

NUTS.

The maple, and the beech of oily n. T. i 315The auburn n, that held thee, swallowing down Y. O.

NUTRIMENT.

With ease, and find them n.: but man F.A. 36

NUTRITIQUS.

And draining its n, powers to feed R, 43 If fanned by balmy and n. air T. iii 524

NYMPH. "Oh, shame!" ten thousand echoing n. replied "For British n., whose lords were lately true A.T.109 "N. quite as fair, and happier once than you A.T. 110 (Two n. adorned with every grace D.W. 7That won a n. on that immortal plain Ez. 598 Two n., both nearly of an age J.P. 1The n, referred the cause J.P. 18 "My favourite N. to slight J.P. 34 The n. must lose her female friend L.R. 1 Where'er the heavenly N. is seen Miss — 69 The n. between two chariot glasses P.B. 20 To seem some n, in her sedan R, C, 18 How many self-deluded n, and swains T, iii 316 Pure is the n., though liberal of her smiles T. iii 712 Or n. responsive, equally affect T. iv 21 N. were Dianas then, and swains had hearts T. iv Ye n.! if e'er your eyes were red T.B. 1

Ο.

OAK.

Sage beneath the spreading o. B. 5 Steered Britain's o. into a world unknown Ch. 23 And o. coeval spread a mournful shade H. 352 Of rugged o. for worms M.B. 8 O. intersperse it, that had once a head N.A. 11 With \lim_{\to} of British o., and nerves of wire R. 311 And drilled in holes, the solid o, is found T, i 26 [56] Than the firm o, of which the frame was formed T, i Lord of the woods, the long surviving o. T. i 313 By restless undulation; even the o. T. i 377 And under an old o.'s domestic shade T. iv 172 The walk, still verdant, under o. and elms T. vi 70 In nature, from the broad majestic o. T. vi 250 When our forefathers Druids in their o. Y.O. 10 O. fell not, hewn by thousands, to supply Y.O. 101 OAKEN.

To strip Jove's statue of his o. wreath T. vi 640 Or o. fence that hems the paddock round T.T. 583

OAR.

That ever dragged a chain, or tugged an o. Ex. 527 But o. alone can ne'er prevail H.F. 21 Hackneyed in business, wearied at that o. R. 1

OATH.

Entired him from his o. of knighthood far A.T. 27 O. terminate, as Paul observes, all strife Con. 55 With o. like rivets forced into the brain Con. 64 O. used as playthings or convenient tools Ex. 37 By an o. dipped in sacramental blood? Ex. 381 The cheek-distending o., not to be praised T. iv 488 Whose o. is rhetoric, and who swear for fame T. iv 491 By the unimpeachable and awful o. T. v 549 Much less transfix his feelings with an o. Tir. 729 Sells o. by tale, and at the lowest price T.T. 419

OATS.

And milk, and o., and straw Ep. ii 14

OBDURACY

O. itself must yield the rest Ex. 559 Incurable o. evinced T. vi 532 O. takes place; callous and tough T.T. 458

OBDUBATE.

O. and unyielding, glassy smooth T. i 52 There is no flesh in man's o. heart T. ii 8

OBEDIENCE.

Let my o. then excuse B.R. 21 Say on what hinge does his o. move? T. 207 Life for o., death for every flaw T. 550

OBEDIENT.

The sun, o., at her call appears H. 43 The youth, o. to his sire's commands P.E. 377 Drives to their dens the o. beasts of prey R. 766 Man scarce had risen, o. to his call T. vi 348 I played awhile, o. to the fair T. vi 1008 O. to the customs of the course T. 14 Tom quits you, with-" Your most o., Sir" T. 212

OBERON.

With lenient balm may O. hence Miss - 21 OBEY.

And He, whose power mere nullity o. Ex. 642

To serve the Sovereign we were born to o. R. 50 The rising waves o, the increasing blast R, 532 Rebel, because 'tis easy to a T. 36 Kings are invited, and would kings o. T. 351 114 Which winds and waves o., invades the shore T. ii Gloriously drunk, o. the important call! T. iv 510 His pride, that scorns to o. or to submit Tir. 223 OBEYED.

Consulted and o., to guide his steps T. v 674 He ruled with meekness, they o. with joy T. vi 351

OBJECT.

Their o., and their subject, and their hope Con. 542 Yes, but an o. bright as orient morn H. 550 His o. chosen, wealth or fame Mor. 27 A vicious o. still is worse Mor. 47 Must be supplied with o. of his choice P.E. 43 From o. too much dreaded or desired R. 144 Be still a pleasing o. in my view T. i 250 O. of my implacable disgust T. ii 418 With meaner o. even the few she finds! T. iii 727 Assimilates all o. Earth receives T. iv 323 The likeness of some o. seen before T. v 121 Of o., more illustrious in her view T. vi 916 How much the o. of her love Q.V. 31

OBJECTIONS.

New raised o. with new quibbles meets P.E. 551

OBLIGATIONS.

Man's o. infinite, of course T. 197

OBLIGED.

[R. 593

Jack bowed, and was o.; -confessed 'twas strange

OBLIQUITY.

The least o, is fatal here P.E. 579

OBLITERATE.

The future shall o, the past T, 295 Ensuing seemed to o, the past T, vi 540

ORLIVION.

And dark o. soon absorbs them all B.B.8Of blank o., seem a glorious prize T. i 287 With sweet o. of the cares of day T. iv 250

OBNOXIOUS.

Of wrath o., God may choose his mark T. ii 156 And therefore more o. at this hour T. iii 846

OBSCENE.

O., to swill and swallow at a trough ? P.E. 266 Guiltless of pampered appetite o.) T. i 101 Receives the morsel—flesh o. of dog T. i 562 And waved his rod divine, a rod o. T. ii 826 Is difficult, their punishment o. Tir. 221 Foul with excess, and with discourse o. Tir. 736

OBSCENITY.

Of rank o., debauched their age T.T. 631

OBSCURE.

O. or quench a faculty that finds Con. 593 But as too much o. the sight E. iv 63 Amazed that shadows should o, the sight H. 534 Though plain to others, is o, to him P.E. 447 The panels, leaving an o., rude name T. i 2.2 I will o., not willingly alone M.P. 15 [496] In nooks o., far from the ways of men T. vi 842 Hence the same word, that bids our lusts o. P.E. Who, doomed to an o. but tranquil state T. vi 908 In nooks o., far from the ways of men T. vi 842

OBSCURED.

Dimness and anguish, all thy beams o. Ex. 333 OBSCUREST.

O. night involved the sky Cast. 1 OBSCURITY.

O. with splendour F. 120 There hid in loathed o., removed R. 563 In which o. has wrapped them up T. iii 146 OBSEQUIOUS.

O. when abroad, though proud at home R. 410 And bow o., hide their hate of her T. ii 646 Who, with bare-headed and o. bows T. iii 819 O., from the cradle to the throne T.T. 122

OBSERVANCE.

A course of long o. for its use T. v 301 OBSERVATION.

For our dim-sighted o. E. i 86 Are o. on the case F. 160 And o. taught me, I would teach P.E. 12 This o., as it chanced, not made R. 463 Of O., and discovers, else T. iii 231

[A.C. 14 "Your lordship o. they are made with a straddle Oaths terminate, as Paul o., all strife Con. 55 O. each face, how sober and demure! P.E. 134 Blames his own indolence, o., though late R. 477 O. the dappled foresters, how light St. ii 21

OBSERVED.

A day of luxury, o. aright P.E. 164 At Popish practices o. within P.E. 384 O. as prodigies, and soon reclaimed T. iv 524 OBSERVER.

"Can this be true?"—an arch o. cries Com. 231 But sage o. oft mistake the flame Con. 655

OBSERVING.

He might escape the most o. eyes R. 588 OBSOLETE.

The praise of names for ages o. Con. 828 The o. prolixity of shade T. i 265 Finds one ill made, another o. T. ii 602

OBSTINACY.

When O, once has conquered Grace Ex, 152 Where O. takes his sturdy stand Ex. 298

OBSTINATE.

Then o. Self-will confirms him so P.E. 543 Is o., and cure beyond our reach T. iii 40

OBSTINATELY.

Praise him on earth, or o. dumb Tir. 101

OBSTRUCT.

If hindrances o. thy way Trans. H. 31 OBTAIN.

Dearly o. the refuge it affords T. i 238 Seek and o., and often find unsought? T. iii 288 Twins at all points—yet this o. in all T. iv 738 And there o. fresh triumphs o'er himself T. vi 937 And does but at the goal o. Th. 19 I hat, viewing it, we seem almost to o. Tir. 312 Add too, that, thus estranged, thou canst o. Tir. 585 A flat and fatal negative o. Tir. 714

A despot big with power o. by wealth Ex. 370 And that o. by rapine and by stealth? Ex. 371 And pocketed a prize by fraud o. T. iii 87 Asks egress; which o., the overcharged T. iii 497

OBTRUDE.

O. on human notice more Mrs. M — 34

OBTUSE.

By repetition palled, by age o. H. 22 [ii 808 Their points o., and feathers drunk with wine! T.

OBVIATE.

And which no care can o. It were long T. iii 558 OBVIOUS.

What o. truths the wisest heads may miss! R. 458 Is o., placed within the easy reach T_{\bullet} i 598

OCCASION.

O. prompt, and appetite so keen A.T. 90 The o. of transmuting fear to love? Ch. 225 Who when o. justified its use Con. 613 Too small perhaps the slight o. E. i 85 Sometimes o. brings to light F. 148 Will find o. to forbear M.F. 38 And have most plentiful o. P. 28 Improve the kind o., understand R. 345 The o.—for the Fair commands the song T. i 7 To serve o, of poetic pomp T, i 152 When safe o. offers; and with dance T. i 584 Of man's o., when in him reside T. ii 537 To seize the fair o.; well they eye T. v 66 O. needs but fan them, and they blaze T. v 207The o. it presents of doing good T. vi 847 O bright o. of dispensing good T.T. 63

OCCASIONAL.

These, therefore, are o., and pass T. v 566

OCCIDUUS.

O. is a pastor of renown P.E. 124 Has charmed me much (not even O. more) P.E. 139

OCCUPATION.

Absence of o, is not rest R, 623 Are o. of the poet's mind T. ii 298 Waste youth in o. only fit T. ii 636 The o. dearest to his heart T. ii 709
Can be want o. who has these? T. iii 359 And constant o. without care T. iii 693 Were o. easier to be found Tir. 701 The same their o, and success T.T. 46

OCCUPIED.

Is o. as well, employs his hours R.507He that is ever o. in storms T. iii 383 Which he, thus o., enjoys! Retreat T. iii 676 And, o. as earnestly as she T. vi 917 Not o. in day dreams, as at home Tir. 775

OCCUPY.

Whatever subject o. discourse Con. 57 Error and darkness o. their place Ex. 693 Nor yet the swarms that o, the brain R, 641 Nor does the chisel o. alone T. i 705 But how should matter o. a charge T. vi 216 Now happiest they that o. the scenes T. vi 397 To o. a sacred, awful post Tir. 414 That o. mankind below Trans. ii 17

OCCURRENCE.

To express the o. of the day E. i 4

OCCURS.

"And he that does not, whatsoe'er o. A.T. 121Learns something from whate'er o. Mor. 24 As aught o. that she may smile to hear T. iii 395 Great cause o. to save him from a band Tir. 696

OCCURRED.

Great changes and new manners have o. Con. 803

Though nothing have o. to kindle strife E. iii 15 Or if the thought o. not duly weighed R. 464

OCEAN.

In o. self-upheld Cast. 38 And a wide o. swallows both at last Comp. i 6 Of eastern groves, and o. floored with ice Ex. 16 I dreamed that, on o. afloat M.D. 5 (The storms all weathered and the o. crossed M.P. Ah! why, since o., rivers, streams O. i 5 O. exhibits, fathomless and broad R. 525 Or bury me in o.'s angry tide! T. 270 The dash of O. on his winding shore T. i 186 Else noxious: o., rivers, lakes, and streams T. i 375 In boundless o., never to be passed T. i 629 O. has caught the frenzy, and upwrought T. ii 111 Heaven, earth, and o, plundered of their sweets T. iv82 The o. serves, on high Q.V. 18 「39 Whom O. feels through all his countless waves Tir.

OCTAVOS.

And charged with o, and twelves Gr. 27 OCTOBER.

O. hight, but mild and fair as May A. T. 71 ODD.

TR. 729 And though the world may think the ingredients o. ODE.

His quitrent o., his peppercorn of praise T.T. 110 odious.

See Cortez o. for a world enslaved! Ch. 40 That o, libel on a human voice? Con. 450 And give true piety that o. name Con. 656 To me is o. as the nasal twang T. ii 436 [88] Was marked and shunned as o. He that sold T. iii
Who judged the Pharisee? What o. cause T. 44 Is o., and their wages all their joy Tir. 824

ODORIFEROUS.

His o. attempts to please Con. 287 Smells fresh, and, rich in o. herbs T. i 531 The scent regaled, each o. leaf T. iii 621

ODOUR.

Its o. perished, and its charming hue Con. 43 Fresh o, from the shrubbery at my side F.A. 7 Flowers of rank o. upon thorny lands R. 754 Diffusing o,; nor unnoted pass T. i 317 Renounce the o. of the open field T. i 415 With o., and profligate as sweet T. ii 228 With never cloying o, early and late T. vi. 164 Their balmy o, and imparts their hues T. vi 243 Its o. o'er the Christian's thorny road! T. 454

ODYSSEY.

My Hiad and O. too Gr. 32

O'ERARCHING.

The seas globose and huge, the o. vault R. 552 O'ERBEARING.

To an enormous and o, height T, ii 112

O'ERCHARGED. [757 The country starves, and they that feed the o. T. iii

O'ERCLOUDED.

Yet still, o. with a constant frown Con. 339 O'ERCOME.

Had found one city not to be o. Ex. 210 And own his crab-computing powers o. P.E. 487

The o. well of Charity springs here! Ch. 366

O'ERHANG.

Where mouldering abbey walls o, the glade H. 351 O'ERHEARD.

O. and checked this idle talk P. 40 O'ERHEATED.

Is the false fire of an o. mind Con. 668 O'ERHUNG.

O. the campaign; and the numerous flock Y.O. 53 O'ERJOYED.

O. was he to find J.G. 30

O'ERLEAP.

O'ERLEAPED.

When did the waves so haughtily o. T. ii 55

A faithful barrier, not o. with ease T. iii 681

O'ERLEAPING.

Grow freakish, and o. every mound T.T. 302 O'ERLOOK.

Will Providence o. the wasted good? P.E. 223 Narrow and long, o. the western wave T. vi 484 The world o. him in her busy search T. vi 915 Though more sublimely, he o. the world T. vi 918 O'ERLOOKED.

O. and unemployed, fell sick, and died T. ii 733 O'ERPAYS.

The joy, the danger and the toil o. P.E. 90 O'ERRULES.

But God o. all human follies still Ch. 453 O'ERSEEN.

Oft loitering lazily if not o. T. iii 401

O'ERSHADE.

And sullen sadness, that o., distort T. i 457 O'ERSPREAD.

To see again my day o. St. iii 7

O'ERTAKE.

The waves o. them in their serious play R. 157 O'ERTAKEN.

He walked abroad, o. in the rain Con. 277

O'ERTHROWN.

Upon the guiltless passenger o. T. vi 424 O'ERTOP.

O. the lofty wood that skirts the wild T. i 558 O'ERVALUED.

Pleasure o., and his grace despised Ez. 253

O'ERWATCH. O. the numerous and unruly clan Tir. 262

O'ERWHELM. Invades, possesses, and o. the soul H. 730

Storms rise to o. him; or if stormy winds T. ii 112

O'ERWHELMED.

O. at once with wonder, grief, and joy R. 593 Hear him, o. with sorrow yet rejoice R. 772

O'ERWHELMING.

O. all distinction. On the flood T. v 97

OFFENCE.

His own o., and strips others bare Ch. 494 All zeal for a Reform that gives o. Ch. 533 Through constant dread of giving Truth o. Con. 129 Were sin in me, and an o, to you E, ii 4 Is wooing mercy by renewed o. Ex. 413 He takes o., and wonders what you mean P.E. 89 As inoffensive, what o. in cards? P.E. 149 Whatever shocks, or gives the least o. P.E. 512 To birth or wit; nor gives nor takes o. R. 450 On which he rode. Her opportune o. T. vi 470 And guiltless of o., they range the air T. vi 575 And measure of the o., rebukes a deed T. vi 655 And mirth without o. No few return'd T. vi 692 The neat conveyance hiding all the o. T. vi 980 That neither gave nor would endure o. T.T. 639 Yet not to give o. or grieve Y.D. 43

Decreed that whosever should o. E. iii 48 Peace to all such,—'twere pity to o. H. 272 May least o. against so pure a flame R. 248 Whence springs the conduct that o. you so T. 237 They never sin-or if (as all o.) T. 285 Now this is fulsome; and o, me more T, ii 455 His lessons tire, his mild rebukes o. Tir. 716 O. not him, whom modesty restrains Tir. 727

OFFENDED.

[591 Which, aimed at him, have pierced the o. skies H. Deserves not, if so soon o. P. 43 Asserts the rights of his o. Lord T. 263 Scared, and the o. nightingale is mute T. i 768 Covering his shame from his o. sight T. v 634 May she! and if o. Heaven be still T.T. 406

OFFENDERS.

And judged o. well. Then he that sharped T. iii 86

OFFENDING.

As fearful of o. whom he wished T. vi 501

OFFENSIVE.

The rivers die into o. pools T. ii 96 Found too where most o., in the skirts T. ii 822

OFFER.

And o. something to the general use Ch. 90 Saints o. nothing, in their warmest prayers R. 221 Belie their name, and o, nothing new R. 714 How ill the scene that o. rest S. 3 O. him warmth, security, and rest T. 252 When safe occasion o.; and with dance T. i 584 Polite Refinement o. him in vain T. vi 977

OFFERED.

Forget to enjoy the palm-tree's o. shade Ch. 222

OFFERING.

On Fortune's velvet altar o. up T. ii 657

OFFICE.

Except that O. clips it as it goes Ch. 484 Usurps God's o., lays his bosom bare Con. 745 The priest, whose o. is, with zeal sincere Ex. 97 An o. key, a picklock to a place Ex. 379
"Your o. is to winnow false from true H. 417 Now Truth, perform thine o.; waft aside H. 570 The same kind o. for me still M. 14 Renounced alike its o. and its sport R. 293 Escaped from o. and its constant cares R. 408 Lucrative o. are seldom lost R. 611 His o. sacred, his credentials clear T. ii 339 His noble o., and, instead of truth T. ii 428 Absurdly, not his o., but himself T. ii 548 Forgot their o., opening with a touch T. ii 747 Then acts in Nature's o., brings to pass T. iii 542 Discharge but these kind o., (and who T. iii 618

Would spare, that loves them, o. like these?) T, iii 619 Begs a warm o., doomed to a cold jail T. iii 820 The seals of o. glitter in his eyes T. iv 59 Of knaves in o., partial in the work T. iv 412 Desert their o.; and themselves intent T. iv 589 Some must be great. Great o. will have T. iv 788 That o. served, they must be swept away T. v 564 "The teacher's o., and dispense at large T. v 645 Where he, that fills an o., shall esteem T. vi 845 And quit their o. for their error's sake T. vi 884 Its destined o., yet with gentle stroke T. vi 1003 Must she perform the same kind o. now? T.T. 405 The gift whose o. is the Giver's praise! T.T. 750 Holds fast her o. here, can ne'er forget Tir. 134 Ghostly in o., earthly in his plan Tir. 422 Great titles, o. and trusts disgraced Tir. 816 Starts from its o, like a broken bow V. 70

OFFSPRING.

His o. hold in his paternal care H. 140 Man is the genuine o, of revolt H. 181 And Peace the genuine o. of her smile H. 492 Is it that Adam's o. may be saved T. 183 Their o., left upon so wild a beach Tir. 802

And liberty, and o. honour too T. i 734 Is o. proof of wisdom, when the fault T. iii 39 But o. deaf to suppliants who would blush T. iv 415 Are o. vanquished and thrown far behind T. vi 615

OGLES.

While Cynthio o., as she passes P.B. 19

OGLING.

Dick heard, and tweedling, o., bridling P.T. 38

Our wasted o. unprofitably burns Con. 357 Furnishes always o, for its own wheels R, 616 Pardon me, ye that give the midnight o. R. 661

OILY.

The maple, and the beech of o. nuts T. i 315 Here rills of o. elequence in soft T. iv 64

They teach both conjurers and o. women A Fable 21 But what o. Chaucer's merry page befits A.T. 84 When Scaudal has new minted an o. lie Ch. 513 Like hidden lamps in o. sepulchral urns Con. 358 There he was copious as o. Greece or Rome Con. 621 And new or o., still hasten to a close Con. 238 [62.) Though Time will wear us, and we must grow o. Con. And say as stern Elijah said of o. Con. 850 [Con. 741 The World grown o. her deep discernment shows That fables o., that seemed for ever mute Con. 817 The virtues of o. Rome for English use Con. 836 Make him athletic as in days of o. Con. 841 Some few that I have known in days of o. E. iii 58 In o. grimalkin's glaring eyes E. iv 44 O. Tiny, surliest of his kind Ep. ii 5 Their very garments sacred, o. yet new Ex. 183 A truth still sacred, and believed of o. Ex. 351 Hast thou within thee sin, that in o. time Ex. 414 Some twigs of that o, scourge are left behind Ex. 517 'Tis to believe what men inspired of o. Ex. 646 Proof against sickness and o. age M.F. 50 With such as its o. tenants are M.B. 3 That title now too trite and o.) Mor. 2 O. Winter, halting o'er the mead N. 13 [53 They gathered close around the o. pit's brink N.A. Should deem it by our o. companion made N.A. 95 Lay his o. age upon the lap of Ease R, 12 And his o. stint—three thousand pounds a year R.

In an o, empty watering pot R.C. 16 And the o. utensil of tin R.C. 27 Cries T. 223 "Where dwell these matchless saints?" o. Curio But made long since, like Babylon of o. T. 391 Sprightly, and o. almost without decay T. i 408 Increasing London? Babylon of o. T. i 722 Have kindled beacons in the skies, and the o. T. ii And did he not of o, employ his means T, ii 199 Of o. achievements, and despair of new T. ii 254 Down into modern use; transforms o. print T. ii 363 For second childhood; and devote o. age T. ii 637 With an o. tavern quill, is hungry yet T. ii 628 A priesthood such as Baal's was of o. T. ii 678 [732 Their good o. friend, and Discipline at length T. ii Virtue and vice had boundaries in o. time T. iii 75 And growing o. in drawing nothing up!" T. iii 190 Are wedded thus, like beauty to o. age T. iii 660 And under an o. oak's domestic shade T. iv 172 [402-Skillet, and o. carved chest, from public sale T. iv Than the fair shepherdess of o. romance T. iv 538 Him, Tubal named, the Vulcan of o. times T. v 217 Say ye, who (with less prudence than of o. T. v 321 O. or of later date, by sea or land T. v 381 [382 Her house of bondage, worse than that of o. T. v And seeing the o. castle of the state T. v 525 [v 515 Such were not they of o., whose tempered blades T. With shallow shifts and o. devices, worn T. v 632 Their kerchiefs, and o. women weep for joy T. vi Encomium in o. time was poet's work T. vi 715 [737 And thou a wretch whom following the company of the comp And thou a wretch, whom, following her o. plan Tir. There shall he learn, ere sixteen winters o. Tir. 210 Long lines of ancestry, renowned of o. Tir. 817 [878 Health's last farewell, a staff to thine o. age Tir. A querulous o. woman's voice Trans. iv 25 No bard, howe'er majestic, o. or new T.T. 180 Proof of an o. affection still alive V. 24

OLIVE.

Her unctuous o., and her purple vines Her. 7 Vines, o., herbage, forests disappear Her. 23 Like gleanings of an o. tree they show T. 379

OLYMPIAN.

Nectareous essences, O. dews T. iv 83

OLYMPIC.

[309] Gives him 0. speed, and shoots him to the goal T.T.

That all O. through the country roves Con. 825

OMEN.

(For ravens, though, as birds of o. A Fable 20 OMINOUS.

Prodigies o., and viewed with fear P.E. 99 A presage o., portending still T. v. 625

OMISSION.

By trespass or o. F. 147

OMITS.

The chaster Muse of modern days o. A.T. 83

OMITTED.

Thy name o., in a page U. 5

OMNIPOTENCE.

'Tis thus O. his law fulfils Ch. 81 To span o., and measure might T. vi 212

OMNIPOTENT.

Just so the O., who turns E. i 73 The o. magician, Brown, appears! T. iii 766

Fruits of o. eternal love T. iv. 188 An Orpheus, and o. in song T. v 694

OMNISCIENT.

But, with averted eyes, the o. Judge T. 227

ONION.

And, feasting on an o. and a crust T.T. 241

And feeble o, of a pigmy rush Ex. 707 The o. and irregular. At length T. v 230

OPAQUE.

As diamonds, stripped of their o. disguise Ch. 337 Her veil o., discloses with a smile T. v. 892

OPEN.

And set the unseemly pair in o. day A.T. 168 God o. fruitful Nature's various scenes Ch. 88 Winding a secret or an o. course Ch. 369 Whoever keeps an o. ear F. 97 Enjoyed the o. sir F.B. 3 The o. windows seemed to invite F.B. 19

And they might enter at his o. door H. 308 Their gates wide o. threw J.G. 120 Flew o. in short space J.G. 212 Those o. on the spot their honeyed store P.E. 49 Half o. in the topmost chest R.C. 40 "The o. drawer was left, I see R.C. 55 'Tis o., and ye cannot enter-why? T. 357

His legs depending at the o. door T. i 93 Renounce the odours of the o. field T. i 415 Beneath the o. sky she spreads the feast T. i 433

With easy force it o. all the cells T. vi 11 Forms, o., and gives scent to every flower T.T.691

OPENED. Were built, the fountains o., or the sea T. v 765

OPENING. 1884 Shoots between scattered rocks and o. shades Con. [103 And now just o. to our view E. i 50 Sails ripped, seams o. wide, and compass lost M.P. Entreated, o. wide his beak P.T, 19 The breach, though small at first, soon o. wide P.E. O. the map of God's extensive plan R, 147 Forgot their office, o. with a touch T. ii 747 Each o. blossom, freely breathes abroad T. iii 622

O. and wider o. on her view T.T. 265 Where Discipline helps o. buds of sense T.T. 503 And the next o. grave may yawn for you St. ii 33

OPERA.

With o. glass to watch the moving scene T. ii 43 OPERATION.

A moment's o. on his love T. iii 793

OPHIR.

Gold, purer far than O. ever knew V. 97

OPIATES.

And lenient as soft o. to the mind P.E. 80 OPINION.

(For opposition gives o. strength) Con. 88 Set your o. at whatever pitch Con. 107 His sole o., whatsoe'er befall Con. 133 In vain o, waste and dangerous wild H. 279 To streams of popular o. drawn P.E. 478

OPIUM.

Or do they still, as if with o. drugged T. iv 26

OPPORTUNE.

On which he rode. Her o. offence T. vi 470

OPPORTUNITY.

Than o. vouchsafed to err F.A. 16 A splendid o. to die? T. v 320

OPPOSE.

What human wisdom cannot but o. Ch. 340 The emphatic speaker dearly loves to o. Con. 269 Nature o. with her utmost force H. 639 Pride above all o. her design T. 474 No sycophant or slave, that dared o. T. T. 350

OPPOSED.

That strength would fail, o. against the push Ex. 706 Is weakness when o.; conscious of wrong T. v 372 What does he not, from lusts o. in vain T. v 599 O. against the pleasures Nature loves! Tir. 170

OPPOSERS.

Meet their o. with united strength Con. 700

OPPOSITE.

When God and man stand o. in view H. 131 "O. in the apple-tree P.T. 31

OPPOSITION.

(For o. gives opinion strength) Con. 88

OPPRESSOR.

To see the o. in his turn oppressed Ch. 74 Of all their hard o. valued most Ex. 172 With ease, and is at large. The o. holds T. v 774

OPPRESSED.

To see the oppressor in his turn o. Ch. 74 Where the betrayed, forsaken and o. T. 437

OPPRESSION.

O., labouring hard to grind the poor Ex. 40 O. his terrible name M.D. 28
Where rumour of o. and deceit T. ii 3
O., prisons, have no power to bind T. v 543
The o. of a tyrannous control T. vi 455

OPPROBRIOUS.

Then shame to manhood, and o. more T. v 379 O. residence, he finds them all T. v 581

OPTICIAN.

And land some grave o. on the shore Ch. 384

OPTICS

From which our nicer o. turn away H. 494 Sees, far as human o. may command T. 3 Man made for kings! those o. are but dim T.T. 55

OPULENCE.

The smile of o. in sorrow's face Ch. 130 Denied that earthly o. they choose Ex. 458 (Such is his thirst of o. and ease) Her. 68

OPULENT.

As London, o., enlarged, and still T. i 721 That seizes first the o., descends T. iv 583

ORACLE.

An o. within an empty cask Con. 298
And import, of their o. divine Ex. 126
"Spoke like an o.," they all exclaim H. 437
Of o. like these? Great pity too T. iii 169
They hear him speak—the o. of law Tir. 363
Myself the o., and will discourse Y.O. 142

ORACULAR.

Where, in his own o, abode T. 389 Yet deemed o., lure down to death T. v 863 The mighty plan, o., in verse T.T. 179 O., I would not curious ask Y.O. 42

ORANGE.

The ruddier o, and the paler lime T. iii 578 Of o, myrtle, or the fragrant weed T. iv 764

ORATION.

The songster heard his short o. N.G. 23

ORATOR.

Mute as e'er gazed on o. or bard S. i S

ORATORY.

Where flails of o, thresh the floor Ex, 302

ORR

And, though the soul shall seek superior o. Ch. 563 The rising or the setting o. of day R. 191 'Tis morning; and the sun with ruddy o. T. v 1

ORBIT.

Ye clergy, while your o. is your place P.E. 96

ORCHARD.

His comrades had plotted an o. to rob P.A. 23 In many an o., copse, and grove P.T. 13

ORDAIN.

As He o. things sordid in their birth Ch. 561 E'en as his will and his decrees o. Ex. 325 Revere the laws they dream that Heaven o. H. 241 To take the bend his appetites o. H. 603

ORDAINED.

It seems as if we Britons were o. Con. 360 O. perhaps, ere summer flies O. i 17 O. to move when others please P. 7
New life o. and brighter scenes to share R. 65
Whence, and what are we? to what end o.? R. 645
And virtue, and those scenes which God o. T. iii 703
Just in the niche he was o. to fill T. iv 792
"O. to guide the embodied spirit home T. v 840

ORDER.

Against my o., whom you heard Beau 7
To take his honour's o., cap in hand Con. 416
And plans and o. our connexions E. i 36
He sowed the seeds of o. where he went Ex. 488
Thy chaos o., and thy weakness might Ex. 641
Their o. on his shelves exact Mrs. M—39
Go, cast your o. at your bishop's feet P.E. 120
The rest in o. to the top R.C. 94
Who trample o.; and the day St. vi 25
He graced a college, in which o. yet T. ii 785
Sightly, and in just o., ere he gives T. iii 649
Disturb good o., and degrade true worth T. iii 674
Of o., from the chariot to the plough T. vi 586
Where all was vitreous; but in o. due T. v 161
Of these the first in o., and the pledge T. v 575
And marshals all the o. of the year T. vi 191
And the harmonious o. of them all Tir. 635

ORDERED.

Thus genius rose and set at o. times T.T. 560

ORDINANCE.

An o. it concerned them much to know H. 313 The total o. and will of God T. i 743 Of that controlling o. they move T. vi 202 Where no regard of o. is shown Tir. 242

ORE.

The recollection, like a vein of o. Con. 515 "Nor needs his genuine o. refine! E. iv 89

ORGAN.

While, through that public o. of report T. ii 355

ORIENT.

His victory was that of o. light Ex. 478 Yes, but an object bright as o. morn H. 550 Than golden beams of o. light M. 27

ORIGIN.

Tastes of its healthful o., and flows Con. 565 Knows he his o.? can he ascend F.A. 22 Some say that in the o. of things T. vi 198

ORIGINAL.

The bright o. was one he knew Ch. 433 Review thy dim o. and prime Ex. 467

ORIGINATE.

The greatest oft o.) could Chance T. ii 168

ORMUS.

The looms of O., and the mines of Ind T. vi 806

ORNAMENT.

No shining o. have they to seek H. 765 No clustering o. to clog the pile T. 24 And decks itself with o. of gold T. i 529 Supp.rt, and o. of Virtue's cause T. ii 336 Stripped of her o., her leaves, and flowers T. iii 728 Studious of o., yet unresolved T. vi 160

ORNAMENTAL.

As o., musical, polite T. iv 489

ORPHEAN.

By magic summons of the O. lyre T. iii 587

ORPHEUS.

An O., and omnipotent in song T. v 694 The tree-enchanter O. fell T.B. 64

OSCITANCY.

And slumbering o. mars the brood? T. ii 774
OSIERS.

Streams edged with o., fattening every field H. 47
OSTENT.

Of God and goodness, atheist in o. T. vi 486

OSTENTATION.

From o., as from weakness, free T. 25 Less o., and yet studded thick T. iii 420

OSTENTATIOUS.

With o. pageantry, but set T. iv 256

OSTLER.

The Crown, took notice of an o.'s face R. 586 OSTRICH.

The o., silliest of the feathered kind Tir. 789

OHSE

Swept O's silent tide D.W. 2 It was the time when O. displayed D.W. 13 A cottage on the banks of O.—E. i 48 Nor O. on his bosom their image receives P.F. 4 Fast by the banks of the slow-winding O.—R. 804 Here O., slow-winding through a level plain T. i 163 The O., dividing the well-watered land T. i 323 But smooth with wands from O's side T.B. 28

OUTCAST.

They left their o. mate behind Cast. 23

OUTCRIES.

Though Appetite raise o. at the cost? T. ii 621 OUTLAST.

Their fragrant memory will o. their tomb Com. 631

OUTLINE.

And o. of the present transient state R. 670 OUTLIVED.

And schools, that have o. all just esteem Tir. 704 No flock frequents thee now. Thou hast o. Y.O.56

OUTLIVES.

Still o. many a storm that has effaced M.P. 56

OUT-MANTLE.

Till it o. all the pride of verse T. v 680

OUTRAGE.

Of wrong and o. with which earth is filled T. ii 7 And conscious of the o. he commits T. vi 599

OUTRAGEOUS.

Charge not a God with such o. wrong" T. 520

OUTRIGHT.

Who say the mob are mad o. Pat. 19

OUTSCOLDS.

O. the ranting actor on the stage T. iv 45 OUTSIDE.

Less dainty than becomes his grave o. T. iv 605 OUTSLEPT.

He has o. the winter, ventures forth T. vi 313 OUTSPREAD.

And while her infant race with o. hands T. iv 334 Ruminate heedless of the scene o. T. ▼ 788. Whose o. branches overarch the glade T. vi 71

OUTSTRETCHED.

By soft recumbency of o. limbs T. i 82

OUTWARD.

And ignorant, except of o. show) T. i 650

OUTWEIGHS.

Joy, far superior Joy, that much o. H. 723

OUTWITTED.

And by themselves o. F. 72

OVEN-WOOD.

But now wear crests of o. instead N.A. 12

OVERARCH.

Whose outspread branches o. the glade T. vi 71

OVERAWED.

Dreading a negative, and o. E. iii 22 Thus free from censure o. by fear T.T. 113 Till Reason, now no longer o. Tir. 187

OVERBEARING.

The impoverished earth; an o. race T. iii 672

OVERBUILT.

And o. with most impending brows T. iii 193

OVERCAST.

Since first our sky was o. M. 2 What if thine Heaven be o. Trans. H. 25

OVERCHARGED.

Asks egress; which obtained, the o. T. iii 497

OVERCHARGES.

But o. her capacious hand Ch. 100

OVERFLOWING.

Poured out from Plenty's o. horn Es. 10

OVERGORGED.

Into his o. and bloated purse T. i 737 To turn purveyor to an o. T. v 421

OVERGROWN.

The common o. with fern, and rough T. i 526

OVERHANG.

That o. the borders of thy tomb H. 38 That o. the thatch, itself unseen T. i 224 That o. a torrent, to a twig T. i 484

OVERHANGING.

By just degrees, an o. breadth T. iii 482

OVER-HEAD.

Yet feel the burning instinct: o. T. iv 773

OVERLAID.

And o. with clear translucent glass T. iii 485

OVERLEAPED.

That one among so many o. T. ii 718

OVERLEAPING.

Nor stops, till, o. all delays Ch. 178

OVERLOOKED.

While life's sublimest joys are o. Ch. 219 Shall be despised and o. no more R. 359 Stand, never o., our favourite elms T. i 167 Of ignorance, till then she o. T. v 809

OVERLOOKS.

In Nature's tendencies, oft o. T. ii 175 Of Nature, o. her author more T. iii 237

OVERNICE.

That with a world, not often o. Tir. 464

OVERPAID.

And o. its value with thy blood T. vi 860

OVERPOWERING.

Of asps their venom, o. strength T. v 702

OVERSET.

And she was o. R.G. 10 Lest storms should o. the leaning pile T. v 39 The storms that o. the joys of life T.T. 449

OVERSHADOWING.

Large foliage, o. golden flowers T. iii 535

OVERSHOOT.

Proud of his speed, to o. the truth Con. 642 Of dayspring o. his humble nest T. i 496

OVERSPREAD.

So then ;—as darkness o. the deep Ex. 636 Thick o. with moss and silky grass $N.A.\ 2$ The smoking manure, and o. it all T. iii 517

OVERTHROW.

The tumult and the o., the pangs T. ii 104

OVERTHWART.

While far beyond, and o. the stream T. i 169

OVERWHELM.

They o. me with the spleen " M.F. 8

OWE.

The judge of all men o, them no regard Ch, 572 O. all its weight, like loaded dice, to lead Con. 302 How much the country to the conqueror o. Ex. 481 This cap to my cousin I o. Gr. 5 All these are not half that I o. Gr. 41 Their lustre to his influence o. Mrs. M— 54 Such writers, and such readers, o. the gust P.E. 329 O sacred art! to which alone life o. R. 749 The tears that England o. R.G. 28 He held the thunder. But the monarch o. T. i 382 That o. its pleasures to another's pain T. iii 327 That oft we o. our safety to a skill T. vi 619 Of which she little dreams. Perhaps she o. T. vi 945 'Tis to the virtues of such men, man o. T.T. 19 He speaks, and they appear; to him they o. T.T. 356 Ye nurseries of our boys, we o. to you Tir. 248 O. their repute in part, but not the whole Tir. 461 Instead of paying what he o. Y.D. 27 Of their best tone their dissolution o. Y.O. 85

OWED.

I o. a trifle, and have paid the debt Con. 796 Nor o. articulation to his ear Y.O. 148

OWING

Less impious than absurd, and o. more T. vi 656

OWL.

The jay, the pie, and even the boding o. T. 205 [52 For o. to roost in. Once thy spreading boughs Y.U.

OWN.

O. no superior but the God she fears Ch. 275
His conscience o. it true H.F. 16
That o. a carcass, and not quake for fear? N.A. 100
And o. his crab-computing powers o'ercome P.E. 487
Shall o. itself a stammerer in that cause R. 413
He likes the country, but in truth must o. R. 573
Communicative of the good he o. T. i 332
And chaste themselves, are not ashamed to o. T. iii
Were he on earth, would hear, approve, and o. T. ii396
And o., the law of universal love T. vi 360
And o. her power on every shore he layes Tir. 40

OWNED.

The estate his sires had o, in ancient years R, 579 More worthily the powers she o, before T, v 807

OWNER.

For why?—his o. had a house J.G. 151 And prove their o. half divine" P. 64 Reproach their o. with that love of rest T. i 394 Even as he bids! The enraptured o. smiles T. ii 780 Might have bloomed with its o. awhile The Rose 18

Х. г

Witness the patient o., with stripes and yells \tilde{T} . vi

OYSTER.

An o., cast upon the shore P. 1

P.

PACE.

Are taught by rays that fly with equal p. Ch. 363
The silent p. with which they steal away Comp. i 3
Judgment, however tardy, mends her p. Ex. 151
Proceeding with his nimblest p. Mor. 20
They sidle to the goal with awkward p. P.E. 562
He drops the rein, and leaves him to his p. T. 247
Swift p. or steep ascent no toil to me T. i 139
How oft upon yon eminence our p. T. i 154
But now with pleasant p. a cleanlier road T. iii 17
Tothe clogged wheels; and in its sluggish p. T. iv 345
Though lean and beggared, every twentieth p. T. iv 468
To him whose moments all have one dull p. T. v 407

PACING.

Oft p., as the mariner his deck F.A. 19 Full slowly p. o'er the stones J.G. 79

PACK.

Thy soldiery, the Pope's well managed p. Ex. 518 Now therefore issued forth the spotted p. N.A. 24 He takes the field, the master of the p. P.E. 114 A pedlar's p., that bows the bearer down T. i 465 For all the savage din of the swift p. T. iii 325 The puppy p. that had defiled the scene T.T. 641

PACKED.

Close p, and smiling, in a chaise and one T, i 80 True to his charge, the close p, load behind T, iv 8

PACKHORSE.

With p. constancy we keep the road Tir. 252

PADDLE.

Ducks p. in the pond, before the door R. 499 PADDLED.

Stepping into their nests, they p. P.T. 54
PADDOCK.

Or oaken fence that hems the p. round T.T. 583

PAGAN.

A herald of God's love to p. lands Ch. 136

But what old Chaucer's merry p. befits A.T. 84In vain recorded in historic p. B.B. 3 No poet wept him; but the p. Cast. 49 Or from philosophy's enlightened p. Con. 616 This p. of providence quite new E. i 49 Ask now of History's authentic p. Ex. 161 -welladay, the title p. was lost H. 428 Thee, Thornton! worthy in some p. to shine J.T.7 Appealed to many a poet s p. L.R. 11Their p. mangled, burnt, and torn M. i 9 All this still legible in Memory's p. M.P. 68 Nor touch the p. he cannot but profane) P.E. 457 To spread the p. of Scripture, and compare R. 131 And poring on thy p., whose every line R. 207 With which I charge my p. St. i 22 As I can number in my punctual p. St. ii 3Which future p, yet are doomed to share T, 146 For her, the Memory fills her ample p. Tir. 13 'Tis called a book, though but a single p.) Tir. 122 This folio of four p., happy work! T. iv 50 There forests of no meaning spread the p. T. iv 74 The poet's or historian's p. by one T. iv 158 'Tis not enough that Greek or Roman p. Tir. 605 And the sixth Edward's, grace the historic p. T.T. 106

Thy name omitted, in a p. U. 5 In many a p. historic strayed 1789, 23

PAGEANT.

We love the man; the paltry p. you T. v 318 A pompous and slow-moving p. comes T. vi 697 Had all the p. of the world Q.V. 21

PAGEANTRY.

And look on Folly's p. with scorn S. ii 8 Could p. and dance, and feast and song T. iii 314 With ostentatious p., but set T. iv 256

PAID.

And Love Divine has p. one price for all Ch. 205
She deems all safe, for she has p. the price Ch. 4:8
The visit p., with ecstasy we come Con. 399
I owed a trifle, and have p. the debt Con. 796
From man to man, or e'en to woman p. E. ii 5
If p. in any other coin E. iv 26
Punctually p. for lengthening out disease H. 204
For which he p. full dear J.G. 202
Is p. at least in peace of mind Mor. 51
P. my price in paltry gold N.C. 6
Pay!—follow Christ, and all is p. St. v 33
His praise postponed, and never to be p. T. 86 [91
P. with the blood that he had basely spared T. iii
But fairer wreaths are due, though never p. T. v712
For wages so unlikely to be p. Tir. 457

PAIN.

With many a freakish trick deceived his p. A.T. 25 And ease a doggish p. Beau 10 I see you after all my p. Beau 19 And I might spare myself the p. to show Ch. 626 They fix attention, heedless of your p. Con. 63 I pi y bashful men, who feel the p. Con. 347 [494] Though future p. may serve for present mirth Con. Beau marked my unsuccessful p. D.W. 21 Employs our present thoughts and p. E. i 51 Flits out of sight, and mocks his p. E. iv 60 "Matthew," says Fame, "with endless p. E. iv 73 But age in spite of weakness and of p. Ez. 25 Pleasure is deaf when told of future p. Ex. 66 A long immunity from grief and p. Ex. 82And at last is of service in sickness or p. F.M. 11 If sentence of eternal p, belong H. 889 If ever thou hast felt another's p. H. 674 Woven with p, into his plan H.F. 3 On p. of excommunication " L.W. 6 A pleasure from its p. Miss -Indite much metre with much p. O. i 3 Will heartily thank us, no doubt, for our p. P.A. 10 Remorse, and Sorrow, and vindictive P.—P.E. 11 Ere yet the pleasing toil becomes a p. P.E. 70 Spontaneous, take but little p. to sow P.E.364Death and the p. of Hell attend him there P.E. 547 Else He that hung there suffered all his p. P.E. 623 Grasp seeming Happiness, and find it P.-Till Sympathy contract a kindred p. R. 299And minds that deem derided p. a treat R. 310 Condemn the prattler, for his idle p. R. 547To ages in a world of p. St. v 9His voluntary p., severe and long T. 101 Escaped with p. from that adventurous flight T. i 4 From gaiety that fills the bones with p. T. i 504 There is a pleasure in poetic p. T. ii 285 That owes its pleasures to another's p. T. iii 327

That sensibility of p. with which T. iv 358

And shock me. I should then with double $p.\ T.v$ 483 And win it with more p. Their blood is shed T.v 719 For he has wings that neither sickness, $p.\ T.v$ 771 And with it all its pleasures and its $p.\ T.v$ i 14 The stress of a continual act, the $p.\ T.v$ i 208 Hence date the persecution and the $p.\ T.v$ i 384 [63 With passions, just that he may prove, with $p.\ Tir.$ A childish waste of philosophic $p.\ Tir.$ 76 That instant upon all his future $p.\ Tir.$ 715 Would deem it no abuse, or waste of $p.\ Tir.$ 627 And hopes in spite of $p.\ Trans.\ H.$ 21 [536 Or, having whelped a prologue with great $p.\ T.T.$ To exchange content for trouble, ease for $p.\ V.$ 64

PAINED.

And infants clamorous whether pleased or p. T. i 232 Might never reach me more! My ear is p. T. ii 5

PAINFUL.

To lull the p. malady with alms Ch. 448 A p. passage o'er a restless flood H. 3 These ask with p. shyness, and, refused T. iv 418

PAINT.

Poetry may, but colours cannot p. Con. 384
Artist, attend! your brushes and your p. T. 171
Thus Fancy p. thee, and though apt to err T. i 661
Perhaps errs little when she p. thee thus T. i 662
To tell its slumbers, and to p. its dreams T. iii 13
The nauseous task to p. her as she is T. iii 67 [214
Theirs, should I p. him, has his pinions fledged T. iv
And p. his person, character and views T. iii 143
P. cards and dolls, and every idle thing T. iv 241

PAINTED.

Taught thee to clothethy pinked and p. bide Ex. 486 The p. tablets, dealt and dealt again! P.E. 170 Save their own p. shins, our sires had none T. i 9 In p. plumes superbly dressed Trans. iv 1 That, quite eclipsing Pleasure's p. face T.T. 649

PAINTER.

The p.'s pencil, and the poet's lyre Ch. 106 A p.'s skill into a poet's hand H. 670 None more admires, the p.'s magic skill T. i 422

PAINTING.

Far other p. grace the chamber now H. 262

PAIR.

Forms or no forms, pluralities or p. A.T. 131
And set the unseemly p. in open day A.T. 168
This history of a wedded p. A Tale 11
Yet parent of this loving p. A Tale 67
As in a dance the p. that take the lead H. 13
Turn downward, and the lowest p. succeed H. 14
All in a chaise and p. J.G. 12
The kindest and the happiest p. M.F. 37
Surprised at all they meet, the gosling p. P.E. 379
All paired, and each p. built a nest P.T. 44
I praise you much, ye meek and patient p. T. iv 407
Transformed to a lean shank. The shapeless p. T.v 16
For such a p. of wings as thine Trans. ii 35
To meet with such a well-matched p. Trans. iv 32

PAIRED.

They p., and would have built a nest A Tale 15 All p., and each pair built a nest P.T. 44 Now stars; two lobes, protruding, p. exact Y.O. 36

PALACE.

The p, were but half complete F. 166 Near barren rocks, in p, or cells R. 540 His p., and his lacqueys, and "My Lord" T. 122 Our p., our ladies, and our pomp T. i 643 Her p. are dust. In all her streets T. ii 77 Nor p., nor even chambers, 'scaped T. ii 831 But tasteless. Springs a p. in its stead T. iii 769 In such a p. Aristæus found T. v 135 In such a p. Poetry might place T. v 138

PALAESTRA.

Learned at the bar, in the p. bold Con. 813

PALATE.

To cover a pill for a delicate p. F.M. 12 Disdains not, nor the p., undeprayed T. i 124 So grateful to the p., and when rare T. iii 447 To p. that can taste immortal truth T. vi 1015

PALE.

But man, within a wider p. enclosed A.T. 59
A p. procession of past sinful joys H. 221
Long beards, long noses, and p. faces M.F. 6
And if he but suspects a frown turns p. T. 216
Seen in the dim horizon, turns thee p. T. i 667
Fall prone; the p. inhabitants come forth T. ii 125
P., wan, and livid, but assuming soon T. iii 523 [58
Now from the roost, or from the neighbouring p. T.v
Woe to the gardener's p., the farmer's hedge T. iv 436
For England's glory, seeing it wax p. T. v 510 [162
Copious of flowers the woodbine, p. and wan T. vi
Now flushed with drunkenness, now with whoredom p.

PALER

Though each its hue peculiar; p. some T. i 308 The ruddier orange and the p. lime T. iii 573

PALES

Female and male, Pomona, P., Pan T. vi 233
PALFREY.

Though little need to his good p.'s side A.T. 192

PALLAS.

Like P. springing armed from Jove Mrs. M-26

PALLED.

By repetition p., by age obtuse H. 22 PALLET.

So I, with brush in hand and p. spread T. iv 239
PALLIATE.

To p, dullness, and give time a shove T, iv 210 That p, deeds of folly and of shame) Tir, 333

PALLS.

That p. and satiates, and makes languid life T. i 464

PALM.

Slides guinea behind guinea in his p. Ch. 474
Thy cocoas and bananas, p. and yams T. i 640
His milkwhite hand; the p. is hardly clean T. iv 607
And bear the p. away Th. 12
And claim the p. for purity of song T.T. 636

PALMISTRY.

Great skill have they in p., and more T. i 570 PALM-TREE.

Forget to enjoy the p.'s offered shade Ch. 222

PALSIED.

"For lift thy p. head, shake off the gloom H. 37

PALSY.

A p, struck his arm, his sparkling eye T, ii 727

PAMPERED.

Pride may be p. while the flesh grows lean T. 117 (initless of p. appetite obscene) T. i 104 In gross and p. cities, sloth, and lust T. i 687

And bloated spider, till the p. pest T. v 423 If the gilt carriage, and the p. steed T.T. 133

PAMPERER.

For making speech the p. of lust Con. 48

PAN.

Models of Herculanean pots and p. P.E. 398 Female and male, Pomona, Pales, P.—T. vi 233

PANE.

To every p, his trunk applied P.B. 8 From the dashed p, the deluge as its falls T, iii 488 Beneath a p, of thin translucent horn Tir, 120

PANEGYRIC.

Have poured my stream of p. down. T. vi 720

PANELS.

The p-, leaving an obscure, rude name T. i 282

PANG.

Flies to save some, and feels a p. for all Ch. 407 And having felt the p. you deem a jest Cos. 497 The p. of a poetic birth Dr. 7 And many a p., experienced still within E. ii 35 To every p. that racks an anxious mind Ex. 571 On p. enforced with God's severest stroke R. 314 Grow frantic with her p., and bite the ground T. 444 From p. arthritic that infest the toe T. i 105 Flash desperation, and betray their p. T. i 502 The tunult and the overthrow, the p. T. ii 104 And beg for exile, or the p. of death? T. v 434 Adds tenfold bitterness to death by p. T. vi 395 Plead not in vain for pity on the p. T. vi 462

PANNELS.

Blushed on the p. Mirror needed none T. v 160

PANNIERS.

To hear his creaking p. at the door T. i 245

PANOPLY.

And armed himself in p. complete T. ii 345

PANT.

P. to communicate her noble fires Ch. 403 [721 Through the dry leaves, and p. upon the strings Ex. P. for the place of her ethereal birth H. 162 Must spring that Hope he p. to make his own H. 709 And p. for brighter days N. 12 P. for the refuge of some rural shade R. 6 Who will may p. for glory and excel R. 245 P. to be told of battles won or lost R. 476 P. for it, aims at it, enters it, and dies T. 6 [iv 60 He climbs, he p., he grasps them! At his heels T. P. for the praise of dressing to the taste T. iii 460 "P. to return, and when he sees afar T. v 833 Who p. with application misapplied T. vi 273

PANTED.

And sucked a breast that p. with alarms Ex. 473 For thee I p., thee I prized O. ii 19

PANTING.

And p. pressed the floor B.R.By p. dog, tired man, and spattered horse N.A.Now in the floods, now p. in the meads R.A p. syllable through time and space R.My p. side was charged, when I withdrew T. iii 110 Some royal mastiff p. at their heels T.T.

PAP. Γ480

Give it the breast, or stop its mouth with p.! Con.

PAPAL

Of Tiber's marshes and the p. bog Ex, 511

PAPER.

I pricked them into p, with a pin M.P. 77

PAPER-KITE.

Rose like a p., and charmed the town T.T. 385

PAPIST.

No P. more desirous to compound T. 2)1

PARABLES.

Speaking in p. his slighted word Tir. 140

PARADE.

To flourish and p, with at the bar Ex. 665

PARADISE.

Where P. seemed still vouchsafed on earth Ez. 420 She holds a P. of rich delight H. 60
O charming P. of shortlived sweets! Her. 34
Can British P. no scenes afford P.E. 257
When he designed a P. below R. 270
Disclosing P. where'er He treads? T. ii 87
Of P. that has survived the fall! T. iii 42
Though placed in P., (for earth has still T. iii 298
New to my taste his P. surpassed T. iv 710
And fade not. There is P. that fears T. v 572
The P. he sees, he finds it such T. v 794
Were driven from P.: and in that hour T. vi 380

PARALLAX.

The p. of yonder luminous point T. iii 215

PARALYTIC.

The p., who can hold her cards T. i 472

PARAMOUNT.

Lord p, of the surrounding plains H. 305 Are p., and must extinguish theirs T. vi 583

PARCEL.

'Tis like a p. sent you by the stage Con. 305 That being p. of the common mass T. v 247

PARCELLED.

Ours p. out, as thine have ever been P.E. 155

PARCH.

Sent us a wind to p. us at a blast? P.E. 256

PARDON.

You need his p., and provoke his rod Con. 488 To p. or to bear it F. 174 Is not the p. of thy long arrear F. A. 13 And—p. me, the bottle stands with you" H. 350 The sound of p. pierce his startled ear H. 724 P. me, ye that give the midnight oil R. 661 And p. are not sold as once they were T. 290 The solitary Shilling. P. then T. iii 456

PARDONING.

By which Heaven moves in p. guilty man T. vi 597

PARENT.

Yet p. of this loving pair A Tale 67
To be resolved into their p. earth Ch. 562
Humility the p. of the first Con. 377
The fruitful p. of abuse and wrong Com. 461
P. of Hope, immortal Truth! make known H. 663
The son of p. passed into the skies M.P. 111
Whatever p., guardians, schools, intend P.E. 424
And such expense as pinches p. blue T. ii 756
And feel a p.'s presence no restraint T. vi 49
The young to let the p. bird go free T. vi 446
Our p. yet exert a prudent care Tir. 115
A p. pours into regardless ears Tir. 590
And formed of God without a p.'s mind Tir. 780

P. of manners like herself severe T.T. 613 Beneath thy p. tree mellowed the soil Y.O. 24

PARENTAGE.

To hear them tell of p. and birth Con. 210

PARENTAL.

Which only a p. eye foresees Tir. 371 PARIS.

View him at P. in his last career T. 311

PARISH.

Make every p. but their own their home Con. 860 PARK.

P. in which Art preceptress Nature weds R. 335 And turned into the p, or mead to graze R, 627 Frequent in P. with lady at his side T. ii 381

PARLEY.

He holds no p, with unmanly fears R.H. 5

PARLIAMENTS.

Thy p. adored, on bended knees Ex. 538

PARLOUR.

Swinging the p. door upon its hinge E. iii 21 There prisoned in a p, snug and small R, 493 So spent in p. twilight; such a gloom T. iv 278 Briskly, astride upon the p. broom Tir. 367 PARNASSIAN.

Let laurels drenched in pure P. dews T.T. 13

PARROT.

Words learned by rote a p. may rehearse Con. 7 Or make the p.'s mimicry his choice Con. 449 Trivial as a p.'s prate? St. iv 24 And p. with twin cherries in their beak T. i 38 With p. tongue performed the scholar's part T. ii 738 And in his cage, like p. fine and gay T.T. 232

PARRY.

Mighty to p. and push-by God's word H. 659 With such artillery armed. Vice p, wide T, ii 810

PARSIMONY.

To thrift and p. much inclined T. 141 Ingenious P. takes, but just T. iv 400

There goes the p.—O illustrious spark! B.B. 13 Laymen have leave to dance, if p. play P.E. 151 Nor yet the p.'s, who would gladly come R. 439 The plump convivial p. often bears T. iv 595 [124 Which children use, and p.—when they preach Tir. The p. knows enough who knows a duke Tir. 403

PART.

And promised they should act the wild goose p. A.T.Where seas or deserts p, them from the rest Ch. 20 But while his province is the reasoning p. Ch 375 Close to the p. where vision ought to be Ch. 386 Though each resemble each in every p. Comp. i 7 And Conversation, in its better p. Con. 3 And in the saddest p. cry-"Droll indeed!" Con. Concealed within an unsuspected p. Con. 365 Reclaim his taste, and brighten up his p. Con. 840 Best for the public, and my wisest p. Con. 870 Derived from nature's noblest p. E. i 13 Shall meet, unite, and p. no more E. i 32 Are p, of a Jehovah's cares E, i 58 True. Changes will befall, and friends may p. E With power surpassing theirs, performed her p.Ex.230And teach the combatant a woman's p.? Ex. 359 Act but an honest and a faithful p. Ex. 556 [650] The great, the gay, shall they p. O. ii 13 To learn in God's own school the Christian p. Ex. But I can feel thy fortunes, and p. T. ii 219

Profusion apes the noble p. F. 4[H. 289 What p, the kindred tribes of weeds and flowers? Will trust him for a faithful generous p. H. 336 That conscience there performs her proper p. H. 692 'Tis more—'tis God diffused through every p. H. 734 The faithful monitor's and poet's p. H. 757 Renew the quarrel on the conqueror's p. Her. 74 Finds out his weaker p. H.F. 10There is a p, in every swine L. W. 3 (Had he the sinful p. expressed L.W. 9
But well thou playedst the housewife's p. M. 17 "So Pity shall take Virtue's p. Miss - 89 In p. abate, that happiness were small N.A. 112 None here is happy but in p. N.Y.G. 13We therefore need not p. O. ii 6 That thy worst p. Thy principles, live yet P.E.350In praise applied to the same p.—his head P.E.533It was a scene in every p. Q.V. 57Their fibres penetrate its tenderest p. R. 42 Mix with the world, but with its wiser p. R. 275 To assuage the throbbings of the festered p. R. 321 No womanish or wailing grief has p. R. 773 Begs you for once to take his p. St. i 35 The better p, of man unblessed St, vi 31 Brings not alone the more conspicuous p. T. 561 Howe'er performed, it was their brightest p. T. 579 The slippery seat betrayed the sliding p. T. i 46 That p. us, are emancipate and loosed T. ii 39 Of his own works, his dreadful p. alone T. ii 82 Be fickle, and thy year, most p, deformed T. ii 210 And play his brilliant p. before my eyes T. ii 425 With some sincerity, on the giver's p. T. ii 559 [738 With parrot tongue performed the scholar's p. T. ii Most p, an empty ineffectual sound T, iii 22 It seems the p. of wisdom, and no sin T. iv 336 Ice upon ice, the well adjusted p. T. v 146Designed by loud declaimers on the p. T. v 498Who loves no p.? He be a nation's friend T. v 504Takes p, with Appetite, and pleads the cause T, $\vee 630$ To excuses in which reason has no p.) T. v 656 [365] Where kindness on his p., who ruled the whole T. vi Such teachable and apprehensive p. T. vi 612 "And such," I exclaimed, "is the pitiless p. The Rose Touch but his nature in its ailing p. Tir. 161 A pledge he gave for a consistent p. Tir. 178 A rhetoric equal to those p. of speech? Tir. 398 Pressed on his p. bymeans that would disgrace Tir. 406 Behold your bishop! well he plays his p. Tir. 420 With just abhorrence of so mean a p. Tir. 455 Owe their repute in p., but not the whole Tir. 461 Done to the nobler p. affects it long Tir. 491 To take in childish plays a childish p. Tir. 548 Its various p, to his attentive note Tir. 642 A man of letters, manners, morals, p. Tir. 673 Men well endowed, of honourable p. Tir. 836 Condemns the unfatherly, the imprudent p. Tir. 866 Howe'er he slight thee, thou hast done thy p. Tir.898 P. of the captain's precious store Trans. iv 5 Each character in every p. Trans. iv 34 Let magistrates alert perform their p. T.T. 311 Not more invigorates life's p. T.T. 381 In all its p., times, ministry, and laws T.T. 427 This Bedlam p.; and others nearer home T.T. 609 Pretend to all that p. have e'er acquired V. 15 Not hard by nature, in a feeling p. V. 42 Whoever undertakes a friend's great v. V. 59 Illume the land's remotest p. 1789, 61

PARTAKE.

Must soon p, his grave Ep, ii 44 Bestowed on man, like all that we p. H. 117 Which all might view with envy, none p. T. iii 718 And, summoned to p. its fellow's woe V. 69

PARTAKER.

P. of a new ethereal birth Con, 724
P. of thy sad decline M. 33

PARTED.

We must not now be p., sojourn here" Con. 530 P. without the least regret P.T. 58

PARTERRE.

The pride of the p. L.R. 20

PARTICLE.

One lawless p. to thwart his plan T. ii 170

PARTING.

The linnet twittered out his p. song A.T. 76 The p. word shall pass my lips no more! M.P. 35

PARTNER.

And p. once of Tiny's box Ep. ii 43 But genuine, and art p. of them all T. i 153 My p. in retreat. Disgust concealed T. iii 38 My former p. of my peopled scene T. iii 119 Innocent p. of my peaceful home T. iii 337 Thy schoolfellow and p. of thy plays V. 35

PARTY.

Where p, are agreed, retired the scene A.T. 89 The snug, close p., or the splendid hall P.E. 176

PASS

That will not so suddenly p. C. 8 A toy to sport with, and p. time away Con. 18 And, like the graver's memory, p. away Con. 552 To let the military deluge p. Ex. 60 A p. between his wires F.B. 18 Which they that woo preferment rarely p. H. 420 And raise a laugh) p, unmolested by H, 621 His hours no longer p. unmarked away H. 698 Revolving seasons, fruitless as they p. Her. 25 The parting word shall p. my lips no more! M.P. 35 There is a field, through which I often p. N.A. 1 While Cynthio ogles, as she p. P.B. 19 Is far too just to p. the trifler by P.E. 200 But if you p. the threshold, you are caught P.E. 588 To measure all that p, in the breast R, 133 That p. all he sees unheeded by R. 340 Or p, unheeded this auspicious morn S, ii 4 We p. a gulf in which the willows dip T. i 268 The wain that meets it p. swiftly by T. i 297 Diffusing odours; nor unnoted p. T. i 317
True, we have lost an empire—let it p. T. ii 263 And let that p.—'twas but a trick of state T. ii 267 And gild our chamber ceilings as they p. T. ii 649 No:-let her p., and charioted along T. iii 69 To p. us readily through every door T. iii 99 Then acts in Nature's office, brings to p. T. iii 542 Yet just arrangement, rarely brought top. T. iii 588 And having dropped the expected bag, p. on T. iv 11 That it foretells us always comes to p. T. iv 72 [466 P. where we may, through city or through town T.iv Time, as he p. us, has a dove's wing T. iv 211 [iv 771 And they that never p. their brick-wall bounds T. There, therefore, are occasional, and p. T. v 566That he has let it p.—But never bids T. vi 294 [192 He marks the bounds which Winter may not p. T. vi A public school shall bring to p. with ease Tir. 372 A principle, whose proud pretensions p. Tir. 462

PASSAGE.

A painful p. o'er a restless flood H. 3 And prejudice have left a p. clear) T. 111

PASSED.

Through which the tackle p. A Tale 36 Perhaps, however, as some years have p. Con. 799 It p. unnoticed, as the bird E. i 87 While they p. through to their appointed land Er And Danish howlings scared thee as they p. Er. 471 Of p. experience, and the wisdom gleaned F.A. 2 I p., and next considered—what is man? F.A. 21 It is p. between cylinders often, and rolled F.M. 3 Soon p. the wiry grate G. 12 Riches are p, away from hand to hand H, 11 [563 The world's best comfort was, his doom was p. If. And all and each that p. that way J.G. 239 11 Oh that those lips had language! Life has p. M.P. The son of parents p, into the skies M.P. 111 Live till to-morrow, will have p. away N.A. 133 Of all that ever p, my pen O, i 23 Perceived the fragrance as he p. P.B. 4So coin grows smooth, in traffic current p. P.E. 274 Beauties he lately slighted as he p. R. 425 I p.—and they were gone St. i 20 The gulf of death triumphant p. St. iii 31 While danger p, is turned to present joy T. 256 E'er since, a truant boy, I p. my bounds T. i 114 In boundless oceans, never to be p. T. i 629 Not to be p.: and she that had renounced T. iii % Domestic life in rural leisure p.! T. iii 292 The new-made monarch, while before him p. T. vi And, tedious years of Gothic darkness p. T.T. 54

PASSENGER.

Upon the guiltless p. o'erthrown T. vi 421

PASSING.

Vice p. current by the stamp of law A.T. 156 P. his prison door B.R. 14
Sighs unregarded to the p. wind Ez. 30
"How sweet, how p. sweet is solitude! R. 743
Soft as the p. wind The Loves 38
Fine p. thought, e'en in her coarsest works Y.O. 81

PASSION.

To bring the p. under sober sway Con. 831 Man feels the spur of p, and desires H. 55 His p., like the watery stores that sleep H. 183 While P, turns aside from its due scope H, 113 To p., interest, pleasure, whim, resigned H. 212 Hence all that is in man—pride, p., art H. 653 But p. rudely snaps the string H.F. 7 After long sleep, of p. in the heart J.T. 42 To gratify a fretful \hat{p} . M.F. 35 As Reason, or as P. takes the reins P.E. 36 Hourly allurements on his p. press P.E. 61 Of some ungoverned p. every hour P.E. 276 Church-quacks, with p. under no command P.E. 474 The storm of p., and say, "Peace, be still!" P.E. 50 To spare no p., and no favourite sin R. 136 That p.'s force, and so did she R.C. 24 His p, tamed, and all at his control T, 417 Just please us while the p, is at full T, ii 598 The mind was well-informed, the p. held T ii 715 Compose the p., and exalt the mind T. iii 305 I'han human p. please. In every heart T. v 205 No p. touches a discordant string T. vi 787 With p., just that he may prove, with pain Tir. 63

PASSIONATE.

A temper p. and fierce F. 64

PASSIVE.

The poet's muse, his p., and his theme T.T. 289

Are mere impressions on the p. mind A.T. 43

Where find ye p. fortitude? Whence springs T. v 327 His heart, now p., yields to thy command Tir. 885

PAST

At length his transient respite p. Cast. 43 Alike irrevocable both when p. Comp. i 5 Of dangers p., and wonders yet to come Con. 572 Like other scenes already p. E. i 56And hide p, folly from all-seeing eyes? Ex, 405 Heroes and worthies of days p., thy sires $P \mid Ex$. 658 This wisdom, and but this, from all the p. $P \mid F$. A. 12 Whose eye reverted weeps o'er all the p. H. 31A pale procession of p, sinful joys H, 221 The twentieth year is well-nigh p. M. 1With much resemblance of the p. M. 50 Well, I protest 'tis p. all bearing!" M.F. 25 And like a summer brook are p. away R. 296 These tell me of enjoyments p. S. 23And item down the victims of the p. St. ii 4 With all the gloomy p. St. iii 8 P. all dispute, you anchorite," say you T. 106 The future shall obliterate the p. T. 295 P. indiscretion is a venial crime T. 491 Those barbarous ages p., succeeded next T. i 16 The dream is p.; and thou hast found again T. i 639 Bespoke him p, the bounds of freakish youth T, ii704 ost innocence, or cancel follies p, T, iii 678 That calls the p, to our exact review T, iv 184 But the age of virtuous politics is p. T. v 493et, feeling present evils, while the p. T. vi 23 Insuing seemed to obliterate the p. T. vi 540 If barrenness is p. The fruitful field T. vi 765 is, hid from ages p., God now displays Tir. 638 of pleasures p., or follies yet to come Tir. 776 ince which I number threescore winters p. Y.O. 3

PASTIME.

equisitive, the less ambiguous p. Y.O. 44 to p. but with her he deigned to take A.T. 17 c. and business both, it should exclude P.E. 159 cr take their p. in the spacious field T. vi 576 cen in his p. he requires a friend Tir. 607

PASTOR.

occiduus is a p. of renown P.E. 124 and thus it is. The p., either vain T. ii 545 and what they will. All p. are alike T. vi 890 tithin some pious p.'s humble cot Tir. 760

PASTORAL.

hat once we called the p. house our own M.P.53 images and still retreats R.257 ime was when in the p. retreat T. iv 558

PASTURE.

The finds the p, where his fellows graze Ch. 179 he glimpse of a green p, how they cheer T. iv 751

PAT.

ives him at length the lucky p. E. iv 55 story so p., you may think it is coined P.A. 18 r drive it devious with a dextrous p. Tir. 309 etrench a sword-blade, or displace a p. T. ii 318 hows all its rents and p. to the world Tir. 451 PATE.

PATCH

mploys his philosophic p. Trans. ii 23 ith rueful faces and bald p. Y.D. 23

PATENTEE.

lustrious histrionic p. V. 29

PATERNAL.

hese have an ear for his p. call Ch. 250

His offspring hold in his p. care H. 140 Thine, and upheld by thy p. care R. 89 P. sweetness, dignity, and love T. ii 708

PATH.

Harmony the p. to fame B. 24 The p. of wisdom, all whose p. of peace Ch. 162 Taught me what p. to shun, and what pursue Ch. 239 The p. of narrative with care pursue Con. 217 Snares in his p., and foes that lurk within Con. 470 The p. of sorrow, and that p, alone E. ii 9 Or lead him devious from the p. of truth P.E. 60 Is this the rugged p., the steep ascent P.E.71Is this the p. of sanctity? Is this P.E. 116 The fatal ills; that though the p. he treads P.E. 545 The p, to bliss abounds with many a snare T. 301 Though halt, and weary of the p. they tread T.i 471 And so illuminates the p, of life T, ii 529 By the wayside, or stalking in the p. T. v 92The windings of my p, through many years T, vi 18 It seem'd not always short; the rugged p. T. vi 20 The frequent flakes has kept a p, for me T, vi 77 That crawls at evening in the public p. T. vi 565 Nor, though he tread the secret p. of life T. vi 956 Shine by the side of every p. we tread Tir. 79

PATHETIC

P. exhortation; and to address T. ii 469 P. in its praise, in its pursuit T. iv 719

PATHLESS.

To p, wilds and unfrequented plains A.T. 26 [iv 573 Through p, wastes and woods, unconscious once T.

PATIENCE.

P. itself is meanness in a slave Ch. 164 Give me the fidgets, and my p. fails Con. 208 All sustained by p., taught us N.C. 47 We may with p. bear our moderate ills T. iv 339

PATIENT.

P. of contradiction as a child P.E. 536

Its p. drudges with dry chaff and weeds R. 48

Scorned by the rest, with p. hope they wait R. 165

And sends the p. into purer air R. 232

Nor his, who p. stands till his feet throb T. iv 46

I praise you much, ye meek and p. pair T. iv 407

And p. of the slow-paced swain's delay T. v 32

Witness the p. ox, with stripes and yells T. vi 420

P., affectionate, of high command Tir. 602

P. of constitutional control T.T. 224

PATRICK.

But (I might instance in St. P.'s dean) Ch. 499

PATRIMONIAL.

"My p, treasure and my pride R. 367 His p, timber cast its leaf T. iii 752

PATRIOT.

The boldest p. might be proud to feel Ch. 308 Courtier and P. cannot mix F. 127
A rope! I wish we p. had Pat. 21
For once I can approve the p.'s voice R. 387
A p.'s for his country; thou art sad T. i 658
Of p. eloquence to flash down fire T. ii 217
Of p., bursting with heroic rage T. iv 48
Delicious, when her p. of high note T. iv 170
By some whose p. virtue has prevailed T. v 295
P. are grown too shrewd to be sincere T. v 495
P. have toiled, and in their country's cause T. v 704
Have fallen in her defence. A P.'s blood T. v 714
To see a band, called p., for no cause T.T. 143
P., who love good places at their hearts T.T. 191

Ye p., guard it with a miser's care T.T. 335 P. alas! the few that have been found T.T. 336

PATRIOTIC.

Guard what you say. The p. tribe T.T. 83
PATRON.

P. of else the most despised of men Ch. 290
Just made fifth chaplain of his p. lord H. 414
P. of all those luckless brains O. i 1
To his own pleasure and his p.'s pride T. ii 391
And groat per diem, if his p. frown T. iii 821
We the chief p. of the commonwealth T. v 349

Oft as his p. who rules the night A.T. 137 To the same P. resort Mrs. M-21 Hail, therefore, p. of health and ease T. iv 780

PATTERN.

Thy life upon the p. of the law Ex. 409
These stoves that for p. and form Gr. 39
But he can draw a p., make a tart P.E. 195
The p. grows, the well depicted flower T. iv 151
Becomes their p., upon whom they fix Tir. 224
P. of every virtue, every grace T.T. 373

PAUL

Oaths terminate, as P. observes, all strife Con. 55 As bold as, in Agrippa's presence, P.—Ez. 445 Had P. of Tarsus lived and died a Jew H. 257 P.'s love of Christ, and steadiness unbribed H. 580 He followed P., his zeal a kindred flame H. 582 Set P. to music, he shall quote him too P.E. 113 Would I describe a preacher, such as P.—T. ii 395 P. should himself direct me. I would trace T. ii 397 So did not P. Direct me to a quip T. ii 472 How oft, when P. has served us with a text T. ii 539 Would strive to make a P. or Tully stand T.T. 349

PAUSE.

Then p. and puff—and speak, and p. again Con. 248 P. here, and think: a monitory rhyme Ep. i 1 Can p. one hour to read a serious rhyme Ex. 605 Forced to a p., would feel it good to think St. ii 15 Has slackened to a p., and we have borne T. i 155 Suffer a syncope and solemn p. T. ii 80 [371 An instant's p., and lives but while she moves T. i That never felt a stupor, know no p. T. iv 283 [108 And swallowing, therefore, without p. or choice T. vi Finds in a sober moment time to p. Tir. 56

PAUSED.

We p, under many a tree C, 13

PAVE.

Four ivory eggs soon p. its floor A Tale 41

PAVED.

Propitious in his chariot p. with love T. vi 744
PAVILION.

As he that slumbers in p. graced R. 509 To grace the full p. His design T. iii 716

PAW.

Conjecture gripes the victims in his p. Ch. 525 PAWNED.

That authors are most useful p. or sold Tir. 211

PAY.

That 'tis an honour and a joy to p. Con. 646 [712 Their measure filled, they too shall p. the debt Ex. Though short, too long, the price he p. for all H. 200 And Folly p., resound at your return Her. 62 Adds joy to duty, makes me glad to p. M.P. 70 P. tribute to thy glorious beams O. i 7

May feel a heart enriched by what it p. R. 200 And must despair to p. St. v 32
P.!—follow Christ, and all is paid St. v 33
[210 He likes your house, your housemaid, and your p. T.
P. contribution to the store he gleans T. iv 110
Propitious, p. his tribute, game or fish T. iv 611
And Sabo's spicy groves, p. tribute there T. vi 807
To entertain a thief or two in p. Tir. 693
[907
And feed him well, and give him handsome p. Tir.
P. me for thy warm retreat Trans. iii 5
[100]
True. While they live, the courtly laureate p. T. T.
Firm friends to peace, to pleasure, and good p. T. T. 195
When he that takes, and he that p. Y.D. 19
Without the clowns that p. Y.D. 68

PAYING.

Instead of p, what he owes Y.D. 27

PAYMENT.

Could you contrive the p., and rehearse T.T. 178 To make their p. good Y.D. 16

PEACE.

The path of wisdom, all whose paths are p. Ch. 12 Let just Restraint, for public p. designed Ch. 25 That pleads for p. till it disturbs the state Ch. 310 Whoever threatens war, to speak of p. Ch. 421 And too short lived to reach the realms of p. Ch. 45. To P. and Charity, is mere pretence Ch. 534 And e'en the dipped and sprinkled live in p. Ch. 60 That the surviving world may live in p. Con. 176 Temperance and P. insure its healthful state Con. 605 And had the grace in scenes of p. to show Ex. 79 In p. possessing what they won by war Ex. 193 And p. does nothing to relieve the weight Ex. 307 P. be to those (such p. as Earth can give) H. 229
P. (if insensibility may claim) H. 235 P. to all such—'twere pity to offend H. 272 And P, the genuine offspring of her smile H. 482 In p. upon her sloping sides matured Her. 10 Studious of p., their neighbour's and their own Her. Where P., and Equity, and Freedom smile Her. St Like her a friend to p. M.B. 12 P. to the phlegm of sullen elves Miss — 61 Is paid at least in p. of mind Mor. 51
To me their p. by kind contagion spread N.A. 42 Of p. or ease to creatures clad as we N.A. 114 Who studiously make p, their aim N.G. 36 P, both the duty and the prize N.G. 37 Come, p. of mind, delightful guest ! O. ii 1 P. follows Virtue as its sure reward P.E. 42 Love, joy, and p. make harmony more meet P.F. 140 The storm of passion, and say, "P. be still!"P.E. 549 Truth, wisdom, grace, and p., like that above R. 18 Conspire against thy p, with one design R, 262 To seek that p. a tyrant's frown denies R. 770 Friendly to p., but not to me S. 2 While \hat{P} , possessed these silent bowers S. 14 His death your p. ensures St. v 31Yet heard in scenes where p, for ever reigns T. 206 P. to the artist whose ingenious thought T. 210 Is left to sleep for p. and quiet sake T. 428 Benevolence, and p., and mutual aid T. ii 49 To what no few have felt, there should be p. T. ii 73 Forgets in p. the injuries of war T. ii 269 Where p. and hospitality might reign T. ii 617 P. to the memory of a man of worth T. ii 781 [iii 69 Health, leisure, means to improve it, friendship, p. T. Friendly to thought, to virtue, and to p. T. iii 291 But it has p., and much secures the mind T. iii 679 And jewelled turban with a smile of p. T. iv 29 [187 Uulooked for, life preserved, and p. restored \tilde{T} . iv

Come, evening, once again, season of p. T. iv 243

The road that leads from competence and p. T. iv 496 As angels use, the Gospel whispers p. T. ii 342 [v 202 P. was awhile their care: they ploughed and sowed T. And equal; and he bade them dwell in p. T. v 201 And him in p., for sake of warlike deeds T. v 239 In fancied p. beneath his dangerous branch T. v 325 In fancied p. beneath his dangerous branch T. v 325 In fatal issue to his health, fame, p. T. v 601 [v 620 And seems dethroned and vanquished. P. ensues T. At random, without honour, hope, or p. T. v 899 Would die at last in comfort, p., and joy Tir. 150 P. to them all! those brilliant times are fled Tir. 284 Firm friends to p., to pleasure, and good pay T. T. 195 Glorious in war, but for the sake of p. T. T. 278 To guard the P. that Riot would disturb T. T. 315 Then p. and joy again possessed 1779, 46 [T. vi 910 Would make his fate his choice; whom p., the fruit Such joy and p. as can be known 1789, 48

PEACEABLE.

Called thee away from p. employ Ex. 534

PEACEABLY-DISPOSED.

And put the p. to death Con. 90

PEACEFUI

Some men have surely then a p. life! Con: 56
Screne and p. as those heavenly days Con. 568
Her p. shores, where busy Commerce waits Ex. 13
Within the garden's p. scene L.R. 5
May I but meet thee on that p. shore M.P. 34
All seemed so p., that from them conveyed N.A. 41
Her p. bosom laves Q.V. 72
Its happiest seasons, and a p. close R. 750
Then welcome refuge, and a p. home T. 267
Mercy receives him on her p. shore T. 276

Then welcome refuge, and a p. home T. 267 Mercy receives him on her p. shore T. 276 Oft have I wished the p. covert mine T. i 238 Innocent partner of my p. home T. iii 337 So let us welcome p. evening in T. iv 41 Of God and man, and p. in its end T. vi 999

PEACE-RESTORING.

To sheath it, in the p. close T.T. 79

PEACH.

The bud of p. or rose U. 14

PEACOCK.

The p, sends his heavenly dyes Mrs, M-3The self-applauding bird, the p, see T, 58 [215 With motley plumes; and where the p, shows T, iv

PEAK.

To the sharp p. of her sublimest height T. iii 157

PEAL.

While thus she spake, I fainter heard the p. N.A. 123 P. upon p. redoubling all around T. 240

PEALING.

Now p. loud again, and louder still T. vi 9

PEAR

If not, you shall have neither apple nor p." P.A. 32 An apple-tree, or lofty p. R.C. 12

PEARL

Is a p. cast, completely cast, away H. 259 Brings many a precious p. of truth to light H. 444 What p. is it that rich men cannot buy T. iii 285 But wisdom is a p. with most success T. iii 381 Show thou hast sense enough to prize the p. Tir. 707

PEASANT.

P. and children all around us E. i 40
The p.'s hopes, and not in vain, assured Her. 9

As ever recompensed the p.'s care R. 332 O happy p.! O unhappy bard! T. 331 I called the low-roofed lodge the P.'s nest T. i 227 So farewell envy of the P.'s Nest! T. i 247 The p. too, a witness of his song T. i 497 That like the filth with which the p. feeds T. iv 502 The p. urge their harvest, ply the fork T.T. 214

PEBBLE.

Some shining p., and some weeds and shells R. 154 Upon loose p., lose themselves at length T. 194

PEBBLY.

And wantons in the p. gulf below T. \forall 103

PECCANCY.

And stand exposed by common p. T. ii 72

PECKED.

Grew quarrelsome, and p. each other P.T. 57

PECULATION.

That waste our vitals; p., sale T. ii 668

PECULATORS.

To p. of the public gold T. i 735

PECULIAR.

And Virtue with p. charms appears Con. 637 P. is the grace by thee possessed Ex. 580 Fired with a zeal p, they defy H. 461 But show p. light, by many a grin P.E. 383 As Nature at her own p. cost T. 397 Though each its hue p.; paler some T. i 308 P. and exclusively her own T. i 432 Of its legitimate, p. powers) T. ii 333 Unless by Heaven's p. grace, escape T. ii 632 These therefore are his own p. charge T. iii 412 Was but to boast his own p. good T. iii 717 Are they not his by a p. right T. v 748 Then each, in its p. honours clad T. vi 147

PEDAGOGUE.

Of the robed p.! Else let the arraigned T. ii 823 The p., with self-complacent air Tir. 527

PEDANTIC.

Of dreaming study and p. rust T.T. 171

PEDANTRY.

And p. that coxcombs learn with ease T. vi 290 That p. is all that schools impart Tir. 212

PEDESTAL.

Exalted on his p. of pride T. 313 Build him a p., and say, "Stand theme T. v 258

PEDIGREE.

And high in p. D.W. 6 To men of p., their noble race H. 237 The vellum of the p. they claim T. i 569

PEDLER.

Love is not p.'s trumpery, bought and sold H. 320 A p.'s pack, that bows the bearer down T. i 465

PEEL.

On pippins' russet p. Ep. ii 18

PEELED.

P., scattered, and exterminated thus Er. 246 With which when neatly p. and dried T.B. 29

PEEP. [A.T. 79]

Lay snug and warm;—'twas Summer's farewell p.!
The p. of morning shed a dawning light Ch. 261
But lovely Spring p. o'er his head N. 15

P. at the vale below; so thick beset T. i 225 As the sun p., and vernal airs breathe mild T. iii 443 P. through their polished foliage at the storm Tiii 574 A p. at Nature, when he can no more T. iv 779 [65 The sparrows p., and quit the sheltering eaves T. vTo p. at such a world; to see the stir T. iv 89 [vi 113 P. through the moss that clothes the hawthorn root T. But never p. beyond the thorny bound T.T. 582

·PEEPED.

And forth he p., but nothing spied R.C. 82

PEEPING.

To show the p. down upon his chin Tir. 235

PEER.

Nor can he much affect the neighbouring p. R. 441 Was quickly distanced, matched against a p's R. 580 P. are not always generous as well-bred R. 597 (Attentive when thou readest) of England's p. S. i 3 His intercourse with p, and sons of p. Tir. 393 If smiling peeresses, and simpering p. T.T. 131 Made you a P., but spoiled you for a friend! V. 14

PEERESSES.

If smiling p., and sim pering peers T.T. 133

PEERING.

Ascends his topmast, through his p. eyes T. iv 115

PEEVISH.

Their p. hearers almost wish they had Con. 324 " Adorning May, that p. maid J.P. 35

PEEVISHLY.

Not that he p. rejects a mode T. vi 981

PELLUCID.

Shoot into pillars of p. length T. v 115

PELTING.

P. each other for the public good Ch. 623 And bore the p. scorn of half an age H. 557 The p. brunt of the tempestuous night T. iv 351

Accept the tribute of a stranger's p. Ch. 291 But when a poet takes the p. E. i 9Of all that ever passed my p. O. i 23His fingers held the p. R.G. 22 And, ere he quits the p. St. i 34 Or with his p., save when he scrawls a card T. ii Friends, books, a garden, and perhaps his p. T. iii 355The pencil or the p., may trace the scene! T. v 109 Thy title is engraven with a p. T. vi 862 If Flattery, Folly, Lust, employ the p. T.T.761 [769 To dash the p. through all that you proscribe T.T.

PENAL.

And full immunity from p. woe T. v 580

PENALTIES.

He was excused the p. of dull Y.O. 156

PENCE.

Till perjuries are common as bad p. Ex. 387 Yet loss of p., full well he knew J.G. 55 And makes his pupils proud with silver p. T.T. 509

PENCIL.

The painter's p., and the poet's lyre Ch. 106 The p. or the pen, may trace the scene! T. v 109Of his unrival'd p. He inspires T. vi 242

PENCILLED.

Who, satisfied with only p. scenes T. i 417 And force them sit, till he has p. off T. ii 292

PENDENT.

Their p, boughs, stooping as if to drink T, i 269 From many a twig the p. drops of ice T. vi 81 PENDULOUS.

P., and foreboding, in the view T. iv 293

PENETRATE.

Rejects all treaty, p. all wiles H. 649 Their fibres p. its tenderest part R. 42 PENITENCE.

Till p. had purged the public stain Ex. 74 As left him not, till p. had won T. ii 723 Unless sweet P. her powers renew T.T. 398

PENITENTIAL. My p. stripes, my streaming blood T. 95

Prayer only, and the p. tear T.T. 412 PENNED.

And many a compliment politely p. T.T. 721As ever Friendship p. U. 4

PENNY.

To turn a p, in the way of trade T.T. 421

PENNYLESS.

Still hungering, p., and far from home T. i 119

PENSIONERS.

Lean p. upon the traveller's track T. v 93

PENSIVE.

The maid who views with p. air P, B, 23 Risk an intrusion on thy p. mood R. 255 The p. wanderer in their shades. At eve T. i 761 The present Muse of every p. mind Tir. 22

PENSIVELY.

Two bosom friends, each p. inclined Con. 507

PENT.

Could I believe, that winds for ages p. N.A. 85 Complained, though incommodiously p. in T. i 69

PENTATEUCH.

Who starve upon a dog's-eared P. Tir. 402 PENT-UP.

The p. breath of an unsavoury throng T. iv 1%

PENUBIOUS. His thousands, weary of p. life T. v 319

PENURY.

A blessed effect of p, and want T, 361 Of loathsome diet, p., and cold T. i 591 Ambition, Avarice, P. incurred T. iii 811 Where p. is felt the thought is changed T. iv 397 Nor p., can cripple or confine T. v 772 In p. consumed his idle hours T.T. 673

PEONY.

There might ye see the p. spread wide T. i 35

PEOPLE.

But what were his arguments few p. know A.C. 27To exalt a p., and to place them high Con. 519 He saw his p. slaves to every lust Ex. 55 P. and priest, the sons of Israel were Ex. 124 A p. planted, watered, blest as they ? Ex. 168 Which here p. call a buffet Gr.34

Then might all p. well discern J.G. 105 "Some p. are more nice than wise M.F. 20 Reproach a p. with his single fall T. 234

A prince with half his p.! Ancient towers T. ii 121 A p. such as never was till now T. ii 679

Milder, among a p. less austere $T. \vee 488$

To see a p. scattered like a flock T.T. 34 And if He doom that p. with a frown T.T. 456

PEOPLED.

My former partners of my p. scene T. iii 119

PEOPLING.

And Flora, and Vertumnus, p. earth T. vi 234

PEPPERCORN.

His quitrent ode, his p. of praise T.T. 110

PERCEIVE.

He now p. where earthly pleasure ends H. 695 P. in everything that lives a tongue NA. 56 H is life should prove that he p. their force T. 198 H whose arm this twentieth winter H in 145 H Scenes that H love, and with regret H iii 710 H Thou shalt H that thou wast blind before H v 781 H (Through inexperience, as we now H) H vi 27 H whence all the music. H again H vi 67

PERCEIVED.

P. the fragrance as he passed P. B. 4 His presence, who made all so fair, p. T. vi 253

PERCH.

In unsuspecting pomp. Twitched from the p. T. From his accustomed p. Hard faring race! T. i 564 Where, bishoplike, he finds a p. Trans. ii 5

PERCHED.

P. on the top of yonder hill E. i 44
I p. at will on every spray G. 4
'Tis p. upon the groenhill top, but close T. i 222
P. on the signpost, holds with even hand T. iv 483
Repays their labour more; and p. aloft T. v 91
P. on the meagre produce of the land T.T. 580

PERCHING.

Then, p. at his consort's side A Tale 53

PER DIEM.

And groat p., if his patron frown T. iii 821

PERDITION.

Be punished with p., who is pure? H. 387

PEREMPTORY.

He would not, with a p. tone Con. 121

PERFECT.

For all is p. that God works on earth Con. 433
As smiths or joiners p. a design Con. 790
A beautiful and p. whole E. i 64
He first conceives, then p. his design Ex. 318
With every good and p. gift, proceeds H. 116
There feels a pleasure p. in its kind R. 629
How p. the composure of his soul T. 418
He gives a p. rule—what can He less? T. 552
Of public note, they reach their p. size T. i 696
All affectation! 'Tis my p. scorn T. ii 417
'So strict, that less than p. must despair? T. v 641
P. and unimpeachable of blame T. v 867
All happy, and all p. in their kind T. vi 354
They fear'd, and as his p. image loved T. vi 400
That is not sound and p., hath in theirs T. vi 708
P., and all must be at length restored T. vi 819

PERFECTION.

Forms rise, to quick p. wrought Mrs. M—24 His bright p. at whose word they rose R. 200 To attain p. in this nether world T. i 85

PERFIDY.

True, we may thank the p. of France T. ii 264

PERFORATED.

May still be seen; but p. sore T. i 25

PERFORM.

Now, Truth, p. thine office; waft aside H. 570
That conscience there p. her proper part H. 692
Weak to p., though mighty to pretend P.E. 15
Dull in design, and clumsy to p. T. i 18
While God p., upon the trembling stage T. ii 81
But much p. himself. No works, indeed T. iii 404
What prodigies can power divine p. T. vi 118
May some disease, not tardy to p. T. vi 1002
Let magistrates alert p. their parts T.T. 311
Must she p. the same kind office now? T.T. 405
Or prompter, save the scene, I will p. Y.O. 141

PERFORMANCE.

The best of every man's p. here H. 499
Prefer to the p. of a God T. i 418
Scoffs at her own p. Reason now T. v 629
With lean p. ape the work of Love! T. vi 854

PERFORMED.

His vow was (and he well p. his vow) A.T. 139 With power surpassing theirs, p. her part Ex. 230 Howe'er p., it was their brightest part T. 579 That task p., relapse into themselves T. ii 441 Then, with an air most gracefully p. T. ii 447 With parrot tongue p. the scholar's part T. ii 738 Nor even then, dismissing as p. T. iii 655 Which even now, though silently p. T. iv 323 To do he knows not what. The task p. T. iv 630 By man p., made all the forest ring Y.O. 109

PERFORMING.

But not p, what he meant J.G. 225 P, such inimitable feats T, v 125 That wait on man, the flight p, horse T. vi 426

PERFUME.

A fine puss-gentleman that's all p. Con. 284 Embalmed for ever in its own p. Con. 632 Her summer heats, her fruits, and her p. R. 196 Of flecting life its lustre and p. T. v 447

PERFUMED.

Though well p. and elegantly dressed T. vi 991
PERILOUS.

And p. lightnings from the angry clouds T. iii 212

PERIOD.

Sad p, to a pleasant course! St. vi 37 Fast as the p, from his fluent quill T, iv 19 Puts a p, to thy play Trans, iii 26 And truth cut short to make a p, round T. T, 517 Adorn the polished p, as they fall T. T. 766

PERISH.

Rome shall p.—write that word B. 13 P., hopeless and abhorr'd B. 15
When nations are to p. in their sins Ex. 95
And p. there, as all presumption must" H. 228
Take it and p.; but restrain your tongue T. 18
Sport for a day, and p. in a night T. 42
"P. the virtue, as it ought, abhorred T. 503
Can dig, beg. rot, and p., well content T. iii 805
Which having served us, p., we are held T. vi 604
Then p. on futurity's wide shore Tir. 83
And will prevail or p. in her cause T.T. 18

PERISHED.

We p., each alone Cast. 64 Its odour p., and its charming hue Con. 43

PERISHING.

And foe of our p. kind Gr. 46 To muse on the p. pleasures of man P.F. 18

And p, nicely adjust Gr. 24Their p. of wool and fears combined N.A. 75

PERJURY.

Till p, are common as bad pence Ex. 387 And P, stood up to swear all true H, 563 Of honour, p., corruption, frauds T. ii 669 When P., that Heaven-defying vice T.T. 418

PERKS.

[318] And p.'s his ears, and stamps, and cries aloud T. vi

PERMANENT.

In hopes of p. delight F. 68 Though fair in promise, p. and sound Tir. 437

Whom man, for his own hurt, p. to reign Con. 458 "'Twere well, could you p. the world to live T. iii 194 PERNICIOUS.

P. weed! whose scent the fair annoys Con. 251 Pronounced by greybeards a p. dream Ex. 114 Your zeal, and p. in the extreme P.E. 101 From his p. force. Nor will he leave T. iv 445

PERPETRATION.

Whose horrid p, stamps disgrace Ex, 416

PERPETUAL.

Though blameless, had incurred p. strife Con. 512 Is she not clothed with a p. smile? Ex. 4 Burning and scorched into p. dearth Ex. 421 With prohibition and p. thirst? P.E. 234 And in their service wage p. war T. vi 894

PERPLEXED.

He hears the notice of the clock, p. H. 700 Undaunted still, though wearied and p. T.T. 366

PERQUISITE.

More than the p.: where Law shall speak T. vi 848

PERSECUTE. We p., annihilate the tribes T. iii 309 Who starves his own; who p. the blood T. iv 463

Thou that hast set the p. free Ex. 278

PERSECUTING.

When p, zeal made royal sport Ex, 612 PERSECUTION.

A Liberty which p., fraud T. v 542 Till P. dragged them into fame T. v 725 Hence date the p, and the pain T, vi 384

PERSEVERANCE.

To ensure the p. of his course Tir. 238

PERSEVERED.

Despising all rebuke, still p. Ex. 397

PERSEVERES.

She still is kind, and still she p. Ch. 415

PERSEVERING.

Where nought eludes the p. quest H. 445 For p. chase, and headlong leaps P.E. 86

PERSIAN.

A P., humble servant of the sun Con. 67

PERSON.

And paint his p., character and views T. iii 143 PERSUADE.

No wealth can bribe, no prayers p. to stay Comp. i i Prompt to p., expostulate, and warn Ez. 441 If Intere-t move thee, to p. e'en thee Ex. 667 As youth or age p., and neither true H. 70 My creed p. me, we'l employed, may save T. 522

Much to p., he plied his ear with truths T. vi 502 PERSUASION.

My firm p. is, at least sometimes H. 365

PERT.

What marriage means, thus p. replied P.T. 29 No powdered p. proficient in the art T. iv 145 As oft return a p. voracious kind T. \mathbf{v} 69 The squirrel, flippant, p., and full of play T. vi 315 The youth now bearded, and yet p. and raw Tir. 155 The p. made perter, and the tame made wild Tir. 345

PERTER.

The pert made p., and the tame made wild Tir. 35 PERTINENT.

To themes more p., if less sublime T.T. 190

PERUSE.

P. closely the true Christian's face Con. 743 This is a sight for Pity to p. R. 297

PERUSED.

Well-chosen, and not sullenly p. T. iii 393 But reason heard, and nature well p. Tir. 89 Oh 'tis a sight to be with joy p. Tir. 537

PERIIVIAN.

With sums P. mines could never clear Ex.285

PERVADE.

Which seldom a distinct report p. Con. 802 That not a glimpse of genuine light p. P.E. 6 Now, while the poison all high life p. P.E. 347 Truth is not local, God alike p. R. 119 A tender sympathy p. the frame T.T. 485

PERVERSE.

396 Hast thou, with heart p. and conscience seared Er. Safe from the clamours of p, dispute R, 145 While he that scorns the noonday beam, p. T. 523 Than reverence, in p. rebellious youth T. ii 730 Imaginations noxious and p. Tir. 599

PERVERSELY.

And teach the world, if not p. blind H. 138 P., which of late she so condemned T. v 631 Look round you on a world p. blind Tir. 813

PERVERTED.

When gifts p., or not duly prized Ex. 251

PERVERTING.

P. often, by the stress of lewd T. ii 551

PERVERTS.

And while she polishes, p. the taste R. 701

PERVIOUS.

And only p, to the light P.B. 10

PEST.

Гіі 829

Were covered with the p.; the streets were filled T. To advertise in verse a public p. T. iv 501 To be a p. where he was useful once T. iv 657 And bloated spider, till the pampered p. T. v 422

PESTILENCE.

Famine, and P., her first-born son Her. 59 That creeping p. is driven away T. vi 785

PESTILENT.

A p. and most corrosive steam T. iii 494

PETRIFIED.

Blush, if thou canst; not p., thou must Ex. 555 Screens them, and seem half p. to sleep T. v 28 Fixed motionless, and p. with dread T. vi 538

PETRONIUS!

P.! all the Muses weep for thee P.E. 335

PETTY.

Thy chiefs, the lords of many a p. fee Ex. 532 Struggling, detained in many a p. nook N.A. 40 On p. robbers, and indulges life T. i 733

PETULANCE.

The lowering eye, the p., the frown T. i 456

PEW.

The brief proclaimed, it visits every p. Ch. 469

PHÆDRUS.

Æsop, and P., and the rest? - Why not? Tir. 546

PHALANX.

All huddling into p., stood and gazed N.A. 48

PHANTOM.

Fond of the p. of an earthly rest R. 764 Then grace the bony p. in their stead T.T. 43

PHARAOH.

By thee, worse plagues than P.'s land befell P.E.
Which God avenged on P.—the Bastille T. v 383

PHARISEE.

The p. the dupe of his own art Ex. 93
Mark what a sumptuous P. is he! T. 59
Who judged the P.? What odious cause T. 44

PHEASANT.

The p. plumes which round infold Mrs. M— 5 Not so the p. on his charms presumes T. 66

PHILIP.

As vain imperial P. on his own Ch. 52 And in thy numbers, P., shines for aye T. iii 455

PHILISTIA.

As Dagon in P. long before Ex. 507

PHILLYREA.

And p. of a golden green A.T. 83

PHILOLOGISTS.

Nor those of learned p., who chase R. 691

PHILOMEL.

And by P.'s annual note C. 47

PHILOSOPHER.

(A fault p. might blame A Fable 5 Serves but to lead p. astray P.E. 433 P., who darken and put out P.E. 472 Forth steps the spruce p., and tells T. ii 189 Haste now, p., and set him free T. v 670 That babblers, called p., devise Tir. 158 The well-informed p. Trans. H. 19

PHILOSOPHIC.

Where others toil with p. force Con. 151

With cold disgust, or p. pride Ex. 691
Lothario cries, What p. stuff! H. 28
What early p. hours he keeps R. 429
To learned cares or p. toil R. 662
His well built systems, p. dreams T. 8
But never yet did p. tube T. iii 229
In wisdom, and with p. deeps T. v 297
And He by means in p. eyes T. v 698
A childish waste of p. pains Tir. 76
To some not steep, though p., height Tir. 631
Employs his p. pate Trans. ii 23
In such a mould p. R.C. 9

PHILOSOPHY.

P., that does not dream or stray Ch. 313
And graced with all P. can add Ch. 342
This is indeed P.; this known Ch. 349
P., without his heavenly guide Ch. 373
A sceptio in p. may seem Con. 138
Or from p.'s enlightened page Con. 616
As Tully with p. once dealt Con. 730
P. indeed on Grecian eyes Ex. 227
'Tis grave P.'s absurdest dream H. 65
And teach P. a smile Mrs. M— 30
Are sweet p.'s enjoyments run P.E. 259
Where finds P. her eagle eye T. i 712
This truth, P., though eagle-eyed T. ii 174
Illusive of p., so called T. ii 505
Then all is plain. P. baptized T. iii 243
The shadows fly, p. prevails Tir. 182
Watch every beam P. imparts T.T. 70

PHINEAS.

And, P. like, transfixed them at a blow A.T. 196 Hophni and P. may describe the rest Ex. 449

PHIZ.

As if the gnomon on his neighbour's p. Con. 271

PHLEGM.

Peace to the p. of sullen elves Miss - 61

PHLEGMATIC.

Where sharp and solid, p. and light Ex. 296

PHŒBUS.

Like her the fabled P. wooed in vain Ex. 599 Though P. string the lyre Miss — 12 And she the works of P. aiding Mrs. M—55 P., if such be thy design O. i 25

PHRASE.

His stock, a few French p. got by heart P.E. 375 Elegant p., and figure formed to please P.E. 422 Of Attic p. and senatorial tone S. i 11 His p. well chosen, clear, and full of force Tir. 669

PHTHISIC.

Γ392

And coughs, and rheums, and p., and catarrh Con.

PHYSIC.

Their mildest p, is a farrier's purge Ch. 502 Need other p, none to heal the effects T, i 590 Church, army, p, law Trans, ii 27

PHYSICIAN.

P. write in hopes to work a cure Con. 407 Perhaps a grave p., gathering fees H. 203

PICK.

And Chloe from her garland p. the weed H. 293 They p. their fuel out of every hedge T. i 565 He p. clean teeth, and, busy as he seems T. ii 627 P.up their nauseous dole, though sweet to them T. v 94 And prink their hair with daisies, or to p. T. vi 303

PICKED.

That p. the jewel out of England's crown T. ii 265 P. from the thorns and briars of reproof T. vi 1013

PICKLOCK.

An office key, a p. to a place Ex. 379

PICTURE.

In drawing p, of forbidden joys R, 216 Behold the p.!-is it like?-Like whom? T. ii 408 Thus blest, I draw a p. of that bliss T. iii 694 Sat for the p.; and the poet's hand T. iv 526

PIE.

The jay, the p., and even the boding owl T. 205 PIECE.

A smaller p. amidst the precious store Ch. 476 But for one p. they thought it hard L.W. 11 A p. of mere church furniture at best Tir. 425

PIERCE.

The sound of pardon p, his startled ear H. 721 Be strangers to each other? P. my vein T. iii 201

Not to be p. in play, or in the dark Ex. 435 P. to the very centre of the realm Ex. 576 [591 Which, simed at him, have p. the offended skies H. P. with the woes that she laments in vain R. 300

PIERCING.

The p. cold, but feels it unimpaired T. iv 361

PIETY.

And give true p. that odious name Con. 656 Their p. a system of deceit Ex. 91 While Honour, Virtue, P., bear sway Ex. 326 True P. is cheerful as the day T. 176 When learning, virtue, p., and truth T. ii 700 On all her branches. P. has found T. iii 249 The cause of p., and sacred truth T. iii 707 Evander, famed for p., for years T. vi 490 That p. has still in human hearts T. vi 683 The stamp of artless p. impress'd Tir. 153

PIGEON.

Like angel-heads in stone with p. wings? Con. 576

PIGMY.

And feeble onset of a p. rush Ex. 707

PIGS.

And one of p. that he has lost Y.D. 55

But what is truth? 'Twas P.'s question put T. iii

PILE.

P. up his stores amidst the frozen waste H. 475 Have burnt to dust a nobler p. M. i 3 No clustering ornaments to clog the p. T. 24 Or velvet soft, or plush with shaggy p. T. i 11 Toils much to earn a monumental p. T. i 276 The agglome rated p., his frame may front T. iii 472 Down falls the venerable p., the abode T. iii 767 The well stacked p, of riven logs and roots T, iv 444 Lest storms should overset the leaning p. T. v 39 And prop the p, they but adorned before T, v 116

PILFERED

Mine lave not p. yet; nor yet impaired T. i 140

PILFERS.

And not a year but p, as he goes T, i 131

PILGRIM.

As when two p, in a forest stray H. 276 Revere the man whose P. marks the road Tir. 145

PILGRIMAGE.

In p. to bow before his shrine T. vi 669 PILL.

Now the distemper, spite of draught or p. Con. 319 To cover a p. for a delicate palate F.M. 12

The p. of the eternal plan appears Con. 558 The p, of support in which they trust Ex. 333 And p, of our planet seem to fail T, ii 63 Shoot into p, of pellucid length T, v 115

PILLORIED.

Stood p, on infamy's high stage H. 556

PILLOW.

Their fleece his p, and his weekly drawl H, 199 P. and bobbins all her little store T. 318

PIMPLE.

A p. that portends a future sprout T. iii 528

PIMPS.

Ye p., who, under virtue's fair pretence P.E. 315

His friend in merry p. J.G. 178 I pricked them into paper with a p. M.P. 77 She begs an idle p, of all she meets T, i 553 In balance on his conduct of a p.? T. vi 271

"And p. your noses blue "J.P. 40 And such expense as p. parents blue T. ii 756 Cautious he p. from the second stalk T. iii 527 Feels not the wants that p. the poor Trans. H. 10

PINCHED.

P. close between his finger and his thumb Ch. 477 But somewhat at that moment p. him close E. iii 34 With hunger p., and p. for room R.C. 73 [T. i 556 Though p. with cold, asks never—Kate is crazed!

As Envy p. at good possessed F. 79 The tallest p. feel most the power Trans. H. 13 This glassy stream, that spreading p. S. 5 [H. 59 The wretch may p., while to his smell, taste, sight Attract us, and neglected Nature p. T. iii 730 Neglected p. at home, themselves as more T. iv 456

PINEAPPLE.

The P. in triple row P.B. 1 She is the P, and he P.B. 21 We long for p. in frames P.B. 32

PINE-TREE.

Sits cooing in the p., nor suspends T. vi 308 PINING.

The cankered spoil corrodes the p. state Ch. 63 In scenes of plenty, or the p. waste Er. 733 And years of p, indigence must show Her. 65

PINIONS.

On waxen p. soar without a fall A.T. 54 If chance, on heavy p. slowly borne H. 716 Pleased Fancy claps her p, at the sight R, 190 [214] Theirs, should I paint him, has his p. fledged T. iv

PINIONED.

Her elbows p, close upon her hips T. 133

[486

PINK.

The violet, the p., the jessamine M.P. 76 These p. are as fresh, and as gay W.N. 14

PINKED.

Taught thee to clothe thy p, and painted hide Ex.

PINNED.

Her head, adorned with lappets p. aloft T, iv 540

P. enough, and having need of none #. 251 Re-echoing p. anthems! while beneath T. i 343 Still sacred, and preserves with p. care T. vi 690 Within some p. pastor's humble cot Tir. 760

May such success attend the p. plan Con. 837

PIOUSLY.

And p. prefer the tail L.W.20

Faint as a chicken's note that has the p. Con. 356 PIPE.

The p., with solemn interposing puff Con. 245 Laid down his p., flew to the gate J.G. 163 Fatigued me, never weary of the p. T. iv 706

To the lascivious p. and wanton song T.T. 462 PIPING.

When p, winds shall soon arise T.B. 17

PIPPINS.

On p.s' russet peel Ep. ii 18

PISTOL.

Crape and cocked p., and the whistling ball T. iii Guns, halberts, swords and p., great and small Ch.551

Low in the p., thine avarice has made Ch. 72 [53] They gathered close around the old p,'s brink N.A. That life to save, we leap into the p." N.A. 104 How! leap into the p. our life to save! N.A. 107

PIT-A-PAT.

His noble heart went p. R.C. 79

PITCH.

Set your opinion at whatever p. Con. 107 No flights above the p. of prose E. i 16 [505 The scholar's p. (the scholar best knows why P.E. Vouchsafe, at least, to p. the key of rhyme T.T. 188 Stooped from its highest p, to pounce a wren T.T.553To p. the ball into the grounded hat Tir. 308

PITCH'D.

And, as the mind is p., the ear is pleased T. vi 2 PITCHER.

And watered duly. There the p. stands T. iv 775

PITCHKETTLED. I fairly find myself p. E. iv 32

PITEOUS.

Most p. to be seen J.G. 126 Plaintive and p., as it wept and wailed T. iv 479

PITIED.

Much to be p. or commended P. 44 He shared in the plunder, but p. the man P.A. 44

Of lightness in his speech. 'Tis p. T. ii 466 To make the p. possessor shine T.T. 755

"Ruffians, p. as proud B. 41

That, p. perforce Cast. 22 [13 "And such," I exclaimed, "is the p. part The Rose PITTANCE.

His p. every night Ep, ii 10

Just earns a scanty p., and at night T. 321 Their last poor p.—Fortune, most severe T. ii 658

PITY.

Still there is room for p, to abate Ch. 198 The swell of p., not to be confined Ch. 246 They meet with little p., no redress Ch. 530 I p. bashful men, who feel the pain Con. 347 In p, to the souls his grace designed E, ii 23 And Cyrus, with relenting p. moved Ex. 75 Peace to all such,—'twere p. to offend H. 272 Glistening at once with p, and surprise H. 533 That P. had engendered, drop one here H. 677 Ah! I could p. thee exiled M.B. 13 To p. and perhaps forgive M.F. 40 With P.'s watery sight Miss - 76 "So P. shall take Virtue's part Miss — 89 By p., sympathy, and love P. 62

Is almost enough to draw p, from stones P.A. 4 I p. them greatly, but I must be mum P.A. 5

Poor man! what a p. to injure him so! P.A. 34 Have you no touch of p. that the poor P.E. 249 This is a sight for P, to peruse R, 297

I p., and must therefore sink the name R. 576 Heard the sweet mean with p., and devised T. i 74 These therefore I can p., placed remote T. i 626 To break a jest, when p. would inspire T. ii 468

Is't not a p. now, that tickling rheums T. iii 167 Of oracles like these? Great p. too T. iii 169

Dissolve in p., and account the learn'd T. iii 183 Susceptible of p., or a mind T. iii 323

Feel wrath and p., when I think on thee! T. iii 842 Did p. of their sufferings warp aside T. iv 453

And p. for her loss. But that's a cause T. v 370Plead not in vain for p. on the pangs T. vi 462

And teach one tyrant p. for his drudge T. vi 723 Of natural p., send him not to school Tir. 872 I p. kings whom worship waits upon T.T. 121

Sighing I say again, I p. kings! T.T. 140 P. Religion has so seldom found T.T. 716

PITYING.

Will weep indeed, and heave a p. groan T. 177 PLACE.

Than reign in this horrible p. A.S. 8 There is mercy in every p. A.S. 53 $\lceil A.T. 200 \rceil$

Shrieked at the sight, and, conscious, fled the p. Afford them p. of rest? A Tale 26

And only blushes in the proper p. Con. 374 To exalt a people, and to p. them high Con. 519 Where then the preference shall we p. E. iv 71

Happy to fill Religion's vacant p. Ex. 121 An office key, a picklock to a p. Ex. 379

Error and darkness occupy their p. Ex 693 Then p, it once again between my knees Ex. 730 All shining in their p. F. 60

Nature, employed in her alloted p. H. 145Pants for the p. of her ethereal birth H. 162

Emulous always of the nearest p. H. 238To p. you where his saints his presence share H. 339

And p., instead of quirks themselves devise H. 629 O p. me in some Heaven-protected isle Her. 83 The pleasures of this p. M.B. 2

And right toward the favoured p. Mor. 19

To p. it in thy bow 0. i 26 Ye clergy, while your orbit is your p. P.E. 96

Will Avarice, and Concupiscence give p. P.E. 104 Accomplishments bave taken Virtue's p. P.E. 417

Stars countless, each in his appointed p. R. 83Teach, while they flatter him, his proper p. R. 446 Kneels, kisses hands, and shines again in p. R. 480 My Lord, alighting at his usual p. R. 585 'Tis easy to resign a toilsome p. R. 621 But love of change, it seems, has p. R. C. 21 Some p, of more serene repose R.C. 30 And wishing for a p. of rest R.C. 105 Who deem his house a useless p. St. vi 21 And seems to say—"Ye meaner fowl give p. T. 64 Expert in all the duties of his p. T. 206 Conveying worthless dross into its p. T. i 572 Find p. in his dominion, or dispose T. ii 169 Then compromise had p., and scrutiny T. ii 740 And when I p. thee in it, sighing say T. iii 350 He p. lightly, and as time subdues T. iii 518 With needless hurry whirled from p. to p. T. iv 372 In such a palace Poetry might p. T. v 138 Till smooth'd and squar'd and fitted to its p. T. vi 94 That makes so gay the solitary p. T. vi 187 Some p., a spark or two not yet extinct T. vi 684 His steeds, usurp a p. they well deserve T. vi 703 One Lord, one Father. Error has no p. T. vi 784 Holds no ignoble, though a slighted, p. T. vi 971 The balance in the highest p. Th. 11 This fond attachment to the well known p. Tir. 314 I give the bauble but the second p. Tir. 388 A scrivener's clerk, or footman out of p. Tir. 407 In spite of all the wrigglers into p. Tir. 432 Of those who never feel in the right p. Tir. 540 Supplant thee in it, and usurp thy p. Tir. 890 A plan well worthy to supply their p. Tir. 918 Patriots, who love good p. at their hearts T.T. 191 P. me where Winter breathes his keenest air T.T. 294 When he usurped Authority's just p. T.T. 320 Obduracy takes p.; callous and tough T.T.458 [471 When He commands in whom they p. no trust T.T.And p. it in this first essay U. 21

PLACED.

P. with advantage at his listening ear A.T. 181 That every tribe, though p. as he sees best Ch. 19 The Scripture p. within his reach, he ought Ch. 201 Fate having p. all truth above his reach Con. 142 And p, it in our power to prove E, i 108 And plucks the fruit p, more within his reach "Con. Joys always prized, when p. within our reach H. 36 The coronet, p. idly at their head H. 268 P. for his trial on this bustling stage P.E. 23 Is man then only for his torment p. P.E. 229 Well born, well disciplined, who, p. apart R. 727 Though p. in golden Durham's second stall T. 120 These for the rich: the rest, whom Fatehad p. T. i 49Is obvious, p. within the easy reach T. i 598 These therefore I can pity, p. remote T. i 626 Though p. in Paradise (for earth has still T. iii 298 P. at some vacant corner of the board T. iv 230 Thus form'd, thus p., intelligent, and taught Tir. 53Reflect his attributes who p. them there Tir. 92 With his own likeness p. on either knee Tir. 320 Securely p. between the small and great Tir. 808 Where Duty p. them, at their country's side T.T. 24 PLACEMAN.

The dear-bought p, and the cheap buffoon Con. 30 Or p, all tranquillity and smiles T. iv 49

PLACID

Some are so p, and serene F, 121

PLAGUE.

The fretting p, is in the public purse Ch. 62 'Tis gone again—p, on't! I thought E, iv 37 Let Egypt's p, and Canaan's woes proclaim Ex. 169

Of the p. spread by bundles left behind P.E. 352 By thee, worse p. than Pharaoh's land befell P.E. 464 These and a thousand p, that haunt the breast R. 763 Did Famine or did P. prevail St. i 7 Nor P. nor Famine came St. i 10 A p, so little to be feared M.F, 33 It p. your country. Folly such as yours T. i 770 A p. into his blood; and cannot use T. ii 140 And gives them all their fury; bids a p. T. ii 182Now basket up the family of p. T. ii 667 Mourns because every p. that can infest T. ii 815 Excess, the scrofulous and itchy p. T. iv 582 [671 Hence chartered boroughs are such public p. T. iv Far worse than all the p, with which his sins T, v 605 To Miss, the Mercer's p., from shop to shop T. vi 279 Nor p. that haunt the rich man's door Trans. H. 11 PLAGUED. Provoked and harassed, in return p. thee Ex. 533 Chief monster that has p. the nations yet! T.T. 38 PLAGUY. You sell it p. dear Y.D. 60 The beasts that roam over the p. A.S. 13To pathless wilds and unfrequented p. A.T. 26 I was a bondman on my native p. Ch. 236 Suggests it safe, or dangerous, to be p. Ch. 520 The cause is p., and not to be denied Con. 159 The language p., and incidents well linked Cos. 236 If this be p., 'tis plainly understood Con. 435 For us p. folks, and all who side with us Con. 848 Serves, in a p. and homely way E. i 3 The world may dance along the flowery p. E. ii 13 Look to the poor; the simple and the p. Ex. 452 That won a nymph on that immortal p. Ez. 598 Lord paramount of the surrounding p. H. 305 This only can; for this p. cause, expressed H. 340 In terms as p., himself has shut the rest H. 341 On icy p., and in eternal snows H. 464 A knave when tried on honesty's p, rule H, 566 Scripture indeed is p., but God and he H. 598 To hear p. truth at Judah's hallowed gate H. 763 Rebuilds the towers that smoked upon the p. Her. 71 Whilst beauty decks the p. Miss -Speckle the bosom of the distant p. P.E. 83 O the dear pleasures of the velvet p. P.E. 169 Though p. to others, is obscure to him P.E. 447 Some p. mechanic, who, without pretence R. 449 Despise the p. direction, and are lost T. 33 Their sin is p., but what have we to fear T. 129 See where it smokes along the sounding p. T. 238

Polluting Egypt: gardens, fields, and p. T. ii 828
My languid limbs, when summer sears the p. T. iii 30
Then all is p. Philosophy baptized T. iii 243
What England was, p., hospitable, kind T. iii 743
The verdure of the p. lies buried deep T. v 21
Its hollow glens, its thickets, and its p. T. vi 402
So the best courser on the p. Th. 17 [Tir. 129
Points, which, unless the Scripture made them p.
'Tis p. the creature, whom he chose to invest Tir. 95
Else sure notorious fact, and proof so p. Tir. 259
Which, though in p. plebeians we condemn Tir. 352
Prevented much by diet neat and p. Tir. 767
Is legible and p. Trans. i 22
He break away, and seek the distant p.? T.T. 307
PLAINER.
'Tis granted, and no p. truth appears P.E. 353

Here Ouse, slow-winding through a level p. T. i 163 Thy simple fare, and all thy p. delights T. i 646

And p. in manner; decent, solemn, chaste T. ii 401

In doctrine uncorrupt; in language p. T. ii 400

PLAINNESS.

Through all He spoke a noble p. ran Ex. 135 But speaks with p. art could never mend H. 451

PLAINTIVE.

Thy tender sorrows and thy p. strain E. ii 45 P. and piteous, as it wept and wailed T. iv 479 Cyrene, when he bore the p. tale T. v 136

PLAINTS.

Regardless of their p. To make him sport T. vi 386

PLAN.

Large population on a liberal p. A.T. 157Your matrimonial p. A Tale 70 God, working ever on a social p. Ch. 15 The treasured sweets of the capacious p. Ch. 323 That square not truly with the Scripture p. Ch. 559 Your hope to please him vain on every p. Con. 341 Starts not aside from her Creator's p. Con. 452 The pillar of the eternal p. appears Con. 558 May such success attend the pious p. Con. 837 And p, and orders our connections E, i 36 But who can tell how vast the p. E. i 83 'Twas theirs alone to dive into the p. Ex. 235 [237 And while the world beside, that p. unknown Ex. Snuffs up the praise of what he seems to p. Ex. 317 Some act upon this prudent p. F. 181 So shifting and so various is the p. H. 15By which he reads, that life without a p. H. 95 Who make the good Creator on their p. H. 383 Was one, whom Justice, on an equal p. H. 511 Build by whatever p. caprice decrees H. 614 Woven with pains into his p. H.F. 3 'Tis woven in the world's great p. Miss -Contribute to the gorgeous p. Mrs. M-13 [43 He blamed and protested, but joined in the p. P.A. Else, on the fatalists' unrighteous p. P.E. 27 Exhibits elevations, drawings, p. P.E. 397 Opening the map of God's extensive p. R. 147 Mark well the finished p. without a fault R. 551 Heaven's easy, artless, unencumbered p.! T. 22 How readily, upon the Gospel p. T. 381 Improved the simple p.; made three legs four T. i 29 One lawless particle to thwart his p. T. ii 170 [iii 785 He sighs, departs, and leaves the accomplished p. T. I never framed a wish, or formed a p. T. iv 695 Almost without an effort, p. too vast T. v 253 Had not its author dignified the p. Tir. 51 And all the p. their destiny design'd Tir. 86 Blasphemes his creed, as founded on a p. Tir. 159 Ghostly in office, earthly in his p. Tir. 422 And thou a wretch, whom, following her old p. Tir. A p. well worthy to supply their place Tir. 918 Kings do but reason on the self-same p. T.T. 48 To win no p. when well-wrought p. prevail T. T. 157 The mighty p., oracular, in verse T.T. 179 And darts his soul into the dawning p. T.T. 499 'Tis where it should be in a p. U. 23

PLANET.

And pillars of our p, seemed to fail T, ii 63 That brings the p, home into the eye T, iii 230

PLANETARY.

Sees p. wonders smoothly roll Ch. 317 And p. some; what gave them first T. iii 159

PLANK.

A Monitor is wood-p. shaven thin T. ii 585

PLANKED. [Y.O. 95

That might have ribbed the sides and p. the deck

PLANNED.

To disconcert what Policy has p. Ex. 299 (Yet charge not heavenly skill with having p. H. 542 That p., and built, and still upholds a world T. v. 753 Of no mean city, p. or ere the hills T. v. 764 But measures p. and executed well T. T. 386

PLANT. [there! A.T. 118 "Find out her treacherous heart, and p. a dagger True Charity, a p. divinely nursed Ch. 573 To poison vermin that infest his p. Con. 256 I p. my foot upon this ground of trust H. 369 And p. successfully sweet Sharon's rose H. 463 Make the p. for which we toil? N.C. 18 The p, he meant grew not far off P. 17 Did p. called sensitive grow there?" P. 22 If all the p, that can be found P. 57 [359 P. raised with tenderness are seldom strong P.E. As woodbine weds the p. within her reach R. 229 The seed sown there, how vigorous is the p. ? T.362The grain, or herb, or p, that each demands R.788Beneath his care, a thriving vigorous p. T. ii 714 Checks vegetation in the torpid p. T. iii 468 All p., of every leaf, than can endure T. iii 580 Threatening at once and nourishing the p. T. vi 36 P. behind p. aspiring, in the van T. iii 593 Sure to exhaust the p. on which they feed Tir. 604 P. it upon the line that Justice draws T. T. 17

PLANTATIONS.

In all that live, p., animal, and man Y.O. 79

Wasting towns, p., meadows N.C. 35

PLANTED.

A people p., watered, blest as they? Ex. 168 His lamp now p. on Heaven's topmost arch N.A. 30 Our groves were p. to console at noon T. i 760 Suspend their crazy boxes, p. thick T. iv 774

PLASHED.

P. neatly, and secured with driven stakes T. iv 437

PLASTERED.

The cottage, walk along the p. wall T. v 19

PLATE.

Like figures drawn upon a dial p. Com. 380 Like Hand-in-Hand Insurance p. F. 106 [280 In foreign eyes!—be grooms, and win the p. T. ii Above the steeple shines a p. Trans. ii 7

PLATO.

Has Epictetus, P., Tully, preached! T. ii 540

PLATTED.

Who wore the p. thorns with bleeding brows T. vi

PLATTING.

Sits linking cherry-stones, or p. rush R. 398

PLAUSIBLE.

Of sabbath hours with p, excuse? P.E. 145 And p, than social life requires T. v 466 The end, though p, not worth the means Tir. 487 While thoughful man is p, amused T, iii 186

PLAY

But she, inconstant as the beams that p. A.T. 23
Too often proves an implement of p. Con. 17
Religion curbs indeed its wanton p. Con. 595 [611
A man that would have foiled at their own p. Con.
And give the moral springs their proper p. Con. 832
Find the sweet lyre on which an artist p. Con. 900
The harmless p. of pleasantry and mirth E. iii 39
And every night at p. Ep. ii 32

Not to be pierced in p, or in the dark Ex. 435 So settling in his cage, by p. F.B. 25 Men deal with life as children with their p. H. 127 Froward at school, and fretful in his p. H. 189 Though loose, as harmless as an infant's p. H. 613 Upon his dungeon walls the lightning p. H. 718 In dazzling streaks the vivid lightnings p. Her. 18 These gambols he did p. J.G. 134 Or a wild goose at p. J.G. 140 Can see no evil in a p. L.W. 30 While airs impregnated with incense p. M.P. 94 To p. the fool on Sundays, why not we? P.E. 147 Laymen have leave to dance, if parsons p. P.E. 151 But, if he p. the glutton and exceed P.E. 211 The winds p no longer and sing in the leaves P.F. In the last scene of such a senseless p. R. 32The waves o'ertake them in their serious p. R. 157 And p, the fool, but at a cheaper rate R, 562 The rest might then seem privileged to p. St. ii 19 Dishonour with unhallowed p. St. vi 27To watch you amorous couple in their p. T. 136 No, not a spark—'tis all mere sharper's p. T. 209 Now flashing wide, now glancing as in p. T. 242 That p, of lungs, inhaling and again T, i 137 P. wanton, every moment, every spot T. i 349 But cannot p. them, borrows a friend's hand T. i 473 And silent cipher, while her proxy p. T. i 477 What!—will a man p, tricks, will he indulge T, ii 419 And p, his brilliant parts before my eyes T, ii 425 Nor such as with a frown forbids the p. T. iv 175 Lesrn every trick, and soon p. all the game T. iv 231 The sooty films that p, upon the bars \tilde{T} , iv 292 [v 188] Kings would not p. at. Nations would do well T. May p. what tune he pleases. In the deed T. v 652 The squirrel, flippant, pert, and full of p. T. vi 315 Nor ask his leave to slumber or to p. T. vi 405 In bilking tavern bills, and spouting p. Tir. 327 What sums he lost at p., and how he sold Tir. 330 Behold your bishop! well he p. his part Tir. 420 Allows short time for p., and none for sloth Tir. 484 To take in childish p. a childish part Tir. 548 A tax of profit from his very p. Tir. 612 [Tir. 335] Resolves that where he played his sons shall p. Puts a period to thy p. Trans. iii 26 To him is relaxation and mere p.) T.T. 156 Too apt to p, the wanton with her powers T.T.301I p. with syllables, and sport in song T.T. 505 And every effort ends in push-pin p. T.T. 547 In tales, in trifles, and in children's p. T.T. 731 Thy schoolfellow and partner of thy p. V.35 [Y.O.18 Which babes might p. with; and the thievish jay

PLAYED. [p. T. v 177 Great princes have great playthings. Some have P. only gambols in a frantic mood H. 541 P. on his lips, and in his speech was heard T. ii 707 P. by the creatures of a Power who swears T. iii 177 I p. awhile, obedient to the fair T. vi 1008 [268 Went with him, and saw all the game he p. ? Tir. Resolves that where he p. his sons shall play Tir. 335 Anacreon, Horace, p. in Greece and Rome T. T. 608

PLAYEDST.

But well thou p. the housewife's part M. 17

PLAYFUL.

So when a child, as p. children use B.B. 9 The p. humour; he could now endure T. vi 47 And smiles to see, her infant's p. hand T. vi 779 And, while the p. jockey scours the room Tir. 366

PLAYING.

When, p. with thy vesture's tissued flowers M.P. Of some tall temple p. bright Mrs. M— 36

In p. tricks with Nature, giving laws T. iii 165 P. our games, and on the very spot Tir. 305 P., at beat of drum, their martial pranks T.T. 136 PLAY-PLACE.

And had no other p. for his wit Ch. 538 We love the p. of our early days Tir. 297

PLAYTHING.

And was his p. often when a child E. iii 33 Oaths used as p. or convenient tools E_E . 37 A p. world, unworthy of his hand) H. 543 Not as the p. of a froward child R. 107 [v 177 Great princes have great p. Some have played T.

PLAYTIME.

E'en in the spring and p. of the year T. vi 299

PLEA.

Prosper (I press thee with a powerful p.) Ch. 5
But grant the p., and let it stand for just Ch. 196
Were hushed in favour of thy generous p. Ch. 311
Affords a p. allowable, or just Con. 47
Pleasure herself perhaps suggests a p. Ex. 666
This only spares no lust, admits no p. H. 645
Expending late on all that length of p. S. i 6
The p. of works, as arrogant and vain T. 71
That p. refuted, other quirks they seek T. 293
I cast them at thy feet—my only p. T. 583
But still in virtue of a Saviour's p. T. 529 [Tir. 867
Thou wouldst not, deaf to Nature's tenderest p.

PLEAD.

Trade in the blood of innocence, and p. Ch. 182 Impudent blasphemy! So Folly p. Ch. 194 That p. for peace till it disturbs the state Ch. 310 Whatever Use may urge, or Honour p. Con. 189 If lawyer, loud whatever cause he p. H. 201 Who strike the blow, then p. your own defence Her. Go, fool; and, arm in arm with Clodio, p. P.E. 197 Thus Conscience p. her cause within the breast R.15 Or p. its silence as its best applause R. 414 Now summon every virtue, stand and p. T. 567 For whom God heard His Abraham p. in vain T. iii848 To reverence what is ancient, and can p. T. v 300 Takes part with Appetite, and p. the cause T. v 630 P. not in vain for pity on the pangs T. vi 462 (If such who p. for Providence may seem T. vi 481 Hear Nature p., show mercy to thy son Tir. 756

PLEADED.

He p. again in behalf of the eyes A.C. 25 Wherever p. 'Tis the cause of man T. v 396

PLEADING.

No subterfuge, or p. F. 189 To bid the p. of Self-love be still R. 129

PLEASANT.

And ours would be p. as hers C. 55
From such communion in their p. course Con. 698
Now Gilpin had a p. wit J.G. 169
So p. it seemed as I lay M.D. 4
Could those few p. days again appear M.P. 80
Sad period to a p. course! St. vi 37
But now with p. pace a cleanlier road T. iii 17
His p. work, may he suppose it done T. iii 656
'Tis p., through the loopholes of retreat T. iv 88
Still lives, though all its p. boughs are gone T. v 403
Of Avon, famed in song. Ah p. proof T. vi 682
How p. in itself what pleases him T. vi 829

PLEASANTRY.

The harmless play of p. and mirth E. iii 39

While fields of p, amuse us there T, iv 76 Then decent p, and sterling sense T, T, 638

PLEASE.

That, while they p., possess us with alarms Ch. 546 Rove where you p., 'tis common all around Con. 100 But still remember, if you mean to p. Con. 103 Who to p. others will themselves disgrace Con. 227 Yet p. not, but affront you to your face Con. 228 Or giant-killing Jack, would p. no more Con. 214 His odoriferous attempts to p. Con. 287 Your hope to p. him vain on every plan Con. 341 The change shall p., norshall it matter aught Con. 845 "An't p. your ladyship," quoth I E. iv 79 [E. iii 27 "For what?" "And p. you, sir, to see a friend" Mistress, at least while Providence shall p. Ex. 274 For ears and hearts that he can hope to p. ? Ex. 451 The sovereignty they were convened to p. Er. 539 The sound of truth will then be sure to p. Ex. 731 With what materials, on what ground, you p. H. 615 "Oh! if my Sovereign Author p. Miss - 25 Ordained to move when others p. P. 7 To p. her sated and indifferent lord? P.E. 258 Elegant phrase, and figure formed to p. P.E. 422 The screws reversed (a task which if He p. R. 327 The spot he loved has lost the power to \bar{p} . R. 466 And \bar{p} , if anything could p. S. 8 But, if you p., some fathoms lower down T. 170 And only there, p. highly for their sake T. 209 Richly rewarded if he can but p. T. 218 [T. 301 ("Mention him if youp.; -- Voltaire?" "The same" P. daily, and whose novelty survives T. i 178 Than p. the eye—sweet Nature every sense T. i 427 Then forests, or the savage rock, may p. T. i 518 May punish, if he p., the less, to warn T. ii 157 Just p, us while the passion is at full T. ii 598 [195 As the world p. What's the world to you?" T. iii A bible-oath to be whate'er they p. T. iv 629 [235 When they command whom man was born to p. T. ivNo bard could p, me but whose lyre was tuned T. iv 704 Than human passion p. In every heart T. v 205 Should, when he p., and on whom he will T. v 313 (Of king whom such prerogative can p.) T. v 443 "May play what tune he p. In the deed T. v 652 Is dreary, so with him all seasons p. T. vi 255 How pleasant in itself what p. him T. vi 829 [1009 With that light task; but soon, to p. her more T. vi Whom flowers alone I knew would little p. T. vi 1010 A book (to p. us at a tender age Tir. 121 That youth takes pleasure in, to p. his boy Tir. 550 Not English stiff, but frank, and formed to p. Tir. 671 'Tis in the clouds—that p. him Trans. ii 11 Whose trade it is to smile, to crouch, to p. T.T. 123 Sing where you p., in such a cause I grant T.T. 298 With all that Fancy can invent to p. T.T. 763 That p. and yet shocks me, I can laugh T. iii 840

PLEASED.

All prompt his p. pursuit, and to pursue Ch. 325
We therefore p. extol thy song Dr. 9
Sliced carrot p. him well Ep. ii 20
They die.—Death lends them, p., and as in sport H.
By this he forms, as p. he sports along H. 610
The carriage bowls along and all are p. P.E. 438
P. she beheld aloft portrayed Q.V. 45
P. Fancy claps her pinions at the sight R. 190
On whom he rests well p. his weary powers R. 451
For all that p. in wood or lawn S. 13
And, p. at heart, because on holy ground T. 232
Ingenious Fancy, never better p. T. i 72
And infants clamorous whether p. or pained T. i 232
And p. with novelty, might be indulged T. i 508
Close to his side that p. him. Learning grew T. ii 713

Well they reward the toil. The sight is p. T. iii 620 To his true worth, most p. when idle most T. iv 224 And such well p. to find it, asks no more T. v 795 And, as the mind is pitch'd, the ear is p. T. vi 2 P. with his solitude, and flitting light T. vi 79 To love and friendship both, that is not p. T. vi 324 All that are capable of pleasure p. T. vi 345 [vi 533 His rage grew cool; and p. perhaps to have earned T. Is p. with it, and, were he free to choose T. vi 909 I p. remember, and, while memory yet Tir. 133 Their childhood p. them at a riper age Tir. 143

PLEASING.

Much less of p. expectation) E. i 100
Ears long accustomed to the p. lute Ex. 68
Of p., which you share Miss — 18
Ere yet the p. toil becomes a pain P.E. 70
Beports a message with a p. grace T. 205
Be still a p. object in my view T. i 250
So p., and that steal away the thought T. ii 299
By every p. image they present T. iii 303
So manifold, all p. in their kind T. iii 624
The p. spotacle at once excites Tir. 310
O Liberty! the prisoner's p. dream T.T. 288

PLEASURE.

(So vanishes P. alas!) C. 6 Though the p. of London exceed C. 25 God's gift with p. in his praise employ Ch. 252 Still prompt him, with a p. always new Ch. 326 The attention P. has so much engrossed Ch. 631 His only p. is to be displeased Con. 346 And prize them above p., wealth or praise Con. 662 For tell some men that p., all their bent Con. 875 Bent all on p., heedless of its end E. ii 18 Where under Heaven is P. more pursued Ex. 7 P. is deaf when told of future pain Ex.66P. o'ervalued, and his grace despised Ex. 252 To war with p., idolized before Ex. 410 Where beckoning P, leads them, wildly stray Ex, 464 And all at home is p., wealth, and ease Ex. 583 Now think, if P. have a thought to spare Ex.602P. herself perhaps suggests a plea Ex. 666 The tide of p., heedless of his frown Ex. 683A mere Utopian p. F. 30 Taste happiness, or know what p, means H. 10 P. is labour too, and tires as much H. 20 To passion, interest, p., whim, resigned H. 212 Who live in p., dead e'en while they live H. 230 His sovereign power and p. unrestrained H. 320 And made all p, else mere dross to me" H. 537 Than he who must have p., come what will H. 595 He now perceives where earthly p. ends H. 695 But p. wins his heart H.F. 12 That, though on p, she was bent J.G. 31 'Twas for your p. you came here J.G. 199 What p, can the miser's fondled hoard J.T. 15 The p. of this place M.B. 2 Thy p, is to show M.B. 18 Whence social p. spring Miss - 30 A p. from its pain Miss - 52 Forced from home and all its p. N.C. 1 And p,'s fatal wiles? O, ii 9 And P. brings as surely in her train P.E. 43 Nor these alone, whose p. less refined P.E. 57 O the dear p, of the velvet plain P.E. 169 Slain at the foot of P. be no crime P.E. 182 That p., therefore, or what such we call P.E. 225 Remorse the fatal egg by P. laid P.E. 239 No p.! Are domestic comforts dead? P.E. 243 These both are p. to the feeling heart P.E. 254 No p.! Has some sickly eastern waste P.E. 255 Your p. with no curses in the close P.E. 268

P. admitted in undue degree P.E. 239 Mortals whose p. are their only care P.E. 289 And relish of their p. all to lust P.E. 330 To muse on the perishing p. of man P.F. 18 The dupes of p., or the slaves of gain R. 24 The fruits that hang on p.'s flowery stem R. 179 Are life's prime p, in his simple view R. 403 Some p, live a month, and some a year R. 459 Else more attached to p. found at home R. 518 Votaries of P. still, where'er she dwells R. 539 From p. left, but never more beloved R. 564 There feels a p. perfect in its kind R. 629 Where dreams of dress, intrigue and p. reign R. 612 Unnumbered p. harmlessly pursued R. 784 The guide to p. which can never cease S. ii 14 P.'s call attention wins St. iv 25 Think with what p., safe and at his ease T. 253 One p. lost, lose heaven without regret T. 342 P. and wonder in his features mixed T. 416 Crippling his p. with the cramp of fear T. 466 Fast locked in mine, with p. such as Love T. i 146 Thence with what p, have we just discerned T, i 159 There is a p. in poetic pains T. ii 285 To his own p. and his patron's pride T. ii 391 Solicit p., hopeless of success T. ii 635 And victous p.; buys the boy a name T. ii 759 And winds his way with p, and with ease T, iii 10 Thou art not known where P, is adored T, iii 51 That owes its p, to another's pain T, iii 327 With her who shares his p. and his heart T. iii 390 With p. more than even their fruits afford T. iii 410 Mansions once T. iii 746 And all their honest p. Of p. and variety, dispatch T. iii 813 But me, perhaps T. iv 272 My p. to begin. And sweet colloquial p. are but few! T. iv 898 On p., haunt the capital, and thus T. iv 590 But his own simple p.; now and then T. iv 625 And harmless p, in the thronged abode T. iv 782 And sweetness, without which no p. is T. v 470 And with it all its p, and its pains T, vi 14 All that are capable of p, pleased T, vi 345 Two gods divide them all -P. and Gain T. vi 892 She scorns his p., for she knows them not T. vi 919 Opposed against the p. Nature loves! Tir. 170 That youth takes p. in, to please his boy Tir. 550 O'er all his p. gently to preside Tir. 609 To double all thy p. in thy child Tir. 682 If not a scene of p., a mere blank Tir. 752 Of p. past, or follies yet to come Tir. 776 Firm friends to peace, to p., and good pay T. T. 195 Alas! the tide of p. sweeps along T.T. 368 That made the vaulted roofs of P. ring T.T. 625 That, quite eclipsing P.'s painted face T.T. 649 Votaries of business and of p. prove V. 71 Sits half the p. of short life away! Y.O. 32

PLEBEIAN.

P. must surrender F. 117 Behold the schools in which p. minds T. iv 492 Which, though in plain p. we condemn Tir. 352 A higher than a mere p. fame Tir. 691 And set p, thousands in a roar T.T. 319

PLEDGE.

But softened into mercy; made the p. T. i 365 The nurture of her youth, her dearest p. T. ii 779 When having no stake left, no p. to endear T. iii 791 Of these the first in order, and the p. T. v 575 A p, he gave for a consistent part Tir. 178 A blessing, freedom is the p. of all T.T. 287

PLEDGED.

For I have gained thy confidence, have p. T. iii 346

PLENTEOUS.

And o'er the seat, with p. wadding stuffed T. i 31 The p. bloom, that no rough blast may sweep T.iii441 And p. harvest, to the prayer he makes T. vi 947 Till Autumn's fierce heats and p. dews Tir. 47

PLENTEOUSLY.

"And stored the earth so p. with means T. v 636

PLENTIFUL.

And have most p, occasion P, 28 The p. moisture encumbered the flower The Rose 3

PLENTY.

And if a boundless p. be the robe Ch. 85 [Comp. i 10] How laughs the land with various p. crowned! Poured out from P.'s overflowing horn Ex. 10 And after all the joys that P. leads Ex. 83 In scenes of p., or the pining waste Ez. 733 A calm succeeds—but P., with her train Her. 63 In gathering p, yet to be enjoyed R. 554 Not all the p. of a Bishop's board T. 121 To call up P. from the teeming earth T. 181 Through p., lose in morals what they gain T. i 624 With blushing fruits, and p. not his own T. iii 429 And resped their p. without grudge or strife T.v 203 From dearth to p., and from death to life T. vi 181

PLIANT.

He brandishes his p. length of whip T. iv 355

PLIED.

Much to persuade, he p. his ear with truths \tilde{T} . vi PLODS.

Presented bare against the storm, p. on T. iv 353 PLOTTED.

His comrades had p. an orchard to rob P.A. 23 PLOTTING.

Disfigures Earth, and, p. in the dark T. i 275

PLOUGH.

Were not afraid to p, the brine A Tale 71 Impede the bark that p. the deep serene Ch. 132 The p. of wisdom never entering there H. 231 And p, the distant main R.G. 32 Must p. the wave no more R.G. 36 P. up the roots of a believer's care T. 460 The distant p. slow-moving, and beside T. i 160 She p. a brazen field, and clothes a soil T. i 709 Of order from the chariot to the p. T. iv 586 Returns indignant to the slighted p. T. iv 645 With ivory teeth, or p. it with his snout $T. \vee 50$ Time p. them up, and not a trace remains T. v 533 Give me the line that p. its stately course T.T.522

PLOUGHED.

Or p. perhaps by British bark again T. i 631 [v 202 Peace was awhile their care: they p. and sowed I.

PLUCK.

And p, the fruit placed more within his reach " Com. To punish lust, or p. presumption down Ex. 250

And p, each other's laurel F, 90 P. amaranthine joys from bowers of bliss H. 164

PLUCKED. Γ*Ex.* 579 He that had raised thee, could have p. thee down

The biscuit, or confectionary p. M.P. 61

PLUMAGE.

Thus taught, down falls the p. of his pride Ch. 345

My form genteel, my p. gay G. 5
But gaudy p., sprightly strain G. 7
Full of the dashing shower Mrs. M—15
Their ruffled p. calm refit Mrs. M—46
For Bully's p. sake T.B. 27

PLUME.

No crested warrior dips his p, in blood Her. 86 The pheasant p, which round infold Mrs, M-5 The P, and Poet both we know Mrs, M-5 Both Poet saves and P, from fading Mrs, M-55 Though he too has a glory in his p. T. 67 [215 With motley p.; and, where the peacock shows T. iv in painted p, superbly dressed Trans, iv 1 Then show far off their shining p, again T. T. 567 is India free? and does she wear her p. T. iv 29 His hat, or his p. helmet, with a grace T. iv 643

PLUMED.

PLII M P

The seed, selected wisely, p., and smooth T. iii 511 The p. convivial parson often bears T. iv 595

PLUNDER.

He shared in the p., but pitied the man P.A.44 For p.; much solicitous how best T. iv 433

PLUNDERED.

Heaven, earth, and ocean, p. of their sweets T. iv 82 PLUNGE.

From earth or hell, we can but p. at last " N.A. 122 The rage of fermentation, p. deep T. iii 519 Conscious and fearful of too deep a p. T. v 64

PLUNGED.

P. in the stream, they lodge upon the mud Ch. 531

PLUNGING.

And p, left the shore D.W.32P., and half despairing of escape T. iii 6 Deep p., and again deep p. oft T. v 34 Of folly, p. in pursuit of death T. v 595

PLURALITIES.

Forms or no forms, p. or pairs A.T. 131

PLUSH

Or velvet soft, or p, with shaggy pile T, i 11.

PLY

P. all the sinews of industrious toil Her. 69
Spreads all his canvass, every sinew p. T. 5
But here the needle p. its busy task T. iv 150
Smith, cobbler, joiner, he that p. the shears T. iv 476
The peasants urge their harvest, p. the fork T.T. 214

POCKET.

But sighs at thought of empty p. P.B. 26 Lies down secure, her heart and p. light T. 322 [445] Forth comes the p. mirror.—First we stroke T. ii

POCKETED.

And p. a prize by fraud obtained T. iii 87

POCKET-STORE.

How oft, my slice of p. consumed T. i 118

POEM

Lets fall a p. on passant E. iv 88 My p. enchanted I view Gr. 30 From him who rears a p. lank and long T.T. 532

POET.

so tuneful a p. before C. 24
so p. wept him; but the page Cast. 49

A p.'s name, by making thee the theme Ch. 14 The painter's pencil, and the p.'s lyre Ch. 106 Would humble many a towering p.'s pride Ch. 536 And spare the p, for his subject's sake Ch. 636 P., are sometimes apt to maul the thing Com. 290 A p. does not work by square or line Con. 789 Two P. (p., by report Dr. 1 They best can judge a p.'s worth Dr. 5 At any p,'s happier lays Dr, 15 But when a p, takes the pen E, i 9 Alas for the p.! who dares undertake F.M. 13 P.'s goods are not often so fine Gr. 54 The p. will swear that I dream Gr. 55 I slur a name a p. must not speak) H. 555 A painter's skill into a p.'s haud H. 670 The faithful monitor's and p.'s part H. 757 To p. of renown in song J.P.~17P. attempt the noblest task they can J.T. 1 Appealed to many a p.'s page L.R. 11 The Plume and P. both we know Mrs. M— 58 Both P. saves and Plume from fading Mrs. M- 55 A p.'s drop of ink? O. i 12 No matter when—a p.'s Muse is P. 23 A p., in his evening walk P. 39 So, ancient p. say, serene Q. V. 69 At such a sight to catch the p.'s flame R. 85 For such a cause the P, seeks the shade R. 188 Yet let a p. (Poetry disarms R. 253 Oh! grant a p. leave to recommend R. 541 (A. p. fond of Nature and your friend) R. 542 A monitor's, though not a p.'s praise R. 806 A p.'s cat, sedate and grave $R.\hat{C}.$ 1 As p, well could wish to have R.C. 2 That night, by chance, the p. watching R.C. 77 Then stepped the p, into bed R.C. 107 Hear him, himself the p. and the theme T. 404 The P.'s treasure, silence, and indulge T. i 235 Which only p, know. The shifts and turns T, ii 286 Are occupations of the p's mind T. ii 298 The p.'s or historian's page by one T. iv 158 To books, to music, or the p's toil T. iv 262 That p. celebrate; those golden times T. iv 514 Sat for the picture; and the p.'s hand T. iv 526 Then Milton had indeed a p.'s charms T. iv 709 By p., and by senators unpraised T. v 539 Encomium in old time was p.'s work T. vi 715 But p., having lavishly long since T. vi 716 Foretold by prophets, and by p. sung T. vi 731 But when a p., or when one like me T. vi 751 In vain the p. sings, and the world hears T. vi 1018 Of p. raised by you, and statesmen, and divines Tir. 283 And, of all lies (be that one p. boast) T.T. 87P., of all men, ever least regret T.T. 176 When themes like these employ the p,'s tongue T.T. And move the lips of p, east in lead T.T. 203 The p.'s muse, his passion, and his theme T.T. 289 An English p.'s privilege to rant T.T. 299 Of prophet and of p. was the same T.T. 501 At Westminster, where little p.'s strive T.T. 508 I was a p. too: but modern taste T T. 510 The p.'s heart; he looks to distant storms T.T. 495 Hence British p. to the priesthood shared T.T. 502 As if the p., purposing to wed T.T. 554 Youchsafes to man a p.'s just pretence T.T. 699 Thus graced, the man asserts the p.'s name T.T. 714 The p.'s lyre, to fix his fame U. 25 Should be the p.'s heart U. 26 I sink the p. in the friend U. 30

POETIC.

The pangs of a p. birth Dr. 7 With all the embroidery of p. dreams Ex. 234 Saluting his p. ears R.C. 89 Streams tinkle sweetly in p. chime R. 568
Feebly and vainly, at p. fame) R. 802
To serve occasions of p. pomp T. i 152
There is a pleasure in p. pains T. ii 285
Ye sage dispensers of p. fame T. iii 457
And Sidney, warbler of p. prose T. iv 516
Sportive and jingling her p. bells T. iv 702
And with p. trappings grace thy prose T. v 679
Happy to rove among p. flowers T. v 1752
A skilful gnide into p. ground! T.T. 717
'Twould thin the ranks of the p. tribe T.T. 768

POETICAL.

I indulge my p. moods Gr. 51 POETRY.

P. may, but colours cannot paint Con. 384
By letting p. alone! E. iv 10
Yet let a poet (P. disarms R. 253
Me p. (or rather notes that aim R. 801
In such a palace P. might place T. v 138
Of p. not lost, if verse of mine T. vi 726
Had faded, p. was not an art T.T. 585
Made p. a mere mechanic art T.T. 654
Which now and then sweet P. may cure T.T. 743
A theme for p. divine 1789, 29

POINT

The p. in dispute was, as all the world knows A.C. 3 Armed at all p, with terror on his brow A.T. 140 Truth armed it with a p. so keen, so just A.T. 145 Struck thrice the p. upon his saddle bow A.T. 166 The turns are quick, the polished p. surprise Ch. 541 Who vote for hire, or p. it with lampoon Con. 29 A disputable p. is no man's ground Con. 99 To press your p. with modesty and case Con. 104 He makes one useful p. exceeding clear Con. 136 The P. of Honour has been deemed of use Con. 163 As bastions set p. blank against God's will Con. 688 On p. which God has left at large F. 186 Where Science p. her telescopic eye H. 441 And thus he left the p. at large L.W.8That Virtue p. to? Can a life thus spent P.E.72P. to inscriptions wheresoe'er they tread P.E. 391 Within the small dimensions of a p. R. 58 Wherever freakish Fancy p. the way R. 128 The p, of interest or the post of power R, 142 P. out a conflict with thyself, the worst R. 268 [92 For he has touched them. From the extremest p. T. ii In vain he p, his powers against the skies T. 469 [808] Their p. obtuse, and feathers drunk with wine! T. ii The parallax of yonder luminous p. T. iii 215 To its just p.—the service of mankind T. iii 372 [44 And bored with elbow p, through both his sides T, iv At the sword's p., and dyeing the white robe T. iv 682 Twins at all p.—yet this obtains in all T. iv 738 Their only p. of rest, Eternal Word! T. v 897 [129 P., which, unless the Scripture made them plain Tir. P. to the cure, describe a Saviour's cross Tir. 165 Subsist and centre in one p.—a friend Tir. 390 p. secured, if once he be supplied Tir. 698 From what p. blows the weather Trans. ii 9 As one at p. to die Y.D. 10

POINTED.

A trick upon the canvass, p. flame Con. 782 Shaggy, and lean, and shrewd, with p. ears T. v 45 And blunts his p. fury; in its case T. vi 193 With p. hoof dibbling the glebe, prepared Y.O. 26 POINTERS.

With belted waist and p, at their heels T, ii 753

POINTING.

Shows with a p, finger, but no noise H. 221 While we retrace with Memory's p, wand T, iv 183

POISE.

Who p, and proportions sea and land Ex. 342 And smiles delighted with the eternal p. T. iv 486

POISED.

His well p, estimate of right and wrong H, 611

POISING.

And after p. her adventurous wings R. 671
POISON.

To p. vermin that infest his plants Con. 256
While others p. what the flock must drink Ex. 100
Now, while the p. all high life pervades P.E. 347

POISONED.

And p, every virtue in them both T. 116

POISONING.

P. the waters where their swarms abound P.E. 431

Poisonous.

The p., black, insinuating worm $P \cdot E$. 7

POLAR.

The rage and rigour of a p. sky H. 462

POLE.

His freeborn brethren of the southern p. Ch. 34
To give the p. the produce of the sun Ch. 125
Till the last fire burn all between the p. Con. 756
From the world's girdle to the frosen p. Ez. 20
True as a needle to the p. F. 110
But these shall last when night has quenched the p.
Between two p. upon a stick transverse T. i 561
Night veiled the p.; all seemed secure T.B. 31

POLICY.

To disconcert what P. has planned Es. 299 Where P. is busied, all night long Es. 300 Safe p., but hateful F. 183 Of the edifice that p. has raised T. ii 817 The manners, customs, p. of all T. iv 109

POLISH.

And toil to p. its rough coat alone P.E. 420 And, while she p., perverts the taste R. 704 And keep the p. of the manners clean R. 733 No p. oan make sterling; and that vice T. vi 990 To p., furnish, and delight the mind T.T. 645

POLISHED.

So p, and compact from head to heel A.T. 184 The turns are quick, the p. points surprise Ch. 544 Our p. manners are a mask we wear Com. 166 'Tis ready p. from the mine" E, iv 90 If every p, gem we find F, 7 Cards with what rapture, and the p. die P.E. 171 Thou p. and high-finished foe to truth P.E. 341 But the same word that, like p. share T. 459 And though himself so p., still reprieves T. i 264 Peep through their p. foliage at the storm T. iii 57 Of thought, the creature of a p. mind T. iii 640 No: we are p. now! The rural lass T. iv 534 See that your p, arms be primed with care T, iv 567 The p. counter, and approving none T. vi 281 [56] (Though graced with p. manners and fine sense T.vi And stroke his p. cheek of purest red Tir. 847 And bend her p. neck beneath his hand T.T. 441 Adorn the p. periods as they fall T.T. 766

POLITE.

Be never named in ears esteemed p. Con. 474 So manners decent and p. F. 178 Poured forth by Beauty splendid and p. T. ii 494 Their weariness; and they the most p. T. ii 640 as ornamental, musical, p. T. iv 489 2. Refinement offers him in vain T. vi 977 or hadst thou a p., card-playing wife Tir. 748 ., yet virtuous, who has brought away V. 79

POLITELY.

and Echo learns p. to repeat Con. 827 P. learned, and of a gentle race H. 682 and many a compliment p, penned T.T. 721

Which some may practise with p. grace T. iv 494 o give thee what p. France receives T. v 468 and being always primed with p. P.E. 387POLITIC.

he threads of p. and shrewd design T. iii 147 n p. convention) put your trust T. v 323

POLITICS.

heir heterogeneous p. F. 128 But the age of virtuous p, is past T, v 493

POLL

With golden wing and satin p. P.T. 27The honours of his ebon p, T.B. 13 e. gains at length the British shore Trans. iv 4 Ls P. can master it Trans. iv 9 weet P.! his doting mistress cries Trans. iv 13 weet P.! the mimic bird replies Trans. iv 14 oor P. is like to die! Trans. iv 30

POLLUTING.

P. Egypt: gardens, fields, and plains T. ii 828 POMONA.

'emale and male, P., Pales, Pan T. vi 233

P.E. 54 ower, P., and Splendour, and the Thirst of Praise

hy p. is in the grave, thy glory laid Ch. 71 he p. of sound, or tinkle without use Con. 892 fere shadows now, their ancient p. forgot Ex. 262 or truth self-evident, with p. impressed H. 109 o serve occasions of poetic p. T. i 152 ur palaces, our ladies, and our p. T. i 643 he Levee swarms, as if in golden p. T. iii 822 [448 n unsuspecting p. Twitched from the perch T. iv Vith all its majesty of thundering p. T. iv 686 y pyramids and mausolean p. T. v 183 bat fill the skies nightly with silent p. T. v 817 r bids the rocks in ruder p. arise Tir. 28

he lure of avarice, or the p. prize R. 177 p. and slow-moving pageant comes T. vi 697 roving at last, though told in p. strains Tir. 75

ucks paddle in the p., before the door R. 499

PONDER.

ome, p. well, for 'tis no jest Y.D. 1

PONDERED.

adverse Providence when p. well Ex. 310 hey spoke, and Tom p.—"I see they will go P.A. PONDEROUS.

,, and fixed by its own massy weight T. i 59 [636 needful. Strength may wield the p. spade T. iii p. boots beside his reeking team T. iv 342 PONIARD.

separed to p. whomsoe'er they meet Ch. 508 orse than a p. in the basest hand P.E. 305

PONY.

To cross his ambling p. day by day R. 467

Flies to the tempting p., or felon knife T. 416 The rivers die into offensive p. T. ii 96 Pure, from so foul a p., to shine abroad T. ii 798 From p. and ditches of the commonwealth T. iii 809

"And now," quoth p. unthinking Ralph A Fable 18 He found it inconvenient to be p. Ch. 189 To smite the p. is treason against God Ch. 217 [312 The p. thy clients, and Heaven's smile thy fee! Ch. Must cease for ever when the p. shall cease Ch. 452 Her superfluity the p. supplies Ch. 455 His Budget, often filled, yet always p. Ch. 614 Oppression, labouring hard to grind the p. Ex. 40 To tempt the p. to sell himself to thee? Ex. 875 "Look to the p.; the simple and the plain Ex.452The p., inured to drudgery and distress H. 7

The rich grow p, the p, become purse-proud H. 18 That p. Jonquil, with almost every breath H. 89

The p. reclaimed inhabitant, his eyes H. 532 The comfort of a few p., added days H. 729 "Dismiss p. Harry!" he replies M.F. 19

Till life's p. transient night is spent N.G. 32

If we do not buy the p, creatures, they will P.A. 11Besides the man's p, his orchard's his bread P.A.27P. man! what a pity to injure him so! P.A. 34

Have you no touch of pity that the p. P.E. 249 With all the simple and unlettered p. P.E. 506 P. Jack—no matter who—for when I blame R. 575

For what p, toys they can disclaim St, vi 15

The p, are near at hand, the charge is small T. 287

The p, should gain it, and the rich should not? T. 340 Sounds for the p., but sounds alike for all T. 350

Of ladyships, a stranger to the p. T. ii 386 Their last p. pittance—Fortune, most severe T. ii

The little wick of life's p. shallow lamp T. iii 164 But which the p., and the despised of all T. iii 287

Should some contagion, kind to the p. brutes T. iii 308 Drained to the last p, item of his wealth T, iii 784 Begs a propitious ear for his p, thoughts T, iv 68

Thy waggon is thy wife, and the p. beasts T. iv 367 P., yet industrious, modest, quiet, neat T. iv 374 I mean the man who, when the distant p. T. iv 427

Disgraced as thou hast been, p. as thou art T. v 475

Of Nature, and though p, perhaps compared T. v 739 Give what Thou canst, without thee we are p. T. v 905 Of the p. brute, seems wisely to suppose T. vi 437

Though p. in skill to rear them, lights at last T. vi 753 And e'en the joy that haply some p. heart T. vi 832 Leaving the p. no remedy but tears T. vi 845

A dream disturbed p. Bully's rest T.B. 44 He left p. Bully's beak T.B. 54

Alas, p. boy !—the natural effect Tir. 575 But p, in knowledge, having none to impart Tir.663

P. Poll is like to die! Trans. iv 30 Feels not the wants that pinch the p. Trans. H. 10 All kingship, and may I be p. and free! T.T. 150

'. England! thou art a devoted deer T.T. 362 While the p. grasshopper must chirp below T.T. 577

POOREST. Alas, not so! the p. of the flock Ex. 456

POPE.

Thy soldiery, the P.'s well-managed pack Ex. 518 Insist on, as if each were his own p. H. 213 And Murray sighs o'er P., and Swift M. i 5 [R. 572 When P, describes them, have a thousand sweets Girt with a bell-rope that the p, has blessed T, 82 For though the P. has lost his interest here T. 289 I praise a school as P. a government Tir. 506 Then P., as harmony itself exact T.T. 646 [764 Though Butler's wit, P.'s numbers, Prior's case T.T.

POPISH.

At P. practices observed within P.E. 384

POPLAR.

The p, are felled;—farewell to the shade P.F. 1And p. that with silver lines his leaf T. i 310

POPULAR.

To streams of p. opinion drawn P.E. 478 O P. Applause! what heart of man T. ii 481 Of p. disgust, yet boldly still T. iii 708 The p. harangue, the tart reply T. iv 31 But that they catch at p. applause T.T. 144

POPULARITY.

Thy p., and art become Y.O. 57

POPULATION.

Large p, on a liberal plan A.T. 157

POPULOUS.

And sheep-walks p, with bleating lambs T, vi 111

PORCELAIN. Except in p. on her mantle-tree Ch. 460

PORING.

And p, on thy page, whose every line R. 207 In the red cinders, while with p, eye T, iv 289 Not to be found by p. on a book Tir. 384 PORK.

Good Mussulman, abstain from p. L.W. 2

'Twere vain inquiry to what p. she went Ch. 445 Shoots into p. at some well-havened isle M.P. 90 Always from p. withheld, always distressed M.P. 101 But with his clumsy p. the wretch has lost T. iv 650 And read with such discernment, in the p. T. vi 617

Inscribed above the p., from afar T. 28 PORTENDS.

A pimple that p. a future sprout T. iii 528 PORTENDING.

A presage ominous, p. still T. v 625

PORTENTOUS.

P., unexampled, unexplained T. ii 58 PORTION.

The p, of a mean or vulgar mind R, 502 Your p. is with them; nay, never frown T. 169 With hopeful gems. The rest, no p. left T. iii 421 Chains are the p. of revolted man T. v 581 His p. in the good that Heaven bestows T.T. 20

PORTRAIT.

Such was the p, an apostle drew Ch, 432

PORTRAYED.

Pleased she beheld aloft p. Q.V. 45

PORTUGAL. Of P. and Western India there T. iii 572

POSITION.

Flow to its first p., with a spring T.T. 623

POSITIVE.

The p. pronounce without dismay Con. 146

POSSESS.

May it still be her lot to p. C. 43 That, while they please, p. us with alarms Ch. 546 Invades, p., and o'erwhelms the soul H. 730

He may p. the joys he thinks he sees R. 11

Believe, rush forward, and p. the prize T. 374 P. herself of all that's good or true T. 489 P. for me their undisputed lot T. 527

Here, I have said, at least I should p. T. i 234 P. ye, therefore, ye who, borne about T. i 754

But such as Art contrives, p. ye still T. i 757

What could I wish, that I p. not here? T. in 690 Of freedom, in that hope itself p. T. v 375

"And to p, a brighter Heaven than yours? T, v 831 P. the heart, and fables false as hell T. \vee 862 POSSESSED.

An isle p. by creatures of our kind Ch. 381 Lives the dear thought of joys he once p. Com. 703 While all the happy man p. before Con. 895

Peculiar is the grace by thee p. Ez. 580 By joys p., and joys still held in chase Ez. 669 As Envy pines at good p. F. 79 Of numerous charms p. J.P. 2

What favour then not yet p. N.Y.G. 9Till half mankind were like himself p. P.E. 471 While Peace p. these silent bowers \hat{S} . 14

So spake Aspasio, firm p. St. iii 13 By some kind, hospitable heart p. T. 251 Upon the ship's tall side he stands, p. T. i 450 P. an inland scene. Where now the throng T. iilli But if he grant a friend, that boon p. V. 91

Then peace and joy again p. 1789, 46

In peace p. what they won by war Ex. 193 Determined, and p. it at last T. iv 720 If all we find p. earth, sea, air Tir. 91

P. nought but the scooped rind that seems Y.O. 111

Which amounts to p. time out of mind" A.C. 12

The rich p. of a nobler prize Ch. 360 Will boast it their p.? F. 3 Shortlived p.! but the record fair M.P. 54

Surveyed the scene, and took p. R.C. 44

POSSESSOR.

Beneath your shades your grey p. hide R. 368 A new p., and survives the change T. ii 110 That soothe the rich p.; much consoled T. iv 755 And that, p. of a soul refined Tir. 721

Wouldst thou, p. of a flock, employ Tir. 905 To make the pitiful p. shine T.T. 755

POST.

A fancied head against a fancied p. A.T. 45The p. that at his bidding speeds away Ez. 355 [374

And every p., and where the chaise broke down P.LThe point of interest or the p. of power R. 142 P. away swiftly to more active scenes R. 273 He chides the tardiness of every p. R. 475

For want of powers proportionate to the p. R. 612 Advancing Fashion to the p. of Truth T. i 744 To occupy a sacred, awful p. Tir. 414

His p. not mean, his talents not unknown Tir. 723 To fit thee for a nobler p, than thine V. 32

POSTBOY.

Went p. at his heels J.G. 230 The p's horse right glad to miss J.G. 231 With p. scampering in the rear J.G. 235

POSTED.

And p, on this speculative height T, i 289 To those who, p. at the shrine of Truth T. v 713

POSTERITY.

hy p. shall sway B. 30 ow make our own. P. will ask T. ii 577 If e'er p. see verse of mine) T. ii 578

POST-HORNS.

he p. of all Europe, lays her waste T.T. 32

POSTING.

fer husband p. down J.G. 214

POSTPONED.

is praise p., and never to be paid T. 86

POSTURE.

ow, in a p, that becomes you more Con, 489

POSY.

e called her P., with an amorous art A.T. 21

odels of Herculanean p. and pans P.E. 398 an old empty watering p. R.C. 16nd glossy, he commits to p. of size T. iii 512

POTENT.

Fith magic wand. So p, is the spell T, ii 630 nd p. to resist the freezing blast T. iii 465

POUNCE.

tooped from its highest pitch to p. a wren T.T.553

'Tis for a thousand p.!'' J.G. 116 nd his old stint—three thousand p. a year R. 602

POUR. [Con. 908

t sounds Jehovah's name, and p. his praise along and p, a torrent of sweet notes around Ch, 111 han those a brighter season p. around Con. 648

o p. his golden tide through all her gates Ex. 14 o p. down wrath upon a thankless land Ex. 253

(e p. contempt on them, and on their cause Ex. 329 cont a flood of splendour upon thine Ex. 589

ler sons to p. it on the farthest north H. 460 Igain p. ruin on the vale below Her. 38

Where no volcano p, his fiery flood Her, 85 hen p. it on the morals of thy son P.E. 345

 $^{\prime}$. out its fleecy tenants o'er the glebe T. i 291 . she not all her choicest fruits abroad T. ii 85 parent p. into regardless ears Tir. 590 o p. in Virtue's lap her just reward T.T. 65

Vinter invades the spring, and often p. T.T. 210

engeance at last p. down upon their coast T. T. 47 the p. a sensibility divine T. T. 486

POURED.

'. out from Plenty's overflowing horn Ex. 10 'he favours p. upon the Jewish name Ex. 170 lad p. the day, and cleared the Roman skies Ex. 228 heir streaming hearts p, freely when they died Ex.625len thousand rivers p, at his command R. 75 '. forth by Beauty splendid and polite T. ii 494 lave p. my stream of panegyric down T. vi 720 air science p. the light of truth Th. 8 With truths p. down from every distant age Tir. 14

POVERTY.

To soil like p. for growth divine T. 363 and craving P., and in the bow T. ii 490 that lean hard-handed P. inflicts T. iii 827 at p., with most who whimper forth T. iv 429 MP., that thus he may procure T. v 318 s cause of half the p. we feel T. vi 52

POWDERED.

No p. pert proficient in the art T. iv 145 Then shakes his p, coat, and barks for joy T. v 51

Hypothesis (for with such magic p. A.T. 91 "The marriage bond has lost its p, to bind A.T, 101 And so long he, with unspent p. Cast. 39 The sword shall light upon thy boasted p. Ch. 79 He from whose hands alone all p. proceeds Ch. 208 Enjoy immunity from priestly p. Ch. 278 [224 Else who would lose, that had the p. to improve Ch. He too has a connecting p., and draws Ch. 327 And what dilates the p, must needs refine Ch. 332 Unless the p. that bade him stand, restore Ch. 348 Where stands that monument of ancient p. Ch. 549 He bruised beneath his feet the infernal p. Ch. 584 Relenting forms would lose their p. or cease Ch. 608 Infectious as impure, your blighting p. Con. 41 [431 The reasoning p. vouchsafed of course inferred Con. Ye p. who rule the tongue, if such there are Con. 81

The p. to clothe that reason with his word Con. 432 And speech may praise the p, that bids it flow Con.444Ought at the view of an Almighty p. Con. 658 [501

Touched by that p. that you have dared to mock Con. That love of Christ in all its quickening p. Con. 562 That comes to waft us out of sorrow's p. Con. 592

Not as if raised by mere mechanic p. Con. 706 Mysterious are his ways whose p. E. i 29

Or guess, with a prophetic p. E. i 71 And placed it in our p, to prove E, i 108 By p divine, and skill that could not err Ex. 206

With p.surpassing theirs, performed her part Ex. 230 Countries indebted to thy p., that shine Ex. 280 Blind to the working of that secret P. Ex. 320 [402]

What mean they? Canst thou dream there is a p. Ex. A despot big with p, obtained by wealth Ex. 370

Legates and delegates, with p. from hell Ex. 514 Found thee a goodly sponge for P. to press Ex. 531

O slave! with p. thou didst not dare exert Ex. 546

And He, whose p. mere nullity obeys Ex. 642 [568] His p, secured thee, when presumptuous Spain Ex.

Stood trembling at the boldness of thy p. Ex. 597 But if He leave thee, though the skill and p. Ex. 702

His names of wisdom, goodness, p., and love H. 135

When captivating lusts have lost their p. H. 216 His sovereign p, and pleasure unrestrained H. 320 P, of the mind, and feelings of the heart H. 654

The silent progress of thy p. is such H. 665

His grief the world of all her p. disarms H. 704

Say man's a worm, and p. belongs to God H. 711 But oh! what Muse, and in what p. of song Her. 19 Where P. secures what Industry has won Her. 87

Its use and p, exemplified in thee J.T.50

The sceptre of her p. L.R. 16 In justice to the various p. Miss -

His p. of best exertion there Mor. 32 Thyself removed, thy p to soothe me left M.P. 121

Tarnish all your boasted p. N.C. 54
For 'twas the self-same P. Divine N.G. 19

P.E. 54 Nor riches I, nor p. pursue O. ii 4

P., Pomp, and Splendour, and the Thirst of Praise Unnerves the moral p., and mars their use P.E.272

The heart, surrendered to the ruling p. P.E. 275

Oh that a verse had p., and could command P.E. 823But teems with p. he never felt before P.E. 404

Free from the domineering p. of Lust P.E. 458

How shall I speak thee, or thy p. address P.E. 460

And own his crab-computing p. o'ercome P.E. 487 Die then, if p. Almighty save you not P.E. 589

There, and there only, is the p. to save P.E. 616 Remind him of his Maker's p, and love R. 30

And draining its nutritious p, to feed R, 43

The signature and stamp of p, divine R, 54 Thy p. divine, and bounty beyond thought R. 91 Conscious of weakness in its noblest p. R. 124 The point of interest or the post of p. R. 142Next to that p, who formed thee and sustains R. 201 And feed the fire that wastes thy p. away R. 264 Lost, till he tune them, all their p. and use R. 330 On whom he rests well pleased his weary p. R. 451The spot he loved has lost the p, to please R. 466 As wisely, and as much improves his p. R. 508Much of the p, and majesty of God R. 526 Influence, and p., were all at his command R. 596 For want of p, proportioned to the post R. 612 To mark the matchless workings of the P.-R. 791 Has lost its beauties and its p. S. 16 Thy generous p., but silence honoured thee S. i 7 And still has p. to charm St. v 16 Whence has the world her magic p.? St. v 17 By native p. and energy her own T. 396 The self-restoring arm of human p. T. 402In vain he points his p. against the skies T. 469 Some love of virtue, and some p. to praise T. 486 Still soothing, and of p. to charm me still T. i 143 The p of fancy and strong thought are theirs T i 402 May rival these; these all bespeak a p. T. i 431 From which no p, of thine can raise her up T, i 660 The p. of sculpture, but the style as much T. i 706 Not coloured like his own, and having p. T. ii 18 Of all your empire; that where Britain's p. T. ii 46 Denies the p. that wields it. God proclaims T. ii 178 Of its legitimate, peculiar p.) T. ii 333 [487 And therefore heedless, can withstand thy p. ? T. ii That bids defiance to the united p. T. ii 769 Played by the creatures of a P. who swears T. iii 177 Such p. I boast not—neither can I rest T. iii 217 Distempered, or has lost prolific p. T. iii 415 The ambition of one meaner far, whose p. T. iii 458 Than Sodom in her day had p. to be T. iii 847 [282 Laugh ye, who boast your more mercurial p. T. iv The recollected p., and snapping short T. iv 305 Increase of p. begets increase of wealth T. iv 580 Ere yet her ear was mistress of their p. T. iv 703 With forms so various, that no p. of art T. v 108 And in defiance of her rival p. T. v 123 May exercise amiss his proper p. T. v 339 Not often unsuccessful: p. usurped T. v 371 Which monarchs cannot grant, nor all the p. T. v 540Oppression, prisons, have no p. to bind T. v 543 And sordid gravitation of his p. T. v 588Spare not in such a cause. Spend all the p. T. v 676 More worthily the p. she owned before T. v 807 They are thy witnesses, who speak thy p. T. v 853 Thy Providence forbids that fickle p. T. v 871 (If p, she be that works but to confound) T. v 872 By the impure, and hears his p. denied T. v 895 What prodigies can p. divine perform T vi 118 Vast was his empire, absolute his p. T. vi 357 O'er all we feed on p. of life and death T. vi 453 The impious challenger of p. divine T. vi 546 (O wonderful effect of music's p. !) T. vi 636 [vi 925 Whose p. is such, that whom she lifts from earth T. Vast in its p., ethereal in its kind Tir. 6 And owns her p, on every shore he laves P Tir. 40 P. misemploy'd, munificence misplaced Tir. 50 Sit for the p. in which he stands array'd Tir. 98 A p., confessed so lately on his knees Tir. 180[188 Resumes her p., and spurns the clumsy fraud $\bar{T}ir$. Lest p. exerted, but without success Tir. 277 Such microscopic proof of skill and p. Tir. 637 'Tis p. almighty bids him shine Trans. i 23 Of adverse fortune's p. Trans. H. 3 The tallest pines feel most the p. Trans. H. 13 Or tell me, if you can, what p. maintains T.T. 200

Seldom, alas! the p. of logic reigns T.T. 51 $\lceil T.T.$ 42 And Death's own scythe would better speak his $_{r}$. Not formed like us, with such Herculean p. T.T. 235 His fostering p., and tutelary care T.T. 257 Lost without thee the ennobling p. of verse T.T. 291 Too apt to play the wanton with her p. T.T. 301 To manage with address, to seize with p. T.T. 358 The p. that Sin has brought to a decline T.T. 383 Unless sweet Penitence her p. renew T.T. 398 [49] The strings are swept with such a p., so loud T.I. Make their heroic p. your own at once T.T. 570 [497 And armed with strength surpassing human p. T.I. The proud Protector of the p. he gained T.T. 611 Churchill, himself unconscious of his p. T.T. 672 Nature exerting an unwearied p. T.T. 690 [T.T. 610 When Cromwell fought for p., and while he reigned Fancy has sported all her p. away T.T. 730How are the p. of genius misapplied! T.T. 749

POWERFUL.

Prosper (I press thee with a p. plea) Ch. 5 The spur is p., and I grant its force Tir. 482

PRACTICE.

Reduced to p., his beloved rule Con. 139 The p. dastardly, and mean, and low Con. 178 At Popish p. observed within P.E. 384 The p. was a bond upon his heart Tir. 177 Nor gambling p. can find it out Tir. 246

PRACTISE.

Which some may p. with politer grace T. iv 494

PRACTISED.

The same we p. at first sight F. 179 And start theatric, p. at the glass! T. ii 431

PRAISE. Who seeks to p. thee, and to make thee known Ch. 9

God's gift with pleasure in his p. employ Ch. 252 Mysoul should yield thee willing thanks and p. Ch.264 But that were sacrilege;—p. is not thine Ch. 266 But though we p. the exact designer's skill Ch. 555 Names almost worthy of a Christian's p. Con. 36[444 And speech may p, the power that bids it flow C_{vs} . O days of heaven, and nights of equal p.! Con. 357 And prize them above pleasure, wealth, or p. Con. 632 The p. of names for ages obsolete Con. 828 [Con. 906 No envy mingles with our p. Dr. 13 It sounds Jehovah's name, and pours his p. along Is to congratulate, not to p. E. ii 2 P. is the medium of a knavish trade E. ii 6 Snuffs up the p. of what he seems to plan Er. 317 Of his just p., to lavish it on them? Ez. 349 [643 Who found thee nothing, formed thee for his p. Lz. To p, him is to serve him, and fulfil Ex. 644 A tax upon their own just p. F. 89 Rocks, groves, and streams, must join him in his r Then p. is heard instead of reasoning pride H. 14 That make superior skill his second p. H. 206And echoing p., such as fiends might earn Her. 61 P. his proficiency, and dub him man P.E. 368 [5 Power, Pomp, and Splendour, and the thirst of p.F.E. The p. of wisdom, comeliness, and worth P.E.295And p, his genius, he is soon repaid P.E, 532 In p, applied to the same part—his head P.E. 533 Whose highest p, is that they live in vain R. 23 That builds its glory on its Maker's p. R. 210 A laugh at his expense, is slender p. R. 318When boyish innocence was all my p.!) R. 372 Till Gratitude grew vocal in the p. R. 555 I p. the Frenchman, his remark was shrewd R. 78 The sense of mercy kindles into p. R. 778 A monitor's, though not a poet's p. R. 806

His p. postponed, and never to be paid T. 86 A soul redeemed demands a life of p. T. 279 Receives no p., but, though her lot be such T. 325 The p. of the libertine professed T. 433 Some love of virtue, and some power to p. T. 486 Thou knowest my p. of Nature most sincere T. i 150 P. justly due to those that I describe T. i 180 She has her p. Now mark a spot or two T. i 725 Time was, when it was p, and boast enough T, ii 233 That we were born her children. P. enough T. ii 235 Go then, well worthy of the p. ye seek T. ii 278 P. from the rivelled lips of toothless, bald T. ii 488 Be loudest in their p. who do no more T. ii 814[712 That blushed at its own p.; and press the youth T. ii His name a theme for p. and for reproach? T. iii 282 Gives him his p_{\cdot} , and forfeits not her own T_{\cdot} iii 247 Pant for the p. of dressing to the taste T. iii 460 What we admire we p., and when we p. T. iii 702 Sweet bashfulness! it claims at least this p. T. iv 70 Start at his awful name, or deem his p. \bar{T} . iv 180 I p. you much, ye meek and patient pair T. iv 407 To Nature's p. Heroes and their feats T. iv 705 Pathetic in its p., in its pursuit T. iv 719 And be our admiration and our p." T. v 259 His thorns with streamers of continual p. ? T. v 330 Causeless, and daubed with undiscerning p. T. v 360Doomed it, as insufficient for his $p. T. \forall 565$ But gives the glorious sufferers little p. T. v 732 Whose heart with p., and whose exalted mind T. \vee 751 Of rant and rhapsody in virtue's p. T. v 677 [v 792 With what he views. The landscape has his p. T. Much more who fashioned it, he gives it p. T. v 801P. that from earth resulting, as it ought T. v 802A teaching voice; but 'tis the p, of thine T, v 858 And adds his rapture to the general p. T. v 890 The inglorious feat, and, clamorous in p. T. vi 436 Man p. man. Desert in arts or arms T. vi 632 And give the day to a musician's p. T. vi 644 Yes—we remember him; and while we p. T. vi 648 Sung to the p. and glory of King George! T. vi 663 Man p. man; and Garrick's memory next T. vi 664 Man p. man. The rabble, all alive T. vi 694 Thus idly do we waste the breath of p. T. vi 711 To give it p. proportioned to its worth T. vi 756 P. is in all her gates: upon her walls T. vi 808 Must drop indeed the hope of public p. T. vi 978 But all is in His hand, whose p. I seek T. vi 1017 The p, bestowed was just and wise Th. 18 P. him on earth, or, obstinately dumb Tir. 101 Shall win his heart, and have his drunken p. Tir. 215 Be it a weakness, it deserves some p. Tir. 296 And small academies win all the p. ? Tir. 504 I p. a school as Pope a government Tir. 506 Claims more than half the p. as his due share Tir. 528 Thus thy p. shall be expressed Trans. iii 9 Covetous only of a virtuous p. T.T. 75 His quitrent ode, his peppercorn of p. T.T. 110 [157 To win no p, when well-wrought plans prevail T.T. Subserviency his p., and that alone T.T. 361 Prove this, and forfeit all pretence to p. T.T. 569 By low ambition and the thirst of p. T.T. 591 The gift whose office is the Giver's p. T.T. 750 Tis grace, 'tis bounty, and it calls for p. V. 87 Content of heart, more p. still are due V. 90 In p. harmonious the first air he drew Y.O. 155

PRAISED.

And p, the wrath that laid her beauties waste Ex. Adored and p, in all that thou hast wrought R, 92 Thy fame diffuse, p. not for utterance meet S. i 13 And smothered in't at last, is p, to death T. 316 He, p. perhaps for ages yet to come T. 333 Immortal Hale! for deep discernment p. T. iii 258

To him that leads it, wise, and to be p. T. iii 380 The cheek-distending oath, not to be p. T. iv 488 They now are deemed the faithful, and are p. T. vi 881 And p for virtues that they scorn to wear T.T.116And p. him in the victories He wrought T.T. 375

PRAISING.

P. the Author of all good in man J.T.2

PRANKS.

Г154

Preaching and p. will share the motley scene P.E. Heedless of all his p., the sturdy churl T. v 52Watch, seals, and all,—till all his p. are told Tir. 331 Playing, at beat of drum, their martial p. T.T. 136

PRATE.

They drop through mere desire to p. F. 71 Trivial as a parrot's p. ? St. iv 24 When birds are to be taught to p. Trans. iv 41 And p, and preach about what others prove T, T, 172

PRATTLER.

Condemn the p_{\cdot} , for his idle pains R_{\cdot} 547

PRATTLING.

Ambling and p, scandal as he goes T, ii 382

PRAY.

[A.C. 20 P. who would, or who could, wear spectacles then PReviled by those that hate her, p. for them Ch. 425 Forgot to curse, and only kneel to p. Con. 814 And seem to p., for good example's sake H. 249
Is sober, meek, benevolent, and p. H. 520 [P.A. 26
What! rob our good neighbour! I p. you don't go P. tell me why we may not also go snacks? P.A. 16 So p. your Clerk with all his heart St. i 33 And one who wears a coronet and p. T. 378The few that p, at all p, oft amiss T, vi 54 With decent duty, not ashamed to p. Tir. 176

PRAYED.

When he has p, and preached the sabbath down $\tilde{P}.E$.

PRAYER.

Small need of P. Book, or of priest, I ween A.T. 88 But ah! what wish can prosper, or what p. Ch. 137 No wealth can bribe, no p. persuade to stay Comp.i 4 And begged an interest in his frequent p. Con. 74 Mine be the friend less frequent in his p. Con. 579 Hypocrisy, formality in p. Ex. 43 Their p. made public, their excesses kept Ex. 143 They breathed in faith their well directed p. Ex. 239Resort on Sundays to the house of p. H. 242 Fasting and p. sit well upon a priest H. 403 To form the better p. Miss — 20 Let no low thought suggest the p. Miss — 65 None else, except in p. for him Q.V. 55 Saints offer nothing, in their warmest p. R. 221 And p. more seasonable than the noise St. ii 11 His p. preferred to saints that cannot aid T. 85 Duly at clink of bell to morning p. T. 140 [T. 344 P. would add faith, and faith would fix them there Take, Madam, the reward of all your p. T. 167Regret would rouse them, and give birth to p. T.313My p, and alms, imperfect and defiled T. 577 The emphasis in score, and gives to p. T. ii 360 [250 Friends in the friends of science, and true p. T. iii And plenteous harvest, to the p, he makes T, vi 947 Presents the p. the Saviour deigned to teach Tir. 123 P. to the winds, and caution to the waves Tir. 183 As must create an appetite for p.? Tir. 374 Accessible, and p. prevail, she will T.T. 407 P. only, and the penitential tear T.T. 412 The happiness of answered p. 1789, 64

PRAYING.

A p., synagogue-frequenting beau T. 57

PREACH.

Γii 53

To p. the general doom. When were the winds T. Then Truth is hushed, that Heresy may p. Ex. 107 Some, decent in demeanour while they p. T. ii 440 P. it who might. Such was their love of truth T. ii 543 Thy name adoing, and then p. thee man! T. vi 887

Whichchildrenuse, and parsons—when the yp. Tir. 124 And prate and p. about what others prove T.T. 172 Mean you to prophesy or but to p.? T.T. 479 [vi 889 The world takes little thought. Who will may p. T.

PREACHED.

When he has prayed and p. the sabbath down P.E. Has Epictetus, Plato, Tully, p.! T. ii 540

PREACHER.

God gives the word, the p. throng around H. 453 "Renounce the world"—the p. cries L.W. 25 I am no p.; let this hint suffice P.E. 621 Would I describe a p., such as Paul T. ii 395

PREACHING.

P. and pranks will share the motley scene P.E. 154

PRECARIOUS.

Their love is so p. F. 114
O bliss p., and unsafe retreats! Her. 38

The chase for sustenance, p. trust! T. i 611
PRECAUTION.

And wise p., which a clime so rude T. iii 431 PRECEDENCE.

Became stone blind; p. went in truck T. ii 741 Asserts p., and bespeaks control Tir. 9 PRECEDENTS.

To follow foolish p., and wink Tir. 255

PRECEPT.

Her p, for your sake B.R.But gladly, as the p, were her own M.P.The p, that enjoins him abstinence P.E.To make his p, our delight St. vi 7

PRECEPTOR.

And under such p., who can fail? T. ii 284 Appointed sage p. to the Will Tir. 32

PRECEPTRESS.

Parks in which Art p. Nature weds R. 335 Experience, slow p., teaching oft T. iii 505 PRECIOUS.

More p, than silver and gold A.S. 27 All truth is p, if not all divine Ch. 331 A smaller piece amidst the p, store Ch. 476 Brings many a p, pearl of truth to light H. 444 Six p, souls and all agog J.G. 39 The p, stream still purling in his ear P.E. 232 We slight the p, kernel of the stone P.E. 419 Like something p, ventured far from shore P.E. 520 Time then would seem more p, than the joys St. ii 9 Were p, and inculcated with care T. ii 701 Intrinsically p; to the foot T. v 175 Part of the captain's p, store Trans, iv 5

PRECIPICE.

He spoke, and to the p. at hand T. vi 512

PRECIPITATE.

His sun p. descend Mor. 54 P. the loathed abode of man T. vi 376

PRECISE.

Exact yet not p., though meek keen-eyed Con. 610 P. it for its ruin; hardens, blinds T. ii 690

PRECISION.

By this, with nice p. of design H. 606 But, with p. nicer still, the mind N.A. 63 All creatures, with p. understood Y.O. 151

PRECONCEIVED.

Shall break into its p. display T. iii 652

PREDECESSOR.

His p.'s coat advanced to wear T. 145 In staggering types, his p.'s tale T. v 419

PREDOMINANCE.

His zeal for her p. within T. v 394

PREDOMINATES.

Even where Death p. The spring Y.O. 132

PRE-EMINENCE.

Some small p.; we justly boast T. ii 275

PREFER.

She will have just the life she p. C. 53
P. his fellow grooms, with much good sense Con. 417
And you, though you must needs p. E. i 45
And piously p. the tail L.W. 20
Nor these alone p. a life recluse R. 169
He, lost in errors his vain heart p. T. 335

P. the twilight of a darker time T. 541
P. to the performance of a God T. i 418
Self-banished from society, p. T. i 578

Self-banished from society, p. T. i 578
Irrational in what they thus p. Tir. 795
PREFERENCE.

Where then the p. shall we place E. iv 71

PREFERMENT.
Which they that woo p. rarely pass H. 420
Ambitious of p. for its gold T. ii 387

PREFERRED.

Go, quit the rank to which ye stood p. Con. 75 A prison to a friend p. F.B. 35 His prayer p. to saints that cannot aid T. 85 To be p. to smoke, to the eclipse T. iii 736 Belinda's maids are soon p. Trans. iv 7

PREGNANT.

P. with celestial fire B. 34 And p. with discoveries new and rare T. iii 138 P., or indisposed alike to all T. iv 281

PREJUDICE.

The curtain drawn by P. and Pride H. 571 And p. have left a passage clear) T. 114 With hurtful error, p., and dreams T. ii 504 While p. in men of stronger minds T. ii 567 Custom and p. shall bear no sway T. vi 838

PRELIBATION.

Large p. oft to saints below T. v 574

PRELIMINARIES.

Thus, the p. settled E. iv 31

PREMATURELY.

Her chickens p. counted A Fable 4

PREMISED.

This truth p. was needful as a text N.A. 71

PREPARE.

Exclaims "P. thee for an early shroud" Ep. i 10 "P. it for the sky" Miss — 92
For whom, alas! dost thou p. O. ii 10 P. for meals as jockeys take a sweat P.E. 221
Friends such as his for modern Jobs p. R. 306

Which neatly she p.; then to his book T. iii 392 P. for happiness; bespeak him one T. vi 912 Not only Vice disposes and p. T.T. 438

PREPARED.

P. to poniard whomsoe'er they meet Ch. 508
P. to fight for shadows of no worth Ex. 116
That there is bliss p. in yonder sky J.T. 13
And sends thee to thy cabin, well p. T. i 670
And well p., by ignorance and sloth T. ii 388
P. by taste, by learning, and true worth Tir. 678
Unless the world were all p. to embrace Tir. 917
P. for martyrdom, and strong to prove V. 61
With pointed hoof dibbling the glebe p. Y.O. 26

PREPONDERATING.

Are such a dead, p. weight T. 354

PREPOSTEROUS.

P. sight! the legs without the man T. v 20

PREROGATIVE.

'Tis God's just claim, p. divine R. 278 (Of king whom such p. can please) T. v 443 Thus proud P., not much revered T.T. 230

PRESAGE.

Some handsome present, as your hopes p. Con. 306 With doleful rumour and sad p, hung Ex. 357 Could I, from Heaven inspired, as sure p. St. ii 1 The surest p. of the good they seek T. v 378 A p. ominous, portending still T. v 625 And screaming at the sad p. T. B. 47

PRESAGED.

She now p. approaching doom R.C. 74

PRESCRIBE.

Some farrier should p. his proper course Con. 411 P. the theme, the tone, and the grimace Con. 464 The largess He bestows, p. the terms H. 325 Prevent the danger, or p. the cure P.E. 18 Let him your rubric and your feasts p. P.E. 185

PRESCRIBED.

P. their course, to regulate it now T. vi 204

PRESENCE.

The sex whose p. civilizes ours Con. 254
Before his p., at whose awful throne Con. 659
As bold as, in Agrippa's p., Paul Ex. 445
To place you where his saints his p. share H. 339
And pretty face, in p. of his God? T. ii 422
Resign the scenes their p. might protect T. iv 592
And feel a parent's p. no restraint T. vi 49
His p., who made all so fair, perceived T. vi 253
A ubiquarian p. and control Tir. 266
Awe-struck, before thy p. bend 1789, 67

PRESENT.

Some handsome p., as your hopes presage Con. 306 Nose, ears, and eyes seem p. on the spot Con. 318 Though future pain may serve for p. mirth Con. 494 The freakish humour of the p. time Con. 866 Employs our p. thoughts and pains E. i 51 P. it decked with every hue Mor. 30 With p. ills his heart must ache N. 11 Or p., or in prospect, meet his sight P.E. 48 An ontline of the p. transient state R. 670 No p. health can health insure St. i 25 While danger passed is turned to p. joy T. 256 By every pleasing image they p. T. iii 303 Yet, feeling p. evils, while the past T. vi 23 Prompts with remembrance of a p. God T. vi 2.2 Patiently p. at a sacred song T. vi 634

The occasion it p, of doing good T, vi 847 And soom thy p, lot The Doves 32 The p. Muse of every pensive mind Tir. 22 P, the prayer the Saviour deigned to teach Tir. 123 A p, to his toast Trans. iv 6 Speak to the p, times and times to come T. T. 433 The shipwright's darling treasure, did'st p. Y. Q. 97

PRESENTED.

P. bare against the storm, plods on T. iv 353

PRESERVE.

But his who gave thee, and p. thee mine Ch. 267 P. me from the thing I dread and hate Con. 83 T o watch the fountain, and p. it clear Ex. 98 T His new-born virtues, and p. him pure T. 170 T. the church! and lay not careless hands T. ii 393 T or too incautious, to T. thy sweets T. iii 45 T And taught the unblemished to T0. With care T1. iii T1 That salt T2. thee; more corrupted else T3. iii 345 T3. Still sacred, and T3. with pious care T5. T4. T5.

PRESERVED.

P. by virtue from declension M.F. 51 Nor ancient, will be so p, with care P.E. 400 Unlooked for, life p,, and peace restored T. iv 187 P. from guilt by salutary fears Tir. 111 And Liberty, p. from wild excess T.T. 316

PRESIDE.

That to suppose a scene where she p. T. iv 532 O'er all his pleasures gently to p. Tir. 609

PRESS.

Prosper (I p. thee with a powerful plea) Ch. 5
Did Charity prevail, the p. would prove Ch. 623
To p. your point with modesty and ease Con. 104
Found thee a goodly sponge for Power to p. Ex. 531
May p. the eye too closely to be borne H. 551
Yet gently pressed, p. gently mine M. 35
Hourly allurements on his passions p. P.E. 61
Thou god of our idolatory, the P.P. F.E. 461 [ii 6
On which the p. might stamp him next to die St.
Come bither, ye that p. your beds of down T. i 362
And p. thy wedded side The Doves 26 [T. ii 712
That blushed at its own praise; and p. the youth
To p. the important question on his heart Tir. 57
The abuses of her sacred charge, the p. T.T. 633
To p. with energy your ardent thought V. 10

PRESSED.

Her new-laid eggs she fondly p. A Fable 2 And panting p, the floor B.R. 16 Where once intoxication p, the ground Con, 808 The more 'twere p, the firmer it would stand Ex. 287 Yet gently p., press gently mine M. 35 And still to love, though p. with ill M. 41 [N A. 37] Sheep grazed the field; some with soft bosom p. Were witnesses how cordially 1 p. R. 379 He p. him much to quit his base employ R. 594 That p. it, and the feet hung dangling down T. i 47 Receding wide, they p. against the ribs T. i 65 Though p, with hunger oft, or comelier clothes T. i 554 That p, the beach, and hasty to depart T, ii 118 Through the p. nostril, spectacle-bestrid T. ii 439 Not harshly thundered forth, or rudely p. T. vi 503Or e'er his hoof had p, the crumbling verge T.vi 519 P. on his part by means that would disgrace Tir. 406 And mark them with a seal of wrath p. down T.T.457

PRESSURE.

And, warmed by the p., is all in a glow F.M. 8 But now and then with p. of his thumb T. v 54 And under p. of some conscious cause? T. vi 220

PRESUME.

He humbly hopes—p.—it may be so Con. 124 P. itself chief favourite of the skies Con. 674 That I p, to address the Muse E, iv 12

Not so the pheasant on his charms p. T. 66 P. to lay their hand upon the ark T. ii 231 Whose only care, might truth p. to speak Tir. 198

PRESUMED.

Of holy writ, she has p, to annul T, i 741

I thought the volume I p. to send V. 39

PRESUMING.

P. an attempt not less sublime T. iii 459

PRESUMPTION. Her hope p., and her faith a lie Con. 774

To punish lust, or pluck p. down Ex. 250 And perish there, as all p. must " H. 228

PRESUMPTUOUS.

His power secured thee, when p. Spain Ex. 568 Or disregards, or more p. still T. ii 177

PRESUMPTUOUSLY. Nor could be dare p, displease Tir. 179

PRETENCE.

Here see, acquitted of all vain p. Ch. 412 To Peace and Charity, is mere p. Ch. 534

Pronounce your human form a false p. Con. 78

Their skill a truth, his master's a p. Con. 418. And wiser men's ability, p. Con. 628

And hast thou sworn on every slight p. Ex. 386 All fasting else, whate'er be the p. Ex. 412 His aim was mischief and his zeal p. H. 564

Glory your aim, but Justice your p. Her. 44 Ye pimps, who, under virtue's fair p. P.E. 315 Some plain mechanic, who, without p. R. 443

But such as Learning without false p. R. 695 A hypocrite's p.! St. vi 24 High in demand, though lowly in p. T. 93

Wage war, with any or with no p. T. v 314 And we are deep in that of cold p. T. \forall 494

Prove this, and forfeit all p. to praise T.T. 569 Vouchsafes to man a poet's just p. T.T. 699

No knave but boldly will p. F. 13 P. a zeal for godliness and grace H. 661 Weak to perform, though mighty to p. P.E. 15

PRETEND.

To doubt the love his favourites may p. T.T. 159 P. to all that parts have e'er acquired V. 15 To fame as lasting as the earth p. V. 17

P RETENDERS.

The boast of mere p, to the name T, i 492 PRETENSIONS.

Without it, his p. were as vain Con. 761 Though heavenly in p., fleeced thee well Ex. 515But higher far my proud p. rise M.P. 110 A principle, whose proud p. pass Tir. 462

PRETTIEST.

My spaniel, p. of his race D.W. 5 PRETTILY.

Nature indeed looks p. in rhyme R. 567

PRETTINESS. With all the p. of feign'd alarm T. vi 319

PRETTY.

And p. face, in presence of his God? T. ii 422

Boys are, at best, but p. buds unblown Tir. 446

PREVAIL.

And wins mankind, as his attempts p. Ch. 335 So, when the cold damp shades of night p. Ch. 527

Did Charity p., the press would prove Ch. 623 And e'en when sober truth p. throughout Con. 65

Till the best tongue, or heaviest hand, p. H. 196 And save or damn as these or those p. H. 368

But oars alone can ne'er p. H.F. 21 Did Famine or did Plague p. St. i 7 And barbarous climes, where violence p. T. i 604

Sweet fiction and sweet truth alike p. Tir. 136 The shadows fly, philosophy p. Tir. 182 Deems his reward too great if he p. Tir. 479

Disputes have been, and still p. Trans. i 5 And will p. or perish in her cause T.T. 18 To win no plans when well-wrought plans p. T.T.

Bids equity throughout his works p. T.T. 250 Accessible, and prayer p., she will T.T. 407

PREVAILED. But so the furious blast p. Cast. 21

By some whose patriot virtue has p. T. v 295 PREVAILING.

With gentle yet p. force Comp. ii 5

Thence the p. manners take their cast Tir. 913

PREVARICATION.

Where no p, shall avail R, 657 PREVENT.

P. the danger, or prescribe the cure P.E. 18 Such friends p. what else would soon succeed R. 731 To avenge than to p the breach of law T. i 731

May here and there p. erroneous choice Tir. 798 PREVENTED.

P. much by diet nest and plain Tir. 767

PREY. Forbidding you the p. Beau 8

That man make man his p., because he must Ch.197 No longer p. upon our annual rents Ch. 616 To captivate the tempting p. T. iv 54 Jerusalem a p., her glory soiled Ex. 61

From happier scenes, to make your land a p. H. 478 And stood looking out for his p. M.D. 31Now stoops upon it, and now grasps the p. P.E. 334 Soothe thee to make thee but a surer p, R. 263 Drives to their dens the obedient beasts of p. R. 766

In some unwholesome dungeon, and a p. T. i 437 Dooms and devotes him as his lawful p. T. ii 15 Sucks down its p. insatiable. Immense T. ii 103 Can seize the slippery p., unties the knot T. ii 685 Not satisfied to p. on all around T. vi 394 [T. iii 817

And the shark's p.; the spendthrift, and the leech To p. upon each other: stubborn, fierce T. vi 897 Oh, had he made that too his p. ! T.B. 55

The Nations hunt, all mark thee for a p. T.T. 364 PRICE. And Love Divine has paid one p. for all Ch. 205

She deems all safe, for she has paid the p. Ch. 458 Or sell their glory at a market p. Con. 28 It is indeed above all p. F. 56

Though short, too long, the p. he pays for all H. 200 Nor set a p. upon a willing heart H. 337 The dire effect of Mercy without p.! H. 496 Paid my p. in paltry gold N.C. 6 Avarice shows, and virtue is the p. P.E. 52

Such previous wee the p. ! Q.V. 80

Made all his virtues gewgaws of no p. T. 55 Just estimation prized above all p. T. ii 34 [iii 800 Well-managed shall have earned its worthy p. T.

To insure a side-box station at half p. T. ii 624

The p. of his default. But now—yes, now T. iii 92 Sells the last scantling, and transfers the p. T. iii 753 Sells oaths by tale, and at the lowest p. T.T. 419

PRICE-DECIDING.

Oft as the p. hammer falls T. vi 291

PRICKED.

Although immortal, may be p. or scratched Ch. 512 I p. them into paper with a pin M.P. 77

PRICKLY

With p, gorse, that shapeless and deformed T, i 527 To raise the p, and green-coated gourd T, iii 446 To stroke the p, grievance, and to hang T, v 329

PRICKS.

It p. the genius forward in its course Tir. 483

PRIDE.

And reddening with a just and generous p. A.T.204 Soon ber p, shall kiss the ground B, 19 She, with all a monarch's p. B. 37 From p. in league with ignorance, have sprung! Ch. Thus taught, down falls the plumage of his p. Ch. 345May blow up self-conceit and nourish p. Ch. 376 Would humble many a towering poet's p. Ch. 536 By sparks Absurdity strikes out of P. Con. 148 The proud are always most provoked by $p.\ Cos.\ 160$ By way of wholesome curb upon our p. Con. 361 Grave without dulness, learned without p. Con. 609 Sincerity! why 'tis his only p. Con. 757 My dog shall mortify the p. D.W. 39 As silly p. and idleness produce Ex.50The filth of rottenness and worm of p. Ex. 90 And grace thy figure with a soldier's p. Ex. 487 With cold disgust, or philosophic p. Ex. 691 Caledonia's traffic and p.! Gr. 18 Or p, can look at with indifferent eyes H. 52 Then praise is heard instead of reasoning p. H. 143 The p, of lettered ignorance, that binds H. 483 It hurts our p., and moves our envy less H. 553 The curtain drawn by Prejudice and P.—H. 571 Hence all that is in man,—p., passion, art H. 653 The mischiefs your ambitious p. inspires! Her. 46 The p. of the parterre L.R. 20 While learning, once the man's exclusive p. P.E. 429 In vain: the slave of arrogance and p. P.E. 548 Of p., ambition, or impure desires R. 110 "My patrimonial treasure and my p. R. 367 The p. of arrogant distinctions fall R. 659 His virtues were his p.; and that one vice T. 54 P. has attained its most luxuriant growth T. 115 P. may be pampered while the flesh grows lean T. 117 More nourish p., that condescending vice T. 123 Such are the fruits of sanctimonious p. T. 165 Exalted on his pedestal of p. T. 313 To nourish p., or turn the weakest head T. 366 P. above all opposes her design T. 474 P., of a growth superior to the rest T. 475 Retorts the affront against the crown of P.-T. 502 P. falls unpitied, never more to rise T. 588 That crowns it! yet not all its p. secures T. i 279 To his own pleasure and his patron's p. T. ii 391 Grieves, but alarms me not. I mourn the p. T. iv 102 To soothe their honest p., that scorns to beg T. iv 405 A weight of ignorance; in that, of p. T. iv 485 Of self-congratulating P., begot T. v 622 Till it out-mantle all the p. of verse T. v 680 [163] His p. resents the charge, although the proof Tir. His p., that scorns to obey or to submit Tir. 226 Of envy, hatred, jealousy, and p. Tir. 467 Debased to servile purposes of P.-T.T. 748

PRIEST.

The ring a bauble, and the p. a knave A.T. 66 Small need of Prayer Book, or of p., I ween A.T. 88 Died by the sentence of a shaven p. Ch. 55 God's name so much upon his lips, a p. Con. 72 The p., whose office is, with zeal sincere Ex. 97 People and p., the sons of Israel were Ex. 124 [512 Then p, with bulls, and briefs, and shaven crowns Ex. If p., supinely droning o'er his charge H. 198 Fasting and prayer sit well upon a p. H. 403 A cassocked huntsman, and a fiddling p. P.E. 111 Abhorred the sacrifice, and cursed the p. P.E. 340Whoever errs, the p. can ne'er be wrong P.E. 508And some ascribe the invention to a p. T. i 62 "Is but an instrument on which the p. T. v 651 P. have invented, and the world admired Tir. 185 What knavish p. promulgate as inspired Tir. 186 The father, who designs his babe a p. Tir. 364 Dumb as a senator, and as a p. Tir. 424 The troubles of a worthy p. $\tilde{Y}.D$. 3 The p. he merry is and blithe Y.D. 5

PRIESTHOOD.

A p. such as Baal's was of old T. ii 678 Hence British poets too the p. shared T. T. 502

PRIESTLY

Enjoy immunity from p. power Ch. 273 Theirs were the prophets, theirs the p. call Ex. 201 The p. brotherhood, devout, sincere Ex. 438 The veil is rent, rent too by p. hands T. vi 876

PRIMAT.

Before he eats it.—'Tis the p. curse T. i 364

PRIME.

And to say truth, though in its early p. Con. 633 Review thy dim original and p. Ex. 467 Thus between Justice, as my p. support H. 377 Are life's p. pleasures in his simple view R. 403 Where Flora is still in her p. W.N. 10

PRIMED.

And being always p, with politesse P.E. 387 [567 See that your polished arms be p, with care T, iv

PRIMROSE.

And lanes in which the p. ere her time T. vi 113

PRINCE. [T. v 177 Great p. have great playthings. Some have played Their p., as justly seated on his throne Ch. 51 Her p. captive, and her treasures spoiled Ex. 62 His freedom is the freedom of a p. T. 196 A p. with half his people! Ancient towers T. ii 121 Not as the p. in Shushan, when he called T. iii 714 All kingdoms and all p. of the earth T. vi 801

PRINCELY.

Called for his arms, and for his p. steed A.T. 124 He gives the p. bird, with all his wives T. iv 449

PRINCESS.

"P,! if our aged eyes B. 9

PRINCIPAL.

A p. iugredient F. 204

PRINCIPALITIES.

Shook p. and kingdoms down Ch. 77

PRINCIPLE.

And savage in its p, appears Con. 171. But steadfast p, and, in its kind J.T. 43 That thy worst part, thy p, live yet P.E 350 The p, and motive all in all T. 200

And p.; of causes, how they work T. ii 191 His p., and tempt him into sin T. iv 454 On p., where foppery atones T. iv 689 Our love is p., and has its root T. v 353 O for a world in p. as chaste T. vi 836 A p., whose proud pretensions pass Tir. 462 On selfish p., is shame and guilt T.T. 2

PRINK.

And p, their hair with daisies, or to pick T. vi 303

PRINT.

But I can assure you I saw it in p. P.A. 20 And therefore p., himself but half deceived P.E. 492 In which lewd sensualists p. out themselves R. 684 Down into modern use; transforms old p. T. ii 363 Describes and p. it, that the world may know T.iv 237 PRIOR.

Of dear Mat P.'s easy jingle E. iv 4 Though Butler's wit, Pope's numbers, P.'s ease T.T.

PRISMATIC.

He talks of light, and the p. hues Ch. 391

PRISON.

Passing his p. door B.R. 14 P. expect the wicked, and were built Ch. 280 Each heart would quit its p. in the breast Ch. 610 A p. with a friend preferred F.B. 35 Oppression, p., have no power to bind T. v 543 When Tumult lately burst his p. door T.T. 318

PRISONED.

There p, in a parlour snug and small R. 493 Where the p. lark is hung St. iv 2

PRISONER.

Lived happy p. there F.B. 6 Had been your p. still G. 18 A p. in the yet undawning east T. iv 130 O Liberty! the p.'s pleasing dream T.T. 288

PRISON-HOUSE.

And from their p, below arise N.A. 87 So fare we in this p., the world T. ii 661

PRIVATE.

As p, as the chambers where they slept Ex, 144 Or stabbed a man to serve some p, end? T. 47 To fill the ambition of a p, man T, ii 236 Or if that mine be shut, some p. purse T. iii 797 In all their p. functions, once combined T. iv 673 Where p. was not? Can be love the whole T. v 503 So loose to p. duty, that no brain T. v 512

PRIVILEGE.

Oh! 'tis a godlike p. to save Ch. 226 No!-there I grant the p. I claim Con. 98 Expression and the p. of thought Con. 404 With strains it was a p. to hear Con. 618 Forgiveness, and the p. of hope H. 214 Sweet as the p. of healing woe J.T. 17 That p. was thine; Heaven gave thee means J.T.19Though 'tis his p. to die St. v 3 'Twas his sublimest p. to feel T. vi 359 Feels all his happiest p. lost Tir. 574 An English poet's p. to rant T.T. 299 The noble sweep of all their p. T.T. 475

PRIVILEGED.

The rest might then seem p. to play St. ii 19 Even age itself seems p. in them T. i 403 There they are p.; and he that hunts T. vi 577

PRIZE.

And bore the worthless p. away A Fable 29

Than when he tows a p. A Tale 60 Sounds not arms shall win the p. B. 23The rich possession of a nobler p. Ch. 360 And p. them above pleasure, wealth, or praise Con. But still the p., though nearly caught D.W. 19 That seemed to promise no such p. E. i 96While eager Hodge beholds the p. E. iv 43His worthless absolution all the p. Ex. 525[622 They could not purchase earth with such a p. Ez. Our years, a fruitless race without a p. H. 25 Kind souls! to teach their tenantry to p. H. 252 A brighter p, than that he meant Mor. 55 Peace, both the duty and the p. N.G. 37 That p. belongs to none but the sincere P.E. 578 Ask wealth of Heaven, and gain a real p. R. 162 The lure of avarice, or the pompous p. R. 177The good we never miss we rarely p. R. 406A meaner than himself shall gain the p. T. 16 Believe, rush forward, and possess the p. T. 374 Humility is crowned, and Faith receives the p. T. 589 Of blank oblivion, seem a glorious p. T. i 287 And pocketed a p. by fraud obtained T. ii 87 And making p, of all that he condemns T, ii 604 Vainly industrious, a disgraceful p. T. iii 385 Wafts the rich p. to its appointed use T. iii 540[700 That self-condemned they must neglect the p. T. iii Is free to all men—universal p. T. iii 724 But Martyrs struggle for a brighter p. T. v 718 55 And seeking grace to improve the p. they hold T.vi Secure of conquest where the p. Th. 15 That candidates for such a p. should feel Tir. 376 The exalted p. demands an upward look Tir. 383 The p. of beauty in a woman's eyes Tir. 472 Not brighter than in theirs the scholar's p. Tir. 473 Show thou hast sense enough to p. the pearl Tir. 707 P. it, ye ministers; ye monarchs, spare T.T. 334 The p. of happier times, will serve thee now T.T.371Then suddenly regain the p. 1789, 54

PRIZED.

When gifts perverted, or not duly p. Ex. 251 Joys always p., when placed within our reach H. 36 For thee I panted, thee I p. O. ii 19 That rule he p., by that he feared St. iii 21 Just estimation p. above all price T. ii 34 By all that p. it; not for prudery's sake T. iii 78 I studied, p., and wished that I had known T. iv 722 More to be p. and coveted than yours T. iv 191

PROBABILITY.

Still making p. your clue Con. 218

PROBATIONARY.

Like Eden's dread p. tree P.E. 468

PROBITY.

Famed for thy p, from shore to shore J.T. 6

PROBLEMS.

With p. History, not wanted yet Y.O. 159

PROCEED.

A mightier cried-"P."-B.R. 6 He from whose hands alone all power p. Ch. 208 Some men make gain a fountain, whence p. Ch. 244 And having struck the balance, now p. Con. 798 With every good and perfect good, p. H. 116One act, that from a thankful heart p. T. 223 Flies swiftly, and unfelt the task p. T. iv 166 Where shall I find an end, or how p. ? T. iv 233 The sun p., I wander. Neither mist T. vi 296 Too careless often, as our years p. Tir. 113

Though from ourselves the mischief more p. Tir. 249 From whence his rays p. Trans. i 6

PROCEEDED.

That they p. from a grateful heart T. 580

PROCEEDING.

A spy on my p. F. 192 P. with his nimblest pace Mor. 20 P. soon a graduated dunce T. ii 739

PROCESS.

This p. achieved, it is doomed to sustain F.M.9The p. Heat and cold, and wind and steam T. iii 554 By which the mighty p. is maintain'd T. vi 225

PROCESSION.

A pale p. of past sinful joys H. 221 In one p. joined Q. V. 22 He sets the bright p. on its way T. vi 190

PROCLAIM.

Let Egypt's plagues, and Canaan's woes p. Ex. 169
To banish hesitation, and p. H. 63
P. the remedy, ye learned, next H. 108
P. their titles to the crowd around H. 266
P. the soil a conquest he has won H. 479
Returning, he p., by many a grace P.E. 413
Yearly in my song p. St. iv 10
Denies the power that wields it. God p. T. ii 178
Till Thou p. thyself. Theirs is indeed T. v 857
Thy saints p. thee king; and in their hearts T. vi 861
Thy saints p. thee king; and thy delay T. vi 864
P. him born to sway Th. 10
A subject's faults a subject may p. T.T. 113
And regions long since desolate p. T.T. 431

PROCLAIMED.

The brief p., it visits every pew Ch. 469 Such London is, by taste and wealth p. T. i 697

PROCREATION.

To check the p. of a breed Tir. 603

PROCURE.

P. him many a curse. By slow degrees T. iv 635 Of Poverty, that thus he may p. T. v 318

PRODIGAL

Divert the champions p. of breath Con. 89 Or spendthrift's p. excess afford J.T. 16

PRODIGY.

To make the shining p. complete Ch. 602
And baits its hook with p. and lies Con. 224
Made sure by p. till then unknown Ex. 174
P. ominous, and viewed with fear P.E. 99
Observed as p., and soon reclaimed T. iv 524
So stood the brittle p.; though smooth T. v 154
What p. can power divine perform T. vi 118
Your son come forth a p. of skill Tw. 525

PRODUCE.

Each climate needs what other climes p. Ch. 89
To give the pole the p. of the sun Ch. 125
Whate'er this world p., it absorbs Ch. 564
Thy thirst-oreating steams at length p. Con. 262
We sometimes think we could a speech p. Con. 353
Had wit as bright as ready to p. Con. 614
And whether Roman rites may not p. Con. 835
No longer labours merely to p. Con. 891
As silly pride and idleness p. Ex. 50
"The rich, the p. of a nobler stem Ex. 460
Which does not yet like that p. F. 131
The gayest I had to p. Gr. 28
Save for the fruits his heavenly beams p. H. 82

Clothes it with earth, and bids the p. live Her. 30 Demons p. them doubtless, brazen-clawed N.A. 101 All such as manly and great souls p. R. 699 But why before us Protestants p. T. 127 P. them—take a chair—now draw a Saint T. 172 Maturer years shall happier stores p. T. 495 More grand than it p. year by year T. vi 119 Blushed that effects like these she should p. T.T. 326 Perched on the meagre p. of the land T.T. 580

PRODUCED.

The last by Vanity p. and nursed Con. 378 P. a friendship then begun E. i 101 Two leaves p., two rough indented leaves T. iii 526 Of too much labour, worthless when p. T. iii 565 As if p. by Nature there U. 18

PRODUCTION.

Men loved their own p. long ago P.E. 527

PRODUCTIVE.

P. only of a race like ours T. ii 584

PROFANATION.

When p, of the sacred cause T.T. 426 Is p, of the basest kind T.T. 758

PROFANE.

Of all that was absurd, p., impure Con. 888
Delights like these, ye sensual and p. P.E. 263
Nor touch the page he cannot but p.) P.E. 457
That, through p. and infidel contempt T. i 740
Then were not all effaced; then speech p. T. iv 522

PROFANED.

The temple and its holy rites p. Ex. 145
Sabbaths p. without remores St. vi 39
Him blind antiquity p., not served T. vi 231
In sacrilege, in God's own house p. Tir. 409
And dizzy with delight, p. the sacred wires T.T. 607

PROFANING.

Bad men, p. friendship's hallowed name Con. 683

PROFESS.

Is not to find what they p. to seek Tir. 194

PROFESSED.

He takes what he at first p. to loathe Con. 337 The praises of the libertine p. T. 433 Where science and where virtue are p.? T. ii 766 By learned clerks, and Latinists p. Tir. 382 So little felt, so ferrently p.! V. 50

PROFESSING.

Betray thee, while p. to defend T.T. 333

PROFESSION.

Shows Love to be a mere p. M.F. 60 Perhaps, though by p. ghostly pure T. iv 603

PROFESSIONALLY.

Art thou a man p. tied Tir. 658

PROFICIENCY.

O blessed p.! surpassing all R. 99 Praise his p., and dub him man P.E. 368 The great p. he made abroad T. iv 654

PROFICIENT.

True, I am no p., I confess T. iii 210 No powdered pert p. in the art T. iv 145

PROFIT.

Hush—silent readers p. most A Tale 29
What neither yields us p. nor delight Con. 241
By which the world might p., and himself T. i 577.

But censure p. little: vain the attempt T. iv 500 A tax of p. from his very play Tir. 612

PROFITABLE.

The strenuous use of p, thought R, 674 With odours, and p. as sweet T. ii 228 And p. abusers of a world T. iii 696 And manners p., were rarely found T. iv 523

PROFOUND.

That remedy, not hid in deeps p. H. 111 And beaus, adepts in every thing p. H. 347Not many wise, rich, noble, or p. T. 337Not many wise, rich, noble, or p. Bury herself in solitude p. T. 443 "'Twere well," says one sage, erudite, p. T. iii 191

PROFOUNDER.

To reach a depth p, still, and still T. v 598 P., in the fathomless abyss T. v 594

PROFOUNDLY.

Adopting their mistakes, p. thinks T. v 270

PROFUSE.

Thought is so rare, and fancy so p. Con. 856 Of what He gives, unsparing and p. Ex. 677 Extreme, at once rapacious and p. T. ii 880 That ye may garnish your p. regales T. iii 551 Those habits of p. and lewd expense Tir. 350 She fills p. ten thousand little throats T.T. 694

PROFUSION.

R. apes the noble part F. 4 At the right door. P. is the sire T. ii 674 P. unrestrained, with all that's base T. ii 675 P., deluging a state with lusts T. ii 688 This does P., and the accursed cause T. ii 697 P. breeds them; and the cause itself T. ii 820 The bright p. of her scatter'd stars T. vi 176 'Twere wild p. all, and bootless waste Tir. 49

PROGENITOR.

Even as his first p., and quits T. iii 297

PROGENY.

Then the p. that springs B. 25 Is still the p. and heir of sin Ch. 344 And all your numerous p., well trained T. iv 422 Of his descending p, was found T. v 212 Yet make their p. their dearest care Tir. 800

PROGNOSTICS.

They knew, by sure p. seen on high Ex. 157

PROGRESS.

Our p. was often delayed C. 11 And catch in its p. a sensible glow F.M. 20 The silent p. of thy power is such H. 665 The folded gates would bar my p. now T. i 330 Their p. in the road of science; blinds T. \vee 451 Is Nature's p., when she lectures man T. vi 182 And guides the p. of a soul to God Tir. 146 Beheld their p. with the deepest dread T.T. 325

PROGRESSIVE.

At first, p. as a stream, they seek T. i 292

PROHIBITION.

With p. and perpetual thirst? P.E. 234

PROJECT.

The wildest p. of her teeming brain A.T. 57 The statesman, skilled in p. dark and deep Ch. 612 The strange conceits, vain p., and wild dreams H. 618 And give your monstrous p. all its force Tir. 239 The diadem, with mighty p. lined T.T. 59

PROJECTED.

Sheltering the base with its p. eaves T. iii 483 PROJECTORS.

Confederacy of p. wild and vain T. v 194

PROLIFIC. P., and the lime at dewy eve T. i 316 Distempered, or has lost p. powers T. iii 415

P. all, and harbingers of more T. iii 531

Legends p. delivers in the ears S. i 2 With wig p., down flowing to his waist Tir. 361

PROLIXITY.

The obsolete p, of shade T, i 265 PROLOGUE.

Or, having whelped a p, with great pains T.T.533A p. interdashed with many a stroke T.T. 538 PROMINENCE.

For want of p. and just relief Con. 127 PROMINENT.

The p. and most unsightly bones T. ii 588 With p. wens globose; till at the last Y.O. 66 PROMISCUOUSLY.

Flowers by that name p, we call R. 723

PROMISE

That seemed to p. no such prize E. i 96 Of all the ways that seem to p, fair H, 338 Oft gave me p. of thy quick return M.P. 37 Lead to the bliss she p. the wise P.E. 73 But farewell p. of happier fruits R. 241 His p. our stay St. vi 8 That field of p., how it flings abroad T. 453 And p. of a God. His other gifts T. v 550 Behold the measure of the p. filled T. vi 798 [871 "Where is the p. of your Lord's approach?" T. vi P. a work of which they must despair Tir. 264 Though fair in p., per manent and sound Tir. 437 Not to recall a p. to your mind V. 21 The p. of delicious fruit appears V. 52 PROMISED.

And p, they should act the wild goose part A.T.53Taints in its rudiments the p. flower Con. 42 See Judah's p. king, bereft of all R. 767 That p. once more firmness, so assailed T. v 526 The time of rest, the p. Sabbath, comes T. vi 733

PROMISING.

Or p. with smiles to call again T. vi 282 PROMOTE.

Wise to p. whatever end he means Ch. 87 Should best secure them, and p. them most T. iii PROMPT.

Occasion p., and appetite so keen A.T. 90 Come, p. me with benevolent desires Ch. 11 All p. his pleased pursuit, and to pursue Ch. 325 Still p. him, with a pleasure always new Ch. 326 There sits and p. him with his own disgrace Con. 463 Found him as p., as their desire was true Con. 545 To show a love as p. as thine D.W. 43 His grief might p. him with the speech he made E. P. to persuade, expostulate, and warn Ez. 441 Warns him or p., approves him or restrains P.E. 35 His wish and mine both p. me to retire" R. 390 That p, the wish to stay St, v 30 P. every movement of his heart and mind T. 194 Good temper; spirits p. to undertake T. i 400

That she is slack in discipline; more p. T. i 730

Must p. him, and admonish how to catch T. iii 507 Call comedy, to p. him with a smile? T. iv 199 Of ruinous ebriety that p. T. iv 460 As instinct p.; self-buried ere they die T. v 88 That whom it teaches it makes p. to learn T. v 859 P. with remembrance of a present God T. vi 252 Seldom, and never but as Wisdom p. T. vi 849 Courage in arms, and ever p. to show T.T. 276 P. his endeavour, and engage his aim T.T. 747 PROMPTED.

With visions p. by intense desire T. i 451 Not p., as in our degenerate days T.T. 590 Or else vain-glory, p. us to draw T. i 635

PROMPTER.

And wit that puppet p. might inspire R. 312 Or p., save the scene, I will perform Y.O. 141

PROMULGATE.

What knavish priests p. as inspired Tir. 186 PRONE.

Are sadly p. to quarrel F. 87 And, though God made thee of a nature p. J.T. 31 Once p. on earth, now buoyant upon air R. 68 To limit thought, by Nature p. to stray R. 127 Fall p.; the pale inhabitants come forth T. ii 125 Such dupes are men to custom, and so p. T. v 299 'Tis pusillanimous and p. to flight T. v 373 [785 Brutes graze the mountain-top, with faces p. T. v

PRONOUNCE.

P. your hum in form a false pretence Con, 78 The positive p. without dismay Con. 146 Then hiss their idol and p, her fair P.E. 300 And then skip down again; p. a text T. ii 410 The creature is that God p. good T. vi 828

PRONOUNCED.

P. him frantic, and his fears a dream Ex. 70 P. by greybeards a pernicious dream Ex. 114 P. it transient, glorious as it is T. v 563

PROOF.

No spell or charm was p, against the thrust A.T.146And at this hour the conqueror feels the p. Ch. 60 To swallow much upon much weaker p. Con. 722 With p., that we, and our affairs E. i 57 One p. should serve—a reference to you E. iii 13 There, p. against prosperity, awhile Es. 77 Given thee his blessing on the clearest p. Es. 564 Of fewer errors, in a second p.! F.A. 5 P. against sickness and old age M.F. 50 Bears p, of an intelligence divine R, 208 Coincident, exhibit lucid p. T. ii 374 Grow wanton, and give p. to every eye T. ii 443 Is p, against thy sweet seducing charms? T, ii 482 With show of love, at least with hopeful p, T, ii 558 One p. at least of manhood! while the friend T. ii 594 Is oft-times p. of wisdom, when the fault T. iii 39 Nothing is p. against the general curse T. iii 266 The Frenchman's darling? Are they not all p.T.iv765But above measure strange, that neither p. T. v 293Mark now the p. I give thee, that the brave T. vi 509 By any change of fortune; p, alike T, vi 626 Of Avon, famed in song. Ah pleasant p, T, vi 682 P. of the wisdom of the all-seeing mind Tir. 94[163 His pride resents the charge, although the p. Tir. Else sure notorious fact, and p. so plain Tir. 259 Ye knew at least, by constant p. addressed Tir. 278 Bid fair enough to answer in the p. Tir. 564 Such microscopic p. of skill and power Tir. 637 P. of a trifling and a worthless mind T.T. 759 P. of an old affection still alive V. 24 P. not contemptible of what she can Y.O. 131

PROP.

Is it a time to wrangle, when the p. T. ii 62 Of the smooth-shaven p., and neatly tied T. iii 659 And p. the pile they but adorned before T. v 116 On p. of smoothest shaven wood T.B. 23 The p. of such proud seminaries fall Tir. 499

PROPAGATED.

The p. myriads spread so fast P.E. 484

PROPENSE.

P. his heart to idols, he is held T. v 585

Are marriage in its true and p. shape A.T. 65 And fear, not courage, is its p. source Con. 180 And only blushes in the p. place Con. 374 Some farrier should prescribe his p. course Con. 411 And give the moral springs their p, play Con, 832 This more than monster in his p. guise H. 573 That conscience there performs her p, part H, 692 Choose not alone a p. mate P.T. 64 But p. time to marry P.T. 65 Who seek retirement for its p. use R. 170 And woo and win thee to thy p. good R. 256 Teach, while they flatter him, his p. place R. 446 Here virtue thrives as in her p. soil T. i 600 But foolish man foregoes his p. bliss T. iii 296 Shine out; there only reach their p. use T. iv 662 May exercise amiss his p. powers T. v 339 Not so when, held within their p. bounds T. vi 574 He seek his p. happiness by means T. vi 954 To feed our infant minds with p. fare Tir. 116 Wanting its p. base to stand upon T.T. 54

PROPERTY.

For p, stripped off by oruel chance T, i 503 The tasted sweets of p, begat T, v 224 It is the abject p, of most T, v 246 Their purport, uses, p, resigned Y.O. 152

PROPHECY.

The word of p., those truths divine Ex. 686 As well for them had p. been dumb H. 255 More distant, and that p. demands T. ii 66 Sweet is the harp of p.; too sweet T. vi 747

PROPHESY.

Can't p. themselves at all) A Fable 23 And sighing millions p. the close Ex. 309 Mean you to p., or but to preach? T.T. 499

PROPHESYING.

Of superstition, p. still T. iv 294

PROPHET.

The p. wept for Israel; wished his eyes Ex. 33
Their were the p., theirs the priestly call Ex. 201
Come, p., drink, and tell us what think you" H. 418
Well spake the p.,—" Let the desert sing H. 524
Thus says the p. of the Turk L.W. 1
What joint the p. had in mind) L.W. 14
What says the p.? Let that day be blest P.E. 157
And, p. as he was, he might not strike T. vi 468
Foretold by p., and by poets sung T. vi 731
Whose fire was kindled at the p.'s lamp T. vi 732
Thy p. speak of such; and, noting down T. vi 899
Of p. and of poet was the same T.T. 501

PROPHETIC.

Such the Bard's p. words B. 33 Or guess, with a p. power E. i 71 And sounds p. are too rough to suit Ex. 67 Ah self-deceived! Could I, p., say St. ii 17 But no p. fires to me belong T.T. 504

PROPITIOUS.

P. to his fond intent there grew A.T. 80 Blessed the glad beams of that p. day A.T. 205 No light p. shone Cast. 62 P. Spirit! yet expunge a wrong Ch. 276 How to secure, in some p. hour R. 141 Nor seldom, as p. Heaven might send R. 377 That each may find its most p. light T. ii 295 Unconscious of a less p. clime T. iii 567 Begs a p. ear for his poor thoughts T. iv 68 P., pays his tribute, game or fish T. iv 611 P. in his chariot paved with love T. vi 744 In that bright quarter his p. skies Tir. 395 With more than a p. gale Trans. H. 35 Fostering p., thou becamest a twig Y.O. 39

PROPOUND.

"And gesture, they p. to our belief? T. v 649 PROPORTION.

Who poises and p. sea and land Ex. 342 And just p., fashionable mien T. ii 421

PROPORTIONED.

For want of powers p, to the post R, 612 I view the muscular p, limb T, v 15 To give it praise p, to its worth T, vi 756 P. to his size Trans. i 12 P. well, half muscle and half bone T.T. 219

PROPOSED.

And truth, p. to reasoners wise as they H. 258 And all the mysteries to faith p. T. vi 878

PROPPED.

[iv 546 Ill p. upon French heels; she might be deemed T. PROPRIETOR.

Its only just p, in him T. \vee 804

PROPRIETY.

With a p. that none can feel $T. \vee 744$

PROSCRIBE.

Of fancy, or p, the sound of mirth T, iv 176 To dash the pen through all that you p. T.T. 769

Shall stand p., a madman or a knave Con. 476 Of fruit p., as to a refuge, fled Y.O. 16

PROSE.

P. answers every common end E. i 2 No flights above the pitch of p. E. i 16 Which, couched in p., they will not hear E. i 22 (I would say twenty sheets of p.) E. iv 28 And Sidney, warbler of poetic p. T. iv 516 And with poetic trappings grace thy p. T. v 679What need of Homer's verse, or Tully's p. Tir. 399 Backed with a modest sheet of humble p. V. 20

PROSELYTE.

From every hair brained p. he makes P.E. 491 Spent all his force, and made no p.) T. ii 331

PROSPECT

Can hopes of Heaven, bright p. of an hour Con. 591 How bright soe'er the p. seems F. 73 Whose p, shows thee a disheartening waste H. 32 Or present, or in p., meet his sight P.E. 48 The p., such as might enchant despair R. 469 Me fruitful scenes and p. waste S. 21 In happier days, to brighter p. born! S. ii 5 My relish of fair p.; scenes that soothed T. i 141 P., however lovely, may be seen T. i 509 And p. oft so dreary and forlorn T. vi 21

Though but in distant p., and not feel T. vi 761 To lead his son, for p. of delight Tir. 630 An ell or two of p, we command T.T. 581

PROSPER.

fii 226 Should England p., when such things, as smooth T. P. (I press thee with a powerful ples) Ch.5But ah! what wish can p., or what prayer Ch. 137 Perhaps might p. with a swarm of bees Con. 288 Live there, and p. Those Ausonia claims T. iii 582 Whose approbation—p. even thine T. vi 1024

PROSPERITY.

There proof against p., awhile Ex.77

PROSPEROUS.

Claimed all the glory of thy p. wars? Ez. 347 Sets me more distant from a p. course M.P. 105 She ventures onward with a p. force T.T. 266

PROSTITUTE.

Who p, it in the cause of vice Con, 27 He mocks his Maker, p. and shames T. ii 427

PROSTITUTION.

Till p. elbows us aside T. iii 60 In barbarous p. of your son Tir. 405 In p. sinks the sense of shame T.T. 415

PROSTRATE.

It marches o'er the p. works of man Her. 22

PROTECT.

Esteem them, sow them, rear them, and p. H. 295 So sophistry cleaves close to and p. P.E. 287 All that is human in me, to p. T. iii 347 Resign the scenes their presence might p. T. iv 592

PROTECTOR.

The proud P. of the power he gained T.T. 611 PROTECTING.

Safe with p. Montagu Mrs. M-20

PROTECTION.

He sells p. Witness at his foot T. vi 417 PROTEST.

Well, I p. 'tis past all bearing!" M.F. 25

PROTESTANTS.

But why before us P. produce T. 127

PROTESTED.

He blamed and p., but joined in the plan P.A. 43 PROTRACTED.

And long p. bowers, enjoyed at noon T. i 257 The long p. rigour of the year T. v 85

PROTRUDING.

Now stars; two lobes, p., paired exact Y.O. 36 PROUD.

"Ruffians, pitiless as p. B. 41

Not the p. monuments of Greece or Rome Ch. 302 The boldest patriot might be p. to feel Ch. 308
The p. are always most provoked by pride Con. 160
P. of his speed, to overshoot the truth Con. 642 Then the p. eagles of all-conquering Rome Ez. 209 Cry to the p., the cruel, and unjust Ex. 268 P. of thy fleets and armies, stolen the gem Ez. 348 Are p_{\cdot} , and set their faces as a rock Ex. 457Should say that she was p. J.G. 36But higher far my p. pretensions rise M.P. 110 P. to advance it all they can Mrs. M-14 Obsequious when abroad, though p. at home R. 440

Yet not in cities oft: in p., and gay T. i 681 [T. 34 Heaven on such terms!" they ory with p. disdain As stoop from Heaven to sell the p, a throne T. 78 You think him humble—God accounts him p. T. 92 And, p. to make his firm attachment known T. 219 But what is man in his own p. esteem? T. 403 The theme though humble, yet august and p. T. i 6 The summit gained, behold the p. Alcove T. i 278 The impression of the blast with p. disdain T. i 380 Who, self-imprisoned in their p. saloons T. i 414 That's noble, and bespeaks a nation p. T. ii 43Or unenlightened, and too p. to learn T. ii 549 From instrumental causes p, to draw T, iii 238 But to the p., uncandid, insincere T. ii 275 That learning is too p to gather up T iii 286 [408] P. of his well-spread walls, he views his trees T. iii But p, of his uncouth ill-chosen task T, iii 644 Too p, for dairy work or sale of eggs T, iv 549 King was a name too p, for man to wear $T \cdot v = 242$ Receive p. recompense. We give in charge T. v 706 P. of the treasure, marches with it down T. \vee 708 Knowledge is p. that he has learn'd so much T. vi 96 But learn we might, if not too p. to stoop T. vi 621 Nor Cunning justify the p. man's wrong T. vi 844 A principle, whose p, pretensions pass Tir, 462 The props of such p. seminaries fall Tir. 499 [785 Too p. to adopt the thoughts of one unknown Tir. Ye p. and wealthy, let this theme Trans. i 25 Fierce, avaricious, p., there must be war T.T. 10 Thus p. Prerogative, not much revered T.T.230 [523]Like a p. swan, conquering the stream by force T.T. And makes his pupils p, with silver pence T.T.509The p. Protector of the power he gained T.T. 611 Too p. for art, and trusting in mere force T.T. 683

PROUDER.

A p, station on the general scale Ch, 336 The p, sashes fronted with a range T, iv 763

PROUDEST.

Swift as the p. gander of them all A.T.55 [243 They warn and teach the p., would they learn Ex. But p. of the worst, if that succeed H.202A form as splendid as the p. there T. ii 620 Whose frown can disappoint the p, strain T. vi 1023

PROUDLY.

Such virtues had need p, their own reward Ch, 571 Did Charity prevail, the press would p, Ch, 623

Ere you p. question ours! N.C. 56
PROVE
The same resource to p. A Tale 78

And p, too weak for so divine a theme Ch, 633 Too often p. an implement of play Con. 17 Will judge himself deceived, and p. it too Con. 112 Would only p. him a consummate fool Con. 140
P. after all a wind-gun's airy charge Con. 274 'Tis heavy, bulky, and bids fair to p. Con. 307 Than while his conduct p. his heart sincere Con. 766 May p., though much besides the rules of art Con. 869 And yet may p., when understood E. i 89 And placed it in our power to p. E. i 103

But He who knew what human hearts would [ii 19 And were I called to p, the assertion true E, iii 12 To p, an evil of which all complain T, iii 43 What nation will you find, whose annals p. Ex. 11 That infidels may p, their title good Ex. 380 Then thou art bound to serve him, and to p. Ex. 560 Twas but to p. how quickly, with a frown Ex. 578 P. it ;—if better, I submit and bow Ex. 633 But p, as ready to believe F, 17 May p, a dangerous foe indeed F. 77 To p. at last my main intent F. 139

Then judge yourself, and p. your man F. 151 And p. by thumps upon your back F. 170 May p, the task, a task indeed F. 196 To p, that what she gives she gives sincere H. 62 His gracious attributes, and p, the share H. 139 To p. that without Christ all gain is lost H. 631 To p. you their destroyers, as ye are Her. 82 "Still p. herself a shrew J.P. 38 To p, her right to reign L.R. 12 P. that the heart is none of his M.F. 61 P. that you have human feelings N.C. 55 The noblest minds their virtue p. P. 61 And p. their owner half divine" P. 64 And p. a raging scorpion in his breast P.E. 241 All these belong to virtue, and all p. P.E. 247 Might p. a mischief, or at best a toy P.E. 302 Though all your engineering p. in vain P.E. 321 Yet glad she came that night to p. Q.V. 29 He p., less happy than his favoured brute R. 633 Seeming a sanctuary, p. a grave R. 736 Merely to p. a nest for me R. C. 56 To whom the rising year shall p, his last St, ii 2 Who only live to p, St, vi 14 Have purchased Heaven, and p. my title good T. 96 The freeborn Christian has no chains to p. T. 187His life should p, that he perceives their force T. 198 Shall p. (what argument could never yet) T. 431 Of wisdom, p. a school in which he learns T. i 614 And binds the shoulders flat. We p. its use T. ii 589 Eternity for bubbles p. at last T. iii 175 And p, it in the infallible result T, iii 180 [T, iii 788] Just when it meets his hopes, and p. the Heaven Search it, and p, now if it be not blood T, iii 204 May p. a trumpet, summoning your ear T. iv 570 He too may have his vice, and sometimes p. T. iv 604 P. it. A breath of unadulterate air T. iv 750 What none can p. a forgery, may be true T. v. 612 Recovering fast its liquid music, p. T. vi 261 They p. too often at how dear a rate T. vi 416 [63 With passions, just that he may p., with pain Tir. To p. a consequence by none denied Tir. 104 How weak the barrier of mere Nature p. Tir. 169 Should p. your ruin, and his own at last Tir. 203 His counsellor and bosom friend shall p. Tir. 216 Beneath thy roof, beneath thine eye to p. Tir. 680 Though thou hadst never grace enough to p. Tir.741 P., rather than impeach, the just remark Tir. 842 Or, if he p, unkind (as who can say) Tir. 895 And prate and preach about what others p. T.T. 172 Stand on a level, and you p. too much $\tilde{T}.T.$ 255 Free to p. all things, and hold fast the best T.T. 273 P. that the mind is weak, or makes it so T.T. 545 P. this, and forfeit all pretence to praise T.T. 569 And may as rich in comfort p. U. 11 Lest this should p, the last \bar{U} . 22 Might p. a welcome gift, and touch thine heart V. Prepared for martyrdom, and strong to p. V. 61 Votaries of business and of pleasure p. V. 71

PROVED.

P. kinder to them than the coast A Tale 31 [498] Have p. them truths too big to be expressed Con. That having p. the weakness, it should seem Con. 829] That p. a mint of wealth, a mine to Rome Es. 523] And never p. severe J.P. 16] Somebody p. it, centuries ago P.E. 501] Braved and defied, and in our own sea p. T. ii 272] Defective and unsanctioned, p. too weak T. ii 524] Challenging human scrutiny, and p. T. v 868] P. he not plainly that his meaner works T. vi 447] And now, his prowess p., and his sincere T. vi 531] He seeks not hers, for he has p. them vain T. vi 920] First, farewell Niger! whom now duly p. V. 7

PROVEST.

Such feebleness of limbs thou p. M. 37

PROVIDE.

P. the faculties an ampler range Ch. 334
The squirrel here his heard p. M.B. 5
Sits banqueting, and God p. the feast P.E. 166
Need help, let honest industry p. P.E. 252
Cause to p. for a great future day R. 652
That appetite can ask, or wealth p. R. 744
Subsistence to p. T B 33

PROVIDENCE.

The P. Alone secures A Fuble 30
While P. enjoins to every soul Ch. 121
Should range where P. has blessed the soil Con. 438
This page of p. quite new E. i 49
Mistress, at least while P. shall please Ez. 274
Is adverse P., when pondered well Ez. 310
P. adverse in events like these? Ez. 313
And God's disposing p. confessed Ez. 558
Will P. o'erlook the wasted good? P.E. 223
The gifts of P., and squander life T. i 638
Thy P. forbids that fickle power T. v 871
(If such who plead for P. may seem T. vi 481
But still in vain. The P. that meant T. vi 528
For P., that seems concerned to exempt Tir. 430
Kind P. attends with gracious aid T.T. 249
When P. means mercy to a land T.T. 355
But P. himself will intervene T.T. 443

PROVINCE.

But while his p, is the reasoning part Ch. 375 Say, botanist, within whose p, fall H. 286 Each p, of her art her equal care T, i 707 The wealth of Indian p, escapes T, i 738 To each some p, garden, field, or grove T, vi 237

PROVING.

From all assaults of evil, p. still T. iii 680 P. at last, though told in pompous strains Tir. 75

PROVOCATION.

On every trivial p. ? M.F. 36 What p. to the indignant heart T. iii 65 Of p. given or wrong sustained T. \vee 315

PROVOKE.

You need his pardon, and p. his rod Con. 488 P. the vengeance of his righteous hand Ex. 253 P. to imitation F. 9 P. me to a smile. With eye askance T. v 14 PROVOKED.

Not soon p., however stung and teased Ch. 428 The proud are always most p. by pride Con. 160 And long p., repaid thee to thy face Ex. 391 P. and harassed, in return plagued thee Ex. 533

PROVOKING.

Or, more p. still, of nobler name H. 192

PROWESS.
Thy p.—therefore, go! M.B. 20

As he whose p. had subdued their foes? T. v 237 And now, his p. proved, and his sincere T. vi 531 P. to dissipate a host 1789, 6

PROWLING.

Now goes the nightly thief p. abroad T. iv 432 PROXY.

And silent cipher, while her p. plays T. i 477 In him thy well appointed p. see Tir. 676 PRUDE.

You ancient p., whose withered features show T. 131

PRUDENCE.

With p, always ready at our call H. 431 Say ye, who (with less p, than of old T. \vee 321

PRUDENT.

Some act upon this p. plan F. 181
More p., or more sprightly N.Y.G. 6
He has no hearing on the p. side P.E. 549
Your p. grandmanmas, ye modern belies R. 515
And, doubtful what, with p. care R.C. 85
Warily therefore, and with p. heed T. iii 470
By budding ills, that ask a p. hand T. vi 591
Our parents yet exert a p. care Tir. 115
Ah, happy designation, p. choice Tir. 342

PRUDENTIAL.

Not skulk, or put on a p. mask T.T. 312 PRUDERY.

By all that prized it; not for p.'s sake T. iii 78

PRURIENCE.

There is a p. in the speech of some Con. 31
PSALM.

And while the clerk just puzzles out the p. Ch. 473
PSALTERY.

P. and sackbut, dulcimer and flute P.E. 133

PUBLIC.

The fretting plague is in the p. purse Ch. 62 Let just Restraint, for p. peace designed Ch. 2% That grief, sequestered from the p. stage Ch. 305 Most satirists are indeed a p. scourge Ch. 501 Pelting each other for the p. good Ch. 622 We dare not risk them into p. view Con. 371 Like conservators of the p. health Con. 390 Best for the p., and my wisest part Cos. 870 Till penitence had purged the p. stain Ex. 74 Their prayers made p., their excesses kept Ez. 143 But p. censure speaks a p. foe Ez. 436 (Though other follies strike the p. eye H. 62) Drew me to school along the p. way M.P. 49 And call her charms to p. notice forth P.E. 296 Committed once into the p. arms P.E. 518 The servant of the p, never knows R, 370 The worn-out nuisance of the p. streets T. 508 Of p. note, they reach their perfect size T. i 696 To peculators of the p. gold T. i 735 There is a p. mischief in your mirth T. i 769 While, through that p. organ of report T. ii 355 Would fail to exhibit at the p. shows T. ii 619 And warps the consciences of p. men T. ii 691 In guilty splendour, shake the p. ways T. iii 70 Abroad, and desolating p. life T. iii 683 Deals him out money from the p. chest T. iii 796 Skillet, and old carved chest, from p. sale T. iv 1 2 To advertise in verse a p. pest T. iv 501 Of p. virtue ever wished removed T. iv 615 Hence chartered boroughs are such p. plagues T.iv By p, exigence, till annual food T, v 458 For when was p, virtue to be found $T \cdot \mathbf{v}$ 502 Shone brighter still, once called to p. view T. v 521 That crawls at evening in the p, path T. vi 565 Wins p. honour; and ten thousand sit T. vi 633 The task now falls into the p. hand T. vi 718 Must drop indeed the hope of p. praise T. vi 973 Train him in p. with a mob of boys Tir. 206 For p. schools 'tis p. folly feeds Tir. 250 A p. school shall bring to pass with ease Tir. 372 Our p. hives of puerile resort Tir. 458 By p. hackneys in the schooling trade Tir. 621 And, while on p. nurseries they rely Tir. 793

The p. character its colours draws Tir. 912 Hook disappointment on the p. wheels T.T. 146

PUBLICLY.

And, silence p. enjoined P.T. 21

PUBLISH.

To sound his horn, and p. it abroad H. 311 Shall p., even to the distant eye T. vi 148

PUBLISHED.

Their name far p., and revered as far Ez. 194

PUBLISHING.

P. to all aloud St. iv 14

PUCKERED.

With half-shut eyes and p. cheeks and teeth T. iv 352

PUERILE.

Our public hives of p. resort Tir. 458

PUFF.

The pipe, with solemn interposing p. Cos. 245 [248 Then pause and p.—and speak and pause again Cos.

PUFFED.

P. up with gifts they never understood Ex. 130 PUISSANT.

He couched it firm upon his p. thigh A.T. 147

PULING.

While yet thou wast a grovelling, p. chit Ex. 474

PULL.

Who constitutionally p. Pat. 15 [land Tir. 900 P. down the schools—what! all the schools in the

P. down the tyrants India served with dread Ex. 366 She p. out half-a-crown J.G. 216

PULLING.

Thou caust not! Nature, p. at thine heart Tir. 865 PULPIT.

The p., therefore, (and I name it filled T. ii 326 The p. (when the satirist has at last T. ii 329 I say the p. (in the sober use T. ii 332 The p. to the level of the stage T. ii 564

Since p. fail, and sounding boards reflect T. iii 21
In p. none shall hear Y.D. 58

PULSE.

Daniel ate p. by choice—example rare! P.E. 215 Thy vigorous p., and the unhealthful East T. iv 363 Of voided p. or half-digested grain T. v 95

PULVERIZED.

P. of venality, a shell Y.O. 123

PUNCH.

The p. goes round, and they are dull Y.D. 45

PUNCTUAL.

As I can number in my p. page St. ii 3 Dependent on the baker's p. call T. i 244 Of the undeviating and p. sun T. vi 129 Timing more p., unrecorded facts Y.O. 47

PUNCTUALLY.

P. paid for lengthening out disease H. 204

PUNISH.

To bind the lawless, and to p. guilt Ch. 281 To p. lust, or pluck presumption down Ex. 250 And will not p., in one mingled crowd Ex. 716 May p., if he please, the less, to warn T. ii 157

PUNISHED.

Be p, with perdition, who is pure? H. 387 And earth be p. for its tenants' sake T. vi 257 Was p. with revolt of his from him T. vi 370 Is p., and down comes the thunderbolt T. T. 403

PUNISHMENT.

Effects of p. and wrath divine A.T. 51 The p. importing this, no doubt E. iii 52 That Sin let loose speaks P. at hand Ex. 160 Is difficult, their p. obscene Tir. 221 For more than common p., it shall Tir. 411

PUNY.

The p. tyrant burns to subjugate H.189 [189] To extort their truncheons from the p. hands T. v But spurious and short-lived; the p. child T. v 621 And, all the elements thy p. growth Y.O. 38

PHPII

Of womanhood, fit p. in the school T. iv 228
His p., and his torment, and his jest T. iv 632
Your p. strike upon have struck yourselves Tir. 270
Who feed a p.'s intellect with store Tir. 622
And makes his p. proud with silver pence T.T. 509

PUPPET.

And wit that p. prompters might inspire R. 312

PUPPY.

And puzzling set his p. brains D.W.23
While colts and p. cost us so much care? Tir. 295
The p. pack that had defiled the scene T.T. 641

PURCHASE.

Not Mexico could p, kings a claim Ch. 214
They could not p, earth with such a prize Ez. 622
The well judged p,, and the gift M. i TI own I am shocked at the p. of slaves P. A. 1
That all your virtues cannot p. now T. 570
Are there who p. of the Doctor's ware ? T. ii 366
Spent in the p. of renown for him T. v 277
And thou hast made it thine by p. since T. vi 859
And thinking I might p. it too dear T. T. 515
To p., at the fool-frequented fair T. T. 756

PURCHASED.

Their freedom p, for them, at the cost Ex. 171 Have p. Heaven, and prove my title good T. 96

PURCHASING.

But while they get riches by p. blacks P.A. 15 PURE.

P. in her aim, and in her temper mild Ch. 422
Has filled his nrn where these p. waters rise Ch. 436
And, farewell else all hope of p. delight Con. 681
His unsuspecting sheep, believe it p. Ex. 103
And kept the faith immaculate and p. Ex. 208 [442
Their wisdom p., and given them from above Es.
When a bar of p. silver or ingot of gold F.M. 1
His new-born virtues, and preserve him p. H. 170
Be punished with perdition, who is p. P. H. 387
For when it streams from that p. source Miss — 57
Oh fie! 'Tis evangelical and p. P.E. 133
May least offend against so p. a flame R. 248[T. ii 373
W hose hands are p., whose doctrine and whose life
P. from the lees, which often more enhanced T. ii 508
P., from so foul a pool, to shine abroad T. ii 798
Though few now taste thee unimpaired and p. T. iii 43

P. is the nymph, though liberal of her smiles T. iii z 2

In the p. fountain of eternal love T. iii 244

Perhaps, though by profession ghostly p. T. iv 603 Made p., shall relish with divine delight T. v 783 Thy purity, till p. as Thou art p. T. v 880 While summer was, the p. and subtile lymph T. vi 185 In streaming gold; syringa, ivory p. T. vi 160 Is not: the p. and uncontaminate blood T. vi 789 Derives from Heaven, p. as the fountain is T. vi 833 Let laurels drenched in p. Parnassian dews T.T. 13 Should be renewed in nature, p. in heart V. 60

PURE-BOSOMED.

P. as that watery glass Comp. ii 9

PURER.

With a new medium and a p. light Ch. 330 And sends the patient into p. air R. 282 Gold, p. far than Ophir ever knew V. 97

PUREST.

That jewel of the p. flame F. 11 And stroke his polished cheek of p. red Tir. 847

PURGE.

To judge the lands, to p. atrocious crimes A.T. 141 Their mildest physic is a farrier's p. Ch. 502 To p. and skim away the filth of vice P.E. 343 That so much beauty would do well to p. T. i 726

PURGED.

Till penitence had p, the public stain Ex. 74

PURIFIED.

And p., rejoices to have lost T. iii 500

PURIFYING.

And p., makes it shine the more Con. 598

PURITY.

That p., whose loss was loss of all T. iii 84 Thy p., till pure as Thou art pure T. v 880 And claim the palm for p. of song T.T. 636

PURL

Should p. amidst the traffic of Cheapside T.T. 185 PURLING.

The precious stream still p, in his ear P.E. 232

PURLOINED.

Or vermin, or at best of cock p. T. i 568 Seeking her food, with ease might have p. Y.O. 19

PURPLE.

The p. bumper trembling at his lips H. 358
Her unctuous clives, and her p. vines Her. 7
The p. evening and resplendent moon R. 348
With modest grandeur in thy p. sone T. iv 257
With p. spikes pyramidal, as if T. vi 159
Althesa with the p. eye; the broom T. vi 170 [369
In coach with p. lined, and mitres on its side Tir. 73

PURPORT.

The p. of his deep decrees E. i 60 Their p., uses, properties, resigned Y.O. 152

PURPOSE.

I therefore p. not, or dream Cast. 55
Of Heaven's mysterious p. and ways Ch. 58
The milk of their good p. all to curd Ch. 504
Resumed his p., had a world of talk Con. 279
Much to the p., if our tongues were loose Con. 354
Their hopes, desires, and p. estranged Con. 725
With all my p. intermingling E. i 26
A stranger's p. in these lays E. ii 1
Frames many a p., and God works his own Ex. 323
Live to no sober p., and contend H. 129

Is handmaid to the p. of grace H. 146 The p. of to-day H.F. 2 On p. to answer you, out of my mint P.A. 19 While, all his p. and steps to guard P.E. 41 Must watch his p. with a stedfast eye P.E. 577 For Heaven's high p., and not his own R. 18 What p. has the King of Saints in view? T. 179 Yet scorn the p. for which they live T. i 486 The bias of the p. How much more T, ii 493 Should speak to p., or with better hope T. iii 25 Convened for p. of empire less T. iii 62 That ran through all his p., and charge T. iii 148 Beneath one head for p. of war T. iv 666 Great p. with ease, that turns and wields T. v = 252The triple p. In that sickly, foul T. v 583 No cruel p. lurk'd within his heart T. vi 362 But like his p., gracious, kind, and sweet T vi 504No. Doth he p. its salvation? No T. vi 705 He p., and he shall answer—None T. vi 934 A devil's p. with an angel's face T.T. 130 Debased to servile p. of Pride T.T. 748 Fulfil the p., and appeared design'd Tir. 93Egregious p.! worthily begun Tir. 404 PURPOSED.

So God has greatly p.; who would else T. vi 820 PURPOSING.

As if the poet p. to wed T.T. 554

PURRED.

Nor slept a single wink, or p. R.C. 75 PURSE.

The fretting plague is in the public p. Ch. 62 His glittering p., that envy of all eyes Ch. 472 By lean despair upon an empty p. Ch. 506 His countenance, his p., his heart, his hand R. 595 Into his overgorged and bloated p. T. i 737 And he was competent whose p. was so T. ii 742 Or if that mine be shut, some private p. T. iii 797

PURSE-PROUD.

The rich grow poor, the poor become p. H. 18 PURSUE.

Should wiser be, than to p. Beau 3
Taught me what path to shun, and what p. Ch. 239
All prompt his pleased pursuit, and to p. Ch. 325
Perhaps—whatever end he might p. Ch. 541
The path of narrative with care p. Con. 217
P. the course that truth and nature teach Con. 890
The gilded butterfly p. E, iv 51
Here lies, whom hound did ne'er p. Ep. ii 1
That He bids thousands fly when none p. Ez. 360
P. the search, and you will find F. 199
They could have held the conduct they p. H. 256
Nor riches I, nor power p. O. ii 4
P. their sport, and follow to the deep R. 160
P. the track of his directing wand T. iii 777
When none p., through mere delight of heart T. vi
Truths that thelearned p. with eager thought Tir. 73
But let eternal Infamy p. T.T. 29

PURSUED.

P. the swallow o'er the meads D.W. 11
Where under Heaven is Pleasure more p. Ez. 7
Trifles p., whate'er the event Mor. 45
Like trout p., the critic in despair P.E. 503
Unnumbered pleasures harmlessly p. R. 784
These, these are arts p. without a crime R. 799
That rule, p. with reverence and with awe T. 536
Laboured, and many a night p. in dreams T. iii 787

PURSUING.

P. gilded flies; and such he deems T. vi 922

PURSUIT.

All prompt his pleased p_{\cdot} , and to pursue Ch_{\cdot} 325 A vain p. of fugitive, false good H. 4 Did join in the p. J.G. 240 The real worth of man's p. Mor. 26 Folly the spring of his p. P.B. 17 These call him loudly to p. of more P.E. 50 At least are friendly to the great p. R. 146 Manly designs, and learning's grave p. R. 242 A life of ease a difficult p. R. 634 Is squandered in p. of idle sports T. ii 758 Oh friendly to the best p. of man T. iii 290 Pathetic in its praise, in its p. T. iv 719

PURVEYED.

Address himself who will to the p. T. iv 784

For such is all the mental food p. Tir. 620

Of folly, plunging in p, of death \overline{T} , v 595

Keen in p., and vigorous to retain Tir. 524

PURVEYOR.

To turn p, to an overgorged T, v 421

PUSH.

Forbid in vain to p, his daring way Ex. 17 [706 That strength would fail, opposed against the p. Ex.

PUSH-BY.

Mighty to parry and p. God's word H. 659

PUSHED.

Are never long vouchsafed, if p. aside Ex. 690 In vain they p, inquiry to the birth T, ii 511 His murderer on his back, and, p. all day T. vi 428 P. with a madman's fury. Fancy shrinks T. vi 513 While thus through all the stages thou hast p. Y.0.60

PUSHING.

P. her bold inquiry to the date R. 669 To trivial toys, and p. ivory balls T. vi 274

PUSH-PIN.

And every effort ends in p. play T.T. 547

PUSILLANIMOUS.

'Tis p, and prone to flight T, v 373

Till gentler P. shall come Ep. ii 40 P. with delight beyond expression R.C. 43 Awakened by the shock (cried P.) R.C. 53 And P. remained still unattended R.C. 66 And p. came into mind no more R.C. 71

PUSS-GENTLEMAN.

A fine p. that's all perfume Con. 284

PUT.

He thought to p, him in his crop N.G. 12 In politic convention) p. your trust T. v 323

PUTREFACTION.

'Tis such a light as p. breeds Con. 675

PUTREFY.

And p, the breath of blooming Health T, ii 184

PUTRID.

And, charged with p. verdure, breathe a gross T. ii PUZZLE.

And while the clerk just p. out the psalm Ch. 473 Which, puzzling long, at last they p. out N.A. 78 PUZZLED.

They disentangle from the p. skein T. iii 145

PUZZLING.

And p, set his puppy brains D.W. 23 Sorting and p, with a deal of glee Con. 13 Which, p. long, at last they puzzle out N.A. 78

PYRAMID.

She towered a cloud-capped p. of snow Her. 4 By p, and mausolean pomp T, v 183

PYRAMIDAL.

With purple spikes p., as if T. vi 159

QUADRANGULAR.

With spots q. of diamond form T. iv 217

QUADRILLE.

Blame, cynic, if you can, q. or ball P.E. 175 QUADRUPED.

To q. instructors, many a good T. vi 622

QUAGS.

[253 Crooked or straight, through q. or thorny dells Tir.

And q. in its deportment and attire T. ii 461

QUAKE.

That owns a carcass, and not q. for fear? N.A. 100 She q. at his approach. Her hollow womb T. ii 88 The silent circle fan themselves, and q. T. iv 149 Retires, content to q., so they be warmed T. iv 386 And q. before the gods themselves had made T. v 292

QUAKING.

Unmoved and without q. F. 126

QUALIFIED.

Least q. in honour, learning, worth Tir. 413 But since although well q, by age Y. Q. 137

QUALIFY.

To q. him more at large Trans. iv 11

QUALITY.

But we, as if good q. would grow P.E. 363 Are q, that seem to comprehend P.E. 423 Where all good q. grow sick and die R. 788 And useful q., and virtue too T. vi 623 Their noble q, all quenched and cold Tir, 818 In thee some virtuous q, combine V. 31

QUALMS.

Some seek, when queasy conscience has its q. Ch.

QUARREL.

M. q. with N. because M. wrote a book A.T. ii 1 Mankind from q., but their fatal end Con. 174 Are sadly prone to q. F. 87Renew the q. on the conqueror's part Her. 74 To tease for cash, and q, with all day P.E. 372 Robbery of gardens, q. in the streets Tir. 229

QUARRELSOME.

Grew q., and pecked each other P.T. 57

QUARRY.

A q. more important still than you P.E. 332 [132 When thou wouldst build; no q, sent its stores T. v A q. of stout spurs and knotted fangs Y.O. 117

QUARTER.

Winds from all q. agitate the air T. i 373 Swarms in all q.; meets the eye, the ear T. ii 818 In that bright q, his propitious skies Tir. 395 Three q, of a year Y.D. 6

QUARTER-STROKES.

But such mere q, are not for me T.T. 581

QUARTO.

Stamped on the well-bound q., grace the shelf T.T. QUAVERING.

Q. and semiquavering care away P.E. 127

QUEASY.

[447 Some seek, when q. conscience has its qualms Ch. QUEEN.

When the British warrior q. B. 1 And trident-bearing q, of the wide seas Es. 275 Aspiring to the rank of Q.—L.R. 7 Let each be deemed a Q." L.R. 24 A train, attendant on their q. Miss - 71 For no such sight had England's Q.—Q.V. 25 Darkness, O Q.! ne'er called before Q.V. 35 And show this q. of cities, that so fair T. i 727 And strutting in thy school of Q. and Kings V. 45 Our Q.'s long-agitated breast 1789, 47 O Q. of Albion, q. of isles! 1789, 58 But she is something more than Q. 1789, 70

QUELL.

And q, the shapeless monsters of the times A.T. 142Can q. the love of freedom in a horse" Ch. 172 To q, the valour of the stoutest heart Ex. 858 To q, the faction that affronts the throne T.T. 67 QUELLED.

Be q. in all our summer-months' retreats T. iii 315

QUENCH.

Obscure or q. a faculty that finds Con. 593 With some cold moral think to q. the fire P.E 320 To q. it) here shines on me still the same M.P. 10 No Fear attends to q, his glowing fires T. 189 In human bosoms, q. it or abate T. iv 747 Unwelcome vapours q. autumnal beams T.T. 212

QUENCHED.

But these shall last when night has q. the pole H. Was q, in rheums of age, his voice, unstrung T lii 728 That seems half q, in the immense abyss T, iii 216 Their noble qualities all q. and cold Tir. 818

QUENCHING.

In soothing sorrow, and in q strife T. vi 963 Now q. in a boundless sea of clouds Y.O. 76

QUENCHLESS

Cruel is all be does. 'Tis q. thirst T. iv 459

QUEBULOUS.

O q, and weak !—whose useless brain H. 29 A q. old woman's voice Trans. iv 25

QUEST.

"To distant wilds in q, of other game A.T. 106 Where nought eludes the persevering q. H. 445

QUESTION.

Decide no q. with their tedious length Con. 87 Ere you proudly q. ours! N.C.56That q. has its answer—What is man? T.382But what is truth? 'Twas Pilate's q. put T. iii 270 Of its own taunting q., asked so long T. vi 870 To press the important q, on his heart Tir. 57 A captious q., sir (and yours is one) Tir. 903

QUEVEDO.

Q., as he tells his sober tale T.T. 93

QUIBBLES.

New raised objections with new q. meets P.E. 551

QUICK.

Joys doubly sweet to feelings q, as thine Ch. 298 The turns are q., the polished points surprise Ch. 541 My q. approach, and soon he dropped D.W. 35 Forms rise, to q. perfection wrought Mrs. M -Oft gave me promise of thy q. return M.P. 37 Oh, then, a text would touch him at the q.! T. 310 Shadow and sunshine intermingling q. T. i 347 Impregnated with q. fermenting salts T. iii 464 Then rise the tender germs, upstarting q. T. iii 521Here, Sally, Susan, come, come q. Trans. iv 29

QUICKEN.

Q. a market, and helps off the trash Ch. 522 [503] And though his beams, that q. where they shine H. Than Virtue q., with a warmth divine T.T. 382

QUICKENING.

That love of Christ in all its q. power Con. 562

QUICKLY.

Twas but to prove how q_{\cdot} , with a frown $E_{x_{\cdot}}$. 578 Not q. found, if negligently sought Ex. 695 Was q. distanced, matched against a peer's R. 580 His wasted spirits q., by long toil T. i 128 Clean riddance q. made, one only care $T. \times 70$

QUICKNESS.

A q., which in later life is lost Tir. 110

QUICKSAND.

Till sinking in the q. he defends P.E. 552 A broad of asps, or q in his way Tir. 870

QUICK-SIGHTED.

Q. arbiter of good and ill Tir. 31

QUICK-SILVER.

Like q., the rhetoric they display P.E. 21 QUICK-THOUGHTED.

That, while laborious and q. man Ex. 316

QUIESCENT. There sits q, on the floods that show M.P. 92Nor less amused, have I q. watched T. iv 291

QUIET.

And with a q., which no fumes disturb Con. 267 All night, we resting q. in the fold N.A. 92 Is left to aleep for peace and q. sake T. 428 Poor, yet industrious, modest, q., neat T. iv 374

QUILL.

With an old tavern q., is hungry yet T. ii 628Fast as the periods from his fluent q. T. iv 19 [158 With the thought-tracing q. or tasked his mind Y.O.

QUINTESSENCE.

The q. of all be read M. ii 11

So did not Paul. Direct me to a q. T. ii 472

QUIRKS.

And place, instead of q. themselves devise H. 629 His still-refuted q. he still repeats P.E. 550 That plea refuted, other q. they seek T. 293

To q. the forest and invade the fold Ch. 185 To q, the bliss thy rural scenes bestow Ch, 299 Each heart would q, its prison in the breast Ch, 610 Go, q. the rank to which ye stood preferred Con. 75 Which is, that I may fairly q. E. iv 22 Nor would be q. that chosen stand F.B. 28 And wilt thou q, the stream O, ii 15 Which thousands once fast chained to q, no more R. 2 Nor q, till evening watch his giddy stand R. 434 He pressed him much to q, his base employ R, 594 But when his lord would q, the busy road R. 631 [212 And, ere he q. the pen 8t. i 34 Tom q. you, with-" Your most obedient, sir" T. Who q. the coachbox at the midnight hour T. i 91

Nor his who q. the box at midnight hour T. i. 98 In tempests; q. his grasp upon the winds T. ii 181 Even as his first progenitor, and q. T. iii 297 [v 65 The sparrows peep, and q, the sheltering eaves T. And q. their office for their error's sake \tilde{T} . vi 884 And not to q, a score Y.D. 32

QUITRENT.

His q, ode, his peppercorn of praise T.T. 110

QUIVER.

See then the q. broken and decayed T. ii 803 Till, his exhausted q. yielding none T. vi 873

QUIVERED.

The well-poised lance that q, at his side A.T. 144

QUIVERING.

Those alders q. to the breeze S. 6 Dancing uncouthly to the q. flame T. iv 276

QUOTE.

Set Paul to music, he shall q. him too P.E. 113

QUOTH.

"And now," q. poor unthinking Relph A Fable 18
"An't please your ladyship," q. I—E. iv 79
Q. Mrs. Gilpin,—"That's well said J.G. 25
"Good lack!" q. he, "yet bring it me J.G. 61
"Did you admire my lamp," q. he N.G. 15
"Methinks the gentleman," q. she P.T. 30 Q. one a rarer man than you Y.D. 57

$\mathbf{R}.$

RABBLE.

T.T. 322 When the rude r.'s watchword was-" Destroy!" Man praises man. The r., all alive T. vi 694

BACE.

The Fauns and Satyrs, a lascivious r. A.T. 199 Might feel themselves allied to all the r. Ch. 22 Steps forth to fashion and refine the r. Ch. 98 Home to the goal where it began the r. Ch. 568 Gird up each other to the r. divine Con. 702My spaniel, prettiest of his r. D.W. 5Where will you find a r, like theirs endowed Ex, 195 Their glory faded, and their r. dispersed Ex. 241 Baboons are free from, upon human r.? Ex. 417 Seem to reflection of a different r. Ex. 619 Our years, a fruitless r. without a prize H. 25 To men of pedigree, their noble r. H. 237 Politely learned, and of a gentle r. H. 682 Ill fated r.! how deeply must they rue Her. 51
"He carries weight!" "He rides a r.!" J.G. 115 That Gilpin rode a r. J.G. 244 Some love a concert or a r. L. W. 31 Creatures of gentler r. M.B. 4 Thou hadst supposed them of superior r. N.A. 74 For with a r. like theirs no chance I see N.A. 113 Lights of the world, and stars of human r. P.E. 97 Than Vice's mean and disingenuous r. P.E. 297Secure of nothing, but to lose the r. P.E. 563 Each sire and dam, of an infernal r. P.E. 568 The busy τ , examine and explore R. 151 Not only in our wiser r. R.C. 22 And ardour in the Christian r. St. vi 23 He that would win the r., must guide his horse T. 13

That guides the Christian in his swifter r. T. 534 That yet a remnant of your r. survives T. i 340 [i 564 Productive only of a τ . like ours T. ii 584 From his accustomed perch. Hard-faring r.! T. And waved his rod divine, a r. obscene T. ii 826 The impoverished earth; and overbearing $r.\ T.$ iii 672 Of our forefathers—a grave, whiskered r. T. iii 768 "Have reached this nether world, ye spy a r. T. v 828 As once in Gibeon, interrupt the r. T. vi 126 [384 And while her infant r., with outspread hands T. iv Starts to the voluntary r. again T. vi 333 Our ancestry, a gallant Christian r. T.T. 372 Two or three millions of the human r. T.T. 423 The reprobated r. grows judgment proof T.T. 459 Sufficient to redeem the modern r. T.T. 664 Ere yet his r. begins, its glorious close T.T. 708 When first we started into life's long r. Tir. 315 The boughs in which are bred the unseemly r. Tir.594

RACER.

This r. of the sea A Tale 30

RACK.

He breaks the cord that held him at the r. Ch. 173 To every pang that r, an anxious mind Ex, 571

RACKED.

Thy τ , inhabitants repine, complain Ex. 304

RADIANT.

His r. glories, azure, green, and gold T. 61 And all her fruits by r. truth matured T. i 607 "R. with joy towards the happy land T. v 836 Receive yet one, as r. as the rest T. vi 903

RADISH.

Enjoyed, spare feast! a r. and an egg! T. iv 173

BAGE.

Full of r. and full of grief B. 8 Of controversial r. emits F. 104 [earned T. vi 533 His r. grew cool; and pleased perhaps to have Not e'en the vigorous and hateful r. Con. 45 Out of the very flames of r. and hate Con. 186 The r. and rigour of a polar sky H. 462 The Rose soon reddened into r. L.R. 9 Swells at the thought, and kindling into r. T. 477 Or when rough winter r., on the soft T. iii 31 A silent witness of the headlong r. T. iii 218 The r. of fermentation, plunges deep T. iii 519 Of patriots, bursting with heroic r. T. iv 48 Arms, through the vanity and brainless r. T. iv 619 The season smiles resigning all its r. T. vi 61 Snorting, and starting into sudden r. T. vi 550 From these a long succession, in the r. T.T. 680 (What will not hunger's cruel r.?) T.B. 5 Feel all the r, that female rivals feel Tir. 471

RAGGED.

Wide yawns a gulf beside a r. thorn N.A. 14

RAGING.

O'er the r. billows borne N.C. 4 And proves a r. scorpion in his breast P.E. 241 'Tis done—the r. storm is heard no more T. 275 By vicious Custom, r. uncontrolled T. iii 682 R. abroad, and the rough wind, endear T. iv 309

Their fluttering r., and shows a tawny skin T. i 568 So he may wrap himself in honest r. T. iii 806 To clamorous importunity in r. T. iv 414

RAIL.

Too often r. to gratify his spleen Ch. 500 While others at that doctrine r. L.W. 19 Swears 'tis a bargain, r. at his hard fate T. vi 293

RAIMENT.

And cast his filthy r, at them all T. 235

RAIN.

He walked abroad, o'ertaken in the r. Con. 277 Himself as bountiful as April r. H. 304 Autumnal r. had made it chill Mor. 13 After long drought, when r. abundant fall N.A. 59 Could shelter them from r. or snow P.T. 53 Fearless of humid air and gathering r. T. 212 Blown all aslant, a driving, dashing r. T. 239 With dripping r., or withered by a frost T. ii 211 Her sunshine and her r., her blooming spring T.vi 946 But Fate thy growth decreed; autumnal r. Y.O. 23

RAINBOWS.

His r. and his starry eyes Mrs. M-4 raise.

But r. the shrillest cry in British ears Ex. 271 And r. a laugh) pass unmolested by H. 621 Would r, her voice, and rear J.P. 10 Here various motives his ambition r. P.E. 53 To r. such wonders in her view Q.V. 63 Not to molest, or irritate, or r. R. 317 Content if thus sequestered I may r. R. 805 From which no power of thine can r. her up T. i660 Though Appetite r. outcries at the cost? T. ii 621 To r. the prickly and green-coated gourd T. iii 446 And destitute of means to r, themselves T, v 248 Shall τ , no fends for armies to suppress T.T. 317 May r. such fruits as shall reward his care Tir. 771

RAISED.

Not as if r, by mere mechanic powers Con. 706 And r. thyself, a greater, in their stead? Ez. 367 Soon r. a cloud that darkened every land Ez. 509 They r, the hue and cry J.G. 236 [Ex. 579 He that had r. thee, could have plucked thee down (And r. her voice, and frowned beside) M.F. 16 Plants r, with tenderness are seldom strong P.E.359New r. objections with new quibbles meets P.E. 551 Taught the r. shoulders to invade the ears T. i 67 R. by the mole, the miner of the soil T. i 273 Of the edifice that policy has r. T. ii 817 And ribands streaming gay, superbly r. T. iv 541 As if exalting him they r, themselves T. v 263 Ask him, indeed, what trophies he has r. T. vi 932 Such men are τ , to station and command T.T. 354 Shifted the wind that r. it, and it fell T.T. 337 With droll sobriety they r. a smile T.T. 658 [293 Of poets r. by you, and statesmen, and divines Tr. Have r. you high as talents can ascend V. 13

RAKE.

R, well the cinders, sweep the floor E, iv 41

RAKEHELL.

By some lewd earl, or r. baronet P.E. 314

RALPH.

"And now,"quoth poor unthinking R.—A Fable 18

And endless her increase. Thy r. are there \tilde{T} . v_1 A τ ., the ewes and wethers, sad, addressed $N \cdot A \cdot \Omega$

RAMBLE.

My r. ended, I returned D.W. 29 To enjoy a r. on the banks of Thames T. i 115 Yields no unpleasing r.; there the turf T. i 530

RAMBLED.

Have r. wide. In country, city, seat T. iii 14

RAMBLING.

Would ye, when r. in your morning ride R. 545 All these, life's r. journey done St. i 3

Through all He spoke a noble plainness r. Es. 135 Down r. the wine into the road J.G. 125 Freshening his lazy spirits as he τ . P.E. 411 She τ . upon no rock R.G. 20 That r. through all his purposes, and charge \bar{T} . iii

RANDOM.

And all at r., fabulous and dark T. ii 522 They shame their shooters with a r. flight T. ii 807 By these fortuitous and r. strokes T. v 124 At r., without honour, hope, or peace T. v 899 And, like a scattered seed at r. sown T.T. 674

All Kilwick and all Dinglederry r. N.A. 36 [v 819 With which Heaven r., when every star in haste T.

Free as the lordly bull that r. o'er the mead A.T.61To traverse seas, r. kingdoms, and bring home Ch. 301 Provides the faculties an ampler r. Ch. 334 Should r. where Providence has blessed the soil Con. Of joys they meet with in their heavenly r. Con. 694 R. at liberty, and snuffs the wind R. 630 And r. an Indian waste without a tree T. i 261 The prouder sashes fronted with a r. T. iv 763 To r, the fields and treat their lungs with air T, iv 772 These meadows and that r. of hills his own T. v 223 His body bound, but knows not what a r. T. v 775 And guiltless of offence, they r. the air T. vi 575 Of modest truth for wit's eccentric r. Tir. 174

RANGED.

These chestnuts r. in corresponding lines T. i 263 So once were r. the sons of ancient Rome T. iii 596

RANGERS.

And thus the r. of the western world T. i 618

RANK

R. its abuse among the foulest deeds Ch. 209 Go, quit the r. to which ye stood preferred Con. 75 And where unsightly and r. thistles grew H. 526 Aspiring to the r. of Queen L.R.7The r. debauch suits Clodio's filthy taste P.E. 188 Flowers of r. odour upon thorny lands R. 754 Like regimented coxcombs r, and file T. 422 Begets its likeness. R. abundance breeds T. i 686 Assuming thus a τ , unknown before T, ii 370 Suffice to give the marshalled r, the grace T, iii 604 All hate the r. society of weeds T. iii 670 Interprets her more truly) of a r. T. iv 548 To the next r. contagious, and in time T. iv 584 If guards, mechanically formed in τ . T.T. 135 Of r. obscenity, debauched their age T.T. 631 'Twould thin the τ . of the poetic tribe T.T.768Rise in his forehead, and seem r. enough Tir. 164 R. as a virtue, and is yet a vice Tir. 465 Or is thine house, though less superb thy r. Tir. 751

RANKLING.

No rough annoyance r. in his mind R. 428

BANSACKED.

I r., for a theme of song 1789, 1

RANSOMED.

Who made, who marred, and who has r. man Tir. 128

BANT.

Of heroes little known, and call the τ . T. iii 140 Of τ . and rhapsody, in virtue's praise T. v 677 An English poet's privilege to τ . T. T. 299

BANTING.

Outscolds the r. actor on the stage T. iv 45

RAPACIOUS.

Extreme, at once r, and profuse T, ii 880

RAPE.

That lewd incontinence, and lawless r. A.T. 64

RAPID.

Sinuous or straight, now r. and now slow T. iii 778 But trees, and rivulets whose r. course T. vi 109

RAPIDITY.

With mad r. and unconcern T.T. 464

BAPIDLY.

As life declines, speed r. away T. i 130 Fades r., and by compression marred T. iv 669

BAPINE.

When Roman r., by no laws withheld A.T. 126 And that obtained by r. and by stealth? Ex. 371 To indigence and r.; till at last T. iv 497

BAPS.

He notes it in his book, then r. his box T. vi 292

RAPT

Fearless, and r. away from all his cares T, iii 311

RAPTURE.

And with scenes that new r. inspire C. 51
Forget his harmony, with r. heard Con. 447
From thousands with r. inspired M.D. 40
The choicest r. to impart Miss - 3Cards with what r., and the polished die P.E. 171
And with a r. like his own exclaim R. 86
And that my r. are not conjured up T. i 151
Joys that her stormy r. never yield T. iii 57
His manner, and with r. tastes his style T. iii 228
That errs not, and find r. still renewed T. iii 728
And adds his r. to the general praise T. v 890
Akin to r., when the bauble finds T. vi 276
Its clearest tone, the r. it inspires T.T. 298

BAPTUROUS.

Earth rolls the r. hosanna round T. vi 797

And false ones are as r. almost A Tale 7
Thought is so r., and fancy so profuse Con. 856
An acquisition rather r. F. 31
Not e'en the sun, desirable as r. H. 505
Impelled through regions dense and r. O. i 15
Daniel ate pulse by choice—example r.! P.E. 215
And sells them medals, which, if neither r. P.E. 399
Become more r. as dissipation spreads R. 706
Learning is one, and wit, however r. T. 302
But r. at home, and never at his books T. ii 383
And pregnant with discoveries new and r. T. iii 138
So grateful to the palate, and when r. T. iii 147 [434
And therefore 'tis, that, though the sight be r. Tir.
Are such menr. ? perhaps they would abound Tir. 700
Such r. exceptions, shining in the dark Tir. 841
Belinda and her bird! 'tis r. Trass. iv 31

BAREE-SHOW.

Who thrusts his nose into a r.? Con. 286
The bustle and the r. Trans. ii 16
To live by buskin, sock, and r. V. 34

RARER. Quoth one a r. man than you Y.D. 57

The gems of India, Nature's r. birth Ch. 134

Thy temple, once thy glory, fallen and r. Ez. 259
BASH.

RAREST.

That fire abated which impels r, youth Con. 641 [901 With r, and awkward force the chords he shakes Con. (As is the course of r, and fiery men) T, vi 542 But soon alas! detect that r, mistake V. 55

RASHLY.

Not r. or in sport U. 8

TO A CT

A r. fast clinging to the cage T.B. 46 While the r. is on the scout Trans. iii 11

RATE

And play the fool, but at a cheaper r. R. 562 They prove too often at how dear a r. T. vi 416 RATED.

Shall find them r. at their full amount T. 545
RATIFY.

That none could frame or r. but she Con. 468
RATIONAL.

Strange! that a creature r., and cast T. i 574 Of r. discussion, that a man T. v 306 The dreadful leap, more r. his steed T. vi 517 Respect, as is but r. and just Tvr. 710

BATTLE.

The stones did r. underneath J.G. 43

RATTLING.

Till half the world comes r at his door H. 77 No r, wheels stop short before these gates T, iv 144

Yon roaring boys, who r. and fight Pat. 5 There, and there only (though the deist r. P.E. 614 For solitude, however some may r. R. 735

A r., while with glossy breast A Fable 1 (For r., though, as birds of omen A Fable 20 The unfledged r, and the lion's whelp T, vi 461

RAVING.

The r. storm and dashing wave defies Con. 559

RAVISH.

May no foes τ , thee, and no false friend T.T. 332

[iii 30 'And fetch my cloak; for though the night be r. E. The youth now bearded, and yet pert and r. Tir. 155

RAY.

Are taught by r. that fly with equal pace Ch. 363 Let all your r. of information meet Con. 240 Thou hast as bright an interest in her τ . Ex. 590But now and then perhaps a feeble r. H. 93 No Cotton, whose humanity sheds r. H. 205 Diverging each from each, like equal r. H. 303 With all a July sun's collected r. R. 484 Traduce the splendour of a noontide r. T. 540 [v 6 Seen through the leafless wood. His slanting \tilde{r} . T. . But if his word once teach us, shoot a r. T. iii 240 A τ . of heavenly light gilding all forms T. v 810 Like his to shed illuminating τ . T. T. 712 And Genius shed his r. Th. 4 Our striplings shine indeed, but with such r. Tir. 286 From whence his r. proceed Trans. i 6

RAZOR.

By cold submersion, r., rope, or lead R. 584

REACH.

I am out of Humanity's r. A.S. 9 He flew to r. it, by a law A Tale 51 The Scripture placed within his r., he ought Ch. 201 And only sympathy like thine could r. Ch. 304 And too short lived to r, the realms of peace Ch. 451 Fate having placed all truth above his r. Con. 142 True bliss, if man may r. it, is composed Con. 679 Her utmost r., historical assent Con. 777 And plucks the fruit placed more within his r." Con. And all is trash that Reason cannot r. Ex. 108Nor spare a life too short to r, the skies Ex. 623 Joys always prized, when placed within our r. H. 36 Was too refined for them, beyond their r. H. 500 To r. the distant coast H.F. 22 Truths that the theorist could never r. P.E. 11 As woodbine weds the plant within her r. R. 229Above the r, of man: his hoary head T, i 520 Is obvious, placed within the easy r. T. i 598 Of public note, they r. their perfect size T. i 696 Might never r, me more! My ear is pained T, ii 5 Shall roll themselves ashore, and r. him there T. ii145 Is obstinate, and cure beyond our r. T. iii 40 Has lost its terrors ere it r, me T, iv 101 Shine out; there only r, their proper use T, iv 662 As she with all her rules can never r. T. v 126To r. a depth profounder still, and still T. v 593 To contemplation, and within his r. T. vi 263 And, trust me, his utility may r. Tir. 731 [Tir. 801 Whose hearts will ache, once told what ills may r. So shalt thou live beyond the r. Trans. H. 2

REACHED.

No traveller ever r. that blest abode E. ii 11 [504 But still light r. thee; and those gods of thine Ez. Directs thee to that eminence they r. Ez. 657 For saddletree scarce r. had he J.G. 49 Just r, it when the sun was set Mor. 22 So thou, with sails how swift! hast r. the shore M.P.

His censure r, them as he dealt it P. 65 Had r. the sinewy firmness of their youth T. v 298 "Have r, this nether world, ye spy a race T. v 828Bushed to the cliff, and having r. it, stood T. vi 552

That r. home, "The night," they said, "is near \hat{C} on.

READ

REACTION.

Of action and r. He has found T. ii 198

I have r, the Review; it is learned and wise A.T. iv l He r. the skies, and, watching every change Ch. 333 He r. wise lectures, and describes aloud Ch. 389 Well r., well tempered, with religion warmed Con.640 Thou canst not r., with readiness and case Ez. 312 Can pause one hour to r. a serious rhyme Ez. 605 To r, the news, or fiddle, as seems best H. 76 By which he r., that life without a plan H. 95 To r, wise lectures, vanity the text H. 107 Of all it ever was my lot to r. H. 425 The quintessence of all he r. M. ii 11

Ye writers of what none with safety r. P.E. 307 Such as, when legible, were never r. P.E. 392 R., ye that run, the awful truth St. i 21 He r, his sentence at the flames of Hell T. 10 [274 The book shall teach you; r., believe, and live!" T. And in that charter r., with sparkling eyes T. 329 Inquisitive attention, while I r. T. iv 52 He teaches those to r., whom schools dismissed T.ii To r., engraven on the mouldy walls T. v 418

To r. his wonders, in whose thought the world T. v 798 So r, he Nature, whom the lamp of truth T. v 845 But r. the instrument, and mark it well T. vi 454 And r. with such discernment, in the port T. vi 617 The man that is not moved with what he r. T.T.25And mine can r, them there The Doves 16 With such a lustre, he that runs may r. Tir. 80 [114 What friends we sort with, or what books we r. Tir. I r. of bright embattled fields 1789, 3

"We find sound argument, we r. the heart" T. ∇ 654

READER.

Hush—silent r. profit most A Tale 29 Such writers, and such r., owe the just P.E. 329 "His joys be mine," each R. cries St. iii 33 My very gentle r. yet unborn T. ii 581 Sagacious r. of the works of God T. iii 253

READEST.

(Attentive when thou r.) of England's peers S. i 3 READIER.

But none with r. skill !—'Tis here they learn \tilde{T} . iv READINESS.

Thou canst not read, with r. and ease E_{E} . 312 With unsuspecting r, he takes T, vi 427

READING.

And r. here his sentence, how replete St. ii 7 Cry—hem! and r. what they never wrote T ii 411

Had wit as bright as r. to produce Con. 614 "Tis r. polished from the mine" E. iv 90 But prove as r. to believe F. 17

To me ever r, to show Gr. 43 With prudence always r, at our call H. 431 Thus showed his r, wit J. G. 186

And r, to be borne to court R.C. 20 Formed for his use, and r, at his will? T, ii 202

REAL

A r. and a sound one F. 15
Seeking a r. friend, we seem F. 142
From emptiness itself a r. use H. 156
The r. worth of man's pursuits Mor. 26
Their r. interest to discern N.G. 28
Yours r., and pernicious in the extreme P.E. 101
Ask wealth of Heaven, and gain a r. prize R. 162
Or r., or fictitious, of the times T. 162
A r. elegance, a little used T. ii 611

REALITY.

And, common sense diffusing r. day Tir. 189

And earth has no r. but woe" H. 68 And in r. to find no friend T.T. 160

REALM.

In Scotland's r., where trees are few A Tale 1
In Scotland's r., forlorn and bare A Tale 9
"This triple r. adores thee;—thou art come Ch. 270
And too short lived to reach the r. of peace Ch. 451
Pierced to the very centre of the r. Es. 576
Cry to her universal r., "Rejoice!" H. 54
Drives through the r. of Sin, where Riot reels H. 651
And she, once mistress of the r. around T. 398
And swayed the sceptre of his infant r. T. i 23

Disturbs the economy of Nature's r. T. vi 579

Whose corresponding misses fill the r. P.E. 311

REAP.

Not knowing thee, we r. with bleeding hands R. 753 Yes—ye may fill your garners, ye that r. T. v 755 The laurels that a Csesar r. are weeds T. vi 989

REAPED.

And r. their plenty without grudge or strife T. v 203REAR.

Which seems by the crest that it τ . $G\tau$. 3 Esteem them, sow them, τ . them, and protect H. 295 With post-boy scampering in the τ . J. G. 235 He τ . unchanged his barren head Miss — 39

He r. unchanged his barren head Miss — 39 The dwarfish, in the r. retired, but still T. iii 594 Though poor in skill to r. them, lights at last T. vi 753 And eke did r. right merrily, two staves T. vi 662 She r. her favourite man of all mankind T.T. 217 From him who r. a poem lank and long T.T. 532

REARED.

That τ . us. At a thoughtless age, allur'd T. vi 38 REASCEND.

As soon shall rise and r, the throne T. 395

REASCENT.

And such the τ .; between them weeps T. i 327

REASON. But R. still, unless divinely taught Ch. 337

Endued with r., yet by nature blind Ch. 382
Religion, Virtue, R., Common Sense Con. 77
On R.'s verdict is a madman's deed Con. 190
The power to clothe that r. with his word Con. 432
Then there's another r. yet E. iv 21
And all is trash that R. cannot reach Ex. 108
Could he with r. murmur at his case H. 316
And when by that of r., a mere fool H. 567
Till some r. ye shall find N.C. 50

Is there, as R., Conscience, Scripture say R. 651 And is this all l Can R. do no more R. H. 1 In r., is judicious, manly, free T. v 354 Scoffs at her own performance. R. now T. v 629 To excuses in which r. has no part) T. v 656 Distinguished much by r., and still more T. v 601 Kings do but r. on the self-same plan T. T. 49 Could they, or would they, r. as they ought T. T. 58 Endued with r. only to descry T: 61 But r. heard, and nature well perused T: 89 Till R., now no longer overawed T: 187

As R., or as Passion, takes the reins P.E. 36

With so much r. all expect from them Tir. 353

With r. forecast and dispatch T. ii 623 The comfort of a r. joy T. vi 347

REASONERS.

And truth, proposed to r. wise as they H. 258 Ye r. broad awake, whose busy search Y.O. 80

REASONING.

With a r. the Court will never condemn A.C. 22 But while his province is the r. part Ch. 375 The r. power vonchsafed of course inferred Con. 431 Then praise is heard instead of r. pride H. 143 R. at every step he treads The Doves 1 Such r. (if that name must needs belong T. v 655 Such r. falls like an inverted cone T.T. 58

REBEL

R., because 'tis easy to obey T. 36 REBELLED.

Though long r. against, not yet suppressed R. 16 REBELLION.

His speech r. against common sense H. 565 R. is my theme all day Pat. 1

REBELLIOUS.

Than reverence, in perverse r. youth T. ii 780 So clothed with beauty, for r. man? T. v 754 REBOUND.

From stuccoed walls smart arguments r. H. 346

REBUFFS.
The rugged frowns and insolent r. T. iv 411

REBUILDS.

R. the towers that smoked upon the plain Her. 71

REBUKE.

Despising all r., still persevered Ex. 397
But gently to r. his awkward fear H. 61
Grew stern, and darted a severe r. T. ii 720
Falls first before his resolute r. T. v 619
The blameless animal, without r. T. vi 469
And measure of the offence, r. a deed T. vi 655
Let reverend churls his ignorance r. Tir. 401
His lessons tire, his mild r. offend Tir. 716

RECALL.

How gladly would the man r, to life T, vi 42 Not to r, a promise to your mind V, 21

RECEDES.

The sloping land r. into the clouds T. i 171

RECEDING.

Loses in tears the far τ . shore Ch. 147 R. wide, they pressed against the ribs T. i 65

RECEIPT.

A satisfactory r. in full Con. 202 RECEIVE.

Letheran gulfs r, them as they fall B.B. 7

And in return r. supply from all Ch. 92 And still enlarged as she r, the grace Ch, 597 They fill their measure, and r. their due Con. 34 Thus touched, the tongue r. a sacred cure Con. 887 If the new mail thy merchants now r. Ex. 606 This artless vow may Heaven r. Miss - 93 R. from her both appetite and treat P.E. 210 Nor Ouse on his bosom their image r. P.F. 4 Claims most compassion, and r. the least R. 302 R. me, languishing for that repose R. 369 R. me now, not uncorrupt as then R. 381 Mercy r. him on her peaceful shore T. 276 R. no praise, but, though her lot be such T. 323 Humility is crowned, and Faith r. the prize T. 589 To narrow bounds. The Grove r. us next T. i 354 R. the morsel—flesh obseene of dog T. i 562 R. our air, that moment they are free T. ii 41 [83] How does the earth r. him?—with what signs T. ii The lewd, vain world that must r. him soon T. ii 764 Assimilates all objects. Earth r. T. iv 329 To give thee what politer France r. T. v 468 R. proud recompense. We give in charge T. v 706 The soul that sees him, or r. sublimed T. v 805 That hear not, or r. not their report T. v 855 To stroke his azure neck, or to r. T. vi 781 R. yet one, the crown of all the earth T. vi 856 R. yet one, as radiant as the rest T. vi 903 R. advantage from his noiseless hours T. vi 944 Summer in haste the thriving charge r. Tir. 45 In return thou shalt r. Trans. iii 7 R., dear friend, the truths I teach Trans. H. 1

RECEIVED.

R. the transcript of the Eternal Mind Ex. 198
If Vice r, her retribution due Ex. 247
The cradle that r. thee at thy birth Ex. 469
R. the seal of martyrdom in blood Ex. 617
Mankind r. from heaven Miss — 24
Ere our necks r. the chain N.C. 42
Learning itself, r. into a mind P.E. 431
Flies to the levee, and, r. with grace R. 479
And in the midst an elbow, it r. T. i 76
Desirous to return, and not r. T. iii 81
The infant elements r. a law T. vi 200
R. his nobler nature, and was made Tir. 97
Regards with scorn, though once r. with awe Tir.
So much thy juniors, who their birth r. Y.O. 135

RECEIVING.

The total herd r. first from one T. vi 335 R. benefits and rendering none T. vi 959

RECEPTACLE.

The soft r., in which, secure Y.O. 27 recess.

Since then in the rural r. C. 41 Forcibly drawn from many a close r. Ch. 529 To them the deep r. of dusky groves R. 181 His hours of leisure and r. employs R. 215 His dwelling a r. in some rude rock T. 79 How calm is my r., and how the frost T. iv 308 None that, in thy domestic snug r. Tir. 581

RECIPROCALLY.

And these, r., those again P.E. 565

RECIPROCATED.

R. duties F. 48

RECIPROCATING.

'Tis thus, r. each with each Ch. 119

RECITAL.

And give us, in r. of disease Con. 318 Strange the r.! from whatever cause P.E. 401

RECKON.

Who r. every touch a blemish P. 56 Will r. with us roundly for the abuse T. vi 606

BECKONED.

It has always been r. a just cause of strife A.T. ii 9 RECKONING.

To a sharp r. that has lived in vain T. iii 179 An easy r., and they think the same T. v 278

RECLAIM.

And Commerce partially r. mankind Ch. 372 R. his taste, and brighten up his parts Con. 840 R. the wandering thousands, and bring home Er. 723 R. the wanderer, binds the broken heart T. ii 344 That would r. a vicious age U. 6

RECLAIMED.

That mulish folly, not to be r. Ch. 497
A mere fox-follower never is r. Con. 410 [682
Those hearts should be r., renewed, unright Con.
The poor r. inhabitant, his eyes H. 532
What vice has it subdued? whose heart r. T. ii 320
Observed as prodigies, and soon r. T. iv 524
Ingenious Cowley! and though now r. T. iv 723
Or in one article of vice r. Tir. 241

RECLINED.

His eyes are sunk, arms folded, head r. H. 689 Thus oft r. at ease, I lose an hour T. iv 302 In the shadow of a bramble, and r. T. v 324

RECLUSE.

And I have lived r. in rural shades Con. 801 Nor these alone prefer a life r. R. 169 An Indian mystic, or a French r. T. 128

RECOGNISE.

And r. the slow retiring fair T. ii 454 RECOIL.

R. from weary life's best hour St. v 19
R. from its own choice—at the full feast T. i 467
RECOILED.

He gleans the blunted shafts that have r. T. vi 874 RECOLLECT.

(As you perhaps may τ .) B.R. 11 To τ , that in a form like ours Ch. 583 Conscious of age, she τ . her youth T. 153 But τ . that he has sense, and feels Tir. 720

RECOLLECTED

Or r, only to gild o'er R. 9 The r. powers, and snapping short T. iv 305

RECOLLECTING.

a sudden thought N.A. 51

But r., with a sudden thought N.A. 51 But r. still that he is man T. v 335

RECOLLECTION.

But alas! R. at hand A.S. 47 The r., like a vein of ore Con. 515 Such r. of our own delights Tir. 311

BECOMMENCE.

To r. life's trials, in the hope F.A. 4

RECOMMEND.

Whatever steep inquiry r. Ch. 316
And wound the grace I mean to r. Ch. 486
And make the course he r. my choice R. 388
Oh! grant a poet leave to r. R. 541
If sufferings Scripture nowhere r. T. 109
Whether inclement seasons r. T. iii 388
I therefore r., though at the risk T. iii 705
A king, that would, might r. his horse Tyr. 417

RECOMPENSE.

The abundant harvest, r. divine H. 770
Shall r. his mere intent Mor. 56
His r. in both unjust alike P.E. 32
The r. that arts or arms can yield R. 101
R. ill? He trembles at the thought T. 192
Fair r. of labour well bestowed T. iii 430
Receive proud r. We give in charge T. v 706
He serves his country, r. well T. vi 968
That then, in r. of all thy cares Tir. 879

RECOMPENSED.

She did me wrong, I r. the deed Con. 797 As ever r. the peasant's care R. 332 And I am r., and deem the toils T. vi 725

RECOMPENSING.

And fragrant chaplet, r. well T. iii 668

RECONCILE.

And r. man to his lot A.S. 56 And r. his lusts with saving grace H. 605 Whom famine cannot r. to filth T. iv 417

RECONCILED.

Thus soothed and r., each seeks L.R. 25

RECORD.

Could fetch from r. of an earlier age Con. 615
This r. of thee for the Gospel's sake J.T. 48
Short-lived possession! but the r. fair M.P. 54
In faithful memory she r. the crimes T. 161
That may r. the mischiefs he has done T. i 277
Have each their r., with a curse annex'd T. vi 441
Nor can the wonders it r. be sung T. vi 749
Which joyful I will oft r. 1789, 34

RECORDED.

In vain au, in historic page B.B. 3 And worthy thus to be au, P, 4 And I au, what I heard The Doves 39

RECORDING.

No; marble and r. brass decay Con. 551 And when r. History displays T.T. 21

RECOVER

I soon τ , from these needless frights H. 375 His cheek τ , soon its healthful hue T, i 441

RECOVERED.

Where George, r., made a scene Q.V. 27

RECOVERING.

R. what we lost we know not how Con. 402
R. fast its liquid music, prove T. vi 261
R. and misstated setting right Y.O. 48

RECOVERY.

Ourselves, and our r. from our fall R. 138 And a complete r. struck him dumb T.T. 393

RECREANT.

"Is r., and unworthy of his spurs" A.T. 122

Some beams of r, she yet displays T, 485 of r, and fitness, moral truth T, v 672

RECTOR.

The tedious r. drawling o'er his head T. i 95

RECUMBENCY.

By soft r. of outstretched limbs T. i 82

RECUMBENT.

The sheep τ ., and the sheep that grazed N.A. 47

R. at her ease, ere long R.C. 45 It yields them, or r. on its brow T. v 787

RECURS.

A kindred melody, the scene r. T. vi 13

RED.

His long r. cloak, well brushed and neat J.G. 75. Not yet the hawthorn bore her berries r. N.A. 19 While morning kindles with a windy r. R. 432 Drops the r. vengeance from his willing hand T. 278 Yellow and r., of tapestry richly wrought T. i 33 His azure eyes, is tinctured black and r. T. iv 216 In the r. cinders, while with poring eye T. iv 289 Of innocent commercial Justice r. T. iv 683 The scentless and the scented rose; this r. T. vi 151 Ye nymphs! if e'er your eyes were r. T.B. 1 And stroke his polished cheek of purest r. Tir. 847

REDBREAST.

The r. warbles still, but is content T. vi 77

REDCAP.

My dear Dick R., what say you? P.T. 37 REDDENED.

The Rose soon r. into rage L.R. 9

REDDENING.

And r. with a just and generous pride A.T. 204

REDEE M.

And, though disgraced and slighted, to r. Ch. 13 Or blade that might r. it from despair Her. 23 Rarely r. the short remaining ten R. 40 Not to r. his time, but his estate R. 561 Sufficient to r. the modern race T, T. 664

REDEEMED.

To look at him who formed us and r. Ch. 579 A soul r. demands a life of praise T. 279

REDEEMER.

The atonement a R.'s love has wrought T. 505

REDOUBLING.

Peal upon peal r. all around T. 240

REDOUBT.

Enlarge and fortify the dread r. Con. 689

REDRESS.

They meet with little pity, no r. Ch. 530
To feel, and courage to r. her wrongs T. iv 795
Dishonour, and be wronged without r. T. vi 822
Nor ceased till, ever anxious to r. T.T. 632

REDRESSED.

The frenzy of the brain may be r. T. vi 521

REDUCE.

R. his wages, or get rid of her T. 211

REDUCED.
R. to practice, his beloved rule Con. 139

The faculties that seemed r. to naught Con. 403 Though numerous once, r. to few or none? E. iii 17

REDUNDANT.

With foliage of such dark r. growth T. i 226

RE-ECHOING.

R. pious anthems! while beneath T. i 343

REEKING.

From many a steaming lake and r. bog A.T. 93 The r., roaring hero of the chase Con. 405 His r. head full low J.G. 122

Within its r. bosom, threatening death T. iii 503 In ponderous boots beside his r. teem T. iv 342

REEDS.

N ow wantoned lost in flags and r. D.W. 9 E njoy close shelter, wall, or r., or hedge T. iii 474

REEL.

Drives through the realms of Sin, where Riot \tilde{r} . H. Or twining silken threads round ivory τ . T. iv 264 Thatlaw has licensed, as makes temperance r. T. iv 471

REELED.

Of wild imagination, and there r. T.T. 605

REELING.

Such drunken r., have an awkward look Con. 862 War lays a burden on the r. state Ex. 306 That r. goddess with the zoneless waist T. iii 52

REFECTORY.

The chamber, or r., may die T. vi 572

REFERENCE.

One proof should serve—a r. to you E. iii 13

REFERRED.

The Nymphs r. the cause J.P. 18

REFINE.

"Nor needs his genuine ore τ .! E. iv 89 Steps forth to fashion and τ , the race Ch. 98 And what dilates the powers must needs τ . Ch. 332 That, while thy truths my grosser thoughts τ . R. 97 R. his speech, and fashions his address R. 240

REFINED.

"Smoothed and r. the meanest strains E. iv 74
Expressive, energetic, and r. Ex. 482
Was too r. for them, beyond their reach H. 500
To feel the most r. Miss — 4
Nor even these, whose pleasures less r. P.E. 57
"Tis innocent, and harmless, and r. P.E. 179
That, so r., it might the more entice P.E. 344
Though busy, trifling; empty, though r. P.E. 426
At length a generation more r. T. i 28
Half so r. or so sincere as ours T. iv 206
By footman Tom for witty and r. Tir. 687
And that, possessor of a soul r. Tir. 721
Is so r., and delicate, and chaste T.T. 511
To joys less innocent, as less r. T.T. 601

REFINEMENT.

R. is endued, thrice happy thou! T. iv 359 Polite R. offers him in vain T. vi 977 She judges of r. by the eye T. vi 987

REFIT.

Their ruffled plumage calm r. Mrs. M-46

REFLECT.

R. the noonday glory of the skies Ch. 398
R. that these, and all that seems thine own Ex. 672
But above all r., how cheap soe'er Ex. 680
R. dishonour on the land 1 love T. ii 224
Since pulpits fail, and sounding boards r. T. iii 21
Still to r., that though a joyless note T. v 406
R. his attributes who placed them there Tir. 92

REFLECTED.

And Heaven r, in her face Comp, ii 10 Her beauteous form r, clear below M.P. 93All her r, features. Bacon there T, i 702 Sees her unwrinkled face r, bright T, iv 4

REFLECTING.

And unambitious course, r. clear T. vi 723

REFLECTION.

Of wise r. and well timed discourse Con. 388
Or where does cold R. less intrude? Es. 8
Seem to r. of a different race Es. 619
With this r. in his head R. C. 108
R. and remorse, the fear of shame T. i 489
R. such as meliorate the heart T. iii 304
With lights, by clear r. multiplied T. iv 268

REFLUENT.

Gone with the r. wave into the deep T. ii 120

REFORM.

All zeal for a R. that gives offence Ch. 533 And blest r. that I have never heard Con. 804 By rigour? or whom laughed into r.? T. ii $21 Remorse begets r. His master-lust T. v 618 And make mistakes for manhood to r. Tw. 445

REFORMATION.

To urge r. of national ill F.M. 14

REFORMED.

R. and well instructed? You shall hear T. 130 Enraged the more by what might have r.T. vi 24

REFRAIN.

But above all (or let the wretch r.) P.E. 456

REFRESH.

Nor cheer the spirit, nor r, the sight H. 299 R., where it winds, the faded green J.T. 39

REFRESHED.

By culture tamed, by liberty τ . T. i 606 Courageous, and τ . for future toil T. iii 19 And sleeps and is τ . Meanwhile the face T. iv 28 Doubtless much edified, and all τ . T. vi 63 His soul τ . with foretaste of the joy? T. vi 763

REFRESHING.

R. change! where now the blazing sun? T. i 35

REFRESHMENT.

When Custom bids, but no r. find T. i 390

REFUGE.

To sweep away all r. of lies H. 628
Pants for the r. of some rural shade R. 6
Then welcome r., and a peaceful home T. 257
Dearly obtains the r. it affords T. i 238
Sleep seems their only r.: for, alas! T. iv 396
To fly for r. from distracting thought T. v 415
Drawn from his r. in some lonely elm T. vi310
To seek a r. from the tongue of Strife T. vi341
Of fruit proscribed, as to a r., fled Y.O. 16

REFUNDED.

To be r. duly, when his vote T. iii 799

REFUSE.

Nor some reproof yourself r. B. R. 23 God's better gift they scoff at, and r. Ez. 439 Gleans up the r. of the general spoil Her. 70 Free in his will to choose or to r. P.E. 25 If stubborn Greek r. to be his friend P.E. 438

REFUSED.

These ask with painful sadness, and, r. T. iv 418

REFUSING.

Yet thus we dote, r. while we can T. \forall 874

REFUTE.

And cavil at with ease, but name r. T. 360 Stand up unconscious, and r. the charge T. ii 84 And we can readily r. it here T. T. 104

REFUTED.

That plea r., other quirks they seek T. 293 And Victory r. all he said T. T. 389

Culprit his liberty r. E. iv 59 Then suddenly r, the prize 1789, 54

REGAL.

By r. warrant or self-joined by bond T. iv 664

REGALE.

His rich materials, and r. your ear Con. 617 Nor grateful eglantine r, the smell H. 471 And fungous fruits of earth, r. the sense T. i 532 That ye may garnish your profuse r. T. iii 551 Then turning, he r. his listening wife Tir. 324 Their breath a sample of last night's r. Tir. 834

REGALED.

On twigs of hawthorn he r. Ep. ii 17 The scent r., each odoriferous leaf T. iii 621

REGARD.

The judge of all men owes them no r. Ch. 572 Ensured him mute attention and r. H. 687While one as innocent r. L.W. 27

If he the tinkling harpsichord r. P.E. 148 Their nature; and disclaiming all r. T. iv 679 Worthier of r., and stronger \tilde{N} . C. 51

If he r. not, though divine the theme T. vi 1019 [156 R. with scorn, though once received with awe Tw. Where no r, of ordinances is shown Tir, 242

REGARDLESS.

And she r, of her softer kind A.T. 177 Or does he sit r. of his works? T. ii 516 The nurse, no doubt. R. of her charge T. ii 775 You the r. author of its woes T. v 350
R. of their plaints. To make him sport T. vi 386 R. of wringing and breaking a heart The Rose 15 A parent pours into r. ears Tir. 590

With you bright r. of the day Mrs. M - 52But one, the rose, the r. of them all) R. 724

REGIMENTED.

Like r. coxcombs rank and file T. 422

REGION.

R. Cæsar never knew B. 29 To succour wasted r., and replace Ch. 129 Deplores the wasted r. of her globe Her. 80 Impelled through r. dense and rare O, i 15 To r, where, in spite of sin and wee R. 27 Levantine r. these, the Azores send T. iii 583 From inland r. to the distant main T. v 790 And r. long since desolate, proclaim T.T. 431 Ennobling every r. that he chose T.T. 562

REGISTER.

Extract a r., by which we learn T. iii 152

REGISTERED.

Was r. in Heaven ere time began T. v 530 Is r. in heaven; and these no doubt T. vi 440

REGRET.

But has left a r, and esteem C. 7 The sable warrior, frantic with r. Ch. 145 And if a tear, that speaks r. N. 21 One, and one only, charged with deep r. P.E. 349 Parted without the least r. P.T. 58

One pleasure lost, lose heaven without r. T. 342

K. would rouse them, and give birth to prayer T. 313

And still remember, nor without r. T. i 116 And spiritless, as never to r. T. i 652Freedom! whom they that lose thee so r. T. ii 130 Scenes that I love, and with r. perceive T. iii 710 Sad witnesses how close-pent man r. T. iv 777 That converse which we now in vain r. T. vi 41 Abandoned, and, which still I more r. T. iv 692 And still admiring, with r. supposed T. iv 716 To weep for the buds it had left with r. The Rose 7 Poets, of all men, ever least r. T.T. 176

REGRETTED.

Ye saw me once (ah, those r. days R. 371 Jack vanished, was r. and forgot R. 581

REGULAR

How r. his meals, how sound he sleeps! R. 430 And dress the r. yet various scene T. iii 592 The r. return of genial months T. vi 123 Exact and r. the sounds will be T.T. 530

REGULATE.

Were I empowered to r, the lists Con, 195 The freaks of fashion, r. the dress T. ii 317 Prescribed their course, to r. it now T. vi 201

REHEARSE.

Their zeal begotten, as their works r. Ch. 505 Words learned by rote a parrot may r. Con. 7 Could you contrive the payment and r. T.T. 178

REHEARSED.

By one of sound intelligence r. T. vi 480 Urged loud a claim to be r. 1789, 14

Than r. in this horrible place A.S. 8 The r. of genuine Charity commence Ch. 413 A story in which native humour r. Con. 203 Whom man, for his own hurt, permits to r. Con. 458 Seems it to say—"Health here has long to r.?" Ep. i 4 Would age in thee resign his wintry r. H. 33 And tells you where ye have a right to r. Her. 48 In Britain's isle, beneath a George's r.! Her. 90 To prove her right to r. L R. 12 They r. united there L.R. 28 Is there one who τ , on high? N.C. 26 Yet heard in scenes where peace for ever r. T. 203 Where peace and hospitality might r. T. ii 617 [642] Where dreams of dress, intrigue, and pleasure τ . R. The spleen is seldom felt where Flora r. T. i 455 And \hat{r} content within them : him we serve T. v 333 Seldom, alas! the power of logic r. T.T. 51 Those arts be theirs that hate his gentle r. T. T. 89 Is always happy, r. whoever may $ar{T}$. T. 238 The mind attains, beneath her happy r. T.T. 262 That he who died below, and r. above T.T. 738 Entitled here to r. Q.V. 4 The symbol of a righteous r. 1789, 44

REIGNED

「T.T. 610 When Cromwell fought for power, and while he r. So 'twas a hallow'd time; decorum r. T. vi 691 "Few, fellow!—there are all that ever r. T.T. 103

BEIGNEST.

But Chance is not; or is not where thou r. T. v 870

REIN.

Snuffs up the morning air, forgets the τ . Ch. 175 In spite of curb and \bar{r} . J.G. 88 By catching at his τ . J.G. 224 As Reason, or as Passion, takes the r. P.E. 36 [535] Till He that rides the whirlwind checks the r. R. He drops the r, and leaves him to his pace T. 247 Or if, when ridden with a careless r. T.T. 306

REITERATED.

R. as the wheel of time T. iii 626

REJECT.

R. all treaty, penetrates all wiles H. 649 Thee we r., unable to abide T. v 879 Not that he previshly r. a mode T. vi 981

REJECTED.

Great schools r. then, as those that swell Tir. 501

REJECTING.

Who, constant only in r. thee T. vi 882

REJOICE.

Catharina alone can r. C. 42
R. with a wholesome fear Trans. H. 20
Cry to her universal realm, "R.!" H. 54
And bid her mountains and her hills r. R. 362
Who cannot much, r. in what he can R. 504
Hear him, o'erwhelmed with sorrow, yet r. R. 772
Your fate unmerited, once more r. T. i 339
Or heals it, makes it languish or r. T. ii 70
And purified, r. to have lost T. iii 500
R. in him, and celebrate his sway T. v 326
The event is sure; expect it, and r.! Tir. 343

REJOICING.

He hears the herbs and flowers r. all N.A. 60

RELAPSE.

They put on a damp nightcap, and r. Con. 322 That task performed, r. into themselves T. ii 441 Its own dishonour by a worse r. T. \forall 626

RELATE.

R. how many weeks they kept their bed Con. 315 Else, could a law like that which I r. E. iii 56 Misses! the tale that I r. P.T. 62

RELATIONS.

The soft r., which, combined Miss — 79

RELAX. Charity may r. the miser's fist Con. 812

RELAXATION.

But r. of the languid frame T. i 81 A r. of Religion's hold T. ii 569 To him is r. and mere play) T.T. 156

RELAXED.

R. into a universal grin T. iv 204

RELAXING.

The mind, τ . into needful sport R.715

RELEASE.

A kind r. from their imperfect state R. 166 And happy in their unforeseen r. T. ii 126 Than to r. the adultress from her bond T. iii 63 The wearied hireling finds it a r. T. v 411

RELEASED.

Discourse, as if r. and safe at home Con. 571 R. him as my story tells N.G. 25. But leisure, silence, and a mind r. R. 139 The mind, r. from too constrained a nerve T.T. 622

RELENTING.

R. forms would lose their power, or cease Ch. 608 And Cyrus, with r. pity moved Ex. 75 Or guilty soon r. into tears Tir. 112

RELICS.

Supplied such r. as devotion holds T. vi 689 R. of ages! Could a mind, imband Y. 0. 6

RELIED.

When most r, on is most sure to fail V. 68

RELIEF.

206

The wretch that works and weeps without r. Ch.

For want of prominence and just r. Con. 127

Would give r. of bed and board to none H. 306

Fancy shall weave a charm for my r. M.P. 18

Lost by abandoning her own r. R. 758

The soul reposing on assured r. T. 455

And sorted hues (each giving each r. T. iii 631

RELIEVE.

And Peace does nothing to r. the weight Ez. 307

R.! what treasure untold A.S. 25

RELIGION. In the ways of r. and truth A.S. 22

R., Virtue, Reason, Common Sense Con. 77 R. curbs indeed its wanton play Con. 595 Well read, well tempered, with r. warmed Con. 640 Of virtue, and r.'s glorious cause Con. 686 And chiefly when R. leads the way Con. 704 Happy to fill R's vacant place Ex. 121 R., if in heavenly truths attired Ex. 492 R should extinguish strife F. 133 R. ruling in the breast F. 203 Reminds him of r., hated theme! H. 218 A false r., is unknown to you H. 486 And, while r. seems to be her view H. 641 Wit flashing on R.'s side Mrs. M—31 Quite to the lees? And has r. none? P.E. 260 By thee, R., Liberty, and Laws P.E. 462 And stab R. with a sly side-thrust R. 690 R. does not censure or exclude R. 783 A relaxation of R.'s hold T. ii 569 Who deem r. frenzy, and the God T. iv 178 To give R, her unbridled scope T.T. 71 R., richest favour of the skies T.T. 268 R., virtue, truth, whate'er we call T.T. 286
R. harsh, intolerant, austere T.T. 612 Pity R. has so seldom found T.T. 716 R. weaves for her, and half undressed T.T. 723 R. makes the free by nature slaves Tir. 184

RELIGIOUS.

And still by motives of r. force J.T. 33 Wearing out life in his r. whim T. 89 Till his r. whimsy wears him out T. 90

And sound r. sparingly enough Tir. 198

RELISH.

And r. of their pleasure all to lust P.E. 330 My r. of fair prospect; scenes that soothed T. ill And tutored with a r. more exact T. iv 741 But none without some r., none unmoved T. iv 742 Some r., till the sum, exactly found T. v 430 Made pure, shall r. with divine delight T. v 783

RELUMINES.

His eye r. its extinguished fires T. i 442

RELY.

And, while on public nurseries they r. Tir. 793

REMAIN.

My dog! what remedy r. Beau 17
The stench r., the lustre dies away Con. 678
R. with thee, or leave thee at his word Ex. 675
Some thought of immortality r. T. 33
Of their complete effect. Much yet r. T. iii 605
R. to each, the search of sunny nook T. v 71
Time ploughs them up, and not a trace r. T. v 533
Over a sinful world; and what r. T. vi 736
Two thirds of all the virtue that r. Tir. 810

REMAINED.

And Puse r. still unattended R.C. 66 His head alone r. to tell T.B. 65

REMAINING.

To consecrate our few r. groves Con. 826 Rarely redeem the short r_* ten R. 40 And add two-thirds of the r. half T. iii 131

A bold r., but which, if well applied Ch. 585 But merely to r., that ours E. i 93 The writer well r., a heart, that knows H. 429 R. two loiterers that have lost their way P.E. 386 I praise the Frenchman, his r. was shrewd R. 739 R. that gall so many, to the few T. iii 37 In spite of gravity and sage r. T. v 12 Prove, rather than impeach, the just r. Tir. 842 Conjecture and r., however shrewd T.T. 205 REMEDY.

My dog! what r. remains Beau 17 Laugh at their only r., and die Ch. 419 The very r., however sure Con. 169 Sure to succeed, the r. they found Con. 500 Proclaim the r., ye learned, next H. 108 That r., not hid in deeps profound H. 111 The inquirer's aim, that r., is Hope H. 114 "The r. you want I freely give T. 278 Leaving the poor no r. but tears T. vi 845

REMEMBER.

R., Heaven has an avenging rod Ch. 216 But still r., if you mean to please Con. 103 What he r. seems to have forgot Con. 132 R., if He guard thee and secure Ex. 700 And still r., nor without regret T. i 116 Yet few r. them. They lived unknown T. v 724 R. Handel? Who, that was not born T. vi 645 Yes—we r. him; and while we praise T. vi 648 A talent so divine, r. too T. vi 649 I pleased r., and, while memory yet Tir. 133 You told me, I r., glory built T.T. 1

REMEMBRANCE.

Prompts with r. of a present God T. vi 252

REMEMBRANCER.

Faithful r. of one so dear M.P. 11

REMIND.

R. them of their hated inmate, $\sin ! E$. ii 36 R. him of religion, hated theme! H. 218 R. him of his Maker's power and love R. 30

REMINISCENCE.

By r. to his earliest date ? F.A. 23

REMNANT.

Through life's sad r., what no sighs restore H. 24 Improve the r. of his wasted span R. 13 That yet a r. of your race survives T. 1 340 Smooth as a wall the upright r. stands T. \vee 36

REMORSE.

Oh vain inquiry! they without r, Ex. 462 What they themselves, without r., despise H. 253 R., and Sorrow, and vindictive Pain P.E. 43 R., the fatal egg by Pleasure laid P.E. 239
Sabbaths profaned without r. St. vi 39 Reflection and r., the fear of shame T. i 489 R. begets reform. His master-lust T. v 618

REMOTE.

To inhabit a mansion r. C. 45

And gains r. conclusions at a jump Con. 154 Yet Truth is yours, r., unenvied isle! H. 481 Groves, heaths, and smoking villages, r. T. i 176 And hidden as it is, and far r. T. i 228 (If e'er she spring spontaneous) in r. T. i 603 These therefore I can pity, placed r. T. i 626 Their jessamine, her jessamine r. T. iii 584 The most r, from his abhor d resort T. vi 398 Since then, with few associates, in r. T. iii 117 Thus bringing home to him the most r. Tir. 643 So, when r. futurity is brought T.T. 492

REMOTER.

And what could a r, scene show more ? R, 500

REMOTEST.

Illume the land's r. part 1789, 61

REMOVED.

Thyself r., thy power to soothe me left M.P. 121 There hid in loathed obscurity, r. R. 563 Of public virtue ever wished r. T. iv 615

To-morrow r. away H.F. 4 Angelic gratulations r, the skies T, 587 To r. a victim trembling at his foot T. vi 411

But τ , neither fruit nor flower F. 185 His utmost he can r is but small T. 199 (Toilsome and indigent), she τ . much T. 326 To such I r. more than mere respect T. ii 376 Not rich, I r. what I may U. 19

RENDERED.

With love and wisdom, r. back to Heaven Y.O. 154

RENDERING.

Receiving benefits and r. none T. vi 959

RENEW.

[395 The soul, whose sight all-quickening grace r. Ch. R. the quarrel on the conqueror's part Her. 74 And while that face r, my filial grief M.P. 17 Her tale of guilt r. St. v 22 Unless sweet Penitence her powers r. T.T. 398

RENEWED.

[682]

Those hearts should be reclaimed, r., upright Con. Is wooing mercy by r. offence Ex. 413 R. desire would grace with other speech H. 35 To have r, the joys that once were mine M.P. 116 The sprightly morn her cause r. R.C. 69 'Tis free to all—'tis every day r. T. i 434 The soil must be r., which often washed T. iii 603 That errs not, and find raptures still r. T. iii 723 Should be r. in nature, pure in heart V. 60

RENOUNCE.

Is to r. hypocrisy; to draw Es. 408 "R. the world"—the preacher cries L.W. 25 R. the odours of the open field T. i 415 Then wherefore not r. them? No-the dread T. i Delight us, happy to r. awhile T. i 515

RENOUNCED.

Reviled and loved, r. and followed L.W. 33 R. alike its office and its sport R. 293 A secret thirst of his r. employs R. 474 Not to be passed: and she that had r. T. iii 76 Her sex's honour, was r. herself T. iii 77 By ev'ry gilded folly, we r. T. vi 39

RENOVATION.

And r. of a faded world T. vi 124

RENOWN.

Of credit and r. J.G. 2 To poets of r. in song J.P. 17 Occiduus is a pastor of r. P.E. 124 Give useful light though I should miss r. R. 206 And highest in r., can justly boast R. 676 Of honour, dignity, and fair r.! T. iii 59 Spent in the purchase of r. for him T. v 277 As if, like him of fabulous r. T. v 691 So cheaply the τ , of that attempt T, vi 534 Feats of r., though wrought in ancient days T.T. To catch r. by ruining mankind T.T. 60 Deeds of unperishing r. 1789, 15

RENOWNED.

Rome, for empire far r. B. 17 A man r, for repartee F, 91 That Britannia r. o'er the waves M.D. 45 Like thy τ . forefathers, far and wide S. i 12 And so, while Garrick, as r. as he T. iii 598 R. in ancient song; not vexed with care T. vi 997 Long lines of ancestry, r. of old Tir. 817

When all disguises shall be r. away Ch. 558 No longer prey upon our annual r. Ch. 616 Anticipated r., and bills unpaid R. 559 [[Y.O. 125 Thine arms have left thee. Winds have r. them off The veil is r., r. too by priestly hands T. vi 876 Shows all its r. and patches to the world Tir. 451 REPAID.

And long provoked, r. thee to thy face Ex. 391 And praise his genius, he is soon r. P.E. 532Is but a loan, to be r. with use T. iii 364 All well r., demand him, he attends T. iii 398 Might have r. him well, I wote T.B. 58

REPAIR.

And I to my cabin r. A.S. 52 And we will then r. J.G. 10All these to a Montagu's r. Mrs. M-43 Her form with dress and lotion they r. P.E. 299 Nor sofa then I needed. Youth r. T. i 127 A cottage, whither oft we since r. T. i 221 For man's revolt, shall with a smile r. T. vi 746To which the unwashed artificer r. T.T. 152

REPAIRED.

Buckled his helm, and to his steed r. A.T. 172 REPARTEE.

A man renowned for r. F. 91 From r., with jokes that he disdains Tir. 728 REPAST.

And finished his concise r. Mor. 6 At his return—a rich r. for me T, iv 118 REPAY.

Though Scorn r. her sympathetic tears Ch. 414 R. their work—the gleaning only mine H. 771 Yet so will God r. St. vi 38 R. their labour more; and perched aloft T. v 91

Unwin, I should but ill r. U. 1

REPEALED.

Their woes, not yet r., thence date them all Ex. 224 Exults to see its thistly curse r. T. vi 768

REPEAT.

And Echo learns politely to r. Con. 827 And seem to warn him never to r. H. 355 His still-refuted quirks he still r. P.E. 550 Which he that hears it with a shout r. T. v 889

REPEATED.

Still need r. warnings, and at last St. ii 26

Oft r. in your ears St. iv 18 In still r. circles, screaming loud T. 204 And tasteless of the same r. joys T. i 463

REPEL.

Indifference may r. Miss - 42

REPELLED.

His destiny r. Cast. 40

REPENT. That cried "R.!"—and gloried in thy choice? Es. A nation scourged, yet tardy to r. Ez. 723

REPENTANCE.

Thy deep r, of thy thousand lies H. 590

Learn wisdom and r. ere too late" T.T. 437 REPETITION.

The r. makes attention lame Com. 214

By r. palled, by age obtuse H. 22

Though, could our hearts r. Dr. 14 Thy racked inhabitants r., complain Es. 304

REPINING. In r. discontent Trans. iii 30

REPLACE.

To succour wasted regions, and r. Ch. 129 R. the wandering comet in his sphere T. 400

REPLACED

Stoppled his cruise, r. his book Mor. 7 REPLETE.

Forth skipped the cat, but now r. R.C. 99 And reading here his sentence, how r. St. ii 7 The supposition is r. with sin T. 347
R. with vapours, and disposes much T. v 463 In heads r. with thoughts of other men T. vi 90 R. with dreams, unworthy of a man Tir. 160

REPLIED. [A.T. 180 "Oh, shame!" ten thousand echoing nymphs r. When from within it thus a voice r. F.A. 10 [573 "What tidings?" and the surge r.— He soon r.,—"I do admire J.G. 17 -" All lost! Ez.

And with asperity r. P. 20

What marriage means, thus pert r. P.T. 29 "Indeed," r. the Don, "there are but few "T.T.95 But courage, man! methought the muse r. Tw. 787

R. discreetly—"To be sure—no doubt!" Con. 118 Their wisdom bursts into this sage r. Con. 877 (For 'tis my business to r.) E. iv 80 Ask what is human life—the sage r. H. 1

"Fallible man," the Church-bred youth r. H. 421 "We do"—a multitude r L.W. 26

"Dismiss poor Harry!" he r. M.F. 19
"They shall be yours," my Verse r. St. iii 35 I dare not-"And you need not," God r. T. 272 "Because ye will not," Conyers would r. T. 358 To Truth itself, that deigned him no r. T. iii 271

The popular harangue, the tart r. T. iv 31
The Sabine bard. O evenings, I r. T. iv 190 Is touch'd within us, and the heart r. T. vi 5 Sweet Poll! the mimic bird r. Trans. iv 14

Some cordial endearing r. A.S. 35 R. it hot or cold. or wet or dry Con. 386 Which seldom a distinct r. pervades Con. 802 Two Poets, (poets, by r. Dr. 1 R. a message with a pleasing grace T. 205 It is not seemly, nor of good r. T. i 729

My soul is sick, with every day's r. T. ii 6 While, through that public organ of r. T. ii 355 Allured by my r.: but sure no less T. iii 699 That hear not, or receive not their r. T. v 855And worships. Herr. has travelled forth T. vi 813 That are of chief and most approved r. Tir. 459

REPOSE. Contrived both for toil and r. Gr. 10 Secure of their r. N. 8 Receive me, languishing for that r. R. 869 His active years with indolent r. R. 618 She might r., or sit and think R.C. 6 Some place of more serene r. R.C. 30 And hopeless of r. St. v 12 Now seek r. upon an humbler theme T. i 5 Compared with the r. the Sofa yields T. i 102 And charmed with rural beauty, to r. T. iii 28 In letting fall the curtain of r. T. iv 248 'Tis thus the understanding takes r. T. iv 296 But ere he gain the comfortless r. T. v 596 Sacred to neatness and r., the alcove T. vi 571

REPOSED.

That curtained round the scene where they r. A.T. Fearless of wrong, r. his weary strength T. i 15 REPOSING.

The soul r, on assured relief T, 455

REPOSSESSED.

In Freedom lost so long, now r. R. 410

REPREHENSION.

An evidence and r. both Tir. 656

REPRESENTS.

The medium r., and not their own H. 74

REPRIEVES.

And, though himself so polished, still r. T. i 264 REPRIMAND.

To r, them all J.P. 32

REPRISALS.

Make just r., and with cringe and shrug T. ii 645 REPROACH.

Their names, alas! in vain r. an age Ex. 660 R. a people with his single fall T. 234 R. their owner with that love of rest T. i 394 Or seen with least r.; and virtue, taught T. i 690 His name a theme for praise and for r.? T. iii 282 Would not r. me with the loss I felt T. v 490 And clothe all climes with beauty; the r. T. vi 764 The whole r., the fault was all his own Tir. 536

REPROBATE.

"And doth he r. and will he damn T. v 638

REPROBATED.

The r. race grows judgment-proof T.T. 459 REPROOF.

Nor some r. yourself refuse B.R. 23 Picked from the thorns and briars of r. T. vi 1013

REPTILE. Will tread aside, and let the r. live T. vi 567

Since such a r. has its gem Trans. i 27

REPUBLIC. The free r. of the whip-gig state H. 190

Laughs at the r. she has torn T. 163 Thus r. is a spur to wit T.T. 520

REPUTE.

Revived, are hastening into fresh r. Con. 818 Owe their r. in part, but not the whole Tir. 461 REQUIRE.

And gives him all his just demands r. Con. 760 An architect r. alone F. 164

And she gives largely more than he r. H. 56 Can I for thee r. N. Y. G. 10

And he soon finds the talents it r. R. 614

This annual tribute Death r. St. i 11 To his young hopes, r. discreet delay T. iii 504 And plausible that social life r. T. v 466 E'en in his pastimes he r. a friend Tir. 607

REQUIRED.

If not that Hope the Scripture has r. H. 617 When health r. it, would consent to roam R. 517 His country, or was slack when she r. T. iii 89 Were all that Heaven r. of humankind Tir. 85

REQUISITES.

The r. that form a friend F. 14

REQUITE.

That I should ill r. thee, to constrain M.P. 86 To live to God is to r. St. vi 5 The feller's toil which thou could'st ill r. Y.O. 115

Alone could r. them Cast. 34 To r. from the ruins of mankind E. ii 24 (Unless verse r, thee awhile) a thing Y.O.58

RESEARCH.

And spreads the honey of his deep r. T. iv 112

RESEMBLANCE.

Takes the r. of the good she views Ch. 396 With much r. of the past M. 50

RESEMBLE.

So much r. man? Beau 20 Though each r. each in every part Comp. i 7 I may r. Thee, and call Thee mine" R. 98 Till she r. faintly what she views R. 298 R. most some city in a blaze T. v 5 No few, that would seem wise, r. her Tir. 796

RESEMBLING.

These most r. clustered stars Q.V. 11

RESENT.

Loudly r, the stranger's freedom there H. 354 With well considered steps, seems to r. T. v 75 His pride r, the charge, although the proof Tir. 163 R. his fellow's, wishes it were less Tir. 477

RESENTFUL

But dignity's, r. of the wrong T. iii 79

RESENTMENT.

'Tis because r. ties B. 11 In just r. of his injured laws Ex. 328 Incurs r. for the love he shows H. 285

RESERVE.

A decent caution and r. at least H. 404 Speaks with r., and listens with applause R. 448 In converse, either starved by cold r. T. v 471

RESERVED.

But Fate r. Sir Airy to maintain A.T. 56 Shall find me as r. as he F. 188 R. to solace many a neighbouring squire N.A. 5 Was bliss r. for happier days;—so slow T. i 83

RESERVOIR.

Than a capacious r. of means T. ii 201

RESIDE.

R. in that heavenly word! A.S. 26 But how? r. such virtue in that air Tir. 373 Of man's occasions, when in him r. T. ii 537

RESIDENCE.

Once the blest r. of truth divine T. 387

That royal r, might well befit T. v 157 Opprobrious r, he finds them all T, v 584

RESIDENT.

Though r., and witness of the wrong T. iv 594 RESIGN.

And ye, who, rather than r. A Tale 69 Blessed with all wealth can give thee, to r. Ch. 297 Would age in thee r. his wintry reign H. 33 Thy hands their little force r. M. 34 R. our own and seek our Maker's will R. 130 'Tis easy to r. a toilsome place R. 621 "I will r, myself to rest R.C. 61 Till man r. his breath St. vi 34 R, the scenes their presence might protect T, iv 592 And when descending he r. the skies Tir. 37 Then why r, into a stranger's hand Tir. 551 Would cheerfully these limbs r. Trans. ii 34

RESIGNED.

Yes, to deep sadness sullenly r. Ch. 151 Her gloomy monarch, doubtful, and r. Ex. 570 To passion, interest, pleasure, whim, r. H. 212 Or shed impervious to the blast. R.—T. v 72 Already to sorrow r. The Rose 16

Their purport, uses, properties, r. Y.O. 152 RESIGNING.

The season smiles, r. all its rage T. vi 61

RESIST

Whate'er was asked, too timid to r. Ex. 540 And potent to r, the freezing blast T, iii 465

RESISTLESS.

R. Never such a sudden flood T. ii 115 R. in so bad a cause, but lame T. iv 439 R. from the centre he should seek T. v 590 RESOLUTE.

Falls first before his τ . rebuke T. v 619

RESOLVED.

To be r. into their purent earth Ch. 562 Deeply r. to shut a Saviour out Con. 690 F682 And though τ , to risk them, and swim down Ex. Or so r. to err J.P. 26 R. to be unknown Q.V. 58 R. it should continue there R.C. 86 The scattered grain, and thievishly r. T. v 67

Their efforts, yet r. with one consent T. vi 338 To wandering sheep, r. to follow none T. vi 891

R. a union formed for life The Doves 27

RESOLVES.

R. to have none of her own M.D. 48 R. that where he played his sons shall play Tir RESOLVING.

R. all events, with their effects T. ii 163 RESORT.

R. to this example as a rock P.E. 143

Our public hives of puerile r. Tir. 458

Would drive them forth from the r. of men Con. 37 'Tis wrong to bring into a mixed r. Con. 291 The scenes to which not youth alone r. Ex. 24 R. on Sundays to the house of prayer H. 242 And Mercy, fled to as the last \hat{r} . \hat{H} . 378 Te which the mind r., in chase of terms T. ii 288 If Christ, then why τ . at every turn T. ii 535 To which the insipid citizen r. T. iii 642 Oh thou r, and mart of all the earth T, iii 835 Exhausted, he r. to solemn themes T. v 661 The most remote from his abhor'd r. T. vi 398
To the same Patroness r. Mrs. M.— 21

RESOUND.

And Folly pays, r. at your return Her. 62 R. with his sweet-flowing ditty no more P.F. 12 Thump after thump r, the constant fiail T, i 357 Beguile their woes, and make the woodsr. T. i 586 RESOUNDING.

R. oft, and never heard in vain T. iv 356

RESOURCE. The same r. to prove A Tale 78

RESPECT. Yet much as Nature I r. B.R. 9

But though some nobler minds a law r. Ch. 35 How few r., or use thee, as they ought! Con. 24 But veneration or r. finds none Con. 739 Delights us, by engaging our r. P.E. 208 Than by the mere dissembler's feigned r. T. 74 To such I render more than mere r. T. ii 376 Whose actions say that they r. themselves T. ii 377The king who loves the law, r. his bounds T. v 332R., while stalking o'er life's narrow stage T.T. 115 Of love by absence chilled into r. Tir. 576 R., as is but rational, and just Tir. 710

Thy child shall show r. to thy gray hairs Tir. 880 Of grandeur that insures r. 1789, 69 RESPECTFUL.

R. of the smutched artificer T. ii 491 RESPECTING.

R. in each other's case N. G. 33

RESPIRATION.

While every breath, by r. strong T. iv 348 RESPIRING.

R. freely the fresh air, that makes T. i 138 RESPITE.

At length his transient r. past Cast. 43 A longer r., unaccomplished yet T. ii 67 RESPLENDENT.

The purple evening and r. moon R. 348 R. less, but of an ampler round T. iv 258 And the r. rivers. His to enjoy T. v 743 responsive.

R. to the distant neigh he neighs Ch. 177 "And still the sigh r. beave Miss — 87 Or nymphs r., equally affect T. iv 21

Even here is a season of r. A.S. 51 Many he sought, but one above the r. A.T.3The r., alert and active, as became A.T. 133 Afford them place of τ .? A Tale 26 Where seas or deserts part them from the r. C. We come with joy from our eternal r. Ch. 73 The important letters that include the r. Ch. 523 And flow in free communion with the r. Ch. 611 Upon the lap of convenanted r. Con. 574 Is given in earnest of eternal r. E. ii 40 Their host to move, and when it stayed to r. E Hophni and Phineas may describe the r. Ez. 41? And blushing at the tameness of the r. Ez. 543 Obduracy itself must yield the r. Ez. 559

Thy foes implacable, thy land at r. Es. 581 And, after summing all the r. F. 202 Is vanity surpassing all the r." H. 110 In terms as plain, himself has shut the r. H. 341 And death's a doom sufficient for the r." H. 396[510 Spent half the darkness, and snored out the r. H.

A tenfold frenzy seizes all the r. H. 634 They might with safety eat the r. L.W. 10

To smother in ignoble r. Miss — 7 But me, scarce hoping to attain that r. M.P. 100The herbas soft, while nibbling strayed the r. N.A. 38 When thus a mutton statelier than the r. N.A. 81A youngster at school more sedate than the r. P.A.21
With holiness and consecrated r. P.E. 158 [240 Hatched by the beams of truth, denies him r. P.E No wild enthusiast ever yet could r. P.E. 470 Influenced mightily the r. P.T. 43 Scorned by the r., with patient hope they wait R. Genius, and temper, and desire of r. R. 172 On whom he r, well pleased his weary powers R. Forget their labours, and yet find no r. R. 496 [528 That shines and r., as infants smile and sleep R. Absence of occupation is not r. R. 623 Will stand advanced a step above the r. R. 722 Fond of the phantom of an earthly r. R. 764A drawer impending o'er the r. R.C. 39 I will resign myself to r. R.C. 61The τ in order to the top R.C. 94 And wishing for a place of r. R.C. 105 How ill the scene that offers r. S. 3 [ii 23 And heart that cannot r. agree! S. 4 One falls—the r., wide-scattered with affright St. The r, might then seem privileged to play St, ii 19 Then breathed his soul into his r. St. iii 15 The r. too busy, or too gay, to wait T. 40 Offer him warmth, security, and r. T. 252The thousands whom the world forbids to r. T. 438 Pride, of a growth superior to the r. T. 475 [T. i 49 These for the rich: the r., whom Fate had placed Reproach their owner with that love of r. T. i 394 To which he forfeits even the τ , he loves T, i 395 But far beyond the r., and with most cause T. i 632 More frequent, and foregone her usual r. T. ii 61 The r, are sober dreamers, grave and wise T, iii 137 Such powers I boast not—neither can I r. T. iii 217 With hopeful gems. The r., no portion left T. iii 421 Sublime above the r., the statelier stand T. iii 595 The r, appears a wilderness of strange T, iv 78 Made vocal for the amusement of the r. T. iv 159 His reverence and his worship both to r. T. iv 597 But faster far, and more than all the r. T. iv 613 Like flowers selected from the r., and bound T. iv 667 And coarser grass, upspearing o'er the r. T. v 23 One eminent above the r. for strength T. v 231 Familiar, serve to emancipate the r.! T. v 298 To seek no sublunary r. beside T. v 476 And confident assurance of the r. T. v 576 Man views it and admires, but r. content T. ▼ 791 "From toilsome life to never ending r. T. v 841 Their only point of r., Eternal Word! T. v 897 [80 From spray to spray, where'er he r. he shakes T. v The time of τ ., the promised Sabbath, comes T. vi 733 Before a calm, that rocks itself to r. T. vi 739 Receive yet one, as radiant as the r. T. vi 903 A dream disturbed poor Bully's r. T.B. 44 With kingship and dominion o'er the r. Tir. 96 To ears and eyes, the vices of the r. Tir. 274 [546 Æsop, and Phædrus, and the r.?—Why not? Tir. Where early r. makes early rising sure Tir. 765 The τ . will slight thy counsel, or condemn Tir. 805 Seems to imply a censure on the r. T.T. 92Indeed is treasure, and crowns all the r. V. 92 Disjoining from the r., has unobserved Y.O. 107 But r. on none till that be found 1789, 19 RESTED. Nor r. till the Gods had given it life P.E. 529

RESTING.

RESTITUTION.

All night, me r. quiet in the fold N.A. 92

And death or r. is the word T. 264

RETAILER.

A great r. of the curious ware Con. 229

RESTLESS.

A ship!—Could such a r. thing A Tale 25 Both speed their journey with a r. stream Comp. i 2 What ails thee, r. as the waves that roar Ex. 272 A painful passage o'er a r. flood H. 3 For my sake r. heretofore M. 10 R. as his who toils and sweats for food J.T. 24 From cities humming with a r. crowd R. 21 But r. was the Chair; the back erect T. i 44 The chequered earth seems r. as a flood T. i 344 By r. undulation; even the oak T. i 377 Thrice must the voluble and r. earth T. iii 490 And nimble motion of those r. joints T. iii 762 The milldam, dashes on the r. wheel T. v 102

RESTORE.

Unless the power that bade him stand, r. Ch. 348 Through life's sad remnant, what no sighs r.~H.~24That only future ages can r. Her. 40 Could Time, his flight reversed, r. the hours M.P. R. to man the glories he has lost T. 398 Exhilarate the spirit, and r. T. i 182 He stablishes the strong, r. the weak T. ii 343 Cannot indeed to guilty man r. T. iii 677 Her brittle toys, r. me to myself T. iv 307 One breath of Heaven, that cried-"R!" 1789, 40 RESTORED.

Of rights r., variety enjoyed A.T. 154 They saw distemper healed, and life r. Ex. 153 Their vigour, injured soon, not soon τ . T. iii 608 Unlooked for, life preserved, and peace r. T. iv 187 And all shall be r. These naked shoots T. vi 141 Perfect, and all must be at length r. T. vi 819

RESTRAIN.

Warns him or prompts, approves him or r. P.E. 35 Take it and perish; but r. your tongue T. 18 Perhaps timidity r. his arm T. iv 599 Offend not him, whom modesty r. Tir. 727

BESTRAINED.

We are r. indeed, but not subdued Con. 168 Keep Vice r. behind a double guard T.T. 66

RESTRAINT.

Let just R., for public peace designed Ch. 286 True freedom is where no r. is known Ex. 592 From all the rigours of r., enjoy T. ii 127 That no r. can circumscribe them more T. ii 792 And feel a parent's presence no r. T. vi 49 Though want of due r. alone have bred Tir. 533

RESULT.

Witness its insignificant r. Con. 16 And manifold r., into the will T. ii 164 And prove it in the infallible r. T. iii 181 And most attractive is the fair r. T. iii 639 The excise is fattened with the rich r. T. iv 504

RESULTING.

Praise that from earth r., as it ought T. v 802

RESUME.

And there τ , an unembarrassed brow Con. 401 [188 R. her powers, and spurns the clumsy fraud Tir.

RESUMED.

R. his purpose, had a world of talk Con. 279 With looks of some complacence he r. T. vi 535

RESUSCITATED. These hatch'd, and those r. worms R. 64

RETAIN.

"Will none arise, no knight who still r.~A.T.~115Of Nature we r. Miss - 50 Ensured us mastery there, we yet r. T. ii 274
That man immured in cities, see r. T. iv 766
Should make the little ye r. still less Ter. 278 Keen in pursuit, and vigorous to r. Tir. 524 Whose character, yet undebauched, r. Tir. 809

Where can at last his jockeyship r.? Con. 420 And when I bend, r., and shrink P. 85 R. to blazon his own worthless name R. 217 His wish and mine both prompt me to r." R. 390 Shakes hands with business, and r, indeed R, 514 Thus some r, to nourish helpless wee R, 603 Must change her nature, or in vain r. R. 680 For nooks to which she might r. R.C. Farthest r.—an idol, at whose shrine T. i 410 Their wonted entertainment, all r. T. ii 303 At evening, and at night r. secure T. iii 344 More delicate his timorous mate r. T. 214 Now glitters in the sun and now r. T. i 325 R., content to quake, so they be warmed T. iv 386 Because deserving, silently r. T. iv 419

Where parties are agreed, r. the scene A.T. 89 A man once young, who lived r. Mor. 3 A soul screne, and equally r. R. 143That so r, he should not wish a change R. 600 The dwarfish, in the rear r., but still T. iii 594 I still revere thee, courtly though r. T. iv 727 The Author of her beauties, who, r. T. v 893 R. from all the circles of the gay V. 73

RETIRED.

Who seek r. for its proper use R. 170 O sweet r.! who would balk the thought R. 487 That could afford r., or could not? R. 488 But few that court R. are aware R. 609 Of undisturbed R., and the hours T. iv 142 RETIRING.

RETIREMENT

And recognize the slow r. fair T. ii 454 RETORT.

R. the charge, and let the World be told Con. 767 R. the affront against the crown of Pride T. 502

RETOUCHED. That he has touched, r., many a long day T. iii 788 RETRACE.

While we r. with Memory's pointing wand T. iv 183 That in a few short moments I r. T. vi 16 RETRACING.

R. thus his frolics ('tis a name Tir. 332

Could yield them no r. A Tale 20 Enjoy the stillness of some close r. Con. 570 My shrubs displaced from that r. F.B. 2Themselves, perhaps, when weary they r. H. 241 His bold intrusion on their dark r. H. 356 O bliss precarious, and unsafe r.! Her. 83 From his secure r. M.B. 14 The blackbird has fled to another r. P.F. 9 Forsaken her r. Q.V. 26 And each inclines its votary to r. R. 174

Pastoral images and still r. R. 257 Suburban villas, highway-side r. T. 481 [571 And Cobham's groves, and Windsor's green r. T. But grant me still a friend in my r. R. 741 "Oh what a delicate r.! R.C. 60

He, Christianlike, r. with modest mien T. 68

Vain thought! the dweller in that still r. T. i 237 The grand r, from injuries impressed T, i 280 My partners in r. Disgust concealed T. iii 38 Be quelled in all our summer-months' r. T. iii 315 Which he, thus occupied, enjoys! R.—T. iii 676 'Tis pleasant, through the loopholes of r. T. iv 88 Time was when in the pastoral r. T. iv 558 Dismiss me weary to a safe r. T. vi 1004 And eyes the door, and watches a r. Tw. 572 Pay me for thy warm r. Trans. iii 5 A fortress to which she τ . W.N. 11 RETRENCH.

R. a swordblade, or displace a patch T. ii 318 RETRENCHED.

His altered gait and stateliness τ . T. v 76 RETRIBUTION.

If Vice received her r. due Ex. 247

RETRIEVE.

As God's expedient to r. his loss Tir, 166 RETROGRADE.

Conclusion r., and mad mistake T. iii 239 RETROSPECT.

Short as in τ , the journey seems T, vi 19

And in τ , receives supply from all Ch. 92 And brings, at his r., a bosom charged Ch. 321 Their author's frailty, and r. to dust Con. 554[293 R. ashamed, without the wreaths they sought Es. Speak but the word, will listen and r. Es. 455 Provoked and harassed, in r. plagued thee Ez. 533 And Folly pays, resound at your r. Her. 62 Oft gave me promise of thy quick r. M.P. 37 And whispers your r. N. 16 R. and make thy downy nest O. ii 2 Judge his own ways, and sigh for a r. P.E. 611Wins in r. an answer of disdain R. 228 R. at noon to billiards, or to books R. 472 No Sofa then awaited my r. T. i 126 Would oft anticipate his glad r. T. i 543 Desirous to r., and not received T. iii 81 Calls idle, and who justly, in r. T. iii 353 At his r.—a rich repast for me T. iv 113 R., sweet Evening, and continue long! T. iv 244
R. indignant to the slighted plough T. iv 645 As oft r. a pert voracious kind T. v 69 "Pants to \bar{r} , and when he sees afar T. \forall 833 The regular r. of genial months T. vi 123 Shall sigh at their exclusion, and r. T. vi 672Down to the gulf from which is no r. T.T. 465 In r. thou shalt receive Trans. iii 7

RETURNED.

My ramble ended, I r. D.W. 29 R. them happy to the land they loved Ez. 76 Gone thither armed and hungry, r. full Es. 368 R. him to his own F.B. 30 R. him not a single word J.G. 179 Rude as thou art (for we r. thee rude T. i 649 And mirth without offence. No few r. T. vi 692 RETURNING.

As when r, to the theme they meant Con. 858 R., he proclaims, by many a grace P.E. 413

REVEAL.

R. (the man is dead) to wondering eyes H. 572 [21] Through all the heart's dark chambers, and r. I. iii

REVEALED.

For self to self, and God to man r. Ch. 361

That Truth and Mercy had r. to man Ex. 236
Has ne'er been r. to us yet Gr. 36
That bliss, r. in Scripture, with a glow H. 149
Take leave of nature's God, and God r. P.E. 591
The Invisible in things scarce seen r. R. 61
Blind nature to a God not yet r. T. ii 526
That He who made it, and r. its date T. iii 153
And shows him glories yet to be r. T. vi 927
Stands most r. before the freeman's eyes T.T. 269

REVELATION.

The lamp of r. only shows Ch. 339 Go seek on R.'s hallowed ground Con. 499 Of R.'s ineffectual beam Con. 830 'Tis R. satisfies all doubts T. ii 527

REVELRY.

Are silent. R., and dance, and show T. ii 79

REVELS.

Her theatres, her r., and her sports Es. 23

REVENGE.

War followed for r., or to supplant T. i 609 And such sagacity to take r. T. vi 477 And taught a brute the way to safe r. T. vi 559

REVERE.

That in her heart the Christian she r. Con. 787 R. the laws they dream that Heaven ordains H. 241 Not e'en the glorious sun, though men r. H. 501 Though I r. your honourable names R. 663 Surrounding throngs the demigod r. T. 312 I still r. thee, courtly though retired T. iv 727 R. the man whose Pilgrim marks the road Tir. 145

REVERED.

Their name far published, and r. as far Ex. 194 R. at home, and felt in foreign lands R. 412 Thus proud Prerogative not much r. T.T. 230

REVERENCE

REVERENCE. [P.E. 105]
Charmed bythe sounds, "Your R." or "Your Grace"?
And claims a r. in its shortening day Con. 645
That rule, pursued with r. and with awe T. 536
Than r., in perverse rebellious youth T. ii 730
His r. and his worship both to rest T. iv 597
To r. what is ancient, and can plead T. v 300
What none could r. all might justly blame Tir. 87
Through r. of the censor of thy son Tir. 734
I might with r. kneel, and worship thee Y.O. 8

REVERENCED.

R. no less. Who could with him compare? T. v 235 REVEREND.

Right r. Sirs! was no concern of theirs A.T. 132 And add Right E. to Smug's honoured name H. 438 With r. tutor, clad in habit lay P.E. 371 Let r. churls his ignorance rebuke Tvr. 401

REVERIE.

Shall steep me in Elysian r. M.P. 19 But r. (for human minds will act) R. 637 "From r. so airy, from the toil T. iii 188

REVERSE.

Now let the bright r, be known abroad H. 710 R, the sentence, let the truth be known T. 449

REVERSED.

That show r. the villas on their side H. 468
Has wept a silent flood, r. his ways H. 519
Could Time, his flight r., restore the hours M.P. 74
The screws r. (a task which if He please R. 327
Maternal nature had r. its course T. iii 436
Soon shows the strong similitude r. Tir. 443

REVERSION.

Surveys his fair r. with keen eye T. ii 601 REVERTED.

Whose eye r. weeps o'er all the past H. 31

REVIEW.

I have read the R.; it is learned and wise A.T. iv 1 R. thy dim original and prime $E_{\mathcal{I}}$. 467 And novels (witness every month's R.) R. 713 That calls the past to our exact τ . T. iv 184

REVILED.

R. by those that hate her, prays for them Ch. 425 R. and loved, renounced and followed L. W. 33

REVIVED.

R., are hastening into fresh repute Con. 818 And arts τ . beneath a softer day T.T. 621

REVIVES.

And it r. again H.F. 8

REVIVING.

Increasing commerce and r. art Her. 73

REVOKED.

How readily we wish time spent r. T. vi 25

REVOLT.

Man is the genuine offspring of r. H. 181 But sin marr'd all; and the r. of man T. vi 368 Was punish'd with r. of his from him T. vi 370 For man's r., shall with a smile repair T. vi 743 That hour elapsed, the incurable r. T. T. 402

REVOLTED.

If clemency r. by abuse P.E. 596Chains are the portion of r. man T. v 581

REVOLUTION.

It is the constant r., stale T. i 462

REVOLVENCY.

Its own r. upholds the world T. i 372

REVOLVING.

R. seasons, fruitless as they pass Her. 25

REWARD.

Such virtues had need prove their own r. Ch. 571
And fruit r. his honourable toil H. 761
If Love r. him, or if Vengeance strike P.E. 31
Peace follows Virtue as its sure r. P.E. 42
Success in rhyme his glory and r. R. 198
Let verse at length yield thee thy just r. S. i 4
Take, Madam, the r. of all your prayers T. 167
His the mere tinsel, hers the rich r. T. 332
And take unenvied the r. they sought T. 528
Hard lot of man, to toil for the r. T. 11
[620
Well they r. the toil. The sight is pleased T. iii
Deems his r. too great if he prevail Tir. 479
May raise such fruits as shall r. his care Tir. 771
R. his memory, dear to every Muse T.T. 14
To pour in Virtue's lap her just r. T.T. 65

REWARDED.

Richly τ . if he can but please T. 218

REYNARD.

Told hill and dale that R.'s track was found N.A. 34 For R., close attended at his heels N.A. 124

REYNOLDS.

There touched by R., a dull blank becomes T. i 700 BHAPSODY.

Of rant and r. in virtue's praise T. v. 677

RHAPSODIES.

Such r. our shrewd discerning youth Tir. 191

RHENUS.

Where R. strays his vines among T.B. 7

RHETORIC.

R. is artifice, the work of man Ex. 136 Like quicksilver, the τ . they display P.E. 21 Whose eath is τ ., and who swear for fame T. iv 491 A τ . equal to those parts of speech? Tir. 398

RHEUMS. [399]
And coughs, and r., and phthisic, and catarrh Con.

Is't not a pity now, that tickling r. T. iii 167 [ii 728 Was quenched in r. of age, his voice, unstrung T.

RHYME.

No wonder I, who scribble r. E. i 19
"Nor suffered one ill-chosen r. E. iv 75
Pause here, and think! a monitory r. Ep. i 1
Can pause one hour to read a serious r. Ez. 605
But never yet in r. N. Y. G. 4
Success in r. his glory and reward R. 198
Nature indeed looks prettily in r. R. 567
Vouchsafe, at least, to pitch the key of r. T.T. 188
The clockwork tintinabulum of r. T. T. 529

. RHYMING.

Virtue indeed meets many a r. friend T.T. 620

RIBALDRY.

And loathsome R. has done his worst T.T. 729

RIBAND.

With lace, and hat with splendid r. bound T. i 536 And r. streaming gay, superbly raised T. iv 541

RIBBED. [Y.O. 95

That might have r. the sides and planked the deck RIBBON.

Like a loose heap of r., a glittering show F.M. 6 The r. with which it is tied Gr. 8

RIBBON-BOUND.

With r. tassel on high Gr. 2

RIBS.

Receding wide, they pressed against the r. T. i 65

RICH.

For merchants r. in cargoes of despair Ch. 138 With r. instruction, and a soul enlarged Ch. 822 The r. possession of a nobler prize Ch. 360 A r. deposit, on the bordering lands Ch. 249 Who makes some r. for the supply of all Ch. 251 In honourable bumps his r. amends Con. 200 His r. materials, and regale your ear Con. 617 R. in embellishment as strong Dr. 11 Her fields, a r. expanse of wavy corn Ex. 9 So r. an interest in Almighty love? Ex. 166 "The r., the produce of a nobler stem Ex. 460 R. are passed away from hand to hand H. 11 The r. grow poor, the poor become purse-proud H. She holds a Paradise of r. delight H. 60 Whate'er they boast of r. and gay Mrs. M-12 Nor r. I, nor power pursue O. ii 4 But while they get r. by purchasing blacks P.A. 15 Thus laden, dream that they are r. and great R.155 His the mere tinsel, hers the r. reward T. 332 [i 49 These for the r_* : the rest, whom Fate had placed T_* . Not many wise, r., noble, or profound T. 337 [340 The poor should gain it, and the r. should not? T. We boast some r ones whom the Gospel sways T.377Smells fresh, and, r. in odoriferous herbs \tilde{T} . i 531

So r., so througed, so drained, and so supplied T. i 720 So liberal in construction, and so r. T. iii 94 R. have wings, and grandeur is a dream T. iii 263 What pearl is it that r. men cannot buy T. iii 285 Hence Summer has her r., Autumn hence T. iii 427 Wafts the r. prize to its appointed use T. iii 540 Grudge not, ye r., (since Luxury must have T. iii 544 The wings that wast our r. out of sight T. iii 760 At his return—a r. repast for me T. iv 113 The excise is fattened with the r. result T. iv 504 The r., and they that have an arm to check T. iv 587 Not unemployed, and finding r. amends T. iv 729 [392 That soothe the r. possessor; much consoled T. iv 755 And with thee r., take what Thou wilt away T. v 906 Its family and tribe. Laburnum r. T. v 147 The great indeed, by titles, r., birth Tvr. 346 Or art thou (as though r., perhaps thou art) Tir. 662 Nor plagues that haunt the r. man's door Trans. H.11 The tedium that the lazy r. endure T.T.742Then speed the r. discovery, and invite T.T. 752 And may as τ . in comfort prove U. 11 Not r., I render what I may U. 19 RICHARD. 674

Shall stuff his shoulders with king R.'s hunch T. vi RICHER.

Yet from a r. nothing gain A Tale 75 By other hopes and r. fruits than yours T. i 677 And has a r. use of yours than you T. v 762

That man, in Nature's r. mantle clad Ch. 341 As r. soil the most luxuriant weeds Es. 214 Fed from the r. veins of the Mogul Es. 369 The r. earthly boon his hands afford R. 271 As leanest land supplies the r. wine T. 364 The r. scenery and the loveliest forms T. i 711 Religion, r. favour of the skies T. T. 268 And far the r. crown on earth 1789, 42

BICKETS.

From r. and distortion, else our lot T. ii 592

RID.

Reduce his wages, or get r. of her T. 211 RIDDANCE.

Clean r. quickly made, one only care T. v 70 For cleanly r. than for fair attire T. vi 994

RIDDEN.

Or if, when r. with a careless rein T.T. 306

RIDE.

The social walk, or solitary r. Con. 733
Escaped from a cross country r. Gr. 20
Will fill the chaise; so you must r. J.G. 15
And up he got, in haste to r. J.G. 47
"He carries weight!" "He r. a race!" J.G. 115
To see how he did r. J.G. 144
The youth did r., and soon did meet J.G. 221
And when he next doth r. abroad J.G. 251
And what if he did r. whip and spur M.F. 22
The sea-maid r. the waves Q.V. 70
Till He that r. the whirlwind, checks the rein R. 535
Would ye, when rambling in your morning r. R. 545
That Nature r. upon, maintains her health T. i 359

RIDER.

Baffled his r., saved against his will T. vi 520

In fancy sees him more superbly r. Tir. 368

RIDGE.

Here runs the mountainous and craggy r. T. iv 57

RIDGED.

As fix'd as marble, with a forehead r. T. vi 268

RIDICULE.

That turns to τ , the turgid speech T. v 689

RIG.

Of running such a r. J.G. 100

RIGHT.

My r. there is none to dispute A.S. 2 R. reverend Sirs! was no concern of theirs A.T. 132 Of r. restored, variety enjoyed A.T. 154 [A.T. 169 "To horse!" he oried, "or by this good r. hand The r. of man were sacred in his view Ch. 28 Unless his r. to rule it be dismissed? Ch. 193 Thy τ . have suffered, and our land, too long Ch. 277 She rather waives than will dispute her r. Ch. 430 A fool must now and then be r. by chance Con. 96 A noisy man is always in the r. Con. 114 「149 Without the means of knowing r, from wrong Con. And those the most, where neither has a r. Con. 162 Is sparkling wit the world's exclusive r. Con. 589 And claim a r. to scamper and run wide Con. 793 In setting r, what Faction has set wrong Ex. 301 Strikes the rough thread of error r. athwart Ex. 330 And claims for ever, as his royal r. Ez. 362 Those r. that millions envy thee appear Ex. 681 A r. to the meek honours of her name) H. 236 Each man's belief is τ , in his own eyes H. 283 And he that made had r, to make the law H. 319 And—God is merciful—sets all to r. H. 376 "R.," says an ensign, "and for aught I see H. 397 And add R. Reverend to Smug's honoured name H.438 May claim some r. to be esteemed divine H. 504 His well poised estimate of r, and wrong H. 611 And tells you where ye have a r. to reign Her. 48 The calender, r. glad to find J.G. 177 The postboy's horse r. glad to miss J.G. 231 "With June's undoubted r. J.P. 36 To prove her r. to reign L.R. 12 And r. toward the favoured place Mor. 19 And needs no glossary to set him r. N.A. 70What are England's r., I ask N.C. 10 Harangued him thus, r. eloquent N.G. 14 I always held them in the r. Pat 7 A muleteer's the man to set him r. P.E. 541 He that abstains, and he alone, does r. P.E. 585 By r. of worth, not blood alone Q.V. 3 In every cranny but the r. R.C. 98 [T. 17] Grace leads the r. way; if you choose the wrong Asserts the r. of his offended Lord T. 268 Else his own glorious r. He would disclaim T. 555 At the r. door. Profusion is the sire T. ii 674 He steps r. onward, martial in his air T. iv 640 For mercy and the common r. of man T. iv 680 [v 53 Moves r. toward the mark; nor stops for aught T. Abridge him of his just and native r. T. v 436 Are they not his by a peculiar r. T. v 748 Or safety interfere, his r. and claims T. vi 582 And eke did roar r. merrily, too staves T. vi 662 He drew the liturgy, and framed the r. T. vi 679 R. to his mark the monster went T.B. 50 His r. of empire over all that lives Tir. Of those who never feel in the r. place Tir. 540 To invade another's r., or guard their own T. iv 560 The song was moral, and so far was r. T.T. 599 Recovering and misstated setting r. Y.O. 48

RIGHTEOUS.

Provoke the vengeance of his r. hand Ex. 253 With nice attention in a r. scale H. 367 Is not for you—the r. need it not T. 506 And we the r., whose fast-anchored isle T. ii 151 Ten r. would have saved a city once T. iii 843 And thou hast many r.—Well for thee! T. iii 844 Soon, by a r. judgment, in the line T. v 211 And r. limitation of its act T. vi 596 The symbol of a r. reign 1789, 44

RIGHTEOUSNESS.

That Heaven and Hell, and r. and \sin Con. 469 What is all r. that men devise T. 75 Nor hoped, but in thy r. divine T. 576

RIGHTFUL.

Now the legitimate and r. lord T. iii 749

RIGID.

Too r., in my view, that name to one R. 720 That she is r. in denouncing death T. i 732 RIGOROUS.

That wedlock is not r., as supposed A.T. 58 And brings the trifler under r. sway Con. 596 RIGOUR.

Through wintry r. unimpaired endure Con. 650 The rage and r. of a polar sky H. 462 From all the r. of restraint, enjoy T. ii 127 By r.? or whom laughed into reform? T. ii 321 But was a wholesome r. in the main T. iii 32 The long protracted r. of the year T. v 85 Feel all the r. of thy fickle clime T. v 484 Thus with a r., for his good designed T.T. 216

Hark! 'tis the music of a thousand r. Ch. 367 As in some solitude the summer r. J.T. 38 Musical as the chime of tinkling r. P.E. 14 Of neighbouring fountain, or of r. that slip T. 192 Here r. of oily eloqueque in soft T. iv 64

RIM. (H. 49)

From the blue r., where skies and mountains meet RIND.

The bud inserted in the r. U. 13 [Y.O. 111 Possessing nought but the scooped r. that seems RING.

They sport like wanton doves in airy r. A.T. 32
The r. a bauble, and the priest a knave A.T. 66
Like music it tinkles and r. in your ears F.M. 7
Sees watches, bracelets, r. and lockets P.B. 25
In spiral r. ascends the trunk, and lays R. 231
R. with ecstatic sounds unheard before R. 780
But life, within a narrow r. St. vi 9
Environed with a r. of branching elms T. i 223
That none, decoyed into that fatal r. T. ii 631
And still are disappointed. R. the world T. iii 129
Till the street r.; no stationary steeds T. iv 147
The chalky r., and knuckle down at taw Tir. 307
That made the vaulted roofs of Pleasure r. T.T. 625
By man performed, made all the forest r. Y.O. 109

BINGLETS.

Teeth for the toothless, r. for the bald T. iv 81 RIOT.

Drives through the realms of Sin, where R. reels H. And r. in the sweets of every breeze T. i 444
By r. and incontinence the worst T. i 699
To fill with r., and defile with blood T. iii 307
By endless r., Vanity, the Lust T. iii 312
Of all this r.: and ten thousand casks T. iv 505
That scruple checks him. R. is not loud T. v 614
In senseless r.; but ye will not find T. v 757
As set the midnight r. in a blaze Tir. 287
To guard the Peace that R. would disturb T.T. 315
RIOTOUS.

They dare not wait the r. abuse Con. 261

RIPE.

Through the r. harvest lies their destined road Her. I marvelled much that, at so r. an age T. iv 713 And he that shows none, being r. in years T. vi 598

RIPER.

For who but learns in r. years F. 22 Of r. joys, and commerce with the world T. ii 763 Their childhood pleased them at a r. age Tir. 148

RIPPED.

Sails r., seams opening wide, and compass lost M.P.

RIPPLING.

On r, waters in an April day A.T. 24

RISE.

Bade r, in haste a dark and drizzling for A.T. 94 Oh! could their aucient Incas r. again Ch. 65 And knows that falling he shall r, no more Ch, 347 Has filled his urn where these pure waters r. Ch. 436 Your. and drop the curtain—now tis night Con. 332 In vain the nations, that had seen them r. Ex. 203To r. at noon, sit slipshod and undressed H. 75 [86 Just when the larks, and when the shepherds r. H. Dark and voluminous the vapours r. Her. 15 The sun would r, in vain for me M. 31 Where τ , and where sets the day $M\tau s$, M-11Forms r., to quick perfection wrought Mrs. M-But higher far my proud pretensions r. M.P. 110Let Comus r. Archbishop of the land P.E. 184 The trumpet—will it sound? the curtain r.? R. 655 Told that his setting sun must r. no more St. ii 16 As soon shall r, and reascend the throne T. 395 Fallen from her glory, and too weak to r. T. 480 And sinks, while favoured with the means to r. T.541 Pride falls unpitied, never more to r. T. 588 Through downright inability to r. T. i 480 The rocks fall headlong, and the valleys r. T. ii 95 R. not, the waters of the deep shall r. T. ii 143 [142] Storms r. to o'erwhelm him; or if stormy winds T. ii Those suns are set. Oh, r. some other such! T. ii 252 And faithful to the foot, his spirits r. T. iii 8 The shapely side, that as it r. takes T. iii 481 I hen r, the tender germs, upstarting quick T, iii 521 Woods vanish, hills subside, and valleys r. T. iii 775 Here glittering turrets r., upbearing high T. v 110 "And hasting to a grave, yet doomed to r. T. v 830His moment when to sink and when to r. T. vi 130 To assist his foe's down-fallen beast to r. T. vi 444 At her command winds r. and waters roar Tir. 25 Why takes the gentler Moon her turn to r. Tir. 38 R. in his forehead, and seem rank enough Tir. 164 Shall blush betimes, and there his glory r. Tir. 396 The wretch shall r., and be the thing on earth Tir. 412

And seems to have r. in vain C. 4 Have r. at length on your admiring eyes H. 492 Another moon new r., or meteor fallen T. v 152 Man scarce had r., obedient to his call T. vi 348

RISING.

Unless, when r. on a joyful wing Con. 716 [46 The yellow tilth, green meads, rocks, r. grounds H. The r. or the setting orb of day R. 191
The r. waves obey the increasing blast R. 532 To whom the r. year shall prove his last St. ii 2 That hails the r, moon, have charms for me T, i 206 There, lost behind a r. ground, the wood T. i 305 Like a gross fog Bœotian, r. fast T. iii 495 Where early rest makes early r. sure Tir. 765 His spirits r. as his toils increase T.T. 279 And as the sun in r. beauty dressed T.T. 706

RISK.

[Tir. 359 They r. their hopes, their dearest treasure, there? We dare not r, them into public view Com. 371 Would run most dreadful r. of catching cold E. iii 59 R. an intrusion on thy pensive mood R. 255 [682] And though resolved to r. them, and swim down Ez. To save your life would nobly r. his own T. 220 I therefore recommend, though at the r. T. iii 705 And while the dreadful r. foreseen forbids Tir. 860

RITES.

That forms and r. are tricks of human law A.T.62"In vain," they cried, "are hymeneal r. A.T. 99 And whether Roman r. may not produce Con. 835 The temple and its holy r, profaned Ex, 145 [514 Where must be find his Maker? With what r, T, WThe volume closed, the customary r. T. iv 167 [232 With self-taught r., and under various names T. vi

RIVAL.

Worse than the mortal brunt of r. swords Con. 86 Discerns a r. in a friend F. 83 And r, in lustre of that Gr, 14 May r. these; these all bespeak a power T. i 431 And in defiance of her r. powers T. v 123 Feel all the rage that female r. feel Tir. 471

RIVELLED.

Praise from the r. lips of toothless, bald T. ii 488 And winds his web about the r. leaves Tir. 596

RIVEN.

The well-stacked pile of r. logs and roots T. iv 444 RIVER.

Hills, valleys, r., and the boundless sea A.T. 49 When gently, as in June, the r. glide A.T. 74 On the banks of our r., I know C. 30 The lapse of time and r, is the same Comp. i 1 Ah! why, since oceans, r., streams O. i 5 Where mountain, r., forest, field, and grove R. 29 Ten thousand r, poured at his command R. 75 O'er hills, through valleys, and by r.'s brink T. i 113 Else noxious: oceans, r., lakes, and streams T. i 375 The r. die into offensive pools T. ii 96 And the resplendent r. His to enjoy T. v 743 R. of gladness water all the earth T, vi 763 RIVER-BLANCHED.

And, r_{-} , the swan his snow Mrs. M - 8

With caths like r. forced into the brain Con. 64 They may confirm his habits, r. fast T. ii 767 RIVING.

This r. stroke, this ultimate divorce H. 640

RIVULETS.

Or ford the r., are hest at home T. 217 But trees, and r. whose rapid course T. vi 109 Which it would give in r. to thy root Y.O. 113

ROAD.

Directs us in our distant r. E. i 37 Who found not thorns and briars in his r. E. ii 12 Groan heavily along the distant r. Ex. 58 He sent a servant forth by every r. H. 310 Through the ripe harvest lies their destined r. Her. But finding soon a smoother r. J.G. 81 Down ran the wine into the τ . J.G. 125 They are upon the r." J.G. 176 Six gentlemen upon the r. J.G. 233 The flock grew calm again, and I, the r. N.A. 127 To stand a way-mark in the r. to bliss? P.E. 117 But when his lord would quit the busy r. R. 631 Its odour o'er the Christian's thorny r.! T. 454

But now with pleasant pace a cleanlier r. T. iii 17 And crowd the r., impatient for the town! T. iii 319 The r, that leads from competence and peace T.iv 496 Their progress in the r. of science; blinds T. v 451 Thou hast built T. v 849 But runs the r. of wisdom. His r., deriding much the blank amase T. vi 536 Revere the man whose Pilgrim marks the r. Tir. 145 With packhorse constancy we keep the r. Tir. 252 Perhaps some courser who disdains the r. T.T. 668 Along the miry r. Y.D. 14

ROAM.

The beasts that r. over the plain A.S. 13 As oft as it suits her to r. \tilde{C} . 52 As mendicants whose business is to τ . Con. 859 A flock so scattered, and so wont to r. Ex. 729 Hard task indeed o'er arctic seas to r.! H. 548 How much a dunce that has been sent to r. P.E. 415 He cannot long be safe whose wishes r. P.E. 587When health required it, would consent to r. R. 517 Alike admonish not to r. S. 22 And mischief in their hands, they r, the earth \overline{T} , vi And never smiled again! and now she r. T. i 456 ROAR.

What ails thee, restless as the waves that r. Ex. 272 And charged Hostility and Hate to r. Ez. 566 To frown and r., and shake his feeble form H. 186 Had heard a lion r. J.G. 206 Would raise her voice and r. J.P. 10(For stormy troubles loudest r. Mrs. M— 47 [97] "Where tempests never best nor billows r." M.P. And, joining the freethinkers' brutal r. P.E. 593 Abrupt and horrid as the tempest r. R. 533And wilds familiar with a lion's r. R. 779Nor less composure waits upon the $r.\ T.\ 190$ Lashed into foaming waves, begins to r. T. 260 And fiery caverns, τ . beneath his foot T. ii 90 [91 To hear the r. she sends through all her gates T. iv And howl and r, as likes them, uncontrol'd T. vi 404 And set plebeian thousands in a r. T.T. 319 [T.T. 460 Earth shakes beneath them, and Heaven r. above He gives the word, and Mutiny soon r. T.T. 452 At her command winds rise and waters r. Tir. 25

ROARED.

The Atlantic billows r. Cast. 2

ROARING.

The recking, r. hero of the chase Con. 405 Yon r. boys, who rave and fight Pat. 5 Thrown up by wintry torrents r. loud T. i 14 Now murmuring soft, now r. in cascades T. iii 779 With all his r. multitude of waves T. v 766 Beats back the τ . surge, scarce heard so high \bar{T} . vi

To make a blaze—that's r. him alive Con. 334

BOB.

'Tis not that I design to r. E. iv 1 [P.A. 26 What! r. our good neighbour! I pray you don't go His comrades had plotted an orchard to r. P.A. 23

ROBBED.

His victims, r. of their defenceless all T. iv 458 ROBBER.

The r, and the murderer weak as we? Ch. 68 On petty r., and indulges life T. i 783

ROBBERY.

For Israel dealt in r. and wrong Ex. 35 R. of gardens, quarrels in the streets Tir. 229

And if a boundless plenty be the r. Ch. 85

To fling his glories, o'er the r. she wears H. 41 [79 Sweet Nature, stripped of her embroidered r. Her. The snowy r, her wintry state assumes R. 195 Appears a spot upon a vestal's r. T. iv 554 Γ682 At the sword's point, and dyeing the white r. T. iv

ROBED.

Of the r. pedagogue! Else let the arraigned \tilde{T} . ii ROBERT

That R.'s lines are easy too E. iv 70 "Friend R., thus like chien savant E. iv 87

ROBIN.

And where the gardener R., day by day M.P. 48 ROBUST.

That ask r., tough sinews, bred to toil T. iii 405 Thy frame, r. and hardy, feels indeed T. iv 360 His form r, and of elastic tone T.T. 218 To the four-quartered winds, r. and bold Y.O. 98 ROCK.

These valleys and r. never heard A.S. 30 [Con. 884] Shoots between scattered r. and opening shades Sea-beaten r. and naked shores A Tale 19 That makes seas stable, and dissolves the r. Con. For them, the r. dissolved into a flood Ex. 181 Are proud, and set their faces as a r. Ex. 457 [H.46] The yellow tilth, green meads, r., rising grounds O blessed within the enclosure of your r. H. 465 [H. 741 To wish myself the r. I view P. 29 R., groves, and streams, must join him in his praise For baking earth, or burning r. to lime N.A. 18 Resort to this example as a r. P.E. 143 Your blunderer is as sturdy as a r. P.E. 539 Near barren r., in palaces, or cells R. 540 She ran upon no τ . R.G. 20 His dwelling a recess in some rude r. T. 79 [i 193 Through the cleft r., and, chiming as they fall T. Crush me, ye r.; ye falling mountains, hide T. 269
The hardy chief, upon the rugged r. T. i 12 Then forests, or the savage r., may please T. i 518 The r. fall headlong, and the valleys rise T. ii 95 To view some rugged r, or mouldering tower T, iv 235 Firm as a r. Nor wanted aught within T. v 156 We build with what we deem eternal r. T. v 534 Before a calm, that r. itself to rest T. vi 739 [v 834 "His country's weather-bleached' and battered $r.\ T.$ O'er the green summit of the r., whose base T. vi 496 The dwellers in the vales and on the r. T. vi 793 And fice for safety to the falling r. T. vi 868 Think yourself stationed on a towering r. T.T. 33 Or bids the r. in ruder pomp arise Tir. 28Yet is thy root sincere, sound as the r. Y.O. 116

ROCKED.

Moved not, while theirs was r. like a light skiff T. Was r, by many a rough Norwegian blast Ex. 470 R. in the cradle of the western breeze Tir. 41

ROCKETS.

And r. flew, self-driven Q.V. 14

ROCK-WORK.

And softens human r, into men Ch, 96

ROD.

Bleeding from the Roman r. B. 2Bid suffer it awhile, and kiss the r. Ch. 166 Remember, Heaven has an avenging r. Ch. 216 You need his pardon, and provoke his r. Con. 488 When He that ruled them with a shepherd's r. Ex.85Job felt it, when he grouned beneath the r. R. 303Of faith's supporting r. St. iii 14 And waved his r. divine, a race obscene T. ii 826

Yours, a blind instinct, crouches to the r. T. v 355 Of flowers, like flies clothing her slender r. T. vi 166 Are but his r. to scourge a guilty land T.T. 450

RODE

That Gilpin r. a race J.G. 244 On which he r. Her opportune offence T, vi 470

ROGUE. | Con 41

Yet e'en the r. that serves him, though he stand But if the r. be gone a cup too far P.E. 440 You have two servants,—Tom an arch, aly r. T. 201

ROLL.

Sees planetary wonders smoothly r. Ch. 317 [ii 145 Shall r. themselves ashore, and reach him there T Whom the winds waft where er the billows r. Ex. 19 Thy days. on exempt from household care T. iv 366 They r. themselves before him in the dust T. v 260 Earth r. the rapturous hosanna round T. vi 797 Or ere the wheels of verse begin to r. T. T. 711

ROLLED.

R. over all our desolated land Ch. 76 [53] They stretched the neck, and r. the wanton eye Ex. It is passed between cylinders often, and r. F.M.3 The night r. tardily away R.C. 67 [91] Yourselves have seen, what time the thunders r. N.A. Then twig; then sapling; and, as century r. Y.C. 62

ROLLING.

Fixed in the r. flood of endless years Con. 557 [499 Upon the r. chords rung out his dying breath Ex. And wheels his throne upon the r. worlds T. v 814 Turn him adrift upon a r. sea Tir. 868

ROMAN.

When R. rapine, by no laws withheld A.T. 126
Bleeding from the R. rods B. 2
Other R. shall arise B. 21
And whether R. rites may not produce Con. 835
Had poured the day, and cleared the R. skies Ex. 228
The R. taught thy stubborn knee to bow Ex. 476
As ever R. had in Rome's best days Ex. 591
Than ever R. saw! M. i 4
Defective only in his R. nose P.E. 396
Of the last meal commence. A R. meal T. iv 168
'Tis not enough that Greek or R. page Tw. 605
Hence, in a R. mouth, the graceful name T.T. 500
ROMANCE.

Than the fair shepherdess of old r. T. iv 538

ROME. [A.T. 127 Lest R. should end with her first founders' lives R. shall perish—write that word B. 13 R., for empire far renowned B. 17 Not the proud monuments of Greece or R.—Ch.302 There he was copious as old Greece or R.—Con.621The virtues of old R. for English use Con. 836 Then the proud eagles of all-conquering R.-Ex.209But R., with sorceries and magic wand Ex. 508 That proved a mint of wealth, a mine to R. Ex. 523 As ever Roman had in R.'s best days Ez. 591 They tell us of the fate of R.—M. ii 3 And thence with all convenient speed to R.-Of Light Divine. But Egypt, Greece, and R.—T. ii 500 To Athens or to R., for wisdom short T. ii 536 So once were ranged the sons of ancient R.—T.iii 596 Nineveh, Babylon, and ancient R.—T.T. 432 [608 Anacreon, Horace, played in Greece and R.-T.T.

ROOF.

Bright shone the r., the domes, the spires Q.V. 13 Yet awful as the consecrated r. T. i 342 And r. embattled high, the gloomy scenes T. ii 122

Not needful here, beneath a r. like mine T. iii 341 And all the comforts that the lowly r. T. iv 141 The slope of faces, from the floor to the r. T. iv 202 (Fantastic misarrangement)! on the r. T. v 111 The r., though movable through all its length T. vi 72 These at his orib, and some beneath his r. T. vi 415 But though the joys he hopes beneath your r. Tir. 563 Beneath thy r., beneath thine eye, to prove Tir. 680 That made the vaulted r. of Pleasure ring T.T. 625

ROOFLESS.

Their r. home they fixed A Tale 38

ROOKS.

Such is the clamour of r., daws, and kites H. 349 But cawing r., and kites that swim sublime T. 203 The very r. and daws forsake the fields T. v 89

ROOM.

Still there is r. for pity to abate Ch. 198
I cannot talk with civet in the r. Com. 283
These curtains, that keep the r. warm Gr. 37
If honest eulogy can spare thee r. H. 589
Yet this dull r., and that dark closet M.F. 4
To dress a r. for Montagu Mrs. M— 2
With hunger pinched, and pinched for r. R.C. 73
Others are dragged into the crowded r. T. i 478
Just when our drawing r. begin to blase T. iv 267
And, while the playful jockey scours the r. Tir. 366
Or turn them into shops and auction r.? Tir. 902

Now from the r., or from the neighbouring pale T.

For owls to r. in. Once thy spreading boughs Y.O. 52

ROOT.

And Faith, the r. whence only can arise Ex. 111 And at the r. of age St. i 24 Ploughs up the r. of a believer's care T. 460 And cut up all my follies by the r. T. 574 Takes deeper r., confirmed by what they see T. ii 568 The crowded r. demand enlargement now T. iii 532 And disappoints the r.; the alender r. T. iii 611 [90] Where neither grub, nor r., nor earth-nut now T. v The well-stacked pile of riven logs and r. T. iv 444 Our love is principle, and has its r.T. v 353 [T. vi 113 Peeps through the moss that clothes the hawthorn r. Who with a courage of unshaken r. T.T. 15 Of girth enormous, with moss-cushioned r. Y.O. 64 Could shake thee tother.—and time has been Y.0.92Which it would give in rivulets to thy r. Y.O. 113 Yet is thy r. sincere, sound as the rock Y.O. 116 On thy distorted r., with hearers none Y.O. 140

ROOTED.

Lords of the conquered soil, there r. fast Es. 192 Fast r. against every rub" P. 161 Delighted. There, fast r. in their bank T. i 166 Grows fluid; and the fixed and r. earth T. ii 100

ROPE

And that a r. must cure them Pat. 20 A r.! I wish we patriots had Pat. 21 By cold submersion, rasor, r., or lead R. 584

ROSCIUS.

A noble show! while R. trod the stage T. iii 597

ROSE.

Fed by the Love from which it r. at first Ch. 574 Captivity led captive, r. to claim Ch. 585 Still to that element from which she r. Con. 266 R. from a seed of tiny size E. i 95 The beauties of a r. full blown E. i 68

Ere Nature r. from her eternal sleep Es. 637 The r. or lily appears blue or green H. 72

And plant successfully sweet Sharon's r. H. 463 The Lily and the R.—L.R. 8 The R. soon reddened into rage L.R. 9 [thorn S. ii 1 Deem not, sweet r., that bloomest 'midst many a Wild r. over furrowed ground Mrs. M-28 His bright perfections at whose word they r. R. 200With woodbine and wild r. mantled o'er R. 420 But one, the r., the regent of them all) R. 724 The full-blown r., the shepherd and his lass T. i 36 By r., and clear suns though scarcely felt T. iii 783 But gay confusion; r. for the cheeks T. iv 79 Silently as a dream the fabric r. T. v 144 The scentless and the scented r.; this red T. vi 151 Her sacred cause, but trembled when he r. T.T. 351 R. like a paper-kite, and charmed the town T.T. 385 Thus genius r. and set at ordered times T.T. 560 He sunk in Greece, in Italy he r. T.T. 563 [The Rose 1 The τ . had been washed (just washed in a shower) This elegant r., had I shaken it less The Rose 17 The bud of peach or r. U. 14 The charms of the late-blowing r. W.N. 21

ROSTRUM.

The things that mount the r. with a skip T. ii 409

ROSY.

She saw, and turned her r. cheek away A.T. 87 (Her r. chorus) fly Miss - 72Beneath the r. cloud, while yet the beams T. i 495 Down to the r. west, but kindly still T. iv 133 And, tinging all with his own r. hue T. v 8

ROSY-FINGERED.

So may the r, hours Miss - 97

The foul forerunner of a general r. Ex. 106 Can dig, beg, r., and perish, well content T. iii 805 ROTATION.

A dull r., never at a stay H. 101 Constant r. of the unwearied wheel T. i 368 R.; from what fountain flowed their light T. iii 160

ROTE.

Words learned by r, a parrot may rehearse Con. 7 ROTTEN.

Sin's r. trunk, concealing its defects P.E. 288

BOTTENNESS.

The filth of r. and worm of pride Ex. 90 Bids r. invade, and bring to dust Ex. 332 The r., which time is charged to inflict Y.O. 67

BOUGH.

And sounds prophetic are too r, to suit Ex, 67 Strikes the r. thread of error right athwart Ex. 330 Was rocked by many a r. Norwegian blast Ex. 470 Yet nothing feel in that r. coat P. 51 Of manners r., and coarse athletic cast P.E. 187 And toil to polish its r. coat alone P.E. 420 No r. annoyance rankling in his mind R. 428 [230 R. elm, or smooth-grained ash, or glossy beech R. Sweet moralist! affoat on life's r. sea R.H. 3 The common overgrown with fern, and r. T. i 506 Or when r. winter rages, on the soft T. iii 31 [iii 441 The plenteous bloom, that no r. blast may sweep T. Two leaves produced, two r. indented leaves T. iii 526 Raging abroad, and the r. wind, endear T. iv 309 Not r. with wire of steel or brass T.B. 26 Great schools suit best the sturdy and the r. Tir.

Drew a r. copy of the Christian face T.T. 614

ROUGHENED.

Ne'er r. by those cataracts and breaks M.P. 66

ROUGHER.

But I beneath a r. sea Cast. 65 Divest the r. sex of female airs Con. 843 ROUGHEST.

The night was winter in his r. mood T. vi 57

ROUGHLY.

With me but r, since I heard thee last M.P.2

BOUGHNESS.

Feel less the journey's r. and its length Con. 699 Then what were left of r. in the grain T. v 480

ROUND.

From the centre all r, to the sea A.S. 3 R. other systems under her control Ch. 318 There centering in a focus r, and neat Con, 289 All speak her happy:—let the Muse look r. Ex. 27 Smack went the whip, r. went the wheels J.G. 41 The serpent Error twines r. human hearts P.E. 4 Where the watchman in his r. St. iv 5 A massy slab, in fashion square or r. T. i 21 Constant at routs, familiar with a r. T. ii 385 Resplendent less, but of an ampler r. T. iv 258 Bent knees, r. shoulders, and dejected looks T.iv 634 Declined the death, and wheeling swiftly r. T. vi 518 Earth rolls the rapturous hosanna r. T. vi 797 Conjectured, snifting r. and r. T.B. 40 R. Thurlow's head in early youth Th. 1 And truth cut short to make a period r. T.T. 517 Or oaken fence that hems the paddock r. T.T. 583 The punch goes r., and they are dull Y.D. 45

BOUNDABOUT.

He sees that this great r. Trans. ii 25

BOUND-ROLLING.

Eight years and five r. moons Ep. ii 29

ROUSE.

Regret would r them, and give birth to prayer T. Knock at the gates of nations, r. their fears Ex.269R. all your courage at your utmost need T. 565

ROUSSEAU.

I shall not ask Jean Jacques R. -P.T. 1

ROUT.

Fandango, ball, and r.! F.B. 33 Constant at r., familiar with a round T. ii 385 The R, is Folly's circle, which she draws T, ii 629 Than all that held their r.in Juno's heaven! T. ii 660 Chained to the r, that she frequents for life Tir.744The world, with all its motley r. Trans. ii 26

At every interview their r. the same Com. 213 ROVE.

May r. at will, where appetite shall lead A.T. 60 R. where you please, 'tis common all around Con. 100 That all Olympus through the country r. Con. 825 Than r. and stagger with no mark in view Con. 894 Ten thousand r, the brakes and thorns among H.280Or forest where the deer securely r. R. 182 And waft it to the mourner as he r. R. 338 And even to a clown.—Now r. the eye T. i 288 But truce with censure. Roving as I r. T. iv 232 Happy to r. among poetic flowers T. vi 752 From thee departing, they are lost and r. T. v 808

ROVED.

Let fall the unfinished wreath, and r. for fruit T. vi But when his heart had r. St. iii. 24 [vi 1012 R. far, and gathered much: some harsh, 'tis true T.

ROVERS.

Food for the famished r. of the flood Ch. 532 The houseless r. of the sylvan world T. i 588 Ten thousand r. in the world at large T. v 408 Long since, and r. of the forest wild Y.O. 126

ROVING.

The flame extinct, he views the r. fire B.B. 11 The r. eye misleads the careless heart R. 126 To bind the r. appetite, and lead T. ii 525 Upon the r. and untured heart T. ii 570 But truce with censure. R. as I rove T. iv 232 The r. thought and fix it on themselves T. vi 117 For her the Fancy, r. unconfined Tir. 21

ROW.

The Pineapples in triple r. P.B. 1

ROWELS.

With sounding whip, and r. dyed in blood T. vi 527

ROYAL.

And claims for ever, as his r. right Es. 362 When persecuting seal made r. sport Es. 612 No, not a moment, in his r. heart R. 774 Down went the R. George R. G. 11 That r. residence might well befit T. v 157 All bear the r. stamp that speaks them his T. v. 551 Of r. mercy, and through generous scorn T. vi 410 The r. letters are a thing of course Tr. 416 Shall r. institutions miss the bays Tr. 503 Some r. mastiff panting at their heels T. T. 35 With much sufficiency in r. brains T. T. 52 Asked, when in Hell, to see the r. jail T. T. 94

BOYALLY.

R., freely, for his bounty's sake H. 118

ROYALTY.

Tricked out of all his r. by art Ch. 53 But r., nobility, and state T. 353 Must follow r., then welcome ease T.T. 165

RUB.

Fast rooted against every r" P. 16

RUBRIC.

Let him your r. and your feasts prescribe P. E. 185 RUDDIER.

The r. orange and the paler lime T. iii 573

RUDDY.

'Tis morning; and the sun with r. orb T. v 1

Lest the r. blast should snap the bough A Fable 14 Then, whether embellished or r. C. 35 And at the bottom barbarous still and r. Con. 167 Because a bear is r. and surly? No Con. 192 To cheer the r. forefathers of mankind Con. 454 Of the r. injuries it late sustained Con. 906 This island, spot of unreclaimed r. earth Ez. 468 They felt the r. alarm M ii 6 He knows indeed that, whether dressed or r. R. 415 His dwelling a recess in some τ , rock T. 79 The r. inclemency of wintry skies T. 138 Suppose, unlooked for in a scene so r. T. 248 Bore on his branch, luxuriant then and r. T. 493 But r. at first, and not with easy slope T. i 64 The panels, leaving an obscure, r. name T. i 282 Thrives by the r. concussion of the storm T. i 378 Not r. and surly, and beset with thorns T. i 601 R. as thou art (for we returned thee r. T. i 649 Alas for Sicily! r. fragments now T. ii 75 That no r. savour maritime invade T. ii 258 And wise precaution, which a clime so r. T. iii 431 Ah, treat them kindly! r. as thou appearest T. iv 370 My native nook of earth! Thy clime is r. T. v 462 Russet and r., folds up the tender germ T. vi 194

The r. companion smiled, as if transformed T vi 543 The r. will scuffle through with ease enough Tir.340Else coarse and r. in manners, and their tongue Tir.331Knowledge, a r. unprofitable mass T. vi 92 [T T .322When the r. rabble's watchword was —" Destroy!"

RUDENESS.

Whose wit is r., whose good breeding tires R. 438

RUDER.

Of r. shape, and feeling none P. 12 Or bids the rocks in r. pomp arise Tw. 28

RUDEST.

Thrives against Hope, and in the r. scene Ck. 575 RUDIMENTS.

Taints in its r. the promised flower Con. 42
The r. should sleep the winter through Y.O. 28

RUE.

Ill-fated race! how deeply must they r. Her. 51 RUEFUL.

Or laugh or mourn with me, the τ . jest P.E. 110 With τ , faces and bald pates Y.D. 23

RUFFIAN.

"R., pitiless as proud B. 41 So may the r., who with ghostly glide Ch. 186 And drop the night-bolt;—r. are abroad T. iv 563

BUFFLED.

I only kissed his r. wing B.R. 19 Their r. plumage calm refit Mrs. M— 46 Her elbows r., and her tottering form T. iv 545 RUFFLING.

The r. wind, scarce conscious that it blew T. i 156 RUFILLUS.

R., exquisitely formed by rule P.E. 189

RUGGED.

Of r. caks for worms M.B. 8
Is this the r. path, the steep ascent P.E. 71
The hardy chief, upon the r. rock T. i 12
Long time elapsed or e'er our r. sires T. i 68
To view some r. rock or mouldering tower T. iv 235
The r. frowns and insolent rebuffs T. iv 411
It seem'd not always short; the r. path T. vi 20

RITTN

Deep in r. as in guilt B. 16
Shame and r. wait for you" B. 44
Our self-importance r. its own scheme Cos. 368
To rescue from the r. of mankind E. ii 24
Again pours r. in the vale below Her. 38
That wealth within is r. at the door Her. 76
And hides the r. that it feeds upon P.E. 286
Prepares it for its r.; hardens, blinds T. ii 690
Should prove your r., and his own at last Tir. 205
And spread the r. round Trans. H. 18

RUINING.

To catch renown by r, mankind T.T. 60

BUINOUS.

Of r, obriety that prompts T, iv 460

RULE

Oft as his patroness who r. the night A.T. 137
Unless his right to r. it be dismissed ? Ch. 193 [81
Ye powers who r. the tongue, if such there are Coa.
Beduced to practice, his beloved r. Con. 139
And Jupiter bids fair to r. again Con. 822 [869
May prove, though much beside the r. of art Con.
Are far too mean for Him that r. the skies Ex. 139

By which Heaven r, the mixed affairs of man H, 16 A knave when tried on honesty's plain r. H. 566 Some wiser r. must teach him how to live H. 600 What scourges are the gods that r. below Her. 66 Rufillus, exquisitely formed by r. P.E. 189 For 'tis a r. that holds for ever true P.E. 534 [557 Bend the straight r. to their own crooked will P.E. That r. he prized, by that he feared St. iii 21 [535]Their judge was Conscience, and her r. their law T. That r., pursued with reverence and with awe T. 536 He gives a perfect r.—what can He less? T. 552 Did not his eye r. all things, and intend T. ii 166 Bright as his own, and trains by every r. T. ii 347 Left them as dark themselves. Their r. of life T.ii 523 Discover him that r, them; such a veil T, iii 233 As she with all her r. can never reach T. v 126 As in the bosoms of the slaves he r. T. v 310 That knows no measure, by the scanty r. T. vi 213 R. universal Nature. Not a flower T. vi 240 Mercy to him that shows it, is the r. T. vi 595 Then, only governed by the self-same r. Tir. 871 And never meant the r, should be applied T.T. 11 Of Wantonness, where vice was taught by r. T.T.627And so disdained the r. he understood T.T. 687

RULED.

When He that r, them with a shepherd's rod Ex. 85 And while he r, thee by the sword alone Ex. 490 He r, with meekness, they obey'd with joy T. vi 361 Where kindness on his part, who r, the whole T, vi3.55

RULER.

Thy r. load thy credit, year by year Ex. 284 Thou self-entitled r. of the main Ex. 549 From loins enthroned, and r. of the earth M.P. 109 Ye kings and r., what have courts to show ? R. 104 O Winter, r. of the inverted year T. iv 120

RULING.

Religion r. in the breast F. 208 The heart, surrendered to the r. power P.E. 275

RUM

For how could we do without sugar and r.? P.A. 6

RUMINATE.

Here much I r., as much I may T. iii 121 R. heedless of the scene outspread T. v 788

RUMINATING.

On southern banks the r. sheep A.T. 78 And r. flocks enjoy the shade Her. 32 From thoughtless youth to r. age P.E. 24

RUMOUR

With doleful r. and sad presage hung Ex. 357 Where r. of oppression and deceit T. ii 3

RUMP.

And swing his r. around Ep. ii 24

BUN.

And claim a right to scamper and r. wide Con. 793
Would r most dreadful risk of catching cold E. iii 59
That Matthew's numbers r. with ease E. iv 67
And made him faster r. J.G. 228
[112
And now, Farewell.—Time unrevoked has r. M.P.
R. in a bottom, and divides the field N.A. 10
Shines as it r., but grasped at, slips away P.E. 22
Long ere the charioteer of day had r. P.E. 67
Are sweet philosophy's enjoyments r. P.E. 259
Like a neglected forester, r. wild P.E. 362
But which, when life at ebb r. weak and low R. 3
The sound shall r. along the winding vales R. 363
May r. in cities with a brisker force R. 454

While thirteen moons saw smoothly r. St. i 1
Read, ye that r., the awful truth St. i 21
Die self-accused of life r. all to waste? St. ii 28
He walks, he leaps, he r.—is winged with joy T. i 418
The laity r. wild.—But do they now? T. ii 572
That gives it all its flavour. We have r. T. ii 607
R. round; still ending, and beginning still T. iii 627
R. the great circuit, and is still at home T. iv 119
Here r. the mountainous and craggy ridge T. iv 57
The worse for what it soils. The fashion r. T. iv 555
But r. the road of wisdom. Thou hast built T. v 849
Driven to the slaughter, goaded, as he r. T. vi 421
With such a lustre, he that r. may read Tir. 80
Merely to sleep, and let them r. astray Tir. 908
Short his career, indeed, but ably r. T.T. 671

RUNG.

F461

How many deeds with which the world has r. Ch. Upon the rolling chords r. out his dying breath Ex. 499

BUNNING.

Of r. such a rig J.G. 100 [614] On moments squandered else, and r. all to waste Tir.

RURAL.

Since then in the r. recess C. 41 To quit the bliss thy r. scenes bestow Ch. 299 And I have lived recluse in r. shades Con. 801 Domestic happiness and r, joy Ex, 535 Which r. gentlemen call sport divine N.A. 8 Pants for the refuge of some r. shade R. 6 Or half so clear, as in the r. scene R. 456 But still 'tis r.—trees are to be seen R. 497 For I have loved the r. walk through lanes T. i 109 Of thorny boughs: have loved the r. walk T. i 112 Nor r. sights alone, but r. sounds T. i 181 By r. carvers, who with knives deface T. i 281 And charmed with r, beauty, to repose T, iii 28 Domestic life in r. leisure passed! T. iii 292 All healthful, are the employs of r. life T, iii 625 No: we are polished now! The r. lass T. iv 534 Down into scenes still r.; but, alas! T. iv 556 Scenes rarely graced with r, manners now! T, iv 557 My very dreams were r.; r. too T. iv 700 Of r. scenes, compensating his loss T. iv 768 Of multitudes unknown. Hail! r. life! T. iv 783

RUSH.

To r. into a fixed eternal state Con. 185 And feeble onset of a pigmy r. Ex. 707 And r. into dissension F. 102 [N.A. 117 And r. those other sounds, that seem by tongues In r. Folly with a full moon tide P.E. 282 Sits linking cherry-stones, or platting r. R. 398 With one consent to r. into the sea R. 524 Believe, r. forward, and possess the prize T. 374

RUSHED.

R. with a whirlwind's fury on the foe A.T. 195 R. to battle, fought, and died B. 39 R. to the cliff, and having reached it, stood T. vi 552 His brows with ivy, τ . into the field T.T. 604

RUSHY.

A narrow brook, by r. banks concealed N.A. 9

RUSS.

Imperial mistress of the fur-clad R.! T. v 129

RUSSET.

When scarlet fruits the r. hedge adorn A.T. 72 With r. specks bedight A Tale 42 On pippins' r. peel Ep. ii 18 Whom fiery suns, that scorch the r. spice Ex. 15 R. and rude, folds up the tender germ T. vi 194

RUST.

By r. unperishable or by stealth J.T. 26 Now r. disused, and shine no more M. 11 And eats into his bloody sword like r. T.T. 8 Of dreaming study and pedantic r. T.T. 171 Neglected talents r. into decay T.T. 546 RUSTIC.

To carve his r. name upon a tree R. 400 A temper r. as the life we lead R. 732 A sudden steep upon a R. Bridge T. i 267 And r. coarseness would. A heavenly mind T. ii 457 Ere yet with r. joy the happy hound N.A. 33

The r. throng beneath his favourite beach T. iv 708 RUSTING.

In which are kept our arrows. R. there T. ii 804 RUSTLING.

The r. straw sends up a frequent mist T. i 360 RUSTY. Grew r. by disuse; and massy gates T. ii 746

RUTHLESS.

S.

A.T. 125

SABA.

And S.'s spicy groves, pay tribute there T. vi 807

SABACTHANI. Lama S. before their eyes H. 680 SABBATH.

Or smiled when a s. appeared A.S. 32 When he has prayed and preached the s. down P.E. For s. evenings, and perhaps as sweet P.E. 141 Of s. hours with plausible excuse? P.E. 145 O Italy !-Thy s. will be soon P.E. 152 Our s., closed with mummery and buffoon P.E. 153 S. profaned without remorse St. vi 39 The time of rest, the promised s., comes T. vi 733

SABBATH-BREACH. By lewdness, idleness and s. T. iv 653

SABBATH-RITES.

And customs of her own, till s. T. i 746 SABINE.

So swarmed the S. youth, and grasped the shield The S. bard. O evenings I reply T. iv 190 SABLE.

The s. warrior, frantic with regret Ch. 145 To close in s. every social scene Con. 872 The busy heralds hang the s. scene H. 264 That skirt the horizon, wore a s. hue T. iv 320 Of neighbouring cypress, or more s. yew T. vi 154 SABLEB.

And never of a s. hue than now) Es. 395 SACK.

And calls aloud for s. Trans. iv 15 SACKBUT.

Psaltery and s., dulcimer and flute P.E. 133 SACRAMENTAL.

By an oath dipped in s. blood? Ex. 381 The s. host of God's elect T. ii 349

SACRED. Well knowing him a s. thing B.R. 17 A lasting, a s. delight C. 40The rights of man were s. in his view Ch. 28 Thine altar, s. Liberty, should stand Ch. 256

S. interpreter of human thought Con. 23 And wanting him to loose the s. seal Con. 544 And spread the s. treasures of the breast Con. 573 Thus touched, the tongue receives a s. cure Con. 887 Their very garments s., old yet new Ex. 183 A truth still s., and believed of old Ez. 351

An individual is a s. mark Ex. 434 The S. Book, its value understood Ez, 616

That blessings truly s., and when given Ez. 684 That secrets are a s. trust F. 157 The S. Book no longer suffers wrong H. 449 His s. head from harm M. ii 8

Whose fires to s. Truth applied Mrs. M-32 The s. function, in your hands is made P.E. 123 The s. implement I now employ P.E. 301 A critic on the s. book should be P.E. 452

Faithfully, fairly, by that s. test R. 134 Of sorrow, sorrow is a s. thing R. 316 Os. art! to which alone life owes R.749From the strict duties of the s. day? T. 49

The s. fire, self-torturing his trade T. 100 His office s., his credentials clear T. ii 339 That he is honest in the s. cause T. ii 375 Of union, and converts the s. band T. ii 686 With things so s. as a nation's trust T. ii 778

Was s., and was honoured, loved, and wept T. ii 786
The cause of piety, and s. truth T. iii 707 Her interests, or that gives her s. cause T. iii 792 Is kept and guarded as a s. thing T. ▼ 304 And in the school of s. wisdom taught T. v 797

S. to neatness and repose, the alcove T. vi 571 Patiently present at a s. song T. vi 634 Still s., and preserves with pious care T. vi 690 And just direction s., to a thing T. vi 713

Bright as a sun the s. city shines T. vi 800 Through moral narrative, or s. text Tir. 126 To occupy a s., awful post Tir. 414 But, if thou guard its s. chambers sure Tir. 891 Nor would the Nine consent the s. tide T.T. 184 Her s. cause, but trembled when he rose T.T. 351 When profanation of the s. cause T.T. 426 And dizzy with delight, profaned the s. wires T.T.

The abuses of her s. charge, the press T.T. 633 SACRIFICE. Abhorred the s., and cursed the priest P.E. 340 Who oftenest s. are favoured least T. i 411

We s. to dress, till household joys T. ii 613 For these they live, they s. to these T. vi 893 Is but the fire without the s. T.T. 379 SACRIFICED.

For thee I gladly s. O. ii 20 If sentiment were s. to sound T.T. 516 SACRILEGE.

But that were s.; - praise is not thine Ch. 266 Hast thou (a s. his soul abhors) Ez. 346 Sad s.! no function, but a trade! P.E. 123 But less, methinks, than s. might serve T. vi 638 In s., in God's own house profaned Tir. 409

And soothe the sorrows of so s. a state Ch. 199

SAD.

S. as it is, his undissembling heart Con. 712 Ah! be not s., although thy lot be cast E. ii 41 Thence date their s. declension, and their fall Ex.223With doleful rumour and s. presage hung Ex. 357 Through life's s. remnant, what no sighs restore H.24Partakers of thy s. decline M. 33 And the s. lesson must be learned once more Her. Thus many as. to-morrow came and went M.P. 42 Both s. and in a cheerful mood N.Y.G. 3 A ram, the ewes and wethers, s., addressed N.A. Once more in this s. heart O. ii 8 S. sacrilege! no function but a trade! P.E. 123 One s. epistle thence, may cure mankind P.E. 351 And weeps a s. libation in despair R. 226And thou, s. sufferer under nameless ill R. 343 S. waste! for which no after-thrift atones St. ii 29 Nor ever frowned, or s. appeared St. iii 23 8. period to a pleasant course! St. vi 87 And screaming at the s. presage T.B. 47 On the s. theme, their everlasting state T. 41 Oh sorrowful and s.! the streaming tears T. 173 S. messenger of mercy from above T. 464 Angry and s., and his last crust consumed T. i 246 Spectatress both and spectacle, a s. T. i 476 A patriot's for his country; thou art s. T i 658 With such address from themes of s, import T, ii 300 S. witnesses how close-pent man regrets T. iv 777 To s. necessity, the cock forgoes T. v 73 Some have amused the dull s, years of life T. v 180 (Life spent in indolence and therefore s.) T. v 181Of s. experience, nor examples set T. v 294 A s. memorial, and subjoin his own T. v 420 Tis therefore sober and good men are s. T. v 509His sprightly mingled with a shade of s. Tir. 665 And 'tis the s. complaint, and almost true T.T. 732

SADDENS.

A dark importance s. every day H, 699

SADDEST.

And in the s. part cry—"Droll indeed!" Con.216 To illumine with delight the s. scenes J.T. 20

SADDLE.

Designed to sit close to it just like a s. A.C. 16 Struck thrice the point upon his s. bow A.T. 166 Seized fast the s. and sprang up behind A.T. 178 Lived in his s., loved the chase, the course R. 577

SADDLETREE.

For s. scarce reached had he J.G. 49

SADNESS.

Yes, to deep s. sullenly resigned Ch. 151 How oft the s. that I show M. 46 Shows the same s. every where S. 11 And sullen s., that o'ershade, distort T. i 457 In unrecumbent s. There they wait T. v 29 All hearts to s., and none more than mine T. v 464

SAFE.

"'Tis over, and the brood is s." A Fable 19
In some s. haven of our western world Ch. 444
She deems all s., for she has paid the price Ch. 458
Suggests it s., or dangerous, to be plain Ch. 520
Discourse, as if released and s. at home Con. 571
And has him s. beneath his hat E. iv 56
For ages s. beneath his sheltering hand Ex. 563
S. policy, but hateful F. 183
My creed is, he is s. that does his best H. 395
That shows how far 'tis s. to follow sin H. 608
And keep it s. and sound J.G. 68
My husband s. and well" J.G. 220
S. with protecting Montagu Mrs. M— 20

Shine s. without a fear to fade Mrs. M-50 [M.P. 59 That thou mightest know me s. and warmly laid Yet oh the thought, that thou art s., and he! M.P. 106 8. in themselves, but dangerous in the excess P.E.62He cannot long be s. whose wishes roam P.E. 587 8. from the clamours of perverse dispute R. 145 You find s. shelter in the next stage-coach R. 492 Think with what pleasure, s. and at his case T. 253 She, s. in the simplicity of hers T. 336 When s, occasion offers; and with dance T, i 584 That they are s., sinners of either sex T. iii 96 Well one at least is s. One sheltered hare T. iii 33 1. Perhaps may crown us, but to fly is s. T. iii 688 At a.s. distance, where the dying sound T. iv 92 Here grotto within grotto s. defies T. v 117 [iv 559 The unguarded door was s.; men did not watch T. Dismiss me weary to a s. retreat T. vi 1004 [s. T. v 80 Earth yields them naught: the imprisoned worm is And taught a brute the way to s. revenge T. vi 559 Harmless, and s., and natural, as they are Tw. 565 S. under such a wing, his boy shall show Tir. 681 Uncrowded, yet s. sheltered from the storm Y.O. 55

SAFETY.

S. consists not in escape A Fable 32
With s. to himself, is not a man Ex. 433
They might with s. eat the rest L. W. 10
Ye writers of what none with s. reads P.E. 307
Darts to the mud, and finds his s. there P.E. 503
Looked to the sea for s.? They are gone T. ii 119
Or s. interfere, his rights and claims T. vi 582
That oft we owe our s. to a skill T. vi 619
And flee for s. to the falling rocks T. vi 868
And trust for s. to a stranger's care Tir. 852

SAGACIOUS.

Claps spectacles on her s. nose Con. 742 And of all arts s. dupes invent P.E. 435 S. reader of the works of God T. iii 253 And in his word s. Such too thine T. iii 254 Start up s., covered with the dust T.T. 170

SAGACITY.

And such s. to take revenge T. vi 477 Some show that nice s. of smell T. vi 616 A terrible s. informs T.T. 494

SAGE

That s. have seen in thy face ? A.S.68. beneath the spreading oak B. 5 The dozing s. drop the drowsy strain Con, 247 But s. observers oft mistake the flame Con. 655 Their wisdom bursts into this s. reply Con. 877 Ask what is human life—the s. replies H_{\bullet} 1 That s. they seemed, as lawyers o'er a doubt N.A. Though s. advice of friends the most sincere R.249See the s. hermit, by mankind admired T. 87 Ten thousand s. lost in endless wee T.517But falsely. S. after s. strove T. ii 506 There dwelt a s. called Discipline, His head T. ii "'Twere well," says one s., erudite, profound T.iii 191 Such was thy wisdom, Newton, childlike s.! T. iii 252 Ye s. dispensers of poetic fame T. iii 457 In spite of gravity and s. remark T. v 12 The experienced and the s. Th. 6 Appointed s. preceptor to the Will Tir. 32 Have ye, ye s. intendants of the whole Tir. 265

SAID. ra.c.

And your lordship," he s., "will undoubtedly find Embellished with—"He s.," and, "So s. I." Con. 212 He says but little, and that little s. Con. 301 And say as stern Elijah s. of old Con. 850 [Con. 529 That reaching home, "The night," they s., "is near

B b

And, Truth and Wisdom gracing all He s. Con. 528
And s., "Go spend them in the vale of tears" E. ii 26
John Gilpin's spouse s. to her dear J.G. 5
Quoth Mrs. Gilpin,—"That's well s. J.G. 25
As hath been s. or sung J.G. 108
S. Gilpin—"So am I!" J.G. 148
S. John,—"It is my wedding day J.G. 198
So turning to his horse, he s. J.G. 197
And thus unto the youth she s. J.G. 217
"Since thus ye have combined," he s. J.P. 33
"Yours is," she s., "the nobler hue L.R. 21
By some 'tis confidently s. L.W. 17
And "Hence," he s., "my mind computes Mor. 25
Much more in behalf of your wish might be s. P.A. 14
"Methinks," I s., "in thee I find P.B. 13
And to himself he s.—"What's that?" R.C. 80
But Granby was, meant truly what he s. R. 598
Here, I have s., at least I should possess T. i 234
And Victory refuted all he s. T.T. 333
[T.T. 97
"There," s. his guide, "the group is full in view"

SAIL. [M.P. 96 So thou, with s. how swift! hast reached the shore On steady wing s. through the immense abyss H. 163 The breath of heaven must swell the s. H.F. 23 [103 S. ripped, seams opening wide, and compass lost M.P. Seas on which every nation spreads her s. R. 80 [333 Down, down the wind, she swims, and s. away P.E. And s. with lappet head and mincing airs T. 139 O'er all his thoughts, and swelled his easy s. T. 420 Now hoist the s., and let the streamers float T. ii 255 When disposition, like a s. unfurled Tvr. 450 But oh! if Fortune fill thy s. Trans. H. 34 God's curse can east away ten thousand s. T.T. 467

SAILED.

Far hence to the westward I s. M.D. 6

SAILOR.

At what a s. suffers; Fancy too T. i 541

SAINT.

Γ585

Leaves s. to enjoy those altitudes they teach Con. To place you where his s. his presence share H. 339 Against thine image, in thy s., O Lord! H. 593 To forestall sweet S. Valentine P.T. 12 [P.E. 115 Cries—"Well done, s.!" and claps him on the back S. offer nothing, in their warmest prayers R. 221 The s. or moralist should tread S. 17 His prayer preferred to s. that cannot aid T. 85 Doubts not hereafter with the s. to mount T. 150 Produce them—take a chair—now draw a s. T. 172 Is this a S.? Throw tints and all away T. 175 [T. 229 "Where dwell these matchless s.?" old Curio cries What purpose has the King of S. in view? T. 179 Large prelibation oft to s. below T. v 574 Thy s. proclaim thee king; and in their hearts T. vi Thy s. proclaim thee king; and in their hearts T. vi 1864 When, Isaaclike, the solitary s. T. vi 948

ST. DUNSTAN'S.

Like the two figures at St. D.'s stand T.T. 527

SAINTLIER.

Which is the s. worthy of the two? T. 105

SAINTSHIP.

Give s., then all Europe must agree T. 111

SAKE

And if he studied, studied for her s. A.T. 18 Her precept for your s. B.R. 12 And spare the poet for his subject's s. Ch. 636 Is contradiction for its own dear s. Con. 106 1 kept him for his humour's s. Ep. ii 33 Boyally, freely, for his bounty's s. H. 118 And seem to pray, for good example's s. H. 219 I wave just now, for conversation's s. H. 436 "The minx shall for your folly's s. J.P. 37 This record of thee for the Gospel's s. J.T. 48 For my s. restless heretofore M. 10 Tis valued for the danger's s. the more P.E. 521 His only bliss is sorrow for her s. R. 244 Suffering with gladness for a Saviour's s. R. 776 And scorn, for its own s., the gracious way T. 37 And only there, please highly for their a. T. 209 Seems, in their eyes, a mercy, for thy s. T. ii 132 Is left to sleep for peace and quiet s. T. 428 Than they themselves by choice, for wisdom's s. T. ii By all that prized it; not for prudery's s. T. iii 78 For their own s. its silence and its shade T. iii 321 For interest s., the living to the dead T. iii 661 For interest s. or swarming into clans T. iv 665 And him is peace, for s. of warlike deeds T. v. 231 We, for the s. of liberty, a king T. v 351 You chains and bondage for a tyrant's s. T. v 352 Yet being free, I love thee: for the s. T. v 473 Who slights the charities for whose dear s. T. v 507 Not for its own s. merely, but for his T. v 800 And Earth be punish'd for its tenants' s. T. vi 257 Spared yet again the ignobler for his s. T. vi 530 From creatures that exist but for our s. T. vi 603 Messiah's eulogy for Handel's s. T. vi 637 And quit their office for their error's c. T. vi 884 He puts it on, and, for decorum s. T. vi 985 For Bully's plumage s. T.B. 27 Who for the s. of filling with one blast T.T. 31 Glorious in war, but for the s. of peace T.T. 278 For that dear sorrow's s. forego 1789, 52

SALAD.

And when his juicy s. failed Ep. ii 19 A cheap but wholesome s. from the brook T. vi 304

SALE

That waste our vitals, peculation, s. T. ii 668 Skillet, and old carved chest, from public s. T. iv 402 Too proud for dairy work, or s. of eggs T. iv 549

SALEM.

See S. built, the labour of a God! T. vi 799

SALLIED.

A beast forth s. on the scout T.B. 34

SALLIES.

And be cheered by the s. of youth A.S. 24

SALLOW.

To s. sickness, which the vapours, dank T. i 437

SALLY.

Here, S., Susan, come, come quick Trans. iv 29 SALOONS.

Who, self-imprisoned in their proud s. T. i 414

SALT.

Like that of s. with lemon juice F. 130
With acrid s., his very heart athirst T. i 448
Impregnated with quick fermenting s. T. iii 464
Loses its treasure of salubrious s. T. iii 610 [845
That s. preserves thee; more corrupted else T. iii

SALUBRIOUS.

The air s. of her lofty hills T. i 428 Loses its treasure of s. salts T. iii 610

SALUTARY.

Where'er it winds, the s. stream Con. 893

Os. streams, that murmur there! E. ii 28 Will hear perhaps thy s. strain Ex. 453 Preserved from guilt by s. fears Tir. 111

SALUTING.

S. his poetic ears R. C. 89

SALVATION.

That sound bespeaks S. on her way H. 455 No. Doth he purpose its s.? No T. vi 705 Is heard s. Eastern Java there T. vi 810

SAMPLE.

These s.—for alas! at last F. 193
These are but s., and a taste F. 194
Though sickly s. of the exuberant whole T. iv 761
Their breath a s. of last night's regale Tir. 834

SAMSON.

With as much ease as S. his green withes T. v 737

SANCERRE.

The fairer scenes of sweet S.—E. i 46

SANCTIFY.

Scripture employed to s. the cheat Es. 92 is misapplied to s. their sway P.E. 497 No bard embalms and s. his song T. v 728 Where Fashion shall not s. abuse T. vi 852

SANCTIMONIOUS.

uch are the fruits of s. pride T. 165

SANCTION.

Ince have the s. of our triple state E. iii 57 and guards it with a s. as severe T. 553

SANCTIONED.

y charter, and that charter s. sure T. v 548

SANCTITY.

s this the path of s.? Is this P.E. 116 or s. of manners undefiled T. iii 260 magined s. The conscience, yet Y.O. 11

SANCTUARY.

eeming a s., proves a grave R. 736

SAND. isdains the Bank, and throws the golden s. Ch. 248

ith s. to scour his maw Ep. ii 16
barren s. imbibe the shower F. 184 grains as countless as the seaside s. T. vi 245

SANG.

then s. the married and the maiden throng A.T. 197 hey s. as blithe as finches sing F.B. 7 [H. 517 he wretch, who once s. wildly, danced and laughed sing the Sofa. I who lately s. T. i 1 heir eulogy; those s. the Mantuan bard T. iii 458 f Tityrus, assembling, as he s. T. iv 707 hus s. the sweet sequestered bird The Doves 37

SANGUINARY.

The s. schemes that some devise H. 382 as never heard the s. yell T. iii 335 or feats of s. hue 1789, 25

SANGUINE

ow s., and her beauteous head now set T. vi 158 at s. inexperience loves to make V. 56

SANK.

e stifling wave and then he s. Cast. 48

SAPIENCE.

st as the s. of an author's brain Ch, 519

SAPIENT.

Now tell me, dignified and s., sir T. ii 531

SAPLESS.

The s. wood, divested of the bark Con. 53 Must smooth be shorn away ; the s. branch T. iii 613

SAPLING.

Then twig; then s.; and, as century rolled Y.O.62

Society, and that s. and worms the base T. ii 816

SARACEN.

Would hunt a S. through fire and flood Ex. 521

SARCASM.

I grant the s. is too severe T.T. 103

SARCASTIC.

S., would exclaim, and judge the song T. iii 563

SASH

The southern s. admits too strong a light Con. 331 And fast condensed upon the dewy s. T. iii 496 The prouder s. fronted with a range T. iv 763

SASHED.

Tight boxes neatly s., and in a blaze R. 483

SAT.

While Chief Baron Ear s. to balance the laws A.C.7 S. the Druid, hoary chief B. 6
Fair Cassiopēia s. Gr. 16
How much his feelings suffered, s. Sir Smug) H. 416
She s., and a shield at her side M.D. 13
On such a Stool immortal Alfred s. T. 22
With base materials, s. on well-tanned hides T. i 51
S. for the picture; and the poet's hand T. iv 526
The bench on which wes.while deep employed Tir.302
S. fast on George's brows again 1789, 45

SATED

To please her s. and indifferent lord? P.E. 258

SATELLITE.

Our softer s. Your songs confound T. i 766

SATIATE.

"S. of her, and weary of the same A.T. 105That palls and s., and makes languid life T. i 464

SATIN.

With golden wing and s. poll P.T. 27
As yet black breeches were not, s. smooth T. i 10
Saw better clad, in cloak of s. trimmed T. i 585

SATIRE.

S. is, more than those he brands, to blame Ch. 492 'Tis called a s., and the World appears Ch. 515 Yet what can s., whether grave or gay? T. ii 315 Whipped out of sight, with s. just and keen T.T. 640 S. has long since done his best, and curst T.T. 728

SATIRIC.

Crack the s. thong? 'Twere wiser far T. iii 26 Nature imparting her s. gift T.T. 656

SATIRIST.

Most s. are indeed a public scourge Ch. 501 The pulpit (when the s. has at last T. ii 329

SATISFACTORY.

A s. receipt in full Con. 202

SATISFIED.

Of Friendship, s. with noise F.B. 32

Who, s. with only pencilled scenes T. i 417 Not s. to prey on all around T. vi 394 While others, not so s., unhorse T. vi 701

SATISFY.

To soothe and s. the human ear T. 199
"Tis Revelations, all doubts T. ii 527
A mine to s. the enormous cost T. iii 783
The glowing heart may s. awhile T. iv 273
Dull as it is, and s. a law T. vi 217

SATURATE.

That dries his feathers, s. with dew T. i 494

SATURATED

From the full fork, the s. straw T. iii 479

SATURN.

The moons of Jove, and S.'s belted ball Tir. 684

SATYRS.

The Fauns and S., a lascivious race A.T. 199 And shut up every s. in his den Con. 38

SAUCE

With sophistry their s. they sweeten L.W. 37 Lodged on the shelf, half-eaten without s. T. iv 394

SAUL.

Driven out an exile from the face of S.—R. 768

SAVAGE.

While Cook is loved for s. lives he saved Ch. 39 And s. in its principle appears Con. 171 Oh! to the club, the scene of s. joys Con. 421 He found thee s., and he left thee tame Ex. 485 The full-gorged s., at his nauseous feast H. 509 Then forests, or the s. rock, may please T. 1518 War and the chase engross the s. whole T. i 608 Thee, gentle s.! whom no love of thee T. i 633 For all the s. din of the swift pack T. iii 325 And those in self-defence. S. at first T. v 229 The shag of s. nature, and were each T. v 693 To madness; while the s. at his heels T. vi 422 With all the s. thirst a tiger feels T.T. 36

SAVAGE-FIERCE,

Vicious in act, in temper s. T. vi 487

SAVE.

Impel the fleet whose errand is to s. Ch. 128 Oh? 'tis a godlike privilege to s. Ch. 226 Flies to s. some, and feels a pang for all Ch. 407 Would hang an honest man, and s. a thief Con. 128 From which no care can s. Ep. ii 42 S. as He will, by many or by few Ez. 361 Must s. it from declension F. 180 S. for the fruits his heavenly beams produce H. 82 And s. or damn as these or those prevail H. 368 And flew to s., ere yet too late L.R. 19 Both Poet s. and Plume from fading Mrs. M— 55
That life to s., we leap into the pit? N.A. 104
How! leap into the pit our life to s.! N.A. 107
To s. our life leap all into the grave! N.A. 108
S. when the knife is at your throat P. 52
[33] [35] Poor man! I would s. him his fruit if I could P.A. S. that his scent is less acute than theirs P.E. 85 Die then, if power Almighty s. you not P.E. 589 There and there only, is the power to s. P.E. 616 Can s. us always from a tedious day R.745To s. your life would nobly risk his own T. 220 My creed persuades me, well employed, may s. T. 522 S. their own painted skins, our sires had none T. i 9 But s. me from the gaiety of those T. i 499 [T. i 566 Which, kindled with dry leaves, just s. unquenched And s. me too from theirs whose haggard eyes T.i 501

S. the small inventory, bed, and stool T. iv 401 [iii 411 Which, s. himself who trains them, none can feel T. One hand secures his hat, s. when with both T. iv 354 Thus dream they, and contrive to s. a God T. vi 205 Great cause occurs to s. him from a band Tir. 696 And s. him from a fall Trans. i 20 [T.T. 367 Once Chatham saved thee, but who s. thee next?

SAVED. [state? T. vi 704 Why? What has charmed them? Hath he s. the While Cook is loved for savage lives he s. Ch. 39 Ten righteous would have s. a city once T. iii 843 S. him, or the unrelenting seer had died T. vi 471 Is it that Adam's offspring may be s. T. 183 [757 S. from his home, where every day brings forth Tir. Baffled his rider, s. against his will T. vi 520 [367 Once Chatham s. thee, but who saves thee next? T.T.

SAVING.

And reconcile his lusts with s. grace H. 605

SAVIOUR.

Deeply resolved to shut a S. out Con. 690
And every drop bespeaks a S. thine E. ii 48
And theirs, by birth, the S. of us all Es. 202
The S.'s feast, his own bleat bread and wine Ez. 377
The S.'s history makes known F. 206
Suffering with gladness for a S.'s sake R. 776
But still in virtue of a S.'s plea T. 529
And humble learners of a S.'s worth T. ii 542
Presents the prayer the S. deigned to teach Tir. 123
Point to the cure, describe a S.'s cross Tir. 165

SAVOUR.

That s. much of commonplace F. 161 That no rude s. maritime invade T. ii 258

SAVOURY.

Of s. cheese, or butter costlier still T. iv 395 With s. truth and wholesome common sense Tir. 62:

SAW

She s., and turned her rosy cheek away A.T. 87 No! Soon as from ashore he s. A Tale 49 To swear to some enormity he s. Con. 126 [Con. 23] "Yes" (rather moved) "Is. it with these eyes! Who never s, the sword he could not wield Con.600I s. him, with that lily cropped D.W. 33 The loiterers I never s. E. i 24 "I'll see him too—the first I evers." E. iii 31 He thus s. steal away Ep. ii 30 He s. his people slaves to every lust Ex. 55 8. Babylon set wide her two-leaved brass Ez. 59 They s. distemper healed, and life restored Ex. 153 Where late we s. the mimic landscape glow H. 263 When, turning round his head, he s. J.G. 51 Now Mistress Gilpin, when she s. J.G. 213 Then ever Roman s.! M. i 4 In the steerage a woman I s. M.D. 9 I s. him both sicken and die M.D. 37 I s. the hearse that bore thee slow away M.P. 29 But I can assure you I s. it in print P.A. 20 Ye s. me once (ab, those regretted days R. 371 While thirteen moons s. smoothly run St. i 1 S. better clad, in cloak of satin trimmed T. i 535 And soon to be supplanted. He that s. T. iii 751 I gazed, myself creating what I s. T. iv 290 I s. the woods and fields at close of day T. iv 31 Is. far off the weedy fallows smile T, iv 316 The taper soon extinguished, which I s. T. iv 391 No sound of hammer or of s. was there T. v 145 Made others covet what they s. so fair T. ▼ 227 [8] S. never, such as Heaven stoops down to see T. Went with him, and s. all the game he played? Tir.20

With mute unconsciousness of what he s. Y.O. 146 The eyes, that never s. thee, shine 1789, 58

SAY.

'Twas April as the bumpkins s. A Fable 8 Suffice it then in decent terms to s. A.T. 86 Then would he s., submissive at thy feet Ch. 232 Else I would s., and as I spake bid fly Ch. 268 An argument of cogence, we may s. Con. 298 He s. but little, and that little said Con. 301 Did not our hearts feel all he deigned to s. Con. 535 And to s. truth, though in its early prime Con. 683 And s. as stern Elijah said of old Con. 850 S., Anna, had you never known E. i 67 As some grave gentleman in Terence s. E. iii 6 (I would s. twenty sheets of prose) E. iv 28 [Ep. i 4 Seems it to s.—"Health here has long to reign?"
"Matthew," s. Fame, "with endless pains E. iv 73 8. Wrath is coming, and the storm appears Ex.270S. not (and if the thought of such defence Ex. 708 And s. he wounded you in jest F. 95 "S. little, and hear all you can" F. 182 And chirp, and kiss, he seemed to s. F.B. 26 [H 225 "Mark these," she s., "these, summoned from afar Can only s.,—"Nobility lies here" H. 271 S., botanist, within whose province fall H. 286 As with a frown to s., "Do this, and live" H. 329 A thought intrude, that s., or seems to s. H. 372 "Right," s. an ensign, "And for aught I see H. 397 And s.—"Blot out my sin, confessed, deplored H. 592 8. man's a worm, and power belongs to $God\ H.711$ What are ye, monarchs, laurelled heroes, s. Her. 77 Should s. that she was proud J.G. 36 S. why bareheaded you are come J.G. 167 Thus s. the prophet of the Turk $L.W.\ 1$ And one whatever you may s. L.W. 29Voice only fails, else how distinct they s. M.P. 5 S., wast thou conscious of the tears I shed? M.P. 22 And helpless, hopeless, hear thee s. O. ii 23 S.—"Well, 'tis more than one would think!" P. 36 Who s. the mob are mad outright Pat. 19 S. to what bar amenable were man? P.E. 28 The storm of passion, and s., "Peace, be still!" P.E. What s. the prophet? Let that day be blest P.E. 157 My dear Dick Redcap, what s. you? P.T. 37 So, ancient poets s., serene Q.V. 69
Is there, as Reason, Conscience, Scripture s. R. 651
Ah, self-deceived! Could I, prophetic, s. St. ii 17 And seems to s.—" Ye meaner fowl, give place T. 64
"Past all dispute, you anchorite," s. you T. 106
Is. the Bramin has the fairer claim T. 108 [T. 222 "Charles without doubt," s. you, - and so he ought S. on what hinge does his obedience move? T. 207 And he s. much that many may dispute T. 359 But elbows still were wanting; these, some s. T. i 60 Is. the pulpit (in the sober use T. ii 332 Whose actions s. that they respect themselves T. ii "Defend me therefore, Common Sense," s. I T. iii 187 "'Twere well," s. one sage, erudite, profound T.iii191 And when I place thee in it, sighing s. T. iii 350 With such heart-shaking music, who can s. T. iv 24 Build him a pedestal, and s., "Stand there T. v 258 S. ye, who (with less prudence than of old T. v 321 Some s. that in the origin of things T. vi 198 [747 And smiling s.—" My Father made them all!" T. v S., muse (for education made the song Tir. 290 S., what accomplishments, at school acquired Tir. 577 And s., My boy, the unwelcome hour is come Tir. 849 Nor s., Go thither, conscious that there lay Tir. 869 Or, if he prove unkind (as who can s. Tir. 895 And s.—what s. he?—Caw Trans. ii 30 That tell you so-s., rather, they for him T.T. 56 Guard what you s.; the patriotic tribe T.T. 83

Sighing, I s. again, I pity kings! T.T. 140 As if he heard his king s., "Slave, be free!" T.T. 245 'Twould cost him, I dare s. Y.D. 66

SCALE.

But every tear shall s. thy memory P.E. 336

A prouder station on the general s. Ch. 336 The s. are false, or algebra a lie Con. 22 The little Greeks look trembling at the s. H. 195 With nice attention in a righteous s. H. 367 Thine had a value in the s. of Heaven J.T. 29 But as a s., by which the soul ascends R. 111 Turns to the stroke his adamantine s. T. ii 324 Her undecisive s. In this she lays T. iv 484 [T. iii 221 God never meant that man should s. the Heavens Taints downward all the graduated s. T. iv 585 He sits secure, and in the s. of life T. vi 970 Conducted on a manageable s. Tir. 703 And weighs the nations in an even s. T.T. 251

SCALY.

What though in s. armour dressed Miss - 41

And claim a right to s. and run wide Con. 793 To send our sons to scout and s. there Tir. 294

SCAMPERING.

With postboy s. in the rear J.G. 235 Wide s., snatches up the drifted snow T. v 49

SCAN.

He s. of every locomotive kind N.A. 64 But he, not wise enough to s. St. v 5 With which she calculates, computes, and s. T. i 716 Then leave their crimes for History to s. T.T. 119

SCANDAL.

When S. has new minted an old lie Ch. 513 Assailed by s. and the tongue of strife H. 576 Books, therefore, not the s. of the shelves R. 683 Ambling and prattling s. as he goes T. ii 882

SCANDALIZED.

Then Nature, injured, s., defiled Ex. 424

SCANT.

If Solitude make s. the means of life T. i 248

SCANTILY.

Or if yourself, too s. supplied P.E. 251 The country's need have s. supplied T.T. 338

SCANTLING.

Sells the last s., and transfers the price T. iii 753

SCANTY.

Within the s. limits of the mind Ch. 247 Too s. for the exertion of his beams Ch. 590 Just earns a s. pittance and at night T. 321 Her s. stock of brushwood, blazing clear T. iv 381 And eyes intent upon the s. herb T. v 786 That knows no measure, by the s. rule T. vi 213

'SCAPED.

When, 's. from literary cares D.W. 3 Nor palaces, nor even chambers, 's. T. ii 831 The dangers we have 's., the broken snare T. iv 185

'SCAPES.

His hairbreadth 's., and all his daring schemes Tir. SCARE.

Or s. the nation with its big contents Ch. 617 [461 But nothing s. them, from the course they love T.T.

SCARED.

Sir Airy, not a whit dismayed or s. A.T. 171 And Danish howlings s. thee as they passed Es. 471 S., and the offended nightingale is mute T. i 768 To escape the impending famine, often s. T. \vee 68

SCARLET.

When s. fruits the russet hedge adorn A.T. 72
Where, flaming in s. and gold Gr. 29
In s. mantle warm, and velvet capped M.P. 51
Or s. crewel, in the cushion fixed T. i 54
I fed on s. hips and stony haws T. i 120
[320]
Have changed the woods, in s. honours bright T. i

SCARS.

And in his hands and feet, the cruel s. T. iii 114

SCATTERED.

Shoots between s. rocks and opening shades Com. Peeled, s., and exterminated thus Ex. 246
A flock so s., and so wont to roam Ex. 729
Collect the s. truths that Study gleans R. 274
Now s. wide, and nowhere to be found T. 394
The middle field; but s. by degrees T. i 293
Lie s. where the shapely column stood T. ii 76
Thy s. hair with sleet like ashes filled T. iv 121
The s. grain, and thievishly resolved T. v 67
The bright profusion of her s. stars T. vi 176
To see a people s. like a flock T.T. 34
And, like a s. seed at random sown T.T. 674

SCATTERING.

Imagination s. round Mrs. M-27

SCENE.

Where parties are agreed, retired the s. A.T. 89 [95 That curtained round the s. where they reposed A.T. The s. of her sensible choice! C. 44 And with s. that new rapture inspire C. 51 God opens fruitful Nature's various s. Ch. 88 To quit the bliss thy rural s. bestow Ch. 299 To seek a nobler amidst s. of wee Ch. 300 Thrives against Hope, and in the rudest s. Ch. 575 To uphold the boundless s. of his command Ch. 582 So withered stumps disgrace the sylvan s. Con. 51 Oh! to the club, the s. of savage joys Con. 421 In the last s. of her six thousand years Con. 456 The s. of all those sorrows left behind Con. 308 And through the s. of toil-renewing light Con. 732 To close in sable every social s. Con. 872 A brighter s. beyond that vale appears Con. 882 The fairer s. of sweet Sancerre E. i 46 Like other s. already past E. i 56 The s. to which not youth alone resorts Ez. 24 And had the grace in s. of peace to show Ex. 79 The virtue they had learned in s. of woe Ex. 80 Thy senate is a s. of civil jar Ex. 294 Beheld with joy the lovely s. defaced Ez. 426 [586 While his own heaven surveys the troubled s. Ex. In s. of plenty, or the pining waste Ex. 738 A s. of fancied bliss and heart-felt care H. 5 And nowhere, but in feigned Arcadian s. H. 9 The busy heralds hang the sable s. H. 264 From happier s., to make your land a prey H. 478 These, amidst s. as waste as if denied H. 538 Ten thousand swains the wasted s, deplore Hor. 89 To illumine with delight the saddest s. J.T. 20 Within the garden's peaceful s. L.R. 5 Are such an antiquated s. M.F. 7 The gloomy s. surveys N. 10 Embellishing the s. around P. 58 Charged with the folly of his life's mad s. P.E. 88 Can British Paradise no s. afford P.E. 257 [15. Preaching and pranks will share the motley s. P.E.

Where George, recovered, made a s. Q.V. 27 And the s, where his melody charmed me before P.F.It was a s. in every part Q.V. 57 And fearless of the billowy s. Q.V. 71 In the last s. of such a senseless play R. 83 New life ordained and brighter s. to share R. 65 And may be feared amid the busiest s. R. 121 From s. of sorrow into glorious day R. 168 O Nature! whose Elysian s. disclose R. 199 Post away swiftly to more active s. R. 273 Then neither heathy wilds, nor s. as fair R. 331 Or half so clear, as in the rural s. R. 456 And what could a remoter s. show more? R. 500 Sighs o'er the beauties of the charming s. B. 566 To social s. by nature disinclined R.606Whatever hopes a change of s. inspires R. 679 As theirs who bustle in the busiest s. R. 734 Surveyed the s., and took possession R.C. 44 How ill the s. that offers rest S. 3 And slights the season and the s. S. 12 Me fruitful s. and prospects waste S. 21 Yet heard in s. where peace for ever reigns T. 208 Suppose, unlooked for in a s. so rade T. 248 My relish of fair prospect; s. that soothed T. il41 And still unsated, dwelt upon the s. T. i 158 S. must be beautiful which, daily viewed T. i 177 Nor less attractive is the woodland s. T. i 300 The love of Nature, and the s. she draws T. i 412 Who, satisfied with only pencilled s. T. i 417 Fastidious, seeking less familiar s. T. i 512 But that of idleness, and taste no s. T. i 756 And fugitive in vain. The sylvan s. T. ii 107 [117 Possessed an inland s. Where now the throng T. ii And roofs embattled high, the gloomy s. T. ii 122 And with a well-bred whisper close the s.! T. ii 413 With opera glass to watch the moving s. T. ii 453 And Virtue fied. The schools became a s. T. ii 735 For me, enamoured of sequestered s. T. iii 27 My former partners of my peopled s. T. iii 119 S. formed for contemplation, and to nurse T. iii 301 S. such as these, 'tis his supreme delight T. iii 306 And dress the regular yet various s. T. iii 592 Without it, all is gothic as the s. T. iii 641 And virtue, and those s. which God ordained T. iii Forecasts the future whole; that when the s. T. iii & S. that I love, and with regret perceive T. iii 710 And those Arcadian s. that Maro sings T. iv 515 That to suppose a s. where she presides T. iv 532 Down iuto s. still rural; but, alas! T. iv 556 S. rarely graced with rural manners now! T. iv 557 Resign the s. their presence might protect T. iv 52 But there I laid the s. There early strayed T. iv 697 Of rural s., compensating his loss T. iv 768 The pencil or the pen, may trace the s.! T. v 109 And all was moist to the warm touch; a s. T. v 166 In s. which, having never known me free T. v 480 Smit with the beauty of so fair a s. T. ▼ 560 Ruminate heedless of the s. outspread T. v 788 "Distinctly s. invisible to man T. v 826 λ kindred melody, the s. recurs T. vi 13 The dassling splendour of the s. below T. vi 64 And all this uniform uncolour'd s. T. vi 178 Makes all still fairer. As with him no s. T. vi 254 A s. so friendly to his favorite task T. vi 264 With which kind nature graces every s. T. vi 342 So Eden was a s. of harmless sport T. vi 364 Now happiest they that occupy the s. T. vi 397 A visitor unwelcome, into s. T. vi 570 O s. surpassing fable, and yet true T. vi 759 S. of accomplish'd bliss! which who can see T. vi To Nature's s., than Nature ever knew Tir. 24 The s. is touching, and the heart is stone Tir. 298 Just in the s. where he displayed his own Tir. 337

If not a s. of pleasure, a mere blank Tvr. 752
And the last left the s. when Chatham died T.T. 339
To throw his dark displeasure o'er the s. T.T. 445
The puppy pack that had defiled the s. T.T. 641
On every s. and subject it surveys T.T. 713 [T.T. 696
And charms the woodland s., and wilds unknown
To s. where competition, envy, strife V. 75
Down to the close of life's fast fading s. V. 85
Or prompter, save the s., I will perform Y.O. 141

SCENERY

The richest s. and the loveliest forms T. i 711 Calls the delightful s. all his own T. v 741

SCENT.

The gale informs us, laden with the s. Ch. 446
Pernicious weed! whose s. the fair annoys Con. 251
And when he laid them on the s. of blood Ex. 520
Sweet s., or lovely form, or both combined H. 290
Save that his s. is less acute than theirs P.E. 85
Nor gales that catch the s. of blooming groves R. 337
For aided both by ear and s. T.B. 49
The s. regaled, each odoriferous leaf T. iii 621
Of flavour or of s. in fruit or flower T. vi 248 [Tir. 447
Whose s. and hues are rather guessed than known
Forms, opens, and gives s. to every flower T.T. 691

SCENTED.

As ever dressed a bank, or s. summer air Ch. 259 Curled, s., furbelowed, and flounced around Ex. 51 The scentless and the s. rose; this red T. vi 151

SCENTING.

Streams far behind him, s. all the air T. v 57

SCENTLESS.

The s. and the scented rose; this red T. vi 151

SCEPTRE.

Thy diadem displaced, thy s. gone Es. 258
The s. of her power L.R. 16
And swayed the s. of his infant realms T. i 23
A leafless branch thy s., and thy throne T. iv 125
The globe and s. in such hands misplaced T.T. 39

SCEPTIC.

A s. in philosophy may seem Con. 138. And shakes the s. in the scorner's chair T. 472

SCHEME

Our self-importance ruins its own s. Con. 368
The web of every s. they have at heart Ex. 331
"The sanguinary s. that some devise H. 3b2
Then farewell all self-satisfying s. T. 7
His hairbreadth scapes, and all his daring s. Tir. 230
Exchanged for the secure domestic s. Tir. 705
With s. of monumental fame; and sought T. v 182

SCHOLAR.

The s.'s pitch (the s. best knows why) P.E. 505 With parrot tongue performed the s.'s part T. ii 738 Not brighter than in theirs the s.'s prize Tir. 473

SCHOLARSHIP.

Undoubted s. and genuine worth Tir. 280

SCHOOL.

The s. of coarse good fellowship and noise Con. 422 And when accomplished in her wayward s. Con. 465 To learn in God's own s. the Christian part Ex. 660 Froward at s., and fretful in his plays H. 188 Drew me to s. along the public way M.P. 49 A youngster at s. more sedate than the rest P.A. 21 Not of the moral, but the dancing s. P.E. 190 From s. to Cam or Isis, and thence home P.E. 369 Whatever parents, guardians, s. intend P.E. 424

Will learn in s. of tribulation R.C. 115 To them, the sounding jargon of the s. T. 367 Of wisdom, proves a s. in which he learns T. i 614 Strutting and vapouring in an empty s. T. ii 330 He teaches those to read, whom s. dismissed T. ii 358 Is Christ the abler teacher, or the s. ? T. ii 534 And Virtue fled. The s. became a scene T. ii 735 Of womanhood, fit pupils in the s. T. iv 228 Behold the s. in which plebeian minds T. iv 492 Is but a s., where thoughtlessness is taught T. iv 688 Entangled in the cobwebs of the s. T. iv 726 And in the s. of sacred wisdom taught T. v 797And taught at s. much mythologic stuff Tir. 197 That pedantry is all that s. impart Tir. 212 S., unless discipline were doubly strong Tir 218 Great s. suit best the sturdy and the rough Tir. 341 A public s. shall bring to pass with ease Tir. 872 For public s. 'tis public folly feeds Tir. 250 [Tir. 397 Your Lordship, and your Grace! what s. can teach Great s. rejected then, as those that swell Tir. 501 I praise a s. as Pope a government Tir. 506 Say, what accomplishments, at s. acquired Tir. 577 And s., that have outlived all just esteem Tir. 704 All these, and more like these, were bred at s. Tir. 838 of natural pity, send him not to s. Tir. 872 [900 Pull down the s.—what! all the s. in the land Tir. Survey our s. and colleges, and see Tir. 909 His court, the dissolute and hateful s. T.T. 626 And strutting in thy s. of Queens and Kings V. 45

SCHOOLBOY.

Friends, not adopted with a s.'s haste R. 725 Of the mere s.'s lean and tardy growth Tir. 657

SCHOOL-BRED.

That though s. the boy be virtuous still Tir. 840

SCHOOLFELLOW.

Thy s. and partner of thy plays V. 35

SCHOOL-FRIENDSHIPS.

Besides, s. are not always found Tir. 436

SCHOOLING.

By public hackneys in the s. trade Tw. 621

SCHOOLMEN.

[F.A. 28]

Deep mysteries both! which s. must have toiled

SCIENCE.

Those seeds of s. called his ABC Con. 14
Where S. points her telescopic eye H. 441
In s., win one inch of heavenly ground T. 338
From all that S. traces, Art invents T. i 627
Where s. and where virtue are professed? T. ii 766
Friends in the friends of s., and true prayer T. iii 250
Their progress in the road of s.; blinds T. v 451
Fair s. poured the light of truth Th. 3
The varied fields of s., ever new T.T. 264

SCOFF.

God's better gift they s. at, and refuse Ex. 459 The s. of withered age and beardless youth H. 743 S. at her own performance. Reason now T. v. 629

SCOLD.

The flippant and the s. J.P. 22 He s., and gives the lie Trans. iv 27

SCOLDED.

If a man must be s. for loving his own A.T. ii 12 SCOOPED.

A hollow s., I judge, in ancient time N.A. 17 [111 Possessing nought but the s. rind that seems Y.O.

SCOPE.

Christ and his character their only s. Con. 541 While Passion turns aside from its due s. H. 113 To live estranged from God his total s. Tir. 426 To give Religion her unbridled s. T.T. 71

SCORCH.

Whom flery suns, that s. the russet spice Ex. 15

SCORCHED.

Burning and s. into perpetual dearth Ex. 421

SCORE.

[A.T. iii 8 Should John wed as., oh the claws and the scratches! He cannot drink five bottles, bilk the s. P.E. 198

The emphasis in s., and gives to prayer T. ii 360 Some half a dozen, and some half a s. Tir. 695 And not to quit a s. Y.D. 32

SCORN.

And he that s. it is himself a slave Ch. 227 Though S. repay her sympathetic tears Ch. 413 Of fancied s. and undeserved disdain Con. 348 And while she seems to s. him, only fears Con. 788 Admonished, s. the caution and the friend E. ii 17 Their hope in Heaven, servility their s. Ex. 440 Fires all his feelings with a noble s. H. 151 Whos, to do an injury by stealth H.411And s. to share it with the distant sun H. 490 And bore the pelting s. of half an age H. 557 [650 S. with the same indifference frowns and smiles H. And felt the sneer with s, enough P. 18 I s. your-coarse insinuation P. 27 Built God a church, and laughed his word to s. R. Scorned in a world, indebted to that s. R. 751 That s. afflictions mercifully meant R.760And look on Folly's pageantry with s. S. ii 8 If s. of God's commands, impressed St. vi 29 And s., for its own sake, the gracious way T. 37 And holds them dangling at arms' length in s. T. 164 S. the base hireling, and the slavish drudge T. 228 Where deists, always foiled, yet s. to yield T. 372 Her own abhorrence, and as much your s. T. 510 While he that s. the noonday beam, perverse T. 523 His firm stability to what he s. T. i 383 Who s. it, starves deservedly at home T. i 435 He does not s. it, who, imprisoned long T. i 436 He does not s. it, who has long endured T. i 44 Yet s. the purposes for which they live T. i 486 All affectation. 'Tis my perfect s. T. ii 417 To soothe their honest pride, that s. to beg T. iv 405 The s. of danger, and united hearts T. v 377 Of royal mercy, and through generous s. T. vi 410 She s. his pleasures, for she knows them not T. vi 919 And s. thy present lot The Doves 32 [156 Regards with s., though once received with awe Tir. His pride, that s. to obey or to submit Tir. 226 That s. of all delights but those of sense Tir. 351 Low in the world, because he s. its arts Tir. 672 And praised for virtues that they s. to wear T.T. Andask, with busy s., "Was this the man?" T.T. 120 Fire indignation and a sense of s. T.T. 400

SCORNED.

What is fanatic frenzy, s. so much Con. 651 They s. his inspiration, and his theme Ex. 69 And having chosen evil, s. the voice Ex. 398 Whom all the vanities they s. engage Ex. 661 All witnesses of blessings foully s. H. 223 Not s. in Heaven, though little noticed here M.P. S. by the nobler tenants of the flood P.E. 482

The mighty myriads, now securely s. R. 70 Or s. where business never intervenes R. 122 8. by the rest, with patient hope they wait R. 165 S. in a world, indebted to that scorn R. 751 And s, as is my strain St. i 80. A thousand awful admonitions s. St. ii 27 The good he s., all carried to account " T. 546 Now s., but worthy of a better fate T. i 254

SCORNER.

There were the s.'s and the slanderer's tongue Es. And shakes the sceptic in the s.'s chair T. 472 Dwelt young Misagathus; a s. he T. vi 485 The wildest s. of his Maker's laws Tir. 55

SCORNFUL.

Not so where, s. of a check, it leaps $T. \vee 101$ SCORNING.

For s. what they taught him to detest Ch. 56 SCORPION.

And proves a raging s, in his breast P.E, 241

SCOT.

And when the Stuart, leaning on the S.—Ez. 574 SCOTLAND.

In S.'s realm, where trees are few A Tale 1 In S.'s realm, forlorn and bare A Tale 9

SCOUR.

With sand to s. his maw Ep. ii 16 He wipes and s. the silver cup in vain Ez. 385 And, while the playful jockey s. the room Tir. 366

SCOURGE.

To s. him, weariness his only blame Ch. 215 Most satirists are indeed a public s. Ch. 501 Some twigs of that old s. are left behind Ez. 517 What s. are the gods that rule below Her. 66 A s. hung with lashes he bore M.D. 30 The s. he let fall from his hand M.D. 35 Ask him, if your knotted s. N.C. 29 That holds mankind together, to a s. T. ii 687 Under dissection of the knotted s. T. vi 419 Are but his rods to s. a guilty land T.T. 450

SCOURGED.

A nation s., yet tardy to repent Ex.723

SCOUT.

A beast forth sallied on the s. T.B. 34 To send our sons to s. and scamper there Tir. 294 While the rat is on the s. Trans. iii 11

Not so when winter s. Assistant Art T. iii 541

SCRAMBLE.

Lisping our syllables, we s. next Tir. 125

"But let me s. the dirt away J.G. 189 What shifts he used, detected in a s. Tvr. 328

SCRATCHED.

Although immortal, may be pricked or s. Ch. 512

SCRATCHES.

[A.T. iii 3 Should John wed a score, oh the claws and the s.!

SCRATCHING. Heard an inexplicable s. R.C. 78

SCRAWLED.

S. upon glass Miss Bridget's lovely name T. 156

SCRAWLS.

Or with his pen, save when he s. a card T. ii 384 SCREAM.

"Yes, truly—one must s. and bawl M.F. 27
All learned, and all drunk! the fiddle s. T. iv 478
SCREAMED.

The dogs did bark, the children s. J.G. 109 SCREAMING.

The s. nations, hovering in mid air H. 853 When Betty s. came down stairs J. G. 59 In still repeated circles, s. loud T. 204 And s. at the sad presage T.B. 47

SCREEN.

Where the hazels afford him a s. from the heat P.F. That s. the herdsman's solitary hut T. i 168 Our fathers knew the value of a s. T. i 255 Of other s., the thin umbrella spread T. i 260 S. them, and seem half petrified to sleep T. v 28

The winter's frown, if s. from his shrewd bite T. iii But s. from every storm that blows Mrs. M— 18

SCREENING.

Her want of care, s. and keeping warm T. iii 440 SCREW.

Matches, blood-extorting s. N.C. 30
The s. reversed (a task which if He please R. 327
And strained to the last s. that he can bear T. 385
SCRIB.

The world is charmed, and S. escapes the law Ch. SCRIBBLE.

No wonder I, who s. rhyme E. i 19 In which I both s. and dose Gr. 12 To s. as you scribbled, at fifteen P.E. 318

SCRIBBLED.
To scribble as you s., at fifteen P.E. 318

SCRIBBLING.

"Shall make your s. fingers ache J.P. 39
Swarmed with a s. herd, as deep inlaid T.T. 628
SCRIPTURE.

The S. placed within his reach, he ought Ch. 201 That square not truly with the S. plan Ch. 559 Who deal with S., its importance felt Con. 729 S. employed to sanctify the cheat Ex. 92 That \bar{S} ., Justice, and Good Sense disown $E_{\bar{S}}$. 593 That bliss, revealed in S., with a glow H. 149 That cannot bear the blaze of S. light H. 298 S. indeed is plain, but God and he H. 598 On S. ground are sure to disagree H. 599 If not that Hope the S, has required H, 617 The worst is—S. warped from its intent P.E. 437 Nor has, nor can have, S. on its side P.E. 515 That S. lies, and blasphemy is sense P.E. 595 To spread the page of S., and compare R. 131 Is there, as Reason, Conscience, S. say R. 651 Strong Judgment labouring in the S. mine R. 698 And all his strength from S. drew St. iii 19 If sufferings S, no where recommends T, 109 The S, was his jest book, whence he drew T. 308 The S. yields) or hope to find, a friend? T. 440 That S. is the only cure of woe T. 452 S. is still a trumpet to his fears T. v 611Points, which, unless the S. made them plain Tir. SCRIVENER.

A s.'s clerk, or footman out of place Tir. 407 SCROFULOUS.

Excess, the s. and itchy plague T. iv 582

SCROLL.

And heaven is all departed as a s. H. 747

SCRUPLE.

Will seldom s. to make free F. 92
Your s. and arguments bring to my mind P.A. 17
His s. thus silenced, Tom feit more at ease P.A. 41
Exposed than others, with less s. made T. iv 457
That s. checks him. Riot is not loud T. v 614
Strange doctrine this! that without s. tears T.T. 5

SCRUPULOUS.

Dubius is such a s. good man Con. 119

SCRUPULOUSLY.

Washed with a neatness s. nice Ez. 149

SCRUTINY.

Perhaps at last close s. may show Con. 177 The s. of those all-seeing eyes T. 271 Long knowledge and the s. of years T. i 179 Then compromise had place, and s. T. ii 740 Challenging human s., and proved T. \vee 868

SCUDDED.

And s. still before the wind Cast. 24

SCUFFLE.

The rude will s. through with ease enough Tir. 340

SCULPTURE

The powers of s., but the style as much T. i 7.05 To latest times; and S., in her turn T. v 709

SCUTCHEONS.

With mournful s., and dim lamps between H. 265

SCYTHE.

A stroke as fatal as the s. of Death Ch. 144
Well does the work of his destructive s. T. iv 222
But oh! it cuts him like a s. Y.D. 7
[T.T. 42
And Death's own s., would better speak his power
With his sly s., whose ever-nibbling edge Y.O. 105

SEA

From the centre all round to the s. A.S. 3 Hills, valleys, rivers, and the boundless s. A.T. 49 This racer of the s. A Tale 80 The mother-bird is gone to s. A Tale 45 Aware that flight, in such a s. Cast. 33 But I beneath a rougher s. Cast. 65 [301 To traverse s., range kingdoms, and bring home Ch. Where s. or deserts part them from the rest Ch. 20 Whether he measure earth, compute the s. Ch. 353 That makes s. stable, and dissolves the rock Con.502 And trident-bearing queen of the wide s. Es. 275 Who poises and proportions s. and land Ex.842To trace thee to the date when you fair s. Es. 550 Thy thunders travel over earth and s. Ex. 582 Hard task indeed o'er arctic s. to roam! H. 548 Like him, crossed cheerfully tempestuous s. H. 584 That shook the circling s. and solid earth Her. 14 Strewing yonder s. with wrecks N.C. 34 S. on which every nation spreads her sails R. 80 With one consent to rush into the s. R. 524 [5 The s. globose and huge, the o'erarching vault R. Sweet moralist! affoat on life's rough s. R.H. 3 Earth, s., and sun, adieu! St. iii 10 Washed by the s., or on the gravelly bank T. i 13 With one who left her, went to s., and died T. i 538 Looked to the s. for safety? They are gone T. ii 119 Braved and defied, and in our own s. proved T. ii 272 Old or of later date, by s. or land T. v 881 "That navigate a s. that knows no storms T. v 823 Were built, the fountains opened, or the s. T. v 765

Is merely as the working of a s. T. vi 738 If all we find possessing earth, s., air Tir. 91 Turn him adrift upon a rolling s. Tir. 868 Now quenching in a boundless s. of clouds Y.O. 76

SEA-BEATEN.

S. rocks and naked shores A Tale 19

SEA-BORN.

For s. Venus her attachment shows Con. 265

SEA-FOWL

But the s. is gone to her nest A.S. 49

SEA-FIGHT.

His last s. is fought R.G. 15

SEAL.

And wanting him to loose the sacred s. Con. 544 Received the s. of martyrdom in blood Ex. 617 The s. of office glitter in his eyes T. iv 59 And mark them with a s. of wrath pressed down T.T.Watch, s., and all, -till all his pranks are told Tir. 331

SEALED.

(Two themes to Nature's eye for ever s.) Ch. 362 Man's heart had been impenetrably s. Con. 427 S, with his signet whom they serve and love R. 164 And s. with the same token. It is held T. v 547

SEA-MAID.

The s, rides the waves Q.V.70

SEAMAN.

Then swift descending with a s.'s haste R. 435 The s., with sincere delight A Tale 57 For s. much believe in signs A Tale 61

SEAMEW.

That hides the s. in his hollow clefts T. i 519

SEAMS. Γ108

Sails ripped, s. opening wide, and compass lost M.P. SEARCH.

To sift and s. them with unerring eyes Es. 88 On special s., the keen-eyed eagle blind Ex. 631 Pursue the s., and you will find F. 199 To s. forbidden deeps, where mystery lies F.4.38 And s. the themes, important above all R. 137 Though not a grace appears on strictest s. T. 151 S. it, and prove now if it be not blood T. iii 204 That breathes the spleen, and s. every bone T. iv 864 Remains to each, the s. of sunny nook $T. \nabla 71$ The world o'erlooks him in her busy s. T. vi 915 [204 The cause, though worth the s., may yet elude T.T. My busy s., I next applied 1789, 12 Ye reasoners broad awake, whose busy s. Y.O. 80

SEARCHED.

Explained, illustrated, and s. so well Con. 527 And s. for crannies in the frame P.B.6And in the dust, sifted and s. in vain T. v 536

> SEARED. F896

Hast thou, with heart perverse and conscience s. Ex. SEARS.

My languid limbs, when summer s. the plains T. iii

In grains as countless as the s. sands T. vi 245

SEASON.

Even here is a s. of rest A.S. 51 Than those a brighter s. pours around Con. 648 Revolving s., fruitless as they pass Her. 25 'Twas in the glad s. of spring M.D. 1

Or cool, as the s. demands Gr. 38

Where spices breathe and brighter s. smile M.P.91 Its happiest s., and a peaceful close R. 750

And slights the s. and the scene S. 12 At such a s., and with such a charge T. 219

Cheer all their s. with a grateful smile T. i 622 To sport their s., and be seen no more T. iii 136

Whether inclement s. recommend T. iii 388 Which he that fights a s. so severe T. iii 560

Come, Evening, once again, s. of peace T. iv 243

They brave the s., and yet find at eve T. iv $78 That in due s. he forgets it too T. v 267

The s. smiles, resigning all its rage T. vi 61 And, ere one flowery s. fades and dies T. vi 196 Is dreary, so with him all s. please T. vi 255 The various s. woven into one T. vi 769

And that one s. an eternal spring T. vi 770 Ye slow-revolving s.! We would see T. vi 842 Why do the s. still enrich the year Tir. 41 Back to the s. of life's happy spring Tw. 132

SEASONABLE.

And prayer more s. than the noise St. ii 11

SEAT.

The greenhouse is my summer s. F.B. 1 To enjoy cool nature in a country s. H. 245 Which galled him in his s. J.G. 84

The s. of empire is her cheeks L.B. 27 And the tree is my s. that once lent me a shade P.F.8George took his s. again Q.V. 2

Umbrageous walks and solitary s. R. 258 And o'er the s., with plenteous wadding stuffed T.i The slippery s. betrayed the sliding part T. i 46

Fall back into our s., extend an arm T. ii 448 Have rambled wide. In country, city, s. T. iii 14 Convivial table and commodious s. T. v 162 [T. v 163 What seemed at least commodious s.) were there Still keeps a s. or two for worth and grace Tir. 433

But seeks the corner of some distant s. Tw. 571

SEATED.

Their prince, as justly s. on his throne Ch. 51 Between supporters: and, once s., sit T. i 479 May be expected from thee, s. here Y.O. 139

SECLUSION.

Oh blest s. from a jarring world T. iii 675 SECOND.

Of fewer errors, on a s. proof! F.A. 5 That make superior skill his s. praise H. 206 Thy sight now s. not thy will M. 1 Shall seem to start into a s. birth R. 356 The s. milestone fronts the garden gate R. 490

Though placed in golden Durham's s. stall T. 120 For s. childhood; and devote old age T. ii 637 Cautious he pinches from the s. stalk T. iii 527 I give the bauble but the s. place Twr. 388 This s. weaning, needless as it is Tir. 557 And blazing London seemed a s. Troy T.T. 323

But when the s. Charles assumed the sway T.T. 620 SECONDED.

When flerce Temptation, s. within T. iii 684

SECRET.

Winding a s. or an open course Ch. 369 Who yet betrays his s. by his works Con. 80 The treacherous smile, a mask for s. hate Ez. 42 Blind to the working of that s. Power Ez. 320 [337 None bars Him out from his most s. thought Es.

My soul shall sigh in s., and lament Ex. 722 The s. just committed F. 69 That s. are a sacred trust F. 157 Can see his love, though s. evil lurks H. 544 And though in act unwearied, s. still J.T. 87 To dive into the s. deeps within R. 135 Both fail beneath a fever's s. sway R. 295 A s. thirst of his renounced employs R. 474 They seek like me the s. shade S. 19 Betrays the s. of their silent course T. 196 The undiscoverable s. sleeps T. v 537 Whose cause is God. He feeds the s. fire T. vi 224 And figure of the man, his s. aim T vi 618 Nor, though he tread the s. path of life T. vi 956

SECT.

Thus hopes of every sort, whatever s. H. 294

SECTABLES.

Hence jarring s. may learn N.G. 27

SECURE.

'Tis Providence alone s. A Fable 30 Can be s. against a madman's thrust Ch. 510' But Truth divine for ever stands s. Con. 555 S. the favour, and enhance the joy Ex. 678 Remember, if He guard thee and s. Ex. 700 They sleep s. from waking F. 123 S. from collision and dust Gr. 22 Hope! nothing else can nourish and s. H. 169 Where Power s. what Industry has won Her. 87 From this s. retreat M.B. 14 S. of favour at her Court Mrs. M— 22 S. of their repose N. 8 S. of nothing, but to lose the race P.E. 563 How to s., in some propitious hour R. 141 And where, s. as mouse in chink R.C.5Lies down s., her heart and pocket light T. 322 To sleep within the carriage more s. T. i 92 To slumber in the carriage more s. T. i 99The dreams of fancy, tranquil and s. T. i 236 That crowns it! yet not all its pride s. T. i 279 By wealth or dignity, who dwells s. T. i 593 Sovereign, and most effectual, to s. T. ii 590 At evening, and at night retire s. T. iii 344 What longest binds the closest, forms s. T. iii 480 Whose sharp declivity shoots off s. T. iii 487 But it has peace, and much s. the mind T. iii 679 Should best s. them, and promote them most T. iii 709 And groves, if unharmonious yet s. T. iii 734 To some s, and more than mortal height T, iv 96 One hand s. his hat, save when with both T. iv 354 Among her lovely works with a s. T. vi 722 He sits s., and in the scale of life T. vi 970 Night veiled the pole; all seemed s. T.B. 31 S. of conquest where the prize Th. 15 Exchanged for the s. domestic scheme Tir. 705 8. it thine, its key is in thine hand Tir. 886 S. and at his case Trans. ii 18 The soft receptacle, in which, s. Y.O. 27

SECURED.

Themselves s. beneath the Almighty wing Ez. 189 Hispowers. thee, when presumptuous Spain Ez. 568 S. it by an unforgiving frown T. ii 247 Plashed neatly, and s. with driven stakes T. iv 437 Unwrenched the door, however well s. T. iv 446 Neatly s. from being soiled or torn Tir. 119 A point s., if once he be supplied Tir. 698

SECURELY.

With unshod feet they yet s. tread E. ii 16 The mighty myriads, now s. scorned R. 70 S., though by steps but rarely trod R. 113

Or forest where the deer s. roves R. 182 S. placed between the small and great Tir. 808 And thence s. sees Trans. ii 15

SECURITY.

Offer him warmth, s., and rest T. 252 Convenience, and s., and use T. ii 682

SEDAN.

To seem some nymph in her s. R.C. 18 In chariots and s., know no fatigue T. i 755 With half the chariots and s. in town Tir. 748

SEDATE.

But Innocence, s., serene, erect P.E. 207 A poet's cat, s. and grave R.C. 1

SEDENTARY.

But s. weavers of long tales Con. 207 The s. stretch their lazy length T. i 389

SEDUCE.

"S. our husbands, and estrange their hearts A.T. That can s. him not to spare Mor. 31 Glittering in vain, or only to s. R. 212 While sloth s. more, too weak to bear T. vi 10;

SEDUCED.

Had he s. a virgin, wronged a friend T. 46 Nor him who, by his vanity s. T. vi 283 Twas thus till Luxury s. the mind T.T. 600

SEDUCING.

Is proof against thy sweet s. charms? T. ii 482 The most s., and the oftenest seen) Tir. 762

SEDULOUS.

Even here: while s. I seek to improve T. iii 367

My form with indifference s. A.S. 14 Though a friend I am never to s. A.S. 40 [A.T. 39] And made her dupes s. all things with her eyes) Each trifle that he s. Beau 4 Is. you after all my pains Beau 19 (Which I can hardly s.) B.R. 26 That every tribe, though placed as he s. best Ch. S. Cortez odious for a world enslaved! Ch. 40 "Art thou too fallen, Iberia? Do we s. Ch. 67 To s. the oppressor in his turn oppressed Ch. 74 Nature imprints upon whate'er we s. Ch. 169 8. planetary wonders smoothly roll Ch. 317 He claps his lens, if haply they may s. Ch. 385 She s. a world stark blind to what employs Ch. 404 Learns to compassionate the sick she s. Ch. 411 Here s., acquitted of all vain pretence Ch. 412 To s. a God stretch forth his human hand Ch. 581 A graver coxcomb we may sometimes s. Con. 295 Ere life go down, to s. such sights again) Con. 606 A thought—I have it—let me s. E. iv 36 [E. iii 27 "For what?"—" An' please you, sir, to s. a friend" "I'll s. him too—the first I ever saw" E. iii 31 And cannot s., though few s. better E. iv 83 In every shining straw she s. E. iv 46 Anticipates a day it never s. Ep. i 8 S. Nature gay as when she first began H. 39 Now s. him launched into the world at large H. 197 "Right," says an ensign, "and for aught I s. H. 397 S. Mercy's grand apocalypse displayed! H. 448 And still it spreads. S. Germany send forth H. 459 Heres, the encouragement Grace gives to vice H. 495 Can s. his love, though secret evil lurks H. 544 Oh! s. me sworn to serve thee, and command H. 669 S. it an uninformed and idle mass Her. 26 Now s, him mounted once again J.G. 77

For all might s. the bottle necks J.G. 131 To s. how he did ride J.G. 144 The calender, amazed to s. J.G. 161 May I be there to s.! J.G. 252 That the incredulous themselves may s. J.T. 49 Can s. no evil in a play L. W. 30 I s. thee daily weaker grow M. 6 What sight worth seeing could I s.? M. 30 Those lips are thine—thy own sweet smile I s. M.P.3 For with a race like theirs no chance I s. N.A. 113 And shall Is. thee start away O. ii 22 Especially sugar, so needful we s.? P.A. 7 8. watches, bracelets, rings, and lockets P.B. 25 Imbibes and copies what she hears and s. P.E. 356 Be flowery, and he s. no cause of fear P.E. 546 [19 Though his life be a dream, his enjoyments, I s. P.F.Arrived, a night like noon she s. \hat{Q} . V. 41 He may possess the joys he thinks he s. R. 11 Where unassisted sight no beauty s. R. 56 Absorbed in that immensity I s. R. 93 And s., by no fallacious light or dim R. 115 From all he s. he catches new delight R. 189 That passes all he s. unheeded by R. 340 What charms he s. in Freedom's smile expressed R. Stand close concealed, and s. a statue move R. 284 He views it not, or s. no beauty there R. 470 "The open drawer was left, I s. R.C. 55 To s. again my day o'erspread St. iii 7 S., far as human optics may command T. 3 It stands, like the cerulean arch we s. T. 26 The self-applauding bird, the peacock, s. T. 58 S. the sage hermit, by mankind admired T. 87 S. where it smokes along the sounding plain T. 238 S. where he sits, contemplative and fixed T. 415 Not blind by choice, but destined not to s. T. 530 [564 'Twas the last trumpet—s. the Judge enthroned! T. There might ye s, the peony spread wide T. i 35 [363] And sleep not; s. him sweating o'er his bread T. i Who shows me that which I shall never s. T. i 423 I s. a column of slow-rising smoke T. i 557 Methinks I s. thee straying on the beach T. i 654 I s. thee weep, and thine are honest tears T. i 657 A lucid mirror, in which Nature s. T. i 701 Weeps when she s. inflicted on a beast T. ii 25 Happy the man who s. a God employed T. ii 161 [568 Takes deeper root, confirmed by what they s. T. ii (If e'er posterity s. verse of mine) T. ii 578 Nor can example hurt them: what they s. T. ii 794 S. then the quiver broken and decayed T. ii 803 1 s. that all are wanderers, gone astray T. iii 124 A senseless bargain. When I s. such games T. iii 176 Has eyes indeed; and viewing all she s. T. iii 245 And 'tis a fearful spectacle to s. T. ii 662 [iii 648 He, therefore, who would s. his flowers disposed T. And spotted with all crimes; in whom I s. T. iii 837 S. her unwrinkled face reflected bright T. iv 4[205] S. not a countenance there that speaks of joy T. iv That tempts ambition. On the summit s. T. iv 58 Methinks I s. thee in the streaky west T. iv 245 To peep at such a world; to s. the stir T. iv 89 [567 S. that your polished arms be primed with care T. iv With gazing, when they s. an able man T. v 256 [107 And s. where it has hung the embroider d banks T. vThe Paradise he s., he finds it such T. v 794 The soul that s. him, or receives sublimed T. v 805Which whose s. no longer wanders lost T. v 847 S. nought to wonder at. Should God again T. vi 126 Where no eyes. them. And the fairerforms T. vi 188 He s. me, and at once, swift as a bird T. vi 316 To s. their sov'reign, and confess his sway T. vi 356 He s. that human equity is slack T. vi 472 [760 Scenes of accomplish'd bliss! which who can s. T. vi Exults to s. its thistly curse repealed T, vi 768

Lurks in the serpent now: the mother s. T. vi 778 And smiles to s., her infant's playful hand T. vi 779 S. Salem built, the labour of a God! T. vi 799 To s. thy beauty, and to share thy joy T. vi 815 [817 Saw never, such as Heaven stoops down to s. T. vi Ye slow-revolving seasons! we would s. T. vi 824 Gives courage to their foes, who, could theys. T.vi 865 Scarce deigns to notice him, or, if she s. T. vi 942 "S.!" with united wonder, cried Th. 5 Soon s. your wish fulfilled in either child Tw. 344 In fancy s. him more superbly ride Tir. 368 [362 They s. the attentive crowds his talents draw Ter. We sometimes s. a Lowth or Bagot there Tir. 435 The symptoms that you s. with so much dread Tir.534 In him thy well appointed proxy s. Tir. 676 S. what contempt is fallen on human kind Tir. 814 wealth abused, and dignities misplaced Tir. 815 S. Bedlam's closeted and handcuffed charge Tir. 819 S. great commanders making war a trade Tiv. 821 S.womanhood despised, and manhood shamed Tir. 827 S. volunteers in all the vilest arts Tvr. 835 Survey our schools and colleges, and s. Tir. 909 And thence securely s. Trans. ii 15 He s. that this great roundabout Trans. ii 25 To s. a people scattered like a flock T.T. 34 Asked, when in Hell, to s. the royal jail T.T. 94 To s. a band, called patriot, for no cause T.T. 143 Contemporaries all surpassed, s. one T.T. 670 Twere new indeed to s. a bard all fire T.T. 734 Or, if to s. the name of idol self T.T. 744 S., Mary, what beauties I bring W.N. 5 S. how they have safely survived W.N. 17

SEED.

Those s. of science called his ABC Con. 14 Rose from a s. of tiny size E. i 95 He sowed the s. of order where he went Ez. 488 The thistle's downy s. my fare G. 2 And yet the s. of an immortal flower H. 120 Their noxious growth, starve every better s. R. 41 That shuts within its s, the future flower R. 792 The s. sown there, how vigorous is the plant! T. 3t2 Has man within him an immortal s.? T. ii 518 The growing s. of wisdom; that suggest T. iii 302 Soft fomentation, and invite the s. T. iii 510 The s., selected wisely, plump, and smooth T. iii 511 The beds the trusted treasure of their s. T. iii 650 Beneath the frozen clod; all s. of herbs T. v 81 The s. of murder in the breast of man T. v 210The s. of cruelty, that since have swell'd T. vi 381 And, like a scattered s. at random sown T.T. 674

SEEDLING.

Of treeship—first a s. hid in grass Y.O. 61 SEEING.

Thus s. Gilpin fly J.G. 234
What sight worth s. could I see? M. 30
Then what is man? And what man, s. this T. ii 25
Among the nations, s. thou art free T. v 461
For England's glory, s. it wax pale T. v 510
And s. the old castle of the state T. v 525

SEEK.

Who s. to praise thee, and to make thee known Ch.9 To s. a nobler amidst scenes of woe Ch. 300 [447 Some s., when queasy conscience has its qualms Ch. And though the soul shall s. superior orbs Ch. 563 Are fittest auditors for such to s. Com. 226 Go s. on Revelation's hallowed ground Con. 499 The soul's sure interest in the good shes. Con. 728 The language of the land she s. inspires Con. 886 Wo s. a friend should come disposed F. 43 That form the character he s. F. 46

S. to delight, that they may mend mankind H. 758 No shining ornaments have they to s. H. 765 Thus soothed and reconciled, each s. L.R. 25 8. to supplant his inexperienced youth P.E. 59 So he who s. a mansion in the sky P.E. 576 Resign our own and s. our Maker's will R. 130 Who s. retirement for its proper use R. 170 For such a cause the poet s. the shade R. 188 Yet s. him, in his favour life is found R. 353 But wisely s. a more convenient friend R. 443 To s. that peace a tyrant's frown denies R. 770 We s. it, ere it come to light R.C. 97 They s. like me the secret shade S. 19 That ples refuted, other quirks they s. T. 293 Now s. repose upon an humbler theme T. i 5 At first, progressive as a stream, they s. T. i 292 He s. them headlong, and is seen no more T. i 454 Go then, well worthy of the praise ye s. T. ii 278 Or will he s. to dazzle me with tropes T. ii 423 I s. divine simplicity in him T. ii 432 To s. a tranquil death in distant shades T. iii 3 To s. him rather where his mercy shines T. iii 224 S. and obtain, and often find unsought? T. iii 288 They love the country, and none else, who s. T. iii 320 Even here: while sedulous I s. to improve T. iii 367 That hungers, and supplies it; and who s. T. iii 375 He s. a favoured spot; that where he builds T. iii471 Should s. the guiltless joys that I describe T. iii 698 Corruption! Whose s. an audit here T. iv 610 Ten thousand s. an unmolested end T. v 87Capricious, in which fancy s. in vain T. v 120 Some s. diversion in the tented field T. v 185 The surest presage of the good they s. T. v 378 To s. no sublunary rest beside T. v 476 Resistless from the centre he should s. T. v 590 He s., an acquiescence of his soul T. v 597 Shall s. it, and not find it, in his turn T. vi 600 To s. a refuge from the tongue of Strife T. vi 841 He s. not hers, for he has proved them vain T. vi 920 He s. his proper happiness by means T. vi 954 But all is in His hand, whose praise I s. T. vi 1017 Is not to find what they profess to s. Tir. 194 Is more than adequate to all I s. Tir. 386 For there the game they s. is easiest found Tir. 520 But s. the corner of some distant seat Tir. 571 Who s. it in his climate and his frame T.T. 207 He break away, and s. the distant plain P T.T. 307SEEKING.

Happy the man there s. and there found Ex. 652 S. a real friend, we seem F. 142 Or s. with a biassed mind F. 209 Some s. happiness not found below R. 604 And, s. exile from the sight of men T. 442 Fastidious, s. less familiar scenes T. i 512 His devious course uncertain, s. home T. iii 3 And s. grace to improve the prize they hold T. vi 55 S. her food, with ease might have purloined Y.Q. 19

In a moment I s. to be there A.S. 46

Are not at all, or are not what they s. A.T. 41

And s. to have risen in vain C. 4

Her wisdom s. the weakness of a child Ch. 423

But lest I s. to sin against a friend Ch. 485

What he remembers s. to have forgot Con. 132

A sceptio in philosophy may s. Con. 138

Nose, ears, and eyes s. present on the spot Con. 318

It s. as if we Britons were ordsined Con. 360

Lest they miscarry of what s. their due Con. 372

Is it incredible, or can it s. Con. 481

Or s. to boast a fire he does not feel Con. 714 [829

That having proved the weakness, it should s. Con.

And while she s. to scorn him, only fears Con. 788

Some never s. so wide of their intent Con. 857 But now, to gather up, what s. dispersed Con. 867 In gentle sounds it s. as it complained Con. 905 [i 4 S. it to say—" Health here has long to reign?" Ep. Snuffs up the praise of what he s. to plan Ex. 317 And in whose awful sight all nations s. Ex. 344 8. to reflection of a different race Es. 619 Reflect that these, and all that s. thine own Ex.672How bright soe'er the prospect s. F. 73 On good that s. approaching F. 81 Seeking a real friend, we s. F. 142 Have not, it s., discerned it F. 210 Which s. by the crest that it rears Gr. 3 S. the labour of Mulciber's hands Gr. 40 And fancies I fear they will s. Gr. 58That Heaven's intentions are not what they s. H. 66 To read the news, or fiddle, as s. best H. 76 No trifle, howsoever short it s. H. 123 And s, to pray, for good example sake H. 249 Of all the ways that s. to promise fair H. 338 And s. to warn him never to repeat H. 355 A thought intrude, that says, or s. to say H.372And, while religion s. to be her view H. 641 S., as it is, the fountain whence alone H. 708 The thunder s. to summon him away H.719Earth s. a garden in its loveliest dress Her. 57 Vice s. already slain H.F. 6 Thy indistinct expressions s. M. 21 S. so to be desired, perhaps I might M.P. 83 [117 And rush those other sounds, that s. by tongues N.A. Is. to have lived my childhood o'er again M.P. 115 Are qualities that s. to comprehend P.E. 423 [132 So well that thought the employment s. to suit P.E.And some that s. to threaten virtue less P.E. 227 8. verging fast towards the female side P.E. 430 This lesson s, to carry P.T. 63
All wish, or s. to wish, they could forego R. 4 On earth what is, s. formed indeed for us R. 106 S. drops descending in a shower of light R. 350 S. through the medium of a cloud like thine R.352Shall s. to start into a second birth R. 356 But versed in arts that while they s. to stay R.383S. all created since he travelled last R. 426 S. at the best but dreaming life away R. 468 Ye want but that to s. indeed divine R.558Thought to the man that never thinks may s. R. 635 Skilful alike to s. devout and just R. 689 To s. some nymph in her sedan R.C. 18 But love of change, it s., has place R.C. 21 Time then would s. more precious than the joys St. The rest might then s. privileged to play St. ii 19 S. to sound too much in vain St. iv 19 New as ever s. our sins St. iv 27 All evils then s. light, compared St. v 27 And s. to say—"Ye meaner fowl give place T. 64 That endless bliss (how strange soe'er it s.) T. 355 S. what it is, a cap and bells for fools T. 368 Of blank oblivion, s. a glorious prize T. i 287 [306 S. sunk, and shortened to its topmost boughs T. i The chequered earth s. restless as a flood $ar{T}$. i 344 That s. to swing uncertain, and yet falls T. i 358 He s. indeed indignant, and to feel T. i 379 And theirs alone s. worthy of the name T. i 398 Even age itself s. privileged in them T. i 403 Between the nations, in a world that s. T. ii 50 And pillars of our planet s. to fail T. ii 63 S., in their eyes, a meroy, for thy sake T. ii 132 He picks clean teeth, and, busy as he s. T. ii 627 In all our crowded streets; and senates s. T. iii 61 That s. half quenched in the immense abyss T. iii 216 A life all turbulence and noise may s. T. iii 379 And s. to smile at what they need not fear T. iii 575

The globe and its concerns, I s. advanced T. iv 95 It s. the part of wisdom, and no sin T. iv 336 Humane as they would s., not always show T. iv 373 Sleep s. their only refuge: for, alas! T. iv 396 That felt their virtues; Innocence it s. T. iv 518 S. most at variance with all moral good T. iv 621 Incorporated, s. at once to lose T. iv 678 Screens them, and s. half petrified to sleep T. v 28 With well considered steps, s. to resent T. v 75 [112 Large growth of what may s. the sparkling trees T.vWere kingship as true treasure as it s. T. v 357 Short as in retrospect the journey s. T. vi 19 [v 620] And s. dethroned and vanquished. Peace ensues T. Does but incumber whom it s. to enrich T. vi 97 So man, the moth, is not afraid, it s. T. vi 211 Of the poor brute, s. wisely to suppose T. vi 437 (If such who plead for Providence may s. T. vi 481 If man be what he s., this hour a slave Tir. 59 Rise in his forehead, and s. rank enough Tw. 164 And s., if judged by their expressive looks Tir. 288 That, viewing it, we s. almost to obtain Tir. 312 But, fair although and feasible it s. Tir. 428 [430 For Providence, that s. concerned to exempt Tir. S. with one voice to delegate to you? Tir. 554 And s. it nothing in a father's eye Tir. 615 No few, that would s. wise, resemble her Tir. 796 S. to imply a censure on the rest T.T. 92 Who think, or s. to think, man made for them T.T. But then, it s. (what cannot grandeur do V. 43 S. graced with a livelier hue W.N. 22 It s. idelatry with some excuse Y.O. 9 [111 Possessing nought but the scooped rind that s. Y.O. SEEMED.

And e'en to myself never s. C. 23 Nor, cruel as it s., could he Cast. 31 God stood not, though he s. to stand, aloof Ch. 59 Victorious s., and now the doctor's skill Con. 820 The faculties that s. reduced to naught Con. 403 His happy eloquence s. there at home Con. 622 That fables old, that s. for ever mute Con. 817 Yet to consult a little s. no crime Con. 865 That s. to promise no such prize E. i 96 No; gold they s., but they were never such E. iii 19 "A friend!" Horatio cried, and s. to start E. iii 28 Showed that they followed all they s. toshun Ex. 142 Where Paradise s. still vouchsafed on earth Ez. 420 The open windows s. to invite F.B. 19 And chirp, and kiss, he s. to say F.B. 26 Friendship and Love s. tenderly at strife H. 680 But still he s. to carry weight J.G. 129 She s. designed for Flora's hand L.R. 15 So pleasant it s. as I lay M.D. 4 All s. so peaceful, that from them conveyed N.A. 41 That sage they s., as lawyers o'er a doubt N.A. 77 And s. by some magician's art Q.V. 59 Gleamed through the clear transparency that s. T. If cushion might be called, what harder s. T. i 55 (Whats at least commodious seat) were there T. v 163 Twas durable, as worthless as it s. T. v 174It s. not always short; the rugged path T. vi 20 That oft the beast has s. to judge the man T. vi 478 Ensuing s. to obliterate the past T. vi 540 Night veiled the pole: all s. secure T.B. 31 In sleep he s. to view T.B. 45 And it s. to a fanciful view The Rose 6 And he that s. our counterpart at first Tir. 442 And blazing London s. a second Troy T.T. 823 The laurel s. to wait on his command T.T. 688

SEEMING.

The s. virtue weighed against the vice Ch. 457 S. a sanctuary, proves a grave R. 786 Grasp s. Happiness, and find it Pain R. 756

Society for me! Thou s. sweet T. i 249 And when I weigh this s. wisdom well T. iii 180 Not slothful he, though s. unemployed T. vi 928

SEEMLY.

It is not s., nor of good report T. i 729 And 'tis but s., that where all deserve T. ii 71

SEEM'ST.

I love thee, all unlovely as thou s. T. iv 123

That sages have s. in thy face? A.S. 6 Oh! never s. but in thy blest effects Ch. 7 That earth has s., or fancy can devise Ch. 254 So have I s. (and hastened to the sight Ch. 547 S. in another they at once condemn Con. 156 I could not, had I s. it with my own" Con. 234 Oh! I have s. (nor hope perhaps in vain Con. 605 A new-found luxury, not s. in her? Es. 6 The mask from faces never s. before Ez. 140 They knew, by sure prognostics s. on high Ez. 157 In vain the nations, that had s. them rise Ez. 233 Needs only to be s. to be admired Ex. 493 Must hold both sisters, never s. apart Es. 635 Where'er they flow, now s, and now concealed H. 48 So Flora's wreath through coloured crystal s. H. 71 And bliss not s. by blessings understood H. 148 Than this his Maker has s. fit to give H. 601 No holiday have s. J.G. 8 Most piteous to be s. J.G. 126 Yourselves have s., what time the thunders rolled Where'er the heavenly Nymph is s. Miss — 69 Chins fallen, and not an eye-ball to be s. P.E. 137 The Cross once s. is death to every vice P.E. 622 Like that, once s., suffice Q.V. 78 Traces of Eden are still s. below R. 28 The Invisible in things scarce s. revealed R. 61 How dimly s., how faintly understood! R. 88 But still 'tis rural—trees are to be s. R. 497 The gay, the thoughtless, have I s. St. i 19 'Twas his ambition to be s. of men T. 53 And shines without desiring to be s. T. 70 May still be s.; but perforated sore T. i 25 As bashful, yet impatient to be s. T. i 325 He seeks them headlong, and is s. no more T. i 454 Prospects, however levely, may be s. T. i 509[642] Their former charms? And having s. our state T. i S. in the dim horison, turns thee pale T. i 667 [690 Or s. with least reproach; and virtue, taught T. i The brightest truths that man has ever s. T. ii 555 Spendthrifts, and booted sportsmen, ofteners. T. ii752 To sport their season, and be s. no more T. iii 136 And covetous of Shakespeare's beauty, s. T. iii 601 Like virtue thriving most where little s. T. iii 664 Which s. delights him not; then coming home T. iv236 Goliath, might have s. his giant bulk T. iv 270 Is s. no more. The character is lost! T. iv 539 S. through the leafless wood. His slanting ray T.v 6 The likeness of some object s. before T. v 121 There, like the visionary emblem s. T. v 400All we behold is miracle; but s. T. vi 132 The man, whose virtues are more felt than s. \bar{T} . $\forall i$ And more than one perhaps that I have s. Tw. 655 The most seducing, and the oftenest s.) Tir. 762 Civited fellows, smelt ere they are s. Tir. 830 Thrice happy bird! I too have s. Trans. ii 31 And, sick of having s. 'em Trans. ii 33 And let thy strength be s. Trans. H. 33 Is seldom felt, though sometimes s. and heard T.T. So that the jest is clearly to be s. T.T. 540 Who is beloved where never s. 1789, 71

SEER.

Saved him, or the unrelenting s. had died T. vi 471

SEEST

S. thou you harlot, wooing all she meets T. 507

SEIZE.

Sir, when I flew to s. the bird B.R. 1 And hoped to s. his abdicated helm Ex. 577 A tenfold frenzy s. all the rest H. 634 [42 And went with his comrades the apples to s. P.A. Can s. the slippery prey, unties the knot T. ii 685 Of vanity, that s. all below T. iii 267 That s. first the opulent, descends $T. i \vee 583$ To s. the fair occasion; well they eye T. v 66 By slow solicitation, s. at once T. vi 116 I fear lest thee alone they s. The Doves 23 To manage with address, to s. with power T.T. 358 events as yet unknown to man T.T. 498 Is. thy name in haste U. 20

S. after s., fight after fight 1789, 23

SEIZED.

Fear s. the trembling sex; in every grove A.T. 97 8. fast the saddle and sprang up behind A.T. 178 S. fast his hand, held out to set them free Ex. 219 8. fast the flowing mane J.G. 46 And when the bush exploring boy, that s. T. vi 445 I hastily s. it, unfit as it was The Rose 9 The brimming goblet, s. the Thyrsus bound T.T. 603

SELECTED.

The seed, s. wisely, plump, and smooth T. iii 511 Like flowers s. from the rest, and bound T. iv 667

SELECTING.

By flocks, fast feeding and s. each T. iv 318 SELECTS.

Nor felt but in the soul that Heaven s. Ch. 8 SELF.

For s. to s., and God to man revealed Ch. 361 So S. starts nothing, but what tends apace Ch.565If S. employ us, whatsoe'er is wrought Ch. 569 We glorify that S., not him we ought Ch. 570 My gravelly bounds, from s. to human kind F.A. 20 Devised by s. to answer selfish ends T. 110 He that attends to his interior s. T. iii 373 Embowelled now, and of thy ancient s. Y.O. 110

SELF-ACCUSED.

Die s. of life run all to waste? St. ii 28 SELF-APPLAUDING.

The s. bird, the peacock, see T. 58

SELF-APPROVING.

Our s. bosom draws Miss - 51 Perhaps the s. haughty world T. vi 940

SELF-ATTACHMENT.

Mean s., and scarce aught beside T. i 616

SELF-BANISHED.

S. from society, prefer T. i 578

SELF-BETRAYED.

While s., and wilfully undone Tir. 171

SELF-BURIED.

As instinct prompts; s. ere they die T. v 88

SELF-CARESSED.

Her women, insolent and s. Es. 45

SELF-CHEATED.

Thus by degrees s. of their sound T. v 264

SELF-COMPLACENCE.

While Fame and s. are the bribe Ch. 408

SELF-COMPLACENT.

The s. actor, when he views T. iv 200 The pedagogue, with s. air Tir. 527

SELF-CONCEIT.

May blow up s., and nourish pride Ch. 876 As erst with airy s. R.C. 100

Inflated and astrut with s. T. v 268

SELF-CONDEMNED.

That s. they must neglect the prize T. iii 700 SELF-CONGRATULATING.

Of s. Pride, begot T. v 622

SELF-DECEIVED.

Ah s.! Could I, prophetic, say St. ii 17

SELF-DEFENCE.

And those in s. Savage at first T. ▼ 223

How many s. nymphs and swains T. iii 316 SELF-DENYING.

Your s. zeal, that holds it good T. v 328

SELF-DEPRIVED.

We bear our shades about us; s. T. i 259

SELF-DESERTED.

Despondence, s. in her grief R. 757

SELF-DISGRACING.

No-shame upon a s. age Con. 735

SELF-DRIVEN.

And rockets flew, s. Q.V. 14

SELF-ENTITLED.

Thou s. ruler of the main E_{x} , 549

SELF-EVIDENT.

For truth s., with pomp impressed H. 103

SELF-EXALTING.

If s, claims be turned adrift H, 530

And though s. in every case Con. 157 S., and yet a knave at heart Ex. 94

SELF-IMPEACHED.

Stands s. the creature of least worth Tir. 70

SELF-IMPORTANCE.

Our s. ruins its own scheme Con. 368

SELF-IMPOSED.

Of needless shame, and s. disgrace Con. 350

SELF-IMPOVERISHED

Some s. and because they must R, 608

SELF-IMPRISONED.

Who, s. in their proud saloons T. i 414

SELF-INDULGENCE.

With s. winged the fleeting hours Ex. 71

SELF-INFLICTED.

Their long complaints, is s. woe T. iv 430

SELF-INTEREST.

From mean s. and ambition clear Ex. 439

'Tis narrow, s., arrogant, and draws Con. 671 Calls him away from s. ends and aims R. 19 Devised by self to answer s. ends T. 111 Since all alike are s., why not they? T. ii 696 In s. silence, but imparted oft T. iii 394 As this is gross and s.! over which T. vi 837 By s. views, thus consured and cashiered Tir. 496 On s. principles, is shame and guilt T.T. 2

SELF-JOINED.

By regal warrant, or s. by bond T. iv 661

SELF-KNOWLEDGE. S. truly learned of course implies Ch. 859

Self-Love.

Or mean s. erected F. 39 To bid the pleadings of S. be still R. 129 SELF-MADE.

Designed by Nature wise, but s. fools Tir. 837 SELF-PROCLAIMED.

Then view him, s. in a gazette T.T. 37 SELF-RENOUNCING.

That s. wisdom, learned before T. 568

SELF-REPROACHING.

And s. conscience? He foresees T. v 600

SELF-RESTORING.

The s. arm of human power T. 402

SELF-SAME.

The s. gale that wafts the fragrance round Her. 35 For 'twas the s. Power Divine N.G. 19 Kings do but reason on the s. plan T.T. 48 He trod the very s. ground you tread T.T. 388 Then, only governed by the s. rule Tir. 871

SELF-SATISFYING.

Then farewell all s. schemes T. 7

SELF-SEARCHING.

with an introverted eye Con. 364

SELF-SEQUESTERED. The morning finds the s. man T. iii 386

SELF-SUPPORTED.

Few s. flowers endure the wind T. iii 657

SELF-TAUGHT.

With s. rites, and under various names T. vi 232

SELF-TORTURING.

The sacred fire, s. his trade T. 100

SELF-UPHELD.

In ocean s. Cast. 88

SELF-WILL.

Then obstinate s. confirms him so P.E. 543

SELL.

Or s. their glory at a market price Con. 28 To tempt the poor to s. himself to thee? Ex. 375 Has He bid you buy and s. us N.C.27P.A.2And fear those who buy them and s. them, are knaves And s. them medals, which, if neither rare P.E. 399 As stoop from Heaven to s, the proud a throne T. 78 Who s. their laurel for a myrtle wreath T. ii 229 And colleges, untaught; s. accent, tone T. ii 359 S. the last scantling, and transfers the price T. iii 758 He s. protection. Witness at his foot T. vi 417 He s. protection. Witness at his foot T. vi 417 Just what the toy will s. for, and no more T.T. 62 Agreed. But would you s. or slay your horse T.T. 304 S. oaths by tale, and at the lowest price T.T. 419 You s. it plaguy dear Y.D. 60

SEMBLANCE.

Its s. in another's case Cast. 60 And specious s. have lost their use T. iii 107 Stands now, and s. only of itself! Y.O. 124

SEMINARIES.

The props of such proud s. fall Tir. 499

SEMIQUAVERING,

Quavering and s. care away P.E. 127

SEMPITERNAL.

All truth is from the s. source T. ii 499

SENATE.

Thy s. is a scene of civil jar Ex. 294 The bar, the s., or the tented field R. 102 To shake thy s., and from heights sublime T. ii 216 In all our crowded streets; and s. seem T. iii 61

SENATOR. Like those which modern s. employ T. iv 490 By poets, and by s. unpraised T. v. 539 Dumb as a s., and as a priest Tir. 424 SENATORIAL.

Of Attic phrase and s. tone S. i 11 Your s. dignity of face V. 11 For s. honours. Thus to Time Y.O. 103

SEND.

My friends, do they now and then s. A.S. 37 Or s. another shivering to the bar Con. 187 And still it spreads. See Germany s. forth H. 459 The peacock s. his heavenly dyes Mrs. M-3 [12] S. your dishonoured gown to Monmouth Street P.E. None s. his arrow to the mark in view P.E. 570 And s. the patient into purer air R. 282 Nor seldom, as propitious Heaven might s. R. 377 S. Nature forth, the daughter of the skies R. 795 The rustling straw s. np a frequent mist T. i 360 And s. thee to thy cabin, well-prepared T. i 670 Levantine regions these, the Azores s. T. iii 583 To hear the roar she s. through all her gates T. iv 91 Nor what a wealthier than ourselves may s. T. iv 426 No forfeiture, and of its fruits he s. T. v 573 Like that which s. him to the dusty grave T. v 609 S. him to college. If he there be tamed Tir. 240 To s. our sons to scout and scamper there Tir. 294 Of natural pity, s. him not to school Tir. 872 Tyranny s. the chain that must abridge T.T. 474 I thought the volume I presumed to s. V. 39

Attendant at the S.'s side Mor. 40 A s. they know not, to the wondering crowd Ch. To every man his modicum of s. Con. 2 Religion, Virtue, Reason, Common S.—Con. 77 [417 Prefers his fellow grooms, with much good s. Con. Suppose themselves monopolists of s. Com. 627 Though common s., allowed a casting voice Con. 663 My little garrison of s. E. iv 18 The s. was dark; 'twas therefore fit E. iv 61 Each man of common s. agrees E. iv 68 All men of common s. allow E. iv 69 That Scripture, Justice, and Good S. disown Ez. 553 Good s. and knowledge of mankind F. 200 The very s. of it foregoes its use H. 21 His speech rebellion against common s. H. 565

A blemish, or a s. impaired M.F. 43 With every herb that blunts the s. Miss — 23 And s. of having well designed Mor. 52
"And your fine s.," he said, "and yours " P. 41 Made nothing but a brute, the slave of s. P.E. 214 No, wrangler,—destitute of shame and s. P.E. 235

Good breeding and good s. gave all a grace H. 683

Sworn foes to s. and law M. i 2

To virtue, delicacy, truth, or s. P.E. 513 [P.E. 246 Good s., good health, good conscience and goodfame? That Scripture lies, and blasphemy is s. P.E. 595

A s. of elegance we rarely find R. 501 The friend of Truth, the associate of sound S.—R. 696 The s. of mercy kindles into praise R.778

Beware of too sublime a s. R.C. 109 To blend good s. and elegance and ease S. ii 11

Faith, want of common s. St. vi 22 Of all his conduct this the genuine s. T. 94

Sinful and weak, in every s. a wretch T. 383 Than please the eye—sweet Nature every s. Ti 427 And fungous fruits of earth, regales the s. T. i 532

How, in the name of soldiership and s. T. ii 225

With such ingredients of good s. and taste T. ii 789 "Defend me therefore, Common S.," say I T. iii 187 The dearth of information and good s. T. iv 71How lovely, and the moral s. how sure T. v 673 And helpless victims with a s. so keen T. vi 475 To monarchs dignity; to judges s. T. iv 796 [T.vi 561 (Though graced with polished manners and fine s. The stamp and clear impression of good s. T. vi 983 And, common s. diffusing real day Tir. 189 [Tir. 137 Whose humorous vein, strong s., and simple style Except of caution and of common s. Tir. 258 That scorn of all delights but those of s. Tir. 351 With savoury truth and wholesome common s. Tir. 629 Show thou hast s. enough to prize the pearl Tir.707But recollect that he has s., and feels Tir. 720 And laughs the s. of misery far away T.T. 239 In prostitution sinks the s. of shame T.T. 415 Fire indignation and a s. of scorn T.T. 489 Where Discipline helps opening buds of s. T.T. 508 I judged a man of s. could scarce do worse T.T. 518 The substitute for genius, s., and wit T.T. 543 Then decent Pleasantry and sterling s. T.T. 638 Sound s., intrepid spirit, manly grace V. 12

SENSELESS.

Deified useless wood or s. stone Ex. 238 Tis s. arrogance to accuse F. 52 With s. noise, his argument the sword H. 660 In the last scene of such a s. play R. 32 Not s. of its charms, what still we love T. i 516 A s. bargain. When I see such games T. iii 176 Or flushed with fierce dispute, a s. brawl T. v 472 In s. riot; but ye will not find T. v 757

SENSIBLE.

The scene of her s. choice! C. 44 A moral, s., and well-bred man Con. 193 And catch in its progress a s. glow F.M. 20

SENSIBILITY.

Our s. are so acute Con. 351 "Sweet S." Miss — 68 And s. so fine! P. 14 That s. of pain with which T_c iv 358 Yet wanting s.) the man T. vi 562 She pours a s. divine T.T. 486

SENSITIVE.

Did plants called s. grow there?" P. 22

SENSUAL.

Of s, evil, and thus Hope is born H. 152 Delights like these, ye s. and profane P.E. 263 Her golden tube, through which as. world T. vi 978

SENSUALIST.

Between the sot and s. F. 41 In which lewd s. print out themselves R.684

SENSUALITY.

Left s. and dross behind T. 526

SENT.

With warmer wishes s. Cast. 10 'Tis like a parcel s. you by the stage Con. 305 [518 S. to do more than He appeared to have done Con. Is s. to be flatted or wrought into length F.M. 2 He s. a servant forth by every road H. 310 S. us a wind to parch us at a blast? P.E. 256 [803 S . through the traveller's temples! He that finds T , iii How much a dunce that has been s, to roam P.E. 415 Upridged so high, and s. on such a charge T. ii 116 When s. with God's commission to the heart T. ii 471 A loud Hosanna s. from all thy works T. v 888 [132]When thou wouldst build; no quarry s. its stores T. v S. forth a voice, and all the sons of God T. v 821 I s. you verse, and, as your Lordship knows V. 19

SENTENCE.

Died by the s. of a shaven priest Ch. 55 Makes half a s. at a time enough Con. 246 If s. of eternal pain belong H. 389 And writes a Doomsday s. on his heart H. 693 And reading here his s., how replete St. ii 7 He reads his s. at the flames of Hell T. 10 Your s. and mine differ. What's a name? T. 107 Reverse the s., let the truth be known T. 449

SENTIMENT. My threadbare s. together E. iv 6 Their s. so well expressed P.T. 42 By all whom s. has not abused Tir. 538 New-fangled s., the boasted grace Tir. 539 If s. were sacrificed to sound T.T. 516

SENTIMENTAL

With s. frippery, and dream P.E. 312

SEPARATES.

Then, as a shepherd s. his flock T. v 196

SEPULCHRAL.

Like hidden lamps in old s. urns Con. 358 SEPULCHRE.

A s. in which the living lie R. 737 Of all these s., instructors true St. ii 34

SEQUENCES. Her mingled suits and s., and sits T. i 475

SEQUESTERED. That grief, s. from the public stage Ch. 305 The grove, and the s. shed O. ii 17 'Tis Harmony from yon s. bower P.E. 65 When, long s. from his throne Q.V. 1 Amid the charms of a s. spot R. 8Content if thus s. I may raise R.805To the close copse, or far s. green T. 69 For me, enamoured of s. scenes T. iii 27'Tis therefore, many whose s. lot T. v 522Thus sang the sweet s. bird The Doves 37

SERAGLIOS.

" S. sing, and harems dance for joy! A.T. 108

And his that s. tremble at, is hung Ex.662

SERENE.

Impede the bark that ploughs the deep s. Ch. 132 S. and peaceful as those heavenly days Con. 568 And feels no change, unshaken and s. Ex. 587Some are so placid and s. F. 121 But Innocence, sedate, s., erect P.E. 207 So, ancient poets say, s. Q.V. 69 A soul s., and equally retired R. 143 But nowhere with a current so s. R. 455Some place of more s. repose R.C. 30 From Heaven to Earth, of lambent flame s. T. v 153S., and to his duties much inclined Tir. 774

SERENEST.

Its happiest soil in the s. minds? Con. 594

SERGEANT. That instant he becomes the s.'s care T. iv 631

SERIOUS. Thus have I sought to grace a s. lay Ch. 628 A shallow brain behind a s. mask Con. 297 Can pause one hour to read a s. rhyme Ex. 605 That their Creator had no s. end H. 130 To s. thought at evening-tide Mor. 12 The waves o'ertake them in their s. play R. 157 Now which stands highest in your s. thought? T. 221 No: he was s. in a s. cause T. ii 476 And incompatible with s, thought T, iv 622

Her s. mirth, to Arbuthnot and Swift T.T. 657

SERMONS.

S., and city feasts, and favourite airs T. iv 84 SERPENT.

The s. Error twines round human hearts P.E. 4 The subtlest s. with the loftiest crest T. 476 Charm the deaf s. wisely. Make him hear T. v 671Lurks in the s. now: the mother sees T. vi 778

SERVANT.

A Persian, humble s. of the sun Con. 67 Horatio's s. once, with bow and cringe E. iii 20 He sent a s. forth by every road H. 310 The s. of the public never knows R. 370 You have two s.,—Tom, an arch, sly rogue T. 201 But Discipline, a faithful s. long T. ii 725

"A knight—(can be that s. the fair do less) A.T. 119S. as a key to those that are suppressed Ch. 524 S. him with venison, and he chooses fish Con. 335[415 Yet e'en the rogue that s. him, though he stand Con. Though future pain may s. for present mirth Con. 494 God's work may s. an ape upon a stage Con. 736 If Israel's Lord be God, then s. the Lord Con. 852 S., in a plain and homely way E. i 3 One proof should s.—a reference to you E. iii 13 Then thou art bound to s. him, and to prove Ex. 560 To praise him is to s. him, and fulfil Ex. 644 Or s. the champion in forensic war Ex. 664 S. merely as a soil for discontent H. 97 And differing judgments s, but to declare H. 423 Oh! see me sworn to s. thee, and command H. 669 That s. mankind, or shun them, wild or tame N.A.66 Had summoned them to s. his golden god P.E. 131 S. but to lead philosophers astray P.E. 433 So one, whose story s. at least to show P.E. 526 The ocean s., on high Q.V. 18 To s. the Sovereign we were born to obey R.50Sealed with his signet whom they s, and love R.164Or stabbed a man to s. some private end? T. 47 To s. occasions of poetic pomp T. i 152 The minister of man, to s. his wants T. ii 138 And s. the altar, in my soul I loathe T. ii 416 To s. his country. Ministerial grace T. iii 795 He cultivates. These s. him with a hint T. iv 758 Familiar, s. to emancipate the rest! T. v 298 And reigns content within them : him we s. $T. \vee 333$ To s. him nobly in the common cause T. v 344 Comes at his call, and s. him for a friend T. v 424 Stripes, and a dungeon; and his body s. T. v 582S. to compose a spirit well inclined T. v 657His strength to suffer, and his will to s. T. v 902 But less, methinks, than sacrilege might s. T. vi 638 Much less might s., when all that we design T. vi 642 He s. his country, recompenses well T. vi 968 S. but to show how black is all beside Tir. 844 Might s., however small Trans. i 18 371 The prize of happier times, will s. thee now T.T. Your sullen silence s. at least to tell V. 25

Г361 It s. them with a tree A Tale 32 Pulled down the tyrants India s. with dread Ex. Which s. my weak thought for a guide M.D. 44 The dinner s., Charles takes his usual stand T. 213 How oft, when Paul has s. us with a text T. ii 589 Who had survived the father, s. the son T. iii 748 Was chosen leader; him they s. in war T. v 233 That office s., they must be swept away T. v 569 Him blind antiquity profaned, not s. T. vi 231 Which, having s. us, perish, we are held T. vi 604

SERVICE.

While Gratitude and Love made s. sweet Ch. 233 And the dull s. of the lip were there Ex. 44

Thy s., once holy without spot Ex. 261 Like angels in the s. of their Lord Ex.674And at last is of s. in sickness or pain F.M. 11 Sick of the s. of a world that feeds R. 47 Exempt from future s. all his days R. 628 But strong for s. still, and unimpaired T. ii 705 To its just point—the s. of mankind T. iii 372 And sweating in his s.; his caprice T. v 274And tattered in the s. of debauch T. v 633 To ceaseless s. by a ceaseless force T. vi 219 And in their s. wage perpetual war T. vi 894 Framed for the s. of a freeborn will Tir. 8

SERVILE.

If this be s., that can ne'er be free Ch. 568 From s. fear, or be the more enslaved? T. 184 S. employ; but such as may amuse T. iii 406 While s. trick and imitative knack T.T. 666 Debased to s. purposes of Pride T.T. 748

SERVILITY.

Their hope in Heaven, s. their scorn Ex. 440 Oh! if S. with supple-knees T.T. 127

SERVING.

S. a benefactor, I am free Ch. 242 And, s. God herself through mere constraint Com-SERVING-MAID.

A s. was she, and fell in love T. i 537 SERVITUDE.

That even s., the worst of ills T. v 302

SET. The spectacles s. them unhappily wrong A.C. 2 And s. the unseemly pair in open day A.T. 168 And s. up his back, and clawed like a cat A.T. ii 5 The sun of that moment is s. C. 3 S. your opinion at whatever pitch Con. 107 Am I to s. my life upon a throw Con. 191 As bastions s. point blank against God's will Con. And puzzling s. his puppy brains D.W. 23 Saw Babylon s. wide her two-leaved brass Er. 59 They s. up self, that idol-god, within Ez. 216 [219] Seized fast his hand, held out to s. them free Er. Thou that hast s. the persecuted free Ex. 278 In setting right what Faction has s. wrong Er. 301 Are proud, and s. their faces as a rock Ez. 457 Hope s. the stamp of vanity on all H. 153 Hope with uplifted foot, s. free from earth H. 161 And—God is merciful—s. all to rights H. 376 Nor s. a price upon a willing heart H. 337 [H. 536 Shall answer,—" Hope, sweet Hope, has s. me free He little dreamt, when he s. out J.G. 99 And s. their wit at work to find L.W. 13 And, staff in hand, s. forth to share Mor. 9 Just reached it when the sun was s. Mor. 22 S. me more distant from a prosperous course MP. Where rises and where s. the day Mrs. M-11 And needs no glossary to s. him right N.A. 70 S. Paul to music, he shall quote him too P.E. 113 Ecstasy s. her stamp on every mien P.E. 136 S. off a wanderer into foreign lands P.E. 378 A muleteer's the man to s. him right P.E. 541 S. London in a glow Q.V.8The terrors of the day that s. them free T. ii 128 Those suns are s. Oh, rise some other such! T. ii 252 With all his canvas s., and inexpert T. ii 486I burn to s. the imprisoned wranglers free T. iv 34 Beguile the night, and s. a keener edge T. iv 164 With ostentatious pageantry, but s. T. iv 256 [600 When he should strike, he trembles and s. free T. iv So dazzling in their eyes who s. it on T. v 244Haste now, philosopher, and s. him free $T. \times 670$ Of sad experience, nor examples s. T. v 294 [vi 158 Now sanguine, and her beauteous head now s. T.

He s. the bright procession on its way T. vi 190 God s. the diadem upon his head T. vi 351 Who needlessly s. foot upon a worm T. vi 563 As s, the midnight riot in a blaze Tir, 287 Than s. your son to work at a vile trade Tir. 456 To s. some living worthy in his view Tir. 647 And s. plebeian thousands in a roar T.T. 319 To s. a distich upon six and five T.T. 507 Thus genius rose and s. at ordered times T.T.560That constellation s., the world in vain T.T. 660

SETTEE.

The soft S.; one elbow at each end T. i 75

SETTING.

In s. right what Faction has set wrong Ex.301The rising or the s. orb of day R. 191 Told that his s. sun must rise no more St. ii 16 [483 Where England, stretch'd towards the s. sun \bar{T} . vi Recovering and misstated s. right Y.O. 48

He s. next upon the sloping mount T. iii 486 They sink and s. lower than they need T. v 249 And s. in soft musings as I tread T. vi 69

Thus we were s. when you found us E. i 39 Thus, preliminaries s. E. iv 31 In s. habit and decided taste Tir. 778

SETTLING

So s. on his cage, by play F.B. 25 S. at last upon eternal things R. 672 Time was when, s. on thy leaf, a fly Y.O. 91 Till s. on the current year 1789, 27

SEVEN.

As from a s. years' transportation, home Con. 400 As twice s. years, his beauties had then first T. iv 714

SEVER

Me from my delights to s. N.C. 11 He s. it away: no needless care T. v 38 That the wind s. from the broken wave T. vi 156 SEVERE.

And give good company a face s. Con. 873 He will be found impartially s. Ex. 255But know, that Wrath Divine, when most s. Ex. 714And never proved s. J.P. 16

For which, alas! my destiny s. N.A. 27 His utmost faculties, s. indeed R. 620 His voluntary pains, s. and long T. 101 And guards it with a sanction as s. T. 553

His hard condition with s, constraint T, i 612

Their last poor pittance—Fortune, most s. T. ii 658 Grew stern, and darted a s. rebuke T. ii 720 Which he that fights a season so s. T. iii 560

When most s., and must'ring all its force T. vi 31

As too laborious and s, a task T, vi 210 But hush!—the muse perhaps is too s. T. vi 653 grant the sarcasm is too s. T.T. 103

Parent of manners like herself s. T.T. 613 The frowns of a sky so s. W.N. 18

SEVERED.

Nith Nature's varnish; s. into stripes T. i 40 If brotherhood is s. as the flax T. ii 10

SEVERELY.

Then skilful most when most s. judged T. v 869 SEVERER.

fore briskly moved by his s, toil T, iv 389 SEVEREST.

on pangs enforced with God's s. stroke R. 314

SEVERITY. of undesigned s., that glanced T. v 170With stern s. deals out the year T.T. 203 SEWER.

As to a common and most noisome s. T. i 683

SEX.

Fear seized the trembling s.; in every grove A.T. The s. whose presence civilizes ours Con. 254 Divest the rougher s. of female airs Con. 843 Oh, tell thy thoughtless's., the virtuous mind S. ii 6 Gan murmur, as became the softer s. T. i 71 Her s.'s honour, was renounced herself T. iii 77 That they are safe, sinners of either s. T. iii 96 [537 These have their s.; and when summer shines T. iii

SEX-ABUSING.

Brought fire from Heaven, the s. crime Ex. 415

SHACKLES.

They touch our country, and their s. fall T. ii 42 Dispersed the s. of usurped control T. v 516

SHADE.

Cheers what were else a universal s. Ch. 94 From her the canvass borrows light and s. Ch. 107 Forget to enjoy the palm-tree's offered s. Ch. 222 So, when the cold damp s. of night prevail Ch. 527 And I have lived in rural s. Con. 801 Shoots between scattered rocks and opening $s.ar{Con}.$ But now, beneath this walnut s. Ep. ii 37 And oaks coeval spread a mournful s. H. 352 And light and s., and every stroke be thine H.673And ruminating flocks enjoy the s. Her. 32 S. slanting at the close of day Mor. 15 Ere long approach life's evening s. Mor. 35 Tell where she lurks, beneath what flowery s. P.E. 5 Write, if thou canst, one letter from the s. P.E. 343 The poplars are felled;—farewell to the s. P.F. 1And the tree is my seat that once lent me a s. P.F. 8 Pants for the refuge of some rural s. R. 6 And fills the world of traffic and the s. R. 120For such a cause the poet seeks the s. R. 188Beneath your s. your grey possessor hide R. 368
Force many a shining youth into the s. R. 560
O happy s.!—to me unblest S. 1 They seek like me the secret s. S. 19 Thy friend, though to a cloister's s. consigned S. Vanish at once into the darkest s. St. ii 24 We bear our s. about us; self-deprived T. i 259 The obsolete prolixity of s. T. i 265 Within the twilight of their distant s. T. i 304 The pensive wanderer in their s. At eve T. i 761
Some boundless contiguity of s. T. ii 2 Life in the unproductive s. of death T. ii 124 My man of morals, nurtured in the s. T. ii 532 To seek a tranquil death in distant s. T. iii 3 For their own sake its silence and its s. T. iii 321 They form one social s., as if convened T. iii 586 And under an old oak's domestic s. T. iv 172 Imparting substance to an empty s. T. iv 527 That I myself am but a fleeting s. T. v 13These s. are all my own. The timorous hare T. vi Together, or all gambol in the s. T. vi 775 Beneath the s. of her expanded leaves Tir. 46 His sprightly mingled with a s. of sad Tir. 665 No s. of superstition blot the day T.T. 270 Of thickest s., like Adam after taste Y.O. 15

SHADED.

From sultry suns, and in their s. walks T. i 256

SHADOW.

Exuberant is the s. it supplies Ch. 577 Prepared to fight for s. of no worth Ex. 116 Mere s. now, their ancient pomp forgot Ex, 262 That only s. are dispensed below H.67Amazed that s. should obscure the sight H_* 534 All bliss beside a s. or a sound R. 354

S. and sunshine intermingling quick T. 347 The s. to the ceiling, there by fits T. iv 275 Stretches a length of s. o'er the field T. v 10 In the s. of a bramble, and reclined T. v 324The state, beneath the s. of whose vine T. vi 969 The s. fly, philosophy prevails Tir. 182

SHADOWY.

And, howsoever s., no dream H. 124

SHADY.

The noon was s., and soft airs D.W. 1

SHAFT. [Y.O. 127

With bow and s. have burnt them. Some have left When the Sun's s. disperse the gloom of night Ex.479The s. of woe-in such a breast Miss - 43 For though, ere yet the s. is on the wing P.E. 572 Between the upright s. of whose tall elms T. i 355 Stand chargeable with guilt, and to the s. T. ii 155 He gleans the blunted s, that have recoiled T, vi 874 SHAG.

The s. of savage nature, and were each $T. \times 693$

SHAGGY.

Or velvet soft, or plush with s. pile T. i 11 S., and lean, and shrewd, with pointed ears T. v

[901 SHAKE. With rash and awkward force the chords he s. Con. Hes. with cold—you stir the fire and strive Con. 333 It s. the sides of splenetic Disdain Ex. 548 "For lift thy palsied head, s. off the gloom H. 37 To frown and roar, and s. his feeble form H. 186 And s. with fury to the ground J.P. 11 Nor blasts that s. the dripping bower Mrs. M— 16

First s. the glittering drops from every thorn R. 396 S. hands with business, and retires indeed R. 514 'Tis Judgment s. him; there's the fear St. v 29 S. it again, and faster, to the ground T. 241 And s. the sceptic in the scorner's chair T. 472 The earth shall s. him out of all his holds T. ii 146

To s. thy senate, and from heights sublime T. ii 216

All elbows s. Look in, and you would swear P.E.129

Then s. them in despair, and dance again T. ii 666 In guilty splendour, s. the public ways T. iii 70[161 The touch from many a trembling cord s. out T. iv S. her encumbered lap, and casts them out T.iv 499 Then s. his powdered coat, and barks for joy T. v 51

From spray to spray, where'er he rests he s. T. vi 80 In all her gates, and s. her distant shores T.T. 453 That all its tempest-beaten turrets s. T. v 527 [460 Earth s. beneath them, and Heaven roars above T.T.The storm of music s. the astonished crowd T.T. 491

Could s. thee to the root—and time has been Y.O. 92

His birthright s., and no longer clear Con. 765

This elegant rose, had I s. it less The Rose 17

SHAKESPEARE. And covetous of S.'s beauty, seen T. iii 601

SHAKING.

And crazy earth has had her s. fits T. ii 60 And lightly, s. it with agile hand T. iii 478

SHALLOW. A s. brain behind a serious mask Con. 297

Deposit in those s. all their spawn P.E. 479 The little wick of life's poor s. lamp T. iii 164 With s. shifts and old devices, worn T. v 632Like s. brooks which summer suns exhale! V. 2

SHAME. "Oh, s. to knighthood!" his assailant cried A.T. S. and ruin wait for you" B. 44 [A.T. 180 "Oh, s.!" ten thousand echoing nymphs replied Buy what is woman-born, and feel no s.? Ch. 181

I may alarm thee, but I fear the s. Ch. 294 He sought the jewel in his neighbour's s. Ch. 540 Of needless s., and self-imposed disgrace Con. 350 Where 'tis a s. to be ashamed to appear Con. 376 Acquainted with the woes that fear or s. Con. 495 Well spoken, advocate of sin and s. Con. 587 Form, in its stead, a covenant of s. Con. 684 No-s. upon a self-disgracing age Con. 735 Arts once esteemed may be with s. dismissed Con. And do his errand of disgrace and s. Ex. 334 Shall I abjure thee not to court thy s. ? Ez. 655 Thy glory, and thy s. if unimproved) Ez. 689
To bear it, suffered s. where'er he went H. 587 Must cause him s. or discontent Mor. 46 No, wrangler,—destitute of s. and sense P.E. 235 Has time worn out, or fashion put to s. P.E. 245 Reflection and remorse, the fear of s. T. i 489 And Chatham heart-sick of his country's s. T. ii 211 He hails the clergy, and defying s. T. ii 356 He mocks his Maker, prostitutes and s. T. ii 427 They s. their shooters with a random flight T. ii 807 Cruel, abandoned, glorying in her s.! T. iii 68 Then s. to manhood, and opprobrious more T. v 379Covering his s. from his offended sight T. v 631That 'tis our s. and misery not to learn Tir. 78 [8] And man would breathe but for his Maker's s. Tiv. That palliates deeds of folly and of s.) Tir. 333 On selfish principles, is s. and guilt T.T. 2 In prostitution sinks the sense of s. T.T. 415

And s. as we have been, to the very beard T. ii 271 See womanhood despised, and manhood s. Tr. 827

HAMEFACED. The squire, once bashful, is s. no more P.E. 403

SHAMEFUL. The s. close of all his misspent years H. 715

SHAMEFULLY.

And that a nation s. debased T.T. 396

SHANK. Transformed to a lean s. The shapeless pair T. τ SHAPE.

From dangers of a frightful s. A Fable 33 Are marriage in its true and proper s. A.T. 65 Who shifts and changes all things but his s. Con. 459 But ills of every s. and every name E. ii 37 Chargeable only with a human s. H. 514 Of ruder s., and feeling none P. 12 Whose s. would make them, had they bulk and size Nature in all the various s. she wears R. 193 The growing wonder takes a thousand s. T. \vee 119 Though in voice and s. they be Trans. iii 17

SHAPELESS. And quell the s. monsters of the times A.T. 142"You s. nothing in a dish P. 25 With prickly gorse, that s. and deformed T. i 527 Transformed to a lean shank. The s. pair T. v = 16

SHAPELY.

Hers is the spacious arch, the s. spire Ch. 105 The s. limb and lubricated joint R.57Lie scattered where the s. column stood T. ii 76 The s. side, that as it rises takes T. iii 481 Nor are these all. To deck the s. knoll T. iii 628

SHARE.

Teach mercy to ten thousand hearts that s. Ch. 278 What their affliction was, and begged a s. Con. 321 To find the medium, asks some s. of wit Con. 879 Invite thee, woo thee, to the bliss they s. Er. 627 His gracious attributes, and prove the s. H. 139 To place you where his saints his presence s. H. 339

And scorns to s. it with the distant sun H. 480 [750] Then these thy glorious works, and they who \bar{s} . H. Go! thou art all unfit to s. M.B. 1 Of pleasing, which you s. Miss -And, staff in hand, set forth to s. Mor. 9 The sweets that I was wont to s. O. ii 11 Preaching and pranks will s. the motley scene P.E. New life ordained and brighter scenes to s. R. 65 The world can boast, and her chief favourites s.R.186 And s. the joys your Bounty may create R.790Which future pages yet are doomed to s. T. 146 But the same word that, like polished s. T. 459 Admits me to a s.: the guiltless eye T. i 333 But let not him that s. a brighter day T. 539 With her who s. his pleasures and his heart T. iii 390 Suffer his woes, and s. in his escapes T. iv 117 Upturned so lately by the forceful s. T. iv 315 To see thy beauty, and to s. thy joy T. vi 315 My s. of duties decently fulfilled T. vi 1001 Oh! s. Maria's grief T.B. 3 And thus, well tutored only while we s. Tir. 195 Hark! how the sire of chits, whose future s. Tir. 318

Claims more than half the praise as his dues. Tir. 528 Who, if their sons some slight tuition s. Tir. 783 If all men indiscriminately s. T.T. 256

Mankind to s. in the divine delight T.T. 753

SHARED.

Or if in masculine debate he s. H. 686 As being s. with thee The Doves 20 Hence British poets too the priesthood s. T.T. 502 And if he add, a blessing s. by few V. 89 But none I found, or found them s. 1789, 9

T. iii 817 And the s.'s prey; the spendthrift, and the leech London engulphs them all! The s. is there T. iii 816

SHARON.

And plant successfully sweet S.'s rose H. 463

Where s. and solid, phlegmatic and light Ex. 296 By ceaseless s. corrosion F. 63 And deems her s. artillery mere straw H.597Hence the declivity is s. and short T. i 326 To the s. peak of her sublimest height T. iii 157 To a s. reckoning that has lived in vain T. iii 179 Whose s. declivity shoots off secure T. iii 487 The morning s. and clear. But now at noon T. vi 58 When led by instinct s. and sure T.B. 32

SHARPED.

And judged offenders well. Then he that s. T. iii SHARPER.

No, not a spark—'tis all mere s.'s play T. 209 To some shrewd s., ere it buds again T. iii 754

SHATTERED.

Were s. at a blow J.G. 124 Haste, then, and wheel away a s. world T. vi 823 A s. veteran, hollow-trunked perhaps Y.O. 4

SHAVE.

At which I oft s. cheek and chin Gr. 23

SHAVEN.

But such a tree! 'twas s. deal A Tale 33 Died by the sentence of a s. priest Ch. 55 [Ex. 512 Then priests with bulls, and briefs, and s. crowns A monitor is wood—plank s. thin T. ii 585 On props of smoothest s. wood T.B. 23

Smith, cobbler, joiner, he that plies the s. T. iv 476

SHEATH.

His sword was in the s. R.G. 21 To s. it, in the peace-restoring close T.T. 79 SHED.

And tears by bards or heroes s. Cast. 53 Thy lips have s. instruction as the dew Ch. 238 The peep of morning s. a dawning light Ch. 261 And s. the balmy blessing on the lips Con. 442 S. every hour a clearer light E. i 61 When Sin has s. dishonour on thy brow Ex. 394 No Cotton, whose humanity s. rays H. 205 S. light, like a sun on the waves M.D. 14 In vain warm suns their influence s. Miss -Say, wast thou conscious of the tears Is. ? M.P. 22 The grove, and the sequestered s. O. ii 17 Had s. immortal glories on your brow T.569Or Temper s. into thy crystal cup T. iii 47 Or s. impervious to the blast. Resigned T. v 72 Cain had already s. a brother's blood T. v 208[719] And win it with more pain. Their blood is s. T. v With tears o'er hapless favorites s. T.B. 2And Genius s. his rays Th. 4 Like his to s. illuminating rays T.T. 712

From the shelter of that sunny s. W.N. 6

SHEEP.

On southern banks the ruminating s. A.T. 78 His unsuspecting s. believe it pure Ex. 103The s. here smooths the knotted thorn M.B. 9 [37] S.grazed the field; some with soft bosom pressed N.A. The s. recumbent, and the s. that grazed N.A. 47 Much wondered that the silly s. had found N.A. 129 His silly s., what wonder if they stray? P.E. 119 Will not the sickliest s. of every flock P.E. 142 [110 Of grassy swarth, close cropped by nibbling s. T. i To wandering s., resolved to follow none T. vi 891

SHEEPFOLD.

Exults in its command. The s. here T. i 290

SHEEPISH.

S. he doffs his hat, and mumbling swears T. iv 628 SHEEP-WALKS.

And s. populous with bleating lambs T. vi 112

SHEER. S. o'er the craggy barrier, and immersed T. vi 554

Since twenty s. of lead, God knows E. iv 27 I would say twenty s. of prose) E. iv 28 Or lay the landscape on the snowy s. R. 798 [ii 5 How each would trembling wait the mournful s. St. That in its fall the liquid s. throws wide T. v 106 Backed with a modest s. of humble prose V. 20

SHELF.

Lodged on the s., half-eaten without sauce T. iv 394 This moveable structure of s. Gr. 25Their order on his s. exact Mrs. M-39 Books, therefore, not the scandal of the s. R. 683 Adorn his intellects as well as s. T. 423 Stamped on the well-bound quarto, graced the s.T.T.Yes-ye are conscious; and on all the s. Tir. 269 Who, far enough from furnishing their s. Tir. 825 The s. are full, all other themes are sped T.T. 726

SHELL.

Once take the s. beneath his just command Con. 904 For ever in my native s. P. 6 Some shining pebbles, and some weeds and s. R.154 Pulverized of venality, a s. Y.O.123

SHELTER.

Ambitious of a s. there Mrs. M-44Could s. them from rain or snow P.T. 53 You find safe s. in the next stage-coach R. 492 Oh for a s. from the wrath to come! T. 268 From courts dismissed, found s. in the groves T. iv Enjoy close s., wall, or reeds, or hedge T. iii 474 From the s. of that sunny shed W.N. 6

SHELTERED.

Then snug enclosures in the s. vale T. i 513
And s. Sofa, while the nitrous air T. iii 32
Well—one at least is safe. One s. hare T. iii 334
Uncrowded, yet safe s. from the storm Y.O. 55

SHELTERING.

For ages safe beneath his s. hand Ex. 563 S. the base with its projected eaves T. iii 483 Those naked acres to a s. grove T. iii 773 The sparrows peep, and quit the s. eaves T. v 65 His s. side, and wilfully forewent T. vi 40

SHEPHERD.

No s.'s tents within thy view appear E. ii 43 But the Chief S. even there is near E. ii 44 When He that ruled them with a s.'s rod Ex. 85 And Bonner, blithe as s. at a wake Ex. 614 Just when the larks, and when the s. rise H. 86 The full-blown rose, the s. and his lass T. i 36 Then, as a s. separates his flock T. v 196

SHEPHERDESS.

Than the fair s. of old romance T. iv 538

SHIELD. [A.T. 125]
So swarmed the Sabine youth, and grasped the s.
She sat, and a s. at her side M.D. 13
And aims them at the s. of Truth again T. vi 875
Of trophied helmets, spears, and s. 1789, 4

SHIFT. [459

Who s. and changes all things but his shape Con. Which only poets know. The s. and turns T. ii 286 Where Vice has such allowance, that her s. T. iii 156 Too long, to tell the expedients and the s. T. iii 559 By supplemental s., the best he may? T. iv 769 With shallow s. and old devices, worn T. v 632 What s. he used, detected in a sorape Tiv. 328 No matter;—we could s. when they were not T.T. 770

SHIFTED.

Now s. east, and east by north P.T. 51 S. the wind that raised it, and it fell T.T. 387

SHIFTING.

Then s. his side as a lawyer knows how A.C. 25 So s. and so various is the plan H. 15 Contrives, hard s., and without her tools T. v 417 Thyself meanwhile e'en s. as thou mayst Tir. 749

SHILLING.

The solitary S. Pardon then T. iii 456

SHINE

But s. with cruel and tremendous charms Ch. 545 And s. as if impatient to bestow Ch. 591 Content on earth in earthly things to s. Con. 583 And purifying, makes it s. the more Cos. 598 Ambitious, not to s. or to excel Con. 623 S. in the dark, but ushered into day Con. 677 Might s. in fable, and grace idle themes Ex. 233 Countries indebted to thy power, that s. Ex. 280 Freedom, in other lands scarce known to s. Ex. 588 Who bids him s., or if he s. or not H. 84 On all that blooms below, or s. above H. 136 He s. with all a cherub's artless charms H. 180 Honesty s. with great advantage there H. 402 [H.503 And though his beams, that quicken where they s. 'Tis heard where England's Eastern glory s. H. 457 Thee, Thornton! worthy in some page to s. J.T. 7 Now rust disused, and s. no more M. 11 To quench it) here s, on me still the same M.P. 10 That glossy s., or vivid flame Mrs. M-10 8. safe without a fear to fade Mrs. M -50 Shall s. and dry the tear N. 24 Taught you to sing, and me to s. N.G. 20But sing and s. by sweet consent N.G. 31

Give wit, that what is left may s. O. i 27 S. as it runs, but grasped at, slips away P.E. 22 S. not, or undesired and hated s. R. 351 She s. but little in his beedless eyes R. 405 Kneels, kisses hands, and s. again in place R. 480 That s. and rests, as infants smile and aleep R.528Or s. the dulness of still life away R. 746 Graced with such wisdom, how would beauty s.! And s. without desiring to be seen T. 70 Of ash, or lime, or beech, distinctly s. T. i 303 Your element; there only ye can s. T. i 758 And s. by situation, hardly less T. ii 296 Pure, from so foul a pool, to s. abroad T. ii 798 To seek him rather where his mercy s. T. iii 224 And in thy numbers, Philips, s. for aye T. iii 455 These have their sexes, and when summer s. T. iii 537 S. there, and flourishes. The golden boast T. iii 571 The wish to s., the thirst to be amused T. iii 829 S. out; there only reach their proper use T. iv 662 Of late unsightly and unseen, now s. T. v 24 Not so the labours of his love: they s. T. v 570 And he abhors the jest by which he s. T. v 617 Bright as a sun the sacred city s. T. vi 800 S. with his fair example, and though small T. vi S: 8. by the side of every path we tread Tir. 79 And in the firmament of fame still s. Tir. 281 Our striplings s. indeed, but with such rays Tir. 286 Must s. by true desert, or not at all Tir. 357 Though Vestris on one leg still s. below Tir. 542 Blest country, where these kingly glories s.! T.T. 81 To make the pitiful possessor s. T.T. 755 'Tis power almighty bids him s. Trans. i 23 Nor bids him s. in vain Trans. i 24 Above the steeple s. a plate Trans. ii 7 The eyes, that never saw thee, s. 1789, 58 SHINING.

To make the s. prodigy complete Ch. 602 In every s. straw she sees E. iv 46 How much, though long neglected s. yet Er. 610 All s. in their places F. 60 No s. ornaments have they to seek H. 765 And the sun gilds the s. spires again Her. 72 Thy needles, once a s. store M. 9

And with a clear and s. lamp supplied P.E. 558 Some s. pebbles, and some weeds and shells R. 154 Force many a s. youth into the shade R. 560 Some glossy-leaved, and s. in the sun T. i 314 And by contrasted beauty s. more) T. iii 635 Not such his evening, who with s. face T. iv 42 And s. each in his domestic sphere T. v 520 Shouted for joy.—"Tell me, y s. hosts T. v 822 Such rare exceptions, s. in the dark Tir. 841 Then show far off their s. plumes again T.T. 567

SHIP.

At length a s. arriving brought A Tale 23
A s.!—Could such a restless thing A Tale 25
Nor ever s. left Albion's coast Cast. 9
But he, they knew, nor s. nor shore Cast. 29
So when a s., well freighted with the stores Ch. 441
The cry in all thy s. is still the same Ex. 288
His s. half foundered, and his compass lost T. 2
For sight of s. from England. Every speck T. i 666
Upon the s.'s tall side he stands, possessed T. i 450

SHIPMATES.

His feathered s. eyes A Tale 58

SHIPWRECK.

But s., earthquake, battle, fire, and flood Ch. 282 Forsaking thee, what s. have we made T. iii 58

SHIPWRIGHT.

The s.'s darling treasure, didst present Y.O. 97

SHIRT.

In s. of hair, and weeds of canvass dressed T. 81 SHIVER.

With double toil, and s. at their work T.T. 215

SHIVERED.

Bricks line the sides, but s. long ago N.A. 15

SHIVERING.

Or send another s. to the bar Con. 187 The s. urchin, bending as he goes T. 143 Thus fare the s. natives of the north T. i 617 Stands in the desert s. and forlorn T.T. 724

He, still more aged, feels the s. Ep. ii 41
Was formed to harden hearts and s. the sight Ex.
Whatever s., or gives the least offence P.E. 512
Awakened by the s. (cried Puss) R.C. 53
No tempest gave the s. R.G. 18
But is it fit, or can it bear the s. T. v 305
And s. me. I should then with double pain T. v 483
At once the s. unseated him: he flew T. vi 553 [583
Though some, perhaps, that s. thy feeling mind Tir.
Gives Liberty the last the mortal s. T.T. 478

SHOCKED. [P.A. 25] He was s., sir, like you, and answered—"Oh no!" I own I am s. at the purchase of slaves-P.A. 1

Too many, s. at what should charm them most T. 32 That would have s. Credulity herself T. ii 694 That pleasest and yet s. me, I can laugh T. iii 840

SHOCKING

Their tameness is s. to me A.S. 16 To hide the s. features of her face P.E. 298

SHOD.

Beneath his well s. feet J.G. 82

SHONE

No light propitious s. Cast. 62 [63] By thy own hand, till fresh they s. and glowed M.P. Bright s. the roofs, the domes, the spires Q.V. 13 Srighter still, once called to public view T. v 521 In less illustrious bards his beauty s. T.T. 574

SHOOK.

S. the young leaves about her ears A Fable 12
S. principalities and kingdoms down Ch. 77
'Tis e'en as if an angel s. his wings Ch. 438
No thunders s. with deep intestine sound Her. 5
That s. the circling seas and solid earth Her. 14
Which s. Belshazzar at his wine Q.V. 51
A land-breeze s. the shrouds R.G. 9
Hark! universal Nature s. and groaned T. 563
S. the delinquent with such fits of awe T. ii 722

S. between scattered rocks and opening shades Con. Of distant wisdom s. across his way H. 94
That s. into your darkest caves the day H. 493
S. back the bolt, and all his courage dies H. 721
S. into port at some well-havened isle M.P. 90
Or s. the careless with a surer aim R. 218
But if his word once teach us, s. a ray T. iii 240
No meaner hand may discipline the s. T. iii 413
Whose sharp declivity s. off secure T. iii 487
And all shall be restored. These naked s. T. vi 141
To check them. But, alas! none sooner s. T. vi 592
S. into pillars of pellucid length T. v 115
[309]
Gives him Olympic speed, and s. him to the goal T.T.

вноот.

SHOOTERS.

They shame their s. with a random flight T. ii 807

SHOOTING.

And others s. and the chase L.W. 32 Sir Humphrey, s. in the dark M.F. 9

SHOP.

To Miss, the mercer's plague, from s. to s. T. vi 279 Or turn them into s. and auction rooms Tir. 902

SHORE.

Convey to this desolate s. A.S. 34
Sea-beaten rocks and naked s. A Tole 19
The vessel weighs, forsakes the s. A Tale 43
But he, they knew, nor ship nor s. Cast. 29
Loses in tears the far receding s. Ch. 147
For Africa's once loved, benighted s. Ch. 241
And land some grave optician on the s. Ch. 384
The sun matures on India's spicy s. Ch. 442
And plunging left the s. D. W. 32
Her peaceful s., where busy Commerce waits Ex.

Her peaceful s., where busy Commerce waits Ex. 13 And fling their foam against thy chalky s.? Ex. 273 That clips thy s., had no such charms for thee Ex.551 Where else they would, but not upon thy s.? Ex. 567 And all from s. to s. is free beside Ex. 595 Famed for thy probity from s. to s. J.T. 6 From Africa's sorrowful s. M.D. 32 [M.P. 96 So thou, with sails how swift! hast reached the s.

May I but meet thee on that peaceful s. M.P. 34
An oyster cast upon the s. P. 1
[520
Like something precious ventured far from s. P.E.
Each creek and cavern of the dangerous s. R. 152

Thunder and flash upon the steadfast s. R. 534 Fast by their native s.! R.G. 4

Than bid me shun the deep, and dread the s. ? R.H. 2
Of this world's hazardous and headlong s. St. ii 14
Mercy receives him on her peaceful s. T. 276
The deep of Ocean on his midding s. T. 196

The dash of Ocean on his winding s. T. i 186 To distant s., and she would sit and weep T. i 540 If ever it has washed our distant s. T. i 656

Which winds and waves obey, invades the s.T. ii 114 May bear us smoothly to the Gallic s. T. ii 262

"As one who long detained on foreign s. T. v 832 Again she lays them slumbering on the s. Tir. 26 And owns her power on every s. he layes? Tir. 40

Then perish on futurity's wide s. Tir. 83 Poll gains at length the British s. Trans. iv 4 Along the treacherous s. Trans. H. 6

In all her gates, and shakes her distant s. T.T. 453 SHORN. F613

Must smooth be s. away; the sapless branch T. iii SHORT.

As wide as the bridge of the Nose is; in s. A.C. 15 And too s. lived to reach the realms of peace Ch. 451 The time is s., and there are souls on earth Con. 493 Is madly to forget that life is s. Cos. 772 "Go, fellow!—whither?—turning s. about E. iii 24 We have our similes cut s. E. iv 65

Nor spare a life too s. to reach the skies Ex. 623. No trifle, howsoever s. it seem H. 123

Though s., too long, the price he pays for all H. 200 His date of life, so likely to be s. H. 208

His date of life, so likely to be s. H. 208 Flew open in s. space J.G. 242

In s., the charms her sister had J.P. 27The songster heard his s. oration N.G. 23

Disputes, though s., are far too long P. 45 Turning s. round, strutting, and sideling P.T. 39 Rarely redeem the s. remaining ten R. 40

Its brisker and its graver strains fall s. R. 294 But s. the date of all we gather here R. 460 The jury meet, the coroner is s. T. 447

Incurring s. fatigue: and though our years T. i 129 Hence the declivity is sharp and s. T. i 326 By. s. transition we have lost his glare T. i 336

By. s. transition we have lost his glare T. i 336 That such s. absence may endear it more T. i 517 To Athens or to Rome, for wisdom s. T. ii 536 And gathering, at s. notice, in one group T. iv 136

And gathering, at s, notice, in the group T. IV 130 No rattling wheels stop s, before these gates T, iv 130 The recollected powers, and snapping s. T. iv 305

And tail cropped s., half lurcher and half cur T. v 46 To adjust the fragrant charge of a s. tube T. v 55Still worse T. v 604 S. as it is, supportable. That in a few s. moments I retrace T. vi 16 S. as in retrospect the journey seems T. vi 19 It seem'd not always s.; the rugged path T. vi 20 But let the months go round, a few s. months T. vi 140 Allows s. time for play, and none for sloth Tir. 484 Encompassing his throne a few s. years T.T. 132 And truth cut s. to make a period round T.T. 517 S. his career, indeed, but ably run T.T. 671 Sits half the pleasures of s. life away! Y.O. 32 SHORTENED.

Seems sunk, and s. to its topmost boughs T. i 306

SHORTENING. And claims a reverence in its s. day Con. 645 S. his journey between morn and noon T. iv 131

Their nimble nonsense takes a s. course Con. 152

SHORTEST. Shows them the s. way to life and love T. 370

SHORTLIVED.

O charming Paradise of s. sweets! Her. 34 S. possession! but the record fair M.P. 54 S. themselves to immortalize their bones T. v 184 But spurious and s.; the puny child T. v 621

SHOT.

The very dart that malice ever s. H. 559S. by an archer strong J.G. 154 [346 S. through the boughs, it dances as they dance T. i The infidel has s. his bolts away T. vi 872 And s. a dayspring into distant climes T.T.561

SHOULDERS.

His snowy mantle o'er his s. threw A.T. 202His s. witnessing by many a shrug H. 415 Taught the raised s. to invade the ears T. i 67 And binds the s. flat. We prove its use T. ii 589 Bent knees, round s., and dejected looks T. iv 634 Shall stuff his s. with King Richard's hunch T. vi 674

SHOULDERING.

That govern all things here, s. aside T. vi 839 S., and standing as if struck to stone T.T. 137

SHOULDER-KNOT.

With the king's s. and gay cockade T.T. 44 SHOUT.

Which he that hears it with a s. repeats T. v 889 Some s. him, and some hang upon his car T. vi 698 S. to each other, and the mountain tops T. vi 794With which hes. and carols, "Vive le Roy!"T.T.213

He s.; nor his friends had failed Cast. 19 S. for joy.—"Tell me, ye shining hosts T. v 822 SHOVE.

To palliate dullness and give time a s. T. iv 210 SHOVED.

Hast thou, by statute, s. from its design Ex. 376 SHOW.

"On the whole it appears, and my argument s. A.C. But he, the virtues of his lance to s. A.T. 165 We English often s. A Tale 74 Than aught that the city can s. C. 32 The lamp of revelation only s. Ch. 339 That brass and steel should make so fine a s. Ch. 554 And I might spare myself the pains to s. Ch. 626 Perhaps at last close scrutiny may s. Con. 177 Then each might s., to his admiring friends Con. 199

For sea-born Venus her attachment s. Con. 265 [741 The World grown old her deep discernment s. $\bar{C}on$. And while it s. the land the soul desires Con. 885 To s. a love as prompt as thine D.W. 43 {[Con. 381 "Yes, ma'am," and "No, ma'am," uttered softly, s. But half a coat, and s. his bosom bare E. iii 51 To s. my genius or my wit E. iv 7 And had the grace in scenes of peace to s. Ez. 79 Thy language at this distant moment s. Ez. 480 Enjoyed the s. and danced about the stake Ex. 615 Like a loose heap of ribbon, a glittering s. F.M. 6 To me ever ready to s. Gr. 43 Whose prospect s. thee a disheartening waste H. 32 S. with a pointing finger, but no noise H. 221 Incurs resentment for the love he s. H. 285 That s. reversed the villas on their side H. 468 That s. how far 'tis safe to follow $\sin H$. 608 And years of pining indigence must s. Her. 65 How oft the sadness that I s. M. 46 Thy pleasure is to s. M.B. 18S. Love to be a mere profession M.F. 60 There sits quiescent on the floods that s. M.P. 92 And I can view this mimic s. of thee M.P. 119 The cock his arched tail's azure s. Mrs. M-7Avarice s., and virtue is the price P.E. 52 But s. peculiar light, by many a grin P.E. 383 Some headless hero, or some Cæsar, s. P.E. 395 So one, whose story serves at least to s. P.E. 526 New trimmed, a gallant s.! Q.V. 6 She viewed the sparkling s. Q.V. 74 Ye kings and rulers, what have courts to s.? R. 104 And what could a remoter scene s. more? R. 500 Specious in s., impossible in fact R. 638 And s. the august tribunal of the skies R. 656 With what success let modern manners s, R, 686 S. the same sadness everywhere S. 11 He wore them as fine trappings for a s. T. 56 [131 You ancient prude, whose withered features s. T. Attend;—an apt similitude shall s. T. 236 S. them the shortest way to life and love T. 370 Like gleanings of an olive tree they s. T. 379 The veteran s., and gracing a grey beard T. i 406 Who s. me that which I shall never see T. i 423 A girdle of half-withered shrubs he s. T. i 524 Their fluttering rags, and s.a tawny skin T.i 568 And ignorant, except of outward s.) T. i 650 [636 Forth from thy native bowers, to s. thee here T. i And s. this queen of cities, that so fair T. i 727 Are silent. Revelry, and dance, and s. T. ii 79 And s. the name ye might conceal at home T.ii279With s. of love, at least with hopeful proof T. ii 558 Would fail to exhibit at the public s. T. ii 619 A noble s.! while Roscius trod the stage T. iii 597 But elegance, chief grace the garden s. T. iii 638 Still wants a grace, the loveliest it could s. T. iii 782 A variegated s.; the meadows green T. iv 312 [215] With motley plumes, and where the peacock s. T. iv Yets. that thou hast mercy, which the great T. iv 371 Humane as they would seem not always s. T. iv 373 To swear, to game, to drink; to s. at home T. iv 652 'Twas transient in its nature, as in s. T. v 173 That s. like beacons in the blue abyss T. v 839A father, whose authority, in s. T. vi 30 [24] But s. some touch, in freckle, streak, or stain T. vi As duly as the Langford of the s. T. vi 287So little mercy s. who needs so much! T. vi 431 Mercy to him that s. it, is the rule T. vi 595 And he that s. none, being ripe in years T. vi 598 Some s. that nice sagacity of smell T. vi 616 To s. the world how Garrick did not act T. vi 677 S. somewhat of that happier life to come T. vi 907 And s. him glories yet to be revealed T. vi 927 And s. the softest minds and fairest forms Con. 259 To s. the peeping down upon his chin Tir. 235

Soon s. the strong similitude reversed Tir. 443 S. all its rents and patches to the world Tir. 451 A sight surpassed by none that we can s. Tir. 541 To s. him in an insect or a flower Tir. 636 Safe under such a wing, his boy shall s. Tir. 684 S. thou hast sense enough to prize the pearl Tir. 707 Hear Nature plead, s. mercy to thy son Tir. 756 Serves but to s. how black is all beside Tir. 844 Thy child shall s. respect to thy gray hairs Tir. 880 That s. by night a lucid beam Trans. i 8 To s. a stumbling stone by night Trans. i 19 Thus happiness depends, as Nature s. T.T. 246 No. Freedom has a thousand charms to s. T.T. 260 Courage in arms, and ever prompt to s. T.T. 276 Then s. far off their shining plumes again T.T. 567 Wit now and then, struck smartly, s. a spark T.T.663And the winter of sorrow best s. W.N. 23 That gild thy features, s. in theirs 1789, 65

SHOWED.

Γ142 S. that they followed all they seemed to shun Ex. Thus s. his ready wit J.G. 186 And each by shrinking s, he felt it P. 66 SHOWER.

Should flow like waters after summer s. Con. 705 But most before approaching s. Ep. ii 27 So barren sands imbibe the s. F. 184 This plumage, neither dashing s. Mrs. M-Seem drops descending in a s. of light R. 350 A step if fair, and if a s. approach R. 491 The gracious s., unlimited and free T. 511 . Rose 1 The Rose had been washed (just washed in a s.) The Fast falls a fleecy s.: the downy flakes T. iv 326

SHOW-GLASS.

The s. fraught with glittering ware P.B. 24 SHOWN.

In other eyes our talents rarely s. Con. 369 For mercy s., while wrath is justly due Con. 492 Or such as might be better s. E. iv 9 Why, having kept good faith, and often s. Ex. 276The noblest Friendship ever s. F. 205 And I, if you had s. me less G. 17 For the hatred she ever has s. M.D. 46 And tamer far for so much fury s. T. vi 541 Where no regard of ordinances is s. Tir. 242 And destines their bright genius to be s. Tir. 336 No firmer friendships than the fair have s.) V. 82

SHREW.

"Still prove herself a s. J.P. 38 With all the cunning of an envious s. T. ii 266

SHREWD.

Certain invisibles as s. as he Con. 738 I praise the Frenchman, his remark was s. R. 739 The threads of politic and s. design T. iii 147 [iii 581 The winter's frown, if screened from his s. bite T. To some s. sharper, ere it buds again T. iii 754Shaggy, and lean, and s., with pointed ears T. v 45 The first artificer of death; the s. T. v 213 Patriots are grown too s. to be sincere T. v 495 Such rhapsodies our s. discerning youth Tir. 191 If s., and of a well constructed brain Tir. 523 Conjecture and remark, however s. T.T. 205

SHREWDER.

By which the magic art of s. wits T. vi 99 SHRIEK.

They s. and sink, survivors start and weep R. 159 That feeds upon the sobs and dying s. T. iii 328

SHRIEKED

S. at the sight, and, conscious, fled the place A.T.

SHRILL

And the first larum of the cock's s. throat T. iv 569 Unimpaired, and s., and clear Trans. iii 23

SHRILLEST.

But raise the s. cry in British ears Ex.271SHRINE

Woden and Thor, each tottering in his s. Ex.505The Graces too, while Virtue at their s. P.E. 337 Glorious as Solyma's interior s. T. 388 Farthest retires—an idol, at whose s. T. i 410 To those who, posted at the s. of Truth T. v 713 In pilgrimage to bow before his s. T. vi 669

SHRINK.

The soldier thus endowed, who never s. H. 409 And when I bend, retire, and s. P. 35 I s. abased, and yet aspire to Thee R. 94 Pushed with a madman's fury. Fancy s. T. vi 513

SHRINKING.

And each by s, showed he felt it P, 66

SHRIVELLED.

Blows mildew from between his s. lips T. ii 186 SHROUD.

Exclaims, "Prepare thee for an early s." Ep. i 10 A land-breeze shook the $s.\ R.G.\ 9$ And your only suit, a s. St. iv 16

Nor even s. abound A Tale 2 My s. displaced from that retreat F.B.2Not animals alone, but s. and trees N.A. 57 I envy that unfeeling s. P. 15Bare trees and s. but ill, you know P.T. 52 Her hedge-row s., a variegated store R. 419 A girdle of half-withered s. he shows T. i 524 Some more aspiring, catch the neighbour s. T. iii 665 And s. of fairy land. The crystal drops T. v 113

SHRUBBERY.

Fresh odours from the s. at my side F.A.7

SHRUG.

His shoulders witnessing by many a s. H. 415 By s. and strange contortions of his face P.E. 414 Make just reprisals, and with cringe and s. T. ii 645

SHRUNK.

Deserted of its bloom, the flaccid, s. T. i 392

SHUFFLE.

To deal and s., to divide and sort T. i 474

SHUFFLING.

S. her threads about the livelong day T. 820

SHUN

[142 Showed that they followed all they seemed to s. Ex. Taught me what path to s., and what pursue Ch. 239 That serve mankind, or s. them, wild or tame N.A.66Witness of joys that s. the sight of noon P.E. 174The Lover too s. business and alarms R. 219 Than bid me s. the deep, and dread the shore ? R.H.2Scarce s. me; and the stockdove unalarm'd T. vi 307

Was marked and s. as odious. He that sold T. iii 88 For which we s. and hated thee before T. v 882

Not as the prince in S., when he called T. iii 714

By daylight or candlelight—Eyes should be s. A.C.

And s. up every satyr in his den Con. 38 Deeply resolved to s. a Saviour out Con. 690 Would disobey, though sure to be s. out H. 315 In terms as plain, himself has s, the rest H. 341 His eyes s. fast, his fingers in his cars H. 658

That s. within its seed the future flower R. 792 Employs, s. out from more important views R. 803 The chambermaid, and s. it fast R.C. 50 He s. it close, and the first labour ends T. iii 489 Or if that mine be s., some private purse T. iii 797 SHUTTER.

Now stir the fire, and close the s. fast T. iv 36 That sweeps the bolted s., summons home T. iv 304

The man I trust, if s. to me F. 187 Not s., as in the world, and to be won T. vi 115 He blushes, hangs his head, is s. and strange Tir. 563

SHYNESS.

These ask with painful s., and, refused T. iv 418

SICILIAN.

And all the charms of a S. year Her. 21

Alas for S.! rude fragments now T. ii 75

Learns to compassionate the s. she sees Ch. 411 What makes some s., and others à-la-mort Con. 292 In making known how oft they have been s. Con.312 That s., she trembles, knowing she must die Con. 773 S. of the service of a world that feeds R. 47 S. of a thousand disappointed aims) R. 366 Where all good qualities grow s. and die R. 738 An infidel in health,—"But what when s.?" T. 309 Thus often Unbelief, grown s. of life T. 445 [i 89 The nurse sleeps sweetly, hired to watch the s. T. Of lazy man who snores the s. man dead T. i 97 My soul is s., with every day's report T. ii 6 [733 O'erlooked and unemployed, fell s., and died T. ii And, s. of having seen 'em Trans. ii 33 And now he sings, and now is s. Trans. iv 23

SICKENING.

Sordid and s. at his own success T. iii 810 SICKENS.

The young apostate s. at the view Tir, 167

SICKLIEST.

Will not the s. sheep of every flock P.E. 142

The worst that can invade a s. brain Con. 222 No pleasure! Has some s. eastern waste P.E. 255 He just endures and with a s. spleen R.565And Nature with a dim and s, eye T, ii 64Though s. samples of the exuberant whole T. iv 761 And then alternate, with a s. hope T. v 428 And s., while her champions wear their hearts T. \mathbf{v} The triple purpose. In that s., foul T. v 583 But well compensating her s. looks T. vi 163

SICKNESS.

And at last is of service in s, or pain F.M. 11 Perhaps when s., or some fearful dream H. 217 Proof against s. and old age M.F. 50 To sallow s., which the vapours, dank T. i 438 Yet even these, though, feigning s. oft T. i 580 For he has wings that neither s., pain T. v 771

Then shifting his s. as a lawyer knows how A.C.25And only miss the flowers that grace their s. A.T. 75 The well-poised lance that quivered at his s.A.T. 144 Though little need to his good palfrey's s. A.T. 192 He turned and viewed it oft on every s. A.T. 203 Then, perching at his consort's s. A Tale 53 Both s. deceived, if rightly understood Ch. 622 A graver fact, enlisted on your s. Con. 205
"Tis always active on the s. of Truth Con. 602 Keep still the dear companion at their s. Con. 734

For us plain folks, and all who s. with us Con. 813 I wandered on his s. D.W. 4 From s. to s. of her delightful isle Ez. 3 It shakes the s. of splenetic Disdain Ex.548And equal truth on either s. F. 50 Fresh odours from the shrubbery at my s. F. 4. 7 Suppose the beam should dip on the wrong $s.\ H.\ 374$ In peace upon her sloping s. matured Her. 10 That show reversed the villas on their s. H. 468 John Gilpin at his horse's s. J.G. 45 And hung a bottle on each s. J.G. 71 A bottle swinging at each s. J.G. 107 On both s. of the way J.G. 138 May make you laugh on t'other s. L.W. 24 And woodpeckers explore the s. M.B. 7 A western bank's still sunny s. Mor. 18 Attendant at the senior's s. Mor. 40 Of life, long since has anchored by thy s. M.P. 99 Wit flashing on Religion's s. Mrs. M-Bricks line the s., but shivered long ago N.A. 15 That to the wrong s. leaning O. i 2 On the other s. the Atlantic Pat. 6 Urged his attempt on every s. P.B. 7 Seems verging fast towards the female s. P.E. 430 Nor has, nor can have, Scripture on its s. P.E. 515 He has no hearing on the prudent s. P.E. 54) With some unmeaning coxcomb at your s. R. 546 He drew the curtain at his s. R.C. 81 And laid her on her s. R.G. 8 Sincere on Virtue's s. St. iii 18 Even at your s., Sir, and before your eyes T. 230 And fumed with frankincense on every s. T. 314 And bruised the s., and, elevated high T. i 66 Displaying, on its varied s., the grace T. i 172 Upon the ship's tall s. he stands, possessed T. i 450 Multitudes, fugitive on every s. T. ii 106 Frequent in Park with lady at his s. T. ii 381 Your only one, till s. and benches fail T. ii 475 713 Close to his s. that pleased him. Learning grew T. ii My panting s.was charged, when I withdrew T.iii 110 Been hurt by the archers. In his s. He bore T. iii113 The shapely s., that as it rises takes T. iii 481[iv44 And bored with elbow points through both his s.T. Without some thistly sorrow at its s. T. iv 335 As they designed to mook me, at my s. T. v 17His sheltering s., and wilfully forewent T. v i 40Upon the southern s. of the slant hills T. vi 59 Of smiling day, they gossip'd s. by s. T. v 60Illumined every s.; a watery light T. v 150 [vi 423 With bleeding s. and flanks that heave for life T. But smooth with wands from Ouse's s. T.B. 28 On Thracian Hebrus' s. T.B. 63 And press thy wedded s. The Doves 26 Shine by the s. of every path we tread Tir. 79 [369 In coach with purple lined, and mitres on its s. Tir. With some such Mentor always at his s. Tir. 699 And stood the test, perhaps on the wrong s. Tir. 740 The bolts that spare the mountain's s. Trans. H. 16 To him that fights with Justice on his s. T.T. 12 Where Duty placed them, at their country's s.T.T.24 Upheaved above the soil, and s. embossed Y.O. 65 Lay such a stake upon the losing s. Tir. 863 [Y.O.95] That might have ribbed the s. and planked the deck SIDE-BOX. To insure a s. station at half-price T. ii 624

SIDELING.

Turning short round, strutting, and s. P.T. 33

SIDELONG.

Stealing a s. glance at a full house T. iv 201

SIDE-THRUST.

And stab Religion with a sly s. R. 690

SIDLE.

They s. to the goal with awkward pace P.E. 562

For which our Hampdens and our S. bled T. v 486 And S., warbler of poetic prose T. iv 516

And s. the dust behind the door E. iv 42 To s. and search them with unerring eyes Ex.88

And in the dust, s. and searched in vain T. v 536

Farewell, my former joys! I s. no more Ch. 240 That beams delight? a heart untaught to s. ? Ep. i 6 S. unregarded to the passing wind Ex. 30 My soul shall s. in secret, and lament Ex.722In dying s. my little breath G. 11 Through life's sad remnant, what no s. restore H. S. for his exit, vulgarly called death H. 90 And Murray s. o'er Pope, and Swift M. i 5 And still the s. responsive heave Miss -- 87 A long, long s., and wept a last adieu! M.P. 31 S. must fan it, tears must water N.C. 19 But s. at thought of empty pockets P.B. 26 Judge his own ways, and s. for a return P.E.611. In s. he worships his supremely fair R. 225 He s.,—for after all, by slow degrees R. 465 S. o'er the beauties of the charming scene R. 566 But when he felt it, heaved a s. St. iii 27 S. if perhaps your appetite should fail T. 215 Of silent tears and heart-distending s. T. iii 331 Vain tears, alas! and s. that never find T. iii 332 A bosom heaved with never ceasing s. T. i 552 [785] He s., departs, and leaves the accomplished plan T. iii Or charged with amorous s. of absent swains T. iv 20 And s., but never tremble at the sound T. iv 106

And s. for the smart comrades he has left T. iv 648 The s. and groans of miserable men! T. v 388Mov'd many a s. at its disheart'ning length T. vi 22 Shall s. at their exclusion, and return T. vi 672 To echo s. for s., and groan for groan V. 65 He heaves up many a s. Y.D. 12

SIGHED.

Never s. at the sound of a knell A.S. 31 And s. for every fool that fluttered by Ex. 54If ever when he s., hast s. again H. 675 SIGHING.

And eaten with a s., than to endure T. iv 410

And s. millions prophesy the close Ex. 309 S. and smiling as he takes his glass H. 419 And when I place thee in it, s. say T. iii 350 Makes wintry music, s. as it goes T. vi 143 S., I say again, I pity kings! T.T. 140

SIGHT. [A.T. 200 Shrieked at the s., and, conscious, fled the place And lessens to the s. A Tale 44 Scarce less exulting in the s. A Tale 59Spreads foreign wonders in his country's s. Ch. 116 Aiding a dubious and deficient s. Ch. 329 But finds that though his tubes assist the s. Ch.387So have I seen (and hastened to the s. Ch. 547 [395 The soul, whose s. all-quickening grace renews Ch. That s. imparts a never-dying flame Ch. 593 The s.'s enough—no need to smell a beau Con. 283 A beam that aids, but never grieves the s. Con.600

Ere life go down, to see such s. again) Con. 608 Now starting into s. D.W. 10 Charmed with the s., "The World," I cried D.W. In aid of our defective s. E. i 62

Flits out of s., and mocks his pains E. iv 60 But as too much obscures the s. E. iv 63

And Hell's close mischief naked in his s. Ex. 339 And in whose awful s. all nations seem Ex. 344 $\lceil 495 \rceil$ Was formed to harden hearts and shock the s. E_r . Our friend's defect long hid from s. F. 149 The same we practised at first s. F. 179 Must tinkle and glitter like gold to the s. F.M. 19 Thewretch may pine, while to his smell, taste, s. H. 59 Nor cheer the spirit, nor refresh the s. H. 299 Where bold Inquiry, diving out of s. H. 443 Amazed that shadows should obscure the s. H. 534Thy s. now seconds not thy will M. 15 And still more lovely in my s. M. 26 What s. worth seeing could I see? M. 30 With Pity's watery s. Miss -The s. our foolish heart inflames P.B. 31 Or present, or in prospect meet his s. P.E. 48 Witness of joys that shun the s. of noon P.E. 174 Tis a s. to engage me, if anything can P.F. 17 For no such s. had England's queen Q.V. 25 Heaven grant us no such future s. Q.V. 79 Where unassisted s, no beauty sees R, 56 At such a s. to catch the poet's flame R. 85 Pleased Fancy claps her pinions at the s. R. 190 This is a s. for Pity to peruse R. 297 Man is a harp whose chords elude the s. R. 325 But never marked her with so just a s. R. 418 I have no s. for you" St. iii 12 To your weak s. her telescopic eye T. 98 His Maker has no beauty in his s. T. 414 And seeking exile from the s. of men T. 442 Nor rural s. alone, but rural sounds T. i 181 Till half their beauties fade; the weary s. T. i 510 And terrible to s., as when she springs T. i 602 For s. of ship from England. Every speck T. i 666 Should ever tease the lungs and blear the $s.\ T.\ iii 168$ Well they reward the toil. The s. is pleased T. iii 620 The wings that waft our riches out of s. T. iii 760 Preposterous s.! the legs without the man T. v 20 Covering his shame from his offended s. T. v 634 With those whose mansions glitter in his s. $T. \vee 740$ And all in s. of inattentive man? T. vi 120 Who sleeps not, is not weary; in whose s. T. vi 225 With s. of animals enjoying life T. vi 325 At s. of the man-monster. With a smile T. vi 499 The creeping vermin, loathsome to the s. T. vi 568 (A s. to which our eyes are strangers yet) T. vi 823 That feels not at that s., and feels at none Tir. 299 Oh 'tis a s. to be with joy perused Tir. 537 And therefore 'tis, that, though the s. be rare Tir. A s. surpassed by none that we can show Tir. 541

SIGHTLESS.

A s. not much unlike my simile Tir. 910

He trembles at the s. Y.D. 24

The Truth she loves a s. world blaspheme Ch. 416

Whipped out of s. with satire just and keen T.T. 640

SIGHTLY.

S., and in just order, ere he gives T. iii 649 Humour in holiday, and s. trim T.T. 643

Sight-refreshing.

That Nature lives; that s. green T. iv 759 SIGN.

For seamen much believe in s. A Tale 61 The constant creaking of a country s. Con. 10 [ii 83 How does the earth receive him?—with what s. T. Here unmolested, through whatever s. T. vi 295 A glory, bright as that of all the s. Tir. 282

SIGNAL.

As soldiers watch the s. of command Ex. 119That moving s. summoning, when best Ex. 179Sounds forth the s., as she mounts her car H. 647 Still they are frowning s, and bespeak T, ii 68

SIGNATURE.

Marked with the s. and stamp of Heaven Ex. 685 The s. and stamp of power divine R. 54

SIGNET. Sealed with his s, whom they serve and love R. 164

SIGNIFICANT.

The solemn fop, s. and budge Con. 299 To each his name s., and, filled Y.O. 153

SIGNPOST.

Perched on the s., holds with even hand T. iv 483

SILENCE And s. every fear with—God is just H. 370 Some dream that they can s., when they will P.E.

And, s. publicly enjoined P.T. 21 But leisure, s., and a mind released R. 139 Or plead its s. as its best applause R. 414 Thy generous powers, but s. honoured thee S. i 7

The Poet's treasure, s., and indulge T. i 235 To muse in s., or at least confine T. iii 36 For their own sake its s. and its shade T. iii 321

In selfish s., but imparted oft T. iii 394 From clamour, and whose very s. charms T. iii 735 Fast bound in chains of s., which the fair T. iv 53 The s. and the warmth enjoyed within T. iv 310

Charms more than s. Meditation here T. vi 85

Your sullen s. serves at least to tell V. 25

SILENCING. For s. so sweet a throat T.B. 59

SILENT.

Fate steals along with s. tread A Fable 36 Hush-s. readers profit most A Tale 29 Has one that notices his s. grief Ch. 207 That cheers the s. journey of the night Ch. 320 The s. pace with which they steal away Comp. i 3 S. and chaste she steals along Comp. ii 3 The fear of being s. makes us mute Con. 352 The circle formed, we sit in s. state Con. 379 And in the s. watches of the night Con. 731 If he be s., faith is all a whim Con. 853Swept Ouse's s. tide D.W. 2 Consult Life's s. clock, thy bounding vein Ep. i 3 But Conscience, in some awful, s. hour H. 215 Has wept a s. flood, reversed his ways H.519The s. progress of thy power is such H. 665 There was a time when Ætna's s. fire Her. 1 Join me, amid your s. hours Miss - 19 Those winding modestly a s. course R. 78 That tongue is s. now; that s. tongue R. 289 While Peace possessed these s. bowers S. 14 Betrays the secret of their s. course T. 196 The law grown clamorous, though s. long T. 261 What! s.? Is your boasting heard no more? T. 567 And s. cipher, while her proxy plays T. i 477 Are s. Revelry, and dance, and show T. ii 79 And s. woods I wander, far from those T. iii 118 A s. witness of the headlong rage T. iii 218 Of s. tears and heart-distending sighs! T. iii 331 No unimportant, though a s. task T. iii 378 The s. circle fan themselves and quake T. iv 149 Fretful if unsupplied; but s., meek T. v 31 [iv 728 Though stretched at ease in Chertsey's s. bowers T. That ill the skies nightly with s. pomp T. v 817 And, intercepting in their s. fall T. vi 75 One s. eve I wandered late The Doves 5

By s. magnanimity alone T.T. 68 SILENTLY.

With tiptoe-step Vice s. succeeds Ex. 84 Which even now, though s. performed T. iv 323 Because deserving, s. retire T. iv 419

Lies undissolved; while s. beneath T. v 99 S. as a dream the fabric rose T. v 144

Г941 That as she sweeps him with her whistling s. \bar{T} . $\forall i$ Wandering, and littering with unfolded s. T. vi 280

Caught in a delicate, soft, s. net P.E. 313 Unsoiled and swift, and of a s. sound T. iv 212 Or twining s. threads round ivory reels T. iv 261

SILKY.

Thick overspread with moss and s. grass N.A. 2

The ostrich, s. of the feathered kind Tir. 789

SILLY.

As s, pride and idleness produce Ex. 50 Much wondered that the s. sheep had found N.4. The s. unsuccessful Bee P.B. 22 F330

With awkward gait, stretched neck, and s. stare P.E. His s. sheep, what wonder if they stray? P.E. 119 A s. fond conceit of his fair form T. ii 420 In s. dotage on created things T. v 586

SILVER More precious than s. and gold A.S. 27 Knight of the s. Moon, Sir Marmadan A.T. 136 He wipes and scours the s. cup in vain Ex. 385 When a bar of pure s. or ingot of gold F.M. 1 Thy s. locks, once auburn bright M. 25

Then, with his s. beard and magic wand P.E. 183 Cowper, whose s. voice, tasked sometimes hard S. i 1 Not so; the s. trumpet's heavenly call T. 349

And poplar that with s. lines his leaf T. i 310 Her s. globes, light as the foamy surf T. vi 155 And tells them, as he strokes their s. locks Tir. 322 The God that strings the s. bow Trans. H. 28

And makes his pupils proud with s. pence T.T. 509 SILVER-END. Deep in the abyss of S.-E. i 42

SILVERED. Not yet by time completely s. o'er T ii 703

SIMILAR. Deserves an answer s., or none Tir. 901

SIMILARITY. As s. of mind F. 175

SIMILE. This s. were apt enough E, iv 47 With s. to illustrate it E. iv 62 We have our s. cut short E. iv 65 A sight not much unlike my s. Tir. 910

SIMILITUDE. Attend;—an apt s. shall show T. 236

Soon shows the strong s. reversed Tir. 443 SIMPERING.

A s. countenance, and a trifling air P.E. 206If smiling peeresses, and s. peers T.T. 131 SIMPLE.

How s, wedlock fornication works A.T. 159 The s. native of the new found isle Ch. 30 And made so welcome at their s, feast Con. 532"Look to the poor; the s. and the plain Ez. 452 Their language s., as their manners meek H. 764

With all the s. and unlettered poor P.E. 506 Are life's prime pleasures in his s. view R. 403 Improved the s. plan; made three legs four T. i 29 And heard our music; are thy s. friends T. i 645 Thy s. fare, and all thy plain delights T. i 646

I would express him s., grave, sincere T. ii 399 His warm but s. home, where he enjoys T. iii 389 Once s., are initiated in arts T. iv 493

But his own s. pleasures; now and then T. iv 625 The s. clerk, but loyal, did announce T. vi 661 [137] Whose humorous vein, strong sense, and s. style Tir. Our innocent sweet s. years again Tir. 313 He drinks his s. beverage with a gust T.T. 240

SIMPLEST.

What s. minds can soonest comprehend H.452

SIMPLICITY.

Majestic in its own s. T. 27 She, safe in the s. of hers T. 336 I seek divine s. in him T. ii 432 The footsteps of S., impressed T. iv 520 Elegant as s., and warm T.T. 588

Others, that earth, ere s. had drowned it all A.T. 46 S. forged, and Ignorance made fast, the chain Ch.237 Is still the progeny and heir of s. Ch. 344 But lest I seem to s. against a friend Ch. 485 [469] That Heaven and Hell, and righteousness and s. Con. Well spoken, advocate of s. and shame Con. 587 And while at heart s. unrelinquished lies Con. 673 Then mirth is s., and we should always cry Con. 878 Were s. in me, and an offence to you E. ii 4 Reminds them of their hated inmate s. E. ii 36 Had grace for others' s., but none for theirs Ex. 12When nations are to perish in their s. Ex. 95That S. let loose speaks Punishment at hand Ex. 160Cured of the golden calves, their fathers' s. Ex. 215While thousands careless, of the damning s. Ex. 388When s. has shed dishonour on thy brow Ex. 394 Hast thou within thee s., that in old time Ex. 414 Denouncing death upon the s. of man H. 512 [592 And say;—"Blot out my s., confessed, deplored H. That shows how far 'tis safe to follow s. H. 608And he that finds his Heaven must lose his s. H. 638 Of fools that hate thee and delight in s. H. 745 [651 Drives through the realms of s., where Riot reels H. Those awful syllables, Hell, Death, and S.-H. 690 Without the s. of violating thine M.P. 117 The s. and madness of mankind P.B. 14 Cry in his startled ear, "Abstain from s.!" P.E. 38 S.'s rotten trunk, concealing its defects P.E. 288 To regions where, in spite of s. and woe R. 27 To spare no passion, and no favourite s. R. 136 The grave admits no cure for guilt or s. St. ii 30 And loathed the thought of s. St. iii 28 New as ever seem our s. St. iv 27 Was blasphemy his s.? Or did he stray T.48 [51 (Such were the s. with which he charged his Lord) T. Their s. is plain, but what have we to fear T. 129 They never s.—or if (as all offend) T. 285 The supposition is replete with s. T. 347That man is dead in s., and life a gift T. 514 Such evil S. hath wrought, and such a flame T. ii 133 It seems the part of wisdom, and no s. T. iv 336 His principle, and tempt him into s. T. iv 454 Hence merchants, unimpeachable of s. T. iv 676 605 Far worse than all the plagues with which his s. T. vAnd s. without disturbance. Often urged T. v 659 But s. marr'd all; and the revolt of man T. vi 368 Thanks for thy food. Carnivorous, through s. T. vi457 When s. hath moved him, and his wrath is hot T.vi742 It may succeed; and, if his s. should call Tir. 410 The powers that S, has brought to a decline T.T.383

From S.'s top Jehovah gave the law T. 549

SINCERE. The seaman, with s. delight A Tale 57 Of narrative s. Cast. 50 Than while his conduct proves his heart s. Con. 766 The priest, whose office is, with zeal s. Ex. 97

The priestly brotherhood, devout, s. Ex. 438 Meek, modest, venerable, wise, s. Ex. 620 T hat friends should be s, and just F. 158 Was much too generous and s. F.B. 23To prove that what she gives she gives s. H. 62 That dropped upon his Bible was s. H. 575 Perhaps a frail memorial but s. M.P. 72 That prize belongs to none but the s. P.E. 578 Though sage advice of friends the most s. R. 249 We meet at last in one s. desire R. 389 S. on Virtue's side St. iii 18 Thus Heaven approves, as honest and s. T. 225 Thou knowest my praise of Nature most s. T. i 150 I would express him simple, grave, s. T. ii 399 Half so refined or so s. as ours T. iv 206 Patriots are grown too shrewd to be s. T. ▼ 495 Of laughter his compunctions are s. T. v 616 And now, his prowess proved, and his s. T. vi 531 And constancy s. The Doves 14 Yet is thy root s., sound as the rock Y.O. 116

SINCERITY.

S. towards the heart-searching God Con. 753 S.! why 'tis his only pride Con. 757 But will s. suffice? F. 55 Hates with a deep s. the true H. 642 Of some s., on the giver's part T. ii 559

SINECURE.

To make God's work a s.; a slave T. ii 390

SINEW.

Plies all the s. of industrious toil Her. 69 Spreads all his canvass, every s. plies T. 5 That s. bought and sold have ever earned T. ii 32 That ask robust, tough s., bred to toil T. iii 405

SINEWY.

Had reached the s. firmness of their youth T. v 288 SINFUL.

A pale procession of past s. joys H. 221 (Had he the s. part expressed L.W. 9S. and weak, in every sense a wretch T. 383 Over a s. world; and what remains T. vi 736

SING.

"Seraglios s., and harems dance for joy! A.T. 108 And while, at intervals, a cold blast s. Ex. 720They sang as blithe as finches s. F.B. 7 When I s. of the splendour of mine Gr. 56 Well spake the prophet,—" Let the desert s. H. 524 Did s. most loud and clear J.G. 204 Now let us s., long live the King J.G. 249 The angry Muse thus s, thee forth M.B. 23 I dreamed what I cannot but s. M.D. 3 Taught you to s., and me to shine N. G. 20 But s. and shine by sweet consent N.G. 31 S., Muse, (if such a theme, so dark, so long P.E. 1The winds play no longer and s. in the leaves P.F. 3 So s. he, charmed with his own mind and form T. 411 Is. the Sofa. I who lately sang T. i 1 Such joys has he that s. But ah! not such T. ii 304 And yet ambitious not to s, in vain T, ii 312 And those Arcadian scenes, that Maro s. T. iv 515 Upon the yielding herbage (so they s.) T. iv 521 In vain the poet s., and the world hears T. vi 1018 S., then—and extend thy span Trans. iii 27 And now he s., and now is sick Trans. iv 28 And I will s., if Liberty be there T.T. 295 And I will s., at Liberty's dear feet T.T. 296 S. where you please, in such a cause I grant T.T. 298 SINGING.

The voice of s. and the sprightly cord T. ii 78

SINGLE.

For thou art born sole heir, and s. E. iv 3

Find not, or hardly find, a s. friend Ex. 118
Were all collected in thy s. arm Ex. 704
Returned him not a s. word J.G. 179
By his good will would keep us s. P.T. 32
Nor alept a s. wink, or purred R.C. 75
Reproach a people with his s. fall T. 234
'Tis called a book, though but a s. page) Tir. 122
No; not a s. thought like that Trans. ii 22
Of chiefs whose s. arm could boast 1789, 5.

SINISTER.

Another of s. views F. 53

STNK

They shriek and s., survivors start and weep R. 159 I pity, and must therefore s. the name R. 576 And s., while favoured with the means to rise T. 544 They s. and settle lower than they need T. v 249 Tend downward; his ambition is to s. T. v 592 His moment when to s. and when to rise T. vi 130 In prostitution s. the sense of shame T.T. 415 I s. the poet in the friend U. 30

SINKING.

Till s. in the quicksand he defends P.E. 552 'Tis criminal to leave a s. state R. 478

SINNER.

So fares it with the s., when he feels T. 257 Than some grave s. upon English ground T. 292 That bind the s.'s Bacchanalian brow T. 462 As Vengeance can inflict, or s. fear T. 554 That they are safe, s. of either sex T. iii 96

SINUOUS.

Conducts the eye along his s. course T. i 165 S. or straight, now rapid and now slow T. iii 778

The song of S. is a tasteless thing Con. 715 O S.! an assembly such as earth T. vi 816

SIPPING. [39

Sweet converse, s. calm the fragrant lymph T. iii SIPS.

S. meek infusions of a milder herb Con. 268
She should imbue the tongue with what she s. Con.
"Adieu," Vinosa cries, ere yet he s. H. 357
He that s. often, at last drinks it up P.E. 581
Assiduous s. at every flower 1789, 18

[no!" P.A. 25 He was shocked, s., like you, and answered-" Oh Her wooed S. Airy, by meandering streams A.T. 11 But Fate reserved S. Airy to maintain A.T. 56 [132 Right reverend S.! was no concern of theirs $\overline{A}.T$. Knight of the Silver Moon, S. Marmadan A.T. 136 To where the fond S. Airy lay entranced A.T. 150 S. Airy, not a whit dismayed or scared A.T. 171 [187 "By Dian's beams," S. Marmadan exclaimed A.T. S., when I flew to seize the bird B.R. 1 'Twas Nature, s., whose strong behest B.R. 7 What think you, s., of killing Time B.R. 27 Oh! thwart me not, S. Soph, at every turn Con. 91 "S.! I believe it on that ground alone Con. 233 [282 "Adieu, dear S.! lest you should lose it now" Con. "'Tis but a step, s., just at the street's end" E. iii 26 More folly and delusion—S., your toast H. 364[E.iii 27 "For what?"—"An' please you, s., to see a friend" S. Smug," he cries (for lowest at the board H. 413 How much his feelings suffered, sat S. Smug) H. 416 S. Humphrey, shooting in the dark M.F. 9 [538 Such was S. Isaac, and such Boyle and Looke P.E. Your hermit, young and jovial s.! Mor. 23 [212 Tom quits you, with—" Your most obedient, S." T.

Even at your side, S., and before your eyes T. 230 Now tell me, dignified and sapient s. T. ii 531 [96 "But where, good s., do you confine your kings?" T.T. A captious question, s. (and yours is one) Tir. 933

STRE.

Beyond the example of our s. digress Con. 792
Heroes and worthies of days past, thy s.? Ez. 658
The youth, obedient to his s.'s commands P.E. 377
Each s. and dam, of an infernal race P.E. 568
The estate his s. had owned in ancient years R. 579
No; these were vigorous as their s. St. i 9
Save their own painted skins, our s. had none T. i 9
Long time elapsed or e'er our rugged s. T. i 68
At the right door. Profusion is the s. T. ii 674
Discovering much the temper of her s. T iii 434
Because delivered down from s. to son T. v 303
The boy's neglected s.! a Mother too T. vi 43 [318
Hark! how the s. of chits, whose future share Tiv.

SISTER.

Is rather careless of her s.'s fame Ch. 454 Must hold both s., never seen apart Ex. 635 My s., and my s. child J.G. 13 In short, the charms her s. had J.P. 27 Then April with her s. May N. 17

[Con. 463 There s. and prompts him with his own disgrace Designed to s. close to it just like a saddle A.C. 16 The circle formed, we s. in silent state Con. 379 They learn to bow, to kneel, to s., to stand Ex. 120 To rise at noon, s. slipshod and undressed H. 75 Fasting and prayer s. well upon a priest H. 403 S. absolute on his unshaken throne H. 474 Who cannot s. upright J.G. 90 There s. quiescent on the floods that show M.P. 92 S. banquetting, and God provides the feast P.E.166 Gorgonius s., abdominous and wan P.E. 217S. linking cherry-stones, or platting rush R. 398 She might repose, or s. and think R.C. 6 He who s. from day to day St. iv 1 S. long and late at the carousing board? T. 50 See where he s., contemplative and fixed T. 415 So s. two Kings of Brentford on one throne T. i 78 Her mingled suits and sequences, and s. T. i 475 Between supporters; and, once seated, s. T. i 479 To distant shores, and she would s. and weep T. i 540 And force them s., till he has pencilled off T, ii 22Or does he s. regardless of his works? T. ii 516 Men that if now alive, would s. content T. ii 541 That s. a stigma on his father's house T. ii 760 [385 And crowded knees, s. cowering o'er the sparks T. iv There s., involved and lost in curling clouds T. iv 472 Or disregard our follies, or that s. T. v 877 S. cooing in the pine-tree, nor suspends T. v 308Wins public honour; and ten thousand s. T. vi 633 He s. secure, and in the scale of life T. vi 970 And, if admitted at thy board he s. Tir. 725 You think, no doubt, he s. and muses Trans. ii 19 The dinner comes, and down they s. Y.D. 37 S. half the pleasures of short life away! Y.O. 32 SITE.

Its elevated s. forbids the wretch T. i 239

Cry aloud, thou that s. in the dust Ex. 267

SITTING. Thus s., and surveying thus at ease T. iv 94

SITUATION.

And shine by s., hardly less T. ii 296 New s. give a different cast Tir. 440 On s. that they never felt T.T. 169 SIX.

In the last scene of her s. thousand years Con. 456 Ethelred's house, the centre of s. ways H. 302 S. precious souls, and all agog J.G. 39 S. gentlemen upon the road J.G. 233 Nobly distinguished above all the s. P.E. 161 S. thousand years of sorrow have well nigh T. vi 734 To set a distich upon s. and five T.T. 507

There shall be learn, ere s. winters old Tir. 210

And the s. Edward's, grace the historic page T.T.

Rose from a seed of tiny s. E. i 95 Both baby-featured, and of infant s. P.E. 201 Then welcome errors, of whatever s. P.E. 283Halting on crutches of unequals. P.E. 560 [s. R. 67 Whose shape would make them, had they bulk and Fruits of a blighted s., austere and crude T. 494 Of public note, they reach their perfect s. T. i 696 And glossy, he commits to pots of s. T. iii 512And magnified beyond all human s. T. iv 542 And with a gravity beyond the s. T. vi 654
The stout tall captain, whose superior s. Tir. 222 Beyond a s. that can be managed well Tir. 502 Different in s., but in effect the same Tir. 516 [633 Yon circling worlds, their distance, and their s. Tir. Proportioned to his s. Trans. i 12

SKEIN.

They disentangle from the puzzled s. T. iii 145 skiff. Moved not, while theirs was rocked like a light s.

SKILFUL. As if, like arches built with s. hand Ex. 286S. alike to seem devout and just R. 689 Keen enough, wise and s, as thou art T, iii 207 Then s. most when most severely judged T. v 869 A s. guide into poetic ground! T.T. 717

With a great deal of s., and a wig full of learning The solemn trifler, with his boasted s. Ch. 355 No s. in swordmanship, however just Ch. 509 But though we praise the exact designer's s. Ch. 555 Victorious seemed, and now the doctor's s. Con. 320Their s. a truth, his master's a pretence Con. 418 They build each other up with dreadful s. Con. 687 By power divine, and s. that could not err Ex. 206 The glowing tablets with juster s. Ex. 232 But if He leave thee, though the s. and power Ex. That make superior s. his second praise \hat{H} . 206 [542] (Yet charge not heavenly s. with having planned H. A painter's s. into a poet's hand H. 670 Thus men go wrong, with an ingenious s. P.E. 556 Then sweet to muse upon his s. displayed R. 51 (Infinite s.) in all that He has made! R.52Virtuous and faithful Heberden, whose s. R. 279 That yields not to the touch of human s. R. 344 What happy s. and industry combined T. 430 None more admires, the painter's magic s. T. i 422 Great s. have they in palmistry, and more T. i 570 With what superior s. we can abuse T. i 637 'Tis generous to communicate your s. T. ii 282 Than by the labour and the s. it cost T. ii 297 Not tire, demanding rather s. than force T. iii 407 The vigilance, the labour, and the s. T. iii 548 To artists ingenuity and s. T. iv 797 [iv 495 But none with readier s.!—'Tis here they learn T. For s. in government, at length made king T. v 241 That oft we owe our safety to a s. T. vi 619 Though poor in s. to rear them, lights at last T. vi That, if his country stand not by his s. T. vi 975

With all the s. of age Th. 8 That form, the labour of Almighty s. Tir. 7 The wall on which we tried our graving s. Tir. 300 His s. in coachmanship, or driving chaise Tir. 326 In all true worth and literary s.? Tir. 378 Small s. in Latin, and still less in Greek Tir. 385 Your son come forth a prodigy of s. Tir. 525 Such microscopic proof of s. and power Tir. 637 Or doing nothing with a deal of s. T.T. 193 [357] S. to direct, and strength to strike the blow $\overline{T}.T$. SKILLED.

The statesman, s. in projects dark and deep Ch. 612 If smooth Dissimulation, s. to grace T.T. 129 S, in the characters that form mankind T.T. 705 SKILLET.

S., and old carved chest, from public sale T. iv 402

To purge and s. away the filth of vice P.E. 343 That s. the spacious meadow at full speed T. vi 331 He cannot s. the ground like summer birds T. vi 921

SKIN.

S. may differ, but affection N.C. 15 Save their own painted s., our sires had none T. i 9 Their fluttering rags, and shows a tawny s. T. i 568 He finds his fellow guilty of a s. T. ii 12 Kindle a fiery boil upon the s. T. ii 183

SKIN-PIERCING

S. volley, blossom-bruising hail T. v 141

To s, and gambol like a fawn Ep, ii 23 The things that mount the rostrum with a s. T. ii 409 And then s. down again; pronounce a text T. ii 410 Spread little wings, and rather s. than fly T.T. 579

SKIPPED.

Forth s. the cat, but now replete R.C.99SKIPPING

Designed thy cradle; and a s. deer Y.O.25

SKIRT.

That sweep the s. of some far-spreading wood T. i O'ertop the lofty wood that s. the wild T. i 558 Found too where most offensive, in the s. T. ii 822 That s. the horizon, wore a sable hue T. iv 320

SKIRTED.

And s, thick with intertexture firm T. i 111

SKITTISH.

The s. fancy with facetious tales T. ii 470

SKULK.

F875

But counterfeit is blind, and s. through fear Con. Not s., or put on a prudential mask T.T. 312

And carry, in contusions of his s. Con. 201 And useless as a candle in a s. Con. 780 Must have a most uncommon s. P.T. 8 On s. that cannot teach, and will not learn T. ii 394

As ever swept a winter s. A Fable 11 Obscurest night involved the s. Cast. 1 Alike the wrath and mercy of the s. Ch. 70Oh! could I worship aught beneath the s. Ch. 254 A captive bird into the boundless s. Ch. 269 He reads the s., and, watching every change Ch. 333 Reflect the noonday glory of the s. Ch. 398 When one that holds communion with the s. Ch. 435 Its fruit on earth, its growth above the s. Ch. 578 As if in close committee on the s. Con. 385 And veil your daring crest that braves the s. Con. Built by that architect who built the s. Con. 560

Presumes itself chief favourite of the s. Con. 674 It is the allotment of the s. E. i 33 And bid a dawning s. display E. i 77 The fervour and the force of Indian s. Er. 12 The graces of a life that wins the s. Ex. 112 Are far too mean for Him that rules the s. Ex. 138The future tone and temper of the s. Ex. 158 [228 Had poured the day, and cleared the Roman s. Ex. To charm to sleep the threatening of the s. Ex. 404 They left their bones beneath unfriendly s. Ex. 524 Nor spare a life too short to reach the s. Ex. 623 And this delightful earth, and that fair s. Ex. 638 A bolder still, a contest with the s.? Ex. 699 [H. 49 Ambitious of brushing the s. Gr. 4 From the blue rim, where s. and mountains meet Familiar with the wonders of the s. H. 442 The rage and rigour of a polar s. H. 462 Which, aimed at him, have pierced the offended s. But brighter beams than his who fires the s. H. 491 But while they speak the wisdom of the s. H. 768 And hang their horrors in the neighbourings. Her.16 That there is bliss prepared in yonder s. J.T. 13 Since first our s. was overcast M. 2 Heard shouts that ascended the s. M.D. 39 "Prepare it for the s." Miss - 92 The son of parents passed into the s. M.P. 111 How glad they catch the largess of the s. N.A. 62 With all these hideous howlings to the s. N.A. 88 Speaking from his throne, the s. P N.C. 28 To form an Iris in the s. O. i 19 [P.E. 74 Detach the soul from earth and speed her to the s. ? Or whether clearer s. and softer air P.E. 409 So he who seeks a mansion in the s. P.E. 576 Hear the just law—the judgment of the s. ! P.E. 606 Darkness the s. had mantled o'er Q.V. 33 One Georgian star adorns the s. Q.V. 75 That melt and fade into the distant s. R. 424 And show the august tribunal of the s. R. 656 Sends Nature forth, the daughter of the s. R. 795 "My home henceforth is in the s. St. iii 9 What but a sordid bargain for the s. ? T. 76 The rude inclemency of wintry s. T. 138 Her title to a treasure in the s. T. 330 Supreme on earth, and worthy of the s. T. 408 In vain he points his powers against the s. T. 469 Assert the s., and vindicate her due T. 490 The wretch who slights the bounty of the s. T. 543 Angelic gratulations rend the s. T. 587 Beneath the open s. she spreads the feast T. i 433 Have kindled beacons in the s., and the old T. ii 59 I would not yet exchange thy sullen s. T. ii 212 The legate of the s. !- His theme divine T. ii 338 Whose flambeaux flash against the morning s. T. ii 648 Heaven-born, and destined to the s. again T. iii 50 Sought in still water, and beneath clear s. T. iii 382 I would at least bewail it under s. T. v 487 To soar, and to anticipate the s. T. v 723 That fill the s. nightly with silent pomp T. v 817 Yet not in vengeance; as his smiling s. T. vi 258 Nor freezing s. nor sultry, checking me T. vi 297 Below the s., but having there his home T. vi 914 With which Aurora decks the s. T.B. 16 And when descending he resigns the s. Tir. 37 Brings into doubt the wisdom of the s. Tir. 72 Nor ignorantly wandering miss the s. Tir. 108 In that bright quarter his propitious s. Tir. 395 That kindles up the s. Trans. i 10 Expect a brighter s. Trans. H. 27 Religion, richest favour of the s. T.T. 268 Courage, ungraced by these affronts the s. T.T. 378 Fancy that from the bow that spans the s. T.T. 702 And giving one, whose heart is in the s. V. 93 The frowns of a s. so severe W.N. 18

Destroys them—s. uncertain, now the heat Y.O. 71 And flash thanksgivings to the s.! 1789, 55

A massy s., in fashion square or round T. i 21

SLACK.

That she is s. in discipline; more prompt T. i 730 His country, or was s. when she required T. iii 89 The mind Hegave me; driving it, though s. T. iii 369 He sees that human equity is s. T. vi 472

SLACKENED.

Has s. to a pause, and we have borne T. i 155

SLAIN.

You left where he was s. Beau 12 Vice seems already's. H.F. 6 Like a s. deer, the tumbrel brings him home P.E. 94 S. at the foot of Pleasure be no crime P.E. 182 Feed on the s., but spare the living brute! T. vi 458 "Worthy the Lamb, for he was s. for us!" T. vi 792

SLAKED.

The thirst than s. it, and not seldom bred T. ii 509 SLANDER.

The very butt of s., and the blot H. 558 If Acrimony, S., and Abuse T.T. 762

SLANDERER.

There were the scorner's and the s.'s tongue Ex. 36 SLANDEROUS.

Condemns the injurious deed, the s. tongue T. 559

SLANT. Upon the southern side of the s. hills T. vi 59

SLANTING.

Shades s. at the close of day Mor. 15 Seen through the leafless wood. His s. ray T. v 6

SLAUGHTER.

Driven to the s., goaded as he runs T. vi 421

SLAVE. That man by Faith and Truth is made a s. A.T.66Patience itself is meanness in a s. Ch. 164 And he that scorns it is himself a s. Ch. 22% And s., by truth enlarged, are doubly freed Ch. 231 And he grown chaste that was the s. of lust Con. 810 He saw his people s. to every lust Ex.55Thou wast the veriest s., in days of yore Ez. 526 Themselves the s., of bigotry or lust Ex. 529 [546 O s.! with powers thou didst not dare exert E'. "I go to make Freemen of S." M.D. 16 She sung of the s.'s broken chain M.D. 19 To the black-sceptred rulers of s. M.D. 47But though s. they have enrolled me N.C. 7 S. of gold, whose sordid dealings N. C. 53 I own I am shocked at the purchase of s. P.A. I A mere church-juggler,—hypocrite and s. P.E. 100 Made nothing but a brute, the s. of sense P.E. 21: In vain: the s. of arrogance and pride P.E. 548 And atheist, if Earth bear so base a s.) P.E. 615 The dupes of pleasure, or the s. of gain R.24No s. on earth more welcome were than they T.352 would not have a s. to till my ground T. ii 29 I had much rather be myself the s. T. ii 35 [37 We have no s. at home:—Then why abroad? T. ii S. cannot breathe in England; if their lungs T. ii 4 To make God's work a sinecure; a s. T. ii 390 As in the bosoms of the s. he rules $T. \vee 310$ True to the death, but not to be his s. T. v 345 [374 But s. that once conceive the glowing thought T. v Of Liberty, themselves the s. of lust T. v 499 "Dishonours God, and makes a s. of man T. v 643 Grace makes the s. a freeman. 'Tis a change T. v 688 And all are s. beside. There's not a chain T. v 731 If man be what he seems, this hour a s. Tir. 59 Religion makes the free by nature s. Tir. 184 The s. of custom and established mode Tir. 251 A s. at court, elsewhere a lady's man Tir. 423 Is base in kind, and born to be a s. T.T. 28 No sycophant or s., that dared oppose T.T. 350 Freeman and s. then, if the case be such T.T. 254 As if he heard his king say, "S., be free!" T.T. 245 That s., howe'er contented, never know T.T. 261 S. fight for what were better cast away T.T. 282 Slips the s.'s collar on, and snaps the lock T.T. 477

SLAVE-CULTURED.

To a s. island we came M.D. 26

SLAVERY.

But s. !—Virtue dreads it as her grave Ch. 163 Exported s. to the conquered East? Ex. 365 He can encourage s. to a smile T.T. 252

SLAVISH.

" Feel all the meanness of your s. lot A.T. 112 Scorns the base hireling, and the s. drudge T. 228 The s. dread of solitude, that breeds T. i 488

SLAY.

The hand that slew till it could s. no more Ch. 49 Agreed. But would you sell or s. your horse T.T. 301

SLAYING.

And s. man would cease to be an art Ch. 619

SLEEKEST.

Were brighter than the s. mole T.B. 14

SLEEP.

Might burn his useless Machiavel, and s. Ch. 613 Carelessly nods and s. upon the brink Ex. 99 To charm to s. the threatening of the skies Ex. 401 Ere Nature rose from her s. Ex. 637 They s, secure from waking F. 123 His passions, like the watery stores that s. H. 183 After long s., of passion in the heart J.T. 42 How regular his meals, how sound he s.! R. 430 That shines and rests, as infants smile and s. R. 528 Then all the world of waters s. again R. 536 And slept as she would s. her last R.C. 48 Is left to s. for peace and quiet sake T. 428 The nurse s. sweetly, hired to watch the sick T. i 89 To s. within the carriage more secure T. i 92 Sweet s. enjoys the curate in his desk T. i 94 And sweet the clerk below. But neither s. T. i 96 Nor s. enjoyed by curate in his desk T. i 100 And s. not; see him sweating o'er his bread T. i 363 To carry me, to fan me while I s. T. ii 30 Great crimes alarm the conscience, but it s. T. iii 185 And s and is refreshed. Meanwhile the face T iv 298 S. seems their only refuge; for, alas! T. iv 396 Where chanticleer amidst his harem s. T. iv 447 Then s. was undisturbed by Fear, unscared T. iv 561 And slumbers unalarmed! Now, ere you s. T. iv 566 Authority herself not seldom s. T. iv 593 Screens them, and seem half petrified to s. T. v 23But violence can never longer s. T. v 204 [876 The undiscoverable secret s. T. v 537 Gods such as guilt makes welcome; gods that s. T. v'Tis desperate, and he s. the s. of death T. v 669Of leaf and flower? It s.; and the icy touch T.vi137Who s. not, is not weary; in whose sight T. vi 226 In s. he seemed to view T.B. 45

The rudiments should s. the winter through Y.O. 28 SLEEPING.

 Λ s. fog, and fancies it dry land T. 4 The s. leaves, is all the light they wish T. i 763

Merely to s., and let them run astray? Tir. 908

SLEET

Except with snow and s. A Tale 18 Thy scattered hair with s. like ashes filled T. iv 121 The gloomy clouds, find weapons, arrowy s. T. v 140

SLEEVE.

And hoards them in her s.; but needful food T. i 554 One wipes his nose upon his s. Y.D. 41

SLENDER.

A laugh at his expense, is s. praise R. 318 And disappoints the roots; the s. roots T. iii 611 With s. notes, and more than half suppress'd T. vi 78 Of flowers, like flies clothing her s. rods T. vi 166 By s. threads, and swinging in the breeze Tir. 592

SLEPT.

As private as the chambers where they s. Ex. 144S. he in Adam? And in those from him F.A. 24 Starts from the down on which she lately s. H. 219 S. unperceived, the mountain yet entire Her. 2 And s. as she would sleep her last R.C. 48 Nor s. a single wink, or purred R.C. 75 Then Study languished, Emulation s. T. ii 731 Where memory s. Wherever I have heard T, vi 12

The hand that s, till it could slay no more Ch. 49

Yet likes a s. as well as he L.W. 36

How oft, my s. of pocket-store consumed T. i 118

SLICED.

S. carrot pleased him well Ep. ii 20

SLIDE.

S. guinea behind guinea in his palm Ch. 474 Too well acquainted with their smiles, s. off T. i 511 S. ineffectual down the snowy vale T. imes 7 And soon to s, into a stream again T, v 168

SLIDING.

The slippery seat betrayed the s. part T. i 46 The moonbeam, s. softly in between T. i 762 A s. car, indebted to no wheels T. iv 126

SLIGHT.

And hast thou sworn on every s. pretence Ex, 386 Too small perhaps the s. occasion E, i 85 "My favorite Nymph to s. J.P. 34 For one s. trespass all this stir? M.F. 21 We s. the precious kernel of the stone P.E. 419 And s, the season and the scene S. 12A s. gratuity atones for all T, 288 [666 He s. the strokes of conscience. Nothing moves T. v The wretch who s. the bounty of the skies T. 543 And s. the hovel as beneath her care T. ii 459 I s. thee not, but make thee welcome still T. iv 266 Who s. the charities for whose dear sake T. v 507Familiar with th' effect we s, the cause T, vi 121 Who, if their sons some s, tuition share Tir, 783 The rest will s. thy counsel, or condemn Tir. 805 Howe'er he s. thee, thou hast done thy part Tir. 898

SLIGHTED.

And, though disgraced and s., to redeem Ch. 13 He spurned the wretch that s., or withstood Ch. 31 Beauties he lately s, as he passed R. 425 Her s. works to your admiring view R. 543 Hear then how mercy, s. and defied T. 501 Returns indignant to the s. plough T. iv 645 But s. as it is, and by the great T. iv 691 Fill time has stolen away the s. good T. vi 51 Holds no ignoble, though a s., place T. vi 971 Speaking in parables his s. word Tir. 140

SLIGHTEST.

For such a cause, to feel the s. fear N.A. 90

SLIGHTING.

His more sublime vagaries s. E. i 17

SLIGHTLY.

Nothing is s. touched, much less forgot Con. 317

SLIP. To every sudden s. and transient wrong H. 390 Shines as it runs, but grasped at s. away P.E. 22 Admires the work but s. the lesson by R. 214S. to his hammock, and forgets the blast R. 436 Of neighbouring fountain, or of rills that s. T. 192 Some trivial s. their daily walk attend T. 286 Let s. with such a warrant to destroy ? T. ii 54 S. the slave's collar on, and snaps the lock T.T. 477

SLIPPER.

Who stole her s., filled it with Tokay T. 157

And honest Merit stands on s. ground Ch. 284 The s. seat betrayed the sliding part T. i 46 Can seize the s. prey, unties the knot T. ii 685 But urged by storms along its s. way T. iv 127 And s. the materials, yet frostbound T. v 155 SLIPSHOD.

To rise at noon, sit s. and undressed H. 75 With s. heels, and dewdrop at his nose T. 144

SLOES. The bramble, black as jet, or s. austere T. i 122

But rude at first, and not with easy s. T. i 64 And where the land s. to its watery bourn N.A. 13 The s. of faces, from the floor to the roof T. iv 202

SLOPING.

Some through the groves, some down the s. hills In peace upon her s. sides matured Her. 10 The s. land recedes into the clouds T. i 171 He settles next upon the s. mount T. iii 486

SLOTH.

Such squalid s. to honourable toil! T. i 579 In gross and pampered cities, s., and lust T. i 687 And well prepared, by ignorance and s. T. ii 388 Small thanks to those whose negligence or s. T. ii 800 He may compensate for a day of s. T. iv 434 On the same cushion of habitual s. T. iv 598 While s. seduces more, too weak to bear T. vi 105 Allows short time for play, and none for s. Tir. 484 SLOTHFUL.

Not s.; happy to deceive the time T. iii 362 Not s. he, though seeming unemployed T. vi 928

SLOUCH.

He stands erect; his s. becomes a walk T. iv 639 SLOUGH.

And sore discomfited, from s. to s. T. iii 5

SLOVENLY. Than in a churchman s. neglect T. ii 456

Surly and s., and bold and coarse T.T. 682 SLOW.

With s. deliberation he unties Ch. 471 With hesitation admirably s. Con. 123 For God unfolds by s. degrees E. i 59 How s. to learn the dictates of his love E. ii 20 Till I, with s. and cautious hand F.B 29 Yet man, laborious man, by s. degrees Her. 67 I saw the hearse that bore thee s. away M.P. 29 Lips busy, and eyes fixed, foot falling s. R. 285 He sighs,—for after all, by s. degrees R. 465 Led them, however faltering, faint, and s. T. 537 Was bliss reserved for happier days;—so s. T. i 83 With curvature of s. and easy sweep T. i 352 [i 595 His fierceness, having learnt, though s. to learn T.

And recognise the s. retiring fair T. ii 454 [T. iii 492 S. gathering in the midst, through the square mass In volumes wheeling s., the vapour dank T. iii 499 Experience, s. preceptress, teaching oft T. iii 505 And to the stir of Commerce, driving s. T. iii 739 Sinuous or straight, now rapid and now s. T. iii 778 With matron steps, moving, while the Night T. iv 246 Procure him many a curse. By s. degrees T iv 635 He yet by s. degrees puts off himself T. iv 637 [43 Now creeps he s.; and now, with many a frisk T. v By s. solicitation, seize at once T. vi 116 [T. vi 547 Was now to learn that Heaven, though s. to wrath S. circling ages are as transient days T. vi 227 S. after century, a giant bulk Y.O. 63 S., into such magnificent decay Y.O. 90

SLOWER. With scarce a s. flight D.W12

SLOWLY.

And while the victim s. bled to death Ez. 498 If chance, on heavy pinions s. borne H. 716 Full s. pacing o'er the stones J.G. 79 The clouds that flit, or s. float away R. 192 And s., and by most unfelt, the face T. iv 321

SLOW-MOVING.

The distant plough s., and beside T. i 160 A pompous and s. pageant comes T. vi 697

SLOW-PACED. And patient of the s. swain's delay T. v 32

SLOW-REVOLVING. We would see T. vi 824 Ye s. seasons!

SLOW-RISING I see a column of s. smoke T. i 557

SLOW-WINDING.

Fast by the banks of the s. Ouse R. 804Here Ouse, s. through a level plain T. i 163

SLUGGISH.

To the clogged wheels; and in its s. pace T. iv 345

SLUMBER. And s. on in state Miss — 28 As he that s. in pavilions graced R.509Invited her to s. there R.C. 42 To s. in the carriage more secure T. i 99 To tell its s., and to paint its dreams T. iii 13 To thy straw couch, and s. unalarmed T. iii 345 And s. unalarmed! Now, ere you sleep T. iv 566 Nor ask his leave to s. or to play T. vi 405 The mind that s. sweetly in her snares T.T. 439

SLUMBERING

And s. oscitancy mars the brood? T. ii 774 Again she lays them s. on the shore Tir. 26

The bottles he had s. J.G. 106 Their miserable meal. A kettle, s. T. i 560

SLUB. I s. a name, a poet must not speak) H. 555

And finds it a mere mask of s. grimace Con. 744 And stab Religion with a s. side-thrust R. 690 [20] You have two servants,-Tom, an arch, s. rogue T. S. circumvention, unrelenting hate T. i 615 F105 With his s. scythe, whose ever-nibbling edge Y.O.

[519 SMACK. Were trained beneath his lash, and knew the s. E S. went the whip, round went the wheels J.G. 41

And now a hearty s. Trans. iv 18 SMALL.

S. need of Prayer Book, or of priest, I ween J. f.

Guns, halberts, swords and pistols, great and s. Ch551 As needs they must, from great to s.! E. i 80 Too s. perhaps the slight occasion E. i 85 Friendship a blessing cheap or s. E. i 92 Thy soul as ample as thy bounds are s. Ex. 696 The great and \hat{s} but rarely meet F. 115 The breach, though s. at first, soon opening wide In part abate, that happiness were s. N.A. 112 Within the s. dimensions of a point R. 58 There prisoned in a parlour snug and s. R. 493 His utmost he can render is but s. T. 199 The poor are near at hand, the charge is s. T. 287 Come, then—a still, s. whisper in your ear T. 297 Envy, ye great, the dull unlettered s. T. 375 Some s. pre-eminence; we justly boast T. ii 275 S. thanks to those whose negligence or sloth T. ii 800The few s. embers left she nurses well T, iv 383 The still s. voice is wanted. He must speak T. v 685 Can move or warp; and gratitude for s. T. vi 629 The theatre, too ., shall suffocate T. vi 670 Shine with his fair example, and though s. T. vi 961 S. skill in Latin, and still less in Greek Tir. 385 [356 Whose heirs, their honours none, their income s. Tir. Saves the s. inventory, bed, and stool T. iv 401 And s. academies win all the praise? Tir. 504 [515 The great and s. deserve one common blame Tir. Securely placed between the s. and great Tir. 808 Might serve, however s. Trans. i 18 Contemplating with s. delight 1789, 24

SMALLER.

A s. piece amidst the precious store Ch. 476 Afford the s. minstrels no supply T. v 84

SMART.

From stuccoed walls's arguments rebound H. 346
The bow well bent, and s. the spring H.F. 5
Ere long some bowing, smirking, s. Abbé P.E. 385
Strange world, that costs it so much s. St. v 15
To thaw him into feeling; or the s. T. iv 197
Indebted to some s. wig-weaver's hand T. iv 543
His form, and movement; is as s. above T. iv 641
And sighs for the s. comrades he has left T. iv 648

SMARTED.

Think how many backs have s. N.C. 23

SMARTLY.

Wit now and then, struck s., shows a spark T.T. 663

SMARTNESS.

No s. in the jest, and wonders why T. i 469

SMATCH.

We give some Latin, and a s. of Greek P.E. 365

SMELL.

Thenceforth 'tis hateful, for it s. of you Con. 44
The sight's enough—no need to s. a beau Con. 285
Nor grateful eglantine regales the s. H. 471
The wretch may pine, while to his s., taste, sight H.
In colour these, and those delight the s. R. 794
S. fresh, and, rich in odoriferous herbs T. i 531
Some show that nice sagacity of s. T. vi 616

SMELT.

Civited fellows, s. ere they are seen Tir. 830

With s, alluring her admirer, man H. 40

SMILE.

He soothed with gifts, and greeted with a s. Ch. 29
The s. of opulence in sorrow's face Ch. 130
The poor thy clients, and Heaven's s. thy fee! Ch.
A teacher should be sparing of his s. Ch. 490
And force me to a s. Ep. ii 36
Is she not clothed with a perpetual s.? Ex. 4
The treacherous s., a mask for secret hate Ex. 42
They stood the test of her ensuaring s. Ex. 78
By every charm that s. upon her face Ex. 668

Were light, when weighed against one s. of thine H.178And sure it is as kind to s, and give H. 323 And Peace the genuine offspring of her s. H. 482 Scorns with the same indifference frowns and s. H.650 Where Peace, and Equity, and Freedom s. Her. 84 But one, although her s. was sweet J.P. 7 Transforms thy s. to looks of woe M. 47 Wouldst softly speak, and stroke my head and s. Those lips are thine—thy own sweet s. I see M.P. 3 Ah, that maternal s.! it answers—"Yes" M.P. 27 Where spices breathe and brighter seasons s, M.P. 91And teach Philosophy a s. Mrs. M-30 The banquet of thy s, ? O. ii 12 The baby seems to s. with added charms P.E. 519 And add a s. to what was sweet before R. 10Her s. his aim, all higher aims farewell! R. 246 [403 What charms he sees in Freedom's s. expressed R. That shines and rests, as infants s. and sleep R.528Give Truth a lustre, and make Wisdom s. R. 718 Her animating s. withdrawn S. 15 For other's woes, but s. upon her own $T.178 \quad \lceil 407 \rceil$ With youthful s., descends towards the grave T. i Sweets, and bloom less transient thanherown T. i461 Too well acquainted with their s., slides off T. i 511 Cheer all their seasons with a grateful s. T. i 622 Who squander time and treasure with a s. T. ii 641 His eye was meek and gentle, and a s. T. ii 706 When gay Goodnature dresses her in s. T. ii 784 She s., appearing, as in truth she is T. iii 49 As aught occurs that she may s. to hear T. iii 395 She brings her infants forth with many s. T. iii 437 And seem to s. at what they need not fear T, iii 575 Pure is the nymph, though liberal of her s. T. iii 712 Even as he bids! The enraptured owner s. T. iii 780 And jewel'd turban with a s. of peace T. iv 29 Or placemen, all tranquillity and s. T. iv 49 Call comedy, to prompt him with a s.? T. iv 199 I saw far off the weedy fallows s. T. iv 316 And s. delighted with the eternal poise T. iv 486 Provokes me to a s. With eye askance T. v 14 Her veil opaque, discloses with a s. T. v 892 The season s., resigning all its rage T. vi 61 Or promising with s. to call again T. vi 282 At sight of the man-monster. With a s. T. vi 499 For man's revolt, shall with a s. repair T. vi 746 And s. to see, her infant's playful hand T. vi 779 May be followed perhaps by a s." The Rose 20 May teach the gayest, make the gravest s. Tir. 138 Whose trade it is to s., to crouch, to please T. T. 128 He can encourage slavery to a s. T.T. 252 Without the s., the sweetness, or the grace T.T. 615 With droll sobriety they raised a s. T.T. 658 And winter is decked with a s. W.N. Since all thy tears were changed to s. 1789, 57

SMILED.

Or s. when a sabbath appeared A.S.32Delighted with her babe the enchantress s. A.T.9Unveiled her blushing cheek, looked on, and s. Ex.425Frowned oftener than she s. J.P. 8 Not altogether s. on theirs P.T.49And never s. again! and now she roams T.i456Treacherous and false; it s. and it was cold T.v176The rude companion s., as if transformed T.vi543

SMILING

Beneath the s. surface of the deep H. 184
Sighing and s. as he takes his glass H. 419
And s. divinely, she cried M. D. 15
The arts come s. in the close Miss — 81
To crown the s. hours N. 20
Close packed and s., in a chaise and one T. i 80
Of s. Victory that moment won T. ii 213
Of s. day, they gossip'd side by side T. v 60

And s. say-" My Father made them all!" T. v 747 Yet not in vengeance; as this s. sky T. vi 258 If s. peeresses, and simpering peers T.T. 131 Can call her s. down, and fix her here T.T. 413

SMIRKING.

Ere long some bowing, s., smart Abbé P.E. 385

SMIT.

S. with the beauty of so fair a scene T. v 560

[170 "And better spear I s. you where you stand" A.T. To s. the poor is treason against God Ch. 217 [627 And s. the untempered wall 'tis death to spare H. The axe will s. at God's command St. i 15 And soon shall s. us all St. i 16 Displeasure in his breast who s. the earth T. ii 69 Not seldom, his avenging arm, to s. T. vi 464

SMITH.

As s. or joiners perfect a design Con. 790 S., cobbler, joiner, he that plies the shears T. iv 476 And the first s. was the first murderer's son T. v 219

SMITTEN.

S. in vain! such music cannot charm T. v 682

SMOKE.

Important triflers! have more s. than fire Con. 250 It is combining fire with s. F. 119 Which made his horse's flanks to s. J.G. 127In catching s. and feeding upon air R. 38 See where it s. along the sounding plain T. 238 I see a column of slow-rising s. T. i 557 The hills move lightly, and the mountains s. T. ii 91 But frantic who thus spend it all for s.? T. iii 174 To be preferred to s., to the eclipse T. iii 736 Needs he the tragic fur, the s. of lamps T. iv 195

SMOKED.

Rebuilds the towers that s. upon the plain Her. 71

SMOKING.

Groves, heaths, and s. villages, remote T. i 176 The s. manure, and overspreads it all T. iii 517

SMOKY.

Can but arrest the light and s. mist T. v 105

SMOOTH.

Was s. and even as an ivory ball A.T.47And licked his feathers s. B.R. 20 Might s. her feathers, and enjoy her cage Ch. 306 S., ductile, and even his fancy must flow F.M. 18 The sheep here s. the knotted thorn M.B.9So coin grows s., in traffic current passed P.E. 279 Rough elm, or s. grained ash, or glossy beech R. 230 'Tis such an easy walk, so s. and straight R. 489 "How s. these kerchiefs, and how sweet! R.C. 59 As yet black breeches were not, satin s. T. i 10 Now came the cane from India, s. and bright T. i 39 Obdurate and unyielding, glossy s. T. i 52 Alike yet various. Here the grey s. trunks T. i 302 The s. and equal course of his affairs T. ii 173 [ii 226 Should England prosper, when such things, as s.T. If chance at length he find a greensward s. T. iii 7The seed, selected wisely, plump and s. T. iii 511 Must s. be shorn away; the sapless branch T. iii 613 S. as a wall the upright remnant stands $T. \vee 36$ So stood the brittle prodigy; though s. T. v 154 They had indeed ability to s. T. v 692 [8: Nor s. good-breeding (supplemental grace) Ť. vi But s. with wands from Ouse's side T.B. 28 Your s. eulogium, to one crown addressed T.T. 91 If s. Dissimulation, skilled to grace T.T. 129

SMOOTHED.

S. and refined the meanest strains E. iv 74

Till s. and squared and fitted to its place T. vi 95 Notch after notch, till all are s. away Tir. 560

SMOOTHER.

But finding soon a s. road J.G. 81

SMOOTHEST.

That man, when s. he appears F. 23 And meets with hindrance in the s. way P.E. 443 On props of s. shaven wood T.B. 23

SMOOTHLY.

Sees planetary wonders s. roll Ch. 317 While thirteen moons saw s. run St. i 1 May bear us s. to the Gallic shore T. ii 262 So life glides s. and by stealth away T. vi 995

SMOOTHNESS.

Without a creamy s. has no charms T.T. 513

SMOOTH-SHAVEN.

Of the s. prop, and neatly tied T. iii 659

SMOTE.

But wept, and stamped, and s. his thigh in vain \tilde{E}_{x} . Stamped with his foot, and s. upon his thigh Ez. 64 SMOTHER.

With light derived from thee, would s. thine Ex. To s. in ignoble rest Miss - 7

Whatever else they s. of true worth T. iv 746

SMOTHERED.

And thine was s. in the stench and fog Ex. 510 And s. in't at last, is praised to death T. 316

SMUG.

And add Right Reverend to S.'s honoured name II. SMUTCH.

But here and there an ugly s, appears T, iv 608

SMUTCHED

Respectful of the startificer T. ii 491

SNACKS.

Pray tell me why we may not also go s.? P.A. 16 SNAIL.

An inadvertent step may crush the s. T. vi 564

SNAP.

Lest the rude blast should s. the bough Δ Fable 14 And s. the chain the moment when you may Ch. 168 But passion rudely s, the string H.F. 7 Slips the slave's collar on, and s, the lock T.T. 477

SNAPPED.

Your thread of argument is s. again Con. 110 Soon follows, and the curb of conscience s. T.ii 571 I s. it, it fell to the ground The Rose 12

SNAPPING.

The recollected powers, and s. short T. iv 305

SNAPPISH.

And s. dialogue, that flippant wits T. iv 198

SNARE.

S. in his path, and foes that lurk within Con. 470 Whate'er enchants them, are no s. to them R. 180To s. the mole, or with ill-fashioned hook R. 401 The path to bliss abounds with many a s. T. 301 Exposed their inexperience to the s. T. ii 801 [185 The dangers we have 'scaped, the broken s. T. iv The mind that slumbers sweetly in her s. T.T. 433

SNATCHED.

When, s. from all effectual aid Cast. 63 And unregretted are soon s, away R, 167 He s. it rudely from the Muse's hand T.T. 689

SNATCHES

Wide scampering, s, up the drifted snow T.v 49

SNEAKING.

Some s. virtue larks in him, no doubt Tir. 244

SNEER.

[Con. 182

Lest fops should censure us, and fools should s. Tell her again, the s. upon her face Con. 783 And felt the s. with scorn enough P. 18 Will s., and charge you with a bribe T.T. 84 Should move a s. at thy deserved fame Tir. 142

SNEERED.

All mercy from his lips, and s., and hissed H. 561

Conjectured, s. round and round T.B. 40

SNIVELING.

S. and driveling folly without end P.E. 310

SNORE.

Of lazy nurse who s. the sick man dead T. i 97 S. to the murmurs of the Atlantic wave T. iv 27 Who, just when industry begins to s. Tir. 745

SNORED.

Spent half the darkness, and s. out the rest H. 510

SNORING.

Whom s. she disturbs. As sweetly he T. i 90

SNORT.

And s. aloud to cast the mist aside A.T. 164 [vi 332 Whereat his horse did s., as he J.G. 205 Then stops and s., and throwing high his heels T. SNORTING

The s. beast began to trot J.G. 83 S., and starting into sudden rage T. vi 550

SNOUT.

Till quite from tail to s. 'tis eaten L.W. 38 With ivory teeth, or ploughs it with his s. T. v 50 Long backed, long tailed, with whiskered s. T.B. 35 And the mouse with curious s. Trans. iii 12

Except with s. and sleet A Tale 18On icy plains, and in eternal s. H. 464 She towered a cloud-capped pyramid of s. Her. 4 Some Alpine mountain wrapped in s. Miss -And, river-blanched, the swan his s. Mrs. M - 8Could shelter them from rain or s. P.T. 53 [iv 123 Fringed with a beard made white with other s. T. While the winds whistle, and the s, descend T. iii 569 Noiseless, appears a moving hill of s. T. iv 346 [49] Wide scampering, snatches up the drifted s. T. v And s., that often blinds the traveller's course T. v 142And these dissolving s., and this clear stream T.vi 260 While Earth wears a mantle of s. W.N. 13

SNOWY.

His s. mantle o'er his shoulders threw A.T. 202The s. robe her wintry state assumes R. 195Or lay the landscape on the s. sheet R.798Wrought patiently into the s. lawn T. iv 152 Slides ineffectual down the s. vale T. v 7 Indurated and fixed, the s. weight T. v 98 A splintered stump bleached to a s. white Y.O. 128

SNUFF. S. up the morning air, forgets the rein Ch. 175

S. up the praise of what he seems to plan Ex. 317 Dangling his cane about, and taking s. H. 27 He s. far off the anticipated joy P.E. 219

Ranges at liberty, and s. the wind R. 630 S. up the wind and flings himself abroad T.T. 669

SNUG. [A.T. 79] Lay s. and warm ;- 'twas Summer's farewell peep! And waits, in s. concealment laid Ep. ii 39 A s. and friendly game at cards $L.\hat{W}$. 28 The s., close party, or the splendid hall P.E. 176

Kept s. in caskets of close hammered steel R. 308 There prisoned in a parlour s. and small R. 493 Within her master's s. abode R.C. 34 Then s. enclosures in the sheltered vale T. i 513 There blooms exotic beauty, warm and s. T. iii 568

None that, in thy domestic s. recess Tir. 581

SOAK. When Winter s. the fields, and female feet T. 215

On waxen pinions s. without a fall A.T. 54 Around their flight who highest s.) Mrs. M-To s., and to anticipate the skies T. v 723 Γ548 The man that means success, should s. above T.T.

SOARING.

And s. on her own unborrowed wings T. 488

Again, when evening in her s. vest Ch. 262 And e'en when s. truth prevails throughout Con. 65 To bring the passions under s. sway Con. 831 Live to no s. purpose, and contend H. 129 What health and s. appetite demand H. 158 Is s., meek, benevolent, and prays H.520The s. cordial of sweet air Mor. 10 Observe each face, how s. and demure? P.E. 134 Then to the dance, and make the s. moon P.E. 173 If Tom be s., and the wheels well greased P.E. 439 Your s. thoughts will hardly find it one P.E. 489 But modest, s., cured of all R.C. 103 These are the s., in whose cooler brains T. 38 I say the pulpit (in the s. use T. ii 332 The rest are s. dreamers, grave and wise T. iii 137 Cultured and capable of s, thought T, iii 324 And s. judgment that he is but man T. v 265 Tis therefore s. and good men are sad T. v 509 (Himself grown s. in the vale of tears) T. vi 48 Finds in a s. moment time to pause Tir. 56 That mingles all my brown with s. gray Tir. 144 Or if, by nature s., ye had then Tir. 271 Not very s. though, nor very chaste Tir. 750 Extravagant or s., loose or chaste Tir. 914 Quevedo, as he tells his s. tale T.T. 93 Their s. zeal, integrity, and worth T.T. 377

SOBEREST.

And thou at best, and in thy s. mood Tir. 753

SOBERLY.

But that disease, when s. defined Con. 667 Soberness.

Whom Truth and S. assailed in vain T. ii 480

SOBRIETY.

S. perhaps may now be found Con. 807 With droll s. they raised a smile T.T.658

That feeds upon the s. and dying shricks T. iii 328

SOCIAL.

God, working ever on a s. plan Ch. 15 The s. walk, or solitary ride Con. 733 To close in sable every s. scene Con. 872 Whence s. pleasures spring Miss — 30 To s. scenes by nature disinclined R.606Sure there is need of s. intercourse T. ii 48 A s., not a dissipated life T. iii 376 They form one s. shade, as if convened T. iii 586 With s. converse and instructive case T. iv 135 And s., nip his fruitfulness and use T. v 439And plausible than s. life requires T. v 466

SOCIETY.

S., Friendship, and Love A.S. 17 Unfriendly to s.'s chief joys Con. 252 There, in the sweet s of those Con. 423
If dear s. be worth a thought Ex. 670
S. for me! Thou seeming sweet T. i 249
Self-banished from s., prefer T. i 578
That gives s. its beauty, strength T. ii 681
S., and that saps and worms the base T. ii 816
All hate the rank s. of weeds T. iii 670
S., grown weary of the load T. iv 498
Man in s. is like a flower T. iv 659

SOCK.

To live by buskin, s., and raree-show V. 34 SODOM.

His crimes were such as S. never knew H. 562 Than S, in her day had power to be T. iii 847

I sing the S. I who lately sang T. i 1
And Luxury the accomplished S. last T. i 88
Compared with the repose the S. yields T. i 102
Of libertine excess. The S. suits T. i 106
Though on a S., may I never feel T. i 108
No S. then awaited my return T. i 126
Nor S. then I needed. Youth repairs T. i 127
To adorn the S. with eulogium due T. iii 12
And sheltered S., while the nitrous air T. iii 32
Let fall the curtains, wheel the s. round T. iv 37
S., and couch, and high built throne august T. v 164
To dress a S. with the flowers of verse T. vi 1007

SOFT.

And laid her s, in amaranthine flowers A.T. 8 Nor s. enough to suit a lover's tongue A.T. 20 Formed with materials neat and s. A Tale 39 S. airs and gentle heavings of the wave Ch. 127 The noon was shady, and s. airs D. W. 1 Yet He was gentle as s. summer airs Ex. 133 These carpets, so s. to the foot Gr. 17 S. airs and genial moisture feed and cheer H. 489 They gentle called, and kind and s. J.P. 21 The s. relations, which, combined Miss - 79 [N.A.37 Sheep grazed the field; some with s. bosom pressed The herb as s., while nibbling strayed the rest N.A. 38 And lenient as s. opiates to the mind P.E. 80 Caught in a delicate, s., silken net P.E. 313 Lay bleeding under that s. hand of thine P.E. 338 The mind, impressible and s., with ease P.E. 355 S. airs, nocturnal vigils, and day dreams R. 260 Nor s. declivities with tufted hills R. 333 Her voice is terrible though s. St. v 23 Or velvet s., or plush with shaggy pile T. i 2 The s. Settee; one elbow at each end T. i 75 By s. recumbency of outstretched limbs T. i 82 Our foot half sunk in hillocks green and s. T. i 272 The nose of nice nobility. Breathe s. T. ii 259 In language s. as Adoration breathes! T. ii 495 Or when rough winter rages, on the s. T. iii 31 [417 Dooms to the knife; nor does he spare the s. T. iii S. fomentation, and invite the seed T. iii 510 In the s. medium, till they stand immersed T. iii 520 Now murmuring s., now roaring in cascades T. iii779 Here rills of oily eloquence s. T. iv 64 Falls a s. murmur, on the uninjured ear T. iv 93 Thine unadulterate manners are less s. T. v 465 Deep in his s. credulity the stamp T. v 497 How s. the music of those village bells T. vi 6 And settle in s. musings as I tread T. vi 69 Stillness, accompanied with sounds so s. T. vi 83 S. as the passing wind The Doves 38 With a song more s. and sweet Trans. iii 6 If human woes her s. attention claim T.T. 484 He laid his head in Luxury's s. lap T.T. 678 The s. receptacle, in which, secure Y.O. 27

SOFTENED.

"And fashioning my s. heart Miss — 91 But s. into mercy; made the pledge T. i 365

SOFTENS.

And s. human rock-work into men Ch. 96

SOFTER.

And she regardless of her s. kind A.T. 177
By s. methods, must be made ashamed Ch. 498
And teach the s. not to copy theirs Con. 844
Or whether clearer skies and s. air P.E. 409
Of distant floods, or on the s. voice T. 191
'Gan murmur, as became the s. sex T. i 71
Our s. satellite. Your songs confound T. i 766
Ye clarionets, and s. still, ye flutes T. ii 260
That s. friend, perhaps more gladly still T. vi 44
Born in a climate s. far than ours T.T. 234
And arts revived beneath a s. day T.T. 621

SOFTEST.

And show the s. minds and fairest forms Con. 259 With linen of the s. kind R.C. 36

SOFTLY. [Con. 381
"Yes, ma'am," and "No, ma'am," uttered s., show
Some whispered s., and some twanged aloud Ch. 518
We next inquire, but s. and by stealth Con. 389
So, "Fair and s.," John, he cried J.G. 85 [M.P. 79
Wouldst s. speak, and stroke my head and smile)
The moonbeam, sliding s. in between T. i 762
That s. swelled and gaily dressed appears T. iii 629
S. alighting upon all below T. iv 328

SOTT

We wander o'er a sunburnt thirsty s. Ch. 220 On culture, and the sowing of the s. Con. 6 [Con. 432 Should range where Providence has blessed the s. Its happiest s. in the serenest minds? Con. 594 The flinty s. indeed their feet annoys E. ii 31 "Bespeak at least a stubborn s. E. iv 82 Lords of the conquered s., there rooted fast Ex. 192As richest s. the most luxuriant weeds Ex. 214 Serves merely as a s. for discontent H. 97 Proclaims the s. a conquest he has won H.479Still happier, if he till a thankful s. H. 760 Without a s. to invite the tiller's care Her. 27 Sweat of ours must dress the s. N.C. 20 To meliorate and tame the stubborn s. R. 786 No s. like poverty for growth divine T. 363 Raised by the mole, the miner of the s. T. i 273 Here virtue thrives as in her proper s. T. i 600 And genial s. of cultivated life T. i 679 [s. T. iii 646 Of close-rammed stones has charged the encumbered She ploughs a brazen field, and clothes as. T. i 709 Migrates uplifted; and, with all its s. T. ii 108 And fruitfuls., that has been treasured long T iii 514 The s. must be renewed, which often washed T. iii609 Some clothe the s.that feeds them, fardiffused T.iii682 The worse for what it s. The fashion runs T. iv 555 The loaded s., and ye may waste much good T. v 756 Were sown in human nature's fruitful s. T. vi 383 Must find a colder s. and bleaker air Tir. 851 Beneath thy parent tree mellowed the s. Y.O. 24 Upheaved above the s., and sides embossed Y.O.65 The stubborn s., and hold thee still erect Y.O. 119

SOILED.

Jerusalem a proy, her glory s. Ex. 61 Neatly secured from being s. or torn Tir. 119

SOJOURN.

We must not now be parted, s. here "Com. 530 Content indeed to s. while he must T. vi 913

SOL.

"Till S., declining in the west R.C. 62

SOLACE.

Had been their mutual s. long F.B.5Reserved to s. many a neighbouring squire N.A. 5 Sometimes her ease and s. sought R.C. 15

SOLACED.

The same that oft in childhood s. me M.P. 4

SOLAR.

Transmitting cloudless, and the s. beam Y.O. 75

Love is not pedler's trumpery bought and s. H. 330 Men from England bought and s. me N.C. 5 Minds are never to be s. N.C. 8 Cheap though blood-bought, and thrown away when And pardons are not s. as once they were T. 290 That sinews bought and s. have ever earned T. ii 32 Was marked and shunned as odious. He that s. T.iii88 That authors are most useful pawned or s. Tir. 211 What sums he lost at play, and how he s. Tir. 330 Writes on his bosom, "To be let or s." T.T. 417

SOLDIER.

Heedless of a s.'s name B. 22 As s. watch the signal of command Ex. 119 And grace thy figure with a s.'s pride Ex. 487 As. may be anything, if brave H. 209 A s.'s best is courage in the field H. 405 The s. thus endowed, who never shrinks H. 409 They made us many s. Chatham, still T. ii 245 A s.'s feather, or a lady's glove T.T. 549

SOLDIERSHIP.

How, in the name of s. and sense T. ii 225 Tis universal s. has stabbed T. iv 617

SOLDIERY.

Thy s., the Pope's well managed pack Ex. 518

His s. opinion, whatsoe'er befall Con. 133 F336 With s.—that's just the sort he would not wish Uon. For thou art born s. heir, and single E. iv 3 Himself s. author of his own disgrace? H. 317 Unmasked, vouchsafing this their s. excuse T. ii 695 Are his s. aim, and all his glory now T. iv 658 Survivor s., and hardly such, of all Y.O. 1

SOLEMN.

[29 So his lordship decreed, with a grave s. tone A.C. The s. trifler, with his boasted skill Ch. 355 Toils much, and is a s. trifler still Ch. 356 The pipe, with s. interposing puff Con. 245The s. fop, significant and budge Con. 299 It happened on a s. eventide Con. 505 Still murmuring with the s. truths I teach Ex. 719 He treads as if, some s. music near T. 62 The s. chords, and with a trembling hand T. i 3 Suffer a syncope and s. pause T. ii 80 With s. awe, that bids me well beware T. ii 327 And plain in manner; decent, s., chaste T. ii 401 Of s. farce, where Ignorance in stilts T. ii 736 Exhausted, he resorts to s. themes T. v 661And s. ceremonial of the day T. vi 680

SOLEMNITY.

"In what, with such s. of tone T. v 648

SOLICIT.

The world around s, his desire P.E. 39 S. kind attention to his dream P.E. 523 S. pleasure, hopeless of success T. ii 635

SOLICITATION.

By slow s., seize at once T. vi 117

SOLICITING.

With gentle force s. the darts T. iii 115

SOLICITOUS.

For plunder; much s. how best T. iv 433

SOLID.

Compress the sum into its s. worth Con. 20 Where sharp and s., phlegmatic and light Ex. 296 That shook the circling seas and s. earth Her. 14 And drilled in holes, the s. oak is found T. i 26 What s. was, by transformation strange T. ii 99 The s. earth, and from the strata there T. iii 151 His broad keen knife into the s. mass T. v 35 Excused the incumbrance of more s. worth Tir. 347 Though s., not too weighty for his years Tir. 651 Thou hadst within thy bole s. contents Y.O. 94

SOLITARY.

The social walk, or s. ride Con. 733 A s. thing—" Miss — 32 Umbrageous walks and s. seats R. 258 That screen the herdsman's s. hut T. i 168 The s. Shilling. Pardon then T. iii 456 From morn to eve his s. task $T. \vee 44$ That makes so gay the s. place T. vi 187 When, Isaaclike, the s. saint T. vi 948 Doom him not then to s. meals Tir. 719

SOLITUDE.

O S.! where are the charms A.S. 5 As in some s. the summer rill J.T. 38 The man to s. accustomed long N.A. 55 For s., however some may rave R. 735 "How sweet, how passing sweet is s.! R. 740 Whom I may whisper—s. is sweet" R. 742 Bury herself in s. profound T. 443 If S, make scant the means of life T, i 248 The slavish dread of s., that breeds T. i 488 For a lost world in s. and verse T. iv 730 To barrenness, and s., and tears T. v 441 Pleased with his s., and flitting light T. vi 79

SOLOMON.

That S. has wisely spoken E. i 105

SOLUTION.

Knots of worthy s., which alone T. ii 520

SOLVE.

A Deity could s. Their answers, vague T. ii 521

SOLVED.

Not to be s., and useless if it might F.A. 34

SOLYMA.

Glorious as S.'s interior shrine T. 388

SOMEBODY.

S. proved it centuries ago P.E. 501

Dame Gurton thus, and Hodge her s. E. iv 39 People and priest, the s. of Israel were Ex. 124Her s. to pour it on the farthest north H. 460 Famine, and Pestilence, her firstborn s. Her. 59 Hovered thy spirit o'er thy sorrowing s. M.P. 23 The s. of parents passed into the skies M.P. 111 Afric's s. should undergo N.C. 37 Then pour it on the morals of thy s. P.E. 345 [596] So once were ranged the s. of ancient Rome T. iii The s. of Albion; fearing each to lose T. iii 599 Who had survived the father, served the s. T. iii 748 And the first smith was the first murderer's s. T. v 219Because delivered down from sire to s. T. v 303 [517 And he wed them link from link. Then Albion's s. T. v Were s. indeed; they felt a filial heart T. v 518 Sent forth a voice, and all the s. of God $T. v 821 \lceil 29 \rceil$ Some friend is gone, perhaps his s.'s best friend! T. vi Ye, therefore, who love mercy, teach your s. T. vi 588 Would you your s. should be a sot or dunce Tir. 201 Made just the adept that you designed your s. Tir.237 To send our s. to scout and scamper there Tir. 294 Resolves that where he played his s. shall play Tir.335 His intercourse with peers and s. of peers Tir. 393 In barbarous prostitution of your s. Tir 405 Than set your s. to work at a vile trade Tir. 456 Your s. come forth a prodigy of skill Tir. 525 A father blest with an ingenuous s. Tir. 543 Thou well deservest an alienated s. Tir. 579 And is he well content his s. should find Tir. 617 To form thy s., to strike his genius forth Tir. 679 And all the instructions of thy s.'s best friend Tir.717 Through reverence of the censor of thy s. Tir. 734 Hear Nature plead, show mercy to thy s. Tir. 756 Who, if their s. some slight tuition share Tir. 783 To lead his s., for prospects of delight Tir. 630 [811 Who, wise yourselves, desire your s. should learn Tir. And Freedom claims him for her firstborn s. T.T.281

SONG.

The linnet twittered out his parting s. A.T. 76 [198 Love graced the theme, and harmony the s. A.T. And cheered her with a s. A Tale 56 The s. of Sion is a tasteless thing Con. 715 Like useless lumber, or a stroller's s. Con. 820 Till tuned at length to some immortal s. Con. 907 We therefore pleased extol thy s. Dr. 9 I know the warning s. is sung in vain Ex. 724Two goldfinches, whose sprightly s. F.B. 4 To him that blends no fable with his s.) H. 755 [19 But oh! what Muse, and in what powers of s. Her. The middle of my s. J.G. 156 To poets of renown in s. J.P. 17 Who bidst me honour with an artless s. M.P. 13 Had cheered the village with his s. N.G. 2 As much as I to spoil your s. N.G. 18 May find a Muse to grace it with a s. P.E. 2 The fall of waters, and the s. of birds R. 183 Could argue once, could jest, or join the s. R. 200 And cultivate a taste for ancient s. R. 375 Are musical enough in Thomson's s. R. 570And lulled by her own humdrum s. R.C. 46 Yearly in my s. proclaim St. iv 10 Would give a barbarous air to British s. T. 102 The s. magnificent, the theme a worm T. 412 Weeps tears of joy, and bursts into a s. T. 458 The occasion—for the Fair commands the s. T. i 7 Is famished—finds no music in the s. T. i 468 Or seldom such, the hearers of his s. T. ii 305 But is amusement all? Studious of s. T. ii 311 [314 Could pageantry and dance, and feast and s. T. iii And at this moment unassayed in s. T. iii 451 Sarcastic, would exclaim, and judge the s. T. iii 563 The hills and valleys with their ceaseless s. T. v 78 An Orpheus, and omnipotent in s. T. v 694 No bard embalms and sanctifies his s. T. v 728 In feast or in the chase, in s. or dance $T. imes 758 ext{ } \lceil 887 ight]$ Till thou hast touched them, 'tis the voice of s. T. v One s. employs all nations; and all cry T. vi 791 Patiently present at a sacred s. T. vi 634 Of Avon, famed in s. Ah pleasant proof T. vi 682 Renowned in ancients.; not vexed with care T. vi 997 Say, Muse, for education made the s. Tir. 290 With a s. more soft and sweet Trans. iii 6 Theirs is but a summer's s. Trans. iii 21 Heroic s. from thy free touch acquires T.T. 292 All that should be the boast of British s. T.T. 369 To the lascivious pipe and wanton s. T.T. 462 I play with syllables, and sport in s. T T. 505To him who strains his all into a s. T.T. 533 The s. was moral, and so far was right T.T. 599 And claim the palm for purity of s. T.T. 636

The burden of my s. Y.D. 4 I ransacked, for a theme of s. 1789, 1

SONGSTER.

The s. heard his short oration N.G. 23 He from Italian s. takes his cue P.E. 112 Himself a s., is as gay as he T. i 498

SONOROUS.

Clear and s., as the gale comes on! T. vi 10

SOOTHE.

And s. the sorrows of so sad a state Ch. 199

And every moment's calm, that s. the breat E. ii Thyself removed, thy power to s. me left M.P. 121 Sweet Harmony that s. the midnight hour P.E. 66 S. thee to make thee but a surer prey R. 263 Might s. a soul less hurt than mine S. 7 To s. and satisfy the human ear T. 199 From thee is all that s. the life of man T. v 900 Tos. their honest pride, that scorns to beg T. iv 405 That s. the rich possessor; much consoled T. iv 755

SOOTHED.

He s. with gifts, and greeted with a smile Ch. 29 Thus s. and reconciled, each seeks L.R. 25 My relish of fair prospect; scenes that s. T. i 141 S. with a waking dream of houses, towers T. iv 287 And s. into a dream that he discerns T. vi 284 And s. the listening dove The Doves 8

Till others have the s. tale believed P.E. 493
Still s., and of power to charm me still T. i I43
The s. influence of the wafted strains T. vi 68
In s. sorrow, and in quenching strife T. vi 963
SOOTY.

The s. films that play upon the bars T. iv 292 SOPH.

Oh! thwart me not, Sir S., at every turn Con. 91 SOPHISTRY.

With s. their sauce they sweeten L.W. 37 So s. cleaves close to and protects P.E. 287

SOPORIFIC.

Falls s. on the listless ear P.E. 20

SORCERESS.

"And guard behind the s. at thy back!" A.T. 190

SORCERIES.

But Rome, with s. and magic wand Ez. 508 SORDID.

As He ordains things s. in their birth Ch. 561
Its s. nourishment from man's applause Con. 672
That stands on s. interest F. 38
The s. never know Miss — 54
Slaves of gold, whose s. dealings N.C. 53
His unexhausted mine, the s. vice P.E. 51
S. as active, ignorant as loud R. 22
What, but a s. bargain for the skies? T. 76
Of critic appetite, no s. fare T. iii 461
S. and sickening at his own success T. iii 810
In those that suffer it, a s. mind T. v 453
And s. gravitation of his powers T. v 588
To such base hopes, in many a s. soul Tir. 460

Heroic s. from thy free touch acquires T.T. 292
All that should be the boast of British s. T.T. 369
To the lascivious pipe and wanton s. T.T. 462
I play with syllables, and sport in s. T.T. 505
To him who strains his all into a s. T.T. 533
The s. was moral, and so far was right T.T. 599
And claim the palm for purity of s. T.T. 636
Inspires the s., and that his name is Love T.T. 739

Although it grieved him s. J.G. 54
And s. against his will J.G. 158
And s. tormented long before his time T. 84
May still be seen; but perforated s. T. i 25
And vex their flesh with artificial s. T. i 582
And s. discomfited, from slough to slough T. iii 5
The wain goes heavily, impeded s. T. iv 343
Which filthily bewray and s. disgrace Tir. 593

SOREST.

That s. ill of human life M.F. 32

SORROW.

My s. I then might assuage A.S. 21 The smile of opulence in s.'s face Ch. 130 All other s. virtue may endure Ch. 157And soothe the s. of so sad a state Ch, 199 The scene of all those s. left behind Con. 508 That comes to waft us out of s.'s power Con. 592 The s. Sympathy esteems its own Con. 696 The path of s., and that path alone E. ii 9 Leads to the land where s, is unknown E, ii 10 Thy tender s. and thy plaintive strain E. ii 45 From east to west, no s. can be found Ex. 28 Till, all my stock of infant s. spent M.P. 43 Remorse, and S., and vindictive Pain P.E. 44 From scenes of s, into glorious day R, 168 His only bliss is s. for her sake R. 244 Or charm the s. of a drooping friend R. 292 Of s., s. is a sacred thing R. 316 Hear him, o'erwhelmed with s., yet rejoice R. 772 And those of s. yet to come S. 24 S. might muse herself to madness then T. 441 Of hours that s. since has much endeared T. i 117 Thy joys and s., with as true a heart T. ii 220 Without some thistly s. at its side T. iv 335 And make the s. of mankind their sport T. v. 186 S. has, since they went, subdued and tamed T. vi 46 Six thousand years of s. have well nigh T. vi 734 In soothing s., and in quenching strife T. vi 963 Already to s. res gned The Rose 16 And wet his cheeks with s. not his own V. 66 And the winter of s. best shows W.N. 23 In sooth the s. of such days Y.D. 17 For that dear s.'s sake forego 1789, 52

SORROWFUL.

From Africa's s. shore M.D. 32 Oh s. and sad! the streaming tears T. 173

SORROWING.

Hovered thy spirit o'er thy s. son M.P. 23

SORT.

Nor was he of the thievish s. Beau 13 [336]
With sole—that's just the s. he would not wish Con.
Thus hopes of every s., whatever sect H. 294
His horse, who never in that s. J.G. 53
The text that s. not with his darling whim P.E. 446
Should turn to writers of an abler s. R. 716
Apparelled in exactest s. R. C. 19
To deal and shuffle, to divide and s. T. i 474
Or growl'd defiance in such angry s. T. vi 377 [114]
What friends we s. with, or what books we read Tir.
When health demands it, of athletic s. Tir. 653
And faithful in its s. U. 10

SORTED.

And s. hues (each giving each relief T. iii 634

SORTING.

S. and puzzling with a deal of glee Con. 13 In s. flowers to suit a fickle taste H. 767

RОT

Between the s. and sensualist F. 41 Would you your son should be a s. or dunce Tir. 201

The effect of laziness or s, waste T, iv 431

SOUGHT.

Many he s., but one above the rest A.T. 3 Long-time a breeding-place they s. A Tale 21 S., with an indignant mien B. 3 And in his country's glory s. his own Ch. 26 He s. the jewel in his neighbour's shame Ch. 540

Thus have I s. to grace a serious lay Ch. 628 S. their own village, busied as they went Con. 509 With cane extended far I s. D. W. 17Had s. to crush them, guarded as they were Ex.205Return ashamed, without the wreaths they s. Ex. 293 Not quickly found, if negligently s. Ex. 695 We s. without attaining F. 36 Yet seldom s. where only to be found H.112 But guests that s. it in the appointed One H. 307 By contemplation's help, not s. in vain M.P. 114 Or s. with energy, must fill the void R.748Sometimes her ease and solace s. R.C. 15 And s. it in the likeliest mode R.C. 33 And take unenvied the reward they s. T. 528S. in still water, and beneath clear skies T. iii 382 With schemes of monumental fame; and s. T. v 182 And forced to abandon what she bravely s. T. v 368His horrible intent, again he s. T. vi 525 Deep in the flood found, when he s. it not T. vi 555 Harmony, strength, words exquisitely s. T.T. 701 I s. an eligible theme 1789, 8

[Con. 707 The Christian, in whose s., though now distressed But not the mitred few, the s. their charge A.T. 129 Nor felt but in the s. that Heaven selects Ch. 8 In baser s. unnumbered evils meet Ch. 37 While Providence enjoins to every s. Ch. 121 [Ch. 264My s. should yield thee willing thanks and praise That s. have no discriminating hue Ch. 202 With rich instruction, and a s. enlarged Ch. 322 [395] The s., whose sight all-quickening grace renews Ch. But still a s. thus touched can never cease Ch. 420 And though the s. shall seek superior orbs Ch. 563 Like him, the s. thus kindled from above Ch. 595 Given him a s., and bade him understand Con. 430 The time is short, and there are s. on earth Con. 493 When s.drawn upwards in communion sweet Con. 569 Who makes no bustle with his s.'s affairs Con. 580 But s. that carry on a blest exchange Con. 693 The s. can mix with the celestial bands Con. 717 The s.'s sure interest in the good she seeks Con. 728 Nor shall be found in unregenerate s. Con. 755 And while it shows the land the s. desires Con. 885 And spreads, at length, before the s. E. i 63In pity to the s. his Grace designed E. ii 23 Then God's own image on the s. impressed Ex. 109Hast thou (a sacrilege his s. abhors) Ex.346And if some Spartan s. a doubt expressed Ex.542Thy s. as ample as thy bounds are small Ex.696 [374 And having trucked thy s., brought home the fee Ex. My s. shall sigh in secret, and lament Ex. 722 But every virtue of the s. F. 58 Some fickle creatures boast a s. F. 109 O Friendship! if my s. forego F. 211 And crowns the s., while yet a mourner here H. 165 Kind s.! to teach their tenantry to prize H. 252 Nor animate the s. to Christian deeds H. 300 His s. abhors a mercenary thought H. 332 Invades, possesses, and o'erwhelms the s. H. 730 Six precious s., and all agog J.G. 39 Now mistress Gilpin (careful s.!) J.G. 65 And every s. cried out, "Well done!" J.G. 111 Perhaps a tear, if s. can weep in bliss M.P. 26 But ah! those dreadful yells what s. can hear N.A. Consumes his s. with vain desires P.B. 16 [P.E. 74Detach the s. from earth, and speed her to the skies And kindles in his s. a treacherous fire P.E. 40 But as a scale, by which the s. ascends R.3 [P.E.165 When the glad s. is made Heaven's welcome guest S. that have long despised their heavenly birth R.35A s. serene, and equally retired R. 143 'Tis consecration of his heart, s., time R. 223

Forbids the advancement of the s. he binds R. 236 But with a s. that ever felt the sting R. 315 All such as manly and great s. produce R. 699 His s. exults, Hope animates his lays R. 777 Might soothe a s. less hurt than mine S. 7 Then breathed his s. into his rest St. iii 15 A s. redeemed demands a life of praise T.279How perfect the composure of his s.! T. 418 The s. reposing on assured relief T. 455 "And is the s. indeed so lost"-she cries T. 479 And withered muscle, and the vapid s. T. i 393 My s. is sick, with every day's report T. ii 6 And serves the altar, in my s. I loathe T. ii 416 To court a grin, when you should woo a s. T. ii 467 Bone of my bone, and kindred s. to mine T. iii 220 A corresponding tone in jovial s. T. iii 333 Fearless, a s. that does not always think T. iv 285 Becomes the s. that animates them all T. v 275He seeks, and acquiescence of his s. T. v 597And chills and darkens a wide-wandering $s.\ T.\ imes 684$ The s. that sees him, or receives sublimed T. v 805 The uninformed and heedless s. of men T. v 864 Breaks on the s., and by a flash from Heaven T. v 884 There is in s. a sympathy with sounds T. vi 1 A s. in all things, and that s. is God T. vi 185 His s. refreshed with foretaste of the joy? T. vi 762 But borrows all its grandeur from the s. Tir. 10 And guides the Progress of a s. to God Tir. 146 The gem of truth from his unguarded s. Tir. 152 To such base hopes, in many a sordid s. Tir. 460 And that, possessor of a s. refined Tir. 721 He bears it with meek manliness of s. T.T. 225 The s., emancipated, unoppressed T.T. 272 And darts his s. into the dawning plan T.T. 499 A s. exalted above Earth, a mind T.T. 704 A s., an image of Himself, and therefore true V. 98 SOUL-QUICKENING.

Stand the s. words-Believe and Live T. 31

SOUL-REVIVING. O balmy gales of s. air! E. ii 27

I start at the s. of my own A.S. 12 But the s. of the church-going bell A.S. 29 Never sighed at the ϵ . of a knell A.S. 31 S. not arms shall win the prize B. 23 Could catch the s. no more Cast. 46 Fast as the thirsting ear can drink the s. Ch. 112 The fruits of age, less fair, are yet more s. Con. 647 The pomp of s., or tinkle without use Con. 892 In gentle s. it seems as it complained Con. 905 [908] It s. Jehovah's name, and pours his praise along Con. And s. prophetic are too rough to suit Ex. 67 The s. of truth will then be sure to please Ex. 731 A real and a s. one F. 15 [sprightly s. H. 45 Banks clothed with flowers, groves filled with But they that wore them, move not at the s. H. 267 To s. his horn, and publish it abroad H. 311 Die of disdain, or whistle off the s. H. 348 Live from his lips, and spread the glorious s. H. 454 That s. bespeaks Salvation on her way H. 455 No groves have ye; nor cheerful s. of bird H. 469 S. forth the signal, as she mounts her car H. 647 Starts at her first approach, and s. to arms! H. 656 And laughter s. like madness in his ear H. 703 The s. of pardon pierce his startled ear H. 724 No thunders shook with deep intestine s. Her. 5 Brings to the distant ear a sullen s. Her 36 The trumpet s., your legions swarm abroad Her. 53 And keep it safe and s. J.G. 68 Adieus and farewells are a s. unknown M.P. 33 S. such as these, so worthy to be feared N.A. 84 [117 And rush those other s., that seem by tongues N.A. Derived from the same s. of light and grace T. 533

Her timbers yet are s. R.G. 29 [Grace?" P.E. 105 Charmed by the s., "Your Reverence," or "Your And the whispering s. of the cool colonnade P.F. 2 S. harshly in so delicate an ear R. 250 All bliss beside a shadow or a s. R. 354 The s. shall run along the winding vales R. 363 How regular his meals, how s. he sleeps! R. 430 The trumpet—will it s.? the curtain rise? R. 655 The friend of Truth, the associate of s. Sense R. 696 Ring with ecstatic s. unheard before R. 780 None, accustomed to the s. St. iv 7 Seems to s. too much in vain St. iv 19 Nature inanimate employs sweet s. T. 197 S. inharmonious in themselves and harsh T. 207 S. for the poor, but s. alike for all T. 350 Tall spire, from which the s. of cheerful bells T. i Nor rural sights alone, but rural s. T. i 181 From such unpleasing s. as haunt the ear T. i 229 That winds and waters, lulled by magic s. T. ii251 Most part an empty ineffectual s. T. iii 22 And s. integrity, not more than famed T. iii 259 That at the s. of Winter's hoary wing T. iii 830 At a safe distance, where the dying s. T. iv 92 The tumult and am still. The s. of war T. iv 100 And sigh, but never tremble at the s. T. iv 106 [148 Cough their own knell, while, heedless of the s. T. iv The sprightly lyre, whose treasure of sweets. T. iv 160 Of fancy, or proscribes the s. of mirth T. iv 176 Unsoiled and swift, and of a silken s. T. iv 212 Dire is the frequent curse, and its twin s. T. iv 487 To horrid s. of hostile feet within T. iv 571 No s. of hammer or of saw was there T. v 145 Thus by degrees self-cheated of their s. T. v 264 And ever as the sullen s. is heard T. v 405"We find s. argument, we read the heart" T. v 654 There is in souls a sympathy with s. T. vi 1 Stillness, accompanied with s. so soft T. vi 83 By one of s. intelligence rehearsed T. vi 480 That is not s. and perfect, hath in theirs T. vi 708 Well taught, he all the s. expressed T.B. 11 And s. religion sparingly enough Tir. 198 Though fair in promise, permanent and s. Tir. 437 Just catches at the s. Trans. iv 21 If sentiment were sacrificed to s. T.T. 516 Exact and regular the s. will be T.T. 530 S. sense, intrepid spirit, manly grace V. 12 May kill a s. divine Y.D. 64 Yet is thy root sincere, s. as the rock Y.O. 116 SOUNDER. Not s. he that on the mainmast head R. 431 SOUNDING. Leuconomus (beneath well s. Greek H. 554 See where it smokes along the s. plain T. 238 To them, the s. jargon of the schools T. 367 Since pulpits fail, and s. boards reflect T. iii 21 Of s, an alarm assaults these doors T, iv 146 With ε , whip, and rowels dyed in blood T, vi 527 And all supplied from an eternal s. Ch. 370

And fear, not courage, is its proper s. Con. 180

And finds a changing clime a happy s. Con. 387 Thy tears all issue from a s. divine E. ii 47

For when it streams from that pure s. Miss - 57

"These are thy glorious works, thou S. of good R. 87 Is thine;—best gift, the unfailing s. of joy S. ii 12

Traced easily to its true s, above J.T. 45

For other s. than God is none St. vi 3

Himself so much the s. of his delight T. 413

S. are but s., and till the cause appear N.A. 119

Such cause of terror in an empty s. N.A. 130 [P.E.79

And earthly s., though sweet and well combined

The s. of the disease that Nature feels T. ii 194 All truth is from the sempiternal s. T. ii 499 Thou art the s. and centre of all minds T. v 896 That s. of evils not exhausted yet T. vi 369

SOUTHERN.

On s. banks the ruminating sheep A. T. 78
His freeborn brethren of the s. pole Ch. 34
The s. sash admits too strong a light Con. 331
Like bottled wasps upon a s. wall R. 494
U pon the s. side of the slant hills T. vi 59

SOVEREIGN.

His s. power and pleasure unrestrained H. 320
"Oh! if my s. author please Miss — 25
Had known their s. come Q.V. 44
To serve the S. we were born to obey R. 50
Their s. nostrum is a clumsy joke R. 313
When the great S. would his will express T. 551
S., and most effectual, to secure T. ii 590
With music such as suits their s. ears T. v 387
To earth's acknowledged S., finds at once T. v 803
To see their s., and confess his sway T. vi 356
Who in his s. wisdom made them all T. vi 587
Her s.'s tutelary care 1789, 39

SOVEREIGNTY.
Or if the will and s. of God Ch. 165
The s. they were convened to please Ex. 539

SOW

Esteem them, s. them, rear them, and protect H.295 Spontaneous, take but little pains to s. P.E. 364

SOWED.

[T. v 202

Peace was awhile their care; they ploughed and s. He s. the seeds of order where he went Ex. 488

SOWING.
On culture, and the s. of the soil Con. 6 sown.

And thou thyself o'er every country s. Ex. 265 Like thistle-seeds, are s. by every wind P.E. 555 The seed s. there, how vigorous is the plant! T. 362 Are s. the sparks that kindle fiery war T. v 206 Were s. in human nature's fruitful soil T. vi 383 And, like a scattered seed at random s. T.T. 674

SPACE.

That in the heaven of heavens, that s. He deems Ch. Whether the s. between the stars and us Ch. 352 Flew open in short s. J.G. 242
Fast anchored in the deep abyss of s. R. 84
A panting syllable through time and s. R. 692
Deception innocent—give ample s. T. i 353
And transplantation in an ampler s. T. iii 533
That finding an interminable s. T. v 556

SPACIOUS.

Hers is the s. arch, the shapely spire ('h. 105 Even till his s. hall would hold no more H. 309 Of s. meads with cattle sprinkled o'er T. i 164 O'er these, but far beyond, a s. map T. i 321 That skims the s. meadow at full speed T. vi 331 Or take their pastime in the s. field T. vi 576 And in her streets, and in her s. courts T. vi 809

SPADE

[T. iii 636

Is needful. Strength may wield the ponderous s. And s., the emblem of untimely graves T. iv 219

PAIN. [Ea. 568

His power secured thee, when presumptuous S.—

SPAKE

Else I would say, and as I s., bid fly Ch. 268 They s. of him they loved, of him whose life Con. 511 Well s. the prophet,—"Let the desert sing H. 524 For while he s., a braying ass J.G. 203

While thus she s., I fainter heard the peals N.A. 123 So s. Aspasio, firm possessed St. iii 13

SPAN.

Who drive a loathsome traffic, gauge and s. Ch. 139 Improve the remnant of his wasted s. R. 13 The hour that terminates his s. St. iii 3 Would gladly stretch life's little s. St. v 7 To s. omnipotence, and measure might T. vi 212 Sing, then—and extend thy s. Trans. iii 27 Half a s., compared with thee Trans. iii 32 Fancy that from the bow that s. the sky T.T. 702

SPANGLED.

Her crimson honours; and the s. beau T. iii 578

SPANIEL

A s., Beau, that fares like you Beau 1 My s., prettiest of his race D.W. 5 That s. found for me) D.W. 8

The s. dying for some venial fault T. vi 418

SPANNED.

Who s. her waist, and who, where'er he came T. 155

SPARE

An earthquake may be bid to s. A Fable 34 And I might s. myself the pains to show Ch. 623 And s. the poet for his subject's sake Ch. 636 Now think, if Pleasure have a thought to s. Ex. 602 Nor s. a life too short to reach the skies Ex. 623Oh s. them, ye knights of the boot Gr. 19 The bolts that s. the mountain's side Trans. H. 16 What are they now?—Morality may s. H. 515 If honest eulogy can s. thee room H. 589 And smite the untempered wall 'tis death to s. H. This only s. no lust, admits no plea H.645That can seduce him not to s. Mor. 31 To s. no passion, and no favourite sin R. 136 And such emollients as his friends could s. R. 305Of depth enough, and none to s. R.C. 41 [134 Their length and colour from the locks they s. T. i Thanks to Benevolus—he s. me yet T. i 262 Birds warbling all the music. We can s. T. i 764 Far guiltier England! lest he s. not thee T. ii 160 Ah s. your idol! think him human still T. ii 496 Dooms to the knife; nor does he s. the soft T. iii 417 Would s., that loves them, offices like these?) T. iii 619 Enjoyed, s. feast! a radish and an egg! T. iv 173 What, conscious of your virtues, we can s. T. iv 425 S. not in such a cause. Spend all the powers T. v 676 The incumbrance of his ownconcerns, and s. T. vi 206 And, if he s. him, s. him in the terms T. vi 409 Feed on the slain, but s. the living brute! T. vi 458 The laurel that the very lightning s. T.T. 6 Prize it, ye ministers; ye monarchs, s. T.T. 334 With loss of what she least could s. 1789, 38

SPARED.

If we escaped not, if Heaven s. not us Ex. 245
If even her face he has s. Gr. 47
Are crimes so little to be s. M.F. 44
Then anxious to be longer s. St. v 25
The more malignant. If he s. not them T. ii 158
Paid with the blood that he had basely s. T. iii 91
Cruelly s., and hopeless of escape! T. v 399
S. yet again the ignobler for his sake T. vi 530
But the axe s. thee. In those thriftier days Y.O. 100

SPARELY.

Ill-clad and fed but s. time to cool T. iv 379

SPARING.

A teacher should be s. of his smile Ch. 490

SPARINGLY.

Feeds s., communicates his store H. 521 And sound religion s. enough Tir. 198

Three s. ensued that chased it all away A.T. 167 There goes the parson—O illustrious s.! B.B. 13 Grows fungous, and takes fire at every s. Con. 54 By s. Absurdity strikes out of Pride Con. 148 The s. of disputation F. 105 And knew the glowworm by his s. N.G. 10 And many a gay unlettered s. P. 32 No, not a s.—'tis all mere sharper's play T. 209 Has she no s. that may be deemed her own? T. 482 The s. of life. The sportive wind blows wide T. i 567 Or negligent inquirer, not a s. T. iii 276 And crowded knees, sit cowering o'er the s. T. iv 385 A noble cause, which none who bears a s. T. iv 614 Are sown the s. that kindle fiery war T. v 206 Some place, a s. or two not yet extinct T. vi 684 A kindred s.: they burn to do the like Tir. 233

Wit now and then, struck smartly, shows a s. T.T.663 SPARKLES.

It s. with the gems he left behind Ex. 483

SPARKLING.

Is s. wit the world's exclusive right Con. 589 She viewed the s. show Q.V. 74 And in that charter reads, with s. eyes T. 329 Of atoms, s. in the noonday beam T. i 361 A s. eye beneath a wrinkled front T. i 405 A palsy struck his arm, his s. eye T. ii 727 Large growth of what may seem the s. trees $T. \vee 112$ And made so s. what was dark before T. v 558

SPARROWS. The s. peep, and quit the sheltering eaves T. v 65

SPARTA. From S. hither, and art here at home Ch. 271

SPARTAN.

And if some S, soul a doubt expressed Ex, 542

SPATTERED. By panting dog, tired man, and s. horse N.A. 125 With s. boots, strapp'd waist, and frozen locks T. iv 6

SPAWN. Deposit in those shallows all their s. P.E. 479

SPAWNED. S. on the muddy beds of Nile, came forth T. ii 827

SPEAK.

S. a divine ambition, and a zeal Ch. 307 She s. of Him, her author, guardian, friend Ch. 399 Whoever threatens war, to s. of peace Ch. 421 [248] Then pause and puff—and s., and pause again Con. You s. with life, in hopes to entertain Con. 327 Will s. without disguise, and must impart Con. 711 Their very language of a kind that s. Con. 727 All s. her happy: let the Muse look round Ex. 27That Sin let loose s. Punishment at hand Ex. 160 Too just to wink, or s. the guilty clear Ex. 256But public censure s. a public foe Ex. 436 S. but the word, will listen and return " Ex. 455 All s. one language, all with one sweet voice H. 53 S., for he can, and none so well as he H. 173 But s, with plainness art could never mend H. 451 I slur a name a poet must not s.) H. 555 A transport glows in all he looks and s. H. 726But while they s. the wisdom of the skies H. 768 And if a tear, that s. regret N. 21 [M.P.79]Wouldst softly s., and stroke my head and smile 'Gan make his instrument of music s. N.A. 44 Are the voice with which He s. N.C. 36 You s. very fine, and you look very grave P.A. 29 How shall I s. thee, or thy power address P.E. 460 A moment's liberty to s. P.T. 20 His mighty work, who s. and it is done R. 60

S. with reserve, and listens with applause R. 448 But, naming none, the voice now s. to all St. ii 20 S. him a criminal, assured St. vi 35 All joy to the believer! He can s. T. 571 These s. a loud memento. Yet even these T. i 482 By him, the violated law s. out T. ii 340 Should s. to purpose, or with better hope T. iii 25 The lake in front becomes a lawn T. iii 774 By which he s. the language of his heart T. iv 105 Sees not a countenance there that s. of joy T. iv 205 To s. its excellence; I danced for joy T. iv 712 All bear the royal stamp that s. them his T. v 551The still small voice is wanted. He must s. T. v 685 They are thy witnesses, who s. thy power T. v 853And goodness infinite, but s. in ears T. v 854 [128 How would the world admire! But s. it less T. vi More than the perquisite: where Law shalls. T. vi 848 Thy prophets s. of such; and, noting down T. vi 899 Whose only care, might truth presume to s. Tir. 193 They hear him s.—the oracle of law Tir. 363 [T.T.42 And death's own soythe would better s. his power He s., and they appear; to him they owe T.T. 356 S. to the present times, and times to come T.T. 433 Ah, Muse! forbear to s. T.B. 51 Who lived when thou wast such? Oh, couldst thou Desperate attempt, till trees shall s. again Y.O. 49 SPEAKER.

The emphatic s. dearly loves to oppose Con. 269 All s., yet all language at a loss \hat{H} . 345 The modest s. is ashamed and grieved T. iv 66

SPEAKING

S. from his throne, the sky? N.C. 28 S. in parables his slighted word Tir. 140 SPEAR.

"And better s. I smite you where you stand "A.T. That no success attends on s. and swords Ex. 352 Of trophied helmets, s., and shields 1789, 4

SPECIAL. On s. search, the keen-eyed eagle blind Ex. 631

SPECIOUS.

Discern the fraud, beneath the s. lure P.E. 17And covered with a fine-spun s. veil P.E. 328 S. in show, impossible in fact R. 638 And s. semblances have lost their use T. iii 107 And emulation is its s. name Tir. 469

SPECK.

With russet s. bedight A Tale 42 For sight of ship from England. Every s. T. i 666 Without a cloud, and white without a s. T. vi 63 SPECKLE.

S. the bosom of the distant plain P.E. 83

SPECTACLE.

The s. set them unhappily wrong A.C. 2 To which the said s. ought to belong A.C. 4 That the Nose has had s. always in wear A.C. 11 Then holding the s. up to the Court A.C. 13 Pray who would, or who could, wear s. then? A.C. That the s. plainly were made for the Nose A.C. 23 That, whenever the Nose put his s. on A.C. 31 Claps s. on her sagacious nose Con 742

The pleasing s. at once excites Tir. 310 Not better much than s. a brute Tir. 782

SPECTACLE-BESTRID Through the pressed nostril, s. T. ii 439

SPECTATORS.

Amused s. of this bustling stage T. v 878

Spectatress both and s., a sad T. i 476

And 'tis a fearful s, to see T. ii 662

SPECTATRESS.

S. both and spectacle, a sad T. i 476

SPECULATIST.

Fresh confidence the s. takes P.E. 490

SPECULATIVE.

And posted on this s. height T. i 289 Fond of the s. height Trans. ii 13

How an emetic or cathartic s. Con. 316 [P.E. 406 With which from clime to clime he s. his course The shelves are full, all other themes are s. T.T.726

SPEECH.

Never hear the sweet music of s. A.S. 11 There is a prurience in the s. of some Con. 31 For making s. the pamperer of lust Con. 48 Useless in him alike both brain and s. Con. 141 We sometimes think we could a s. produce Con. 353 And s. may praise the power that bids it flow Con. 444 Mellows and makes the s. more fit for use Con. 644Held within modest bounds, the tide of s. Con. 889 Renewed desire would grace with other s. H. 35 [37 His grief might prompt him with the s. he made E. iii His s. rebellion against common sense H. 565 Ah! luckless s., and bootless boast J.G. 201 Have s. for him, and understood with ease N.A. 58 Complaining in a s. well worded P. 3 Refines his s. and fashions his address R. 240 Of others's., but magic of thy own S. i 14 That s. betrays at once a bigot's tongue T. 519 Of lightness in his s. 'Tis pitiful T. ii 466 Played on his lips, and in his s. was heard T. ii 707 Then were not all effaced; then s. profane T. iv 522 That turns to ridicule the turgid s. T. \vee 689 A rhetoric equal to those parts of s.? Tir. 398 Nor taint his s. with meannesses designed Tir. 686 His s., his form, his action, full of grace T.T. 346

Compared with the s. of its flight A.S. 42 Both s. their journey with a restless stream Comp. Heaven s. the canvass, gallantly unfurled Ch. 123 We bustle up with unsuccessful s. Con. 215 Proud of his s., to overshoot the truth Con. 642 "Who both write well, and write full s.! E. iv 84 "S. us away to battle and to fame!" Ex. 289 The post that at his bidding s. away Ex. 355[P.E.74]Detach the soul from earth, and s. her to the skies? And thence with all convenient s. to Rome P.E. 370 And hurried but with unsuccessful s. T. 245 As life declines, s. rapidly away T. i 130 Wildfowl or venison, and his errand s. T. iv 612 That skims the spacious meadow at full s. T. $\forall i$ 331 Their strength, or s., or vigilance, were given T. vi610 Always at s., and never drawing bit T.T. 685 [309] Gives him olympics., and shoots him to the goal T. T.

SPELL.

On every mind some mighty s. she cast A. T. 37 [146 No s. or charm was proof against the thrust A.T. To guess and s. what it contains E. i 52 So dimly writ, or difficult to s. Ex. 311 He s. them true by intuition's light N.A. 69 [619] The s. and charms that blinded you before P.E. So difficult to s. Q.V. 50 With magic wand. So potent is the s. T. ii 630 Books are not seldom talismans and s. T. vi 100

When children first begin to s. Trans. iv 37 In characters uncouth, and s: amiss T, i 283

SPEND.

And said, "Go s. them in the vale of tears" E. ii 26 To s. two hours in dressing for the day H. 80 The dreary waste; there s, the livelong day T, i 457

And Truth disclaiming both; and thus they s.T. iii163 But frantic who thus s. it all for smoke? T. iii 174 Spare not in such a cause. S. all the powers T. v 676 The force he s. against their fury vain Tir. 64 Thought cannot s. itself, comparing still Y.O. 86

SPENDTHRIFT

Or s.'s prodigal excess afford J.T. 15S., and booted sportsmen, oftener seen T. ii 752And the shark's prey; the s., and the leech T. iii 817 S. alike of money and of wit T.T. 684

SPENT.

To thrive in, an incumbrance ere half s. H. 98 S. half the darkness, and snored out the rest H. 510 Till, all my stock of infant sorrow s. M.P. 43 Till life's poor transient night is s. N.G. 32Thus life is s. (oh fle upon t!) P.37That Virtue points to? Can a life thus s. P.E. 72 And not soon s., though in an arduous task T. i 401 S. all his force, and made no proselyte) T. ii 331 [173 Ah! what is life thus s.? and what are they T. iii So s. in parlour twilight; such a gloom T. iv 278 (Life s. in indolence and therefore sad) T. v 181 S. in the purchase of renown for him T. v 277 Well s. in such a strife, may earn indeed T. v 715 How readily we wish time s. revoked T. vi 25 Laughs at the frantic sufferer's fury, s. T. vi 423His influence, if that influence all be s. T. vi 962 Feels himself s., and fumbles for his brains T.T.537Wretched man whose years are s. Trans. iii 29

SPHERE

Is to discharge the duties of his s. H. 400 Extend a larger s. Miss - 100 But if eccentric ye forsake your s. P.E. 98 She, for her humble s. by nature fit T. 323 Replace the wandering comet in his s. T. 400 And shining each in his domestic s. T. v 520 His s. though humble, if that humble s. T. vi 960 However humble and confined the s. T. T. 166

Whom fiery suns, that scorch the russet s. Ex. 15 Had he the gems, the s., and the land H.175Where s, breathe and brighter seasons smile M.P. 91Variety's the very s. of life T. ii 606

SPICY.

The sun matures on India's s. shores Ch. 442 And Saba's s. groves, pay tribute there T. vi 807

SPIDERS.

As bloated s. draw the flimsy line P.E. 495 And bloated s., till the pampered pest $T. \vee 422$

From the balcony s. J.G. 142 Distant a little mile he s. Mor. 17 He s. far off, upon the ground N.G. 8 And forth he peeped, but nothing s. R.C. 82

With purple s. pyramidal, as if T. vi 159

In the blood that she has s. B. 14

SPIN.

S. round upon her axle, ere the warmth T_{\cdot} iii 491

SPINDLING.

Mine, s. into longitude immense T. v 11

SPINE.

Contusion hazarding of neck or s. N.A. 7

SPIRAL.

In s. rings ascends the trunk, and lays R.231

SPIRE.

Hers is the spacious arch, the shapely s. Ch. 105 And the sun gilds the shining s. again Her. 72 Bright shone the roofs, the domes, the s. Q.V. 13 Talls., from which the sound of cheerful bells T.i174

SPIRIT.

Propitious S.! yet expunge a wrong Ch. 276 Except a few with Eli's s. blest Ex. 448 With wreaths like those triumphant s. wear H.166Nor cheer the s., nor refresh the sight H. 299 Thy s. have a fainter flow M. 5 Hovered thy s. o'er thy sorrowing son M.P. 23 Thy unbound s. into bonds again M.P. 87 Freshening his lazy s, as he ran P.E. 411 That cordial thought her s. cheered Q.V. 65 No wounds like those a wounded s. feels R. 341 S. of instruction! Come St. iv 35 With s., genius, eloquence, supplied T. 805 His wasted s. quickly, by long toil T. i 128 Exhilarate the s., and restore T. i 182 And lull the s. while they fill the mind T. i 187 [i 350 And now, with nerves new braced and s. cheered T. Good temper; s. prompt to undertake T. i 400 Health suffers, and the s. ebb; the heart T. i 466 And faithful to the foot, his s. rise T. iii 8 All that the contest calls for; s., strength T. v 376Serve to compose a s. well inclined T. v 657 His s. takes, unconscious of a chain T. v 776"Ordained to guide the embodied s. home T. v 840Such comprehensive views the s. takes T. vi 15 But all are under one. One s. His T. vi 238 And s. buoyant with excess of glee T. vi 329 The very s. of the world is tired T. vi 869 There he fights T. vi 936 His fervent s. labours. Such youths of s., and that s. too Tir. 247 The s. of that competition burns Tir. 474 His s. rising as his toils increase T.T. 279 Sound sense, intrepid s., manly grace V. 12 To teach, no S. dwells in thee, nor voice Y.O. 138

SPIRITLESS.

And s., as never to regret T. i 652

SPIRY.

「525 Where sprang the thorn, the s. fir shall spring H. Once more the s. myrtle crowns the glade Her. 31 The s. myrtle with unwithering leaf T. iii 570 From every herb and every s. blade T. v 9

SPIT.

Weigh sunbeams, carve a fly, or s. a flea Ch. 354 And s. abhorrence in the Christian's face H_{\bullet} 662 One s. upon the floor Y.D. 42

SPITE.

In s. of your command B.R. 2 Few competitions but engender s. Con. 161 Now the distemper, s. of draught or pill Con. 319 Whose deeds had left, in s. of hostile arts Con. 513 But age in s. of weakness and of pain Ex.25A blot that will be still a blot, in s. Ex. 382 In s. of curb and rein J.G. 88 To regions where, in s. of sin and woe R. 27 In s. of gravity and sage remark T. v 12 In s. of all the wrigglers into place Tir. 432 Less for improvement than to tickle s. Tir. 481 Though there, in s. of all that care can do Tir. 521 And hopes in s. of pain Trans. H. 21

SPLEEN.

Too often rails to gratify his s. Ch. 500 Are gloomy thoughts led on by S.-E. iv 20 He just endures and with a sickly s. R. 565 They overwhelm me with the s." M.F. 8 The s. is seldom felt where Flora reigns T. i 455

Would find them hideous nurseries of the s. T. iii 318 That breathes the s., and searches every bone T. iv 364 SPLENDID.

Become at length so s. in our own Con. 370 The snug, close party, or the s. hall P.E. 176 On many a s. wall Q.V. 46 And teach him notions s. as themselves T.424Induced a s. cover, green and blue T. i 32 With lace, and hat with s. ribbon bound T. i 536 Poured forth by Beauty s. and polite T. ii 494 A form as s. as the proudest there T. ii 620 I cannot but lament thy s. wit T. iv 725 The streams are lost amid the s. blank T. v 96 A s. opportunity to die ? T. v 320

The future s. of the flower? E. i 72 Pours out a flood of s, upon thine Ex, 589 Obscurity with s. F. 120 When I sing of the s. of mine Gr.56That decks, with all the s. of the true H. 485 It boasts a s. ever new Mrs. M-19 Power, Pomp, and S., and the thirst of Praise P.E. "I am all s., dignity, and grace!" T. 65 Traduce the s. of a noontide ray T. 540 The s. of your lamps; they but eclipse T. i 765 To gaze at his own s., and to exalt T. ii 547 In guilty s., shake the public ways T. iii 70 The dazzling s. of the scene below T. vi 64 Hers is the state, the s., and the throne Tir. 11 There dawns the s. of his future years Tir. 394 And boasts its s. too Trans. i 28 Emerged all s. in our isle at last T.T. 565

SPLENETIC.

And chase the s. dull hours away Con. 582 It shakes the sides of s. Disdain Ez. 548

SPLINTERED.

A s. stump bleached to a snowy white Y.O. 128

And he that s. his cranium, breaks at most A.T.41Was s, into diversity of tongues T. v 195

The cankered s. corrodes the pining state Ch. 63 Of nations, sworn to s. thee and devour Ez. 703 Gleans up the refuse of the general s. Her. 70 As much as I to s. your song N.G. 18 Dote not too much, nor s. what ye admire T. ii 498 His folly, but to s. him is a task T. ii 768 To better deeds, he bundles up the s. T. iv 440 Are gratified with mischief, and who s. T. v 191[228 Thus war began on earth: these fought for s. T. Though laden, not encumbered with her s. Tir. 17 So sure to s. him, and so near at hand Tir. 697 Every dish, and s. the best Trans. iii 14

Her princes captive, and her treasures s. Ez. 62 Made you a Peer, but s. you for a friend! V. 14

On eager wing the s. came P.B. 5

SPOKE.

The trumpet now s. Marmadan at hand A.T. 161 He s. indignant, and his spurs applied A.T. 191 Every burning word he s. B. 7 Through all He s. a noble plainness ran Ex. 135 "S. like an oracle," they all exclaim H. 437 In merry guise, he s. J.G. 172 [P.A. 33 They s., and Tom pondered-"I see they will go He s., and to the precipice at hand T. vi 512 S. from his lips, and in his looks gave law T.T. 245 Felt himself crushed at the first word hes. T.T. 353 SPOKEN.

Well s., advocate of sin and shame Con. 587 That Solomon has wisely s. E. i 105 And having s. wisely, at the close T. ii 442

SPONGE.

Found thee a goodly s. for Power to press Ex. 531 SPONGY.

And spreading wide their s. lobes, at first T. iii 522

SPONTANEOUS.

S., take but little pains to sow P.E. 364 (If e'er she spring s.) in remote T. i 603

SPORT.

Ye winds that have made me your s. A.S. 33 They s. like wanton doves in airy rings A.T. 32 "And flutters loose, the s. of every wind A.T. 102 But innocent was all his s. Beau 15 A toy to s. with, and pass time away Con. 18 Her theatres, her revels, and her s. Ex. 23 When persecuting zeal made royal s. Ex. 612If arms engage him, he devotes to s. H. 207 [H. 260]They die.—Death lends them, pleased and as in s. By this he forms, as pleased he s. along H. 610 The zephyrs s. in vain Miss - 38 Which rural gentlemen call s. divine N.A. 8 If breaking windows be the s. Pat. 11 Pursue their s., and follow to the deep R. 160 Renounced alike its office and its s. R. 293 Is duty a mere s., or an employ? R. 649 The mind, relaxing into needful s. R. 715 In which he s. away the treasure now St. ii 10 S. for a day, and perish in a night T. 42 Of equipage, our gardens, and our s. T. i 644 The s. of every wave? No: none are clear T. ii 153 He doubtless is in s., and does but droll T. ii 369 To s. which only childhood could excuse T. ii 638 Is squandered in pursuit of idle s. T. ii 758 To s. their season, and be seen no more T. iii 136 And clamours of the field? Detested s. T. iii 326 Bleed gold for ministers to s. away T. iv 508 And make the sorrows of mankind their s. T. v 186 Nor envies he aught more their idle s. T. vi 272 So Eden was a scene of harmless s. T. vi 364 [386 Regardless of their plaints. To make him s. T. vi Sweet in itself, and not forbidding s. Tir. 652 And I play with syllables, and s. in song T.T. 505 Not rashly or in s. U. 8 Both in their toils and at their s. 1789, 63

SPORTED.

Fancy has s. all her powers away T.T. 730

SPORTING.

That it is dangerous s. with the world T. ii 777 SPORTIVE.

Perhaps the man was in a s. fit Ch. 537 Crushed by the wind. So s. is the light T. i 345 The spark of life. The s. wind blows wide T. i 567 S. and jingling her poetic bells T. iv 702 With all her little ones, a s. train T. vi 301 And in his s. days Th. 2

SPORTSMAN.

Grey dawn appears; the s. and his train P.E. 82 Spendthrifts, and booted s., oftener seen T. ii 752 That draw the s. over hill and dale T. iii 310

SPOT. [A.T. 206] The s. he loathed so much for ever cleansed away Nose, ears, and eyes seem present on the s. Con. 318 Catch from each other a contagious s. Ex. 105 Thy services, once holy without s. Ex. 261 Think on the fruitful aud well-watered s. Ex. 418 This island, s. of unreclaimed rude earth Ex, 468

A world is up in arms, and thou, a s. Es. 694
Those open on the s. their honeyed store P.E. 49
Amid the charms of a sequestered s. R. 8
The s. he loved has lost the power to please R. 466
Play wanton, every moment, every s. T. i 349
The envied tenants of some happier s. T. i 610
Undazzled, and detects and counts his s.? T. i 714
She has her praise. Now mark a s. or two T. i 725
But in a distant s., where, more exposed T. iii 770
He seeks a favoured s.; that where he builds T. iii 471
With s. quadrangular of diamond form T. iv 217
Appears a s. upon a vestal's robe T. iv 554
Playing our games, and on the very s. Tir. 305
No s. contracted among grooms below Tir. 685
Find him a better in a distant s. Tir. 759
Let me enjoy, in some unthought of s. V. 83

SPOTLESS.

Whose chief distinction is their s. name Tir. 355

SPOTTED.

Now therefore issued forth the s. pack N.A. 24 And s. with all crimes; in whom I see T. iii 837

SPOUSE.

John Gilpin's s. said to her dear J.G. 5 The lady thus addressed her s. M.F. 1

SPOUT.

"As freely as a conduit s.! E. iv 86

SPOUTING.

In bilking tavern bills, and s. plays Tir. 327

SPOUTLESS.

A fragment, and the s. teapot there T. iv 776

SPRANG. [193]
The barb s. forward, and his lord, whose force A.T. Seized fast the saddle and s. up behind A.T. 178 Where s. the thorn, the spiry fir shall spring H. 525 She s. no fatal leak R.G. 19
He s. impetuous forth Th. 14

SPRAY.

With many a wild, indeed, but flowery s. Ch. 629 I perched at will on every s. G. 4
Nor Autumn yet had brushed from every s. N.A. 21
Her golden tassels on the leafy s. R. 232
From s. to s., where'er he rests he shakes T. vi 81
With blushing wreaths, investing every s. T. vi 169

SPREAD. And s. her golden hopes below A Fable 15 S. foreign wonders in his country's sight Ch. 116 That Heaven s. wide before the view of man Ch. 324 S. wide her arms of universal love Ch. 596 To s. the newborn glories in their view Con. 546 And s. the sacred treasures of the breast Con. 573 And s., at length, before the soul E. i 63 Where Nature has her mossy velvet s. E. ii 15 She s. the morning over eastern hills H. 41 To me their peace by kind contagion s. N.A. 42 And oaks coeval s. a mournful shade H. 352 Live from his lips, and s. the glorious sound H. 454 And still it s. See Germany send forth H. 459 His fame soon s. around J.G. 114 Of the plague s. by bundles left behind P.E. 352 Unfolded genially, and s, the man P.E. 412 The propagated myriads s, so fast P.E, 481 Seas on which every nation s, her sails R, 80 To s. the page of Scripture, and compare R. 131 Become more rare as dissipation s. R. 706 [R. 421 Green balks and furrowed lands, the stream that s. S. all his canvass, every sinew plies $oldsymbol{T.5}$ There might ye see the peony s. wide T. i 35 Of other screen, the thin umbrella s. T. i 260 Beneath the open sky she s. the feast T. i 433

And jealous of the blessing. S. it then T. ii 44 [135] That s. his motley wings in the eye of noon T. iii And s. his hopes before the blaze of day T. iii 445 Impervious to the wind. First he bids s. T. iii 475 There forests of no meaning s. the page T. iv 74 And s. the honey of his deep research T. iv 112 So I, with brush in hand and pallet s. T. iv 239 When man was multiplied and s. abroad T. v 221No nook so narrow but he s. them there T. v 773And more aspiring, and with ampler s. T. vi 145 And Æthiopia s. abroad the hand T. vi 812 To s. the earth before him, and commend Tir. 640 And s. the ruin round Trans. H. 18 S. anarchy and terror all around? T.T. 303 S. little wings, and rather skip than fly T.T. 579 S. the fresh verdure of the field, and leads T.T. 692 Then s. the rich discovery, and invite T.T.752

SPREADING.

Sage beneath the s. cak B. 5 This glassy stream, that s. pine S. 5 And s. wide their spongy lobes, at first T. iii 522 For owls to roost in. Once thy s. boughs Y.O. 52

SPRIGHTLINESS.'
Youth has a s. and fire to boast Con. 635

SPRIGHTLY.

S. and fresh, enriches every theme Con. 894
Cheered as they go by many a s. strain E. ii 14
Two goldfinches, whose s. song F.B. 4
But gaudy plumage, s. strain G. 7 [sounds H. 45
Bunks clothed with flowers, groves filled with s.
More prudent, or more s. N.Y.G. 6
The s. morn her course renewed R.C. 69
S., and old almost without decay T. i 408
The voice of singing and the s. chord T. ii 78
The s. lyre, whose treasure of sweet sounds T. iv 160
The mind and heart of every s. boy Tir. 598
His s. mingled with a shade of sad Tir. 665

SPRIGS. [756 That here and there some s. of mournful mint T. iv Unfolds its bosom, buds, and leaves, and s. T. iv 153

SPRING.

The s. drew near, each felt a breast A Tale 13 Then the progeny that s. B. 25 The o'erflowing well of Charity s. here! Ch. 366 S. in due time supply for the distressed Ch. 482 Nor s. from love to God, or love to man Ch. 560 And give the moral s. their proper play Con. 832 S. from the mischief it intends to cure Con. 170 Should s. within thy bosom, drive it thence) Ex. 709 Where sprang the thorn, the spiry fir shall's. H. 525 Must s. that Hope he pants to make his own H. 709 The bow well bent, and smart the s. H.F. 5 Twas in the glad season of s. M.D. 1Whence social pleasures s. Miss-No genial s. to taste Miss - 36 Should s. from sympathy Miss - 48 The call of early S.-N. 4 But lovely S. peeps o'er his head N. 15 Folly the s. of his pursuit P.B. 17 Thou ever bubbling s. of endless lies P.E. 467 Whence s. the conduct that offends you so T. 237 The elastic s. of an unwearied foot T. i 135 And terrible to sight, as when she s. T. i 602 (If e'er she s. spontaneous) in remote T. i 603 And taints the golden ear. He s. his mines T. ii 187 Of homogeneal and discordant s. T. ii 190 [432 Makes needful still; whose S. is but the child T, iii But tasteless. S. a palace in its stead T. iii 769 Where find ye passive fortitude? Whence s. T. v 327Whose favour, like the clouds of s., might lower T.vi33E'en in the s. and playtime of the year T. vi 299

And that one season an eternal s. T. vi 770
Her sunshine and her rain, her blooming s. T. vi 916
S. hangs her infant blossoms on the trees Tir. 43
Back to the season of life's happy s. Tir. 132
Soon the sweet S. comes dancing forth Trans. H. 23
Winter invades the s., and often pours T.T. 210
Flew to its first position, with a s. T.T. 621
Was left to s. by vigour of his own T.T. 675[T.T.718
The flowers would s. where'er she deigned to stray
Where the flowers have the charms of the s. W.N. 7
Invigorate by turns the s. of life Y.O. 78
Even where Death predominates. The s. Y.O. 132
The s. of eighty-nine shall be 1789, 32

SPRINGING.

Chill blasts of trouble nip their s. joys E. ii 32 Like Pallas s. armed from Jove Mrs. M— 26

SPRING-TIME. [512 And s. of the world; asked, Whence is man? T. ii To love it too. The s. of our years T. vi 589

SPRINKLE.
With lavender, and s. liquid sweets T. ii 257
The forms with which he s. all the earth T. vi 246

SPRINKLED.

And e'en the dipped and s. live in peace Ch. 609 The stars that, s. e'er the vault of night R. 349 Of spacious meads with cattle s. e'er T. i 164

SPROUT.

A pimple that portends a future s. T. iii 528

SPRUCE.

Forth steps the s. philosopher, and tells T. ii 189
The tasselled cap and the s. band a jest T. ii 749

SPRUNG. [462 From pride in league with ignorance, have s.! Ch. Blasphemed the authority from which it s. Ex. 156 The egg was laid from which he s. T.B. 8

SPUN

(I hate long arguments verbosely s.) E. iii 44 Hence comment after comment, s. as fine P.E. 494 Muscle and nerve miraculously s. R. 59

TITE

"Is recreant, and unworthy of his s." A.T. 122 He spoke indignant, and his s. applied A.T. 191 Man feels the s. of passions and desires H. 55 And what if he did ride whip and s. M.F. 22 Such is the impulse and the s. he feels T. vi 755 The s. is powerful, and I grant its force Tir. 482 Thus reputation is a s. to wit T.T. 520 A quarry of stout s. and knotted fangs F.O. 117

SPURIOUS

S., and only current with the blind E. ii 8 But s. and short-lived; the puny child T. v 621

SPURN.

Nor s. away a gift a God bestows H. 547 [183 Resumes her powers, and s. the clumsy fraud Tir. SPURNED.

He s. the wretch that slighted, or withstood Ch. 31

SPY.
A s. on my proceeding F. 192
"Have reached this nether world, ye s. a race T. v

SQUAB.

Like a fat s. upon a Chinese fan P.E. 218

SQUALID.

Such s. sloth to honourable toil! T. i 579

SQUANDER.

The gifts of Providence, and s. life T. i 638 Who s. time and treasure with a smile T. ii 641 SQUANDERED.

Is s. in pursuit of idle sports T. ii 758 On moments s. else, and running all to waste Tir. 614

That s. not truly with the Scripture plan Ch. 559 A poet does not work by s. or line Con. 789 'Twas hard to tell, of streets or s. Q.V. 9 A massy slab, in fashion s. or round T. i 21 [492] Slow gathering in the midst, through the s. mass T. iii Of hedge-row beauties numberless, s. tower T. i 173

SQUAR'D.

Till smooth'd and s. and fitted to its place T. vi 94

SQUEAMISH.

And as for you, my Lady S.-P.55

SQUEEZED.

Thus tortured and s., at last it appears F.M.5Sweats in the crowded theatre and s. T. iv 43 With all thy loss of empire, and though s. T. v 457Its s. contents, and more than it admits T. vi 671

SQUIRE.

There goes my lady, and there goes the s. B.B. 12 But first the s.'s, a compliment but due Ch. 470 How the good s. gives never less than gold Ch. 480 If neither horse nor groom affect the s. Con. 419 Reserved to solace many a neighbouring s. N.A. 5 The s., once bashful, is shamefaced no more P.E. 403 He chooses company but not the s.'s R. 437 The world of wandering knights and s, to town \tilde{T} , iii

SQUIRREL.

Climbed like a s. to his dray A Fable 28 The s. here his hoard provides M.B. 5 The s., flippant, pert, and full of play T. vi 315

It s. at once the morals of a land P.E. 306 Felt each a mortal s. in her own breast P.E. 339 And s. Religion with a sly side-thrust R. 690

STABBED.

Or s. a man to serve some private end? T. 47 'Tis universal soldiership has s. T. iv 617

STABILITY.

His firm s, to what he scorns T. i 383

STABLE.

That makes seas s., and dissolves the rock Con. 502 The s. yields a stercoraceous heap T. iii 463

STABLISHES.

He s. the strong, restores the weak T. ii 343

STACK.

But corn was housed, and beans were in the s. N.A. He from the s. carves out the accustomed load T. v 33

And, s. in hand, set forth to share Mor. 9 Health's last farewell, a s. to thine old age Tir. 878

STACE

That grief, sequestered from the public s. Ch. 305 'Tis like a parcel sent you by the s. Con. 303 God's work may serve an ape upon a s. Con. 736 Stood pilloried on infamy's high s. H. 556 The love that cheers life's latest s. M.F. 49 But he, whom e'en in life's last s. Mor. 49 Placed for his trial on this bustling s. P.E. 23 Nor those in which the s. gives vice a blow R. 685 Would hiss the cherub Mercy from the s. T. 478 While God performs, upon the trembling s. T. ii 81 The pulpit to the level of the s. T. ii 564 A noble show! while Roscius trod the s. T. iii 597 Outscolds the ranting actor on the s. T. iv 45

Amused spectators of this bustling s. T. v 878

Respect, while stalking o'er life's narrow s. T.T. 118 Though the chief actor died upon the s. T.T. 341 Next, busy actor on a meaner s. V. 27 While thus through all the s. thou hast pushed Y.O.

STAGE-COACH.

You find safe shelter in the next s. R. 492

STAGGER.

Than rove and s. with no mark in view Con. 864

STAGGERING.

In s. types, his predecessor's tale T. v 419

STAGNATION.

A cold s. on the intestine tide T. vi 139

STAIN.

Till penitence had purged the public s. Ex. 74And though a Bishop toil to cleanse the s. Ex. 384 That leave no s. upon the wing of Time R.800 [241 But shows some touch, in freckle, streak, or s. T. vi The town has tinged the country; and the s. T. iv 553Of abler votaries to cleanse the s. T.T. 635

STAINED.

Or s. with guilt, beneficent, approved T. vi 998

STAIRS.

When Betty screaming came down s. J.G. 59 To be the Table Talk of clubs up s. T.T. 151

STAKE.

Enjoyed the show, and danced about the s. Ex. 615 When having nos. left, no pledge to endear T. iii 791 Plashed neatly, and secured with driven s. T. iv 437 Lay such a s. upon the losing side Tir. 863The noblest cause mankind can have at s. T.T. 285

Has burnt to tinder a s. last year's news B.B. 10 It is the constant revolution, s. T. i 462 Of s. debauch, forth issuing from the styes T. iv 470

Cautious he pinches from the second s. T. iii 527 Ill fares the traveller now, and he that s. T. iv 341

STALKING.

By the wayside, or s, in the path T. v 92 Respect, while s. o'er life's narrow stage T.T. 118

STALL. From tippling benches, cellars, s., and styes T. vi Though placed in golden Durham's second s. T. 120

STAMMER.

And s. out a syllable Trans. iv 38

STAMMERER.

Shall own itself a s. in that cause R. 413

STAMMERING.

Ghastly in feature, and his s. tongue Ex.356

STAMP.

Vice passing current by the s. of law A.T. 156 With God's deep s. upon its current worth Con. 710 Whose horrid perpetration s, disgrace Ex, 416 Marked with the signature and s, of Heaven Ex. 685 Hope sets the s, of vanity on all H. 153 Ecstasy sets her s. on every mien P.E. 136 And s. their image in each other's mint P.E. 567 The signature and s, of power divine R, 54 On which the press might s. him next to die St. ii 6 All bear the royal s. that speaks them his T. v 551And perks his ears, and s., and cries aloud T. vi 318 Deep in his soft credulity the s. T. v 497 And strut, and storm, and straddle, s., and stare T. The s. and clear impression of good sense T. vi 983 The s. of artless piety impress'd Tir. 153 S. God's own name upon a lie just made T.T. 420

STAMPED.

S. with his foot, and smote upon his thigh Ex. 64 But wept, and s., and smote his thigh, in vain Ex. 65 In all we touch, s. plainly on his works H. 545 S. on each countenance such marks of mind N. A. 76 May never more be s. upon his breast Tir. 763 [745 S. on the well-bound quarto, grace the shelf T.T.

STAND.

"And better spear I smite you where you s." A.T. God stood not, though he seemed to s., aloof Ch. 59 But grant the plea, and let it s. for just Ch. 196 Thine altar, sacred Liberty, should s. Ch. 256 And honest Merit s. on slippery ground Ch. 284 Unless the power that bade him s., restore Ch. 348 Where s. that monument of ancient power Ch. 549 We wonder, as we gazing s. below Ch. 553 [Con.415 Yet e'en the rogue that serves him, though he s. Shall s. proscribed, a madman or a knave Con. 476 But Truth divine for ever s. secure Con. 555 'Tis time, however, if the case s. thus Con. 847 "The strife now s. upon a fair award Con. 851 They learn to bow, to kneel, to sit, to s. Ex. 120 Streams swelled above the bank, enjoined to s. Ex. 185 The more 'twere pressed the firmer it would s. Ex.287Where Obstinacy takes his sturdy s. Ex. 298 [340 S. now and judge thyself.—Hast thou incurred Ex. Bid nations leagued against thee s. aloof Ex. 565 That s. on sordid interest F. 38 Nor would he quit that chosen s. F.B. 28 When God and man s. opposite in view H. 131 And—pardon me, the bottle s. with you" H. 380 Where busy arts are never at a s. H. 440 And bids the mountains he has built s. fast H. 476 On what foundation virtue is to s. H. 529 Your Hope shall s. unblamed, perhaps admired H. All hope despair, that s. not on his cross H. 632 Fancy may s. aloof from the design H. 672 And s. a witness at Truth's awful bar Her. 81 To s. a way-mark in the road to bliss? P.E. 117 There s., and justify the foul abuse P.E. 144 S. starved at your inhospitable door? P.E. 250 E'en Lecuwenhoek himself would s. aghast P.E. 485 S. close concealed, and see a statue move R. 284 Nor quits till evening watch his giddy s. R. 434 Yet let me s. excused, if I estcem R. 667 As useless if it goes as when it s. R. 682 Will s. advanced a step above the rest R. 722 Like crowded forest-trees we s. St. i 13 It s., like the cerulean arch we see T. 26 S. the soul-quickening words—Believe and Live T. The dinner served, Charles takes his usual s. T. 213 Now which s. highest in your serious thought? T.221 The Bible only s. neglected there T. 425 Now summon every virtue, s. and plead T. 566 S., never overlooked, our favourite elms T. i 167 Upon the ship's tall side he s., possessed T. i 450 S. chargeable with guilt, and to the shafts T. ii 155 And s. exposed by common peccancy T. ii 72 [334 Must s. acknowledged, while the world shall s. T. ii There s. the messenger of truth; there s. T. ii 337 Two empiries he s., and with swoln cheeks T. ii 352 And s. an impudent and fearless mark T. ii 812 S. up unconscious, and refute the charge T. ii 824 In the soft medium, till they s. immersed T. iii 520 Sublime above the rest, the statelier s. T. iii 595 Nor his, who patient s. till his feet throb T. iv 46 He s. crect; his slouch becomes a walk T. iv 639 The villas with which London s. begirt T. iv 748 And watered duly. There the pitcher s. T. iv 775 Smooth as a wall the upright remnant s. T. v 36 Build him a pedestal, and say, "S. there T. v 258 By him of Babylon, life s. a stump T. v 401

S. motionless expectants of its fall T. v 528 May s. between an animal and woe T. vi 727 That, if his country's not by his skill T. vi 975 [70 8. self-impeached the creature of least worth Tir. Fit for the power in which he s. array'd Tir. 98 His favourite s. between his father's knees Tir. 570 Wanting its proper base to s. upon T.T. 54 By their own conduct they must s. or fall T.T. 108 S. on a level, and you prove too much T.T. 255 S. most revealed before the freeman's eyes T.T. 239 Would strive to make a Paul or Tully s. T.T. 343 Like the two figures at St. Dunstan's s. T.T. 527 S. in the desert shivering and forlorn T.T. 724 So s. a kingdom, whose foundation yet Y.O. 120 S. now, and semblance only of itself! Y.O. 124 STANDARD.

And the twelve s. of the tribes unfarled Ez. 211 And s. of his own, that is to-day T. vi 214 The s. of all nations are unfarled T.T. 454

STANDING.

Becomes a mockery and a s. jest Ez. 110
We have at least commodious s. here N.A. 120
Shouldering, and s. as if struck to stone T.T. 137
When admirals, extelled for s. still T.T. 192

STAND'ST.

They swarm around thee, and thou s. at bay T.T. 365

STANK.

And the land s.—so numerous was the fry T. ii 832 STAR.

Whether the space between the s. and us Ch. 332 And e'en the s., that glitters on the bier H. 270 Lights of the world, and s. of human race P.E. 97 These most resembling clustered s. Q.V. 11 One Georgian s. adorns the akies Q.V. 75 If, ere we yet discern life's evening s. R. 46 S. countless, each in his appointed place R. 83 The s. that, sprinkled o'er the vault of night R. 311 Conspicuous as the brightness of a s. T. 29 [iii 178 And tell us whence the s.; why some are fixed T. A s. or two, just twinkling on thy brow T. iv 253 The bright profusion of her scatter'd s. T. vi176 [819 With which Heaven rang, when every s. in haste T. v As here and there a twinkling s. descried Tir. 843 A meteor, or a s.; in these, the sun T.T. 575 [36] Now s.; two lobes, protruding, paired exact Y.O.

Fix on the wainsoot a distressful s. Com. 116
Having unloaded and made many s. Com. 230
And all the world would s. J.G. 194
"When, cry the botanists, and s. P. 21
Yet Folly ever has a vacant s. P.E. 205 [P.E. 389
With awkward gait, stretched neck, and silly s.
Therefore, avaunt all attitude, and s. T. ii 430 [vi 676
And strut, and storm, and straddle, stamp, and s. T.

STARING.

Lap-dog and lambkin with black, s. eyes T. i 37

STARK.

She sees a world s. blind to what employs Ch. 404 S. naught, because corrupt in their design T.T. 4

STARRY.

In s. forms disposed upon the wall Ch. 552 His rainbows and his s. eyes Mrs. M— 4

START.

Is. at the sound of my own A.S. 12

"S. at the call of beauty in distress A.T. 120

The wild assassins s. into the street Ch. 507

So Selfs. nothing, but what tends apace Ch. 565

S. not aside from her Creator's plan Con. 452 [23]

"A friend!" Horatio cried, and seemed to s. E. iii

S. from the down on which she lately slept H. 219 S. at her first approach, and sounds to arms! H.656 Such was thy charity; no sudden s. J.T. 41 And shall I see thee s. away O. ii 22 They shriek and sink, survivors s. and weep R. 159 Shall seem to s. into a second birth R. 356 S. it at home, and hunt it in the dark R. 693 And s. theatric, practised at the glass! T. ii 431 S. at his awful name, or deem his praise T. iv 180 S. to the voluntary race again T. vi 333 Ere yet he s. is known Th. 18

S. up sagacious, covered with the dust T.T. 170 S. from its office like a broken bow V. 70 STARTED.

When all creation s. into birth T. vi 199 When first we s. into life's long race Tir. 315

STARTING.

Now s. into sight D.W. 10 Snorting, and s. into sudden rage T. vi 550

STARTLED. The sound of pardon pierce his s. ear H. 724 Cry in his s. ear, "Abstain from sin!" P.E. 38

STARVE. 「T. ii 656

Wives beggar husbands, husbands s, their wives His manna from the ground, or s, and die F.A. 38 Their noxious growth, s. every better seed R. 41 Who scorns it, s. deservedly at home T. i 435 Displaying his own beauty, s. his flock! T. ii 429[757 The countrys., and they that feed the o'ercharged T.iii By a just judgment, strip and s. themselves T. iii 597 Who s. his own; who persecutes the blood T. iv 463 Who s. upon a dog's-eared Pentateuch Tir. 402 When Avarice s., and never hides his face T.T. 422

STARVED.

S. by that indolence their mines create Ch. 64 For caught and caged, and s, to death G. 10 Stand s. at your inhospitable door? P.E. 250 In converse, either s. by cold reserve T. v 471 Or, if it enter, soon s. out again Tir. 768

STARVELING.

Ten s. hermits suffer less than he T. 112

STATE.

Tramples on a thousand s. B. 18On man's most dignified and happiest s. Ch. 2 The cankered spoil corrodes the s. Ch. 63 And soothe the sorrows of so sad a s. Ch. 199 That pleads for peace till it disturbs the s. Ch. 310 To rush into a fixed eternal s. Con. 185 The circle formed, we sit in silent s. Con. 379 [603 Temperance and Peace insure its healthful s. Con. How credibly, 'tis hard for me to s.) Con. 816 ()nce have the sanction of our triple s. E. iii 57 [175 For them, the s. they left made waste and void Ex. For them, the s. to which they went destroyed Ex. 176 Who left them still a tributary s. Ex. 218War lays a burden on the reeling s. Ex. 306 S. thrive or wither, as moons wax and wane Ex. 324 The free republic of the whip-gig s. H. 190 The comfort of the wedded s. M.F. 46 Aud slumber on in s. Miss — 28 The swallows in their torpid s. N. 1 A kind release from their imperfect s. R. 166 The snowy robe her wintry s. assumes R. 195

The disencumbered Atlas of the s. R. 394

'Tis criminal to leave a sinking s. R. 478

To cherish Virtue in an humble s. R. 789

But ask the noble drudge in s. affairs R. 407

He finds the labours of that s. exceed R. 619

And outline of the present transient s. R. 670

Like thee, content in every s. may find S. ii 7

On the sad theme, their everlasting s. T. 41 And he that never doubted of his s. T. 299 [i 642] Their former charms? And having seen our s. T. At thought of her forlorn and abject s. T. i 659 And let that pass-'twas but a trick of s. T. ii 237 Profusion, deluging a s. with lusts T. ii 683 Touched by the Midas finger of the s. T. iv 507 To administer, to guard, to adorn the s. T. v 342 The S. that strives for liberty, though foiled T. v 367 Fails for the craving hunger of the s. T. v 459 And seeing the old castle of the s. T. ∇ 525 His freedom is the same in every s. T. v 767 But royalty, nobility, and s. T. 353 [the s.? T. vi 704 Why? What has charmed them? Hath he saved Of this tempestuous s. of human things T. vi 737 Who, doomed to an obscure but tranquils. T. vi 908 Account him an encumbrance on the s. T. vi 958 The s., beneath the shadow of whose vine T. vi 969 Hers is the s., the splendour, and the throne Tir. 11 To you, then, tenants of life's middle s. Tir. 807 Embittering all his s. Trans. H. 12 Whom Education stiffens into s. T.T. 125 Happy the s. that has not these to fear T.T. 167 From almost nullity into a s. Y.O. 88 That threatened England's trembling s. 1789, 37 If they who on thy s. attend 1789, 66

STATED.

At s. hours, his freakish thoughts engage Tir. 605

STATELIER.

And yours the s. mien L.R. 22 When thus a mutton s. than the rest N.A. 81 Sublime above the rest, the s. stand T. iii 595

STATELINESS.

His altered gait and s. retrenched T. v 76

STATELY.

This cap, that so s. appears Gr. 1 And s. tone of moralists, who boast T. v 690Give me the line that ploughs its s. course T.T.522

STATESMAN.

The s., skilled in projects dark and deep Ch. 612 The s., lawyer, merchant, man of trade $R.\,5$ "Ye groves" (the s. at his desk exclaims $R.\,365$ Were charactered on every s.'s door T. iii 823 Swarm in the streets. The s. of the day T. vi 696 Of poets raised by you, and s., and divines Tir. 283

A prouder s. on the general scale Ch. 336 To insure a side-box s. at half-price T. ii 621 Such men are raised to s. and command T.T. 834

STATIONARY.

Till the street rings; no s. steeds T. iv 147

STATION'D.

Frequents the crowded auction: s. there T. vi 286 Think yourself s, on a towering rock T.T. 33

STATUE.

Wooed an unfeeling s. for his wife P.E. 528 Stand close conceuled, and see a s. move R. 284 To strip Jove's s. of his oaken wreath T. vi 640

STATUTE

Hast thou, by s., shoved from its design Ex. 573 Nor judge by s. a believer's hope T.T.72

STAUNCH.

And s. the bleedings of a broken heart R. 322 And you are s. indeed in learning's cause Tir. 492

STAUNCHEST.

True beagle as the s. hound he keeps P.E. 87

E e 2

STAVES.

And eke did roar right merrily two s. T. vi 662

STAY. [Con. 32 Wrath s. him, or else God would strike them dumb Here s. thy foot; how copious, and how clear Ch. 365 No wealth can bribe, no prayers persuade to s. Comp.i4 A dull rotation, never at a s. H. 101 [iii 25 "Nay, s. at home—you're always going out!" E. A dull rotation, never at a s. H. 101 But versed in arts that while they seem to s. R. 383 That prompts the wish to s. St. v 30 His promises our s. St. vi 8 And hurrying him, impatient of his s. T. iv 132 Will win her visits or engage her s. T.T. 411 Then let the boobies s. at home Y.D. 65

Their host to move, and when it s. to rest Ex. 180 So three doors off the chaise was s. J.G. 87

STAYING.

But s. behind will do him no good P.A. 36

Form, in its s., a covenant of shame Con. 684 And raised thyself, a greater, in their s. ? Ex. 367Ere another such grove shall arise in its s. P.F. 16 But tasteless. Springs a palace in its s. T. iii 769 And no such lights are kindling in their s. Tir. 285 Then grace the bony phantom in their s. T.T. 43

STEADFAST.

But s. principle, and, in its kind J.T. 43 Must watch his purpose with a s. eye P.E. 577 Thunder and flash upon the s. shores R. 534 Our arch of empire, s. but for you T. i 773

STEADINESS.

Paul's love of Christ, and s. unbribed H. 580

STEADY.

On s. wing sails through the immense abyss H. 163

STEAL.

Fate s. along with silent tread A Fable 36 Dagger in hand, s. close to your bedside Ch. 187 The silent pace with which they s. away Comp. i 3 Silent and chaste she s. along Comp. ii 8 He thus saw s. away Ep. ii 30 I glide and s. along with heaven in view H. 379 And he that stole has learned to s. no more H. 523 S. to the closet of young innocence P.E. 316 [573 Loud when they beg, dumb only when they s. T. i So pleasing, and that s. away the thought T. ii 299 And heaviest, light of foot s. fast away T. iv 442 And unperceived the current s. away T. v 100

STEALING.

S. a sidelong glance at a full house T. iv 201

STEALTH.

We next inquire, but softly and by s. Con. 389 And that obtained by rapine and by s. ? Ex. 371Who scorns to do an injury by s. H. 411 By rust unperishable or by s. J.T. 26 So life glides smoothly and by s. away T. vi 995

Thy thirst-creating s. at length produce Con. 262 A pestilent and most corrosive s. T. iii 494 The process. Heat and cold, and wind and s. T. iii

STEAMING.

From many a s. lake and recking bog A.T. 93 STEAMY.

Throws up a s. column, and the cups T. iv 39 STEED.

Called for his arms, and for his princely s. A.T. 124 His high-bred s. expands his nostrils wide A.T. 163 Buckled his helm, and to his s. repaired A.T. 172

From the clatter of street-pacing s. C. 46 Upon his nimble s. J. G. 78 The frighted s. he frighted more J.G. 227 The veteran s. excused his task at length R. 625 Ere yet it came, the traveller urged his s. T. 214 He cherups brisk his ear-erecting s. T. iii 9 Till the street rings; no stationary s. T. iv 147 The toiling s. expand the nostril wide T. iv 347 The dreadful leap, more rational his s. T. vi 517 His s., usurp a place they well deserve T. vi 703 If the gilt carriage, and the pampered s. T.T. 133

STEEL.

That he was cased in such enchanted s. A.T. 183That brass and s. should make so fine a show Ch.554Kept snug in caskets of close-hammered s. R. 303 With nice incision of her guided s. T. i 708 None but his s. approach them. What is weak T. iii On female industry: the threaded s. T. iv 165 [511 To s. their hearts against the dread of death " T. vi And forced the blunt and yet unblooded s. T. v 215 Not rough with wire of s. or brass T.B. 26

STEELED.

There hardening by degrees, till double s. P.F. 590

STEEP.

Whatever s. inquiry recommends Ch. 316 Shall s. me in Elysian reverie M.P. 19 Is this the rugged path, the s. ascent P.E. 71 Swift pace or s. ascent no toil to me T. i 139 A sudden s. upon a Rustic Bridge T. i. 267 To some not s., though philosophic height Tir. 631

STEEPLE.

And s. towering high, much like our own P.E. 382 Above the s. shines a plate Trans. ii 7

STEER

To s. it close to land D.W. 18 Where Duty bids he confidently s. R.H. 6 To s. with nicest art betwixt the extreme S. ii 9

STEERED.

S. Britain's oak into a world unknown Ch. 25

STEM.

"The rich, the produce of a nobler s. Ex. 460 The fruits that hang on pleasure's flowery s. R. 179

The s. remains, the lustre dies away Con. 678 And thine was smothered in the s. and fog Ex. 510

S. forth to fashion and refine the race Ch. 98 "'l'is but a s., sir, just at the street's end' E iii 25 And if success his s. attend F. 82 Dare s. across his arbitrary views H. 193 At every s. beneath their feet they tread Her. 55 That now at every s, thou movest M. 38 Beware of desperate s. The darkest day N.A. 132 While all his purposes and s. to guard P.E. 41 Securely, though by s. but rarely trod R. 113 With eager s., and carelessly arrayed R. 187 'Tis done;—he s. into the welcome chaise R. 391 A s. if fair, and if a shower approach R. 491 Will stand advanced a s. above the rest R. 722 His measured s. were governed by his ear T. 63 Forth s. the man—an emblem of myself! T. 213 We mount again, and feel at every s. T. i 271 [24] With matron s. slow moving, while the Night T. iv Forth s. the spruce philosopher, and tells T. ii 189 He s. right onward, martial in his air T. iv 640 Take s. for s.; and, as I near approach T. v 18With well-considered s., seems to resent T. v 75

S. forth to notice; and, besotted thus T. v 257 Consulted and obeyed, to guide his s. T. v 674 An inadvertent s. may crush the snail T. vi 564 Reasoning at every s. he treads The Dores 1 Would turn our s. into a wiser train Tir. 260 One s. beyond the boundary of the laws T.T. 228

STEPPED.

Called on a friend, drank tea, s. home again Con. 278 Then s. the poet into bed R.C. 107 And s. at once into a cooler clime T. i 337

STEPPING.

S. into their nests, they paddled P.T. 54.

STERCORACEOUS.

The stable yields a s. heap T. iii 463

STERILE.

So s. with what charms soe'er she will T. i 710

STERLING.

S., and worthy of a wise man's wish T. v 358 No polish can make ϵ , and that vice T. vi 990 Then decent Pleasantry and s. Sense T.T. 638

STERN

And say as s. Elijah said of old Con. 850 An aspect s. on man's affairs P.T. 48 Grew s., and darted a severe rebuke T. ii 720 With s. severity deals out the year T.T. 209

STERNHOLD.

Hail, S. then; and, Hopkins, hail! Amen T.T. 760 STEWS.

Of fashion, dissipation, taverns, s. T. ii 770

STICK.

Between two poles upon a s. transverse T. i 561 S. close, a Mentor worthy of his charge T. ii 595 The indented s., that loses day by day Tir. 559

STICKLER.

And every venal s, for the yoke T.T. 352

STIFF

Such frozen figures, s. as they are cold Ch. 607 S. in the letter, lax in the design Ex. 125 [671 Not English s., but frank, and formed to please Tir.

STIFFENS.

Whom Education s. into state T.T. 125

STIFFER.

No combatants are s. F. 138

STIFLING.

The s. wave and then he sank Cast. 48 Even in the s. bosom of the town T. iv 753

STIGMA.

That sits a s. on his father's house T. ii 760

STILE. [136

That mounts the s. with ease, or leaps the fence T. i

STILL

To bid the pleadings of self-love be s. R. 129 Pastoral images and s. retreats R. 257 Or shine the dullness of s. life away R. 746 Sought in s. water, and beneath clear skies T. iii 382 The s. small voice is wanted. He must speak T. v 685

STILLEST.

And consured oft as useless. S. streams T. vi 929

STILLNESS.

Enjoy the s. of some close retreat Con. 570 S., accompanied with sounds so soft T. vi 84 Where, s. aiding study, and his mind Tir. 773

STILL-REFUTED.

His s. quirks he still repeats P.E. 550

STILTS.

Of solemn farce, where Ignorance in s. T. ii 736

STING.

But we that make no honey, though we s. Con. 289 But with a soul that ever felt the s. R. 315 Here every drop of honey hides a s. T. vi 830

STINKS.

His hungry acres, s. and is no use T. iv 503

STINT.

And his old s.— three thousand pounds a year R.602 Friends (for I cannot s. as some have done R.719

STIPULATES.

He s., indeed, but merely this H. 334

STIR.

And s. his own to match them, or excel Ch. i 18 [333] He shakes with cold—you s. the fire and strive Con. For one slight trespass all this s.? M.F. 21 With the vain s. I sum up half mankind T. iii 130 And to the s. of Commerce, driving slow T. iii 739 Now s. the fire, and close the shutters fast T. iv 35 To peep at such a world; to see the s. T. iv 89

STIRRED.

Their acrid temper turns, as soon as s. Ch. 503

STOCK.

While conversation, an exhausted s. H. 103 Till, all my s. of infant sorrow spent M.P. 43 His s. a few French phrases got by heart P.E. 375 Book, beads, and maple dish, his meagre s. T. 80 Houses in ashes, and the fall of s. T. iv 16 Her scanty s. of brushwood, blazing clear T. iv 381 The s. whereon it grows U. 16

STOCKDOVE.

Scarce shuns me: and the s. unalarm'd T. vi 307

STOCKJOBBERS.

The leathern ears of s, and Jews T.T. 187

STOLE.

And he that s. has learned to steal no more H.523 Who s. her slipper, filled it with Tokay T.157 And not with curses on his heart, who s. Tir.151

STOLEN.

Proud of thy fleets and armies, s. the gem Ex.348 Apollo, hast thou s. away O. i 11 Till time has s. away the slighted good T. vi 51

STOMACH.

Which stuck in M.'s s. as cross as a bone A.T. ii 8

STONE.

To find it stuffed with brickbats, earth, and s. Con. Like angel-heads in s. with pigeon wings? Con. 576 By stout, substantial gods of wood and s. Con. 834

Deified useless wood or senseless s. Ex. 238 But 'tis not timber, lead, and s. F. 163

The s. did rattle underneath J.G. 43

Had two s. bottles found J.G. 66

Full slowly pacing o'er the s. J.G. 79
Is almost enough to draw pity from s. P.A. 4
As creening by clings to wood or s. P.E. 28:

As creeping ivy clings to wood or s. P.E. 285 Discover huge cathedrals built with s. P.E. 331 We slight the precious kernel of the s. P.E. 419 [15

With a turf on my breast, and a s. at my head P.F. Gives more than female beauty to a s. T. i 703

Became s. blind; precedence went in truck T. ii 741
'Twere better to be born a s. P. 11 [T. iii 646
Of close-rammed s. has charged the encumbered soil

Gives bond in s. and ever-during brass T. v 710 The scene is touching, and the heart is s. Tir. 298 To show a stumbling s. by night Trans. i 19

Shouldering, and standing as if struck to s. T.T. 137

STONY.

I fed on scarlet bips and s. haws T. i 120

STOOD.

God s. not, though he seemed to stand, aloof Ch. 59 Go, quit the rank to which ye s. preferred Con. 75 Cangold grow worthless that has s. the touch E. iii 18 They s. the test of her ensuaring saile Ex. 78 S. trembling at the boldness of thy powers Ex. 597 S. pilloried on infamy's high stage H. 556 And Perjury s. up to swear all true H. 563 If ever on thy eyelid s. the tear H. 676 His horse at last s. still J.G. 160 Where a demon, her enemy, s. M.D. 27 All huddling into phalanx, s. and gazed N.A. 48 Upborne they s. Three legs upholding firm T. i 20 In Albion's happy isle. The lumber s. T. i 58 Lie scattered where the shapely column s. T. ii 76 So s. the brittle prodigy; though smooth T. v 154 A distant age asks where the fabric s. T. v 535 And angel choirs attended. Wondering s. T. vi 352 Rushed to the cliff, and having reached it, s.T. vi 552 The mulberry-tree s. centre of the dance T. vi 686 And Bully's cage supported s. T.B. 22 And s. the test, perhaps on the wrong side Tir. 740 He s., as some inimitable hand T.T. 348 That grazed it s. beneath that ample cope Y.O. 54

STOOL.

On such a s. immortal Alfred sat T. i 22 Thus first Necessity invented S.-T. i 86 Saves the small inventory, bed, and s. T. iv 401

STOOP. Verse cannot s. so low as thy desert Ex.547While yet he dwells below, must s. to glean F.A. 37 Now s. upon it, and now grasps the prey P.E. 334 As s. from Heaven to sell the proud a throne T. 78 That he had ta'en in charge. He would not s. T. ii 478 But learn we might, if not too proud to s. T. vi 621 Saw never, such as Heaven s. down to see T. vi 817 To s. to Tyranny's usurped command T.T. 440

STOOPED.

S. from its highest pitch to pounce a wren T.T. 553 Who, born a gentleman, has s. too low V. 33

STOOPING.

So s. down, as needs he must J.G. 89 So s. down from hawthorn top N.G. 11 Why, s. from the noon of day O. i 9 Their pendant boughs, s. as if to drink T. i 269 Whole without s., towering crest and all T. iv 271

Nor s., till, overleaping all delays Ch. 178 Give it the breast, or s. its mouth with pap! Con. 480 "S., s., John Gilpin! - Here's the house! And s. and cat, for well you may J.G. 191 Whom in a trice he tried to s. J.G. 223 "S. thief! s. thief!—a highwayman!" J.G. 237 The lowest first, and without s. R.C. 93 [382 Then s. and snorts, and throwing high his heels T. vi No rattling wheelss. short before these gates T. iv 144 Moves right toward the mark; nors. for aught T. v 53 "S., while ye may; suspend your mad career T.T. 435

Nor s. till where he had got up J.G. 247 STOPPLED.

S. his cruise, replaced his book Mor. 7

STORE.

Than she supplies from her abounding s. Ch. 102 So when a ship, well freighted with the s. Ch. 441 A smaller piece amidst the precious s. Ch, 476 And like the s. autumnal suns mature Con. 649

The gift of nature, or the classic s. Con. 896 His passions, like the watery s. that sleep H. 183 Doubtless it is. To which, of my own s. H. 433 Piles up his s. amidst the frozen waste H. 475 Feeds sparingly, communicates his s. H. 521 Thy needles, once a shining s. M. 9 That graced his lettered s. M. i 8 From Flora's balmy s. M. ii 10 Those open on the spot their honeyed s. P.E. 49 Her hedge-row shrubs, a variegated s. R. 419 Pillow and bobbins all her little s. T. 318 Maturer years shall happier s. produce T. 495 [ii 538 Grace, knowledge, comfort—an unfathomed s.? T. Pay contribution to the s. he gleans T. iv 110 [132 When thou wouldst build; no quarry sent its s. T. v For her, amasses an unbounded s. Tir. 15 And wisely s. the nursery by degrees Tir. 117 Who feed a pupil's intellect with s. Tir. 622 Part of the captain's precious s. Trans. iv 5 Is worth, with all its gold and glittering s. T.T. 61

With Asiatic vices s. thy mind Ex. 372 "And s. the earth so plenteously with means T. v

S. among frogs, that have but croaked and died I.

STORM.

Frowns in the s. with angry brow A Fable 38 And, such as s. allow Cast. 26 No voice divine the s. allayed Cast. 61 S. but enliven its unfading green Ch. 576 The raving s. and dashing wave defies Con. 559 Or when a s. drew near Ep. ii 28 Say Wrath is coming, and the s. appears Ex. 270 Wait but the lashes of a wintry s. H. 185 Beckons the legions of his s. away H. 477 To s. the citadels they build in air H. 626 Aware of wintry s. M.B. 6 But screened from every s. that blows Mrs. M-18 Still outlives many a s. that has effaced M.P. 56 (The s, all weathered and the ocean crossed) M.P. 89 Thes, of passion, and say, "Peace, be still!" P.E. 500 Frowning in s., or breathing gentle airs R. 194 'Tis done—the raging s. is heard no more T. 273 Thrives by the rude concussion of the s. T. i 378 S. rise to o'erwhelm him; or if stormy winds T. ii 142 And needing none assistance of the s. T. ii 144 He that is ever occupied in s. T. iii 383 Peep through their polished foliage at the ε . \tilde{T} . iii But urged by s. along its slippery way T. iv 127 Presented bare against the s., plods on T. iv 353 Lest s. should overset the leaning pile T. v 39 "That navigate a sea that knows no s. T. v 823 And furrow'd into s., and with a hand T. vi 260 But 'twas a transient calm. A s. was near T. vi 544 An unsuspected s. His hour was come T. vi 545 676 And strut, and s., and straddle, stamp, and stare T. vi And what his s. have blasted and defaced T. vi 745 She loses in such s. her very name T.T. 328 The s. that overset the joys of life T.T. 449 The s. of music shakes the astonished crowd T.T.

The poet's heart, he looks to 3. The poet's heart; he looks to distant s. T.T. 495 And one of s. of hail Y.D. 54 Uncrowded, yet safe sheltered from the s. Y.O. 55 Calm and alternate s., moisture and drought Y.O.7

(For s. troubles loudest roar Mrs. M-47 Storms rise to o'erwhelm him; or if s. winds T. i Joys that her s. raptures never yield T. iii 57

STORY.

A s. in which native humour reigns Con. 203

One s. more, dear Hill, and I have done E. iii 45 Released him as my s. tells N.G. 25 So one, whose s. serves at least to show P.E. 526 A s. of a cock and bull P.T. 7

STOUT.

By s. substantial gods of wood and stone Con. 834 Till the s. bearers lift the corpse again T. i 481 The s. tall captain, whose superior size Tir. 222 Tells of a few s. hearts that fought and died T.T.23A quarry of s, spurs and knotted fangs Y.O. 117

STOUTEST.

To quell the valour of the s. heart Ex. 358

STOVES.

These s, that for pattern and form Gr. 39

STRADDLE. [A.C. 14 "Your lordship observes they are made with a s. And strut, and storm, and s., stamp and stare T. vi 676

STRAGGLING.

An eyebrow, next compose a s. lock T. ii 446

STRAIGHT.

Whence ϵ , he came with hat and wig J.G. 181 Much controversy s. arose L.W. 15 Bend the s. rule to their own crooked will P.E. 557 'Tis such an easy walk, so smooth and s. R. 489 [529] And interdicts its growth. Thence s. succeed T. iii Sinuous or s., now rapid and now slow T. iii 778 Crooked or s., through quage or thorny dells Tir. 253

STRAIN.

How would they take up Israel's taunting s.! Ch.66 The dozing sages drop the drowsy s. Con. 247 With s. it was a privilege to hear Con. 618 And give the s. the compass it demands Con. 718 Cheered as they go by many a sprightly s. E. ii 14 Thy tender sorrows and thy plaintive s. E. ii 45 But not to moralize too much, and s. E. iii 42 Smoothed and refined the meanest s. E. iv 74 Will hear perhaps thy salutary s. Ex. 453That few will hear, and fewer heed the s. Ex. 725 My s. for ever new G. 6 But gaudy plumage, sprightly s. G. 7 Then raising her voice to a s. M.D. 17 Far be the thought, and far the s. Miss — 9 Admiring, terrified, the novel s. N.A. 49 Be thou the great inspirer of my s. R. 202Its brisker and its graver s. fall short R. 294 [411 The tongue whose s, were cogent as commands R. To waste unheard the music of his s. R. 548 And scorned as is my s. St. i 30But the monitory s. St. iv 17 Its thunders; and by him, in s. as sweet T. ii 341 Misled by custom, s. celestial themes T. ii 438 And these the Grecian in ennobling s. T. iii 454 "Their weekly dole of edifying s. T. v 646 Sweet conference; inquires what s. were they T. v The soothing influence of the wafted s. T. vi 68 Till, nation after nation taught the s. T. vi 796 [1023 Whose frown can disappoint the proudest s. T. vi Proving at last, though told in pompous s. Tir. 75 Such a s. as I can give Trans. iii 8 Liberty taught him her Athenian s. T.T. 343 Such lofty s. embellish what you teach T.T. 478 To him who s. his all into a song T.T.533

STRAINED.

And s. to the last screw that he can bear T. 385 S. through the friendly mats, avivid green T. iii 525

STRAITENING.

S. its growth by such a strict embrace R. 234

STRANGE.

Between Nose and Eyes a s. contest arose A.C. 1 S.! how the frequent interjected dash Ch. 521 S. tidings these to tell a world who treat Con. 719 S. fluctuation of all human things! E. iii 9 The s. conceits, vain projects, and wild dreams II. Who, s. to tell, all judged it wrong J.P. 19S. the recital! from whatever cause P.E. 401 By shrugs and s. contortions of his face P.E. 414 Jack bowed and was obliged—confessed'twas s.R.599 S. fondness of the human heart St. v 13S. world, that costs it so much smart St. v 15That endless bliss (how s. soe'er it seem T. 355 [413 Is Nature's dictate. S.! there should be found T. i S.! that a creature rational, and cast T. i 574 What solid was, by transformation s. T. ii 99 For monstrous novelty and s, disguise T, ii 612 S. that so fair a creature should yet want T. iii 725 The rest appears a wilderness of s. T. iv 78 Trees, churches, and s. visages, expressed T. iv 288 S. that such folly as lifts bloated man T. v 283But above measure s., that neither proof T. v 293 Though wild their s. vagaries, and uncouth T. vi 337 Events improbable and s, as these Tir, 370 He blushes, hangs his head, is shy and s. Tir. 568 S. doctrine this! that without scruple tears T.T. 5

STRANGER.

Accept the tribute of a s.'s pen Ch. 291 A s. joined them, courteous as a friend Con. 522 A s.'s purpose in these lays E. ii 1 S. to liberty 'tis true F.B. 10 Loudly resent the s.'s freedom there H. 354 A s. to superior strength. H.F. 19 To increase a s.'s treasures N.C. 3 When some s. is interred St. iv 32 They, s. to the controversial field T. 371 Of ladyships—a s. to the poor T. ii 386 Be s. to each other? Pierce my vein T. iii 201 [295 Though still deceived, some s.'s near approach \bar{T} . iv Still s. much that when at length mankind T. v 237 Nor s. intermeddling with my joy T. vi 298 A s. to the manners of the youth T. vi 493 (A sight to which our eyes are s. yet) T. vi 825 Then why resign into a s.'s hand Tir. 551 And trust for safety to a s.'s care Tir. 852 And s. to the air of courts 1789, 62

STRANGEST.

But the strife is the s. that ever was known A.T. ii STRANGLED.

The man that's s. by a hair A Fable 35

[iv6 STRAPP'D. With spatter'd boots, s. waist, and frozen locks T.

STRATA.

The solid earth, and from the s. there T. iii 151

STRATAGEM.

For s., or courage, or for all T. v 232

STRAW

In every shining s. she sees E. iv 46 And milk, and oats, and s. Ep. ii 14 And deems her sharp artillery mere s. H. 597 The rustling s. sends up a frequent mist T. i 360 The undreaded volley with a sword of s. T. ii 811 To thy s. couch, and slumber unalarmed T. iii 345 From the full fork, the saturated s. T. iii 479

Philosophy, that does not dream or s. Ch. 313 Where 'tis an angel's happiness to s. Con. 472 So should an idiot, while at large he s. Con. 899 [464 Where beckoning Pleasure leads them, wildly s. Ex. As when two pilgrims in a forest s. H. 276
His silly sheep, what wonder if they s.? P.E. 119
To limit thought, by Nature prone to s. R. 127
Was blasphemy his sin? or did he s. T. 48
That fools discover it, and s. no more T. ii 530
Where Rhenus s. his vines among T.B. 7
Are rarely known to s. The Doves 4
A worm is known to s. Trans. i 2

[s. T.T. 718
The flowers would spring where'er she deigned to

STRAYED.

The herb as soft, while nibbling s. the rest N.A. 38 The ass; for he, we know, has lately s. N.A. 96 But there I laid the scene. There early s. T. iv 697 Elisha's eye, that, when Gehazi s. Tir. 267 In many a page historic s. 1789, 22

STRAYING.

Methinks I see thee s. on the beach T. i 654

STREAK.

In dazzling s. the vivid lightnings play Her. 18 [241 But shows some touch, in freckle, s., or stain T. vi

STREAKY.

Methinks I see thee in the s. west T. iv 245

STREAM.

Her wood Sir Airy, by meandering s. A.T. 11 A s. of liberal and heroic deeds Ch. 245 Drinks wisdom at the milky s, of light Ch. 319 Plunged in the s., they lodge upon the mud Ch. 531 Both speed their journey with a restless s. Comp. i 2 S. never flow in vain; where s. abound Comp. i 9 Sweet s. that winds through yonder glade Comp. ii 1 Your heart shall yield a life-renewing s. Con. 503 Where'er it winds, the salutary s. Con. 893 The windings of the s. D.W. 28 O salutary s., that murmur there! E. ii 28 S. swelled above the bank, enjoined to stand Ex. 185 S. edged with osiers, fattening every field H. 47 No fertilizing s. your fields divide H. 467 [H. 741]Rocks, groves, and s., must join him in his praise Fast by the s. that bounds your just domain Her 47 For when it s. from that pure source Miss - 57The keenest frost that binds the s. N. 5 Ah! why, since oceans, rivers, s. O. i 5 And wilt thou quit the s. O. ii 15 The precious s. still purling in his ear P.E. 232 Called to these crystal s., do ye turn off P.E. 265 The dribbling s. ne'er puts it out again P.E. 322 To s. of popular opinion drawn P.E. 478 Sweet birds in concert with harmonious s. R. 259 S. tinkle sweetly in poetic chime R. 568 Green balks and furrowed lands, the s. that spreads This glassy s., that spreading pine 8.5To bid Affliction's eye no longer s. S. ii 12 While far beyond, and overthwart the s. T. i 169 At first, progressive as a s., they seek T. i 292 Else noxious: oceans, rivers, lakes, and s. T. i 375 Drew from the s. below. More favoured, we T. ii 501 Take of the crimson s. meandering there T. iii 202 For oft, as if in her the s. of mild T. iii 435 And s., as if created for his use T. iii 776 S. far behind him, scenting all the air T. v 57 The s. are lost amid the splendid blank T. v 96 Of evanescent glory, once a s. T. v 167 And soon to slide into a s. again T. v 168 [260 And these dissolving snows, and this clear s. T. vi Should suffer torture, and the s. be dyed T. vi 390 Have poured my s. of panegyric down T. vi 720 [776 Of the same grove, and drink one common s. T. vi Is sullied in the s., taking a taint T. vi 834 And censured oft as uscless. Stillest s. T. vi 929 Are a s. choked, or trickling to no end Tir. 718

Beneath the hedge, or near the s. Trans. i 1 Ungenial blasts attending ourl the s. T.T. 213 [380 The s. that feeds the wellspring of the heart T. T. Was natural as in the flowing s. T.T. 592 [523 Like a proud swan, conquering the s. by force T.T.

STREAMER.

Like s. long and gay J.G. 102 Around her, fanning light her s. gay M.P. 95 Now hoist the sail, and let the s. float T. ii 255 His thorns with s. of continual praise? T. v 330

STREAMING.

Their s. hearts poured freely when they died Ez. 625 My penitential stripes, my s. blood T. 95 Oh sorrowful and sad! the s. tears T. 173 And ribands s. gay, superbly raised T. iv 541 In s. gold; syringa, ivory pure T. vi 150

STREET.

The wild assassins start into the s. Ch. 507 [121 Send your dishonoured gown to Monmouth S.—P.E. "'Tis but a step, sir, just at the s.'s end "E. iii 26 The chariots bounding in her wheel-worn s. Ex. 21 'Twas hard to tell, of s. or squares Q.V. 9 [482 That dread the encroachment of our growing s. R. The worn-out nuisance of the public s. T. 508 Her palaces are dust. In all her s. T. ii 77 [829 Were covered with the pest; the s. were filled T. ii In all our crowded s.; and senates seem T. iii 61 Till the s. rings; no stationary steeds T. iv 147 Swarm in the s. The statesmen of the day T. vi 696 And in her s., and in her spacious courts T. vi 809 Robbery of gardens, quarrels in the s. Tir. 229

STREET-PACING

From the clatter of s. steeds C. 46 And some s, harlot his first love Tir. 217

STRENGTH.

Had fluttered all his s. away B.R. 15 Nor soon he felt his s. decline Cast. 15 (For opposition gives opinion s.) Con. 83 Meet their opposers with united s. Con. 700 The monuments of human s. E. i 82 Of the chief s. and glory of the frame Ex. 335 [703 That s. would fail, opposed against the push Ex. In an engine of utmost mechanical s. F.M. 4 A stranger to superior s. H.F. 19 In kind compassion of his failing s. R. 626 And all his s. from Scripture drew St. iii 19 S. in his heart, dominion in his nod T. 409 Fearless of wrong, reposed his weary s. T. i 15 And s. is lord of all; but gentle, kind T. i 603 That gives society its beauty, s. T. ii 681 Or misapplying his unskilful s. T. iii 402 Is needful. S. may wield the ponderous sp The s. they borrow with the grace they lend T. iii 669 Were tasked to his full s., absorbed and lost T. iv 301 Deep in the loamy bank. Uptorn by s. T. iv 438 One eminent above the rest for s. T. v 231 All that the contest calls for; spirit, s. T. v 376Of asps their venom, overpowering s. T. v 702 [851 Worlds that had never been hadst Thou in s. T. v His s. to suffer, and his will to serve T. v 902 Of injury, with such knowledge of their s. T. vi 476 Their s., or speed, or vigilance, were given T. vi 610 S. joined with beauty, dignity with grace Tir. 2 That, since thy s. must with thyyears clope Tir. 876 And let thy s. be seen Trans. H. 33 And armed with s. surpassing human powers T.T. Skill to direct, and s. to strike the blow T.T. 357 Harmony, s., words exquisitely sought T.T. 701

STRENUOUS.

The s. use of profitable thought R.674

From s. toil his hours of sweetest ease T. i 388 Can he be s. in his country's cause T. v 503

Perverting often, by the s. of lewd T. ii 551 The s. of a continual act, the pain T. vi 208 Will need no s. of argument to enforce Tir. 803

STRETCH.

To see a God s. forth his human hand Ch. 581 Far as the faculty can s. away R.74Would gladly s. life's little span St. v 7 An instrument whose cords, upon the s. T. 384 The sedentary s. their lazy length T. i 389 His every nerve in action and at s. T. iii 90 S. a length of shadow o'er the field T. v 10

STRETCHED.

They s. the neck, and rolled the wanton eye Ex.53With awkward gait, s. neck, and silly stare P.E.380 So when the Jewish leader s. his arm T. ii 825 [728] Though s. at ease in Chertsey's silent bowers \bar{T} . iv Where England, s. towards the setting sun T. vi 483 S. forth to dally with the crested worm T. vi 780

STRETCHING.

Beneath, beyond, and s. far away T. v 789

STREW

Upon the wanton breezes. S. the deck T. ii 256 Must be detached, and where it s. the floor T.iii 615

STREWING.

S. yonder sea with wrecks N.C. 34

STRICKEN.

Laughed at, he laughs again; and s. hard T. ii 323 I was a s. deer that left the herd T. iii 108

STRICT.

Straitening its growth by such a s. embrace R.234From the s. duties of the sacred day? T. 49 "So s., that less than perfect must despair? T. v

STRICTEST.

Though not a grace appears on s. search T. 151

STRICTLY. But, watch they s., or neglect their charge? Tir.

STRIDES. By s. of human wisdom. In his works T. iii 222

STRIFE.

It has always been reckoned a just cause of s. \overline{A} . T. But waged with Death a lasting s. Cast. 17 [ii 11 But the s. is the strangest that ever was known A.T. Oaths terminate, as Paul observes, all s. Con. 55 Though blameless, had incurred perpetuals. Con.512 And lips unstained by folly or by s. Con. 563 "The s. now stands upon a fair award Con. 851 Though nothing have occurred to kindle s. E. iii 15 Religion should extinguish s. F. 133 Yet half mankind maintain a churlish s. H. 322 But oh! the s., the bickering, and debate H. 342 Assailed by scandal and the tongue of s. H. 576Friendship and Love seemed tenderly at s. H. 680 Alas! and is domestic s. M.F. 31 His will and judgment at continual s. T. 467 And in the charming s. triumphant still T. iv 163 Ensanguined hearts, clubs typical of s. T. iv 218 And reaped their plenty without grudge or s. T. v 203 Well spent in such a s., may earn indeed T. v 715 To seek a refuge from the tongue of S.—T. vi 841 In soothing sorrow, and in quenching s. T. vi 963 For her the Judgment, umpire in the s. Tir. 29 Nature in arms, her elements at s. T.T. 448

To scenes where competition, envy, s. V. 75

STRIKE.

But in the sunshine s. the blow A Fable 39 She s. out all that Luxury can ask Ch. 103 [Con. 32 Wrath stays him, or else God would s. them dumb A difference s. at length the musing heart Comp. i 8 By sparks Absurdity s. out of Pride Con. 148 S. the rough thread of error right athwart Ex.330(Though other follies s. the public eye $H.\ 620$ And cries, "Perhaps eternity s. next!" H. 701 [43 Who s. the blow, then plead your own defence Her. Precisely when the clock s. four " M.F. 14 If Love reward him, or if Vengeance s. P.E. 31 S. up the fiddles, let us all be gay! P.E. 150 The difference, though essential, fails to s. P.E. 204 S. on the deep-toned chord the sum of all P.E. 605 When he should s., he trembles and sets free T. iv 600 And, prophet as he was, he might not s. T. vi 468 In little bosoms such achievements s. Tir. 232 Your pupil s. upon have struck yourselves Tir. 270 To form thy son, to s. his genius forth Tir. 679 Wit, undistinguishing, is apt to s. T.T.~101Skill to direct, and strength to s. the blow T.T. 357 That like some cottage beauty, s. the heart T. T.524

STRING. Through the dry leaves, and pants upon the s. Ex.But passion rudely snaps the s. H.F. 7 Though Phœbus s. the lyre Miss -Such s. for all who need 'em Pat. 22 One that still needs his leading s. and bib P.E.531Or when it first forsakes the elastic s. P.E. 573 Ten thousand thousand s. at once go loose R. 329 No passion touches a discordant s. T. vi 787 The God that s. the silver bow Trans. H. 28 The s. are swept with such a power, so loud T.T.

His own offences, and s. others bare Ch. 494 To s. them off, 'tis being flayed alive P.E. 583 [759 By a just judgment s. and starve themselves T. iii To s. Jove's statue of his oaken wreath T. vi 640

Adust with s. told out for every crime T. 83 My penitential s., my streaming blood T. 95 With Nature's varnish; severed into s. T. i 40 With s., that Mercy, with a bleeding heart T. ii 24 S., and a dungeon; and his body serves T. v 582 Witness the patient ox, with s. and yells T. vi 420

STRIPLING.

That in good time the s.'s finished taste Tir. 203 Our s. shine indeed, but with such rays Tir. 286

STRIPPED.

That s. him bare, and broke his honest heart Ch. 54 As diamonds, s. of their opaque disguise Ch. 397 He s. the impostors in the noonday sun Ex. 141 Sweet Nature, s. of her embroidered robe Her. 79 For property s. off by cruel chance T. i 503 S. of her ornaments, her leaves, and flowers $ar{T}.$ iii

STRIVE.

He shakes with cold—you stir the fire and s. Con. Habits are soon assumed, but when we s. P.E. 582 The State that s. for liberty, though foiled T. v 367 Would s. to make a Paul or Tully stand T.T. 349 At Westminster, where little poets s. T.T. 506

STROKE.

A s. as fatal as the scythe of Death Ch. 144 At every s. Wit flashes in our eyes Ch. 543 The s. that a vindictive God intends Ex. 407 This riving s., this ultimate divorce H. 640 Wouldst softly speak, and s. my head and smile) M.P. And light and shade, and every s. be thine H. 673

On pangs enforced with God's severest s. R. 314
But imitative s. can do no more T. i 426
Turns to the s. his adamantine scales T. ii 324 [445
Forth comes the pocket mirror.—First we s. T. ii
Was to encourage goodness. He would s. T. ii 710
Discriminated each from each, by s. T. iv 735
By these fortuitous and random s. T. v 124
Alas! 'twas but a mortifying s. T. v 169 [T. v 666
He slights the s. of conscience. Nothing moves
To s. the prickly grievance, and to hang T. v 329
Its long delay, feels every welcome s. T. v 413
And death still future. Not a hasty s. T. v 608
To s. his azure neck, or to receive T. vi 781
Its destined office, yet with gentle s. T. vi 1003
And tells them, as he s. their silver locks Tir. 322
And s. his polished cheek of purest red Tir. 847
A prologue interdashed with many a s. T.T. 538

STROLLER.

Like useless lumber, or a s.'s song Con. 820

STRONG.

'Twas Nature, sir, whose s. behest B.R. 7 Herself as weak as her support is s. Ch. 408 They always are decisive, clear and s. Con. 150 The southern sash admits too s. a light Con. 331 Rich in embellishment as s. Dr. 11 But with a cherop clear and s. D.W. 25 Shot by an archer s. J.G. 154 S. genius, from whose forge of thought Mrs. M-23 Plants raised with tenderness are seldom s. P.E. 359 Delusions s. as Hell shall bind him fast P.E. 609 The warblings of the blackbird, clear and s. R. 569 S. Judgment labouring in the Scripture mine R. 698 So s. the zeal to immortalize himself T. i 284 $\lceil 402 \rceil$ The powers of fancy and s. thought are theirs T. i He stablishes the s., restores the weak T. ii 343 But s. for service still, and unimpaired T. ii 705 While every breath, by respiration s. T. iv 348 Adored through fear, s. only to destroy T. v 445 Been less, or less benevolent than s. T. v 852 His teeth were s., the cage was wood T.B. 53 [137 Whose humorous vein, s, sense, and simple style Tir. Schools, unless discipline were doubly s. Tir. 218 Soon shows the s. similitude reversed Tir. 443 Prepared for martyrdom, and s. to prove V. 61

STRONGER.

Worthier of regard, and s. N.C. 51 While prejudice in men of s. minds T. ii 567

STROVE.

But falsely. Sages after sages s. T. ii 506

STRUCK.

S. thrice the point upon his saddle bow A.T. 166 And having s. the balance, now proceed Con. 798 Thy Druids s. the well strung harps they bore Ex. 496 A palsy s. his arm, his sparkling eye T. ii 727 Your pupil strike upon have s. yourselves Tir. 270 Shouldering, and standing as if s. to stone T.T. 137 And a complete recovery s. him dumb T.T. 393 [663 Wit now and then, s. smartly, shows a spark T.T. He s. the lyre in such a careless mood T.T. 686

STRUCTURE.

This moveable s. of shelves Gr. 25 A mutilated s., soon to fall T. i 774

STRUGGLE.

Too weak to s. with tenacious clay T. 216 But Martyrs s. for a brighter prize T. v 718

STRUGGLING.

S., detained in many a petty nook N.A. 40 While s. in the vale of tears below T. 585

To his voracious bag, s. in vain T. iv 450 The s. efforts of my boyish tongue T. iv 711

STRUMPET.

Where neither s.'s charms, nor drinking bout Tir.
STRUNG. [496]

Thy Druids struck the well s. harps they bore E_{Z} . Who then, that has a mind well s. and tuned T.vi 262

STRUT. [T. vi 676 And s., and storm, and straddle, stamp, and stare

Than that heroic s. assumed before Con. 490 His wonted s.; and, wading at their head T. v 74 Is kept to s., look big, and talk away T.T. 233

STRUTTING.
Turning short round, s., and sideling P.T. 39
S. and vapouring in an empty school T. ii 330
And s. in thy school of Queens and Kings V. 45

STUART.

And when the S., leaning on the Scot Er. 574

STUBBORN.

That hard by nature, and of s. will E. ii 21
"Bespeak at least a s. soil E. iv 82
The Roman taught thy s. knee to bow Ex. 476
S. and sturdy, a wild ass's colt H. 182
If s. Greek refuse to be his friend P.E. 498
To meliorate and tame the s. soil R. 786
Unapt to learn, and formed of s. stuff T. iv 636
To prey upon each other: s., fierce T. vi 897
The s. soil, and hold thee still erect Y.O. 119

STUCCOED.

From s. walls smart arguments rebound H. 346 STUCK.

Which s, in M.'s stomach as cross as a bone A.T. ii 8 Fast s, within his own T.B. 60

STUDDED.

Less ostentatious, and yet s. thick T. iii 420

STUDENT.

Deceive no s. Wisdom there and truth T. vi 114

STUDIED.

And if he s., s. for her sake A.T. 18 Thus s., used and consecrated thus R. 105 I s., prized, and wished that I had known T. iv 722

STUDIOUS.

S. of peace, their neighbours' and their own Her. 50 Burly and big, and s. of his ease T. i 63 Of desultory man, s. of change T. i 507 But is amusement all? S. of song T. ii 311 And, s. of mutation still, discard T. ii 610 Me, therefore, s. of laborious ease T. iii 361 S. of ornament, yet unresolved T. vi 160

STUDIOUSLY.

Who s. make peace their aim N.G. 36

STUDS.

The s. that thick emboss his iron door T. ▼ 426

STUDY.

Grown dim in trifling s., blind he dies Ch. 358
Might swing at ease behind his s. door Ch. 615
His hours of s. closed at last Mor. 5
Who s. Nature with a wanton eye R. 213
Collect the scattered truths that S. gleans R. 274
To s. then familiar, since forgot R. 374
Most likes it, when he s. it in town R. 574
To s. culture, and with artful toil R. 785
Then S. languished, Emulation slept T. ii 734
He, entering at the s. door T.B. 37
A friend, whate'er he s. or neglects Tir. 391
Where, stillness aiding s., and his mind Tir. 773

Great lawyers, lawyers without s. made Tir. 822 Of dreaming s. and pedantic rust T.T. 171

STUDYING.

This wheel-footed s. chair Gr. 9

STUFF. [vi 674]
Shall s. his shoulders with King Richard's hunch T.
Lothario cries, "What philosophic s.! H. 28
Such s. the world is made of; and mankind H. 211
Unapt to learn, and formed of stubborn s. T. iv 636
And taught at schools much mythologic s. Tir. 197

STUFFED. [310 To find it s. with brickbats, earth, and stones Con. "No need," he cries, "of gravity, s. out H. 105 And o'er the seat, with plenteous wadding s. T. i 31

STUMBLED.

With one he s. on, and lost his walk Con. 280

STUMBLES.

Is tramontane, and s. all belief T. iv 533

STUMBLING.

To show a s. stone by night Trans. i 19

STUMP

So withered s. disgrace the sylvan scene Con. 51 By him of Babylon, life stands a s. T. v 401 A splintered s. bleached to a snowy white Y.O. 128

STUNG.

Not soon provoked, however s. and teased Ch. 428

STUNS.

And s. the neighbours round Trans. iv 24

STUPID.

Discerns in all things what, with s. gaze T. v 808

STUPIDITY.

And deem his base s. no crime T. 542

STUPOR

That never felt a s., know no pause T. iv 283

STURDY.

Where Obstinacy takes his s, stand Ex. 298
Stubborn and s., a wild ass's colt H. 182
Your blunderer is as s. as a rock P.E. 539
The s. swain diminished to a boy! T. i 162
The branches, s. to his utmost wish T. iii 590
Heedless of all his pranks, the s. churl T. v 52
Great schools suit best the s. and the rough Tir. 341
But bends his s. back to any toy Tir. 549

STY. [695] From tippling benches, cellars, stalls, and s. T. vi And judge you from the kennel and the s. P.E. 262 Of stale debauch, forth issuing from the s. T. iv 470

STYED.

I would not lose it to be s. M.B. 15

STYGIAN. [iii 738 Whose S. throats breathe darkness all day long T. While through the S. veil that blots the day Her. 17

STYLE. [102]
Surrender judgment hood-winked. Some the s. T. vi
Once more I would adopt the graver s. Ch. 489
Whose wit well managed, and whose classic s. R. 717
His books well trimmed, and in the gayest s. T. 421
The powers of sculpture, but the s. as much T. i 706
His manner, and with rapture tastes his s. T. iii 228
And him who writes it, though the s. be neat T. iii 278
By flowing numbers and a flowery s. T. T. 741 [137]
Whosehumorous vein, strong sense, and simple s. Tir.

SUBDUE.

Not to be led in chains, but to s. R. 266 He places lightly, and as time s. T. iii 518

SUBDUED.

For then, by toil s., he drank Cast. 47
We are restrained indeed, but not s. Con. 168
Wild without art, or artfully s. R. 416
What vice has it s.? whose heart reclaimed T. ii 320
As he whose prowess had s. their foes? T. v 237
Sorrow has, since they went, s. and tamed T. vi 46

SUBJECT.

And spare the poet for his s.'s sake Ch. 636
Whatever s. occupy discourse Con. 57
Their object, and their s., and their hope Con. 542
Save from the s. of that work alone Con. 740
And touch the s. I designed at first Con. 868
Dared to suppose the s. had a choice Ex. 544
Is yet no s. of despair F. 32
With blood of his s. imbrued M.D. 36
The Will made s. to a lawless force P.E. 448
The s. upon which we meet P.T. 24
The weight of s. worthiest of her care R. 678
But war's a game which, were their s. wise T. v 187
On s. more mysterious, they were yet T. v 290
A s. faults a s. may proclaim T.T. 113
They have their weight to carry, s. theirs T.T. 175
To dally much with s. mean and low T.T. 544
On every scene and s. it surveys T.T. 713

SUBJOIN.

A sad memorial, and s. his own T. v 420

SUBJUGATE.

The puny tyrant burns to s. H. 189

SUBLIME.

Matched against truths as lasting as s.? Con. 548
His more s. vagaries slighting E. i 17
Now borne upon the wings of Truth s. Ex. 466
A mind employed on so s. a theme R. 668
Beware of too s. a sense R.C. 109
But cawing rooks, and kites that swim s. T. 203
And woven close, or needlework s. T. i 34
To shake thy senate, and from heights s. T. ii 216
Presuming an attempt not less s. T. iii 459
S. above the rest, the statelier stand T. iii 595
To themes more pertinent, if less s. T.T. 190

SUBLIMED.

The soul that sees him, or receives s. T. v 805

SUBLIMELY.

Be most s. good, verbosely grand T. v 678 Though more s., he o'erlooks the world T. vi 918

SUBLIMER.

But where are its s. trophies found? T. ii 319

SUBLIMEST.

While life's s. joys are overlooked Ch. 219 Compared with this s. life below R. 103 To the sharp peak of her s. height T. iii 157 'Twas his s. privilege to feel T. vi 359

SUBLIMITY.

S, and attic taste combined T.T. 644

SUBLUNARY.

Or other s. game Mor. 28 Had I the choice of s. good T. iii 689 To seek no s. rest beside T. v 476

SUBMARINE.

Æthereal journeys, s. exploits T. iv 85

SUBMERSION.

By cold s., razor, rope, or lead R. 584

SUBMISSION.

And find s. more than half a cure Ch. 158 I learned at last s. to my lot M.P. 44

SUBMISSIVE.

Then would be say, s. at thy feet Ch. 232

SUBMIT.

Prove it; -- if better, I s. and bow Ex. 633 His pride, that scorns to obey or to s. Tir. 226 SUBMITTED.

It turns s. to my view, turns round T. iv 98

SUBORDINATE.

S., and diligence was choice T. ii 716

SUBORNED.

And life abused, and not to be s. H. 224

SUBSCRIBE.

Extravagance and Avarice shall s. Ch. 467

SUBSERVIENCY.

S. his praise, and that alone T.T. 361

SUBSERVIENT.

Is made s. to the grand design Con. 897 SUBSIDE.

And captious cavil and complaint s. H. 144 Woods vanish, hills s., and valleys rise T. iii 775

SUBSIST. Built a brave world, which cannot yet s. Ch. 192 Nor such as may awhile s. F. 40

By ceaseless action all that is s. T. i 367 Due sustenance, or where s. they now? T. v 79 S. and centre in one point—a friend Tir. 390 Change is the diet on which all s. Y.O. 72

SUBSISTENCE.

S. to provide T.B. 33

SUBSISTING. The very name we carved s. still Tir. 301

SUBSTANCE. That s., and modes of every kind A.T. 42 Imparting s. to an empty shade T. iv 527

SUBSTANTIAL. By stout s. gods of wood and stone Con. 834 That men have deemed s. since the fall H. 154 S. happiness for transient joy T. iii 300

SUBSTANTIALLY

Your faith and mine s. agree H. 398

SUBSTITUTE.

The s. for genius, sense, and wit T.T. 543

SUBTERFUGE.

No s., or pleading F. 189 By forgery, by s. of law T. ii 670

While summer was, the pure and s. lymph T. vi 135

SUBTLE.

The s. and injurious may be just Con. 809

SUBTLEST.

The s. serpent with the loftiest crest T. 476

SUBTLETY.

What edge of s. canst thou suppose T. iii 203

SUBURBAN.

S. villas, highway-side retreats R. 481

SUCCEED.

And, Avarice being judge, with ease s. Ch. 195 Sure to s., the remedy they found Con. 500 And, cursed with conquest, finally s. Con. 692 With tiptoe-step Vice silently s. Ex. 84 An envious man, if you s. F. 76

In which 'tis much if we s. F. 197

Turn downward, and the lowest pair s. H. 14 But proudest of the worst, if that s. H. 202

This earth shall blaze, and a new world s. H. 749 A calm s.—but Plenty, with her train Her. 63

Of heartfelt joys, s. not soon again Her. 64 Where to s. is not to be undone Her. 88

And interdicts its growth. Thence straight s. T. iii Such friends prevent what else would soon s. R. 731 And still they dream that they shall still s. T. iii 128

It may s.; and, if his sins should call Tir. 410

Time has but half s. in his theft M.P. 120 Those barbarous ages past, s. next T. i 16 A leaf s., and another leaf Y.O. 37

Successive loads s. broils impose Ex.308So soon s. such an angry night T. vi 259

May such s. attend the pious plan Con. 837

That no s. attends on spears and swords Ex. 352

Whoe'er assails thee, thy s. is sure Ex.701

And if s, his steps attend F. 82 S. in rhyme his glory and reward R. 198

With what s, let modern manners show R. 686 Solicit pleasure; hopeless of s. T. ii 635

But wisdom is a pearl with most s. T. iii 381 To combat may be glorious, and s. T. iii 687

Sordid and sickening at his own s. T. iii 810 With most s. when all besides decay T. iv 157

Thwart his attempt, or envy his s. T. iv 787

"That give assurance of their own s. T. v 843His high endeavour, and his glad s. T. v 901 Lest power exerted, but without s. Tir. 277

Are best disposed of where with most s. Tir. 348 Each vainly magnifies his own s. Tir. 476

The same their occupation and s. T.T. 46 Thus all s. depending on an ear T.T. 514 The man that means s., should soar above T.T. 548

SUCCESSFUL.

But yet s., being aimed at him Con. 540 S. there, he wins a curse Mor. 48 Beyond the achievement of s. flight T. i 692 Of unsuccessful or s. war T. ii 4

SUCCESSFULLY.

And plant s. sweet Sharon's rose H. 463 S. conceals her loathsome form P.E. 8

SUCCESSION.

From these a long s., in the rage T.T. 630

SUCCESSIVE.

S. loads succeeding broils impose Ex. 308

SUCCINCY.

A tale should be judicious, clear, s. Con. 235

SUCCOUR.

Some s. yet they could afford Cast. 25 To s. wasted regions, and replace Ch. 129 None interposes now to s. thee Ex. 279

SUCCULENT.

And s., that feeds its giant growth T. iii 418

SUCK.

And s., and leave a craving magget there P.E.326If some mere driveller s, the sugared fib P.E. 530 S. down its prey insatiable. Immense T. ii 103 That s. him; there the sycophant, and he T. iii 818 He s. intelligence in every clime T. iv 111

SUCKED.

And s. a breast that panted with alarms Ex. 473And s. in dizzy madness with his draught H. 518 SUCKLED.

F364 Hast thou, though s. at fair Freedom's breast Ex.

SUDDEN.

I interrupt him with a s. bow Con. 281 To every s. slip and transient wrong H. 390 Such was thy charity; no s. start J.T. 41 But recollecting, with a s. thought N. A. 51 A s. steep upon a Rustic Bridge T. i 267 Resistless. Never such a s. flood T. ii 115 And loudly wondering at the s. change T. iv 451 Snorting, and starting into s. rage T. vi 550

SUDDENLY

But s. a wind, as high A Fable 10 May s. your joys disperse F. 65 Then s. regain the prize 1789, 54

SUFFER.

Bid s. it awhile, and kiss the rod Ch. 166 The Sacred Book no longer s. wrong H. 449 It s. interruption and delay P.E. 442 Than he contrives to s. well content T. 104 Ten starveling hermits s. less than he T. 112 Health s., and the spirits ebb; the heart T. i 466 At what a sailor s.; Fancy too T. i 541 S. a syncope and solemn pause T. ii 80 S. his woes, and share in his escapes T. iv 117 Because men s. it, their toy the World T.v 192 [433 With woes, which who that s. would not kneel T. v In those that s. it, a sordid mind T. v 453 His strength to s., and his will to serve T. v 902 Should s. torture, and the streams be dyed T. vi 390 To meaner music, and not s. loss T. vi 750 And s. for its crime; would learn how fair T. vi 827 S. his justice in a world to come Tir. 102

SUFFERANCE.

Whose freedom is by s., and at will T. v 363

SUFFERED.

Thy rights have s., and our land, too long Ch. 277 "Nor s. one ill-chosen rhyme E. iv 75 How much his feelings s., sat Sir Smug H. 416 To bear it, s. shame where'er he went H. 587 S. by virtue combating below? J.T. 18 Else He that hung there s. all his pain P.E. 623

SUFFERER.

And thou, sad s. under nameless ill R. 343 But gives the glorious s. little praise T. v 732Laughs at the frantic s.'s fury, spent T. vi 423 By s. like herself alone 1789, 49

SUFFERING.

Each individual, s. a constraint Con. 383 "S. the vengeance of eternal fire" Ex. 423 Doing and s., his unquestioned will Ex. 645 But Ætnas of the s. world ye sway? Her. 78 "To s. not my own Miss -By our s., since ye brought us N.C. 45 S. with gladness for a Saviour's sake R.776If s. Scripture nowhere recommends T. 109 And sympathize with others s. more T. iv 310 Did pity of their s. warp aside T. iv 453

SUFFICE.

S. it then in decent terms to say A.T. 86 But will sincerity s.? F. 55 I am no preacher; let this hint s. P.E. 621 Like that, once seen, s. Q.V. 78 S. to give the marshalled ranks the grace T. iii 601 S. thee; save that the moon is thine T. iv 254 And his own cattle must s. him soon T. vi 710

SUFFICED.

As the wind sways it, has yet well s. T. vi 73

SUFFICIENCY.

With much s. in royal brains T.T. 52

SUFFICIENT.

And death's a doom s. for the rest H. 396 Charge not, with light s. and left free T. 19 S. to redeem the modern race T.T. 664

SUFFOCATE.

And s. the breath at every turn T. ii 819 The theatre, too small, shall s. T. vi 670

For how could we do without s, and rum? P.A. 6 Especially s., so needful we see ? P.A.7

SUGARED.

If some mere driveller suck the s. fib P.E. 530

SUGGEST.

S. it safe, or dangerous, to be plain Ch. 520 S. the expedient of a yearly fast Ex. 401 Pleasure herself perhaps s. a plea Ex. 666 That Fashion, Taste, or Luxury s. H. 446 Let no low thought s. the prayer Miss - 65 The growing seeds of wisdom; that s. T. iii 302

The worst s., she believes the best Ch. 427 Convenience next s. Elbow Chairs T. i 87

Your wilful s. on God's decree T. 20

Nor soft enough to s. a lover's tongue A.T. 20 As oft as it s. her to roam C. 52 Puts off his generous nature, and, to s. Ch. 153 And sounds prophetic are too rough to s. Ex. 67Contrived to s. frail nature's crazy case H. 604 In sorting flowers to s. a fickle taste H. 767 [P.E.132] So well that thought the employment seems to s. The rank debauch s. Clodio's filthy taste P.E. 188 And your only s., a shroud St. iv 16 The truth is (if the truth may s. your ear T. 113 Of libertine excess. The Sofa s. T. i. 106 Her mingled s. and sequences, and sits T. i. 475 S. well the thoughtful or unthinking mind T. iv 279 With music such as s. their sovereign ears T. v 387Would urge a wiser s. than asking more T. vi $56 \lceil 341$ Great schools s. best the sturdy and the rough Tir. Whom care and cool deliberation s. Tir. 781

SUITED.

Were s. to their mind J.G. 58

SUITOR.

The s.'s air indeed he soon improves R. 237

SULLEN.

Brings to the distant ear a s. sound Her. 36 Peace to the phlegm of s. elves Miss - 61 And s. sadness, that o'ershade, distort T. i 457 I would not yet exchange thy s. skies T. ii 212 And ever, as the s. sound is heard T. v 405The dark and s. humour of the time T.T. 616 Your s. silence serves at least to tell V. 25

SULLENLY.

Yes, to deep sadness s. resigned Ch. 151 Well-chosen, and not s. perused T. iii 393

SULLIED.

Is s. in the stream, taking a taint T. vi 834

SULLY.

These are the charms that s. and colipse T. iii 825

SULTRY.

From s. suns, and in their shaded walks T. i 256

Nor freezing sky nor s., checking me T. vi 297 The dust that waits upon his s. march T. vi 741

He half exhibits, and then drops the s. Ch. 478 Compress the s. into its solid worth Con. 20 His ambiguities his total s. Con. 143 With s. Peruvian mines could never clear Ex. 285 Employed to calculate the enormous s. P.E. 486 Strike on the deep-toned chord the s. of all P.E. 605 With the vain stir. Is. up half mankind T. iii 130 Some relish, till the s., exactly found T. v 430 [581 The s. is this. If man's convenience, health \bar{T} , vi What s. he lost at play, and how he sold Tir. 330 Less trouble taking twice the s. Y.D. 67

A.T. 79 SUMMER. Lay snug and warm; -'twas s.'s farewell peep! As ever dressed a bank, or scented s. air Ch. 259 Should flow like waters after s. showers Con. 705 Yet He was gentle as soft s. airs Ex. 133 The greenhouse is my s. seat F.B. 1 Was heard, one genial s.'s day J.P. 31 As in some solitude the s. rill J.T. 38 Ordained perhaps, ere s. flies O. i 17 Her s. heats, her fruits, and her perfumes R. 196 And like a s. brook are past away R. 296 All s. long, which winter fills again T. i 329 My languid limbs, when s. sears the plains T. iii 30 Hence S. has her riches, Autumn hence T. iii 427 These have their sexes; and when s. shines T. iii 537 With s. fruits, brought forth by wintry suns T. iii 552 How find the myriads that in s. cheer T. v 77 While s. was, the pure and subtile lymph T. vi 135 He cannot skim the ground like s. birds T. vi 921 S. in haste the thriving charge receives Tir. 45 Theirs is but a s. song Trans. iii 27 A chilling flood on s.'s drooping flowers T.T. 211

SUMMER-MONTHS'.

Be quelled in all our s. retreats T. iii 315

SUMMING.

Like shallow brooks which s. suns exhale! V. 2

And, after s. all the rest F. 202

SUMMIT.

The s. gained, behold the proud Alcove T. i 278 Blown on the s. of the apparent fruit T. iii 536 That tempts Ambition. On the s. see T. iv 58 O'er the green s. of the rocks, whose base T. vi 496

The thunder seems to s. him away H. 719 Now s. every virtue, stand and plead T. 566 By magic s. of the Orphean lyre T. iii 587 That sweeps the bolted shutter, s. home T. iv 304 Account it music; that it s. some T. v 409That leads the dance a s. to be gay T. vi 336

SUMMONED.

"Mark these," she says, "these, s. from afar H. Had s. them to serve his golden god P.E. 131 Man shall be s. and the dead attend? R.654The creatures, s. from their various haunts T. vi 355 And, s. to partake its fellow's woe V. 69

SUMMONING.

That moving signal s., when best Ex. 179May prove a trumpet, s. your ear T. iv 570 Else, s. the muse to such a theme T.T. 550

SUMPTUOUS.

Mark what a s. Pharisee is he! T. 59 Time was, when clothing, s. or for use T. i 8

SUMPTUOUSLY.

Not s. adorned, nor needing aid T. iv 251

The s. matures on India's spicy shores Ch. 442 A Persian, humble servant of the s. Con. 67 And like the stores autumnal s, mature Con. 649 Broiling beneath a July s. E. iv 50 When the s.'s shafts disperse the gloom of night Whom flery s., that scorch the russet spice Ex. 15He stripped the impostors in the noonday s. Ez. 141 The s., obedient, at her call appears H. To make the s. a bauble without use H. 81 And scorns to share it with the distant s. H. 480 Not e'en the glorious s., though men revere H.501Not e'en the s., desirable as rare H.505Oh! welcome now the s.'s once hated light H. 736 And the s. gilds the shining spires again Her. 72 The s. would rise in vain for me M. 31 Shed light, like a s. on the waves M.D. 14 In vain warm s. their influence shed Miss - 37 And s. to come, as round they wheel Miss -Just reached it when the s. was set Mor. 22 His s. precipitate descend Mor. 54 The s. accomplishing his early march N.A. 29 [81] The s., a world whence other worlds drink light R. With all a July s.'s collected rays R. 484 The evening came, the s. descended R.C. 65 Told that his setting s. must rise no more St. ii 16 Earth, seas, and s., adieu! St. iii 10 From sultry s., and in their shaded walks T. i 256 Some glossy-leaved, and shining in the s. T. i 314 Now glitters in the s. and now retires T. i 324 $\lceil 335 \rceil$ Refreshing change! where now the blazing s. ? T. i So lately found, although the constant s. T. i 621 Those s. are set. Oh, rise some other such! T. ii 252 At measured distances, that air and s. T. iii 424 [443 As the s. peeps, and vernal airs breathe mild $ilde{T}_{m{\cdot}}$ iii

The s. of that moment is set C. 3

To give the pole the produce of the s. Ch. 123

By roses, and clear s. though scarcely felt T. iii 733 And dreaded as thou art; Thou hold'st the s. T. iv 129 Of the undeviating and punctual s. T. vi 129 And is not ere to-morrow's s. go down T. vi 215 To the green blade that twinkles in the s. T. vi 251

The s.'s meridian disk, and at the back T. iii 473 [552

With summer fruits brought forth by wintry s. T. iii

'lis morning; and the s. with ruddy orb T. v 1 [645

Has made a Heaven on earth; with s. and moons T. iii

The s. proceeds, I wander. Neither must T. vi 236 To frisk awhile, and bask in the warm s. T. vi 314 Bright as a s. the sacred city shines T. vi $800 \, \text{Fe} \, i \, 433$ Where England, stretch'd towards the setting s. T To yon fair S. and his attendant Earth? Tir. 36 A meteor, or a star; in these, the s. T.T.575

And as the s. in rising beauty dressed T.T. 706 Like shallow brooks which summer s. exhale! V. 2 SUNBEAM.

Weigh s., carve a fly, or spit a flea Ch. 354 Like s. on the golden height Mrs. M-3; Meridian s. tempt him to unfold T. 60 The s.; there embossed and fretted wild T. v 118

SUNBURNT

We wander o'er a s. thirsty soil Ch. 220 There from the s. hayfield homeward creeps T. i 295

SUNDAY.

Resort on S. to the house of prayer H.242To play the fool on S., why not we? P.E. 147

My numbers that day she had s. C. 17 I know the warning song is s. in vain Ex. 721As hath been said or s. J.G. 108 And methought while she Liberty s. M.D. 23 Hardly knows that he has s. St. iv 4

S. to the praise and glory of King George! T. vi 663 Foretold by prophets, and by poets s. T. vi 731 Nor can the wonders it records be s. T. vi 749 I hear as mute as if a Syren s. T.T. 199 And tell the world, still kindling as he s. T.T. 736

SUNK.

His eyes are s., arms folded, head reclined H. 689 All s. beneath the wave R.G. 3 Our foot half s. in hillocks green and soft T. i 272Seems s., and shortened to its topmost boughs T. i 306 He s. in Greece, in Italy he rose T.T. 563

A western bank's still s. side Mor. 18 They bound, and siry, o'er the s. glade St. ii 22 Remains to each, the search of s. nook T. v 71 From the shelter of that s. shed W.N. 6

SUNSET.

Down to the s. of their latest day Tir. 82

SUNSHINE.

But in the s. strikes the blow A Fable 39) Shadow and s. intermingling quick T. i 347 Her s. and her rain, her blooming spring T. vi 946 If God give health, that s. of our days! V. 88

SUPERADD.

I s. a few essentials more H. 434

SUPERB.

And fledged with icy feathers, nod s. T. v 26 Or is thine house, though less s. thy rank Tir. 751

SUPERBLY.

And ribands streaming gay, s. raised T. iv 541 In fancy sees him more s. ride Tir. 368 In painted plumes s. dressed Trans. iv 1

SUPERCILIOUS.

Then let the s. great confess T. vi 967

SUPERFLUITY. Her s. the poor supplies Ch. 455

SUPERFLUOUS.

Cards were s. here, with all the tricks T. iv 207

SUPERIOR.

Owns no s. but the God she fears Ch. 275 And though the soul shall seek s. orbs Ch. 563 Of man's s. breed D.W. 40 To mar delights s. to its own E. ii 34 By good vouchsafed makes known s, good H. 147 That make s, skill his second praise H. 206 Joy, far s. joy, that much outweighs H. 728 A stranger to s. strength H.F. 19 Thou hadst supposed them of s. race N.A. 74 Pride, of a growth s. to the rest T. 475 With what s. skill we can abuse T. i 637 At least s. jockeyship, and claim T. ii 276 Of a s., he is never free T. v 364 A far s, happiness to theirs T, vi 343 S. as we are, they yet depend T. vi 608 Attends s. worth Th. 16 The stout tall captain, whose s. size Tir. 223

SUPERSTITION.

Of $s_{\cdot \cdot}$, prophesying still $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ iv 29 1 Need no such aids as s. lends T. vi 510 No shades of s. blot the day T.T. 270

SUPERSTITIOUS.

A s. and monastic course R. 118

SUPERSTRUCTURE.

Though all the s., by the tooth Y.O. 123

SUPINE,

Take, if ye can, ye careless and s. P.E. 9

SUPINELY.

If priest, s. droning o'er his charge H. 198

SUPPER.

And found a s. somewhere else N.G. 26 "Shall call to s., when, no doubt R.C. 63

SUPPLANT.

Seek to s. his inexperienced youth P.E. 59 War followed for revenge, or to s. T. i 609 S. thee in it, and usurp thy place Tir. 890

SUPPLANTED.

And soon to be s. He that saw T. iii 751

SUPPLE.

S. and flexible as Indian cane H. 602 Oh! if Servility with s. knees T.T. 127

SUPPLEMENTAL.

By s. shifts, the best he may ? T. iv 769 Nor smooth good-breeding (s. grace) T. vi 853

SUPPLIANTS.

But oft-times deaf to s. who would blush T. iv 415

SUPPLICATE.

To s. his mercy, love his ways Con. 661

SUPPLIED.

For cedars famed, fair Lebanon s. A.T. 143 And all s, from an eternal source Ch. 370 That tells us whence his treasures are s. Ch. 440 Their want of light and intellect s. Con. 147 Must be s. with objects of his choice P.E. 46 Or if yourself, too scantily s. P.E. 251 And with a clear and shining lamp s. P.E. 558 Whence life can be s. St. vi 4With spirit, genius, eloquence, s. T. 305 That interlaced each other, these s. T. i 41So rich, so thronged, so drained, and so s. T. i 720 That monarchs have s., from age to age T. v 386S. such relics as devotion holds T. vi 689 "Ambition in a boy s. Th. 7
When copiously s., then most enlarged Tir. 19
A point secured, if once he be s. Tir. 698 The country's need have scantily s. T.T. 338 Art has in a measure s. W.N. 3

SUPPLY.

And in return receives s. from all Ch. 92 Than she s. from her abounding store Ch. 102 Who makes some rich for the s. of all Ch. 251 Her superfluity the poor s. Ch. 455 Springs in due time s. for the distressed Ch. 482 Or taxed invention for a fresh s. Ch. 514 Exuberant is the shadow it s. Ch. 577 Ambrosial gardens, in which Art s. Ex. 11. Were fountains fed with infinite s. Ex. 34The yawning chasm of indolence s. ! P.E. 172 As leanest land s, the richest wine T, 361 His wants, indeed, are many; but s. T. i 597 By monitors that mother church s. T. ii 576 Exhausted, has had genius to s. T. ii 609 That hungers, and s. it; and who sceks T. iii 375 He, therefore, timely warned, himself s. T. iii 439 Indulged in what they wish, they soon s. T. iii 534 S. his need with a usurious loan T. iii 798 Afford the smaller minstrels no s. T. v 84With flower and fruit the wilderness s. Tir. 27 A plan well worthy to s. their place Tir. 918 S. with warm activity and force T.T. 220 Oaks fell not, hewn by thousands, to s. Y.O. 101Eventful, should s. her with a theme . . . Y.O. 161

SUPPORT.

Herself as weak as her s. is strong Ch. 408

That, while in health, the ground of her s. Con. 771 The pillars of s. in which they trust Ex. 333 Thus between Justice, as my prime s. H. 377 S., and ornament of Virtue's cause T. ii 336 Of novelty, her fickle, frail s. T. iii 54 For their s., so destitute. But they T. iv 455

SUPPORTABLE.

Short as it is, s. Still worse T. v 601.

SUPPORTED.

S. by despair of life Cast. 18 And constantly s. F. 51One leg by truth s., one by lies P.E. 561

SUPPORTERS.

Between s.; and, once seated, sit T. i 479 SUPPORTING.

Of faith's s. rod St. iii 14

SUPPOSE.

"Again, would your lordship a moment s. A.C. 17 S. (when thought is warm, and fancy flows Ch. 379 What will not argument sometimes s.?) Ch. 380 What few can learn, and all s, they know Ch. 627 S. themselves monopolists of sense Con. 627 Dared to s. the subject had a choice Ex.5448. the beam should dip on the wrong side H.374'Tis not, as heads that never ache s. R. 323 8., unlooked for in a scene so rude T. 248 What edge of subtlety canst thou s. T. iii 208 His pleasant work, may he s. it done T. iii 656 That to s. a scene where she presides T. iv 532 That feed the thrush (whatever some s.) T. v 83Might well s. the artificer divine T. v 561 Of the poor brute, seems wisely to s. T. vi 437 Less on exterior things than most s. T.T. 247 SUPPOSED.

That wedlock is not rigorous, as s. A.T. 58 S. the man a bishop, or at least Con. 71 At length, when all had long s. him dead R. 583Thou hadst s. them of superior race N.A. 74 Might be s. to clamour for a guide N.A. 98 And still admiring, with regret s. T. iv 716 Might be s. a crow Trans. ii 3

SUPPOSING.

Who losing, or s. lost 1789, 50

SUPPOSITION.

Let s, lend her aid once more Ch. 383 The s. is replete with sin T. 347

SUPPRESS.

Shall raise no fends for armies to s. T.T. 317

SUPPRESSED.

Serve as a key to those that are s. Ch. 524 With force not easily s. F.B. 14 Though long rebelled against, not yet s. R. 16With slender notes, and more than half s. T. vi 80 To ecstasy too big to be s. T. vi 340

SUPREME.

Yet above all, his luxury s. Con. 619 He views it with complacency s. P.E. 522 S. on earth, and worthy of the skies T. 403 And arbitration wise of the S.-T. ii 165 Scenes such as these, 'tis his s. delight T. iii 306

SUPREMELY.

The hand of the S. Wise E. i 34 In sighs he worships his s. fair R.225

SURCHARGED.

Still to be fed, and not to be s. Tir. 20

479

Gold, to be s. !-Throughout the town 'tis told Ch. Old Tiny, s. of his kind Ep. ii 5

S. not to conquer, and s. not to yield Ch. 621 Reply discreetly--"To be s.—no doubt!" Con. 118 The very remedy, however s. Con. 169 Never, if honest ones, when death is s. Con. 408 8. to succeed, the remedy they found Con. 500 Its head as guarded as its base is s. Con. 556 The soul's s. interest in the good she seeks Con. 728 "S. so much labour, so much toil E. iv 81 They knew, by s. prognostics seen on high Er. 157 Made s. by prodigies till then unknown Ex. 174 Had they maintained allegiance firm and s. Er. 207 The event and s. decision of the fight? Ez. 363 Whoe'er assails thee, thy success is s. Ez. 701The sound of truth will then be s. to please Ez. 731 For tattlers, will be s. to hear F. 98 Hope, as an anchor firm and s., holds fast H. 167 Would disobey, though s. to be shut out H. 315 And s. it is as kind to smile and give H. 323 Then theirs, no doubt, as well as mine is s. H. 389 On Scripture ground are s. to disagree H. 599 No judges, s., were e'er so mad J.P. 25S. ne'er to want them, mathematic truths N.A. 80 Peace follows Virtue as its s. reward P.E. 42 The creature is so s. to kick and bite P.E. 540 Could I, from Heaven inspired, as s. presage St. ii 1 And the world's hatred, as its s. effect T. 282 S. there is need of social intercourse T. ii 49 By necessary laws their s. effects T. ii 192 Allured by my report: but s. no less T. iii 699 Was s. to intoxicate the brows it bound T. v 245By charter, and that charter sanctioned s. T. v 543 How lovely, and the moral sense how s. T. v 673 Insipid else, and s. to be despised T. vi 1016 When led by instinct sharp and s. T.B. 32 Else s. notorious fact, and proof so plain Tir. 259 The event is s.; expect it, and rejoice! Tir. 343 And his end s., without one glimpse of hope Tir. 427 Twere wiser s. to inspire a little heart Tir. 451 S. to exhaust the plant on which they feed Tir. 604 So s. to spoil him, and so near at hand Tir. 697 Were education, else so s. to fail Tir. 702 Where early rest makes early rising s. Tir. 765 But, if thou guard its sacred chambers s. Tir. 831 But this is s.—the hand of might Trans. i 9 When most relied on is most s. to fail V. 68

Or shoot the careless with a s. aim R. 218 Soothe thee to make thee but a s. prey R. 263

SUREST.

The s. presage of the good they seek T. v 378

SURETY.

Soon after He that was our s. died Con. 506

SURF.

Her silver globes, light as the foamy s. T. vi 155

To brush the s., and to make it flow Con. 102 Upon the s. of the mind E. i 8 Beneath the smiling s. of the deep H. 184 Diffused, attain the s.; when, behold! T. iii 493

SURFEITED.

And s. lewd town with her fair dues T. iii 758

[Er. 573 "What tidings?" and the s. replied—"All lost!" And asking of the s. that bathes thy foot T. i 655 Beats back the roarings., scarce heard so high T. vi 197

SURGEON.

Deeper in none than in their s.'s books Tir. 289

SURLIEST.

SURLY.

Because a bear is rude and s.? No Con. 192 Not rude and s., and beset with thorns T. i 601 S. and slovenly, and bold and coarse T.T. 682

SURMOUNTS.

And trusting in his God, s. them all R.H. 8

SURPASS.

And till a third s. you L.R. 23

And labours to s. him day and night Tir. 480

SURPASSED.

New to my taste his Paradise s. T. iv 710 A sight s. by none that we can show Tir. 541 S. in frenzy by the mad at large Tir. 820 Contemporaries all s., see one T.T. 670

SURPASSEST.

Thou s., happier far Trans. iii 19

SURPASSING.

With power s. theirs, performed her part Ex. 230 Is vanity s. all the rest" H. 110 S. all that mine or mint had given J.T. 30

O blessed proficiency! s. all R. 99

O scenes s. fable, and yet true T. vi 759 And armed with strength s. human powers T.T. 497

SURPRISE.

The turns are quick, the polished points s. Ch. 544 Is that which angles hourly for s. Con. 223 Glistening at once with pity and s. H. 533

SURPRISED.

S. at all they meet, the gosling pair P.E. 379 Then God might be s., and unforeseen T. ii 171

SURRENDER.

Plebeians must s. F. 117

S. judgment, hood-wink'd. Some the style T. vi 102

SURRENDERED.

The heart, s. to the ruling power P.E. 275

SURROUNDING. Lord paramount of the s. plains H.305

S. throngs the demigod revere T. 312

I am monarch of all I s. A.S. 1

That all the various beauties we s. A.T. 48

While his own heaven s. the troubled scene Ex. 586 Unconscious nature, all that he s. H. 740

The gloomy scene s. N. 10

Then with a glance of Fancy to s. R. 73

S. his fair reversion with keen eye T. ii 601

S. our schools and colleges, and see Tir. 909 On every scene and subject it s. T.T. 713

SURVEYED.

Their beauties I intent s. D.W. 15 S. the scene, and took possession R.C. 44 At once, upstood intelligent, s. Y.O. 150

SURVEYING.

Awhile they mused; s. every face N.A. 73 Thus sitting, and s. thus at ease T. iv 94

He long s., who lives an hour Cast. 37 Please daily, and whose novelty s. T. i 178 That yet a remnant of your race s. T. i 340 A new possessor, and s. the change T. ii 110 Or does the tomb take all? If he s. T. ii 518 If I s. thee, I will dig thy grave T. iii 349

SURVIVED

Of Paradise that has s. the fall! T. iii 42 Who had s. the father, served the son T. iii 748

His art s. the waters; and ere long T. v 220See how they have safely s. W.N. 1'

SURVIVING.

That the s. world may live in peace Con. 176

SURVIVOR.

They shriek and sink, s. start and weep R. 159 S. sole, and hardly such, of all Y.O. 1

"S. will come and let me out" R.C. 64 Here, Sally, S., come, come quick Trans. iv 29

SUSCEPTIBLE.

S. of pity, or a mind T. iii 323

SUSPECT.

And if he but s. a frown, turns pale T. 216 "Falsehood! which whose but s. of truth T. v 642

SUSPECTED.

Is most to be s. ? F. 24

To be s., thwarted, and withstood T.T. 141

SUSPEND.

The fast that wins deliverance, and s. Ex. 406 S. the effect, or heal it? Has not God T. ii 197 S. their crazy boxes, planted thick T. iv 774 Sits cooing in the pine-tree, nor s. T. vi 308 "Stop, while ye may; s. your mad career T.T. 435

SUSPENDED.

Nor yet at eve his note s. N.G. 3

SUSPENSE.

He ties up all his hearers in s. Con. 130 Upon the ticklish balance of s. T. iii 550

SUSPICION.

S. lurks not in her artless breast Ch. 426 And even from s. F. 150 Her grave concern, her kind s., there H. 516

SUSTAIN

But man is frail, and can but ill s. Ex. 81 This process achieved, it is doomed to s. F.M. 9 Next to that power who formed thee and s. R. 201 For more than half the tresses it s. T. iv 544 S., and is the life of all that lives T. vi 222 Unenvied there, he may s. alone Tir. 535 Delight in agitation, yet s. Y.O. 82

Of the rude injuries it late s. Con. 906 All s. by patience, taught us N.C. 47 Created and s. Q.V. 60What means the drama by the world s. P R. 646 Of provocation given or wrong s. T. v 315 S. with so much grace and art Trans. iv 35

SUSTENANCE.

The chase for s., precarious trust! T. i 611 Due s., or where subsist they now? T. v 79

SWAIN.

Thanks, gentle s., for all my woes G. 13 Let cottagers, and unenlightened s. H. 240 Ten thousand s. the wasted scene deplore Her. 39 The sturdy s. diminished to a boy! \hat{T} . i 162 How many self-deluded nymphs and s. T. iii 316 Or charged with amorous sighs of absent s. T. iv 20 Nymphs were Dianas then, and s. had hearts T. iv517 And patient of the slow-paced s.'s delay T. v 32 The \hat{s} their baskets make T.B. 30 The clumsy s. alight Y.D. 22

SWALLOW.

And a wide ocean s. both at last Comp. i 6 He does not s., but he gulps it down Con. 340

r f

To s. much upon much weaker proof Con. 722 Pursued the s. o'er the meads D.W. 11 As the leaf that enfolds what an invalid s. F.M. 22 The s. in their torpid state N. 1 Obscene, to swill and s. at a trough? P.E. 268 S. the two grand nostrums they dispense P.E. 594 As duly as the s. disappear T. iii 814Ye all can s., and she asks no more T. iv 512

SWALLOWED.

Thus bit by bit the world is s. L.W. 84

SWALLOWING.

And s., therefore, without pause or choice T. vi 107 The auburn nut that held thee s. down Y.O. 20

SWAMP.

The arbiters of this terraqueous s. T. v 281

SWAN.

And, river-blanched, the s. his snow Mrs. M = 8 [523 Like a proud s., conquering the stream by force T.T.And ages ere the Mantuan S. was heard T.T. 557

SWARM.

Perhaps might prosper with a s. of bees Con. 288 The trumpet sounds, your legions s. abroad Her. 53 Poisoning the waters where their s. abound P.E. 491 Nor yet the s. that occupy the brain R. 641 S. in all quarters; meets the eye, the ear T. ii 818 The Levee s., as if in golden pomp T. iii 822 Hypericum all bloom, so thick a s. T. vi 165 S. in the streets. The statesmen of the day T. vi 696 They s. around thee, and thou stand'st at bay T.T.365

SWARMED.

So s. the Sabine youth, and grasped the shield \overline{A} . T. S. with a scribbling herd, as deep inlaid T.T. 628

SWARMING. [iii 555 Moisture and drought, mice, worms, and s. flies T. For interest sake or s. into clans T. iv 665

Of grassy s., close-cropped by nibbling sheep T. i Like a s. Indian with his belt of beads T. iv 749

SWATHE.

He s. about the swelling of the deep R.527They s. the forehead, drag the limping limb T. i 581

SWAY.

Thy posterity shall s. B. 30 And brings the trifler under rigorous s. Con. 596 To bring the passions under sober s. Con. 831 While Honour, Virtue, Piety, bear s. Er. 826 But Ætnas of the suffering world ye s.? Her. 78 In his hand, as the sign of his s. M.D. 29 She thus maintains divided s. Mrs. M-51 Finds, by degrees, the truths that once bore s. P.E. Is misapplied to sanctify their s. P.E. 497 We can escape from Custom's idiot s. R. 49 Both fail beneath a fever's secret s. R. 295 We boast some rich ones whom the Gospel s. T. 377 Rejoice in him, and celebrate his s. T. v 326 As the wind s. it, has yet well sufficed T. vi 73 To see their sovereign, and confess his s. T. vi 356 Custom and prejudice shall bear no s. T. vi 838 Proclaim him born to s. Th. 10 Maintains its hold with such unfailing s. Tir. 316 He gives the local bias all its s. Tir. 334 Though motives of mere lucre s. the most Tir. 518 And levying thus, and with an easy s. Tir. 611 Unless the s. of oustom warp thy course Tir. 862 His life a lesson to the land he s. T.T. 76 The chain that binds them, and a tyrant's s. T.T. 293 But when the Second Charles assumed the s. T.T.620

SWAYED.

Some s. by fashion, some by deep disgust R. 607 And s. the sceptre of his infant realms T. i 23

SWEAR.

They s. it, till affirmance breeds a doubt Con. 66 To s. to some enormity he saw Con. 126 The poets will s. that I dream Gr. 55 And Perjury stood up to s. all true H. 563 All elbows shake. Look in, and you would s. P.E Played by the creatures of a Power who s. T. iii 177 Whose oath is rhetoric, and who s. for fame T. iv 49! Sheepish he doffs his hat, and mumbling s. T. iv 629 To s., to game, to drink; to show at home T. iv 653 S. 'tis a bargain, rails at his hard fate T. vi 293

SWEAT.

Taxed till the brow of Labour s. in vain Ez. 315 Restless as his who toils and s. for food J.T. 24 8. of ours must dress the soil N.C. 20 Prepares for meals as jockeys take a s. P.E. 221 Chains him, and tasks him, and exacts his s. T. ii 23 S. in the crowded theatre, and squeezed T. iv 43

SWEATED.

Contriver who first s. at the forge T. v 214

SWEATING.

And sleep not; see him s. o'er his bread T. i 363 And ϵ in his service; his caprice T. \vee 274 SWEEP.

Rake well the cinders, s. the floor E. iv 41 To s. away all refuges of lies H. 628 The Muses s. the lyre Miss -And every hour s. multitudes away R. 158 Thats, the skirt of some far-spreading wood T. i 18 With curvature of slow and easy s. T. i 352 [iii 44 The plenteous bloom, that no rough blast may s. 7 That's, the bolted shutter, summons home T. iv 30 That as she s. him with her whistling silks T. vi 94 To s. away the dew T.B. 18 Alas! the tide of pleasure s. along T.T. 368

The noble s. of all their privilege T.T. 475 SWEEPING

Treads on thy s. train; one hand employed T. iv 24

SWEET.

Never hear the s. music of speech A.S. 11 Of his s. but awful lyre B. 36 Less s. to Maria and me C. 15 Where wast thou then, s. Charity? Where then \tilde{C}^{h} And pours a torrent of s. notes around Ch. 111 While Gratitude and Love made service s. Ch. 233 Joys doubly s. to feelings quick as thine Ch. 298 The treasured s. of the capacious plan Ch. 323 [ii l S. stream that winds through youder glade Comp. There, in the s. society of those Con. 423 And gathering all her treasures, s. by s. Con. 440 Will the s. warbler of the livelong night Con. 445 When souls drawn upwards in communion s. Con. 561 Find the s. lyre on which an artist plays Con. 900 S. harmonist of Flora's Court! Dr. 3 And learned as 'tis s. Dr. 12 The fairer scenes of s. Sancerre E. i 46 With frequent intercourse, and always s. E. iii 3 All speak one language, all with one s. voice H. 53 S. scent, or lovely form, or both combined H. 296
And plant successfully s. Sharon's rose H. 463

The s. vicissitudes of day and night H. 488 [53] Shall answer—" Hope, s. Hope, has set me free H S. music is no longer music here H. 702 O charming Paradise of shortlived s.! Her. 34 S. Nature, stripped of her embroidered robe Her. 7 But one, although her smile was s. J.P. 7

S. as the privilege of healing wee J.T. 17

How s. soe'er the verse complain Miss - 11 "S. sensibility" Miss - 68 The sober cordial of s. air Mor. 10 Those lips are thine—thy own s. smile I see M.P. 3 So s. to huntsman, gentleman, and hound N.A. 131 For the s. your cane affords N.C. 24 But sing and shine by s. consent N.G. 31 The s. that I was wont to share O. ii 11 And earthly sounds, though s. and well combined S. Harmony that soothes the midnight hour P.E. 66 For sabbath evenings, and perhaps as s. P.E. 141 Man, Nature's guest by invitation s. P.E. 209 Are all the nameless s. of friendship fled P. P.E. 244 Are s. philosophy's enjoyments run P.E. 259 That make Italian flowers so s. and fair P.E. 410 With caution taste the s. Circean cup P.E. 580 To forestall s. St. Valentine P.T. 12 S. always doubly s. Q.V. 28 And add a smile to what was s. before R. 10 Then s. to muse upon his skill displayed R. 51 S. birds in concert with harmonious streams R, 259 O s. retirement! who would balk the thought R. 487 When Pope describes them, have a thousand s. R.572 "How s., how passing s. is solitude! R. 740 Whom I may whisper—solitude is s." R. 742 Hear the s. accents of his tuneful voice R. 771 The foes of man, or make a desert s. R.782"How smooth these kerchiefs, and how s.! R.C.59S. moralist! afloat on life's rough sea R.H. 3 [i 10 Both heart and head; and couldst with music's. S. Nature inanimate employs s. sounds T. 197 [S. ii 1 Deem not, s. rose, that bloomest midst many a thorn Heard the s. moan with pity, and devised T. i 74 S. sleep enjoys the curate in his desk T. i 94 And s. the clerk below. But neither sleep T. i 96 Nor yet the dozings of the clerk, are s. T. i 101 To drink s. waters of the crystal well T. i 210 Society for me! Thou seeming s. T. i 249 Than please the eye—s. Nature every sense T. i 427 And riots in the s. of every breeze T. i 444 [i 461 S. smiles, and bloom less transient than her own T. With luxury of unexpected s. T. i 533 S. tasted here, and left as soon as known T. i 653 That can alone make s. the bitter draught T. i 751 With odours, and profligate as s. T. ii 228 With lavender, and sprinkle liquid s. T. ii 257 Its thunders; and by him, in strains as s. T. ii 341 Is proof against thy s. seducing charms? T. ii 482 Of manners s. as Virtue always wears T. ii 783 Or too incantious, to preserve thy s. T. iii 45 As s. as charity from human breasts T. iii 197[391 S. converse, sipping calm the fragrant lymph \tilde{T} , iii Few know thy value and few taste thy s. T. iii 293 Its gratitude, and thanks him with its s. T. iii 623 One drop of Heaven's s. mercy in his cup T. iii 804 My charmer is not mine alone; my s. T. iii 719 S. bashfulness! it claims at least this praise T. iv 70 Heaven, earth, and ocean, plundered of their s. T. iv82 The sprightly lyre, whose treasure of s. sounds T.iv160 Return, s. Evening, and continue long! T. iv 244 With s. oblivion of the cares of day T. iv 250 And s. colloquial pleasures are but few! T. iv 398 Pick up their nauseous dole, though s. to them T. v94 The tasted s. of property begat T. v 224 [v 707 Their names to the s. lyre. The Historic Muse T. Their names to the s. lyre. The Historic The s. of Liberty and equal laws T. v 717 S. conference; inquires what strains were they T. In cadence s., now dying all away T. vi 8 The jasmine, throwing wide her elegant s. T. vi 173 But like his purpose, gracious, kind, and s. T. vi 504 S. is the harp of prophecy; too s. T. vi 747 For silencing so s. a throat T.B. 59 Thus sang the s. sequestered bird The Doves 87

S. fiction and s. truth alike prevail Tir. 136 Our innocent s. simple years again Tir. 313 S. interjections! if he learn but those? Tir. 400 S. in itself, and not forbidding sport Tir. 652 S. Poll! his doting mistress cries Trans. iv 13 S. Poll! the mimic bird replies Trans. iv 14 Soon the s. Spring comes dancing forth Trans. H. Hence Liberty, s. Liberty, inspires T.T. 222
Unless s. Penitence her powers renew T.T. 398
Which now and then s. Poetry may cure T.T. 743 With a song more soft and s. Trans. iii 6 With flower as s., or fruit as fair U. 17 'Tis a bower of Arcadian s. W.N. 9 Finds thee not less alive to her s. force Y.O. 133 Where most nectareous s. abound 1789, 20

SWEETEN.

Which most should s, his untroubled life H, 681 With sophistry their sauce they s. L.W. 37 And she that s, all my bitters too T, iii 720 Brings he, to s. fruits so undesired? Tir. 578

SWEETER.

Are s. to her many times C. 31 But if a s. voice, and one designed Ex. 726 But animated Nature s. still T. 198

SWEETEST.

Like some of Nature's s. flowers E. i 94 The s. that ear ever heard M.D. 18 From strenuous toil his hours of s. ease T. i 388 Her s. flowers, her aromatic gums T. ii 86 Worms wind themselves into our s. flowers T. vi 831 As the fairest and s. that blow W.N. 15

SWEET-FLOWING.

Resounds with his s. ditty no more P.F. 12

SWEETLY.

Streams tinkle s. in poetic chime R. 568 The nurse sleeps s., hired to watch the sick T. i 89 Whom snoring she disturbs. As s. he T. i 90 The mind that slumbers s, in her snares T.T. 439

SWEETNESS

Has God then given its s. to the cane Ch. 190 Paternal s., dignity, and love T. ii 708 And s., without which no pleasure is T. v 470 Without the smile, the s. or the grace T.T. 615

SWELL.

The s. of pity, not to be confined Ch. 246 The breath of heaven must s. the sail H.F. 23 The glowing bosom s. Miss - 16 The full concerto s. upon your ear P.E. 128 S. at the thought, and kindling into rage T. 477 Tormented into billows, heaves and s. T. ii 101 Great schools rejected then, as those that s. Tir. 501

SWELLED.

Streams s, above the bank, enjoined to stand Ex. 185 The beams of heavenly truth have s. the debt! Ex.611 O'er all his thoughts, and s. his easy sail T. 420 But s. into a gust—who then, alas! T. ii 485 That softly s. and gaily dressed appears T. iii 62) The seeds of cruelty, that since have s. T. vi 381

SWELLING.

And s. with disdain L.R. 10 He swathes about the s. of the deep R. 527 And ventilate and warm the s. buds T. iii 426 S. with vegetative force instinct Y.O. 34

As ever s. a winter sky A Fable 11 Bending as he s. the chords B. 35 S. Ouse's silent tide D.W. 2 S. with a woman's neatness, breeding else T. iii 616 That office served, they must be s. away T. v 569 Thestrings are s. with such a power, so loud T.T. 490

SWERVE. __ [T. vi 201

From which they s. not since. That under force

SWERVED. [161] His labouring team that s. not from the track T. i

SWIFT.

S. as the proudest gander of them all A.T. 55
So like an arrow s. he flew J.G. 153
And Murray sighs o'er Pope and S.—M. i 5 [M.P. 96
So thou, with sails how s.! hast reached the shore
Then s. descending with a seaman's haste R. 435
The tide of life, s. always in its course R. 453
Moves without noise, and s. as an express T. 204
S. beyond thought the lightnings dart away T. 243
S. pace or steep ascent no toil to me T. i 139
And all were s. to follow whom all loved T. ii 251
In arts like yours. I cannot call the s. T. iii 221
For all the savage din of the s. pack T. iii 325
Unsoiled and s., and of a silken sound T. iv 212
He sees me, and at once, s. as a bird T. vi 316
Her serious mirth, to Arbuthnot and S.—T.T. 657

SWIFTER.

Nor s. greyhound follow Ep. ii 2

That guides the Christian in his s. race T. 534

SWIFTLY.

Thus s. dividing the flood M.D. 25
Post away s. to more active scenes R. 273
The wain that meets it passes s. by T. i 297
Flies s., and unfelt the task proceeds T. iv 166
Declined the death, and wheeling s. round T. vi 518

SWIFTNESS.

Was equal to the s. of his horse A.T. 194

SWIFT-WINGED.

And the s. arrows of Light A.S. 44

SWILL.

Obscene, to s. and swallow at a trough? P.E. 266

SWIM

Expert to s., he lay Cast. 14
Impatient s. to meet D.W. 34
And though resolved to risk them, and s. down Ex
Down, down the wind, she s., and sails away P.E. 333

But cawing rooks, and kites that s. sublime T. 203 Look up—your brains begin to s. Trans. ii 10

SWINE.

There is a part in every s. L.W. 3

SWING.

Might s. at ease behind his study door Ch. 615 And s. his rump around Ep. ii 24 That seems to s. uncertain, and yet falls T. i 358

SWINGING.

S. the parlour door upon its hinge E. iii 21 A bottle s. at each side J.G. 107 And s. it rudely, too rudely, alas! The Rose 11 By slender threads, and s. in the breeze Tir. 592

SWOLN.

Two empiries he stands, and with s. cheeks T. ii 352

SWORD.

The s. shall light upon thy boasted powers Ch. 79 And waste them, as thy s. has wasted ours" Ch. 80 Guns, halberts, s. and pistols, great and small Ch. 551 Worse than the mortal brunt of rival s. Con. 86 Who never saw the s. he could not wield Con. 608 That no success attends on spears and s. Ex. 352 And while he ruled thee by the s. alone Ex. 490 With senseless noise, his argument the s. H. 660 Attend to finish what the s. begun Her. 60

In which I bear my trusty s. J.G. 63
His s. was in its sheath R.G. 21
Graced with a s., and worthier of a fan T. i 771
The undreaded volley with a s. of straw T. ii 811
The magisterial s. in vain, and lays T. iv 596
At the s. point, and dyeing the white robe T. iv 682
The s. and falchion their inventor claim T. v 218
Where violence shall never lift the s. T. vi 843
And eats into his bloody s. like rust T.T. 8
To touch the s. with conscientious awe T.T. 77

SWORDBLADE.

Retrench a s., or displace a patch T. ii 318

SWORD-HILT.

Was glued to the s. with Indian gore Ch. 50

SWORDMANSHIP.

No skill in s., however just Ch. 509

SWORN.

(S. foes to every thing that's witty!) E. iv 14
And hast thou s. on every slight pretence Er. 386
Of nations, s. to spoil thee and devour Ex. 703
Oh! see me s. to serve thee, and command H. 669
S. foes to sense and law M. i 2
First Appetite enlists him Truth's s. foe P.E. 512
And wrongs the woman he has s. to love! T. iv 465 swung.

Where Nichol s. the birch and twined the bays V.

SYCAMORE.

The s., capricious in attire T. i 318

SYCOPHANT.

But change with every moon. The s. T. ii 599 That sucks him; there the s., and he T. iii 818 Worthy, compared with s., who kneel T. vi 886 No s. or slave, that dared oppose T.T. 350

SYLLABLE.

Those awful s., Hell, Death, and Sin H. 690 A panting s. through time and space R. 692 Lisping our s., we scramble next Tir. 125 And stammer out a s. Trans. iv 88 I play with s., and sport in song T.T. 505

SYLLOGISMS

Though s. hang not on my tongue Con. 93

SYLVAN.

So withered stumps disgrace the s. scene Con. 51 The houseless rovers of the s. world T. i 588 And fugitive in vain. The s. scene T. ii 107

SYMBOL.

And made the s. of atoning grace Es. 378 The s. of a righteous reign 1789, 44

SYMPATHETIC.

Though Scorn repay her s. tears Ch. 414 SYMPATHISE.

And s. with others suffering more T. iv 340 SYMPATHY.

And only s. like thine could reach Ch. 304
The sorrows s. esteems it own Cos. 696
From generous s. what joys Miss — 15
Should spring from s. Miss — 48
And will, with s., endure M.F. 57
By pity, s., and love P. 62
Till s. contract a kindred pain R. 299

Till s. contract a kindred pain R. 299
There is in souls a s. with sounds T. vi 1
Of s., and therefore dead alike T. vi 323
A tender s. pervades the frame T.T. 485

SYMPHONIOUS.

And the clear voice, s., yet distinct T. iv 162

SYMPTOM.

Such as its s. can alone express R. 288
The s. that you see with so much dread Tir. 534

SYNAGOGUE-FREQUENTING.

A praying, s. beau T. 57

SYNCOPE.

Suffer a s. and solemn pause T. ii 80

SYNTAX.

Of s., truly, but with little more Tir. 623

SYREN.

I hear as mute as if a s. sung T.T. 199

SYRIAC.

Hebrew, or S., shall be forced to bend P.E. 499

SYRINGA.

In streaming gold; s., ivory pure T. vi 150

SYSTEM.

Round other s. under her control Ch. 318
The s. of a world's concerns E. i 74
Their piety a s. of deceit Ex. 91
His well-built s., philosophic dreams T. 8
A thousand s., each in his own way T. iii 171
And s. of whose birth no tidings yet T. v 827

 $\mathbf{T}.$

TABLE.

This t. and mirror within Gr. 21 Convivial t. and commodious seat T. \vee 162 But, if thy t. be indeed unclean Tir. 735 To be the t. talk of clubs upstairs T. T. 151

TABLET.

The glowing t. with a juster skill Ex. 282 The painted t., dealt and dealt again P.E. 170

TACKLE

Through which the t. passed A Tale 36

TÆDIUM.

The t. that the lazy rich endure T.T. 742

TA'EN. [ii 478

What he had t, in charge. He would not stoop T.

TAIL.

Worms may be caught by either head or t. Ch. 528
And piously prefer the t. L.W. 20 [N.A. 25
With t. high mounted, ears hung low, and throats
Till quite from t. to snout 'tis eaten L.W. 38
The cock his arched t.'s azure show Mrs. M—7 [46
And t. cropped short, half lurcher and half cur T. v
Some give that honour to his t. Trans. i 7
By maggots at the t. Y.D. 56

TAILED.

Long backed, long t., with whiskered anout T.B.35

TAINT.

T. in its rudiments the promised flower Con. 42 And free from every t. but that of vice Ex. 150 To t. his heart, was worthy of thine own P.E. 346 And t. the golden ear. He springs his mines T. ii 187 T. downward all the graduated scale T. iv 585 Is sullied in the stream, taking a t. T. vi 834 Nor t. his speech with meannesses, designed Tir. 686

TAINTED.

And, t. by the very means of cure Ex. 104 Whose foot ne'er t. morning dew Ep. ii 3

TAKE.

No pastime but with her he deigned to t. A.T.17 [66 How would they t. up Israel's taunting strain! Ch. T. the resemblance of the good she views Ch. 396 No learned disputants would t. the field Ch. 620 Grows fungous, and t. fire at every spark Con. 54 The mark at which my juster aim I t. Con. 105 Their nimble nonsense t. a shorter course Con. 152 He t. what he at first professed to loathe Con. 337 To t. his honour's orders, cap in hand Con. 416 Once t. the shell beneath his just command Con. 904

What walks we t., what books we choose E. i 6 But when a poet t, the pen E, i 9 Where Obstinacy t his sturdy stand Ex. 298 To t. for truth what cannot but be true Ex. 649 As in a dance the pair that t, the lead H, 13 And while she t., as at a father's hand H. 157 May now and then their velvet cushions t. H. 248 That man will freely t. an unbought bliss H. 335 Sighing and smiling as he t. his glass H. 419 To t. with gratitude what heaven bestows H. 430 But these, excuse the liberty I t. H. 435 To t. the bend his appetites ordain H. 603 So Pity shall t. Virtue's part Miss - 89 T., if ye can, ye careless and supine P.E. 9 As Reason, or as Passion, t. the reins P.E. 36 He t. offence, and wonders what you mean P.E. 89 He from Italian songsters t. his cue P.E. 112 He t, the field, the master of the pack P.E. 114 Prepares for meals as jockeys t. a sweat P.E. 221 Spontaneous, t. but little pains to sow P.E. 364 Fresh thoughts the speculatist t. P.E. 490 First put it out, then t. it for a guide P.E. 559 T. leave of Nature's God, and God revealed P.E. 591 To birth or wit; nor gives nor t. offence R. 450 Begs you for once to t. his part St. i 35 T. it and perish; but restrain your tongue T. 18 T., Madam, the reward of all your prayers T. 167 Produce them-t. a chair-now draw a Saint T. 172 The dinner served. Charles t, his usual stand T, 213 And t. unenvied the reward they sought T. 528 And so two citizens who t, the air T, i 79 And bids the world t, heart and banish fear T, ii 195 And I consent you t. it for your text T. ii 474Or does the tomb t. all? If he survive T. ii 518 T. deeper root, confirmed by what they see T. ii 568 T. of the crimson stream meandering there T. iii 202 The shapely side, that as it rises t. T. iii 481 Meanders lubricate the course they t. T. iv 65 'Tis thus the understanding t. repose T. iv 296 Ingenious Parsimony t., but just T. iv 400 T. a Lethean leave of all his toil T. iv 475 T. step for step; and, as I near approach T. v 18 The growing wonder t, a thousand shapes T, v 119 And we too wise to trust them. He that t. T. v 496Of Earth and Hell confederate t. away T. v 541 T. part with Appetite, and pleads the cause T. v 630 His spirit t., unconscious of a chain T. v 776 And with thee rich, t. what Thou wilt away T. v 906 Such comprehensive views the spirit t. T. vi 15 With unsuspecting readiness he t. T. vi 427 And such sagacity to t. revenge T. vi 477

Ort. their pastime in the spacious field T. vi 576[889] The world t. little thought. Who will may preach T.vi That t. not fire at their heroic deeds T.T. 26
They t. perhaps a well directed aim T.T. 206
Obduracy t. place; callous and tough T.T. 458
Why t. the gentler Moon her turn to rise Tir. 38
The tomb t. all, and all be blank beyond Tir. 68
To t. the lead and be the foremast still Tir 377
So t. my judgment in his language dressed Tir. 507
To t. in childish plays a childish part Tir. 548
That youth t. pleasure in, to please his boy Tir. 550
No longer t., as once, with fearless ease Tir. 569
Thence the prevailing manners t. their cast Tir. 913
T. half thy canvass in Trans. H. 36
When he that t., and he that pays Y.D. 19

TAKEN.

And t. trash for treasure F. 27 Accomplishments have t. Virtue's place P.E. 417

TAKING.

T. my lonely winding walk, I mused F.A. 8
Dangling his cane about, and t. snuff H. 27
Is sullied in the stream, t. a taint T. vi 834
Less trouble t. twice the sum Y.D. 67

TALE.

In every t. they tell, or false or true Con. 61 But sedentary weavers of long t. Con. 207 A t. should be judicious, clear, succinct Con. 235 You laugh—'tis well—the t. applied L.W. 23 Howe'er disguised the inflammatory t. P.E. 327 Till others have the soothing t. believed P.E 493 Misses! the t. that I relate P.T. 62 Her t. of guilt renews St. v 22 The skittish fancy with facetious t. T. ii 470 By drunken howlings; and the chilling t. T. iv 562 Cyrene, when he bore the plaintive t. T. v 136 In staggering types, his predecessor's t. T. v 419 An ancient, not a legendary t. T. vi 479 Quevedo, as he tells his sober t. T.T. 93 Sells oaths by t. and at the lowest price T.T. 419 In t., in trifles, and in children's play T:T. 731 Ingenious dreamer, in whose well told t. Tir. 135 But now farewell all legendary t. Tir. 181 How! turn again to t. long since forgot Tir. 545 TALENT.

So famed for his t. in nicely discerning A.C. 8 His time, his t., and his ceaseless care A.T. 15 Though Nature weigh our t, and dispense Con. 1 In other eyes our t. rarely shown Con. 369 Let him improve his t. if he can Con. 425 Of t., judgment, mercies, better far F.A. 15 Nor labour they, nor time nor t. waste H. 766 And he soon finds the t. it requires R. 614 Life an intrusted t., or a toy? R. 650 And give the world their t. and themselves T. ii 799 Great t.: and God gives to every man T. iv 789 And with the boon gives t. for its use T. v 860 A t. so divine, remember too T. vi 649 They see the attentive crowds his t. draw Tir. 312 Few boys are born with t. that excel Tir. 509 His post not mean, his t. not unknown Tir. 723 His humorous t. next employs Trans. iv 26 Neglected t. rust into decay T.T. 516 Have raised you high as t. can ascend V. 13

TALISMANS.

Books are not seldom t, and spells T, vi 98

TALK.

He t. of light, and the prismatic hues Ch. 391 Resumed his purpose, had a world of t. Con. 279 I cannot t. with civet in the room Con. 283 O'erheard and checked this idle t. P. 40 Winks hard, and t. of darkness at noonday P.E. 451 And t. and laughs away his vacant hours R. 452 Or all that we have left, is empty t. T. ii 253 To be the Table T. of clubs up stairs T.T. 151 Is kept to strut, look big, and t. away T.T. 233 One t. of mildew and of frost Y.D. 53

TALKATIVE

In vain the t. unite F. 67

TALKING.

But t. is not always to converse Con. 8 There's little t., and no wit Y.D. 39

TALL.

Of some t. temple playing bright Mrs. M - 36 [i 174 T. spire, from which the sound of cheerful bells T. Between the upright shafts of whose t. elms T. i 355 Upon the ship's t. side he stands, possessed T. i 450 And of an humbler growth, the other t. T. vi 152 The stout t. captain, whose superior size Tir. 222

TALLEST.

The t. pines feel most the power Trans. H. 13

TAME.

He found thee savage, and he left thee t. Ez. 485 That serve mankind, or shun them, wild or t. N.A.66 And lovers, of all creatures, t. or wild R. 251 To meliorate and t. the stubborn soil R. 786 The pert made perter, and the t. made wild Tir. 345

TAMED.

And though the fox he follows may be t. Con. 409 His passions t., and all at his control T. 417 By culture t., by liberty refreshed T. i 608 Alas! Leviathan is not so t. T. ii 322 [46 Sorrow has, since they went, subdued and t. T. vi Send him to college. If he there be t. Tir. 240

TAMELY.

But if a deed not t. to be borne T.T. 488

TAMENESS.

And blushing at the t. of the rest Ex. 543 Their t. is shocking to me A.S. 16

TAMER.

And t. far for so much fury shown T. vi 541

TAMPERING.

Vain t, has but fostered his disease T. v 668 TANTALUS.

Like fabled T., condemned to hear P.E. 231

TAPER.
The t. soon extinguished, which I saw T. iv 391

TAPESTRY.

Yellow and red, of t. richly wrought T. i 33

TAR.

Left out his linchpin, or forgot his t. P.E. 441

TARDILY.

The night rolled t. away R.C. 67

TARDINESS.

He chides the t. of every post R. 475

TARDY

Judgment, however t., mends her pace Es. 151 A nation scourged, yet t. to repent Es. 723 Fulfill'd their t. and disastrous course T. vi 735 May some disease, not t. to perform T. vi 1002 Of the mere schoolboy's lean and t. growth Tir. 657

TARNISH.

T. all your boasted powers N.C. 54

TARRY.

Inclined to t. there J.G. 150

TARSUS.

Had Paul of T. lived and died a Jew H. 257

TART.

But he can draw a pattern, make a t. P.E. 195 Those humours, t. as wines upon the fret R. 761 The popular harangue, the t. reply T. iv 31

TASK.

A t. I venture on, impelled by thee Ch. 6 And gains new vigour at her endless t. Ch. 104 And bind the t. assigned thee to thine heart Ex. 651 May prove the t., a t. indeed F. 196 A hopeless t., and damns them if they fail H. 392 Hard t. indeed o'er arctic seas to roam! H. 548 Hard t.! for one who lately knew no care H.696Poets attempt the noblest t. they can J.T. 1 Me to torture, me to t.? N.C. 12 With much compassion undertakes the t. P.E. 389 Attempts no t. it cannot well fulfil R. 280 The screws reversed (a t, which if He please R, 327 The veteran steed excused his t. at length R. 623 The t. of new discoveries falls on me T. 218 We may discern the thresher at his t. T. i 356 And not soon spent, though in an arduous $t.\ T.\ i.401$ Chains him, and t. him, and exacts his sweat T. ii 23 Upon thy foes, was never meant my t. T. ii 218 Aware of nothing arduous in a t. T. ii 307 That t. performed, relapse into themselves T. ii 441 His folly, but to spoil him is a t. T. ii 768 The nauseous t, to paint her as she is T, iii 67 No unimportant, though a silent t. T. iii 378 Fresh for his t., intend what t. he may T. iii 387 Exposed to his cold breath, the t. begins T. iii 469 But proud of his uncouth ill-chosen t. T. iii 644 But here the needle plies its busy t. T. iv 150 Flies swiftly, and unfelt the t. proceeds T. iv 166 To do he knows not what. The t. performed T. iv630 From morn to eve his solitary t. T. v 44 By dint of change to give his tasteless t. T. v 429 As too laborious and severe a t. T. vi 210 [vi 1009] With that light t.; but soon, to please her more T. A scene so friendly to his favourite t. T. vi 264And makes the t. his own. Inspiring dumb T. vi 474 The t. now falls into the public hand T. vi 718 The labour, were a t. more arduous still T. vi 758 As if their duty were a desperate t. T.T. 313 A t. as much within your own command Tir. 552 The heart of man, for such a t. too frail V. 67 The t. was left to whittle thee away Y.O. 104

TASKED.

Cowper, whose silver voice, t. sometimes hard S. i 1 Were t. to his full strength, absorbed and lost T. iv301 With the thought-tracing quill or t. his mind Y.0.158

TASSEL.

With ribbon-bound t. on high Gr. 2 Her golden t, on the leafy sprays R. 232

TASSELLED.

The t. cap and the spruce band a jest T. ii 749

TASTE.

How soon would I t. you again! A.S. 20
With a well-judging t. from above C. 34
Capricious T. itself can crave no more Ch. 101
Or t. the fountain in the neighbouring glade Ch. 223
T. of its healthful origin, and flows Con. 565
Reclaim his t., and brighten up his parts Con. 840
These are but samples, and a t. F. 194
O ye, who never t. the joys F.B 31
The wretch may pine, while to his smell, t., sight
T. happiness, or know what pleasure means H. 10
That Fashion, T., or Luxury suggest H. 446
Wine has no t., and beauty has no charms H. 705

In sorting flowers to suit a fickle t. H. 767 May t. whate'er his inclination L. W. 5 But thou canst t. no calm delight M.B. 17 No genial spring to t. Miss - 36A Bee of most discerning t. P.B. 3 The rank debauch suits Clodio's filthy $t.\ P.E.\ 188$ The centre of delights he may not $t.\ P.E.\ 230$ With caution t, the sweet Circean cup P.E.580And forms it to the t, of her he loves R, 238 And cultivate a t. for ancient song R, 375 With all the charms of an accomplished t. R. 510 To t, a joy like that he has bestowed R, 632 And while she polishes, perverts the t. R. 704 But chosen with a nice discerning t. R. 726 Invites us. Monument of ancient t. T. i 253 [697 Such London is, by t. and wealth proclaimed T. i But that of idleness, and t. no scenes T. i 756 With such ingredients of good sense and t. T. ii 789 Though few now t, thee unimpared and pure T, iii 43 His manner, and with rapture t. his style T. iii 228 Few know thy value, and few t. thy sweets T. iii 293 Dressed to his t., inviting him abroad T. iii 358 [317 Who dream they have a t. for fields and groves T. iii Pant for the praise of dressing to the t. T. iii 460 Nor t. alone and well-contrived display T. iii 603 To no mean hand, and asks the touch of t. T. iii 632 And what they will not t. must yet approve T. iii 701 New to my t, his Paradise surpassed T, iv 710 By modern lights from an erroneous t. T. iv 724 If he indulge a cultivated t. T.T. 161And all can t. them; minds that have been formed The virtue, temper, understanding, t. T. iv 790 Which whose t can be enslaved no more T v 544 Acquaint thyself with God, if thou wouldst t. T. v779 Some t. of comfort in a world of woe T. vi 966 To palates that can t. immortal truth T. vi 1015 I was a poet too: but modern t. T.T. 510 Was lumber in an age so void of t. T.T. 619 Sublimity and attic t. combined T.T. 644 That in good time the stripling's finished t. Tir. 203 Of habit, inclination, temper, t. Tir. 441 Prepared by t., by learning, and true worth Tir. 678 In settled habit and decided t. Tir. 778 Of thickest shades, like Adam after t. Y.O. 15

TASTED.

By the miseries that we t. N.C. 43 Sweets t. here, and left as soon as known T. i 653 The t. sweets of property begat T. v 221

TASTELESS

A t. journal of the day before Con. 276
The song of Sion is a t. thing Con. 715
And t., of the same repeated joys T. i 463
But t. Springs a palace in its stead T. iii 769
By dint of change to give his t. task T. v 429

TASTING.

Or t. long enjoy thee; too infirm T. iii 44

TATTERED.

More t. still; and both but ill conceal T. i 551 The livelong night. A t. apron hides T. i 549 To wear a t. garb however coarse T. iv 416 And t. in the service of debauch T, v 633

TATTLERS

For t. will be sure to hear F. 98

TAUGHT.

For scorning what they t. him to detest Ch. 56 T. me what path to shun, and what pursue Ch. 239 But Reason still, unless divinely t. Ch. 337 Thus t., down falls the plumage of his pride Ch. 345 Are t. by rays that fly with equal pace Ch. 363 By Fashion t., forbade them once to name Con. 496 The Roman t. thy stubborn knee to bow Ex. 476 T. thee to clothe thy pinked and painted hide Ex.486Ne'er t. me by woman before M.D. 12 H. 668 And none can teach them but whom thou hast t. All sustained by patience, t. us N.C. 47 T. you to sing, and me to shine N.G. 20 And observation t. me, I would teach P.E. 12 Far more intelligent, and better t. R. 673 Learn then, ye living! by the mouths be t. St. ii 33 T. the raised shoulders to invade the cars T. i 67 Or seen with least reproach; and virtue, t. T. i 690 Or ask of whomsoever he has t. T. ii 204 By nature, or by flattery made so, t. T. ii 546 The weak perhaps are moved, but are not t. T. ii 566 A wooden one, so we, no longer t. T. ii 575 And t, the unblemished to preserve with care T, iii Is but a school, where thoughtlessness is t. T. iv 688 And in the school of sacred wisdom t. T. v 797 As t, him too to tremble in his turn T, vi 378 And t. a brute the way to safe revenge T. vi 559 Till, nation after nation t. the strain T. vi 796 Well t., he all the sounds expressed T.B. 11 Thus form'd, thus placed, intelligent, and t. Tir. 53 That t. of God they may indeed be wise Tir. 107 And t. at schools much mythologic stuff Tir. 197 The meek and bashful boy will soon be t. Tir. 338 As, wheresoever t., so formed, he will Tir 526 When birds are to be t, to prate Trans. iv 41 Liberty t. him her Athenian strain T.T. 343 Language, above all teaching, or if t. T.T. 586 [V.9Your brain well furnished, and your tongue well t. Of Wantonness, where vice was t. by rule T.T. 627

TAUNTING.

How would they take up Israel's t. strain! Ch. 66 Of its own t. question, asked so long T. vi 870

TAVERN.

With an old t. quill, is hungry yet T. ii 628 Of fashion, dissipation, t., stews T. ii 770 But t. teach the knowledge of the heart Tir. 213 In bilking t. bills, and spouting plays Tir. 327

TAW.

The chalky ring, and knuckle down at t. Tir. 307

TAWNY.

Now green, now t., and ere autumn yet T. i 319 Their fluttering rags, and shows a t. skin T. i 568

A t. upon their own just praise F. 89 A t. of profit from his very play Tir. 612 Increasing t. and the nation's debt T.T. 177 Levied a t. of wonder and applause T.T. 650

TAXED.

Or t. Invention for a fresh supply Ch. 514 T. till the brow of Labour sweats in vain Ex. 305

> TEA. [Con. 278

Called on a friend, drank t., stepped home again What, give up our desserts, our coffee, and t.! P.A. 8

TEACH.

Some she would t. (for she was wondrous wise $\tilde{A.T}$. They t. both conjurors and old women A Fable 21 Since t. you all I can Beau 18 T. me to kindle at thy gentle fires Ch. 12 Alternately the nations learn and t. Ch. 120 To t. the wanderer, as his woes increase Ch. 161 T. mercy to ten thousand hearts that share Ch. 278 But knowledge such as only dungeons t. Ch. 303 To t. good manners, and to curb abuse Con. 164 [585] Lueves saints to enjoy those altitudes they t. Con.

And t, the softer not to copy theirs Con. 844 [890] Pursues the course that truth and nature t. Con. And t. the combatant a woman's part? Ex. 359 [243] They warn and t, the proudest, would they learn F_{-} . Still murmuring with the solemn truths I t. Ex. 719 And t, the world, if not perversely blind H. 138 Kind souls! to t, their tenantry to prize H. 252 The gross idolatry blind heathens \hat{t} . H. 499 Some wiser rule must t. bim how to live H. COO And t. Philosophy a smile Mrs. M-30∫ H. 668 And none can t. them but whom thou hast taught And observation taught me, I would t. P.E. 12And t. her, unexperienced yet and green P.E. 317 T. him to fence and figure twice a week P.E. 366 T. his eyes a language, and no less R. 239 T., while they flatter him, his proper place R. 446 To t, the canvass innocent deceit R. 797 And while I t, an art too little known R. 807 I may not t. in vain St. i 32 The book shall t. you; read, believe, and live T. 274 And t, him notions splendid as themselves T. 424 Or Inspiration t.; and enclosed T. i 628 He t. those to read, whom schools dismissed T. ii On skulls that cannot t., and will not learn T. ii 394 Or vicious, and not therefore apt to t. T. ii 550 But if his word once t. us, shoot a ray T. iii 240 That whom it t. it makes prompt to learn T. v 859 Ye, therefore, who love mercy, t. your sons T. vi 588 We could not t., and must despair to learn T. vi 620And t, one tyrant pity for his drudge T, vi 728 [123] Presents the prayer the Saviour deigned to t. Tir. May t. the gayest, make the gravest smile Tir. 138 But taverns t. the knowledge of the heart Tir. 213 To warn, and t. him safely to unbend Tir. 608 To t. his heart to glow with generous flame Tir. 644 To more than he is hired or bound to t. Tir. 732 T. humbler thoughts to you Trans. i 26[t. Tir. 397 Your Lordship, and your Grace! what school can To t. him now and then a word Trans. iv 8 Receive, dear friend, the truths I t. Trans. H. i Such lofty strains embellish what you t. T.T. 478 To t., no Spirit dwells in thee, nor voice Y.O. 138 TEACHABLE.

Such t, and apprehensive parts T, vi 612

TEACHER.

A t, should be sparing of his smile Ch. 490 Such, when the T. of his church was there Ex. 123 Where shall a t. look, in days like these Ex. 450 [351 Are all such t.? Would to Heaven all were! T. ii Is Christ the abler t., or the schools? T. ii 534 And woman are the t. Trans. iv 42 "The t's office, and dispense at large T. v 645 Much zeal in virtue's cause all t. boast Tir. 517

TEACHING.

Or academic tutors, t. youths N.A. 79 Experience, slow preceptress, t. oft T. iii 505 A t. voice; but 'tis the praise of thine T. v 858 Language, above all t., or if taught T.T. 586

His labouring t. that swerved not from the track T. The boorish driver leaning o'er his t. T. i 298 In ponderous boots beside his reeking t. T. iv 342 TEAPOT.

A fragment, and the spoutless t. there T. iv 776

Is wet with Anson's t. Cast. 52 And t. by bards or heroes shed Cast. 53 When Cook—lamented, and with t. as just Ch. 23 Loses in t. the far receding shore Ch. 147 Though Scorn repay her sympathetic t. Ch. 414

But though life's valley be a vale of t. Con. 881[26 And said, "Go spend them in the vale of t." E. ii Thy t, all issue from a source divine E, ii 47In England's case to move the Muse to t.? Ex. 2In England's case to move the Muse to t.? Ex. 32 He loved the world that hated him; the t. H. 574 If ever on thy eyelid stood the t. H. 676 And the first thankful t. bedew his cheeks H. 727 And ecstasy attends the t. Miss — 55 Say, wast thou conscious of the t. I shed? M.P. 22 Perhaps a t., if souls can weep in bliss M.P. 26 And if a t., that speaks regret N. 21 Shall shine and dry the t. N. 24 Sighs must fan it, t. must water N.C. 19 But every t. shall scald thy memory P.E. 336 But with a joyful t. Q.V. 54 The t. that England owes R.G. 28 But t. of godly grief ne'er flow within St. ii 82 With t. o'er hapless favourites shed T.B. 2 [Rose 19 And the t. that is wiped with a little address The Oh sorrowful and sad! the streaming t. T. 173 Weeps t. of joy, and bursts into a song T. 458 While struggling in the vale of t. below T. 585 I see thee weep, and thine are honest t. T. i 657 Of silent t. and heart-distending sighs! T. iii 331 Vain t., alas! and sighs that never find T. iii 332 To barrenness, and solitude, and t. T. v 441 [iv 18] With t., that trickled down the writer's cheeks T. Eradicate him, t. him from his hold T. v 437 Whose eye they fill with t. of holy joy T. v 750 (Himself grown sober in the vale of t.) T. vi 48 Leaving the poor no remedy but t. T. vi 845 Or guilty soon relenting into t. Tir. 112 Canst thou, the t. just trembling on thy lids Tir. 859 Strange doctrine this! that without scruple t. T.T.5 Prayer only, and the penitential t. T.T. 412 And view with t. the expected harvest lost V. 57 Since all thy t. were changed to smiles 1789, 57

TEASE. [135]
Yet, though he t. and baulk your listening ear Con.
To t. for cash, and quarrel with all day P.E. 372
Should ever t. the lungs and blear the sight T. iii 168

TEASED.

Not soon provoked, however stung and t. Ch. 428 Thus always teasing others, always t. Con. 345

TEASING.

Thus always t. others, always teased Con. 315

Decide no question with their t. length Con. 87 A t. hour—and now we never meet! E. iii 5 These twice ten t. years, yet we J.G. 7 Can save us always from a t. day R. 745 The t. rector drawling o'er his head T. i 95 We think them t. creatures Trans. iv 39 And, t. years of Gothic darkness passed T.T. 564

TEDIOUSLY.

Is such a life, so t. the same H. 87

TEEMED.

She t. and heaved with an infernal birth Her. 13

TEEMING. of her t. brain A.T

The wildest project of her t. brain A.T. 57 To call up Plenty from the t. earth T. 181

TEEMS.

With which Hypocrisy for ever t. H. 619 But t. with powers he never felt before P.E. 404

TEETH. [iv 352

With half-shut eyes and puckered cheeks and t. T. His t. were strong, the cage was wood T.B. 53 He picks clean t., and, busy as he seems T. ii 627

T. for the toothless, ringlets for the bald T. iv 81 With ivory t., or ploughs it with his shout T. v 50

TELESCOPIC.

Where science points her t. eye H. 441 To your weak sight her t. eye T. 98

TELL. To t. us what is to befall A Fable 22 Oh! t. me I yet have a friend A.S. 39 That t. his name, his worth, his age Cast. 51 [394 What monstrous lies some travellers will t." Ch. That t, us whence his treasures are supplied Ch, 440 In every tale they t., or false or true Con. 61 To hear them t. of parentage and birth Con. 210 T. not as new what everybody knows Con. 237 [719] Strange tidings these to t. a world who treat Con. T. her again, the sneer upon her face Con. 783 [875] For t. some men that pleasure, all their bent Con. And t, them truths divine and clear E, i 21 But who can t. how vast the plan E. i 83 Blush when I t. you how a bird F.B. 34 And t. of laws despised, at least not kept H. 220[418 Come, prophet, drink, and t. us what think you" H. Though whispered, plainly t, what works within H. 691 And t, you where ye have a right to reign H_{tr} . 48 What news? what news? Your tidings t. J.G. 165 T. me you must and shall J.G. 166 Who, strange to t., all judged it wrong J.P. 19 They t. us of the fate of Rome M. ii 3 I t. you, you can't hear at all! M.F. 28 Who, knowing them, can t. Miss — 14 Is there, as ye sometimes t. us N.C. 25 Released him as my story t. N.G. 25Pray t. me why we may not also go snacks? P.A. 16Brutes capable would t. you'tis a lie P.E. 261 [P.E. 5 T. where she lurks, beneath what flowery shades To t. them more than they have wit to ask P.E. 390 T. him he wanders, that his error leads P.E. 541 Twas hard to t., of streets or squares Q.V. 9 These t. me of enjoyments past S. 23 Oh, t. thy thoughtless sex, the virtuous mind S. ii 6 And t., not always with an eye to truth T. 154 She t. me, too, that duly every morn T. i 663 Forth steps the spruce philosopher, and t. T. ii 189 Now t. me, dignified and sapient sir T. ii 531 [iii 158 And t. us whence the stars; why some are fixed T. To t. its slumbers, and to paint its dreams T. iii 13 T. me—and I will t. thee what is Truth T. iii 289 Too long, to t. the expedients and the shifts T. iii 559 No marble t. us whither. With their names T. v 727 Shouted for joy.—" T. me, ye shining hosts T. $\forall 8.2$ The lion t. him-I am monarch here! T. vi 408 His head alone remained to t. T.B. 65 And t, them, as he strokes their silver locks Tir. 322 T. of a few stout hearts that fought and died T. T. 23 That t. you so—say, rather, they for him T.T. 56 Quevedo, as he t. his sober tale T.T. 93 Or t. me, if you can, what power maintains T.T. 200 And t. the world, still kindling as he sung T.T.736Your sullen silence serves at least to t. V. 25 But yet, methinks to t. you true Y.D. 59

TEMPER.

Pure in her aim, and in her t. mild Ch. 422
Their acrid t. turns, as soon as stirred Ch. 503
Some fretful t. wince at every touch Con. 325
The future tone and t. of the sky Ex. 158
A fretful t. will divide F. 61
A t. passionate and fierce F. 64
Whose t. was the best J.P. 4
From t. flaws unsightly N.Y.G. 8
Genius, and t., and desire of rest R. 172
A t. rustic as the life we lead R. 732

Of t, as envenomed as an asp T, 159 Good t.; spirits prompt to undertake T. i 400 Of heavenly t., furnishes with arms T. ii 346 Or T. sheds into thy crystal cup T. iii 47 Discovering much the t. of her sire T. iii 484 The virtue, t., understanding, taste T. iv 790 Till hardened his heart's t. in the forge T. v 664 Vicious in act, in t. savage-fierce T. vi 487 Of habit, inclination, t., taste Tir. 441 Against a heart depraved and t. hurt Tir. 489

TEMPERANCE.

T. and Peace insure its healthful state Con. 603 That gratitude and t. in our use Ex. 676 T. were no virtue if He could P.E. 224 That law has licensed, as makes t. reel T. iv 471

TEMPERATE.

Of t. wishes and industrious hands T. i 599

TEMPERED.

Well read, well t., with religion warmed Con. 640 Nice in its choice, and of a t. heat J.T. 36 Some minds are t. happily, and mixed T. ii 788 The auspicious moment, when the t. heat T. iii 508 T. in hell, invades the throbbing breast T. iii 686 Such were not they of old, whose t. blades T. v 515

The t. itself lags behind A.S. 43 A t. usher in the dreaded morn H. 717 "Where t. never beat nor billows rosr "M.P. 97 Abrupt and horrid as the t. roars R. 533 No t. gave the shock R.G. 18 He hears the t. howling in the trees T. 254 In t.; quits his grasp upon the winds T. ii 181 The t. of tumultuary joys T.T. 409 He hears the thunder ere the t. lowers T.T. 496 When t. could not. At thy firmest age Y.O. 93

TEMPEST-BEATEN.

That all its t. turrets shake T. v 527

TEMPEST-TOSSED.

Me howling blasts drive devious, t. M.P. 102 TEMPESTUOUS.

'Tis thus, extending his t. arm Ex. 584 Like him, crossed cheerfully t. seas H. 584 The pelting brunt of the t. night T. iv 351 Of this t. state of human things T. vi 737

The t. and its holy rights profaned Ex. 145 Thy t., cnoe thy glory, fallen and rased Ex. 259 For clumps, and lawns, and t., and cascades H. 247 Of some tall t. playing bright Mrs. M- 36 Called to the t. of impure delight P.E. 584 [iii 803] Sent through the traveller's t.! He that finds T. TEMPT.

To t. the poor to sell himself to thee ? Ex. 375 Whose fruit, though fair, t. only to destroy P.E.238Meridian sunbeams t. him to unfold T. 60 To t. us in thy country. Doing good T. i 673 That t. Ambition. On the summit see T. iv 58 His principle, and t. him into sin T. iv 454 Not always t. the distant deep Trans. H. 4

TEMPTATION. When fierce T., seconded within T. iii 684

TEMPTEST. Thou t. none, but rather much forbiddest Y.O. 114

TEMPTING. To captivate the t. prey E. iv 54 Flies to the t. pool, or felon knife T. 446

TEN. $\lceil A.T. 180 \rceil$ "Oh, shame!" t. thousand echoing nymphs replied

Teach mercy to t. thousand hearts that share Ch. 278 T. thousand charms, that only fools despise H. 51 T. thousand rove the brakes and thorns among H. 280 T. thousand swains the wasted scene deplore Her. 39 These twice t. tedious years, yet we J.G. 7 Full t. miles off, at Ware J.G. 152 Rarely redeem the short remaining t. R. 40T. thousand rivers poured at his command R. 75 T. thousand thousand strings at once go loose R. 329 T. starveling hermits suffer less than he T. 112 T. thousand warblers cheer the day, and one T. 200 Excels t, thousand mercenary deeds T. 224 T. thousand sages lost in endless wee T. 517 [iii 740 And thundering loud, with his t. thousand wheels? T. Whom t. long years' experience of my care T. iii 338 T. thousand dangers lie in wait to thwart T. iii 553 T. righteous would have saved a city once T. iii 843 Of all this riot: and t. thousand casks T. iv 505 T. thousand seek an unmolested end T. v 87 He deems a thousand or t, thousand lives T, v 276 T. thousand rovers in the world at large T. v 408 Wins public honour; and t. thousand sit T. vi 633 Else of a mannish growth, and five in t. Tir. 208 God's curse can cast away t. thousand sail! T.T. 467 She fills profuse t. thousand little throats T.T. 694

TENACIOUS. Too weak to struggle with t. clay T. 216

With such as its old t, are M.B. 3 Scorned by the nobler t. of the flood P.E. 482 Pours out its fleecy t. o'er the glebe T. i 291 The envied t, of some happier spot T, i 610 Of other t, than melodious birds T, iv 574 To be the t. of man's noble form T. v 455 And earth be punished for it's t. sake T. vi 257 To you, then, t. of life's middle state Tir. 807

TENANTRY. Kind souls! to teach their t. to prize H. 252

TEND. [T. ▼ 844 "And that, infused from Heaven, must thither t. So Self starts nothing, but what t. apace Ch. 565 The works of man t., one and all E. i 79 [T. vi 818 Thus Heavenward all things t. For all were once T. downward; his ambition is to sink T. v 592

TENDENCIES.

In Nature's t., oft overlooks T. ii 175

TENDER.

His t. heart victoriously impressed A.T. 4 The t. argument of kindred blood Ch. 32 The t. ties of father, husband, friend Ch. 141 Flavia, most t. of her own good name Ch. 458 The t, theme on which they chose to dwell Con. 528 Where Venus hears the lover's t. vow Con. 824 Thy t. sorrows and thy plaintive strain E. ii 45 Who, nursed with t. care Ep. ii 6 Her t. husband, wondering much J. G. 143 Each t, tie of life defied Miss - 29With all a t. heart can feel Miss - 103T. idolator of absent charms R. 220 And t. as a girl, all essenced o'er T. ii 227 And t. in address, as well becomes T. ii 406 Then rise the t. germs, upstarting quick T. iii 521 Devises, while he guards his t. trust T. iii 561 And t. blade, that feared the chilling blast T. iv 331 Russet and rude, folds up the t. germ T. vi 194 A book (to please us at a t. age Tir. 121 To nurse with t. care the thriving Arts T.T. 69 A t. sympathy pervades the frame T.T. 485

TENDEREST. ſ*T*ir. 556 "Come t., come twenty,—should an army call A.T.185 | For one whose t. thoughts all hover round your own? Their fibres penetrate its t. part R. 42 Thou wouldst not, deaf to Nature's t. plea Tir. 867

TENDERLY.

Friendship and Love seemed t. at strife H. 680

TENDERNESS.

'Tis thus the t. that love inspires A.T. 29
Than with a t. like mine P. 13
Plants raised with t. are seldom strong P.E. 359

TENDRILS.

With clasping t., and invest his branch T. iii 666 And curling t., gracefully disposed T. iv 154

TENFOLD.

A t. frenzy seizes all the rest H. 634 Or curse the desert with a t. dearth? T. 182 Adds t. bitterness to death by pangs T. vi 395

TENTED.

The bar, the senate, or the t. field R. 102 Some seek diversion in the t. field T. v 185

TENT

No shepherd's t. within thy view appear E. ii 43 TENURE.

Held by the t. of his will alone Ex. 673 TERENCE.

As some grave gentleman in T. says E. iii 6 TERENTIUS.

T., once my friend, farewell to thee! V. 30

TERM.

Suffice it then in decent t. to say A.T. 86
On t. of amity complete F. 116

"Heaven on such t.!" they cry with proud disdain
The largess He bestows, prescribes the t. H. 325
In t. as plain, himself has shut the rest H. 341
To which the mind resorts, in chase of t. T. ii 298
And understood too well the weighty t. T. ii 477
To live on t. of amity with vice T. v 658
And, if he spare him, spares him on the t. vi 409

TERMINATE.

Oaths t., as Paul observes, all strife Con. 55 The hour that t. his span St. iii 3 His virtuous toil may t. at last Tir. 777

TERRAQUEOUS.

A union with the vast t. whole Ch. 122 The arbiters of this t. swamp T. v 281

TERRESTRIAL.

From things t., and divinely changed Con. 726 Thus things t. wear a different hue H. 69 But dying soon, like all t. joys T. iv 382 T., in the vast and the minute T. v 811

TERRIBLE.

He judged them with as t. a frown Ex. 131 Oppression his t. name M.D. 28 Her voice is t. though soft St. v 23 And t. to sight, as when she springs T. i 602 Garden of God, how t. the change T. vi 371 A t. sagacity informs T.T. 494

TERRIBLY.

T. arched and aquiline his nose T. iii 192

TERRIFIED.

Admiring, t., the novel strain N.A. 49

TERROR.

Armed at all points, with t. on his brow A.T. 140 All the t. of our tongues B. 12 But Winter, armed with t. here unknown H. 473 Such cause of t. in an empty sound N.A. 130 Marshalling all his t. as he came T. 547 The t. of the day that sets them free T. ii 128

His frown was full of t., and his voice T. ii 721 Has lost its t. ere it reaches me T. iv 101 Himself enslaved by t. of the band T. iv 601 Spread anarchy and t. all around ? T. T. 303

TEST.

They stood the t. of her ensnaring smile Ex. 78
No friendship will abide the t. F. 37
Had once his integrity put to the t. P.A. 22
[34
Brings every thought, word, action to the t. P.E.
Faithfully, fairly, by that sacred t. R. 134
His conduct, to the t., but tries his heart T. 562
He by the t. of conscience, and a heart T. vi 988
And stood the t., perhaps on the wrong side Tir. 740

TESTIFY.

In vain thy creatures t. of thee T. v 856

TEXT

To read wise lectures, vanity the t. H. 107
This truth premised was needful as a t. N.A. 71
The t. that sorts not with hisdarling whim P.E. 446
Oh, then, a t. would touch him at the quick! T. 310
And then skip down again; pronounce a t. T. ii 410
And I consent you take it for your t. T. ii 474
How oft, when Paul has served us with a t. T. ii 539
Through moral narrative, or sacred t. Tir. 126

TEXTURE.

Of t, firm a lattice-work, that braced T, i 42

THAMES.

To enjoy a ramble on the banks of T.—T. i 115

THANK. [264 My soul should yield thee willing t. and praise Ch.

T., gentle swain, for all my woes G. 13
And t. for this effectual close G. 14
Will heartily t. us, no doubt, for our pains P.A. 10

What glowing t. his lips and heart employ T. 255 T. to Benevolus – he spares me yet T. i 262 True, we may t. the perfidy of France T ii 264

Small t. to those whose negligence or sloth T. ii 800 Its gratitude, and t. him with its sweets T. iii 623

Its gratitude, and t. him with its sweets T. iii 623 T. for thy food. Carnivorous, through sin T. vi 457

THANKFUL.

That lasting happiness, a t. heart H 160 And the first t. tears bedew his cheeks H. 727 Still happier, if he till a t. soil H. 760 One act, that from a t. heart proceeds T. 223 And t. at my frugal board 1789, 35

THANKLESS.

To pour down wrath upon a t, land Ex. 253 That t. waste and wild abuse destroy Ex. 679 T. for favours from on high St. v 1 How does it grate upon his t. ear T. 465

THANKSGIVINGS.

And flash t. to the skies! 1789, 55

THATCH.

That overhang the t., itself unseen T. i 224

THATCHED. [T. i 641

And homestall t. with leaves. But hast thou found THAW.

To t. him into feeling; or the smart T. iv 197

THEATRE.

Her t., her revels, and her sports Ex. 23 Sweats in the crowded t., and squeezed T. iv 43 To t., or jocund feast, or ball T. v 410 The t., too small, shall suffocate T. vi 670

THEATRIC

And start t., practised at the glass! T. ii 431

THEFT.

Time has but half succeeded in his t. M.P. 120

THELYPTHORA

Clean, candid, and witty—T. dies A.T. iv 2

THEME.

Love graced the t., and harmony the song A.T. 198 To give the melancholy t. Cast. 57 A Poet's name by making thee the t. Ch. 14 (Charity chosen as my t. and aim) Ch. 295 (Two t. to Nature's eye for ever sealed) Ch. 362 And prove too weak for so divine a t. Ch. 633 Howe'er ingenious on his darling t. Con. 137 His whispered t., dilated and at large Con. 273 That t. exhausted, a wide chasm ensues Con. 393 Prescribes the t., the tone, and the grimace Con. 464 The tender t. on which they chose to dwell Con. 528 And his chief glory, was the Gospel t. Con. 620 But conversation, choose what t. we may Con. 703 As when returning to the t. they meant Con. 858 Sprightly and fresh, enriches every t. Con. 894 They scorned his inspiration, and his t. Ex. 69 Might shine in fable, and grace idle t. Ex. 233 Shall be my chosen t., my glory to the last Ex. 734 Reminds him of religion, hated t.! H. 218 Yet me they charm, whate'er the t. M. 23 A thousand other t. less deeply traced M.P. 57 Rebellion is my t. all day Pat. 1 Sing, Muse, (if such a t., so dark, so long P.E. 1 And George the t. of all Q.V. 48 And search the t., important above all R. 137 A mind employed on so sublime a t. R. 668 A t. for all the world's attention R.C.102Now seek repose upon an humbler t. T. i 5 The t. though humble, yet august and proud T. i 6 On the sad t., their everlasting state T. 41 Hear him, himself the poet and the t. T. 404 The song magnificent, the t. a worm! T. 412 With such address from t. of sad import T. ii 300 The legate of the skies!—His t. divine T. ii 338 Misled by custom, strain celestial t. T. ii 438 So I, designing other t., and called T. iii 11 The adultress: what a t. for angry verse! T. iii 64 His name a t. for praise and for reproach? T.iii 282 Cold as its t., and like its t. the fruit T. iii 564 A jarring note. T. of a graver tone T. iv 181 [481 Fierce the dispute whate'er the t.; while she T. iv The mind contemplative, with some new t. T. iv 280 Exhausted, he resorts to solemn t. T. v 661 And History, so warm on meaner t. T. v 729 So on they fared. Discourse on other t. T. vi 539 And I, contented with an humble t. T. vi 719 On some fair t., some t. divinely fair T. vi 754 If he regard not, though divine the t. T. vi 1019[231] Transport them, and are made their favourite t. Tir. Ye proud and wealthy, let this t. Trans. i 25 To t. more pertinent, if less sublime T.T. 190 [198] When t. like these employ the poet's tongue T.T. That were a t. might animate the dead T.T. 202 The poet's muse, his passion, and his t. T.T. 289 Whate'er the t., that others never feel T.T. 483 Else summoning the Muse to such a t. T.T. 550 And yet magnificent—a God the t.! T.T. 593 That t. on earth exhausted, though above T.T. 594 The shelves are full, all other t. are sped T.T. 726 Eventful, should supply her with a t. Y.O. 161 I ransacked, for a t. of song 1789, 1 I sought an eligible t. 1789, 8 So I, from t. to t. displayed 1789, 21 A t. for poetry divine 1789, 29 A t. to ennoble even mine 1789, 30

THEMIS.

Our British T. gloried with just cause T. iii 257

THEOLOGICAL. Of t. and grave import) T. v 662

THEORIST.

Truths that the t. could never reach P.E. 11

THICK.

To dash throught t. and thin J.G. 40 T. overspread with moss and silky grass N.A. 2 And skirted t. with intertexture firm T. i 111 Peeps at the vale below; so t. beset T. i 225 Less ostentatious, and yet studded t. T. iii 420 Suspend their crazy boxes, planted t. T. iv 774 The studs that t. emboss his iron door T. v 426 Hypericum all bloom, so t. a swarm T. vi 165 Though leafless, well attired, and t. beset T. vi 168

THICKENING.

Gladly the t. mantle; and the green T. iv 330

THICKEST.

An arbour near at hand of t. yew A.T. 81 Of t, shades, like Adam after taste Y.O. 15

THICKETS.

As one who long in t, and in brakes T, iii 1 Lts hollow glens, its t,, and its plains T, vi 402

THIEF. [508]
True Christians are, dissemblers, drunkards, t. H.
Would hang an honest man, and save a t. Con. 128
"Stop t.! stop t.!—a highwayman!" J.G. 237 [736]
That t. at home must hang, but he that puts T. i
Now goes the nightly t. prowling abroad T. iv 432
Assassined by a t.! T.B. 6
To entertain a t. or two in pay Tir. 693

THIEVISH.

Nor was he of the t. sort Beau 13 [18] Which babes might play with; and the t. jay Y.O.

THIEVISHLY.

The scattered grain, and t. resolved $T \cdot \mathbf{v} = 67$

THIGH.

But wept, and stamped, and smote his t. in vain Ex. He couched it firm upon his puissant t. A.T. 147 Stamped with his foot, and smote upon his t. Ex. 64

THIN

After all he must beat it as t. and as fine F.M. 21
To dash through thick and t. J.G. 40 [T. v 86
T. all their numerous flocks. In chinks and holes
Of other screen, the t. umbrella spread T. i 260
A monitor is wood—plank shaven t. T. ii 585
Beneath a pane of t. translucent horn Tir. 120
'Twould t. the ranks of the poetic tribe T.T. 768

THING.

And laws and duties are neglected t. A.T. 33 And made her dupes see all t. with her eyes) A.T. 39 Some better t. are found A Tale 4 A ship! Could such a restless t. A Tale 23 Well knowing him a sacred t. B.R. 17And once more mingles with us meaner t. Ch. 437 As He ordains t, sordid in their birth Ch, 561 Preserve me from the t. I dread and hate Con. 83 Poets, are sometimes apt to maul the t. Con. 290 Who shifts and changes all t. but his shape Con. 459 "What, always dreaming over heavenly t. Con. 575 Content on earth in earthly t. to shine Con. 583 The song of Sion is a tasteless t. Con. 715 From t. terrestrial, and divinely changed Con. 726 Strange fluctuation of all human t.! E. iii 9 (Sworn foes to every t. that's witty!) E. iv 14 That useful t., her needle gone E. iv 40 While truths on which eternal t. depend Ex. 117 Thus t, terrestrial wear a different hue H, 69

If, led from earthly t, to t, divine H, 141 And beaus, adepts in every t. profound H. 347 What t. upon his back had got J.G. 95 A solitary t. Miss — 32 Perceives in every t. that lives a tongue N.A. 56 'Tis a sight to engage me, if any t. can P.F. 17 The Invisible in t, scarce seen revealed R. 61 Of sorrow, sorrow is a sacred t. R. 316 Impart to t. inanimate a voice R. 361 And ignorance of better t. makes man R. 503 Settling at last upon eternal t. R. 672 That whatsoever t. is lost R.C. 96 Any t. rather than a chest R.C. 106 And please, if any t. could please S. 8 Is falsely named, and no such t. St. vi 11 Can lift herself above corporeal t. T. 487 [T. ii 226 Should England prosper, when such t., as smooth Did not his eye rule all t., and intend T. ii 166 With what intent I touch that holy t.) T. ii 328 The t. that mount the rostrum with a skip T. ii 409 Who handles t. divine; and all beside T. ii 433 Drops from the lips a disregarded t. T. ii 565 ()f whom I needs must argue better t. T. ii 582 With t, so sacred as a nation's trust T, ii 778 And dark in t, divine. Full often too T. iii 235 That makes a minister in holy t. T. iii 280 The hope of better t., the chance to win T. iii 823 Paint cards and dolls, and every idle t. T. iv 241 The course of human t. from good to ill T. iv 578 Is kept and guarded as a sacred t. T. v 304In silly dotage on created t. T. v 586 Who calls for t. that are not, and they come T. v 687 Discerns in all t, what, with stupid gaze T, v 808 A soul in all t., and that soul is God T. vi 185 Some say that in the origin of t. T. vi 198 Else they are all—the meanest t, that are T, vi 584 And just direction sacred, to a t. T. vi 713 [vi 818] Thus Heavenward all t. tend. For all were once T. Of this tempestuous state of human t. T. vi 737 That govern all t, here, shouldering aside T, vi 839 While meaner t., whom instinct leads The Doves 3 The wretch shall rise, and be the t. on earth Tir. 412 The royal letters are a t. of course Tir. 416 That any t. but vice could win thy love Tir. 742 Approved their method in all other t. T.T. 95 If monarchy consist in such base t. T.T. 139 Liberal in all t. else, yet Nature here T.T. 208 Less on exterior t. than most suppose T.T. 247 Free to prove all t., and hold fast the best T.T.273Man lavished all his thoughts on human t. T.T. 596 Who fret their hour and are forgotten t. V. 46With truth from heaven, created t. adore Y.O. 7 (Unless verse rescue thee awhile) a t. Y.O. 58

THINK.

For the Court did not t. they were equally wise A.C. When I t. of my own native land A.S. 45
What t. you, Sir, of killing time B.R. 27
We sometimest. we could a speech produce Con. 353
Pause here, and t.: a monitory rhyme E. i 1
T. on the fruitful and well watered spot Ex. 418
Now t., if Pleasure have a thought to spare Ex. 602
Oh t., if chargeable with deep arrears Ex. 608
Act without aim, t. little, and feel less H. 8 [418
Come, prophet, drink, and tell us what t. you" H.
Once thought of nothing, and now t. in vain H. 30
Nor closets up his thoughts, whate'er he t. H. 410
Each t. his neighbour makes too free L.W. 35 [54
And thought again—but knew not what to t. N.A.
T., ye masters iron-hearted N.C. 21
T. how many backs have smarted N.C. 23
Says—"Well, 'tis more than one would t.!" P. 36
A story so pat, you may t. it is coined P.A. 18

Then t. of his children, for they must be fed "P.A.28 But since they will take them, I t. I'll go too P.A. 39 With some cold moral t, to quench the fire P.E.320And having done, we t., the best we can P.E. 367 He may possess the joys he t. he sees R. 11 And though the world may t, the ingredients odd R. Thought to the man that never t. may seem R. 635 She might repose, or sit and t. R.C. 6Forced to a pause, would feel it good to t. St. ii 15 Man t. he fades too soon St. v 2 T. on the grave where He was laid St. v 35You t. him humble—God accounts him proud T. 92 T. with what pleasure, safe and at his ease T. 253 I cannot t. thee yet so dull of heart T. i 651 And hang his head, to t. himself a man? T. ii 28 Ah spare your idol! t. him human still T. ii 496 You t., perhaps, so delicate his dress T. ii 625 I t., articulate, I laugh and weep T. iii 198 Feel wrath and pity when I t. on thee! T. iii 842 Fearless, a soul that does not always t. T. iv 285 Adopting their mistakes, profoundly t. T. v 270 An easy reckoning, and they t. the same T. v 278 And t. on her, who t. not for herself T. vi 950 [vi 85 May t. down hours to moments. Here the heart T. With both our eyes, is easier than to t. Tir. 256 You t., no doubt, he sits and muses Trans. ii 19 We t, them tedious creatures Trans, iv 39 T. yourself stationed on a towering rock T.T. 33 Who t., or seem to t., man made for them T. T. 50

THINKING

The toll-men t. as before J.G. 243
Habits of close attention, t. heads R. 705
And t. I might purchase it too dear T.T. 515
THIRD.

And, till a t. surpasses you L.R. 23 [T. vi 659 When wandering Charles, who meant to be the t. Two t. of all the virtue that remains Tir. 810

THIRST. [P.E. 54]
Power, Pomp, and Splendour, and the t. of Praise
(Such is his t. of opulence and ease) Her. 68
With prohibition and perpetual t.? P.E. 234
A secret t. of his renounced employs R. 474 [544]
Their t. of knowledge, and their candour too! T. ii
The t. than slaked it, and not seldom bred T. ii 509
Of what is excellent in man, they t. T. ii 790
The wish to shine, the t. to be amused T. iii 829
Cruel is all he does. 'Tis quenchless t. T. iv 459
His inborn inextinguishable t. T. iv 767
With all the savage t. a tiger feels T.T. 36
By low ambition and the t. of praise T.T. 591

THIRST-CREATING.
Thy t. steams at length produce Con. 262
THIRSTING.

Fast as the t. ear can drink the sound Ch. 112 THIRSTY.

We wander o'er a sunburnt t. soil Ch. 220 THIRTEEN.

While t. moons saw smoothly run St. i 1

THISTLE.

T., or lettuces instead E_P . if 15 The t.'s downy seed my fare G. 2 And where unsightly and rank t. grew H. 526

THISTLE-SEEDS. Like t., are sown by every wind P.E. 555

THISTLY.

Without some t. sorrow at its side T. iv 335 Exults to see its t. curse repealed T. vi 768

THOMSON.

Are musical enough in T.'s song R. 570

THONG.

Man's coltish disposition asks the t. P.E. 360 Crack the satiric t.? 'Twere wiser far T. iii 26

THOR.

Woden and T., each tottering in his shrine Ex. 505

THORN.

And floating films envelope every t. A.T. 73
Who found not t. and briars in his road E. ii 12
Ten thousand rove the brakes and t. among H. 280
Where sprang the t., the spiry fir shall spring H. 525
The sheep here smooths the knotted t. M.B. 9
Wide yawns a gulf beside a ragged t. N.A. 14 [S. ii 1
Deem not, sweet rose, that bloomest midst many a t.
First shakes the glittering drops from every t. R. 396
Not rude and surly, and beset with t. T. i 601
Lie covered close; and berry-bearing t. T. v 82 [239
Who wore the platted t. with bleeding brows T. vi
His t. with streamers of continual praise P. T. v 330
Picked from the t. and briars of reproof T. vi 1013
A wintry figure like a withered t. T.T. 725

THORNTON.

And T is familiar with the joy Ch. 253 Thee, T! worthy in some page to shine J. T. 7

THORNY.

Flowers of rank odour upon t. lands R. 754
Its odour o'er the Christian's t. road! T. 454
Of t. boughs: have loved the rural walk T. i 112
In such a world, so t., and where none T. iv 333 [253
Crooked or straight, through quage or t. dells Tir.
But never peep beyond the t. bound T.T. 582

THOUGHT.

A wish or a t. after me? A.S. 38 And Mercy, encouraging t. ! A.S. 54 But not the t. that they must meet no more Ch. 148 Suppose (when t. is warm, and fancy flows Ch. 379 Her eager t., and feeds her flowing joys Ch. 405 Sacred interpreter of human t. Con. 23 They t. they must have died, they were so bad Con. Expression and the privilege of t. Con. 404 They t. him, and they justly t. him one Con. 517 When some green heads, as void of wit as t. Con. 626 Lives the dear t. of joys he once possessed Con. 708 T. is so rare, and fancy so profuse Con. 856 And all the floating t, we find E, i 7 Employs our present t. and pains E. i 51 Are gloomy t, led on by Spleen E, iv 20 First, for a t.—since all agree—E. iv 35 A t.—I have it—let me see—E. iv 36 'Tis gone again—plague on't! I t. E. iv 37 My heart of t. that made it ache Ep. ii 35 None bars Him out from his most secret t. Ex. 337Far be the t, from any verse of mine Ex. 423 Now think, if Pleasure have a t. to spare Ex. 602 If dear society be worth a t. Ex. 670 Say not (and if the t. of such defence Ex. 708 All t. of friendship are but dreams F. 74 The t. of conflagration F. 108 Once t. of nothing, and now thinks in vain H. 30 Quite to forget, or deem it worth no t. H. 83 Its value, what no t. can ascertain H. 125 His soul abhors a mercenary t. H. 332A $\it t$ intrude, that says, or seems to say $\it H$. 372 Nor closets up his t., whate'er he thinks H. 410 And if, unblameable in word and t. H. 622If then, just then, all t. of mercy lost H. 722 But for one piece they t. it hard L.W. 11 Far be the t., and far the strain Miss. Let no low t. suggest the prayer Miss — 65 To serious t. at evening-tide Mor. 12 Yet oh the t., that thou art safe, and he! M.P. 106 To press with energy your ardent t. V. 10

That t. is joy, arrive what may to me M.P. 107 Which served my weak t, for a guide M.D.44Strong genius, from whose forge of t. Mrs. M-23 But recollecting, with a sudden t. N.A. 51 And t. again—but knew not what to think N.A. 54 Still in t. as free as ever N.C. 9 He t. to put him in his crop N.G. 12 Brings every t., word, action, to the test P.E. 34[132 So well that t. the employment seems to suit P.E. Turtle and venison all his t. employ P.E. 220 Your sober t. will hardly find it one P.E. 489 But sighs at t, of empty pockets P.B. 26 That cordial t. her spirit cheered Q.V. 65 Thy power divine, and bounty beyond t. R. 91That, while thy truths my grosser t. refine R. 97 To limit t., by Nature prone to stray R. 127 From anxious t. how wealth may be increased R. And every t, that wanders is a crime R, 224 Or if the t. occurred not duly weighed R. 464 O sweet retirement! who would balk the t. R. 487 T., to the man that never thinks, may seem R. 635 Attain not to the dignity of t. R. 640The strenuous use of profitable t. R. 674And loathed the t. of $\sin St$. iii 28 Some t. of immortality remains T. 39 Recompense ill! He trembles at the t. T. 192 T., word, and deed, his liberty evince T. 195 Peace to the artist whose ingenious t. T. 210 Now which stands highest in your serious t.? T. 221 Swift beyond t. the lightnings dart away T. 243 And is it not a mortifying t.T.339O'er all his t., and swelled his easy sail T.420Swells at the t., and kindling into rage T. 477 The t. that meditates a brother's wrong T. 560 Vain t.! the dweller in that still retreat T. i 237 The powers of fancy and strong t, are theirs T, i 402 At t. of her forlorn and abject state T. i 659 So pleasing, and that steal away the t. T. ii 299 Friendly to t., to virtue, and to peace T. iii 291 Cultured and capable of sober t. T. iii 321 Of t., the creature of a polished mind T. iii 640 Begs a propitious ear for his poor t. T. iv 68 The family dispersed, and fixing t. T. iv 137 In indolent vacuity of t. T. iv 297 Where penury is felt the t. is changed T. iv 397 And incompatible with serious t. T. iv 622 But slaves that once conceive the glowing t. T. v To fly for refuge from distracting t. T. v 415 With worthy t, of that unwearied Love T. v 752 To read his wonders, in whose t. the world T. v 798 No noise is here, or none that hinders t. T. vi 76 In heads replete with t. of other men T. vi 90 The insupportable fatigue of t. T. vi 106 The roving t, and fix it on themselves T, vi 117 And the blood thrills and curdles at the $t. T. \forall i 514$ (Forgive a transient t.) The Doves 30 The world takes little t. Who will may preach T. vi Truths that the learned pursue with eager t. Tir. 73 The knowledge of the World, and dull of t. Tir. 380 Teach humbler t. to you Trans. i 23 [Tir. 556 For one whose tenderest t. all hover round your own? At stated hours, his freakish t. engage Tir. 606 Too proud to adopt the t. of one unknown Tir. 783 No; not a single t. like that Trans. ii 22 That were indeed a king-ennobling t. T.T. 57 [168] Thus men, whose t. contemplative have dwelt T.T. He t. the dying hour already come T.T. 392 Before the keen enquiry of her t. T.T. 493Only by gratitude and glowing t. T.T. 587 Man lavished all his t. on human things T.T. 596 Lifted at length, by dignity of t. T.T. 676Fervency, freedom, fluency of t. T.T. 700

I t. the volume I presumed to send V. 33 Fine passing t, e'en in her coarsest works Y. 0.81

THOUGHTFUL.

While t. man is plausibly amused T. iii 186 Suits well the t. or unthinking mind T. iv 279

THOUGHTLESS.

From t. youth to ruminating age P.E. 24 Oh, tell thy t. sex, the virtuous mind S. ii 6 The gay, the t., have I seen St. i 19 That reared us. At a t. age, allur'd T. vi 38

THOUGHTLESSNESS.

Is but a school, where t is taught T iv 688

THOUGHT-TRACING.

With the t. quill, or tasked his mind Y.O. 158

THOUSAND.

And filled her with a t. fears A Fable 13 "Oh, shame!" ten t. echoing nymphs replied A.T. Tramples on a t. states B. 18 Teach mercy to ten t. hearts that share Ch. 278 Hark! 'tis the music of a t. rills Ch. 367 A t. names are tossed into the crowd Ch. 517 In the last scene of her six t. years Con. 456 Crowned with a t. victories, and at last Ex. 191 That he bids t. fly when none pursue Ex. 360 While t., careless of the damning sin Ex. 388 Reclaim the wandering t, and bring home Ex. 728 Ten t. charms, that only fools despise H. 51 To exchange the centre of a t. trades H. 246 Ten t. rove the brakes and thorns among H. 280 Thy deep repentance of thy t. lies H. 590 Ten t. swains the wasted scene deplore Her. 33 "'Tis for a t. pound!" J.G. 116 From t. with rapture inspired M.D. 40 A t. other themes less deeply traced M.P. 57 To justify it by a t. lies $P.\tilde{E}.$ 284 Which t once fast chained to quit no more R. 2 To wonder at a t. insect forms R. 63 Ten t. rivers poured at his command R. 75 Ten t. t. strings at once go loose R. 329 Sick of a t. disappointed aims) R. 366 When Pope describes them, have a t, sweets R. 572 And his old stint—three t. pounds a year R. 602 Nor his who for the bane of t. born R. 687 These and a t. plagues that haunt the breast R. 763 Faces a t. dangers at her call R.H. 7 A t, awful admonitions scorned St, ii 27 Ten t. warblers cheer the day, and one T. 200 Excels ten t. mercenary deeds T. 224 The t, whom the world forbids to rest T. 438 Ten t. sages lost in endless wee T. 517 Yet t. still desire to journey on T. i 470 Conceiving thunders, through a t. deeps T. ii 89 Of gallery critics by a t. arts T. ii 365 A t. systems, each in his own way T. iii 171 Or heedless folly, by which t. die T. iii 219 Ten t. dangers lie in wait to thwart T. iii 553 [740 And thundering loud, with his ten t. wheels? T. iii Perhaps to t., and of joy to some T. iv 14 Of all this riot: and ten t. casks T. iv 505 Ten t. seek an unmolested end T. v 87 The growing wonder takes a t. shapes T. v 119 He deems a t. or ten t. lives T. \vee 276 His t., weary of penurious life T. v 319 Ten t. rovers in the world at large T. v 408 These, and a t. images of bliss T. vi 341 Wins public honour; and ten t. sit T. vt 633 Six t. years of sorrow have well nigh T. vi 734 No. Freedom has a t. charms to show T.T.260Learns much, and to a t. listening minds T.T.274And set plebeian t. in a roar T.T.319

God's curse can cast away ten t. sail! T.T. 467 He fills profuse ten t. little throats T.T. 694 A t. ways the force of genuine love V. 62 Oaks fell not, hewn by t., to supply Y.O. 101 Which, crooked into a t. whimsies, clasp Y.O. 118

THRACIAN.

On T. Hebrus' side T.B. 63

THREAD.

Your t of argument is snapped again Con. 110Informed, he gathered up the broken t. Con. 525 Strikes the rough t. of error right athwart Ex. 330 And all thy t, with magic art M. 18 Shuffling her t, about the livelong day T. 320 The t, of politic and shrewd design T, iii 147 Or twining silken t. round ivory reels T. iv 264 The glassy t, with which the Fancy weaves T, iv 306 Ere yet mortality's fine t. give way T. v 578 By slender t., and swinging in the breeze Tir. 592 Hackneyed and worn to the last flimsy t. T.T. 727 And in conclusion mar them. Nature's t. Y.O. 80

THREADBARE.

My t. sentiments together E. iv 6

THREADED.

On female industry: the t. steel T. iv 165

THREAT.

Fidelity that neither bribe nor t. T. vi 628

THREATEN.

And daily t. to drive thence E. iv 17 Whoever t. war, to speak of peace Ch. 421 And some that seem to t. virtue less P.E. 227T. his health, his fortune, and his fame Tir. 532 What burns at home; or t. from afar T.T. 447

THREATENED.

And least be t. in the fields and groves? T. i 753 That t. England's trembling state 1789, 37

THREATENING.

To charm to sleep the t. of the skies Ex. 404 Within its reeking bosom, t. death T. iii 503 T. at once and nourishing the plant T. vi 36 If Mercy then put by the t. blow T.T. 401

T. sparks ensued that chased it all away A.T. 167 Myself, and children t. J.G. 14 So t. doors off the chaise was stayed J.G. 37 T. customers came in J.G. 52 And his old stint—t. thousand pounds a year R. 602 Joint-stools were then created, on t. legs T. i 19 Upborne they stood. T. legs upholding firm T. i 20 Improved the simple plan; made t. legs four T. i 29 Greets with t. cheers exulting. At his waist T. i 523 And his t, years of heroship expired T, iv 644 The worth of his t. kingdoms I defy T.T. 85 Two or t. millions of the human race T. T. 423 T. quarters of a year Y.D. 6

THREEFOLD.

"A t. cord is not soon broken "E. i 106

THREESCORE

For t, years employed with ceaseless care R. 37 Since which I number t. winters past Y.O. 3

THRESH.

When flails of oratory t, the floor Ex, 302

THRESHER.

We may discern the t. at his task T. i 356

THRESHOLD.

But if you pass the t., you are caught P.E. 588

THREW.

His snowy mantle o'er his shoulders t. A.T. 202 And he that forged, and he that t. the dart H. 578 Their gates wide open t. J.G. 120 And there he t. the Wash about J.G. 137 If brighter beams than all he t. not forth T.T. 680

THRICE.

Struck t. the point upon his saddle bow A.T. 166 I mourn; or, since t. happy thou must be J.T. 9 T. must the voluble and restless earth T. iii 490 Refinement is endued! t. happy thou! T. iv 359 And t. in every winter throngs thine own Tir. 747 T. happy bird! I teo have seen Trans. ii 31

THRIFT.

To t. and parsimony much inclined T. 141 To her who, frugal only that her t. T. ii 650 With all this t. they thrive not. All the care T. iv 399

THRIFTIER.

But the axe spared thee. In those t. days Y.O. 100

THRILLS.

And the blood t, and curdles at the thought T, vi 514

THRIVE.

These are the gifts of Art; and Art t. most Ch. 113 T. against Hope, and in the rudest scene Ch. 575 States t. or wither, as moons wax and wane Ex. 324 To t. in; an incumbrance ere half spent H. 98 It t. in misery, and abundant grows T. 125 T. by the rude concussion of the storm T. i 378 Here virtue t. as in her proper soil T. i 600 T. most, and may perhaps t. only there T. i 680 With all this thrift they t. not. All the care T. iv 399 A garden in which nothing t. has charms T. iv 754

THRIVING.

With still less hope of t. F. 144
Beneath his care, a t. vigorous plant T. ii 714
Like virtue t. most where little seen T. iii 664
Summer in haste the t. charge receives Tir. 45
To nurse with tender care the t. Arts T. T. 69

THROAT.

Of epidemic t., if such there are Con. 391 [25]
With tails high mounted, ears hung low, and t. N.A.
Save when the knife is at your t. P. 52 [738]
Whose Stygian t. breathe darkness all day long T. iii
Hear the faint echo of those brazea t. T. iv 104
Her cause demands the assistance of your t. T. iv 511
And the first larum of the cock's shrill t. T. iv 569
For silencing so sweet a t. T.B. 59
She fills profuse ten thousand little t. T.T. 694
A huge t. calling to the clouds for drink Y.O. 112

THROB.

Nor his, who patient stands till his feet t. T. iv 46

THROBBING.

To assuage the t. of the festered part R. 321 Tempered in hell, invades the t. breast T. iii 686

THRONE.

Their prince, as justly seated on his t. Ch. 51
Before his presence, at whose awful t. Con. 659
To any t., except the t. of grace H. 239
Sits absolute on his unshaken t. H. 474
A nation dwells, not envious of your t. Her. 49
Speaking from his t., the sky? N.C. 28
[177
Where Night, down-stooping from her ebon t. P.E.
When, long sequestered from his t. Q.V. 1
As stoop from Heaven to sell the proud a t. T. 78
As soon shall rise and reascend the t. T. 395
So sit two kings of Brentford on one t. T. i 78
A leafless branch thy sceptre and thy t. T. iv 125
Sofa, and couch, and high built t. august T. v 164

Where love is mere attachment to the t. T. v 361 And wheels his t. upon the rolling worlds T. v 814 Hers is the state, the splendour, and the t. Tir. 11 To quell the faction that affronts the t. T.T. 67 Obsequious, from the cradle to the t. T.T. 122 Encompassing his t. a few short years T.T. 132 THRONED.

That t. above all height He condescends Ch. 587 THRONG.

Then sang the married and the maiden t. A.T. 197
Far from the world's gay busy t. Comp. ii 4
God gives the word, the preachers t. around H. 453
And through the cumbrous t. Q.V. 66
A few forsake the t.; with lifted eyes R. 161
Surrounding t. the demigod revere T. 312
[117
Possessed an inland scene. Where now the t. T. ii
The pent-up breath of an unsavoury t. T. iv 196
The rustic t. beneath his favourite beech T. iv 708
And thrice in every winter t. thine own Tir. 747

THRONG'D.

So rich, so t., so drained, and so supplied T. i 720 And harmless pleasures, in the t. abode T. iv 783

THROW.

Disdains the Bank, and t. the golden sands Ch. 248
Am I to set my life upon a t. Con. 191
Who t. their Helicon about E. iv 85
He manfully did t. J.G. 76
Is this a Saint? T. tints and all away T. 175
And t. Italian light on English walls T. i 425
Where chance may t. me, beneath elm or vine T. iii
T. up a steamy column, and the cups T. iv 39
That in its fall the liquid sheet t. wide T. v 106
To t. his dark displeasure o'er the scene T.T. 445
If thou desert thy charge, and t. it wide Tir. 887
Or t. them up to livery-nage and grooms Tir. 901

THROWING.

In that blest moment Nature, t. wide T. v 891 And t. up into the darkest gloom T. vi 153 The jasmine, t. wide her elegant sweets T. vi 173 Then stops and snorts, and t. high his heels T. vi 332

THROWN. [T.T. 331 Cheap though blood-bought, and t. away when sold T. up by wintry torrents roaring loud T. i 14 Are oft-times vanquished and t. far behind T. vi 615

THRUSH.

Our more harmonious notes: the t. departs T. i 767 That feed the t. (whatever some suppose) T. v 83

THRUST.

No spell or charm was proof against the t. A.T.146 Can be secure against a madman's t. Ch. 510 Who t. his nose into a raree-show? Con. 286 To t. the charge of deeds that I detest Ex. 430 Will t. a dagger at your breast F. 94

THUMB.

Pinched close between his finger and his t. Ch. 477 I twirl my t., fall back into my chair Con. 115 Down to his finger and his t. E. i 12 But now and then with pressure of his t. T. v 54

THUMP.

And proves by t. upon your back F. 170 The t. after t. of a gold-beater's mallet F.M. 10 T. after t. resounds the constant flail T. i 357 And his head t., to feed upon the breath T. iv 47

THUNDER.

Armed with t., clad with wings B. 27 Art thou the God, the t. of whose hand Ch. 75 Thy t. travel over earth and seas Ex. 582 The t. seems to summon him away H. 719 No t. shook with deep intestine sound Her. 5 Yourselves have seen, what time the t. rolled N.A. 91 T. and flash upon the steadfast shores R. 534 Full charged with England's t. R.G. 31 T., and earthquake, and devouring flame T. 548 He held the t. But the monarch owes T. i 382 Conceiving t., through a thousand deeps T. ii 89 Its t.; and by him, in strains as sweet T. ii 341 Cataracts of declamation t. here T. iv 73 He hears the t. ere the tempest lowers T.T. 496

THUNDERBOLT.

And, t. excepted, quite a God! T. 410 Is punished, and down comes the t. T.T. 403

THUNDER-CLOUDS.

Beget no t. to trouble life V. 76

THUNDERED.

Not harshly t. forth, or rudely pressed T. vi 503

THUNDERER.

As any t. there. And I can feel T. ii 221

THUNDERING.

And t. loud, with his ten thousand wheels? T. iii 740 With all its majesty of t. pomp T. iv 686

THURLO

Round T.'s head in early youth Th. 1

THWART.

To t. its influence, and its end defeat Ch. 38 Oh! t. me not, Sir Soph, at every turn Con. 91 His creature t. not his august design H. 142 One lawless particle to t. his plan T. ii 170 Ten thousand dangers lie in wait to t. T. iii 553 T. his attempts, or envy his success T. iv 787 No flaw deforms, no difficulty t. T. vi 229

THWARTED.

To be suspected, t., and withstood T.T. 141

THWARTING.

And day by day some current's t. force M.P. 104

THYME.

Hence, ankle-deep in moss and flowery t. T. i 270

THYRSIS.

T., Alexis, or whatever name R. 247.

THYRSUS.

The brimming goblet, seized the t., bound T.T. 603

TIBER.

Of T's marshes and the papal bog Ex. 511

TICKET.

Well-equipaged, is t. good enough T. iii 98

TICKLE.

T. and entertain us, or we die R. 708 Less for improvement than to t. spite Tir. 481

TICKLING.

Is't not a pity now, that t. rheums T. iii 167

TICKLISH.

Upon the t. balance of suspense T. iii 550

TIDE.

Held within modest bounds, the t. of speech Con. 889 From them to thee, conveyed along the t. Ex. 624 The t. of pleasure, heedless of his frown Ex. 683 Swept Ouse's silent t. D.W. 2
To pour his golden t. through all her gates Ex. 14 And thy loved consort on the dangerous t. M.P. 98

Wherever driven by wind or t. P. 53 In rushes Folly with a full moon t. P.E. 282 The t. of life, swift always in its course R. 453 Or bury me in ocean's angry t.! T. 270

A cold stagnation on the intestine t. T. vi 189 Watch his emotions, and control their t. Tir. 610

Nor would the Nine consent the sacred $t.\ T.T.\ 181$ Alas! the t. of pleasure sweeps along $T.T.\ 368$

TIDINGS

Strange t. these to tell a world who treat Con. 719 The t. of unpurchased Heaven create H. 343 [573 "Whatt. ?" and the surge replied—"All lost!" Ex. "What news? what news? your t. tell" J.G. 165 She heard the doleful t. of his death T. i 545 What are its t.? have our troops awaked? T. iv 25 "And systems of whose birth no t. yet T. v 827

TIE.

'Tis because resentment t. B. 11
By various t. attaches man to man Ch. 16
The tender t. of father, husband, friend Ch. 141
The t. of nature do but feebly bind Ch. 371
He t. up all his hearers in suspense Con. 130
Of friendship's closest t. Dr. 18
Each tender t. of life defied Miss — 29

THE TOTAL

But being t., it dies upon the lip Con. 355 Where only vice and injury are t. Ex. 594 The closest knot that may be t. F. 62 The ribbon with which it is t. Gr. 8 Of the smooth-shaven prop, and neatly t. T. iii 659 Art thou a man professionally t. Tir. 658

TIGER.

Chain up the wolves and t. of mankind Ch. 287 With all the savage thirst a t. feels T.T. 36

TIGHT.

But still in vain, the frame was t. P.B. 9 T. boxes neatly sashed, and in a blaze R. 483 All t. and well. And how do you Y.D. 35

TILL.

Still happier, if he t. a thankful soil H. 760 I would not have a slave to t. my ground T. ii 29

TILLER.

Yet much depends, as in the t.'s toil Con. 5 Without a soil to invite the t.'s care Her. 27

TILTH.

[46

The yellow t., green meads, rocks, rising ground H.

TIMBER.

But 'tis not t., lead, and stone F. 163 Her t. yet are sound R.G. 29 No want of t. then was felt or feared T. i 57 His patrimonial t. cast its leaf T. iii 752

TIME

Which amounts to possession t. out of mind "A.C. 12 His t., his talents, and his ceaseless care A.T. 15 "Now is the t. to make the maid a bride!" A.T. 69 And quell the shapeless monsters of the t. A.T. 142What think you, sir, of killing T.-B.R. 27 Are sweeter to her many t. C. 31 Springs in due t. supply for the distressed Ch. 482 The lapse of t, and rivers is the same Comp, i 1 But t. that should enrich the nobler mind Comp. i 11 I toy to sport with, and pass t. away Con. 18 Makes half a sentence at a t. enough Con. 246 And in due t. feeds heartily on both Con. 338 [629] Though T. will wear us, and we must grow old Con. The t. is short, and there are souls on earth Con. 493 Well—what are ages, and the lapse of t. Con. 547 As T. improves the grape's authentic juice Con. 643 (And in due t. the world shall know it too) Con. 750 Tis t., however, if the case stands thus Con. 847The freakish humour of the present t. Con. 866 It was the t. when Ouse displayed D.W. 13 To catch the triflers of the \bar{t} . \vec{E} . i. 20 Alas, how t. escapes!—'tis even so E. iii 2 Once on a t. an Emperor, a wise man E. iii 46

"To escape him at the idlest t. E. iv. 76Demands one moment of thy fleeting t. Ep. i 2 Long T. Assyria bound them in her chain Ex.73Uplifted hands, that, at convenient t. Ex. 147 And T, forbid to touch them as he flew Ex, 184 Hast thou within thee sin, that in old t. Ex. 414 If business, constant as the wheels of t. Ex. 604Some blemish in due t. made known F. 146 T. wasted, violated laws, abuse F.A. 14 T. was when I was free as air G. 1 And hope, in due t., to behold Gr. 31 For T., the destroyer declared Gr. 45 Nor labour they, nor t. nor talents waste H. 766 There was a t. when Ætna's silent fire Her. 1 Yet t. at length (what will not t. achieve?) Her. 29 So down he came; for loss of t. J.G. 53But whether all the t. it cost Mor. 41 The art that baffles T.'s tyrannic claim M.P. 9 [74 Could T., his flight reversed, restore the hours M.P. And now, farewell.—T. unrevoked has run M.P. 112 Γ . has but half succeeded in his theft M.P. 120 Of happier t., appear N. 22 A hollow scooped, I judge, in ancient $t.\ N.A.\ 17$ [N.A. 91 For thee wished many a t. N.Y.G. 2 Yourselves have seen, what t. the thunders rolled Innocent! Oh! if venerable T.—P.E. 181 Has t. worn out, or fashion put to shame P.E. 245 But proper t. to marry P.T. 65 'Tis consecration of his heart, soul, t. R. 223 Not to redeem his t., but his estate R. 561 A panting syllable through t, and space R, 692 That leave no stain upon the wing of T.—R. 800 [ii 9 T. then would seem more precious than the joys St. Duly at my t. I come St. iv 13 And sore tormented long before his t. T. 84 Or real, or fictitious, of the t. T. 162 And if the youth, unmellowed yet by t. T. 492Prefer the twilight of a darker t. T. 541 T. was, when clothing, sumptuous or for use T. i 8 Long t. elapsed or e'er our rugged sires T. i 68 Is it a t. to wrangle, when the props T. ii 62 [233 T. was, when it was praise and boast enough T. ii Who squander t, and treasure with a smile T, ii 641 Not yet by t. completely silvered o'er T. ii 703 Virtue and vice had boundaries in old t. T. iii 75 Not slothful; happy to deceive the t. T. iii 362 He places lightly, and as t. subdues T. iii 518 Reiterated as the wheel of t. T. iii 626 And aguish east, till t. shall have transformed T. To palliate dullness and give t. a shove T. iv 210 T., as he passes us, has a dove's wing T. iv 211 But the world's T. is T. in masquerade! T. iv 213 Of card devoted T., and night by night T. iv 229 Ill-clad and fed but sparely, t. to cool T. iv 379 But be ye of good courage. T. itself T. iv 420 [421 Shall much be friend you. T. shall give increase T. iv That poets celebrate; those golden t. T. iv 514 T. was when in the pastoral retreat T. iv 558 To the next rank contagious, and in t. T. iv 584 Him, Tubal named, the Vulcan of old t. T. v 217 Of virtue, made one chief, whom t. of peace T. v 239 To wear out t, in numbering to and fro T, v 425 Was registered in heaven ere t. began T. v 530 T. ploughs them up, and not a trace remains T. v 533 To latest t.; and sculpture, in her turn T. v 709 And for a t. ensure, to his loved land T. v 716 How readily we wish t. spent revoked T. vi 25 Till t. has stolen away the slighted good T. vi 51 And lanes, in which the primrose ere her t. T. vi 112 So 'twas a hallow'd t.: decorum reign'd T. vi 691 Encomium in old t. was poet's work T. vi 715 [665 When t, bath somewhat mellow'd it, and made T. vi The t. of rest, the promised Sabbath, comes T. vi 733

The features of the last degenerate t. T. vi 900 No t. shall disengage The Doves 10 Finds in a sober moment t. to pause Tir. 56T. was he closed as he began the day Tir. 175 That in good t, the stripling's finished taste Tir. 203Peace to them all! those brilliant t. are fled Tir. 234 In early years connected, t. unbinds Tir. 439 Allows short t. for play, and none for sloth Tir. 484 Thus genius rose and set at ordered t. T.T. 560 The prize of happier t., will serve thee now T.T. 371 There is a t., and Justice marks the date T.T. 400 Speak to the present t. and t. to come T. T. 433 In all its parts, t., ministry, and laws T.T. 427 Beating alternately in measured t. T.T. 528 The dark and sullen humour of the t. T.T. 616 Decayed by t., or withered by a frost V. 58 When tithing t. draws near Y.D. 8 It is no t. to joke Y.D. 40 At length the busy t. begins Y.D. 49 T. made thee what thou wast, kingof the woods Y.O. And T. hath made thee what thou art, a cave Y.O. 51 The rottenness, which t. is charged to inflict Y.O.67T. was when, settling on thy leaf, a fly Y.O. 91 [92 Could shake thee to the root—and t. has been Y.O. For senatorial honours. Thus to T.-Y.O. 103 To modern t. with truth to guide 1789, 11 [Y.O. 160 Leaned on her elbow, watching T., whose course TIMED.

Of wise reflection and well t. discourse Con. 388

TIMELY

And loved a t. joke J.G. 170 He, therefore, t. warned, himself supplies T. iii 439

TIMID.

Whate'er was asked, too t. to resist Ex. 540

TIMIDITY.

Perhaps t. restrains his arm T. iv 599

TIMING.

T. more punctual, unrecorded facts Y.O. 47

TIMOROUS.

More delicate his t. mate retires T. 214
These shades are all my own. The t. hare T. vi 305

TIMOROUSLY.

Nor always t. creep Trans. H. 5

TIN.

And the old utensil of t. R.C. 27

TINCTURED.

His azure eyes, is t. black and red T. iv 216

TINDER.

Has burnt to t. a stale last year's news B.B. 10

TINGED.

The town has t. the country; and the stain T. iv 553

TINGING.

And, t, all with his own rosy hue T. v 8

TINGLING.

He feels a gentle t. come E. i 11 Should feel that itching and that t. E. i 25

TINKLE.

The pomp of sound or t. without use Con. 892 Like music it t. and rings in your ears F.M. 7 Must t. and glitter like gold to the sight F.M. 19 Streams t. sweetly in poetic chime R. 568 That t. in the wither'd leaves below T. vi 82 Or t. in 'Change Alley, to amuse T.T. 186

TINKLING.

Musical as the chime of t. rills P.E. 14
If he the t. harpsichord regards P.E. 148

Ah, t. cymbal and high-sounding brass T. v 681 And idle t. of a minstrel's lyre T. vi 1021

TINSEL.

His the mere t., hers the rich reward T. 332

TINTS.

But still the imputed t. are those alone H. 73 Is this a saint? Throw t. and all away T. 175

TINTINABULUM.

The clockwork t. of rhyme T.T. 529

TINY.

Those twinkling, t. lustres of the land B.B. 5
But you have killed a t. bird Beau 5
Rose from a seed of t. size E. i 95
Old T., surliest of his kind Ep. ii 5
And partner once of T.'s box Ep. ii 43

TIPPLING.

From t. benches, cellars, stalls, and styes T. vi 695

TIPTOE-STEP.

With t. Vice silently succeeds Ex. 84

TIRE

Pleasure is labour too, and t as much H. 20 Whose wit is rudeness, whose good breeding t. R. 438 Not t., demanding rather skill than force T. iii 407 That never t., soon fans them all away T. iii 763 His lessons t., his mild rebukes offend Tir. 716

TIRED

Till both grew vexed and t. A Tale 22
"The dinner waits, and we are t." J.G. 147
By panting dog, t. man, and spattered horse N.A.
The very spirit of the world is t. T. vi 869

TISSUED.

When, playing with thy vesture's t. flowers M.P.75

TITHING.

When t. time draws near Y.D. 8

TITLE

Their t. to a country not their own Ex. 173
That infidels may prove their t. good Ex. 380
Proclaim their t. to the crowd around H. 266
Was—welladay, the t. page was lost H. 428
That t. now too trite and old) Mor. 2
That virtue has a t. to your love P.E. 248
Have purchased Heaven, and prove myt. good T. 96
Her t. to a treasure in the skies T. 330
Thy t. is engraven with a pen T. vi 862
The great indeed, by t., riches, birth Tir. 346
Great t., offices, and trusts disgraced Tir. 816
In all that wars against that t. most T.T. 429

TITYRUS.

Of T., assembling, as he sang T. iv 707

TOAST.

Mere folly and delusion—Sir, your t. H. 364 That man shall be my t. Pat. 10 A present to his t. Trans. iv 6

TO-DAY.

Which flew not till t. Beau 6 Yesterday's face turn image of t. H. 102 The purpose of t. H.F. 2

And standard of his own, that is t. T. $\forall i$ 214

TOE.

Equipped from top to t. J.G. 74
Whose t. of emulation treads too near R. 442
From top to t. the Geta now in vogue T. 202
From pangs arthritic that infest the t. T. i 105
His awkward gait, his introverted t. T. iv 633

TOIL.

Forgetful of the glorious t, of war A.T. 28

For then, by t. subdued, he drank Cast. 47 Murmuring and weary of our daily t. Ch. 221 T. much, and is a solemn trifler still Ch. 356 Yet much depends, as in the tiller's t. Con. 5 Where others t, with philosophic force Con, 151 The Mind despatched upon her busy t. Con. 437 T. to anticipate in vain E. i 66 "Sure so much labour, so much t. E. iv 81 And though a Bishop t, to cleanse the stain Ex. 384 Contrived both for t, and repose Gr. 10 And fruit reward his honourable t. H. 761 Plies all the sinews of industrious t. Her. 69 Or all the t, is lost H.F. 24 Restless as his who t. and sweats for food J.T. 24 Make the plant for which we t.? N.C. 18 Ere yet the pleasing t. becomes a pain P.E. 70 The joy, the danger and the t. o'erpays P.E. 90 And t, to polish its rough coat alone P.E. 420 Of half the t. they must encounter there R. 610 To learned cares or philosophic t. R. 662To study culture, and with artful t. R. 785 Hard lot of man, to t. for the reward T. 11 Forgets her labour as she t. along T. 457 His wasted spirits quickly, by long t. T. i 128 Swift pace or steep ascent no t. to me T. i 139 T. much to earn a monumental pile T. i 276 From strenuous t. his hours of sweetest case T. i 388 Such squalid sloth to honourable t.! T. i 579 Courageous, and refreshed for future t. T. iii 19 If t. await me, or if dangers new T. iii 20 [620 Well they reward the t. The sight is pleased T. iii That ask robust, tough sinews, bred to t. T. iii 405 To books, to music, or the poet's t. T. iv 262 More briskly moved by his severer t. T. iv 389 Takes a Lethean leave of all his t. T. iv 475 And I am recompensed, and deem the t. T. vi 725 Laborious, yet unconscious of her t. Tir. 18 From reveries so siry, from the t. T. iii 188 His virtuous t. may terminate at last Tir. 777 (For what kings deem a t., as well they may T.T. 155 With double t., and shiver at their work T.T. 215 His spirits rising as his t. increase T.T. 279 The feller's t. which thou could'still requite Y.O. 115 Both in their t. and at their sports 1789, 63

TOILED. [t. F.A. 28
Deep mysteries both! which school-men must have Patriots have t., and in their country's cause T. v 704

TOILET.

And whether at the t. of the fair H. 684 TOILING.

That t. ages have but just matured T. iii 450 The t. steeds expand the nostril wide T. iv 347

TOIL-RENEWING.

And through the scenes of t. light Con. 732

TOILSOME.

'Tis easy to resign a t. place R. 621 (T. and indigent), she renders much T. 326 "From t. life to never-ending rest T. \vee 841

TOKAY.

Who stole her slipper, filled it with T.—T. 157

TOKEN.

And sealed with the same t. It is held T = 547

Retort the charge, and let the World be t. Con. 767 It has indeed been t. me (with what weight Con. 815 Pleasure is deaf when t. of future pain Ex. 66 [479 Gold, to be sure!—Throughout the town 'tis t. Ch. Hast thou not learned, what thou art often t. Ex. 350 Pants to be t. of battles won or lost R. 476 [34] T. hill and dale that Reynard's track was found N.A. T. that his setting sun must rise no more St. ii 16

cg 2

Adust with stripes t. out for every crime T. 83
A den of mischiefs never to be t. T. 392 [331
Watch, seals, and all,—till all his pranks are t. Tir.
With doubtful credit, t. to frighten babes T. iv 564
Proving at last, though t. in pompous strains Tir. 75
Ingenious dreamer, in whose well t. tale Tir. 135
You t. me, I remember, glory built T.T. 1 [Tir. 801
Whose hearts will ache, once t. what ills may reach

TOLL.

T. for the brave! R.G. 1 T. for the brave! R.G. 13

To t, the death-bell of its own decease T, ii 51

TOLLED.

I heard the bell t. on thy burial day M.P. 28

TOLL-MEN.

The t. thinking as before J.G. 243

TOM.

The man that hails you T. or Jack F. 169
His scruples thus silenced, T. felt more at ease P.A.
But T. was still confused F.B. 21
P.A. 33
They spoke, and T. pondered—"I see they will get f.T. be sober, and the wheels well greased P.E. 439
You have two servants,—T., an arch, sly rogue T. 201
By footman T. for witty and refined Tir. 687
212
T. quits you, with—"Your most obedient, Sir" T.

TOMB.

Their fragrant memory will outlast their t. Con. 631 And many a t., like Hamilton's aloud Ep. i 9 Lavish of life, to win an empty t. Ex. 522 That overhangs the borders of thy t. H. 38 Blush, Calumny! and write upon his t. H. 588 Can always balk the t. St. i 28 Oh then, ere the turf or t. St. i v 33 Or does the t. take all? If he survive T. ii 518 The man we celebrate must find a t. T. iii 264 And wraps him in an unexpected t. T. v 143 The t. take all, and all be blank beyond Tir. 68

TOMES.

Through t. of fable and of dream 1789, 7

TO-MORROW.

Good lack, we know not what t. brings E. iii 8 T. rends away H.F. 4
T. is our wedding-day J.G. 9
Dupe of t. even from a child M.P. 41
Thus many a sad t. came and went M.P. 42
Live till t., will have passed away N.A. 133
T. brings a change, a total change! T. iv 322
And is not ere t.'s sun go down T. vi 215

TONE

And much was she charmed with a t. C. 14 So his lordship decreed, with a grave solemn t. A. C.He would not, with a peremptory t. Con. 121 [464 Prescribes the theme, the t., and the grimace Con. The future t, and temper of the sky Ex, 158 Go now, and with important t. demand H. 528 With all Elijah's dignity of t.H.624I could expound the melancholy t. N.A. 94Wonders at Clodio's follies, in a t. P.E. 191 Of attic phrase and senatorial t. S. i 11 The t. of languid Nature. Mighty winds T. i 183 And colleges, untaught; sells accent, t. T. ii 359 A corresponding t. in jovial souls T. iii 333 A jarring note. Themes of a graver t. T. iv 181 Its wasted t, and harmony unheard T, iv 480 "In what, with such solemnity of t. T. v 648 And stately t. of moralists, who boast T. v 690Of such mellifluous t. T.B. 57 Now look on him, whose very voice in t. Tir. 815 The language and the t. Trans. iv 33 His form robust and of elastic t. T.T. 218

Its clearest t. the rapture it inspires T.T. 293 Of their best t, their dissolution owe Y.O. 85 TONGUE.

So T. was the lawyer, and argued the cause A.C. 5 Nor soft enough to suit a lover's t. A.T. 20 All the terrors of our t.'s B. 12 As only her musical t. C. 19

Who dare dishonour, or defile, the t. Con. 26 Ye powers who rule the t., if such there are Con. 81Though syllogisms hang not on my t. Con. 98 Much to the purpose, if our t. were loose Con. 354 She should imbue the t, with what she sips Con. 441 Holds a usurped dominion o'er his t. Con. 462 [36] There were the scorner's and the slanderer's $t.\, Er.$ Thus touched, the t. receives a sacred cure Con. 887 Confessed the wonder, and with daring t. Ex. 155 Ghastly in feature, and his stammering t. Ex. 356 Disgracefully on every trifler's t. Ex. 663 Till the best t., or heaviest hand, prevails H. 196 Bound in the fetters of an unknown t. H. 450 Assailed by scandal and the t. of strife H. 576 And while his t, the charge denies H.F. 15 The honey on his t. M. ii 16 Perceives in everything that lives a t. N.A. 56 [117 And rush those other sounds, that seem by t. N.A. With such fine words familiar to his t. P.E. 509 A Finch, whose t. knew no control P.T. 26

That t. is silent now; that silent t. R. 289 [411]
The t. whose strains were cogent as commands R.
And deaf to all the impertinence of t. R. 549
Take it and perish; but restrain your t. T. 18
That speech betrays at once a bigot's t. T. 519 [559]
Condemns the injurious deed, the slanderous t. T.
That Chatham's language was his mother t. T. ii 237
With parrot t. performed the scholar's part T. ii 738
The struggling efforts of my boyish t. T. iv 711
He gives a t. to enlarge upon a heart T. ii 794

He gives a t. to enlarge upon, a heart T. iv 794 Was split into diversity of t. T. v 195 "Nay—conduct hath the loudest t. The voice T. v 650 And t. accomplish'd in the fulsome cant T. vi 239

The lambent homage of his arrowy t. T. vi 782 To seek a refuge from the t. of strife T. vi 841 With all their flippant fluency of t. T.T. 147 When themes like these employ the poet's t. T. T. 198 And not a t. inquires how, where, or when T.T. 424

With more than mortal music on his t. T.T. 737 [9] Your brain well furnished, and your t. well taught V. Not of a nimble t., though now and then Tir. 666 Else coarse and rude in manners, and their t. Tir. 831

TOOK.
Though duly from my hand he t. Ep. ii 9 [N.A. 126
Through mere good fortune, t. a different course
George t. his seat again Q.V. 2

Twelve years have elapsed since I last t. a view $P.\tilde{F}$. The Crown, t. notice of an ostler's face R. 586 Surveyed the scene, and t. possession R.C. 44 His own coevals t. but little note T. iii 142 And t., too often, there his easy nap T.T. 679 TOOL.

Oaths, used as playthings or convenient $t.\ Ex.\ 37$ Contrives, hard shifting, and without her $t.\ T.\ v.\ 417$

TOOTH.
Not destined to my t. B.R. 18

A t or suburn lock, and by degrees T. i 133 Though all the superstructure, by the t. Y.O. 122

TOOTHLESS.

Praise from the rivelled lips of t., bald T. ii 488 Teeth for the t., ringlets for the bald T. iv 81

Perched on the t. of yonder hill E. i 44

Equipped from t. to toe J.G. 74
So stooping down from hawthorn t. N.G. 11

The rest in order to the t. R.C. 94 From t. to toe the Geta now in vogue T. 202 From Sinai's t. Jehovah gave the law T. 549 Thou climbest the mountain t., with eager eye T. i 'Tis perched upon the green hill t., but close T. i 222 Shout to each other, and the mountain t. T. vi 794

TOPMAST.

Ascends his t., through his peering eyes T. iv 115 TOPMOST.

His lamp now planted on Heaven's t. arch N.A. 31 Half open in the t. chest R.C. 40 Here and there one upon the t. bough T. 380 Seems sunk, and shortened to its t. boughs T. i 306 The nightingale may claim the t. bough T.T. 576

And Hymen, trimming his dim t. anew A.T. 201 With t. ever bright Miss - 74 TORE.

The astonished vulgar trembled while he t. Ex. 139TORMENT.

Is man then only for his t. placed P.E. 229 His pupil, and his t., and his jest T. iv 632 Needless, and first t ere he devours T vi 396 TORMENTED.

And sore t. long before his time T. 84 T. into billows, heaves and swells T. ii 101

TORN.

Whom you have t. for yours Beau 16 Their pages mangled, burnt, and t. M. i 9 Laughs at the reputations she has t. T. 163So when by Bacchanalians t. T.B. 62 Neatly secured from being soiled or t. Tir. 119

TORNADOES. Hark! He answers-Wild t. N.C. 38

'ORPID

To live, unblessed, in t. case Miss - 27The swallows in their t. state N. 1 T. and dull beneath a frozen zone T. 481 Checks vegetation in the t. plant T. iii 468

TORRENT.

And pours a t. of sweet notes around Ch. 111 Can trace the t. as it burns along? Her. 20 Thrown up by wintry t. rearing loud T. i 14 That overhangs a t., to a twig T. i 484

TORRID.

In Afric's t. clime, or India's fiercest heat T.T. 297 TORTUOUS.

Of some flagged admiral; and t. arms Y.O. 96 TORTURE.

[P.A. 3 Me to t., me to task? N.C. 12 What I hear of their hardships, their t., their groans And t, and groans will be multiplied still P.A. 12 Should suffer t., and the streams be dyed T. vi 390 TORTURED.

With t, innocence in Mary's Court Ex. 613 Thus t, and squeezed, at last it appears F.M. 5 TOSS.

The flirted fan, the bridle, and the t. H. 344TOSSED.

A thousand names are t. into the crowd Ch. 517 But t, and buffeted about P. 9 Man on the dubious waves of error t. T. 1 By many a billow t, Trans. iv 3

TOTAL.

His ambiguities his t. sum Con. 143The t. ordinance and will of God T. i 743 And find the t. of their hopes and fears T. iii 132 To-morrow brings a change, a t. change T. iv 322 The t. grist unsifted, husks and all T. vi 108

The t. hera receiving first from one T. vi 335 To live estranged from God his t. scope Tir. 426 From t. night and absolute disgrace T.T. 665

TOTTERING.

Woden and Thor, each t. in his shrine Ex. 505Her elbows ruffled, and her t. form T. iv 545

TOUCH.

But if she t. a character, it dies Ch. 456 Some fretful tempers wince at every t. Con. 325 And dreaded more than a contagious t.? Con. 652 And t. the subject I designed at first Con. 868 [18] Can gold grow worthless that has stood the t. E. iii With feet too delicate to t, the ground Ex. 52 And Time forbid to t, them as he flew Ex, 184 Should fly the world's contaminating t. Ex. 446With curious t. examines me P. 33 Who reckon every t. a blemish P, 56 Exposed to view, but not to t. P.B. 30 Have you no t. of pity that the poor P.E. 249 Nor t, the page he cannot but profane) P.E. 457 In all we t., stamped plainly on his works H. 545 Of him whom Hope has with a t, made whole H. 731 Still as I t, the lyre, do thou expand R. 203 That yields not to the t. of human skill R. 344 Oh, then, a text would t. him at the quick! T. 310 And dangerous to the t., has yet its bloom T. i 528 To conjure clean away the gold they t. T. i 571 That falls asunder at the t. of fire T. ii 11 The t from many a trembling chord shakes out $ar{T}$ iv They t, our country, and their shackles fall T. ii 42 With what intent I t. that holy thing) T. ii 328 Forgot their office, opening with a t. T. ii 747To no mean hand, and asks the t. of taste T. iii 632 And t, of his hand, with so much art T, iv 736 And all was moist to the warm t.; a scene T. v 166 Of leaf and flower? It sleeps; and the icy t. T. vi 137 Not to be wronged by a mere mortal t. T. vi 748 No passion t. a discordant string T. vi 787 But shows some t., in freckle, streak, or stain T. vi From t. of human lips at best impure T. vi 835 T. but his nature in its ailing part Tir. 161 To t, the sword with conscientious awe T.T. 77 Heroic song from thy free t. acquires T.T. 292 So nice his ear, so delicate his t.) T.T. 653 Might prove a welcome gift, and t. thine heart V. 41

TOUCHED.

But still a soul thus t. can never cease Ch. 420 [501 T. by that power that you have dared to mock Con. T. with the magnet, had attracted his Con. 272 Nothing is slightly t., much less forgot Con. 317 Thus t., the tongue receives a sacred cure Con. 887In being t., and crying-"Don't!" P. 38 Or his, who t. their hearts with hallowed fires ? Ex. Truth, Hope, and Charity, and t. with awe T. i 2 There t. by Reynolds, a dull blank becomes T. i 700 For he has t, them. From the extremest point T, ii 92 That he has t., retouched, many a long day T. iii 786 T. by the Midas finger of the State T. iv 507 [796 Not so the mind that has been t. from Heaven T. v Foh! 'twas a bribe that left it: he has t. T. iv 609 Till Thou hast t. them; 'tis the voice of song T. v 887 Is t. within us, and the heart replies T. vi 5 T. with a coal from Heaven, assume the lyre T.T. 735

TOUCHING.

The scene is t., and the heart is stone Tir. 298

TOUCHWOOD.

And from his t. trunk the mulberry-tree T. vi 688

And bends the t. materials to his will Ch. 464 That ask robust, t. sinews, bred to toil T. iii 405 Obduracy takes place; callous and t. T.T. 458 Warped into t. knee-timber, many a load! Y.O. 99

TOWER.

Named with emphatic dignity, "The T." Ch. 550
Till the foe found them, and down fell the t. Ex. 72
Such freedom is,—and Windsor's hoary t. Ex. 596
Rebuilds the t. that smoked upon the plain Her. 71
Of hedge-row beauties numberless, square t. T. i173
A prince with half his people! Ancient t. T. ii 121
To view some rugged rock or mouldering t. T. iv 235
Soothed with a waking dream of houses, t. T. iv 287
Ye horrid t., the abode of broken hearts T. v 384
And through the trees I view the embattled t. T. vi 66
Of wintry blasts; the loftiest t. Trans. H. 14

TOWERED.

She t. a cloud-capped pyramid of snow Her. 4

TOWERING.

Would humble many a t. poet's pride Ch. 536 And steeples t. high, much like our own P.E. 382 Whole without stooping; t. crest and all T. iv 271 Think yourself stationed on a t. rock T.T. 33

TOWN.

Gold, to be sure !- Throughout the t. 'tis told Ch. 479 Judging, in charity no doubt, the t. H. 250 Of famous London t. J.G. 4 For he got first to t. J.G. 246 Wasting t_{\cdot} , plantations, meadows N.C. 35 With memorandum-book for every t. P.E. 373 Most likes it, when he studies it in t. R. 574 In village or in t., the bay of curs T. i 230 [T. iii 815 The world of wandering knights and squires to t. God made the country, and man made the t. T. i 749 A man o' the t. dines late, but soon enough T. ii 622 And crowd the road, impatient for the t.! T. iii 319And surfeited lewd t. with her fair dues T. iii 758 Even in the stifling bosom of the t. T. iv 753 [553 The t. has tinged the country; and the stain \bar{T} . iv Therefore in t. and cities they abound Tir. 519 [iv 466 Pass where we may, through city or through t. T. With half the chariots and sedans in t. Tir. 748 Rose like a paper-kite and charmed the t. T.T. 385 The weekly censor of a laughing T - V. 38

TOWS.

Than when he t. a prize A Tale 60

ጥበ포

A t. to sport with, and pass time away Con. 18
Who first misuse, then cast their t. away H. 128
Might prove a mischief, or at best a t. P.E. 302
Life an intrusted talent, or a t. ? R. 650
For what poor t. they can disclaim St. vi 15
Devised the Weatherhouse, that useful t.! T. 211
Her brittle t., restores me to myself T. iv 307
Because men suffer it, their t. the world T. v 192
To trivial t., and, pushing ivory balls T. vi 274
But bends his sturdy back to any t. Tir. 549
Just what the t. will sell for, and no more T.T. 62

TRACE.

But misery still delights to t. Cast. 59
To t. thee to the date when yon fair sea Ex. 550
That while I trembling t. a work divine H. 671
Can t. the torrent as it burns along? Her. 20
Can t. her mazy windings to their end P.E. 16
T. of Eden are still seen below R. 28
To t. in Nature's most minute design R. 53
From all that Science t., Art invents T. i 627
Paul should himself direct me. I would t. T. ii 397
Some t. of her youthful beauty left) T. iii 299
And lineaments divine I t. a hand T. iii 722
The pencil or the pen, may t. the scene! T. v 109

Time ploughs them up, and not a t. remains T. v 533 It is not from his form, in which we t. Tir. 1 To t. him in his word, his works, his ways! T.T. 751

TRACED.

The farther t., enriched them still the more Con. 516 A thousand other themes less deeply t. M.P. 57 T. easily to its true source above J.T. 45

TRACK.

Told hill and dale that Reynard's t. was found N.A.34 Pursue the t. of his directing wand T. iii 777 [i.161 His labouring team, that swerved not from the t. T. Lean pensioners upon the traveller's t. T. v 93 Confine the million in the beaten t. T. T. 667

TRACKED.

Have we not t. the felon home, and found T. ii 813

TRADE.

T. is the golden girdle of the globe Ch. 86 T. in the blood of innocence, and plead Ch. 182 Praise is the medium of a knavish t. E. ii 6 Aspersion is the babbler's t. F. 100To exchange the centre of a thousand t. H. 246 If foreigners likewise would give up the t. P.A. 13 Sad sacrilege! no function, but a t.! P.E. 123 The statesman, lawyer, merchant, man of t. R. 5 The sacred fire, self-torturing his t. T. 100 Disinterested good, is not our t. T. i 674 Build factories with blood, conducting t. T. iv 681 Than set your son to work at a vile t. Tir. 456 By public backneys in the schooling t. Tir. 621 See great commanders making war a t. Tir. 821 Whose t. it is to smile, to crouch, to please T.T. 123To turn a penny in the way of t. T.T. 421

TRADESMAN.

So may a t., if not quite a knave H. 210

TRADITION

T., now decrepted and worn out Ex. 502

TRADUCE.

The man that dares t., because he can Ex. 432 T. the splendour of a noontide ray T. 540 Give it a charge to blacken and t. T.T. 763

TRADUCED.

Insulted and t., are cast aside T. vi 879

TRAFFIC.

Who drive a loathsome t., gauge and span Ch. 139 Caledonia's t. and pride! Gr. 18
So coin grows smooth, in t. current passed P.E. 279 And fills the world of t. and the shades R. 120
Should purl amidst the t. of Cheapside T.T. 185

TRAGIC.

Needs he the t. fur, the smoke of lamps T. iv 195

TRAGICAL.

As t., as others at his own P.E. 192

TRAILING.

That fumes beneath his nose, the t. cloud T. v 56

TRAIN.

Fairest and foremost of the t. that wait Ch. 1
Yet Fashion, leader of a chattering t. Con. 457
Are bringing into vogue their heathen t. Con. 821
That, with a black, infernal t. E. iv 15
A calm succeeds—but Plenty, with her t. Hcr. 63
A t., attendant on their queen Miss—71 [iii 411
Which, save himself who t. them, none can feel T.
And Pleasure brings as surely in her t. P E. 43
Grey dawn appears; the sportsman and hist. P.E. 82
Bright as his own, and t. by every rule T. ii 347
Her t. and her umbrella all her care T. iv 552 [247
Treads on thy sweeping t.; one hand employed T. iv

With all her little ones, a sportive t. T. vi 301 He too is witness, noblest of the t. T. vi 425 T. him in public with a mob of boys Tir. 206 Would turn our steps into a wiser t. Tir. 260 The Muse instructed a well nurtured t. T.T. 634

TRAINBAND.

A t. captain eke was he J.G. 3

TRAINED. [5

Were t. beneath his lash and knew the smack Ex. And all your numerous progeny, well t. T. iv 422

TRAITOR.

He was a t. by the general voice Ex. 545 By t. Appetite, and armed with darts T. iii 685

TRAMONTANE.

Is t., and stumbles all belief T. iv 533

TRAMPLE.

T. on a thousand states B. 18 At least to t. on our Maker's laws Con. 183 Who t. order; and the day St. vi 25

TRAMPLED.

Unless his laws be t. on,—in vain? Ch. 191 Will be despised and t. on at last T.T. 397 E'en on the fools that t. on their laws T.T. 651

TRAMPLER.

The injurious t. upon Nature's law T. vi 465 TRANQUIL.

And leave to Mercy, with a t. mind T. 499
The dreams of fancy, t. and secure T. i 236
To seek a t. death in distant shades T. iii 111
Begat a t. confidence in all T. vi 366
Who, doomed to an obscure but t. state T. vi 908

TRANQUILLITY. Or placemen, all t. and smiles T. iv 49 on v. and smiles 1.1v.

TRANSCENDING. Charged with a freight t. in its worth Ch. 133

TRANSCENDS.

And are august, but this t. them all T. v 552

TRANSCRIBED.

Were copied close in him, and well t. H. 581

TRANSCRIPT.

Received the t. of the Eternal Mind Ex. 198

TRANSFERS.

Sells the last scantling, and t. the price T. iii 753
TRANSFIX.

Much less t. his feelings with an oath Tir. 729

TRANSFIXED.

And, Phineas-like, t. them at a blow A.T. 196

TRANSFORMATION.

What solid was, by t. strange T. ii 99 But t. of apostate man T. v 695

TRANSFORMED.

T. to blessings, miss their cruel aim E. ii 38 And aguish east, till time shall have t. T. iii 772 T. to a lean shank. The shapeless pair T. v 16 The rude companion smiled, as if t. T. vi 543

TRANSFORMS.

T. thy smiles to looks of woe M. 47 Down into modern use; t. old print T. ii 363

TRANSGRESS. [T. i

T. what laws they may. Well-dressed, well-bred "Favoured as ours, t. from the womb T. v 829

TRANSIENT.

At length his t. respite past Cast. 43 A t. visit intervening E. i 97 And of a t. date G. 9 T. indeed, as is the fleeting hour H. 119
To every sudden slip and t. wrong H. 390
Till life's poor t. night is spent N.G. 32
And outline of the present t. state R. 670
Few t. years, won from the abyss abhorred T. i 286
Substantial happiness for t. joy T. iii 300
[461
Sweet smiles, and bloom less t. than her own T. i
Is but a t. guest, newly arrived T. iii 750
'Twas t. in its nature, as in show T. v 173
Pronounced it t., glorious as it is T. v 563
Slow circling ages are as t. days T. vi 227
But 'twas a t. calm. A storm was near T. vi 544
(Forgive a t. thought) The Doves 30

TRANSITION.

By short t. we have lost his glare T. i 336 The grand t., that there lives and works T. vi 184

TRANSITORY.

Yet e'en in t. life's late day Tir. 143

TRANSLUCENT.

And overlaid with clear t. glass T. iii 485 Beneath a pane of thin t. horn Tir. 120

TRANSMITTING.

T. cloudless, and the solar beam Y.O. 75 The occasion of t. fear to love? Ch. 225

TRANSPARENCY.

Gleamed through the clear t. that seemed T. \forall 151

TRANSPIRE.

Warning his heart, should at his lips t.? Con. 484

TRANSPLANTED.

When thou, t. from thy genial home Tir. 850

TRANSPLANTATION.

And t, in an ampler space T, iii 533

TRANSPORT.

A t. glows in all he looks and speaks H. 726
All, all alike, t. the glowing bard R. 197
And dream of t. she was not to know T. i 544
The bee t. the fertilizing meal T. iii 538
With t. such as favoured lovers feel T. iv 721
T. them, and are made their favourite themes Tir.231
T. not chargeable with art 1789, 60

TRANSPORTATION.

As from a seven years' t., home Con. 400

TRANSVERSE.
Between two poles upon a stick t. T. i 561
TRAPPED.

Makes men mere vermin, worthy to be t. T. ii 683

TRAPPINGS.

He wore them as fine t. for a show T. 56

And with poetic t. grace thy prose T. v 679

TRAPS.

T. to catch youth are most abundant too Tir. 522
TRASH.

Quickens a market, and helps off the t. Ch. 522 And all is t. that Reason cannot reach Ex. 103 And taken t. for treasure F. 27 With indolence and luxury is t. P.E. 428 Much t. unuttered, and some ills undone Tir. 733 TRAVEL.

Thy thunders t. over earth and seas Ex. 582
We t. far, 'tis true, but not for naught T. i 675
In every clime, and t. where we might T. ii 234
Contrive creation; t. nature up T. iii 156
He t. and expatiates, as the bee T. iv 107
He t., and I too. I tread his deck T. iv 114
As he that t. far, oft turns aside T. iv 234

TRAVELLED.

Seem all created since he t. last R. 426

And worships. Her report has t, forth T. vi 813

TRAVELLER.

What monstrous lies some t. will tell " Ch. 394 No t. ever reached that blest abode E. ii 11 Ere yet it came, the t. urged his steed T. 244 Sent through the t.'s temples! He that finds T. iii 803 Ill fares the t. now, and he that stalks T. iv 341 Lean pensioners upon the t.'s track T. v 93 And snow, that often blinds the t's course T. v 142 To join a t., of far different note T. vi 489 To bid the t., as he went Trans. i 15

TRAVERSE

To t. seas, range kingdoms, and bring home Ch. 301 Might t. England safely to and fro E. iii 61

REACHEROUS.

[A.T. 118 "Find out her t. heart, and plant a dagger there? The t. smile, a mask for secret hate Ex. 42 And kindles in his soul a t. fire P.E. 40 T. and false; it smiled and it was cold T. v 176 Along the t. shore Trans. H. 6

TREAD.

Fate steals along with silent t. A Fable 36 But marks the man that t. his fellow down Ch. 211 With unshod feet they yet securely t. E. ii 16 That t. the circuit of the cistern wheel! H. 100 At every step beneath their feet they t. Her. 55 Points to inscriptions wheresoe'er they t. P.E. 391 The fatal ills; that though the path he t. P.E. 545 Whose toe of emulation t. too near R. 442 The saint or moralist should t. S. 17"Worlds should not bribe me back to t. St. iii 5 He t. as if, some solemn music near T. 62 [351 We t. the Wilderness, whose well-rolled walks T. i Though halt, and weary of the path they t. T. i 471 Disclosing Paradise where'er He t. ? T. ii 87 I mean to t. I feel myself at large T. iii 18 ne travels, and 1 too. I t. his deck T. iv 114 [247 T. on thy sweeping train; one hand employed T. iv And licks the foot that t. it in the dust T. v 356 And settle in soft musings as I t. T. vi 69 Will t. aside, and let the reptile live T. vi 567 Nor, though he t. the secret path of life T. vi 956 Reasoning at every step he t. The Doves 1 Shine by the side of every path we t. Tir. 79 To him that t. upon his free-born toe T.T. 227 He trod the very self-same ground you t. T.T. 388

TREAT

But to t. justly what he loved so well Con. 624 Strange tidings these to tell a world who t. Con. 719 Receives from her both appetite and t. P.E. 210"My friends! be cautious how ye t. P.T. 23 And minds that deem derided pain a t. R. 310 [772] To range the fields and t. their lungs with air T. iv And t, them kindly! rude as thou appearest T, iv 370

TREASON.

To smite the poor is t, against God Ch, 217 As if 'twere t. against English laws Con. 398 Beyond that mark is t. He is ours T. v 341

TREASURE.

And destined all the t. there A Fable 26 Religion! what t. untold A.S. 25 That tells us whence his t. are supplied Ch. 440 And gathering all her t., sweet by sweet Con. 440 And spread the sacred t. of the breast Con. 573The t. at my feet D.W. 36Her princes captive, and her t. spoiled Ex. 62 And taken trash for t. F. 27What t. centre, what delights, in thee H. 174 That boasts the t., all at his command H. 176 And many a t. more M. i 6 The various t. of his mind Mrs, M— 42

To increase a stranger's t. N.C. 3 "My patrimonial t and my pride R. 367 In which he sports away the t. now St. ii 10 Her title to a t. in the skies T. 330 The Poet's t., silence, and indulge T. i 235 Who squander time and t. with a smile T. ii 641 Is virtue; the only lasting t., truth T. iii 269 Loses its t. of salubrious salts T. iii 610 The beds the trusted t. of their seeds T. iii 650 [160 The sprightly lyre, whose t. of sweet sounds $ar{T}$. iv Were kingship as true t. as it seems T. \vee 357 Proud of the t., marches with it down T. v 708 But not to understand a t.'s worth T. vi 50 [359 They risk their hopes, their dearest t. there? Tir. Indeed is t., and crowns all the rest V. 92 The shipwright's darling t., didst present Y.O. 97 I found the far-sought t, near 1789, 28

TREASURED.

The t. sweets of the capacious plan Ch. 323 Had t. up before M. ii 12 And fruitful soil, that has been t. long T. iii 514

TREATY. Rejects all t., penetrates all wiles H. 649

TREE.

In Scotland's realm, where t. are few A Tale 1 It served them with a t. A Tale 32 But such a t.! 'twas shaven deal A Tale 33 The t, they call a mast A Tale 34 We paused under many a t. C. 13 From a worse yoke, and nailed it to the t. Ex. 220 And from the t, that fringed his hill Mor. 14 Not animals alone, but shrubs and t. N.A. 57Like Eden's dread probationary t. P.E. 468 [P.A. 38 His apples might hang till they dropped from the t. Opposite in the apple t. P.T. 31 And the t, is my seat that once lent me a shade P.F. Bare t. and shrubs but ill, you know P.T. 52 To carve his rustic name upon a t. R. 400 But still 'tis rural-t. are to be seen R. 497 An apple t., or lofty pear R.C. 12 Green as the bay t., ever green St. i 17 He hears the tempest howling in the t. T. 254 Like gleanings of an olive t. they show T. 379 And range an Indian waste without a t. T. i 261 Diversified with t. of every growth T. i 301 Proud of his well-spread walls, he views his t. T. iii No t. in all the grove but has its charms T. i 307 Jotham ascribed to his assembled t. T. v 322 [288] T., churches, and strange visages, expressed \tilde{T} . iv But t., and rivulets whose rapid course T. vi 109 When lightnings flash among the t. The Doves 21 Spring hangs her infant blossoms on the t. Tir. 43 Like caterpillars, dangling under t. Tir. 591 [v 112 Large growth of what may seem the sparkling t. T. Beneath thy parent t. mellowed the soil Y.O. 24 As in Dodona once thy kindred t. Y.O. 41 And through the t. I view th' embattled tower T. vi Desperate attempt, till t. shall speak again Y.O. 49

TREE-ENCHANTER.

The t. Orpheus fell T.B. 64

TREESHIP. Of t.—first a seedling, hid in grass Y.O.61

TREMBLE

And made the mountains t, at his frown? Ch. 78 To t. (as a creature of an hour Con. 657 All t. in all worlds, except our own Con. 660 That sick, she t., knowing she must die Con. 773 And his that seraphs t. at, is hung Ex. 662 Recompense ill? He t. at the thought T. 192 And t. when I wake, for all the wealth T. ii 31

T. and be amazed at thine escape T. ii 159 And sigh, but never t. at the sound T. iv 106 The frugal housewife t, when she lights T, iv 380 When he should strike, he t. and sets free T. iv 600 Is balloted, and t at the news T iv 627 [492] And t. at vain dreams? Heaven grant I may! T. v As taught him too to t. in his turn T. vi 378 In which the best and worthiest t. most Tir. 415 He t. at the sight Y.D. 24

TREMBLED.

The astonished vulgar t., while he tore Ex. 13Then laugh at all you t at before P.E.592Her sacred cause, but t, when he rose T.T.351

TREMBLING.

Fear seized the t. sex; in every grove A.T. 97 And woman t at the foot of man A.T. 158 Stood t. at the boldness of thy powers Ex. 597 The little Greeks look t at the scales H. 195 The purple bumper t, at his lips H, 358 That while I t, trace a work divine H, 671 How each would t. wait the mournful sheet St. ii 5 The dying, t. at the awful close T. 436 T. yet happy, confident yet meek T. 572 The solemn chords, and with a t. hand T. i 3 While God performs, upon the t. stage T. ii 81 The touch from many a t chord shakes out T iv 161 Upon his heart-strings, t. with delight T. v 414 T., as if eternity were hung T. vi 270 To rend a victim t. at his foot T. vi 411 Canst thou, the tear just t. on thy lids Tir. 859 That threatened England's t. state 1789, 37

TREMENDOUS.

But shine with cruel and t. charms Ch. 545 Or heard we that t. bray alone N.A.93The victim of his own t. choice T. vi 558

TREMULOUS.

Grew t., and moved derision more T. ii 729

TRESPASS.

Implies no t. against Love Divine) Ch. 488 Lest he should t., begged to go abroad E. iii 23 By t or omission F. 147 For one slight t, all this stir M, F. 21

TRESSES.

For more than half the t. it sustains T. iv 544

TRIAL.

To recommence life's t., in the hope F.A.4Placed for his t. on this bustling stage P.E. 23

TRIBE.

That every t., though placed as he sees best Ch. 19 And the twelve standards of the t. unfurled Ex. 211 All t. beside of Indian name Mrs. M-9 What parts the kindred t. of weeds and flowers? H. Grand Metropolitan of all the t. P.E. 186 A vagabond and useless t, there eat T, i 559 We persecute, annihilate the t. T. iii 309 The feathered t. domestic. Half on wing T. v 62 In t. and clans, and had begun to call T. v 222Its family and t. Laburnum rich T. vi 149 Guard what you say; the patriotic t. T.T. 83 'Twould thin the ranks of the poetic t. T.T. 768

TRIBULATION.

Will learn in school of t. R.C. 115

TRIBUNAL.

And show the august t. of the skies R. 656

TRIBUTARY.

Who left them still a t. state Ex. 218 Adds, as he can, his t. mite T.T. 112

TRIBUTE.

Accept the t. of a stranger's pen Ch. 291 Pay t. to thy glorious beams O. i 7 This annual t. Death requires St. i 11 Propitious, pays his t., game or fish T. iv 611 And dedicate a t., in its use T. vi 712 And Saba's spicy groves, pay t. there T. vi 807

TRICE.

How in a t. the turnpike men J.G. 119 Whom in a t. he tried to stop J.G. 223

TRICK.

With many a freakish t. deceived his pains A.T. 25That forms and rites are t. of human law A.T.62Some men employ their health, an ugly t. Con. 311 A t. upon the canvass, pointed flame Con. 782 And t. and turns, that Fancy may devise Ex. 137 I know not where she caught the t. R. C. 7And let that pass—'twas but a t. of state T. ii 267 What !—will a man play t., will he indulge T. ii 419 And mode of its conveyance, by such t. T. ii 561 By t. and lies as numerous and as keen T. ii 671 In playing t. with Nature, giving laws T. iii 165 Learn every t., and soon play all the game T. iv 231 Cards were superfluous here, with all the t. T. iv 207 Quite unindebted to the t, of art T.T.525While servile t, and imitative knack T.T.666Their whole attention, and ape all his t. Tir. 225

TRICKED.

T. out of all his royalty by art Ch. 53 Like an unburied carcass t. with flowers T. vi 992

TRICKLE.

That t. down the branches, fast congested T. v 114

TRICKLED.

With tears, that t. down the writer's cheeks T. iv 18 TRICKLING.

Are a stream choked, or t. to no end Tir. 718

TRIDENT-BEARING.

And t, queen of the wide seas Ex. 275

T., as it should be, by the fruit it bears Con. 172 If thus the important cause is to be t. H. 373 A knave when t, on honesty's plain rule H, 566 Whom in a trice he t, to stop J.G.223A last year's bird, who ne'er had t. P.T. 28Whose courage well was t. R.G. 6And well t. virtues, could alone inspire T. i 148 The wall on which we t. our graving skill Tir. 300 Or rather a gross compound, justly $t.\ Tir.\ 466$ Because for sooth thy courage has been t. Tir. 739

TRIFLE.

Each t. that he sees Beau 4 I owed a t., and have paid the debt Con. 796 Here just such t., without worth or use Ex. 49 No t., howsoever short it seem H. 123 T. pursued, whate'er the event Mor. 45 A t. if it move but to amuse P.E.303And man might safely t, with his name T. 556 I would not t, merely, though the world T. ii 313 'Tis true that, if to t. life away Tir. 81 In tales, in t., and in children's play T.T.731

TRIFLED.

He laughed and t., made him welcome there H. 685

TRIFLER.

The solemn t., with his boasted skill Ch. 355 Toils much, and is a t. still Ch. 356 Important t.! have more smoke than fire Con. 250 And brings the t. under rigorous sway Con. 596 To catch the t. of the time E. i 20

The busy t, dreams himself alone Ex, 322 Disgracefully on every t.'s tongue Ex. 663 But t. are engaged and cannot come P.E. 167 Is far too just to pass the t. by P.E. 200 And having lived a t., die a man R. 14Then doubtless many a t., on the brink St. ii 13 A t. vain, and empty of all good Tir. 754

TRIFLING.

Grown dim in t. studies, blind he dies Ch. 358 A simpering countenance, and a t. air P.E. 206Though busy, t.; empty, though refined P.E. 426 To distant worlds, and t. in their own T. iii 166 Proof of a t. and a worthless mind T.T. 759 Amusement-monger of a t. age V. 28

His neighbour in such t. J. G. 162 But how a body so fantastic, t. T. ii 460 And Nature in her cultivated t. T. iii 357 Humour in holiday, and sightly t. T.T. 643

TRIMMED.

He t. his flight another way P.B. 12 New t., a gallant show! Q.V.6His books well t., and in the gayest style T. 421 Saw better clad, in cloak of satin t. T. i 535

And Hymen, t. his dim torch anew A.T. 201

TRIPLE.

"This t. realm adores thee;—thou art come Ch. 270 Once have the sanction of our t. state E. iii 57 The Pineapples in t. row P.B.1The t. purpose. In that sickly, foul T. v 583

TRIPPING.

Yes—you may catch him t., if you can Con. 120

TRITE.

That title now too t, and old) Mor. 2

TRIUMPH.

Thy deathless wreaths, and t. all thine own H. 664 By frequent lapse, can hope no t. there T. i 691 And there obtains fresh t. o'er himself T. vi 937 Our fathers' t. and our own 1789, 16

TRIUMPHANT.

With wreaths like those t. spirits wear H. 166 'Tis God himself t. in his heart H. 735 The gulf of death t, passed St, iii 31 And in the charming strife t. still T. iv 163

TRIVIAL.

God's holy word, once t. in his view H. 706 On every t. provocation? M.F. 36 T. as a parrot's prate? St. iv 24 Some t. slips their daily walk attend T. 286 However t. all that he conceives T. iv 69 Discourse ensues, not t., yet not dull T. iv 174 T. and worthy of disdain, achieves T. v 639To t. toys, and, pushing ivory balls T. vi 274 Of what he deems no mean or t. trust T. vi 607 And t. favours, lasting as the life T. vi 630

TROD.

Securely, though by steps but rarely t. R. 113 [47 Children not thine have t. my nursery floor M.P. He left his bcd, he t. the floor R.C.91A noble show! while Roscius t. the stage T. iii 597 Beneath the turf that I have often t. T. vi 1005 Be careful where he t. Trans. i 16 He t. the very self-same ground you tread T.T. 388

TROJAN.

A T. combat would be something new Con. 197

TROOPS.

What are its tidings? have our t. awaked? T. iv 25 The armoury of Winter; where his t. T. v 139

TROOPING.

Come t, at the housewife's well known call T, v 61

TROPES.

Or will he seek to dazzle me with t. T. ii 423

TROPHIED.

Of t. helmets, spears and shields 1789, 4

But where are its sublimer t. found? T. ii 319 Ask him, indeed, what t. he has raised T. vi 932 Brings down the warrior's t. to the dust T.T. 7

The snorting beast began to t. J.G. 83 That t. became a gallop soon J.G. 87

Beau t. far before D.W. 30

TROUBLE. T. is grudgingly and hardly brooked Ch. 218 A doctor's t., but without the fees Con. 314 Chill blasts of t. nip their springing joys E. ii 32 Would t. him much more $J.\hat{G}$. 56 (For stormy t. loudest roar Mrs. M— 47 Or t. it at all Trans. ii 24 To exchange content for t., ease for pain V. 64 Beget no thunder-clouds to t. life V. 76

TROUBLED.

While his own heaven surveys the t. scene Ex. 586

TROUBLESOME.

And, like an infant, t. awake T. 427

Less t. taking twice the sum Y.D. 67

The t. of a worthy priest Y.D. 3

TROUGH.

Obscene, to swill and swallow at a t. ? P.E. 266

Like t. pursued, the critic in despair P.E. 502

TROY.

And blazing London seemed a second T.-T.T.323TRUANT.

E'er since, a t. boy, I passed my bounds T. i 114

TRUCE.

But t. with censure. Roving as I rove T. iv 232 TRUCK.

Became stone blind; precedence went in t. T. ii 741

And having t. thy soul, brought home the fee Ex.

[A.T. 109 "For British nymphs, whose lords were lately t. And may his hopes be t.! A Tale 64 Are marriage in its t. and proper shape A.T. 65

Wherever he found man to nature t. Ch. 27 Heaven held his hand, the likeness must be t. Ch. T. charity, a plant divinely nursed Ch. 573 In every tale they tell, or false or t. Con. 61 Admit it t., the consequence is clear Con. 165 "Can this be t.!" - an arch observer ories Con. 231

T. modesty is a discerning grace Con. 373

Found him as prompt, as their desire was t. Con 545 And give t. piety that odious name Con. 656 T. bliss, if man may reach it, is composed Con. 679

Peruses closely the t. Christian's face Con. 743 And I had rather creep to what is t. Con. 863 To your intrinsic merit t. E. i 27

T., changes will befall, and friends may part E. iii 10

And were I called to prove the assertion t. E. iii 12 And the t. God, the God of truth, was theirs Ex. 240 T. freedom is where no restraint is known Ex. 592To take for truth what cannot but be t. Ex. 649T. as a needle to the pole F. 110 Strangers to liberty 'tis t. F.B. 10 As youth or age persuades, and neither t. H. 70"Your office is to winnow false from t. H. 417 That decks, with all the splendour of the t. H. 485 And Perjury stood up to swear all t. H. 563 [H. 508 T. Christians are, dissemblers, drunkards, thieves Hates with a deep sincerity the t. H. 642 Now by the voice of his experience t. H. 707His conscience owns it t. H.F. 16 To make his balance t. J.G. 72Traced easily to its t. source above J.T. 45 That all the t. delights of man Miss -"T.," answered an angelic guide Mor. 39 He spells them t. by intuition's light N.A. 69 Him answered then his loving mate and t. N.A. 105 T. beagle as the staunchest hound he keeps P.E. 87Not more industrious are the just and t. P. E. 293 That education gives her, false or t. P.E. 358 For 'tis a rule that holds for ever t. P.E. 534 T., Wisdom will attend his feeble call R. 33 No happiness is felt except the t. R. 461Amusement and t. knowledge hand in hand R. 702 Of all these sepulchres, instructors t. St. ii 34T. piety is cheerful as the day T. 176 Just knows, and knows no more, her Bible t. T. 327 Possess herself of all that's good or t. T. 489 The gouty limb, 'tis t.; but gouty limb T. i 107 By its t. worth, the comforts it affords T. i 397 We travel far, 'tis t., but not for naught T. i 675 But though t. worth and virtue, in the mild T. i 678 Thy joys and sorrows, with as t. a heart T. ii 220 T., we have lost an empire—let it pass T. ii 263 , we may thank the perfidy of France T. ii 264 Of academies, is this false or t.? T. ii 533 To his t. worth, most pleased when idle most T. iv T., I am no proficient, I confess T. iii 210 [iii 250 Friends in the friends of science, and t. prayer T. Disturb good order, and degrade t. worth T. iii 674 T. to his charge, the close packed load behind T. iv 8 Whatever else they smother of t. worth T. iv 746 T. to the death, but not to be his slaves T. v 345 Were kingship as t. treasure as it seems T. v 357 But these are not his glory. Man, 'tis t. T. v 559 What none can prove a forgery, may be t. T. v 612 O scenes surpassing fable, and yet t. T. vi 759 [256 Though winter had been none, had man been t. T. vi And be not costly more than of t. worth T. vi 984 Awoke and found it t. T.B. 48T. vi 1012 Roved far, and gathered much; some harsh, 'tis t. 'Tis t. that, if to trifle life away Tir. 81
T. to the jingling of our leader's bells Tir. 254 Must shine by t. desert, or not at all Tir. 357 In all t. worth and literary skill? Tir. 378 T. While they live, the courtly laureate pays T.T. Prepared by taste, by learning, and t. worth Tir. 678 The wretch, to nought but his ambition t. T.T. 30 Filled with as much t. merriment and glee T.T. 214 Is truth, if history itself be t. T.T. 399 And 'tis the sad complaint, and almost t. T.T. 732 As that of t. fraternal love U. 12 A soul, an image of Himself and therefore t. V. 98Such Mary's t. love, that has lived W.N. 19 But yet, methinks to tell you t. Y.D. 59

TRULY.

Self-knowledge t. learned of course implies Ch. 359 That square not t. with the Scripture plan Ch. 559 That blessings t. sacred, and when given Ex. 684

"Yes, t.—one must scream and bawl M.F. 27 These, these are feelings t. fine P. 63 But Granby was, meant t. what he said R. 598 "T., not I! The partial light men have T. 521 Interprets her more t.) of a rank T. iv 548 Of syntax, t., but with little more Tir. 623

TRUMPERY.

Love is not pedler's t., bought and sold H. 330

TRUMPET.

The t. now spoke Marmadan at hand A.T. 161 A t. that was heard through all the land A.T. 162 The t. of contention F. 99 The t. of a life-restoring day H. 456 The t. sounds, your legions swarm abroad Her. 53 The t.—will it sound? the curtain rise? R. 655 Not so; the silver t.'s heavenly call T. 349 'Twas the last t.—see the Judge enthroned! T. 564 Inspires the news, his t. Keener far T. ii 353 May prove a t., summoning your ear T. iv 570 Scripture is still a t. to his fears T. v 611

TRUNCHEONS.

To extort their t. from the puny hands T. v 189

TRUNDLING.

Just like unto a t. mop J.G. 139

TRUNK.

To every pane his t. applied P.B.8 [A.T. ii 4 With as many hard names as would line a good t. Sin's rotten t., concealing its defects P.E.288 In spiral rings ascends the t., and lays R.231 [683 And from his touchwood t. the mulberry-tree T. vi Alike yet various. Here the grey smooth t. T. i 302

TRUST.

To call the few that t. in him his friends Ch. 588 The pillars of support in which they t. Ex. 333Boys care but little whom they t. F. 20That secrets are a sacred $t. \ F. \ 157$ The man I t., if shy to me F. 187 Will t, him for a faithful generous part H. 336 I plant my foot upon this ground of t. H. 369 Man vainly t. his own H.F. 20 I would not t. my heart—the dear delight M.P. 82 Their own dear virtue their unshaken \tilde{t} . T. 284 [29] With naught in charge, he could betray no t. P.E. The chase for sustenance, precarious t.1 T. i 611 That t, them, and in the end disclose a face T, ii 693 With things so sacred as a nation's t. T. ii 778 Devises, while he guards his tender t. T. iii 561 In politic convention) put your t. T. v 323 We t. him not too far. King though he be T. v 336 And we too wise to t. them. He that takes T. v 496 To guard them, and to immortalize her t. T. v 711 Of what he deems no mean or trivial t. T. vi 607 That these menageries fail their t. Tir. 293A man deemed worthy of so dear a t. Tir. 711 And, t. me, his utility may reach Tir. 731 Forgetful that the foot may crush the t. Tir. 792 Great titles, offices, and t. disgraced Tir. 816 And t, for safety to a stranger's care Tir. 852 They t in navies, and their navies fail T.T. 466 They t. in armies, and their courage dies T.T. 468 But all they t. in withers, as it must T.T. 470 [471 When He commands in whom they place no t. T.T.

TRUSTED.

Were t. with his own engraven laws Ex. 199 I never t. in an arm but thine T. 575 The beds the t. treasure of their seeds T. iii 650

TRUSTING.

And t. in his God, surmounts them all R.H. 8 Too proud for art, and t. in mere force T.T. 683 TRUSTY.

In which I bear my t. sword J.G. 63 Can dream them t. to the general weal T. v 514

TRUTH.

In the ways of religion and t. A.S. 22 That man by Faith and T. is made a slave A.T. 66 T. armed it with a point so keen, so just A.T. 145 And slaves, by t. enlarged, are doubly freed Ch. 231 All t. is precious, if not all divine Ch. 331 'Tis t. divine, exhibited on earth Ch. 377 The T. she loves a sightless world blaspheme Ch. 416 A vehicle of virtue, t., and love Ch. 624 Oh come not ye near innocence and t. Con. 39 And e'en when sober t. prevails throughout Con. 65 Through constant dread of giving T. offence Con. 129 Fate having placed all t. above his reach Con. 142 On all the vestiges of t. attend Con. 219 Their skill a t., his master's a pretence Con. 418 Have proved them t. too big to be expressed Con. 498 And, T. and Wisdom gracing all He said Con. 526 Matched against t. as lasting as sublime? Con. 548 But T. divine for ever stands secure Con. 555 'Tis always active on the side of T .-- Con. 602 And to say t., though in its early prime Con. 633Proud of his speed, to overshoot the t. Con. 642 It views the t. with a distorted eye Con. 669 That t. itself is in her head as dull Con. 779 Pursues the course that t. and nature teach Con. 890 And tell them t. divine and clear E. i 21 Then T is hushed, that Heresy may preach Ex. 107 While t. on which eternal things depend Ex. 117 That T, and Mercy had revealed to man Ex, 236 And the true God, the God of t., was theirs Ex. 240 A t. still sacred, and believed of old Ex. 351 Friendship and t. to others, findest thou none? Ex. Now borne upon the wings of T. sublime Ex. 466 Religion, if in heavenly t. attired Ex. 492 The beams of heavenly t, have swelled the debt! Ex. Those holy men, so full of t. and grace Ex. 618 Those t., which neither use nor years impair Ex. 626 To take for t. what cannot but be true Ex. 649 The word of prophecy, those t. divine Ex. 686 Still murmuring with the solemn t. I teach Ex. 719 The sound of t. will then be sure to please Ex. 731 And t. alone, where'er my life be cast Ex. 732 And equal t, on either side F, 50 "Couldst thou in t.? and art thou taught at length T. useful and attainable with ease F.A. 32 For t. is unwelcome, however divine F.M. 23 Benignity, friendship, and t. Gr. 41 For t. self-evident, with pomp impressed H. 103 Born capable indeed of heavenly t. H. 231And t., proposed to reasoners wise as they H. 258 That t. lies somewhere, if we knew but where H. 424 Brings many a precious pearl of t, to light H, 444 Yet T. is yours, remote, unenvied isle! H. 481 Now, T., perform thine office; waft aside H. 570 He laughs, whatever weapon T. may draw H. 596 Insensible of T.'s almighty charms H. 655
Parent of Hope, immortal T.! make known H. 663 These are thy glorious works, eternal T .-- H. 742 To hear plain t. at Judah's hallowed gate H. 763 And stands a witness at T.'s awful bar Her. 81 Whose fires to sacred T. applied Mrs. M-32 This t, premised was needful as a text N.A. 71 Sure ne'er to want them mathematic t. N.A. 80 But they whom T. and Wisdom lead P.B. 35 T. that the theorist could never reach P.E. 11 Or lead him devious from the path of t. P.E. 60 Are hurtful is a t. confessed by all P.E. 226 Finds, by degrees, the t. that once bore sway P.E. Hatched by the beams of t., denies him rest P.E. 241

Thou polished and high-finished foe to t. P.E. 341'Tis granted, and no plainer t. appears P.E. 353 Eternal t. by everlasting doubt P.E. 473 First Appetite enlists him T.'s sworn foe P.E. 542 One leg by t. supported, one by lies P.E. 561 To virtue, delicacy, t., or sense P.E. 513 He that hates t. shall be the dupe of lies P.E. 607 That, while thy t. my grosser thoughts refine R. 97 T. is not local, God alike pervades R. 119 T., wisdom, grace, and peace like that above R. 163 Collect the scattered t. that Study gleans R. 274 What obvious t. the wisest heads may miss! R. 458 He likes the country, but in t. must own R. 573 The friend of T., the associate of sound Sense R. 696 Give T. a lustre, and make Wisdom smile R. 718 For 'tis a t. well known to most R.C. 95 Read, ye that run, the awful t. St. i 21 These t., though known, too much forgot St. i 31 Can a T., by all confessed St. iv 21 The t. is (if the t. may suit your ear T. 113 And tells, not always with an eye to t. T. 154 A t, the brilliant Frenchman never knew T. 328 Once the blest residence of t. divine T. 387 Reverse the sentence, let the t. be known T. 449 T. will intrude—she bids him yet beware T. 471 Though various foes against the T. combine T. 473 T., Hope, and Charity, and touched with awe T. i 2 And all her fruits by radiant t. matured T. i 697 Advancing Fashion to the post of T .- T. i 744 This t., Philosophy, though eagle-eyed T. ii 174 His noble office, and, instead of t. T. ii 428 There stands the messenger of t.; there stands T. ii Whom T. and Soberness assailed in vain T. ii 480 All t. is from the sempiternal source T. ii 499 [543 Preach it who might. Such was their love of t. T. ii The brightest t. that man has ever seen T. ii 555 When learning, virtue, piety, and t. T. ii 700 She smiles, appearing, as in t. she is T. iii 49 [162] Involves the combatants; each claiming T.— \tilde{T} . iii T. undiscerned but by that holy light T. iii 242 [163]
And T. disclaiming both; and thus they spend T. iii
Is virtue; the only lasting treasure, t. T. iii 269 To T. itself, that deigned him no reply T. iii 271 Tell me-and I will tell thee what is T.-T. iii 289 The cause of piety, and sacred t. T. iii 707 [270 But what is t.? 'Twas Pilate's question put T. iii As more illumined, and with nobler t. T. iv 192 Imposed a gay delirium for a t. T. iv 528 Who is, in t., the friend of no man there? T. v 505 "Falsehood! which whose but suspects of t. T. v 642 Of rectitude and fitness, moral t. T. v 672 The eclipse that intercepts t.'s heavenly beam T. v To those who, posted at the shrine of T.-T. v 713Our claim to feed upon immortal t. T. v 721 He is the freeman whom the T. makes free T. v 733 So reads he Nature, whom the lamp of t. T. v 845 Deceive no student. Wisdom there and t. T. vi 116 In heavenly t.; evincing, as she makes T. vi 183 Much to persuade, he plied his ear with t. T. vi 502 The meek and modest T., and forcing her T. vi 840 And aims them at the shield of T. again T. vi 875 To palates that can taste immortal t. T. vi 1015 Fair science poured the light of t. Th. 3 "Our mutual bond of faith and t. The Doves 9 [73 T. that the learned pursue with eager thought Tir. With t. poured down from every distant age Tir. 14 But t, on which depends our main concern Tir, 77 Betimes into the mould of heavenly t. Tir. 106 Sweet fiction and sweet t. alike prevail Tir. 136 The gem of t. from his unguarded soul Tir. 152 Of modest t. for wit's eccentric range Tir. 174 Learn from expert inquirers after t. Tir. 192 Whose only care, might t. presume to speak Tir. 193

Γ629 Our early notices of t., disgraced Tir. 199 With savoury t, and wholesome common sense Tir. Whate'er she meant, this t. divine Trans. i 21 Receive, dear friend, the t. I teach Trans. H. 1 Religion, virtue, t., whate'er we call T.T. 286 Is t., if history itself be true T.T. 399 And t. cut short to make a period round T.T. 517 We hug the hopes of constancy and t. V. 53The t. of a friend such as you W.N. 24 With t. from heaven, created thing adore Y.O. 7 To modern times, with T. to guide 1789, 11

TRUTH-TRIED.

And finding in the calm of t. love T. iii 56

[vi 26 TRY. That we might t, the ground again, where once T. They mean to t. what may at last be done Con. 833 Are more intelligent at least,—t. them " Ex. 461 (T. the criterion, 'tis a faithful guide) P.E. 514 His conduct, to the test, but t. his heart T. 562 T. now the merits of this blest exchange Tir. 173

Him, T. named, the Vulcan of old times T. v 217

But finds that though his t, assist the sight Ch. 387 Such often, like the t. they so admire Con. 249 The explosion of the levelled t. excites H. 350 [978 But never yet did philosophic t. T. iii 229 Her golden t. through which a sensual world T. vi To adjust the fragrant charge of a short t. T. v 55

TUCKED.

Carries her Bible t. beneath his arm T. 147

With here and there a t. of crimson yarn T. i 53

TUFTED.

Nor soft declivities with t, hills R. 333

THEGED.

That ever dragged a chain, or t. an oar Ex. 527

TUITION.

By kind t. on his yielding breast Tir. 154 Who, if their sons some slight t. share Tir. 783

TULLY.

As T. with philosophy once dealt Con. 730
Has Epictetus, Plato, T., preached! T. ii 540 What need of Homer's verse, or T.'s prose Tir. 399 Would strive to make a Paul or T. stand T.T. 349

TUMBREL.

Like a slain deer, the t. brings him home P.E. 94

TUMULT.

And t., and intestine war M.F. 48 And hate the t. half the world enjoys R. 176 The t. and the overthrow, the pangs T. ii 104 The t. and am still. The sound of war T. iv 100When T. lately burst his prison door T.T. 318

TUMULTUARY.

The tempest of t. joys T.T. 409

TUMULTUOUS.

Of elements t., in whom lust T. v 308

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

Content with Bristol, Bath, and T.-R. 516

TUNE. Lost, till he t. them, all their power and use R. 330 Calls for the kind assistance of a t. R. 712 " May play what t. he pleases. In the deed T. v 652Of error leads them by a t. entranced T. vi 105 And every warbler has his t. by heart T.T.655

TUNED. [iv 704 No bard could please me but whose lyre was t. T.

Whothen, that has a mind well strung and t. T. vi 262 Till t. at length to some immortal song Con. 907

TUNEFUL.

So t. a poet before C. 24 Hear the sweet accents of his t. voice R. 771

TURBAN.

And jewel'd t. with a smile of peace T. iv 29

TURBULENCE

A life all t, and noise may seem T, iii 379

TURBULENT.

Through many a t. year W.N. 20

TURF.

Down to the very t. beneath Thy feet H. 50 [258] With fragrant t., and flowers as wild and fair Ch. Oh then, ere the t. or tomb St. iv 33 With a t. on my breast, and a stone at my head Yields no unpleasing ramble; there the t. T. i 530 The honours of the t. as all our own T. ii 277 [ii 31 Dewdrops may deck the t. that hides the bones St. Beneath the t. that I have often trod T. vi 1005

TURGID.

That turns to ridicule the t. speech T. v 689

Thus says the prophet of the T.-L.W. 1 [160] And Christians marrying may convert the T.-A.T.

A T. carpet was his lawn Ep. ii 21

To see the oppressor in his t. oppressed Ch. 74 Their acrid temper t., as soon as stirred Ch. 503 Oh! thwart me not, Sir Soph, at every t. Con. 91 Just so the Omnipotent, who t. E. i 73 544 The t. are quick, the polished points surprise Ch. And tricks and t., that Fancy may devise Ex. 137 T. downward, and the lowest pair succeed H. 14 And just when evening t, the blue vault grey H. 79 While Passion t. aside from its due scope H. 113 From which our nicer optics t. away H. 494 [244] "Keep wisdom, or meet vengeance in your t.! Ex. He held them up, and in his t. J.G. 185 Where'er he t., enjoyment and delight P.E. 47 Called to these crystal streams, do ye t. off P.E. 265 Should t, to writers of an abler sort R, 716 With anxious meaning. Heavenward t. his eye! St. Heaven t. from with abhorrence and disdain T. 72 T. eastward now, and Fancy shall apply T. 97 And if he but suspects a frown, t. pale T. 216 To nourish pride, or t. the weakest head T. 366 Seen in the dim horizon, t. thee pale T. i 667 Which only poets know. The shifts and t. T. ii 286 T. to the stroke his adamantine scales T. ii 324Or merry t. in all he ever wrote T. ii 473 If Christ, then why resort at every t. T. ii 535 Alighting, t. the key in her own door T. ii 653 And suffocates the breath at every t. T. ii 819 Or t. to nourishment, digested well T. iii 396 [637 May t. the clod, and wheel the compost home T. iii And wins them, but to lose them in his t. T. iv 63 It t. submitted to my view, t. round T. iv 98 As he that travels far, oft t. aside T. iv 234 Great purposes with ease, that t. and wields T. vTo t. purveyor to an overgorged T. v 421 We t. to dust, and all our mightiest works T. v 531 That t, to ridicule the turgid speech T. v 689 To latest times; and Sculpture, in her t. T. v 709As taught him too to tremble in his t. T. vi 378 Shall seek it, and not find it, in his t. T. vi 600

Why takes the gentler Moon her t. to rise Tir. 33 And if, soon after having burned, by t. Tir. 65Would t. our steps into a wiser train Tir. 260 With all varieties of ill by t. Tir. 475 How! t. again to tales long since forgot Tir. 545 But they have human feelings—t. to them Tir. 806 Your wisdom and your ways—to you I t. Tir. 812 With Gospel lore, t. infidels themselves Tir. 826 What character, what t, thou wilt assume Tir. 853T. him adrift upon a rolling sea Tir. 868 Or t. them into shops and auction rooms Tir. 902 That t. and t., to indicate Trans. ii 8 To t. the course of Helicon that way T. T 183 To t. a penny in the way of trade T.T. 421 Cold in my t., and unconcerned like you V. 6 Invigorate by t. the springs of life Y.O. 78

TURNED.

She saw, and t. her rosy cheek away A.T. 87 He t. and viewed it oft on every side A.T. 203 Though some have t. and t. it F. 207 If self-exalting claims be t. adrift H. 530 And t, into the park or mead to graze R, 627 While danger passed is t. to present joy T. 256

TURNING.
"Go, fellow!—whither?"—t. short about E. iii 24 When, t. round his head, he saw J.G. 51 So t, to his horse, he said J.G. 197 And, t. from my nursery window, drew M.P. 30 T. short round, strutting, and sideling P.T. 39 Nor view of waters t. busy mills R. 334 The gilded equipage, and t. loose T. vi 702 Then t., he regales his listening wife Tir. 324

TURNPIKE.

How in a trice the t. men J.G. 119

TURNPIKE-GATES.

And now the t. again J.G. 241

TURNPIKE-ROAD.

In contemplation of a t. R. 506

TURRETS.

Here glittering t. rise, upbearing high T. v 110 That all its tempest-beaten t, shake T, v 527

TURTLE.

Or voice of t. in your land is heard H. 470 T. and venison all his thoughts employ P.E. 220 The t. thus addressed her mate The Doves 7

TUTELARY.

Thou t. friend of helpless men? Ch. 42 With t. goddesses and gods T. vi 235 His fostering power, and t. care T.T. 257 Her sovereign's t. care 1789, 39

TUTOR.

Or academic t., teaching youths N.A. 79 With reverend t., clad in habit lay P.E. 371 Father, and friend, and t., all in one Tir. 544Minority. No t. charged his hand Y.O. 157

TUTORED.

She t. some in Dædalus's art A.T. 52 That men, if gently t., will not learn Ch. 496 Well t. Learning, from his books Mrs. M-37 And t, with a relish more exact T, iv 741 And thus, well t. only while we share Tir. 195

TWAIN.

The bottles t. behind his back J.G. 123 United yet divided, t. at once T. i 77

TWANG.

To me is odious as the nasal t. T. ii 436

TWANGED.

Some whispered softly, and some t. aloud Ch. 518

TWANGING.

Hark! 'tis the t. horn o'er youder bridge T. iv 1 TWEEDLING,

Dick heard, and t., ogling, bridling P.T. 38

And the t, standards of the tribes unfurled Ex. 211 And charged with octavos and t. Gr. 27 T. years have elapsed since I last took a view P.F.5

TWENTIETH

The t. year is well nigh past M. 1 Whose arm this t. winter I perceive T. i 145 Though lean and beggared, every t. pace T. iv 468

TWENTY.

"Come ten, come t.—should an army call A.T. 185 Dear Joseph—five and t. years ago \tilde{E} . iii 1 Since t, sheets of lead, God knows E, iv 27 (I would say t. sheets of prose) E. iv 28

TWICE

Though t, a Cæsar could not bend thee now Ex. 477 These t. ten tedious years, yet we J.G. 7 "My head is t. as big as yours J.G. 187 Teach him to fence and figure t. a week P.E. 366 With t. four hundred men R.G. 24 As t. seven years, his beauties had then first \tilde{T} . iv Less trouble taking t. the sum Y.D. 67

TWIG.

On t, of hawthorn he regaled Ep, ii 17 Some t. of that old scourge are left behind Ez. 517 That overhangs a torrent, to a t. T. i 484 [419] But barren, at the expense of neighbouring t. T. iii And cherries hang her t. Geranium boasts T. iii 577 From many a t, the pendent drops of ice T, vi 81 Fostering propitious, thou becamest a t. Y.O. 39 Then t.; then sapling; and, as century rolled Y.O. 62

TWILIGHT.

Prefer the t. of a darker time T. 541 Within the t. of their distant shades T. i 304 So spent in parlour t., such a gloom T. iv 278

TWIN

Yesterday's face t. image of to-day H. 102 And parrots with t. cherries in their beak T. i 38 Dire is the frequent curse, and its t. sound T. iv 487 T. at all points—yet this obtains in all T. iv 738 Clothe the t. brethren in each others' dress T.T. 45 Didst burst thine egg, as thine the fabled t. Y.O. 35 TWIN-BORN.

Wisdom and Goodness are t., one heart Ex. 634

Who would not t. a wreath for Thee Dr. 23 The serpent Error t. round human hearts P.E. 34

TWINED. Where Nichol swung the birch and t, the bays Γ .

TWINGES. Though conscience will have t, now and then T.T.425

TWINING.

Or t. silken threads round ivory reels T. iv 264 TWINKLE.

To the green blade that t. in the sun T. vi 251 TWINKLING

Those t., tiny lustres of the land B.B. 5 A star or two, just t. on thy brow T. iv 253 As here and there a t. star descried Tir. 843

TWIRL.

I t. my thumbs, fall back into my chair Con. 115 TWISTED.

Gave them a t. form vermicular T. i 30

The children, crooked, and t., and deformed T. ii

TWISTS.

And with a dexterous jerk soon t. him down T. iv 62

TWITCHED.

In unsuspecting pomp. T. from the perch T. iv 448 TWITTER.

And with much $t_{\cdot,i}$ and much chatter P.T. 15

WITTERED.

The linnet t. out his parting song A.T. 76

TWITTERING.

To learn the t. of a meaner bird? Con. 448

TWO.

(T. themes to Nature's eye for ever sealed) Ch. 362 T. bosom friends, each pensively inclined Con. 507 T. Poets, (poets, by report Dr. 1 (T. nymphs adorned with every grace D.W. 7 T. goldfinches, whose sprightly song F.B. 4

To spend t, hours in dressing for the day H. 80 As when t, pilgrims in a forest stray H, 276 Had t, stone bottles found J.G. 66

T. nymphs, both nearly of an age J.P. 1Appeared t_{τ} lovely foes L.R. 6

Upheld by t.; yet still thou lovest M. 39 [594 Swallow the t. grand nostrums they dispense P.E. Though ears she gave me t., gave me no ear N.A.28The nymph between t. chariot glasses P.B. 20.

Remarks \hat{t} . loiterers that have lost their way P.E.386Which is the saintlier worthy of the t_{-i} ? T. 105

You have t. servants,—Tom, an arch, slyrogue T. 201 So sit t. kings of Brentford on one throne T. i 78

And so t. citizens who take the air T. i 79 Between t. poles upon a stick transverse T. i 561 She has her praise. Now mark a spot or t. T. i 725 T. leaves produced, t. rough indented leaves T. iii 526 A star or t., just twinkling on thy brow T. iv 253

Diversified, that t. were never found T. iv 737 [352] T. empirics he stands, and with swoln cheeks T. ii And eke did roar right merrily, t. staves T. vi 662 Some place, a spark or t. not yet extinct T. vi 684 T. gods divide them all—Pleasure and Gain T. vi 892

Still keeps a seat or t. for worth and grace Tir. 433 The management of t. of eighteen Tir. 220

To entertain a thief or t. in pay Tir. 693 Discreetly limited to t. at most Tir. 770 T. or three millions of the human race T.T. 423 Like the t. figures at St. Dunstan's stand T.T. 527 An ell or t, of prospect we command T. T. 581 Now stars, t. lobes, protruding, paired exact Y.O. 36

TWO-LEAVED.

Saw Babylon set wide her t. brass Ex. 59

TWO-THIRDS.

And add t. of the remaining half T. iii 131 T. of all the virtue that remains Tir. 810

TYPES.

In staggering t., his predecessor's tale T. v 419 TYPICAL.

Ensanguined hearts, clubs t. of strife T. iv 218 TYRANNIC.

The art that baffles Time's t. claim M.P. 9

TYBANNIZING.

A clear escape from t. lust T. v 579

TYRANNOUS.

The oppression of a t. control T. vi 455

TYRANNY.

The t. that doomed them to the fire T. v 731 T. sends the chain that must abridge T.T. 474 To stoop to T.'s usurped command T.T. 440 TYRANT.

The fear of t. custom, and the fear Con. 181 Pulled down the t. India served with dread Ex. 366 The puny t. burns to subjugate H. 189 A land that distant t. hate in vain Her. 89 Fixed their t. habitations N.C. 38 The Babylonian t. with a nod P.E. 130 To seek that peace a t.'s frown denies R. 770 You chains and bondage for a t.'s sake T. v 352 Woe to the t., if he dare intrude T. vi 406 And teach one t. pity for his drudge T. vi 728 The chain that binds them, and a t.'s sway T.T. 233

TYROS

U.

UBIQUARIAN. A u. presence and control Tir. 266

GLY.

Some men employ their health, an u. trick Con. 311 But here and there an u, smutch appears T, iv 608

ULTIMATE.

This riving stroke, this u. divorce H. 640

UMBRAGEOUS.

U. walks and solitary seats R. 258 And ash far-stretching his u. arm T. i 311

UMBRELLA.

Of other screen, the thin u. spread T. i 260 Her train and her u. all her care T. iv 552

UMPIRE.

For her the Judgment, u. in the strife Tir. 29

UNABLE.

Thee we reject, u. to abide T. v 879

UNACCOMPLISHED.

A longer respite, u. yet T. ii 67

UNACCUSED.

Immured though u., condemned untried T. v 898

UNACQUAINTED.

They are so u. with man A.S. 15

UNADORNED.

Else u., with many a gay festoon T. iii 667

UNADULTERATE

Prove it. A breath of u, air T, iv 750 Thine u. manners are less soft T. v 465

UNALARMED.

To thy straw couch, and slumber u. T. iii 345 And slumbers u.! Now, ere you sleep T. iv 566 Scarce shuns me; and the stockdove u. T. vi 307

With joy not u. to thine 1789, 59

UNALLOY'D.

Yellow and bright, as bullion u. T. vi 171

UNALTERABLE.

'Tis an u. fixed decree Con. 467

But fixed, w. care S. 9

UNAMBIGUOUS.

The u. footsteps of the God T. v 812

UNAMBITIOUS.

To me an u. mind, content T. iv 798 And u. course, reflecting clear T. vi 723

UNAPT.

U. to learn, and formed of stubborn stuff T. iv 636

UNASSAYED. And at this moment u. in song T. iii 451

UNASSISTED.

Where u. sight no beauty sees R. 56

UNASSUAGED.

Of hunger u., has interposed T. vi 463

UNATTENDED.

And Puss remained still u. R.C. 66

UNATTIRED.

But, u. in that becoming vest T.T. 722

UNAVAILING. Till Nature, u. Nature, foiled T. v 627

UNAVOIDABLY.

Most u. creates F. 107

UNBALANCED.

Deciduous, or its own u. weight T. v 40

UNBELIEF.

Thus often U., grown sick of life T. 445

UNBEND.

With whom, dismissing forms, he may u. R. 444 To warn, and teach him safely to u. Tir. 608

UNBIDDEN.

U., and not now to be controlled T. vi 551

UNBINDS.

In early years connected, time u. Tir. 439

UNBLAMEABLE.

But if, u. in word and thought H. 622 Some lead a life u. and just T. 283

UNBLAMED.

Your Hope shall stand u., perhaps admired H. 616 UNBLEMISHED.

And taught the u. to preserve with care T. iii 83

UNBLESSED.

To live, u., in torpid case Miss — 27 The better part of man u. St. vi 31

UNBLEST.

U., and that the battle is the Lord's? Ex. 353 O happy shades!—to me u. S. 1

UNBLIGHTED.

Finds happiness u.; or, if found T. iv 334

UNBLOODIED.

And forced the blunt and yet u. steel T. v 215

UNBLOWN.

Boys are, at best, but pretty buds u. Tir. 446

UNBORN.

My very gentle reader yet u. T. ii 581

UNBORROWED.

And soaring on her own u. wings T. 488

UNBOUGHT.

That man will freely take an u. bliss H. 335

UNBOUND.

Thy u. spirit into bonds again M.P. 87

UNBOUNDED.

Flows into her; u. is her joy T. vi 803 For her, amasses an u. store Tir. 15 UNBRIBED.

Paul's love of Christ, and steadiness u. H. 580

UNBRIDLED.

To give Religion her u. scope T.T. 71

UNBURIED.

Like an u. carcass tricked with flowers T. vi 992

UNBUTTONED.

The little ones, u., glowing hot Tir. 304

UNCANDID.

But to the proud, u., insincere T. iii 275

UNCERTAIN.

That seems to swing u., and yet falls T. i 358 His devious course u., seeking home T. iii 3 Destroys them.—Skies u., now the heat Y.O. 74

UNCHANGEABLY.

U. connected with its cause) T.T. 443

UNCHANGED.

He rears u. his barren head Miss — 39

UNCHASTE.

"But oh! if, fickle and u. The Doves 29

UNCLEAN.

But, if thy table be indeed u. Tir. 735

UNCOLOUR'D.

And all this uniform u. scene T. vi 178

UNCOMMON.

Must have a most u. skull P.T. 8

UNCONCERN.

With mad rapidity and u. T.T. 464

UNCONCERNED.

And whistling, as if u. and gay R. 589 Forth goes the woodman, leaving u. T. v 41 But not its Author. U. who formed T. v 793 Cold in my turn, and u. like you V. 6

UNCONFINED.

He made at first, though free and u. Ch. 17 And chaste, though u., whom I extol T. iii 713 For her the Fancy, roving u. Tir. 21

UNCONSCIOUS.

Against an innocent u. breast Ex. 431 U. nature, all that he surveys H. 740
But all u. whom it held R. C. 52
Frowning as if in his u. arm T. i 381
Stand up u., and refute the charge T. ii 824
U. of a less propitious clime T. iii 567
His horse and him, u. of them all T. iv 22
Through pathless wastes and woods, u.once T. iv 573
His spirit takes, u. of a chain T. v 776
Laborious, yet u. of her toil Tir. 18
Churchill, himself u. of his powers T.T. 672

UNCONSCIOUSNESS.

With mute u. of what he saw Y.O. 146

UNCONTAMINATE.

Is not: the pure and u, blood T, vi 789

UNCONTROLLED.

By vicious Custom, raging u. T. iii 682 And howland roar as likes them, u. T. vi 401

UNCORRUPT.

Receive me now, not u. as then R. 381 In doctrine u.; in language plain T. ii 400

UNCOUTH.

In characters u., and spelt amiss T. i 283
But proud of his u., ill-chosen task T. iii 644 [337
Though wild their strange vagaries, and u. T. vi

UNCOUTHLY.

Dancing u. to the quivering flame T. iv 276

UNCOVERED.

The heaths u. and the moors A Tale 17

UNCROWDED.

U., yet safe sheltered from the storm Y.O. 55

·UNCTUOUS.

Her u. olives, and her purple vines Her. 7

UNCURED.

Such want it; -and that want, u. St. vi 33

UNDAUNTED.

U. still, though wearied and perplexed T.T. 366

UNDAWNING.

A prisoner in the yet u. east T. iv 130

UNDAZZLED.

U., and detects and counts his spots? T. i 714

UNDEBAUCHED.

And u. But we have bid farewell T. iii 741 Whose character, yet u., retains Tir. 809

UNDECISIVE.

Her u. scales. In this she lays T. iv 484

UNDEFILED.

Their union u. A Tale 6

For sanctity of manners u. T. iii 260

His mind informed, his morals u. Tir. 683

UNDELIGHTFUL. Not u, is an hour to me T, iv 277

UNDEPRAVED. Disdains not, nor the palate, u. T. i 124

UNDERGO.

Afric's sons should u. N.C. 37 Of universal nature u. T. iv 325

UNDERSTAND.

Given him a soul, and bade him u. Con. 430

But, grave dissemblers! could not u. Ex. 159 Improve the kind occasion, u. R. 345

To u. and choose thee for their own T. iii 295 But not to u. a treasure's worth T. vi 50

UNDERSTANDING.

Has little u., and no wit T. 324

Tis thus the u. takes repose T. iv 296 The virtue, temper, u., taste T. iv 790

UNDERSTOOD.

Roth sides deceived, if rightly u. Ch. 622 If this be plain, 'tis plainly u. Con. 435

And yet may prove, when u. E. i 89 Puffed up with gifts they never u. Ex. 130

The Sacred Book, its value u. Ex. 616

And bliss not seen by blessings u. H. 148

Have speech for him, and u. with ease N.A. 58 How dimly seen, how faintly u.! R. 88

And u. too well the weighty terms T. ii 477

How seldom used, how little u.! T.T. 64

And so disdained the rules he u. T.T. 687

All creatures with precision u. Y.O. 151

UNDERTAKE.

Alas for the poet! who dares u. F.M. 13With much compassion u. the task P.E. 389

Good temper; spirits prompt to u. T. i 400

"Do they themselves, who u. for hire T. v 644

But they that fight for freedom, u. T.T. 284 Whoever s. a friend's great part V. 59

UNDERTOOK.

They never u., they little note T. ii 308

UNDESCRIED.

A witness u. Q.V. 30

UNDESERVED.

Of fancied scorn and u. disdain Con. 348 Grace u., yet surely not for all T. 484

UNDESIGNED.

Of u. severity, that glanced T. v 170

UNDESIRED.

Shine not, or u. and hated shine R. 351 Brings he, to sweeten fruits so u.? Tir. 578

UNDEVIATING.

With such u. and even force T. v 37 Of the u, and punctual sun T, vi 127

UNDIRECTED. And left them to an u. choice T. ii 802

UNDISCERNED.

Truths u. but by that holy light T. iii 242

UNDISCERNING. Causeless, and daubed with u. praise T. v 360

UNDISCOVERABLE.

The u. secret sleeps T. v 537

UNDISPUTED.

Possess for me their u, lot T. 527

UNDISSEMBLING.

Sad as it is, his u. heart Con. 712

His w. virtue to my breast R. 380

UNDISSOLVED. Lies u.; while silently beneath T. v 99

UNDISTINGUISHED.

Blest he, though u. from the crowd T. i 592

undistinguishing.

Wit, u., is apt to strike T.T. 101

UNDISTURBED.

There, u. by Folly, and apprised T. iii 34 Of u. Retirement, and the hours T. iv 142

Healthful and u. by factions fumes T. v 513 Then sleep was u. by Fear, unscared T. iv 561

UNDOES.

Depreciates and u. us in our own? T. iii 284

UNDONE.

O Israel, of all nations most u.! Ex. 257 Where to succeed is not to be u. Her. 88

While self-betrayed, and wilfully u. Tir. 171 Much trash unuttered, and some ills u. Tir. 733

UNDOUBTED. "With June's u. right J.P. 36

U. scholarship and genuine worth Tir. 280

UNDREADED. The u. volley with a sword of straw T. ii 811

UNDRESSED.

To rise at noon, sit slipshod and u. H. 75Religion weaves for her, and half u. T.T. 723

UNDUE.

Pleasure admitted in u. degree P.E. 269

UNDULATES.

Just u, upon the listening ear T, i 175

UNDULATING.

Was graced with many an u. light T.T. 573

UNDULATION.

By restless u.; even the oak T. i 377

UNEMBARRASSED.

And there resume an u. brow Con. 401

нh

UNEMPLOYED.

O'erlooked and u., fell sick, and died T. ii 733 At least neglect not, or leave u. T. iii 368 Not u., and finding rich amends T. iv 729 Not slothful he, though seeming u. T. vi 928

UNENCUMBERED.

Heaven's easy, artless, u. plan! T. 22

UNENLIGHTENED. Let cottagers, and u. swains H. 240

Or w., and too proud to learn T. ii 549 UNENVIED.

Yet Truth is yours, remote u. isle! H. 481 And take u. the reward they sought T. 528 U. there, he may sustain alone Tir. 535

UNEQUAL.

Halting on crutches of u. size P.E. 560

UNEQUALLED.

Else, though u. to the goal he flies T. 15

UNEQUIVOCAL. "The u., authentic deed T. v 653

UNERRING.

He feels his need of an u. guide Ch. 346 To sift and search them with u. eyes Ex. 88 And the fee's u. aim St. iy 12

UNEXAMPLED.

Portentous, u., unexplained T. ii 58

UNEXHAUSTED.

His u. mine, the sordid vice P.E. 51

UNEXPECTED.

Brings forth that u. hour E. i 30 O welcome guest, though u. here! M.P. 12 With luxury of u. sweets T. i 533 And wraps him in an u. tomb T. v 143 Arrived, he feels an u. change Tir. 567

UNEXPERIENCED.

And teach her, u. yet and green P.E. 317 UNEXPLAINED.

Portentous, unexampled, u. T. ii. 58

UNEXPLORED.

And of the worst, that u. he leaves F.A. 31

UNFADING.

Storms but enliven its u. green Ch. 576 The u. laurel, and the virgin too! E.v. 601

UNFAILING.

Is thine;—best gift, the u. source of joy S. ii 13 Maintains its hold with such u. sway Tir. 316

UNFAIRLY.

And even Virtue, so u. matched Ch. 511

UNFATHERLY.

Condemns the u., the imprudent part Tir. 866

UNFATHOMED.

Grace, knowledge, comfort—an u. store? T. ii 538

UNFATIGUED.

His warfare is within. There u. T. vi 935

UNFEELING.

I envy that u. shrub P. 15 Wooed an u. statue for his wife P.E. 528

UNFEIGNED.

Concludes his u. love of him, a feint Con. 748 With close fidelity and love u. T.T. 73

UNFELT.

(U. the fury of those bursting mines) Her. 8 Perhaps thou gavest me, though u., a kiss M.P. 25 Shall fill thee with delights u. before R. 360 Flies swiftly, and u. the task proceeds T. iv 166 And slowly, and by most u., the face T. iv 324 [784 Till then u., what hands divine have wrought T. v

UNFINISHED.

Let fall the u. wreath, and roved for fruit T. vi 1011

UNFIT.

Go! thou art all u. to share M.B. 1 In wild disorder, and u. for use T. ii 805 Bestial, a meagre intellect, u. T. v 454 The heart is hard in nature, and u. T. vi 321 I hastily seized it, u. as it was The Rose 9

UNFLEDGED.

The u. raven and the lion's whelp T. vi 461

UNFOLD.

For God u. by slow degrees E. i 59
Faithful, and faithfully informed, u. Ex. 647
U. his flock, then under bank or bush R. 397
Meridian sunbeams tempt him to u. T. 60
U. its bosom; buds, and leaves, and sprigs T. iv 153

UNFOLDED.

U. genially and spread the man P.E. 412 All Heaven u. to my eyes St. iii 11 Wandering, and littering with u. silks T. vi 280

UNFORESEEN.

Let nothing adverse, nothing u. Ch. 131 And now—alas, for u. mishaps! Con. 321 And happy in their u. release T. ii 126 Then God might be surprised, and u. T. ii 171

UNFORGIVING.

Secured it by an u. frown T. ii 247 UNFREQUENTED.

To pathless wilds and u. plains A.T. 26

To pathless wilds and u. plains A, T. 20
UNFRIENDLY.

U. to Society's chief joys Con. 252

They left their bones beneath u. skies Ex. 524

UNFRUITFUL.

Inveterate habits choke the u. heart R. 41 The worthless and u. of mankind " T. 500

UNFURLED.

Heaven speed the canvass, gallantly u. Ch. 123 And the twelve standards of the tribes u. Er. 211 And all the banners been u. Q.V. 23 When disposition, like a sail u. Tir. 450 The standards of all nations are u. T.T. 454

UNFURNISHED.

Hence an u. and a listless mind P.E. 425 To fill the void of an u. brain T. iv 209 The most u. with the means of life T. iv 770

UNGENIAL.

U. blasts attending ourl the streams T.T. 213

UNGOVERNED.

Of some u. passion every hour P.E. 276

UNGRACED.

Courage, u. by these, affronts the skies T.T.378

UNGRATEFUL.

Unpleasant and u. F. 186 Murmuring and u. Discontent R. 759

UNGRATIFIED.

U.: for there some noble lord T. vi 673

UNGUARDED.

Might well alarm the most u. mind P.E. 58
Conducts the u. nose to such a whiff T. iv 469
The u. door was safe; men did not watch T. iv 559
The gem of truth from his u. soul Tir. 152

UNHALLOWED.

Dishonour with s. play St. vi 27

UNHAPPILY.

But if, w. deceived, I dream Ch. 632

UNHAPPY.

O happy peasant! O u. bard! T. 331

UNHARMONIOUS.

And groves, if u. yet secure T. iii 734

UNHEALTHFUL.

Thy vigorous pulse, and the u. East T. iv 363

UNHEARD.

That cleaves the yielding air u. E. i 88 And cheers the drooping flowers, u., unseen J.T. 40 To waste u. the music of his strains R. 548 Ring with ecstatic sounds u. before R. 780 Its wasted tones and harmony u. T. iv 480

UNHEEDED.

That passes all he sees u. by R. 340 ()r pass u. this auspicious morn S. ii 4

UNHOPED-FOR.

Then boast (but wait for that u. hour) T. 401

UNHORSE.

While others, not so satisfied, u. T. vi 701

UNHURT.

Escapes u. beneath so warm a veil T. iv 332

UNIFORM.

And all this u. uncolour'd scene T. vi 178

UNIMPAIRED.

Through wintry rigours u. endure Con. 650
But strong for service still, and u. T. ii 705
Though few now taste thee u. and pure T. iii 43
The piercing cold, but feels it u. T. iv 361
U., and shrill, and clear Trans. iii 23
The force that agitates not u. Y.O. 83

UNIMPEACHABLE.

Honce merchants, u. of sin T. iv 676 By the u. and awful oath T. v 549 Perfect and u. of blame T. v 867

UNIMPEACHED.

By theirs whose bright example, u. Ex. 656 A liberty like his, who u. T. v 759

UNIMPORTANT.

No u., though a silent task T. iii 378

UNIMPROVED.

Thy glory, and thy shame if u. Ex. 689 shall find the blessing u., a curse T. 524 That u. those many moments fly? Tir. 616

UNINCUMBERED.

And conscious of an u. back Ch. 174

UNINDEBTED.

Quite u. to the tricks of art T.T. 525

UNINFORMED.

See it an u. and idle mass Her. 26 By navigators u. as they T. i 630 The u. and heedless souls of men T. v 864

UNINJURED.

U., but expect the upholding aid T. iii 658 Falls a soft murmur on the u. ear T. iv 98 U., with inimitable art T. vi 195

UNINTERRUPTED.

Of long u. evening know T. iv 143

UNION.

Their u. undefiled A Tale 6 A u. with the vast terraqueous whole Ch. 122 Of hearts in u. mutually disclosed Con. 680 For 'tis a u. that bespeaks F. 47 Of u., and converts the sacred band T. ii 686 Resolved a u. formed for life The Doves 27 A u. formed as mine with thee U. 7 U. of hearts without a flaw between V. 86

UNISON.

Some chord in u. with what we hear T. vi 4 And both in u. Trans. iv 36

UNITE

Shall meet, u., and part no more E. i 32 In vain the talkative u. F. 67

UNITED.

Meet their opposers with u. strength Con. 700 They reign u. there L.R. 28 U. yet divided, twain at once T. i 77 That bids defiance to the u. powers T. ii 769 The scorn of danger, and u. hearts T. v 377 "See!" with u. wonder, cried Th. 5

UNITING.

Whose lines u. by an honest art H. 756

UNIVERSAL.

Cheers what were else a u. shade Ch. 94
Spreads wide her arms of u. love Ch. 596
Cry to her u. realm "Rejoice!" H. 54
Of an eternal, u. war H. 648
Heaven's harmony is u. love P.E. 78
This u. frame, thus wondrous fair R. 90
Hark! u. Nature shook and groaned T. 563
Is free to all men—u. prize T. iii 724
Relaxed into a u. grin T. iv 204
Of u. nature undergoes T. iv 325
'Tis u. soldiership has stabbed T. iv 617
Rules u. nature. Not a flower T. vi 240
And own, the law of u. love T. vi 380
All, in the u. Father's love? T. vi 449

UNJAUNDICED.

With an u. eye Dr. 20

UNJUST.

Lewd, avaricious, arrogant, u. Ex. 56 Cry to the proud, the cruel, and u. Ex. 268 Thy monarchs arbitrary, fierce, u. Ex. 528 His recompense in both u. alike P.E. 32

UNKERCHIEFED.

With bony and u. neck defies T. 137

UNKIND.

Thou couldst become u. at last The Doves 31 Or, if he prove u. (as who can say Tir. 895

UNKINDNESS.

Against u., absence, and neglect T. vi 627

UNKNOWN.

Steered Britain's oak into a world u. Ch. 25 But gives it usefulness u. before Con. 597 Leads to the land where sorrow is u. E. ii 10 Made sure by prodigies till then u. Ex. 174 And while the world beside, that plan u. Ex. 237 Bound in the fetters of an u. tongue H. 450 But Winter, armed with terrors here u. H. 473 A false religion, is u. to you H. 486 Adieus and farewells are a sound u. M.P. 33 Resolved to be u. Q.V. 38 Eternity's u. expanse appears R. 149 The Christian has an art u, to thee R.H. 4 Once went I forth, and found, till then u. T. 220 Assuming thus a rank u. before T. ii 370 Of multitudes u.! Hail, rural life! T. iv 783 Yet few remember them. They lived u. T. v 724 Why hire a lodging in a house u. Tir. 555 His post not mean, his talents not u. Tir. 723 Too proud to adopt the thoughts of one u. Tir. 785

н h 2

Is all chance-medley, and u., to me Tir. 858 Seizes events as yet u. to man T.T. 498 To carry nature lengths u. before T.T. 558 [T.T.696 And charms the woodland scenes, and wilds u. The future, best u., but at thy mouth Y.O. 43

UNLACKEYED.

Is hackneyed home u.; who, in haste T. ii 652

UNLETTERED.

Hour after hour, the yet u. boy Con. 12 And many a gay u. spark P. 32 With all the simple and u. poor P.E. 506Envy, ye great, the dull u. small T. 375

UNLIMITED.

The gracious showers, u. and free T. 511

UNLOADED.

Having u. and made many stare Con. 230

UNLOOKED.

Suppose, u. for in a scene so rude T. 248 U. for, life preserved, and peace restored T. iv 187

UNLOVELY.

I love thee, all u. as thou seem'st T. iv 128

UNMANACLED.

As ecstasy, u. by form T.T. 589

UNMANLY. He holds no parley with u, fears R.H. 5

UNMARKED.

His hours no longer pass u. away H. 698

UNMASKED.

U., vouchsafing this their sole excuse T. ii 695

UNMEANING.

With some u, coxcomb at your side R, 546

UNMELLOWED.

And if the youth, u. yet by time T. 492

UNMENTIONED.

Of evils yet u. F. 195

UNMERITED.

Your fate u., once more rejoice T. i 339

UNMISSED.

U. but by his dogs and by his groom P.E. 95

UNMIXED.

U. with drops of bitter, which neglect T. iii 46

UNMOLESTED.

And raise a laugh) pass u. by H. 621 Ten thousand seek an u. end T. v 87

Here u., through whatever sign T. vi 295

UNMOVED.

U. and without quaking F. 126 U. with all the world beside Miss - 31 But none without some relish, none u. T. iv 742 At folly's cost, themselves u. the while T.T. 659

UNNATURAL.

With all the guilt of such u. war Con. 188

UNNERVES.

U. the moral powers, and mars their use P.E. 272

UNNERVED.

A mind $u_{\cdot,\cdot}$ or indisposed to bear R. 677

UNNOTED.

Diffusing odours; nor u. pass T. i 317

UNNOTICED.

It passed u., as the bird E. i. 87 Like him u., I, and such as I-T.T. 578

UNNUMBERED.

In baser souls u. evils meet Ch. 37

U. pleasures harmlessly pursued R. 784 U. branches waving in the blast T. i. 188

UNOBSERVED.

Disjoining from the rest, has u. Y.O. 107

UNOCCUPIED.

U., has filled the void so well T. v 557

UNOPPRESSED.

The soul, emancipated, u. T.T. 272

UNPACKED.

But when u. your disappointment groans Con. 309

Anticipated rents, and bills u. R. 559

UNPARTICIPATED.

Your u. cares F. 125

UNPATRONIZED.

U., and therefore little known Tir. 674

UNPEOPLE.

Despise his bulwarks, and u. earth R. 72 U. all our counties of such herds T. iii 831

UNPERCEIVED.

Slept u., the mountain yet entire Her. 2 And u, the current steals away T, v 100

UNPERFUMED.

But are not wholesome airs, though u. T. iii 732

UNPERISHABLE.

By rust u. or by stealth J.T. 26

UNPERISHING.

Deeds of u. renown 1789, 15

UNPITIED.

The u. victim of ill judged expense R. 512 Pride falls u., never more to rise T. 588

UNPLEASANT.

U. and ungrateful F. 186

UNPLEASED.

Unpleasing and u. Miss - 64

UNPLEASING.

U. and unpleased Miss -- 64 From such u. sounds as haunt the ear T. i 229 Yields no u. ramble; there the turf T. i 530

UNPOLLUTED.

Holy and u.: are thine such? Ex. 447

UNPRAISED.

By poets, and by senators u. T. v 539

UNPRESUMPTUOUS.

Can lift to Heaven an u. eye T. v 746

UNPRODUCTIVE.

Life in the u. shades of death T. ii 124

UNPROFITABLE.

With verdure not $u_{\cdot \cdot \cdot}$, grazed $T_{\cdot \cdot}$ iv 317 Knowledge, a rude u. mass T. vi 92

UNPROFITABLY.

Our wasted oil u. burns Con. 357

UNPROLIFIC.

Of u. Winter has impress'd T. vi 138

UNPURCHASED.

The tidings of u. Heaven create H. 343

UNPURIFIED.

U. by an authentic act Y.O. 12

UNQUALIFIED.

But men u, and base F. 2

UNQUENCHED.

Which, kindled with dry leaves, just saves u. T. i The deluge washed it out; but left u. T. v 209

UNQUESTIONED.

Doing and suffering, his u. will Ex. 645 U., though the jewel be but glass Tir. 463

UNREAL.

Enthusiasts drunk with an u. joy P.E. 76

UNRECLAIMED.

This island, spot of u. rude earth Ex. 468

UNRECORDED.

Timing more punctual, u. facts Y.O. 47

UNRECUMBENT.

There they wait T. v 29 In u. sadness.

UNREGARDED.

Sighs u, to the passing wind Ex. 30

UNREGENERATE.

Nor shall be found in u. souls Con. 755

UNREGRETTED.

And u, are soon snatched away R, 167

UNRELENTING.

And griping fists, and u. frowns Ex. 513 Sly circumvention, u. hate T. i 615

Impaired by age, his u. hand T. iii 416 Saved him, or the u. seer had died T. vi 471

UNRELINQUISHED.

And while at heart sin u. lies Con. 673

UNREMITTED.

Of u. vigilance and care T. vi 209

UNREMITTING.

He bids him glow with u. love T. 557

UNREPEALABLE.

But u. enduring death T. v 610

UNRESERVED.

They gain at last his u. assent T. v 663

UNRESOLVED.

Studious of ornament, yet u. T. vi 160

UNRESPECTED.

Have dwindled into u. forms T. i 747

UNRESTRAINED.

His sovereign power and pleasure u. H. 320 Profusion u., with all that's base T. ii 675

If u_{\cdot} , into luxuriant growth T_{\cdot} vi 593

UNREVOKED.

And now, Farewell.—Time u. has run M.P. 112

UNRIDDLE. To u., and have left them mysteries still F.A. 29

UNRIGHTEOUS.

Else, on the fatalist's u. plan P.E. 27

UNRIVAL'D.

Of his u. pencil. He inspires T. vi 242

UNRULY.

O'erwatch the numerous and u. clan Tir. 262

O bliss precarious, and u. retreats! Her. 33

UNSANCTIONED.

Defective and u., proved too weak T. ii 524

UNSATED.

And still u., dwelt upon the scene T. i 158

UNSAVOURY.

By culinary arts, u. deems T. i 125 The pent-up breath of an u, throng T, iv 196

UNSCARED.

Then sleep was undisturbed by Fear, u. T. iv 561

UNSCENTED.

For the u. fictions of the loom T. i 416

UNSEATED.

At once the shock u, him: he flew T, vi 553

UNSEEMLY.

And set the u. pair in open day A.T. 168

The boughs in which are bred the u. race Tir. 594

UNSEEN.

And cheers the drooping flowers, unheard, u. J.T.

By what u. and unsuspected arts P.E. 3 That overhang the thatch, itself u. T. i 224

Of late unsightly and u., now shine T. v 24 Behind his own creation, works u. T. v 894

She makes familiar with a Heaven u. T. vi 926

UNSHAKEN.

And feels no change, u. and serene Ex. 587 Sits absolute on his u. throne H. 474 Their own dear virtue their u. trust T. 284

Who with a courage of u. root T.T. 15

UNSHOD.

With u. feet they yet securely tread E. ii 16

UNSIFTED.

The total grist u., husks and all T. vi 108

UNSIGHTLY.

And where u, and rank thistles grew H. 526 From temper flaws u. N.Y.G. 8

The prominent and most u. bones T. ii 588 Of late u. and unseen, now shine T. v 24

UNSKILFUL.

Or misapplying his u. strength T. iii 402

UNSMIRCHED.

Whom matrons now, of character u. T. iii 73

INSOCIAL.

And knit the u. climates into one Ch. 126

UNSOILED.

U., and swift, and of a silken sound T. iv 212

UNSOPHISTICATE.

No, Nature—u. by man Con. 451

UNSOUGHT.

Seek and obtain, and often find u.? T. iii 288

UNSPARING.

Of what He gives, u. and profuse Ex. 677

UNSPECKED.

Hence a demeanour holy and α . T. 281

UNSPENT.

And so long he, with u. power Cast. 39

UNSTAINED.

And lips u. by folly or by strife Con. 563 And when u. with any grosser crime Con. 634 To keep the matrimonial bond u. T.T. 74

UNSTRUNG.

Was quenched in rheums of age, his voice, u. T. ii UNSUBDUED.

Leave Vice and Folly u. behind P.E. 81

UNSUCCESSFUL.

We bustle up with u. speed Con. 215Beau marked my u. pains D.W. 21

The silly u. Bee P.B. 22

And hurried, but with u speed T. 245

Of u. or successful war T. ii 4

Well may the Church wage u. war T. ii 809

Not often u.: power usurped T. v 371 UNSULLIED.

"Beneath a vault u. with a cloud T. v 824

UNSUNG.

U., and many cares are yet behind T. iii 606 But there is yet a Liberty u. T. v 538

UNSUPPLIED.

Fretful if u.; but silent, meek T. v 31

UNSUSPECTED.

Concealed within an u. part Con. 365 By what unseen and u. arts P.E. 3 An u. storm. His hour was come T. vi 545

UNSUSPECTING.

His w. sheep believe it pure $Ex.\ 103$ Thine u. gratitude and love T. iii 348 In u. pomp. Twitched from the perch T. iv 448 With u readiness he takes T vi 427Thy blossoms deck our u. years V. 51

UNSUSPICIOUS.

But farewell now to u. nights T. iv 565

UNTAUGHT.

That beaus delight? a heart u. to sigh? Ep. i 6 And colleges, a.; sells accent, tone T. ii 359 Ah, blind to bright futurity, u. Tir. 379

UNTEMPERED.

And smite the u. wall 'tis death to spare H. 627

UNTHINKING.

"And now," quoth poor u. Ralph A Fable 18 Suits well the thoughtful or u. mind T. iv 279 Holds an u. multitude enthrall'd T. vi 100

UNTHOUGHT-OF.

Let me enjoy, in some u. spot V. 83

With slow deliberation he u. Ch. 471 Can seize the slippery prey, u. the knot T. ii 685

UNTIMELY.

And spades, the emblem of u. graves T. iv 219

UNTOLD.

Religion! what treasure u. A.S. 25 That failing left u. J.P. 24 Incomparable gem! thy worth u. T.T. 330

UNTRIED.

[398 Immured though unaccused, condemned u. T. v

UNTROUBLED. Which most should sweeten his u. life H. 681

UNTRUE.

Whose hand is feeble, or his aim u. P.E. 571

UNTUTORED.

Upon the roving and u. heart T. ii 570

UNUTTERED.

Much trash u., and some ills undone Tir. 733

UNVARNISHED.

The deep dark green of whose u. leaf T. vi 174

UNVEILED.

U. her blushing cheek, looked on, and smiled Ex.

UNVISITED.

U. by man. There they are free T. vi 403

UNWARILY.

We should u. conclude F. 28

UNWASHED.

To which the u. artificer repairs T.T. 152

UNWEARIED.

By Vanity's u. finger dressed Ex. 46 And though in act u., secret still J.T. 37 The elastic spring of an u. foot T. i 135 Constant rotation of the u. wheel T. i 338 With worthy thoughts of that u. Love T. v 752 Nature exerting an u. power T.T. 690

UNWELCOME.

For truth is u., however divine F.M. 23 O that u. voice of heavenly love T. 463 A visitor u., into scenes T. vi 570 And say, My boy, the u. hour is come Tir. 849 U. vapours quench autumnal beams T.T. 212 Now, all u. at his gates Y.D. 21

UNWHOLESOME.

Minnows and gudgeons gorge the u. food P.E. 483 In some u. dungeon, and a prey T. i 437

UNWIELDY.

To express u. joy Q.V. 20

UNWIN.

U., I should but ill repay U. 1

UNWITHERING.

The spiry myrtle with u. leaf T. iii 570 UNWONTED.

That calls the u. villager abroad T. vi 300

UNWORTHY.

"Is recreant, and u. of his spurs" A.T. 122 U. of his own Dr. 24 U., base, and insincere F. 215 A plaything world, u. of his hand) H. 543 Not else u. to be feared Q.V. 67 Abandoned as u. of our love T. iii 731 Replete with dreams, u. of a man Tir. 160 U. of the blessings of the brave T.T. 27

UNWRENCHED.

U. the door, however well secured T. iv 446

UNWRINKLED.

Sees her u. face reflected bright T. iv 4

UNYIELDING.

Obdurate and u., glassy smooth T. i 52

UPBEARING.

Here glittering turrets rise, u. high T. v 110

UPBORNE.

U. into the viewless air O. i 13 U. they stood. Three legs upholding firm T. i 20

UPHEAVED.

U. above the soil, and sides embossed Y.O. 65

UPHELD.

U. by two; yet still thou lovest M. 39 Thine, and u. by thy paternal care R. 89

UPHOLD.

「582 To u. the boundless scenes of his command Ch. Its own revolvency u. the world T. i 372 [753 That planned, and built, and still u. a world T.

UPHOLDING. Upborne they stood. Three legs u. firm T. i 20 Uninjured, but expect the u. aid T. iii 658

UPLAND.

These to the u., to the valley those T. v 197

UPLIFTED.

U. hands, that, at convenient times Ex. 147 Hope, with u. foot, set free from earth H. 161 Migrates u., and, with all its soil T. ii 108 The u. frame, compact at every joint T. iii 484

UPLIFTS. With faint illumination, that u. T iv 274

UPRIDGED.

U. so high, and sent on such a charge T. ii 116

ſ682 Those hearts should be reclaimed, renewed, u. Con.

Some foe to his u. intent H.F. 9

Who cannot sit u. J.G. 90Between the u. shafts of whose tall elms T. i 355 Smooth as a wall the u, remnant stands T, v 36 An u. heart, and cultivated mind Tir. 722

UPSPEARING.

And coarser grass, u. o'er the rest T. \vee 23

UPSPOUTED.

U. by a whale in air Q.V. 19

UPSTARTS.

Than yonder u. of the neighbouring wood Y.O. 134 UPSTARTING.

Then rise the tender germs, u. quick T. iii 521

UPSTOOD.

At once, u. intelligent, surveyed Y.O. 150

Deep in the loamy bank. U. by strength T. iv 438

UPTURNED.

U. so lately by the forceful share T. iv 315

UPWARD.

The exalted prize demands an u. look Tir. 383

UPWROUGHT.

Ocean has caught the frenzy, and u. T. ii 111

URCHIN.

The shivering u., bending as he goes T. 143

Whatever Use may u., or Honour plead Con. 189 To u. reformation of national ill F.M. 14 To u. the fruitless chase be lost Mor. 42 Are the means that duty u. N.C. 31 Would u, a wiser suit than asking more T, vi 56 The peasants u. their harvest, ply the fork T.T. 214

URGED.

That flight in circles u, advanced them nought N.A. U. his attempt on every side P.B. 7 Ere yet it came, the traveller u. his steed T. 244 But u. by storms along its slippery way T. iv 127 And sin without disturbance. Often u. T. v 659 U. loud a claim to be rehearsed, 1789, 14

URGENT.

The wisest and the best feel u. need T. ii 483

URN.

Has filled his u. where these pure waters rise Ch. Like hidden lamps in old sepulchral u. Con. 358 From u. that never fail, through every land R. 76 A little naied her impoverished u. T. i 328 And while the bubbling and loud hissing u. T. iv 38

So when a child, as playful children u. B.B. 9 And offers something to the general u. Ch. 90 As men of depth in erudition u. Ch. 392 How few respect, or u. thee, as they ought! Con. 24 The point of honour has been deemed of u. Con. 163 Whatever U. may urge, or Honour plead Con. 189 What u. of his boon the giver would Con. 436 Who when occasion justified its u. Con. 613 Mellows and makes the speech more fit for u. Con. The virtues of old Rome for English u. Con. 836 Digression is so much in modern u. Con. 855 The pomp of sound or tinkle without u. Con. 892 Events of most important u. E. i 76 Those truths, which neither u. nor years impair A coin by Craft for Folly's u. designed E. ii 7 Were just such trifles, without worth or u. Ex. 49 That gratitude and temperance in our u. Ex. 676 I could be well content, allowed the u. F.A. 1 For its beauty admired and its u. Gr. 26

The very sense of it foregoes its u. H. 21To make the sun a bauble without u. H. 81 From emptiness itself a real u. H. 156 To guide our u. of it, is all in all H. 432 Its u, and power exemplified in thee J.T.50Agents of his will to u.? N.C. 32 272 Unnerves the moral powers, and mars their u. P.E. Who seek retirement for its proper u. R. 170 Woe to the man whose wit disclaims its u. R. 211 Lost, till he tune them, all their power and u. R. 330 The strenuous u. of profitable thought R. 674 Worthy to live, and of eternal u. R. 700 From India, for the ladies' u. R.C. 38 To hourly u. applied St. iii 20 Time was, when clothing, sumptuous or for u. T. i 8And fit the limpid element for u. T. i 374 A plague into his blood; and cannot u. T. ii 140 Formed for his u., and ready at his will? T. ii 202 I say the pulpit (in the sober u. T. ii 332 As angels u., the Gospel whispers peace T. ii 342 Down into modern u.; transforms old print T. ii 363 And binds the shoulders flat. We prove its u. T. ii 589 Convenience, and security, and u. T. ii 682 In wild disorder, and unfit for u. T. ii 805 And specious semblances have lost their u. T. iii 107Is but a loan, to be repaid with u. T. iii 364 Wasts the rich prize to its appointed u. T. iii 540 And streams, as if created for his u. T. iii 776 With colours mixed for a far different u. T. iv 240 His hungry acres, stinks and is no u. T. iv 503 [662 Shine out; there only reach their proper u. T. iv For grandeur or for u. Long wavy wreaths T. v 158 A course of long observance for its u. T. v 301 And social, nip his fruitfulness and u. T. v 439 "The u. of his own bounty?—making first T. v 639 And has a richer u. of yours than you T. v 762 And with the boon gives talents for its u. T. v 860 And dedicate a tribute, in its u. T. vi 712 [Tir. 124 Which children u, and parsons—when they preach Distorted from its u, and just design T.T. 754 Their purport, u., properties, resigned Y.O. 152

Oaths u. as playthings or convenient tools Ex. 37 Thus studied, u. and consecrated thus R. 105 A real elegance, a little u. T. ii 611 Was never meant, was never u. before T. vi 651 What shifts he u., detected in a scrape Tir. 328 How seldom u., how little understood! T.T. 64

USEFUL.

Graceful and u. all she does Comp. ii 7 He makes one u. point exceeding clear Con. 136 Is often u., always entertains Con. 204 That u. thing, her needle gone E. iv 40 Truths u, and attainable with ease F.A. 32 Give u. light though I should miss renown R. 206 Your u. labours, and important aims R. 664 Devised the Weatherhouse, that u. toy! T. 211 To be a pest where he was u. once T. iv 657 May give an u. lesson to the head T. vi 86 And u. quality, and virtue too T. vi 623That authors are most u. pawned or sold Tir. 211 Nor crush a worm, whose u. light Trans. i 17

USEFULNESS.

But gives it u. unknown before Con. 597 Their u, ensured by zeal and love Ex. 443 useless.

Might burn his u. Machiavel, and sleep Ch. 613 U. in him alike both brain and speech Con. 141 And either warps or lays it u. by Con. 670 And u. as a candle in a skull Con. 780 Like u. lumber, or a stroller's song Con. 820

Deified u. wood or senseless stone Ex. 238 Not to be solved, and u. if it might F.A. 34 O querulous and weak !-whose u. brain H. 29 As u, as the moment it began H. 96 By u. censure, whom we cannot mend H. 273 Compose their u. wing N. 2 Nor such as u. conversation breeds R. 643 As u, if it goes as when it stands R. 682 Who deem his house a u. place St. vi 21 A vagabond and u, tribe there eat T, i 559 As u, to the moles and to the bats T, vi 880 And censured oft as u. Stillest streams T. vi 929 And u. while he lives, and when he dies Tir. 71

A tempest u. in the dreaded morn H. 717

USHERED.

Shines in the dark, but, u. into day Con. 677 But O the important budget! u. in T. iv 23

USUAL.

My lord, alighting at his u. place R. 585 The dinner served, Charles takes his s. stand T. 213 More frequent, and foregone her u. rest T. ii 61

USURIOUS.

Supplies his need with a u. loan T. iii 798

USURP.

U. God's office, lays his bosom bare Con. 745 His steeds, u. a place they well deserve T. vi 703 Supplant thee in it, and u. thy place Tir. 890

USURPATION.

Of u., and to no man's wrong T. ∇ 760

USURPED.

Are hateful ensigns of u. command Ch. 213 Holds a u. dominion o'er his tongue Con. 462 He that has not u, the name of man R. 319 Not often unsuccessful: power u. T. v 371 Dispersed the shackles of u. control T. v 516 When he u. Authority's just place T.T. 320 To stoop to Tyranny's u. command T.T. 440 That Lewdness had u. and worn so long T.T. 637

UTENSIL.

And the old u. of tin R.C. 27

So void of all u. or aim H. 88 And, trust me, his u. may reach Tir. 731

A mere U. pleasure F. 30

UTTER.

And u, now and then an awful voice T, vi 34

UTTERANCE.

Thy fame diffuse, praised not for u. meet S. i 13 And give them voice and u. once again T. iv 35 To give such act and α . as they may T. vi 339

UTTERED.

Con. 381 "Yes, ma'am," and "No, ma'am," u. softly, show Like language u. in a dream M. 22 Of demons u., from whatever lungs N.A. 118

V.

VACANT.

Happy to fill Religion's v. place Ex. 121 Yet Folly ever has a v. stare P.E. 205 And talks and laughs away his v. hours R. 452 A mind quite v. is a mind distressed R. 624 Placed at some v, corner of the board T, iv 230

To fill the dull v. till four H. 78 In indolent v. of thought T. iv 297

VAGABOND.

A v. and useless tribe there eat T. i 559

VAGARIES.

His more sublime v. slighting E. i 17 To mix her wild v, with thy laws T, v 873 Though wild their strange v., and uncouth T. vi 337

VAGRANTS.

And wanton v., as make London, vast T. iii 833

VAGUE.

A Deity could solve. Their answers, v. T. ii 521

VAIN.

"In v.," they cried, "are hymeneal rites A.T. 99 " V. our delusive hope of constant knights A.T. 100 In v. recorded in historic page B.B. 3 And seems to have risen in v. C. 4 He loved them both, but both in v. Cast. 11 As v. imperial Philip on his own Ch. 52 Unless his laws be trampled on,—in v. ? Ch. 191 Here see, acquitted of all v. pretence Ch. 412 Twere v. iuquiry to what port she went Ch. 445 Adopt his own, 'tis equally in v. Con. 109 [Comp. i 9 Streams never flow in v.; where streams abound

Your hope to please him v. on every plan Con. 341 The valuest corner of our own v. heart Con. 366 The fixed fee-simple of the v. and light? Con. 590 Oh! I have seen (nor hope perhaps in v. Con. 605 Without it, his pretensions were as v. Con. 761 Toils to anticipate in v. E. i 66 Flow in a foreign land, but not in v. E. ii 46 And, after many a v. essay E. iv 53 Forbid in v, to push his daring way Ex, 17 [Ex, 65] But wept, and stamped, and smote his thigh in r. In v, the nations, that had seen them rise Ex. 203 Taxed till the brow of Labour sweats in v. Ex. 305 He wipes and scours the silver cup in v. Ex. 385 Oh v, inquiry! they without remorse Ex. 462 Baptized her fleet Invincible in v. Ex. 569Like her the fabled Phœbus wooed in v. Ex. 599 Their names, alas! in v. reproach an age Ex. 660 I know the warning song is sung in v. Ex. 724 In v, the talkative unite F, 67 That, after many an effort v. F.B. 16And form genteel were all in v. G. 8A v. pursuit of fugitive, false good H. 4 Once thought of nothing, and now thinks in v. H. 30In v, opinion's waste and dangerous wild H, 279 Make works a v. ingredient in the case H. 360 [618 The strange conceits, v. projects, and wild dreams H. The peasant's hopes, and not in v., assured Her. 9 A land that distant tyrants hate in v. Her. 89 But John he cried in v. J.G. 86 The sun would rise in v. for me M. 31 In v. warm suns their influence shed Miss - 37The zephyrs sport in v. Miss — 38 By contemplation's help, not sought in v. M.P. 114 But still in v., the frame was tight P.B. 9

Consumes his soul with v. desires P.B. 16 Though all your engineering proves in v. P.E. 321 When some hypothesis absurd and v. P.E. 444 In v: the slave of arrogance and pride P.E. 548 gled, groaned, and agonized, and died in v. P.E. 624 Whose highest praise is that they live in v. R. 23Glittering in v., or only to seduce R. 212 Adores a creature, and devout in v. R. 227Pierced with the woes that she laments in v. R. 300Business or v. amusement, care or mirth R. 647 Must change her nature, or in v. retires R. 680 And while Experience cautions us in v. R. 755I may not teach in v. St. i 32Seems to sound too much in v. St. iv 19 "Incredible, impossible, and v.!" T. 35 The plea of works, as arrogant and v. T. 71Nice-fingered Art must emulate in v. T. 202He, lost in errors his v. heart prefers T. 335 In v. he points his powers against the skies T. 469 In v. he closes or averts his eyes T. 470 Anxious in v, to find the distant floor T, i 48 V. thought! the dweller in that still retreat T. i 237 And fugitive in v. The sylvan scene T. ii 107 And yet ambitious not to sing in v. T. ii 312 But loose in morals, and in manners v. T. ii 378 Whom Truth and Soberness assailed in v. T. ii 480 In v. to filter off a crystal draught T. ii 507 In v, they pushed inquiry to the birth T, ii 511 And thus it is. The pastor, either v, T, ii 545 [764 The lewd v. world that must receive him soon T. ii With the v. stir. I sum up half mankind T. iii 130 To a sharp reckoning that has lived in $v.\ T.$ iii 179 V. tears, alas! and sighs that never find T. iii 332 By causes not to be divulged in v. T. iii 371 And oft at last in v. The learned and wise T. iii 562 Created fair so much in v. for them T. iii 697 [848 For whom God heard his Abraham plead in v. T. iii Resounding oft, and never heard in v. T. iv 356 To his voracious bag, struggling in v. T. iv 450 But censure profits little: v. the attempt T. iv 500 V. wish! those days were never; airy dreams T. iv 525 The magisterial sword in v., and lays T. iv 596 Capricious, in which fancy seeks in v. T. v 120 Confederacy of projectors wild and v. T. v 194The world was made in v., if not for him T. v 271 And v enough to be ambitious still T v 338 $\lceil v | 492 \rceil$ And tremble at v. dreams? Heaven grant I may! T. And in the dust, sifted and searched in v. T. v 536 What does he not, from lusts opposed in v. T. v 599 So oft, and wearied in the v. attempt T. v 628 V. tampering has but fostered his disease T. v 668 Smitten in v.! such music cannot charm T. v 682 And that to bind him is a v. attempt T. v 777 In v. thy creatures testify of thee $T. \vee 856$ Till Thou art heard, imaginations v. T. v 861 That converse which we now in v. regret T. vi 41 So duly, all is miracle in v. T. vi 133 Plead not in v. for pity on the pangs T. vi 462 But still in v. The Providence that meant T. vi 528 He seeks not hers, for he has proved them v. T. vi 920Polite Refinement offers him in v. T. vi 977 In v, the poet sings, and the world hears T, vi 1018 The force he spends against their fury v. Tir. 64 The wisest heads might agitate in v. Tir. 130 A trifler v., and empty of all good Tir. 754 That constellation set, the world in v. T.T. 660 Nor bids him shine in v. Trans. i 24

The v. corner of our own vain heart Con. 366

VAINGLORIOUS.

V. of her charms, his Vashti forth T. iii 713

VAIN-GLORY.

Or else v., prompted us to draw T. i. 635

VAINLY.

Feebly and v., at poetic fame) R. 802 V. industrious, a disgraceful prize T. iii 385 Each v. magnifies his own success Tir. 476

VALE.

But though life's valley be a v. of tears Con. 881 A brighter scene beyond that v. appears Con. 882 And said, "Go spend them in the v. of tears" E. ii 26 Again pours ruin on the v. below Her. 38 The cloud-surmounting Alps, the fruitful v. R. 79The sound shall run along the winding v. R. 363While struggling in the v. of tears below T. 585 That, as with molten glass, inlays the v. T. i 170 Peeps at the v. below; so thick beset T. i 225 The cheering fragrance of her dewy v. T. i 429 Then snug enclosures in the sheltered v. T. i 513 Declined at length into the v. of years T. ii 726 In the low v. of life, that early felt T. iv 799 Slides ineffectual down the snowy v. T. v 7 (Himself grown sober in the v. of tears) T. vi 48 Again the harmony comes o'er the v. T. vi 65 [721 The v. of Nature, where it creeps and winds T. vi The dwellers in the v. and on the rocks T. vi 798

VALENTINE.

To forestall sweet St. V.—P.T. 12

VALERIAN.

Of nightshade, or v., grace the well T. iv 757

VALLEY.

These v. and rocks never heard A.S. 30 Hills, v., rivers, and the boundless sea A.T. 49 But groves, hills, and v. diffuse C. 39 That in the v. of decline are lost Con. 636 But though life's v. be a vale of tears Con. 681 O'er hills, through v., and by river's brink T. i 113 Of hill and v. interposed between T. i 322 The rocks fall headlong, and the v. rise T. ii 95 Woods vanish, hills subside, and v. rise T. iii 775 The hills and v. with their ceaseless songs T. v 78 These to the upland, to the v. those T. v 197 His are the mountains, and the v. his T. v 742

VALOUR

To quell the v. of the stoutest heart Ex. 358

VALUE.

No Charity but alms aught v. she Ch. 459
Loses at once all v. and esteem Ex. 113
The Sacred Book, its v. understood Ex. 616
Its v., what no thought can ascertain H. 125
Thine had a v. in the scales of Heaven J.T. 29
Our fathers knew the v. of a screen T. i 255
Few know thy v., and few taste thy sweets T. ii
For he who v. Liberty confines T. v 393
And overpaid its v. with thy blood T. vi 860
To impress a v., not to be erased Tir. 613

VALUED.

Of all their hard oppressors v. most Ex. 172 'Tis v. for the danger's sake the more P.E. 521 Mat once I v. and could boast, a friend R. 37 If v. by its wearer's worth 1789, 43 The good on earth they v. most 1789, 51

VAN

Havoc and devastation in the $v.\ Her.\ 21$ Plant behind plant aspiring, in the $v.\ T.\ iii\ 593$

VANDALS.

So then—the V. of our Isle M. i 1 VANISH.

(So v. Pleasure alas!) C. 6 All v. there, and fascinate no more P.E. 620 V. at once into the darkest shade St. ii 24 Woods v., hills subside, and valleys rise T. iii 775 Nor frown, unless he v. with the cloth Tir. 730 VANISHED.

He blessed the bread, but v. at the word Con. 533 Jack v., was regretted and forgot R. 581

VANITY.

The last by V. produced and nursed Con. 378
And v. absorbs at length E. i 81
By V.'s unwearied finger dressed Ex. 46
What dotage will not v. maintain? Ex. 628
That Zeal, not V., has chanced to mate Ch. 635
Whom all the v. they scorned engaged Ex. 661
To read wise lectures, v. the text H. 107
Is v. surpassing all the rest" H. 110
Hope sets the stamp of v. on all H. 153
Of v., that seizes all below T. iii 267
By endless riot, V., the Lust T. iii 812
Arms, through the v. and brainless rage T. iv 619
Nor him who, by his v. seduced T. vi 283
Much of the v. of men Trans. ii 32
Of V., a wreath for self to wear T.T. 757

VANQUISH. To v. lust, and wear its yoke no more Ex. 411

VANQUISHED. [620
And seems dethroned and v. Peace ensues T. v
Are oft-times v. and thrown far behind T. vi 615
VAPID.

And withered muscle, and the v. soul T. i 393 VAPOUR.

'Tis nauseous as the v. of a vault Con. 50
Dark and voluminous the v. rise Her. 15
It floats a v. now O. i 14
Its cooling v. o'er the dewy meads R. 422
To sallow sickness, which the v., dank T. i 438
In volumes wheeling slow, the v. dank T. iii 499
Replete with v., and disposes much T. v 463
Unwelcome v. quench autumnal beams T.T. 212
VAPOURING.

Strutting and v. in an empty school T. ii 330

VARIANCE. Seem most at v. with all moral good T. iv 621

VARIED. Displaying, on its v. side, the grace T. i 172 He looks abroad into the v. field T. v 738 The v. fields of science, ever new T.T. 264

VARIEGATED.

Her hedge-row shrubs, a v. store R. 419 A v. show; the meadows green T. iv 312

VARIETY.

Of rights restored, v. enjoyed A.T. 154
V.'s the very spice of life T. ii 606
Of pleasure and v., dispatch T. iii 813
And flush into v. again T. vi 180
With all v. of ill by turns Tir. 475

VARIOUS.

That all the v. beauties we survey A.T. 48 By v. ties attaches man to man Ch. 16 God opens fruitful Nature's v. scenes Ch. 88 [i 10 How laughs the land with v. plenty crowned! Comp. Though v. yet complete Dr. 10 Their humour yet so v. F. 111 So shifting and so v, is the plan H, 15 In justice to the v. powers Miss — 17 Lead on the v. year Miss - 98The v. treasures of his mind Mrs. M-42 Here v, motives his ambition raise P.E. 53 Nature in all the v. shapes she wears R. 193 Though v, foes against the truth combine T. 473 Alike yet v. Here the grey smooth trunks T. i 302 The earth was made so v., that the mind T. i 506 How v. his employments whom the world T. iii 352 And dress the regular yet v. scene T. iii 592 With forms so v., that no rowers of art T. v 108

The lilac, v. in array, now white T. vi 157 [232 With self-taught rites, and under v. names T. vi The v. seasons woven into one T. vi 769 [vi 355 The creatures, summon'd from their v. haunts T. Its v. parts to his attentive note Tir. 642 Mankind are v., and the world is wide Tir. 788 What exhibitions v. hath the world Y.O. 69

VARNISH.

With Nature's v.; severed into stripes T. i 40

VASE.

Close interwoven, where they meet the v. T. iii 612 And bundled close to fill some crowded v. T. iv 668

VASHTI.

Vainglorious of her charms, his V. forth T. iii 715 VAST.

A union with the v. terraqueous whole Ch. 122
But who can tell how v. the plan E. i 83
V. as it is, it answers, as it flows R. 529
Oh for a lodge in some v. wilderness T. ii 1
And wanton vagrants, as make London, v.T. iii 833
Its fluctuations, and its v. concerns? T. iv 56
Almost without an effort, plans too v. T. v 253
Terrestrial, in the v. and the minute T. v 811
So v. in its demands, unless impell'd T. vi 218
V. was his empire, absolute his power T. vi 357
V. in its powers, ethereal in its kind Tiv. 6

VASTNESS.

And all thine embryo v., at a gulp Y.O. 22-

VAULT.

'Tis nauseous as the vapour of a v. Con. 50 Her v. below, where every vintage meets Ex. 22 And just when evening turns the blue v. grey H. 79 The stars that, sprinkled o'er the v. of night R. 349 The seas globose and huge, the o'erarching v. R. 552 "Beneath a v. unsullied with a cloud T. v 824 [62 And has the warmth of May. The v. is blue T. vi Amid the v. of heaven Q. V. 16

VAULTED.

That made the v. roofs of Pleasure ring T.T. 625

VEGETATE.

He deems it hard to v. alone Tir. 724

VEGETATION.

Checks v. in the torpid plant T. iii 468 VEGETATIVE.

Swelling with v. force instinct Y.O. 34
VEHICLE.

A v. of virtue, truth, and love Ch. 624

WEIL. [Her. 17] While through the Stygian v. that blots the day How dark the v. that intercepts the blaze Ch. 57] Has still a v. of midnight on his heart Ch. 376 [486] And v. your daring crest that braves the skies Con. Themselves will hide its coarseness with a v. P.E. 292] And covered with a fine-spun specious v. P.E. 328] Discover him that rules them; such a v. T. iii 233] Escapes unhurt beneath so warm a v. T. iv 332] Her v. opaque, discloses with a smile T. v 892] The v. is rent, rent too by priestly hands T. vi 876] To v. a deed of thine! Q.V. 36

VEILED.

Night v, the pole; all seemed secure T.B. 31

VEIN.

"The blood of ancient worthies in his v. A.T. 116 The recollection, like a v. of ore Con. 515 Consult Life's silent clock, thy bounding v. Ep. i 3 Fed from the richest v. of the Mogul Ex. 369 And let it circulate through every v. T. ii 45 [201 Be strangers to each other? Pierce my v. T. iii He gave them in his children's v., and hates T. iv 464 To winter, and the current in his v. T. iv 383 [137 Whose humorous v., strong sense, and simple style Tir. Through the imperceptible meandering v. T. vi 186

VELLUM.

The v. of the pedigree they claim T. i 569

VELVET.
Where Nature has her mossy v. spread E. ii 15
May now and then their v. cushions take H. 248
In scarlet mantle warm, and v. capped M.P. 51
'\ \text{the dear pleasures of the v. plain P.E. 169}
Or v. soft, or plush with shaggy pile T. i 11
On Fortune's v. altar offering up T. ii 657
Across a v. level, feel a joy T. vi 275

VENAL.

And every r. stickler for the Yoke T.T. 352

VENALITY.

When infamous V., grown bold T.T. 416 Pulverized of v., a shell Y.O. 123

VENERABLE.

Meek, modest, v., wise, sincere Ex. 620 Innocent! Oh! if v. Time P.E. 181 Down falls the v. pile, the abode T. iii 767 Fame had not left the v. man T. vi 492

VENERATE.

I v. the man whose heart is warm T. ii 372

VENERATION.

But v. or respect finds none Con. 739

VENGEANCE

Heaven awards the v. due B. 42
And V. executes what Justice wills Ch. 82
"Keep wisdom, or meet v. in your turn! Ex. 244
Provoke the v. of his righteous hand Ex. 253
"Suffering the v. of eternal fire" Ex. 423
If Love reward him, or if V. strike P.E. 31
Exposed him to the v. of the laws? T. 45
A growing red of v. at his heels T. 258
Drops the dread v. from his willing hand T. 278
As V. can inflict, or sinners fear T. 554
Yet not in v.: as this smiling sky T. vi 258
V. at last pours down upon their coast T.T. 472

VENTAL.

Past indiscretion is a v. crime T. 491 The spaniel dying for some v. fault T. vi 418

VENISON.

Serve him with v., and he chooses fish Con. 335 Turtle and v. all his thoughts employ P.E. 220 Wildfowl or v., and his errand speeds T. iv 612

VENOM.

Of asps their v., overpowering strength T. v 702 And charged perhaps with v., that intrudes T. vi569

VENT.

In earth's dark womb have found at last a v. N.A. VENTILATE.

And v, and warm the swelling buds T, iii 426

VENTURE.

A task I v. on, impelled by thee Ch. 6 He has outslept the winter, v. forth T. vi 313 She v. onward with a prosperous force T.T. 266

VENTURED.

I v. once to break B.R. 10 Like something precious v. far from shore P.E. 520

VENUS.

For sea-born V. her attachment shows Con. 265 Where V. hears the lover's tender vow Con. 824

VERBOSELY.

(I hate long arguments v. spun) E. iii 44 Be most sublimely good, v. grand T. v 678

VERBS.

But conjugated v., and nouns declined? Tir. 619

VERDANT.

The walk, still v., under oaks and elms T. vi 70 VERDICT.

On Reason's v. is a madman's deed Con. 190 And lunacy the v. of the Court T. 448

VERDURE.

And, charged with putrid v., breathe a gross T.ii 97 With v. not unprofitable, grazed T. iv 317 The v. of the plain lies buried deep T. v 21 Spreads the fresh v. of the field, and leads T.T. 692

VERGE.

Or e'er his hoof had pressed the crumbling v. T. vi

VERGING. Seems τ . fast towards the female side P.E. 430

VERIEST.

Thou wast the r. slave, in days of yore Ex. 523

VERNAL.

As the sun peeps, and c. airs breathe mild T. iii 443

VERMICULAR.

Gave them a twisted form v. T. i 30

VERMIN.

To poison r. that infest his plants Con. 256 Of v., or at best of cook purloined T. i 563 Makes men mere v., worthy to be trapped T. ii 683 The creeping v., loathsome to the sight T. vi 568 With what v. else infest Trans. iii 13

VERSE.

With v. addressed to me? B.R. 28 And v., more lasting, hues that never fade Ch. 108 V., like the laurel, its immortal meed Ch. 292 Far be the thought from any v. of mine Ex. 428 V. cannot stoop so low as thy desert Ex. 547 [654 How shall a v. impress thee? By what name Ex. An Iliad, only not in v., ensues H. 194 How sweet soe'er the v. complain Miss -Oh that a v. had power, and could command P.E.323Let v. at length yield thee thy just reward S. i 4 "They shall be yours," my V. replies St. iii 35 (If e'er posterity see v. of mine) T. ii 578 The adultress! what a theme for angry v.! T.iii 64And v, of mine shall never brand the wretch T, iii 72 To advertise in v. a public pest T. iv 501 For a lost world in solitude and v. T. iv 730 Till it out-mantle all the pride of v. T. v 680 Of poetry not lost, if v. of mine T. vi 726 To dress a Sofa with the flowers of v. T. vi 1007 The mighty plan, oracular, in v. T.T. 179 Lost without thee the ennobling powers of v. T.T. That v., whatever fire the fancy warms T.T. 512 Than caper in the morris-dance of v. T.T. 519 V. in the finest mould of fancy cast T.T. 618 In v. well disciplined, complete, compact T.T. 647 Or ere the wheels of v. begin to roll T.T. 711 What need of Homer's v., or Tully's prose Tir. 399 I sent you v., and, as your Lordship knows V. 19 (Unless v. rescue thee awhile) a thing Y.O. 58

VERSED.

But v, in arts that while they seem to stay R. 383

VERSE-MAN.

So your V. I, and Clerk St. iv 9

VERTUMNUS.

And Flora, and V.; peopling earth T. vi 234

VESSEL.

The v. weighs, forsakes the shore A Tale 43

To check the v.'s course Cast. 20 The Christian v., and defies the blast H. 168 Had made the v. heel R.G. 7 Weigh the v. up R.G. 25

VEST.

Again, when evening in her sober v. Ch. 262But, unattired in that becoming v. T.T. 722

Appears a spot upon a v.'s robe T. iv 554

VESTIBULE.

Diffused, make Earth the v. of Hell P.E. 465

VESTIGES.

On all the v. of truth attend Con. 219

vestris.

The feats of V., or the naval force Con. 58 Though V. on one leg still shine below Tir. 542

VESTURE.

When, playing with thy v.'s tissued flowers M.P. 75

VETERAN.

A v. warrior in the Christian field Con. 607 The v, steed excused his task at length R, 625 The v. shows, and gracing a grey beard T. i 406 A shattered v., hollow-trunked perhaps Y.O. 4

VEX.

And v, their flesh with artificial sores T, i 582

VEXATIOUS.

He, foreseeing what v. N.C. 37

EXED.

Till both grew v. and tired A Tale 22 [997 Renowned in ancient song; not v. with care T. vi

V. passing current by the stamp of law A.T. 156 The seeming virtue weighed against the v. Ch. 457 (Though V. derided with a just design Ch. 487 Who prostitute it in the cause of v. Con. 27 With tiptoe-step V. silently succeeds Ex. 84 And free from every taint but that of v. Ex. 150 If V. received her retribution due Ex. 247 With Asiatic v. stored thy mind Ex. 372 Where only V, and Injury are tied Ex. 594 As fortune, v., or folly may command H. 12 Here see the encouragement Grace gives to v. H. 495 V. seems already slain H.F. 6 His unexhausted mine, the sordid v. P.E. 51 Leave V. and Folly unsubdued behind P.E. 81 Than V.'s mean and disingenuous race P.E. 297 To purge and skim away the filth of v. P.E. 343 The Cross once seen is death to every v. P.E. 622Nor those in which the stage gives v. a blow R. 685 His virtues were his pride; and that one v. T. 54More nourish pride, that condescending v. T. 123 In cities, v. is hidden with most ease T. i 689 [ii 320 What v. has it subdued? whose heart reclaimed T. It is a hungry v.;—it eats up all T. ii 680 Of v. in others but enhancing more T. ii 795 With such artillery armed. V, parries wide T, ii 810 Virtue and v, had boundaries in old time T, iii 75 Where V. has such allowance, that her shifts T. iii 106 He too may have his v., and sometimes prove T.iv 604 For folly, gallantry for every v. T. iv 690 To live on terms of amity with $v.\ T.\ v$ 658 No polish can make sterling, and that $v.\ T.\ vi$ 990 Or in one article of v. reclaimed Tir. 241 To ears and eyes, the v. of the rest Tir. 274 Ranks as a virtue, and is yet a v. Tir. 465 That any thing but v. could win thy love Tir. 742 Keep V. restrained behind a double guard T.T. 66 When Perjury, that Heaven-defying v. T.T. 418

Not only v. disposes and prepares T.T. 438 Of Wantonness, where v was taught by rule T.T. 627

Their only crime, v. to you! Her. 52

For v. ends connected F. 42 A v. object still is worse Mor. 47 Or v., and not therefore apt to teach T. ii 550 And v. pleasures; buys the boy a name T. ii 759 By v. Custom, raging uncontrolled T. iii 682 V. in act, in temper savage-fierce T. vi 487 Such v. habits as disgrace his name Tir. 531 From v. inmates and delights impure Tir. 892 That would reclaim a v. age U. 6

VICIOUSLY.

By nature weak, or v. inclined P.E. 432

VICISSITUDE.

V. wheels round the motley crowd H. 17 The sweet v. of day and night H. 488

VICTIM.

Conjecture gripes the v. in his paw Ch. 525 And while the v. slowly bled to death Ex. 498 The unpitied v, of ill-judged expense R, 512 And item down the v. of the past St. ii 4 In manners—v. of luxurious case T. i 625 Is fed with many a v. Lo, he comes! T. iii 765 His v., robbed of their defenceless all T. iv 458 To rend a v. trembling at his foot T. vi 411 And helpless v, with a sense so keen T, vi 475 The v, of his own tremendous choice T. vi 558 The v. of his own lascivious fires T.T. 606

V. seemed, and now the doctor's skill Con. 320 A long despised, but now v., host T.T. 473

VICTORIOUSLY.

His tender heart v, impressed A.T. 4

VICTORY.

Crowned with a thousand v., and at last Ex. 191 His v. was that of orient light Ex. 478 His v. are o'er R.G. 34 Of smiling V. that moment won T. ii 243 With joy beyond what v. bestows T.T. 80So Gideon earned a v. not his own T.T. 360 And praised him in the v. He wrought T.T. 375 And V. refuted all he said T.T. 389

VIEW.

But where, however bleak the v. A Tale 3 The flame extinct, he v. the roving fire B.B. 11 Might we v. her enjoying it here C. 56 The rights of man were sacred in his v. Ch. 28 Alike important in their Maker's v. Ch. 203 That Heaven spreads wide before the v. of man Ch. Takes the resemblance of the good she v. Ch. 396 The cause of Virtue could not be his v. Ch. 542 His wise forbearance has their end in v. Con. 33 We dare not risk them into public v. Con. 371 Their v., indeed, were indistinct and dim Con. 539 To spread the newborn glories in their v. Con. 546 Ought at the v. of an Almighty power Con. 658 It v. the truth with a distorted eye Con. 669 Than rove and stagger with no mark in v. Con. 864 And now just opening to our v. E. i 50 No shepherds' tents within thy v. appear E. ii 43 'Tis not with either of these v. E. iv 11Candid and just, with no false aim in v. Ex. 648 Another of sinister v. F. 53 My poems enchanted I v. Gr. 30

When God and man stand opposite in $v.\ H.\ 131$ Dare step across his arbitrary v. H. 193

I glide and steal along with heaven in v.~H.~379And, while religion seems to be her v. H. 641God's holy word, once trivial in his v. H. 706Through all his art we v. H.F. 14 'Twas wonderful to v. J.G. 118For, could I v. nor them nor thee M. 29 Imagination to his v. Mor. 29 And I can v, this mimic show of thee M.P. 119 Nor hold forbidden joys in v. O. ii 5 To wish myself the rock I v. P. 29 The maid who v, with pensive air P.B. 23 Exposed to v., but not to touch P.B. 30 V. constellations brighter than her own P.E. 178 But the muse, eagle-pinioned, has in v. P.E. 331 He v. it with complacency supreme P.E. 522 None sends his arrow to the mark in v. P.E. 570 To raise such wonders in her v. Q. V. 63 [P.F. 5 Twelve years have elapsed since I last took a v. Up!—God has formed thee with a wiser v. R. 265 Till she resemble faintly what she v. R. 298Nor v. of waters turning busy mills R. 334 Are life's prime pleasures in his simple v. R. 403He v. it not, or sees no beauty there R. 470 Her slighted works to your admiring v. R. 543Convinced at last, upon a nearer v. R. 591 Too rigid, in my v., that name to one R. 720 Employs, shut out from more important v. R. 803 Deceitful v. of future bliss, farewell! T. 9 What purpose has the King of Saints in v.? T. 179 V. him at Paris in his last career T. 311 Be still a pleasing object in my v. T. i 250 A faithful likeness of the forms he v. T. ii 293 With other v, of men and manners now T, iii 122 And paint his person, character and v. T. iii 143 V. him in all; ascribes to the grand cause T. iii 226 Proud of his well-spread walls, he v. his trees T. iii 408 Which all might v. with envy, none partake T. iii 718 It turns submitted to my v., turns round T. iv 98 The self-complacent actor, when he $v.\ T.\ iv\ 200\ [235]$ To v, some rugged rock or mouldering tower T, iv Pendulous, and foreboding, in the v. T. iv 293 I v. the muscular proportioned limb T. v 15 [521 Shone brighter still, once called to public v. T. v Man v. it and admires, but rests content T. v 791 With what he v. The landscape has his praise T. v 792 "If from your elevation, whence ye v. T. v 825 Such comprehensive v. the spirit takes T. vi 15[vi 66 And through the trees I v, the embattled tower T. Or what he v. of beautiful or grand T. vi 249 Whose face too was familiar to his v. T. vi 494 Of objects, more illustrious in her v. T. vi 916 In sleep he seemed to v. T.B. 45The young apostate sickens at the v. Tir. 167 The minor heroes v. with envious eyes Tir. 223 To set some living worthy in his v. Tir. 647 [Tir. 855 Who there will court thy friendship, with what v. By selfish v., thus censured and cashiered Tir. 496 And it seemed to a fanciful v. The Rose 6 "There," said his guide, "the group is full in v. Then v. him, self-proclaimed in a gazette T.T. 37 Opening and wider opening on her v. T.T. 265 That holds in v. the good of man U. 24 And v, with tears the expected harvest lost V. 57 Not always glitter in my v.) 1789, 26

VIEWED.

He turned and v. it oft on every side A.T. 203 V. a deliverer with disdain and hate Ex. 217 Prodigies ominous, and v. with fear P.E. 99 V. from a distance, and with heedless eyes P.E. 202 That goddess-like woman he v. M.D. 34 She v. the sparkling show Q.V. 74 Scenes must be beautiful which, daily v. T. i 177

VIEWING.

Has eyes indeed; and v. all she sees T. iii 245 That, v. it, we seem almost to obtain Tir. 312

VIEWLESS.

Upborne into the v. air O. i 13

VIGIL

Soft airs, nocturnal v., and day dreams R. 260

VIGILANCE.

The v., the labour, and the skill T. iii 548 Of unremitted v. and care T. vi 209 Their strength, or speed, or v.. were given T. vi 610

VIGILANT.

Much of her v. instinctive dread T. iii 340 V. over all that he has made T. 7. 248

VIGOROUS.

Not e'en the v. and headlong rage Con. 45 V. in age as in the flush of youth Con. 601 No; these were v. as their sires St. i 9 The seed sown there, how v. is the plant! T. 362 Beneath his care, a thriving v. plant T. ii 714 Thy v. pulse, and the unhealthful East T. iv 363 Keen in pursuit, and v. to retain Tir. 524

VIGOUR.

And gains new v. at her endless task Ch. 104 Hast thou the v. of thy youth l an eye Ep. i 5 But youth, health, v. to expend Mor. 33 Which, though new-born, with v. move Mrs. M-25Their v., injured soon, not soon restored T. iii 608 Was left to spring by v. of his own T. T. 675

VILE.

To a v. clod, so draws him, with such force T. v 589 Than set your son to work at a v. trade Tir. 456 Where v. example (yours I chiefly mean Tir. 761

VILEST.

See volunteers in all the v. arts Tir. 835

VILLAGE.

Sought their own v., busied as they went Con. 509 Had cheered the v. with his song N.G. 2 Groves, heaths, and smoking v., remote T. i 176 In v. or in town, the bay of curs T. i 230 V., or hamlet, of this merry land T. iv 467 How soft the music of those v. bells T. vi 6

VILLAGER.

That calls the unwonted v. abroad T. vi 300

VILLAIN.

Oh for a law to noose the v.'s neck T. iv 462

VILLAS.

That show reversed the v. on their side H. 468 Suburban v., highway-side retreats R. 481 The v. with which London stands begirt T. iv 748

VINDICATE.

Assert the skies, and v. her due T. 490

VINDICTIVE.

The stroke that a v. God intends Ex. 407 Remorse, and Sorrow, and v. Pain P.E. 44

VINE.

Her unctuous olives, and her purple v. Her. 7 V., olives, herbage, forests disappear Her. 23 [iii 29 Where chance may throw me, beneath elm or v. T. With all her v.; nor for Ausonia's groves T. ii 214 The state, beneath the shadow of whose v. T. vi 969 Where Rhenus strays his v. among T.B. 7

VINOSA.

"Adieu," V. cries, ere yet he sips H. 357

VINTAGE.

Her vaults below, where every v. meets Ex. 22

VIOLATED.

Time wasted, v. laws, abuse F.A. 14 By him, the r. law speaks out T. ii 340

VIOLATING.

Without the sin of v. thine M.P. 117

VIOLENCE.

And barbarous climes, where v. prevails T. i 604 To all the τ , of lawless hands T, iv 591 But v. can never longer sleep T. v 204 Where V. shall never lift the sword T. vi 843

VIOLET.

The v., the pink, the jessamine M.P. 76

VIRGIN.

Forgot the blush that v, fears impart Ex. 47 The unfading laurel, and the τ . too! Ex. 601 But now alike, gay widow, v., wife R. 519 Had he seduced a v., wronged a friend T. 46 Whom once her v, modesty and grace T, iv 535

VIRTUE.

() f v. too well fenced to fear a flaw A, T. 155 But he, the v. of his lance to show A.T. 165 All other sorrows v, may endure Ch, 157 But slavery! - V. dreads it as her grave Ch. 163 The foe of v. has no claim to thee Ch. 288 The seeming v, weighed against the vice Ch. 457 Unless a love of v. light the flame Ch. 491 And even V_{-} , so unfairly matched Ch. 511 The cause of V. could not be his view Ch. 542 Such v. had need prove their own reward Ch. 571 A vehicle of v., truth, and love Ch. 624 Religion, V., Reason, Common Sense Con. 77 And V. with peculiar charms appears Con. 637 Of v., and religion's glorious cause Con. 686 The v. of old Rome for English use Con. 836 The v, they had learned in scenes of wee Ex. 80 While Honour, V., Piety, bear sway Es. 326 But left their v. and thine own behind Ex. 373 Unless a zeal for v. guide the blow Ex. 437 What v., or what mental grace F. 1 But every v. of the soul F. 58 Yet has the wondrous v, to educe H, 155 His new-born v., and preserve him pure H. 170 On what foundation v. is to stand H. 529 [H. 366] That Heaven will weigh man's v. and his crimes A distant v. we can all confess H. 552V. engages his assent H.F. 11 Suffered by v. combating below? J.T. 18 Preserved by v. from declension M.F. 51 When v. bids it flow Miss -- 56 The gentler V. too are joined Miss — 77 "So Pity shall take V.'s part Miss — 89 The noblest minds their v. prove P. 61 Peace follows V. as its sure reward P.E. 42 Avarice shows, and v. is the price P.E. 52 That V. points to? Can a life thus spent P.E. 72 Temperance were no v. if he could $\tilde{P}.E$. 224 And some that seem to threaten v. less P.E. 227 All these belong to v., and all prove P.E. 247 That v. has a title to your love P.E. 248 To give to V. what is V.'s due P.E. 294 Ye pimps, who, under V.'s fair pretence P.E. 315 The Graces, too, while V. at their shrine P.E. 337 Accomplishments have taken V.'s place P.E. 417 To v., delicacy, truth, or sense P.E. 513 His undissembling v. to my breast R. 380 The love of r., and the fear of God! R. 730 To cherish V. in an humble state R. 789
Sincere on V.'s side St. iii 18
Of v., and yet lose it! Wherefore hard? T. 12 His v. were his pride; and that one vice T. 54 Made all his r. gewgaws of no price T. 55

And poisoned every r, in them both T. 116 Their own dear v. their unshaken trust T. 284 Some love of t., and some power to praise T. 486 "Perish the v., as it ought, abhorred T. 503 "Is v. then, unless of Christian growth T. 515 But still in v. of a Saviour's plea T. 529 Now summon every v., stand and plead T. 566 That all your r. cannot purchase now T. 570 And well tired v., could alone inspire T. i 148 Can boast but little v.; and inert T. i 623 Here τ . thrives as in her proper soil T. i 600 But though true worth and r., in the mild T. i 678 Or seen with least reproach; and r., taught T. i 690 What wonder then that health and r., gifts T. i 750 Support, and ornament of V.'s cause T. ii 336 Till they can laugh at r., mock the fools T. ii 692 When learning, v., piety, and truth T. ii 700 And V. fled. The schools became a scene T. ii 735 Where science and where r, are professed ? T, ii 766 Of manners sweet as V. always wears T. ii 783 The charms of r. in their just esteem T. ii 796 Thou art the nurse of V. In thine arms T. iii 48 V. and vice had boundaries in old time T. iii 75 And thus gives V. indirect applause T. iii 104 Is v.; the only lasting treasure, truth T. iii 259 Friendly to thought, to r., and to peace T. iii 291 Like v. thriving most where little seen T. iii 664 And v, and those scenes which God ordained T. iii 703 To all the v. of those better days T. iii 745 What, conscious of your v., we can spare T. iv 425 That felt their v.; Innocence, it seems T. iv 518 Impossible when V. is so scarce T. iv 531 Of public v. ever wished removed T. iv 615 The t., temper, understanding, taste T. iv 790 Of v, made one chief, whom times of peace T. v239By some whose patriot v. has prevailed T. v 295 For when was public v, to be found T, v 502 And useful quality, and r. too T. vi 623 Of rant and rhapsody in v.'s praise T. v 677 If not the v., yet the worth of brutes T. vi 724 Of v., and whom r., fruit of faith T. vi 911 The man, whose v. are more felt than seen T. vi 972 Some sneaking v. lurks in him, no doubt Tir. 244 But how? resides such t. in that air Tir. 373 Ranks as a v., and is yet a vice Tir. 465 Much zeal in v.'s cause all teachers boast Tir. 517 Two-thirds of all the v. that remains Tir. 810 'Tis to the v. of such men, man owes T.T. 19
To pour in V.'s lap her just reward T.T. 65 And praised for v. that they scorn to wear T.T.116 Religion, v., truth, whate'er we call T.T. 286 Not so. The v. still adorns our age T.T. 340 Than V. quickens, with a warmth divine T.T. 382 Patterns of every v., every grace T.T. 373 But still, while V. kindled his delight T.T. 598 V. indeed meets many a rhyming friend T.T. 620 Gave V. and morality a grace T.T. 648 Fails not, in v. and in wisdom laid Y.O. 121 VIRTUOSO.

The v. thus, at noon E. iv 49

VIRTUOUS.

Apt emblem of a v. maid Comp. ii 2 And glory for the v. when they die J.T. 14 No v. wish can bear a date Mor. 57 V. and faithful Heberden, whose skill R. 279 Oh, tell thy thoughtless sex, the v. mind S. ii 6 But the age of v. politics is past T. v 493 The most disinterested and v. minds Tir. 438 His v. toil may terminate at last Tir. 777 That though school-bred the boy be v. still Tir. 840 Covetous only of a v. praise T.T. 75 In thee some v. qualities combine V. 31 Polite, yet v., who has brought away V. 79

VISAGE.

That the v. or countenance had not a nose A.C. 19 Trees, churches, and strange v., expressed T. iv 288

VISIBLE.

Not v., his family of worlds T. iii 232 His other works, the v. display T. v 553

VISIBLY.

Dwelt v. the light-creating God T. 390

VISION.

Close to the part where v. ought to be Ch. 386 With v. prompted by intense desire T. i 451

VISIONARY.

There, like the v. emblem seen T. v 400

VISIT.

Of a land I shall v. no more A.S. 36
Whate'er they gave, should v. more Cast. 30
The brief proclaimed, it v. every pew Ch. 469
The v. paid, with ecstasy we come Con. 399
A transient v. intervening E. i 97
Thy nightly v. to my chamber made M.P. 58
My v. still, but never mine abode T. i 251
Shall v. earth in mercy; shall descend T. vi 743
Will win her v. or engage her stay T.T. 411

VISITED.

When we were v., what hope for you? Ex. 248 VISITING.

V. every flower with labour meet Con. 439

VISITOR.

A v. unwelcome, into scenes T. vi 570

VITAL.

That waste our v.; peculation, sale T. ii 668 Friendly to v. motion, may afford T. iii 509 Where now the v. energy that mov'd T. vi 134

VITREOUS.

Where all was v.; but in order due T. v 161

"VIVE LE ROY!"

With which he shouts and carols "V.!" T.T. 243

DIVID

In dazzling streaks the v. lightnings play Her. 18 That glossy shine, or v. flame Mrs. M-10 [iii 525 Strained through the friendly mats a v. green T.

VOCAL.

Till Gratitude grew v. in the praise R. 555 Made v. for the amusement of the rest T. iv 159

VOCIFERATED.

V. logic kills me quite Con. 113

VOCIFEROUS.

V., and impatient of delay T. i 299

VOGUE.

Are bringing into v. their heathen train Con. 821 From top to toe the Geta now in v. T. 202

VOICE.

A louder v. than yours I heard B.R. 3
With her book, and her v., and her lyre C. 49
Had heard his v. in every blast Cast. 45
No v. divine the storm allayed Cast. 61
Oh that the v. of clamour and debate Ch. 309
Your elevated v. goes through the brain Con. 328
That odious libel on a human v.? Con. 450
Though common sense, allowed a casting v. Con. 663
And having chosen evil, scorned the v. Ex. 398
He was a traitor by the general v. Ex. 545
But if a sweeter v., and one designed Ex. 726
When from within it thus a v. replied F.A. 10

All speak one language, all with one sweet v. H. 53Or v. of turtle in your land is heard H. 470 Now by the v. of his experience true H. 707 Would raise her v., and roar J.P. 10 Then raising her v, to a strain M.D. 17 (And raised her v., and frowned beside) M.F. 16 Then, with a v. exceeding low M.F. 29 V. only fails, else how distinct they say M.P. 5 Are the v. with which He speaks N.C. 36 Counsel and caution from a v, like mine! P.E. 10 Man thus endued with an elective v. P.E. 45Impart to things inanimate a v. R. 361For once I can approve the patriot's v. R. 387Hear the sweet accents of his tuneful v. R. 771 At length a v, which well he knew R.C. 87 Cowper, whose silver v., tasked sometimes hard S. i 1 Thou art not v. alone, but hast beside S. i 9 But, naming none, the v now speaks to all St. ii 20 Nightly lifts his v. on high St. iv 6 Her v. is terrible though soft St. v 23 Of distant floods, or on the softer v. T. 191 [T. ii 351 But hark—the doctor's r.!—fast wedged between O that unwelcome v. of heavenly love T. 463 [ii 728 Was quenched in rhoums of age, his v., unstrung T. The τ . of singing and the sprightly chord T. ii 78 Not by a mighty wind, but by that v. T. ii 113 His frown was full of terror, and his v. T. ii 721 Each for itself, and all as with one r. T. iii 653 And give them v. and utterance once again T. iv 35 And the clear v., symphonious, yet distinct T. iv 162 And by the v. of all its elements T. ii 52 [T. v 650 "Nay—conduct hath the loudest tongue. The v. The still small v. is wanted. He must speak T. v 685 Sent forth a r., and all the sons of God T. v 821 A teaching v.; but 'tis the praise of thine T. v 858 A v. is heard that mortal ears hear not T.v 886 [887 Till Thou hast touched them, 'tis the v. of song T. vAnd utter now and then an awful v. T. vi 34 And heard the v. of love The Doves 6 And deans, no doubt, and chapters, with one v. Tir. Condemns, approves, and with a faithful v. Tir. 33 Seem with one v. to delegate to you? Tir. 554 But all are not alike. Thy warning v. Tw. 797 Now look on him, whose very v. in tone Tir. 845 Though in v. and shape they be Trans. iii 17 A querulous old woman's v. Trans. iv 25

To teach, no Spirit dwells in thee, nor v. Y.O. 138

VOID. [Con. 626]

When some green heads, as r. of wit as thought So v. of all utility or aim H. 88 [Ex. 175] For them, the states they left made waste and r. Wild as if Nature there, v. of all good H. 540 Or sought with energy, must fill the v. R. 748 To fill the v. of an unfurnished brain T. iv 209 Unoccupied, has filled the v. so well T. v 557 For human fellowship, as being v. T. vi 322 Was lumber in an age so v. of taste T.T. 619

VOIDED.

Of v. pulse or half-digested grain T. v 95

VOLCANO.

Where no v. pours his fiery flood Her. 85 That metropolitan r. make T. iii 737

VOLLEY

The undreaded v. with a sword of straw T. ii 811 Skin-piercing v., blossom-bruising hail T. v 141

VOLTAIRE.

[T. 304

("Mention him, if you please; -V.?" "The same")

Thrice must the v. and restless earth T. iii 490 VOLUME.

In r. wheeling slow, the vapour dank T. iii 499

The τ . closed, the customary rites T. iv 167 I thought the v. I presumed to send V. 39

VOLUMINOUS.

Dark and r. the vapours rise Her. 15

VOLUNTARY.

His v. pains, severe and long T. 101 Starts to the v. race again T. vi 333

VOLUNTEERS.

See v. in all the vilest parts Tir. 835

VOLUPTUARIES.

No; - the v., who ne'er forget T. 341

VORACIOUS.

By worms v. eating through and through T. i 27 To his v. bag, struggling in vain T. iv 450 As oft return, a pert v. kind T. v 69 vortiginous.

Or with v. and hideous whirl T. ii 102

Too oft betrays the r. of his fires A.T. 30 And would degrade her v. to an ape Con. 460 Could bend one knee, engage one v. there H. 508 And each inclines its v. to retreat R. 174 V. of Pleasure still, where'er she dwells R. 589 Come then, and thou shalt find thy v. calm T. iv 259 Of abler r. to cleanse the stain T.T. 635 V. of business and of pleasure prove V. 71

Who v. for hire, or point it with lampoon Con. 29 To be refunded duly, when his r. T. iii 799

VOUCHSAFES.

Nature indeed, r. for our delight H. 487 V., at least, to pitch the key of rhyme T.T. 188 V. to man a poet's just pretence T.T. 699

OUCHSAFED.

The reasoning power v. of course inferred Con. 431 Where Paradise seemed still v. on earth Ez. 420 Are never long v., if pushed aside Ex. 690 Than opportunity v, to err F.A. 16 By good v. makes known superior good H. 147

VOUCHSAFING. Unmasked, v. this their sole excuse T. ii 695

His v. was (and he well performed his v.) A.T. 139Where Venus hears the lover's tender v. Con. 824 This heartless v. may Heaven receive Miss — 93

VOYAGE. Bound on a v. of awful length H.F. 17

(As in a map the v. his course) T. vi 17

Him, Tubal named, the V. of old times T. v 217

VULGAR. Built by no mercenary v. hand Ch. 257 The astonished r. trembled, while he tore Ex. 13 The portion of a mean or τ , mind R. 502 From v. minds, have honour much at heart R. 728 Food for the v. merely—is an art T. iii 449

VULGARLY.

Sighs for his exit, v. called death H. 90

W.

WADDED.

Wide-elbowed, and w. with hair Gr. 11

WADDING.

And o'er the seat, with plenteous w. stuffed T. i 31

His wonted strut; and, w. at their head T. v 74

WAFT.

That comes to w. us out of sorrow's power Con. 592 Whom the winds w, where'er the billows roll Ex. 19 Now Truth, perform thine office, w. aside H. 570 [35 The selfsame gale that w. the fragrance round Her. And w, it to the mourner as he roves R. 338 W. the rich prize to its appointed use T. iii 540 The wings that w. our riches out of sight T. iii 760

WAFTED.

The soothing influence of the w. strains T. vi 68

WAG.

"Come, neighbours, we must w.--" Y.D. 50

WAGE.

A warm dispute once chanced to w. J.P. 3 Reduce his \bar{w} ., or get rid of her T. 211 Well may the Church w. unsuccessful war T. ii 809 W. war, with any or with no pretence T. v 314 And in their service w. perpetual war T. vi 894 [30 That Grace and Nature have to w. through life Tir. For w. so unlikely to be paid Tir. 457 Is odious, and their w. all their joy Tir. 824

But w. with Death a lasting strife Cast. 17 W, with defenceless innocence, while he T, vi 393 The bottomless demands of contest w. Y.O. 102

WAGGON.

Thy w. is thy wife, and the poor beasts T. iv 367

WAIF.

'Twas hard perhaps on here and there a w. T. iii 80 WAILED.

Plaintive and piteous, as it wept and w. T. iv 479 WAILING.

No womanish or w, grief has part R. 773

WAIN.

The loaded w., while lightened of its charge T. i 296 The w. that meets it passes swiftly by T. i 297 The w. goes heavily, impeded sore T. iv 343

WAINSCOAT.

Fix on the w. a distressful stare Con. 116

WAIST.

With spatter'd boots, strapp'd w.. and frozen locks Wreaths for her brow, and girdles for her w. A.T. 14 Still dangling at his w. J.G. 132 [155 Who spanned her w, and who, where er he came T. Greets with three cheers exulting. At his w. T. i523 With belted w, and pointers at their heels T, ii 753 That reeling goddess with the zoneless w. T. iii 52 With wig prolix, down flowing to his w. Tir. 361

WAIT.

Shame and ruin w, for you " B. 44 Fairest and foremost of the train that w. Ch. 1 O most degrading of all ills that w. Ch. 155 W. for the dawning of a brighter day Ch. 167 They dare not w. the riotous abuse Con. 261 Who w. for heaven ere he becomes divine Con. 584 And w., in snug concealment laid Ep. ii 39

Her peaceful shores, where busy commerce w. Ex.13 W. but the lashes of a wintry storm H. 185The common care that w. on all beside H. 539 But happier far, who comfort those that w. H. 762 "The dinner w., and we are tired " J.G. 147 And bees in hives as idly w. N. 8 How each would trembling w. the mournful sheet Scorned by the rest, with patient hope they w.R.165The rest too busy, or too gay, to w. T. 40 Nor less composure w. upon the roar T. 190 Then boast (but w. for that unhoped-for hour) T. 401 Far fetched and little worth, nor seldom w. T. i 243To w. the close of all? But grant her end T. ii 65 Who w. to dress us, arbitrates their date T. ii 600 Ten thousand dangers lie in w, to thwart T, iii 553 That cheer but not inebriate, w. on each T. iv 40 In unrecumbent sadness. There they w. T. v 29 That w. on man, the flight performing horse T. vi 426 The dust that w. upon his sultry march T. vi 741 "Those ills that w. on all below The Doves 17 A disappointment w, him even there Tir. 566I pity kings whom worship w. upon T.T. 121 For long forbearing Clemency to w. T.T. 401 The laurel seemed to w. on his command T.T. 688 WAITER.

The Christian Hope is—W., draw the cork H. 361 There w. Dick, with bacchanalian lays Tir. 214

WAIVES.

She rather w. than will dispute her right Ch. 430 WAKE.

And Bonner, blithe as shepherd at a w. Ex. 614 W. the sooner for his cry $\hat{S}t$. iv 8 Wins no notice, w. no fears St. iv 20 And tremble when I w., for all the wealth T. ii 31

WAKING. Or, w. at the call of lust alone Ex. 101 They sleep secure from w. F. 123

Soothed with a.w. dream of houses, towers T. iv 287 WALK.

W. arm in arm with Nature all his way Ch. 314 With one he stumbled on, and lost his w. Con. 280 The social w., or solitary ride Con. 733 What w. we take, what books we choose E. i 6 Taking my lonely winding w., I mused F.A. 8 Of those that w, at evening where ye dwell H. 472 A poet, in his evening w. P. 39 Umbrageous w, and solitary seats R, 258 'Tis such an easy w., so smooth and straight R. 489 Some trivial slips their daily w, attend T. 286 The light they w. by, kindled from above T. 369 For I have loved the rural w, through lanes T, i 109 Of thorny boughs: have loved the rural w. T. i 112 And witness, dear companion of my w. T. i 144 From sultry suns, and in their shaded w. T. i 256 We tread the Wilderness, whose well-rolled w.T.i351He w, he leaps, he runs—is winged with joy T. i 443 But thus admonished, we can w erect T if 593 Even daylight has its dangers; and the w. T. iv 572 He stands erect; his slouch becomes a w. T. iv 639 The cottage, w. along the plastered wall T. v 19 To w. with God, to be divinely free T. v 722 [247 Happy who w. with him! whom what he finds T. vi The w., still verdant, under oaks and elms T. vi 70 W. forth to meditate at eventide T. vi 949

He w. abroad, o'ertaken in the rain Con. 277

In starry forms disposed upon the w. Ch. 552 The cedar and the hyssop on the w. H. 287 [351 Where mouldering abbey w, o'erhang the glade H. From stuccoed w. smart arguments rebound H. 316 | And of a w. grey; the willow such T. i 309

And smite the untempered w. 'tis death to spare H.627Upon his dungeon w, the lightning play H. 718 On many a splendid w. Q.V. 46 Like bottled wasps upon a southern w. R. 494 And throws Italian light on English w. T. i 425 [408 Proud of his well-spread w, he views his trees T. iii Enjoy close shelter, w., or reeds, or hedge T. iii 474 The cottage, walk along the plastered w. T. v 19 Smooth as a w, the upright remnant stands T, v 36 To read, engraven on the mouldy w. T. v 418 [133 To enrich thy w.: but thou didst hew the floods T. v Praise is in all her gates: upon her w. T. vi 808

The w. on which we tried our graving skill Tir. 300 WALNUT.

But now, beneath this w. shade Ep. ii 37

Gorgonius sits, abdominous and w. P.E. 217Pale, w., and livid, but assuming soon T. iii 523 [162 Copious of flowers the woodbine, pale and w. T. vi

WAND.

But Rome, with sorceries and magic w. Ex. 508 Then with his silver beard and magic w. P.E. 183 With magic w. So potent is the spell T. ii 630 Pursue the track of his directing w. T. iii 777 [183 While we retrace with Memory's pointing w. T. iv But smooth with w. from Ouse's side T.B. 28

WANDER.

We w. o'er a sunburnt thirsty soil Ch . 220 And here I w. eve and morn M.B. 11 Tell him he w., that his error leads P.E. 544 If a wish w. that way, call it home P.E. 586 And every thought that w, is a crime R. 224 There often w. one, whom better days T. i 534 And silent woods I w., far from those T. iii 118 In which all comprehension w. lost T. iv 75 Which whose sees no longer w. lost T. v 847 The sun proceeds, I w. Neither mist T. vi 296 WANDERED.

I w. on his side D.W. 4 One silent eve I w. late The Doves 5

WANDERER.

To teach the w., as his woes increase Ch. 161 Himself a w. from the narrow way P.E. 118 Sets off a w. into foreign lands P.E. 378 But if the w. his mistake discern P.E. 610 To distant caves the lonely w. flies R. 769 The pensive w. in their shades. At eve T. i 761 Reclaims the w., binds the broken heart T. ii 344 I see that all are w., gone astray T. iii 124

Reclaim the w. thousands, and bring home Ex. 728To catch the w. notice of mankind H. 137 And being lost, perhaps, and w. wide N.A. 97 Replace the w. comet in his sphere T. 400 And breathing wholesome air, and w. much T. i 589 And w. eyes, still leaning on the arm T. iii 53 [815] The world of w. knights and squires to town T. iii No loose or wanton, though a w. Muse T. iii 692W., and littering with unfolded silks T. vi 280 [659 When w. Charles, who meant to be the third \tilde{T} , vi To w. sheep, resolved to follow none T. vi 891 Nor ignorantly w. miss the skies Tir. 108

Whence comes it then, that in the w. of life E, iii States thrive or wither, as moons wax and w. Ex.324Wrought this disturbance. But the w. is near T.vi 709

WANING.

Which, oft neglected, in life's w. years Tir. 589 WANNISH.

WANT.

As frequent as the w. of it appears Ch. 605 Discourse may w. an animated-No Con. 101 For w. of prominence and just relief Con. 127 Their w. of light and intellect supplied Con. 147 Thou art indeed the drug a gardener w. Con. 255 Their mind a wilderness through w. of care H. 233 The w. of both denotes a meaner breed H. 292 With nothing here that w, to be concealed H. 406 And learned too late, it w. the grace Mor. 37 Sure ne'er to w. them, mathematic truths N.A. 80 But apples we w., and apples we'll have P.A. 30 Earn if you w.; if you abound, impart P.E. 253 Ye w. but that to seem indeed divine R. 558 For w. of powers proportioned to the post R. 612 An idler is a watch that w, both hands R, 681 Faith, w. of common sense St. vi 22 Such w. it;—and that w., uncured St. vi 33 Feels not the w. that pinch the poor Trans. H. 10 That w. no driving and disdains the lead T.T. 134 "The remedy you w. I freely give T. 273 O blessed effect of penury and w. T. 361 No w. of timber then was felt or feared T. i 57 His w., indeed, are many; but supply T. i 597 The minister of man, to serve his w. T. ii 138 [773 Through w. of care; or her whose winking eye|T. ii Can he w. occupation who has these ? T. iii $359 \lceil 440 \rceil$ Her w. of care, screening and keeping warm T. iii Strange that so fair a creature should yet w. T. iii 725 Still w. a grace, the loveliest it could show T. iii 782 And labour too. Meanwhile ye shall not w. T. iv 424 To w. of judgment than to wrong design T. vi 657 With what intense desire he w. his home Tir. 562 Though w. of due restraint alone have bred Tir. 533'Twas negligence in him, not w. of worth T.T.681

WANTED

Now N. had a wife, and he w. but one A.T. ii 7 He w., for a wealthier to enjoy! T. iii 789 Firm as a rock. Nor w, aught within T, v 156 The still small voice is w. He must speak T, v 685 With problems. History not w. yet Y.O. 159

WANTING.

And w. him to loose the sacred seal Con. 544 There, w. nothing save a fan R.C. 17 But elbows still were w.; these, some say T. i 60 Of British natures, w. i's excuse T. v 481 Yet w. sensibility) the man T. vi 562 W. its proper base to stand upon T.T. 54

WANTON.

They sport like w. doves in airy rings A.T. 32 Religion curbs indeed its w. play Con. 595 They stretched the neck, and rolled the w. eye Ex. Who studies Nature with a w. eye R. 213 Too rudely w. with her bair R.C. 32 Play w., every moment, every spot T. i 349 Upon the w. breezes. Strew the deck T. ii 256 Grow w., and give proof to every eye T. ii 443 No loose or w., though a wandering Muse T. iii 692 And w. vagrants, as make London, vast T. iii 833 And w. in the pebbly gulf below T. v 103 The horse as w., and almost as fleet T. vi 330 But if Authority grow w., woo T.T. 226 Too apt to play the w. with her powers T.T. 301 To the lascivious pipe and w. song T.T. 462

Now w. lost in flags and reeds D.W.9

WANTONLY.

As to be w. incurred M.F. 34

WANTONNESS.

But w. and woe A Tale 76

And w., and gluttonous excess T. i 688 Of W., where vice was taught by rule T.T. 627

Forgetful of the glorious toils of w. A.T. 28 Whoever threatens w., to speak of peace Ch. 421 With all the guilt of such unnatural w. Con. 188 In peace possessing what they won by w. Ex. 193 Chaos of contrarieties at w. Ex. 295 W. lays a burden on the reeling state Ex. 306 Claimed all the glory of thy prosperous w. ? Ex. 347To w, with pleasure, idolized before Ex. 410 Or serves the champion in forensic w. Ex. 664Of an eternal, universal w. H. 648 And tumult, and intestine w. M.F. 48That brother should not w, with brother N.G. 29 That civil w. embitters all his life T. 468 W. and the chase engross the savage whole T. i 60$W. followed for revenge, or to supplant T. i 609 Of unsuccessful or successful w. T ii 4 Forgets in peace the injuries of w. T. ii 269 Of holy discipline, to glorious w. T. ii 348 Well may the Church wage unsuccessful ic. T. ii Some write a narrative of w, and feats T, iii 139 The tunult and am still. The sound of w, T, iv 100 Beneath one head for purposes of w. T. iv 666 [187 But w.'s a game which, were their subjects wise T. v Are sown the sparks that kindle fiery w. T. v 206 To a keen edge and made it bright for w. T. v 216 Thus w. began on earth: these fought for spoil T.v228 Was chosen leader; him they served in w. T. v 233Thus w. affording field for the display T. v 238 Wage w., with any or with no pretence T. v 314 Earth groans beneath the burden of a w. T. vi 392 And in their service wage perpetual w. T. vi 894See great commanders making w. a trade Tir. 821 Fierce, avaricious, proud, there must be $w.\ T.T.\ 10$ Glorious in w., but for the sake of peace $T.T.\ 278$ In all that w. against that title most T.T. 429 All are his instruments; each form of w. T.T. 446

WARBLER.

Will the sweet w. of the livelong night Con. 445 Ten thousand w. cheer the day, and one T. 200 And Sidney, w. of poetic prose T. iv 516 And every w. has his tune by heart T.T. 655

WARBLES. The redbreast w. still, but is content T. vi 78

By the nightingale w, nigh C, 12 And w. out his approbation N.G. 24 The w, of the blackbird, clear and strong R, 569 Birds w. all the music. We can spare T. i 764

WARDER.

The w. at the door his key applies H. 720

WARE.

A great retailer of the curious w. Con. 229 Full ten miles off, at W.-J.G. 152 And I should dine at W.''-J.G. 196 The show-glass fraught with glittering w. P.B. 24 Are there who purchase of the Doctor's w.? T.ii 360 WARFARE.

His w. is within. There unfatigued T. vi 935

WARILY.

W. therefore, and with prudent heed T. iii 470

WARLIKE.

And him in peace, for sake of w. deeds T. v 234

WARM. [A.T. 79] Lay snug and w.; -'twas Summer's farewell peep! Suppose (when thought is ir., and fancy flows Ch. 379

In language w. as all that love inspires Ch. 401 [63 Broad-cloth without, and a w. heart within E. iii Those curtains, that keep the room w. Gr. 37 A w. dispute once chanced to wage J.P. 3 In vain w. suns their influence shed Miss - 37 In youth immortal w. Miss - 78 In scarlet mantle w., and velvet capped M.P. 51 But w., and bright, and calm as May P.T. 10 And hides his hands to keep his fingers w. T. 148 Of w. encouragement, and in the eye T. i 695 I venerate the man whose heart is w. T. ii 372 His w. but simple home, where he enjoys T. iii 389 And ventilate and w. the swelling buds T. iii 426 Her want of care, screening and keeping w.T.iii 440 These on the w. and genial earth that hides T. iii 516 There blooms exotic beauty, w. and snug T. iii 568 Begs a w. office, doomed to a cold jail T. iii 820 Escapes unhurt beneath so w. a veil T. iv 332 [166 And all was moist to the w. touch; a scene T. v And History, so w. on meaner themes T. \vee 729 To frisk awhile, and bask in the w. sun T. vi 314 Supplies with w. activity and force T.T. 220 That verse, whatever fire the fancy w. T.T. 512 Elegant as simplicity, and w. T.T. 588[Tir. 444 Young heads are giddy, and young hearts are w. And keep him w. and filial to the last Tir. 894 Pay me for thy w. retreat Trans. iii 5 Whose worth deserves as w. a lay U. 3

The churches w., they would no longer hold Ch. 606 Well read, well tempered, with religion w. Con. 640 And, w. by the pressure, is all in a glow F.M. 8 Had we their wisdom, should we, often w. St. ii 25 W., while it lasts, by labour, all day long T. iv 377

WARMED.

Retires, content to quake, so they be w. T. iv 386 The charity that w. his heart was moved T. vi 498 WARMER.

With w. wishes sent Cast. 10 And fields without a flower, for w. France \bar{T} . ii WARMEST.

Saints offer nothing, in their w. prayers R. 221 Delusive most where w. wishes are T. i 542

WARMING.

W. his heart, should at his lips transpire? Con. 484 WARMLY.

That thou mightest know me safe and w. laid M.P. WARMTH.

Offer him w., security, and rest T. 252 Spin round upon her axle, ere the w. T. iii 491 The silence and the w, enjoyed within T, iv 310 Of flowers that feared no enemy but w. T. v 159 And has the w. of May. The vault is blue T. vi 62 Than Virtue quickens, with a w. divine T.T. 382

WARN. They w. and teach the proudest would they learn Prompt to persuade, expostulate, and w. Ex. 441And seem to w. him never to repeat H. 355 W. him or prompts, approves him or restrains P.E. May punish, if he please, the less, to w. T. ii 157

WARNED. He, therefore, timely w., himself supplies T. iii 439 WARNING.

To w., and teach him safely to unbend Tir. 608

I know the w. song is sung in vain Ex. 724Still need repeated w., and at last St. ii 26 But all are not alike. Thy w. voice Tir. 797 VARP.

And either w. or lays it useless by Con. 670 And w. the consciences of public men T. ii 691 Did pity of their sufferings w. aside T. iv 453 But not to w. or change it. We are his T. v 343 Can move or w.; and gratitude for small T. vi 629 Unless the sway of custom w. thy course Tir. 862

WARPED. The doctrines w, to what they never meant Con. The worst is—Scripture w. from its intent P.E. 437

And, w. into the labyrinth of lies Tir. 157 W. into tough knee-timber, many a load! Y.O. 99

WARRANT

Expedience as a w. for the deed? Ch. 183 Let slip with such a w. to destroy? T. ii 54 By regal w., or self-joined by bond T. iv 664 Can find no w. there. Feed then, and yield T. vi 456 WARRING.

Had bid defiance to the w. world Ex. 212

When the British w. queen B. 1 A veteran w. in the Christian field Con. 607 The sable w., frantic with regret Ch. 145 Made thee at last a w. like his own Ex. 491 No crested w. dips his plume in blood Her. 86 His host of wooden w, to and fro T, vi 266 Brings down the w. trophy to the dust T.T. 7

WARWICK.

Guy Earl of W. and fair Eleanore Con. 243

 \mathbf{WASH} .

Until he came unto the W.-J.G. 135 And there he threw the W. about J.G. 137 WASHED.

W. with a neatness scrupulously nice Ex. 149W. headlong from on board Cast. 4 W. by the sea, or on the gravelly bank T. i 13 If ever it has w, our distant shore T, i 656 The frequency of crimes has w, them white T, iii 71 The soil must be renewed, which often w. T. iii 609 The deluge w. it out; but left unquenched T. v. 209 The Rose had been w. (just w. in a shower) The Rose 1 WASP.

Like bottled w. upon a southern wall R. 494 Censorious, and her every word a w. T. 160

WASTE.

And w, them, as thy sword has wasted ours" Ch. 80 Neglected, leaves a dreary w. behind Comp. i 12 That after man's defection laid all w. Con. 752 Far from the flock, and in a boundless w. E. ii 42 [175 For them, the states they left made w, and void Ex. His anger who can w, thee with a word Ex. 341 [427 And praised the wrath that laid her beauties w. Ex. To w, thy life in arms, or lay it down Ex. 536 That thankless w, and wild abuse destroy Ex, 679 In scenes of plenty, or the pining w. Ex. 733 Whose prospect shows thee a disheartening w. H. In vain opinion's w. and dangerous wild H. 279 Piles up his stores amidst the frozen w. H. 475 These, amidst scenes as w. as if denied H. 538 Nor labour they, nor time nor talents w. H. 766 No pleasure! Has some sickly eastern w. P.E. 255 And feed the fire that w, thy powers away R. 264 Curling and whitening over all the w. R. 531 To w. unheard the music of his strains R. 548 To close life wisely, may not w. my own R. 808 The fruitful scenes and prospects w. S. 21 Die self accused of life run all to w.? St. ii 28 Sad w.! for which no after-thrift atones St. ii 29 Again life's dreary w. St. iii 6 And range an Indian w, without a tree T, i 261 Commits no wrong, nor w. what it enjoys T. i 334 The dreary w.; there spends the livelong day T. i 457 Exploring far and wide the watery w. T. i 665 On God's behalf, lays w. his fairest works T. ii 136 W. youth in occupations only fit T. ii 636 That w. our vitals; peculation, sale T. ii 668 Not w. it, and aware that human life T. iii 363 The effect of laziness or sottish w. T. iv. 431 [iv 573 Through pathless w. and woods unconscious once T.

The loaded soil, and ye may w. much good T. v 756 Would w. attention at the checker'd board T. vi 265 Thus idly do we w. the breath of praise T. vi 711 'Twere wild profusion all, and bootless w. Tir. 49 A childish w. of philosophic pains Tir. 76 [Tir.614 On moments squandered else, and running all to w. For loose expense and fashionable w. Tir. 204 Would deem it no abuse, or w. of pains Tir. 627 The post-horns of all Europe, lays her w. T.T. 32 To hear it called extravagance and w. T.T. 163 And w. it at the bidding of his hand T.T. 451

WASTED.

Thou that hast w. earth, and dared despise Ch. 69 And waste them, as thy sword has w.ours" To succour w. regions, and replace Ch. 129 Our w. oil unprofitably burns Con. 357 Time w., violated laws, abuse F.A. 14 Ten thousand swains the w. scene deplore Her. 39 Deplores the w. regions of her globe Her. 80 By our blood in Afric w. N.C. 41 Thus having w. half the day P.B. 11 Wilt Providence o'erlook the w. good? P.E. 223 Improve the remnant of his w. span R. 13 His w. spirits quickly, by long toil T. i 128 Whose only happy are their w. hours T. iv 225 Its w. tones and harmony unheard T. iv 480

WASTING.

W. towns, plantations, meadows N.C. 35 WATCH.

And in the silent w. of the night Con. 731 To w. the fountain, and preserve it clear Ex. 98 As soldiers w, the signal of command Ex. 119 The very children w. for thy disgrace Ex. 282Sees w., bracelelts, rings, and lockets P.B. 25 Must w. his purpose with a steadfast eye P.E. 577 Nor quits till evening w. his giddy stand R. 434 An idler is a w, that wants both hands R, 681 To w. you amorous couple in their play T. 136 W. your eye, anticipates command T. 214 The nurse sleeps sweetly, hired to w, the sick T, i With opera glass to w, the moving scene T, ii 453 The unguarded door was safe; men did not w. T.iv 559 Is made familiar, w. his approach T. v 423 W., seals, and all—till all his pranks are told Tir.331 And eyes the door, and w, a retreat Tir. 572But, w. they strictly, or neglect their charge? Tir W. his emotions, and control their tide Tir. 610 W. every beam Philosophy imparts T.T. 70

WATCHED.

She w. the gardener at his work R.C. 14 Nor less amused, have I quiescent w. T. iv 291

WATCHFUL.

Of lubbard Labour needs his w. eye T. iii. 400 WATCHING.

He reads the skies, and, w. every change Ch. 333 That night, by chance, the poet w. R.C. 77 Leaned on her elbow, w. time, whose course Y.O. 160

WATCHMAN.

Where the w. in his round St. iv 5 And, at the w.'s lantern borrowing light T. ii 654

WATCHWORD.

When the rude rabble's w. was -" Destroy!" T.T. WATER.

On rippling w. in an April day A.T. 24 Has filled his urn where these pure w. rise Ch. 436 Should flow like w. after summer showers Con. 705 The fragrant w. on my cheeks bestowed M.P. 62 Sighs must fan it, tears must w. N.C. 19 That w. all the nations O. i 6 Now in the w. and now out P. 10

Poisoning the w. where their swarms abound P.E. 481 So, fire with w. to compare Q.V. 17 The fall of w., and the song of birds R. 183 Nor view of w, turning busy mills R. 334 Then all the world of w. sleeps again R. 536 The foam upon the w. not so light T. 43 To drink sweet w. of the crystal well T. i 240 Rise not, the w. of the deep shall rise T. ii 143 That winds and w., lulled by magic sounds T. ii 261 Sought in still w., and beneath clear skies T. iii 382 Than w. interfused to make them one T. v 148His heart survived the w.; and ere long T. v 220 Rivers of gladness w. all the earth T. vi 763 Oft w, fairest meadows, and the bird T, vi 930 At her command winds rise and w. roar Tir. 25

WATERED.

Think on the fruitful and well w. spot Ex. 418 A people, planted, w., blest as they? Ez. 168 And w. duly. There the pitcher stands T. iv 775 WATERING.

In an old empty w. pot R.C. 16

WATERY.

Pure-bosomed as that w. glass Comp. ii 9 His passions, like the w. stores that sleep H. 183 With Pity's w. sight Miss — 76 And where the land slopes to its w. bourn N.A. 13 Soon w. grew her eyes and dim Q.V. 53 Exploring far and wide the w. waste T. i 665 Illumined every side; a w. light T. v 150

WAVE.

The stifling w. and then he sank Cast. 48 Soft airs and gentle heavings of the w. Ch. 127 The raving storm and dashing w. defies Con. 559 What ails thee, restless as the w, that roar Ex. 272Asked of the w, that broke upon his coast Ex, 572 I w. just now, for conversation's sake H. 436 Shed light, like a sun on the w. M.D. 14 That Britannia renowned o'er the w. M.D. 45 To the wild w., or wilder human breast P.E. 601 The sea-maid rides the w. Q.V. 70The w. o'ertake them in their serious play R. 157 The rising w. obey the increasing blast R. 532 All sunk beneath the w. R.G. 3Must plough the w. no more R.G. 36 The Nen's barge-laden w. St. i 2 And never w. his claim St. i 12 Lashed into foaming w., begins to roar T. 260 Man on the dubious w. of error tossed T. 1 Her Fancy followed him through foaming w. T. i 539 And they themselves once ferried o'er the w. T. ii 38 When did the w, so haughtily o'erleap T, ii 55 Which winds and w. obey, invades the shore T. ii 114 Gone with the refluent w, into the deep T, ii 120 The sport of every w.? No: none are clear T. ii 153 Snore to the murmurs of the Atlantic w.? T. iv 27 And make thy marble of the glassy w. T. v 131 With all his roaring multitude of w. T. v 766 "From the green w. emerging, darts an eye T. v 835 That the wind severs from the broken w. T. vi 156 Narrow and long, o'erlooks the western w. T. vi 484 To gaze in his eyes and bless him. Maidens w. T. vi 699 Whom Ocean feels through all his countless w. Tir.39 Prayer to the winds, and caution to the w. Tir. 183 WAVED.

And w, his rod divine, a race obscene T, ii 826 [313] Though faded; and the lands where lately w. \tilde{T} . iv WAVING.

Unnumbered branches w. in the blast T. i 188

WAVY.

Her fields, a rich expanse of w. corn Ex. 9 For grandeur or for use. Long w. wreaths T. v 158 WAX.

States thrive or wither, as moons w. and wane Ex. For England's glory, seeing it w. pale T. v 510 WAXEN.

On w. pinions soar without a fall A.T. 54

WAY.

In the w, of religion and truth A.S. 22 Where men of judgment creep, and feel their w. Con. Of Heaven's mysterious purposes and w. Ch. 58Walks arm in arm with Nature all his w. Ch. 314 By w. of wholesome curb upon our pride Con. 361 Did they not burn within us by the w.?" Con. 536 To supplicate his mercy, love his w. Con. 661 And chiefly when Religion leads the w. Con. 704 Serves, in a plain and homely w. E. i 3 Mysterious are his w. whose power E. i 29 Forbid in vain to push his daring w. Ex. 18 By night a fire, to cheer the gloomy w. Ex. 178 By w. of balm for healing F. 96 And Dick, although his w. was clear F.B. 22 Of distant wisdom shoots across his w. H. 94 Both may be lost, yet each in his own w. H. 277 Ethelred's house, the centre of six w. H. 302 Of all the w, that seem to promise fair H, 338 That sound bespeaks Salvation on her w. H. 455Has wept a silent flood, reversed his w. H. 519 On both sides of the w. J.G. 138 And all and each that passed that w. J.G. 239 Chilled more his else delightful w. Mor. 16 Drew me to school along the public w. M.P. 49 He trimmed his flight another w. P.B. 12 443 And meets with hindrance in the smoothest w. P.E. Himself a wanderer from the narrow w. P.E. 118 Remarks two loiterers that have lost their w. P.E.386 Where children would with ease discern the w.P.E434 If a wish wander that w., call it home P.E. 586 [450 And judgment drunk, and bribed to lose his w. P.E. Judge his own w., and sigh for a return P.E. 611 Those the long milky w. Q.V. 12 Conversant only with the w. of men R. 39 Wherever freakish Fancy points the w. R. 128 Of God, beneficent in all His w. R. 556 Curried his nag and looked another w. R. 590 [T. 17 Grace leads the right w.; if you choose the wrong And scorn, for its own sake, the gracious w. T. 37 Shows them the shortest w. to life and love T. 370 That even a judgment, making w. for thee T. ii 131 Entangled, winds now this w. and now that T. iii 2 Or baving long in miry w, been foiled T, iii 4 And winds his w, with pleasure and with ease T, iii In guilty splendour, shake the public w. T. iii 70 A thousand systems, each in his own w. T. iii 171 The w. to glory by miscarriage foul T. iii 506 But urged by storms along its slippery w. T. iv 127 Ere yet mortality's fine threads give w. T. v 578 He sets the bright procession on its w. T. vi 190 Their w. was on the margin of the land T. vi 495 And taught a brute the w, to safe revenge T, vi 559 In nooks obscure, far from the w. of men T. vi 842 Man yet mistakes his w. The Doves ? Your wisdom and your w.-to you I turn Tir. 812 A brood of asps, or quicksands in his w. Tir. 870 If hindrances obstruct thy w. Trans. H. 31 To turn the course of Helicon that w. T.T. 183 To turn a penny in the w. of trade T.T. 421 And every Muse attend her in her w. T.T. 619 To trace him in his word, his works, his w. T.T. 751 A thousand w, the force of genuine love V, 62

WAY-MARK.

To stand a w. in the road to bliss? P.E. 117

WAYSIDE.

By the w., or stalking in the path T. v 92

WAYWARD.

Nor he alone addressed the w. fair A.T.And when accomplished in her w. school Con.Free from the w. bias bigots feel P.E.Our w. intellect, the more we learn T. iii 236

WEAK.

The robber and the murderer w, as we? Ch, 68 Herself as w. as her support is strong Ch. 408 And prove too w. for so divine a theme Ch. 633 Credulous infancy, or age as w. Con. 225 W. and imperfect in all grace beside Con. 758 What web too w, to catch a modern brain? Ex, 629 O querulous and w.!—whose useless brain H. 29 W. and irresolute is man H.F. 1 Which served my w. thought for a guide M.D. 44 W. to perform, though mighty to pretend P.E. 15 By nature w., or viciously inclined P.E. 432 But which, when life at ebb runs w. and low R. 3 To your w. sight her telescopic eye T. 98 Too w. to struggle with tenacious clay T. 216 Mercy is infinite, and man is w. T. 294Sinful and w., in every sense a wretch T. 383 Fallen from her glory, and too w. to rise T. 480 The birthday of Invention, w. at first T. i 17 Too w. for those decisive blows that once T. ii 273 He stablishes the strong, restores the w. T. ii 343 Defective and unsanctioned, proved too w. T. ii 524 The w. perhaps are moved, but are not taught T. ii 566 And king in England too, he may be $w.\ T.\ v$ 337 [414 None but his steel approach them. What is w. T. iii While sloth seduces more, too w. to bear T. vi 105 How w. the barrier of mere nature proves Tir. 169 Proves that the mind is w., or makes it so T.T. 545

WEAKER.
To swallow much upon much w. proof Con. 722
Finds out his w. part H.F. 10
I see thee daily w. grow M. 6

WEAKEST.

To nourish pride, or turn the w. head T. 366

WEAKNESS.

Her wisdom seems the w of a child Ch. 423 That having proved the w, it should seem Con. 829 But age in spite of w. and of pain Ex. 25 Thy chaos order, and thy w. might Ex. 641 Business is labour, and man's w. such H. 19 Shall live exempt from w. and decay H. 752 From ostentation, as from w., free T. 25 Conscious of w. in its noblest powers R. 124 Even in the cradled w. of the world! T. v 286 Is w. when opposed; conscious of wrong T. v 372 By w., and hostility by love T. v 703 Be it a w., it deserves some praise Tir. 296

WEAL.

His ashes, where, and in what w or woe? T ii 519 Can dream them trusty to the general w. T. v 514

WEALTH. [Comp. i 4 No w. can bribe, no prayers persuade to stay Blessed with all w. can give thee, to resign Ch. 2.17 And prize them above pleasure, w., or praise Con.662 A despot big with power obtained by w., Ex. 370That proved a mint of w., a mine to Rome Ex. 523 And all at home is pleasure, w. and ease, Ex. 583 That w. within is ruin at the door Her. 76 Avarice in thee was the desire of w. J.T. 25His object chosen, w. or fame Mor. 27 Ask w. of Heaven, and gain a real prize R. 162 [140 From anxious thoughts how w, may be increased R. That appetite can ask, or w. provide R. 744 By w. or dignity, who dwells secure T. i 593 Such London is, by taste and w, proclaimed T, i 697 The w. of Indian provinces, escapes T. i 733 And tremble when I wake, for all the w. T. ii 31

Drained to the last poor item of his w. T. iii 784 Increase of power begets increase of w. T. iv 580 W. luxury, and luxury excess T. iv 581 His w., fame, honours, all that I intend Tir. 389 See w. abused, and dignities misplaced Tir. 815 In wisdom, w., in fortune, and in lies T.T. 469

WEALTHIER. He wanted, for a w. to enjoy! T. iii 789

Nor what a w. than ourselves may send T. iv 426

WEALTHY.

That fed the flocks and herds of w. Lot Ex. 419 Ye proud and w., let this theme Trans. i 25

WEANED.

Attachment never to be w. or changed T. vi 625 WEANING.

This second w., needless as it is Tir. 557

WEAPON.

He laughs, whatever w. Truth may draw H. 596 The gloomy clouds, find w., arrowy sleet T. v 140

WEAR.

Pray who would, or who could, w. spectacles then? That the Nose has had spectacles always in w, A.C. 11Our polished manners are a mask we w. Con. 166 Convicted once, should ever after w. E. iii 50 [629] Though Time will w. us, and we must grow old $\bar{C}on$. To vanquish lust, and w, its yoke no more Ex. 411. To fling his glories o'er the robe she w. H. 44 Thus things terrestrial w. a different hue H. 69 With wreaths like those triumphant spirits w. H. 166 A hat not much the worse for w. J.G. 183 But now w. crests of oven-wood instead N.A. 12 And all their deep impressions w, away P.E. 278Nature in all the various shapes she w. R. 193 Till his religious whimsy w. out him T. 90 His predecessor's coat advanced to w. T. 145 And one who w. a coronet and prays T. 378 And w, the bonds, than fasten them on him T, ii 36 Wew. it at our backs. There, closely braced T. ii 586 To him that w. it. What can after games T. ii 762 Of manners sweet as Virtue always w. T. ii 783 Is India free? and does she w. her plumed T. iv 28 To w. a tattered garb however coarse T. iv 416 As meal and larded locks can make him; w. T. iv 642Is still the livery she delights to w. T. iv 760 [v 511 And sickly, while her champions w. their hearts T. King was a name too proud for man to w. T. v 242 To w. out time in numbering to and fro T. v 425 Can w. it e'en as gracefully as she T. vi 986 [116 And praised for virtues that they scorn to w. T.T. Of Vanity, a wreath for self to w. T.T. 757 While Earth w. a mantle of snow W.N. 13

WEARER.

If valued by its w.'s worth 1789, 43

WEARIED.

Hackneyed in business, w. at that oar R. 1 The w. hireling finds it a release T. v 411So oft, and w. in the vain attempt T. v 628 Undaunted still, though w. and perplexed T.T. 366

WEARINESS.

To scourge him, w. his only blame Ch. 215 O w. beyond what asses feel H. 99 Which Idleness and W. beget R. 762 Their w.; and they the most polite T. ii 640

WEARING.

W. out life in his religious whim T. 89

WEARISOME. From all his w. engagements freed R. 513 That with its w. but needful length T. iv 2

WEARY. "Satiste of her, and w. of the same A.T. 105Murmuring and w. of our daily toil Ch. 221

Becomes not w. of attention M.F. 52 On whom he rests well pleased his w. powers R. 451 Recoil from w. life's best hour St. v 19 Fearless of wrong, reposed his w. strength T. i 15 Distressed the w, loins that felt no ease T, i 45 Though halt, and w. of the path they tread T. i 471 Till half their beauties fade; the w. sight T. i 510 Since Heaven would grow w. of a world T. ii 583

Themselves, perhaps, when w. they retreat H. 244

Society, grown w. of the load T. iv 498 Fatigued me, never w, of the pipe T, iv 706 His thousands, w. of penurious life T. v 319 Who lives, and is not w. of a life T. v 365 Who sleeps not, is not w.; in whose sight T. vi 226

Dismiss me w, to a safe retreat T, vi 1004

WEATHER. But just at eve the blowing w. A Fable 16 Our health, the w., and the news E. i 5 From what point blows the w. Trans. ii 9

WEATHER-BLEACHED. "His country's w, and battered rocks T. v 834

WEATHERED. The storms all w, and the ocean crossed) M.P.89WEATHERHOUSE.

Devised the $W_{\cdot,}$ that useful toy! T_{\cdot} 211

WEAVE.

Fancy shall w, a charm for my relief M.P. 18 And w, fresh garlands every day N. 19 You cottager, who w. at her own door T. 317 [306] The glassy threads with which the Fancy w. T. iv While every worm industriously w. Tir. 595 Religion w. for her, and half undressed T.T. 723

WEAVERS. But sedentary w. of long tales Con. 207

WEAVING.

To w. nets for bird-alluring fruit T iv 263.

WEB. Those flimsy w, that break as soon as wrought R. The w. of every scheme they have at heart Ex. 331 What w, too weak to catch a modern brain? Ex, 629 And winds his w. about the riveled leaves Tir. 596

WED. [scratches! A.T.iii3 Should John w. a score, Oh the claws and the Who danced with whom, and who are like tow. Con. 395 As woodbine w. the plant within her reach R. 229 Parks in which Art preceptress Nature w. R. 335 As if the poet, purposing to w. T.T. 554

WEDDED.

This history of a w. pair A Tale 11 "Though w. we have been J.G. 6 The comfort of the w. state M.F. 46 In w. love already blest N.Y.G. 11 Are w. thus, like beauty to old age T. iii 660 And press thy w. side The Doves 26

To-morrow is our w. day J.G. 9 Said John,-" It is my w. day J.G. 193

WEDGE.

And drive the w. in yonder forest drear T. v 43

WEDGED.

「ii 351 But hark—the Doctor's voice !—fast w. between T.

WEDLOCK.

That w, is not rigorous, as supposed A.T. 58 How simple w. fornication works A.T. 159

WEED. Pernicious w.! whose scent the fair annoys Com.

As richest soil the most luxuriant w.Ex.214[H.289]What parts the kindred tribes of w. and flowers? And Chloe from her garland picks the w. H. 293

(Oh cast them from thee!) are w., arrant w. H. 301
Can gather honey from a w. P.B. 36
Its patient drudges with dry chaff and w. R. 48 [154
Some shining pebbles, and some w. and shells R.
In shirt of hair, and w. of canvass dressed T. 81
Kills too the flowery w., where'er they grow T. 461
All hate the rank society of w. T. iii 670
Of orange, myrtle, or the fragrant w. T. iv 764
And we are w. without it. All constraint T. v 448
The laurels that a Cæsar reaps are w. T. vi 939
WEEDY.

He dips his bowl into the w. ditch T. i 241 I saw far off the w. fallows smile T. iv 316

WEEK.

Relate how many w. they kept their bed Con. 315 Teach him to fence and figure twice a w. P.E. 366 WEEKLY.

Their fleece his pillow, and his w. drawl H. 199 "Their w. dole of edifying strains T. v 646 The w. censor of a laughing Town V. 38

Small need of Prayer Book, or of priest, 1 w. A.T.

WEEP.
W. upon thy matchless wrongs B. 10 [206
The wretch that works and w. without relief Ch.

The wretch that works and w. without relief Ch. Why w, the Muse for England? What appears Ex. 1 Then wherefore w. for England? What appears Ex.30 Whose eye reverted w, o'er all the past H. 31 It were to w, that goodness has its meed J.T. 12 Perhaps a tear, if souls can w. in bliss M.P. 26 Petronius! all the Muses w. for thee P.E. 335 They shriek and sink, survivors start and w. R. 159 And w, a sad libation in despair R, 226 Will w, indeed, and heave a pitying grean T. 177 W. tears of joy, and bursts into a song T. 458 And such the reascent; between them w. T. i 327To distant shores, and she would sit and w. T. i 540 I see thee w., and thine are honest tears T. i 657 W. whon she sees inflicted on a beast T. ii 25 I think, articulate, I laugh and w. T. iii 198 And I can w., can hope, and can despond T. iii 811 Their kerchiefs, and old women w. for joy T. vi 700 Maria w.—the Muses mourn T.B. 61 To w. for the buds it had left with regret The Rosc 7

Where should the living, w. o'er his woes T. 435 WEIGH.

The vessel w., forsakes the shore A Tale 43 W. sunbeams, carve a fly, or spit a flea Ch. 354 Though Nature w. our talents, and dispense Con. 1 And if it w. the importance of a fly Con. 21 [366 That Heaven will w. man's virtues and his crimes H. W. the vessel up R.G. 25 And when I w. this seeming wisdom well T. iii 180

W, for a moment, classical desert Tir. 488 And w, the nations in an even scale T.T. 251 They only w, the heavier Y.D. 48

WEIGHED.

And w. down its beautiful head The Rose 4 The seeming virtue w. against the vice Ch. 457 [178 Were light, when w. against one smile of thine H. Or if the thought occurred not duly w. R. 454

WEIGHING.
W. them in the hollow of his hand Ex. 343

WEIGHT.

Owes all its w., like loaded dice, to lead Con. 302

It has indeed been told me (with what w. Con. 815

The partial balance, and deceitful w. Ex. 41

And Peace does nothing to relieve the w. Ex. 307

Forgetting its important w. F. 70

"He carries w.!" "He rides a race!" J.G. 115

But still he seemed to carry w. J.G. 129
And happiest he that groans beneath his w. R. 156
The w. of subjects worthiest of her care R. 678
And his importance of such w. R.C. 112
Of such magnitude and w. St. iv 22
Are such a dead, preponderating w. T. 354
Ponderous, and fixed by its own massy w. T. i 59
A w. of ignorance; in that, of pride T. iv 485
Deciduous, or its own unbalanced w. T. v 40
Indurated and fixed, the snowy w. T. v 98
They have their w. to carry, subjects theirs T.T. 175
WEIGHTY.

And understood too well the w. terms T. ii 477 Though solid, not too w. for his years Tir. 651

WELCOME.

And made so w. at their simple feast Con. 532

He laughed and trifled, made him w. there H. 685

Oh! w. now the sun's once hated light H. 736

Ow. guest, though unexpected here! M.P. 12

Then w. errors, of whatever size P.E. 283

When the glad soul is made Heaven's w. guest P.E.

'Tis done—he steps into the w. chaise R. 391

Then w. refuge, and a peaceful home T. 267

No slaves on earth more w. were than they T. 352

Is oft too w., and may much disturb T. ii 492 The w. call, conscious how much the hand T. iii 399 So let us w. peaceful evening in T. iv 41 I slight thee not, but make thee w. still T. iv 266 It long dolly feels grays w. stroke T. x 413, 5876

Its long delay, feels every w, stroke T. v 413 [876 Gods such as guilt makes w.; gods that sleep T. v Inoflensive, w. guest! Trans. iii 10

Must follow royalty, then w. ease T.T. 165
Might prove a w. gift, and touch thine heart V. 41
WELL. [564

Whose wisdom, drawn from the deep w. of life Con. The o'erflowing w. of Charity springs here! Ch. 366 My husband safe and w." J.G. 220 To drink sweet waters of the crystal w. T. i 240 Of dropping buckets into empty w. T. iii 189 Of nightshade, or valerian, grace the w. T. iv 757

WELLADAY.
Was—w., the title page was lost H. 428
WELL-BOUND.

Stamped on the w. quarto, grace the shelf T.T. 745 WELL-BRED. [T. iii 97

Transgress what laws they may. Well-dressed, w. And with a w. whisper close the scene! T. ii 413
WELL-CHOSEN.

W., and not sullenly perused T. iii 393

WELL-CONTRIVED.

Nor taste alone and w. display T. iii 603 WELL-DRESSED.

WELL-DRESSED. [97
Transgress what laws they may. W., well-bred T. iii
WELL-EQUIPAGED.

W., is ticket good enough T. iii 98

WELL-HAVENED.

Shoots into port at some w. isle M.P. 90
WELL-INFORMED.

The mind was w., the passions held T. ii 715 The w. philosopher Trans. H. 19

WELL-INTENTIONED.

However w. F. 198

WELL-JUDGING.

With a w. taste from above C. 34 WELL-KNOWN.

Against the w. duties of a friend E. iii 49 WELL-LINED.

His cap w. with logic not his own T. ii 737

WELL-MANAGED.

W. shall have earned its worthy price T. iii 800

WELL-POISED.

The w. lance that quivered at his side A.T. 144 WELL-PREPARED.

Diminutive, well filled with w. T. iii 513

WELL-ROLLED.

We tread the Wilderness, whose w. walks T. i 351

WELL-SPREAD.

Proud of his w. walls, he views his trees T. iii 408

WELLSPRING.

The stream that feeds the w. of the heart T.T. 380

WELL-STACKED.

The w. pile of riven logs and roots T. iv 444

WELL-TANNED.

With base materials, sat on w. hides T. i 51

WELL-WATERED

The Ouse, dividing the w. land T. i 323

WELL-WROUGHT.

To win no praise when w. plans prevail T.T. 157

WENS.

With prominent w. globose; till at the last Y.O. 66

WENT.

Than he with whom he w. Cast. 8 For them, the states to which they w. destroyed Ex. 'Twere vain inquiry to what port she w. Ch. 445 Sought their own village, busied as they w. Con. 509 He sowed the seeds of order where he w. Ex. 488 To bear it, suffered shame where'er he w. H. 587 Smack w. the whip, round w. the wheels J.G. 41 Away w. Gilpin, neck or naught J.G. 97 Away w, hat and wig J.G. 98 Away w. Gilpin—who but he? J.G. 113 And now, as he w. bowing down J.G. 121 Away w. Gilpin, out of breath J.G. 157 But to the house w. in J.G. 180 Away w. Gilpin, and away J.G. 209 W. Gilpin's hat and wig J.G. 210 Away w. Gilpin, and away J.G. 229 [42] W. postboy at his heels J.G. 230 And w, with his comrades the apples to seize P.A. Thus many a sad to-morrow came and w. M.P. 42 His noble heart w. pit-a-pat R.C. 79 Down w. the Royal George R.G. 11 [220 When Kempenfelt w. down R.G. 23 Once w. I forth, and found, till then unknown T. With one who left her, w. to sea and died T. i 538 How far he w. for what was nothing worth T. iv 238 Sorrow has, since they w., subdued and tamed T.vi 46 He journeyed; and his chance was as he w. T. vi 488 Right to his mark the monster w. T.B. 50 W. with him, and saw all the game he played? Tir.

WEPT. They w, the wrongs of honourable love A.T. 98No poet w. him; but the page Cast. 49 The prophet w. for Israel; wished his eyes Ex. 33 W. till all Israel heard his bitter cry Ex. 63 But w., and stamped, and smote his thigh, in vain Ex. Has w. a silent flood, reversed his ways H. 519 O'er Murray's loss the Muses w. M. ii 5 A long, long sigh, and w. a last adieu! M.P. 31 [786] Was sacred, and was honoured, loved, and w. T. ii Plaintive and piteous, as it w. and wailed T. iv 479

To bid the traveller, as he w. Trans. i 15

Drew the grey curtain of the fading w. Ch. 263 From East to W., no sorrow can be found Ex. 28 Till Sol, declining in the w. R.C. 62 Down to the rosy w., but kindly still T. iv 133 Methinks I see thee in the streaky w. T. iv 245 Kneels with the native of the farthest w. T. vi 811 WESTERN.

In some safe haven of our w, world Ch. 444 A w. bank's still sunny side Mor. 18 And thus the rangers of the w. world T. i 618 Of Portugal and W. India there T. iii 572 Narrow and long, o'erlooks the w. wave T. vi 484 Rock'd in the cradle of the w. breeze Tir. 44

WESTMINSTER.

At W., where little poets strive T.T. 506

WESTWARD.

Some eastward, and some w., and all wrong H. 281 Far hence to the w. I sailed M.D. 6

Looks to the w. from the dappled east T.T.706

WET.

Is w. with Anson's tear Cast. 52 The Rose 5 The cup was all filled, and the leaves were all w. Reports it hot or cold, or w. or dry Con. 386 Has flowed from lips w, with Castalian dews T. iii Births, deaths, and marriages, epistles w. T. iv 17 And w. his cheeks with sorrows not his own V. 66

A ram, the ewes and w., sad, addressed N.A. 82

Up-spouted by a w. in air Q. V. 19

WHAT-D'YE-CALL.

Good Mr. W. ? Y.D. 36

WHEATEN.

And had a hollow with a w. A Tale 35

His diet was of w. bread Ep. ii 13

WHEEL.

He heard the w. of an avenging God Ex. 57 If Business, constant as the w of time Ex. 604 Vicissitude w. round the motley crowd H. 17 That trend the circuit of the cistern w.!H.100 [652] And grinds his crown beneath her burning w.! H.Smack went the whip, round went the w. J.G. 41 The lumbering of the w. J.G. 232 And suns to come, as round they w. Miss - 101 If Tom be sober, and the w. well greased P.E. 439 On borrowed w. away she flies Q.V. 37 Furnishes always oil for its own w. R. 616 Incessant, clinking hammers, grinding w. T. i 231 Constant rotation of the unwearied w. T. i 368 Reiterated as the w. of time T. iii 626 And thundering loud, with his ten thousand w.? T. May turn the clod, and w, the compost home T, iii 637 Let fall the curtains, w. the sofa round T. iv 37 A sliding car, indebted to no w. T. iv 126 No rattling w, stop short before these gates T, iv To the clogged w.; and in its sluggish pace T. iv 345 The milldam, dashes on the restless w. T. v 102 And w, his throne upon the rolling worlds T, v 814

Hook disappointment on the puplic w. T.T. 146 WHEEL-FOOTED.

Or ere the w, of verse begin to roll T.T. 711

Haste, then, and w. away a shattered world T. vi823

This w. studying chair Gr. 9

WHEELING.

In volumes w, slow, the vapour dank T, iii 499 Declined the death, and w. swiftly round T. vi 518

WHEEL-WORN.

The chariots bounding in her w, streets Ex. 21

And w. in deeper gulfs than he Cast. 66

 $\mathbf{W}\mathbf{H}\mathbf{E}\mathbf{L}\mathbf{M}\mathbf{I}\mathbf{N}\mathbf{G}.$

Not long beneath the w. brine Cast. 13

WHELP.

The unfledged raven and the lion's w. T. vi 461

WHELPED.

Or, having w. a prologue with great pains T.T.536WHET.

O nauseous!--an emetic for a w.! P.E. 222 WHIFF.

Conducts the unguarded nose to such a w. T. iv 469

WHIM.

If he be silent, faith is all a w. Con. 853 To passion, interest, pleasure, w. resigned H. 212 The text that sorts not with his darling w. P.E. 446 Wearing out life in his religious w. T. 89

WHIMPER.

But poverty with most who w. forth T. iv 429

WHIMSY.

Till his religious w. wears out him T. 90 Which, crooked into a thousand w., clasp Y.O. 118 WHINE.

Can change their w, into a mirthful note T, i 583 WHINING.

Canting and w. out all day the word Con. 577 WHIP.

Begone! the w. and bell in that hard hand Ch. 212 Smack went the w., round went the wheels J.G. 41 And what if he did ride w, and spur M.F. 22 He brandishes his pliant length of w. T. iv 355 With sounding w., and rowels dyed in blood T. vi 527

WHIP-GIG.

The free republic of the w. state H. 190

WHIPPED.

The fruit of all her labour is w. cream T.T. 551 W. out of sight, with satire just and keen T.T. 640 WHIRL.

That w. away from business and debate R. 393 Or with vortiginous and hideous w. T. ii 102

WHIRLED.

With needless hurry w, from place to place T. iv 372

VHIRLING.

Thus braves the w. blast Miss - 34

WHIRLWIND.

Rushed with a w.'s fury on the foe A.T. 195 Till He that rides the w., checks the rein R. 535 Where his w. answer—"No" N.C. 40

WHISKERED.

Of our forefathers—a grave, w. race T. iii 768 Long backed, long tailed, with w. snout T.B. 35

[T. vi 317 WHISKS. Ascends the neighbouring beech; there w. his brush

WHISPER.

And w. your return N. 16 Whom I may w.—solitude is sweet " R. 742 Come, then—a still, small w. in your ear T. 297 As angels use, the Gospel w. peace T. ii 342 And with a well-bred w. close the scene! T. ii 413

WHISPERED. She w. still that he had naught to fear A.T. 182 Some w. softly, and some twanged aloud Ch. 518 His w. theme, dilated and at large Con. 273 Though w., plainly tell what works within H. 691

WHISPERING. And the w. sound of the cool colonnade P.F. 2

WHISTLE.

Die of disdain, or w. off the sound H. 348 While the winds w., and the snows descend T. iii 569 He w. as he goes, light-hearted wretch T. iv 12 Or only with a w. blessed T.B. 10

WHISTLING.

And w., as if unconcerned and gay R. 589

Crape and cocked pistol, and the w. ball T. iii 802 That as she sweeps him with her w. silks T. vi 941 WHIT.

Sir Airy, not a w. dismayed or scared A.T. 171 But yet his horse was not a w. J.G. 149

WHITE. [iv 123 Fringed with a beard made w, with other snows T. Dwells in w. and black the same N.C. 16 The frequency of crimes has washed them w. T. iii71

At the sword's point, and dyeing the w. robe T. iv 682Without a cloud, and w. without a speck T. vi 63 The lilac, various in array, now w. T. vi 157

A splintered stump bleached to a snowy w. Y.O. 128 WHITEN.

Each to his choice, soon w. all the land T. i 294

WHITENING.

Curling and w, over all the waste R, 531

WHITTLE.

The task was left to w, thee away Y.O. 104

WHOLE. "On the w. it appears, and my argument shows A.CA union with the vast terraqueous w. Ch. 122 A beautiful and perfect w. E. i 64

Must constitute the charming w. F. 59

They manifest their w. life through F. 112 Of him whom Hope has with a touch made w. H. 731 From the w. hog to be debarred L.W. 12

With a w. gamut filled of heavenly notes N.A. 26 To thy w. heart's desire? N.Y.G. 12 [65 Forecasts the future w.; that when the scene T. iii War and the chase engross the savage w. T. i 608

W. without stooping, towering crest and all T. iv 271 Though sickly samples of the exuberant w. T. iv 761 Where private was not? Can belove the w. T. v 503

Where kindness on his part, who ruled the w. T. vi 365 Their w. attention, and ape all his tricks Tir. 225 Have ye, ye sage intendants of the w. Tir. 265

Owe their repute in part, but not the w. Tir. 461

WHOLESOME. By way of w. curb upon our pride Con. 361 And breathing w. air, and wandering much T. i 589 But was a w. rigour in the main T. iii 82 But are not w, airs, though unperfumed T, iii 732 Of the infirm, is w. air to thee T. iv 365 A cheap but w. salad from the brook T. vi 304 But w., well digested; grateful some T. vi 1014 With w. learning, yet acquired with ease Tir. 118 With savoury truth and w. common sense Tir. 629 Let Discipline employ her w. arts T.T. 310 Rejoices with a w. fear Trans. H. 20

WHOREDOM.

[Tir. 833] Now flushed with drunkenness, now with w. pale

WICK. The little w. of life's poor shallow lamp T. iii 164 WICKED.

Prisons expect the w., and were built Ch. 280 What then? Were they the w. above all T. ii 150

WICKERWORK.

And on her w. high mounted A Fable 3

WIDE. T324 That Heaven spreads w, before the view of man Ch. As w. as the bridge of the Nose is; in short A.C. 15 His high-bred steed expands his nostrils w. A.T. 163 Immortal fragrance fills the circuit w. Ch. 439 Spreads w. her arms of universal love Ch. 596 And a w, ocean swallows both at last Comp, i 6 That theme exhausted, a w. chasm ensues Con. 393 And claim a right to scamper and run w. Con. 793 Some never seem sow. of their intent Con. 837

Saw Babylon set w, her two-leaved brass Ex.59And trident-bearing queen of the w. seas Ex. 275 [M.P. 103 Their gates w. open threw J.G. 120Sails ripped, seams opening w., and compass lost W. yawns a gulf beside a ragged thorn N.A.14And being lost, perhaps, and wandering w. N.A.97It falls at last, farw. of his design P.E. 575 [P.E. 281 The breach, though small at first, soon opening w. Entreated, opening w. his beak P.T. 19 With mouths made only to grin w. and eat R. 309 Like thy renowned forefathers, far and w. S. i 12 Now flashing w., now glancing as in play T. 242 Now scattered w., and nowhere to be found T. 394 There might ye see the peony spread w. T. i 35 Receding w., they pressed against the ribs T. i 65 Full on the destined ear. W. flies the chaff T. i 359 Exploring far and w, the watery waste T, i 665 [567 The spark of life. The sportive wind blows w. T. i With such artillery armed. Vice parries w. T. ii 810 Have rambled w. In country, city, seat T. iii 14 And spreading w, their spongy lobes, at first T, iii 522 The toiling steeds expand the nostril w. T. iv 347 W. scampering, snatches up the drifted snow T. v 49 That in its fall the liquid sheet throws w. T. v 106 In that blest moment Nature, throwing w. T. v 891 The jasmine, throwing w. her elegant sweets 7'. vi 173 Then perish on futurity's w. shore Tir. 83 Mankind are various, and the world is w. Tir. 788 If thou desert thy charge, and throw it w. Tir. 887 Achieved a labour which had, far and w. Y.O. 108

WIDE-ELBOWED.

W., and wadded with hair Gr. 11

WIDER.

But man, within a w. pale enclosed A.T. 58 Shall a w. world command B. 28 Opening and w. opening on her view T.T. 265

WIDE-SCATTERED. One falls—the rest, w. with affright St. ii 23

WIDE-WANDERING.

And chills and darkens a w. soul T. v 684

WIDOW.

But now alike, gay w., virgin, wife R. 519

WIDOWED.

This w. heart would break " The Doves 36

WIELD. [T. iii 636] Is needful. Strength may w. the ponderous spade Who never saw the sword he could not w. Con. 608 Denies the power that w. it. God proclaims T. ii 178 The cheerful haunts of man; to w. the axe T. v 42 Great purposes with ease, that turns and w. T. v 252

WIELDED.

That having w. th' elements, and built T. iii 170

WIFE

For husband there and w. may boast A Tale 5
Made half their maids, sans coremony, w. A.T. 128
Now N. had a w., and he wanted but one A.T. ii 7
John Gilpin kissed his loving w. J.G. 29
[ii 10
For a man to make free with another man's w. A.T.
At Edmonton, his loving w. J.G. 141
If w. should dine at Edmonton J.G. 195
Wooed an unfeeling statue for his w. P.E. 528
But now alike, gay widow, virgin, w. R. 519
[656
W. beggar husbands, husbands starve their w. T. ii
Thy waggon is thy w., and the poor beasts T. iv 367
He gives the princely bird, with all his w. T. iv 449
"'Tis then I feel myself a w. The Doves 25
Then turning, he regales his listening w. Tir. 324
Or hadst thou a polite, card-playing w. Tir. 743
Should carve himself a w. in gingerbread T.T. 555

WIG. [A.C. 6]
With a great deal of skill, and a w. full of learning
Away went hat and w. J.G. 98
My hat and w. will soon be here J.G. 175
Whence straight he came with hat and w. J.G. 181
A w. that flowed behind J.G. 182
Went Gilpin's hat and w. J.G. 210
With w. prolix, down flowing to his waist Tir. 361
WIG-WEAVER.

Indebted to some smart w.'s hand T. iv 543

CII W

To pathless w and unfrequented plains A.T. 26 [53] And promised they should act the w. goose part A.T."To distant w. in quest of other game A.T. 106 As hedgerows in the w. A Tale 8 With fragrant turf, and flowers as w. and fair Ch. The w. assassins start into the street Ch. 507 With many a w., indeed, but flowery spray Ch.629And w. as madness in the world's esteem Con. 666 Was still a w. Jack hare Ep. ii 8Thy mariners explore the w. expanse Ex. 290 That thankless waste and w. abuse destroy Ex.679Stubborn and sturdy, a w. ass's colt H. 182 In vain opinion's waste and dangerous w. H. 279 If w. in nature, and not duly found H. 296 W. as if nature there, void of all good H. 540 [618 The strange conceits, vain projects, and w. dreams H. Or a w, goose at play J.G. 140 W. roses over farrowed ground Mrs. M-28 That serve mankind, or shun them, w. or tame N.A. Hark! He answers-W. tornadoes N.C. 33 Like a neglected forester, runs w. P.E. 362 No w. enthusiast ever yet could rest P.E. 470 To the w. wave, or wilder human breast P.E. 601 And lovers, of all creatures, tame or w. R. 251 Then neither heathy w., nor scenes as fair R. 331 W. without art, or artfully subdued R. 416 With woodbine and w, roses mantled o'er R, 420 'Tis w. good nature's never failing lot R. 582 And w, familiar with a lion's roar R. 779 O'ertop the lofty wood that skirts the w. T. i 558 Intoxication and delirium w. T. ii 510 The laity run w.— But do they now? T. ii 572 Me oft has Fancy, ludicrous and w. T. iv 286 [116 The sunbcam; there, embossed and fretted w. T. v Confederacy of projectors w. and vain T. v 194 To mix her w. vagaries with thy laws T. v 873 [337 Though w. their strange vagaries, and uncouth T. vi Infatuates, and through labyrinths and w. T. vi 103 Within the confines of their w. domain T. vi 407 'Twere w. profusion all, and bootless waste Tir. 40 His w. excursions, window-breaking feats Tir. 228 The pert made perter, and the tame made $w.\ Tir.\ 345$ Their offspring, left upon so w. a beach Tir. 802 And Liberty, preserved from w. excess T.T. 316 Of w, imagination, and there reeled T.T. 605 In w, disorder, and unfit for use T, ii 803 [T, T, 696 And charms the woodland scenes, and w. unknown Long since, and rovers of the forest w. Y.O. 125

WILDER.

To the wild wave, or w. human breast P.E. 601 WILDERNESS.

We tread the W., whose well-rolled walks T. i 351 Oh for a lodge in some vast w. T. ii 1
The rest appears a w. of strange T. iv 78
And makes the world the w. it is T. vi 53
The beauties of the w. are his T. vi 186
The w. is theirs with all its caves T. vi 401
Their mind a w. through want of care H. 233
Before them, and behind a w. Her. 58
With flower and fruit the w. supplies Tir. 27

WILDEST.

The w. project of her teeming brain A.T. 57 The w. wind that blows N. 6 The w. scorner of his Maker's laws Tir. 55

WILDFOWL.

W. or venison, and his errand speeds T. iv 612
WILDLY. [H. 517

The wretch, who once sang w., danced and laughed Where beckening Pleasure leads them w.stray $Ex\ 464$

WILES.

Rejects all treaty, penetrates all w. H. 649 And pleasure's fatal w.? O. ii 9

WILFUL.

Your w. suicide on God's decree T. 20

WILFULLY.

His sheltering side, and w. forewent T. vi 40 While self-betrayed, and w. undone Tir. 171

WILL.

May rove at w., where appetite shall lead A.T. 60 And Vengeance executes what Justice w. Ch. 82 Or if the w, and sovereignty of God Ch. 165 And bends the tough materials to his w. Ch. 464 As bastions set point blank against God's w. Con. 688 Thus Martha, even against her w. E. i 43 That hard by nature, and stubborn w. E. ii 21 E'en as his w, and his decrees ordain Ex, 325 Doing and suffering, his unquestioned w. Ex. 645 Held by the tenure of his w. alone Ex. 673I perched at w. on every spray G. 4 Compliance with his w. your lot ensures H. 326 And sore against his w. J.G. 158 Thy sight now seconds not thy w. M. 15 Agents of his w, to use? N.C. 32 Free in his w, to choose or to refuse P.E. 25 Enslaves the w., nor leaves the judgment free P.E. The W. made subject to a lawless force P.E. 448 By his good w. would keep us single P.T. 32 Bend the straight rule to their own crooked w. P.E. Resign our own and seek our Maker's w. R. 130 His mind his kingdom, and his w. his law T. 406 His w. and judgment at continual strife T. 467 [551 When the great Sovereign would his w. express T. The total ordinance and w. of God T. i 743 And manifold results, into the w. T. ii 164 Formed for his use, and ready at his w. ? T. ii 202 Whose freedom is by sufferance, and at w. T. v 363 His strength to suffer, and his w. to serve T. v 902 Baffled his rider, saved against his w. T. vi 520 Framed for the service of a free-born w. Tir. 8 Appointed sage preceptor to the W.—Tir. 32

WILLIAM.

Had fled from W., and the news was fresh T. vi 660 They dream of little Charles or W. graced Tir. 360

WILLING. [2

My soul should yield thee w, thanks and praise Ch. Nor set a price upon a w, heart H. 337 Drops the red vengeance from his w, hand T. 278

WILLINGLY.

I will obey, not w. alone M.P. 15

WILLOW.

We pass a gulf in which the w. dip T. i 238 And of a wannish grey; the w. such T. i 309

WIN.

Sounds not arms shall w, the prize B. 23 And w, mankind, as his attempts prevail Ch. 335 The graces of a life that w, the skies Ex. 112 The fast that w, deliverance, and suspends Ex. 406 Lavish of life, to w, an empty tomb Ex. 522 Shall w, my confidence again F. 190 But pleasure w, his heart H. F. 12

No bribes the heart can w. Miss-Successful there, he w. a curse Mor. 48 To w. due credence to what follows next N.A. 72 W. in return an answer of disdain R. 228 And woo and w. thee to thy proper good R. 256 W. no notice, wakes no fears St. iv 20 In foreign eyes! - be grooms, and w. the plate T. ii Pleasure's call attention w. St. iv 25 He that would w. the race, must guide his horse In science, w. one inch of heavenly ground T. 338 Though apt, yet coy, and difficult to w. T. ii 289 The hope of better things, the chance to w. T. iii 828 And w. them, but to lose them in his turn T. iv 63 It knew not once, the country w. me still T. iv 694 W. public honour; and ten thousand sit T. vi 633 And w. it with more pain. Their blood is shed T. v 719 But he may boast, what few that w. it can T. vi 974 Shall w. his heart, and have his drunken praise Tir.215 And small academies w. all the praise? Tir. 504 That anything but vice could w. thy love Tir. 742 Will w, her visits or engage her stay T.T. 411 [157 Tow. no praise when well-wrought plans prevail T.T. WINCE.

Some fretful tempers w, at every touch Con, 325

WIND.

But suddenly a w., as high A Fable 10

Ye w. that have made me your sport A.S. 33 "And flutters loose, the sport of every w. A.T. 102 And scudded still before the w. Cast. 24 Sweet stream that w. through garden glade Comp. Where'er it w., the salutary stream Con. 893 [iii 60] While you, my friend, whatever w. should blow E. Whom the w, waft where'er the billows roll Ex. 19 Sighs unregarded to the passing w. Ex. 30 [F.A. 6 Thus, while gray evening lulled the w. and called The w. did blow, the cloak did fly J.G. 101 Refreshes, where it w., the faded green J.T. 39 The wildest w. that blows N. 6 Could I believe, that w. for ages pent N.A. 85 By all the w.'s that blow O. i 16 Wherever driven by w, or tide P, 53 Sent us a w. to parch us at a blast? P.E. 256 [333 Down, down the w., she swims, and sails away P.E. Like thistle-seeds, are sown by every w. P.E. 555 The w. play no longer and sing in the leaves P.F.3 The w., of late breathed gently forth P.T. 50 Ranges at liberty, and snuffs the w. R. 630 Exposed her too much to the w. R.C. 26 The ruffling w., scarce conscious that it blew T. The tone of languid Nature. Mighty w. T. i 183 Brushed by the w. So sportive is the light T, i 345 The spark of life. The sportive w. blows wide T. i 567 W. from all quarters agitate the air T_i i 373 [ii 53] To preach the general doom. When were the w. T. Not by a mighty w., but by that voice T. ii 113 Which w. and wavesobey, invades the shore T. ii 114 In tempests; quits his grasp upon the w. T. ii 181 That w. and waters, lulled by magic sounds T. iii 261 Entangled, w. now this way and now that T. iii 2 And w, his way with pleasure and with ease T. iii 10 Like the fair flower dishevelled in the w. T. iii 262 Impervious to the w. First he bids spread T. iii 475 While the w. whistle, and the snows descend T. iii 569 Few self-supported flowers endure the w. T. iii 657 Raging abroad, and the rough w., endear T. iv 309 That crowd away before the driving w. T. v 3 \ 554 The process. Heat and cold, and w. and steam T. iii Can w. around him, but he casts it off T. v 736 [142 Storms rise to o'erwhelm him; or if stormy w. T. ii As the w. sways it, has yet well sufficed T. vi 73 Barren as lances, among which the w. T. vi 142 That the w. severs from the broken wave T. vi 156 The vale of Nature, where it creeps and w. T. vi 721

For He, whose car the w. are, and the clouds T. vi740 When piping w. shall soon arise T.B. 17 [vi 831 Worms w. themselves into our sweetest flowers T. And something in the w. T.B. 39 Soft as the passing w. The Doves 38 [Y.O. 125 Thine arms have left thee. W. have rent them off At her command w. rise and waters roar Tir. 25 Prayer to the w., and caution to the waves Tir. 183 And w. his web about the riveled leaves Tir. 596 Shifted the w. that raised it, and it fell T.T. 387 Snuffs up the w. and flings himself abroad T.T. 669 To the four-quartered w., robust and bold Y.O. 98

WIND-GUN.

Proves after all a w.'s airy charge Con. 274

WINDING

W. a secret or an open course Ch. 369
The w. of the stream D.W. 28
Taking my lonely w. walk, I mused F.A. 8
Can trace her mazy w. to their end P.E. 16
Those w. modestly a silent course R. 78
The sound shall run along the w. vales R. 363
The dash of ocean on his w. shore T. i 186
The w. of my path through many years T. vi 18

WINDOW.

The open w. seemed to invite F.B.Up flew the w. all J.G.And, turning from my nursery w., drew M.P.If breaking w. be the sport Pat.From every w., and the fields are green R.

WINDOW-BREAKING.

His wild excursions, w. feats Tir. 228

WINDSOR.

Such freedom is;—and W.'s hoary towers Ex. 596 And Cobham's groves, and W.'s green retreats R. 571

WINDY.

While morning kindles with a w. red R. 432 He gulps the w. diet, and ore long T. v 269

WINE.

When w. has given indecent language birth Con. 263
And for that w. is dear J.G. 26 [377
The Saviour's feast, his own blest bread and w. Ex.
W. has no taste, and beauty has no charms H. 705
"The w. is left behind!" J.G. 60
Down ran the w. into the road J.G. 125
Which shook Belshazzar at his w. Q.V. 51
Those humours, tart as w. upon the fret R. 761
As leanest land supplies the richest w. T. 364 [808
Their points obtuse, and feathers drunk with w.! T. ii

WING.

Oh! had I the w. of a dove A.S. 19 Borne far away on elevated w. A.T. 31On all the w, of chivalry advanced A.T. 149 Armed with thunder, clad with $w.\ B.\ 27$ I only kissed his ruffled $w.\ B.R.\ 19$ To w. all her moments at home C. 50 'Tis e'en as if an angel shook his w. Ch. 438 On all the w. of holiday delight) Ch. 548 Like angel-heads in stone with pigeon w.? Con. 576 Unless, when rising on a joyful w. Con. 716 Themselves secured beneath the Almighty w. Ex. That balances the w. of every hour Ex.321Now borne upon the w. of truth sublime Ex. 466 That flutter loose on golden w. F.B. 8On steady w, sails through the immense abyss H. 'Tis Heaven, all Heaven, descending on the w.H. 732 And while the w, of fancy still are free M.P. 118 Compose their useless w. N. 2 On eager w. the spoiler came P.B. 5 For though, ere yet the shaft is on the $w.\ P.E.\ 572$ With golden w. and satin pole P.T. 27

And after poising her adventurous w. R. 671That leave no stain upon the w. of time R. 800 And soaring on her own unborrowed w. T. 488 [135] That spreads his motley w, in the eye of noon T, iii Milton, whose genius had angelic w. T. iii 255 Riches have w., and grandeur is a dream T. iii 263 The w, that waft our riches out of sight T, iii 760 That at the sound of Winter's hoary w. T, iii 830 Time, as he passes us, has a dove's $w.\ T.$ iv 211 The feathered tribes domestic. Half on w. T. v 62 For he has w, that neither sickness, pain T, v 771 Who gives its lustre to an insect's w. T. v 813 That flutters least is longest on the w. T. vi 931 Oh thou, whom, borne on fancy's eager w. Tir. 131 Safe under such a w., his boy shall show Tir. 684Thither he w. his airy flight Trans. ii 14 For such a pair of w. as thine Trans. ii 35 Spread little w., and rather skip than fly T.T. 579 WINGED

The w. mansion move A Tale 50 [746 Flies, w. with joy, to some coach-crowded door Tir. With self-indulgence w. the fleeting hours Ex. 71 He walks, he leaps, he runs—is w. with joy T. i 443

WINK.

Too just to w., or speak the guilty clear " Ex. 256 W. hard, and talks of darkness at noonday P.E. 451 Nor slept a single w., or purred R.C. 75 To follow foolish precedents, and w. Tir. 255

WINKING.

Through want of care; or her whose w. eye T. ii 773 WINNOW.

"Your office is to w. false from true H. 417

WINTER. As ever swept a w. sky A Fable 11 But W., armed with terrors here unknown H. 473 Eternal w. doomed to know Miss — 35 Old w., halting o'er the mead N. 13 It chanced then on a w. day P.T. 9
I fear we shall have w. yet" P.T. 25 When W, scaks the fields, and female feet T. 215 Go, bid the w. cease to chill the year T. 399 Whose arm this twentieth w. I perceive T. i 145 All summer long, which w. fills again T. i 329 Or when rough w, rages, on the soft T. iii 31 And hence even W. fills his withered hand T.iii 428 Of churlish W., in her froward moods T. iii 433 Not so when w. scowls. Assistant Art T. iii 541 Ficoides, glitters bright the w. long T. iii 579 [581 The w.'s frown, if screened from his shrewd bite T. iii That at the sound of W.'s hoary wing T. iii 830 O W., ruler of the inverted year T. iv 120 Is W. hidecus in a garb like this? T. iv 194 To w., and the current in his veins T. iv 388 The armoury of W.; where his troops T. v 139 The night was w. in his roughest mood T. vi 57 Defies the check of w., haunts of deer T. vi 110 Of unprolific w. has impress'd T. vi 138 He marks the bounds which W. may not pass T. vi Though w. had been none, had man been true T. vi 256 He has outslept the w., ventures forth T. vi 313 There shall he learn, ere sixteen w. old Tir. 210 And thrice in every w. throngs thine own Tir. 747 Thine endures the w. long Trans. iii 22 If W. bellow from the north Trans. H. 22 W. invades the spring, and often pours T.T. 210 Place me where W. breathes his keenest air T.T. 294 And w, is decked with a smile W.N, 4 And the w. of sorrow best shows W.N. 23 Since which I number threescore w. past Y.O. 3

A conflagration, or a w. flood Ch. 465

The rudiments should sleep the w. through Y.O. 23

WINTRY.

Whose wit can brighten up a w. day Con. 581
Through w. rigours unimpaired endure Con. 650
Would age in thee resign his w. reign H. 33
Wait but the lashes of a w. storm H. 185
In w. age to feel no chill M. 42
Aware of w. storms M.B. 6
With which the fieldfare, w. guest, is fed N.A. 20
The snowy robe her w. state assumes R. 195
The rude inclemency of w. skies T. 138
Thrown up by w. torrents roaring loud T. i 14 [552
With summer fruits brought forth by w. suns T. iii
Bestrides the w. flood, in which the moon T. iv 3
Makes w. music, sighing as it goes T. vi 143
Of w. blasts; the loftiest tower Trans. H. 14
A w. figure like a withered thorn T.T. 725

WIPED. [Rose 19]
And the tear that is w. with a little address The WIPES.

He w, and scours the silver cup in vain Ex. 385 One w, his nose upon his sleeve Y.D. 41

WIRE.

A pass between his w. F.B. 18
With w. and catgut he concludes the day P.E. 126
With limbs of British oak, and nerves of w. R. 311
Not rough with w. of steel or brass T.B. 26 [607
And dizzy with delight, profaned the sacred w.T.T.

WIRY.

Soon passed the w. grate G. 12

WISDOM.

Might learn from the w. of age A.S. 23 The path of w., all whose paths are peace Ch. 162 Drinks w. at the milky stream of light Ch. 319 What human w. cannot but oppose Ch. 340 Makes w., worthy of the name, his own Ch. 350 Though W. hail them, heedless of her call Ch. 406 Her w. seems the weakness of a child Ch. 423 And, Truth and W. gracing all he said Con. 526 Whose w., drawn from the deep well of life Con. 564 Their w. bursts into this sage reply Con. 877 "Keep w., or meet vengeance in your turn! Ex. Know then, that heavenly W. on this ball Ex. 314 Their w, pure, and given them from above Ex. 442 W. and Goodness are twin-born, one heart Ex. 634 Of passed experience, and the w. gleaned F.A. 2 This w., and but this, from all the past? F.A. 12 Of distant w. shoots across his way H. 94 His names of w., goodness, power, and love H. 135 The plough of w. never entering there H. 234 But while they speak the w. of the skies H. 768 The praise of w., comeliness, and worth P.E. 295 And W. falls before exterior grace P.E. 418 But they whom Truth and W. lead P.B. 35 More years and w. than the most P.T. 18 True w, will attend his feeble call R. 33 Truth, w., grace, and peace like that above R. 163 Give Truth a lustre, and make W. smile R. 718 [557 Graced with such w., how would beauty shine! R. Had we their $w_{\cdot \cdot}$, should we, often warned St_{\cdot} ii 25 Of all that W. dictates this the drift T. 513 Their fortitude and w. were a flame T. 531 That self-renouncing w., learned before T. 568 Of w., proves a school in which he learns T. i 614 To Athens or to Rome, for w. short T. ii 536 [793 Than they themselves by choice, for w.'s sake T. ii Is oft-times proof of w., when the fault T. iii 39 And when I weigh this seeming w, well T, iii 180 By strides of human w. In his works T. iii 222 Such was thy w., Newton, childlike sage! T. iii 252 The growing seeds of w.; that suggest T. iii 302But w, is a pearl with most success T, iii 381 The logic, and the w., and the wit T. iv 32 It seems the part of w., and no sin T. iv 336

In w., and with philosophic deeps T. v 297 Except what w. lays on evil men T. v 449 And in the school of sacred w, taught T, v 797 But runs the road of w. Thou hast built T. v 849 Knowledge and w. far from being one T. vi 90 W. in minds attentive to their own T. vi 91 The mere materials with which w. builds T. vi 93 W. is humble that he knows no more T. vi 98 Deceive no student. W. there and truth T. vi 114 Deserving honour, but for w. more T. vi 491 Who in his sovereign w, made them all T, vi 587 Seldom, and never but as W. prompts T. vi 849 The w. of great nations, now no more Tir. 16Brings into doubt the w. of the skies Tir. 72 Proofs of the w. of the all-seeing mind Tir. 94 He too might make his author's w. clear Tir. 100 Your w. and your ways—to you I turn Tir. 812 Learn w, and repentance ere too late " T.T. 437 In w., wealth, in fortune, and in lies T.T. 469 Fails not, in virtue and in w. laid Y.O. 121 With love and w, rendered back to Heaven Y.O. 154

For the court did not think they were equally w. The hand of the Supremely W.-E. i 34 Some she would teach (for she was wondrous w. A.T.W. to promote whatever end he means Ch. 87 [iv 1 I have read the Review; it is learned and w. A.T. He reads w. lectures, and describes aloud Ch. 389 His w. forbearance has their end in view Con. 33 Of w. reflection and well-timed discourse Con. 388 And she may now be as discreet and w. Con. 805 But let the w. and well-instructed hand Con. 903 Once on a time an Emperor, a w. man E. iii 46 Meek, modest, venerable, w., sincere Ex. 620 Nor is it w. complaining F. 33 Too many, yet too few to make us $w.\ H.\ 26$ To read w. lectures, vanity the text $H.\ 107$ And truth, proposed to reasoners w, as they H. 258 "Is still found fallible, however w. H. 422 'Tis here the folly of the w.~H.F.~13"Some people are more nice than w. M.F. 20Come, then, fair maid (in nature w.) MissLead to the bliss she promises the \dot{w} . P.E. 73 [466] Thou fountain at which drink the good and w. P.E. But he, not w. enough to scan St. v 5 Not many w., rich, noble, or profound T. 337 And never checked by what impedes the w. T. 373 May yet be foul; so witty, yet not w. T. i 728 And arbitration w, of the Supreme T, ii 165 There we grow early grey, but never w. T. ii 633 The rest are sober dreamers, grave and $w.\ T.\ iii\ 137$ Keen enough, w. and skilful as thou art T. iii 207 To him that leads it, w., and to be praised T. iii 380 And w. precaution, which a clime so rude T. iii 431 And oftatlast in vain. The learned and w. T. iii 562But war's a game which, were their subjects w. T.v 187 Sterling, and worthy of a w. man's wish T. v 358 And we too w, to trust them. He that takes T, v 496 From fool to w., from earthly to divine T. v 696 The praise bestowed was just and $w. Th. 13 \mid Tir. 811$ Who, w. yourselves, desire your sons should learn That taught of God they may indeed be w. Tir. 107 W. for himself and his few friends alone Tir. 675 No few, that would seem w., resemble her Tir. 796 Designed by Nature w., but self-made fools Tir. 837Born from above and made divinely w. V. 94

WISELY.

That Solomon has w. spoken E. i 105 But w. seeks a more convenient friend R. 443 As w., and as much improves his powers R. 508 To close life w., may not waste my own R. 808 And having spoken w., at the close T. ii 442 The seed, selected w., plump, and smooth T. iii 511 Charm the deaf serpent w. Make him hear T. v 671 Of the poor brute, seems w. to suppose T. vi 437 And w. store the nursery by degrees T: 117

WISER.

But goes the male? Far w., he A Tale 47
Should w. be, than to pursue Beau 3
And w. men's ability, pretence Con. 628
And did they dream, and art thou w. now? Ex. 632
Some w. rule must teach him how to live H. 600
And learned in future to be w. P.T. 60
Up!—God has formed thee with a w. view R. 265
Mix with the world, but with its w. part R. 275
Not only in our w. race R.C. 22
Crack the satiric thong? 'Twore w. far T. iii 26
Would urge a w. suit than asking more T. vi 56
And Learning w. grow without his books T. vi 87
Nor deems he w. him, who gives his vow T. vi 278
Would turn our steps into a w. train Tir. 260
'Twere w. sure to inspire a little heart Tir. 454

WISEST.

Best for the public, and my w. part Con. 870 I hold it therefore w. and most fit N.A. 103 What obvious truths the w. heads may miss! R. 458 The w. and the best feel urgent need T. ii 483 The w. heads might agitate in vain Tir. 130

A w. or a thought after me? A.S. 38 With warmer \bar{w} , sent Cast. 10 [137] But ah! what w. can prosper, or what prayer Ch. Their peevish hearers almost w. they had Con. 324 If he w. to instruct, he must learn to delight F.M. 17 Dwells there a w. in such a breast Miss With sole—that's just the sort he would not w. Con. Whate'er you w. or love Miss - 96 [M.P. 81 No virtuous w. can bear a date Mor. 57 Might one w. bring them, would I w. them here? To w, thee fairer is no need N.Y.G. 5 There dwells some w. in every heart N.Y.G. 15 That w. on some fair future day N.Y.G. 17 I w. it all fulfilled N.Y.G. 20 To w, myself the rock I view P. 29 Much more in behalf of your w, might be said P.A. I only w. 'twould come Pat. 2 A rope! I w. we patriots had Pat. 21First w. to be imposed on, and then are P.E. 290 If a w. wander that way, call it home P.E. 586 He cannot long be safe whose w. roam P.E. 587 With hopeless w. one looks and lingers P.B. 33 All w., or seem to w., they could forego R. 4 Their w, all impregnated with earth R, 36 Girt with a chain he cannot w, to break R, 243 His w. and mine both prompt me to retire" R. 390 That so retired he should not w. a change R. 600 As poet well could w, to have R.C. 2 That prompts the w, to stay St, v 30 Delusive most where warmest w. are T. i 542 Of temperate w. and industrious hands T. i 599 The sleeping leaves, is all the light they w. T. i 763 The branches, sturdy to his utmost w. T. iii 530 Indulged in what they w., they soon supply T. iii 534 What could I w., that I possess not here? T. iii 690 The w. to shine, the thirst to be amused T. iii 829 I never framed a w. or formed a plan T. iv 695 [525 Vain w.! those days were never; airy dreams T. iv A w. for ease and leisure, and ere long T. iv 800 Sterling, and worthy of a wise man's w. T. v 358 What none but bad men w. exploded, must T. v 613 "To gratify the hunger of his w. T. v 637 "And many an aching w., your beamy fires T. v 838 How readily we w. time spent revoked T. vi 25

Impart to the benevolent, who w. T. vi 344

Soon see your w. fulfilled in either child Tir. 314 Resents his fellow's, w. it were less Tir. 477 A w. to copy what he must admire Tir. 649 (Forgive the crime) I w. them, I confess Tir. 921

WISHED.

And one I w. my own D.W. 16
The prophet wept for Israel; w. his eyes Ex. 33
What ardently I w., I long believed M.P. 38 [196
With all that man e'er w., or Heaven bestowed? Ex.
His wonted course, yet what I w. is done M.P. 113
For thee w. many a time N.Y.G. 2
She therefore w. instead of those R.C. 29 [538
From what they know, to what they w. to know T.
Oft have I w. the peaceful covert mine T. i 233
Of public virtue ever w. removed T. iv 615
Found here that leisure and that ease I w. T. iv 801
As fearful of offending whom he w. T. vi 501
I studied, prized, and w. that I had known T. iv 722

WISHING.

And w. for a place of rest R.C. 105 With few associates, and not w. more T. iii 120

WIT

The insidious witch that had his ω . abused A.T. 176 And had no other play-place for his w. Ch. 538 At every stroke w. flashes in our eyes Ch. 543 But are we so to w. and beauty blind Con. 257 His w. invites you by his looks to come Con. 303 Whose w. can brighten up a wintry day Con. 581 Is sparkling w. the world's exclusive right Con. 589 A Christian's w. is inoffensive light Con. 599 Had w. as bright as ready to produce Con. 614 To find the medium, asks some share of w. Con. 879 Can gaze on even Darwin's w. Dr. 19 [Con. 626 When some green heads, as void of w. as thought To show my genius or my w. E. iv 7 To deem the w, a friend displays F. 88 Now Gilpin had a pleasant w. J.G. 169 Thus showed his ready w. J.G. 186 And set their w, at work to find L.W. 13 When w, and genius meet their doom M, ii 1 W. flashing on Religion's side Mrs. M-31 There Genius, Learning, Fancy, W. Mrs. M-Give w., that what is left may shine O. i. 27 To tell them more than they have w. to ask P.E. 390 Woe to the man whose w. disclaims its use R. 211 And w, that puppet prompters might inspire R. 312 To birth or w., nor gives nor takes offence R. 450 Learning is one, and w., however rare T. 302 [438] Whose w. is rudeness, whose good breeding tires k. Has little understanding, and no w. T. 324 Whose w, well managed, and whose classic style R. The logic, and the wisdom, and the w. T. iv 32 And snappish dialogue, that flippant w. T. iv 198 I cannot but lament thy splendid w. T. iv 725 By which the magic art of shrewder w. T. vi 99 Of modest truth for w.'s eccentric range Tir. 174 With them is courage; his effrontery in. Tir. 227 Account him no just mark for idle w. Tir. 726 And make him quite a w. Trans. iv 12 W., undistinguishing, is apt to strike T.T. 101 Thus reputation is a spur to w. T.T. 520 [T.T. 663 W. now and then, struck smartly, shows a spark And some w. flag through fear of losing it T.T. 521 The substitute for genius, sense and w. T.T. 543 Spendthrift alike of money and of ic. T.T. 684 There's little talking, and no w. Y.D. 39 [T.T. 761 Though Butler's w., Pope's numbers, l'rior's case

WITCH.

The insidious w. that had his wits abused A.T. 176

WITCHERIES.

But thine, as dark as w. of the night Ex. 494

WITHDRAWS.

Who comes when called, and at a word w. R. 447 WITHDRAWN.

And that, judicially w., disgrace Ex. 692
Her animating smile w. S. 15
The fence w., he gives them every beam T. iii 444
WITHDREW.

I thence w., and followed long D.W. 27
My panting side was charged, when I w. T. iii 110
WITHER.

States thrive or w., as moons wax and wane Ez.324 Should droop and w. where they grow P. 59 But all they trust in w. as it must T.T. 470

WITHERED.

So w. stumps disgrace the sylvan scene Con. 51
The scoff of w. age and beardless youth H. 743
You ancient prude, whose w. features show T. 131
And w. muscle, and the vapid soul T. i 393
With dripping rains, or w. by a frost T. ii 211
And hence even Winter fills his w. hand T. iii 428
Must fly before the knife; the w. leaf T. iii 614
That tinkle in the w. leaves below T. vi 82
A wintry figure like a w. thorn T.T. 725
Decayed by time, or w. by a frost V. 58

WITHERING. [938 And never w. wreaths, compared with which T. vi WITHES.

With as much ease as Samson his green w. T. v 737 WITHHELD.

When Roman rapine, by no laws w. A.T. 126 Always from port w., always distressed M.P. 101

WITHHOLD.

He will give freely, or he will w. H. 331

WITHSTAND. [A.T. 186]
"Thee to the field, thou shouldst w. them all"
And harder to w. B.R. 4
And therefore heedless, can w. thy power? T. ii
WITHSTOOD.

He spurned the wretch that slighted, or w. Ch. 31 Are mighty mischiefs, not to be w. Ch. 283 To be suspected, thwarted, and w. T.T. 141

WITNESS.

W. its insignificant result Con. 16
All w. of blessings foully scorned H. 222
And stands a w. at Truth's awful bar Her. 81
W. of joys that shun the sight of noon P.E. 174
A w. undescried Q.V. 30

A w. undescried Q.V. 30
Were w. how cordially I pressed R. 379
And novels (w. every month's Review) R. 713
And w., dear companion of my walks T. i 144
W. a joy that thou hast doubled long T. i 149
The peasant too, a w. of his song T. i 497
A silent w. of the headlong rage T. iii 218
Though resident, and w. of the wrong T. iv 594
Sad w. how close-pent man regrets T. iv 777
They are thy w., who speak thy power T. v 853
He sells protection. W. at his foot T. vi 417
W. the patient ox, with stripes and yells T. vi 420
He too is w., noblest of the train T. vi 425

WITNESSED.

Who so lately had w. her own C. 16 [372 Thy groves and lawns then w.! Every heart T. vi W. of mutability in all Y.O. 70

Bears w., long ere his dismission come Tir. 561

WITNESSING.

His shoulders w. by many a shrug H. 415

WITTY.

Clean, candid, and w.—Thelypthora dies A.T. iv 2 (Sworn foes to every thing that's w.!) E. iv 14

May yet be foul; so w., yet not wise T. i 728 W., and well employed, and, like thy Lord Tir. 139 By footman Tom for w. and refined Tir. 687

WODEN.

W. and Thor, each tottering in his shrine Ex.505

WOE.

But wantonness and w. A Tale 76 To teach the wanderer, as his w, increase Ch, 161 To seek a nobler amidst scenes of w. Ch. 300 Acquainted with the w. that fear or shame Con. 495 A Jordan for the ablution of our w. Con. 566 [169] Let Egypt's plagues, and Canaan's w. proclaim Ex. The virtue they had learned in scenes of w. Ex. 80 Thanks, gentle swain, for all my w. G. 13 Their w., not yet repealed, thence date them all Ex. And earth has no reality but w." H. 68 Deem life a blessing with its numerous w. H. 546Sweet as the privilege of healing w. J.T. 17Transforms thy smiles to looks of w. M. 47 At once both bliss and w.! Miss — 8 The shafts of w—in such a breast Miss — 43 Such previous w. the price! Q.V. 80 To regions where, in spite of sin and w. R. 27W. to the man whose wit disclaims its use R. 211 Pierced with the w, that she laments in vain R, 300 Forgery of fancy, and a dream of w. R. 321 Thus some retire to nourish helpless w. R. 603 But not like me to nourish w.! S. 20 His folly, and his w.! St. iii 4 And covet longer w.? St. v 20 For other's w., but smiles upon her own T. 178 Where should the living, weeping o'er his $w.\ T.\ 435$ That Scripture is the only cure of w. T. 452 Ten thousand sages lost in endless w. T. 517 The mouth with blasphemy, the heart with $w.\ T.\ \mathbf{i}$ For such immeasurable w, appears T, i 459 Beguile their w., and make the woods resound T. i His ashes, where, and in what weal or w. ? T. ii 519 And introduces hunger, frost, and w. T. ii 616 Of cruel man, exulting in her w. T. iii 336 With merry descants on a nation's w. T. iv 77 Suffer his w., and share in his escapes T. iv 117 Their long complaints, is self-inflicted w. T. iv 430 You the regardless author of its w. T. v 350 W. to the gardener's pale, the farmer's hedge T. iv To such amusements as ingenious w. T. v 416 [433] With w., which who that suffers would not kneel T. vAnd full immunity from penal w. T. v 580W. to the tyrant, if he dare intrude T. vi 403 May stand between an animal and w. T. vi 727 Some taste of comfort in a world of w. T. vi 966 And if Authority grow wanton, w. T.T. 226 If human w. her soft attention claim T.T. 484 Cold in his cause, and careless of his w. V. 4 And, summoned to partake its fellow's w. V. 69

WOLF.

So may the w, whom famine has made bold Ch. 184 Chain up the w, and tigers of mankind Ch. 287 And avarice that make man a w, to man T, iv 103

WOLFE.

And W.'s great name compatriot with his own T. ii And one in council. W., upon the lap T. ii 242 [248 If any wronged her. W., where'er he fought T. ii

WOMAN

They teach both conjurers and old w. A Fable 21 And w. trembling at the foot of man A.T. 158 From man to man, or e'en to w. paid E. ii 5 Her w., insolent and self-caressed Ex. 45 And teach the combatant a w.'s part? Ex. 359 In the steerage a w. I saw M.D. 9 Ne'er taught me by w. before M.D. 12

That goddess-like w. he viewed M.D. 34
And w., lovely w., does the same P.E. 274
W., whom custom has forbid to fly P.E. 504
W. indeed, a gift he would bestow R. 269
In man or w., but far most in man T. ii 414
Much. I was born of w., and drew milk T. iii 196
Swept with a w.'s neatness, breeding else T. iii 616
And wrongs the w. he has sworn to love! T.iv 465
Their kerchiefs, and old w. weep for joy T. vi 700
The prize of beauty in a w.'s eyes Tir. 472
A querulous old w.'s voice Trans. iv 25
And w. are the teachers Trans. iv 42
Drew not his life from w., never gazed Y.O. 145

WOMAN-BORN. Buy what is w., and feel no shame? Ch. 181

WOMANHOOD.

Of w., fit pupils in the school T. iv 228 See w. despised, and manhood shamed Tir. 827

WOMANISH.

No w. or wailing grief has part R. 773

WOMANKIND. Of w. but one J, G. 18

WOMB.

Or was he not, till fashioned in the w.? F.A. 27 A conflagration labouring in her w. Her. 12 In earth's dark w. have found at last a vent N.A. 86 She quakes at his approach. Her hollow w. T. ii 88 As they had known him from his mother's v. T. iii 144 "Favoured as ours, transgressors from the w. T. v 829

WON.

The wreath he w. drew down an instant curse Ch. 61 The wreath He w. so dearly in our name Ch. 586 We find the friends we fancied we had w. E. iii 16 In peace possessing what they w. by war Ex. 193 That w, a nymph on that immortal plain Ex. 598 Proclaims the soil a conquest he has w. H. 479Where Power secures what Industry has w. Her. 87 And so he did, and w. it too J.G. 245 Pants to be told of battles w. or lost R. 476 [i 286 Few transient years, w. from the abyss abhorred T. Of smiling Victory that moment w. T. ii 243 Where once your noble fathers w. a crown! T. ii As left him not, till penitence had w. T. ii 723 And never w. Dream after dream ensues T. iii 127 Not shy, as in the world, and to be w. T. vi 115 She longs to yield, no sooner woo'd than w. Tir. 172 Guards well what Arts and Industry have w. T.T. 280 Here cities w., and fleets dispersed 1789, 13

WONDER.

May even our w. excite C. 38 Spreads foreign w. in his country's sight Ch. 116 Sees planetary w. smoothly roll Ch. 317 We w., as we gazing stand below Ch. 553 Himself should work that w, if he can Con. 342 Fruits of his love and w. of his might Con. 473 Of dangers past, and w. yet to come Con. 572 Who works the w., if it be but wrought Con. 846 And grins with w, at the jar he makes Con. 902No w. I, who scribble rhyme E. i 19 Confessed the w., and with daring tongue Ex. 155 No w. Friendship does the same F. 10 Familiar with the w. of the sky H. 442 That few believe the w. thou hast wrought H. 667 The brightest w. of an endless day H. 753 Did w, more and more J.G. 96 He takes offence, and w. what you mean P.E. 89His silly sheep, what w. if they stray? P.E. 119 W. at Clodio's follies, in a tone P.E. 191 To raise such w. in her view Q.V. 63 To w, at a thousand insect forms R. 63 O'erwhelmed at once with w., grief, and joy R. 593

Pleasure and w, in his features mix T. 416 The inferior w. of an artist's hand T. i 419 No smartness in the jest, and w, why T, i 469 What w. then that health and virtue, gifts T. i 750 What w., if discharged into the world T. ii 806 At his own w., wondering for his bread T. iv 87 Of midnight murder was a w. heard T. iv 563 Engaged my w., and admiring still T. iv 715 The growing w, takes a thousand shapes T, v 119 The w. of the North. No forest fell T. v 131 At building human w. mountain high T. v 179 The w.; humanizing what is brute T. v 700 To read his $w_{\cdot,\cdot}$ in whose thought the world $T_{\cdot,\cdot}$ v 798 See nought to w. at. Should God again T. vi 125 Designs the blooming w. of the next T. vi 197 Nor can the w. it records be sung T. vi 749 "See!" with united w., cried Th. 5 Works magic w., adds a brighter hue Tir. 23 Look where he will, the w. God has wrought Tir. 54 And learn with w, how this world began Tir. 127 Levied a tax of w. and applause T.T. 650

WONDERED.

Above all else, and w. He should die Con. 520 Much w. that the silly sheep had found N.A. 129

WONDERFUL.

'Twas w. to view J.G. 118 (O w. effect of music's power!) T. vi 636

WONDERING.

A sense they know not, to the w. crowd Ch. 390 Reveal (the man is dead) to w. eyes H. 572 Her tender husband, w. much J.G. 143 At his own wonders, w. for his bread T. iv 87 And loudly w. at the sudden change T. iv 451 And angel choirs attended. W. stood T. vi 352 Thence to exhibit to his w. eyes Tir. 632

WONDROUS.

Some she would teach (for she was w. wise A.T.38 Yet has the w. virtue to educe H.155 This universal frame, thus w. fair R.90 Though w., He commands us, in his word T.iii 223

A flock so scattered, and so w. to roam Ex. 729 The sweets that I was w. to share O. ii 11

WONTED.

His w. course, yet what I wished is done M.P. 113 Their w. entertainment, all retire T. ii 303 Their w. fodder; not like hungering man T. v 30 His w. strut; and, wading at their head T. v 74

WOO.

Invite thee, w. thee, to the bliss they share Ex. 627 Which they that w. preferment rarely pass H. 420 There Beauty w. him with expanded arms P.E. 55 And w. and win thee to thy proper good R. 256 To courta grin, when you should w.a soul T. ii 467

WOOD.

With many a chorister the w. among A.T. 77
And w. and lawn in dusky folds enclosed A.T. 96
The sapless w., divested of the bark Con. 53
By stout substantial gods of w. and stone Con. 834
Deified useless w. or senseless stone Ex. 238
Adjoining close to Kilwick's echoing w. N.A. 3
And from within the w. that crash was heard N.A. 45
As creeping ivy clings to w. or stone P.E. 285
For all that pleased in w. or lawn S. 13
Long hid by interposing hill or w. T. 249
That sweep the skirt of some far-spreading w. T. i
There, lost behind a rising ground, the w. T. i 305
Lord of the w., the long-surviving oak T. i 313 [320
Have changed the w., in scarlet honours bright T. i
And music of the w.—no works of man T. i 430

O'ertop the lofty w, that skirts the wild T, i 558 Beguile their woes, and make the w, resound T, i 586 And silent w. I wander, far from those T, iii 118 W, vanish, hills subside, and valleys rise T, iii 775 I saw the w, and fields at close of day T, iv 311 A Monitor is w.—plank shaven thin T, ii 585 [iv 573 Through pathless wastes and w, unconscious once T. Seen through the leafless w. His slanting ray T, v 6 And where the w, fence off the northern blast T, vi 60 On props of smoothest shaven w. T. B. 28 His teeth were strong, the cage was w. T. B. 53 [50 Time made thee what thou wast, king of the w. Y. O. 134

WOODBINE. As w. weds the plant within her reach R. 229 With w. and wild roses mantled o'er R. 420 Copious of flowers one w., pale and wan T. vi 162 WOODEN.

A w. one, so we, no longer taught T. il 575 His host of w. warriors to and fro T. vi 266 WOODLAND.

Nor less attractive is the w. scene T. i 300 [696 And charms the w. scenes, and wilds unknown T.T. WOODMAN.

Forth goes the w., leaving unconcerned T. v 41 WOODPECKERS.

And w. explore the sides M.B. 7

WOOED.

Her w. Sir Airy, by meandering streams A.T. 11
But still, whoever w. her, or embraced A.T. 36
Like her the fabled Pheebus w. in vain Ex. 599
W. an unfeeling statue for his wife P.E. 528
In chase of fancied happiness, still w. T. iii 126
She longs to yield, no sooner w. than won Tir. 172
WOOING.

Is w, mercy by renewed offence Ex. 413 Seest thou you harlot, w, all she meets T. 507

WOOL.

Bents, w., and feathers mixed A Tale 40
Their periwigs of w. and fears combined N.A. 75
Where, on his bed of w. and matted leaves T. vi 312
WORD.

Resides in that heavenly w.! A.S. 26Every burning w, he spoke B. 7 Rome shall perish—write that w. B. 13 Such the Bard's prophetic w. B. 33 W. learned by rote a parrot may rehearse Con. 7 With adjurations every w. impress Con. 70 The clash of arguments and jar of w. Con. 85 The power to clothe that reason with his w. Con. 432 He blessed the bread, but vanished at the w. Con. 533 Canting and whining out all day the w. Con. 577 And yet exalted above God's own w. Ex. 128 In answer to the flat of his w. Ex. 154 His anger, who can waste thee with a w. Ex. 341 Speak but the w., will listen and return" Ex. 455 Or, in his w. who damned the base desire Ex.422Remain with thee, or leave thee at his w. Ex. 675 The w. of prophecy, those truths divine Ex. 686 God gives the w., the preachers throng around H. 453 And if unblameable in w, and thought H, 622 Mighty to parry and push-by God's w. H. 659 [678 This man was happy—had the World's good w. H. God's holy w., once trivial in his view H. 706 Returned him not a single w. J.G. 179 The parting w. shall pass my lips no more! M.P. 35 Brings every thought, w., action, to the test P.E. 34 Hence the same w., that bids our lusts obey P.E. 496 With such fine w, familiar to his tongue P.E. 509 Thy w., more clearly than thy works, display R. 96 His bright perfections at whose w. they rose R. 200

Who comes when called, and at a w. withdraws R. 447 Built God a church, and laughed his w. to scorn R.688 On w. and deed, imply St. vi 30 Stand the soul-quickening w.—Believe and Live T Censorious, and her every w. a wasp T. 160 Thought, w., and deed, his liberty evince T. 195 And death or restitution is the w. T. 264 But the same w. that, like the polished share T. Though wondrous, He commands as, in his w. T. iii 223 But if his w. once teach us, shoot a ray T. iii 240 And in his w. sagacious. Such too thine T. iii 254 To teach him now and then a w. Trans. iv 8 And doom him for perhaps a heedless w. T. v 440 Whose w. leaps forth at once to its effect T. v 686 Illuminates. Thy lamp, mysterious W.!-T. v 846 Their only point of rest, eternal W.!-T. v 897 Are grand, no doubt, and worthy of the W.-T. v 555 Thy w. fulfilled, the conquest of a world! T. vi 905 Speaking in parables his slighted w. Tir. 140 [353] Felt himself crushed at the first w. he spoke T.T. He gives the w., and Mutiny soon roars T.T. 452 Not in the w.—but in the gap between T.T. 541 Harmony, strength, w. exquisitely sought T.T. To trace him in his w., his works, his ways T.T. 751

WORDED.

Complaining in a speech well w. P. 3

WORE. [A.T. 22 And graved it on a gem, and w. it next [his heart But they that w. them, move notat the sound H. 267 The garland that she w. J. P. 12 Such at least was the form that she w. M. D. 10 He w. them as fine trappings for a show T. 56 Our habits, costlier than Lucullus w. T. ii 596 E'en misses, at whose age their mothers w. T. iv 223 That skirt the horizon, w. a sable hue T. iv 320 [239 Who w. the platted thorns with bleeding brows T. vi

WORK. How simple wedlock fornication w. A.T. 159 The w. of my Fancy the more C. 22 [206 The wretch that w. and weeps without relief Ch. Their zeal begotten, as their w. rehearse Ch. 505 No w. shall find acceptance, in that day Ch. 557 Who yet betrays his secret by his w. Con. 80 Himself should w. that wonder if he can Con. 342 Physicians write in hopes to w. a cure Con. 407 For all is perfect that God w. on earth Con. 433 The w. of man inherit, as is just Con. 553 God's w. may serve an ape upon a stage Con. 736 Save from the subjects of that w. alone Con. 740 And all her censures of the w. of grace Con. 784 A poet does not w. by square or line Con. 789 Who w. the wonder, if it be but wrought Con. 846 And laughter, all their w., is life misspent Con. 876 The w. of man tend, one and all E. i 79 Rhetoric is artifice, the w. of man Ex. 136 Frames many a purpose, and God w. his own Ex. 323 But nature w, in every breast F.B. 13 Make w. a vain ingredient in the case H. 360 Without good w., whatever some may boast H. 363 In all we touch, stamped plainly on his w. H. 545That while I trembling trace a w, divine H. 671 Though whispered, plainly tell what w, within H.691These are thy glorious w., eternal Truth H. 742 [750 Then these thy glorious w., and they who share H. Repays their w.—the gleaning only mine H. 771 It marches o'er the prostrate w. of man Her. 22 To Him whose w, bespeak his nature, Love J.T. 46 And set their wit at w, to find L.W. 13 And she the w. of Phœbus aiding Mrs. M-55 Where w, of man are clustered close around R. 25 And w. of God are hardly to be found R. 26 His mighty w., who speaks and it is done R. 60

Admires the w., but slips the lesson by R. 214 [87 "These are thy glorious w., thou Source of good R. Thy words, more clearly than thy w., display R.96Borrowing a beauty from the w, of grace R. 358 Her slighted w. to your admiring view R. 543 Her w. must needs excel who fashioned you R. 544 She watched the gardener at his w. R.C. 14His w. of glory done R.G. 16 Oh how unlike the complex w. of man T. 21 The plea of w., as arrogant and vain T. 71 His w., his abstinence, his zeal allowed T. 91 The w, of generous love and filial fear T. 226 Lovely indeed the mimic w. of Art T. i 420 But Nature's w. far lovelier. I admire T. i 421 And music of the woods—no w. of man T. i 430 Of his own w., his dreadful part alone T. ii 82 On God's behalf, lays waste his fairest w. T. ii 136 And principles; of causes, how they w. T. ii 191 To make God's w. a sinecure; a slave T. ii 390 Just fifteen minutes, huddle up their w. T. ii 412 Or does he sit regardless of his w. ? T. ii 516 By strides of human wisdom. In his w. T. iii 222 Sagacious reader of the w. of God T. iii 253 Too oft, and much impeded in its w. T. iii 370 [104] But much performs himself. No w., indeed T. iii Minute as dust and numberless, oft w. T. iii 556 His pleasant w., may be suppose it done T. iii 656 This folio of four pages, happy w.! T. iv 50 Well does the w. of his destructive scythe T. iv 222 Of knaves in office, partial in the w. T. iv 412 By w. of darkness and nocturnal wrong T. iv 435 Too proud for dairy w., or sale of eggs T. iv 549 W. the deplored and mischievous effect T. iv 616 'Tis born with all: the love of Nature's w. T. iv 731 That all discern a beauty in his w. T. iv 739 Thus Nature w. as if to mock at Art T. v 122 Because a novelty, the w. of man T. v 128 We turn to dust and all our mightiest w. T. v 531 His other w., the visible display T. v 553 Is w. for him that made him. He alone T. v 697 Appropriates Nature as his Father's w. T. v 761 His w. Admitted once to his embrace T. v 780 The glory of thy w., which yet appears T. v 866 (If power she be that w. but to confound) $T. \nabla 872$ A loud Hosanna sent from all thy w. T. v 888 Behind his own creation, w. unseen T. v 894 [184 The grand transition, that there lives and w. \bar{T} . vi Whose w. is without labour; whose designs T. vi 228 Proved he not plainly that his meaner w. T. vi 447 Encomium in old time was poet's w. T. vi 715 Among her lovely w, with a secure T. vi 722 In his dishonour'd w. himself endure T. vi 821 With lean performance ape the w. of love! T. vi 854 Due to thy last and most effectual w. T. vi 904 Deems him a cipher in the w. of God T. vi 943 In aiding helpless indigence, in w. T. vi 964 W. magic wonders, adds a brighter hue Tir. 23 Promise a w. of which they must despair Tir. 264 Than set your son to w, at a vile trade Tir, 456 Armed for a w. too difficult for thee Tir. 677 His galleries with the w. of art well graced T.T. 162 With double toil, and shiver at their w. T.T. 215 Bids equity throughout his w. prevail T.T. 250 To trace him in his word, his w., his ways! T.T.751 Fine passing thought, e'en in her coarest w. Y.O.81 WORKING.

God, w. ever on a social plan Ch. 15 Blind to the w. of that secret Power Ex. 320 To mark the matchless w. of the Power R. 791 Is merely as the w. of a sea T. vi 738

WORLD.

The point in dispute was, as all the w. knows. A.C. 3

Shall a wider w, command B. 28 Steered Britain's oak into a w. unknown Ch. 25 See Cortez odious for a w. enslaved! Ch. 40 No.—Mammon makes the w. his legatee Ch. 45 To furnish and accommodate a w. Ch. 124 Built a brave w., which cannot yet subsist Ch. 192 She sees a w. stark blind to what employs Ch. 404 The truth she loves a sightless w. blaspheme Ch. 416 In some safe haven of our western w. Ch. 444 [461 How many deeds with which the w. has rung Ch. 'Tis called a satire, and the w. appears Ch. $5\bar{1}5$ Whate'er this w. produces, it absorbs Ch. 564 [526 The w. is charmed, and Scrib escapes the law Ch. Were Love, in these the w.'s last doting years Ch. 604Far from the w.'s gay busy throng Comp. ii. 4 That the surviving w. may live in peace Con. 176 Resumed his purpose, had a w. of talk Con. 279 For ever aiming at the w.'s esteem Con. 367 Is sparkling wit the w.'s exclusive right? Con. 589 All tremble in all w., except our own Con. 660 And wild as madness in the w.'s esteem Con. 666 Strange tidings these to tell a w. who treat Con.719 The w grown old her deep discernment shows Con.741 As, having it, he deems the w.'s disdain Con. 762 Retort the charge, and let the w. be told Con. 767 (And in due time the w. shall know it too) Con. 750 The w. and I fortuitously met Con. 795 Charmed with the sight, "The w.," I cried D. W. 37 And this is what the w., who knows E. i 15 The system of a w,'s concerns E, i 74 The w, may dance along the flowery plain E, ii 13 An envious w. will interpose its frown E. ii 33 From the w's girdle to the frozen pole Ex. 20 Had bid defiance to the warring w. Ex. 212 And while the w. beside, that plan unknown Ex. 237 Should fly the w.'s contaminating touch Ex. 446 A w. is up in arms, and thou, a spot Ex. 694 And all the w. admits them \dot{F} . $16\dot{2}$ Till half the w. comes rattling at his door H. 77 But Ætnas of the suffering w. ye sway? Her. 78 And teach the w., if not perversely blind H. 138 Now see him launched into the w, at large H. 197 Such stuff the w. is made of; and mankind H. 211 The book of all the w, that charmed me most H.427A plaything w., unworthy of his hand H. 543 [568] The w's best comfort was, his doom was passed H. He loved the w. that hated him; the tear H. 574 Since Abel worshipped, or the w. began H. 644 [678 This man was happy—had the w.'s good word H. His grief the w. of all her power disarms H. 704 This earth shall blaze, and a new w. succeed H. 749 As all the w. doth know J.G. 22 And all the w. would stare J.G. 194 The w., no longer thy abode, not thee J.T. 10 "Renounce the w."—the preacher cries L.W. 25 Thus, bit by bit, the w. is swallowed L.W. 34 Unmoved with all the w, beside Miss - 31'Tis woven in the w.'s great plan Miss -The w. around solicits his desire P.E. 39 Lights of the w., and stars of human race P.E. 97 By deeds in which the w. must never mix P.E. 162 To cheat themselves and gain the w.'s assent P.E. 436 Who fill the w, with doctrines contraband P.E.475Is this hyperbole? The w, well known P.E. 488 Had all the pageants of the w. Q.V. 21 Sick of the service of a w, that feeds R, 47 The sun, a w. whence other w. drink light R. 81 And fills the w, of traffic and the shades R. 120 And in a w. where, other ills apart R. 125 And hate the tumult half the w, enjoys R.176 [186 The w. can boast, and her chief favourites share R. Mix with the w., but with its wiser part R. 275 Then all the w. of waters sleeps again R. 536 Earth's millions daily fed, a w. employed R. 553

What means the drama by the w, sustained? R, 646 And hold the w. indebted to your aid R. 665 [R.729 And though the w. may think the ingredients odd Scorned in a w., indebted to that scorn R. 751 A theme for all the w.'s attention R.C. 102 Of this w.'s hazardous and headlong shore St. ii 14 "W. should not bribe me back to tread St. iii 5 To ages in a w. of pain St. v 9 Strange w., that costs it so much smart St. v 15 Whence has the w. her magic power? St. v 17Has he a w. of gratitude and love? T. 208 And the w's hatred, as its sure effect T. 282 The thousands whom the w. forbids to rest T. 438 To attain perfection in this nether w. T. i 85Its own revolvency upholds the $w.\ T.\ i\ 372$ By which the w. might profit, and himself T. i 577 And thus the rangers of the western w. T. i 618 Measures an atom, and now girds a w.? T. i 718 A more accomplished w.'s chief glory now T. i 724 Between the nations, in a w. that seems T. ii 50 And bids the w, take heart and banish fear T, ii 195 The houseless rovers of the sylvan w. T. i 588[T. ii 198 Still wrought by means since first He made the w.? I would not trifle merely, though the w. T. ii 313 The fairest capital of all the w. T. i 698 [T. ii 334 Must stand acknowledged, while the w. shall stand Announces to the w, his own and theirs T, ii 357 By infidelity and love o' the w. T. ii 389 [T. ii 512 And spring-time of the w.; asked, Whence is man? Since Heaven would grow weary of a w T. ii 583 So fare we in this prison-house, the w. T. ii 661 A mockery of the w! What need of these T. ii 750 Of riper joys, and commerce with the w. T. ii 763 The lewd vain w. that must receive him soon T. ii 764 That it is dangerous sporting with the w. T. ii 777 And give the \overline{w} , their talents and themselves T, ii 799 What wonder, if discharged into the w. T. ii 806 And still are disappointed. Brings the $w.\ T.\ { m iii}\ 129$ To distant w., and triffing in their own T. iii 166 "Twere well, could you permit the w. to live T. iii194 As the w. pleases. What's the w. to you?" T.iii 195 Not visible, his family of w. T. iii 232 His dainties, and the W.'s more numerous half T. How various his employments whom the w. T. iii 352 Esteems that busy w, an idler too! T. iii 354 Oh blest seclusion from a jarring w. T. iii 675 And profligate abusers of a w. T. iii 696 [T. iii 815 The w. of wandering knights and squires to town At his last gasp; but could not for a w. T. iii 807 He comes, the herald of a noisy w. T. iv 5 Such as the mistress of the w once found T iv 169 Nor do we madly, like an impious w. T. iv 177[213]But the W.'s Time is Time in masquerade! T. iv To peep at such a w.; to see the stir T. iv 89 [iv 223Thus decked, he charms a w, whom Fashion blinds T. In such a w., so thorny, and where none T. iv 333 Describes and prints it, that the w. may know T.iv237 Hence to the field of glory, as the w. T. iv 684 For a lost w, in solitude and verse T, iv 730 Because men suffer it, their toy the w. T. v 192 The w. was made in vain, if not for him T. v 271 Even in the cradled weakness of the w.! T. v 286 Ten thousand rovers in the w. at large T. v 408 [753 That planned, and built, and still upholds a w. T. v To read his wonders, in whose thought the w. T. v 798 And wheels his throne upon the rolling w. T. v 814 "Have reached this nether w., ye spya race T. v 828 And makes the w, the wilderness it is T, vi 53 [851] W. that had never been hadst Thou in strength T. v Not shy, as in the w., and to be won T. vi 115 And renovation of a faded w. T. vi 124 How would the w. admire! but speaks it less \tilde{T} . vi Shall have its altar; and the w. shall go T. vi 668 To show the w. how Garrick did not act T. vi 677

And call'd the w. to worship on the banks T. vi 681 The groans of Nature in this nether w. T. vi 729 Over a sinful w.; and what remains T. vi 736 [823] Haste, then, and wheel away a shattered w. T. vi A w. that does not dread and hate his laws T. vi 826 O for a w, in principle as chaste T, vi 836 The very spirit of the w, is tired T, vi 869[T, vi 889The w. takes little thought. Who will may preach The w. o'erlooks him in her busy search T. vi 915 Thy word fulfilled, the conquest of a $w.! T. \forall i 905$ Though more sublimely, he o'erlooks the w. T. vi 918 Perhaps the self-approving haughty w. T. vi 940 Some taste of comfort in a w. of woe T. vi 966 [978 Her golden tube, through which a sensual w. \tilde{T} . vi Because that w. adopts it. If it bear T. vi 982 In vain the poet sings, and the w. hears T. vi 1018 Suffer his justice in a w. to come Tir. 102 And learn with wonder how this w. began Tir. 127 Priests have invented, and the w. admired Tir. 185 The knowledge of the w., and dull of thought Tir.380Shows all its rents and patches to the w. Tir. 451 That with a w., not often over nice Tir. 464 You circling w., their distance, and their size Tir. Low in the w., because he scorns its arts Tir. 672The w. accounts an honourable man Tir. 738 Mankind are various, and the w. is wide Tir. 788Look round you on a w. perversely blind Tir. 813Unless the w. were all prepared to embrace Tir. 917 'Tis your belief the w. was made for man T.T. 47 As if the w, and they were hand and glove T. T. 173 She has one foe, and that one foe, the w. T.T. 455 That constellation set, the w. in vain T.T. 660 And the w, cheerfully admits the claim T.T.715And tell the w., still kindling as he sung T.T. 736 The w., with all its motley rout Trans. ii 26 What exhibitions various hath the w. Y.O. 69

WORM.

W. may be caught by either head or tail Ch. 528 Life and a kingdom upon w. below Ch. 592 Ye w. that eat into the bud of youth! Con. 40 As little mercy as the grubs and w.? Con. 260 The filth of rottenness and w. of pride Ex.90Say man's a w., and power belongs to God H. 711 Of rugged oaks for w. M.B. 8 The w., aware of his intent N.G. 13 The poisonous, black, insinuating w. P.E. 7These hatched, and those resuscitated w. R. 64 A w, is in the bud of youth St, i 23 [T. iii 555 Moisture and drought, mice, w., and swarming flies The song magnificent, the theme a w.! T. 413 By w, voracious eating through and through T, i 27 Society, and that saps and w, the base T, ii 816 Who needlessly sets foot upon a w. T. vi 563 [T. v 80 Earth yields them nought: the imprisoned w. is safe Stretch'd forth to dally with the crested w. T. vi 780 W.windthemselves into our sweetest flowers T. vi831 While every w, industriously weaves Tir, 595 A w. is known to stray Trans. i 2 Nor crush a w., whose useful light Trans. i 17

WORN.

Tradition, now decrepid and w. out Ex. 502 Has time w. out, or tashion put to shame P.E. 245 But being cankered now, and half w. out P.E. 393 W. as a cloak, and hardly hides, a gown T. i 550 No less than hers, not w. indeed on high T. iv 255 With shallow shifts and old devices, w. T. v 632 That lewdness had usurped and w. so long T.T. 637 Hackneyed and w. to the last filmsy thread T.T. 727 But w. by frequent impulse, to the cause Y.O. 84

WORN-OUT.

From w. follies, now acknowledged such F.A. 3 Thy w. heart will break at last M. 51

Those hangings with their w. graces M.F. 5 The w. nuisance of the public streets T. 508 WORRY.

And w. and devour each other N.G. 30 WORSE.

W. than the mortal brunt of rival swords Con. 86 That's w.—the drone-pipe of an humblebee Con. 330 From a w. yoke, and nailed it to the tree Ex. 220 With less excuse, and, haply, w. effect?" F.A. 17 A hat not much the w. for wear J.G. 184 Will never look one hair the w." M.F. 24 Δ victous object still is w. Mor. 47 W. than a poniard in the basest hand P.E. 305 [464 By thee, w. plagues than Pharaoh's land befell $\tilde{P}.E$. No grand inquisitor could w, invent T. 103 And w, than all, and most to be deplored T, ii 21 The w. for what it soils. The fashion runs T. iv 555 From ill to w., is fatal, never fails T. iv 579 Her house of bondage, w. than that of old $T. \times 382$ Short as it is, supportable. Still w. T. v 604 [605] Far w. than all the plagues with which his sins T. v Its own dishonour by a w. relapse T. v 626 W. than the deeds of galley-slaves broke loose T.T I judged a man of sense could scarce do w. T.T. 518 WORSHIP.

Oh! could I w. aught beneath the skies Ch. 254 Then Baal is the God, and w. him" Con. 854 God's w, and the mountebank between P.E. 156 In sighs he w. his supremely fair R. 225 And w. chance alone! St. vi 28 And we that w. him, ignoble graves T. iii 265 His reverence and his w. both to rest T. iv 597 The idol of our w, while he lived T, vi 666 And call'd the world to w, on the banks T, vi 681 All creatures w. man, and all mankind T. vi 783 And w. Her report was travelled forth T. vi 813 I pity kings whom w. waits upon T.T. 121 I might with reverence kneel, and w. thee Y.O. 8

WORSHIPPED. Since Abel w., or the world began H. 644 WORSHIPPER.

And thou a w. e'en where thou mayst Ex. 260 For Garrick was a w. himself T. vi 678 WORST.

The w. suggested, she believes the best Ch. 427 The w. that can invade a sickly brain Con. 222 Thy w. effect is banishing for hours Con. 253 Could act extortion and the w. of crimes Ex. 148 And of the w., that unexplored he leaves F.A. 31 But proudest of the w., if that succeed H. 202 That thy w. part, thy principles, live yet P.E. 350 The w. is—Scripture warped from its intent P.E.437 Points out a conflict with thyself, the w. R. 268 And having well deserved, expects the w. T. 268 The w. of men, and curses of the best T. 434 By riot and incontinence the w. T. i 699 Of grossest nature and of w. effects T. ii 689 That even servitude, the w. of ills T. v 302 And loathsome Ribaldry has done his w. T.T. 729WORTH.

That tells his name, his w_{\cdot} , his age Cast. 51 Charged with a freight transcending in its w. Ch. 133 Compress the sum into its solid w. Con. 20 With God's deep stamp upon its current w. Con. 710 They best can judge a poet's w. Dr. 5 Can ne'er be deemed w, half so much E, iv 29 Were just such trifles, without w. or use Ex. 49 Prepared to fight for shadows of no w. Ez. 116 If dear society be w. a thought Ex. 670 But not a friend w, keeping F. 78 Quite to forget, or deem it w. no thought H. 83 The w. of each had been complete J.P.5And if the genuine w, of gold depend J.T. 27

What sight w. seeing could I see? M. 30 The real w. of man's pursuits Mor. 26 Must be decided by the w. Mor. 43 The praise of wisdom, comeliness and w, P.E. 295By right of w., not blood alone Q.V. 3 Of your own w, and consequence R.C. 110 Confirmed by long experience of thy w. T. i 147 Far fetched and little w.; nor seldom waits T. i 243 By its true w., the comforts it affords T. i 397 But though true w, and virtue, in the mild T, i 678 Where beauty oft and lettered w. consume T. ii 123 And humble learners of a Saviour's w. T. ii 542 The head of modest and ingenuous w. T. ii 711 Peace to the memory of a man of w. T. ii 781 The w. of what she mimics with such care T. iii 103 That, while it gives us w. in God's account T. iii 283 Disturb good order, and degrade true w. T. iii 674 To his true w., most pleased when idle most T. iv Advance it into notice, that its w. T. iii 703 How far he went for what was nothing w. T. iv 238 Whatever else they smother of true ψ . T. iv 746 But not to understand a treasure's ψ . T. vi 50 If not the virtues, yet the w. of brutes T. vi 724 To give it praise proportioned to its w. T. vi 756 Of little w., an idler in the best T. vi 952 And be not costly more than of true w. T. vi 984 Attends superior w. Th. 16 Stands self-impeached the creature of least w. Tir. 70 Undoubted scholarship and genuine w. Tir. 280 Excused the incumbrance of more solid w. Tir. 347 In all true w. and literary skill? Tir. 378 Least qualified in honour, learning, w. Tir. 413 Still keeps a seat or two for w. and grace Tir. 433 The end, though plausible, not w. the means Tir. 487 Prepared by taste, by learning, and true w. Tir. 678 Some mischief fatal to his future w. Tir. 758 Is w., with all its gold and glittering store T.T.61The w. of his three kingdoms I defy T.T. 85 [204 The cause, though w, the search, may yet elude T. T. Incomparable gem! thy w. untold T.T. 330 Their sober zeal, integrity, and w. T.T. 377 'Twas negligence in him, not want of w. T.T. 681 One madrigal of theirs is w, them all T.T. 767 Whose w. deserves as warm a lay U. 3 If valued by its wearer's w. 1789, 43

WORTHIER.

W. of regard, and stronger N.C. 51 Graced with a sword, and w. of a fan T. i 771

The weight of subjects w. of her care R. 678 In which the best and w. tremble most Tir. 415 WORTHILY

More w, the powers she owned before T. v 807 W. begun Tir. 404 Egregious purpose! WORTHLESS.

And bore the w. prize away A Fable 29 Can gold grow w. that has stood the touch! E. iii Retires to blazon his own w. name R. 217 His w. absolution all the prize Ex. 525 The w. and unfruitful of mankind" T. 500 Conveying w. dross into its place T. i 572 Of too much labour, w. when produced T. iii 565 'Twas durable; as w. as it seemed T. v 174A w. form, than to decide aright T. vi 851 Proof of a trifling and a w. mind T.T. 759

WORTHY.

"The blood of ancient w, in his veins A.T. 116 Makes wisdom, w. of the name, his own Ch. 350 Names almost w. of a Christian's praise Con. 36 O folly w. of the nurse's lap Con. 479 In musings w. of the great event Con. 510 Heroes and w. of days past, thy sires? Ex. 658 And, next, commemorating w. lost J.T. 3

Thee, Thornton! w. in some page to shine J.T. 7 Sounds such as these, so w. to be feared N.A. 84 And w. thus to be recorded P. 4 To taint his heart, was w. of thine own P.E. 346 W. to live, and of eternal use R. 700 Which is the saintlier w. of the two? T. 105 Supreme on earth, and w, of the skies T, 408 Though that of all most w. of his care T. 426 Let heathen w., whose exalted mind T. 525 Now scorned, but w. of a better fate T. i 254 And theirs alone seems w, of the name T, i 398 To enforce the wrong, for such a w. cause T. ii 14 Go then, well w. of the praise ye seek T. ii 278 Heard at conventicle, where w. men T. ii 437 Knots w. of solution, which alone T. ii 520 Sticks close, a Mentor w. of his charge T. ii 595 Makes men mere vermin, w. to be trapped T. ii 683 Well-managed shall have earned its w. price T. iii 80 O evenings w. of the gods! exclaimed T. iv 189 For ye are w.; choosing rather far T. iv 408 Less w. of applause, though more admired T. v 127Or who so w to control themselves T v 236 Sterling, and w, of a wise man's wish T. v 358 Are grand, no doubt, and w. of the Word T. v 555 Trivial and w. of disdain, achieves T. v 699 With w. thoughts of that unwearied Love T. v 752"W. the Lamb, for he was slain for us!" T. vi 792 Thou who alone art w.! It was thine T. vi 857 W., compared with sycophants, who kneel T. vi 886 To set some living w, in his view Tir. 647 A man deemed w. of so dear a trust Tir. 711 A plan well w, to supply their place Tir, 918 The troubles of a w, priest Y.D.3WOTE

Might have repaid him well, I w. T.B. 58 WOULD-BES.

A dozen w. of the modern day Con. 612

WOUND. And w. the grace I mean to recommend Ch. 486 Have w. themselves about this heart M. 19 No w. like those a wounded spirit feels R. 341 Have w. which only God can heal St. vi 19

And say he w. you in jest F. 95 No wounds like those a w. spirit feels R. 341 When Freedom, w. almost to despair T.T. 196 WOVE.

With all the flowers he found, he w, in haste A.T. 13 WOVEN.

W. with pains into his plan H.F. 3 'Tis w. in the world's great plan Miss — 45 And w. close, or needlework sublime T. i 34 The various seasons w, into one T, vi 769

WRANGLE. Is it a time to w., when the props T. ii 62

WRANGLER. So he called him a bigot, a w., a monk A.T. ii 3 The w., rather than accord with you Con. 111 No, w.,—destitute of shame and sense P.E. 235 I burn to set the imprisoned w. free T. iv 34

VBAP.

So he may w. himself in honest rags T. iii 806 And w. him in an unexpected tomb T. v 143 Or w. himself in Hamlet's inky cloak T. vi 675 WRAPPED.

Some Alpine mountain w. in snow Miss - 33 Delighted with my bauble coach, and w. M.P. 50 In which obscurity has w, them up T, iii 146 [124] Than those of age, thy forehead w. in clouds T. iv

WRATH. Effects of punishment and w. divine A.T. 51 For mercy shown, while w. is justly due Con. 492

Alike the w. and mercy of the skies Ch.70 [Con. 32] W. stays him, or else God would strike them dumb As if not Love, but W., had brought Him down Ex. 132 To pour down w. upon a thankless land Ex. 253 Say W, is coming, and the storm appears Ex. 270 And praised the w.that laid her beauties waste Ex. 427 But know, that W. Divine, when most severe Ex.714And where his danger and God's w. begin H. 609 Oh for a shelter from the w. to come! T. 268 His w. is busy, and his frown is felt T. ii 94 Of w. obnoxious, God may choose his mark T. ii 156 Feel w. and pity, when I think on thee! T. iii 842 To gratify the frenzy of his w. T. vi 387 [T. vi 547] Was now to learn that Heaven, though slow to w. When sin hath moved him, and his w. is hot T. vi 742 And mark them with a seal of w, pressed down T.T.457The feats of heroes and the w. of kings T.T. 597

WREATH.

W. for her brow, and girdles for her waist A.T. 14 The w. he won drew down an instant curse Ch. 61 The w. He won so dearly in our name Ch. 586 Who would not twine a w. for Thee Dr. 23 The floating w. again discerned D.W. 31 Return ashamed, without the w. they sought Ex. So Flora's w. through coloured crystal seen H. 71 With w, like those triumphant spirits wear H. 166 Thy deathless w., and triumphs all thine own H.664Who sell their laurel for a myrtle w. T. ii 229 A w. that cannot fade, of flowers that blow T. iv 156 Enchanting music and immortal w. T. iv 687 For grandeur or for use. Long wavy w. T. v 158 But fairer w. are due, though never paid T. v 712 With blushing w., investing every spray T. vi 169 To strip Jove's statue of his oaken w. T. vi 640 [685] The mulberry-tree was hung with blooming w. T vi And never withering w., compared with which T. vi938 Let fall the unfinished w., and roved for fruit T.vi 1011 And binds a w. about their baby brows T.T. 124 'Tis not the w. that once adorned thy brow T.T.370Of Vanity, a w. for self to wear T.T. 757

WREATHED.

W. into an elegant bow Gr. 7

WRECK.

Strewing yonder sea with w. N.C. 34 The w. of what I was, fatigued I come R. 386

WREN.

Stooped from its highest pitch to pounce a w. $T.T. \sim$

WRESTLING. A w. match, a footrace, or a fair T. iv 626

WRETCH. The w., who once sang wildly, danced, and laughed When such a destined w. as I Cast. 3 He spurned the w. that slighted, or withstood $\tilde{C}h$. The w, that works and weeps without relief Ch, 206 The w may pine, while to his smell, taste, sight H.59Hope! let the w., once conscious of the joy H. 171 W. even then, life's journey just begun? "Ah, hapless w.! condemned to dwell P. 5 But above all (or let the w. refrain,) P.E. 456 Sinful and weak, in every sense a w. T. 383 The w. who slights the bounty of the skies T. 543 Its elevated site forbids the w. T. i 239 And verse of mine shall never brand the w. T, iii 72 He whistles as he goes, light-hearted w. T. iv 12 But with his clumsy port the w. has lost T. iv 650 The w. shall rise, and be the thing on earth Tir. 412

WRETCHED. W. Man, whose years are spent Trans. iii 29

WRIGGLERS.

And thou a w., whom, following her old plan Tir.737

The w., to nought but his ambition true T.T. 30

In spite of all the w. into place Tir. 432

